21. Gr logos (s log-) has derivative logia, sayings (of, e.g., Christ), prop the neu pl of adj logios, and the more important adj logikos, whence, via LL logicus and EF-F logique, the E adj logic, usu in extn logical. Gr logikos combines with tekhne, art, to form logikē (tekhne), whence LL logicē, soon and predominantly logica, whence OF-F logique, ME logike, E logic (n). From LL logicus, learned MF-F derives logicien, whence E logician. Logic (n), logical, have negg illogic (n), illogical, both owing something to the F adj illogique.

22. Gr logos in its sense '(a) counting or reckoning', has derivative logizesthai, to calculate, with adj logistikos, concerned with (esp the accountancy of) financial administration, whence E logistic, of, for, in, with logic or, esp, financial calculation, and, as n, symbolic logic, prob influential in the formation of that modern horror logistics, the 'quartermastery' of military operations, imm from F logistique, elliptical for l'art logistiquic and deriving from F logis, a lodging, from loger, to lodge, q.v. at LODGE.

II, B: Prefix-Compounds of legein and logos

23. Legein and logos have numerous prefix-cpd derivatives. Perh the most important of those affecting E are the foll:—

24. Analegein (ana-, on, up), to gather up, to collect, has pp analektos, neu pl analekta, which, as n ('literary gleanings'), becomes L analekta, E analekts, with adj analectic. Akin to, perh deriving from, analegein is analogos, proportionate, whence L analogus, E analogous; derivative Gr analogia, adopted by L, becomes MF-F analogie and E analogy. The secondary Gr adj analogikos becomes L analogicus, whence EF-F analogique and E analogic, now usu analogical. Whereas analogue, adopted from EF-F, comes from the L-Gr adj analogus, analogos, analogist is an anl E formation and analogize goes back to Gr analogizein, whence analogismos, whence analogism.

25. Gr apologos, a story, becomes L apologus, late MF-F apologue, adopted by E: and apologos has derivative apologia, a spoken or written defence, adopted by LL, whence MF-F apologie and E apology. Apologist derives from EF-F apologiste; apologize=apology+-ize; apologetic derives, perh via late MF-F apologétique, from LL apologēticus, from Gr apologētikos, from apologizesthai, to speak in defence, from apologia.

26. dialegesthai, to converse, has pp dialektos, which, used as n, becomes L dialectus (gen -ūs), EF-F dialecte, E dialect, whence adj dialectal. The Gr n dialektos has adj dialektikos, whence OF-F dialectique and E dialectic, adj. The n dialectic reshapes ME dialatik, from OF-MF dialectique, from L dialectica, elliptical for dialectica ars, trln of Gr dialektikē, elliptical for dialektikē tekhnē, from dialektikos. Dialectician=F dialecticien, learnedly formed by MF from L dialecticus.

27. Gr dialegesthai, to converse, has corresp n dialogos, whence L dialogus, OF-F dialogue, adopted by E. Derivative LL dialogista yields E dialogist. Gr dialogos has derivatives dialogismos, adopted by LL, whence E dialogism (in Logic), and dialogikos, whence LL dialogicos, E dialogic, now usu dialogical.

28. Duologue is an afterthought (duo-, two) from monologue, itself adopted from MF-F, from Gr monologos, speaking (-logos) alone (mono- from monos). Cf epilogue and prologue: the former being OF-F épilogue, LL epilogos (influenced by LL epilogum), Gr epilogos, a concluding speech, etc., corresp to epilegein, to say something in addition (epi, besides; lit, upon); the latter, from OF-F prologue, L prologus, Gr prologos, a speech (logos) before (pro): both have derivatives in -ist and -ize, modelled upon Gr.

29. Gr eklegein, to pick ek- or out, to select, with corresp adj eklogos, whence prob eklogē, a choice, a literary selection, esp a type of pastoral poem, whence L ecloga, EF-F éclogue (var églogue), E eclogue; Gr eklogē leads also to Min eclogite (-ite).

30. Gr eulogia, lit a well (eu)-speaking, adopted by LL, is also adopted by learned E; the ordinary E shape is eulogy, with subsequent anl formations eulogist, eulogistic, eulogize. European erudition has coined the complementary dyslogy, an ill (dys-, Gr dus-)-speaking, with adj dyslogistic. Cf sylogistic, L sylogisticus, Gr sullogistikos, adj of sullogismos (from sullogizesthai, to reckon all together: sul- for sun-, with, hence together), whence L sylogismus, OF sil(logisme, ME silogisme, E sylogism, Logic's scheme or apparatus of reasoning. Cf Logic's paralogism, a false method of reasoning: perh via F paralogisme, certainly from LL paralogismus, Gr paralogismos, from paralogizesthai, to reason para- or to the side, hence falsely; the Gr var paralogia has been adopted by E.

31. Gr prolegein, to say pro or beforehand, hence to state preliminarily, has passive presp prolegomenos, stated preliminarily, neu prolegomenon, used as n, and, in pl -omena, adopted by the learned.

32. Ancient Gr drama employs—apart from prologue, etc.—two terms that have become literary techh: tetralogia, a group of four plays, whence E tetralogy, four interrelated or sequential works; and trilogia, a group of three plays, hence E trilogy, any three sequential works.

III. Indo-European

33. The very close relationship of L legere to Gr legein is already clear. The IE r is leg-*, to gather: cf Alb mb-l'eth, I gather, mb-l'oda, I gathered. (Hofmann.)

legerdemain consolidates, substantivizes, anglicizes F léger de main, light of hand: as if from ML levis (L levis) dē manū: cf LEVER and MANUAL.

leghorn, whether plaited straw or domestic fowl (Leghorn), comes from Leghorn, a f/e anglicism for It Livorno, a port in Tuscany.

legible. See LEGEND, para 1, last sentence.

legion, legionary. See LEGEND, para 5.

legislate, legislation, legislative, legislator, legislature. See LEGAL, para 8.

legist. See LEGAL, para 2.

legitim, legitimacy, legitimate, legitimize. See LEGAL, para 4.

legume, leguminous. See LEGEND, para 16.

leisure. See ADDENDA TO DICTIONARY.

leitmotiv. See the 2nd LEAD.

leman. See the 1st LEAVE, para 4.

lemma. See DILEMMA.

lemming, a sub-Arctic rodent, is adopted from Nor and Da lemming: cf ON lemendr, pl of lōmundr, and Lapp luomek: perh akin to OSi lajati, L laträre, to bark: ? orig the barker.

lemon; lime (fruit)—Limey.

1. Lemon, from MF-F limon, from OProv limun from Ar laymūn, better limūn; lime, adopted from EF-F, from Prov limo, from Ar lima, of which limūn is app an Ar-Per deviation—coined to name another variety of citrus.

2. MF-F limon has the EF-F derivative limonade, whence, after lemon, the E lemonade: and E lime has AE lime-juicer, a British ship, hence sailor, from the lime juice served, against scurvy, on British ships, whence sl Limey, a British sailor, hence soldier, hence, from c1942, also civilian.

lemur, an arboreal quadruped, is so named because it is active at night: b/f from L lemures, ghosts active at night: s lemur-; r, app lem-: cf Gr lamuros, greedy, lamos, maw, crop, lamiai, ghosts that devour children, and perh Lett lamata, a mousetrap: 'basic idea: open jaws' (Webster).

lend (whence lender), pt and pp lent; loan.—L-derived cognates: delinquent (adj, hence n), delinquency; relinquish (whence relinquishment)—cf relic, relict, therefore also derelict (adj, hence n), dereliction.—Gr-derived cognates: sep ECLIPSE (ECLIPTIC) and ELLIPSE (ELLIPTIC)—Gmc cognates: sep ELEVEN and TWELVE.

1. 'To lend', ME lenen, OE lāenan, derives from OE lāen, a loan, itself intimately related to ON lān, whence ME lane, var lone, whence E loan: with the OE and ON nn, cf OE lēon, to lend, OFris lēn, a loan, lēna, to lend or to borrow, OHG līhan, to borrow, MHG līhen, to borrow or to lend, G leihen, to lend, Go leihwan, to lend, also OFris līa, ON lǫá, to lend: basic idea, ? to leave money with (someone, for his use): itself a specialization of the IE idea, to leave (hence, to abandon)—as in the cognate Lith likti, Gr leipein, to leave, Lith lieku, I leave, and, with nasal infix, OP po-linka, he remains (leaves himself behind), L linquere, to leave, and—exhibiting that further IE characteristic, the alternation of l and r—Skt riṅākti, he leaves or abandons (cf Skt rēkṣas, heritage). The Gmc r is prob lihw-; the IE r, app leikw-, var likw-, with nasal var linkw-.

2. L linquere has the cpd relinquere, to leave re- or behind, whence MF relinquir, with such forms as presp relinquissant and 'Nous relinquissons', we relinquish, whence E 'to relinquish'.

3. Reinquere has pp relictus, whence the E adj relict; relict, a widow, represents L (coniux) relictā.

4. Reinquere has adj relicuus, reliquus, left behind or over, whence the n reliquiae, remains, whence OF-F relique, whence E relic.

5. Reinquere has the strengthened form dērelinquere (de- used int), to abandon utterly, pp dērelictus, whence the E adj derelict; on the pp s dērelict- arises dērelictio, o/s dēreliction-, whence dereliction.

6. L linquere has another prefix-cpd: dēlinquere, to fail (connoted by de-, down from) in one's duty, presp dēlinquens, o/s dēlinquent-, whence the E adj delinquent; derivative LL dēlinquentia accounts for delinquency.

length, lengthen, lengthy. See LONG, para 3.

lenience, lenient; lenitive (adj, hence n), lenitude, lenity.

At the base, stands L lēnis, soft to the touch, hence gentle: akin to OSi lēnū, Lett lēns, mild, lazy. Lēnis has derivative lēnīre, to soften, presp lēniens, o/s lēniēt-, whence E lenient, whence leniency. Derivative lēnitās, o/s lēnitāt-, becomes OF-EF lenité, whence E lenity. The var lēnitūdō yields lenitude; ML lēnitivus, MF-F lénitif, E lenitive.—Perh cf LET, to permit.

lens. See LENTIL.

Lent. See LONG, para 4.

lent. See LEND.

Lenten. See LONG, para 4.

lenticel; lenticular. See para 2 of:

lentil—lenticel—lenticular; lens, whence -lensed and lensless.

1. Lens is form-adopted, sense-adapted from L, where it means 'lentil': a double convex lens shape-resembles a lentil seed. L lēns is a nasal cognate of Gr lathuros, a vegetable pulse; cf OSi leşta, lentil, and, for L lēns, the OHG linsi, G Linse, Lith lēšis, lentil.

2. L lēns has var lentis, with dim lenticula, E lenticule, L adj lenticularis, E lenticular. Learned F has formed the dim lenticelle, whence E lenticel; lentil, however, derives from OF lentille, itself app from VL lenticula*, var of L lenticula.

leo (whence Leo, cf the closely related Leonard), leonine; lion, lioness, lionize; leopard (and pard itself); sep CHAMELEON and DANDELION.

1. L leō, a lion, has o/s leōn-, whence the adj lēoninus, whence—perh via OF-MF leonin, f leonine, F léonine—the E leonine: Gr leōn, gen leontos: perh Sem, for with the Homeric var lis (acc lin) of the H lajis: prob Medit, for several Eg words for a lion, e.g. ri and rema, suggest one of those famous r-l, l-r alternations.

2. L leō, acc leōnem, becomes OF leon, with OF-F var lion, adopted by E; OF-EF has f lionnesse, whence E lioness; lionize, to treat as a 'lion' or celebrity, is an anl E formation.

3. Leopard, adapted from EF-F léopard (OF leupart, MF liepart), comes imm from L leopardus, trln of Gr leopardos, cpd of leōn+pardos, a pard or panther, L pardus, OF hence E pard. Pardos is a var of the Gr syn pardalis, akin to Skt prḍāku, panther, tiger: prob Medit, there being an almost certain Eg cognate.

Leonnos. See LYONNESSE.

leopard. See LEO, para 3.

leper. See the 1st LEFT, para 2.

lepid. See the 1st LEFT, para 4.

Lepidoptera—the scaly fliers: of the elements lepidō- (and LEFT, para 4) and ptero-.

lepra, leprosy, leprous. See LEFT, para 3.

Lesbian: perh via F lesbien: L Lesbius: Gr Lesbios, adj of Lesbos, that Aegean island where 'burning Sappho loved and sang': the sexual deviation known as lesbianism is attributed to her eccentric loving.

lèse-majesté. See para 2 of:

lesion: OF-MF lesion, EF-F lésion: L laesiōn-, o/s of laesiō, from laesus, pp of laedere, to strike or wound, hence to damage or injure; s laed-; perh cf ON lesta (? for ledsta*), to maltreat.

2. Cf lèse-majesté—occ, in AE, lese (or leze) majesty—adopted from MF-F, which forms it from legal ML crimen laesae majestatis, an accusation, hence crime, of injured majesty (sovereign power): cf majesty at MASTER. The form leze occurs in MF.

3. Laedere has c/f -lidere, notably in collidere, to clash together, E 'to collide', LL pp collisus, whence LL collisiō, o/s collisiōn-, late MF-F and E collision, and in ēlidere, to strike out, hence off, E 'to elide', pp ēlisus, whence ēlisiō, o/s ēlisiōn-, E elision.

less, adj and adv. See LEAST, para 1.

lessee. See LANGUID, para 7.

lessen; lesser. See LEAST (heading).

lesson. See LEGEND, para 2.

lessor. See LANGUID, para 7.

lest. See LEAST, para 3.

let, to hinder (whence the n, as in 'without let or hindrance'), and let, to leave or relinquish (archaic, except in 'to let alone, to let be'), to allow or permit, are closely inter-related. Let, to hinder, comes, through ME letten, from OE lettian, to delay (cf LATE), to hinder: cf OFris letta, OS lettian, OHG lezzēn, to hinder, to hurt, G verletzen, to injure, Go -latjan, MD-D letten, ON letta (letja), to hinder. Let, to leave, to allow, comes, through ME leten, earlier laeten, pt let, lat, from OE lāetan, pt lēt: cf OFris lēta, OS lātan, OHG lāzzan, MHG lāzen, G lassen, Go lētan, MD-D laten, ON lāta, to allow, perh Go lats, weary—and, further off, Lith lēidmi (s lēid-), I let, L lassus (? for ladsus*), weary (cf LATE, para 4), Gr lēdein (s and r lēd-), to be weary: Gmc r lāet-, IE r lēd-, var lēid- (Feist): perh with basic idea 'to let go' (Webster); let, to hinder, perh has basic idea 'to not let go'. The ult IE r might well be lē-*, thus admitting to the sem group the IE words in lēn-, as L lēnis, gentle.

2. Let, to allow, has derivatives inlet, a letting in, something let in, and outlet, a letting out, something let out.

lethal: L lēthālis, better lētālis, adj of lētum, death, with inferior var lēthum caused by Gr lēthē: o.o.o.: perh of Gr lemos, famine, loimos, pestilence; IE r, ? lei-, var li-, to remove. (Hofmann.)

lethargic, lethargy. See LATENT, para 3.

Lethe. See LATENT, para 2. Lethean=L Lēthaeus (Gr lēthaios)+adj suffix -an.

Let, whence the adj Lettic, Lettish, derives from G Lette, itself from Lett Latvi, whence Latvija, whence E Latvia, whence Latvian. Akin to Lithuanian, n from the adj of Lithuania, app a semi-L reshaping in -ania of Lith Lietuva.

letter (n hence v), belles-lettres; lital; literate (whence literacy) and its neg illiterate (whence illiteracy); literary; literature, littérateur.—Cpds: alliterate, alliteration, alliterative; equiliteral; obliterate, obliteration; transliterate, transliteration.

1. Letter, an alphabetic character, derives, via ME from OF lettre, from L littera, superior to the var litera, an alphabetic character, with pl litterae, a letter, then also any written work, hence literature: from this collective litterae, therefore, derive both letter, an epistle, and letters, literature, as in F, whence E, belles-lettres, fine literature, aesthetic literature, esp poetry, drama, essays, whence belletrist, whence the var belletrist, with adj belletristic.

2. The once popular relationship to L linere, to smear, pp litus, is largely discredited. As E & M remark, the L alphabet having been, prob via Etruscan, borrowed from Gr, littera itself would not improb come from Gr: perh from diphthera, a tablet (Hesychius, glossed by Bréal): for the d-l mutation, cf Gr dakruma—OL lacruma, L lacrima.

3. L littera has three adj affecting E:

litterālis, var litrālis, MF lital (F littéral), E lital, whence litalism; litterarius, var literarius, E literary (cf EF-F littéraire); litteratus, var literatus, E literate; neg illiteratus, E illiterate.

4. L litteratura, whence F littérature, and its var litteratura, whence E literature, meant the art of writing and reading (in LL, litterature), and imitated Gr grammatikē (tekhne).

5. Two R words have been partly adopted by cultured E: It literati, pl of literato, from L litteratus; F littérateur, from L litterator, var litterator, one versed in grammar.

Compounds

6. A rare ML alliteratiō, o/s alliteratiōn-, yields alliteration, whence the anl alliterative and the b/f 'to alliterate'; perh there did exist a v alliterare (al- for ad, to), prefix-cpd of LL litterare, to indicate by letters (Souter).

7. Equilateral is an E formation: the element equi-, equal(ly) + lateral.

8. L obliterare, var obliterare, to efface (connoted by ob-) the letters, hence to destroy, also to cause to forget, has pp oblit(er)atus, whence 'to obliterate'; derivative obliteratiō, o/s obliteratiōn-, accounts for obliteration; LL agent oblit(er)ator is adopted by E.

9. Transliterate (trans, across) is an E formation anl with obliterate; with transliteration as an anl derivative.

Lettic, Lettish. See LETT.

lettuce. See LACTAM, para 5.

leucite, leucocoma, leukemia. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 20, and cf the element leuco-.

Levant, levant. See LEVER, para 3.

levator. See LEVER, para 4.

levée and levee. See LEVER, para 6.

level (n, whence adj and v); libra, librate, libration, libratory; lira; litre, AE līter; livre; cpds deliberate (adj, v), deliberation, deliberative, deliberator, and sep equilibrate, equilibration, equilibrator, equilibratory, equilibrist, equilibrium.—Perh akin: libate, libation, libatory—and therefore littoral.

1. Level, ME level, a var of ME livel, adopted from OF, derives from VL libellum*, an alteration of L libella, a level, esp a water or a plumb level, dim of libra, any object used for weighing, hence a balance, a pair of scales, and also a weight of about 12 oz avoirdupois, thence the Roman monetary unit (E & M). L libra is perh akin to L libāre, to pour, but prob, to judge by Sicilian Gr litrā, a pound weight, adj litraios, deriving from an IE r lithrā-, app either of pre-IE or of Medit origin—? cf, at least sem, the Eg beqsu and sekhekh.

2. The constellation Libra personifies L libra, a pair of scales. Libra, moreover, has derivative librāre, to balance, to weigh, pp libratus, whence 'to librate', to vibrate like a balance, to be poised; derivative libratiō, o/s libratiōn-, yields libration, whence the anl adj libratory.

3. L libra becomes It lira, the monetary unit of Italy. In F it becomes livre, a 'pound' weight (approx) and value; F litre, however, derives from EF liron, an obsolete measure, itself from ML litra, a liquid measure, from Gr litrā.

4. L librāre has cpd aequilibrāre, whence 'to equilibrate', equilibrium, etc., qq.v. at EQUAL. App also from librāre comes L dēliberāre (for dēlibrāre*, to weigh thoroughly, de- being int), to consider very carefully, pp dēliberatus, whence both adj and v deliberate; derivative dēliberatiō, o/s dēliberatiōn-, becomes, prob via MF-F dēliberation, the E deliberation; derivative dēliberatiuus, ML -ivus, becomes deliberative; the L agent dēliberātor is adopted.

5. If L libra has s libr-, r lib-, and Gr litrā has s litr-, r lit-, then there may well be an IE r li-*, a liquid, occurring also in e.g. liquid and libation. L libāre, to pour, esp to a god, pp libatus, whence 'to libate'; derivative libatiō, o/s libatiōn-, yields libation; the adj libatiōrius* (deduced from LL libatiōrium, a vessel used in religious libations) yields libatory. Cf the Gr leibein (s and r, leib-), to pour, to offer a libation.

6. Cf L litus (s and r, lit-), seashore, which has var lituus, o/s lit(t)or-, with adj lit(t)oralis, whence the E adj, hence n, littoral: cf the Lith lieti, to pour—to be compared also with L libāre, Gr leibein.

leven. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 3.

lever, n hence v (whence leverage); levant (n, v); Levant, Levantine; levator; levee and levée and levy (n, hence v); levity—levitate, levitation; leaven (n, hence v); cpds: alleviate, alleviation, alleviative, alleviator—elevate, elevation, elevator.—relief (and bas-relief), relieve (whence reliever).—light in weight, lighten, to become or make less in weight, lighter, a barge, lights, lungs; prob lung itself.

1. The -lev- (-lief, -lieve) words all come from L levis, ML levis, light in weight; syn E light and prob lung are Gmc cognates; the L and E words are akin to Alb l'eh, Lith leņgas, lengvūs, OSI līgū-kū, light, OIr laigiū, smaller (therefore lighter), Gr elakhus, slight, small, Skt laghús, rapid, light; the Gmc r is app liht-, ? for linht-; the IE r, prob leŋw-* (var legh-*), with L levis perh for leŋuis* (Walshe).

Latin and Romance Simples

2. Lever, ME levour, OF leveor, derives from lever, to raise, from ML levāre, L leuāre, from levis, ML levis, light; L leuāre means both to lighten a load and, in LL, to raise.

3. Leuāre has presp leuans, o/s leuant-, ML levant-, whence the OF adj levant, as in le soleil levant, the rising sun, hence, in MF, n 'the rising sun', whence 'the Orient or East', adopted in E Levant, now only of the E Medit countries; the lit sense is preserved in legal levant and couchant, straying animals' period of trespass. F le Levant has derivative adj levantin, f -ine, adopted by E and used also as n Levantine. 'To levant' or abscond =Sp levantar, lit to raise, hence to (raise oneself and) go from place to place.

4. Levator, in An and Surgery, is a Scil (? suggested by the ML) agent from ML levāre. ML levāmen, yeast, L levāmen, a lightning, becomes OF levain, adopted by ME with var levein, becomes leaven.

5. L levis has derivative leuitās, ML lev-, lightness, o/s leuitāt-, whence levity, whence, anl, levitate (opp gravitate), with anl derivative levitation.

6. E levée, whence levee, a reception held by the sovereign, distorts F levé. AE levee, an embankment against flooding, derives from late OF-F levée, which also originates the much older levy of taxes or of troops. Both levé and levée derive from levé, pp of OF-F lever.

L and R Compounds

7. LL alleuiāre (al- for ad-, to), ML alleviāre, to lighten, has pp alleuiātus, ML allevi-, whence 'to alleviate'; derivative ML alleviātio, o/s alleviātion-, yields elleviation, whence, anl, alleviative and alleviator.

8. L ēlevāre, ML -vāre, to raise e or out of, hence up, has pp ēlevātus, ML -vātus, whence 'to elevate'; derivatives ēleviātio and LL ēlevātor, ML ēleviātio (o/s ēleviātion-) and ēlevātor, become elevation and elevator.

9. L releuāre, ML -vāre, to raise again, becomes OF-F relever—note esp il relieve, he raises again—whence ME releven, 'to relieve'. OF-F relever has the OF-F derivative relief, a raising-up, raised work (whence bas-relief, prompted by It bassorilievo, low relief-work, and adopted by E), adopted by ME as relief, whence E relief.

Gmc Cognates

10. Light in weight, ME light, earlier liht, derives from OE liht, var lēoht: cf OFris lichte, var liuchte, OHG lihti, MHG lihte, G leicht, Go leihts, MD lichte, D licht, ON leitr. ME light has derivative lightenen, whence 'to lighten', to become or make less heavy; D licht has v lichten, to make lighter, hence to unload, with agent lichter, whence E lighter, a barge for unloading; light, not heavy, has derivative lights, lungs of beasts, prob from light meats, because lungs are relatively light.

11. OE liht, not heavy, has derivative lihtan, prop to take one's weight from a horse, i.e. to dismount, hence, in general, to descend from any conveyance or, of a bird, to land: 'to light'. OE lihtan has two prefix-cpds, alīhtan (ā-, on) and gelīhtan (int ge-), from either or both of which comes ME alīhten, E 'to alighten'.

12. The lungs (cf para 10, s.f.) are 'the lightest internal organs': lung, ME lunge, OE lungen, is akin to OFris lungen, lungene, OHG and OS lunga, MHG-G lunge, MD lungen(e), longen(e), longer, longe, D long, ON lungr. (Walshe.) Perh, with Holthausen, cf also Arm lanjk, chest.

Leviathan: MĪ Leviathan, LL Leuiathan: H

liwyāthān, variously a huge crocodile, a whale, or even—away from water—a dragon, hence, in C19–20 E, any huge and formidable creature. The H word is either (Enci It) an extn of the r lwh, therefore 'the coiled or tortuous creature', or a cpd of two rr, meaning 'great fish' and 'fastened', therefore 'a huge fish covered with scales', i.e. a crocodile (Ency. Americana).

levigate, levigation.

The latter derives from ML lēvigatiōn-, o/s of lēvigatiō, L lēvigatiō, a smoothing, from lēvigātus—source of 'to levigate'—pp of lēvigāre, to smooth: lēvis, smooth (contrast lēvis, light in weight, q.v. at LEVER), s lēut-, perh after mitigāre, from mītis, soft; prob -igāre derives from agere, to drive, hence to render (over a long time).

levin. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 3.

levitate, levitation. See LEVER, para 5.

levity. See LEVER, para 5.

lew. See LUKEWARM.

lewd, whence lewdness: ME lewede, vile, (earlier) ignorant, (earliest) lay: OE lāēwede, of the laity (not of the clergy): o.o.o.—but prob cf LAY, adj.

lewis; lewisite; lewisson. See LOUIS, para 2.

lex. See LEGAL, paras 1 and 2.

lexical; lexicographer; lexicon. See LEGEND, para 19.

liability, liable. See LIGAMENT, para 4.

liaison. See LIGAMENT, para 1.

liana: EF-F, from Antilles F, liane, itself prob borrowed from a dial of W France, the orig dial word being prob liarne, var lierne, themselves varr of liorne, which, in the passage from viorne (ML vīburnum, L uīburnum), clematis, shows the influence of F lier, to bind (cf LIGAMENT, para 1, s.f.).

liar. See the 1st LIE.

libate, libation. See LEVEL, para 5.

libel (n, v), libellous. See LEAF, para 3.

liberal (adj, hence n Liberal; hence also Liberalism and liberalize), liberality—cf illiberal, illiberality; liberate, liberation, liberator; Liberia, whence Liberian, adj hence n; libertinage, libertine (whence libertinism); liberty, whence libertarian (after humanitarian from humanity); livery, n—cf deliver, deliverance, deliverer, delivery.

1. L liber, free—whence prob Libër, the Roman god of growth—is akin to the syn Gr eleutheros, perh also to the OGmc words for 'people', as, e.g., OE lēod, OFris liōd, OS liud, OHG liuti, MHG liute, G Leute, esp if these words orig meant 'free people' as opp slaves (Walshe).

2. L liber has the foll simple derivatives relevant to E:

liberalis, OF-MF whence E liberal, the derivative liberalitās, o/s liberalitāt-, passing through MF-F liberalité to become liberality; the negg illiberalis, illiberalitās yielding, prob via F, the E illiberal, illiberality; liberāre, to set free, has pp liberātus, whence 'to liberate'; derivative liberatiō, o/s liberatiōn-, yields MF-F libération and E liberation; derivative liberātor is adopted by E;

Liberia, 'the free country': regional -ia tacked to liber by SciL; libertās, o/s libertāt-, MF-F liberté, ME liberte, E liberty; libertus, a freedman, with adj libertīnus, whence, via EF-F, libertine, adj hence n, libertinage being adopted from EF-F (libertin+suffix -age).

3. Liberāre has ML sense 'to give, deliver up': OF-F livrer, whence MF livree (F livrée), clothes provided by lords to retainers, then, c1500, the modern sense: ME livere (trisyllabic): E livery.

4. L liberāre has LL cpd dēliberō (int de-), I set free, 'perh corrupt for ēliberō' (Souter): OF-MF delivrer (F dé-), to set free, to hand something over to someone: 'to deliver'. Derivative OF-MF delivrance becomes E deliverance; OF-MF delivreor, E deliverer; EF-F délivrer, afterbirth, has perh helped E deliver to become, prob after livery, E delivery.

libidinous, libido. See the 1st LEAVE, para 9.

Libra. See LEVEL, para 2.

librarian, library. See LEAF, para 2.

librate, libration. See LEVEL, para 2.

lice. See LOUSE.

licence, n, and license, v (whence pa licensed and licensee), licentiate (adj, hence n), licentious; leisure, whence leisured; licit and illicit.

1. L licēre, to be permissible, used impersonally, as licet, licitum est, has pp licitus used as adj, whence E licit; neg illicitus becomes illicit. Licēre is app o.o.o.

2. The presp licens, o/s licent-, has derivative licentia, liberty or permission to do something, hence excessive liberty, whence OF-F, hence ME, licence, whence 'to licence', still common in AE, although E has, for the v, decided to use the var license. L licentia has derivative adj licentiōsus, whence EF-F licencieux (f -ieuse) and E licentious. Derivative ML licentiāre, to allow to do anything, has pp licentiātus, whence the adj and n licentiate.

lich, as in lich gate. See LIKE, para 5.

lichen, whence lichenoid (-oid) and lichenous (-ous), is adopted from the L trln of Gr leikhēn, akin to Gr leikhein, to lick. Cf LICK.

licit. See LICENCE, para 1.

lick (v, hence n), whence sl at full lick and lickety-split; lickerish (liquorish, influenced by liquor)—lecher, lecherous, lechery; sep LICHEN; ligula, ligule, ligulate—lingula, lingulate; electuary.

1. 'To lick' derives from OE liccian, akin to OHG lecchōn, MHG-G lecken, OS likkōn, Go bilaigan, to lick, OIr ligim, Arm lizem, L lingo (nasal infix), Gr leikhō, I lick, OSi lizati, Skt lēdhi (for leighti*), later lihati, he licks: IE r leigh-, with var sleigh-, attested by ON slēikia, MHG slucken, G schlecken, to lick. (Hofmann.)

2. Lickerish is for earlier lickerous, from the ONF shape of OF-MF lecheros, whence E lecherous; OF lecheros derives from OF-MF lecheor (var -eur), a glutton, a libertine, whence ME lechour, lechur, E lecher; OF lecheor derives from OF-MF lechier (F lécher), to lick, of Gmc origin.

3. L lingere, to lick, s and r ling- (nasal form of PL lig-*), has derivative lingula, usu eased to ligula, a spoon, hence, influenced by lingua, the tongue, a little tongue of, e.g., leather, a little strap; ligula, its E derivative ligule, lingula, all occur in Bot, An, Zoo, with Sci derivative adj ligulate, lingulate.

4. Gr leikhein, to lick, appears both in sep LICHEN and in electuary, ML-LL electuārium, var of LL ēlectārium, a medicinal lozenge, an -ārium derivative from Gr ekleikton, from ekleikhein, to lick ek-, out of (e.g., a plate).

licorice or—? influenced by liquor—liquorice: ME licoris: OF-MF licorece, licorice: LL liquiritia: L glycyrrhiza: Gr glukurrhiza: Gr glukus, sweet+rhiza, root. Cf e.g. glucose and radical.

lictor. See LIGAMENT, para 3.

lid (n, hence v, whence -lidded): OE hlid (lit a cover), lid, door: cf OE and OS hlidan, to cover or shut, and OFris hlid, OHG hlit or lit, MHG lit, lid, G (Augen)lid, (eye)lid, ON hlith, gate(way): perh cf 'to LEAN'.—Hence lidless.

lie (1), n and v (pt, pp lied, presp lying), a falsehood, to speak a falsehood; liar.

Liar, ME liere, derives from ME lien—whence 'to lie'—from OE lēogan, intimately related to OE lyge, whence 'a lie': and OE lyge, lēogan, are akin to OHG lugin (n), OFris liāga and OHG, OS liogan (v), G Lüge, lügen, Go liugn (n), liugan (v), ON lygi (n), līga (v), also to OSi lūgati, to lie: IE r, leugh-, varr lough- and esp lugh-*. (Walshe.)

lie (2), to be prostrate, pt lay, pp lain; lay (v, hence n), pt laid, pp laid, whence layer; laager, lager—leaguer (a camp), beleaguer; lair (n, hence v—whence lairage); laughter, a clutch of eggs; law, whence lawful, lawless, lawyer (-yer—-ier, var of agential -er)—cf outlaw, n and v (whence outlawry); ledge and ledger; lees, dregs; ligger; litter (n, hence v)—cf lectual and coverlet; lochias; log (n, hence v—whence logger), loggerhead, 'be at loggerheads'; low (adj, hence adv, n), comp lower (whence 'to lower'), sup lowest—with many obvious cpds, e.g. lowland, and with derivative lowly (adj suffix -ly).

1. Lie, to be prostrate, to be situated, ME lien, earlier liggen (whence the dial ligger, coverlet, footbridge, flat stone laid over tomb, a baited line left for night fishing), derives from OE ligan, akin to OHG liggan, MHG ligen, G liegen, Go ligan, MD ligen, ligen, (as in D) liggen, ON liggja; akin also to the syn OSi ležati, Gr lexasthai, and to OIr lige, L lectus, Gr lekhos, a bed; IE r, legh-*, to be lying flat.

2. The corresp caus v is 'to lay' (to cause to be lying flat), ME leien, earlier leggen, OE leccan: cf OHG legēn, MHG-G legen, Go lagjan, MD leccen, legen, leigen, (as in D) leggen, ON leggja, legia; cf also Mīr leigid, he lays himself down, OSi ložiti, to lay down.

3. Afr laager, var lager, is a camp, often (orig) defensively ringed with waggons; cf G Lager, a bed, a storeroom or -house, whence, with Bier, beer, understood, lager, because stored before use.

4. With Afr laager, cf leaguer, a camp, from the D source of laager: leger, a camp. The derivative 'to leaguer', to besiege, is commoner in the cpd beleaguer, from D belegeren: be-, as in E+ leger+inf suffix -en.

5. Akin to MD-D leger, which means also 'bed, couch, lair', is OE leger, whence E lair: cf OFris leger, OHG legar, G Lager, Go ligrs, couch, bed. With all these words, cf ON lātr, lättr, a place where animals put their young, whence prob the dial laughter, a clutch of eggs.

6. A law being that which is laid down, law not too surprisingly comes, through ME lawe, earlier laghe, from OE lagu, law, akin to and prob from ON lög, law, orig the pl of lag, a layer or stratum, a due place, syn OS lag, OFris laga.

7. The ON cpd útlagi, an outlaw, and útlagr, outlawed, become OE útlaga, later útlah, whence 'an outlaw'; 'to outlaw' derives from OE útlagian (from útlaga).

8. ME leggen, to lay (cf para 2 above), is the prob source of ME legge, a bar, whence E ledge, a bar—hence a strip—laid along a surface, as a shelf, esp on a wall of rock. The same ME leggen, to lay, produces ME legger, which has var lidger, influenced by and perh even deriving from ME liggen, to be lying down, to be situated: lidger and legger app combine to give us ledger, prop a book always lying in one place and open to inspection.

9. OE licgan, to lie flat, is akin to the syn ON ligga, whence ON lög, the trunk of a felled tree (cf OS-OHG lāga, OFris lēga), whence ME logge, whence both the E log and the syn E dial logger; the latter, in its sense 'block of wood', joins with head to form loggerhead, a stupid fellow (in short, a blockhead), but, 'in nautical language orig a bar-shot with a cannon-ball at each end. Hence to be at logger-heads (cf at daggers drawn): EW.

10. That which is lying down or lying flat is as low as it can get; and this is the source of low itself, ME low, earlier louh, earliest lah, from ON lāgr, itself akin to OFris lēg, lēch, MD leech, lege, laech, lage, D laag.

11. That which lies down and then naturally settles, as at the bottom of a cask, is lee, now always lees: OF-F lie, ML lia, prob of C origin: cf, as in para 1, OIr lige, a lying (down), a bed. Malvezin postulates an OC leg-*, to be lying down, and cfs Br lec'hid, lees.

12. L lectus (s and r lect-), a bed, a couch, has a VL derivative lectāria*, whence OF-MF litiere (F litière), whence ME litter, a bed, a litter, whence E litter, a portable, usu curtained and always shafted couch, hence, or from the sense 'bed', the collective, recently borne young of esp a sow; the straw, etc., used for bedding tends to become scattered, hence scattered rubbish.

13. L lectus has LL adj lectuālis, whence Med lectual, as in 'a lectual disease', confining the sufferer to bed (Webster). L lectus becomes OF(-F) lit, a bed, as in ME coverlyte (cover- from OF covrir, to cover), whence coverlet.

14. Akin to Gr lekhos, bed (as in para 1) is Gr lokhos, a lying-in, hence childbirth, with derivative adj lokhios, with neupl lokhia used as n, whence SciL lochia, postnatal discharges.

lied, n. See LAUD, para 1, s.f.

lied. See the 1st LEAVE, para 5.

liege (adj, hence n—and also liegeman): ME lege, lige: OF-MF liege, OF-F lige: LL liticus*, leticus*, varr of LL laeticus, (of land) 'cultivated by serfs', from LL laetus, 'a (foreign) serf (who tills Roman soil)'—in Souter's definition; LL laetus is of Gmc origin: cf OE frēolāzta, Go fralēts, a freed serf, a freedman, OFris lethar, freedmen: prob akin to E LET, to allow.

lien. See LIGAMENT, para 3.

lieu. See LOCAL, para 5.

lieutenant, whence lieutenancy. See LOCAL, para 5.

lieve. See the 1st LEAVE, in heading; cf lief in para 5.

life (pl lives), with numerous—and rather obvious—cpds; lifelike, lifeless; live, adj (cf alive) and v (whence pa, vn living), whence relive—livelihood—lively—liven, enliven; liver, organ of body, whence liverish, livery—cf liverwort, liverwurst; Lebensraum; leave, to permit, or to cause, to remain.

1. Life, OE lif, is akin to OFris (and OS) lif, OHG lib, MHG lip, life, body, G Leib, MD-D lijf, body, ON lif, life, body. Derivative OE līstic, living, yields lively and the reshaped lifelike; derivative līflēas (cf OFris liflās), yields lifeless; derivative ME livelode, earlier liflode, whence, by f/e, the E livelihood, combines OE lif+OE lād, way, maintenance.

2. The adj live is aphetic for alive, ME on live, OE on life, (being) in life; life is dat of lif.

3. 'To live' (whence livable), ME liven, var livien, OE libban, var lifian, is akin to OFris -liva, OS -liban, to remain, OFris libba, OS libbian, OHG lebēn, MHG-G leben, Go liban, MD-D leven, to live, ON lifa, to remain, to live, and, further off, Gr liparein (s lipar-, ult r lip-), be sticky, hence to persist, liparēs, persistent, and, still further, Skt limpati (with nasal infix), he smears, lipta, smeared, hence adherent, cf Lith lipti, to adhere; cf G Go bi-leiban, OHG bi-liban, to remain. The Gmc r is app libh-* (or libh-), var laibh-, and the IE r, app lip-, var leip-: the basic idea, 'to be sticky'—hence 'to adhere'—hence 'to remain or stay'—esp 'to stay alive'—hence simply 'to live'. (Walshe; Webster.)

4. 'To liven' prob derives from the adj live; 'to enliven' either intensifies liven or derives from en-, in(to)+life, eased to liv-+v suffix -en.

5. Liver, the bile-secreting organ, derives from OE lifer, prob from OE lifian (as in para 3): cf OFris livere, OHG lebara, MHG-G leber, ON lifr; cf also Arm leard and perh Gr liparos, sticky. (Walshe.) Cf the cpds liverwort (wort) and liverwurst, prompted by G Leberwurst, a sausage containing much liver.

6. G leben, to live, hence, as n, living, has cpd Lebensraum, room—i.e., space—to live.

7. Akin to 'to live' is 'to leave', permit or cause to remain: ME leven: OE lāefan: cf OE lāf, that which is left, a remnant, and the OGMc vv recorded in para 3.

lift (1), sky. See:

lift (2), to raise, hence as n (a raising, a being raised; sky); loft, aloft.

1. Lift, the sky, the atmosphere, now dial and archaically poetic, derives from OE lyft, air, and is akin to loft, orig the sky, now as in hay-loft: ME loft, a loft, a height, air: OE loft, air. Lofty clearly derives from ME loft, a height; and aloft=a-, on, hence in+loft, air.

2. OE loft derives from ON lopt (for loft*), air, heaven, hence a loft: and both ON lopt and OE lyft are akin to OHG-MHG-G luft, Go luftus.

3. To put in the air, to raise in the air—cf G lüffen, to air, to raise—is to lift: ME liften, var lystien: ON lyp'a, akin to, prob deriving from, ON lopt, air, the sky.

lift (3), to steal; whence shoplifter (cf SHOP).

This 'to lift' prob derives from prec, but perh derives ult from the Gmc r in Go hlifan, to steal (hlifus, a thief), itself akin to the syn L clepere and Gr kleptein.

ligament and ligature; liable, whence, anl, liability; liaison; sep liana; lictor; lien; league, a covenant, whence v; naut leech.—Cpds: ally (v, hence n), alliance, cf rally, to reunite, hence as n, and contrast rely, whence reliable, reliance, reliant;—obligato and obligate (adj and v), obligation, obligatory, oblige (whence pa obliging), cf disobligation, disoblige (whence disobliging); religate, religion—religion, religiosity, religious (adj, hence n)—cf Irreligion, irreligiosity, irreligious.

1. Ligament derives, perh via EF-F, from L ligamentum, anything that ties one part (etc.) to another: lig-, s and r of ligare, to bind+-a-, sign of the 1st L conjugation+suffix -mentum (cf E filament, ML filamentum, from L filare, to spin). On ligāt-, s of pp ligātus (whence to ligate), arise LL ligātūra, whence MF-F, hence E, ligature, and L ligātiō, o/s ligātiōn-, whence E ligation, and LL ligātor, adopted by surgery; the L o/s ligātiōn- influences the derivation of MF-F liaison—adopted by E—from OF-F lier, to bind (from ligare).

2. L ligare is akin to ON lik, a cord, esp a bolt-rope, MHG geleich, a joint, MLG lik, a binding, a bandage, Alb l'ith, I bind, l'ithe, a band or a bond.

3. Prob akin to L ligare is L lictor (? for ligtor*, contr of ligātor), the Roman officer affected to the carrying of the fasces. Certainly akin to—perh the suggester of—L ligamentum is the syn L ligāmen, whence OF lieien, whence, influenced by lier, the F lien, adopted by E Law in sense 'a charge—due because of debt—upon property'.

4. Whereas leech, the edge of a square sail, comes from LG (cf MLG lik, as in para 2), liable comes from OF-F lier, and league, a covenant, from MF-F ligue: It liga, var of lega: from It legare, from L ligare, to bind.

Prefix-Compounds of ligare

5. 'An ally' (cf F allié) derives from 'to ally', ME alien, OF alier (F allier), L alligāre, to bind (al- for ad) to, pp alligātus, whence the n alligatiō, o/s alligatiōn-, whence alligation. OF alier has derivative OF-MF aliance (F alliance) ME aliaunce, E alliance. OF alier itself combines with re-, again, to form OF-F rallier, to reunite e.g. dispersed troops, whence 'to rally'.

6. But 'to rely' has derived from ME relien, to rally, from late OF-F relier, to bind again, from the syn L religāre. Rely has derivatives reliable (influenced by liable)—reliance, as if from F—reliant, as if from F reliant, presp of relier.

7. L obligare, to tie about, to bandage, hence to face with the duty to, to put under an obligation (to), becomes MF obligier, MF-F obliger, whence 'to oblige'; LL obligatiō, o/s obligatiōn-, and LL obligātorius become, via MF-F, the E obligation, obligatory. Both of these LL words are formed upon L obligātus, pp of obligare: and obligātus accounts for 'to obligate' and the Bio adj obligate and for the It Mus term obbligato.

8. MF-F obliger has MF derivative desobliger (F dés-; L dis-), whence 'to disoblige', whence anl disobligation.

9. L religare, to bind re- or again, has pp religātus, whence 'to religate', whence, anl, religation.

10. Prob deriving from, certainly very closely akin to, L religare (s relig-), to bind again, hence, int, to bind strongly, is religiō (s relig-), a binding back, or very strongly, sc to one's faith or ethic, o/s religiōn-, as in the acc religiōnem, whence OF-F religion, adopted by E; in ML, religiōsus—whence OF-F religieux, whence E religious—was also a n, 'one in a religious order, a monk or a friar, hence (religiōsa) a nun'. The ML derivative religiōsitas, o/s religiōsitat-, yields EF-F religiosité and E religiosity.

11. Religiō has LL neg irreligiō, o/s irreligiōn-, whence—perh via EF-F—irreligion; LL irreligiōsus and its derivative irreligiōsitas naturally—and again via F—become irreligious and irreligiosity.

ligger. See the 2nd LIE, para 1.

light (1), adj: bright. See the 3rd LIGHT.

light (2), adj: of little weight. See LEVER, para 10.

light (3), n, brightness—adj, bright—v, to illuminate (whence the vn lighting), to shine; lighten—enlighten, enlightenment; lightning; leven or Levin; lea (meadow); Loki.—L: lux; lucent; Lucia, Lucius, Lucy; Lucifer; lucid, lucidity; lucubrate, lucubration; luminary, luminous; luna, lumacy, lunar, lumatic ('loony'), luration, lunette—cf demilune and sublunary; luster (AE), lustre, lustrous perh luxuriant, luxuriate, luxurious, luxury, de luxe.—L cpds: elucidate, elucidation, elucidatory—illuminate, illuminant, illuminate, illuminati, illumination, illuminative, illuminator, illumine—lumin—illustrate, illustration, illustrative, illustrator, and illustrious.—pellucid.—Gr: leucite, leucoma, leukemia, cf the element leuco-; lynx, whence the adj lyncean.

Germanic and Indo-European

1. Both 'to light', illumine, OE lyhtan, lihtan, and light, bright, derive from OE lēoht, illumination, ME liht, later light, retained by E: and OE lēoht is akin to OFris liacht (n, light, a candle, and adj, bright), OS liocht, OHG liocht, MHG lieht, G Licht, light, a candle, Go liuhath, MD lucht, locht(e), lecht, liecht, (as in D) licht, with adj lucht, liechte, lichte, and differently suffixed ON lios (ljós), a light; to OIr lōche, brightness, lōcharn, a light, a lamp (cf the F lucarne); to Osl luči, light (n), luča, a ray of light; to Arm lois, loys, a light, with gen lusoy; L lux (gen lucis), a light, brightness, lucēre, to shine; Gr leukos, shining, white; Skt rōcīs (for raučīs* for leukīs*), a light, rōcatē, it shines, rōcanas, brilliant, Hit lukke-, to be light, to become day, lukkes-, to become light, lukitta, next day; Tokh A luk-, to shine. The Gmc r is liuh-; the IE r, leuk-. (Walshe.) The word is perh Medit: ? cf the Eg metathetic complements ukheb, ubekh, to shine, to be bright, and ubekht, ukheh.

2. OE lyhtan (lihtan) acquires the ME mdfn lightenen, whence 'to lighien', to shine, grow lighter; lighten has the int enlighten, perh ult from OE inlihtan, whence enlightenment (suffix -ment). 'To lighten', to shine, to flash, has vn lightening, which, as an electrical discharge and flash in the sky, is contr to lightning.

3. Akin to OE lēoht, illumination, is OE lēoma, brightness, ME leome, var leme, then leem, E leam, a flash, a blaze, now only Sc (and N dial); and akin to ME leome—? orig a scribal error for it —is ME levene, the now archaic E leven or levin, lightning.

4. Also akin to OE lēoht, (a) light, is OE lēah, lēa, ME lay, ley, E lea, pastureland, a meadow, which is open to the sun and therefore, at times, drenched with light.

5. Akin to ON lios, (a) light—as in para 1—is ON leygr, flame, with var logi, to which is perh related the OE Loki, the mischievous god of Scan mythology, esp if he were orig a god of fire. (Webster.)

Latin

6. The L r is luc-, seen basically in lucēre, to shine, and lux (for lūcs*; gen lucis), light, esp that of day. Prob from lux are the PNN Lūcius, f Lūcia (whence F Lucie, E Lucy); certainly a cpd is the adj lucifer, light-bringing (c/f lūci+-fer, -bringing), whence Lūcifer, the Morning Star; Lūcifer, Satan, is a creation of Eccll.

7. Lūcēre, to shine, has presp lūcens, o/s lūcent-, whence the E adj lucent, whence lucence, usu lucency.

8. Lūcēre has derivative adj lūcidus, shining, brilliant, dazzling-clear, whence late MF-F lucide and E lucid; derivative LL lūcīditas, o/s lūcīditāt-, becomes late MF-F lucidiē and E lucidity.

9. The L r luc- prob appears in lūmen (? for lūcmen*), light, usu a light, o/s lūmin-, adj lūmin-ōsus, whence MF-F lumineux, f lumineuse, whence

E luminous; subsidiary ML lūminōsītās, o/s lūminōsītāt-, becomes luminosity. Lūmen has the further adj lūmināris*, neu lūmināre, as in the n lūmināre, a torch, usu in pl lūmināria, whence OF-MF luminarie (cf F luminaire), whence E luminary. Lūmen has also the deriv v lūmināre, to illumine, presp lūminans, o/s lūminant-, whence the E adj, hence n, luminant; pp lūminātus, whence 'to luminare'; derivative LL lūminātiō, o/s lūminātiōn-, becomes lumination, and LL lūminātor, giver of light, adopted by, though now obs at, the University of St Andrews. Luminescent derives from luminescent, as if from lūminescens-, o/s of lūminescens, presp of lūminescere*, to begin to grow light, inch of lūmināre. Cf the illum- cpds in para 16.

10. Lūx, o/s lūc-, has derivative lūcubrum, a small fire, ? hence a lamp, lamp-light, whence lūcubrāre, to work by lamp-light, pp lūcubrātus, used by LL as adj (of a literary work) carefully composed', whence the E literary adj and n lucubrate; derivatives lūcubrātiō, o/s lūcubrātiōn-, and lūcubrātōrius (adj suffix -ōrius) yield lucubration and lucubratory.

11. L lūna, the moon, prop 'the luminous', represents either a contr of lūcēna* or orig the f of an adj lūnus*, with -na the f of the IE adj formative -no-. The OF-F form lune is adopted by Geom and, in the cpd demilune ('half-moon'), by fortification; the late OF-F dim lunette has been much more widely accepted.

12. L lūna has three adj relevant to E:

L lūnāris, whence OF-F lunaire, whence E lunar; SciL sublūnāris becomes E sublunary, '(of things) beneath the moon'—'earthly, not heavenly';

LL lūnāticus, living in the moon, subject to the moon's changes, hence epileptic, hence (ML) mad, cf sem the L fānāticus, E fanatic; thence MF-F lunatīque, E lunatic (adj hence n), whence lunacy—cf loony, for luny, from lunatic; lūnātus (from the pp), moon-shaped, whence E lunate, crescent-shaped; derivative ML lūnātiō, o/s lūnātiōn-, accounts for Astr lunation.

13. Akin to—and formed in the same way as—lūmen, is L lustrum*, (a) light, whence lustrāre, to light up, illumine, It lustrare, whence the It n lustro, late MF-F lustre, E lustre and AE luster, whence 'to lustre or luster'. E lustrous perh derives from F lustreuse, f of lustreux, adj of lustre. Cf the cpds illustr- in para 18.

14. Perh akin to L lūcēre, to shine, is L luxus (gen luxūs), excessive indulgence in creature comforts and sensual pleasures, flashy living, whence EF-F luxe, as in de luxe, of luxury, adopted by E in 'de luxe cars, models, etc.'. E & M, however, derive the n luxus from the adj luxus, dislocated, sprained, whence, by the way, luxāre, to dislocate, pp luxātus, whence 'to luxate', with derivative LL luxātiō, o/s luxātiōn-, E luxation. The L n luxus has extn luxuria (var luxuriēs), sybaritic and sensual living, OF-MF luxurie (cf F luxure), E luxury; derivative adj luxuriōsus becomes OF-MF luxurius, E luxurious; the derivative v luxuriāri, to be excessive, to grow over-abundantly, has presp luxurians, o/s luxuriant-, whence EF-F and E luxuriant, whence, anl, luxuriance, and has pp luxuriātus, whence 'to luxuriate'.

Latin compounds

15. L lucidus has LL derivative ēlucidāre, to bring the inner lux or light ē or out of, to explain thoroughly esp a difficult matter, pp ēlucidātus, whence 'to elucidate', whence, anl, elucidation (perh after EF-F elucidation) and elucidatory.

16. L lūmināre gives way to the orig int (il- for in-) illūmināre, whence OF-F illuminer, whence 'to illumine'; the pp illūminātus yields both the adj (hence n) and v illuminate and also, partly via It, illuminati, lit 'persons lit up'. Derivatives LL illūminātio (o/s illūminātiōn-) and LL illūminātor, shedder of light, ML illuminator of books, lead, the former prob via OF-F, to illumination and illuminator; and illuminative perh owes something to F illuminatif, f -ive.

17. ML illūmināre, to illuminate books (sem from the bright initial capital letters affected by medieval scribes), becomes MF enluminer (in OF, to render brilliant, to light up, from the L senses of inlūmināre, a mostly learned var of illūmināre), whence ME enluminen, whence, by aphesis, luminen, duly contr and thinned to late ME limnen, whence 'to limn'; luminen has agent luminer, whence, anl, limner.

18. L lustrum (see para 13) has two int derivatives in il- (for in-, into):

illustris (s illustr-), very luminous, brilliant, hence famous, whence both MF-F illustre and E illustrious; illustrāre, to render very luminous, hence brilliant, hence illustrious, hence, in late ML, a synonym of scribal illūmināre; the pp illustrātus becomes 'to illustrate'; derivative LL illustrātiō, o/s illustrātiōn-, becomes, prob via MF-F, illustration; illustrative is an anl E formation; the LL agent illustrātor is adopted by E.

19. L lucidus (para 8) has int (pel- for per-, thoroughly pellucidus, notably clear: whence pellucid).

Greek

20. Gr leukos, bright, hence white (para 1), has c/f e leuko- (see Elements at leuco-) and s leuk-, which becomes Sci European leuc-, as in leucite, from G Leucit; leucoma, SciL from Gr leukōma—cf the suffix -oma—from leukos; AE leukemia, E leukaemia, SciL cpd of Gr leukos+-emia, Gr -aimia, connoting 'blood'.

21. Akin to Gr leukos is Gr lynx (λύγξ)—a nasal form of lux* (λόξ)—gen lunkos (λύγκος), which, in L trin, yields lynx (gen lynxis), adopted by E: the quadruped was prob so named from the bright colour of its keen and flashing eyes. Cf, phon, OHG-MHG luhs, G Luchs, OE lox, Lith lišis.

light (4), to dismount. See LEVER, para 11.

light (5), to illuminate. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 1.

lighten (1), to brighten. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 2.

lighten (2), to render less heavy. See LEVER, para 10.

lighter, a barge. See LEVER, para 10.

lighting. See the 3rd LIGHT (heading).

lightness=the -ness of light, bright (OE lihtnes), and of light, not heavy.

lightning. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 2, s.f. lights, lungs. See LEVER, para 10, s.f.

ligneous, lignite, lignum. See LEGEND, para 17.

ligula, ligulate. See LICK, para 3.

Liguria, ligurite. See LOVAGE.

like, adj (whence conj, n, prep) and adv (OE gelice, from adj gelic) and v; likely (adj, hence adv); liken; likeness, likewise, liking (n); dislike (v, hence n)—unlike, unlikely, unlikeness.—lich- or lych-gate.

1. The adj like, ME lik, earlier ilik, earliest gelic, derives from OE gelic (int ge-+lic, body), having the same, or a common, body—hence form or shape, hence appearance—as, therefore similar: cf OS gilik, OHG gilih, MHG gelich, G gleich, Go galeiks, MD gelike, D gelijk, ON likr, prob aphetic for the var glīkr. Akin to OE lic, body, are OFris and OS lik, OHG lih, MHG lich, liche, body, G Leiche, corpse, Go leik, body, corpse, MD like, D lijk, ON lik, body. Note also OFris lik, similar, and like, similarly.

2. Likely, akin to OE geliclic but from ON likligr; hence likelihood; liken, ME liknen (cf OFris liknia), from the ME adj lik; likeness, ult from OE gelicnes; likewise, in like wise or manner—cf the n WISE.

3. Liking, OE licung, is the vn of 'to like', ME liken, to please, OE lician, prob aphetic for the var gelician, to please: cf OHG lichēn, to be like, hence to be suitable, hence to please: OE (ge)lician is therefore akin to OE gelic, like, similar. The now only dial like, to compare, make a likeness of, derives from the adj and has been superseded by liken.

4. Alike derives from OE onlic, in (the) like, similar, or, with prefix a- for prefix ge-, from OE gelic; belike, archaic except in dial, prob represents be- for by+like, adj; 'to dislike'=dis-, apart, hence n+like, v; unlikely (adj, hence adv)—whence unlikelyhood—extends unlike, adj, itself merely un-, not+like.

5. Lich- or lych-gate is a usu roofed gateway in which the bier is placed to await the clergyman: lich, the better spelling, derives from OE lic, body.

lilac. See ANILINE.

lilaceous. See LILY.

Lilliputian is the adj (hence n) of Lilliput, Swift's land (Gulliver's Travels, 1726) of tiny people: lil for li', a nursery (and dial) slovening of little+connective -i-+C17-18 put, a (rustic) fellow, app of C, prob W, origin.

lilt, v (hence n), whence the pa lilting, comes from ME liltēn, to sing, or strike up, loudly: o.o.o.: Webster cfs the Nor lilla or lirla, to sing high: ult, prob echoic.

lily, lilaceous.

The latter derives from LL lilīaceus, of a lily, L lilium, OE lilie, E lily: prob (medial l for r) from Gr leirion, which, if its r be leir-, would come (initial l for aspirated r) from Eg hrr-t (-t merely indicating the f gender), as Coptic hrēri, var hlēli, more clearly shows. (Hofmann.)

limaceous, snail-like, is anl formed (cf testaceous) from L limāc-, o/s of limāx, a snail, the Zoo Limax: f.a.e., the 1st LIME.

limb (1), a member of the human body, whence -limbed: ME, from OE, lim, with intrusive b from the 2nd LIMB: cf ON limr, limb, and lim, a tree's 'limb' or branch, and, with different suffix, OE lid, lith, OFris and OS lith, OHG lith, lid, cpd gelid, MHG gelit, G Glied, D gelid, lid, Go lithus: perh ult akin to LIMIT, q.v. in para 1.

limb (2), edge, border; limbate, limbic, limbous, limbus and limbo.

Limb, as used tech, is influenced by F limbe: both from L limbus, border: o.o.o.; but the r being prob lim-, I suspect kinship with L limes, a bordering path or road, hence a boundary, q.v. at LIMIT. Derivative LL limbātus, bordered, yields the Bot and Zoo limbate; the ordinary, though literary, E adj is limbic; limbous is the characteristically E adj of limbo, which sem derives from L in limbo, on the edge, EcclL on the boundary between heaven and hell, cf ML limbi, MF-F 'les limbes', the region inhabited by these intermediate souls. Prob of the adj LIMP.

limber (1), pliant, supple, is app akin to—perh a dial mdfn of—the adj LIMP and, if that be so, akin to the 2nd LIMB.

limber (2), the shaft of a carriage, hence the detachable fore-part of a gun-carriage: prob—? influenced by the 1st LIMB—from F limonière, a wagon with its shafts, from (by f suffix -ière) OF-F limon, a shaft, o.o.o., but, like several other 'carriage' words, prob from C (B & W), although perh from OE-ON lim, branch of tree.

limbers, gutters on each side of a ship's keelson, comes—phon cf limn from ME luminen—from OF-F lumières, lights, ult from L lūmen, light, q.v. at 3rd LIGHT, para 4: sem cf lights as in sky-lights.

limbic. See the 2nd LIMB.

limbo, limbous. See the 2nd LIMB, s.f.

limbus (Bot and Zoo). See the 2nd LIMB.

lime (1), glue, as in birdlime (to catch birds), hence a caustic; hence such cpds as limehouse (whence London's Limehouse)—limelight—limestone; slime, whence slimy; slick, adj and v (whence the AE slicker, oilskin, trickster), and sleek; loam, whence loamy; sep limaceous; liniment; sep delete, deletion; oblivion, oblivious, obliviscence (or -escence); sep polish, polite; sep slip, glide or slide away; slowworm.

1. Lime, orig glue, birdlime, much later a caustic, derives from OE lim: cf OHG-MHG, OS, ON lim, G Leim, glue, birdlime, MD lime and, as in D, lijm; L limus, mud, slime, lino, I smear; Gr leimax, a snail (whence, via L, the E limaceous), leimōn, a moist meadow (whence Min limonite), leimax, id, also a snail, lymnē, a marsh, alinelin, to smear; also, with the IE prefix s-, OSl slina, spittle, OIr sligim, I smear, ON slim, OHG slim, MD-D sljim, mire: basic idea: slime or slimy. The Gmc r is lim-, var laim-; the IE r, leim-, var loim- (Walshe). With 'to lime', from OE liman, cf OS limian, OHG limēn, to glue, to cause to stick, OE geliman, to glue together, L oblīmāre, to cover with mud or slime.

2. Slime derives from OE slīm, with cognates as above; akin to the adj slick (whence slickness), from ME slike, whence also sleek (whence 'to sleek' and sleekness); ME slike, prob deriving from ON slīkr, smooth, is akin to OE slīcian, to smoothe, which, accounting for 'to slick' (make sleek), is itself akin to OHG slichan, MHG slichen, to walk smoothly or with dignity, G schleichen, to slink, MD sliee and, as in D, slijk, mud.

3. Akin to OE līm, glue, is OE lām, ME lam, E loam, a clayey, hence moist, earth: cf G Lehm, loam, clay, LG lēm, MHG leime, OHG leimo, MD liem, leim, leme, (as in D) leem.

4. Akin to OE līm, birdlime, glue, are OE slīw, slēo, a fish (notably slimy), Nor slo, a blindworm, and to the slā- of OE slāwyrn, the blindworm or slowworm (cf WORM).

5. Akin to L limus, mud, mire, slime, is L linere, var linire (s and r lin-), to smear, whence LL lintmentum, something smeared on, whence EF-F and E liniment.

6. L linere has cpd oblinere (prefix ob-), to rub out, to efface: and akin is L obliuisci, ML oblivisci, to have something in one's mind effaced, i.e. to forget, whence obliuō, ML obliuō, o/s obliuōn-, whence, via the acc obliuōnem, the MF-EF oblivion, adopted by E; derivative adj obliuōsus, ML obliuōsus, whence oblivious. Obliuisci has presp obliuiscens, o/s obliuiscent-, ML obliuiscent-, whence the adj obliuiscens, forgetful, whence the n obliviscence.

lime (2), fruit-tree. See LEMON.

lime (3), linden tree. See LINDEN, para 1.

limen. See LIMIT, para 5.

Limerick, nonsense verse, app blends the ideas conveyed by Father Matthew Russell's learic (Edward Lear + lyric) and the refrain 'Will You Come up to Limerick?' (EW.) Perh also contributory is the Limerick hook, an angler's fish-hook first made at Limerick.

Limey. See LEMON, s.f.

liminal, liminary. See para 5 of:

limit (n, v, whence the pa limited, limiting), limitarian, liminary, limitate, limitation, limitless (limit, n + -less, without); lintel; cpds delimit, delimitation—illimitable.—Cognates: limen, liminal, liminary; cpds: eliminant, eliminate, elimination, eliminative, eliminator, eliminatory—oblique (adj, hence n; v), obliquity (whence obliquitous)—preliminary (adj, hence n)—sublimant, sublimate (adj, n, v), sublimation, sublimatory—sublime, sublimity—subliminal.

1. 'To limit' comes, via MF-F limiter, from L limitāre, to set a limes or boundary to: L limes, a road bordering a domain, hence a boundary, hence a limit, has o/s limit-, acc limitem, whence MF-F limite, whence E limit: and limes (r lim-) is prob akin to L limen, threshold, limus (s, r lim-), LL var limis, oblique, and, without a nasal, liquis, oblique; prob akin also to the 1st LIMB (of the body).

2. L limes, o/s limit-, has these additional derivatives affecting E:

limitāris, of or for a boundary, whence E limitary, whence the n limitarian; derivative limitāre, to delimit, to limit, pp limitātus, whence 'to limitate'; subsidiary limitātiō, o/s limitātiōn-, yields MF-F limitation, adopted by E.

3. L limitāre has cpd dēlimitāre, F délimiter, E 'to delimit'; pp dēlimitātus yields 'to delimitate'; subsidiary LL dēlimitātiō, o/s dēlimitātiōn-, yields F and E delimitation. Illimitable, however, merely = limitable (from 'to limit') preceded by il- for in-, not.

4. Limes has dim limitellus, whence, via VL lintellus*, the OF lintel, adopted by E.

5. Prob akin to L limes is L limen (o/s liminis; r lim-), which means both the lintel and the step or threshold of a door affording entry to a house: limen superum, upper 'limit', and limen inferum, lower 'limit'. The L adj is limināris, EF-F liminaire, E liminary; liminal is an E formation.

6. Limen has cpd ēlimināre, to chase from (ē-) the limen or threshold, to expel, (LL) to exclude (a thing), with presp ēliminans, o/s ēliminant-, whence the E adj hence n eliminant; pp ēliminātus leads to 'to eliminate'. The anl formations elimination, eliminator, eliminary owe much to the corresp F derivatives of late MF-F ēliminer (from ēliminare).

7. Derivative postliminium, the right to return to one's country after (post) having left one's threshold, is retained by modern Law.

8. Diplomatic preliminaries derives from syn EF-F prēliminaires, from adj prēliminaire—whence E preliminary, adj—which = prē-, L prae-, before + liminaire (as in para 5).

9. Whereas liminal is a Psy formation from L sub, below + limin-, o/s of limen, threshold, sc 'of consciousness' + adj suffix -al (cf liminal), sublime derives, perh via MF-F, from L sublimis, neu sublime, coming up from below the threshold, rising in the air, hence lofty, hence morally very lofty: either 'that below which is the limen or threshold' or, more prob from limus, oblique, 'that which rises obliquely, that which climbs a steep slope, hence lofty' (E & M): for limus, cf para 1. Derivative sublimitās, o/s sublimitāt-, becomes MF-F sublimité, whence E sublimity; and derivative sublimāre, to elevate, has pp sublimātus, whence the adj and v sublimate. In ML, sublimātus is, in the neu, sublimātum, used as a Chem n, whence the E Chem n sublimate; cf the Chem adj hence n sublimant, from L sublimant-, o/s of sublimans, presp of sublimāre. Derivative LL sublimātū, elevation, exaltation, o/s sublimātiōn-, accounts for sublimation, whence, anl, sublimatory.

10. Akin to L liquis, oblique (as in para 1), is

L obliquus, oblique, hence indirect, whence—prob via MF-F—oblique; the v 'to oblique' comes from F obliquer, from F oblique. Derivative LL obliquitās, o/s obliquitāt-, yields—via MF-F obliquité—obliquity.

limn, limner. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 17.

limonite. See the 1st LIME, para 1.

limousine, a closed motorcar, is adopted from F sense-change from F limousine, a hood orig affected by the Limousins or inhabitants of the old Central French province of Limousin, from Augustorium Lemouicensium, the L name of Limoges, chief town of the region, from L Lemouices, ML Lemovices, a Gallic tribe (perh 'the warriors of Lemos').

limp, adj, unrecorded before 1706, is akin to 'to limp', occurring in ME: both have app MHG cognates and both are related to SLAP.

limpet. See LAMPREY, para 2.

limpid, limpidity. See LYMPH, para 2.

limy: adj of the 1st LIME.

linage. See LINE.

linden was orig the adj of lind, a linden tree, OE lind, var linde: cf OHG linta, MHG-G linde, ON lind, also Ru lipa. Lime, linden tree, dissimilates line* for lind-tree* (Walshe).

2. Lithe, flexible, pliant, (obs) gentle, mild, OE līthe (app for linthe*), is akin to OHG lind, MHG linde, G gelinde, gentle, ON linr, L lentus, flexible, supple, hence soft, lazy, slow, perh an extn of L lēnis, smooth, gentle (cf LENIENCE). The Gmc r is linth* (issuing into lind, lint) and the IE r, lēnt-, extn of lēn- (Walshe); the basic idea is perh 'flexible', as is the bast—cf Ru dial lut, linden bast—of a tree (Webster). Lithe has mdfn lithesome, whence, by thinning, lissom.

3. L lentus has derivative lentāre, to render flexible, to bend, with cpd allentāre, to cause to become slower, to retard, whence OF-EF alenter, var (more usual) alentir, whence EF-F relentir, to slacken; the app much earlier E 'to relent' must owe something to L relentescere, to begin to grow slack, the inch of relentāre*, to bend, or become supple, again. The obs derivative n relent, a relenting, has derivatives relentless and relentment.

line, a thread, string, cord or rope (cf 'fishing line'), hence any of these used in measuring, hence a drawn line, descends from OE line, cord, line, intimately related to and prob derived from OE lin, flax, whence the now rare E line, flax, its fibre, spun flax, linen, linen thread: and is therefore akin to OFris lina, OHG lina, MHG line, G Leine, cord, leash, MD-MLG line, D lijn, L linea, a linen thread, hence string, hence line, itself from L linum, flax, hence any object made from it, esp linen, a thread, a rope, itself akin to Gr linon; whereas prob the ON lina and perh the Go lein come from L, the Sl words (e.g., Ru lin, Lith linas), prob come from Gr; the C words (e.g., OIr lin, OW llin, Ga lion, Cor lin, Br lin, OC linu*) are perh loans from, but more prob cognates of, L linum. Gr linon has derivative linaiā, cord, line—cf L linea, whence OF-F ligne, line, which has much influenced the ME-E senses of the native E line; as linaia was orig the f of adj linaios*, so linea was orig (linea restis) the f of adj lineus. Similarly the known Gr adj lininos has influenced OFris linnen, OHG līnīn, MHG līnen, OE līnen, all orig adj, becoming the modern nn G Leinen and E linen, the E adj linen pursuing a parallel course from OE. The European etymon is prob linom*, r lin-, itself perh an extn of an ult r li-*, ? flax. I suspect the word to be Medit, even though Eg hemā, flax, and meni, linen cloth, be hardly encouraging.

2. Whereas linage, number of amount of lines, derives from E line, linage, descent through a line of progenitors, derives from ME linage, OF-F lignage, from OF ligne (L linea).

3. Several simple L derivatives of linea concern E:

lineālis, MF-F linéal, E lineal; lineāre, to trace a line, whence lineāmentum, EF-F linément, E lineament; lineāris, E linear, with the anl E formations collinear, rectilinear.

4. Lineāre, to trace a line, has pp lineātus, whence the E adj and v lineate; derivative lineātiō, o/s lineātiōn-, becomes lineation. But these two words are much less common than delineate and delineation (whence the anl delineator), from LL dēlineātiō and its source dēlineātus, pp of dēlineāre, to delineate, an int (de-) of lineāre.

5. Lineāre has the further cpd collineāre, to direct in a straight (connoted by col- for con-, together) line, pp collineātus, whence 'to collineate'; derivative collineātiō, o/s collineātiōn-, leads to collineation. Collineāre, by a false reading of its var colliniāre (LL), becomes ML collimāre, with pp collimātus and subsidiary collimātiō, o/s collimātiōn-, whence resp the Astr and Phys 'to collimate' and collimation, whence, anl, the collimator of Optics; both collimation and collimator owe much to F.

6. Not from L but from F comes 'to align', OF-F aligner, to put in (a- for à, to, in) a line (ligne); derivative MF-F alignement results in E alignment.

7. Reverting to L linum, flax, linen, we find another derivative relevant to E: linteus, made of linen, with neu linteum used as n, 'linen cloth', LL linta, ME lynete, lynnet, later, by contr, lynt, whence E lint. But MF-F linotte, whence, because this bird delights in flax seeds, E linnet, is a dim of OF-F lin (L linum), flax.

8. Linum, flax, combines with L oleum, oil, to form linoleum (now often shortened to lino), orig a solidified linseed oil, now a floor-covering partly made with this oil; and linseed itself derives from OE līnsāed, seed of flax: cf OE līn (in para 1 above) + SEED.

9. The E n line has, from one sense or another, the foll derivatives:

'to line', to cover the inner surface of (e.g., a cloak), to form a line; liner, from a line of ships; linesman (railway or telephone lines); lining of garment; c/f lino-, as in linotype.

lineage, descent. See prec, para 2.

lineal. See LINE, para 3.

lineament. See LINE, para 3.

linear. See LINE, para 3.

lineate, lineation. See LINE, para 4.

linen. See LINE, para 1.

liner. See LINE, para 9.

linesman. See LINE, para 9.

ling (1), a fish. See LONG, para 5.

ling (2), a kind of heather, comes from ON lyng, perh akin to OE lōh, a strap, a thong, with basic idea 'to bend' (in the wind?).

linger. See LONG, para 6.

lingerie, adopted from late MF-F, is a late MF derivative (-erie, E -ery) from OF-F linge, a linen garment, from L linea (uestis), f of lineus, made of linen: f.a.e., LINE, para 1.

lingo. See LANGUAGE, para 5.

lingua franca. See FRANK, para 9.

lingual, linguist, linguistic(s). See LANGUAGE, para 3.

lingula, lingulate. See LICK, para 3.

liniment. See the 1st LIME, para 5.

lining of garment. See LINE, para 9.

link (1), of chain. See FLANGE, para 7.—Hence linkage.

link (2), a ridge, a bank: OE hlinc: akin to the 2nd LEAN, q.v. Hence links, a seaside golf-course, from the dunes, hence any golf-course.

link (3), a torch: prob from ML inchinus, var of lichinus, itself from Gr lukhnos, a (portable) lamp, akin to leukos, bright, white: f.a.e., the 3rd LIGHT.—Hence linkboy, linkman.

linkage. See the 1st LINK.

linn, a pool below a waterfall: partly from Ga linne and partly from the syn OE hlynn: cf OIr lind, liquid: ult from the C r li-*, liquid.

Linnaean, AE Linnean, refers to the Bot classification set forth, in his Systema Naturae, 1735, by the Sw naturalist Karl von Linne, 1707–1778, latinized as Linnaeus.

linnet. See LINE, para 7.

linoleum. See LINE, para 8.

linotype=line o(f) type.

linseed. See LINE, para 8.

linsey-woolsey: a rhyming redup (prompted by WOOL) of the earlier linsey, a coarse linen-and-wool cloth made at Lindsey in Suffolk.

lint. See LINE, para 7.

lintel. See LIMIT, para 4.

lion, lioness, lionize. See LEO, para 2.

lip, n, hence adj and v. See the 2nd LAP, para 6.

lipo-words. See Elements.

liquate, liquation. See LIQUEFY, para 2.

liquefacient, liquefaction. See para 5 of:

liquefy; liquescent—cf deliquesce, deliquescent (whence dellquescence); liquid (adj, hence n); liquidate, liquidation, liquidator; liquidity, liquor (n, hence v) and liqueur; liquate, liquation.—obs delay, to allay; prolix, prolixity.

1. L has three interrelated vv: liqui, to flow, liquère, to be clear, to be liquid, to be filtered, liquère, to filter, to clarify, (LL) to melt. As in the fruitful derivatives liquidus and liquor, the r is liqu-, IE r leikw-, var likw-, which seems to be akin to—and perh the passive complement of—the active nasal linkw-*, to leave, abandon, as in L linquere, q.v. at LEND, para 2.

2. Liquère has pp liquidus, whence the 'to liquate' of metallurgy; derivative LL liquātio, o/s liquātion-, yields liqutation, a melting, a fusion. The LL prefix-cpd déliquère, to melt or strain dē- or away, passes through VL to become MF-F délayer, whence the now obs 'to delay', to dilute.

3. Liquère, to be fluid, has simple derivatives:

liquidus, clear, fluid, liquid, MF-F liquide, E liquid; liquor, fluidity, hence also a fluid, a liquid, adopted by E as a reshaping of ME licour, licur, adopted from OF-MF; adopted from F is liqueur ('L liquor'), with specialized sense.

4. Liquidus has LL derivative liquidare, to melt, pp liquidatus, whence 'to liquidate'—whence, anl, liquidation, perh imm from F—and liquidator; derivative L liquiditas, o/s liquiditāt-, yields late MF-F liquidité, whence E liquidity.

5. Liquère combines with facere, to make, to form the cpd liquefacere, MF-F liquefier, E liquefy, whence liquefiable; the presp liquefaciens, o/s liquefacient-, whence the E adj, hence n, liquefacient; the pp liquefactus appears in E liquefactive and in LL liquefactio, o/s liquefactiōn-, whence EF-F liquefaction and E liquefaction.

6. Liquère has inch liquescere, presp liquescens, o/s liquescent-, whence liquescent. The cpd déliquescere, to melt away, to dissolve, explains 'to deliquesce'; its presp déliquescens, o/s déliquescent-, explains déliquescent.

7. The same IE r prob occurs in L lixa, elliptical for lixa aqua, running water, from the adj lixus*, f lixa, attested in L prōlixus, app applied orig to water flowing prō, forward, hence overflowing, but mostly, in LL-ML, to speech that overflows: whence, prob via late OF-F prolix, the E prolix, verbose. The derivative L prōlīxitās, prob via MF-F prolīxtē, becomes prolixity.

liquorice. See LICORICE.

liquorish, lecherous. See LICK (heading).

lira. See LEVEL, para 3.

lisp (v, hence n): ME lispēn: aphetically from OE wlispian, itself from the adj wlisp, lispings, stammering, speaking inarticulately: cf OHG lispān, to stammer, and the MHG-G derivative freq lispeln, to lisp: echoic.

lissom. See LINDEN, para 2, s.f.

list (1), an edge or border, a selvage, OE liste (cf ON lista)—whence, by fusion with OF-MF lice, the lists or enclosing barriers of a medieval tourney, Frankish listia*, OHG lista, a border, the E lists; the modern sense is adopted from F liste, itself borrowed, in C16, from It lista, which, like OF liste, a border, comes from OHG lista, a strip, a border. The OGmc r list- perh contains the occ IE infix -s-: if so, it is prob akin, as Walshe suggests, to L litus, seashore, the 'border' of the ocean.

Hence 'to list', to put a list or border on, to make a list of; hence also the adj list, made of strips of cloth, as in 'list slippers'.

list (2), to hearken. Cf listen, but see LOUD, para 2.

list (3), to wish. See LASCIVIOUS, para 2. Hence, (of a ship) to incline, to lean, whence 'a list'.

listen. See LOUD, para 2.

lit, pp, hence adj. See the 3rd LIGHT.

litany is a reshaping of ME, from OF-EF, letanie: LL litania: Gr litaneia (s and r litan-), a prayer, akin to litaneuein (s litaneu-, r litan-), to pray, with ult r lit-, as in liethai, to pray, and litē, a prayer.

liter. See LEVEL, para 3.

literal. See LETTER, para 3.

literary. See LETTER, para 3.

literate. See LETTER, para 3.

literature. See LETTER, para 4.

litharge, found in silver-bearing ore, is reshaped from ME, from MF, litarge (later litharge): L lithargyros: Gr lithargyros: lithos, a stone+argyros, silver.

lithe. See LINDEN, para 2.

lithia, SciL from Gr lithos, a stone; lithic, Gr lithikos, adj of lithos; lithite and lithium, Sci derivatives from lithos; c/f litho-, see Elements; such cpds as eolith (Gr ēōs, dawn)—megalith (Gr megas, great)—monolith (Gr monos, alone): Gr λίθος, s and r λιθ-, lith-: o.o.o.

Lithuania (-ian). See LETT.

litigant (adj, hence n), litigate, litigation, litigious.

1. The group rests upon L lit-, o/s of lis, a dispute, a lawsuit, OL stilis, perh akin to OE slithe, cruel, hurtful, and, if that be so, certainly to LOATH. The L lis, gen litis, has derivative litigare—perh for litēn agere*, to play a (collective) lawsuit—to dispute at law, with presp litigans, o/s litigant-, whence litigant, and pp litigātus, whence 'to litigate'; derivative LL litigātio, o/s litigātion-, yields litigation. On litig-, the s of litigare, arises litigium, a quarrel, a dispute, with adj litigiōsus, whence, prob via MF-F litigieux, f litigieuse, the E litigious. Cf LOATH.

2. From VL exlitigare*, OF derives esligier, to free from the law, to buy, whence ME aleggen, to advance as evidence, E 'to allege'.

litmus: SciL reshaping of ON litmose, a lichen used for dyeing: litr (silent r), a colour, hence a dye + mosi, E MOSS.

litre. See LEVEL, para 3. litter. See the 2nd LIE, para 12.

littérateur. See LETTER, para 5.

little—belittle; loiter; lout.

1. Little, ME litel, var lutel, derives from OE lytel, perh orig a dim of OE lyr, little, few: cf OS luttil, OHG luzzil, MHG lüzzel, LG lütt, Go leitils, MD lettel, litel, (as in D) luttel, the var OFris littik, and prob the OSI ludŭ, foolish, MfR luta, the little finger, but only very improb the Cor lyth, feeble: Gmc r, lut-, IE r lud-. (Walshe.)

2. Little, preceded by the int be-, gives us 'to belittle', whence belittlement and belittler.

3. OE lyt and lytel are akin to OE lytig, Go liuts, deceitful, OE lot, deceit, lütian, to lurk, themselves perch akin to MD loteren, to be loose, MD-D leuteren, to loiter, late ME loitren, E 'to loiter', whence loiterer and pa, vn loitering.

4. Perh akin to the OGmc words mentioned in para 1 is the now archaic lout, to stoop or bow, OE lütan, ME luten, later louten: and OE lütan is akin to the syn ON lúta, whence (or very closely akin) the ON lútr, stooping, hence lout, a bumpkin, hence any uncouth fellow, whence loutish (-ish, adj).

littoral. See LEVEL, para 6.

liturgic (with extn liturgical), liturgy (whence liturgist: agential -ist).

Liturgic derives from L Gr leitourgikos, the adj of LGr leitourgia, a public service to God, from Gr leiturgia, any public service, LL liturgia, the service of the Mass, EF-F liturgie, E liturgy: lit- is akin to Gr laos, leos, the people, and ourgia to E WORK.

live, adj. See LIFE, para 2.

live, v. See LIFE, para 3.

livelihood; lively. See LIFE, para 1.

livelong. See the 1st LEAVE, para 6.

liven. See LIFE, para 4.

liver. See LIFE, para 5.

liverwort, liverwurst. See LIFE, para 5; for the latter, cf WURST, para 2.

livery, adj. See LIFE (heading).

livery, n. See LIBERAL, para 3.

livid, livor; sloe; doubtfully the sep LAVENDER.

L liuëre, ML livëre, to be lead-coloured, to be livid, has derivatives liuidus, ML lividus, whence, perh via MF-F livide, the E livid, and liuor, ML liuor, adopted by Med. The L liuëre, s liu-, perh has r li-*: cf OIr lí, Ga lí, Cor liu, lyw, W lliw, OC ltvos*, colour, lustre, and OSI sliva, a plum, OHG slēha, MHG slēhe, G Schlehe, a wild plum, a sloe, itself akin to OE slā, ME slo, E sloe.

living, pa and vn of 'to live', q.v. at LIFE, para 3.

livor. See LIVID.

livre. See LEVEL, para 3.

lizard. See LEG, para 2.

llama; Sp llama: Quechuan (SAm) llama.

llanero, llano, llanura. See PLANE, para 8.

llyn: W var of linn.

lol, OE lā, a purely echoic interj, has, in ME (hence in E), been influenced by ME lōke, look!, from the imperative of ME lōken, to look—unless, as is less prob, the reverse be true, viz. that E lo, behold!, represents ME lōke look, because of ME lo, OE lā, 'there!' (cf F la, in oh, la, la! with lā, there).

loach: MF-F loche: o.o.o.: app id with F dial (Western) loche, a slug, and prob deriving, through a C-L laukka*, for Gaul leuka*, from Gr leukos, white (B & W).

load (n, hence v), whence pa loaded and pa, vn loading; lode, lodestar.

1. Much influenced sem by LADE, load, ME lode, load, way, is phon id with lode, which, ME lode, derives from OE lād, a way, hence a journey, via the EE sense 'carriage, conveyance', carrying persons on their way and also carrying loads: OE lād is akin to OE lithan, to go, travel, and to E LEAD (v), as appears in lodestar, a guiding star, cf dial lode, a path, a road; the Min senses of lode, 'a deposit filling a rock-fissure', hence 'a tabular deposit' and the AE sense, all following naturally. Lodestone is more usu spelt loadstone.

loaf, pl loaves; lord (n, hence v), whence lordly—cf lordship; laird, whence lairdly; lady (n, hence adj), whence ladylike; ladybird; Lammass, whence Lammastide (cf TIDE, orig season, time).

1. Loaf, orig bread in general, comes, through ME lof, var laf, from OE hlāf: cf EHG hleib, leib, MHG leip, G Laib, Go hlaifs, ON hleifr, OSI chlěbū (perh from OGmc), bread, and perh L libum, a sacrificial cake, itself o.o.o. Loaf, OE hlāf, is prob Medit: cf Eg hebnen-t and khanf (var khenfu), a sacrificial cake.

2. The o.o.o. loaf, to idle, whence loafer, might come from the generic notion of 'bread the staff of life' and the particular notion of 'a loaf of bread, a flask of wine, and thou beside me in the wilderness—and wilderness were paradise enow'. More prob, however, EW is right in deriving this orig Am word from G dial lofen, G laufen, to run, as in Landläufer, landloper, vagabond.

3. OE hlāf occurs in three cpds important to E, the first being hlāfmaesse, loaf Mass—the feast of the First Fruits—August 1: whence Lammass.

4. The second is hlāfdige, loaf-kneader, cf (for the 2nd element) DAIRY: ME lafdi, later lavede, latest ladi: E lady. A ladybird is a Lady bird, a 'bird' of Our Lady—an example of religious folklore.

5. The third is hlāfweard, loaf-ward or -guardian (cf WARD), soon contr to hlāford; ME laverd, var loverd, latest lord: E lord. OE has the derivative hlāfordscipe, whence E lordship, orig the state or rank of a lord.

6. In Sc, hlāford becomes laird; perh cf (Sc) larde or lard.

loaf, to idle. See prec, para 2.

loam. See the 1st LIME, para 3.

loan. See LEND, para 1.

loath or loth, adj; loathe, v, whence vn loathing and adj loathsome.

'To loathe', to feel disgust or extreme aversion for, derives from OE lāthan, to be hateful, itself from OE lāth, odious, whence ME loth, looth, E loath or loth: and OE lāth is akin to the syn OFris and OS lēth, OHG leid, ON leithr, also OHG leid, pain, G Leid, harm, sorrow; prob cf Gr alitein, to sin, and loigos, disaster. Cf LITIGANT.

lob, pollack, lugworm, (now dial) a heavy (and dull) person, something short and thick and heavy, hence 'to lob', to let fall heavily, throw lazily, whence, as in cricket or lawn tennis, a lobbed ball; hence app loblolly (cf LOLL) and looby, a (heavily) awkward, clumsy person, usu male, and lubber (cf LOOBY and the Sw dial lubber), a clumsy fellow, esp seaman, with adj lubberly and cpd landlubber.

A lob, ult echoic, is akin to and perh imm from MLG lobbe, a plump person or, usu, quadruped, cf Fris lob or lobbe, a short hanging lump, e.g. of fat, and Da lub or lubbe, a pollack.

lobate. See LOBE.

lobby. See LODGE, para 4.

lobe; lobate; cf the element lobato-.

Lobate, having lobes, is a Sci formation from SciL lobus (dim lobulus, E lobule), whence EF-F, hence E, lobe—from Gr lobos, a (small) rounded projection, akin to Gr lepein, to scale. Cf SLEEP.

lobelia: the Sci, esp Bot, suffix -ia tacked onto the Flemish botanist Matthias de Lobel or L'Obel (1538–1616).

loblolly. See LOB.

lobo. See WOLF, para 4.

lobster. See LEG, para 6.

lobule. See LOBE.

local, locale, locality, localize, locate, location, locative, locator; allocate, allocation; collocare, collocation, collocative; dislocate, dislocation, dislocatory.—lieu; lieutenant.

1. L locus (s and r loc-), a place, as in locus classicus, an important, esp the most important, passage ('place' in a book) on a given subject, is o.o.o.—but prob akin to STALL.

2. The derivative adj is LL locālis, whence MF-F, hence E, local, used also as n; also from F local comes E locale. F local has derivatives localiser, whence 'to localize'; localisation, whence localization; locality, although imm from EF-F localité, goes back to LL locālitās (o/s localitāt-), situation.

3. L locus has derivative locāre, to place, with pp locātus, whence 'to locate'; derivative locātiō, o/s locātiōn-, becomes, perh via EF-F, location, and derivative locātor, a contractor, is sense-adapted by E; locative, perh imm from MF-F locatif (orig, legal), is anl with all the other L-named grammatical cases (nominative, vocative, etc.).

4. ML allocāre, lit to place at or to, has pp allocātus, whence 'to allocate'; derivative ML allocātiō, o/s allocātiōn-, leads to allocation; L collocāre, lit to place with, pp collocātus, yields 'to collocate', and derivative collocātiō, o/s collocātiōn-, yields collocation, whence, anl, collocative; ML dislocāre, lit to place apart, pp dislocātus, yields 'to dislocate'; derivative ML dislocātiō, o/s dislocātiōn-, yields dislocation, whence, anl, dislocatory.

5. L locus becomes OF-F lieu, adopted by E in the phrase 'in lieu of'. Derivative MF-F lieutenant, adopted by E, is lit lieu-tenant, one who is 'place-holding'.

6. Cf the sep COUCH.

loch. See LAKE, para 6.

lochla. See the 2nd LIE, para 14.

lock (1), of hair, OE loc, is akin to OFris and OS lokk, OHG-MHG loc, G Locke, MD loke, D lok, ON lokk, and, further off, L luxus (luxus*), dislocated, Gr lugos, a pliant twig, a withe, lugizein, to bend.

2. Akin to OE loc is OE lēac, often contr to lēc, whence E leek: cf OHG louh, MHG louch, G Lauch, MD loke, looc, D look, ON laukr (cf ON lok, weed).—Cf garlic at GAR, para 1.

lock (2), fastening, as for a door, whence locksmith (cf SMITH), lock-up, etc., as well as 'to lock', whence locker; locket.

1. Lock, including that on a canal, derives from OE loc, an enclosure, or that which ensures one i.e. a fastening: cf OFris lok, a lock, a castle, OHG loh, MHG loch, a lock, an enclosure, a hole, G Loch, a hole, ON lok, a fastening, a lock: cf also the vv OE lūcan, OFris lūka, OS and Go -lūkan, OHG lūhan, MHG lūchen, ON lūka, to fasten, to lock: perh ult akin to the 1st LOCK, the two words sharing the basic idea 'to bend, hence to close', as Webster proposes.

2. OE loc, a lock, a latch, is retained or, rather, borrowed by AF, which, passing to late OF, acquires the OF-F dim loquet, a little latch or lock, whence E locket.

loco, A sl for 'crazy', is the ASp sl loco, mad, from ASp loco, that poisonous herb of the Western US and of SAM which AE usu calls locoweed; Sp loco is Port louco, of Araucan (central SAM) origin.

locomotive, adj hence n, is anl formed from locomotion, movement 'from a place', L loco, abl of locus, q.v. at LOCAL.

locoweed. See LOCO.

locum tenens, L for '(one) holding the place' for another: cf lieutenant at LOCAL, para 5.

locus classicus. See LOCAL, para 1.

locus standi. See STAND, para 10.

locust. See LEG, para 5.

location. See LOQUACIOUS, para 1.

lode, lodestar, lodestone. See LOAD.

lodge, n and v, the latter having agent lodger and pa, vn lodging; lodgement; loge and loggia; dislodge, whence, anl, dislodgement;—lobby, n hence v (whence lobbying and lobbyist); cf logistics at LEGEND, para 22.

1. 'To lodge,' ME loggen (pron lodgen), derives from OF-MF logier (whence F loger), itself from OF loge, a leafy bower, an arbour, prob from ML laubia, var lobia, porch or gallery, from the syn OHG louba (MHG loub, id, G Laube, bower, with sense influenced by OHG lob, MHG loup, G Laub, foliage—cf LEAF), prob akin to ON loft (E loft, q.v. at the 2nd LIFT, paras 1, 2); B & W, however, derive OF loge imm from Frankish laubja*, which, they imply, comes from OHG lob, foliage. The IE r is app laubh-* (Walshe).

2. OF-MF logier has the MF-F derivative logement, whence E lodgement, orig a place at which to lodge. OF logier has the OF-MF cpd deslogier, desloger (des-, L dis-, apart), whence 'to dislodge'.

3. Whereas F loge has been partly adopted by E in sense 'stall', esp in a theatre, the It loggia (from OF-F loge) is partly adopted in sense 'a roofed open "porch" forming an almost integral part of a house'.

4. ML lobia (var of laubia, as in para 1) has var lobium; from either lobia or lobium could lobby orig an ecol term (OED), have come.

loess. See LOSE, para 3.

loft (n, hence v), lofty. See the 2nd LIFT, paras 1 and 2.

log. See the 2nd LIE, para 9.

loganberry: found, 1881, by the jurist and skilful gardener J. H. Logan (1841–1928). DAE.

logarithm, logarithmic. See ARITHMETIC, para 2.

loge. See LODGE, para 3.

loggerhead; be at loggerheads. See the 2nd LIE, para 9.

loggia. See LODGE, para 3.

logia. See LEGEND, para 21.

logic, logical, logician. See LEGEND, para 21.

logistic, with extn logistical. See LEGEND, para 22.

logistics. See LEGEND, para 22.

logodaedaly, logograph, logorrhoea. See the element -loger; for the 3rd, cf RHEUM, s.f.

logos. See LEGEND, passim in paras 20–22.

log-rolling; logwood. These AE terms have arisen, the former from a friendly co-operative rolling of logs to a stream, the latter because it is wood imported as logs from WI and CA into the U.S.

loin and sirloin; lumbar and lumbago; numbles and umbles, whence umble (or f/e humble) pie, whence f/e 'to eat humble pie'.

1. Loin, usu in pl, derives from ME loyne, from the MF dial loigne, var of OF-F longe, itself, via VL lumbea*, from L lumbus, usu in pl lumbi: cf the differently vowelized OE lenden, OFris lenden, OS lendin, OHG lentī, MHG-G lende, ON lend: Gmc r, landw-*; L lumbus being perh for lundwus*. (Walshe.)

2. Sirloin, EE surloyn, derives from MF surloigne, lit 'over-loin'.

3. The adj lumbar derives from LL lumbāris*, attested by LL lumbāre (prop the neu of the adj), a loincloth; and lumbago, adopted from L lumbāgō, represents lumb-+āgō, var of the suffix otherwise formed in -īgō and -ūgō.

4. Umbles (whence the rare humbles and the f/e humble pie) is an aphetic var of numbles (var nombles), adopted from MF, where the predominant nomble is a var of OF lomble, var lumble, from LL lumbellus, a small haunch (mostly in cookery), dim of L lumbus.

loiter. See LITTLE, para 3.

Loki. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 5.

loll; Lollard. See LULL, para 2.

lollipop, lolly. The former=lolly+pop (it into your mouth); and the ? orig dial lolly is prob short for loblolly, a thick broth or gruel, app a rhyming redup on LOB.

Lombard, Lombardesque, Lombardy; lumber, (obs) a pawnbroker's shop, hence articles stored in pawn (obs), whence both old, not valuable things stored away, and (smallish) sawn timber, whence lumberjack (Jack, a man), hence, in part, 'to lumber', to heap untidily, to clutter (a room) with.

1. Lombard, n hence adj, is adopted from F, taking it from It Lombardo, a contracted derivative from LL Longobardus (var Langobardus, influenced by OGmc), which EW, in a private letter of mid-January, 1950, suggests is '(The Men of) the Long Axes' (OHG baria, MHG-G Barte), rather than '(of) the Long Beards' (OHG-G bart), which supposes a b-d alternation. Walshe, relating Barte, a broad axe, to Bart, a beard, remarks that 'the axe-blade hangs like a beard (the name of the Langobardi possibly derived from this)'; the Langobardi, mentioned by Tacitus, were orig a N German tribe, noted for their ferocity. The var Longobardi had the ML derivative Longobardia, It Lombardia, F Lombardie, E Lombardy. It Lombardo had adj Lombardesco, whence Lombardesque.

2. E Lombard, in its derivative sense 'banker' or 'moneylender' (famous in medieval and early modern Lombardy), hence a bank or even a pawnshop, soon lost its capital L: and lombard, banker, moneylender, became, by C17, lumber. The history of the sense-related v is obscure, for 'to lumber' is app—though prob only app—considerably earlier than the n.

loment, lomentaceous. See LAVA, para 6.

London (whence Londoner and the obsol Londonese, Cockney speech): Tacitus (A.D. 115–117), Londinium; LL Londinium (predominant), varr Lundinium, Lundinium: app of C origin, OC lond-*, wild, bold, as in OIr lond, wild, Ga lonn, powerful, irascible, perh Br lon, a (wild) beast. Londinium, r Lond-, has s Londin-, perh imm from a PIN Londinos*. (Ekwall.)

lone; lonely. See ONE, para 10.

long, adj (hence n) and adv and v (whence the pa, vn longing); obvious cpds, e.g. longboat, longbow, longhorn, long-lived, longshoreman (for alongshore-man), longspur (a bird with a very long hind-claw), longtail, longways or -wise; along;—longanimity; longitude; elongate, elongation; oblong; prolong, prolongation;—length, lengthen, lengthy;—Lent, Lenten;—ling (fish); linger; lounge (v, hence n), whence lounger and lounging; lunge (n, hence v);—indulge, indulgence, indulgent; purloin, whence purloiner.

1. Long, adv, derives from OE lange, itself from the OE adj lang, which in its var long becomes E: MD (and MHG) lanc, D lang, ON langr (pron thus), and the differently vocalized Mīr long, L longus, long, (prob) Gr lonkhē (λόγχη), a lance (the long weapon), (perh) Skt dirgha, long.—'To long' derives from OE langian, to grow long (potentially tedious; cf OE langsum, tedious), in its presumably derivative impersonal use 'to cause longing or desire in' (Langath thē āwuh, Does it discontent thee at all?—Do you desire anything?); the former certainly derives from OE lang, long.

2. OE lang, long, has cpd andlang, by the side of, against or closely parallel to the length of, where and- is akin to Gr anti, over against; andlang becomes ME anlong, later along, E along. Hence alongside, prep and adv.

3. OE long, lang, vowel-mutates in the cognate

OE lengthu, ME lengthe, E length: cf ON lengd, OFris langhēd, lengethe, and, in general, E strength and strong. Hence lengthen (v suffix -en) and lengthy (adj -y).

4. Akin to OE lang is OE lengten, lencten, the 2nd element, -ten, being akin to the r in DIANA (cf Go sinteins, daily, Lith dienà, day): cf OHG lengzîn, contr to lenzin, with var lenzo, MHG lenze, G Lenz, Spring: 'the lengthening of days'. OE lencten becomes ME lenten, later lente, E Lent; the adj Lenten arose in ME.

5. The ling is a long fish: ME lenge: perh from ON langa.

6. 'To linger' is to be long in moving or departing: a freq of ME lengen, to tarry, from OE lengan, to lengthen, prolong, put off, from the Gmc r of OE lang, long.

Transitional

7. 'To lounge', to move lazily, to stand or sit lazily, is perh a b/f from EF lungis, a tall, slow fellow, from MF longis, a slow fellow, mainly if not wholly from L longus, partly also perh from the Apocryphal-Gospel Longinus or, more prob, the Mystery-Plays Longius, that centurion who pierced the side of Christ, a name prob deriving from, or at the least cognate with, L longus.

8. A lunge, a long-armed thrust or stroke, has EE var longe, aphetic for the obs Fencing term allonge, adopted from MF, from OF-F allonger, to lengthen, from OF-F long, from L longus.

9. 'To purloin' derives, via AF, from OF-EF purloigner, OF-MF purloignier, to retard: pur- (F pour), L prō+loin, far off, L longe (from longus)+inf -er. Orig 'to put far off or away'. purloin develops—quite naturally—the sense 'to put oneself at a distance with, to make off with', hence simply 'to steal'.

Latin

10. Longus has derivative longitūdō (abstract-n suffix -itūdō), whence, perh via EF-F, the E longitude, whence, anl, longitudinal, and the LL cpd (with animus, mind, heart) longanimis, whence LL longanimitās, o/s longanimitāt-, whence OF-F longanimité, whence E longanimity.

11. LL ēlongāre, to lengthen ē- or out, has pp ēlongātus, whence the E adj and v elongate; derivative ēlongātiō (o/s ēlongātiōn-), LL removal, ML a prolonging, lengthening-out, becomes, via OF, elongation; L oblongus, rather long, hence oblong, yields oblong; LL prōlongāre, to lengthen pro- or forward, to prolong, becomes MF prolonguer (F prolonger), whence 'to prolong', and derivative LL prōlongātiō, o/s prōlongātiōn-, yields, via MF-F, prolongation.

12. Prob akin to L longus is L indulgere, to be long-suffering towards, hence to be kind to, hence to be over-kind to (in-)—cf Skt dirgha, Gr dolikhos, OSi długū, long—whence 'to indulge'. The presp indulgens has o/s indulgent-, whence the E adj indulgent; derivative L indulgentia yields MF-F and (perh from F) E indulgence.

longanimity. See ANIMAL, para 6, and cf LONG, para 10.

longitude. See LONG, para 10.

loo (1), the card-game, is short for lanterloo: F lanturlu, contr of lanturelu, from lanturelu, an arbitrary refrain-word in a fashionable song of Richelieu's period (1630's).

loo (2), a water-closet, derives either from F l'eau, the water, cf Sc Gardyloo!, Beware the water! (F gare à l'eau); or, less prob, from OF-F lieu, place, as in lieux d'aisance, a 'lavatory'.

looby. See LOB.

look (v, hence n), whence look-out, good-looker, good-looking, onlooker, overlook, etc., comes through ME lōken from OE lōcian, akin to OS lōcōn, to look, and OHG luogēn, MHG luogen, G lügen, to look out.

loom (1), n, orig a tool, but long predominantly a frame for weaving: ME lome: OE gelōma, utensil, tool: cf OE andlōman, for andgelōman, utensils, and obs D allaam, for andlame* (var antlame*), the and- being akin to Gr anti, over against.

loom (2), to rise and fall, as the sea does, the obs origin of the sense, to come indistinctly into sight, as over the horizon, hence appear impressively or exaggeratedly: o.o.o.: perh (EW) from ON ljōma, to gleam, akin to OE lēoma, a gleam, a ray of light, themselves akin to L lūmen, light, a light: f.a.e., the 3rd LIGHT.—Hence the n loom ('loom of the land above the horizon') and vn looming.

loon (1), a bird, is a var of the syn loom, of Scan origin: cf ON lōmr, itself from echoic lō-, cf the lā- of L lātrāre, to bark. (Holthausen.)

loon (2), Sc for a (worthless) fellow, a lad: Sc varr loun, lown: prob cf MD loen, a stupid fellow.

loony. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 11, at lunaticus.

loop (n, hence v): ME loupe: ? of C origin—cf Elr lūpaim, Ga lūb, Mx loob, bend, fold, loop. The adj is loopy, whence prob the sl loopy, crazy—cf sl 'round the bend'.

loophole=the obs loop, a small (narrow) opening, ME loupe, app from MD lupen, luepen, luipen, to look slyly+HOLE.

loose, loosen, looseness. See LOSE, para 2.

loot (n, hence v, whence looter): Hind lūt: denasalized from Skt luṅṅati, he plunders.

lop (1), to cut branches or leaves from a tree (whence loppings), hence (lop off) to cut the head or the limbs off: rare OE loppian, perh akin to:

lop (2), to hang loosely, whence lop-eared and lopsided, is prob akin to the 1st LAP (a fold)—but perh cf LOB.

lope. See LEAP, para 2.

loppings. See the 1st LOP.

loquacious, loquacity; locution; collocution (whence anl collocutor), colloquial (whence colloquialism), colloquy—elocution (whence elocutionary, elocutionist), eloquence, eloquent—inter- locution, whence, anl, interlocutor, interlocutory—obloquy—prolocutor.

1. The base of all these words is L loqui, to speak, presp loquens, o/s loquent-, pp locūtus, s locūt-, with derivative locūtīō, the act or a manner of speaking, o/s locūtīōn-, whence, prob via MF-F, the E locution.—Loqui has IE r lokʷ-*, o.o.d., but perh akin to Gr laskein (? for lakskein* for lokskein* for lokwein*), to prattle, to speak loudly, to shout; perh (E & M, approving H. Pedersen) akin to C -tluchur in OIr atluchur, I thank, duittluchur, I pray.

2. Loqui has derivative adj loquāx, talkative, o/s loquāc-, whence (F loquace and) E loquacious; derivative loquācītās, o/s loquācītāt-, whence (late MF-F loquacit   and) E loquacity.

Compounds

3. L colloqui, to speak col- (for con-, from cum) with someone, to converse, has pp collocūtus, whence collocūtīō, o/s collocūtīōn-, whence, perh via F, collocation; colloqui has derivative n colloquium, whence colloquy, whence colloquial.

4. Eloqui, to speak  - or out, to declaim, has presp  loquens, o/s  loquent-, whence, prob via MF-F, eloquent; derivative L  loquentia yields, prob via OF-F, eloquence. On the pp  locūtus arises  locūtīō, o/s  locūtīōn-, whence EF-F  locution and E elocution.

5. Interloqui, to interrupt (someone, some persons) in order to speak, has pp interlocūtus, whence both LL interlocūtīō, an interruptive speech, o/s interlocūtīōn-, whence interlocution, and EF-F interlocuteur, prompting the E interlocutor.

6. Obloqui, to speak ob- or against, has LL derivative obloquium, whence obloquy, a censorious speech, hence a bad reputation, disgrace.

7. Pr loqui, to speak pr - or forward, hence openly, has pp pr locūtus, whence the agent pr locutor, adopted by E.

loquat represents the Cantonese pron of Pekin Chinese lu³ ch ³, lit a rush orange.

lord, lordly, lordship. See LOAF, para 5.

lore. See LEARN, para 2.

lorikeet=lory+parrakeet.

loriot. See AUREATE.

lorn. See LOSE.

lorry was orig the Sc and North Country var of Yorkshire and Lancashire lurry, a flat, sideless dray, from dial lurry, to lug, to pull, therefore ult echoic, unless (EW) it be metathetic for earlier rolley, rulley, a coal-mining truck, which rolls along.

lory: Mal l ri (var of n ri).

lose (pt, pp lost), whence agent loser and pa, vn losing; loss and loess; loose, adj hence v, hence also loose-strife (trans of Bot Lysimachia: via L from Gr lusis, a losing+Gr makh , a battle, strife) and loosen, whence pa, vn loosening, and looseness; lorn, as in love-lorn and forlorn.—lyse, lysis, and lytic: cf the cpds analyse (or -lyze), analysis, analyst, analytic—catalyse (-lyze), catalysis, cat- alyst, catalytic—paralyse (-lyze), paralysis, paralytic, cf palsy, n, hence v (whence palsied).—solve, solvable, solvate, solvency, solvent (adj, hence n) and soluble, solute (adj, hence n), solution: cf the cpds absolve, absolvent, and absolute (whence absolutism, absolutist), absolution—dissoluble, dissolve, dissolution, dissolve, dissolvable, dissolvent—insoluble, insolubility, insolvent (whence insolvency)—irresoluble, irresolute, irresolution—resolute, resolution, resolve (v, with pa resolved; hence also n), resolvent.—Cf the suffix -less.

Indo-European

1. 'To lose', ME losien, to lose, earlier to be lost, OE losian, to become lost, to be destroyed (cf OE los, destruction, E loss), is akin to ME leosan, to lose—pp loren, often contr to lorn (retained by E)—from OE l san, to lose, with pp -loren, as in E-ME forlorn, pp of ME forlesen, to wholly lose, from OE forl san (pp forloren); akin to OE l as, OFris l s, OS and OHG l s, G los, Go laus (cf *uslun-*eins, a setting free, a release), ON lauss, free; to L luere, to loose, and lu s, the plague; to Gr luein, to loose, and luisis, a loosing; to Skt lundti, he cuts off, lavis, lavitram, a sickle; and to Hit l iska-, to unloose, app an aug of l t-, to loose. The IE r, clearly, is l -* or leu-* (both with vowels now long, now short), to detach, set free.

Germanic

2. Akin to lose is the adj loose, ME loos, earlier lous, earliest laus, from ON lauss, free, loose: and akin to both is loss (see para 1), sem influenced by 'to lose', phon influenced by lost.

3. OHG l s, free, bare, has derivative l sen, MHG loesen, G l sen, to free, to loosen, whence dial l ss, an unstratified deposit of loam, whence E loess.

Latin

4. L luere, to loose, perh imm from the syn Gr luein, appears, even in L, mostly in the cpd soluere, to detach, set loose or free, where so- is a var of the privative or separative s -; the ML form solvere yields 'to solve', whence solvable. The presp soluens, o/s soluent-, ML solvent-, accounts for solvent, whence solvency; the pp sol tus accounts for solute, and the derivative sol ti , o/s sol ti n-, for solution (prob via OF-F); LL sol bilis (soluere+-i)bilis), for soluble, whence, anl, solubility.

5. Soon apprehended by L as a simple v, soluere promptly acquires its own prefix-cpds, notably absoluere, dissoluere, resoluere. Absoluere—int (connoted by ab-) of soluere—ML absolvere becomes 'to absolve'; the pp absol tus yields the adj, hence n, absolute; the derivative LL absol ti , the act of freeing, esp from sin or blame, o/s absol ti n- yields, via OF-F, absolution.

6. Dissoluere, ML dissolvere, explains 'to dissolve', whence dissolvable; presp dissoluens, o/s dissoluent-, ML dissolvent-, E dissolvent, adj hence n; pp dissol tus, E dissolute, and derivative dissol ti , o/s dissol ti n-, E (perh from OF-F) dissolution; L dissol bilis, E dissoluble.

7. L solūbilis has neg insolūbilis, whence E insoluble; derivative LL insolūbilitās gives us insolubility; formed anl from L in-, not +E solve are insolvable and insolvent.

8. L resolvere, ML resolvere, yields 'to resolve'; ML presp o/s resolvent- yields resolvent; pp resolūtus, E resolute, and derivative resolūtiō, o/s resolūtiōn-, MF-F résolution, E resolution; LL resolūbilis, E resoluble. The negg LL irresolūbilis, irreversible, and LL irresolūtus, incapable of being loosened or untied, prompt the forms of irresoluble and irresolute (whence, perh after EF-F, irresolution), which take their meanings from the E re-words.

Greek

9. Gr luein, to loose, set free, has derivative luisis, a freeing, whence SciL lysis, whence lysin (Chem -in) and, via F -lyser, the c/f e -lyse, -lyze, whence the Chem v lyse. Gr luein has derivative agent luīēs, whence SciL -lytes; derivative adj -lutikos becomes SciL -lyticus, whence F -lytique and E -lytic, whence the Chem lytic. More important to E are the cpds.

10. Gr analuein, to unloose (cf the prefix ana-, on, up), hence to resolve into elements, has derivative n analysis, ML analysis, E analysis; its adj analutikos becomes LL analyticus, EF-F analytique and E analytic. ML analysis becomes EF-F analyse, whence the EF-F v analyser, whence 'to analyse, -lyze'; whence also the late EF-F analyste, E analyst.

11. Gr kataluein, to dissolve (kata-, down, connoting wholly) has derivative katalysis, whence SciL catalysis, whence the anl catalyse, -lyze, catalyst, catalytic.

12. Gr paraluein, to loosen—hence disable—para, at or in the side, has derivative paralysis, whence Med L paralysis, whence E paralysis and OF-F paralysie, whence EF-F paralyser, whence 'to paralyse, -lyze'; derivative Gr paralutikos becomes Med L paralyticus, MF-F paralytique, E paralytic.

13. OF-F paralysie becomes ME parlesie, softening (r to l) to palesie, whence E palsy.

loss. See prec, para 1.

lost. See LOSE (heading).

lot (n, hence v), lottery, lotto; allot, allotment.

1. A counter used in assigning a duty, a reward, etc., hence that which befalls, esp in an auction (e.g. of land), hence a large lot, coll 'a lot': OE hlot, akin to OE hlēotan, to cast lots: cf OFris hlot, OS hlōt, OHG hlōz or lōz, MHG lōz, G Los, Go hlaits, MD lod, lott, (as in D) lot, ON hluti, hlutr, also Lett hļūtas, fate, and perh Hit luzzi (? for lutzi*), 'goods and labor due the state from all . . . not explicitly exempted' (Sturtevant); cf also OHG hlozan, to gain by lot.

2. Akin to those OGmc words is Frankish hlōt or lōt, whence EF-F lot, whence It lotto, a lot, whence the E card-game lotto. It lotto has derivative lotteria, whence E lottery.

3. AF has, in C14, the cpd aloter (cf the EF-F allotir), whence EE 'to alot, allot', the latter retained by E; derivative AF alotement yields, in EE, allotment.

loth. See LOATH.

Lothario, a gay seducer (male), was orig a heartless rake in Nicholas Rowe's The Fair Penitent, 1703: a blending of F Lothaire and It Lotario: f.a.e., LUTHERAN.

lotic, lotion. See LAVA, para 5.

lottery; lotto. See LOT, para 2.

lotus, adopted from L, comes from Gr lōtos a reshaping of H lot.

loud (adj, adv), whence loudness; listen (whence listener, listening) and syn list.—ablaut and umlaut; client, clientèle (AE -ele), cf clio; perh of the sep GLORY (GLORIFY, GLORIOUS, etc.).

1. The adv loud derives from OE hlūde, from the OE adj hlūd, whence ME lud and later loud, the latter retained by E: and OE hlūd is akin to OFris and OS hlūd, OHG hlūt or lūt, MHG lūt, G laut, MD luut, lude, D luid; L inclutus (int in-), Gr klutos, Skt śrūtās, famous; OIr ro-cluineathar, he hears; Arm luay, I have heard. Every one of the adjv was orig the pp of a v 'to hear'—e.g., L -clutus answers to cluere, to be called, and Gr klutos to kluein, to hear, kleiein, to celebrate. (OB slovo, a word, represents prefix s-+r lov-+ending -o.) The IE r is app kleu-*.

2. The archaic list, to hearken, derives from ME listen, var of lusten, from OE hlystan; 'to listen' derives from ME listnen, var lustnen, themselves mdfnn of ME listen, lusten, OE hlystan, itself from OE hlyst, (sense or act of) hearing: cf OS hlust, hearing, OHG hlosēn (very closely akin to OHG hlūsken*, MHG lūschen, G lauschen), ON hlust, ear, hlusta, to listen; cf also Lith klausyti, to hear, and the L and Gr vv noted above.

3. Akin to G laut, loud, is G Laut, a sound, MHG lūt, the latter with var liute (OHG lūti), resonance, voice. G Laut occurs in the rather ambiguously named Ablaut, lit an off (ab-) sound, and Umlaut, lit an about (um-) sound. (Walshe.)

4. L cluere, to be named, hear oneself named, has a differently vowelled cognate: cliens, a dependant as opp a patron, o/s client-, whence, perh via MF(-F) clienti, the E client; derivative EF(-F) clientèle, adopted by E, derives from L clientēla, with suffix -ēla as in sequēla (E sequel). The fact that a dependant is called by the name of his patron overrides, perh, E & M's phon objection.

5. Gr kleiein, to celebrate or tell of and thus render famous, has derivative Kleiō, lit the Proclaimer, hence the Muse of History: L Clio.

lough. See LAKE, para 6.

Louis, louis, Louisa (Louise), Louisiana, lousine; Lewes; Lewis, lewis, lewisite; Lulu, lulu.

1. OHG Hluthawig, lit 'famous warrior', becomes OF Louis, 'rendered fashionable by the Carolingians' (Dauzat) in 751–987. The f Louise becomes—perh of It and Sp Luisa—E Louisa. The coin louis is short for louis d'or, a golden louis, first struck by Louis XIII in 1640. The silken fabric louisine commemorates some manufacturer or dress-designer Louis or some modiste Louise. Louisiana anglicizes F Louisiane, from Louis XIV.

2. Now, the British PN Lewis merely anglicizes F Louis; lewis (var lewisson) the building term prob recalls that early builder who introduced it, whereas the Chem lewisite refers to the A chemist W. Lee Lewis (b. 1878) and Min lewisite refers to the E mineralogist W. J. Lewis (1847–1926).

3. Lulu is a pet-form of Louis and, usu, of Louise (Louisa): hence, prob, the A sl lulu, as in 'It's a lulu' (superlative): perh cf, sem, the sl use of daisy.

lounge. See LONG, para 7.

lour. See the 3rd LOWER.

louse: ME lous: OE lūs (pl lȳs, whence E lice): cf OHG-MHG lūs, G Laus, MD luse, luus, MD-D luis; ON lús; MBr louen, Cor lowen, W lleuen. The word is perh C: cf the C r lou-*, to stink.

lout, n, v. See LITTLE, para 4.

louver (AE) and louvre (cf the Louvre in Paris), in Arch, derive from ME lover, adopted from OF, which has var lovier: OHG lauba (G Laube), q.v. at LODGE, para 4.

lovage. See the 1st LEAVE, para 7.

lovate; Liguria (whence Ligurian), ligurite.

Ligurite=Liguria, where it was first found+the -ite of Min and Geol; L Liguria, a region of N Italy, is named after the L Ligures, an ancient people, pl of Ligus (o/s Ligur-), whence the L adj Ligusticus, neu Ligusticum, whence ligusticum, this specific plant of Liguria, whence the LL corruption leuisticum, ML levisticum, with debased var levistica: OF leuesche, luesche: E lovage.

love (v, n), lovely, lover. See the 1st LEAVE, para 7.

low (1), adj. See the 2nd LIE, para 10.

low (2), to moo, whence the vn lowing: ME lowen: OE hlōwan: cf OHG hluojen and MD loeyen, loeyen, D loeien: clearly echoic.

lower (1), adj. See the 2nd LIE, heading, s.f. lower (2), v, to cause to descend. See the 2nd LIE, heading, s.f. lower (3), v, to frown or look sullen, with var lour; lurk, whence lurker.

1. 'To lower': EE, and still occ, lour: ME lowren, lowren, lūren, to frown, to lurk; MD lueren and (as D) loeren: cf MHG and MLG lūren, G lauern, to lie in wait, to lurk; cf also ON lūra, to slumber.

2. 'To lurk', ME lurken, var lorken, is akin to ME lūren: cf Fris lurken, to shuffle, or sneak, along. Dial var: lurch. Torp cfs L luscus, one-eyed, half-blind, and proposes a Scan lu-*, to watch in the dark, lie in wait, etc.

lowly. See the 2nd LIE, heading, s.f.

lox (AE), smoked salmon: New York City Yiddish spelling of G Lachs, salmon, MHG-OHG lahs: cf OE leax, ON lax, Lith lāšiša (cf Pol losos): Gmc r, lahs-; IE r, lak-, var lok-*, with an -s suffix: 'a word common to the N Sea and Baltic languages' (Walshe).

loxia, Med for wryneck, Zoo (Loxia) for a cross-bill. Cf the (orig, Gr) element loxo-.

loyal, loyalist, loyalty. See LEGAL, para 3.

lozenge: MF losenge (1294 in Her, C14 in Geom): from the shape implied by Gaul lausā*, a stone slab (B & W), and C-L lausiae, stone slabs: for the C origin, cf OIr lia, a stone, and the Gr (? of C origin) laas, Attic var lās, a stone.

lubber. See LOB.

lubric, lubricant, lubricate, lubrication, lubricious, lubricity, lubricous.

L lubricus, slippery, hence LL lascivious, yields E lubricous, with varr lubricious and (via MF-F lubrique) the now rare lubric; derivative LL lubricitās, o/s lubricitāt-, MF-F lubricité, E lubricity; and lubricāre, to render slippery, esp greasy, with presp lubricans, o/s lubricant-, E adj hence n lubricant, and pp lubricātus, E adj and v lubricate, whence, anl, lubricator and, for sense, lubrication (cf LL lubricatiō, a slipping, o/s lubricatiōn-). Ult akin to SLEEVE.

lucency, lucent. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 7.

lucerne, occ lucern, a forage herb, derives from EF-F luzerne: Prov luzerno, with sense transferred from luzerno, a glow-worm, lucerne having shiny grains: OProv luzerna, a lamp: VL lucerna*: L lucerna, (oil-)lamp, from lucēre, to shine: f.a.e., the 3rd LIGHT. (B & W.)

lucid, lucidity. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 8.

Lucifer, so bright before his fall. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 6, and cf the element luci-.

luck, whence luckless and lucky (neg unlucky), derives by aphesis from MD gluc, contr of geluc, var gelucke, cf D geluk and luk: akin to MLG gelucke, MHG gelücke, G Glück: perh of Scan origin—? cf G locken, MHG lucken, OHG lochōn, to entice, itself perh from the syn ON lokka. (Walshe.)

lucrative, lucre; guerdon.

Lucre comes, perh via late MF-F, from L lucrum, gain, profit, akin to OIr lōg, luag, ON laun, OHG lōn (G Lohn), Go laun, OE lēan, reward, and prob to Gr apolauēin, to benefit from: Gmc r, lau-, with extrn laun; IE r, low-* (Walshe).

2. L lucrum has derivative lucrārī, to gain, whence lucrātīuus, profitable, ML lucrātīuus, whence—via MF-F lucratif—E lucrative.

3. OHG lōn has cpd widarlōn (widar, against, cf widdershins), ML widerdonum (L donum, a gift, substituted for lōn): OF-EF guerredon, contr to MF-EF guerdon, adopted by Chaucer in C14.

lucubrate, lucubration, lucubratory. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 10.

Lucy. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 6.

ludicrous, whence, anl, ludicrousity; ludo; victor ludorum;—allude, allusion (whence allusive); collusion, whence collusive; delude, delusion (whence delusive); elude, elusion (whence elusive); rare illude, illusion, whence illusionism, illusionist, anl illusive; interlude, whence interludial; prelude (n, whence preludial, v), prelusion (whence prelusive), prelutory; prolusion, prolutory.—Cf the sep LAY, a song.

1. L lūdus, a game, s and r lūd-, is perh of C origin: cf OIr lōid, a song, MÍr lāidim (r lāid-), I exhort, admonish, with OC r leut-* or lut-*, to be joyous; lūdus perh derives from luidos*. Perh cf also Gr loidoros, insulting, s loidor-, ult r loid-*.

2. ML victor (L uictor) lūdōrum, victor of the games; ludo, played with counters on a board, is L lūdō, I play, intimately akin to lūdus. The primary L adj of lūdus is lūdicer, neu lūdicrum, which, used as n, suggests the subsidiary adj lūdicrus, whence E ludicrous.

3. Lūdere, to play, has many prefix-cpds, the alphabetic first being allūdere, to touch—connoted by al-, ad, to—playfully, play with, jest at, hence to touch jokingly upon, whence ‘to allude’; upon the pp allūsus is formed the LL allūsīō, o/s allūsīōn-, whence, perh via EF-F, allusion.

4. L collūdere, to play con- or together, hence to connive, has pp collūsus, whence collūsīō, o/s collūsīōn-, whence, prob via MF-F, collusion.

5. L dēlūdere, to play deceptively (connoted by dē-) with, to deceive, whence ‘to delude’, has pp dēlūsus, whence dēlūsīō, o/s dēlūsīōn-, whence delusion.

6. L ēlūdere, to play from, parry the blow of, whence ‘to elude’, has pp ēlūsus, whence LL ēlūsīō, o/s ēlūsīōn-, E elusion.

7. L illūdere, to play against, to mock, whence ‘to illude’, has pp illūsus, whence illūsīō, o/s illūsīōn-, whence, prob via OF-F, illusion.

8. LL interlūdere, to play inter or between times, or at intervals, has ML derivative interlūdium, a game between two periods of business, hence something light introduced to relieve heaviness, as in a medieval morality or mystery, ME enterlude, reshaped as E interlude.

9. L praelūdere, to play prae or beforehand, as an introduction, whence ‘to prelude’, has the ML derivative praelūdium, a preliminary entertainment, esp play, whence, perh via EF-F, prelude; on the pp praelūsus arise both praelūsīō, o/s praelūsīōn-, E prelusion, and LL praelūsōrius, E prelutory.

10. L prōlūdere, to play pro- or in advance, to attempt, to prelude, has pp prōlūsus, whence both prōlūsīō, o/s prōlūsīōn-, E prolusion, and LL prōlūsōrius, E prolutory.

11. To offset prelude, Mus has coined postlude—L post, after.

ludo. See prec, para 2.

luff (n, hence v): ME luf, lufe, loofe, windward side: OF lof, some contrivance for altering a ship’s course: MD lōf: perh of Scan origin (? lof*, cf Sw lof).

2. MD lōf (D loef) prob gives rise to aloof: a-, on+loof, the windward side (cf D te loef, to windward).

lug, n and v; luggage, lugsail (whence prob lugger).

Lug, to pull (as by ear or hair), to drag, ME luggen, is of Scan origin, prob Nor and Sw lugga, to pull by the hair, from lugg, forelock, o.o.o., but perh akin to OE lūcan, to pull up weeds, with many OGMc cognates; lug, a flap, an ear, is very closely related to, perhaps even derived from, the v—as luggage and lugsail certainly are. Lugger, a vessel carrying lugsails, perh owes something to felucca, which comes from It feluca, from Sp faluca, perh from Ar fulk, a ship.

lugubrious: L lūgubris, of or for mourning: L lūgēre, to be in mourning: akin to, ? rather from, Gr lugros (s lugr-, r lug-), sad, and—the r-l alternation—Skt rujati, he breaks, Lith lužti, to break; sem base, ‘the violent ritual manifestations of mourning’ (E & M).

lukewarm; lew.

Lukewarm is a senseless elaboration of the now dial luke, lukewarm, and prob distorts the now dial lew, itself from OE hlēow, akin to OE hlēo, a shelter: in a shelter, one is warm; warmth connotes shelter. Luke, ME lew, has perh (EW) been influenced by D leuk, cool, dry, snug.

lull (v, hence n), lullaby; loll (whence pa, vn lolling), Lollard.

1. ‘To lull’, ME lullen, is clearly echoic: cf G lullen, D lullen, lollen, to hum a tune to, to lull, MD lollen, to mumble or mutter, to doze, L lallāre, to sing to sleep (perh for la-la, comforting sounds+-are), and Skt lolati, he moves to and fro, lulita, swinging. Lullaby perh=to lull a child to sleep +a+b’ for baby, but perh=lull+a comforting dissyllable.

2. ME lullen has var lollen, esp in sense ‘to hang loosely, to droop’, whence ‘to loll’. MD lollen, to mumble, has agent lollaerd, a mumbler, esp as pej Lollaerd, a mumbler of prayers and psalms.

lulu. See LOUIS, para 3.

lumbago, lumar. See LOIN, para 3.

lumber (1), n, (a jumble of) miscellaneous articles. See LOMBARD, para 2.

lumber (2), to clutter. See LOMBARD, both heading and para 2.

lumber (3), to walk heavily and clumsily: o.o.o.: prob akin to Fris lomen, to walk slowly and stiffly, to limp, from OFris lom (var lam; cf E LAME), lame; perh influenced by such E words as dial clump, clumper (var clumber), to walk heavily, and prob, in part at least, echoic. Hence the pa lumbering.

luminant, luminary, luminescence, luminous. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 9. lump (n, hence v—including ‘If you don’t like it, you must lump it’, to swallow as a lump, however disagreeable), whence agent lumper and adj lumpy: cf the prob equally echoic obs D lompe, a heavy piece: cf also CLUMP.

lunacy, lunar, lunate, lunatic, lunation, lune, lunette. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 12.

lung. See LEVER, para 12.

lunge. See LONG, para 8.

lupin or lupine, n, and lupine, adj; lupus, whence adj lupous; lobo. See WOLF, para 3.

lurch (1), n, v, a sudden roll, to roll suddenly, to one side, is o.o.o.; a conflation of C18 lee-larch, late C17 lee-latch, it perh derives—orig as a redup?—from OF-F lächer, to let go; form prob influenced by:

lurch (2), to prowl, now only dial, is a var of lurk, q.v. at the 3rd LOWER, para 2.

lure, n and v; allure (v, hence n), whence allurement.

1. 'To lure' derives from EF-F leurrer (MF loirer, loirier), from F leurre, a falconer's bird-like contrivance for recalling hawks, whence the E 'a lure'; and EF-F leurre, late OF-MF loirre (cf OProv loire), derives from Frankish lopr*, bait, lure—cf MHG luoder, G Luder, perh akin to OHG ladôn, MHG-G laden, to summon.

2. EF-F leurrer has cpd aleurrer, alurer—to recall (a hawk), lit 'to bring a (F à, L ad), to, the leurre, lure'—whence late ME aluren, E 'to allure', with derivative n allurement, partly displaced by allure, which, although from 'to allure', was app prompted by F allure, gait, the sem key being 'a seductive gait'. F allure is OF aleure, from aler (F aller), to go, to walk: cf the E alley.

lurid, whence the rare luridity and the normal luridness, derives from L luridus, yellowish, an -idus derivative of lüror (r lür-), a yellowish hue, prob akin to Gr khlōros (r khlōr-), greenish-yellow: cf YELLOW.

lurk, lurker. See the 3rd LOWER, para 2.

luscious, o.o.o., is prob aphetic for delicious, with licious—not unknown among children—altered to luscious, perh under the influence of:

lush, whence prob the sl lush, a drunkard, and certainly lushness. See LAQUID, para 13.

lust. See LASCIVIOUS.

luster, gloss. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 13.—For the rare sense 'lustrum', see LUSTRAL, s.f. lustful. See LASCIVIOUS.

lustral is the L lūstrālis, adj of lūstrum, a five-yearly purification, whence lūstrāre, to purify, pp lūstrātus, whence 'to lustrate'; derivative lūstrātiō, o/s lūstrātiōn-, becomes lustration. The L lūstrum, which is employed by literary E for 'a period of five years' and is occ anglicized as lustre, AE luster, is prob akin to L lauāre, to wash, q.v. at LAVA.

lustre, lustrous. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 13.

lustrum. See LUSTRAL.

lusty. See LASCIVIOUS.

lutanist, lute.

The former derives from ML lutanista, from ML lutana, a lute, itself prob from OProv laut, whence, via MF leüt (F luth), the ME-E lute, a stringed instrument: and OProv laut, like Sp laud, derives from Ar al-'ūd, the (Ar el) piece of wood.—Cf FLUTE.

lute (2), a clay element. See POLLUTE, s.f.

Lutheran is the adj of Martin Luther (1483–1546), the leader of the G Reformation: OHG Chlodochar, Chlothacar, whence Chlothar, whence Hlotar and Hludher, which combine to form late OHG Luther: lit, Illustrious Warrior. Cf Lothario.

lux, L for 'light, brightness'. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 1.

luxate, luxation. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 14.

luxe, luxuriant, luxuriate, luxurious, luxury. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 14.

lycanthropy. See the element lyco-.

lyceum is the Common Noun form of L Lyceum, trln of Gr Lukeion, that gymnasium at Athens where Aristotle lectured: named from the neighbouring Lukeion or temple of Apollo Lukeios, an epithet representing either '(the god) of Lycia' in Asia Minor or 'the wolf(-killer)', from Gr lukos, a wolf—f.a.e., WOLF.

lych-gate. See LIKE, para 5.

lye. See LAVA, para 8.

lying: pa and vn of LIE, paras 1 and 2.

lymph, lymphatic; limpid, limpidity; nubile, whence nubility; nuptial (adj, hence n, esp in pl); connubial;—nymph.

1. The n lymphatic derives from the adj, itself from L lymphaticus, distracted, frantic, (love-)mad, a sense obs in E, the E adj going back to the sense of the source: L lymphā, water, whence EF-F lymphe and E lymph, (poetic and obsol for) water, with that special sense in An and Physio which affects the adj in 'lymphatic ducts and l. system'. L lymphā is perh a LGr reshaping of OL limpa, var of lumpā, a dissimilation of Gr numphē, a goddess of moisture, of springs, etc.

2. OL limpa app acquires the L adj limpidus, water-like, hence as clear as water, whence, prob via late MF-F limpide, the E limpid; derivative LL limpiditās, o/s limpiditāt-, becomes late EF-F limpidité and E limpidity.

3. Gr numphē, goddess of waters, hence a nymph, also a young girl, becomes L nympha, nymph, young woman, bride, whence OF, hence ME, nimphe, E nymph (cf F nymphe), with adj nymphal (cf LL nymphālis, of a spring); the adj nymphæan goes back to Gr numphaios.

4. Gr numphē is akin to Gr nuos, Arm nu (gen nuoy), L nurus, daughter-in-law, Alb nuse, bride. The IE r is app neu-, with s- var sneu-: cf ON snor, OHG snur, G Schnur, Skt snuśā, daughter-in-law. (Hofmann.)

5. The IE neu-* occurs in L nūbere (s nūb-, r nū-), to marry, whence nūbilis, (of a girl) able to marry, whence EF-F and E nubile. The cpd cōnūbium (co- for con-, from cum, with), marriage, has adj cōnūbiālis, later connubiālis, whence E connubial.

6. L nūbere, to marry, has pp nuptus, whence nuptiae (f pl), a wedding, with adj nuptiālis, whence MF-F and E nuptial.

lynch, in 1835 as v (whence the agent lyncher and the pa, vn lynching), derives from lynch law, earlier Lynch law (1811), earliest Lynch's law (1782), 'named after Captain William Lynch (1742–1820), of Pittsylvania County, Virginia, and later of Pendleton District, South Carolina': a compact drawn up in 1760 by Lynch and his neighbours, to enable them to deal summarily, orig not necessarily by hanging, with such lawless characters as were—or seemed to be—beyond the reach of the law. (Mathews.) Another Lynch

(Charles, 1736-96), a Virginian planter and Justice of the Peace, had perhaps something to do with the rapid spread of the term Lynch(s) law. (Webster.)

lynx. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 21.

Lyonnesse, occ Leonnoys, derives from MF Leonois, OF Loenois or Loonois, ML Loonia, app ult from the r of Lothian in Scotland but, in Arthurian legend, applied to a fabled country, lying between Cornwall and the Scilly Isles.

lyre, lyric(al), lyricism, lyrist. See LAUD, para 3. The Aus lyre bird has a lyre-shaped tail.

lyse, lysin, lytic. See LOSE, para 9.

M

ma. See MAMA (heading—cf para 1).

ma'am. Cf madam, madame, at DAME.

Mac in surnames. See FILIAL, para 3.

macabre, adopted from F (1842 as adj), comes from F danse macabre, macabre being a scribal error for EF (danse) Macabré; cf OF Macabré, Macchbaeus, and ML (C15) chorea Macchabeorum, a danse macabre—lit, of the Maccabees, leaders of a Jewish revolt in C2 B.C. The sem association is obscure. (B & W.) macadam, whence macadamize; tarmac.

The word tarmac stands for the trade-name Tarmac, for tar macadam, a bituminous road-binder, hence a road or surface thus treated; macadam derives from the Sc engineer, John L. McAdam (1756–1836), who, c1820, invented the process.

macaroni, whence the C18 fops the Macaronis; macaroon; macaronic.

Tubular macaroni re-spells the It pl maccaroni, dial var of maccheroni, prob (Prati) from the obs It maccare, to break, to break up. Maccheroni has jocular adj maccheronico, applied to verse that intermingles L with other IE languages, either in words only or in entire verse-lines, whence EF-F macaronique; whence E macaronic. Maccheroni has sing maccherone, with dial var maccarone, whence C17–18 E macaron, whence macaroon.

Macassar, as in Macassar oil, whence (to counteract its effects upon chair-backs) anti-macassar, is a var of Makassar, a district and its seaport in the Celebes.

macaw (cf the EF mecou): Port macó: (prob) Tupi macaúba, the macaw palm, for the bird feeds on its fruit: a blend of Arawak macoya (from amaca, a hammock)+Tupi úba, tree. (Webster.) But Dauzat and B & W may be right in saying that the word is African (Bu, to be more precise) and was imported into Brazil by the Portuguese.

mace (1), club. See MATTOCK, s.f.

mace (2), a spice: ME maces, apprehended as pl: MF-F macis: ML macis: scribal error for L macir, the rind of an Indian root: LGr maker (var makeir): 'vox Indica' (Du Cange).

Macedon, Macedonia, Macedonian (adj, hence n), macédoine.

The last, a—usu, culinary—medley, is adopted from F, where it jests upon the diversity of races in Macedonia. Gr Makedōn, a Macedonian, has

adj Makedonios, L Macedonius, E Macedonian; hence Makedonia, L Macedonia.

macerate, maceration. See MASON, para 2.

Machiavellian derives from Niccolò Machiavelli (1469–1527), Italian diplomat, ref the political principles enunciated in Il Principe, The Prince, 1513.

machicolate, machicolation. See MASSACRE, para 2.

machination. See para 2 of:

machine (n, hence adj and v), whence machinery and machinist (imm from EF-F machiniste); machinate, machination, machinator; mechanic, adj (now always in extn mechanical), hence 'a mechanic'—mechanics—mechanism, whence anl mechanistic, mechanize; cf the element mechano— Cf ult MAY (v).

1. Machine, adopted from MF-F, comes, through L māchina, invention, an invention, a machine, a device, a trick, from Gr mēkhanē, or rather from Doric mākhanā, from Gr mēkhos, Dor makhos, means, esp an expedient: akin to the Gmc 'may' words: f.a.e., MAY (v).

2. L māchina has derivative māchināri, to devise, esp to plot, with pp māchinātus, whence 'to machinate'; derivative LL māchinātiō, o/s māchinātiōn-, yields MF-F, whence E, machination; derivative L māchinātor is adopted by E.

3. Gr mēkhanē has adj mēkhanikos, LL mēchanicus, E mechanic; Aristotle's(?) (ta) mēkhanika, (the) mechanical things, becomes E mechanics. Mēkhanē has derivative n mēkhanēma, an engine, whence app the LL mēchanisma, whence E mechanism, and derivative v mēkhanesthai, to invent, to devise, which perh prompted 'to mechanize'.

macintosh. See MACKINTOSH.

mackerel: MF maquerel (later maquereau): ML macarellus: o.o.o.: but cf ML megarus, EIr magar, a small fish, and Ga maghar, a young fish, a shell-fish. Being a spotted fish, it could derive from OC mac*, to strike, to bruise (Malvezin).

mackinaw, a short, heavy coat, is short for Mackinaw coat: CanF mackinac: prob from Mackinac (Michigan), 'where stores were formerly distributed to the Indians': itself short for CanF Michilimackinac; Ojibway (Alg tribe) mitchimakināk, great turtle. (Webster; DAF. Mathews notes that this etym has been contested).

mackintosh, prop but now rarely macintosh, a waterproof cape, invented by an Sc chemist, Charles Macintosh (1766–1843).

macrocosm, great world, opp microcosm, small world: cf the element macro- and the r of COSMETIC (Gr kosmos, world).

macula, maculate. See the 1st MAIL, para 1.

mad, whence 'to madden', whence the pa maddening—madly—madness; maim and mayhem; to mangle.

1. Mad comes from OE gemæd, pp of a lost v from the adj gemād, mad: cf OS gemēd, OHG gimeit, foolish, also Go gamaidans (acc pl), crippled, ON meiða, to hurt, Lith apmaitinti, to wound, Gr mistullein (s mistul-, r mist-), to cut into (small) pieces. IE r, perh mait-, to hew.

2. Go gamaidans is akin to MHG meidenen, to castrate, MHG meidem, a gelding, Go maidjan, to alter, to adulterate, hence also to ME maymen, whence 'to maim', whence 'a maim'; ME maymen is a contr of ME mahaymen, from OF mahaignier (varr mes- and me-), to mutilate, to wound, of Gmc origin—perh the Go words cited here.

3. In Law, the n maim is spelt mayhem; ME maheym; OF mahaing (or me-), from mahaignier.

4. OF mahaignier acquires in AF the freq mahangler, soon contr to mangler, whence 'to mangle', to wound, hence to hack or bruise, repeatedly, whence the pa mangled and the vn mangling.

madam, madame. See DAME.

madder, a herb: ME mader: OE maedere: cf the syn OHG matara, MHG matere, metere, and ON mathra.

made: pt, pp of MAKE.

Madeira. See MATTER, para 3.

Madeleine, Madelon. See MAUDLIN.

mademoiselle. See DAMSEL.

madness. See MAD.

madrepore: F madrepore: It madrepora: It madre, mother (cf MATER heading)+ either It poro, a pore, or Gr pōros, a soft stone—for both, see PORE.

madrigal comes, perh via F, from It madrigale: o.o.o.—perh, for obscure reasons, from LL matricallis (herba), an everlasting, n.

maelstrom. See the 2nd MEAL, para 2.

maenad. See MIND, para 5.

maestro. See MASTER (heading).

maffick is to rejoice publicly and hilariously, as England did upon the relief (1st May 1900) of Mafeking during the Boer War.

magazine, a warehouse or storehouse (e.g., of arms or cartridges), hence, in C18, a 'storehouse' of information or entertainment, esp in a periodical: F magasin: MF magazin: It magazzino: Ar makhāzin, pl of makhzan, storehouse.

Magdalen(e). See MAUDLIN.

mage. See MAGIC.

magenta, the dye (whence the colour), was discovered soon after the battle (1859) of Magenta in Italy.

maggot: ME madok, prob with Maggot, obs pet-form of Margaret, intervening: dim of OE matha, worm, maggot: cf ON mathkr, Go matha, OS matho, OHG mado, MHG-G made (also MD-D), maggot, and Skt mātkuṇa, a bug.

2. Prob from ON mathkr comes ME mathek, maggot, with var mawke, whence the now only Sc and dial mawk, whence mawkish, maggoty, (hence) squeamish, (hence) tending to render squeamish, (esp) nauseatingly sentimental.

magic (adj, n), magician, mage; cf the element magico-.

Mage, a magician, is a gallicism, from L magus, which has adj magicus (after Gr magikos), whence MF-F magicien, whence E magician. The n magic comes from OF magique (prob via LL magica) from L magicē, trln of Gr magikē, elliptical for magikē tekhñē, magical art, magikē being the f of magikos, adj of magos, a magician, a sorcerer, from Magos (pl Magoi), a Magus (L form, with pl Magi) or member of the priestly caste of Media and Persia, from OPER Magu. L magicus, magical, becomes MF-F magique, E magic, now mostly in the extn magical.

magister, magisterial, magistral, magistrand; magistrate, whence magistracy. See MASTER, para 13.

magma. See MAKE, para 3.

Magna Carta or Charta: ML for The Great Charter, signed by King John in 1215: cf (magnitude at) MASTER and CHART.

magnanimity, magnanimous. See ANIMAL, para 6.

magnate. See MASTER, para 5.

magnesia (whence the SciL magnesium) is adopted from ML, which thus reshapes Gr hē Magnēsia lithos, the Magnesian stone: Magnesia, a district in Thessaly.

2. An inhabitant of Magnesia is Gr Magnēs, used as adj in ho Magnēs (lithos) and the var hē Magnētis or Magnētēs (lithos), the magnet, whence L magnes (gen magnetis), OF-hence-ME magnete, E magnet. The true Gr adj of Magnēs, a Magnesian, is Magnētikos, LL magnēticus, EF-F magnétique and E magnetic, whence, anl, magnetism and magnetize.

3. ML magnesia becomes, by metathesis, It manganese, whence F manganèse, E manganese, whence, via the s mangan-, both manganite (Min-ite) and manganic (adj-ic), manganous (adj-ous).

magnet, magnetic, magnetism. See prec, para 2.

magnific, Magnificat, magnification, magnificence, magnificent, magnify, magniloquent; magnitude; magnum, magnum opus. See MASTER, paras 4–6; for magnum opus, cf also OPERA, para 1.

magofer. See WEAVE, para 8.

magpie. See MARGARET, para 1.

maguey. See MESCAL.

Magyar is adopted from Hung: earlier Mogyeri: app a cpd of a derivative from Mansí, a Vogul, an Ostyak+Tu eri, a man.

maharaja, maharani, mahatma. See MASTER, para 2; cf REX, para 35.

mah-jongg (or, loosely, -jong) comes from the Cantonese pron of a Pekinese word meaning 'house sparrow': ? from the noise made by the players.

mahogany: obs WI Sp mahogani: ? Arawakan.

Mahomet, Mahometan. See MOHAMMED.

Mahori. See MAORI.

maid, maiden (whence maidenly), maidenhair, maidenhead, maidenhood.

Maid shortens maiden, ME maiden, earlier meiden, OE maegden: cf OE maegth, OFris maged, megith, OS magath, OHG magad, MHG maget, G Magd (maidservant), Go magaths, answering to OE magu, Go magus, ON mögr, OIr macc, OW map, Cor mâb, mâp, Br mab, Ogam maqva, son (MacLennan). Maidenhair (fern) is named from its delicate fronds; maidenhead is a var of maidenhood, OE maegdenhâd.

maigre. See MEAGER.

mail (1), armour; macula, maculate—immaculate; maquis, maquisard; mascle, whence the adj mascled.

1. Mail, ME maile, earlier maille, OF-F maille, comes from L macula, a spot or blemish, hence, from the spotted coats of certain quadrupeds, the mesh of a net: o.o.o. Derivative maculâre, to spot or blemish, has pp maculâtus, whence the E adj and v maculate; subsidiary LL maculâtiô, o/s maculâtiôn-, yields maculation; E macular=L macula, adopted by An and Med+adj suffix -ar. The LL neg adj immaculâtus, unspotted, unblemished, (hence, fig) unstained, yields immaculate.

2. L macula becomes It macchia, whence, via Corsica, the F makis, now maquis, both being orig pl: these groups of shrubs or bushes form, as it were, spots or blemishes upon the Corsican mountain-slopes (B & W). Hence, in World War II, the F maquisard (suffix -ard), a member of the Resistance: cf, esp, George Millar, Maquis, 1945.

3. Prob from L macula, via ML mascla, var of macla, var of macula, derives AF mascle (F macle), adopted by ME for 'spot' and 'mesh', thence, in late ME-E, (Her) 'lozenge'; the ML, hence OF, -s- app comes from the intervention of OHG masca, mesh.

mail (2), a bag, e.g. a mail-bag, hence letters, hence 'to mail' or send through the post: ME, from OF-MF, male (F malle), a bag or a wallet: Frankish malha*: OHG malha, malaha, wallet, akin to D maal.

mail (3), payment, tribute, tax, obs except in Sc, ME male, OE mâl, tribute, price, derives from ON mâl, an agreement, (orig) speech: cf OE mæil, speech, OS-OHG mahal, meeting-place, speech, Go mathl, meeting-place, esp a market: cf moot at MEET.

2. Hence blackmail, tribute exacted by freebooters in the Border Country: black, because crippling and disheartening. Hence 'to blackmail'.

main. See MAD, paras 3, 4.

main (adj, n). The OE maegen, strength, akin to OHG agan and ON megin, yields both the E n main, with derivative sense 'considerable expanse', whether of land or of sea (as in the Spanish Main), and derivatively the adj main, influenced by ON megn, strong; cf also MAY, v. The n main in card-games prob derives from the adj.

mainmorable. See MANUAL, para 21.

mainor (-our). See MANUAL, para 15.

mainprise (-prize). See MANUAL, para 21.

maintain, maintenance. See MANUAL, para 21, s.f.

maitre d'hotel. See MASTER (heading).

maize: Sp matz: either Haitian Arawak or the very closely related Taino (an extinct Caribbean tribe) mahis or mahiz—as written first (1553) in F—or mayz.

majestic, majesty (cf lèse-majesté, q.v. at LESION). See MASTER, para 11.

majolica, adopted from It, derives from Majolica, early name of Majorca, where the ware was made. Majorca answers to ML major, L maior (see MASTER), the larger, as Minorca to L minor (see MINOR), the smaller.

major, majority; majordomo; majuscule. See MASTER, para 7.

make, to form (whence the n), whence maker and making(s), pt and pp made; such obvious prefix-cpds as remake and unmake; magma; match (n, hence v).

1. 'To make', ME maken, earlier makien, OE macian, is akin to OFris makia, OS makôn, OHG mahhôn, MHG-G machen, MD maicken, maecken, (as in D) maken: the nuances 'make' and 'build' derive from 'to fit together', itself prob from 'to knead' (hence, imm, 'to mould'—hence 'to fashion'): Gmc r ('to fit together'), mak-; IE r ('to knead'), mag-, as in Gr magis, dough, mageus, kneader, and massein (for magsein*), to knead.

2. The sense 'to fit together' is strong in match, a spouse, hence an exact counterpart: ME macche: OE gemaecca: cf OE gemaca, whence the obs make, a spouse, an accepted lover, OS gimako, spouse, OHG gimah, fitting, convenient, ON makr, suitable, and maki, spouse.

3. Akin to Gr massein, to knead, is Gr magma, a thick unguent, form-adopted—via L—and sense-adapted by E Pharmacy and Geol.

malacca. See MALAYAN.

malachite. See MALLOW.

maladdress. See REX, para 9.

maladroït. See REX, para 7.

malady. See HABIT, para 14.

malaise. See EASE, para 2.

malapert. See PERT.

malaprop, whence the adj malapropian and the n malapropism, derives from Mrs Malaprop, maker of felicitous verbal confusions, in Sheridan's The Rivals, 1775. Her own name puns the F mal à propos, badly to the purpose, adopted by E as malapropos, adj, adv, n: mal, L male, badly+d, L ad, to+propos, cf the E proposition.

malaria (whence malarial): adopted from It, for mala aria, bad air. Malarin=malaria+Chem-in.

Malayan is the adj (hence n) of 'a Malay' and of Malaya, the earliest term, recorded first (644 A.D.) as Malayu; Malay owes something to F Malais.

Very closely akin is Malacca, a port and district in Malaya: cf malacca, a Malacca cane.

malcontent (adj, hence n): F: mal, badly + content, pleased.

male (adj, hence n)—mallard—masculine, masculinity; masculate and emasculate, whence, anl, emasculatation and emasculator.

1. Male, OF male (F mâle) for masle for mascle, derives from L masculus, of a or the male, hence the male, a dim adj and n, from mās, a male, o/s mar-: perh akin to MARRY.

2. OF male has the OF-(dial)F derivative malart (suffix -art, cf E -ard), a wild drake: E mallard, the common wild drake or duck.

3. L masculus, n, acquires the LL adj masculus, late OF-F masculin, E masculine; derivative MF-F masculinité prompts E masculinity.

4. L masculus, n, has LL masculātus, whence the rare 'to masculate', to render masculine. The derivative LL cpd ēmasculāre, to deprive of masculinity, has pp ēmasculātus, whence 'to emasculate'; emasculatation is perh after F ēmasculatation, formed anl from ēmasculer.

5. The orig vulgar L masturbāri has pp masturbātus, whence 'to masturbate', whence anl masturbation; derivative L masturbātor is adopted by E. E & M propose a phon and sem distortion of Gr mastropēuin (s mastropēu-, r mastrop-); but is not masturbāri rather a corruption of mās, 'male seed' (semen) + turbāre, to disturb or agitate?

malediction. See DICT, para 7 at maledicere.

malefactor is adopted from L: from male, badly + facere, to make, to do.

malefic, maleficence. See MALICE, para 3.

malevolence, malevolent. See VOLITION, para 2.

malice, malicious; malign (adj, v)—malignant—whence malignance or -ancy—malignity.

1. L malus, bad, wicked, with adv male, OF-F mal, E mal-, as in malcontent and malevolent, app has IE r mel-* alternating with mal-*: cf Av mairya- (r for l), bad, Gr melēos, vain, Lett malīt, to go astray, Lith mēlas, deception, lie, Ir mellaim, I deceive, MIr mell, (a) sin, OIr maldacht, malediction.

2. L malus has derivative malitia, mischievous evil, OF-F malice, adopted by E; derivative L malitiōsus becomes OF-MF malicius (EF-F malicieux), whence E malicious.

3. L malus has c/f malit-, as in malignus (opp benignus, E benign), for malignos*, -gnos being prob the gno- of OL gnōscere (L nōscere), to know + nom ending -s. Malignus becomes OF-MF maligne (EF-F malin, f maligne), whence E malign; derivative LL malignāre, to render evil, ML to harm, to malign, becomes OF-MF malignier, whence 'to malign', the LL presp malignans, used as adj 'evil-hearted', o/s malignant-, yielding E malignant, whence, anl, malignancy; derivative L malignitās becomes OF-F malignité, whence malignity.

4. The L adv male occurs in many words sense-deducible from their 2nd element: as, e.g., malefic (cf late MF-F maléfique), maleficence, (an) evil-working, and malevolent, malevolence, (an) evil-wishing (cf VOLITION; contrast benevolent).

malinger, whence agent malingerer and pa, vn malinering, derives from EF-F malingre, sick or sickly, weak, o.o.o.: perh (Webster) OF mal, badly + OF heingre, lean, emaciated, or OF-F malade, ill + heingre; or (B & W) malade + OF mingre, ailing, the latter perh blending OF-F maigre, thin, emaciated, and heingre, var haingre, itself o.o.o., although prob of Gmc origin; heingre, however, is far more prob (DAF) akin to OE hungriġ, OFris hungerich, hungry, and OE hungor, OFris hunger, OHG hungar (MHG-G hungere), ON hungur, hunger. Improb is the derivation (EP) of malinger from VL or ML malingere*, to introduce, or apply, or force oneself evilly (upon someone), hence to malinger. malison. Cf malediction but see DICT, para 7 (at maledicere).

malkin and grimalkin; merkin; Matilda and Maud.

Grimalkin is an alteration of graymalkin, a grey (she-)cat; malkin, occ mawkin, is a dim (cf the suffix -kin) of Maud, from OF Mahaut, of the same Gmc origin as Matilda, from F Mathilde, from OHG Machthilt, 'Mighty Battle Maid': OHG maht (G Macht), power + OHG hiltia, battle + 'girl' or 'woman' understood. App from malkin comes merkin, false pubic hair (of the female): cf, sem, the obsol sl pussy.

mall or maul, a heavy club or hammer, hence 'to maul', to treat roughly and injuriously; malleable—malleate, malleation; mallet; malleus (whence malleal);—pall-mall, whence, from being sited upon an old pall-mall alley, Pall Mall in London.—Perh ult of the 2nd MARCH and the 2nd MEAL.

1. The obs game of pall-mall (wooden ball and mallet) derives from EF palemail, from It pallamaglio: palla, ball (cf the spherical BALL) + maglio, a mallet, from L malleus, mallet, hammer, s malle-, r mal(l)-, perh akin to OSI mlatū, hammer, and perh, ult, of C origin, Malvezin proposing OL macleus*, from OC mac-*, to strike.

2. L malleus, retained by An and Zoo, becomes OF-F mail, whence ME malle, E mall, mostly n, and its var maul, now mostly as v. OF-F mail has early MF-F dim maillet, whence E mallet.

3. L malleus has derivative malleāre*, to hammer, with real pp-used-as-adj malleātus, whence 'to malleate'; subsidiary ML malleātiō, o/s malleātiōn-, yields malleation. From L malleus, erudite EF coined malleable, whence E malleable; derivative F malleabilité prompted E malleability.

mallard. See MALE, para 2.

malleable; malleation. See MALL, para 3.

mallee, a eucalypt shrub, esp a thicket or brushwood of these shrubs: an Aus aboriginal word.

mallet. See MALL, para 2.

malleus. See MALL, para 1.

mallow: ME malwe: OE mealwe: ML malva (whence E malvaceous): L malua, akin perh to Gr malakos, soft, and prob to Gr malakhē, a mallow, whence, from the colour of the leaves, malakhitēs, var molokhītēs, app malachite, whence, via L, the OF melochite, E malachite. Gr malakhē is very prob a Medit word.

malm. See the 2nd MEAL, para 3.

malodorous: mal-, badly+odorous (f.a.e., ODIUM).

malpractice: mal-, from L malus, bad, evil+PRACTICE.

malt, maltose. See MELT, para 3.

Malta, whence Maltese (adj, hence n), derives, by contr, from L Mellta, earlier Mellte, from Gr Mellitē (adj Mellitatos), which, the Phoenicians having colonized the island c1000 B.C., is prob Phoen: cf the Ar name Māliṭah. The tri-consonantal r M-L-T app either means 'place of refuge' or stands for Malta's ethnic deity.

maltreat, whence maltreatment. See TRACT, para 9.

malvaceous. See MALLOW.

malus. See MELON, para 4.

mama or mamma (mother), whence the nursery mummy and, via the nursery var mummy, the nursery and coll mum; ma, prob from mama; AE momma (orig an illit var of mamma), whence AE mom.—L mamma, the female breast, adopted by An and Zoo; mammal, adj hence n—cf Zoo Mammalia; mammary; mammilla, mammillary.

1. The safest starting-point is afforded by L mamma, primarily a woman's breast, hence a young child's name for its mother: hence the E mamma, mother (esp as voc), often in var mama, influenced perh by F aman and prob by Sp mamá and certainly, as a linguistic var, by the long-vowelled, one-m'd Sl cognates. L mamma is very closely akin to and perh derived from Gr mamma (μάμμα), var, ? orig the voc, of mammē (μάμη). Cf also Alb mēmē and—in C—Ir, Cor, Br am, mother, Mlr mamm, breast, EIr mumme, Ga mulime, wet-nurse. Gr mammē, mamma, is prob a redup: cf the Gr mata (μαῖα), voc ma (μαῖ). That all the ancient dissyllabic 'breast-mother' words are redupp seems prob in the light of Skt mā, mother, and in that of languages other than IE; the basic mā, which has var mē or mē, represents that most fundamental of all sounds, the cry or murmur of a babe for the breast. It seems not unlikely that this ma or me occurs in the Eg menṭi, the two female breasts, and in the syn Eg mest-t, breast, which vividly points to syn Gr mazos (cf Amazon): cf the Bu éme (approx) and the Aus aboriginal—? orig a dissimilation—namma, breast. Perh cf the ma- of MATER, q.v.

2. L mamma, breast, has derivative adj LL mammālis, whence mammal; mammary=mamma+adj suffix -ary. L mamma has dim mammilla (better mamilla), a nipple, adopted by An; the derivative adj manillāris, inferior mammillāris, yields E mammillary. The Sci adj mammate, having breasts, was suggested by LL mammātus, pp of mammāre, to give suck, to suck.

mamba, a deadly Afr snake, derives from Zulu im-amba (for in-amba): cf the Swahili mamba, a crocodile.

mamma, mother. See MAMA.

mammal, mammary, mammate, mammilla, mammillary. See MAMA, para 2. mammon: LL mammōna, orig manimōnas, both occ with one medial m: Gr mamōnas (μαμωνᾶς): from Aram, prob orig Punic, māmōna, riches: the sense (M-) 'demon of riches' occurs in LL. (Souter.)

mammoth (n, hence adj): Ru mammot, varr mamot, mamant: Ostyak manut.

mammy. See MAMA (heading).

man, n, comes straight from OE (cf 'to man'—OE mannian—from the OE n), which has varr mann, manna, and mon, monn: cf OFris mann, monn (cf the Sc mon), OS-OHG (and MHG) man, G Mann, Go manna (cf the tribal deity Mannus in Tacitus's Germania, 98 A.D.), ON mathr, for manthr*, itself for manr*: cf also Skt mānuś, a person, and the Indian god Manu—and, for a vowel-changing form, OHG mannisco, var menisco, MHG mensche, G Mensch, a human being, a person. IE r, perh ghmon-*: cf L homō. The very attractive theory that man derives from the IE r of Skt man-, to think, Gr menos, mind, spirit, L mens, mind, E mind, is now discredited; it may yet be proved correct. (Walshe.)

2. Manhood certainly=man+abstract -hood; mankind prob=man+kind (kin), but it owes something to OE mancynn; as manlike=man+like, so manly (whence manliness)=man+ly; manikin, var mannikin, derives from obs D manneken (MD mannekijn, whence EF-F mannequin, orig a figurine—cf D mannetje); mannish prob=man+euphonic -n+-ish (adj), but owes something to OE men(n)isc (cf Go mannisk, ON mennskr), human.

3. To unman=un-, not (as used in vv)+man; unmanly=un+manly. Superman (G. B. Shaw, 1903), which formally = L super-, beyond, superior to+man, translates Nietzsche's (earlier Goethe's, and even C16) Übermensch, an 'over', hence vastly superior, person (usu apprehended as a male), an 'overman': cf the F translations super-homme, 1893, and surhomme, 1898: Nietzsche's relevant work, Zarathustra, appeared in 1883–85.

4. 'To manhandle', to treat roughly, orig 'to move by one's own, or by other, human force', is lit 'to handle as a man (not a machine) does'.

mana, the Polynesians' non-physical immanent controlling power of the universe, is a Poly word, which I suspect to be akin to Skt man-, to think, mānas-, sense, meaning (cf MIND), and to have been introduced by ancient traders from India.

manacle. See MANUAL, para 3.

manage, management, manager. See MANUAL, para 5.

manatee: Sp manati: Cariban, with cognates in other Caribbean languages.

Manchester: ME Manchestre: Domesday Book Mamecestre, which=LL Manucium (from Old British Mamucion)+OE ceaster (cf CASTLE). From the ML form Mancunium, comes the adj hence n Mancunian.

Manchu (adj, n), whence Manchuria (whence adj, hence n, Manchurian), is a modern name, app derived from the Tatar name Niu-chi (or Jurchin), the Tatar people that overran N China in C12.

mancipate, mancipation, mancipatory, mancipium. See MANUAL, para 8. For the 1st, see also CAPABILITY, para 8.

Mancunian. See MANCHESTER.

mandamus. See MANUAL, para 9.

mandarin, a higher Ch bureaucrat, hence Mandarin, the Ch spoken by court and officials, derives, via Sp mandarín, from Port Mandarim: Mal mantri, a minister of state, borrowed from Hind: Skt mantrin, an adviser or counsellor: Skt mantra, advice, counsel: Skt man-, to think, as in mányate, he thinks: f.a.e., MIND. Hence mandarin, elliptical for m. orange.

mandatary, mandate, mandative, mandatory. See MANUAL, para 9.

mandible, whence mandibular. See MANGE, para 5.

mandioc. See MANIOC.

mandolin; bandore.

Mandolin derives, via F mandoline, from It mandolino, dim of mandola, a violent metathesis of LL pandórium, var of pandúrium, itself an -ium derivative of LL pandúra, whence, via Port bandurra (? rather Sp bandurria), the E bandore; the var pandore, adopted from F, reflects pandora, the It shape of LL pandúra; the It var pandura also occurs in Mus. In all these terms, there are an ancient stringed instrument and a modern one (mandolin or 'mandolin-type'); cf the orig AE banjo (1774), either the Negro slaves' attempt at E and F bandore, or, as Mathews holds, a Negro slaves' importation of a genuinely Afr word, adopted by Europe, mostly from the WI, c1840. LL pandúra represents LGr pandoura, a three-stringed guitar: o.o.o.: perh Medit.

mandragora, mandrake.

The latter comes, through ME mandrage, earlier mandragore (? influenced by MF), from OE mandragora (surviving in E): L, from Gr, mandragoras: perh from a physician Mandragoras (Hofmann). The late ME mandrake is f/e (man+drake), because of the large forked root's supposed resemblance to the forked human.

mandrill, a large WAfr baboon, f/e cpds E man + E drill, a (smaller) WAfr baboon: EF-F sl drille, a vagabond soldier, often 'in rags': MF drille, a rag: OF druille*, from OF druillier*, to tear into rags: perh via syn OBr druilla: OHG durchilôn, to tear (into pieces, into rags): from OHG durah (MHG durh, G durch), through, prob via OHG durhil, durkil, MHG durkel, honey-combed; prob cf, ult, Gr tróglē, a hole, with IE r trog-, var trug-. (B & W; Walshe.) manducate, manducation, manducatory. See MANGE, para 4.

mane (whence, e.g., long-maned): OE manu: cf OFris mana, mona, OHG mana, MHG mane (pl mene), G Mahne, MD mane, maen, D maan, ON môn—OIr mong, hair, muin, nape of neck, Cor mong, Ga mong, muing, mane—L monile, necklace (cf OIr muinél, nape)—Doric Gr mannos, necklace—Skt mányā, nape. Prob of C origin (Gaul, say both E & M and Hofmann); with IE etymon monī*—for the mon-* var, cf the Gr monnos, OSI monisto, necklace.

manes, spirits of the dead. See MATURE, para 2.

manceuver (AE). See MANUAL, para 14.

manganese, manganic, manganite, manganous. See MAGNESIA, para 3.

mange, a skin disease, whence the adj mangy; manger (for horses' fodder);—manducate, manducation, manducatory; mandible, whence, anl, the adj mandibular;—munch (v, hence n).

1. Munch, ME monchen, manchen, perh partly from MF manger (OF mangier, to eat), is basically echoic; in its mod form, it prob blends the obs E mange or the F manger, to eat, with crunch.

2. E mange, ME manjewe, derives from OF manjue or mangeue, an eating, hence an itching, from OF manjuer, OF-MF mangier (MF-F manger), to eat, from L mandūcāre, to eat (orig, popular L), to chew, from the n mandūcus, a glutton, from mandere, (of animals) to chew, hence (of persons) to eat greedily: perh (E & M) akin to several Gr words (ss math-, mus-, mast-) for 'jaw', 'mouth', 'to chew', and to MW-W mant, jaw.

3. L mandūcāre has derivative VL mandūcātoria* (cf the LL mandūcātor, eater), whence OF-MF maingeuire (F mangeoire), whence E manger.

4. L mandūcāre has pp mandūcātus, whence 'to manducate'; derivative LL mandūcātīō, o/s mandūcātīōn-, yields manducation, whence, anl, manducatory.

5. And L mandere has derivative mandibulum (suffix -ibulum, cf the -abulum of stibulum from stare), whence LL mandibula, EF-F mandibule, but MF hence E mandible.

manger. See prec, para 3.

mangle (1), a domestic machine; mangonel, a complicated medieval stone-throwing machine.

The latter, adopted from OF-MF, comes from ML mangonum (military sense), from LL manganum, a mechanism, trln of Gr manganon; the former, from D mangel, from mangelen, to mangle, from MD mange, a mangle, but also a mangonel, ult from Gr manganon. Gr manganon, the military machine, a pulley-axis, orig a means of bewitchment or deception, is an extn of the Gr r mang-, a deception, to deceive, by means of beauty: cf Skt mañjus, extn mañjulās, beautiful, very attractive, mangalam, good luck, Tokh A mañk, a sinner, guilt, OP manga, a whore, MR meng, deceit: IE r, mang-* or meng-*, to charm, to deceive. (Hofmann.) mangle (2), the mangrove; mangrove.

The former, adopted from Sp, comes from Taino (extinct Caribbean language) mangle, the tropical, maritime shrub or tree we call a mangrove, which=this mangle+E grove: f/e, prompted by the fact that mangroves grow in groves or groups.

mangle (3), to hack severely. See MAD, para 4.

mango; mangosteen.

The latter, an EI tropical fruit, comes from Mal mangustan, app an extn or a cpd of Mal maṅga (from Tamil mān-kāy), whence, via Port manga, the E mango, likewise a tropical fruit.

mangonel. See the 1st MANGLE.

mangosteen. See MANGO.

mangrove. See the 2nd MANGLE. mangy. See MANGE (heading).

manhandle. See MAN, para 4.

manhood. See MAN, para 2.

mania; maniac; manic. See MIND, para 3.

manicate. See MANUAL, para 4.

manicure, manicurist. See MANUAL, para 10.

manifest (adj, n, v), manifestation, manifesto. See MANUAL, para 11.

manifold: OE manigfeald: see MANY and FOLD.

manihot. See MANIOC.

manikin. See MAN, para 2.

Manila, occ Manilla, capital and principal city of the Philippine Islands, whence its application to cigars, envelopes, grass, hemp, etc.: Tagalog (orig a Mal race) manilad, place of nilads—white blossoming shrubs growing profusely around Manila bay. (Ency Brit.)

manioc, cassava: EF-F: Tupi manioca. Cf Oyampi (NW Brazil) manihoc, the plant, whence, via EF, manihot, and Tupi mandioca or mandihoca, the root, whence, via Port and Sp, mandioc.

maniple, manipular. See MANUAL, para 12.

manipulate, manipulation, manipulative, manipulator. See MANUAL, para 13.

mankind; manly. See MAN, para 2.

manna: LL manna: LGr τὸ δάμμα (manna): Aram mannā: H mān, What is this?

mannequin, adopted from F. See MAN, para 2.

manner, mannered, mannerism, mannerly. See MANUAL, para 6.

mannish. See MAN, para 2.

manoeuvre. See MANUAL, para 14.

manor (whence manorial), manse and mansion; menage, menagerie, menial.—Cpds: immanent (whence immanence, -cy); permanence (var -cy), permanent (whence 'perm')—cf pearmain; remain (n, v), remainder—remanent (whence remanence), remnant (adj, n).

1. The structure rests upon L manēre (s manē-, r man-), to rest, to remain, hence to dwell: cf Arm mnam, I remain, Gr menein (s and r, men-), Av man-, Per māndan, to remain, and perh Tokh A māsk- (? for mānsk*-), to be, and also OIr mendat, a residence, Ga mainne, a delay: IE r, men*-, to remain.

2. L manēre becomes OF-MF manoir, to stay, to dwell, whence OF-F manoir, a village, a habitation (esp the most important one in a village: the manor house): ME maner: E manor.

3. L manēre has pp mansus, whence ML syn nn mansa, -sus, -sum, a farm, whence E manse, a farmhouse, hence any homestead, hence, in Scotland, a minister's house; whence also mansiō (o/s mansiōn-), a staying, a residing, a residence, whence OF-MF, hence E, mansion, now a rather grand house.

4. L mansiō, o/s mansiōn-, has derivative ML adj mansiōnāticus, of or for a house(hold), whence, via a VL n mansiōnāticum*, the OF-MF maisnage, EF-F ménage, a household, partly adopted by E; its EF-F derivative ménagerie, administration of a household, hence a place where domestic animals are cared for, hence, in the 1670's, the modern F sense, whence E menagerie.

5. The E adj (hence n) menial, ME meyneal, derives from ME meinie, which, with its modern var meiny, is preserved as an hist term meaning 'body of feudal retainers or household': OF meisniée, maisniée, varr of maisnie (ME mayne): VL mansiōnāta*, from L mansiōn-.

Compounds

6. LL immanēre, to remain in (im- for in-) its own place, to remain in, has presp immanens, o/s immanent-, whence the E adj immanent, applied esp to the indwelling spirit.

7. L permanēre, to remain per or throughout, hence to the end, hence to last, has presp permanens o/s permanent-, whence the OF-F, thence E, adj permanent (hence as n); derivative ML permanentia yields OF-F, whence E, permanence.

8. L permanēre has the VL var permanere*, whence OF-MF parmaindre, to last, whence OF-MF parmain, permain, a long-keeping apple, whence late ME permayn(e), parmain, parmayn(e), etc.: E pearmain. Thus EW, who, in 1921, exploded the derivation from VL parmanus, of Parma in Italy.

9. L remanēre, to stay re- or back, to remain, becomes OF-MF remaindre (esp il reaint, he remains), whence 'to remain'; the derivative MF n remain is adopted by E, but now always in pl remains. OF-MF remaindre, used as n, becomes E remainder, whence 'to remainder'. L remanēre has presp remanens, o/s remanent-, whence the E adj remanent, whence remanence (-cy); and OF-MF remaindre, var remanoir, has presp remanant, remanant, used also as OF-MF n, whence, resp, the E adj and n remnant.

manse; mansion. See prec, para 3. manslaughter, which = MAN + slaughter (q.v. at SLAY), anglicizes homicide.

mansuetude. See MANUAL, para 16.

manta; mantel (whence mantelpiece) and mantle (n, hence v—whence mantling); mantelet and mantilla; mantua.

1. Sp manta, a horse-cloth, a cape, hence in Zoo, derives from VL manta*, from LL mantum (C7) or LL mantus (early C4), a mantle; one or other of these two forms must have existed in L, for L has the obvious dim mantellum, used by Plautus, c200 B.C., for a veil or a covering, and soon thereafter current for a cloak, a mantle: o.o.o.: Isidore of Seville (early in C7) postulated a Sp origin: it is, in fact, prob Basque—cf Basque mantar (manthar), a chemise, a plaster (which covers).

2. Mantel and mantle are sem divisions of one word (cf manteau, a cloak, and manteau de cheminée, a mantelpiece): ME mantel (var mentel from OE mentel, from L): OF-MF mantel (F manteau), a cloak: L mantellum.

3. Whereas OF mantel has the OF-F dim mantelet, adopted by E, Sp mantia has dim mantilla, adopted by E.

4. The old mantua, a loose-bodied robe, confuses F manteau and E mantua, a C17 fabric made at Mantua (Italy).

mantis, esp in 'the praying mantis', is SciL from Gr μάγντις, a prophet, s mant-, r man-: cf Skt mūnis, a seer, and perh ult Skt mátis, L mens, mind. The cognate Gr manteia, prophecy, occurs in many E -mancy cpds, e.g. necromancy.

mantle, mantling. See MANTA, para 2.

mantua. See MANTA, para 4.

manual, manus.—Simple derivatives: manacle (n, hence v); manage, whence manageable, management, manager (whence managerial); manicate; manner, whence mannered, mannerism, mannerist, mannerly.—Man- (main-), mani-, manu- cpds: mancipate, manicipation, manicipatory; emancipate, emancipation, emancipator, emancipatory.—Sep: LEGERDEMAIN.—mandamus, mandatory, mandate, mandative, mandatory—cf Maundy Thursday; manicure (n, hence v), whence manicurist; manifest (adj, n, v), manifestation (whence, anl, manifestative, often contr to manifestive), manifesto; maniple, manipular, manipulation (whence, by b/f, manipulate), whence, anl, manipulative and manipulator; manoeuvre (n, v) and AE maneuver—cf mainor or mainour; mansuetude—cf mastiff; manubrium; manufactory, manufacture, manufacturer—sep at FACT, para 3, s.f.; manumission (whence manumissive), manumit; manure (n, v); manuscript (adj, n), whence manuscriptal; mainmorable—mainprise—maintain, maintenance.—Mand- cpds: command (v, hence n), commandant, commander, commandery, commandment, commando—cf commandeer; demand (n, v), whence demander, demanding;—commend (v, hence n), commendatory, commendation, commendatory—recommend, recommendation, recommendatory.

1. The adj manual comes from L manuālis, an -ālis derivative from manus, gen manūs (s and r, man-), the hand, of Italic origin (Umbrian and Oscan), with Gmc cognates—cf OE mund, OHG-MHG munt, ON mund, all primarily 'hand', all secondarily 'guardianship, protection'—cf OFris mund, protection (not hand), and G Vormund, a guardian, and MHG vormunde, OHG foramundo, protector (fore, G vor, before); perh cf also OC mana*, hand, implied in Cor maneg, a glove.—Is there ult a connexion with HAND?

2. The L adj manuālis, neu manuāle, has the LL-ML derivative manuāle, a handbook, whence both the syn EF-F manual and the syn E manual. And L manus itself is retained in Roman Law and in international An and Zoo.

Simple Derivatives of L manus

3 Manus has dim manicula (cf E -ule), little hand, whence OF-EF manicle, adopted by ME, whence—? after tentacle—manacle.

4. Manus has derivative manica, a sort of glove, then a sleeve, whence manicātus, gloved, sleeved, whence E manicate.

5. Manus becomes It mano, whence maneggiare, to control by hand, whence 'to manage' and, via the It derivative n maneggio, the E n manage. It maneggio becomes, in its riding-school sense, the EF-F manège, adopted by E.

6. Besides manuālis, manus has the syn adj manuārius, whence the VL n manāria*, way of handling, whence OF-MF maniere (cf the OF adj manier, f maniere, manual, adroit, supple, (finally) well-mannered): ME manere: E manner, fundamental in 'manner of doing something' and cultural in 'perfect manners'. E mannered, mannerism, mannerist owe something to EF-F maniéré, F maniérisme, F maniériste.

7. Manus has one obscurely formed derivative: manubrium, a handle, adopted by An and Zoo, which coin the adj manubrial.

Man- (F main-), mani-, manu- Compounds

8. Manus has the capere (to take) cpd maniceps, he who takes in or into his hand(s), he who acquires, whence manicipium, a taking, hence a thing taken, in hand, a property, hence a slave, hence manicipāre, to sell, with pp manicipātus, whence 'to mancipate'; derivative manicipātiō, o/s manicipātiōn-, yields manicipation, in Roman Law the transfer of a slave, whence, anl, the adj manicipatory. Manicipāre has cpd ēmanicipāre, to take ē, out of, slavery, pp ēmanicipātus, whence 'to emancipate', to free; derivative ēmanicipātiō, o/s ēmanicipātiōn-, yields emancipation; LL ēmanicipātor is adopted by E, which then forms, anl, the adj emancipatory and emancipative.

9. Manus has the dare (to give) cpd mandāre, to entrust (something) to, hence to charge (someone) with, to command, to recommend to, whence, via OF mander, the obs 'to mand'; mandamus, we charge or command, has become a Law n; derivative LL mandātārius yields mandatary, and LL mandātōrius yields mandatory. The pp mandātus has neu mandātum, used as n, whence mandate (cf the F mandat), an official order, a prescript; the Sc mandation comes from LL mandātiōn-, o/s of mandātiō; mandator is adopted from L; mandative comes from LL mandātīuus (ML -ivus). Cf Maundy Thursday, from the injunction to wash the feet of the poor (John, xiii, 5 and 34), esp, later, on the Thursday of Holy Week: ME maunde, a command, OF-MF mande, L mandātum.

10. Only at the F stage does manicure, the care (F cure, L cūra) of the hands, arise; the adopted E word acquires the derivative manicurist (-isi).

11. L manifestus, lit either 'given' or 'taken' by the hand, hence palpable or obvious, has var manifestus, whence, perh via OF-F manifeste, the E adj manifest. Derivative L manifestāre, to render evident, accounts—perh via OF-F manifestes—for 'to manifest'. The E n manifest derives from the EF-F manifeste, from It manifesto, itself adopted by E, from It, from L, manifestāre. Derivative L manifestātiō, o/s manifestātiōn- leads, perh via OF-F, to E manifestation.

12. L manus has cpd manipulus (early var manupulus), a handful of men, esp a military section, whence the MF-EF manipule, contr to maniple, the latter adopted by E, where extant only as an Eccl term for an ornamental handkerchief carried in the hand; the derivative L adj manipulāris becomes E manipular. Prob the 2nd L element derives from plēre, to fill (cf plēnus, full).

13. MF-EF manipule has erudite F derivative manipulation, duly adopted by E, which therefrom coins, anl, 'to manipulate' (cf F manipuler), whence, in turn, manipulator (cf F manipulateur).

14. VL manuopera, work by hand, from VL manu operāre, to work by hand, becomes OF manoeuvre, whence F manoeuvre, adopted by E; the VL v becomes OF manuevrer, F manoeuvrer, whence 'to manoeuvre': for both n and v, the A spelling is maneuver. Hence manoeuvrable, maneuvrable.

15. The OF n manoeuvre, manual labour, hence the necessary materials, has derivative AF meinoure, whence the Law term mainour or mainor or rare manner.

16. L manus has, with suēscere, to accustom (from sui, of one's own, from the adj suus, one's own), the cpd mansuēscere, to accustom oneself to, whence mansuētus, accustomed, hence domesticated, tame, gentle, whence the obsol E mansuete; derivative L mansuētudō becomes, perh via MF-F, mansuetude. L mansuētus has derivative VL mansuētinus*, tamed, hence a watch-dog, whence OF mastin, whence ME mastif (with -if from OF mestif, a mongrel dog), E mastiff.

17. For manufacture, manufactory, etc., see FACT, para 3, s.f.

18. L manus forms with ēmittere, to send (mittere) forth (ē-), the cpd manūmittere, (lit) to send forth by, or from, the hand, hence to release, free, a slave, whence 'to manumit'; derivative manūmissiō, o/s manūmissiōn-, becomes MF-F, hence E, manumission.

19. The OF manuevrer of para 14 has var manouvrer, with derivative sense 'to till the soil', whence E 'to manure', now mostly 'to fertilize' the soil, whence the n.

20. L manu scriptus, written (cf SCRIBE, a writer) by hand, whence the E adj manuscript, acquires the LL manuscriptiō, a written paper, which suggested ML manuscriptum, something hand-written, whence the E n manuscript.

21. F main- cpds, besides mainour (para 15), include:

mainmortable, adopted by E: an -able derivative of F mainmorte, (lit), dead hand; the E mortmain, from OF mortemain, from ML mortua manus, (lit) dead hand, i.e. lands possessed by Eccl institutions; ecclesiastics were, mediævally, held to be, in Civil Law, dead;

AF mainprise, (lit) hand taken, whence the now only hist E mainprise or -prise: from MF mainprendre, to undertake suretyship, to go bail, the 2nd element deriving from L prehendere, to seize (OF-F prendre, to take);

OF-F maintenir, whence 'to maintain': VL manutenire*, from VL manutenere, from L manutenēre, to hold (tenēre, cf TENABLE), hence to keep, in the hand; derivative OF-EF maintenance is adopted by E.

Mand- Compounds

22. L mandāre (para 9) has VL cpd commandāre*, whence OF-MF comander, whence ME comanden, var commanden, whence 'to command', whence 'a command', perh influenced by OF comande (F commande). OF-MF comander has derivative OF-MF comandement (later commandement), whence E commandment; also commandant, presp used as n, whence E commandant; also OF-MF comandeor, whence E commander (cf F commandeur); and also MF-F commanderie, whence E commandery. 'To commandeer' (whence vn commandeering) comes—via Afr kommandeeren, as in E, itself from D kommandeeren, to command—from F commander (OF comander). Afr comando, from D, is adopted from Port commando, itself from It or L.

23. L mandāre has L cpd demandāre, to entrust (mandāre) from (dē) oneself, whence LL 'to demand': OF-F demandr: E 'to demand'; the derivative OF-F n demande yields 'a demand'.

24. The 'prompter' of VL commandāre* was L commendāre, an int (connoted by con-, with, together) of mandāre: 'to entrust utterly to, to recommend a person, (euphem) to command': whence 'to commend', whence Eccl and Legal 'a commend'. Derivative L commendābilis becomes EF, hence E, commendable; L commendātiō (from the pp commendātus), o/s commendātiōn-, becomes OF-F, hence E, commendation; the ML n commendatārius yields the E n commendatory, and the LL adj commendātōrius yields the E adj commendatory; the ML agent commendātor is adopted as an E Law and Eccl term.

25. L commendāre develops its own cpd: the virtually syn ML recommandāre, whence 'to recommend', whence recommandable; derivative ML recommandātiō, o/s recommandātiōn-, accounts for recommendaion (cf the OF-F recommandation), whence, anl, recommendaatory.

manubrial, manubrium. See prec, para 7. manufacture, manufacturer, manufactory. See FACT, para 3, s.f.

manumission, manumit. See MANUAL, para 18.

manure. See MANUAL, para 19.

manus. See MANUAL, para 1.

manuscript. See MANUAL, para 20.

Manx (adj, hence n): Mansk, contr of Manisk: prob from a Scan adj: from C Man, the Isle of Man: W mān, small (sc island)—cf the Cor prefix man-, small.

many (adj, hence n); c/f mani-, as in the adj manifold (cf OFris manichfald), of, or with, many a fold.

Many: ME mani (var moni): OE manig (var monig): cf OFris manich, monig, OS and OHG manag, MHG manec, G manch, MD manich, menich, D menig, Go manags, OSl münogü, many, and OIr menicc, frequent (cf the prec), also modern Scan.

Maori; Mahori, the Polynesian languages regarded as one. With Maori, app orig an adj, perh cf the Mortori or natives of the Chatham Islands in the S. Pacific; ? 'the Big Men' or 'the Indigenous Men'.

map (n, hence v); nappe, napery, napkin; nape of neck; apron.

1. Map: MF mappemonde: OF mapamonde: ML mappa mundi, lit 'napkin, or small sheet, of the world' (cf LL mappa, a linen book): L mappa, a napkin, a cloth thrown into the ring as a signal to start the games or other public show: a Carthaginian word (i.e., of a Phoen dial), says Quintilian (C1 A.D.).

2. L mappa is dissimilated in F nappe, sense-adapted by E Geol and Geom. OF nape has derivative naperie, whence E napery, and E takes OF-MF nape and derives the dim napkin (-kin); moreover, the obscure ME-E nape of the neck is perh a sense-adaptation of OF-MF nape, for it is the flat part.

3. OF nape has the further derivative naperon (F napperon), whence ME napron, whence, a napron being apprehended as an apron, the E apron.

maple: OE mapultrëow, maple tree, varr mapolder, -ulder: cf ON möpurr (for mapulr*) and OHG mazzaltra, -oltra: Gmc r, app mapl*-. (Walshe.)

maquis, maquisard. See the 1st MAIL, para 2.

mar. See SMART, para 2.

marathon: Marathon race: Gr Marathōn: the victory gained by the Greeks in 490 B.C. was announced to the waiting Athenians by a messenger running from Marathon to Athens.

maraud (whence pa and vn marauding), marauder.

The latter derives from F maraudeur, which derives from F marauder, to raid and plunder, whence 'to maraud': and F marauder derives from EF maraud, a vagabond, itself perh humorous from the central and western F dial maraud, a tom-cat, itself echoic. (B & W.)

marble (n, hence adj and v—whence marbled); marmoreal.

Marble derives from ME marbel, var (l for r) of ME-from-OF marbre, dissimilation of L marmor: Gr marmaros, orig a boulder, a large stone, hence—influenced by marmairein, to gleam or shimmer—marble: cf Skt māricis, var marīci, a ray or beam of light; and perh L merus, pure. (Hofmann.)

2. L marmor has adj marmoreus, whence F marmoréen and E marmoreal.

marc. See the 2nd MARCH, para 2.

March: OF march, var of marz (F mars): L

(mensis) Martius, month of Mars (gen Martis), God of war: OL Mauors (gen Mauortis): perh cf Gr marnasthai, to fight, and therefore ult akin to E MAR.

2. L Mars has adj martuālis, whence E martial.

march (1), a border, usu in pl marches; with cognate v. See MARK, para 3.

march (2), to walk like a soldier, with cognate n; démarche; marc; mush, to journey afoot, usu with dogs, through the snow.

1. 'A march' derives from F marche, from late MF-F marcher, to march, whence 'to march'; this F sense derives from OF-MF marcher, to trample (stamp on with one's feet): either from the approx syn Frankish markōn* or from VL marcāre* (id), itself from LL marcus, a hammer, from syn L marculus (later apprehended as a dim): prob akin to L malleus, a hammer (cf MALL, para 2).

2. OF-MF marcher, to trample, has the OF-MF cpd demarcher, to trample dé- or down, whence EF-F démarche, which, in its modern diplomatic sense 'step', is adopted by E; its other derivative, the EF-F marc, the residue after grapes have been trampled for wine, is also adopted.

3. The Can mush (also a call to the dogs) app shortens Mush on!, Press on, a 'Hobson-Jobson' of the F Can hunters', trappers', fur-sledders' Marchons! ('March on!'), addressed to their huskies. (Webster.)

marchioness. See MARK, para 4, s.f.

marchpane and (imm from G) its var marzipan both derive from It marzapane, C14–15 marciapane: Venetian matapan: ML matapanus, a Venetian coin (imitated from the Ar) with an enthroned Christ, a small box: Ar mauthabān, a king seated, esp as figured on a coin. C14 It developed the sense 'a (fancy) box for sweetmeats, esp for this sweetmeat'; MF (C14 marcepain, C15 massepain—as still) borrowed this sense; C16 EF inaugurated the modern sense, which E adopted. (B & W, Dauzat; Prati.)

mare (1), female horse: ME, from OE, mere, OE varr mīere, mýre: f of OE nearh, horse: cf OFris merie, OS meria, OHG meriha, merha, MHG merha, G Mähre, MD marie, merie, D merrie, ON merr; with OE nearh, horse, cf OFris mar, OHG marh, marah, ON marr. Perh of C origin: cf Elr and Ga marc, OW march, Cor margh (and march), Br marh, a horse; OC markā*, mare, and markos*, horse.

2. OHG marah cpds with scalc, a servant (cf OE scealc), to form marahscalc, horse-servant, MHG marshale, overseer of armed retainers: either the latter becomes OF-MF, hence ME, mareschal, whence (F maréchal and) E marshal, or the former becomes LL mariscalcus, whence OF mareschal. The OF word developed into maréchal-ferrant, blacksmith, and into maréchal, a marshal of the army; in E, the latter sense (influenced by G Marschall) is obs, except in Field Marshal. 'To marshal' follows naturally from the military marshal.

mare (2), incubus, is obs except in nightmare

(which oppresses one at night); it derives from OE mara, akin to the syn OHG and ON mara, MHG mare, G Mahr, Cz múra, Pol mora, OIr mor-rigain, queen of the elves, and perh to Skt mṛṇāti, he crushes (cf SMART).

Margaret (pet-forms Margie, Mag(gie), Meg), with var Margery (OF Margerite, of id origin as Margaret), itself with var Marjorie or -ry; margaric, margarín and -ine; margarita—cf margarite and marguerite.—magpie.

1. Magpie=Mag, short for Maggot, from F Margot, dim of Marguerite, from L margarita (next para)+E-ME pie, OF pie, L pica, a magpie, akin to L picus, woodpecker, and Skt pika, the Indian cuckoo: hence ult to E peck and pick, vv, and pike, n.

2. The L margarita, a pearl, forms the true base, even though it derives from Gr margaritēs, elliptical for margaritēs lithos (stone), from margaron, a pearl, from margaros, a pearl-oyster, itself app of Eastern origin: cf the cognate Skt mañjarī, a pearl, but also a flower-bud, which prob forms the orig sense, for it is clearly the more basic one. Margarita survives as an Eccl term, and its predominant late OF-F derivative margarite, orig a pearl, as a Min term. The F form occurs in the adopted-by-E flower-name marguerite, from the MF margerite (var of margarite, a pearl).

3. Gr margaron, pearl, has a direct erudite-F derivative: margarique, whence E margaric; from margarique comes the F margarine, whence Chem E margarin and ordinary E margarine.

marge, margent. See MARK, para 7.

margin, marginal. See MARK, para 7.

margrave, margravine. See MARK, para 4.

marguerite. See MARGARET, para 2, s.f.

Maria, Marian, Mariana, Marianne; marigold.

See MARY.

marijuana or marihuana: ASP marijuana, var marihuana: o.o.o. For marijuana, a 'vulgar Mexican name for the common hemp'—whence its A use—Santamaria tentatively suggests origin in Marijuana, one of the islands forming the Bahamas.

marinade, marinate. See the 2nd MERE, para 3.

marine, mariner. See 2nd MERE, para 3.

Mariolatry; Marion, marionette; Marist. See MARY.

marish. See the 2nd MERE, para 7.

marital. See MARRY, para 2.

maritime. See the 2nd MERE, para 4.

marjoram: ME marjoran: MF marjorane, -aine, app an alteration of MF mariolaine (o.o.o.), ? by f/e from ML marjorana, var of marjoraca: prob aphetic from L amāracus or -cum: Gr amarakos or -on: o.o.o.: ? orig Dravidian (Hofmann).

Marjorie, -y. See MARGARET (heading).

mark, the coin. See para 1 of the next, where also mark, boundary, sign.

mark, v, derives from ME marken, earlier merken, from OE mearcian, itself from OE mearc, var merc, a limit or boundary, hence a boundary-sign, whence, via ME marke, merke, the n mark, (obs) a limit, (hence) goal, target, hence the indication thereof, hence any sign. OE mearc, merc, E mark, is perh related to E mark, the coin, OE marc, app from Gaul L marcum*, var of LL marca, a boundary, a territory, of Gmc origin: the predominant form mark—marc being now obsol—owes something to G Mark, the coin, from MHG mark or marke, a $\frac{1}{2}$ lb of silver (or of gold), from syn ML marca, prob from LL marca, boundary, with orig meaning 'divided in two' (Walshe). Note that, whereas ON mörk is the weight, ON mark is the sign.

2. Akin to OE mearc, merc, boundary, frontier, are the syn OFris merke, OS marca, Go marka, OHG marcha, MHG march, marc, marke, G Mark; cf OHG marcha, var *morch*a, MHG marke, an inscription, sign, mark, G Marke, a token, a mark; also ON mörk, a forest, 'since forests often formed frontiers' (Walshe)—L margō, edge, border—Av marezu, frontier—Per marz, frontier country—and OIr brú, contr of bruig, var of mruig, frontier; perh Hit mark-, to cut up, hence to divide. IE r, mar-, with var mer-, and with extn marg-* and mark-*.

3. Prob from OHG marka, or a Frankish cognate, comes OF-F marche, adopted by ME, whence E march, a border country, usu in pl marches.

4. Corresp to OHG marka, OE *mearc*a, is MD merke, maerc, maerke, marke (D merk), whence MD marcgrave (cf G Markgraf), a borderland-country lord or governor, whence E margrave; the D f markgravin becomes E margravine. Cf E marquis (the var marquess owes much to the Sp marqués), adopted from MF-F, from OF markis or markis, from ML markensis, from LL marca, boundary, hence march, hence any territory (as in para 1); derivative MF-F marquisat, whence E marquisate, derives from It marchesato, from marchese, marquis; corresp to MF-F marquise (OF marchise), f of F marquis, is E marchioness, from ML marchionissa, from ML marchiō, a marquis, from marca, a border country.

5. Perh from Gmc marc*, a pledge, closely akin to ON mark, a sign, and its cognates, is marque, as in letter of marque: late MF marc, soon also marque: OF merc: OProv marca, a seizing, reprisal: syn ML marca: cf OProv marcar, from ML marcāre, to seize, esp as a pledge. Moreover, MF marque, a sign (MF marc, OF merc), has derivative MF marqueter, to chequer, surviving esp in the pp marqueté: whence late MF-F marqueterie, inlaid work, whence E marquetry.

6. MF marque, a sign, a mark, owes much to the originating MF-F v marquer (OF mercher), to mark, to indicate: and marquer has the EF-F cpd remarquer (MF remercher, remerquier), whence 'to remark'; 'a remark'=EF-F remarque, from remarquer; remarkable=EF-F remarquable, from remarquer.

7. The cognate L margō, edge, margin, becomes MF marce, late MF-F marge, adopted by E, now only poetical. Margō has gen marginis, o/s margin-, whence ME margin, E margin. Late MF-F marge has derivative v marger (? prompted by late Classical L margināre), which, blending with margin, produces the n and adj marginent. Erudite EF coins the adj marginal, adopted by E; marginalia, however, derives, as neu pl used as n, from the SciL adj marginālis (o/s margin-+alis). L margināre has pp marginātus, whence the erudite E adj marginate, whence, anl, margination.

8. Margināre has, moreover, the cpd ēmargināre, to margin ē- or out, hence to remove the margin of, with pp ēmarginātus, whence 'to emarginate'; the E adj emarginate, however, bears the imposed sense 'having a notched margin', whence, anl, emargination.

9. Akin to MF-F marquer and likewise of Gmc origin (cf OHG merken, to mark) is Sp marcar, which has the cpd demarcar (de, down from, out of, hence int), to mark the boundaries, whence the n demarcación, whence, in C18, the F démarcation, whence E demarcation, whence, by b/f, 'to demarcate'.

marker: agent of 'to mark': prec, para 1.

market (n, hence v—whence marketable): ME, from ONF, market: OF merchiet (MF-F marché): L mercātus (gen -ūs): from mercāt-, s of mercātus, pp of mercāri, to trade in: from merc-, o/s of merx (for mercs*), merchandise, (VL) business, affairs: closely akin to L mercēs (gen mercēdis), price paid for goods, hire, wages, and perh akin to merēre (-ēri), to earn, hence to deserve, therefore cf MERIT.—Cf the sep MERCER and MERCY.

L merx

2. Mercāri has presp mercans, o/s mercant-, whence It mercantile, adopted by EF-F, whence by E; hence mercantilism.

3. Mercāri has VL mdfn mercatāre*, presp mercatans, o/s mercatant-, whence the OF n mar-cheant or -chant, whence (F marchand and) ME marchant, whence the re-shaped E merchant, whence the occ 'to merchant', whence merchantable. OF marcheant has derivative OF marcheandise, whence (F marchandise and) ME merchandise, whence E re-shaped merchandise, whence 'to merchandise'.

4. Mercāri has cpd commercāri, to trade together, whence MF-F commercer, whence obsol 'to commerce'; commercāri has derivative n commercium, merchandise, commercial relations, whence MF commerque, late MF-F commerce, adopted by E, with derivative adj—as in F—commercial, whence commercialism, commercialize.

5. The Roman god of commerce was Mercurius (merc-+urius for -ārius), whence E Mercury, who, a lively and speedy messenger, gave his name to the element mercury, popularly known as quicksilver. The derivative L adj mercuriālis becomes EF and E mercurial (F mercuriel).

L mercēs

6. Mercēs has derivative adj mercēnārius, whence, prob via MF-F mercēnaire, the E mercenary, whence also n.

marksman is for earlier markman: mark, target+man. Hence marksmanship.

marl (1), n: MF-EF marle: Gaul L (ML) margināla: L marga, which Pliny says is of Gaul origin.

marl (2), nautical v, derives from D marlen, a freq from MD māren (varr meeren, meren), to fasten, to moor; marline, as in marline- or marlin- or marling-spike, is for marling, from D marling (from marlen), influenced by D marlijn (D maren-+lijn, line).

2. MD māren, prob imm, generates late ME moren, E 'to moor', to secure (esp a ship), whence moorage and moorings: cf OE māreles, a mooring rope, and MD mēre (var meer), a stake.

marlin(e)-spike. See prec, para 1.

marmalade. See MELON, para 5.

marmoreal. See MARBLE, para 2.

marmoset; marmot. See FORMIDABLE, para 2.

maroon (1), orig chestnut colour, now usu reddish blue, whence as adj: F marron, chestnut-coloured: EF-F marron, a large chestnut: It marrone, orig Milanese dial: o.o.o.—? Ligurian.

maroon (2), in the WI a fugitive Negro slave, or his Negro descendant: EF-F marron: EF cimaroni: ASp cimarrón: Osp cimarra, brushwood, says Webster, but the Dict of the Sp Academy derives it from cima, a mountain-top: such slaves fled to the mountains. Hence 'to maroon', to abandon (someone) on a desolate shore.

marque. See MARK, para 5.

marquee: F marquise, from MF-F marquise, marchioness, perh because orig an 'aristocratic' (large and handsome) tent: cf MARK, para 4.

marquess. See MARK, para 4.

marquetry. See MARK, para 5, s.f.

marquis, marquise. See MARK, para 4.

marriage. See MARRY, para 2.

marrow, the soft tissue filling the cavities of bones, hence pith, hence (vegetable) marrow: ME marowe, marouh, mary, etc.: OE mearg, mearh: cf OFris merch, merg, OS marg, OHG marag, marg, MHG marc, G Mark (neu), MD maerch, merch, morch, murch, D merg, ON mergr, marrow, also syn Skt mājjan and Av mazga (also, brains), and OSI mozgŭ, OP musgeno, Ru mozg, brains: Gmc r, mazg-*, marrow.

marry, pt and pp (whence pa) married; marriage, whence marriageable.

1. 'To marry', ME marien, comes from OF-F marier, from L maritāre, to marry, from maritus, husband (cf the later marīta, wife), orig an adj 'coupled, married', perh from mar-, the o/s of mās, a male: cf Skt māryas, young man, lover, Gr meirax, a youth, a girl, Lith merga, girl, martl, bride; also cf, in C: Britomartis (name of Artemis) and Cor mergh, Br merh, W merch, girl.

2. The derivative L adj maritālis yields, perh via late MF-F, the E marital; marriage, however, derives from ME, from OF-F, mariage, from marier, from L maritāre.

Mars. See MARCH, para 1.

marsh (whence marshy). See the 2nd MERE, para 5.

marshal. See 1st MARE, para 2.

marshmallow: OE merscmealwe: cf MARSH and MALLOW.

marsupial: SciL marsupialis, pouched, as in Zoo Marsupialia: from L marsupium, pouch, trln of Gr marshupion, dim of marshupion, var of marshupos, a bag; perh cf Av marshū, belly.

mart is adopted from MD mart, var of marct (D markt): f.a.e., MARKET.

marten: ME martern, metathesis of ME martrin: OF-MF martrine, orig the f of martrin, contr of OF-MF marterin, adj of OF-F martre, a marten: OGMc marthor*—cf OHG mardar, MHG-G marder, ON mörthr, OE mearth: perh ult of the MARRY words.

2. OE mearth combines with OE fūl, foul, to form ME fulmard, var folmard, whence E foumart, polecat.

martial. See MARCH, para 2.

Martian (adj, hence n): L Martius, adj of Mars, o/s Mart-: f.a.e., MARCH.

martin; martinet; martlet.

The 1st, adopted from EF-F, derives from Martin, from L Martinus, an -inus adj of Mars, o/s Mart-: cf prec; see (f.a.e.) MARCH. Orig a F dim of martin is EF-F martinet (syn of the bird martin), whence the surname Martinet, whence a drill-system devised by an officer so named, whence a severe disciplinarian—adopted by E; with -elet for -inet, EF-F marcelet (syn of the bird martin) derives from martinet, with Her sense adopted by E; F marcelet yields E martlet.

martingale, adopted from EF-F, derives either from Prov martengalo, app from Prov martengau, an inhabitant of Martigues in Provence, or, more prob, from Sp almártaga, a rein, itself from Ar al, the + mirta'ah. (B & W.) martlet. See MARTIN, s.f.

martyr, martyrdom. See MEMORY, para 2.

marvel, marvellous. See MIRACLE, para 5.

Mary: LL, from LGr Maria, var of LGr Mariam: H Miryām, whence also E Miriam. LL Maria becomes OF-F Marie, partly adopted by E; F Marie has dim Marion, adopted by E; the F cpd Marianne (ANN) becomes E Marian, but the adj Marian derives from LL Maria or, in E Hist, from Mary; Marist=F Mariste, from F Marie. Whereas Mariolatry=LGr Maria+ 'combiner' -o+-latry, Gr -latreia, -worship, marionette anglicizes EF-F marionnette, from F Marionnette, dim of F Marian. —Mary has pet-forms May; Molly (whence Moggy), shortened to Moll, whence moll, cf doll from Doll, from Dolly, from Dorothy; Polly, Poll. —And Maryland merely anglicizes Terra Mariae, Lord Baltimore's naming of the territory in honour of Henrietta Maria, queen of Charles I of England.

marzipan. See MARCHPANE.

mascara, Tuscan red, hence a Tuscan-red cosmetic for the eyelashes: ? from Prov mascara, to blacken (the face)—or from Sp máscara (see MASK), ult from Ar máscjara, a buffoon, a clown, because of the heavily made-up faces of clowns—or from Mascara, an important Algerian trading-centre.

mascle, masclod. See the 1st MAIL, para 3.

mascot anglicizes F mascotte: Prov mascoto, a lucky charm: Prov masco, sorceress: syn Longobardic masca: o.o.o. (B & W.)

masculine. See MALE, para 3.

mash (n, hence v, whence the sl masher): OE masc- or māx- (OE māxwyrnt, mash-wort) in cpds: cf MLG mēsch, MHG meisch, G Maisch: cognates in Scan and Sl: IE r, meigh-*, to crush, to mash.

2. Mash, n, has dial var mush, with the derivative coll sense 'mawkish sentimentality'.

mashie, an iron golf-club: Sc re-shaping of F massue, a club (weapon), perh influenced by mattock.

mask (n, hence—prompted by EF-F masquer—v)—hence pa masked and agent masker; maskoid (mask, n+-oid, -like); masque, the F spelling, retained esp for the C16-17 plays so named; masquerade (EF-F mascarade, It mascherata from maschera, a mask), n hence v (whence masquerader). A mask=EF-F masque=It maschera, earlier mascara: Ar maskharah, a buffoon: Ar sakhira, to burlesque, to ridicule.

maslin. See MIX, para 3.

masochism (whence, anl, masochist, whence masochistic) derives from that Austrian novelist, Leopold von Sacher-Masoch (1835-95), who described it. Delight in being hurt, masochism is opp sadism, delight of hurting, from (F sadisme, from) the Comte de Sade (1740-1814), who described it—whence sadist, whence sadistic.

mason (whence Freemason), whence masonic (whence M-); masonry (whence M- and Free-masonry), from MF-F maçonnerie, from OF-F maçon, a mason. F maçon derives from machiōnem, the acc of late LL machiō, prob from Frankish makjo*, builder, mason, from makōn*, to make: cf MAKE.

2. OF masson, maçon, however, perh derives from mac-, the r of L macerāre (s macer-), to soften, esp by soaking or immersion; the pp macerātus explains 'to macerate', as its derivative macerātio, o/s macerātio-, does maceration (cf EF-F macération).

masque, masquerade. See MASK.

Mass, cf Christmas, Lammas, Michaelmas, but see MISSION, para 4.

mass, the form, or a large quantity, of matter, whence the adj and—? indebted to MF-F masser—the v; massif, massive; massy (mass, n+adj -y);—amass, whence amassment.—Cf the sep MINGLE.

1. 'To amass' derives from OF-F amasser: a-, F à, L ad, to+masser, from masse, from L massa, whence, via OF masse, the ME masse, E mass.

2. L massa, a mass, orig a lump or heap of paste, derives from Gr maza, a paste of barley flour, hence a barley cake, hence, in LGr, a lump, hence a mass: prob, esp if for magia* or maggia*, akin to Gr massein (? for magsein*), to knead—cf Gr magus, a kneaded lump: IE r, mag-*, to knead.

Less prob of Sem or Ham origin (? cf Eg am or amm, grain, esp wheat or barley).

3. OF-F masse has late MF-F adj massif, f massive; hence E massive. The Geol n massif, adopted from F, is the F adj used as n.

Massachusetts, the A State, derives from the pl of Massachuset, member of an Alg tribe (long extinct): Massachuset Massa-adchu-es-et, (those living) at or about the big hill: massa, big+wadchu, hill+-es, dim suffix+-et, locative suffix 'at, about'. (Webster; Mathews.)

massacre, n and v; machicolate (adj, v), machicolation.

1. 'To massacre' derives from MF-F massacer, itself from MF-F massacre, whence the E n: and MF-F massacre derives from OF maçacre, varr macecre, macecle; o.o.o., but perh from OF mache-col*, butcher, (lit) one who strikes or crushes the neck (col) of the beasts he kills.

2. Machicolation (in Arch: an opening between corbels) derives, anl, from machicolate (adj, v), itself from ML machicolātus, pp of machicolāre, to provide with openings for shooting or dropping missiles, etc.: MF machicoler: from MF machecolis (F māchicoulis): perh (B & W) an alteration of machiscoulis*: machis*, from macher, to crush+coulis, a flowing, from couler, to flow.

massage (n, hence v); masseur, masseuse.

Massage, adopted from F, derives from F masser, to massage, whence masseur, f masseuse, both adopted by E: and F masser, in this sense, comes, not (as often stated) from Port amassar, to knead, from massa, dough, L massa (cf MASS, para 2), but (B & W) from Ar mass, to touch, esp to palpate: the practice, after all, was introduced into Europe from the East.

massif; massive. See MASS, para 3.

mast (of ship): OE maest: cf OHG-G mast, MD maste and, as in D, mast, ON mastr (? from OHG or MLG); cf the syn L mālus (for mālus* for maslus*), perh influenced by L pālus, a stake, and also Mlr ad-mat, timber: Gmc r, mast*-; IE r, māzd*-. (Walshe.) mast (2), nuts. See MEAT, para 2.

master, n, whence masterful and masterly; hence also adj, whence masterpiece, and v (cf the MF-F maltriser); mastery (cf palmsistry at PALM); mister, a thinned form, influenced by mistress, whence the coll missus and, by contr, miss, whence missy; F maitre (OF maistre), as in maitre d'hotel, a majordomo, a hotel-manager, and It maestro, both partly adopted by E.—L magister, E magistral (cf mistral) and magisterial—magistrand and magistrate (whence magistracy); Magna Carta—magnanimous, magnanimity, sep at ANIMAL, para 6—magnate—magnific, Magnificat, magnification (whence, anl, magnificative), magnificence, magnificent, magnifico, magnify, magnitude—magnum; majesty, whence majestic: major (cf majuscule), majority—cf mayor, mayoralty—Majorca, see MAJOLICA; marino; May (month) and may; maxim—cf maximum (whence maximal).—maha, maharaja, maharani, mahatma.—Cf the element magni-, where, e.g., magniloquence.—For the derivatives from Gr megas, great, see mega- in Elements.—Gmc: mickle, var muckle; much, whence muchness.

I. Indo-European

1. All these words derive from one or other of the Skt, Gr, L, L-via-R, Gmc derivatives from the IE r mag-, var meg-, with extnn magh-* and megh-* (L magn- exhibiting a different radical suffix); even mag-, meg-, are -g- extnn of the still more fundamental ma-* or me-, with varr mi-, mo-, mu-, big: cf OE micel, mycel, great, from mc Gr mik-*; L magnus, great—maior, greater—maximus (? for magsimus*), greatest; Gr mega, much, megas (f megale), great; Skt mah-, mahat-, māhi, great, māhas, majmān-, greatness, cf mahēyān, greater, and mahiṣṭhas, greatest; Hit mah, strong, makkess-, to become great, mekkis, great, numerous, pl meggaes, and mekki, very, much: cf Tokh A mak, Tokh B makī-, great, much, Alb math and Arm mec, great (instr mecaw): cf also Mlr mag, great, and māl (from extn magl-*), nobleman, prince, mass (from magsos*), important, OC r mag-, var mac-, great, perh akin to mac-*, mag-, to nourish,—with the C var magal-*, cf the megal- of Gr megalē.

II. Sanskrit

2. Skt mah-, great, occurs in the Singhalese maha, a species of monkey, a species of deer. Maharaja is Skt maharaja, great king (raja, cf L rex); maharani, Hi maharānī, great queen (cf L regina); mahatma, a (Hindu) sage, Skt mahātman, (lit) great soul (ātman).

III. Greek

3. See Elements at mega- (where also megalo-): e.g., megaphone and megalomania.

IV. Latin magnus

4. L magnus, great, retained in the names of ancient and medieval kings and medieval alchemists and others, has f magna, as in Magna Carta (or Charta), The Great Charter, cf chart at the 1st CARD; the neu magnum is, in E, used as n for a 2-quart bottle.

5. Magnus has two simple derivatives affecting E:

LL magnātes, leading people, and LL magnātus, a leading man, a nobleman, (Oriental ML) a prince; hence, by b/f, the F magnat (Rousseau, 1772), a (Polish) grandee; whence E magnate (Burke, 1790);

L magnitūdō, greatness, whence E magnitude.

6. For cpds, see magnanimus at ANIMAL, para 6; cf magni- in Elements; but note esp:

magnificus (adj), great-making or -rendering, whence, perh via MF-F magnifique, the obsol E magnific; whence also the It title Magnifico, whence E magnifico, a grandee; derivative magnificāre, to enlarge, whence, perh via OF-F magnifier, the E magnify; magnificat, it enlarges, hence glorifies, occurs in Christian European literature as Magnificat, My soul doth magnify the Lord (Luke, i, 46-55); on the pp magnificātus arises the LL magnificātiō, praise, o/s magnificātiōn-, whence, as to form only, the E magnification; likewise derivative from magnificus is the syn LL magnificens, o/s magnificent-, whence both MF-EF and E magnificent; subsidiary LL magnificentia becomes MF-F and E magnificence.

V. Latin māior (neu māius), greater

7. L māior is for OL maiior, itself from magyōs* (r mag-+suffix element yō-+nom ending -s); it becomes ML major, whence OF-F majeur and EF-F and E major, with derivative F majorité (ML majoritās) yielding E majority, the attainment of 21 years, majority in the other senses coming straight from E major. ML major domūs, the head of the household, becomes It maggiordomo, which joins with the syn Sp mayordomo to produce F major-dome and E major-domo. Based on the neu māius is the L dim derivative māiusculus, a little greater, whence, via (litera) māiuscula, the EF-F majuscule, adopted by E.

8. In OF, L māior—already in LL used as n—becomes maire, adopted by ME, whence mayor, whence mayoress (cf LL māiōrissa, the chief slave-woman); derivative MF mairaité yields mayoralty.

9. From ML mājōrinus, of a larger kind, hence, as n, an overseer, via the ML contr mērinus, overseer of pastures, comes the syn Sp merino, whence (OED, EW, Webster) a special breed of sheep reared in Estremadura; perh, however (B & W), Sp merino derives from merinī, the adj of Bani-Merīn, the great Ar dynasty of late medieval Morocco and members of an important Berber tribe that specialized in sheep-raising.

10. From the ancient Italic goddess Māia (for Maiia; ancient var Māiestā)—? for (dea) māia, the greater goddess, f of māius*, prob akin to magnus and perh an ancient var of māior—comes Māius mensis, Maia's month, whence, by ellipsis, Māius, OF-F mai, E May, whence the Spring-blooming, spiny shrub may, applied esp to the hawthorn and its bloom.

11. Māiestā, that ancient var of Māia, suggests that rather from some ancient var of māior, greater, than direct from māior itself, derives L māiestas, greatness, esp grandeur, ML mājestas, whence, via OF-F mājesté, the ME mājestee, whence E mājesty, whence, anl, mājestic.

VI. L māximus, greatest

12. L māximus (var māxumus), for māgsomos* (r mag-+formative element -som-+declensional -o-, later -u-+case-ending -s), has neu māximum, which, used as n, is adopted by E for 'the greatest value, size, quantity, speed, etc.' The elliptical L māxīma (? for m. sententia), the greatest sentence, hence thought or axiom, becomes MF-F maxime, whence E maxim.

VII. L magis, more, rather

13. Closely akin to—and perh, as a contr of magnis, with great (things), hence greatly, deriving from—magnis is the adv magis, whence L magister, lit a greater (person), hence a superior, chief, master, much as L minister derives from minus, less (minor, lesser): partly adopted by E. The derivative L adj magistrālis, masterly, becomes F and E magistral; its LL mdfn magisterius has neu magisterium, which, used as LL n for 'body of teachers', etc., yields magistry; either imm from magisterium or as an extn of magisterius is the LL adj magisterialis, of teaching, ML of command, whence magisterial.

14. L magistrālis, masterly, dominant, becomes OProv maistral, whence Prov mistral, esp as n, 'dominant wind', adopted by E; B & W, however, derive maistral from OProv (and OF) maistre, master (cf para 16).

15. L magister has LL derivative magistrāre, to master, hence to rule, to teach, whence ML magistrandus, lit one to be trained, hence a university student in his final year, hence Sc magistrand. Magister has the further derivative magistrātus, lit control of the people, hence a magistrate's function and the magistrate himself: magistrātus (gen -ūs) produces EF-F magistrat and E magistrate; derivative EF-F magistrature, adopted by E, is rare for magistracy (magistrate+cy; cf accuracy from accurate).

VIII. OF maistre

16. L magister becomes OF-MF maistre (F maitre), adopted by ME, whence E master; sem, OE-from-L magister has contributed. Derivative OF-MF maistrie leads to mastery.

17. OF maistre has MF f maistresse (F maitresse), adopted by ME, which partly anglicizes it as maistress, whence, by thinning (cf mister from master), the E mistress.

IX. Germanic

18. Much (adj, hence adv and n), great, esp in size or degree, derives from ME muche, var moche, from earlier muchel, var mochel, from OE mycel, var micel; ME muchel has var mikel (? ON mikill), whence mickle, now Sc (meikle) and dial. OE mycel (micel) is akin to OS mikil, OFris mikili, OHG michil, mihhil, mihil, MHG micel, Go mikels, mikils, ON mikell, mikill, mykill: Gmc r, mikil-*. The parallel E muckle is a var—influenced by much—of mickle.

mastic; masticate, mastication. Mastic, OF mastic, LL masticum, masticum, Gr mastikhē, gum mastic, is akin to 'to masticate', from masticātus, pp of LL masticāre, to chew, from Gr mastikhan, to gnash the teeth, and mastax, mouth, mouthful, morsel: akin, ult, to MOUTH.

mastiff. See MANUAL, para 16, s.f.

mastodon. See the element -odon. Cf:

mastoid, (lit) breast-shaped: Gr mastoeidēs: mastos, breast + -eidēs, cf the E suffix -oid.

masturbate, masturbation. See MALE, para 5, and TURBID, para 4.

mat (1), adj. See MATT.

mat (2), n (hence v, whence matted): OE mat, varr meatt, meatte: L matta, a rush-mat: o.o.o., but presumably a borrowing; perh Punic (a dial of Phoen), as Webster proposes—for the form, cf L mappa (E MAP)—yet perh rather Medit: tentatively I propose a cognate, ? even the origin, in Eg *sma*t, a mat, a couch, wherein s- could be that ancient quasi-prefix s- which we see in, e.g., Gr (stegos, tegos); certainly an IE, perh even a Medit, quasi-prefix.

matador. See the 2nd MATE.

match (1), for ignition: ME macche, a candle- or a lamp-wick, a small torch: OF meshe (F mèche): VL micca*: L myxa: Gr muxa, lamp-wick, (orig) nasal mucus: f.a.e., MUCUS.

match (2), a spouse (obs), some person or thing equal to another, a harmonious pair, etc., hence 'to match'. See MAKE, para 2.

mate (1), n: ME mate: prob MLG mate, māt, a companion, prop a messmate: cf OHG gimazzo, messmate, and OHG-MHG maz, OS mat, ON matr, food: cf also, therefore, MEAT.—Hence INMATE (in, adv).

mate (2), v, to baffle or utterly fatigue (obsol), to checkmate: OF-F mater, to fatigue, overcome, checkmate, itself from OF-F mat, defeated, not from Ar māt (cf checkmate at CHECK) but from L mattus, suffering from a hangover, perh for maditus*, VL var of L madidus, wet, hence tipsy, from madēre, to be wet. (B & W.) Cf MATT.

maté, a tea-like stimulant of SAM: prob via F maté (EF maté); from Sp mate: Quechuan mate, anciently mati, a calabash.

mater, as in alma mater (L: kindly or gracious mother) and in schoolboy sl; maternal, maternity; matrical, matrix, pl matrices, whence, anl, the adj matricular; for matr- cpds (e.g., matriarch), see matr- in Elements; matriculate (adj, n, v), matriculation; matrimonial, matrimony; matron (whence matronage and matronly), matronal.—European R forms: It, Sp, Port madre, F mère.—Gr: Demeter; metropolis, metropolitan (adj, hence n).—Gmc: mother (n, hence adj and v), whence motherhood, mother-in-law (and stepmother), motherly.—Perh akin is the 2nd MOTHER (slimy membrane) and prob akin is MATTER, both treated sep.

Indo-European

1. Corresp to pater, L māter, mother, affords a good starting-point, for Doric Gr has mātēr (Attic mētēr) and Skt has mātā (mātr)—cf the OSI and Ru mate, mati (gen matere, materi), Lett māte; OP pomatre, mother-in-law; cf, with sense 'wife', the revealing Lith mōte; in C: OIr māthir (Ga māthair), Mx moir, OC māter*; Arm mair (gen maur); peripherally: Tokh A mācar, Tokh B mācer; centrally the Gmc: OE mōdor, OFris mōder, OS and Go mōdar, OHG muotar, MHG muoter, G Mutter, MD moder, D moeder, ON mōthir (cf Da and Sw moder). The IE base is mat-*, mother, itself a precision-extn of ma-, breast (cf MAMA): the f 'breast-feeder' answers to the m 'producer': mā-+agent -tēr, and pa-+-tēr. For the suffix -ter, cf brother (L frater, Gr phratēr, etc.) and sister and daughter.

Greek

2. Gr mētēr (μήτηρ), acc mētēra, gen mētros, affects E in two cpds:

Gr Dēmētēr, E Demeter, the goddess of the fruitful soil, perh lit 'mother of the gods' (cf DIANA)—my theory, at least as prob as the others (Gr dē for gē, earth; and Gr zeia, barley); mētropolis, the mother (c/f mētro-) city (Gr polis, see POLICE), ref esp Athens and her colonies: LL mētropolis, mother-city: MF, hence EE, metropole (F métropole), and E metropolis; the derivative LL adj mētropolitanus—perh suggested by LL mētropolitā, from Gr mētropolitēs, a native, an inhabitant, of a metropolis—becomes late MF metropolitain, whence E metropolitan. (Cf POLICE, para 5.)

Latin

3. L māter has the foll derivatives relevant to E: adj māternus, whence—either via the derivative learned MF-F maternel or from the popular ML maternālis* attested by the popular ML adv maternāliter—E maternal; learnedly from MF maternel, late MF—perh after ML maternitas, syn of Mater Ecclesia, Mother Church—coins maternité, whence E maternity; mātrīmōnium, legal maternity, marriage for a woman, is formed after patrimōnium (E patrimony)—hence OF, whence ME, matrimoine, whence matrimony; derivative adj mātrīmōniālis becomes MF-F matrimonial, adopted by E.

mātrix, womb (cf the Gr mētra), acc mātricem (MF-F matrice), adopted by SciE and, after F, endowed with new senses; derivative LL adj mātricālis yields E matrical; mātrix in LL means also a public register, with the syn dim mātricula, whence in ML, a register of university students, whence ML immātriculāre, to enroll students, pp immātriculātus, whence, by apheresis, the EE-E matriculate—cf the late MF-F immatriculer (the:e being no matricular); hence, anl, matriculation—cf EF-F immatriculation—and, as if from matriculānt-, o/s of ML mātriculans, presp of mātriculāre*, the E matriculant, a matriculating student.

mātrōna (corresp to L patrōnus), a married woman, or a widow, esp with children: like māter, a dignified word, whence, prob via OF-F matrone, the E matron; derivative adj mātrōnālis yields, perh via F, matronal.

Romance

4. It madre, mother, occurs in madrepore, q.v.; OF-F mère in commère, corresp to compère, these being radio-ex-music-hall terms.

Germanic

5. OE mōdor, mother, as in para 1, becomes ME moder, whence, perh under the influence of ON mōthir but prob under that of OIr and Mlr māthir, the E mother, whence 'to mother'; OE mōdor has adj mōdorlic, whence E motherly.

material (adj, n), materialism, materialist, materialize. See MATTER, para 1.

maternal, maternity. See MATER, para 3.

mathematic (obsol adj, whence mathematical), mathematician, mathematics; mathesis, whence, anl, the adj mathetic (cf Gr mathēteos);—polymath (whence, anl, polymathic) and polymathy.—Ult of the sep MIND.

1. Polymath, a person extremely and diversely erudite, derives from the Gr adj polumathēs, learned in many subjects; polymathy, from Gr polumathia, much and numerous learning; Gr polu, much (E poly-) + derivatives from manthanein, to learn, with acorist s math-: cf Skt medhā, intelligence, and E MIND.

2. Gr manthanein has the var mathein, whence mathēsis, learning (esp in mathematics), whence, via LL, the E mathesis. Another derivative, mathēma, that which is learnt, has pl mathēmata, learning, esp mathematics, with adj mathēmatikos, whence ML mathematicus, MF-F mathématique and E mathematic. From MF-F mathématique comes the EF-F n mathématique, mathematics, whence EE mathematic, n, later—after physics, ethics, etc.—mathematics. The MF-F mathématicien becomes E mathematician.

Matilda. See MALKIN.

matin, matins (early-morning Eccl services); matinée, matinée; matutinal.

Matin, a morning song, orig the morning, is adopted from OF-F: L mātūtīnum, n from mātūtīnum tempus, morning-time, from mātūtīnus, of the morning, from Mātūta, the ancient Italic goddess of the morning (Roman Aurora): akin to mātūrus, seasonable, early: f.a.e., MATURE. Mātūtīnus has LL extn mātūtīnālis, whence matutinal, early. OF matin, morning, has OF-F adj matinal, adopted by E; it also has OF-F derivatives matinée, orig the entire morning (cf soirée and soir), with sense-changes in F, hence in E, and the Eccl pl OF-F matines, whence E matins.

matriarch, whence matriarchal, matriarchate, matriarchy; matricide. See matri- in Elements and, f.a.e., MATER, para 1.

matriculant, matriculate, matriculation. See MATER, para 3.

matrimonial, matrimony. See MATER, para 3.

matrix (pl matrices). See MATER, para 3.

matron, matronal, matronly. See MATER, para 3, s.f.

matt, adj and n, var mat: F mat, n, a dull colour: EF-F mat, adj, dull-coloured, lustreless: OF mat, downcast, afflicted, hence (of foliage) withered, whence MF (of weather) sombre, dull: either (B & W) from L matus, mattus, suffering from a 'hang-over', wine-sad or -heavy, perh dial from maditus*, soaked (cf the modern sl soaked, drunk), pp of madēre, to be soaked with water; or (Webster, Dauzat), from Ar māt (see the 2nd MATE), an etymology now somewhat discredited. Hence 'to mat or matt' glass or a metal.

matter (n, hence v), whence 'a matter of fact', whence the adj matter-of-fact; material, adj, hence —prob influenced by the militarily adopted F n matériel (from the MF-F adj matériel)—n; material-adj derivatives: materialism, materialist, materiality, materialize (whence materialization), all perh influenced by the resp F matérialisme, EF-F matérialiste, late MF-F matérialité, F matérialiser, all from LL adj māteriālis;—Madeira.—Prob ult akin to L māter—as at MATER, esp para 1.

1. The adj material derives from LL māteriālis, of bodily substance, of the perishable substance of the human body and of earthly things, secular (Souter), from L māteria, var māteriēs, bodily or solid matter, earlier timber, earlier the hard part of a tree, orig the substance of which the māter consists, māter being the trunk, which produces the shoots; māter, therefore, is here a transferred use of māter, mother (see MATER, para 1). Immaterial derives from the LL neg immāteriālis.

2. Whereas OF-F matière derives rather from L māteriēs, E matter perh derives, via ME matere, rather from L māteria, stuff, matter.

3. L māteria becomes Port madeira, wood, whence the well-wooded island Madeira, hence the wine made there.

mattock; mace (a club, a staff).

Mattock, OE matuc, substitutes -ock, OE -uc, for the dim -eola of L mateola, a mallet: cf Skt matyā, club, harrow. L mateola has a base matea* (mattea*), whence, perh via a VL matia* or matia*, the OF mace (F masse), adopted by E.

mattress: MF materas (late MF-F, with l for r, matelas): It materasso: Ar matras (maṭraḥ), something thrown, hence laid down, esp a mattress, from taras (tarāḥ), to throw.

maturate, maturation, maturative. See para 3 of:

mature (adj, hence v), maturity—cf marescent (whence marescence); immature, immaturity—cf premature, prematurity: manes, ancestral spirits.—Cf the sep MATIN.

1. Maturity derives, perh via late MF-F maturité, from L mātūrītās, o/s mātūrītāt-, from mātūrus, produced at the right or favourable moment, hence fully developed, itself, like the goddess Mātūta, built, with abstract formative -tu-, from the IE r mā-, good: cf Hit mā-, to ripen, the OL adj mūnis, var mānis, good, and the L māne, in the morning: cf the syn OIr and Ga maith, Ga var math, OIr var maid, W and Br mad (OBr mai), OC matīs*, var matos*, good.

2. OL mānis, good, has L pl mānēs, used as n, the good (gods), euphem for dī inferi, later a family's ancestral spirits worshipped as gods.

3. L mātūrus has derivative v mātūrāre, to ripen or to cause to ripen, with pp mātūrātus, whence 'to maturate'; derivative mātūrātiō, o/s mātūrātiōn-, yields, perh via MF-F, maturation; derivative F maturatif, f -ive, explains E maturative. Mātūrāre has inch mātūrescere, to begin to ripen, presp maturescens, o/s maturescent-, whence the E adj maturescent.

4. Mātūrus has neg immātūrus, whence immature; derivative immātūrītās, o/s immātūrītāt-, becomes immaturity; it also has the prae- (before) cpd praemātūrus, whence premature, whence, anl, prematurity.

5. Late ME-E demure is o.o.o.: either it adds an unclear de- (? at least orig, int) to late ME mure, modest, mature, from OF meür (F mür), L mātūrus (OED); or it elliptically represents MF de meüre (F müre) façon or pensée, of mature or modest behaviour or thought (as Webster hints); or it derives from OF de murs, of manners (F moeurs, L mores), presumably with bonnes understood—most improb; or it comes from AF demurer, var of OF demorer, demourer, to retard, se demorer (-mouurer), to dwell, to abstain, from ML dēmorāre, from LL dēmōrāri, to dwell, remain, continue, a vaguely int dē- cpd of morāri, from mora, a delay (cf MORATORIUM)—perh imm from the AF pp demuré, and certainly comparable, sem, with staid, from 'to stay', the implied orig sense being 'hanging back' (EW), a very attractive theory; or (EP)—deducible both from Palsgrave's 'sadly, gravely, seriously, wysly, demeurement' (1530), admittedly recorded, so far, nowhere else, and also from LL dēmātūrāre, to hasten (Souter), ? also to render very (int dē-) mature, over-mature, staid—it very properly derives from MF demeür* (f demeüre*), mature, grave, modest, from syn ML dēmātūrus*. matutinal. See MATIN.

Maud. See MALKIN.

maudlin; Magdalen, Madeleine, Madelon.

The 4th is a var of the 3rd, which, like E Magdalen or -ene, comes from LL Magdalene, from LGr Magdalēnē, (a woman) of Magdala in Palestine: from Mary Magdalene derive both the fig sense of Magdalen and maudlin, from EE Maudlin, ME Maudeleyne, OF Maudelene, var of Madeleine, LL Magdalene, she being, by the painters, usu represented with eyes red and swollen from weeping.

maul. See MALL.

Maundy Thursday. See MANUAL, para 9, s.f.

Mauresque; Mauretania. See MOOR, para 1 and para 4.

mauve: MF-F mauve, mallow, ML malva, L malua (f.a.e., MALLOW): from the colour of the common mallow's petals.

maverick (AE): an unbranded calf, hence fig, also as v: from the Texan cattle-owner Samuel Maverick (1803–70), who often neglected to brand his calves. (Mathews.)

maw: ME mawe: OE maga: akin to OFris maga, OHG mago, MHG mage, G Magen, ON magi: perh also to Let maq̄s, bag, and Lith makas, pouch.

mawkish. See MAGGOT, para 2.

maxilla, maxillary (adj, hence n).

Maxillary derives from L maxillāris, adj of maxilla, jaw or jawbone, adopted by An and Zoo: and maxilla is—cf axilla and ala—a dim of mala, (upper) jaw, itself o.o.o. (E & M.) maxim, maximal, maximum. See MASTER, para 12.

May, month. See MASTER, para 10.

may (1), a shrub, its bloom. See MASTER, para 10.

may (2), v; might, v and n; dismay (v, hence n).—Cf the sep MACHINE and MAIN.

1. May derives from OE maeg, I am able, pt meahte, later mihte, whence might, v: cf OHG magan, MHG mugen, mügen (cf G mögen), OFris muga, Go magan, ON mega, to be able: cf also OSi mogō, I can, and prob Gr mēkhos, means (as ult in MACHINE).

2. With OE meahte, I was able, cf the intimately cognate OE meaht, var miht, power, whence E might: cf OFris mecht, var macht, OHG-MHG maht, G Macht, OS maht, Go mahts, ON mátt (for maht*): prob cf also Skt māyā, magical power, and perh Eg nāst, strength, from nāsh, to be strong. Derivative OE meahtig, mihtig, becomes mighty.

3. The Gmc r mag-, to be able, occurs in VL exmagāre, to deprive—connoted by ex-, out of—of strength or power, whence OF-EF esmaier (cf the syn OProv esmagar, esmaiar), to frighten badly, to perturb, whence, with des- (L dis-) for es- (L ex-), the AF desmaier: ME desmaien, later dismaien: E 'to dismay'.

Maya (whence the adj, hence n, Mayan; whence also their language, Mayathan), member of a highly civilized tribe of CA: presumably of CAmérind origin, and prob akin to—perh derived by metathesis from—Zamnā, the early Mayas' culture-god.

maya, magical power. See MIME, para 1; cf the 2nd MAY, para 2.

mayhap. See HAP, para 2.

mayhem. See MAD, para 3.

mayonnaise, elliptical for sauce mayonnaise, var of mahonnaise, f of mahonnais, the adj of Port Mahon in Minorca: but why?

mayor, mayoralty, mayoress. See MASTER, para 8.

mazard. See MEASLES.

maze, n (whence mazy) and v; amaze, v, whence the n amaze and amazement.

'To amaze' derives from OE āmasian, app an int a-+masian, prob akin to the Scan orig of Nor dial masast, to lose one's senses. From OE -masian comes ME masen, mazen, whence 'to maze' or bewilder; and from ME mazen comes the ME, hence E, n maze.

mazer; mazzard. See MEASLES, para 2.

me; mine, my. Me, OE mē (acc, dat), is prob a var, prompted by L mē and Gr me, of OE mec (acc only)—cf ON mek, mik, OS and Go mik, OHG mih, G mich, D mij; further off, L mē (also the OIr form), OL mēd, Gr me, eme, Skt mā; still further off, Hit ammuk, ammug-. The Gmc r is me-; the IE r, eme-.

2. My, early ME mī, derives from ME, from OE, mīn, my, mine: cf OFris, OS, OHG mīn, MHG mīn, G mein, Go meins, ON minn, OGmc mino-, all from OGmc me-.

mead (1), a potent drink. See AMETHYST.

mead (2), a grassy field; meadow.

The latter comes from OE māēdwe, the gen of māēd, E mead: and OE māēd is akin to OFris mēde, OS mada, OHG matoscrech, (lit) meadow hopper, a grass-hopper, MHG mate and, as in G, matte; prob akin to L metere, to mow (see the 1st mow).

meager (AE) or meagre. See EMACIATE, para 2.

meal (1), a repast. See MEASURE, para 13.

meal (2), grain—usu cereal—coarsely ground, whence the adj mealy, whence mealy-mouthed; mealie, mealies; maelstrom; malm, with dial var maum; mellow, adj, whence the v and mellowness; mild; mill, cf miliary and millet; moil; molar (teeth); mold (AE) or mould, friable earth, humus, whence 'to mo(u)lder' and mo(u)ldy; mole, blood clot, molinary, moline; mollescent, mollification, mollify—cf mollusc (AE mollusk), molluscoid, molluscous; mulch (n, hence v) and dial melch; mullein; muller, cf dial mull (dry mould, dust); multure—immolate, immolation; emolument; perh the sep MALL (OF MAUL) and its dim MALLET and also the sep MELT (with MALT, MILT, spleen, and SMELT)—and perh mil'dew, q.v. at MEL, para 4.

1. Meal, grain coarsely ground, derives from ME mele, OE melu, var melo: cf OFris mele, OS melu, OHG melo, MHG mel, G Mehl, MD mele, meele, D meel, ON mjöl (mjöl)—cf also OS, OHG, Go malan (G mahlen), ON mala, and Lith malti, L molere, Gr mullein, to grind, also Hit malla- (mallaŋzi, they grind or crush). IE r, m¹* (esp mel-*), with * running through the vocalic gamut from a to u.

2. D malen, to grind, hence to whirl round, combines with stroom, stream, to form maelstroom (now maal-), a whirlpool, orig the famous one off the W coast of Norway. Hence, E maelstrom.

3. Akin to OE melu, meal, is OE mealm, E malm, a soft, grey, friable limestone: cf ON malmr, ore, OS-OHG melm, G Mulm, dust, Go malma, sand; hence malmstone (or malm rock).

4. Akin to OE melu or mealm is OE myl, ME mul, E (now dial) mull, dry mould, dust, dirt: cf MD and MLG mul, dust, G Müll, garbage. ME mul has derivative mullen to pulverize, whence E 'to mull', to pulverize or powder, and E instr muller, a stone (etc.) used as a pestle: cf ON mylja, OHG mullen, to grind or crush.

5. Akin to OE melu, mealm, myl, is OE-ME molde, AE molde, E mould, soft, friable earth, esp humus: cf the syn OFris molde, OHG molt, molta, Go mulda, ON mold.

6. Akin to OE melu, perh from, OE melu, melo, meal, is ME melwe, E mellow; meal is soft and easily worked.

Latin molina and mola

7. A mill, whether contrivance or machine or building, whence 'to mill', derives from ME millē, earlier melle, mulle, earliest milne, from OE myln, contr of mylen: LL molina, mill: L mola, millstone, mill; L molere, to grind, akin to Gr mullein (corresp to n mulē, LGr mulos). The other OGmc words likewise come from molina. Derivatives: miller (cf G Müller)—millstone—windmill.

8. Perh akin to L mola and molina or, rather, to the IE r, mel-* (para 1, s.f.), is L milium, millet, whence OF-F mil, with syn dim MF-F millet, adopted by E; certainly akin to L milium are Gr melinē and Lith malnos. Milium has adj miliarius, whence E miliary.

9. L milium becomes Port milho, with additional sense 'maize': hence Afr milje: S Afr E mealie, a maize-spike, and pl mealies, maize.

10. LL molina answers to the adj molinus, of a mola or mill(stone), whence the Her adj moline; the adj of molina is LL molinarius, whence E molinary. Mola, however, has adj molāris, whence E molar, whence n (a 'grinder' tooth).

11. Gr mulē, a mill, has the secondary sense 'a hard uterine formation', retained in L mola and becoming Med mole (distinct from mole, blemish).

12. L mola has two derivative cpds notably affecting E:

emolumentum, orig a sum paid to a miller for grinding (molere, to grind) out one's corn, hence a profit, whence, prob via MF-F émolument, the E emolument; immolāre, to strew sacrificial meal upon (a victim), hence to sacrifice, has pp immolātus, whence 'to immolate'; derivative immolatiō, o/s immolatiōn-, becomes MF-F, whence E, immolation.

13. L molere, to grind, has n molitiō, a grinding, which prompts the syn ML molitāra, whence MF moulture (F mouture), whence the hist E multure, a fee for corn-grinding (cf emolument).

Latin mollis, soft

14. Less than very prob, yet rather more than merely perh, akin to L molere (s and r mol-), to grind, is L mollis (s moll-, r mol-), soft, tender, whether physically or morally: cf Skt mṛdūs, weak, mild, Gr amalos, tender, and perh Gr mōlos, enfeebled, and malakos, soft.

15. L mollis, neu molle, yields—via F—the Mus molle. The derivative mollitiēs, softness, is adopted by Med; the mdn molluscus, soft-shelled, neu molluscum, used also as n, becomes F mollusque, whence E mollusc (AE mollusk), whence molluscoid (-oid) and (perh from L molluscus) molluscous. Mollis has v mollire, with VL var molliare*, to soften, whence OF-MF moillier, muiller (F mouiller), to soften, esp by steeping, whence ME moillen, to soak, to wet, hence to soil, whence, as moil, to soil one's hands, to work very hard.

16. L mollire has the inch derivative mollescere, to grow soft, presp mollescens, o/s mollescent-, whence the E adj mollescent. From mollis comes—perh prompted by the LL adj mollificus, softening—ML mollificāre, to render soft, whence MF-F mollifier, whence 'to mollify'; derivative ML mollificatiō, o/s mollificatiōn-, becomes—via EF-F mollification—E mollification. Mollire has the int cpd emollire, to soften ē- or out, with presp emolliens, o/s emollient-, whence E emollient, adj hence n.

17. Akin to L mollis, soft, is OE melsc, mellow, soft, whence the now dial E melch, soft, (of weather) mild: hence, app, the ME molsh, soft, sodden (cf the G dial mol/sch, soft, beginning to rot): hence the E mulch, a cover—orig, of wet straw—of straw or leaves to protect plant-roots or, derivatively, to keep fruit clean; hence 'to mulch' (dress with mulch).

18. L mollis becomes OF mol, whence, prob—because its leaves are woolly and its down very soft—MF molaine, moleine (F molène), whence ME moleyne, E mullein (occ mullen).

E mild

19. L mollis is app for molduis* (cf mold, mould in para 5): and this OL mold-* is very prob akin to the Gmc mild-* occurring in E mild, OE milde: cf OFris milde, OS mildi, mild, OHG mildi, milti, MHG milte, kind, generous, G mild, Go mildeis, MD melde, milt, milde, D mild, ON mildr, mild; cf the OC r mel-* (app a var of mal-*, soft) in Olr meld, mild, meldach, complaisant, and the var r mal-* in Gr malthakos, gentle, feeble, perh an extn or a mdfn of Gr malakos, soft, and in OP mal dai (pl), young, OSi mladú, tender, young.—Hence mildness.

mealies. See prec, para 9.

mealy, mealy-mouth(ed). See the 2nd MEAL (heading).

mean (1), adj: ordinary, hence inferior, stingy, (AE coll) petty-minded: ME mene: aphetic for OE gemāene, general, common: cf OHG gimeini, MHG gemeine, OFris mēn- (in cpds) and mēne, Go gamains, MD gemene, gemeene, D gemeen, all 'held' in com mon—cf G gemein, vulgar (pej); cf also L communis (s commun-), OL comoinis (s comoin-). The ga-, ge- prefix is int; of the base, the Gmc etymon is mainiz*, the IE etymon is moinis* (Walshe).

2. The basic idea is app 'to exchange' (Webster): cf L munus, a civic obligation, hence a gift, and munia, obligations, official duties, (civic) services, and, without the -n- infix, Skt mayate, he exchanges. Munia has cpd municipium, as in municipal, q.v. at CAPABILITY, para 8. Munus has the cpd adj munificus, gift-making, generous, lavish, whence E munific (obs), whence, anl, munificent; munificence derives from L munificentia, anl from munificus.

3. L munus has o/s muner-, as in the derivative munerāre, to make a present of, with cpd remunerāre, to reward (re-, back, again), pp remunerātus, whence 'to remunerate'; derivative remunerātiō, o/s remunerātiōn-, accounts, prob via MF-F, for remuneration, whence, anl, remunerative.

4. For commune, communion, community, etc., see sep COMMON.

5. L munus has derivative neg adj immunis, free from public obligation or service: whence, ? via MF, the E immune. Derivative L immunitās, o/s immunitāt-, becomes MF-F immunité, whence E immunity, whence, anl, 'to immunize', whence immunization.

6. Cf the sep MUTATION, etc.

mean (2), adj: intermediate, hence average. See MEDIAL, para 10.

mean (3), n: the average. See MEDIAL, para 10.

mean (4), v (to have in mind; to signify), whence ill- and well-meaning and -meant; meaning, n, and moan, n, hence v, whence moaner and moaning—cf bemoan.

1. 'To mean', pt and pp meant, comes, through ME menen, from OE māenan, to recite or tell, hence to state an intention, to intend: cf OFris mēna, OS mēnian, OHG meinēn (cf G meinen, to think, to mean), MD meinen, menen, (as in D) meenen, to say, to mean; cf also OB mēniti and perh Hit mema-, to say: Gmc r, main-; IE r, moin-. (Walshe.)

2. Akin to mean is moan, n: ME mone, earlier mane: OE mān*, from OE māenan, to complain, very prob id with OE māenan, to recite. OE māenan, to complain, has int bemāenan, ME bimēnen, whence, under the influence of moan itself, 'to bemoan'.

meander (n, hence v—whence the pa and vn meandering): a winding or turn of a stream, hence a winding course or path: L maeander; Gr maia ndros: Gr Maiandros, that Phrygian river—now the Menderes—which was anciently proverbial for its extremely winding course.

meaning, n, whence meaningful. See the 4th MEAN (heading).

means, as in 'ways and means'. See mean, n, at MEDIAL, para 10.

meant. See the 4th MEAN, para 1.

measles, whence, as if from the old sing, the pa measled: ME masel, pl maseles: cf the syn D mazelen (MD maselen) and G Masern, pl of G Maser, a vein, a streak, OHG masar, a knotty excrescence; cf OE maser, a knot in wood, and even OHG māsa, a scar. (Walshe.)—Hence, measly, lit 'measled', hence sl 'contemptible'.

2. Akin to OHG masar (as above) and MD maser, excrescence on a maple (cf ON mōsurr, a maple), is ME maser, E mazer, a large drinking bowl, ? orig of maple wood.

measurable. See para 5 of:

measure (n and v), measurable (hence the neg immeasurable), measureless, measurement, measurer, pa and vn measuring; mensal (monthly), menses, menstrual, menstruant, menstruate, menstruation, menstruous; mensurable (and incommensurable, immensurable), mensural, mensuration (whence, anl, mensurative); mens(e)- in: commensurable, commensurate, commensuration—dimensible, dimension (whence dimensional)—immense, immensity.—moon (n, hence v), whence moony and such visual cpds as moonbeam, -calf, -fish, -flower, -light (-lit), -shine, -stone, -struck: cf Monday, also month, monthly.—meter and metre, metric (with extn metrical); cpds: diameter, diametral, diametric (extn diametrical)—parameter, whence, anl, parametric(al)—perimeter, whence, anl, perimetric and (after symmetry) perimetry—symmetry, whence, anl, symmetric(al), cf symmetrize, with negg asymmetry and asymmetric(al); catamenia.—meal, a repast; piecemeal.—Cf the sep MODE (where moderate, modest, etc.) and the sep MEDICAL (where meditate).

Indo-European

1. The idea of 'to measure' and 'a measure' lies at the back of all these words: Gr, L, Gmc. L mētīri, to measure, has s and r mēt-, an extn of IE mē-, to measure: and this mē- is seen also in the pp mēnsus, measured, with s mēns- occurring in LL mēnsūra, a measuring, and L mēnsis, a month; this s mēns- has r mēn-, as also in Gr mēnē, moon, and mēn, month (measured by the moon), with Gmc var mān- or mon- (E moon). The IE mē-* appears, although in the var me-, in Gr metron, a measure. On an IE scale, cf Skt māti (and mimāti), he measures, mātrā, a measure, mīta-, to measure, mātis, a measure, esp in sense 'exact knowledge' (cf Gr mētis, prudence, cunning); OE māeth, a measure, and OE māel, Go mēl, (a measured length of) time; OSI mēnū, a measure, and Lith mėnuo, moon, month, Tokh A mañ, moon, month, and Tokh B meñe, month; Go mēnōths, month, OHG māno, moon; Skt mās-, māsas, month, moon; perh of Hit mehur (gen mēhunas), time, esp a point of time, and hieroglyphic Hit meimulas, crescent of moon. The changes of the moon afforded the earliest measure of time longer than a day (measured by the sun).

For the var med-, see MEDICAL; for the subsidiary var mod-, see MODE.

Greek

2. Gr mēnē, moon, has the cpd adj katamēnios, monthly, whence ta katamēnia (neu pl), 'the monthlies' or menses: Med catamenia.

3. IE mē- has var me-, as we see in Gr metron (perh for medstron*), a means of measuring, a measure, a rule, a verse or Mus metre; s metr-, r met- (extn of me-). Metron becomes L metrum, MF metre (F mètre), E metre, AE meter. Derivative Gr adj metrikos becomes L metricus, late MF-F métrique, E metric. The n metric, prosody, derives from F la métrique, elliptical for l'art métrique.

4. The chief Gr prefix-cpds affecting E are: diametros (adj, hence n)—dia being 'through'—L diameterus, MF diametre, adopted by ME, whence diameter; LL diametrālis, MF-F diamétral, E diametral; Gr diametrikos, E diametric; whence, anl, the SciE parameter, whence parametric; perimetros (peri, round about), adj hence n, L perimetros, later -us, whence, anl, E perimeter, whence perimetric; summetria (sun-, with, together), a just proportion, L symmetria, EF symmétrie (F symétrie), E symmetry, whence, anl, symmetrical; the Gr neg asummetria yields asymmetry (cf F asymétrie), whence—prompted by Gr asummetros—asymmetrical.

Latin

5. L mētīri, to measure, has pp mēnsus, whence L mēnsūra, whence VL mēsūra, whence OF-F, hence ME, measure, E measure; LL mēnsūrālis becomes learned E mensural. Derivative LL mēnsūrāre, VL mēsūrāre, becomes OF-F mesurer, E 'to measure'; derivative LL mēnsūrābilis, VL mēsūrābilis, becomes OF-F mesurable, whence E measurable. LL mēnsūrābilis also becomes erudite E mensurable. The LL neg immēnsūrābilis becomes immensurable.

6. Mēnsūrāre has further derivatives: the pp mēnsūrātus yields the rare 'to mensurate'; the subsidiary mēnsūrātīō, o/s mēnsūrātīōn-, yields mensuration, orig a measuring. CF LL commēnsūrāre, to measure by comparison, whence commēnsūrābilis, MF-F, hence E, commensurable; the pp commēnsūrātus becomes the E adj commensurate, and the subsidiary commēnsūrātīō, o/s -ātīōn-, explains commensuration; the neg LL incommēnsūrābilis gives us MF-F, hence E, incommensurable, which anl suggests E incommensurate.

7. The mēns- of the L pp mēnsus has two other important prefix-cpd derivatives: dimētīri, to measure exactly, and immēnsus, unmeasured. Dimētīri, to measure thoroughly (di- for Gr dia, throughout), has pp dimēnsus, whence dimēnsiō, o/s dimēnsiōn- whence, via MF-F, the E dimension, whence, anl, dimensionable.

8. L immēnsus, not (in-) measured, hence, as adj, not—at least, not easily—measurable, hence huge, vast, becomes MF-F immense, adopted by E; derivative M immēnsitās, o/s immēnsitāt-, becomes MF-F immensité, whence E immensity.

9. L mēnsis (s mēns-, r mēn-), a month, has pl mēnses, retained by Med in a specialized sense. The derivative LL adj mēnsuālis (suffix -uālis: cf annuālis from annus, a year) yields erudite E mensual and F mensuel. The L mēnstruus, monthly, has neupl mēnstrua, used as n in Med sense, whence LL mēnstruāre, with pp mēnstruans, o/s mēnstruant-, whence the E adj menstruant, and with pp mēnstruātus, whence 'to menstruate', whence, anl, menstruation. Also from L mēnstrua come both LL mēnstruālis, whence—perh via MF-F menstruel—E menstrual, and LL mēnstruōsus, whence E menstruous.

Germanic

10. E moon, ME mon, OE mōna, is akin to OFris mōna, OS and OHG māno, MHG māne, Go mēna, MD mane, maen, D maan, ON māni: cf para 1.

11. E month, ME moneth, OE mōnath (? mōna, moon+abstract suffix -th), is akin to OFris mōnath, OHG mānōd, MHG mānōt, G Monat, Go mēnōths, ON mānathr (-uthr). Derivative OE mōnathlic becomes E monthly.

12. E Monday (whence Mondayish), ME moneday, earlier monenday, OE mōnandaeg, lit 'day of'—hence, 'sacred to'—'the moon' (cf, sem, the L lunae dies), is akin to OFris mōnandei, OHG mānetag, MHG māntac, G Montag, ON mānadagr.

13. Akin to the OGmc words for 'moon' and 'month' are those for 'measure', esp a measure of, a point in, time, an occasion: e.g., OE māel, a measure, an appointed time, hence—via ME māel, mele, a repast—the E meal: perh imm from ON māl, measure, time, meal-time, meal: cf MHG māl, G Mähl, meal, Go mēl, time: cf para 1.

14. Meal has the cpd piecemeal, ME pececele: ME pece+mele from OE māelum, dat pl of māel, a measure.

meat (whence meaty); sep MATE, companion; mast, collective nuts; for MASTODON, see the element -odon; must, n.

1. Meat, orig food in general (as still in EE), hence animals, esp quadrupeds, flesh used as food: ME, from OE, mete: cf OFris mete, OS meti; with the intimately cognate shorter OE maet, cf OS mat, OHG maz, ON matr. OGmc r, mat-, mati-; IE r, mad-* (cf OIr maise, food—for mad-tja*). Walshe.

2. Akin to OE maet is OE maest, E mast, nuts, esp as food for pigs: cf MHG-G mast and esp Skt mēdas, fat (n).

3. Akin to OE maest is OE-E must, grapes' expressed juice before fermentation, hence juice in state of fermentation: L mustum, elliptical for mustum uinum, new wine: mustus, new, young, fresh: perh cf L muscus, moss: ? IE r mus-*, mould, mustiness.

Mecca, a desirable goal (esp if a place), derives from Mecca, that Arabian city which, Mohammed's birthplace, is the Moslems' holiest city: Ar Makkah, with trilateral r M-K-H: Ptolemy the Geographer called it, c130 A.D., Macoraba: o.o.o. mechanic (adj, hence n), mechanical, mechanism, mechanize, etc. See MACHINE, para 3.

medal, medallion. See METAL, para 3. meddle, meddler, meddlesome. See MIX, para 4.

media, in Phon, is elliptical for L media uox (ML vox), lit 'middle sound', media being the f of medius, intermediate, in the middle; but media is also the neupl of L medius and, in E, used as the Sci pl of medium, q.v. in:

medial; median—cf mitten (with shortened mitt)—mizzen—mezzanine—cf also intermezzo; mediant; mediate, adj (whence mediacy) and v, and mediation (whence, anl, mediative), mediatize, mediator (whence the f mediatress)—cf immedial, immediate (whence immediacy)—cf also intermediary and intermediate; mediocre, mediocrity; medium, Sci pl media; mediety and moiety; mean, intermediate, middling, hence mediocre—whence both the n (as in 'the golden mean') and meanness, also meantime and meanwhile;—L-derived cpds in medi- or medio- (see Elements), mostly self-explanatory, but note mediaeval (medieval), q.v. at AGE, para 2, and mediterranean (whence M—).—Gmc: mid (adj), midst—cf amid, amidst, midshipman (a sailor—junior officer—in mid or middle ship) and other easy cpds, e.g. midday (OE mid-dæg), midland(s), midnight (OE midniht), midway (OE midweg), midwife (ME midwif), whence midwifery; middle, adj and n (whence v), with such obvious cpds as middle-class (adj), middleman, middle west (mid-west), and the less obvious Middlesex, (district of the Middle Saxons, OE Middelseaxan, Domesday Midlesexe; middling, adj, hence n.—Gr: mesial, adj of mesion; meson: qqv at elements mesio-, meso- (where note Mesopotamia) and, f.a.e., para 1—as follows.

Indo-European

1. Medial comes from LL mediālis, situated in the middle, a mdfn of the L medius, middle. With s medi- and r med-, medius is akin to Homeric and Aeolian Gr messos, Attic mesos, varr of an etymon medhios* or, say others, methjos*—cf Cretan mettos; to Skt mādhyas; OC etymon, perh medios*, with r med-*, as in these 'answers' to L medium: OIr medón, Ga meadhon, MW mwyn, Mx mean; to Arm měj, n; to OB mezda (for medja*), a border; to Go midjis, OHG mitti, OS midđi, OE midd, middle (adj). The IE etymon is app medhyos*; the IE r, medh-, the middle, extn medhy-, n, medhyo-*, adj.

Greek

2. See the elements mesio- and esp meso-.

Latin

3. The L adj medius has neu medium, used also as n; adopted by E. In addition to LL mediālis, medius has extn mediānus, whence E median. Medius has derivative LL mediāre, to cut in half, to be at the middle (of), with presp medians, o/s mediant-, whence the It n mediante, whence E mediant, and with pp mediātus, whence both the adj mediate and 'to mediate'; subsidiary LL mediātiō, o/s mediātiōn-, passes through late MF-F mediation to become E mediation, and subsidiary LL mediātor is adopted by E; 'to mediatize', however, derives from the F mediatiser, formed eruditely from MF-F mediation and mediateur.

4. L medius has LL derivative mediētās, the middle, centre, a half, whence E mediety; whence, via the acc mediētātem, the OF meitiet, whence F moitié and E molety.

5. LL mediētās has derivative VL mediētāna*, a mitten (which is 'halved' between thumb and fingers), whence OF-F mitaine, adopted by ME, whence E mitten; B & W, however, derive mitaine from the syn OF mite, itself o.o.o.

6. L mediānus (as in para 3) becomes It mezzano, whence, elliptical for vela (sail) mezzana, the It n mezzana, whence EF-F misaine, whence E mizzen. It mezzano, middle, has dim mezzanino, which, used as n, becomes the late EF-F Arch term mezzanine, adopted by E.

7. Also It is intermezzo, adopted by E as a Mus term: n, from L intermedius, situated in the medius, or middle, between (inter). Intermedius becomes the now rare E intermedial; the neu intermedium, used by LL as n for 'an intervening space' (and partly adopted by SciE), becomes the EF-F intermède, (obs) E intermede; the derivative EF-F adj intermédiaire becomes E intermediary, adj hence n. Prob from the LL n intermedium derives the ML adj intermediātus, whence E intermediate, adj hence n.

8. Whereas the rare immedial (im- for in-, not) is an anl E formation from medial, immediate derives, perh via MF-F immédiat, from LL immediātus, not (im-) mediated, hence next.

9. L medius has the further extn mediocris, a cpd with obscure 2nd element, perh the app dial ocris, a height, a hill (cf Umbrian ocar): 'situated at mid-height', hence 'well poised', hence 'moderate' or 'average', often pej: hence late MF-F médiocre, E mediocre; derivative L mediocritās, o/s mediocritāt-, becomes MF-F médiocrité, whence E mediocrity.

10. L mediānus, situated in the middle (as in para 3), becomes OF meien, adj hence n: ME mene: E mean.

11. L medius, s and c/f medi-, has the notable LL cpd mediterraneus, situated between two lands (terra, a land: f.a.e., TERRA), applied esp to the land-locked sea and soon used as n therefor: E Mediterranean.

Germanic

12. The E adj mid, which lacks a comp but has sup midmost (OE midmest), derives from OE midd, with cognates as in para 1; the OE adv middes occurs in the phrase in middes, which, influenced by middest (a sup of mid), becomes in the midst, whence E midst.

13. With mid, midst, cf amid, amidst. Amid comes from ME amidade, itself from earlier ME amiddes, whence amidst: and ME amiddes (gen -s, used as adv suffix) comes from OE on middan, in the middle, the n midde deriving from the adj midd.

14. The n middle derives from OE middel, from the OE adj middel, whence, via ME middel, the E adj middle. The OE adj middel is akin to OFris middel, OHG mittil (whence the MHG-G n mittel, means), MD-D middel: all the OGmc forms represent extn of the simple adj (OE midd, etc., as in para 1). The adj middling, orig 'intermediate', recorded first in 1495 (OED), app derives from mid, adj + -ling as used in adj.

mediate, mediation, mediate, mediator. See prec, para 3.

medicable. See para 2 of:

medical, medicament, medicate, medication (whence, anl, medicative), medicatory; medicine, n (whence medicinal) and v, medico;—remedy, n (whence remediless) and v, remediable (and irremediable), remedial.—meditant, meditate, meditation, meditative.—mete, to measure, whence meter, an instrument that measures, whence, in turn, meterage.—Cf the rather closely related MEASURE and MODE, treated sep.

Medicine

1. Medical derives, via EF-F médical, from L medicālis, adj of medicus, a physician, itself orig an adj, deriving from medēri, to attend medically

(to), s and r med-, itself an extn of the IE r me-, to measure: f.a.e., MEASURE, para 1.

2. L medicus, physician—whence It medico (cf Sp médico), adopted as E coll—has derivative medicāre, attend medically, which has these derivatives affecting E:

LL medicābilis, capable of healing—a sense obs in E medicable; medicāmentum, MF-F médicament, E medicament, whence medicamental, medicamentous; medicātiō, o/s medicātiōn-, whence, perh via EF-F medication, the E medication;

LL medicātōrius, with healing power, whence E medicatory; medicinus, of or by or for a physician, whence, via medicina ars, the physician's art, the n medicina, whence, via OF-MF and ME, medicine, whence, partly, 'to medicine', partly from OF-MF mediciner;

LL medicinālis (from medicina), of or for or by healing, whence, via OF, the E medicinal.

3. L medēri has the derivative remedium, a medical tending that brings back (re-) health; whence, via OF-MF remede (F remède), the E remedy; 'to remedy' derives, via OF-MF remedier, from L remediāre (from remedium). Derivative LL remediālis produces E remedial; derivative L remediābilis produces remediable, with the neg irremediābilis explaining irremediable.

Meditation

4. L medēri, orig to attend to (any person or thing), has the freq meditāri, to apply oneself to, to study, to reflect upon, with presp meditans, o/s meditans-, whence the E adj and n meditant; the pp meditātus yields 'to meditate'; derivative meditātiō, o/s meditātiōn-, passes through OF-MF to E meditation; derivative LL meditātīuus, ML -ivus, becomes OF-MF meditatif (f -ive), whence E meditative.

Measurement

5. Whereas L medicus is a measurer of man's ills and injuries and meditation is the thought-measuring of an idea, a fact, a thing, the IE r me-, to measure, is displayed openly in OE metan, whence 'to mete', akin to OFris meta, OS metan, OHG mezzan, MHG mezzen, G messen, Go mitan, MD-D meten, ON meta; cf also Gr medesthai (s and r med-), to attend to, to estimate, and OIr midur (r mid-), I judge. Cf the 1st MEET.

mediety. See MEDIAL, para 4.

medieval, medievalism, etc. See AGE, para 2.

mediocre, mediocrity. See MEDIAL, para 9.

meditant, meditate, meditation, meditative. See MEDICAL, para 4.

Mediterranean, Mediterranean. See MEDIAL, para 11, and TERRA, para 6.

medium (n, hence adj). See MEDIAL, para 3.

medlar, tree, its fruit: ME medler, the tree, adopted from OF-MF; var of OF-MF meslier, the tree, from OF-EF medle, var of mesle, the fruit, var mesple (with MF var nesple, whence F nêfle): L mespila, varr -lus, -lum, with dissimilated var nespila: Gr mespilê, var mespilon: perh orig Ch—cf LOQUAT.

medley. See MIX, para 6.

medulla (whence the adj medullar), medullary.

The latter derives from L medullāris, adj of medulla, marrow (filling the cavities of bones), adopted by Sci: perh for merulla* (deducible from several Italic dialects), with -d- suggested by L medius, middle: if that be so, cf the syn OIr smiur, EIr smír, Ga smíor, and the s-less W mër, Cor maru; moreover, if that be so, L medulla is akin to E SMEAR.

Medusa (whence the jellyfish medusa), adopted from L Medūsa, is a mere trin of Gr Medousa, one of the Gorgons: f of Medōn, Lord, prop the presp of medein, to take care of, to protect, to rule over: r med-, extn of IE me-*, to measure: cf MEDICAL, para 1, and MEASURE, para 1.

meed, a due reward or recompense: ME mede: OE mēd: cf the syn OFris mēde, OS mēda, OHG mēta, mieta, MHG miete (cf G Miete, rent, hire), Go mizdō, Osl mizda; Gr místhos (for mizdhós*), Av mīzda, Skt mīḍha (for mizdhá*), booty.

meek (whence meekness): ME mēk, a contr of mēoc: ON mjúkr, mild, gentle, soft: cf Go múka-mōdei, gentleness, MLG múke, MD muke, D muik: ult akin to MUCUS (f.a.e.). meerschaum. See MERE, n, and cf SKIM, para 2.

meet (1), adj (suitable, fitting): ME mete: OE gemāete, akin to OE metan, to measure, q.v. at MEDICAL, para 5.

meet (2), v (whence the vn meeting), hence n; pt and pp met.

'To meet', ME meten, OE mētan, is akin to OFris mēta, OS mōtían, Go gamōtjan, ON moeta, to meet, therefore also to ON mōi and OE gemōt, in cpds -mōt, a meeting, whence E moot, now only hist; OE -mōt has derivative mōtían, to meet for talk or discussion, ME motien, later moten, E 'to moot', now archaic, even for 'to discuss', yet extant in 'a moot case or point', one requiring or worthy of discussion.

Meg. See MARGARET (heading).

megalomania is SciL for 'delusion of (one's own) grandeur': 'great madness': cf the elements megalo- and -mania. Cf:

megaphone, 'great voice': cf the element mega-.

For this, as for prec, see, f.a.e., MASTER, para 1.

megrim. See MIGRAINE.

meinie, meiny. See MANOR, para 4.

meiosis, meiotic.

The latter derives from Gr meiōtikos, the adj of meiōsis, diminution, from meioun, to diminish (vt), from meiōn, smaller, akin to minuēin (L minuere), to diminish: IE r, mei-*, to diminish.

mel, honey (Pharm); melliite, melilot, mellifluous, all three at element meli-; mellite (L melli, c/f + Min -ite), whence mellitic;—molasses; mulse;—mildew.

1. L mel, honey, gen mellis, c/f melli-, is akin to Gr meli: cf Hit melit (var milit: cf OIr mil), honey, and meliddus (var mil-), sweet; cf also mead, q.v. at AMETHYST.

2. L mel has LL adj mellāceus, honey-like, hence sweet, whence, via the n mellāctum, Port melaço (cf Sp melaça, whence EF-F mélasse), whence EE melasses, whence—violently, yet Britannically—E molasses. The Chem adj melassic derives from the F mélasse.

3. Akin to L mel is L mulsum, mixed with honey, whence mulsum (sc uinum), wine strongly flavoured with honey: E mulse.

4. A Gmc cognate of L mel, Gr meli, perh occurs in OE meledēaw, mildēaw, whence E mildew; but the sense agrees ill with the presumed orig meaning 'honey-dew', and well with the sense 'meal (or flour)-dew', as prob in the cognate OHG militou, MHG miltou, G Mehltau: cf OE melu, E meal, grain coarsely ground. (Walshe.)

melancholia, melancholic, melancholy; melanian, melanic, melanin, melanism, melanite, melanoid, melanosis (whence melanose), melanous; melasma; Melanetia—see Elements at mela-;—mullet, surmullet; mule, slipper.

1. Melancholy, ME from OF melancolie (F mé-), derives from LL melancholia, now a Med and Psy term in E: Gr melankholia: Gr c/f melan-+an -ia abstract derivative from kholē, gall, bile (f.a.e., CHOLER): 'black bile', hence an extremely depressed, long-lasting mood. Gr melas, o/s melan-, f melaina (cf Skt malinī), is akin to Skt *malind*s, filthy, black, mlānas, black, mala-, filth, dirt; cf also OHG māl, a mark, a spot, and Lith mėlynas, blue: IE r, mel-, varr māl- and mōl-*, dirty, dark. (Hofmann.)

2. Gr melankholia has adj melankholikos, LL melancholicus, F melancolique (F mé-), E melancholic.

3. The Gr melas, through its c/f melan-, directly affects E in the foll words:

melanian (-ian) and melanic (-ic), adj, as are melanoid (-oid) and melanous (-ous); melanin (Chem suffix -in) and melanite (Min suffix -ite); cf the Zoo melanism (-ism), whence, anl, melanistic; melanosis, Gr melanōsis, a becoming black, from melanoussthai, to become black, from c/f melan-.

4. The Med melasma (with derivative adj melasmic) is adopted from Gr ('a black spot'): melas+suffix -asma.

5. Akin to Gr melas, black, is Gr mullos, a red mullet, L mullus, whence, prob, the OF-F, orig dim, mulet, adopted by ME, whence, by Classical re-shaping, E mullet. With the red mullet, cf, both phon and sem, the L mulleus, and the Lith mulvas, reddish.

6. E surmullet, a red mullet, is adopted from F: OF sormulet: OF sor (F saure: cf SORREL)+OF mulet.

7. L mulleus, reddish, is, as n, used elliptically for mulleus calceus, a reddish shoe, i.e. of red leather: hence, prob via MD mule (later myule: D muil), the EF-F mule, adopted by E for a backless slipper.

Melbourne, Aus city, was, c1836, named for the E statesman Lord Melbourne (1779–1848): PIN Melbourne, either 'middle stream' or 'mill stream'. The adj, hence 'inhabitant', is Melburnian.

melch. See the 2nd MEAL, para 17.

mêlée. Cf medley; see MIX, para 6.

melic. See MELODY.

melilite; melilot. See the element meli-.

melliorable, melliorant, melliorate, mellioration (whence, anl, melliorative), melliorism, melliority; ameliorable, ameliorant, ameliorate, amelioration (whence, anl, ameliorative and amellorator).—Cf the sep MULTITUDE.

1. Ameliöräre (ad, to, used int) does not exist in L; ML, however, possesses the rare ameliöräri, to be in better health: and to it, something is perhaps owed by the OF ameillorer, to render better, from OF meillor, better (L melior); Voltaire re-shapes the OF ameillorer to améliorer, which E, after melliorate, turns into ameliorate; the derivative MF amelioration, F amélioration, becomes E amelioration, whence, prompted by the simple melliorable, etc., the subsidiaries ameliorable, etc.

2. L meliöräre, to render better, has resp meliörans, o/s meliörant-, whence the E n melliorant, and pp meliörätus, whence 'to melliorate'; the inf s meliör- suggests melliorable; the pps has derivative LL meliörätid, o/s meliörätion-, whence mellioration.

3. Whereas melliority derives from ML meliörität, o/s meliörität-, melliorism and melliorist=L melior, better+-ism, -ist. L melior, s meli-, r mel-, is akin to Gr mallon (r mal-), rather, and mala, very, and prob to the L adj multus (s mult-, OL r mul-*), much, many a (cf MULTITUDE).

mell, to mix or meddle. See MIX, para 5.

mellay. Cf medley; see MIX, para 6.

mellifluous. See the element meli-.

mellow. See the 2nd MEAL, para 6.

melodic, melodious, melody. See ODE, para 5.

melon; malus and pepo; marmalade; camomile, q.v. at HOMO; pompion, pumpkin.

1. Melon, OF melon, derives from mēlonem, acc of early LL mēlō, 'fruit of the gourd or water melon or quince' (Souter), but esp of the 2nd: short for LGr mēlopépōn, a watermelon, (lit) an apple-shaped melon: mēlon, an apple+pepōn, a (large) melon.

2. Gr pepōn becomes—Pliny onwards—L pepō (gen peponis), adopted by E as a Bot term. Gr pepōn is lit '(a fruit) cooked (by the sun)': cf the element -pepsia.

3. Gr mēlon, an apple (cf Gr mēlēā, mēlis, apple-tree), is o.o.o.: perh from the Aegean island Mēlos (Hofmann); perh, however, the plant being indigenous to tropical Africa and southern Asia, mēlon is a Medit word.

4. Gr mēlon becomes or, at the least, prompts the L mālum, an apple, mālus, an apple-tree; the latter is adopted as a Bot term.

5. Marmalade (occ marmelade) comes from F marmelade, EF mermelade: prob via Sp mermelada: Port marmelada: an -ada derivative from Port marmelo, quince: dissimilated from L melimēlum, a honey- or sweet-apple: Gr melimēlon, a sweet apple, esp a quince-grafted apple: meli, honey (f.a.e., MEL)+mēlon, apple (as in paras 1, 3).

6. The now only dial pompion, pumpion, whence, with dim suffix -kin, the E pumpkin, is a var of EE pompon, adopted from late MF-EF, which nasalizes popon, itself a var of late MF-EF pepon, from L peponem, acc of pepō (as in para 2).

melos, song, melody. See ODE, para 5.

melt (v, hence n)—pt, pp (hence pa) melted—presp, hence pa and vn, melting; obs pp, now only adj, molten (OE gemolten); cf malt, n, hence v (whence pa malted), maltose (malt, n+Chem -ose);—smelt, v, whence smelter, smeltery, pa and vn smelting; cf smalt, whence smaltine, smaltite (Min suffixes -ine, -ite); prob milt, spleen; enamel.

1. 'To melt' derives from OE meltan, vi, sense-assisted by OE mieltan, myltan, vt: cf ON melta, to digest, Gr meldein (vt), to melt, and perh L mollis, soft: IE r, prob meld-*.

2. Akin to melt is smelt, to fuse (ore): MD or MLG smelten: cf OHG smelzan, MHG smelzen, G schmelzen, to melt, vi, and the vt OHG-MHG smelzen, G schmelzen.

3. Akin to OE meltan, mieltan, to melt (vi, vt), is OE mealt, E malt, grain (usu barley) softened by steeping and thereupon allowed to germinate: cf ON malt, OHG-G malz (cf the OHG adj malz, melting away, and ON maltr, rotten), MD malt, molt, moud, D mout.

4. Akin to the v smelt is the n smalt, adopted from EF-F: It smalto, coloured glass, of Gmc origin: cf OHG smelzan (as in para 2), but esp OHG smelzi, G Schmelz, enamel, and cf MLG smalt, OHG-MHG smalz, G Schnalz, fat or lard, which melt easily and, in one form, result from cooking.

5. Enamel itself (v, hence n) derives from AF enameler, earlier enamayller: en-, in(to)+amayl, OF esmail (F émail), earlier esmal, from a lost esmalt*: Frankish smalt*, deduced from OHG smelzi, enamel.

6. Akin prob to OE mealt, malt, and meltan, to melt, is OE milte, the spleen: cf OFris milte, OHG milzi, MHG milze, G Milz, MD melte, milte, D milt, ON milte, milti.

member, part—esp limb—of the human body, hence a person in a group or a community; hence membral; dismember, dismemberment;—membrane, whence, prompted by L membranus, the adj membranous; membranelle, membranule;—meninges, whence, anl, meningeal and meningism, cf meningitis;—mensa, mensal.

1. Member, ME from OF membre, derives from L membrum (senses as in heading): s membr-, r memb-, extn of IE mem-* or men-, base of mēmsro-, var of mēmso-*, part of a (living) body: cf Gr mēninx, membrane, Skt māmsām, Tokh B missa, Arm mis, Alb miš, OSl mešo, Go mimz, flesh; perh also cf Gr mēros, thigh, and OIr mēr, a piece of flesh, and very prob of Skt mās (? for mēs* for mēms*), flesh.

2. L membrum becomes OF-F membre, whence OF-MF desmembrer, to tear limb from limb, whence 'to dismember'; derivative MF desmembrement yields dismemberment.

3. L membrum has adj membrānus*, of the body's limbs, whence, elliptical for carō membrāna, flesh covering the limbs, the n membrāna, skin covering the limbs, hence membrane: whence, perh from EF-F, the E membrane. The L dim membranulum, -ula, yields E membranule and prompts the SciL membranella, whence Zoo membranelle.

4. Gr mēnix (μῆνιγγέ), skin, membrane, has gen mēningos (μῆνιγγος), whence the SciL meninges (cf LL mēninga, the dura mater membrane), the three membranes encasing both the brain and the spinal cord: and meninges+the 'disease' suffix -itis accounts for meningitis.

5. Perh akin to Gr mēnix and L membrum is L mēnsa, a table; this is a good guess only if the orig sense was 'a meat board' or even 'meat itself'. But the somewhat discredited old etymology mēnsa* for mēnsus, pp of meīrī, to measure' is preferable, for it might well have originated in tabula mēnsa, 'a measured plank (hence collectively, set of planks)'. L mēnsa has LL adj mēnsālis, whence the erudite E mensal.

memento. See MIND, para 14.

memoir. See para 4 of MEMORY.

memorabilia, memorable, memorandum. See para 4 of MEMORY.

memorial (adj, hence n). See para 5 of MEMORY.

memorize. See the heading of:

memory (whence 'to memorize'); memoir (often in pl), whence memoirist; memorabilia; memorable; memorandum, pl memoranda, often shortened, coll, to memo, memos; memoria, memorial (adj, hence n), whence memorialist, memorialize; memorise; immemorial; commemorable, commemorate, commemoration, commemorative, commemorator;—remember, remembrance, remembrancer; cf perh moratorium, moratory; cf prob mourn, whence mourner, mournful, mourning (pa and vn).—Gr: martyr (n, hence v), martyrdom, martyrize, martyr— and martyrology, whence, anl, martyrological and martyrologist.

Indo-European

1. The L starting-point is memor, mindful; the Gr, martius (gen marturos), a witness; and the Gmc, OE murnan, to grieve. The resp rr are mem-, memor being a redup; mart-, prob an extn of mar-* (cf the Skt suffix -i); murn-, prob an extn of mur-*. Cf the Gr merimna, solicitude, anxiety, and mermeros, solicitous, anxious, the former an ancient extn, the latter a redup, of mer-, itself a var of mar-; cf Skt smdrati, he remembers, with that s- prefix which we find in, e.g., Gr; OLith merēti, to be anxious, and Serbo-Croatian mariti, to grieve over; Go maúrnan, OHG mornēn, to mourn; if L mora, a delay, be indeed cognate, then cf OIr maraim, I remain, and Ga mair, to last, mairneal, dilatoriness; cf also W marth, sorrow, anxiety, Cor mar (obs), a doubt, moreth, grief, regret, Br mār, (a) doubt, with OC r mar-*, to be anxious, itself with an s- var, as in Ga smūr, sadness; Arm mormok, regret, sorrow. The IE r, therefore, is prob mer-* or smēr-* (Hofmann), with varr mar-* and smar-, mor-, mur-* and smur-*, to be anxious, to grieve.

Greek

2. Gr martus (o/s martur-), a witness, has Aeolic and Doric var martur (o/s martur-), which, in LGr, takes the sense 'witness of God, witness to one's faith': hence LL martyr, adopted by OF, OE, etc.; E martyr has derivative martyrdom (-dom). LL martyr has these derivatives affecting E:

LL martyrizāre, to suffer martyrdom, whence, in ML, to inflict it upon, whence, prob via OF-F martyriser, 'to martyrize'; derivative ML martyrizātiō, o/s martyrizātiōn-, produces martyrization;

LL martyrium, martyrdom, hence a martyr's memorial (shrine, chapel, etc.), adopted by E and also anglicized as martyry;

ML martyrologium—cf the element -logy (at -loger)—whence, prob via MF-F martyrologie, the E martyrology.

Latin

3. L mora, a stopping, a pause, (orig mora temporis) a delay, is retained by E as a legal and prosodic term. The derivative morāri, to delay (vi and vt), acquires its own derivative, the LL adj moratōrius, causing delay, dilatory, whence (F moratoire and) E moratory, mostly—as in LL, ML—in Law. Moratōrius has neu moratōrium, which, in modern times, becomes a general European banking term—c1875 in Britain, c1890 in France—with its own adj moratorial.

4. L memor, mindful, has the foll derivatives affecting E:

memoria, memory, hence a remembrance, hence the pl memoriae, memoirs: OF-MF memoire (F mé-), with var memorie, adopted by ME, whence memory; OF-MF memoire gains, in MF, the sense 'memorandum', whence, aided by L memoriae, the pl mémoires, one's personal history, history from the personal angle: whence E memoir and memoirs, etc.;

memorāre, to recall to mind, to celebrate the memory of, hence simply to relate, to narrate; derivative memorābilis, worthy of remembrance, yields memorable (cf late MF-F mémorable), and its neupl memorābilis has been partly adopted by E; the neg inmemorābilis becomes inmemorable; derivative memorandus, worthy or needing to be remembered, has neu memorandum, neupl memoranda, form-adopted, sense-adapted, by E (cf the F mémorandum); pp memorātus, derivatives memorātiō* and LL memorātius (ML -ivus), produce the obs or rare 'to memorate', memoration, memorative—cf commemorate, etc., in para 6.

5. L memoria develops its own adj memoriālis, whence MF, hence E, memorial (F mé-); the derivative LL memoriāle (orig the neu of the adj), a 'sign of remembrance, memorial, monument'

(Souter), becomes the MF n memorial (F mé-), adopted by E; the ML neg immemoriālis yields inmemorial.

6. Memorāre (as in para 4) has cpd commemorāre, a mere int (implied by com-, from cum, with) of the simple v; derivative commemorābilis gives us commemorable; pp commemorātus brings 'to commemorate'; derivative LL commemorātiō, o/s commemorātiōn-, passes through OF-MF to become E commemoration, and the EF-F derivative commémoratif, f -ive, leads to E commemorative; derivative LL commemorātor is extant in E.

7. Memorāre has the derivative var memorāri, to remember, with LL (merely int) cpd rememorāri, to call back to one's own mind, to remember, whence, by a partial dissimilation of OF rememrer* (contr of rememorē*—as in EF), the OF remembrer, whence 'to remember'; derivative OF-MF remembrance is adopted by E, orig in the F senses 'memory' and 'memorandum'; the now rare derivative 'to remembrance' has derivative agent remembrancer, extant mostly in the E Supreme Court Remembrancer.

Germanic

8. 'To mourn', ME mournen, derives from OE murnan: see para 1.

men. Pl of MAN.

menace. See MINATORY, para 1.

ménage, menagerie. See MANOR, para 4.

mend (v, hence n; hence also vn mending) is aphetic for amend, q.v. at MENDICANT.

mendacious, mendacity. See MENDICANT, para 2.

Mendelian is the adj, Mendelism the abstract n, corresp to Mendel's Law, a Bio law governing inheritance: discovered by the Augustinian abbot, Gregor J. Mendel (1822–84).

mendicant (whence mendicancy), mendicity; mendacious, mendacity; amend (whence mend), amende, amendatory, amendment, amends; emend, emendate, emendation, emendatory.

1. The base is L menda (var of mendum), a physical defect, hence a fault, esp in a text: o.o.o.: perh cf W mann, a physical blemish or defect, Cor mans, maimed, crippled, and Skt mindā, a physical defect: IE r, men-* or min-, with var man-, a physical defect.

2. L mendum, -da, has two simple derivatives relevant to E:

mendāx, gen mendācis, whence E mendacious; with derivative LL mendācītās, o/s mendācītāt-, whence E mendacity; mendicus, having physical defects, infirm, (hence) poor, hence, as n, a beggar; derivative mendicāre, to beg for alms, has presp mendicans, o/s mendicant-, whence the E adj, hence n, mendicant; another derivative, mendicītās, o/s mendicītāt-, yields, via OF-F mendicité, the E mendicity.

3. L mendum, -da, has a cpd-v derivative: ēmendāre, to remove (connoted by e, out of) the faults of, to correct, whence 'to emend', to correct (a literary work, esp a text); the pp ēmendātus explains the unwanted 'to emendate'; derivative ēmendātiō, o/s ēmendātiōn-, gives us emendation; derivative agent ēmendātor has been adopted; derivative LL ēmendātorius yields emendatory. Emendable=L ēmendābilis.

4. Emendāre becomes OF-F amender, whence ME amenden, E 'to amend'; derivative OF-F amende, partly adopted in the phrase amende honorable, has pl amendes, adopted by ME, whence E amends (to make). Derivative OF-F amendment, adopted by ME, soon becomes amendment. Amendatory= 'to amend'+emendatory.

menhaden, a herring-like fish abounding off the N Atlantic coast and much used, even by the Amerindians, as a fertilizer: of Alg origin: cf Narragansett munnowhat, fertilizer, and Massachusetts munnoquohteau, he manures the soil. (Webster.)

menhir. See DOLMEN. Perh cf Eg men, a stone, and meni, a stony hill, a mountain.

menial. See MANOR, para 5.

meninges, meningitis. See MEMBER, para 4.

meniscus: SciL from Gr meniskos, little moon, dim of mēnē, moon: f.a.e., MEASURE.

menopause. See PAUSE and cf the element meno- (1).

mensa, mensal. See MEMBER, para 5.

menses. See MEASURE, para 9.

menstrual, menstruate, menstruation, menstruous. See MEASURE, para 9.

mensual. See MEASURE, para 9.

mensurable, mensural, mensurate, mensuration. See MEASURE, paras 5, 6.

mental, mentality. See MIND, para 10.

Mentha (whence menthyl: suffix -yl), menthane (occ menthan), menthol, whence menthene (= menthol+Chem -ene) and mentholated; mint, whence the pungent peppermint and the spearmint with its spire-shaped inflorescence.

1. The Bot Mentha is L mentha, var menta, the aromatic plant mint: perh suggested by Gr mintha, minthē: ? from Asia Minor.

2. Menthol=E Mentha+Chem -ol; from menthol, G forms Menthan (-an is E -ane, a Chem suffix), adopted by E, now usu menthane.

3. OE mintē, whence E mint, app blends L menta and Gr mintha; cf MF mente, EF-F menthe.

mention. See MIND, para 13.

mentor. See MIND, para 2.

menu. See MINOR, para 6.

Mephistophelean (-ian) is the adj of the devil Mephistopheles in Goethe's Faust (1808, 1831): G: o.o.o.: ? from L mephitis (see next).

mephitic (LL mephiticus, var mefiticus) is the adj of L mephitis, mefitis, a noxious exhalation from the earth, but also, prob the earlier, M-, the name of a goddess averting such exhalations: o.o.o.

mercantile. See MARKET, para 2. mercenary. See MARKET, para 6.

mercer, OF-F mercier, orig a merchant, like mercery, OF-F mercerie, orig merchandise, derives from L merx (gen mercis), wares: f.a.e., MARKET, para 1.

mercerize=the v suffix -ize attached to John Mercer (1791–1886), the E calico-printer inventor of the process.

mercury. See MERCER.

merchandise; merchant. See MARKET, para 3.

merciful, merciless. See MERCY.

mercurial, mercury, Mercury. See MARKET, para 5.

mercy, whence merciful (whence unmerciful) and merciless: ME from OF-F merci derives from LL mercēs (gen mercēdis), pity, mercy, from L mercēs, hire, reward: cf MARKET, para 1.

mere (1), adj, clear, hence pure, (hence) this and nothing else; cf sep MORGANATIC and MORN(ING), MORROW.

Mere derives, perh via OF mier, from L merus: cf OE āmerian (int a-), to purify; perh cf Skt māricis, a ray of light.

mere (2), n, the sea (obs), a (small) lake, a pond: ME from OE mere, sea, lake: cf OFris mere, OS meri, Go marei and marī-, OHG marī, meri, MHG mer, G Meer, MD maer, D meer, ON marr; OIr muir (gen mora), Ga muir (gen mara), Cor and EW mor, OC mori* (prob cf Armorica); Lith mārės and Osl morje (cf Ru móre); F dial mare, pond; L mare, sea; perh Skt maryādā, seashore, and prob Gr amárā, a conduit. IE r: mar-*; basic idea, 'liquid'.

2. ME mere, lake, has cpd meremaide, mermayde, whence E mermaid, whence, anl, merman.

3. L mare, sea, has adj marīnus, OF-F marin, E marine; the derivative F n marine becomes also E. The F adj marin (whence the n marin, a sailor, E marine) has EF-F derivative mariner, to put into salt water, whence late EF-F marine, a brine (in cooking), adopted by E; 'to marinate' app fuses—or perh rather, confuses—the F pp mariné and F and E marinade. E mariner, imm from OF-F marinier, seaman, sailor, derives ult from the ML marinārius, n, from L marīnus. The E adj marine has cpd submarine, prob suggested by F sousmarin, which, by becoming, late in C19, a n, has prompted also the E naval n submarine, whence the C20 submariner, one who serves in a submarine.

4. From mare itself comes L marītinus, MF-F maritime, adopted by E.

5. Akin to L mare is OE merisc (prob orig an adj), with contr var mersc, whence ME mersch, E marsh, whence marshy (-y, adj): cf MLG-G marsch, marsh, moor.

6. Akin to OE mersc is OE mōr, a moor, a morass, a swamp, ME mor, E moor (no longer a swamp): cf MLG mor, MHG muor, G Moor, a swamp, OHG muor, sea, D moer, moor. The derivative OE mōrland, fenland, now means predominantly (heathy) moors, which may have bogs and do connote wasteland.

7. With marsh, cf marish, marshy, earlier (and still in dial) a marsh: OF mareis, soon marais: like OProv maresc, from Frankish marisk*—perh via ML mariscus.

8. OF marais also became D moeras (cf D moer, a moor), whence E morass, boggy ground, a swamp.

mère. See MATER (heading).

meretricious. See MERIT, para 4.

merganser: SciL cpd of L mergus, a diving bird (from mergere, to dip: see next entry)+L anser, a goose.

merge, whence the commercial merger and the pa-vn merging; cf sep MERGANSER; obsol merse and mersion; demerse (whence the adj demersal, sinking to the bottom), demersion; emerge, emergence, emergency, emergent, and immerse (whence pa immersed and immersible), immersion; submerge (whence pa submerged), submergent (whence submergence and submergible), and submerse (whence submersed, submersible), submersion.

1. Merge derives from L mergere, to dive, to dip, with pp mersus, whence the rare 'to merse' or dip in a liquid, with derivative LL mersiō, o/s mersiōn-, whence E mersion, now very rare outside of the cpds. L mergere is akin to Lith mazgoti, to wash (by repeatedly dipping), and Skt mājjati, he dives, he bathes; IE r, mezg-, with var māzg-, to plunge in(to) water.

2. L mergere has cpds dē-, ē-, im-, submergere. Dēmergere, to plunge down, to sink, has pp dēmersus, whence the obs v demerse, with extant Bot pa demersed; derivative LL dēmersiō, o/s dēmersiōn-, yields demersion.

3. Emergere, to come to the surface (of an enveloping liquid), gives us emerge; presp ēmergens, o/s ēmergent-, E emergent; the ML derivative ēmergentia, E emergency; pp ēmersus yields 'to emerge' (as counterpart to immerse), whence the Bot adj emersed; its LL derivative ēmersiō, o/s ēmersiōn-, E emersion.

4. Immergere, to plunge in(to), is, in practice, an int of mergere, and yields E immerge; presp immergens, o/s -ent, yields immergent, whence immersion. The pp immersus, whence 'to immerse', has LL derivative immersiō, o/s immersiōn-, whence MF-F, hence E, immersion.

5. Submergere, to plunge under, becomes 'to submerge'; presp submergens, o/s -ent-, becomes submergent; pp submersus accounts for the adj and v submerse; its derivative LL submersiō, o/s submersiōn-, for OF-F, whence E, submersion.

meridian, See DIANA, para 13. The L source meridiānus has ML extn meridiōnālis, whence, via MF-F, meridional, southern, southerly.

meringue, adopted from F, is o.o.o.

merino. See MASTER, para 9.

meristem; merism. See para 5 of:

merit (n, v), meritorious; meretricious; demerit, whence, anl, demeritorious; (professor) emeritus; Bio merism, Bot meristem, Bio meristic.

1. 'To merit' derives from MF-F mériter, itself from the source of the E n merit: OF-MF merite (F mé-): L meritum, orig the neu of meritus, pp of merēre, to receive as one's share or as the price, hence, via merēre (or -ēri) stipendia, (of a soldier) to earn one's pay, to deserve. Meritum has the adj meritōrius, whence meritorious.

2. OF merite has the MF derivative demerite, where de- (F dé-) is L dis-, apart from, (hence) not: hence the E n demerit. The now archaic 'to demerit' comes from the derivative MF demeriter. Both the OF merite and the MF demeriter perch owe something, in form, to L dēmeritus, pp of dēmerēre, to deserve well (int dē-).

3. L ēmerēre, to gain by service (connoted by e-, out of), has pp ēmeritus, whence its retention in academic circles for a professor with long and honourable service; perch influenced by the derivative L n ēmeritus, a soldier time-expired.

4. L merēre has derivative meretrix, she who has earned her pay, hence a prostitute, with adj meretricius, whence E meretricious, now used only fig, as in 'meretricious charms'.

5. L merēre, s and r part-, is akin to Gr meros, a share, a division or part of something, and meiresthai, to obtain as one's share: cf Hit mark-, to divide: IE r, mer-, prob with var smer- (Hofmann). Meros+-ism explains Bio merism; but the merism of Rhet derives from Gr merismos, a partition or division, from meros, whence merizein, to divide, with pp meristos, whence both the Bot meristem, tissue having cells actively divisible, and the Bio meristic, divisible.

merkin. See MALKIN, s.f.

merl, merle. See OUZEL, s.f.

merlin: ME merlion, aphectic for OF esmerillon (F émerillon): from OF esmeril: prob from Frankish smirli: cf OHG smirl (G Schmerl).

mermaid, merman. See the 2nd MERE, para 2.

merry, whence merriment (-ment); mirth, whence mirthful, mirthless.

Mirth, ME mirthe, earlier merthe, murthe, derives from OE mirhth, myrgeth, myrth, from OE myrige, myrge, pleasant, whence, via ME murie, mirie, merie, pleasant, merry, the E merry: and the OE adj is akin to Go gamaurgjan, to shorten, and OHG murg-, murgi, short: so many brevities are agreeable. The IE r is perch mergh-*, short, brief.

mesa, a hill's flat top, a natural terrace, with steep sides, is, along with its dim meseta, adopted from Sp: L mēnsa, a table: f.a.e., MEMBER, para 5.

mescal: Sp mezcal: ASP mexcal: Aztec mexcalli, a drink from juice of the fleshy-leaved maguey (itself a Sp word, prob from Taino, certainly Caribbean).

mesentery, whence the adj mesenteric. See the element meso-.

mesh (n, hence v), whence meshy and also enmesh (whence enmeshment), prob derives from obs D maesche, var of obs D masche (D mass): cf OE māsc, māēscre, OS māscā, OHG māscā, MHG-G masche, mesh, knot, ON möskvi, also Lith māzgas, knot, męgsti, to knot, to weave nets.

mesial. Cf the element mesio-.

mesmeric, mesmerism, mesmerist, mesmerize, all derive from the G doctor F. A. Mesmer (1733-1815), who, at Vienna, first (c1775) publicized hypnotism.

Mesopotamia. See the element meso-.

mesquite: Sp mezquite: Aztec misquitl.

mess (n, hence v), a quantity of food put out at a meal, a course, a group habitually taking a meal, and, likewise derivatively, a hodge-podge, esp if disagreeable: ME from OF-MF mes (F mets): VL missum, a course, prop the neu of missus, pp of mittere, to let go, to send: f.a.e., MISSION.

message, messenger. See MISSION, para 5.

Messiah, Messias.

The latter is LL from L Gr Messias, from Aram mēshihā, whence E Messiah: H māshiah (māshios), anointed: cf, sem, CHRIST. The adj Messianic derives from F messianique from late MF-F Messie from LL Messias.

message: AF mesuage, app a scribal error for OF-MF mesnage: cf ménage at MANOR, para 4.

metizo. See MIX, para 8.

met (1): pt, pp of 'to meet'; (2), meteorologist.

metabola, metabolic, metabolism.

The 3rd adds -ism to E metabola, from LL from Gr metabolē, a fundamental change, a metamorphosis: metaballein, to change: meta, between, after+ballein, to throw: cf BALLISTIC. The derivative Gr adj metabolikos becomes metabolic, often in extn -al.

metal (n, hence adj and v), metallic; metalliferous and metallurgy, whence metallurgic(al) and metallurgist;—medal (n, hence v, esp in int cpd bemedalled); hence also medallist and medallion; mettle, whence mettlesome.

1. Metal, adopted into ME from OF-MF metal (F métal), comes from L metallum, which, like its imm source, the Gr metallon, means orig a mine, derivatively a metal: akin to, perch deriving from, Gr metallan, to search after, seek out, itself o.o.o.: perch Medit, several Eg words sem relevant being phon suggestive. Derivative Gr metallikos becomes L metallicus, whence late MF-F métallique and E metallic.

2. Two cpds merit a notice:

metalliferous: L metallifer, metal-bearing (cf the element -fer); metallurgy: SciL metallurgia: from Gr metalourgos, a metal-worker (cf Gr ergon, work), or metallourgein, to work a mine.

3. L metallum has derivative VL metallia* (monēta), a metal coin, whence It medaglia, late MF-F médaille, E medal; It medaglia has aug medaglione, whence EF-F médailion, E medallion.

4. E metal, used fig for the temper of a sword, came to designate also a person's temperament, esp in fortitude, with a natural tendency, fixed c1700, to the differentiated spelling mettle.

metamorphic, metamorphism, metamorphose, metamorphosis.

Gr metamorphoun, to transform, has derivative metamorphōsis, whence, via L, the E word; on the base metamorph- arise the 1st and 2nd; the 3rd derives from EF-F métamorphoser, from métamorphose, from L metamorphosis. The prefix meta- connotes 'change'; for -morph-, the body of the cpd, see MORPHEUS.

metaphor, metaphoric (with extn -al).

The latter derives, via MF-F métaphorique, from Gr metaphorikos, the adj of metaphora, whence, via L, the MF-F métaphore, whence metaphor: and Gr metaphora derives from metapherein, to transfer: pherein, to carry, meta-, beyond.

metaphysic and metaphysics; metaphysical and metaphysician. See PHYSIC, para 6.

metatarsus. Cf TARSAL and EF-F métatarse and the prefix meta-.

metathesis, metathetic. See THESIS, para 12.

mete, to measure. See MEDICAL, para 5. metempsychosis. See PSYCHE, para 4.

meteor, meteoric, meteorism, meteorite, meteorize; meteorology, meteorological, (and formed) meteorologist.

1. Meteorological is an -al extn of obsol meteorologic, Gr meteōrologikos, the adj of meteōrologia, a discourse (-logia: cf LOGIC) about the atmosphere; the 1st element forms the source of E meteor, which, perh via MF meteore (F mé-), comes from scholastic ML meteōra from ML meteōrum from Gr meteōron, something high in the air; orig the neu of meteōros, high in the air: meta, beyond+eōra, contr of aiōra, a hovering, from—or, at the least, akin to—airein, to raise.

2. ML meteōra has adj meteōricus, whence, perh via EF-F météorique, the E meteoric; F météore has derivative météorite, whence E meteorite. Gr meteōros, high in air, has v meteōrizein, to raise high, whence 'to meteorize'; derivative Gr meteōrismos, a raising, becomes Med E meteorism, flatulence—cf Hippocrates' meteōrizesthai, to suffer from flatulence.

meter (1), AE for Mus and verse metre. See MEASURE, para 3.

meter (2), as for gas and electricity. See MEDICAL (heading).

methane, methanol. See METHYLENE.

metheglin, mead: W meddyglyn (cf Cor medheklyn): W meddyg (L medicus), a physician+W llyn, liquor (cf linn, a pool).

methinks. See THINK, para 1.

method, methodic (whence extn methodical), Methodism, Methodist (whence Methodistic), methodology. See ODOGRAPH, para 5.

methylene, whence methyl, whence methane (whence methanol) and methylate (methyl+alcoholate), n hence v (whence methylated), and its adj methylic: F méthylène: Gr methu, wine+hulē, wood+Chem suffix -ène (E -ene): Science's 'answer' to the truly E wood spirit.

meticulous: EF-F méticuleuse, f of méticuleux: L meticulosus, formed—anl with periculōsus from periculum—from metus, fear: o.o.o.; but the r met- recalls that of L mēsiri, to measure, extn of IE me-* (cf MEASURE, para 1): excessive measuring of, hence excessive thought about, a situation or a potentiality causes fear.

métis. See MIX, para 8.

metonymy (whence metonymic): prob via EF-F métonymie: LL metonymia: Gr metonymia: meta-, prefix of change+onuma (var of onoma), a name.

metre, metric. See MEASURE, para 3.

metropolis, metropolitan. See MATER, para 2, and cf the element -pole.

mettle. See METAL, para 4.

mew (1), a gull: OE māew: echoic, as are OS mēh, MLG mēhe (whence G Möwe), D meeuw, ON mār (pl māvar).

mew (2), a cage for moulting hawks, hence confinement (obsol), hence mews, orig the royal stables (built where the kings' hawks had been housed), hence a range of stables, now esp if converted to houses and apartments: ME mewe, earlier mue: OF-MF mue, a moulting, from muer, to moul, from OF-F muer, to change: L mutāre: f.a.e., MUTABLE. OF muer, to moul, becomes ME muen, E 'to mew' or moul, also (obs) to shed horns.

mew (3), to moul. See prec, s.f.

mew (4), to miaow (hence n): echoic: cf G miauen and the E cognate miaoow, which has var miaul, perh imm from OF-F miauler. Almost a blend of mew and miaul is 'to mewl'.

mewl. See prec, s.f.

Mexican (adj, hence n) prob derives imm, by suffix -an, from Mexico, but perh derives either from F Méxicain or from obs Sp Mexicano (Sp Mejicano), the adj of obs Sp Mexico (Sp Méjico). The Mexicanos were orig those Aztec (most important of the Nahuatl) tribes who, before the Sp Conquest, settled in the country: and the name prob comes either from Aztec mizquitl, desolate land, or from Mixitli, the Aztec god of war. (Santamaria.)

mezzanine. See MEDIAL, para 6.

mezzo-soprano. See SUPER, para 4.

mezzotint. See the element mezzo-.

miasma, a noxious exhalation, hence a contaminating influence: SciL, from Gr, miasma, pollution, from miainein, to pollute, with s mia-—an extn of s miai-, extn of r mia-: IE r, mei-* or mai-*, to dirty, as in OHG meil, meila, MHG meil, a (dirty) spot, a stain, MHG meil, defect, sin, and perh in Lith máiva, a morass. The Gr gen miasmatos leads to the adj miasmatic and miasmatus, app being superseded by miasmal and miasmic (from E miasma).

miaul, miaow. See the 4th MEW.

mica, whence the adj micaceous—cf rosaceous from rosa; micelle, whence micellar; microbe, whence microbic and microbism.

1. Micelle anglicizes micella, the SciL dim of L mīca, a particle or morsel, a crumb, a grain, adopted by Min for a group of crystals: the r mīc- is prob akin to that of Gr mīkros, small, var smīkros: cf OHG smāhi, small.

2. From Gr mīkros, F coins microbe, a tiny organism (Gr bios, life): the F surgeon Sédillot's pun (1878) on the Gr adj mīkrobios, short-lived. (B & W.)

Michaelmas, with its daisy, is the festival—celebrated with a mass, on September 29—of the archangel Michael, LL Michaël, LGr Mikhaēl, H Mikha'el, Who is like God? Pet-forms, Mick (esp for an Irishman) and Mike.

mickle. See MASTER, para 18.

microbe. See MICA, para 2.

microcosm, micrometer; microphone, whence sl-become-coll mike; microscope. See the element micro-.

mid. See MEDIAL, para 12.

midday. See MEDIAL (heading).

midden: ME midding: cf Da mödding, an easing of mödyng, a heap (dýng) of dung (mög): cf the now dial E ding, to throw (akin to DINT), and MUCK.

middle; middling. See MEDIAL, para 14.

midge, whence midget (dim -et), ME mydge, var migge, comes from OE myc or mycge: cf OS muggia, OHG mucca, MHG mücke, gnat, fly, G Mücke, gnat, midge, MD mugge, D mug, Da myg, Sw mygga, ON mý, gnat, midge; L musca, Gr muia, OSl mucha, Ru muxa, a fly; Alb mize, gnat. The IE r is app mu-, prob echoic; with extn mug- and esp mus-*.

2. L musca, a fly, is retained by Zoo, with derivative Muscidae (-idae, descendants). The derivative adj muscarius yields, via SciL, the Chem n muscarine.

3. L musca becomes Sp mosca, with dim mosquito, orig a little fly: adopted by E in its derivative and soon its exclusive sense.

4. L musca becomes It mosca, with dim moschetto, a sparrowhawk, whence—via OF moschet, later mouquet (F mouchet)—the E musket, a male sparrowhawk; C14 It moſchetto, a crossbow (cf the C14 moschetta, a crossbow dart), becomes, in CC16–17, the larger sort (fired from a rest) of arquebuse, finally a musket (superseded by the rifle): whence EF mosquet (1581), soon (c1590) mousquet, whence E musket. EF mousquet has derivatives EF-F mousquetaire, whence E musketeer, and EF-F mousqueterie, whence musketry. The large-bored CC16–17 moschettone (aug of moschetto) becomes EF-F mousqueton, whence E musketoon.

midmost; midnight. See MEDIAL (heading).

midshipman. See MEDIAL (heading).

midst. See MEDIAL, para 12.

midway; midwife. See MEDIAL (heading).

mien, although perh influenced by 'demean oneself', to behave, prob derives from late MF-F mine, facial appearance, itself app from Br min, (bird's) beak, (quadruped's) muzzle, hence a person's face: extn of OC mi*, little. (Malvezin.) might (n and v), mighty. See the 2nd MAY, paras 1 and 2.

mignon; mignonette. See MITIGATE, para 3.

migraine is adopted from (OF migraine, MF-)F migraine: by apheresis from LL hēmīcrānia: trln of Gr hēmīkrania, lit '(pain in) the half (hēmi-) of the head (kranion)'—cf CRANIUM. MF migraine becomes ME mygrene, later migrȳm, whence E megrin, obsol for 'migraine', obs (as megrims) for 'low spirits'.

migrant (adj, hence n), migrate, migration, migrator, whence—or from migrate—anl migratory;—emigrant (adj, hence n), emigrate, emigration (whence, anl, emigratory), émigré; immigrant, immigrate, immigration (whence, anl, immigratory); renigrant, renigrate, whence, anl, renigration; transmigrant, transmigrate, transmigration (whence, anl, transmigratory and transmigrative).

1. L migrāre, to change one's residence, hence to depart, even for another country, has s migr-, r mīg-, prob an extn of mei-*, to change: cf Gr ameibein, to exchange, and Skt mayate, he exchanges: cf, therefore, the 1st MEAN, para 2.

2. Migrāre has presp migrans, o/s migrant-, whence the E adj migrant; pp migrātus, whence 'to migrate'; derivative migrātiō, o/s migrātiōn-, becomes late MF-F, whence E, migration; derivative LL migrator is adopted by E.

3. L ēmigrāre, (vi) to move from a place, (LL) to transfer from one place to another, has presp ēmigrans, o/s ēmigrant-, whence the adj emigrant; pp ēmigrātus, whence 'to emigrate'; derivative LL ēmigrātiō, o/s ēmigrātiōn-, E emigration. F émigré is prop the pp of émigrer (L ēmigrāre).

4. L immigrāre, to come to settle in (im- for in, in, into), has presp immigrans, o/s immigrant-, E adj and n immigrant; pp immigrātus yields 'to immigrate'; immigration is adopted from F, which forms it as if from immigrātiōnem*, acc of LL or ML immigrātiō*, from immigrāre.

5. L remigrāre, to return to one's former residence or native place or homeland, has presp remigrans, o/s remigrant-, E n and adj remigrant, and pp remigrātus, 'to remigrate'; the E words, however, perhaps rather =re-, back + migrant, migrate.

6. L transmigrāre, (vi) to move across (trans) in changing residence, hence (LL) to transport, has presp transmigrans, o/s transmigrant-, whence the E adj and n transmigrant; pp transmigrātus, whence 'to transmigrate'; derivative LL transmigrātiō, emigration, (in EcclL) metempsychosis, o/s transmigrātiōn-, MF-F, whence E transmigration, esp of souls.

Mikado: Jap: either 'honourable door': mi, august, honourable + kado, a door (prob of IE origin); or 'noble place': archaic Jap mi, great, noble + Jap to, a place.

mike (1), n. See at MICROCOSM.

mike (2), v. See MOOCH.

mil. See MILE (heading).

Milan. See MILLNER.

milch. See MILK.

mild. See the 2nd MEAL, para 19.

mildew. See MEL, para 4.

mile, whence mileage (collective -age) and the orig sl, then coll, now familiar SE miler; mil and mill (𐌿𐌿𐌿 of an A dollar), both from L mille, a thousand; millenary, millennium; millepede—cf, at the element mille- (milli-), milligram and millimeter—millepore; million (whence the adj millionary), millionaire (whence millionaires).

1. E mile, OE mil, derives from L mīlia, a thousand as quantity, esp elliptical for mīlia passuum, a thousand of paces: var of OL mīllia, prop the pl of mille, a thousand: prob akin to the syn Gr khilioi (Hofmann); perh (Webster), however, to Gr homilos, a throng—cf MILITANT, para 1.

2. L mille has derivative müllēni (-nae, -na), a thousand each, whence LL millēnārius, containing a thousand, whence millēnārium, period of 1,000 years, whence resp the E adj and n millenary; as n, millenary has given way to the SciL, hence E, millennium (annus, a year).

3. The L cpd millepeda, (creature having) 1,000 feet (L pedes), yields EF-F mille-pieds and E millepede; the cpd millepore, however, derives from F millepore, (organism having) 1,000 pores (f.a.e., PORE), i.e. a species of coral.

4. L mille remains mille in It, which forms, in -one, the aug millione (now milione), whence MF-F million, adopted by E; C18 F coins millionnaire, whence E millionaire.

military. See the 2nd MEAL, para 8. milieu, adopted from F, =OF mi, middle (L medius)+lieu, place (cf LOCAL).

militant (whence militancy), militarism (whence anl, militaristic and perh militarize, whence demilitarize), military (adj, hence—assisted by the F n militaire—n), militate (whence, anl, militation), militia (whence militiaman).

1. All these terms derive from L milit-, o/s of miles, a soldier, esp an infantryman: o.o.o.: for the suffix -es, cf eques, horseman, and pedes, a foot-soldier (L pēs, a foot, gen pedis); for the s and r mil-, perh cf Skt māla, an assembly, and Gr homilos, a throng: ? 'one of a(n armed) throng'. Perh cf MILE, esp if L milia derives from OL milia*, a multitude, hence a large number.

2. L miles, soldier, has adj (OL militārius) militāris, whence MF-F militaire, whence E military; it also has derivative n militia, military service, adopted by E, with new senses 'a body of soldiers and, subsidiarily but soon predominantly, 'a body of citizens trained as soldiers, but serving as such only in emergency'; moreover, it has derivative v militāre, to be a soldier, esp to serve on a campaign, with presp militans, o/s militant-, whence E militant, and with pp militātus, whence 'to militate'.

3. The foll E words prob owe much to the corresp F terms: militarism to F militarisme; militarist to F militariste; militarize to F militariser, and militarization to F militarisation;—anti(-)militarism, -militarist, to F anti-militarisme, -iste; demilitarize, -ization, to F demilitariser, -isation.

milk (n, v)—whence milksoap and milky—and milch, adj; emulgent, emulsify, emulsion.

1. The adj milch, as in milch cows, derives from ME melch, milche, adj of ME milc, whence E milk, n: ME milc derives from OE milc, varr meolc, meoloc, meoluc, mioluc, whence OE meolcian, milcian, whence 'to milk': and OE milc is akin to OFris melok, OHG miluh, MHG-G milch, Go miluks; ON miölk, Da (and D) melk; OIr meig. With OE milcian and esp with the very closely linked melcan, to milk, cf OFris melca, OHG melchan, MHG-G melken, ON miolka; L mulgere, G amelgein, to milk, boumolgos, cow-milker, cow-hand; perh Skt mrjati, he wipes, or rubs, off, mārsti, he removes by rubbing. The IE r is perh melg-*, to milk.

2. L mulgēre has cpd ēmulgēre, to milk ē- or out, to milk dry, hence to drain, with presp ēmulgens, o/s ēmulgent-, whence E adj, hence n, emulgent, and with pp ēmulsus, whence SciL ēmulsio (o/s ēmulsio-), E emulsion, orig the 'milk' rubbed out of almonds, hence, in Pharm, a smooth, 'milky' medicine; hence emulsify (emulsion+-fy) and Chem emulsin (emulsion+Chem -in).

milk (1), for grinding. See the 2nd MEAL, para 7.

milk (2), a thousandth part. See MILE (heading). military. See MILE, para 2. millennium; millepede, millepore. See MILE, resp paras 2 and 3; for the 1st, cf ANNUAL, para 3.

millet. See the 2nd MEAL, para 8.

milligram, millimeter. See the element mille-, milli-.

milliner, whence millinery; Milan.

Milliner 'corrupts' Milaner, an inhabitant of Milan, hence such a Milanese as, in England, imported feminine finery—cf Milan point, a lace formerly made at Milan, It Milano, prob Livy's Mediolanum; L medius, middle+C lan, land, lano, a plain (Enci It).

million; millionaire. See MILE, para 4.

milreis. See REX, para 10.

milt (1), spleen. See MELT, para 6.

milt (2), a fish's reproductive glands, or their secretion: either from the syn Da milt or, by confusion with milt (1), for earlier milk used in this sense.

mime (n, hence v); mimesis, mimetic, mimetite; mimic (adj, hence n and v), whence mimicry (-ry for -ery, exercise, art); mimosa; mimeograph, v, from Mimeograph, a copying device, from Gr mimēisthai, to imitate (cf GRAPH);—maya, magical power.

1. Maya, Skt māyā, is perh akin to Bulgarian izmana, deception (? orig by imitation), and to Gr mimēisthai, to imitate, prob from mimos, a play of real life imitated grotesquely: IE r, mei-, varr mai-, mi-*, to deceive—cf OHG mein, false, deceptive.

2. Gr mimos (μῖμος) becomes L mīmus, whence EF-F and E mime; derivative adj mimikos becomes L mimicus, EF-F mimique and É mimic; derivative n mimēsis, imitation, is, via its LL trin mimēsis, adopted by E, and its adj mimētikos, LL mimēticus, becomes mimetic; derivative agent mimētēs, imitator, joins with the Min suffix -ite to form mimetite, which 'mimics' pyromorphite.

3. Gr mimos and L mīmus also mean 'actor'; SciL takes L mimus and coins mimosa, whose leaves shrink at a touch of the hand.

mina. Var of MYNA.

minaret, adopted from EF-F, comes from Tu menāret (manārai), itself from Ar manāra, light-house, hence, from the shape, the slender tower of a mosque.

minatory—commination, comminatory; menace, n and v (whence the pa menacing).

1. 'To menace' derives from OF menacier (F menacer), from the OF-F n menace, adopted by E: L minácia, from the adj mināx (o/s mināc-), threatening, (lit) projecting, hence projecting forbiddingly, from mināri, to project, overhang, but soon and esp to threaten, from minae (pl), a projection, the overhang of, e.g., a rock: prob from an IE r men-* (varr min-, mon-, perh man-*), to jut out, project: cf, therefore, L mōns, a high, steep hill, a mountain; cf also W mynydd, OBr -monid, Br menez, Cor menedh, monedh, Ir monadh, mountain (Ga monadh, moor and mountains).

2. L mināri has derivative adj minātōrius, whence F minatoire, whence E minatory; the cpd commināri (int com- for con-, from cum, with), to threaten, has pp comminātus, whence 'to comminate'; derivative comminātiō, o/s comminātiōn-, yields commination; derivative LL comminātiūsus (ML -ivus) yields comminative, and LL comminātor, threatener, adopted by E, and ML comminātōrius—perh via EF-F comminatoire—comminatory.

3. L minae, a projection, s and r min-, has, via an ill-attested minere, to jut, these cpds:

ēminēre, to detach itself by projecting, to raise itself out of, has presp ēminens, o/s ēminent-, whence, perh via MF-F, the adj eminent, the derivative ēminentia becoming, perh via MF-F, eminence, with var emency; imminēre, to project above or over, to dominate, presp imminens, o/s imminent-, MF-F and E imminent, the derivative imminentia yielding imminence; prōminēre, to jut forward, presp prōminens, o/s prōminent-, E prominent, the derivative prōminentia yielding prominence; ēminēre has cpd praeēminēre, to jut upwards and prae-, in front of, presp praeēminens, LL adj, o/s praeēminent-, E pre-eminent, the derivative LL praeēminentia yielding pre-eminence.

All four E adj and all four E nn prob owe something to the OF-MF forms.

4. Prob akin to L prōminēre is L prōmunturium, LL prōmuntōrium, ML prōmontorium, whence E promontory, land jutting high from and well forward into the sea.

5. L mināri, to threaten, has the rustic and popular LL derivative mināre, to threaten, hence to shout at, animals as one drives them, hence to drive them with shouts, hence simply to drive or guide them, with LL cpd prōmināre, to drive forward (prō), whence late MF-EF promener, to take for a walk (whence F se promener, to go for a walk), whence EF-F promenade, adopted by E, with derivative sense 'artificial place for a walk'.

6. LL mināre, to drive or lead animals, becomes OF-F mener, to lead, with OF-F cpds amener (a-, L ad, to, towards), to lead up, whence AF amenable, adopted by E: 'leadable, bringable', hence 'answerable'; hence 'easily bringable'; hence 'tractable'. OF mener, lead, has the further prefix-cpd OF-EF demener, to conduct (de- being vaguely int), whence se demener, to conduct oneself, to behave, whence the syn E 'to demean oneself'; whence demeanure (-ure), whence demeanour, (AE) demeanor. The E neg is 'to misdeemean oneself' (mis-, wrong, wrongly), to behave badly, whence the agent misdeemeanant and the abstract misdeemeano(u)r.

L mōns, a mountain

7. L mōns, gen mōntis, o/s mōnt-, becomes OF-F mont and OE munt, whence ME munt and then—influenced by F—mont and finally mount, extant in E; moreover, L mōns has derivative VL montāre*, to climb a hill or mountain, hence to climb, hence to mount, OF-F monter, ME monten, then mounten, E 'to mount'. The Canadian NW Mounted Police are, coll, 'the Mounties'.

8. L mōns has adj montānus, whence the erudite montane: cf the 'high' State of Montana, as if for regiō montāna, mountainous region. The ML ultramontānus, beyond (ultra) the mountains, becomes E adj, hence n, ultra montane. L transmontānus becomes It tramontano, whence E tramontane.

9. L montānus has LL var montāneus, whence the VL n montanea*, var montania*, whence OF-MF montaigne (F montagne), whence ME montaine, later—influenced by mount—mountaine, whence E mountain. Perh, however, ME montaine, like the MF var montene, comes from LL montāna, a mountain, from montānus. Mountain has derivatives mountaineer (cf the MF adj montanier, from ML montānārius) and mountainous (perh, however, via F from LL montāniōsus).

10. Mount occurs in the foll prefix-cpds: amount, n, from amount, v: into ME from OF-MF amonter (a-, L ad, towards), to ascend, hence to advance, to increase: amont, upwards: L ad montem, to (ward) the mountain; dismount, v: dis-+mount: anl with OF-MF desmonter (des-, L dis-), to descend: des-+monter; paramount: OF par amont, above, on top: par (L per), through, by+amont, above; remount, n, from remount, v: OF-F remonter: re-, again+monter; surmount (whence surmountal: -al): ME surmounten: OF-F surmonter (OF var sor-): sur- (sor-), L super, over+monter. The EF-F derivative neg insurmountable becomes insurmountable.

11. Pl Nn from L mōns, mountain, are very numerous. Here are a few of the best known:

Montana, see para 8, and Vermont, lit 'green mountain';

Montenegro, lit 'black mountain'; the region about a famous Montenegrin landmark;

Monterey, lit 'king's mountain': ASp; cf:

Montevideo: ML vidēo, I see+Sp monte, mountain;

Montreal: F Montréal, royal mountain.

mince, mincemeat, mincer. See MINOR, para 8.

mind (n, hence v—whence, in cpds, -minded; minder), whence mindful and mindless; remind, to bring re-, or back, to mind—whence reminder.—Latin: mental, whence mentality; demented, dementia;—Minerva;—mention, n and v (whence mentionable); comment (n, v), commentary, commentate, commentation, commentator;—memento; (reminisce, from) reminiscence, reminiscent;—monish (whence monishment)—monition, monitor (whence monitorial)—cf admonish (whence admonishment), admonition, admonitory; premonition; monument, monumental;—monetary; money (whence moneyed), moneyer—demonetize, whence demonetization—mint (n, hence v—whence minter), whence mintage.—Greek: Eumenides;—mania, maniac (adj, hence n), manic, cf dipsomania, dipsomaniac, and nymphomania, nymphomaniac; sep MATHEMATIC; maenad; -mancy, see the element;—mnemonic, mnestic; amnesia (whence amnesiac); amnesty;—automat, automatic, automaton (Gr pl automata), automatous;—sep MONSTER (etc.);—sep MANDARIN.

Indo-European

1. Mind, ME minde, munde, derives from OE gemynd: cf OFris minne, OS minnia, OHG minna, love, Go gamunds, ON minni, remembrance; Lith menas, understanding, minti, to think, minėti, to mention; L mēns (o/s ment-), mind, mentiō, a mention, meminisse, to remember, monēre, to warn; Gr menos, mind, intention, force, mnasthai, to remember, mainesthai, to rave; Skt mānas, mind, spirit, manyate, he thinks: IE r, men-*, to use one's mind, to think.

Greek

2. Gr Eumenides, the well-minded, or well-disposed, hence the gracious ones, is euphem for the Erinyes or avenging spirits of Gr myth: eu, well (adv)+menos, spirit. Menos in its sense 'purpose' is clearly present in Gr Mentōr, the counselor friend of Odysseus in Homer's epic, hence E mentor, a wise counsellor: men-+agential -tor, var of -ter.

3. Closely akin to Gr menos is Gr mania, madness, whence, via L, the E word. Whereas the derivative Gr adj maniakos becomes LL maniacus, whence MF-F manique, whence E maniac, the derivative adj manikos imm becomes manic.

4. Of the numerous -mania cpds, note esp: dipsomania: SciL: Gr dipsa, thirst, c/f dipso-+mania; kleptomania: SciL: Gr kleptēs, a thief; nymphomania: SciL: Gr nymphē, young woman. The adj end, anl, in -maniac.

5. Gr mania is closely akin to mainesthai, to act as a madman, whence mainas (gen mainados, o/s mainad-), a nymph attendant upon, and participating in the orgiastic rites of, Dionysus: hence, via L maenas, o/s maenad-, the E maenad.

6. Akin to Gr mainesthai and mania are Gr mantis, seer, and manteia, oracle, divination, in cpds -mantia, LL -mantia, OF -mancie, E -mancy, preserved in numerous cpds, all deriving from—or modelled upon—the Gr. Note esp necromancy, q.v. at the element -mancy.

7. Akin to the Gr words already mentioned is mnōmai, I remember, whence mnēsis, remembrance, and mnēstis, memory, the former with adj mnēsius, whence E mnestic, the latter with anl E adj mnestic. Mnasthai, to remember, has presp mnēmōn, whence the adj mnēmōnikos, whence E mnemonic (hence n); mnemonics, the art, or means, of improving memory, was prompted by the syn Gr (ta) mnēmōnika (prop, neu pl)—cf the LL mnēmonicum, an aid to memory.

8. Gr mnēsis has the approx neg amnēsia, forgetfulness, adopted by Psy and esp by Psychi; hence—perh after maniac—the E amnesiac, one suffering from amnesia; the adj is amnesic. Amnēsia has derivative amnēstēō, I forget, whence amnēstia, forgetfulness, hence a pardon; the adj amnēstos, forgotten, forgetful, yields E amnesic. Amnēstia becomes L amnesia, EF amnestie (F amnistie), E amnesty.

9. Akin to Gr man-, main-, men-, is Gr -matos as in automatos, (thinking, hence) acting for itself: with Gr mat-, cf Gr math- as in mathesis, activity of learning, and in the sep MATHEMATIC; cf also Skt matā, thought. The Gr neu automaton is used as n, pl automata, both adopted by E; derivative Gr automatimos, adopted by LL, becomes F automatisme and E automatism. Gr automatos becomes EF-F automate, n, whence G Automat, n, whence E automat; F automate acquires adj automatique, whence E automatic; Gr automatos becomes E automatons. Modern automation=automatic action+station.

Latin

10. L mēns, mind, s mēn—cf Gr menos, spirit, courage, purpose, s men—has derivative LL adj mentālis, whence, prob via MF-F mental, the E mental; derivative F mentalité leads us to mentality.

11. Mēns, o/s ment-, has prefix-cpds āmentia, lack (connoted by a-) of mind, and dēmentia, madness (dē- connoting 'departure from' sanity): both adopted by Med and Psi. They derive from āmēns, mindless, o/s āment-, and dēmēns, mad, o/s dēment-, whence, via F dément, the rare adj dement; dēmēns has derivative dēmentāre, to deprive of reason, send mad, whence 'to dement', whence the much commoner pa demented.

12. Perh akin to L mēns and Gr menos is L Minerua, ML Minerva, adopted by E; if so, Min- is app a thinned form of the mon- of monēre, to warn (see para 17).

13. L mentiō, a bringing to mēns or the mind, has acc mentiōnem, whence OF-F, hence E, mention; derivative EF-F mentionner produces 'to mention'.

14. L meminisse, to remember, memini, I remember—both, perfect form, present sense—recall Gr mēmōna, I remember. The imperative memento, as in Memento mori, Remember to die, becomes n, F mémento, E memento.

15. Meminisse, to remember, s memin-, has two prefix-cpd derivatives affecting E: comminisci, to imagine, com-, with, being used int; reminisci, to call re-, back, to mind. Comminisci has int commētāri, to have in, to recall to, the mind, to reflect upon, hence to study, to treat, in detail, of a subject, hence to edit a text: MF-F commenter: E 'to comment'. The derivative MF-EF n comment was adopted by E. The adj commentarius, used elliptically for commentarius liber (book), becomes n, with var commentarium: perh via late MF-F commentaire, the E commentary. Commentari has pp commentatus, whence 'to commentate'; derivative commentatio, o/s commentation-, yields commentation; derivative commentator is adopted (cf MF-F commentateur).

16. Reminisci, to call back to mind, has presp reminiscens, o/s reminiscent-, whence E reminiscent; derivative LL reminiscentia became late MF-F reminiscence, whence E reminiscence, whence, by b/f, 'to reminisce'.

17. The L r men-, to think, acquires the caus derivative monēre (r mon-), to cause someone to think (hence, to remember), hence to call someone's attention to, esp as injunction: whence VL monestāre*, OF monester, ME monesten, (? after admonish) 'to monish', now archaic. On monit-, s of the pp monitus, arise monitiō, o/s monitiōn-, whence (prob via MF) the E monition—monitor, adopted—monitōrius, whence monitory.

18. Monēre has cpd admonēre, to remind, or warn, strongly (int ad-): VL admonestāre*: OF admonester (often am-): ME amonesten: anl with other E -ish from F vv, 'to admonish', whence admonishment (cf the OF-EF amonestement). Derivative admonitiō, o/s admonitiōn-, passes through OF-MF to become E admonition; admonitor is adopted; LL admonitōrius explains admonitory.

19. Monēre has other cpds, esp praemonēre, to warn in advance, whence, anl, 'to premonish'; on praemonit-, s of pp praemonitus, arise LL praemonitiō, o/s praemonitiōn-, E premonition—praemonitor, E premonitor—LL praemonitōrius, E premonitory.

20. Monēre has derivative monimentum (mon-+ connective -i-+ mentum), with the var, more usual, monumentum, anything that recalls the mind, esp the memory, to people, esp a tomb or a statue: OF-F monument, adopted by E. The late derivative adj monumentālis yields monumental.

21. The Gr Goddess of Memory, Mnēmosunē (cf para 7), adopted by Romans, became Monēta, epithet of Juno='The Warner': hence, Juno's temple at Rome: thence, coinage being struck there, monēta, a mint, hence the minting process: hence, monēta, coins, money in its cash form. The derivative LL adj monētarius accounts for monetary; moneta+-iser (E -ize)=F monētiser, whence 'to monetize', whence monetization (F monētisation).

22. Derivative F démonétiser, démonétisation produce 'to demonetize', demonetization.

23. L monēta, cash, becomes OF-F monnaie: ME monēie: E money. Derivative EF-F monnayeur yields E moneyer, minter; MF-F monnayage yields the now only hist moneyage.

24. L monēta, a mint, coins, becomes OE mynet, coins, money: CC15-17, mynt: E mint, with sense 'place of coining' long predominant.

mine (1), adj and pron. See ME, para 2.

mine (2), n and v (whence pa, vn mining); miner; mineral (adj and n), whence mineralize (whence mineralization) and mineralogy (whence, anl, mineralogical and mineralogist).

1. A miner derives from MF mineor (F mineur), agent of OF-F miner, whence 'to mine'. A mine is adopted from OF-F, prob—like OProv mina—of C origin: cf EIr mlanach, ore, Ga mèin, mèinn, ore, a mine, Cor moina, a mine, mün (muyn), ore, W mwn, ore, a mine, Br min, Mx meau, a mine: OC meini*, var meinni* (MacLennan).

2. Mineral, n, comes from late MF-F minéral, from ML minerāle, prop the neu of ML adj minerālis, whence late MF-F minéral, whence E mineral: and ML minerālis derives from ML minera, ore, a mine, prob of C origin (as above). From minéral, F derives minéralogie (for minéralologie*: cf -logy, science, at the element -loger): whence E mineralogy.

Minerva. See MIND, para 12.

minery: MF miniere (F -ière): ML mineria, a place where mining is being done, var of minera, mināria (MINE, para 2).

mingle, whence mingler and mingling, is a late ME freq of ME mengen from OE mengan, akin to MHG-G and D mengen, OS mengian, ON menga, to mix, to blend, perh orig to knead together—cf Lith minkyti, to knead—and, f.a.e., MASS, para 2.

miniāte, adj (rare) and v, miniature (whence—perh via F—miniaturist), minium; cf the sep CARMINE.

Minium, red lead, the colour vermilion, is adopted from L: Iberian, 'the Romans getting all their cinnabar from Spain' (Webster)—cf Basque armeded. L minium has derivative miniāre, to paint or ornament with minium; the pp miniātus yields adj and v miniāte; on the pp s miniāt- arises ML miniātūra, a miniating, a rubrication, whence, via It, the EF-F and E miniature, the sense 'illumination (of a page) with vermilion letters' passing naturally into sense 'a (very) small painting', esp a portrait.

minim; minimize, minimum. See MINOR, para 1 and esp para 4.

minion. See MITIGATE, para 3.

minish. See DIMINISH, para 1, s.f. minister, ministerial, ministrant, ministration, ministry. See MINOR, para 9.

minium. See MINIATE.

miniver. See VACILLANT, para 5.

mink, a slender, semi-aquatic quadruped, resembling a weasel, was orig native to N Europe, therefore of Scan origin: cf Nor and Da mink, Sw menk.

minnesinger is G Minnesinger, a singer of Minne or love: cf MIND, para 1.

minnow. See MINOR, para 14.

Minoan (adj, hence n) substitutes suffix -an for suffix -ius of L Minōlus, trln of Gr Minōios, adj of Minōs, a generic for 'king' (cf Pharaoh and Caesar), from Minōs, son of Zeus and Europa.

minor (adj, hence n), Minorca, minority; minus, minuscule; minusus, minim, minimize, minimum (whence minimal); minute, adj and n (whence v), minuteman, minutia (usu in pl minutiae); minuet; menu; sep minish (q.v. at DIMINISH, where also DIMINUTION, etc.); mince, mincing; minister (n, v), ministerial, ministrant, ministrate (obs), ministration, ministrative, ministrator, ministry—cf administer (whence, anl, administerial and administrable), ministrant, ministration, ministrative, ministrator; minstrel;—minnow.

Indo-European

1. L minor, lesser, neu minus, has sup minusus—all three, retained by E—but no positive, meaning 'little', to complement the series magrus, large, great, maior (ML major), maximus: clearly, however, there was very prob a L r min-* corresp to an IE r men-, var min-, little, itself an extn of mī-, var mei-: cf Gr minuein, to lessen, reduce, Skt minōti, he lessens (hence, damages), and miyate, he or it becomes less, fades away; Cor minow, menow, little, Br mén (pl méneu), young of an animal, Ga mean (pron min), mion, little, meanbh (EIr menbach), very little, OC menoos*, menuos*, little; OFris minu, OHG min, (adv) less, OFris minnera, minra, OS and OHG minnro, MHG minner, minra, Go mins, less (adv), minniza, lesser, ON minni, lesser, minnr, less (adv).

2. L minor has ML derivative minoritās, acc minoritātem, whence OF-F minorité, whence E minority. In Sp, L minor becomes menor, whence Menorca, whence Minorca.

3. L minus prompts the dim minusculus, rather small, whence EF-F minuscule, adopted by E as counterpart of majuscule.

4. L minimus, smallest, accounts, prob via It minima, for the Mus minim; its neu minimum becomes an E (and F) n; the anl E minimize prob owes something to F minimiser.

5. L minor is very closely akin to L minuere, to lessen, with pp minūtus, used also as adj, whence the E adj minute. The n minute, a second of time (whence the other senses), derives, prob via MF-F minute, from ML minūta, prop the f of the adj minūtus, (? for minūta pars temporis): cf the A, now only hist, minuteman, a militiaman holding himself ready at a minute's notice. L minūtus has -ia derivative minūtia, mostly in pl minūtiae, small points, trifling details, adopted by erudite E.

6. L minūtus becomes OF-F menu, whence, in its sense 'detailed', the EF-F n menu, adopted by E. OF menu has dim menuet (-et), orig adj, whence, in EF-F, the n menuet, a dainty dance, whence E minuet.

7. L minuere has, relevant to E, these cpds: comminuere (int com- for con-, together, altogether), to break into (little) pieces, with pp comminūtus, whence 'to comminute'; derivative comminūtō, o/s comminutiōn-, becomes E comminution; dēminuere, corrupted to diminuere, to lessen by removal of a part, pp dēminūtus, diminūtus: see DIMINISH:

8. From minūtus, adj, VL coins minūtīare*, whence OF mincier (F mincer), whence 'to mince'—lit, to make small; hence mincemeat and mincer and the pa mincing (manners, steps, speech), overdaintly.

9. Complementary to and prompted by L magister, from magis, more, is L minister, from minor, one who serves or assists another, hence at a religious cult, hence of a public office, finally one at the head of a political department—cf 'minister of religion' or 'of the Crown': hence E minister, a re-shaping of ME, from OF-F, ministre, from L minister. The derivative LL adj ministeriālis, ministering, becomes EF-F ministériel, whence ministerial; derivative ministerium, a ministering, becomes EF-F ministère, whence ministry. L minister has, moreover, the derivative v ministrāre, to serve, with prep ministrans, o/s ministrant-, whence the E adj, hence n, ministrant, and with pp ministrātus, whence the obs 'to ministerate'; derivative ministrātiō, o/s ministrātiōn-, yields ministration, whence, anl, ministrative, and the derivative LL adj ministratōrius, serving, yields ministratory.

10. LL ministeriālis is used also as n—'a public orderly or official'—whence OF ministrāl, menestrel (whence F ménétrier), servant, (later) minstrel, whence ME ministrale (var menestral), whence E minstrel. OF menestrel has derivative menestrelsie (-alsie), whence E minstrelsy.

11. L ministrāre has cpd administrāre (where ad- is vaguely int), to serve, hence, later, to govern: whence, partly via MF-F, 'to administer'. Prep administrans, o/s ministrant-, explains the E adj, hence n, ministrant. Pp ministrātus yields 'to administrate'; derivative ministrātiō becomes, perh via MF-F, the E administration; derivative ministrātiuus (ML -ivus) becomes administrative, and derivative LL ministratōrius becomes administratory; derivative ministrātor is adopted—cf the OF-F administrateur.

12. Perh influenced by Cor minow, small, is E minnow, which descends from OE myne: cf the syn OHG muniva.

Minorca. See prec, para 2.

minority. See MINOR, para 2.

Minos. See MINOAN.

Minotaur, L Minōtaurus, Gr Minōtauros, is that tauros or bull of Minos to which, in Myth, human sacrifices were made in Crete. Cf MINOAN.

minster, a monastery (obs), hence a church, esp York Minster (cathedral): OE mynster: LL monasterium: cf MONK and, f.a.e., MONAD.

minstrel, minstrelsy. See MINOR, para 10.

mint (1), plant. See MENTHA, para 3.

mint (2) for coin. See MIND, para 24.

minuet. See MINOR, para 6.

minus, adj, hence n and prep. See MINOR, para 1, minuscule. See MINOR, para 3.

minute, adj, n, v; minuteman; minutiae. See MINOR, para 5.

minx, C16 mincks, C17–18 minks, prob comes from LG minsk, wench, hussy, akin to G Mensch, (C17) maidservant, (C19–20) prostitute: orig an adj 'of mankind': f.a.e., MAN.

miracle, miraculous; mirage; mirific; mirror (n, hence v);—admire (whence admirer), admirable, admiration, admirative;—marvel (n, v), marvellous.—smile, v (whence agent smiler and pa, vn smiling) hence n;—prob cf smirk, v (whence smirker and smirking) hence n.

1. Miraculous derives from MF-F miraculeux, f miraculeuse, from OF-F miracle, adopted by E: LL mīrāculum, a miracle, L m., a prodigy: L mīrārī, to wonder, to wonder at: L mīrus, astonishing, strange, wonderful: OL r mīr-, to look (at), esp with astonishment: IE r, perh mei-*: cf the Gr meidáo, I smile. App the IE mei-* has an s-prefix var smei-*: cf OSl smijati se, to laugh, Skt smáyate, he smiles, smerás (adj), smiling, MHG smielen, var smieren, ME smilen, OE smearcian, to smile.

2. L mīrārī, to wonder (at), has the VL derivative mīrāre, to look, esp with attention: OF-F mīrer, whence F mirage, adopted by E. OF mīrer has the derivative mīreor, var mīrou, the latter adopted by ME, whence E mirror.

3. L mīrus has cpd mīrificus (-ficus, from -ficere, c/f of L facere, to make), whence MF-F mīrifique, whence E mirific.

4. L mīrārī, to wonder, has cpd admīrārī (advaguely int), to wonder at, usu favourably, whence E 'to admire'. Derivative L admīrābilis becomes, perh via MF-F, the E admirable. On admīrāt-, s of pp admīrātus, arises admīrātiō, o/s admīrātiōn-, whence prob via MF-F, the E admiration; MF-F admīratif, f -ive, leads us to E admīrative.

5. L mīrārī, to wonder at, has derivative mīrābilis, wonderful, whence LL mīrābilis, things worth wondering at, whence OF(-F) merveille, whence ME mervaile, whence E marvel; 'to marvel' is ME merveilen, OF merveillier, from OF merveille, whence also OF merveillos (F merveilleux), whence ME merveillous, whence marvellous.

6. ME smilen (as in para 1) becomes 'to smile'; OE smearcian, var smercian, becomes ME smirken, E 'to smirk', now always affectedly or too complacently.

mirage. See para 2 of prec.

mire (n, hence v), whence miry; quagmire.

A mire came into ME from ON mýrr, a swamp: cf MOSS, q.v. Quagmire merely attaches quag, to shake, a dial var of QUAKE, to mire.

mirific. See MIRACLE, para 3.

mirk, mirky. See MURK.

mirror. See MIRACLE, para 2.

mirth, mirthful, mirthless. See MERRY.

miry. See MIRE.

misadventure: OF mesaventure. Cf adventure at VENUE, para 4.

misanthrope, misanthropic, misanthropy.

The 1st derives, prob via EF-F misanthrope and perh via LL mīsanthrōpus, from Gr mīsanthrōpos, hater of mankind (anthrōpos, generic man), the 1st element being mīsos, hatred, s and r mī- (cf mīsein, to hate): o.o.o. Derivative mīsanthrōpía produces EF-F misanthropie and E misanthropy; misanthropic derives, anl, from E misanthrope.

misbeget, misbegotten. See GET, para 2.

miscalculate=mī- + calculate (q.v. at CALCAREOUS); miscall=mī- + CALL; miscarry (whence miscarriage)=mī- + CARRY.

miscegenation. See the element mīsce-.

miscellanea, miscellaneous, miscellany. See MIX, para 2.

mischance. See CADENCE, para 5.

mischief, mischievous. See CHIEF, final para.

misconduct, n and v. See CONDUCT, para 4.

miscreant. See CREDENCE, para 6, s.f.

misdeed: OE mīsdāed: mī-, wrong, wrongly + deed (cf DO).

misdeemeanant, misdeemeanor (AE) or -our. See MINATORY, para 6, s.f.

misdirect, misdirection. See DIRECT, para 2.

misdoubt, merely = mī-, wrongly + DOUBT; perh cf the MF mesdoubter.

mise, as in mise en scène. See MISSION, para 2.

miser, n—whence miserly (-ly, adj)—comes from the archaic adj miser ('wretched'), itself adopted from L miser, wretched, miserable, whence L miserārī, to take pity on, whence miserābilis, pitiable, whence MF(-F) miserable, whence E miserable. L miser has also derivative miseria, whence OF-MF miserie (MF-F misère), adopted by ME, whence E misery.

2. L miserārī has cpd commiserārī (com- for con-, together—vaguely int), to pity, with pp commiserātus, whence 'to commiserate'; on the pps commiserāt- arises commiserātiō, o/s commiserātiōn-, whence OF-F commisération, whence E commiseration, whence, anl, commiserative.

misericord. See CARDIAL, para 2, and cf the element miseri- and MISER, para 1.

miserly; misery. See MISER, resp the heading and para 1.

misfire; misfit. Prefix mī-, wrongly + FIRE, FIT.

misfortune. See FORTUNE (heading).

misgive (whence misgiving); misgovern; misguide; mishap; misinterpret, misjudge, mislay, mislead (perh directly from OE mīslāēdan), obsolet mislike (prob imm from OE mīslīcian, to displease), mismanage, misname. All combine prefix mī-, wrongly, badly, with the keyword.

misnomer. See NAME, para 7, s.f.

misogamy, hatred of marriage; misogyny (whence misogynist), hatred of women; misology, hatred of argument. The 1st element is mīso-, c/f of Gr mīsos, hatred (cf MISANTHROPE); the 2nd elements, from resp Gr gamos, gunē, logos (lit, discourse).

misplace (whence misplacement); misprint. Prefix mī-, wrong, wrongly + PLACE, PRINT (see PRESS).

misprize. See PRICE.

misprision. See PREHEND, para 11.

misprize, occ misprise. As 'to misvalue' (usu -prize), it=mī-, amiss + 'to prize', q.v. at PRICE; as 'to misunderstand', it=mis-+a F derivative of PREHEND, to seize, to grasp.

mispronounce (whence, anl, mispronunciation); misrepresent (whence, anl, misrepresentation); misrule (v, hence n); all=mis-, wrongly+the keyword it precedes.

miss (1), unmarried woman, esp in address. See MASTER (heading).

miss (2), to fail to hit, meet, find, see, etc.; hence n, hence also the pa missing. 'To miss', OE missan, is akin to OFris missa, OHG missēn, G missen, to miss, and to Go maidjan, to change: therefore cf MUTABLE.

missal. See MISSION, para 4.

missel (thrush). See MISTLETOE.

misshape, misshapen. See SHAPE (heading).

missile. See MISSION, para 3.

missing (persons). See MISS (2).

mission (n, hence v), whence adj missional and missionary (hence as n); mise; missal; missible; missile (adj, n); missive; sep mess; message, messenger; Mass, as in CHRISTMAS, LAMMAS, MICHAELMAS, qq.v. sep; mittimus.—Cpds: admissible, admission, admit (whence admittance); commissar, commissariat, commissary, commission (n, whence v), commissioner, commissure, commit (whence the nn commitment, committal (whence the neg n non-committal, whence the adj), committee; demise (n, hence v), demiss, demission (whence demissionary), demit; dismiss (whence dismissal), dismission (whence, anl, dismissive); emissary (n, hence adj), cf the purely abstract n emission (whence, anl, emissive, whence, in turn, emissivity), emit, emittent; immit; intermission (whence, anl, intermissive), intermit, intermittent (whence, anl, intermittence, var -ency); intromission, intromit; sep manumission, manumit, qq.v. at MANUAL, para 18; omission (whence, anl, omissible, omissive), omit; permissible, permission (whence, anl, permissive), permissory, permit (v, hence n), whence permittance and permissivity; premise (n, hence v), whence the adj premissory and the (in Logic) var premiss; pretermission, pretermit; promise (n, hence v), promissive, promissory—cf compromise; remise (n, v), remiss, remissible, remission, remissive, remit, remittance, remittent; submit (obsol), submission (whence, anl, submissible, submissive), submit (whence submittal); transmissible, transmission (whence, anl, transmissive), transmit (whence transmittance, transmitter, pa transmitting).

1. The base is L mittere, to let go, cause to go, send, with r mit-, perh akin to Av maith-, to send; the pp is missus, s miss-, equally potent in R etymologies.

2. L mittimus, we send, has become the name of a legal writ; OF-F mettre (L mittere) has pp mis, f mise, the latter being used also as MF-F n for 'a putting, a setting', esp in the theatrical mise en scène.

3. The L pp missus (? for mitsus*) has s miss-, whence:

LL missibilis, capable of being thrown, whence E missible;

L missilis, capable of being sent, esp of being thrown, whence the E adj missile; used as n, the L neu missile, a thing (esp a weapon) for throwing, is adopted by E;

L missiō, a sending or dispatching, a release, a discharge, o/s missiōn-, whence (EF-F and) E mission, persons sent, esp on religious duty; the derivative missionary perh owes something to EF-F missionnaire;

ML missivus*, prompted by Eccl senses of missiō, is deduced from late MF 'lettre missive', whence the EF-F n missive, adopted by E.

4. The L pp missus, f missa, neu missum, becomes a n, not only in F mise (as in para 2 above) and MESS (q.v. sep), but also in LL missa, the Liturgy, the Mass, the Eucharist, perh from LL Congregatio (or, more prob, Contio) missa est—The gathering is now dismissed—pronounced by the officiating priest 'at close of the Vigil and other offices' (Souter); whence both OF-F messe and OE maesse, ME messe (prob from MF) and esp masse, whence E mass, usu Mass; LL missa, Mass, gained, in ML, the adj missālis, whence (as in missālis liber, book of the Mass) the ML n missāle, the book of the Mass for any Eccl year, whence E missal (MF messel, EF-F missel).

5. The L pp missus has VL derivative missāticum*, ML missāticum, whence OF-F message, adopted by E; B & W, however, derive OF message from OF mes, sent, corresp to the L pp missus: mes, pp+euphonic s+suffix -age. OF message has derivative OF messagier, MF(-F) messenger, adopted by ME, whence, with intrusive n (cf passenger from passage), the E messenger.

Compounds of and from L mittere, pp missus

6. The pattern of derivation from the L cps into the R languages and into E is remarkably uniform. In the latter, -mittere becomes -mit-; presp -mittens, o/s -mittent-, E -mittent, whence the -ence, -ency nn; -missus, pp and adj, E -miss, but if via F, -mise (whence -isory); -missibilis, E -missible; -missiō, o/s -missiōn-, E -mission; ML -missivus (LL -missiuus) E -missive; L -missor, scantily adopted; ML -missōrius, E -missory, and L -missārius, E -missary. The -able and -ance (cf E -ence) subsidiaries are Ē formations, on the pattern of multitudinous other adj in -able and nn in -ance.

7. L admittere, to allow to approach (ad-, towards), E 'to admit'; pp admissus, whence LL admissibilis, MF-F and E admissible, and L admissiō, EF-F and E admission, whence, anl, the adj admissive, admissory.

8. L committere, to send, hence put, together, hence to entrust to, hence also to undertake, to risk, E 'to commit'. On pp commissus arises LL commissārius, contributory, ML commissārius, an office-holder, whence E commissary and MF-F commissaire, the latter yielding E commissar, and the F commissariat, adopted by E. L commissus has the derivative commissiō, whence, prob via MF-F, the E commission; MF-F commission has EF-F agent commissionnaire, whence both E commissionaire and E commissioner. L commissus has also the derivative commissūra, a sending, hence putting, hence joining together, whence MF-F commissure, adopted by E; the derivative LL adj commissūrālis becomes E commissural. L committere becomes OF-F commettre, pp commis, whence, in MF-F, a n, whence AF committé, whence committee, in EE a person to whom a duty is entrusted, hence, in E, a body of such persons.

9. L dēmittere, to send down, whence away, yields 'to demit', to dismiss (obsol), to relinquish; pp dēmissus yields the adj dēmiss, humble, and, via L dēmissiō, o/s dēmissiōn-, the MF-F démision and E dismissal, and, via F demis, f demise, the legal n demise, whence 'to demise'.

10. L dīmittere, to send in opposite directions (dī- for dis-, apart), prob, via its pp dīmissus, suggested 'to dismiss', as if from L dīmissus*; hence, anl, dismissal (cf L dīmissiō, o/s dīmissiōn-).

11. L ēmittere, to let escape, to expel (e.g., breath), accounts for 'to emit'; presp ēmittens, o/s ēmittent-, becomes emittent; pp ēmissus has derivative ēmissiō, o/s ēmissiōn-, MF-F émission and E emission, whence, anl, emissile; its further derivative ēmissārius, an agent sent forth to gather information or to further certain interests, becomes emissary (cf EF-F émissaire).

12. L immittere, to send, or let, in (im- for in-), gives us 'to immitt'; pp immissus has derivative immissiō, o/s immissiōn-, E immission.

13. L intermittere, to allow an interval inter or between, hence to interrupt, produces 'to intermit'; its pp intermittens, o/s intermittent-, the EF-F and E adj intermittent; pp intermissus has derivative intermissiō, o/s -missiōn-, MF-F and E intermission.

14. L intromittere, to send intro or within, to let into, hence to introduce, yields 'to intromit'; its pp intromissus has, anl, suggested intromission, intromissible, intromissive.

15. L omittere (for obmittere*), to let escape, to omit, produces 'to omit'; pp omissus has derivative LL omissiō, o/s omissiōn-, E omission (perh via MF-F).

16. L permittere, to send or let through, hence to grant entry to, to allow, whence 'to permit'; pp permissus has derivative permissiō, o/s permissiōn-, whence, prob via OF-F, the E permission; derivative F permissif, f -ive, perh suggested E permissive; F permissible is an anl formation.

17. L praemittere, to send before, has pp praemissus, f praemissa, whence the ML n praemissa (sc sententia), the MF premise, F prémisse, the E premiss, with var premise, the latter now mostly in non-Logical senses.

18. L praetermittere, to send, let go, beyond, hence to let pass, becomes 'to pretermitt'; pp praetermissus has derivative praetermissiō, o/s -missiōn-, E pretermission.

19. L prōmittere, to send, hence put, in front, hence to engage to (do something), pp prōmissus, whence LL prōmissa (? for res, thing, that is promised), a promise, whence, via OF-F, the E promise; LL prōmissiūs (ML -ivus) and prōmissor become E promissive and promissor (prompting both legal promisor and ordinary promiser), the latter L word having ML derivative prōmissōrius, whence E promissory. The obs 'to promit' has the ScIL agent promittor.

20. L prōmittere has itself the legal cpd compromittere, (of both parties) to delegate or refer a decision to an arbiter, whence 'to compromit'; pp compromissus has neu -missum, used, in LL-ML, as the corresp n, whence MF-F compromis, whence E compromise, n hence v; derivative LL compromissārius becomes compromissary, and derivative ML compromissiō becomes compromission.

21. L remittere, to send back, hence to relax (vt), gives us 'to remit' (whence remittal); presp remittens, o/s remittent-, the adj remittent, whence remittance, var remittance; pp remissus becomes E remiss, and its derivative remissiō, o/s remissiōn-, becomes, prob via OF-MF (F ré-), remission; derivative LL remissibilis and remissius (ML -ivus) yield MF-F, hence E, remissible and remissive. The pp remissus has the LL derivative remissa (? sc res, thing), forgiveness, whence EF-F remise, adopted by E; hence—perh aided by the derivative F remiser—'to remise'.

22. L submittere, to send, hence put, under, to subjugate, E 'to submit', has pp submitus—whence the obsol adj submitus, syn of submissive—with derivative submitiō, o/s submitiōn-, whence, prob via OF-MF, the E submission.

23. L transmittere, to send across (trans-), to cause to pass, E 'to transmit', has pp transmissus, with derivatives LL transmissibilis, EF-F and E transmissible, and L transmissiō, o/s -missiōn-, MF-F and E transmission, and LL transmissōrius, of transport, E transmissory.

Mississippi; Missouri.

In both of these Amerind river-names, the 1st element is Ojibway (an Alg tribe) misi, big; in the former, the 2nd element is Ojibway sipi, river, the full Ojibway name being Misisipi; in the latter, -souri is app Illinois for 'muddy', the AE word deriving, by aphesis, from Illinois Emissourita, var Ounnessourits, the name for the tribe dwelling by the river. (Webster.) Missouri, however, is stated by Mathews to bear the prob meaning 'People of the Big Canoes'.

missive. See MISSION, para 3.

Missouri. See MISSISSIPPI.

misspend: misstate (whence misstatement): mis-, wrongly + SPEND, STATE.

missus; missy. See MASTER (heading—at mistress).

mist (n, hence v), whence misty: mizzle, to drizzle (hence n), whence mizzly.

1. The n mist comes straight down from OE mist: cf OS (and D) mist, mist, ON -mistr, fine or misty rain, with Gmc r mihst-*; cf also OB migla, Lith miglà, mist, OB migla, fog; Arm mēg, Gr omikhlē, Skt mih, mist, and Skt mēgha-, a cloud; prob (Walshe) cf also OHG-G mist, Go maihstus, dung, and perh, with nasal infix, L mingere, to make water, partly for the sem reason that, from fresh dung and urine, steam arises: IE r, ? migh*-, var mēgh*-, to form mist, be misty.

2. The now mainly dial mizzle derives from late ME miselen (? as freq mistelen* from ME mist): cf the syn LG miseln and D dial miezlen.

3. Cf MISTLETOE.

mistake, v (hence n), pt mistook, pp mistaken: ON mistaka: f.a.e., TAKE.

mister. See MASTER (heading).

mistime: mis-, wrongly+ to TIME.

mistletoe; missel (thrush).

Mistletoe, OE mistelān, is—like the corresp ON misteltein—tautological, for it merely tacks OE tān, a twig, to OE mistel, mistletoe—whence, via the obs EE mistele, missel, mistletoe, the bird missel, which feeds on the berries; OE mistel is akin to OHG mistil, MHG-G mistel. The OE mistel perh derives from OHG mistil, which app derives from OHG mist, dung, for 'mistletoe is propagated by the excrement of birds which eat the berries' (Walshe).

mistral. See MASTER, para 14.

mistress. See MASTER, para 17.

mistrial; mistrust: mis-, wrong, wrongly+ TRIAL, TRUST.

misty. See MIST.

misunderstand(ing), misuse (v, hence n), miswrite (cf OE miswritan): mis-, wrongly+ understand (q.v. at STAND)—USE—WRITE.

misusage, misuse. See USE, para 9, s.f.

mite: OE mīte, a minute arachnid, akin to OHG mīza, MD (and LG) mīte, D mijt: Gmc r, mit*-, tiny insect. The sense 'small coin or sum', as in 'the widow's mite', comes into ME from MD (from the 'arachnid' sense).

miter. See MITRE.

Mithra is Mithras: L from Gr Mithras: OPer Mithra, a Per god of light, akin to the Ve Mitra, an Ancient Indian god of the sun. The adj is either Mithraic, from E Mithra, or Mithriac, from LL Mithriacus, of Mithras.—Perh cf MITRE.

mitigate, mitigation, mitigative, mitigatory, mitigable, mitigant; immitigable; mignon, mignonette, minion.

1. L mītis, soft, smooth, gentle, mild, whence spring all these words, is akin to OIr mōith, soft, tender, (perh) EIr mīn, fine, delicate, Ga mīn, OW *mwy*n, smooth, W mwydion, soft parts: OC mitta*, soft, mild, mit*-, to be soft or mild (Malvezin) and OC mēnos*, smooth. The IE r, therefore, is perh mī*, var mē*-.

2. L mītis, soft, mild, has derivative mītigāre, to soften, render mild, with presp mitigāns, o/s mitigant-, whence the E adj, hence n, mitigant; with pp mitigātus, whence 'to mitigate'. On the pps mitigat-arise mitigātiō, o/s mitigātiōn-, whence, perh via MF, the E mitigation, and LL mitigātūus (ML -ivus), soothing, whence E mitigative, and mitigātōrius, E mitigatory. LL mitigābilis* yields E mitigable; LL immitigābilis, E immitigable.

3. The F adj mignon, dainty, is partly adopted by E, which, in mignonette, adapts the late MF-F dim mignonnette; F mignon is thoroughly anglicized in minion. But B & W contest the C origin (EIr mīn, as above) of late MF-F mignon and make it akin to EF-F minet, familiar name for 'cat'.

mitosis; mitosome. See the element mito-.

mitral, mitrate. See:

mitre: AE mīter: late OF-F mitre (whence the adj mitral, adopted by E): L mitra, headband, turban (whence the adj mitrātus, turban-wearing, E mitrate): Gr mitra: perh from Ve Mitra or, more prob, its OPer cognate, Mithra (as above).

mitt; mitten. See MEDIAL, para 5. mittimus. See MISSION, para 2.

mix (v; hence n, also in cpd mix-up), whence pa mixed and agent mixer and pa, vn mixing; mixtion, mixture;—maslin; meddle, whence meddler and meddlesome; intermeddle; mell, to mix, meddle; medley; F mêlée, E mellay—cf pell-mell; mestizo and métis; misce-cpds, see the element misce-; miscellaneous, miscellany.—Prefix-cpds: admix, admixture, admixture; commix, commixtion, commixture; immix, immixture; intermix, whence, anl, intermixture; cf permix, permixtion, permixture, all from permixtus, pp of L permiscēre, to mix per or thoroughly.

1. 'To mix' derives from earlier mixt, mixed (pp), from F mixte, L mixtus, pp of miscēre, to mix, to mingle: cf OE miscian (prob from L miscēre), OHG miskan, MHG-G mischen (perh from miscēre); cf Gr meignumi, I mix, emigēn, I mixed, also the var misgō, I mix; cf also Skt misrās, mixed (adj); there are, moreover, C and Sl cognates. The IE r is meik*-, var meig*-, to mix. (E & M.)

2. On mixt-, s of pp mixtus, arise LL mixtiō, o/s mixtiōn-, MF-F, hence E, mixtion, mixture (obs), hence a kind of cement, and L mixtura, whence, via EF-F, mixture, and the dim adj miscellus, mixed, with subsidiary miscellanūs, var miscellanūs, whence E miscellaneous; the neu pl miscellanēa, used as n (lit, things mingled), a pot-pourri, becomes EF-F miscellanées, with sing miscellanée*, whence E miscellany.

3. L mixtura becomes OF-MF mesture, whence MF mestueil, mestoil, whence MF mesteillon, a dish made of various grains, whence ME mestylyon, contr to mestlyon, whence E maslin, now dial.

4. L miscēre has, in VL, the derivative freq misculāre*, whence OF-MF mesler (F méler), with a (perh popular) var medler, whence ME medden, to mix, whence E meddle, to mix (obs), both vt and, derivatively, vi, hence to interfere. The cpd intermeddle (inter-, among, between) comes from ME entremedden, to mix together, from MF entremedler, var of OF-MF entremesler: entre (L inter)+ mesler.

5. OF mesler has another var: MF meller, whence ME mellen, E 'to mell', to mix, to meddle, now mostly dial.

6. OF mesler has derivative OF-MF meslee, whence F mêlée, partly adopted by E, which prefers mellay, from OF-MF mellee, var of meslee; meslee has the further var medlee, adopted by ME, whence E medley.

7. OF mesle has the int redup mesle mesle, with var—soon ousting its parent—OF-MF pesle mesle (p- for m- to avoid repetition), whence F pêle-mêle, whence E pell-mell, in a rapidly moving disorder, hence furiously.

8. Both the F métis (f métisse), a mixed-blood, whence Can half-breed and AE octoroon, and Sp mezizo, a mixed-blood, loosely any half-breed (AE), come, the former via OF-MF mestis, from LL mistiċius, mixtiċius, from L mixtus, mixed, used as adj.

Prefix-Compounds

9. The prefix-cpds all (except for unmixed) derive from L and follow a regular pattern, thus:

L admiscēre (ad-, towards), to add something to a mixture, has pp admixtus, also used as adj, whence EE admixt, which, apprehended as a pp, yields, by b/f, 'to admix', whence, anl, admixture; admixtion, however, derives from L admixtiōn-, o/s of admixtiō, from the pp admixtus;

L commiscēre, to mix com- or together, pp commixtus, whence EE commixt, apprehended as a true E pp, whence, by b/f, 'to commix'; derivative LL commixtura yields commixture; derivative LL commixtiō, o/s -mixtiōn-, yields commixtion;

L immiscēre, to mix in (with something), pp immixtus, whence EE immixt, which, taken as an E pp, produces, by b/f, 'to immix', whence, anl, immixture;

L intermiscēre, to mix in among (other things), pp intermixtus, EE intermixt, which, taken as an E pp, produces, by b/f, 'to intermix', hence, anl, intermixture, displacing intermixtion (LL intermixtiō).

mizzen. See MEDIAL, para 6.

mizzle, to drizzle. See MIST, para 2.

mnemonic, mnesic, mnestic. See MIND, para 7.

moa, extinct large N.Z. bird: Maori word.

moan. See the 4th MEAN, para 2.

moat: OF mota, small hill, mound, dike, bank: cf OProv mota, mound, hence a château built upon a height: ? of C origin: C mot*, a mound, ? ex moc*, a swelling. Id with OF-F motte, a mound, which B & W think to be of pre-L origin.

mob (n, hence adj and v): L mobile uulgus (ML vulgus), the fickle populace: cf:

mobile, mobility, mobilize (whence mobilization)—cf immobile, etc.; hence demobilize (sl 'to demob'), demobilization. See MOVE, para 5.

moccasin, perh better—certainly, in AE, usu—moccasin: of Alg origin: cf Narragansett moccusin and Massachusetts mokhisson (Webster), Alg mawcahsun (Funk & Wagnall).

mock (v, hence n, whence adj), whence agent mock and pa, vn mocking; mockery.—Perh Momus.

1. Mōmus, L trln of Gr Mōmos, god of mockery and censure, personifies Gr mōmos, ridicule, s mōm-, r perh mō-*. Perh akin to

2. Gr mōkos, a mocker, s mōk-, r perh mō-*, to ridicule or mock: whence, unless the F v be purely echoic (as, indeed, the Gr words may have been), the OF-MF moquer—F moquer (cf the syn OProv mocar): whence certainly the ME mocken, whence E 'to mock'; derivative OF-MF moquerie, EF-F moquerie, produces E mockery. The mocking bird is gracelessly imitative.

modal, modality; mode—cf outmoded and F démodé—whence modelless; model (n, whence v—cf the F modeler), whence the pa, vn modelling (AE modeling) and the agent model(l)ist; moderant, moderantism, moderate (adj, whence moderatism; hence the v), moderation, moderator—cf immoderate, immoderation; modern (adj, hence n), whence modernism, modernist, and modernity, modernize (whence modernization); modest, modesty—negg immodest, immodesty; modicity (immodicity), modicum; modify (whence modifiable and modifier), modification (whence, anl, modificative and modificatory); modiolus; F la mode, modish, modiste; modulate, modulation, modulator (? hence modulatory), module (whence, anl, the adj modular), modulus; L modus operandi, method of working, and m. vivendi, way of life; mould, AE moald, matrix, hence form, shape, hence the v, whence agent mo(u)lder and vn mo(u)lding.—Cpds: commode, commodious, commodity—cf ditty bag—cf also accommodate, accommodation (whence, anl, accommodative); incommode, incommodious, incommody.—CF the sep MEASURE and MEDICAL (where, at para 5, to mete or measure).

I. The base: L modus

1. L modus, a measure, hence a measure one should not exceed, a limit, hence manne; way of doing something or of behaving: whence, perh via late MF-F, the E mode. Modus, s and r mod-, is very closely akin to L medēri, to measure, with s and r med-: cf MEASURE, para 1.

II. Simple Derivatives of modus

2. Modus has ML adj modālis, whence E modal; derivative ML modālītās, o/s modālītāt-, becomes EF-F modalité, whence E modality. From F la mode, fashion (in dress, etc.), comes E mode, fashion, with derivatives modish and outmoded; the F démodé, no longer in fashion, is partly adopted by E, which fully adopts modiste.

3. Modus has dim modulus, a small measure, hence a poetic metre, a melody, whence, perh via EF-F, the E module. Derivative modulāri, to regulate, has pp modulātus, whence the E adj (obsol) and v modulate; subsidiary modulātiō, o/s modulātiōn-, becomes late MF-F and E modulation, and agent modulātor is adopted.

4. L modulus has the VL var modellus*, whence It modello, whence EF-F modèle, whence E model. Modulus also becomes OF modle, with var molle (whence F moule), which combine to form ME molde, whence E mould, AE moald, whence—prob influenced by OF modler, MF moler (F nouler)—‘to mo(u)ld’.

5. L modus has derivative v moderāri (influenced by medēri), var moderāre, to keep within measure, to regulate. The presp moderans, o/s moderant-, produces the E n moderant; moderantism prob comes from F moderantisme (from moderant). The pp moderātus yields both the adj and the v moderate; derivative moderātiō, o/s moderātiōn-, becomes MF-F modération, whence E moderation, and derivative agent moderātor is adopted. The neg immoderātus and immoderātiō, o/s immoderātiōn-, explain immoderate, immoderation.

6. L modus has abl modo, with measure, esp of time, hence as adv, just now, very recently, with the LL derivative modernus (cf hodiernus, from hodie, today), whence MF-F moderne, whence E modern.

7. From modus—like moderāri, influenced by medēri, and esp by the modes-* var of modus—comes the adj modestus, keeping oneself within measure, well regulated, whence MF-F modeste, whence E modest; derivative modestia becomes MF-F modestie, E modesty; the neg immodestus and immodestia become, perh via EF-F, the E immodest, immodesty.

8. Modus itself has an -icus adj: modicus, measured, moderate, with derivative LL modicitās, o/s modicitāt-, EF-F modicité, the rare E modicity, with neg immodicity prompted by immodesty. Modicus has neu modicum, which, used as n, gives us modicum, a little.

9. Modus, influenced by modēri, has mdfn modius, a measure of capacity (esp for corn), with dim modiolus, adopted by An.

III. Compounds

10. Modus has derivative modificāre, to make (-ficare, a c/f of facere) limited, to limit or regulate, whence MF-F modifier, whence ‘to modify’; derivative modificātiō, o/s modificātiōn-, supplies, perh via MF-F, modification.

11. The remaining cpds are prefix-cpds:

commodus, conforming to measure, hence convenient, advantageous, with neu commodum used as n, whence late MF-F commode, borrowed by E; the n commodus acquires, in ML, the adj commodiōsus, whence, perh via F commodieux, f -ieuse, the E commodious; commodity derives, via MF-F commodité, from L commoditās (o/s commoditāt-), from commodus.

12. Commodity perh explains the sailor’s ‘ditty bag’. ? for ‘commodity bag’.

13. Commodus has neg incommodus (whence F incommode, inconvenient), with subsidiary v incommodāre, to cause inconvenience to, whence late MF-F incommoder, whence ‘to incommodē’. Derivative incommoditās, o/s incommoditāt-, passes through MF-F incommodité into E incommodity; incommodious=in-, not+commodious.

14. Commodus has derivative v commodāre, to adjust, hence to render a service to, with pp commodātus (neu commodātum) and derivative commodātiō, o/s commodātiōn-, whence commodate (n), commodation (obs), commodatum. The cpd accommodāre, to adapt, hence to afford help, e.g. shelter, to, pp accommodātus, whence accommodātiō, o/s -ātiōn-, gives us the obsol adj, and the v, accommodate and accommodation.

model. See prec, para 4.

moderate, moderation, moderator. See MODAL, para 5.

modern, modernist, modernize. See MODAL, para 6.

modest, modesty. See MODAL, para 7.

modicity. See MODAL, para 8.

modification, modify. See MODAL, para 10.

modiolus. See MODAL, para 9.

modish. See MODAL, para 2.

modiste. See MODAL, para 2.

modulate, modulation, modulator. See MODAL, para 3.

modul, modulus. See MODAL, para 3.

modus operandi, m. vivendi. See MODAL (heading).

Mogul. See MONGOL.

mohair; moire, moiré.

Mohair, a fine fabric made from the hair of Angora goats, comes from It moccaiaro (-jaro), itself from Ar mukhayyar, a (coarser) fabric. From E mohair, late EF-F derives moire, a watered mohair, hence a watered silk; whence F moirer, to ‘water’ (a fabric, esp silk), with pp moiré, itself used as a F n and an E adj, n, v.

Mohammed, whence Mohammedan (adj hence also n), whence Mohammedanism; Mahomet.—Cf Muslim, q.v. at ISLAM.

Mohammed derives from Ar Muhammad, which personifies muhammad, worthy of praise; Mahomet is the F form—cf the F adj mahométan.

molety. See MEDIAL, para 4.

moil. See the 2nd MEAL, para 15, s.f.

moire, moiré. See MOHAIR.

moist, moisten, moisture. See MUCUS, para 4.

moke, a donkey, (Aus) a horse: sl and o.o.o.: cf Skelton (C16), ‘Mocke hath lost her shoe’, which points to a dial var of Moggy, itself a var of Maggy, pet-form of Margaret. (EW.) molar (1), of a mass. See the 3rd MOLE (heading). molar (2), for grinding. See the 2nd MEAL, para 10.

molasses. See MEL, para 2.

mold (1), friable earth. See the 2nd MEAL, para 5.

mold (2), shape. See MODAL, para 4.

mole (1), animal: ME molle: OFris moll—cf MLG mol (var mul) and esp MD molle, var mol (as in D): prob ‘the earth-creature’—cf OHG multwurf, MHG moltwerfe, G Maulwurf, lit ‘soil-thrower’: f.a.e., the 2nd MEAL, para 5, mo(u)ld.

mole (2), a small congenital protuberance: OE māl: cf OHG-MHG meil, a stain, Go mail, a wrinkle: ? cf Gr miainein, to pollute.

mole (3), a mass, massive structure, breakwater, whence the adj molar; molecule, whence the adj molecular (cf the F moléculaire); molest, molesta- tion;—demolish (whence demolishment—cf the F démolissement), demolition.

1. This mole derives from EF-F môle, from It molo, from MGr mōlos, from L mōlēs, a mass, esp of stone, a dike, a breakwater: perh akin to Gr mōlos, strain, great physical effort or exertion, and OHG muodi (G müde), ON mōthr, weary: IE r, mo-, to make an effort, bestir oneself, with extrn mol-, n.

2. L mōlēs acquires, in C17 F, the erudite dim molécule, whence E molecule; in L, it has adj molestus, (too) heavy, hence painful, hence troublesome: hence the v molestāre, to be a burden—hence a trouble—to, OF-F molester, whence ‘to molest’, and MF-F molestation, adopted by E.

3. Mōlēs has derivative mōliri, to make an effort at, to set moving, with cpd dēmōliri, to pull effortfully dē- or down, whence MF demolir (F dé-), whence, via such parts as presp demolissant and ‘nous demolissons’, we pull down, the E ‘to demolish’; derivative L dēmōlitiō, o/s dēmōlitiōn-, becomes MF-F démolition, E demolition.

mole (4), a uterine growth. See the 2nd MEAL, para 11.

molecule, molecular. See the 3rd MOLE, heading and para 2.

molest, molestation. See the 3rd MOLE, para 2.

molinary, moline. See the 2nd MEAL, para 10.

mollescent; mollify, mollification. See the 2nd MEAL, para 16.

mollusc, AE mollusk. See the 2nd MEAL, para 15.

Molly. See Mary.

mollycoddle=Molly, obs sl for a milksop+CODDLE.

Moloch, a Semitic deity (‘the abomination of the Ammonites’): LL Moloch: LGr Molokh: H Mōlekh, akin to H melekh, king (cf Phoen milk) and prob deriving from it, with -o- perh from H bōsheth, shame. (EnciIt.) Hence moloch, an evil doctrine to or for which humanity is sacrificed; hence also a formidable-looking (though harmless) Aus lizard.

molt. See MOULT.

molten, adj from pp of MELT.

molybdenite, molybdenum. See PLUMB.

mom. See MAMA (heading).

moment, momentaneous, momentary, momentous, momentum. See MOVE, para 7.

momma. See MAMA (heading).

Momus. See MOCK.

monachal, monachate. See MONK, para 1.

monad, a unit: like EF-F monade, from LL monad-, o/s of monas, adopted from Gr monas (o/s monad-), from monos, sole, single, alone, with s and r mon-: cf Gr mānos (s and r mān-), thin, sparse, and Skt mandk (s man-), a little, Tokh B menki, less, lesser, Lith meikas, little, trivial, OIr menb, little. The Gr adj monadikos produces monadic.

monarch (whence monarchism, monarchist), monarchic, monarchy.

Gr monarkhēs, monarkhos, one who governs alone—whence LL monarcha, whence E monarch

(and MF-F monarque)—derives from monos, alone (see prec)+arkhein, to be first, hence to rule; derivative monarkhikos, monarkhia, yield resp—via LL and app via MF-F—the adj monarchic and the n monarchy.

monastery, monastic. See MONK, para 2.

Monday. See MEASURE, para 12.

monetary, monetize. See MIND, para 21.

money, moneysage, moneyer. See MIND, para 23.

mong (dial). See MONGREL.

monger: OE mangere, agent of mangian, to be a trader: L mangō, a vendor that decks out and furbishes his wares (in order to deceive), also esp a slave-trader: Gr manganon, a means of deception: f.a.e., the 1st MANGLE.

Mongol (whence Mongolia, Mongolian, Mongolism, Mongoloid); Mogul.

The latter, lit a Mongol, esp one of the Mongol conquerors of India, particularly The Great Mogul or ruler of Mongolian India (CC16-early 18), hence derivatively a magnate (mogul),—Mogul comes from Per Mughul, a Mongol; in fact, from the source of Mongol itself: Mongolian Mongol.

mongoose: Marathi mungus: almost a blend of Skt musa, rat or mouse (habitual victims of the mongoose)+Skt angusa, mongoose.

mongrel; mong; among.

Mongrel=the now dial mong, to mix+-rel for -erel, as in cockerel: ‘to mong’ app derives from mong, a mixture, a mingling, which derives from late ME-EE ymong, among, from OE gemang, which, moreover, drops its prefix ge- and takes instead OE on, in, to produce ME-E among. This OE gemang is basically ‘a mingling’, hence ‘a crowd’, from gemengan, to mingle: f.a.e., MINGLE.

monial. See MULLION.

monish. See MIND, para 17.

monism: Gr monos, alone, single+-ism, a philosophy: cf dualism and pluralism.

monition, monitor, monitory. See MIND, para 17.

monk, whence monkery, monkish; monachal, monachate; monastery, monastic.

1. Gr monos (f.a.e., MONAD) has derivative monakhos, a solitary, hence, in LGr, a monk, whence LL monachus, VL monicus*, OE munuc, E monk. LL monachus has LL adj monachālis, whence monachal, and a derivative n monachātus (gen -ūs), the monastic state, whence monachate.

2. Gr monos has derivative v monazein, to live alone, be a solitary, whence monastēs, a solitary, with adj monastikos, LL monasticus, E monastic (late MF-F monastique), and with subsidiary monastērion, LL monasterium, E monastery (MF-F monastère).—Cf the sep MINSTER.

monkey: perh MLG Moneke, an ape’s name: a dim (-ke: cf -kin) from mon-, of R origin—cf Sp mono, f mona, It mona, monna, from Tu maimón, from Ar maimún. The MLG shape is prob due to MD monec, munic (D monnik), a monkey, ref ‘the brown-capped head’ (EW): cf, sem, the SAm monkey called the capuchin.

monochord: via MF-F: LL monochordon: Gr monokhordon, prop the neu of monokhordos, with a single string: monos (f.a.e., MONAD)+khordē (CHORD).

monochrome: Gr monokhrōmos, of a single khroma or colour: f.a.e., MONAD and CHROMATIC.

monocular, one-eyed: L monoculus, a hybrid of Gr monos, single+L oculus, eye.

monodrama. See the element mono-.

monody. See ODE, para 6, and cf the element mono-.

monogamist derives from monogamy, EF-F monogamie, LL monogamia, adopted from Gr, from Gr monogamos, single-wived, which leads, via LL monogamus, to E monogamous. For mono-, c/f of monos, alone, single, cf MONAD; for Gr gamos, marriage, cf GAMETE.

2. Largely anl to monogamy, monogamous, monogamist, are:

bigamy, MF-F bigamie, from MF bigame, which, like E bigamous, derives from LL-ML bigamus, twice-married; bigamist is anl; polygamy, EF-F polygamie, LL polygamia, Gr polugamia, multiple marriage, from polugamos, much-married, whence E polygamous; polygamist is anl; cryptogam, F cryptogame, from cryptogamie, SciL cryptogamia: crypto-, Gr krupto-, c/f of krup-tos, hidden (cf CRYPT)+Gr gamos, marriage; hence the anl adj cryptogamous.

monogram; monograph: LL monogramma, adopted from Gr: monos, single+grammē, a line (cf GRAMMAR); E formation in mono- (c/f)+graph, q.v. at GRAMMAR.

monolith (whence monolithic): EF-F monolithe, n: LL monolithus, Gr monolithos, consisting of a single (monos: cf MONAD) stone (lithos).

monologist derives from monologue, q.v. at LEGEND, para 28.

monomania: F monomanie, reshaped after mania (q.v. at MIND, para 3). Hence, anl, monomaniacal.

monopolist and monopolize derive from monopoly: L monopōlium: Gr monopōlion, the right to sell (pōlein) alone (monos), certain goods.

monosyllable, monosyllabic. See SYLLABLE, para 3.

monotheism, monotheist. See THEISM, para 2.

monotone, monotonous, monotony.

The 1st=n from F adj monotone, which, like E monotonous, derives from LL monotonus, from Gr monotonos, of one (monos) tone (tonos: cf TONE), whence Gr monotonia, adopted by LL, whence late EF-F monotonie and E monotony.

monotype: mono-, c/f of Gr monos, single (cf MONAD)+type in its printing and Bio senses: similar—in form—to linotype.

monseigneur, monsignor; monsieur. See SENILE, para 4, s.f.

monsoon: ED monsson (D moesson): Port monção or perh Sp monzón: Ar mausim, maucim, a time, hence a season, esp that of these winds.

monster, monstrous, monstrosity; monstrate, monstration, monstrable, monstrance; muster, n and v; demonstrable, demonstrate, demonstration, demonstrative, demonstrator—cf remonstrance, re- monstrant, remonstrate, remonstration (whence, anl, remonstrative, remonstrator).

1. Monster derives, via ME from OF-F monstre, from L mōnstrum, an omen portending the will of the gods, hence a supernatural being or object, hence a monster: from monēre, to warn: cf MIND, para 17. Derivative LL mōnstrōsus becomes MF monstreux (F monstreux), f monstreuse, E monstrous; subsidiary mōnstrōsītās, o/s mōnstrōsītāt-, yields monstrosity.

2. Derivative mōnstrāre, to be an omen of, loses its religious character when it passes into common speech and comes to mean 'to point out, to show'. The presp mōnstrans, o/s mōnstrant-, has derivative ML mōnstrantia, whence, via OF-EF, the Eccl E monstrance; the pp mōnstrātus becomes the obs 'to monstrate', and its subsidiaries mōnstrātiō, o/s mōnstrātiōn-, mōnstrābilis, the obs monstration, monstrable.

3. L mōnstrāre has the VL var mōstrāre*, whence OF-MF mostrer, with var mustrer, whence ME mustren, to show, hence to bring together in order to show, hence E 'to muster'; the E n muster, ME moustre, derives from OF-MF mostre, from mostrer.

4. Mōnstrāre has two prefix-cpds affecting E: dēmōnstrāre, to point out forcibly, to prove, with derivatives dēmōnstrābilis, E demonstrable—presp dēmōnstrans, o/s dēmōnstrant-, E demonstrant—pp dēmōnstrātus, E 'to demonstrate'—subsidiaries dēmōnstrātiō, o/s dēmōnstrātiōn-, MF-F dēmōnstration, E demonstration, and LL dēmōnstrātius (ML -ivus), MF-F dēmōnstratif, f -ive, E demonstrative, and dēmōnstrātor, adopted by E;

ML remōnstrāre, to show again, point back to, as a fault, with presp remōnstrans, o/s remōnstrant-, whence both E remonstrant and MF remonstrance (F remontrance), adopted by E; and with pp remōnstrātus, whence 'to remonstrate', the derivative ML remōnstrātiō, o/s remōnstrātiōn-, yielding E remonstration.

Montana. See MINATORY, para 11.

month, monthly. See MEASURE, para 11.

Montreal. See MINATORY, para 11, s.f. monument, monumental. See MIND, para 20.

mooch (whence moocher, a skulker, hence a loiterer) is akin to the now dial miche (whence 'to mike'), to skulk, to loiter illicitly, as in 'miching mallecho': ME mychen, to pilfer, OF-EF muchier, mucier, to conceal, (vr) to lurk: cf MHG miucheligen, G meuchlings, treacherously, OHG mūhhōn, to attack from ambush, mūhhilāri, an assassin, OIr for-múigthe, hidden, MÍr múchaim, I conceal, L muger, a cardsharpener: European r: ? mugh-, var mug-, to lurk. (Walshe.)

mood, in grammar, sem derives from mode, manner (cf MODAL), but takes the form of mood, temper of mind, whether permanent or, as now usu, at a particular time: ME mood, earlier mod: OE mōd, mind, heart, courage, feeling: cf the syn OFris (and OS) mōd, OHG-MHG muot (G Mut, courage), MD moede, D moed, and Go mōths (gen mōdis), ON mōthr, anger; cf also Doric Gr mānis, Attic mēnis, anger: Gmc r, mod-, modh-; IE, ma-*. (Walshe.) Moody—whence moodiness—derives from OE mōdig, courageous.

moon. See MEASURE, para 10.

moor (1), n. See the 2nd MERE, para 6.

moor (2), v. See the 2nd MARL, para 2.

Moor, whence Moorish; morisca, morisco; Moro; Mauresque; Mauretania;—morris (dance).

1. Moor, a NAfr Arab, (hence) or Berber, (hence) or Arab-Berber: OF-F More, var of Maure: L Maurus, a Moor, whence Mauretania: Gr Mauros, personification of mauros, (very) dark, aphetic for the syn amauros, s amaur-, o.o.o.

2. L Maurus becomes Sp Moro, applied in E to a Moslem of the Philippines.

3. L Maurus has ML adj mauriscus, whence Sp Morisco, used in E for a Moor of Spain and, as morisco, a Moorish dance; the Sp var morisca (danza) becomes MF-F morisque, whence EE morys and morish, whence E morris.

4. The F adj morisque becomes—anl with the numerous adj in (Sp -isco and) F -esque—the MF-F moresque, E Moresque, with var Mauresque.

moorings. See the 2nd MARL, para 2.

Moorish. See MOOR (heading).

moose: Massachusetts (Amerind) moos, varr mos, mus: of Alg stock: 'he strips or eats off' the young bark and twigs of trees. (Mathews.) Sem, cf CARIBOU.

moot, adj and n and v. See the 2nd MEET, s.f.

mop (n, hence v), whence the dim moppet (mop+*eu*phonic p+dim -et), derives from ME mappe, var of earlier mapple: ? from Mabel as a given-name common among housemaids: dim of Mab, of C origin—cf Mlr Mebd.

mope (whence mopish, now usu moping), to act in a daze (dial), hence dejectedly: cf LG mopen, to gape, and Sw dial mopa, to sulk.

mopoke (mostly NZ); by f/e, morepork (mostly Aus). Echoic.

moppet. See MOP.

moraine, adopted from F, derives from Savoyard morēna, from dial mor, morre, a snout. (B & W.)

moral (adj, whence n, whence morals), whence, anl, moralism and moralist; morality; moralize (whence moralization); morale; mores; morose, morosity.—Cpds: amoral, whence amorality; demoralize, moralization; immoral, immoralist, immorality.

1. Mōres, used learnedly for ethical folkways, is the pl of L mōs (o/s mōr-), a way of carrying oneself, hence esp of behaving; a custom as determined by usage, not by law: o.o.o.

2. The L adj is mōrālis, whence, via OF-F, moral; from F moral used as n comes E morale. L mōrālis has LL derivative mōrālītās, o/s mōrālītāt-, OF-F moralitē, E morality; MF-F moraliser yields 'to moralize'.

3. L mōs, in its nuance 'character', has the derivative pej 'bad mood', whence the adj mōrōsus, in a bad mood, sullen, E morose; derivative L mōrōsītās, o/s mōrōsītāt-, accounts for E morosity (cf late MF-F morositē).

Compounds

4. The prefix-cpds are all of F origin, amoral being adopted, amorality being adapted (F amoralitē), from F; demoralize=F démoraliser, demoralization=F démoralisation; immoral is adopted, immorality adapted (F immoralitē), immoralist adapted (Andre Gide's L'Immoraliste, 1911), from F.

morass. See the 2nd MERE, para 8.

moratorium, moratory. See MEMORY, para 3.

Moravia, whence Moravian (adj, hence n), is prob of C origin.

moray: prob Port moreia: L muraena: Gr muraina: o.o.o.

morbid, morbidity, morbific. See MORTAL, para 11.

mordacious, mordacity; mordant, mordent; mordicate, mordication. See MORSEL, paras 3, 2, and 5. more (adj 'greater', hence adv and n), whence moreover; most.

1. More, ME more, var mare (cf the adv mo, earlier ma), derives from OE māra (adv mā): cf OFris māra, adj, mā and mār, mēr and mē, adv; OS mēra, adj, and mēr, adv; OHG mēro, adj, mēr, adv, G mehr (adv); MD mere, merre, adj and adv, mee, adv, D meer, adv; Go māis, adv, and māiza, adj; ON meiri, meirr, adj; OIr mās, greater, mór (var már), great, māu, mō, more (adv), Ga mór, W mawr, Br and Cor (also mēr, mūr) maur, OC maros*, great; Homeric Gr enkhesimōros (ἐγκέσιμος), great with—famed for—the enkhos or spear: perh from prehistoric C of Asia Minor; prob (Hofmann) from an IE etymon mēros*, var mōros*, great, very large.

2. Akin to the OE adj māra, greater, is the OE adj māest, greatest, ME mest, mast, later most, E most, adj; derivative OE māest, adv, leads to E most, adv; the n derives from the adj. OE māest is akin to OFris māst, OS mēst, Go maists, OHG-MHG meist, greatest, G meist (adv), most, ON mestr, greatest; the o in late ME-E most was app prompted by that of ME-E more.

morepork. See MOPOKE.

mores. See MORAL, para 1.

Moresque. See MOOR, para 4.

morganatic: EF-F morganatique: ML 'matri-monium ad morganaticam': ML morganatica, a morning gift: OHG morgangeba, gift (-geba: E GIVE) of the morgan (G Morgen) or morning.

morgue. See MORTAL, para 4.

moribund. See MORTAL, para 9.

morisca, morisco. See MOOR, para 3.

Mormon derives, not from Gr mormōn, a monster, but from The Book of Mormon (1830), 'discovered' and written by Joseph Smith, founder of the sect: E more (adv)+(the non-existent) Eg mon, great: 'the better' religion of the Latter-Day Saints.

morn—ME morn, earlier morwen, whence ME morwening, later morning, E morning, with -ing as in evening: earliest ME, from OE, morgen: cf OFris orgen, mergen, OS and OHG morgan, MHG-G morgen, Go maúrgins, ON morgunn, morginn: cf, further off, Lith mirgėti, to wink, blink, twinkle, Gr marmairein, to flash, Skt marīci, ray of light: cf, therefore, the 1st MERE and MURK.

2. ME morwen has var morwe, whence E morrow, morning, hence as in on the morrow, the next day. Hence to-morrow (TO).

MORO. See MOOR, para 2.

Morocco (whence Moroccan- cf the F adj marocain, whence EF-F n maroquin), whence the fine leather, morocco, first made there, derives from It Marocco: Sp Marruecos: Ar Marrakish.

moron, whence moronic; oxymoron; sophomore, whence sophomoreic.

Moron is Gr mōron, neu of mōros, stupid, akin to Skt mūra; oxymoron is Gr oxumōron, neu of oxumōros, pointedly (or shrewdly) foolish—cf the element oxy-; AE sophomore derives from Gr sophos, wise (cf SOPHISM), and mōros: the wisely foolish second-year student at a university.

morose, morosity. See MORAL, para 3.

morpheme. See para 2 of:

Morpheus; morphia, morphine, morphic; morphology; morphosis;—cf the element morph-;—amorphous; dimorphism.

1. The base is furnished by Gr morphē, shape or form: IE r, ? morgh-* or perh a dissyllabic meregh-*; L forma is perh a metathesis of Gr morphē.

2. Morphē has derivative Morpheus, the shaper of dreams; prop the god of dreams, he is popularly apprehended as the god of sleep. The E adj morphic=Gr morphē+E suffix -ic; morphosis=Gr morphōsis, from morphoun, to shape, from morphē; morphology=morphē+connective -o-+-logy, science (cf LOGIC).

3. From Gr Morpheus, G derives Morphin, whence F, hence E, morphine (Chem suffix -in, -ine); and from morphine comes morphia, with the SciL (from L) suffix -ia. But morpheme=F morphème (-ème), from Gr morphē.

4. Gr amorphos (a-, without), formless, becomes E amorphous; Gr dimorphos (di=dis, twice), two-formed, becomes E dimorphous, with Sci var dimorphic, adj corresp to dimorphism.

morris (dance). See MOOR, para 3.

morrow. See MORN, para 2.

morsel and morsal; mordacity, mordacious; mordant (whence mordancy) and mordent; mordicate, mordication;—remorse, whence both remorseful and remorseless.—Cf the sep SMART and SMIRCH.

1. All these words go back to L mordēre, to bite, s mord-, r mor-: o.o.o.: perh cf OHG smerto (G Schmerz)—Gr smerdnos, horrible—and esp Skt mardati, he crushes: the s of SMIRCH and SMART, as of those G and Gr words, could be the IE prefix s-.

2. The presp mordens, o/s mordent-, becomes It mordente, whence G Mordent, adopted by E as a Mus term; mordant, however, is adopted from F, where it is the presp of OF-F mordre (from mordēre).

3. The L s mord- occurs in the adj mordāx, biting, o/s mordāc-, whence E mordacious; derivative L mordācītās, o/s mordācītāt-, yields mordacity.

4. The L pp morsus, s mors-, issues into the E adj morsal, sharp-biting, cutting; it also has the derivative n morsus (gen morsūs), a biting, a bite, whence OF-F mors, with OF dim morsel (F morceau), a little bite, hence the quantity bitten off by a person, a small piece, and duly adopted by E.

5. The LL extn mordicāre, to bite painfully, has pp mordicātus, whence 'to mordicate,'; derivative LL mordicātiō (o/s mordicātiōn-), colic, becomes E mordication, a gnawing pain.

6. The L cpd remordēre, to bite back or again, connotes 'to bite afterwards', as one's conscience does; hence the obs remord (n, v). The pp is remorsus and has the ML derivative n remorsus (gen -ūs), whence MF remors (F remords), adopted by ME, whence E remorse.

mort. See para 5 of:

mortal, mortality—immortal, immortality, and immortalize (cf the EF-F immortaliser); mort; mortgage (n, hence v); mortification, mortify; mortician, mortuary (adj, n); mortmain—see MANUAL, para 21;—morbid, morbidity, morbific; moribund; morgue; murray;—amortize; post-mortem;—murder, n whence murderous, and v, whence murderer.

1. The basic word is L mors, death, o/s mort-, whence the adj mortālis, OF-MF mortal (F mortel), adopted by E; derivative L mortālītās (o/s mortālitāt-) becomes OF-F mortalité, E mortality. The neg LL immortālis and its derivative immortālītās pass through OF-MF to become E immortal, immortality.

2. L mors (s and r mor-) is intimately related to mōrī, to die, s and r mor-. The IE r is app mer-*, to die, attested by the cognates in Skt, Arm, OSI, Lith.

3. L mōrī has pp mortuus, whence the L mortu-ārius (-ārius), of, by, for the burial of the dead, whence, via MF-F mortuaire, the E adj mortuary; the n mortuary derives from MF-F mortuaire, from ML mortuārium, prop the neu of the adj. AE mortician app=mort- (o/s of L mors)+physician.

4. But a morgue, where the lost or murdered dead are exposed, is prob unconnected with L mors, death, for E morgue is adopted from EF-F; as late as 1611, the F term was defined as 'a place where prisoners were examined on entry into prison'; in C15 it meant 'a haughty air'—o.o.o.

5. The L pp—hence also adj—mortuus became VL mortus, whence F mort (f morte), which occurs in MF-F mortgage, lit 'dead gage' (pledge)—adopted by E. The OF-F n mort (L mortem, acc of mors), death, adopted by E, is there obs except as a hunting term for 'the death' of a deer and the horn-call sounded thereat. The now dial n mort, a large quantity or number, derives either sem from the obs E mort, death, or from the E adj mortal used int.

6. The L cpd mortificus, death-making (-ficus from -ficere, c/f of facere, to make), hence death-dealing, yields the rare E mortific; derivative LL mortificāre, to put to death, becomes OF-F mortifier (with senses gradually widening and weakening), whence 'to mortify'; subsidiary LL mortificatiō, o/s -ficiatiōn-, becomes OF-F mortification, adopted by E.

7. The ML cpd admortisāre, var amortisāre, to extinguish (lit, to put to death: L ad+mortem+ML v suffix -isāre, var of LL-ML -izāre, from Gr -izein)—e.g., a debt—becomes ME amortisen, E 'to amortize'; derivative ML amortisātiō (var of admortizātiō), o/s amortisātiōn-, yields E amortization.

8. L post mortem, after death, explains the E adj, hence n, post-mortem.

9. L mori, to die, has derivative adj moribundus, being—or appearing to be—about to die, whence moribund.

10. Morī has the VL varr morīre, morīri: whence OF-MF morir (F mourir), whence OF-MF morine, a plague, ME moreine, E murrain.

11. Perh akin to L mors, death, and morī, to die, is L morbus (s morb-, r mor-), a disease; despite E & M's 'The resemblance to morior must be fortuitous', L morb- could well be an extn of the r mor-*: cf OIr marb (cf OW marw), OC marvos*, dead. The foll derivatives concern E:

morbidus, diseased, becomes (EF-F morbide and) E morbid, whence morbidity;

LL morbificus, disease-causing (cf LL morbificāre, to cause illness), yields F morbifique and E morbific.

12. Akin to L morī and mors is E murder, n, and murder, v: ME morder, morthor, and v mortheren, murtheren: OE morthor and v myrthrian: cf OE, OFris, OS, ON morth, MD mord, D moord, Go maurthr, (a) murder, and OFris morthia, Go maurthran, to murder; cf also OSl mrẽti, to die, and Skt marate, he dies.

mortar. See SMART, para 3. mortgage. See MORTAL, para 5.

mortician. See MORTAL, para 3, s.f.

mortific, mortification, mortify. See MORTAL, para 6.

mortise (n, hence v): F mortaise: MF mortoise: Ar murtazz, fastened—or fixed—in, pp of razza, to fit something into something else.

mortmain. See MANUAL, para 21.

mortuary, adj and n. See MORTAL, para 3.

Mosaic: ML Mosalcos*, adj of LL Mōsēs—unless direct from LGr Mosaikos—from LGr Mōsēs (Μωϋσῆς): H Mōsheh: perh Eg mesu, child, boy, son, the babe being discovered, in the bulrushes, by the Pharaoh's daughter.

mosaic. See MUSE, para 2.

Moscow. See MUSCOVITE.

mosey. See VADE, para 6.

Moslem. See ISLAM.

mosque: EF-F mosquée: It moschea: Ar masjid (N Afr Ar masjid), place where one worships: Ar sajada, to bow down in worship.

mosquito. See MIDGE, para 3.

moss (n, hence v), whence mossy; mother, lees, a slimy membrane forming upon fermenting liquids, whence the adj motherly; mundificant, mundify; cf the sep LITMUS.

1. Moss, a bog, hence the plant thriving there, comes, through ME mos, a bog, from OE mos, a marshy place (? from ON mosi, id), and, through ME mos, moss, from ON mosi, moss: cf OE mēos, OHG-MHG mos, G Moos, MD moos and, as in D, mos, moss; OSw mos; OSl múchŭ, múxŭ, Ru mokh, moss, and Lith mūsal, mildew; L muscus, moss: IE r, mu-, to be damp; with extn mus-, var mos*, and perh mun-*, as in L mundus, clean, ? prop 'washed clean', from '*washed'.

2. L mundus, clean, well cared for, has the LL cpd mundificāre, to make (LL -ficāre, L -ficere, c/f of L facere, to make) clean, whence 'to mundify' or cleanse; presp mundificans, o/s mundificant-, yields the E adj hence n mundificant.

3. Prob akin to L muscus, moss, and mundus, cleansed, is E mother, lees, etc., which, form-influenced by MOTHER, female parent, derives from MD modder, mud; therefore of the sep MUD.

most. See MORE, para 2.

mot, word. See MUTE, para 4.

motatorious, motatory. See MOVE, para 4.

motet. See MUTE, para 4.

moth: ME mothe: OE moththe: cf late MHG moi, matte, G Motte, MD mutte, motte, D mot, and ON motti; perh cf OHG mado, MHG-G made, maggot.

mother (1), female parent. See MATER, para 5.

mother (2), lees, slimy membrane. See MOSS, para 3.

motherless; motherly: OE mōdorlēas; OE mōdorlic. Cf MATER, para 5.

motif. Cf motive; see MOVE, para 2.

motile. See MOVE (heading).

motion, motionless. See MOVE, para 2. motivate, motivation. See MOVE, para 2.

motive. See MOVE, para 2.

motley—whence, via motley'd, mottled, whence, by b/f, 'to mottle', whence the vn mottling—derives from ME motteley, itself either from OF and perh ult from LL-ML mustēlātus*, weasel-hued, from L mustēla, weasel (o.o.o.), as Webster proposes, or, as EW, from AF moitelé*, from F moitié, half, anl with écartelé, quartered, or (EP) from motelé, pp of MF-EF motelier, to heap into MF-EF motels or little motés (F mottes) or mounds, with an effect like that of brown or black worm-casts upon the earth's green surface.

motor, whence motorist, motorize, etc. See MOVE, para 2, s.f.

mottle, mottled. See MOTLEY.

motto. See MUTE, para 4.

mould (1), friable earth. See the 2nd MEAL, para 5.

mould (2), shape, form. See MODAL, para 4.

mound (n, hence v): ED mond, MD mond, var of MD mont, munt, protection, very closely akin to the syn OFris mund and OHG-MHG munt: cf the -mund of G Vormund, guardian, MHG vormunde, OHG foramundo, protector, and esp ON mund, protection, (orig) hand (cf L manus, q.v. at MANUAL).

mount, n and v. See MINATORY, para 7.

mountain, mountaineer, mountainous. See MINATORY, para 9.

mountebank derives, by f/c, from It montimbanco, (he who) mounts (It montare, to mount) upon (im- for in-, from in) a bench (It banco), perh via late MF montenbanque (Godefroy): cf the syn It saltimbanco (It saltar, to leap), whence the EF-F saltimbanque. From a bench he cries his wares.

'Mounties, the'. See MINATORY, para 7, s.f.

mourn, whence mournful, etc. See MEMORY, paras 1 and 8.

mouse (n, hence v), whence mousey or mousy; pl mice; muscle, muscular; mussel; musk; cf the sep MONGOOSE; mysotis.

1. Mouse, ME mous, earlier mus, derives from OE mūs, pl mȳs: cf OS mūs, OHG-MHG mūs, G Maus, MD mues, muus, muys, D muis, ON mūs; Arm mukn, Alb mī; OS! myšī; L mūs (gen mūris), Gr mus; Skt mās, OPer mīš; Hit or, rather, Luwian mashuil: IE r mus-*.

2. Gr mus also means 'a muscle': cf L musculus, a little mouse, hence any object resembling one, esp a muscle (as seen rippling in arm or leg): whence MF-F muscle, adopted by E. From F muscle, erudite F coins both musculaire, whence E muscular, and musculature, adopted by E.

3. L musculus has the further transferred sense 'mussel': whence OE musle, ME musselle, E mussel.

4. Skt mūs, mouse, has derivative muška, scrotum, vulva, whence OPer mushk, a substance obtained from sac under the abdominal skin of a male musk deer and, when dried, used as a perfume: LGr moskhos, var moskos: LL (Tertullian, A.D. c220) muscus (prob after L muscus, moss): MF-F musc: ME musc, musk: E musk.

5. Gr mus (gen muos, c/f muo-, E myo-) has cpd muosōtis, lit 'mouse-ear', the flower reshaped by SciL as mysotis.

moustache. See MUSTACHE.

mouth (n, hence v), whence mouthful, mouthpiece, etc., derives from OE mūth: cf the syn OFris and OS mūth, Go munths, OHG (and G) mund, ON munnr, and, further off, Gr mastax, mouth, mouthful, morsel, and L mandere, to chew, and perh L mentum, chin. Cf the sep MUSTACHE and MASTIC.

move (v, hence n), whence—unless from OF-MF movable—moveable (movable)—with neg immovable—mover, 'the movies', moving; motile, anl with audile, tactile, etc.; movement; motorious, motatory; motion (n, hence v), whence motion picture and motionless; motive (adj, hence n, hence v)—cf the corresp MF-F motif—whence motivate, whence motivation; motor (n, hence adj and v), whence motor car (motor-car), motorist, motorize (whence motorization); motorium;—mobile, mobility, mobilization, mobilize, cf immobile, immobility, immobilization, im- mobilize, and, anl, demobilization, demobilize; moment, momentaneous, momentary, momentous, momentum.—Prefix-cpds: amotion, amove; commotion, commove; demote, demotion; emotion (whence emotional, whence emotionalism) and emotive; promote (whence promoter), promotion (whence promotional and, anl, promotive), promove; remove (v, hence n), whence removable and removal—cf remote (whence remoteness) and remotion, whence, anl, remotive; submotive=sub-, connoting 'secondary'+ motive, n.

1. 'To move', ME moven, derives from OF-MF mover, from OF mouvoir (F mouvoir): ML movēre, L mouēre, to set, or to set oneself, going: s and r mou-, akin to Gr ameusasthai, to become displaced, to pass beyond; Lith màuju, màuti, to pass in rubbing; Skt mīvati, he displaces, and kāma-mūtas, impelled by desire: IE r, meu-*, to move.

2. L mouēre has pp mōtus, which explains -mote in, e.g., promote. On pp mōtus arise:

L mōtiō (o/s mōtiōn-), movement, MF-F motion, adopted by E; LL mōtiuus, ML -ivus, capable of moving: OF-F motif, f motive, E motive; the E n motive is adopted from MF-F motive, from the adj. The derivative F motiver (C18+) prob suggested 'to motivate'; rare L agent mōtor, he who, that which, sets moving, adopted by E (cf the late MF-F moteur);

LL mōtōrius, capable of moving, (hence) moving, with neu mōtōrium, used as a n, 'the power of moving', adopted by SciE.

3. OF mouvoir has derivative OF-MF movement (F mou-), adopted by E.

4. L mouēre has the LL aug-freq mōtāre (vt), to keep moving, with pp mōtātus, whence agent mōtātor, whence E motorious.

5. L mouēre, s and r mou-, perh has the OL base mō-*, as in L mōbilis, capable of moving, whence, via OF-F, the E adj mobile; derivative mōbilitās, o/s mōbilitāt-, passes through OF-F mōbilitās to become mobility. The LL negg immōbilis, immōbilitās, yield—via MF-F—immobile and immobility. Derivative F immobiliser, whence immobilisation, explains 'to immobilize' and immobilization.

6. Anl is F démobiliser, whence, anl, démobilisation: hence 'to demobilize' and demobilization.

7. The ult OL base mō-* occurs also (cf para 5) in L mōmen, superseded by mōmentum (contr of mōuimentum*), impulsion, hence a weight determining physical impulsion or inclination, adopted by E. The weight on a pair of scales being usu light, there arises the sense 'small division', hence 'a small division of time': OF-F moment, adopted by E. L mōmentum, a moment of time, has these derivatives relevant to E:

LL mōmentāneus, ephemeral, temporary, E momentaneous;

L mōmentārius, ephemeral, E momentary, also in sense 'at every moment'; but

L mōmentōsus means 'prompt, rapid', E momentous, and is strongly tinged with the 'weight' sense, hence 'important (at that or this moment)'.

8. The psychological moment derives, in sense 'most suitable or advantageous moment', from F moment psychologique, orig (but very briefly and restrictedly) in the sense of the G (Bismarck's) Psychologisches Moment, that 'weight upon the hearts and minds' of a people—that spiritual shock—which would be felt by the French because of the G bombardment of Paris in the latter part of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-71. (B & W.)

Prefix-Compounds of L mouēre

9. Amouēre (ML amovēre), to put aside, set at distance (a-, away from), becomes legal AF amoveer, whence 'to amove', to dismiss from office. The L pp amōtus has derivative amōtiō, o/s amotiōn-, legal E amotion.

10. L commouēre (ML -movēre), to set in motion, to move strongly, to perturb, becomes OF-MF commoveir, ME commoeven, E 'to commove'—much rarer than commotion, adopted from OF-F, from commōtiōn-, o/s of L commōtiō, from commōtus, pp of commouēre.

11. L dēmouēre (ML -movēre), to move (vt) away from, turn aside, hence to chase away, has pp dēmōtus, whence the AE 'to demote', opp promote, in the Armed Forces.

12. L ēmouēre (ML -mov-), to move out from, to move out of (someone), to strongly affect the feelings, with pp ēmōtus, which influences the formation of EF-F émotion—from émouvoir (ML ēmōvēre)—whence E emotion; and F émotif, f émotive, yields E emotive.

13. L prōmouēre (ML -movēre), to move—hence, to push—forward, has presp prōmouens, o/s prōmouent-, whence, via ML, the legal n promoveit, and pp prōmōtūs, whence 'to promote'; derivative LL prōmōtiō, o/s prōmōtiōn-, whence MF-F promotion, adopted by E.

14. L remouēre, to move (hence to lead, to force) back; ML removēre, gives us—perh not via OF—'to remove'; the pp remōtus furnishes remote—its derivative remōtiō, o/s remōtiōn-, the E remotion—and its LL derivative adj remōtiuus, ML -ivus, the E remotive.

movement. See prec, para 3.

mow, to cut grass, whence agential mower and pa, vn mowing; pp mown (cf sow, sown); cf sep the 2nd MEAD (meadow); aftermath.

1. 'To mow', ME mowen, var mawen, derives from OE māwan: cf OHG māen, MHG maejen, G māhen, MD mayen, maeyen, D majien; OBr metetic, harvested, Br médein, to cut the crops, medereh, harvest season, Cor medé, medi, to mow, to reap, Mlr meithel, a reaping-party; L metere, Gr aman, to reap: European r, med-*, to cut or mow grass.

2. Akin to OHG māen, to mow, is OHG mād, MHG māt, G Mahd, OE māeth, mowing-time, whence the -math of aftermath, a second mowing, a second crop of grass in one season, hence consequences, cf the now dial math, a mowing or its produce; also akin is Gr amētos, a harvest.

Mozarab. See ARAB, para 5.

mucedin, mucedinous. See MUCUS, para 2.

much (adj, hence adv and n). See MASTER, para 18.

mucid. See MUCUS, para 3.

mucilage, mucilaginous. See MUCUS, para 2.

muck (n, hence v), whence mucky, as well as muckrake and muckworm, is ME muk, of Scan origin: cf ON myki, dung, OE moc, mu, ? L mūcus and ēmungere, to wipe one's nose: ? ult echoic.

muckle. See MASTER, para 18.

muckrake, muckworm. See MUCK.

mucoid, mucous. See resp the heading and para 2 (s.f.) of:

mucus, whence Chem mucin (muc+Chem -in) and mucoid (muc+oid); mucous; mucidin, mucedinous; mucilage, mucilaginous;—emunctory;—mycelium;—muggy;—moist (whence moisten, moistness), moisture.

1. L mūcus, nasal secretion, burnt end of a wick, adopted by E (and, e.g., F) in the former sense, is closely akin to L mūcor, mildew, mould: indeed, both (s and r mūc-) derive from or are very intimately cognate with L mūcēre (s, r mūc-), to go mildewy or mouldy, VL var muccāre: cf Gr muxa, slime, nasal mucus, L mungere, to blow or wipe one's nose, usu in the int ēmungere, pp ēmunctus, whence LL ēmunctōrium, a pair of candle-snuffers, whence Med E emunctory, any excretory organ: IE r, perh meug-, var mug-, slippery, slimy. Perh cf MUCK.

2. L mūcus has the foll derivatives relevant to E: mūcēdō, mucus, whence mucedin (Chem suffix -in); on the L o/s mucedin arises the E adj mucedinous;

LL mūcīlāgō, a musty juice, whence MF-F mucilage, adopted by E; the E adj mucilaginous=L mūcīlāgin- (o/s of mucīlāgo)+-ous; mūcōsus, whence mucous (and EF-F muqueux),—whence also EF-F mucosité, E mucosity.

3. L mūcēre has derivative adj mūcidus, whence E mucid.

4. L mūcidus becomes VL muccidus*, var muscidus*, mildewy, whence OF moiste (F moite), adopted by ME, whence moist; derivative MF moistour (F moiteur), whence E moisture.

5. Gr muxa has corresp adj mukēs, slimy, hence a mushroom, whence ScIL mycelium.

6. Akin to Gr mukēs and L mūcus are ON mygla, to become mouldy, and mugga, fine rain, and, of Scan origin, ME mugen, to drizzle, and E dial mug, fine rain, a mist: whence the adj muggy, (of weather) damp, hence close, oppressive.

mud (n, hence v), whence muddy (adj, hence v, with pa muddled); muddle (v, hence n), whence muddler and pa, vn muddling.

1. 'To muddle' is lit 'to render muddy, hence turbid', hence to obscure the minds of, to confuse: in short, it prob=muddy, adj+freq suffix -le;

2. Mud, ME mudde, var modde, derives either from MLG mudde or from MD modde, mud, cf MD modder, mudder, mud, slime, dregs (cf E mother, lees: q.v. at MOSS, para 3), and late MHG-G moder, mould; cf also OB myti, to wash, and Skt mūtram, urine: IE r, meu-, esp the var mu-, damp, with extn mu-, mut-.

muff (n, hence v, 'to handle as if with muffs, hence clumsily'); muffin; muffle (n, v), whence muffler.

1. A muff comes from D mof: Walloon mouffe: MF-F moufle, a mitten: ML muffula, a fur-lined glove: o.o.o.; perh akin to the wild sheep called the mouflon, F mouflon, It dial mufione (Corsican muffolo), L dial mufro, o/s mufron.

2. Prob akin to muff is—? as a dim—muffin, perh from the softness and also from the shape: cf the MF moufflet, soft bread.

3. Certainly akin to muff is muffle (from MF-F moufle, mitten), anything that wraps up, envelops, hence obscures the view or deadens sound; 'to muffle' app comes rather from F enmoufler, and from 'to muffle' obviously derives muffler.

mufti, civilian dress worn by anyone entitled to wear a uniform, prob derives from in mufti: F en mufti, applied to an Army officer (F or E) acting as a magistrate and, in this role, dressed 'like a mufti' or Mohammedan expounder of the law (loosely, a judge)—an interpretation I owe to the late Field Marshal Lord Wavell. A mufti derives from Ar mufti, active participle of afīā (a conjugation of fatā), to decide a point of law (OED).

mug is prob of Scan origin: cf Sw mugg, Nor mugge (or -ga); cf also Fris mukke. The sl sense 'face' comes from faces painted on mugs; unless it be from a PN, muggins—cf juggins—could have the same origin, many such faces being so foolish.

muggins. See prec.

muggy. See MUCUS, para 6.

mugwump is of Alg origin, prob the Massachuset mugquomp, a chief.

mulatto. See MULE.

mulberry: ME mulberie, murberie (cf OHG mūrberi, mōrberi): mul, for mur+beri, E BERRY: mur, from OF-MF mure, var of moure: VL mora: L mōrum, mulberry, trln of Gr moron (var mōron), r mor-: IE r, mer-*, black.

2. L mōrum has ML derivative morata, OF moree, E murrey, mulberry-colour.

3. Gr moron has, along with Gr sukon, a fig, helped, by f/e, to shape Gr sukomoros, of Sem origin (cf H shiqmāh): Gr sukomoros becomes L sycomorus, OF sicamor (F sycomore), ME sicamour, E sycamore.

mulch. See the 2nd MEAL, para 17.

mulct derives, prob via F mulcter, from L mulctāre, inferior form of multāre, to inflict a fine upon, hence to punish by depriving (of something): prob either Samnite or Oscan. Hence the adj mulctary, -uary.

mule (1), whence mulish; muleteer; mulatto.

Mulatto derives from the Sp (and Port) adj mulato, f -ata, of mixed breed, from mulo, a mule, from L mulus, f mula, whence OE mūl (cf ON mūll) and OF mul, f mule, whence E mule: and L mulus is akin to Gr mukhlos, ass, and Alb mušk, mule. OF mul has MF-F dim mulet, whence EF-F muletier, a mule-driver, whence E muleteer.

mule (2), slipper. See MELANCHOLIA, para 7.

mulga is an Aus aboriginal word.

mull, dry mould, dirt. See the 2nd MEAL, para 4.

mullein, mullen. See the 2nd MEAL, para 18.

muller, a stone used as pestle. See the 2nd MEAL, para 4.

mullet. See MELANCHOLIA, para 5.

mullion is a characteristically E refashioning of OF moienel*, var of meienel*, medial—cf the OF moinel, a sally port—from L mediānus: f.a.c., MEDIAL, para 1. The OF moienel* and meienel* do exist, but in a totally different sense (hunting horn). EW suggests that mullion corrupts monial (a mullion) and, noting that E monial, like OF moinel, derives from ML monialis, lit a monk, cfs G Mönch, a monk, also a mullion.

mulse. See MEL, para 3. multifarious. See the element multi-.

multiple and multiplex; multiplication, multiplicity, multiply (whence multiplier). See PLY, para 26.

multitude, whence, anl, multitudinous, is adopted from OF-F: L multitūdō, itself from mulius (adj), much, multi, many: cf the element multi-. The s is multi-; the r, mul-: cf the Gr adv mala, much.

multure. See the 2nd MEAL, para 13.

mum (1), mother. See MAMA (heading).

mum (2), theatrical v. See MUMMER.

mum! Be quiet—whence mum, silent, and mum, silence—is echoic.

mumble (v, hence n), whence mumbler, mumbling, comes from ME momelen, ult echoic (cf MUM!): akin to MD mummelen, var—as in D—mommelen, and to G mummeln. Cf MUMP.

mumbo-jumbo, a meaningless incantation, meaningless talk, earlier a bugaboo, earliest Mumbo-Jumbo, a tutelary genius or god of the Mandingos in the W Sudan: (in a Mandingo dial) mama dyambo: mama, ancestor+dyambo, pompon, hence esp its wearer. (Webster.)

nummer, nummery; to mum.

Mum, to act in a dumb show or in disguise, is akin to and perh from MUM!: cf the OF-EF momer, to disguise oneself, whence late MF-EF momerie, a masquerade, whence E nummery, a masking or masquerade, (hence) a pretentious or hypocritical or ludicrous ceremony or performance; also from OF momer derives momeur, with var momneur, whence E nummer, one who mums, hence (pej) any actor or actress. OF momer perh meant, orig, to grimace with astonishment or fear: cf Sp and Port mojo, a grimace, and F (childish) mojo!, indicative of fear or astonishment (B & W).

mummify. See the 2nd MUMMY, para 2.

mummy (1), childish for 'mother'. See MAMA (heading).

mummy (2), a body treated with preservatives and then entombed, derives from MF-F momie, from ML munia, from Ar mūmia (or mūmiya), a mummy, earlier the bitumen with which the ancient Egyptians plastered the embalmed corpses; Ar mūmia derives from Per mūm, wax.

2. F momie has derivative momifier, whence 'to mummify', whence—or from F momification—mummification.

mump, to mumble, hence to beg mumblingly, hence to be sulky, prob derives from MD-D mompelen, MD varr mommelen, mummelen, to mumble: cf MUMBLE. Hence the n mump, now mostly in pl mumps, which, as the mumps, denotes the sulks, whence prob, from the sufferer's appearance, mumps the disease; from the n mump comes also the obsol mumpish, sulky, sullenly dull.

munch. See MANGE, para 1.

mundane (whence mundanity) comes, like late OF-F mondain, f mondaine (as in demi-mondaine), from L mundānus, of this world, hence, in LL, worldly, pagan: and mundānus is the adj of mundus, the universe (as trans of Gr kosmos), hence our world therein: o.o.o.; perh—the earth clearly being a body in motion—akin to L mouēre, to move; f.a.e., MOVE.

2. L mundānus has the LL cpd derivative extramundānus, beyond this world: E extramundane, which prob suggested supramundane, above this world.

mundificant, mundify. See MOSS, para 2.

municipal, municipality. See CAPABILITY, para 8.

munificence, munificent. See the 1st MEAN, para 2.

muniment; munition, ammunition.

The 3rd derives from F amunition, formed by apprehending la munition as l'amunition; MF-F munition, collective for all the means of defence, including notably food and weapons: munitionem, acc of L mūnitio, from mūnitus, pp of mūnīre, to fortify, OL moenire, from moenia, walls, esp if defensive: o.o.o.: perh not even akin to L mūrus, wall.—Mūnīre has derivative mūnimentum, a defence, hence a protection, hence legal muniments, title-deeds.

mural (adj, hence n), whence extra-mural, outside the walls, i.e. external; immure.

'To immure', to wall in, derives from ML immurāre; im- for in-, in, into + mūrus, a wall + inf suffix -āre. Mūrus, s mūr-, perh has r mū-; if so, then cf L moenia, q.v. at MUNIMENT. Mūrus has adj mūrālis, whence MF-F mural, adopted by E. murder (n, v), murderer, murderous. See MORTAL, para 12.

murex, muricate.

The latter derives from L mūricātus, having sharp points, from mūrex, a shell-fish yielding a purple dye, hence the dye itself: o.o.o.: prob Medit.

murk (occ mirk), adj, darkened, dark, obscure, hence as n, whence, in turn, the adj murky (mirkly): ME mirke, merce: OE mirce: cf the ON myrkr and modern Scan cognates, also Lith mirgėti, to glimmer: perh ult akin to MORN.

murmur (n, v), murmurous.

'To murmur' comes from OF-F murmurer, L murmurāre, from the n murmur, whence, via OF-F murmure, the E n murmur; the derivative adj L murmuriōsus acquires the LL var murmurōsus, whence, prob via MF murmuros, the E murmurous. Echoic (cf the L susurrus), murmur is akin to Arm mimram (for murmuram*), I growl, Gr mormurein (s mormur-), to 'grumble' as it boils, and to Skt murmuras, a crackling fire, marmaras, rustling, roaring, noisy. All these words are perh redupp of mur-* or mor-* or mar-*, themselves echoic: cf Lith murmėti, to murmur.

murrain. See MORTAL, para 10.

murrey. See MULBERRY, para 2.

musca, muscarine. See MIDGE, para 2.

muscat, muscatel.

The latter, a sweet, rich wine, is adopted from MF, where it forms, orig, a dim (-el) of MF-F muscat, the same wine, its grape, adopted from OProv, where, orig, it meant 'smelling like musk', from LL muscus: f.a.e., MOUSE.

muscle. See MOUSE, para 2.

muscology. See the 2nd element musci-.

Muscovite (n, hence adj) derives, by suffix -ite (inhabitant), from Muscovy or Ancient Russia—cf the F Muscovite from Moscovie. Muscovy comes from F Muscovie, earlier Moscovie, itself from Ru Moskva, Moscow, capital of that kingdom and so named because it stands on the river Moskva, app a cpd with a Ru r for 'water': cf Fin va, water. Note that Muscovy duck is f/e for musk duck, 'so called from its odor during the breeding season' (Webster): f.a.e., MOUSE, para 4.

muscular, muscularity. See MOUSE, para 2.

Muse; museum; music, musical, musician;—mosaic.

1. In Gr Myth there were nine goddesses presiding over song, poetry, the arts, hence E Muse, one of them, derivatively one's inspiring genius, esp in poetry: OF-F Muse: L Mūsa: Gr Mousa, perh for Monthia*, from manthanein (s manthan-, r manth-), to learn: IE base, perh mendh-*, to direct one's MIND towards something. (Hofmann.)

2. Gr Mousa, pl Mousai, s Mous-, has derivative mouseion, a temple of the Muses, hence, in LGr, an establishment recording and propagating the cultivation, by the people, of the arts and sciences: L museum, adopted by E. The Gr mouseion is prop the neu of the adj mouseios, of the Muses, whence ML musalcus (adj), whence musalcum (n, prop the neu of the adj), var mosalcum. It mosaico (n), EF-F mosaïque, E mosaic; the sem chain is rather vague.

3. The Gr adj mouseios has var mousikos, which occurs in mousikē tekhnē, art of the Muses, hence esp, as mousikē, music (lyric poetry being set to music), whence LL mūsica, whence EF-F musicque, whence EE music, E music. LL mūsica has ML derivative adj mūsicālis, MF-F musical, adopted by E; MF-F musicien becomes E musician.

mouse (v, hence n)—cf amuse, amusement; musette; muselle.

1. 'To mouse' comes from OF muser, to loiter, to reflect, prob orig to stay with muzzle in air, from OF mus*, attested by OF-F museau, OProv mus, It muso, ML musum, var musus, muzzle, animal's mouth: o.o.o.

2. OF-F muser has OF-F cpd amuser, to cause to stand with muzzle in air, (hence) to bemuse, whence 'to amuse'; derivative late MF-F amusement was adopted by E.

3. OF muser has derivative n muse, whence the MF-F dim musette, ref muser in its special MF sense 'to play the bagpipes'; musette, adopted by E, acquires one or two additional Mus senses.

4. ML musum, musus has dim musellum, whence MF musel, whence ME mosel, E muzzle; 'to muzzle' comes from MF-F museler, from musel, which, by the way, B & W derive from OF mus* (as in para 1).

museum. See MUSE, para 2.

mus (1), n. See MASH, para 2.

mush (2), Canadian v. See the 2nd MARCH, para 3.

mushroom: ME muscheron; MF mouscheron (F mousseron): perh from OF-F mousse, moss (cf MOSS, para 1), but, the OF form being meisseron, the F word more prob derives, via the acc mus-siriōnem, from LL mussiriō, a word that, proper to the N of France, is perh of pre-L origin. (B & W; E & M.) mushy. Adj of MUSH (1).

music, musical, musician. See MUSE, para 3.

musk. See MOUSE, para 4. muskeg, a (usu tussocky) sphagnum bog: of Alg origin—cf Cree muskeg, Ojibway mashkig, a swamp, and Shawnee muskiegui, a pool, a lake. (Mathews.) Cf:

muskellunge, a large NAm pike: of Alg origin—cf esp Ojibway mashkinoje, a large pike: akin to prec.

musket, musketeer, musketry. See MIDGE, para 4.

muslin: EF-F mousseline: It mussolina: coll Ar mūsil, (adj) of Mosul (Ar al-Mawṣil or approx Musul), the Mesopotamian city where it was orig made.

mus is a coll form (mostly AE) of MESS.

mussel. See MOUSE, para 3.

Mussulman. See ISLAM.

must (1), n. See MEAT, para 3.

must (2), v: ME moste (pt), could, was obliged to (cf pres moot, mot): OE mōste (pt—cf pres mōt): akin to OFris mōta, OS and Go -mōtan, OHG muozan, MHG muēzen, G müssen, MD mueten, moeten, (as in D) moeten, all pres inf, with slightly intervarying senses: perh akin to E mete, to measure; if that be so, the basic idea would be 'to be allotted (a portion, a duty, etc.)'.

mustache (var mous-): late MF-F moustache: It mostaccto, var of mostacchio: prob via ML mustacia: LGr mustaki: Gr mustax, gen mustakhos, upper lip, hence mustache: akin to Gr mastax (gen mastakhos), mouth: therefore cf MOUTH.

mustang, a half-wild horse of the SW states of U.S.A.: Am Sp mestengo (whence the—at least, orig—superior var mestang, now obsol): Sp mesteño, belonging to the mesta or graziers taken collectively: ML mixta, a mixture: L mixta, f of mixtus, pp of miscēre, to mix.

mustard: MF moustarde (F moutarde): OF moust (F moût): L mustum, must (cf MEAT, para 3):

in being prepared for use, mustard was mixed with must.

muster. See MONSTER, para 3.

musty is both the adj of must—q.v. at MEAT, para 3—and a sep adj meaning 'damp' (obs), 'affected with mouldiness, rank', perh for moisty, an obs var of moist, q.v. at MUCUS, para 4.

mutable, mutability, mutant, mutate, mutation (whence anl, mutative), mutatory; mutual (whence mutualism, mutuality, mutualize), mutuary, mutuuum.—Prefix-cpds: commutable, commutant, commutate, commutation, commutative, anl commutator, commute (whence commuter); immutability, immutable; permutable, permutate, permutation (whence anl, permutator and permutatory), permutate (whence permuter); transmutation (whence, anl, transmutative), transmute (whence transmutable and transmuter).

Indo-European

1. All these words rest upon the firm base of L mūtāre (vt, vi), to change, exchange: s and r, mūt-, which, having IE cognates met-, mit-, maid- or meid-, is app a -t- or -th- extn (cf the -b- extn in Gr ameibō, I exchange) of an ult IE r mei-*, to change, to exchange: cf Skt meihati, he alternates, mīthās, alternately; OSl mitē, mitusū, alternately, and Lett mitēt, to change; Go maidjan, to change. Cf, further, Skt mayate, he exchanges, and the 1st MEAN.

Simple mūtāre, to change

2. The presp mūtans, o/s mūtant-, yields the E adj, hence n, mutant; the pp mūtātus yields the n and v mutate. On the pps mūtāt- arise:

mūtatiō, o/s mūtatiōn-, whence OF-F mutation, adopted by E; LL mūtātōrius, whence mutatory.

3. On the pres s mūt- is formed mūtābilis, whence mutable; derivative mūtābilitās, o/s mūtābilitāt-, becomes OF-F mutabilité, whence mutability.

4. Also on the pres s mūt- is formed the adj mūtūus, exchanged, hence reciprocal, mutual: MF-F mutuel, E mutual; E mutuality perh owes something to EF-F mutualité. L mūtūus has neu mūtuum, which, via mūtuum argenti, becomes n 'a loan of movables, returnable in kind but without interest', adopted as a legal term; the derivative L adj mūtūārius becomes E mutuary.

Prefix-Compounds

5. L commūtāre, to change com-, with, to exchange, gives us 'to commute'. Derivative commūtābilis explains commutable; presp commūtāns, o/s commūtānt-, E commutant; pp commūtātus, 'to commute'; its derivative commūtatiō, OF-F commutation, adopted by E, and derivative ML commūtātīvus, E commutative.

6. L mūtābilis and mūtābilitās have negg (im- for in-, not) immūtābilis, immūtābilitās, whence E immutable and, perh via MF-F immūtābilité, E immutability.

7. L permutāre, to change, or exchange, per- or thoroughly, becomes MF-F permuter, whence 'to permuter', whence permutable. The pp permūtātus yields 'to permutate'; derivative permūtātiō, o/s permūtātiōn-, becomes OF-F permutation, adopted by E.

8. L transmūtāre, to change trans or across, to change utterly (from one nature to another), yields 'to transmute'; derivative transmūtātiō, o/s transmūtātiōn-, becomes MF-F transmutation, adopted by E. Transmutability is perh indebted to F transmutabilité.

mute (adj, hence n and v), whence muteness (-ness) and mutism; mutescant, whence mutescence. —motto; mot, motet.

1. The adj mute derives from L mūtus, dumb, with s mūt- and ult r mū-*: 'Doubtless at first said of animals that can utter only mū [cf E moo]; then applied to human beings [incapable of distinct speech]; finally to inanimate objects' (E & M). This r mu- occurs also in, e.g., L muttīre (muttīre), to mutter; Gr mu, a groan, and mundos, mudos, mukos, dumb; Skt mūkās, dumb; Arm munf, dumb.

2. L mūtus has LL derivative mūtēscere, to become mute, with presp mūtēscens, o/s mūtēscant-, whence E mutescant.

3. Akin to L muttīre, muttīre, to mutter, to mumble, is ME muteren, whence 'to mutter', whence the n mutter and the pa, vn muttering.

4. L muttīre has derivative LL-VL n muttum, a mutter, a mumbling, a grunt, whence OF-F mot, orig applied to a word as uttered, whence It motto, an uttered word, a saying, whence, in latter sense, the E motto. The F mot exists for E in the partially adopted bon mot, a witticism; the MF-F derivative motet (dim -et)—cf the It mottetto—is adopted as a Mus term.

mutic, muticous. See para 2 of:

mutilate (adj, v), mutilation (whence, anl, muti-latory).

1. 'To mutilate' derives from L mutilātus, pp of mutilāre, *to de-horn, to maim, from mutilus, de-horned (lacking horns), hence maimed; the derivative LL mutilātiō, o/s mutilātiōn-, yields—perh via MF-F—mutilation.

2. Akin to the L adj mutilus is the L adj muticus, docked, whence Zoo mutic and Bot muticous: cf OIr mut, short, Ga mutach (s mut-), short and thick, mūtan, stump of a finger, OC mut*, thick (and short), whence muttos*, f mutta*, whence the Comtois (E France) mout, moute, and—? via mustos* or mussos*—the F mousse, de-horned, hornless.

3. The origin of the group, therefore, is European, esp C, mut*, short, esp by shortening.

mutineer, mutinous, mutiny (n, hence v).

The 2nd derives from the 3rd; the 1st from F mutin'er, itself from MF-F 'se mutiner', to rebel, whence EE 'to mutine' (to mutiny), whence E 'a mutiny'. MF-F 'se mutiner' derives from MF-F mutin, rebellious, stubborn, from OF-MF muete, a riot (F meute), from (? VL—)ML movita, a movement, esp if quarrelsome or hostile, from ML movēre, L mouēre, to MOVE.

mutism. See MUTE (heading).

mutt (sl), a fool, (? hence) a dog, esp if mongrel, derives from the coll mutton-head, a dullard, itself by b/f from coll mutton-headed, dull. Cf MUTTON.

mutter. See MUTE, para 3.

mutton (whence mutton-bird, -chop (hence of whiskers), -fish, -grass, etc., for one sem reason or another): ME motoun: MF muton, easement of OF molton, multun, a sheep of either sex, but esp a ram, occ a wether: ML multō, acc multōnem: of C origin—cf OIr molt, Ga molt, mult, Cor mols, molz, Br maout, mout, W mollt, a wether, OC molto*s, multo*s: per from C mol-*, to be gentle. (Malvezin, who quotes the F proverbial phrase, doux comme un mouton, as gentle as a sheep.) mutual, mutuality, etc. See MUTABLE, para 4.

mutuary, mutuum. See MUTABLE, para 4.

muzzle (n, v). See MUSE, para 4.

my. See ME, para 2.

myall (1), a hard- and fragrant-wooded acacia of SE Aus: Aboriginal (State of Victoria). Perh cf:

myall (2), an Aus native still uncivilized, hence adj 'wild': Aboriginal: ? cf prec.

mycelium. See MUCUS, para 5.

mycology, the science of fungi. See the element -myces.

myelic (adj), of the spinal cord. Cf the element myel(o)-.

myna or mynah, with varr mina, minah: Hi maina.

myopia, myopic. See the element -ope.

myosotis. See MOUSE, para 5.

myriad (n, hence adj): LL myriad-, o/s of myriads (gen myriadis), trln of Gr murias (gen muriados), the number of ten thousand, from murioi, 10,000 (adj), prop the pl of muriōs, numberless, innumerable: cf EIr mūr, abundance, Ga mūr, a countless number, Cot nūr, large, great, many; perh cf Gr plēmūra, plēmūris, a flux, and therefore also Epic Gr mūromai, I flow (Boisacq).

myrmidon, a hireling follower, earlier a loyal retainer, derives from Myrmidon, b/f from L Myrmidones, pl, from the Gr pl Murmīdones, a Thessalian troop accompanying Achilles to the Trojan War: f/e associated with Murmīdōn, son of Zeus, who, in the guise of an ant (murmēx), deceived yet another maiden.

myrrh: ME myrre, mirre (influenced by OF mirre): L myrrha: Gr murrha: of Sem origin: cf H mōr, myrrh, and mōr, bitter, and also Ar murr, Aram mūrā, bitter. Perh cf Eg kher, myrrh.

2. From the same Sem r mūr comes Gr murtos (mur-+formative -t-+ declensional -o-+ nom suffix -s): L murtus, var myrtus: ML derivative dim myrtilus: MF-F myrtille, mirtille, myrtleberry (cf F myrtille, bilberry): E myrtle.

myrtle. See para 2 of prec.

myself: my (see ME, para 2)+self (q.v.).

mystagogic, mystagogue. See para 4 of:

mysterious—cf mysterial—mystery; mystic (adj, hence n)—whence mystical and mysticism (cf the F mysticisme) and mysticity (cf F mysticité)— mystification, mystify; mystagogic, mystagogue, mystagogy.—Akin to sep MUTE.

1. Whereas the rare mysterialis derives from LL mystērialis, secret, mystical, mysterious derives from MF-F mystérieux, f mystérieuse, the former word from L mystērīum (in LL, the Divine secret), the latter from OF mystere (F mystère), itself likewise from mystērīum, whence also the E mystery; and L mystērīum is merely a trln of Gr mustērion, itself akin to Gr mustēs, (lit) close-mouthed, hence, as n, an initiate into a religious mystery: mu, a groan (cf MUTE, para 1)+the agential suffix -istēs. Contributory to mustēs is mūo, I shut my mouth (and close my eyes).

2. The Gr n mustēs has derivative adj mustikos, L mysticus, MF mistique (earliest, misticque; EF-F mystique), E mystic.

3. F mystère acquires, somewhat arbitrarily in C18, the derivative mystifier, whence 'to mystify'; the F derivatives mystification and mystificateur become, resp by adoption and by adaptation, the E mystification and mystificator.

4. Gr mustēs has the derivative cpd mustagōgos: a leader or trainer—agōgos, (adj) leading, from agein, to lead (cf AGENT)—of mustai or initiates: L mystagogus: whence, ? via Rabelais's mystagogue, the E mystagogue; mystagogy and mystagogic come, via ML mystagogia and mystagogicus, from Gr mustagōgia, mustagōgikos, themselves from mustagōgos.

mystic, mystical, mysticism, mysticity. See heading and para 2 of prec.

mystification, mystery. See MYSTERIOUS, para 3.

myth, mythical (whence, anl, mythicism, mythicist, mythicize and mythify); mythologic, with extn mythological—mythologize—mythology.

1. Like the F mythe, the E myth derives, via L mýthus, from Gr muthos, speech, a narrative, a fable or myth: o.o.o.: perh cf Lith maudžù, maūsti, to yearn for, OSl mysle, thought, and perh, with the IĒ prefix s-, OIr smūainim, I think: IĒ r, perh mud-* or mudh-*, to think, to imagine.

2. Gr muthos has adj muthikos, LL mýthicus, whence, perh via MF-F mythique, the E mythic, with extn mythical. It also has the cpd muthologia, a discourse (-logia, from logos, q.v. at LOGIC) upon fables, whence LL mýthologia, whence MF-F mythologie, whence mythology; derivative Gr muthologikos yields LL mýthologicus, MF-F mythologique, E mythologic; hence, anl, E mythologist (perh from F mythologiste) and mythologize. The further cpd muthopoios, (adj) myth-making, becomes E mythopoeic: cf poetic and POEM. Gr muthopoios has derivative muthopoīta, LL mýthopoeia, the making (invention) of myths, adopted by erudite E.

myxo- cpds. Cf the elements -myxa and myxo-. Note myxoid, mucus-like: myx- (Gr muxá), mucus + -oid, resemblin.

N

nap, to seize; nap and kidnap, whence kidnapper; nobbler.

1. Nab is a mainly sl var of the mainly dial nap, to catch or seize, app of Scan origin: cf Sw nappa, to catch, to snatch, and Da nappe, to twitch, to pull: Gmc r knapp-, IE r knabh-, khneb-*: cf Lett knābt, Lith knibti, to pluck, to pull, pinch, Gr knaptō, I scratch, tear, full (cloth). (Torp.)

2. Kidnap is to nap or seize a child or kid (hence, much later, anybody): orig an underworld term. (P¹.)

3. App nab once had a var nob*, of which nobbler is a freq (nob, for nab+euphonic b+freq -le), as in 'to nobbler or drug a horse': orig race-course cant, then sl. (P and P¹.)

nabob; nawab. Nabob, like EF-F nabab, derives from Hind naḥāb (Hi navvāb, navāb): Ar nuwwāb, pl of nā'ib, governor of a province, hence, fig, a splendid personage; nawab from Hi navāb.

nacre, a shellfish producing mother-of-pearl, the pearl itself: EF-F nacre: EIt naccaro (It nacchera): Ar naqqārah, a drum, whence also Mt nacchera, MF nacaire, ME nakere, E naker, a kettledrum. (The intervention of ML nacara, kettledrum, the shellfish, nacchara, the shellfish, seems unnecessary: cf B & W.) The sem link between the drum and the pearl-producing shellfish, hence the pearl, is prob Ar naqir, hollowed.

nadir: MF nador (? a mere scribal error), EF-F nadir: Ar naḍir, opposite (the ZENITH).

naḡ (1), a small, hence (pej) any, horse: ME naḡge: cf D negge and G Nickel (dim of Nikolaus), an oversized horse. (EW.)

naḡ (2), to irritate. See GNAT, para 3.

Nahua, Nahuatl, Nahuatlan.

The 3rd is the adj (IE -an) of the 2nd, which is app the adj (Uto-Aztec -tl)—hence n (the language)—of the 1st, a native of CAM and part of Mexico, one of a closely related group of Amerind peoples, the most important being the Aztecs. Nahua is a native word, perh short for Nahuatlachi, the clear-speakers, the clear-speaking (people).

naiad. See NOURISH, para 2.

nalf. See NATIVE, para 7.

nail (n, v), agnail; unguis, ungula, ungulate; onyx, sardonyx.

1. 'To nail' derives from OE naeglian, from OE naegel, whence 'a nail': and OE naegel, var naeḡl, orig a finger-nail, hence, from shape, a wood or metal nail, is akin to OFris neil, nīl, OS and OHG nagal, MHG-G nagel, MD negel, MD-D nagel nail, Go ganagljan, to nail; ON nagl (finger), nagl (metal), with modern Scan cognates; OIr ingen, OW eguin; Lith nāgas, Ru noḡot'; L unguis; Gr onux (o/s onukh-); Skt nakhās, nakhām—cf Per nāxun (? for nāxsun*): IE r, nagh-, var nogh-, as in Gr, with some kind of prefix o-, cf the u- of L unguis. (E & M; Hofmann; Walshe.)

2. Agnail comes, as an easement, from OE angnaeḡl, where ang-, 'painful', is id with that of anguish and ANGRY.

3. L unguis, fingernail, toenail, claw, hoof, is adopted by Sci, which likewise adopts the dim ungula, claw, whence LL ungulātus, hoofed, E ungulate.

4. Gr onux (ὄνυξ), fingernail, claw, hoof, hence—from the transparency—that veined gem the onyx, becomes L onyx, when e, prob via OF-F, the E onyx. Gr onux has the cpd sardonux, L sardonux, adopted by E: 'the Sardinian onyx', that of Sardeis (L Sardis), the capital of Lydia in the W of Asia Minor. The chalcedony named sard is, in Gr, sardios (lithos), the Sardinian stone, whence sardion, whence L sarda, E sard.

nalve, nalveté. See NATIVE, para 7.

naked, whence nakedness; nude (adj, hence n), nudity—denudant, denudate, denudation (whence, anl, denudative), denude;—gymnasium, gymnast, gymnastic.

1. Naked comes from OE nacod, nude: cf OFris nakad, naked, OHG nachut, nackut, MHG nacket, G nackt, Go *naqath*s, MD naect, naket, D naakt, ON nakinn (and nökkvithr); OIr nocht, Ga nochta (cf lomnochd, nochdaidh), EW noeth, OC noqto*s; OSl naḡŭ, Lith nuogas; L nūdus; Skt nagnās; Hit nekumanza, nikumanza; cf also Gr gymnos, which, like Hesoid's lumnos, is difficultly aberrant (? meta-thetic)—cf the lesser aberrancy in Arm merk. The -d and -t forms app derive from the pp of a lost IE v nog-*, to bare. (Boisacq; Walshe.)

2. L nūdus, naked, becomes E nude; derivative LL nūditās, o/s nūditāt-, yields MF-F nudité, whence E nudity.

3. L nūdus has derivative nūdāre, to bare, with pp nūdātus, whence the obsol nudate; derivative ML nūdatiō, o/s nūdatiōn-, becomes obsol nudation. The L v, however, has cpd dēnūdāre, whence—perh via late MF-F dēnuder—'to denude'; the presp dēnūdāns, o/s dēnūdant-, yields the E adj, hence n, denudant; pp dēnūdātus yields 'to denudate, and its LL derivative dēnūdātīō yields —prob via late MF-F dénudation—denudation.

4. Gr gymnos, naked, has s gymm- and r gum- (? for mug- for nug-* for nog*, as at end of para 1). Gymnos has the derivative gymnas, one who exercises naked, as men did in Ancient Greece; this form (with gen gymnados) app suggests gymnazein, to exercise naked, whence the agent gymnastēs, a trainer, whence, via EF-F gymnaste, the E gymnast; the derivative adj gymnastikos becomes L gymnasticus, MF-F gymnastique, E gymnastic, whence the n gymnastics. Gymnasium, adopted from LL, derives from Gr gymnasion (from gymnazein).

naker. See NACRE.

namby-pamby derives, by rhyming redup, from Nam, a pet-form of Ambrose, ref the E poetaster Ambrose Phillips (1675?–1749), master of flaccid and simple-minded, yet often agreeable, pastoral verse.

name, n (whence ME nameles—perh after MD *nameloo*s—E nameless and namely, ME nameliche, perh after OFris namelik, and namesake, from name's sake, one named in memory or honour of the name of another) and v (whence pa, vn naming); nomen, agnomen, cognomen, praenomen—nomenclator, nomenclature—nominal (whence nominalism)—nominable—nominate (adj and v), nomination, nominative, nominator, nominee—denominate (ad and v), denomination (whence denominational, whence denominationalism), denominative, denominator—innominate; —noun, Proper Noun (peculiar to one subject), pronoun, pronominal—ignominious, ignominy—misnomer—nuncupate, nuncupation, nuncupative—renown, n and v (whence pa renowned); nom de guerre and nom de plume; surname:—onomastic, onomasticon, onomatopoeia (q.v. at the element onomato-), onomatopoeian, onomasm, anonymity, anonymous, cf pseudonym (whence, anl, pseudonymity), pseudonymous; synonym, synonymous (whence synonymy), synonymy (whence, anl, synonymize)—cf antonym, whence, anl, antonymous.

I. Indo-European

1. 'To name' derives from OE namian (cf OFris namia, OS namōn), from OE nama, whence 'a name': and OE nama is akin to OFris nama (var nama), OS and OHG namo, MHG-G name, Go namō, MD name, naem, D naam; ON nafn (for namn*), Da navn; OIr ainm, ainmm, Ga ainm, OW anu, W enw, Mx enym, obs Cor honua, honwa; Arm anun, Alb emen; L nōmen; Gr onoma; Skt nāman-; Tokh A ñom, B nem; Hit lāman; perh cf Lapp namma, Fin nime- (? cf OSI ime and OP emmen), Hung név, of the Finno-Ugric family of languages. The Gmc r is nam-; the IE, prob nem-, with varr nom-* and nōm-* and with the sure consonantal base n-m. With the Gr o-, cf the o- of onyx (q.v. at NAIL); cf the other prothetic vowels, e.g. the C a- and e-. (Hofmann; E & M; Walshe.)

Greek

2. Gr onoma (dial onuma), name, has gen onomatos, o/s onomat-, occurring in various full cpds and in the E adj onomatous. Onoma has derivative onomazein, to name, whence the adj onomastikos, of or for or by naming, whence E onomastic; via the neu onomastikon, used as n elliptical for onomastikon biblion (a book), comes the ML onomasticon, a glossary or a list of names, esp of personal names, adopted by erudite E.

3. Gr onoma has the foll prefix-cpds relevant to E:

anōnumos, nameless (an, not), whence, via LL anōnymus, both the E anonymous and the EF-F anonyme; the latter, used derivatively as n, becomes the E anonym, an unnamed author; anonymity is formed anl from anonymous; pseudōnumos (pseudēs, false), whence both E pseudonymous, whence anl pseudonymity, and late EF-F pseudonyme, the latter, used derivatively as n, yielding E pseudonym; sunōnumos (sun, with, implying likeness), whence, via ML synōnymus, both the E synonymous and the OF-F synonyme, which, used also as n, yields E synonym; synonymy comes, sense-changed and prob via EF-F synonymie, from LL synōnymia, a synonym, itself from Gr sunōnumia; cf the opp:

antōnumia, a word used instead of another, whence E antonym, serving as the complement of synonym, as 'bad' is the antonym of 'good'.

Latin

4. L nōmen, name, occurs in three prefix-cpds used occ by erudite E:

agnōmen (pl agnōmina), an additional—usu honorary—cognomen in Roman names, as in 'Publius Aemilius Scipio Africanus': ag- for ad, to(wards); cognōmen (cog- for con-, with), pl cognōmina, the family name, the third of the usual three Roman names, as in 'Marcus Tullius Cicero'; hence an E surname, loosely a nickname; praenōmen (prae, before, in front), pl praenōmina, the first of the usual three Roman names, as in 'Marcus Tullius Cicero', corresp to the modern first name; the L nōmen is, in personal designations, the name of the gens or clan.

5. Nōmen has the full cpd nōmenclātor, a slave whose office it is, in a court of law, to call the names of the clients, -clātor representing calātor, caller, summoner; hence, anl, nōmenclātūra, a calling of names, hence a system of naming, whence, perh via EF-F, the E nomenclature.

6. Nōmen, gen nōminis, has c/f nōmin-, as in nōminālis, of or for or by a name, whence, perh via EF-F, the E nominal. It also has derivative nōmināre, to name, whence nōminābilis, worthy of mention, E nominal; the pp nōminātus yields both adj and v nominate; derivative nōminātiō, o/s nōminātiōn-, yields, perh via MF-F, nomination; and likewise derivative nōminātiuus, ML -ivus, MF-F nominatif, E nominate; the LL agent nōminātor, adopted by E, has suggested its E complement, nominee.

7. Nōmen, s and r nom-, becomes OF-F nom, as in nom de guerre, lit war-name (as of an adventurer), hence a pseudonym, and nom de plume, pen-name—not a true F term. Moreover, the OF sournom, ME sournoun, has suggested the E sur-name (sur, E sur, L super, upon+name); hence 'to surname'. Besides, OF nom (etc.) has the derivative v nommer: respectively these two words have OF-F prefix-cpds renon (C12; F renom) and renommer (C11), whence ME renoun, EE renoun, E renown (n, v). OF nommer has the MF cpd mesnommer (mes-, L minus, less), to misname, which, apprehended as n, produces the E misnomer, a misnaming, a wrong name.

8. Nōmen has also given us noun, from OF non and nun, varr of nom. Cf pronoun, which reflects the influence of noun upon the MF-F pronon, LL prōnōmen (prō, on behalf of); the derivative LL adj prōnōminālis leads, perh via F, to E pronominal.

9. But nōmināre (as in para 6) has several prefix-cpds relevant to E:

dēnōmināre (int dē-), to designate by a name, pp dēnōminātus, whence both adj and v denominate, with subsidiary dēnōminātiō, o/s dēnōminātiōn-, MF-F dēnomination, E denomination; anl formed LL dēnōminātīus, ML -ivus, E denominative; LL dēnōminātor, adopted by E, esp in Math.

LL innōminābilis (in-, not+nōminābilis: para 6), E innominable; cf LL innōminātus (in-, not+nōminātus: para 6), lacking a name, E innominate, esp in innominate bone (in the pelvis).

10. With L innōminātus, cf L ignōminia (ig- for in-, not), deprivation of one's good name, whence late MF-F ignominie, whence E ignominy; derivative ignominiosus becomes late MF-F ignominieux, f ignominieuse, whence E ignominious.

11. Nōmen has also the less obvious cpd nuncupāre, to take (capere: cf CAPABILITY, para 1) the name (nōmen), hence to invoke or proclaim: nōmen, become nun-+capere, become cup-+the different inf-ending -āre. The pp nuncupātus yields 'to nuncupate'; derivative nuncupātiō, o/s nuncupātiōn-, gives us nuncupation, and derivative LL nuncupātius, ML -ivus, nuncupative.

nameless; namely. See prec (heading).

Nancy: perh ME mine Annis, Agnes, confused with or, at the least, influenced by Anr(e). Hence Miss Nancy, an effeminate man, hence Nancy (whence occ nancy), a passive male homosexual, often, in sl, nancy boy. Cf NANNY.

nankeen is a cloth made orig at Nankin or Nanking, which, in Pekinese, means 'Southern Capital'.

nanny, a children's (usu in-living) nurse. See ANN. So nanny goat, female goat, is a Nanny goat.

nap (1), a short sleep, derives from 'to nap': ME nappen: OE hnaeppian, akin to OHG hnaf-fezēn and perh to Da and Nor nap, snap, 'with idea of quick closing of the eyes'; cf coll Nor nippe, to take a nap, i.e. to nip the eyes to' (EW): ult echoic.

nap (2), in cards. See NAPOLEON.

nap (3), of cloth. See MAP, para 2.

nape of neck. See MAP, para 2.

napery. See MAP, para 2.

naphtha—whence naphthalene (whence naphthol) and naphthene—is adopted from L, itself from Gr, naphtha: akin to Akkadian napša (cf Per nafī), naphtha, and prob Av napta, moist.

napkin. See MAP, para 2.

Napoleon (whence Napoleonic), napoleon; nap at cards (n, hence v).

The 20-francs gold coin the napoleon is named after the first Emperor Napoleon: F Napoléon: It Napoleone, from a Corsican name perh derived from the OGmc r attested by Nibelungen, Children of the Mist (cf L nebula, fog, cloud, OHG nebul, MHG-G nebel: see NEBULA), and f/e reshaped after Napoli and leone, as if the It word meant 'Lion of Naples'. (Dauzat, Dict. étym. des noms de famille.) Also named after him is the card game napoleon, usu shortened to nap, whence the horse-racing sense.

nappe, sheet. See MAP, para 2.

narcissism (whence, anl, narcissistic), Narcissus, narcissus.

The flower is named after that self-adoring youth of Gr Myth who, falling in love with his own reflection, ended as this flower, whence, via G Narcissismus and F narcissisme, the E narcissism of Psychi. Narcissus, adopted from L, is a trin of Gr Narkissos, perh—because of the plant's sedative properties—akin to Gr narkē, torpor (Hofmann). Therefore cf:

narcose, Med adj, is a b/f from narcosis, which has ordinary adj narcotic (whence, anl, narcotism, narcotize: cf the F narcotisme, narcotiser). Narcotic derives from MF-F narcotique, ML narcōticus, Gr narkōtikos, itself from narkōō, I benumb, from narkē, numbness, torpor, orig a muscular cramp: prob cf Arm nergev, slender, orig shrunken, and perh cf OHG narwa, a scar, and, with the IE prefix s-, ON snara, a noose. (Hofmann.) Also from Gr narkoun, to benumb, derives narkōsis, whence SciL-Med E narcosis; narcotine is adopted from F (from narcotique).

nard. See SPIKE, para 2.

nares; narine. See NOSE, para 8.

naringin. See ORANGE, para 2.

mark (1), a police spy, hence to spy: Romany nāk, nose. (Orig cant; still sl.)

mark (2), to irritate, tease, in E dial, hence in Aus sl, whence, in Aus sl, a tease, esp a spoilsport; derivative adj marky: perh from 1st MARK; perh from F, either EF-F narquois, sly, bantering, or, more prob, from EF-F nargue l, expressive of scorn or defiance, EF-F narguer, to set at defiance, cock a snook at, app (B & W) from nargue l, but possibly vice versa, with narguer of Gmc origin (cf G nörgeln, nergeln, to nag, to tease), as Dauzat suggests.

narrate, narration, narrative, narrator.

L narrāre, to tell the particulars of an event or an act, is akin to L ignōrāre, to be ignorant of, hence to E CAN (f.a.e.). The pp narrātus yields 'to narrate'; derivative narrātiō, o/s narrātiōn-, LL narrātius, ML -ivus, and narrātor become resp narration (perh via OF-F), narrative (perh via EF-F narratif, f -ive), narrator (perh via EF-F narrateur). The L adj narrābilis has negg innarābilis and, from enarrāre, to tell forth, inēnarrābilis, the latter giving us, perh via EF-F, the E inenarrable.

narrow (adj, hence n and v), whence narrowness, comes, through ME narwe, earlier narū, from OE nearu: cf OFris nare, OS narū, naro, OHG narwa, MHG narwe, G Narbe, a scar, lit the drawing-together of a wound, and perh cf also Lith narys, a loop, nėrti, to thread a needle.

2. Those OGMc and Lith words have cognates exhibiting the IE prefix (? orig int) s-: e.g., OHG-MHG snuor, G Schnur, a cord, schnurren, to shrink, Go snōrjō, a wicker basket, Da snor, a cord, Av snāvarē, a cord—and OE snearh, a cord, and esp OE snearu (from syn ON snara), a noose, a snare, whence E snare, whence 'to snare', with int ensnare, whence ensnarement.

narwhal. See WHALE, para 2.

nasal, nasality, nasalize. See NOSE, para 6.

nascency, nascent. See NATIVE, para 2.

nasturtium. See NOSE, para 7.

nasty, whence nastiness, is ME nasty and, ? earlier, nasky, prob of Scan, certainly of N European, origin: cf the syn Sw dial naskug, nasket, and perh cf D nestig, dirty, ugly (cf E dial nast—? for nask*—dirt).

nasute. See NOSE, para 6.

Natal, natal, natality. See NATIVE, para 4.

natant, natatory. See NOURISH, para 8.

nation, national, nationality. See para 5 of:

native (adj, hence n), nativity; neif—cf naif, nalve, nalveté; nation, national, whence nationalism, nationalist, nationality (cf the F nationalité), nationalize—cf the F nationaliser—whence nationalization—cf anti-national, denationalize (-ization) and international (inter, between, among + national), whence internationalism, etc.; Natal, natal, natality—cf prenatal and noel; nascency, nascent—cf renascence (renaissance), renascent (renaissant); natural, whence naturalism and naturalist (prob imm from EF-F naturaliste) and naturalize (prob imm from EF-F naturaliser), whence naturalization—cf naturality—nature; connatural; denaturalize (-ization)—denaturant, denature; supernatural, whence supernaturalism; unnatural (un-, not + natural); obs mate—cf adnate (whence, anl, adnation) and agnate, agnation and cognate, cognation and connate, whence anl connation, and enate, whence, anl, enation, and innascible, innate; pregnancy, from pregnant—cf impregnate; eigne; puisne—puny, whence puniness. Cf the sep GENERAL and KIN groups: f.a.e.

Simples

1. The base of the entire group is L nāscī, to be born, with presp nāscens, o/s nāscēt- and pp nātus, s nāt-: OL gnāscī*, attested by OL gnātus

(L nātus): s gnāsc- is akin to the gen- of genus, q.v.—f.a.e.—at GENERAL; cf KIN.

2. L nāscens, o/s nāscēt-, becomes E nascent; derivative LL nāscētia, E nascency. Cf LL nāscibilis, capable of being born: rare E nascible.

3. L nātus, born, yields nate, surviving only in cpds. But the s nat- occurs in those fruitful L derivatives nātālis, nātiō, nātīuus (ML -ivus), nātūra.

4. The L adj nātālis, of birth, hence (from nātālis diēs) of one's birthday, whence late MF-F, hence E natal,—nātālis derives imm from the L n nātus (gen nātūs), birth. Hence, prob after mortality: natality (cf F natalité). In LL, nātālis becomes also n, whence F noël, E Noël, Christ's birthday, hence Christmas. The province of Natal in SAfrica was first—by a European—discovered by Vasco da Gama on Christmas Day, 1497.

5. L nātiō, orig (a) birth, hence a creature's entire offspring at one time, hence a clan's offspring, hence a people's, hence that people itself: acc nātiōnem, whence OF nacion: ME nacioun: E (reshaped after L) nation. EF-F nation has EF-F adj national, adopted by E.

6. L nātīuus, ML nātīvus, becomes MF-F natif, f native, whence E native; derivative LL nātīuitās, o/s nātīuitāt-, ML nātīvāt-, becomes OF-F nativité, whence E nativity.

7. ML nātīvus becomes OF neif, whence the now only hist E neif (occ f neife), one born a serf. OF neif has extant var natf, f native, adopted by E; the MF-F derivative nalveté—prompted by the ML nātīvitās—is likewise adopted by E, with anglicized var naivety.

8. L nātūra, (orig) birth, hence an inborn characteristic, character, disposition, etc., yields OF-F, hence E, nature. The derivative adj nātūrālis yields OF-EF natural, whence (EF-F naturel and) E natural; subsidiary LL nātūrālītās explains E naturality.

Compounds

9. L nāscī, to be born, has the foll prefix-cpds relevant to E:

adnāscī, to grow ad, to or upon (something), presp adnāscens, o/s adnāscēt-, whence the E adj adnascent, whence adnascence, and pp adnātus, whence the Zoo and Bot adj adnate; agnāscī, to be born additionally (ag- for ad, to, towards), to, pp agnātus, EF-F agnat, E agnate, adj hence also n; derivative L agnātiō, o/s agnātiōn-, yields agnation;

cognāscī*, to be born together, hence blood-related, has pp cognātus used as adj, whence E cognate; derivative cognātiō, o/s cognātiōn-, E cognation; subsidiary LL cognātīuus, ML -ivus, E cognitive;

LL connāscī, to be born at the same time as, has pp connātus, whence the E adj connate; the related LL connātūrālis, of the same nature as, explains E connatural;

the rare dēnāscī, to perish (? 'be born down from life'), pp dēnātus, has no E derivatives but perh suggested the OF-F dénaturer, to remove the nature of, hence to change—for the worse—the nature of, whence 'to denature'; ēnāsci, to be born from, hence (of growths) to spring up, pp ēnātus, whence the adj enate, with extn enatic, related on the mother's side; innāsci, to be inborn, with pp innātus, whence innate, inborn (cf EF-F inné); contrast LL in-nāscibilis (in-, not + nāscibilis, as in para 2), incapable of being born; praegnāns, var of praegnās, (adj) being with child: prae, before + -gnās, -gnāns, from gnāsci, to be born: o/s praegnanti:- E pregnant; whence, anl, pregnancy. Praegnās has derivative praegnāre, to be with child, LL to render pregnant, with its pp praegnāta used as adj; and praegnāre has the LL derivative int impraegnāre, to render pregnant, attested by the pp-adj impraegnātā; hence 'to impregnate'. Derivative ML impraegnātiō, o/s impraegnātiōn-, gives us impregnation, whence, anl, impregnator; renāsci, to be born again, presp renāscens: OF renestre, MF-F renaltre, presp renaissant, whence MF-F renaissance, both adopted by E, which anglicizes them as renascent, renascence.

10. Such cpds as anti-national (anti-, against), denationalize (de-, down or away from, connoting removal), denaturalize, international (inter, between, among), supernatural (ML supernātūrālis), unnatural (un-, not) hardly need particular treatment; most of them owe something, either phon or sem (or both), to the corresp F words.

11. There remain, however, two or three words not imm explicable: eigne and puisne and puny. Eigne, in Law the first-born, derives from MF-F ainé, OF ainné: ainz, before (adv) (VL antius*, from L antea) + né, born (f née), L nātus.

12. Puisne, lesser, junior (esp judge), derives from OF puisné, later-born: OF-F puis, then, VL postius*, L postea, afterwards + né. The later F form puiné, younger, becomes E puny, with its entirely natural sense-development.

natron. See NITRE, para 4.

natter. See GNAT, para 4.

natty. See NEAT, adj, para 2, s.f.

natural, naturalist, naturality, naturalize, nature.

See NATIVE, para 8—and heading.

naufragous. See the element nau-.

naught is a var of nought: ME nought, naught, earlier naht, nawiht: OE nāht, nōht, contr of nāwiht, nōwiht: ne, not + ā, ever + wiht, thing; lit, therefore, not ever a thing, nothing. Hence the adj naughty, worthless (obs), hence wicked (obsol), hence merely misbehaving, mischievous, cf the obs (except in Sc) noughty, worthless, bad; whence naughtiness.

2. Ought, now illit, and its var aught, anything, clearly derive, therefore, from OE āwiht, through ME awiht, contracting to aught and ought.

nausea; nauseate (whence nauseating), whence, anl, nauseation; nauseous. See para 2 of:

nautic (whence nautics), superseded by extn nautical; nautilus; Argonaut; nausea, nauseant, nauseate, nauseous; noise (n, hence v), whence noiseless and noisy; naval (whence navalism), nave (of church) and nef, navicella (cf nacelle), navicula, navicular, navy; navicert (see the element navi-); navigable, navigate, navigation, navigator, cf navy.

Indo-European

1. The primary etymon is Gr naus (ναῦς, dissyllabic); the secondary, L nāuis (ML nāvis); cf Skt nāvas with nāuis, and Skt nāūs with ναῦς; IE, nāus*, with s nāu-, r prob nā-. Of the numerous IE cognates, the foll are at least notable: OIr nau (gen nōe), naust, place for a boat, W nausum; ON nōr; Arm naw (gen nawi); OPer nau-; OE nōwend, a mariner.

Greek

2. Gr naus has two derivatives important for E: nausia, Ionic nausisē, and nautēs. Nausia (var nautiā), seasickness, becomes L nausea, adopted by E; derivative L nauseāre, to make seasick, has presp nauseans, o/s nauseant-, whence E nauseant, adj hence n, and pp nauseātus, whence 'to nauseate', whence nauseation; derivative L nauseōsus gives nauseous.

3. Nautēs, a sailor—with adj nautikos, L nauticus, late MF-F nautique, E nautic—has the mdfn nautilus, with additional sense 'a kind of shellfish, supposed to possess a membrane serving as a sail', whence L nautilus, adopted by E.—E Argonaut = L Argonauta = Gr Argonautēs, a sailor in the good ship Argo, under the leadership of Jason: a pre-Homeric story.

4. Noise, adopted by ME from OF noise, noisy strife, a din, derives from L nausea, the sem link being afforded by the noise made by an ancient shipful of passengers groaning and vomiting in bad weather.

Latin

5. L nāuis, ML nāvis, a ship, becomes the E nave of a church, churches being often compared with ships—perh prompted by OF-F nef, OF-MF ship, OF-F nave; nef is extant in E in a couple of specialized yet obvious senses.

6. Nāuis (nāvis) has the foll derivatives concerning E:

L nāuālis, ML nāvālis, whence MF-F, hence E, naval;

LL dim nāuicella (ML nāvi-), adopted by Art; hence OF-F nacelle, which, as part of an aircraft, is adopted by E;

L dim nāuicula, adopted by Eccl and Bot E; its derivative adj nāuiculāris becomes navicular;

VL nāuia, ML nāvia, OF-MF navie, a fleet, adopted by ME, whence E navy; OF navie, however, perh comes rather (DAF) from L nāuigia, neupl (of nāuigium, a ship: from nāuigare: see next para) taken as a sing n.

7. Nāuis has cpd nāuigare, to sail a ship (nauem + igere, c/f of agere, to drive, to direct), whence nāuigābilis and neg innāuigābilis, whence, perh via late MF-F, the E navigable, innavigable. The presp nauigans, o/s nauigant-, ML navigant-, yields the rare adj, obs n navigant; the pp nauigātus, ML nāvi-, gives us 'to navigate'; derivative nauigātō, o/s nauigātōn-, ML nāvi-, passes through MF-F to become navigation; derivative nauigātor, ML nāvigātor, is adopted—cf the EF-F navigateur. E navigator explains navy, much of whose work is done in wet conditions.

nautilus. See prec, para 3.

Navaho, Americanized form of Navajo: Sp 'Apaches de Navajo': Tewa (a tribe of New Mexico) Navahú, that Tewa village owning 'great fields' which lay close to the Spaniards' first encounter with the Navajos. (Webster.)

naval. See NAUTIC, para 6.

nave (1) of church. See NAUTIC, para 5.

nave (2) of wheel. See OMPHALIC.

navel. See OMPHALIC.

navicella; navicula, navicular. See NAUTIC, para 6.

navigable, navigate, navigation, navigator. See NAUTIC, para 7.

navvy. See NAUTIC, para 7, s.f.

navy. See NAUTIC, para 6, s.f.

nawab. See NABOB.

nay, ME nei, ON nei (ne, not + ei, ever). Cf AY.

Nazi: G Nationalsozialistische (sc Partei, party).

neap, adj, usu in 'neap tides', the least in a lunar month, OE nēp flōd, where nēp is o.o.o.: perh cf naepen, scarcely, and the nipp- of Nor nippilo, neap tide; certainly cf OE forthganges nēp, (scant of advance, hence) unable to advance.

near, adv (hence adj, prep, v), comp nearer (cf OE nēarra, adj) and sup nearest: OE nēar, comp of nēah, nigh: for the change from comp to positive, cf ON naer, prop a comp but meaning both 'nearer' and 'near'. OE nēah, which becomes ME neih, later neigh, latest nigh, whence E nigh, is akin to OFris nēi, nī, adj and adv, OS nāh, id, OHG nāh, MHG nāch, G nahe, adj, and OHG nāhe, adv, Go nēhw, nēhwa, id, MD-D na, id, ON nā-, id; perh ult cf Skt naśati, he attains.

2. OE nēah, nigh, has sup nēahst, nyhst, nēahst, the 3rd becoming E next, adj, hence adv.

3. OE nēah has a cpd nēahgebūr, often contr to nēhgebūr, lit a near fellow-dweller, whence ME neighbour, E neighbour, AE neighbor: cf OHG nāhgībūr, MHG nāchgebūr, G Nachbar, and—without the ge-'together' prefix—MD nabuer, nabur, MD-D nabur, ON nābūi: for the 2nd element, cf BOOR.

4. Cf sep ENOUGH in ADDENDA TO DICTIONARY.

neat (1), adj, whence neatness; net, adj—cf natty; nitid, nitidous.

1. Nitidous, like its rare var nitid, comes from L nitidus, brilliant, hence elegant, LL clean, an -idus adj (cf splendidus from splendēre) from nitēre, to be shining, brilliant, dazzling; the presp nitēns, o/s nitent-, leads to F nitence and E nitency, brilliance, lustre. The L nitēre has s nit-, perh an extn of an IE r ni-, nei-, to shine: cf Ir niam, a flash of lightning, and OIr necht, brilliant.

2. L nitidus becomes OF-F net, bright, hence clean, adopted by E in sense 'clean of extraneous matter'—the commercial net, free of charges, often (for clarity) spelt nett; F net becomes anglicized as neat, with coll mdfn natty, perh influenced by OF-F nettoyé, pp of nettoyer, to cleanse, from OF net.

neat (2), n, oxen collectively, whence neatherd, cowman: OE nēat: cf OFris nāt, OHG nōz, ON naut: basic sense, useful property—cf OE nēotan, OS niotan, Go niutan, ON niōta, to enjoy the use of, and OE nytt, OHG-MHG nuz, G Nutzen, Lith nauda, use (n).

neb. See NIB.

Nebraska, whence adj, hence n, Nebraskan, takes its name from the State's principal river, which in Otoe Amerind is Ne-brath-ka, Shallow Water; -aska perh after Alaska.

nebula (occ anglicized nebule), whence the adj nebular—cf tabular from L tabula; nebulated nebulé; nebulite, nebulium; nebulosity, nebulous; nephelite, nephelium, nepheloid—and cf the element nephelo-—nimbose, nimbus—imbricate (adj, v), whence imbrication—imbue.

1. Nebula (pl nebulae), in E a gaseous celestial structure, is adopted from L nebula, vapour, mist, cloud, whence nebulōsus, misty, cloudy, whence E nebulous (cf the late MF-F nébuleux, f nébuleuse); the derivative LL nebulōsitās, cloudiness, o/s nebulōsitāt-, yields nebulosity—perh after late MF-F nebulosité. L nebula has derivative LL nebulāre, to becloud, hence to obscure, with pp nebulātus, whence both the E nebulate (adj), usu nebulated, and the F nébulé, adopted by E heralds as nebulé, consisting of cloudlike curves. From L nebula, SciL derives nebulium (Chem element -ium), and E derives nebulite (Min -ite).

2. L nebula has s and r nebul-, akin to Gr nephelē, a cloud; that the IE r is neb-* or rather nebh-* appears from OSI nebo, sky, Gr nephos, a cloud, Skt nābhas, mist, cloud, sky, and Hit nebiš, nepis, sky; there are Gmc and C cognates—cf OHG nebul, MHG-G nebel, OS nebbal, fog, and OE nifol, dark, ON niöl, darkness, night—also OIr nél, Ga neul, nial, a cloud, W niwl, Cor niul, mist, fog, OC etymon neblōs*; cf the nasal var presented by L nimbus in para 4.

3. With L nebula, cf esp the Gr nephelē, a cloud, whence E nephelite (cf the F néphéline). Nephelē has dim nephelion, adopted by LL, the plant burdock, which SciL converts to Bot Nephelium. Nepheloid, cloudy = nephelē + -oid, -like.

4. The IE var nib- is nasalized in L nimbus, a cloud rain-charged, hence a golden cloud enveloping the gods, E nimbus (F nimbe): cf, more imm, the Pahlavi (C3-9 Per) namb, moisture. Derivative nimbōsus yields nimbose.

5. L nimbus has perh been influenced by L imber, which, indeed, is prob, ult, akin. Imber, rain-(shower), has derivative imbrex (gen imbricis), a gutter tile, whence imbricāre, to form like a gutter tile, to cover with such tiles, pp imbricātus, whence the E adj and v imbricate.

6. With imbricare and esp its source imber, cf the L imbuere, to drench or saturate, whence 'to imbue', to impregnate, hence to instil profoundly; perh cf Gr aphuein, to dip, and Skt ambus, water.

necessary, necessitate, necessitous, necessitude, necessity.

1. The L base is app 'necesse est', it is an unavoidable duty or task: and prob necesse is the neu of an adj necessis*, deriving from L ne, not+cessis*, a yielding, from cessus, pp of cedere, to retire, hence to yield, orig to go, to arrive: f.a.e., NOT and CEDE.

2. Necesse has these derivatives affecting E: necessarius (adj suffix -arius), whence, perh via OF-MF necessaire (F né-), the E necessary, adj, hence—as in F—n; necessitas, o/s necessität-, OF-MF necessité (F né-), ME necessite, E necessity; hence:

ML necessitare, to render necessary (cf LL necessare), pp necessitatus, whence 'to necessitate'; L necessitudo, E necessitude.

3. OF-MF necessité has derivative MF necessiteux (F né-), f necessiteuse, whence E necessitous.

neck (n, hence adj and v), whence neck and crop, neck and neck, neck-cloth, neckerchief (for neck kerchief), necklace, necktie; nook, whence nookery.

1. Neck, ME necke, OE hnecca, nape of neck, the neck, is akin to OFris hnekka, OHG hnac, MHG mac, G Nacken, nape of neck, and ON hnakki, nape, neck; prob also to OIr cnoc, a hill, a hump. (Walshe.)

2. Akin to that group is E nook, a tapering or narrowing place, esp a corner, ME nok, nook, corner, angle—cf the Nor dial nok, a bent figure.

necromancer, necromancy. See the elements -mancy and necro-.

necropolis. See the element necro-.

nectar; nectarine; nectary. See NOXIOUS, para 6. Ned; neddy. See EDWARD.

need (n and v), whence needful, needless, needy; needs, adv.

Needs, necessarily, derives from OE nēdes, gen of nēd, var—along with nȳd—of nēod, nied, nēad, whence, via ME neod, nede, later need, the E n need: and OE nēad (nēod, nēad, etc.) is akin to OFris nēd, OS nōd, OHG-MHG nōt, G Not, Go nauths, ON nauthr, distress, compulsion, and, in Sl, the OP nauti-, distress, and OB naviti, Cz u-navit, to tire.

'To need' derives from OE nēodian, niedian, etc., from the OE n: cf OFris nēda, OS nōdian.

needle (n, hence v). See NERVE, para 7. needs, necessarily; needy. See NEED.

neese, neeze. See SNEEZE.

nef. See NAUTIC, para 5.

nefarious. See FAME, para 5.

negate, negation, negative (adj, hence n and negativism, negativity), negator, negatory.—cpds: abnegate, abnegation (whence, anl, abnegative), abnegator; denegate (obs), denegation (obsol)—cf deny, whence deniable (neg undeniable) and denial; renege, whence, .anl, renegation—cf renegade (n, hence adj).

1. All these words come from L negāre, to say No, hence to refuse (something or oneself), to deny the existence of, with pp negātus: neg- for nec, not+inf ending -āre: 'to no!' Negātus yields 'to negate'; derivatives negātiō (o/s negātiōn-); L negātius (ML -ivus), adj, LL n (? for sententia negātiua); LL negātor; LL negātorius; these lead resp to negation, perh via OF-F négation; negative, perh via MF-F négatif, f négative; negator; negatory (cf the C16-18 F négatoire).

2. L abnegāre (ab-, from, here int), to refuse, deny, LL to renounce, has pp abnegātus, whence 'to abnegate'. The LL derivatives abnegātiō (o/s abnegātiōn-), abnegātius (ML -ivus), abnegātor, resp become E abnegation (perh via late MF-F abnégation), abnegative, abnegator.

3. L dēnegāre, to deny, to refuse, to repudiate, has pp dēnegātus, whence 'to denegate'; the LL derivative dēnegātiō, o/s dēnegātiōn-, becomes denegation. But dēnegāre also becomes OF deneier, later denier (F dénier), whence ME denaien, later denien, whence 'to deny'. The derivative F indéniable perh prompted E undeniable.

4. ML renegāre, to deny again, go back upon, to repudiate or renounce, yields 'to renege', obsol except at cards. The pp renegātus is used also as 'one who denies his faith': whence Sp renegado, whence E renegade.

neglect, negleee, negligence, negligent. See LEGEND, para 12.

negotiable, negotiate, negotiation, negotiator. See OTIOSE, para 2.

Negress. See NEGRO, para 2.

Negrillo; Negritic, Negrilo. See para 3 of:

Negro, Negroid (adj, hence n); Negress; Nigger; Negrillo—Negrilo, whence Negritic; Niger, whence Nigeria, whence Nigerian (adj, hence n); nigrescent, whence nigrescence; nigricant; nigrify; Nigritian; nigrities, nigritude; nigrosine; nigrous; denigrate; niello; darnel.

1. The effective origin of this group is afforded by the L adj niger, black, s and r nig-: o.o.o.: perh of the Gr anigros (a-, merely prothetic), impure, unclean, akin to Gr knephas, darkness, and knephaios, dark, sombre: IE r, neigh-*, filthily—hence, very—black.

2. L niger becomes Sp (and Port) negro, soon used also as n for 'black man', esp in Africa; adopted by E, better Negro. L niger becomes EF-F nègre, whence the f négresse, whence E negress, better Negress. EF-F nègre becomes EE neger, whence the now derog and always coll nigger, a Negro, hence most improp of a non-African 'black' man; hence the adj and v nigger.

3. Negrillo, lit a little Negro, is adopted from Sp and applied to the Bushmen of Africa; Sp negro has another dim—negrito, whence E Negrilo, applied to all 'little Negroes', including Negrillos.

4. L niger, black, occurs in such river-names as the three or four rivers named Rio Negro in SAm and the Niger of central WAfrica, perhaps the same as Pliny's Nigris and Ptolemy's Nigier.

5. L niger, o/s nigr-, c/f nigr-, has the foll derivatives affecting È:

nigrescere, to become black, presp nigrescens, o/s nigrescent-, E nigrescent; nigricāre, to be rather black, presp nigricans, o/s nigricant-, E nigricant;

LL nigrificāre, to blacken, whence 'to nigrify'; nigritia, blackness, whence ML Nigritia, Sudan, whence Nigritian; nigritiēs, blackness, adopted by Med;

nigritūdō, blackness, whence literary E nigritude; LL nigrus, black, E nigrus.

6. L niger leads also to nigrine, which=nigr-+ adj -ine; nigrosine, which app=nigrus+Chem -ine.

7. L niger, black, has the dim nigellus, rather black, i.e. dark, whence both the SciL herb Nigella and, via the derivative ML n nigellum, the It niello, a dark metallic alloy of sulphur, hence inlay metal work in which this alloy is used—adopted by E.

8. The L adj nigellus has the derivative LL n nigella, the plant black cummin, whence OF neiele (C12), neelle, whence MF-F nielle, whence, with an o.o.o. 1st element dar-, the dial F darnelle, ME-E darnel. Dar- is perh akin to E tare, a vetch, but, in The Bible, a grainfields weed, usu said to be darnel: ? appositive 'weed nielle'.

9. L niger, o/s nigr-, has derivative nigrāre, to blacken, with cpd dēnigrāre (dē- used int), to blacken thoroughly, with pp dēnigrātus, whence 'to denigrate' esp a person's character; derivative LL dēnigrātiō, o/s dēnigrātiōn-, becomes E denigration, whence, anl, the agent denigrator.

neif. See NATIVE, para 7.

neigh (v, hence n): ME neien: OE hnāegan: akin to ON gneggja, Ice hneggja, OS hnēgian, OHG hneigen, MHG nēgen: echoic.

neighbor, -bour, etc. See NEAR, para 3.

neither, adj, hence adv, conj, pronoun. See EITHER.

nema. See nerve, para 3; cf the element nemato-.

nemesis. See NIMBLE, para 7.

neo- words collectively. See the element neo-; perh note esp neologism, from F néologisme, a learned formation (cf LOGIC); and neophyte—perh via late MF-F néophyte—from LL neophytus, newly planted (cf the Eccl LL neophyta, a woman newly converted): trin of Gr neophutos.

nephelite, nephelium, nepheloid. See NEBULA, para 3.

nephew, niece; nepotism; neve.

1. Nephew, ME neveu or nevou, from OF, derives from L nepōs, o/s nepōt-, with r nep-, akin to Skt nápāt (acc nápātam, cf L nepōtem), OPers napā, Skt f naptis, OLith nepotis, neputis, f nepte; OE nefa, OHG nevo, f nift, MHG neve, G Neffe; ON nefi; Ir necht, W nith; with merely prothetic a-, the Gr anepsios (cf OSI netijī), first cousin.

2. Niece, ME nece, nice, OF niece (F nièce), derives from VL neptia*, var of LL nepta, itself a var of LL neptis (? for nepotis*: -is, f suffix), from L nepōs, orig of common gender.

3. The L o/s nepōt- accounts for It nepote, nephew, whence nepotismo, applied orig to the favour enjoyed by Popes' nephews at the Papal Court in Rome, whence EF-F népotisme, whence E nepotism.

4. OE nefa became ME neve, EE nevve, whence the dial nevvy.

nephria, nephridium, nephriism, nephrite, nephritic, nephritis, nephrology (see the element nephro-).

1. The Gr nephros, a kidney, is akin to Praesentian L nephronēs and OHG nioro, MHG-G niere, ON nýra; OGmc niura*- for nigura-*, and IE nehgurōn- (Walshe) or neguhron-* (Hofmann).

2. From Gr nephros, s nephri-, SciL derives nephria, Bright's disease; Med E nephric, of the kidneys, is nephri-+adj -ic; cf Med nephriism (-ism), a morbid kidney-condition, and G Nephrit, whence E nephrite, with Min suffix -ite.

3. Gr nephros has adj nephritikos, LL nephriticus, E nephritic; nephritis is a SciL formation (nephri-+ the 'disease' suffix -itis)—cf Med nephrosis (nephri-+ the similar Gr Med suffix -ōsis).

nepotism. See NEPHEW, para 3.

Neptune, adj Neptunian, derive from L Neptūnus, orig a god of springs and streams, later God of the Sea, adj Neptūnius: cf Ve apdm napat, Av apam napā, descendant (cf para 1 of NEPHEW) of the waters. (E & M.)

Nereid, nereid, nereis. See NOURISH, para 3.

Nero, Neronian (whence, anl, Neronize, to treat, or to act, tyrannically and cruelly).

Neronian derives from L Nerōnianus, adj of Nerō, o/s Nerōn-, of Sabine origin: IE r, ner-, a warrior, akin to uir (wir-*), as in L uir (ML vir), a man—cf VIRILE.

nerve (n, hence adj and v), nervall (adj, n), nervate (whence, anl, nervation), nervine (adj, hence n), nervose, nervosity, nervous (whence nervousness), nervule (whence, anl, nervular and nervulose), Med nervus, nervy (from nerve and esp from pl nerves); L cpds: enervate, enervation; innervate (whence, anl, innervation), innerve.—Gr: neural (whence subneural), neuration, neuric, neurine, neuritic, neuritis, neuroid, neuroma, neuron (whence neuronism), neurosis, neurotic (whence neuroticism); Gr cpds: neuralgia (whence neuralgic), see the element -neura; neurasthenia (whence neurasthenic), see the element -asthenia; neuropath (whence neuropathic), see the element -path; cognate nema (whence nematite: Min -ite)—cf the element nemato-.—Gmc cognates: needle (n, hence adj and v), whence needle-fish, -point, -woman, -work, etc.; snood (n, hence v).

Indo-European

1. Nerve derives, like OF-F nerf, from ML nervus, L neruus, a sinew, hence a nerve, s neru-, akin to—perh a metathesis of—Gr neuron, a cord, fibre, nerve, s and r neur-: cf Arm neard, sinew, and with IE prefix s-, Skt snāva, Av snāvarē, a strong cord, a tendon, Tokh B sñaura, nerves, OHG senawa (G Sehne), a tendon, Lett snaujis, a lace, a snare: IE base, perh snēwro-, whence, by popular inversion, nerwo-, whence the L neruus; with ult IE r sne-, var sneu-. (Hofmann; E & M.)

Greek

2. Gr neuron, sinew, tendon, hence both a cord made of sinew and, in pl neura, nerves in the modern sense, is retained in SciE. On the s neur-arise the adj neural, perh after nerval (see para 4), and the var neuric, cf Gr neurikos, perh of neurotic, and neuroid (-oid, resembling); the nn neurine (Chem -ine), neurite, neuritis (whence, anl, neuritic), neuroma (-oma), neurosis (-osis)—whence, anl, neurotic. Neuration is anl with nervation.

3. The cognate Gr nēma, a thread, is—via LL—adopted by Zoo; imm from Gr nēō, I spin, L nēre, to spin.

Latin

4. L neruus, ML neruus, whence E nerve, has adj neruālis, ML neruālis, E nerval. The simplex neruāre*, ML neruāre*, is attested by a cpd; hence E nervate, as if from the ML pp neruātus*, tied up, bound.

5. L neruus has these other derivatives affecting E:

LL neruīnus, ML neruīnus, E nervine; L neruōsus, whence E neruose and predominantly nervous, the latter perh via MF nervouse, f of MF nervous (EF-F nerveux, f nerveuse); hence L neruōsītās, strength (from 'sinew' neruus), ML o/s neruōsītāt-, whence EF-F neruōsītē, whence E nervosity, in C19-20 '(extreme) nervousness';

L dim neruulus, ML -ulus, whence E nervule.
Nervure, adopted from F, is however a MF coinage in -ure (cf musculature) from MF-F nerver, to furnish with nerves.

6. L neruus has two prefix-cpds affecting E: ēneruis (var ēneruus), ML ēneruis, lacking sinews, hence weak, nerveless, whence ēneruāre, to deprive of sinews, pp ēneruātus, ML ēneruātus, whence 'to enervate'; the derivative LL ēneruātiō, o/s ēneruātiōn-, yields enervation;

LL inneruis (in-, not), without sinew, may have, in form, suggested the E 'to innervate' and, anl, 'to innervate', both of which, however, mean 'to supply with nervous strength', in-, into, being here int.

Germanic cognates

7. A needle, ME nedle, derives from OE nāēdl, akin to OFris nēdle, OS nādla, nāthla, Go nēthla, OHG nādala, MHG nādel, G Nadel, ON nāl (a contr?); cf also OIr snathat, Ga snathad, needle, and OIr snāthe, sinew, thread.

8. Akin to OIr snāthe, a thread, is OE snōd (? orig a pp), whence E snood, a fillet worn, by a woman, around the hair: cf Lett snāte, a linen cover.

nescience, nescient. See SCIENCE, para 7.

nesh, moist, tender, hence weak, sickly, now dial: OE hnesc, hnescce: cf Go hnasqus, soft, tender, West Frisian nesk, tender, and perh (Walsh) OHG hnascōn, nascōn, MHG-G naschen, to nibble (esp sweet things); ? also Skt khādati, he chews (Feist).

ness. See NOSE, para 5.

nest, nestle, nestling. See NETHER (and cf SIT), paras 3-4.

net (1), adj, clear. See NEAT, adj, para 1.

net (2), n, a catching-device made of twine (etc.), hence v, whence the vn netting; nettle (nautical); node (whence nodal), nodose, nodosity, nodule (whence nodular and anl nodulate, whence nodulation); noose, n hence v; dénouement; lanyard; ouch—nexus; annex (n and v), annexation, annexion; connect (whence connector, -er), connection (connexion), connective (whence connectivity); connex, connexity.

1. Net, OE net, is akin to OFris -net, OS netti, OHG nezzi, MHG netze, G Netz, Go nati, MD nette, D net, ON net; cf L nassa (? for natta*), a fish-basket, nōdus, a knot, and Skt nahyati, he binds. Cf also L nectere, to bind; indeed the basic idea is 'to bind, to knot'; the IE r is perh nedh-*.

2. Prob akin to net is the nautical nettle, a line of rope yarn, earlier knittle, from 'to knit', q.v. sep.

3. L nōdus, a knot, yields E node. The derivative L adj nōdōsus becomes nodose, and the subsidiary LL nōdōsītās, o/s nōdōsītāt-, becomes nodosity. The L dim nōdulus yields nodule. The derivative L nōdāre, to knot, becomes OF noer (F nouer), with cpd denoer (F dénouer), to unknit (de, down from), whence EF-F dénouement, an untying, esp of a theatrical plot, adopted by E.

4. L nōdus becomes Prov nous, whence E noose.

5. Akin to OHG nezzi, G Netz, a net, is OHG nestila, a knot of ribbons, a bandage, a strap; akin to nestila, and from the Gmc r it contains, is OF lasne, a strap, a thong, whence OF lasniere, F lanière, whence ME layner (EE lainer), whence, with new suffix (? suggested by the nautical yard), lanyard or laniard.

6. Of OGmc origin—cf the OHG nusca, nuscha (akin to nezzi, etc.)—is OF nusche, nousche, a necklace or a collar, whence ME nouche, whence (a nouche being apprehended as an ouche) the later ME ouche, whence the obsol E ouch, a brooch, a clasp.

L nectere

7. Nectere, to intertwine, bind, fasten, tie, has pp nexus, whence the n nexus (gen -ūs), an intertwining, binding, tying, adopted by E, esp for an interconnection, with adj nexal.

8. L nectere has, relevant to E, two prefix-cpds, one being adnectere, to attach to, usu assimilated annectere, with pp annexus, whence the n annexus (gen -ūs), whence prob the MF-F annexe, whence the E n annexe, usu annex; 'to annex' app comes from MF-F annexer, from the L pp annexus. Possibly, however, the MF-F n annexe comes, in some senses at least, from L annexum, neu of pp annexus. The derivative LL annexiō, o/s annexiōn-, accounts for E annexion. The nn annexiō and annexus prompted the ML annexātiō, o/s annexātiōn-, whence annexation.

9. The other L prefix-cpd is conectere, to bind (or attach) co- or together; faultily—but in ML predominantly—connectere, whence 'to connect', whence interconnect. On con(n)exus, the pp, arise: con(n)exiō, o/s con(n)exiōn-, whence MF-F connexion, adopted by E, which anglicizes it connection, after connect; con(n)exiūs, ML -ivus, E connexive; connexus (gen -ūs), E connex. Connexity derives from late MF-F connexité, from the MF-F adj connexe, from the L pp connexus.

nether, lower, whence Netherlands (whence Netherlander) and nethermost; beneath and underneath; nest (n, hence v), nestle, nestling; nidal, nidamental, nidation, nidatory, nidificant, nidificate (whence nidification), nidifugous, nidify, nidulant, nidulus, nidus; niche; eyas.

Indo-European

1. Nether, ME nethere, earlier nithere, OE nithera, comes from the OE adv nither, nithor, downward, akin to OE neothan, below, beneath: cf OFris nether, nither, OS nithar, OHG nidar, MHG nider, G nieder, MD-D neder, ON nithr, down (adv); further off, Skt nīthardām, downwards, from nī, down (adv): IE r, ni-*, down.

Germanic

2. Beneath, ME benethe, earlier bineothan, derives from OE beneoþan, benyþan: prefix be- + neothan, downward, beneath; and underneath, ME undernethē, from OE underneothan, undernyþan—cf UNDER.

3. Nest, OE nest, is akin to OHG-MHG-G nest, Skt niḍas (for nizdas*), seat, rest, OB gnēzdo, Lith lizdas (for nizdas*), L nidus (for nisdus*); several C cognates; Gmc r, nest-, and IE r, nizd-; a very ancient IE cpd of ni-, down (adv) + sed-, to sit, a place in which to sit down.

4. OE nest has derivative nestlian, to nest: E 'to nestle'. The ME-E nestling (cf MD nestelinc) prob=nest+ling, a creature belonging to, but perh=nestling, presp—used as n—of nestle.

Latin

5. L nidus, a nest, adopted by Sci, acquires the E adj nidal—and derivative n nidation and adj nidatory, both formed as if from nidātus*, pp of nidāre*, to nest. Derivative nidamentum, materials for a nest, acquires the Zoo E adj nidamental. The dim nidulus, adopted by E, has v nidulāri, presp nidulans, o/s nidulant-, E nidulant (adj), nestling, and pp nidulātus, E 'to nidulate', whence, anl, nidulation. The cpd nidificāre, to build a nest, yields 'to nidify'; its presp nidificans, o/s nidificant-, E nidificant, adj; its pp nidificātus, 'to nidificate'. Nidifugous, nest-fleeing=nidi-, c/f of L nidus+-fugous, from L fugāre, to flee (vt).

6. A niche is adopted from MF-F niche, recess in a wall, from OF nichier (F nicher), from VL nīdicāre*, to nest, from L nidus; and OF nichier (F nicher) gives us 'to niche'. B & W, however, derive the MF-F n niche from It nicchia, mdfn of nicchio, a shell, perh from L mitulus, Gr mutilos, a mould.

7. Eyas (C15 eyes) derives, by way of a nias (niāis) taken as an ials, from OF-F niāis, foolish, lit fresh from the nest: nīdicem*, acc of VL nīdāx*, from L nīdus.

netting. See the 2nd NET (heading).

nettle (1), the plant: OE netle, nete: cf OHG nezzilla, MHG nezzel, G Nessel, and MD nete, nettel, D netel: perh akin to NET, n.

nettle (2), nautical term. See the 2nd NET, para 2. neume. See PNEUMA.

neural, neuric, neuritis, neuroma, neuron, neurosis, neurotic. See NERVE, para 2.

neurasthenia, neurasthenic. See STHENIA.

neuter (adj, hence n); neutral (adj, hence n) and neutrality and neutralize; neutron; cf the element neuro-.

1. Neuter is either adopted from L, or adapted from MF-F neutre (from L neuter); the L adj neuter, neither, simply combines ne-, not (f.a.e., NOT) + uter, either.

2. Derivative neutrālis becomes E neutral, perh via the obs F neutral; neutrality derives, perh via MF-F neutralité, from ML neutrālītās, o/s neutrālītāt-; neutralize from EF-F neutraliser.

3. From L neuter, SciE derives neutron—cf proton, photon, etc.

Nevada, névé, nival, niveous, nivosity; snow (n, hence adj and v), whence snowy and such obvious cpds as snowball, -drop, -fall, -flake, etc.

1. Snow, ME snawe, snowe, =OE snāw: cf OFris snē, OS and OHG snēo, MHG snē (gen snēwes), G Schnee, Go snaiws, MD snee, D sneeaw, ON snāēr (with modern Scan cognates); OIr snechta, Ir and Ga sneacht, Mx sniahtey; OSl snęǫ, Lith sniegas; Skt snēhaś, stickiness. (Walshe.)

2. In Gr and L, initial s- has disappeared: the Gr acc nīpha, nom nīx*, gen nīphos* (s and r nīph- stands for snīph-*) and L nīx for snīx* (for snīgws*): cf L nīuit and Gr neiphei, nīphei, it snows, and, in C, the W nyf, snow.

3. L nīx has gen nīuis, o/s nīu-. The foll derivatives affect E:

nīuālis, ML nīvālis, E nival; nīueus, ML nīueus, E niveous; nīuōsus, ML nīvōsus, the very rare E nivose—cf the F Revolutionary month Nivose; hence, anl, nivosity.

4. The derivative L adj nīuātus, ML nīvātus, becomes Sp nevado, f nevada, as in the Sierra Nevada mountain ranges, whence the State of Nevada.

5. Névé, mountaineers' word for partly compacted snow, came into F, via an Eastern dial of F (cf Savoyard névi), from ML nīvem, acc of nīx.

never. See EVER, para 1.

nevy. See NEPHEW, para 4.

new. See NOVA, para 6.

newel. See NUCLEUS, para 6.

newfangle; newfangled. See NOVA, para 7.

newly. See NOVA, para 6.

newmarket, certainly the long, loose coat and prob the card game, derives from Newmarket (England), famous for its racing stables and its horsey types.

news. See NOVA, para 6. Hence NEWSBOY, NEWSPAPER, etc.

newt. ME newte, by apprehending earlier an ewte as a newte: earlier ME evete: OE efete, a lizard, whence E eft: o.o.o.

New Zealand. See SEA, para 1.

nexal. See the 2nd NET, para 7.

next. See NEAR, para 2.

nexus. See the 2nd NET, para 7.

Nez Percé. See NOSE, para 6.

Niagara, whence the fire-fighters' large, revolving nozzle, platform-mounted, is an Iroquoian word.

nib of pen derives from nib, var neb, a bird's beak: akin to MLG nibbe, it descends from OE nebb (whence neb)—cf MLG nebbe and ON nef (? for nebh*). There are also some s-prefix cognates: cf OHG snabul, MHG snabel, G Schnabel, D sneb, MD-D snavel, OFris snavel, Lith snápas.

2. Neb, nib, app have dim neble, nible, whence—? influenced by nip, to compress sharply—nipple. Cf:

nibble is of Gmc origin (cf LG nibbelen and D knibbelen); it is also the freq of 'to NIP'.

nice (whence niceness), nicety. See SCIENCE, para 7.

niche. See NETHER, para 6.

nick, a small notch (hence v), hence a point in time; nock (of an archer's bow: a tip of horn, with notches for holding the string, hence such—whence any—notch).

Nick is app a thinning of nock: and nock, ME nocke, is akin to MD nocke (D nok) but prob from OSw nock, nocka: ? orig echoic.

nickel (the coin, from the metal): G Nickel: Early Modern High German Kupfernickel, lit 'copper devil' (cf 'Old Nick', The Devil): 'because in spite of its colour it yields no copper' (Walshe): for the 1st element, see COPPER.

nickname: ME 'an ekename', surname, nickname. For the formation, cf NEWT.

nicotine (whence nicotinan, nicotinic) is adopted from F, which, in 1836, thus reshaped earlier nicotiane, adapted in 1570 from SciL herba nicotiana, 'grass of Nicot': Jean Nicot, that F ambassador to Lisbon who, in 1560, sent some tobacco to Catherine de Médicis. (B & W.)

nidal, nidamental, nidation, nidificate, nidifugous, nidulant, nidulus, nidus. See NETHER, para 5.

niece. See NEPHEW, para 2.

niello. See NEGRO, para 6. nifty, attractively smart (A sl), from magnificat, says Bret Harte in 1869: ? rather from L 'Magnificate', Magnify ye! (cf the obs magnificate, to magnify) or, as EW proposes and as Whitehall agrees, from magnificent, or possibly, as Mathews suggests, from snifty*, having a pleasant smell.

Nigella. See NEGRO, para 6.

Niger, Nigeria, Nigerian. See NEGRO, para 3 and heading.

niggard, a very stingy person, a miser—whence the adj niggardly—prob derives from ME nig, such a person+the pej suffix -ard; nig- is app of Scan origin—cf Nor dial gnigga, gnikka, to be stingy. Cf NIGGLE.

nigger. See NEGRO, para 2.

niggle, now esp to potter, to be finicky, orig to cheat pettily: app Scan (cf Nor dial nigla): prob cf NIGGARD. Hence the pa, vn niggling.

nigh. See NEAR, para 1.

night (n, hence adj and v; cf benighted, pp of benight, with int be-), nightly (adj, OE nihllic, hence adv); cpds, all self-explanatory, as, e.g., nightcap, nighthawk, nightingale (para 2), nightjar, nightmare, nightshade, nightwalker.—noctule, nocturn and nocturnal; nocturne; cf the element nocti-; sep EQUINOX, EQUINOCTIAL; nycteris; cf the element nycti-.

1. Night, ME niht, OE niht, var of neahrt, is akin to OFris nacht, OS and OHG-MHG naht, G Nacht, Go nahts, MD nach and, as in D, nacht; ON nätt, nött; OIr innocht, tonight, Ga nochd, W nos, Br noz, Cor nōz, nōs, OC nokti*; Alb natē; OSI nošt, Lith nakts; Gr nux (gen nuktos)—L nox (gen noctis); Skt nakta, nāktiš. The Gmc etymon is nahts*; the IE, nokts*, with Hit nekuz (? for nekuts*, for nokuts*) a mere vocalic var.

2. Of the night cpds, one merits special attention: nightingale, ME from OE nihtegale, lit a night-singer: cf OS and OHG nahtigale, MHG nahtegale, G Nachtigall; for the 2nd element, cf YELL.

3. L nox, o/s noct-, has adj nocturnus, whence the ML n nocturna, whence Eccl E nocturn; nocturnus becomes F nocturne, which, used as n (in Mus, a night-piece), is adopted by E. Nocturnus acquires the LL mdfn nocturnālis, whence nocturnal. The derivative noctua, an owl, acquires the SciF noctule, a large brown bat, adopted by E.

4. Cf Nycteris, a genus of Am bats: Gr nukteris, a bat, from nukt-, o/s of nux, night.

nightingale. See prec, para 2.

nightjar. See the 2nd JAR, s.f.

nightmare. See the 2nd MARE.

nigrescent; nigricant; nigrify; nigrities, nigritude; nigrous. See NEGRO, para 4. Cf nigrine, nigrosine, in para 5.

nihilify; nihilism, nihilist; nihility; nil. See FILAMENT, para 11.

Nihon. See JAPAN, para 2.

Nile; Nilot (or Nilote), Nilotic.

Nilotic comes, via L Niloticus, from Gr Neilōtikos, from Neilōtēs, a native of the Nile country: Gr Neilos, the River Nile, L Nilus, F and E Nile. Neilos is o.o.o.; one Eg name is Aur-Aa, Great River.

nimble (whence nimbleness); nim, nimmer;—numb (adj, hence v—with int benumb), whence numbness;—numismatic, numismaticist;—nomad, nomadic;—nemesis—number (n, v), whence numberless; numeral, numerate, numeration, numerous, with cpds e-, i-.

1. Nimble, ME nimel (var nemel), ? orig 'quick to grasp or take', derives from ME nimen, OE niman, to take, akin to OFris nima, nema, OS and OHG neman, MHG nemen, G nehmen, Go niman, MD-D nemen, ON nema, to take, and, further off, the Gr nemein, to distribute, and, with e-o alternation, nomos, anything distributed or allotted, and L numerus, number.

2. OE niman, ME nimen, become 'to nim', to take, esp to steal, now (and long) only dial; hence the obsol nimmer, a thief.

3. OE niman, pp numen, ME nimen, pp nume, taken, seized, hence adj (with deadened feeling), whence numb.

Latin

4. L numerus, a number, s numeri-, prob has r num-. The foll simple derivatives affect E:

LL adj numerālis, whence, perh via late MF-F numéral, the E numeral, adj, hence n; cf numerical, prob suggested by EF-F numérique, learnedly formed from numerus;

L numerāre, to count, number, whence numerābilis, E numerable; presp numerans, o/s numerant-, E adj numerant, used in counting; pp numerātus, whence the E adj and v numerate; derivative numerātiō, o/s numerātiōn-, whence, perh via MF-F numération, the E numeration, whence, anl, numerative; LL numerātor, adopted by E;

LL numerārius, arithmetician, ML adj, whence EF-F numéraire, whence E numery;

L numero, prop the abl of numerus, becomes It numero, number, whence the EF-F numéro, whence F N^o, adopted by E; L numerōsus, E numerous; derivative LL numerōsitiās, o/s numerōsitiāt-, E numerosity.

5. L numerus has the foll prefix-cpds affecting E:

enumerāre, to count ē- or out, whence, anl, enumerable; the pp enumerātus yields 'to enumerate'; derivative enumerātiō, o/s enumerātiōn-, whence, via EF-F énumération, the E enumeration, whence, anl, enumerative; LL enumerātor, adopted by E; innumerābilis, E innumerable;

LL supernumerārius, finding oneself (itself) in excess, whence supernumerary, adj hence also n.

6. L numerus becomes OF-F nombre, whence ME nombre, var noumbre, whence E number; L numerāre becomes OF-F nombrer, ME nombren, var noumbren, whence 'to number'.

Greek

7. Gr nemein (s and r nem-), to distribute, has derivative nemesis (suffix -esis), distribution, whence Nemesis, goddess distributor of retribution, adopted by E.

8. Gr nomos, anything allotted, hence usage, custom, whence E nomism and all the cpds in nomo-, q.v. in Elements. The Gr adj nomikos, customary, becomes erudite E nomic. Nomos has two very fruitful c/ff: -nomos, one who deals with—a subject; -nomia, connoting a field of laws or principles governing a subject, and occurring in E as -nomy. Among the most important -nomy cpds are these:

astronomy, OF-F astronomie, L from Gr astronomia, from astronomos, an astronomer: cf the element astro-, the adj astral, the n STAR; the Gr adj astronomikos passes through L and EF-F to become E astronomic, with its extn astronomical; astronomer (agent -er) was perh suggested by LL astronomus; autonomy (whence autonomic), self-government, Gr autonomia, from the adj autonomos, whence E autonomous: cf the element auto-; binomial, (in Math) two-termed: bi-, two, twice + -nomial, var of nomic; economy, q.v. sep.

9. Also from Gr nemein comes the Gr adj nomas, pasturing, hence roaming the country in search of pasture, which, used as n (one who does this), with gen nomados, becomes L nomas, gen nomadis, o/s nomad-, whence, perh via EF-F nomade, the E nomad. The derivative Gr adj nomadikos becomes E nomadic.

10. Nomos, custom, has derivative nomisma, anything sanctioned by custom, esp the current State coin, whence L nomisma, with var numisma, whence erudite EF-F numismatique, whence E numismatic; the n numismatics derives from F la numismatique, and numismatist from F numismatiste.

nimbose, nimbus. See NEBULA, para 4.

nincompoop, a simpleton: o.o.o.: perh—after ninny—a slovening of 'non compos mentis', not of sound mind.

nine, whence ninth (cf OE nigotha) nineteen, whence nineteenth (cf OE nigontēotha); ninety (whence ninethial).—Latin: November, novena, novenary, novendial, novennial; none (canonical hour), noones—cf nonagenarian, nonane, noon (whence nooning), noontide.—Greek: ennead, enneatic.

Indo-European

1. E-ME nine derives from OE nigon, var nigan: cf OFris nigun, niugun, OS nigun, OHG niun, MHG niun, niune, G neun, Go niun, MD negene and, as in D and LG, negen; ON niu, with modern Scan cognates; OIr noi, Ga naoi, naoidh, naodh, EW-W naw, Cor nau, naw, nawe, Br nau; L nouem (ML novem), Gr ennea, Skt náva; and perh E new (q.v. at NOON), for 'the IE word for eight (cf acht) is dual in form (=2×4), so that an old system of counting by fours appears to have existed; 9 would then mark the first of the third series of 'tetrad' (Walshe): Gmc r, niwan-, IE r newon-, newn-*.

Germanic

2. Nine has the cpd nineteen, OE nigontýne or -tēne, lit 'nine' plus 'ten'; cf ninety, OE nigontig, lit 'nine' by 'ten (times)'.

Latin

3. L nouem (perh for nouen*), 9, occurs in November (mensis), ML November, the ninth month of the Roman year; E November, F novembre. Derivative ML novēna, a nine days' devotion, is extant in Eccl E: cf Eccl novendial, a nine days' feast, L nouendiāle, prop the neu of adj nouendiālis, of the ninth dies or day. Nouem has derivative nouēnārius, of the number 9, whence E novenary, and the LL cpd adj nouennis, nine anni (or years) old, whence E novennial, recurring every ninth year.

4. L noem has ordinal nōnus, ninth, whence, via nōna (sc hōra, hour), the ninth hour in Ancient Roman reckoning, hence, in LL, the canonical hour or an office recited then, whence OF-F none, adopted by E. Nones, however, is the ninth day before the Ides: via MF-F nonēs: from L nōnae.

5. L nōnāgēnārius (nōnāgēni, 90 each + ārius) yields nonagenarian, adj hence n; L nōnāgēsīmus, 90th, yields nonagesimal. E formations from L nōnus include nonane (nonus + Chem -ane) and Math nonary (form-prompted by L nōnārius, of the ninth hour).

6. L nōna (hōra), 'the ninth hour' (3 p.m.), becomes OE nōn, orig as in L, but, the hour of the Eccl service being moved from 3 p.m. to 12 a.m., also—and soon predominantly—midday: E noon. Cf noontide, midday, from OE nōntīd, orig the ninth hour.

Greek

7. Gr ennea, app for ennewa*, has gen enneados, o/s ennead-, whence E ennead, a group or set (cf the suffix -ad) of nine. The derivative Gr adj enneadikos becomes LL enneadicus, whence E enneadic; the LL var enneaticus explains the E var enneatic.

ninny. See NOXIOUS, para 2, s.f.

nip (v, hence n), whence agent nipper, pa and vn nipping, adj nippy: ME nippen: cf MD nipen (D nipjen, knipjen), to pinch, and Lith knibti, to pluck: prob of nap (4), q.v. at NAB, para 1.

2. The sl nipper, a young boy, derives from cant nipper, a pickpocket; young—or, at any rate, small—boys making the best pickpockets.

nipple. see NIB, para 2.

Nippon. See JAPAN, para 2. Hence the AE Nipponese, whence A sl Nip, a Japanese.

nippy. See NIP (heading).

nirvana: Skt nirvāna, (of, or like, a candle) extinguished: cf Pali nibbāna, extinction.

nit, egg of louse: OE hnutu: cf MD nette, nete, D neet, OHG hniz, niz, G Niss, and prob Arm anic, Gr konis (perh for knis*), a louse: IE r, knid-*, to sting (cf Gr knidē, a nettle).

nitency, nitid, nitidous. See NEAT, para 1.

niter (AE) or nitre; nitrate, whence nitratōr; nitric; nitrify, nitrification; cf the element nitro-; nitrogen (whence nitride), whence nitrogenize, nitrogenous; nitrous.—natron; trona.

1. E nitre, AE niter, derives from MF-archaic F nitre: L nitrum, native soda: Gr nitron: H nether: Eg nṯrj (netrā), natron; ult idea, perh 'to cleanse' (cf Eg netrā).

2. F nitre has derivatives: nitrate, adopted by E, whence 'to nitrate'; nitrique, whence E nitric; nitrifier, whence 'to nitrify'; subsidiary nitrification, adopted by E; nitrogène, whence E nitrogen—cf the element -gen.

3. L nitrum has adj nitrosus, whence E nitrous.

4. Gr nitron becomes Ar naṯrūn, whence Sp natrón, whence F, hence E, natron.

5. Ar naṯrun, with SciL suffix -a tacked on, yields Sw trona, adopted by E Min.

nitwit, orig A sl, now AE and E coll, is a 'nix' (G nichts, nothing) wit, a know-nothing: cf WIT.

nival, niveous, nivosity. See NEVADA, para 4, and cf the element nivi-.

nix. See NITWIT.

Nº, number. See NIMBLE, para 4.

no, adj and adv; sep NAY; none; not; sep NON.

No, not so, ME no, var na, derives from OE nā: OE ne, not + ā, ever (cf aye). But the adj no, ME non, earlier nan, derives from OE nān (ne, not + ān, one: cf ONE), whence, via ME nan, non, noon, none, the E none, pronoun—whence archaic adj. Not, ME noht, naht, earliest nawht, derives from OE nāwht (ne, not + ā, ever + wiht, a thing however small).

Noachian; Noah; Noah's ark.

Noah, H Nōah (lit, rest or comfort), was commander of the ark during the Biblical Deluge, whence the child's toy called a Noah's ark (cf ARK); adj Noachic or, more usu, Noachian.

nob, head (sl), hence a swell. See KNOB.

nobble. See NAB, para 3.

nobby, very smart (sl). Adj of nob, a swell.

nobility; noble (adj, hence n)—whence nobleman (-woman), nobleness; noblesse oblige;—ennoble, whence ennoblement.—Akin to KNOW, q.v. at CAN.

1. 'To ennoble' derives from MF-F ennoblir: en, into + noble, well-born (person) + ir, inf suffix: to turn into a noble.

2. E nobility derives from OF-EF nobilité (superseded by MF-F noblesse, as in noblesse oblige, noble birth imposes obligations): L nōbilitātem, acc of nōbilitās, itself from nōbillis, whence, via OF-MF nobile, and MF-F noble, the E adj noble.

3. L nōbillis is intimately related to and, indeed, prob derived from nō-, the ult r of L nōscere, to know: 'knowable, known', hence 'well-known', hence 'well-born', hence 'high-born', hence 'noble'. For nōscere, see CAN.

noblesse oblige. See prec, para 2.

nocent. See NOXIOUS, para 2.

nock. See NICK.

noctambulant; noctiluca; noctivagous. See the element noct(i)-.

noctule, nocturn, nocturnal, nocturne. See NIGHT, para 3.

nocuous. See NOXIOUS, para 3.

nod (v, hence n); noddle, n and v; noddy and syn noodle.

1. 'To nod', ME nodden, is perh akin to OHG hnōtōn, genūtōn, to shake, and prob akin to L nutāre, to nod the head repeatedly, freq of nutere*, to nod the head; if that be so, cf also Gr neuein, to nod, and Skt nauti, nāvate, he budges, he turns (the head). The IE r is perh nu-, var nau- with extn naut-, not-, nōd-*.

2. Whereas 'to noddle' is a freq of 'to nod', a noddle, jocos for a head, earlier the nape of the neck, derives from ME nodle, nodel, which, o.o.o., perh derives from the lost origin of dial nod, nape of neck.

3. Perh from 'to nod' comes noddy, a simpleton; cf, sem, the adj noddy, inclined to drowse, therefore only half-awake.

4. App from noddy, simpleton—perh allied with noddle, head—comes noodle, simpleton, which has, of course, nothing to do with the alimentary paste noodle (usu in pl noodles): G Nudel, vermicelli: cf Silesian knudel: perh cf G Knödel, a dumpling. (Walshe.)

nodal. See the 2nd NET, para 3.

noddle. See NOD, para 2.

noddy. See NOD, para 3.

node, nodose, nodular, nodule. See the 2nd NET, para 3.

Noël, Christmas. See NATIVE, para 4.

noët. See NOUS, para 1.

nog; noggin.

Noggin, a small cup, hence a small cupful, is o.o.o., but perh akin to nog, a brick-sized peg, hence a (large) projecting pin, itself o.o.o., but more prob akin to Norfolk nog, strong ale, ? hence any strong drink with an egg beaten in; even this nog is o.o.o.—? for knock, from the 'punch' it carries.

noise, whence noisy. See NAUTIC, para 3. noisome. See ODIUM, para 7.

noition. See VOLITION, para 6.

nolle prosequi—familiarily, nol. pros. See VOLITION, para 6.

nomad, nomadic. See NIMBLE, para 9.

nombles. See LOIN, para 4.

nom de guerre. See NAME, para 7.

nomen. See NAME, paras 1, 4 (s.f.), 7.

nomenclator, nomenclature. See NAME, para 5.

nomic. See NIMBLE, para 8.

nominal, nominate, nomination, nominator, nominee. See NAME, para 6.

nomism. See NIMBLE, para 8.

non, L for 'not'. See Prefixes.

nonage, the being a legal minor, is adopted from MF: non, not+age (F âge), not (the full) age.

nonagenarian; nonagesimal; nonary. See NINE, para 5.

nonce. See ONE, para 13.

nonchalance, nonchalant. See CALORIC, para 2. nonconformist, nonconformity. See FORM, para 4, s.f.

nondescript, not (hitherto) described, hence not easily described: L non, not+L dēscriptus, described—cf SCRIBE.

none. See ONE, para 12.

nonentity, a person of no account, derives from non-entia, a not-existing: cf ENTITY.

nones. See NINE, para 4.

nonesuch, some thing or person unequalled: none, pronoun+such. Cf NONPAREIL.

non-existence, -existent. See SIST, para 5. nonpareil. See PAIR, para 4.

nonplus, v, derives from nonplus, n, a state—a point—in or at which 'not (L non) more (L plus)' can be done.

nonsense, nonsensical. See SENSE, para 2.

non sequitur. See SEQUENCE, para 3. noodle, (1) and (2). See NOD, para 4.

nook. See NECK, para 2.

noon; noontide. See NINE, para 6.

noose. See the 2nd NET, para 4.

nor, ME nor, is a contr of ME nother, from OE nāwther, nōwther, contr of nāhwaether, nōhwaether: ne, not+hwaether, whether. Cf neither at EITHER.

Nordic. See NORTH, para 3.

Norfolk dumplings were orig made (and later applied to the natives), Norfolk jackets orig worn, in Norfolk county, England: 'The Northern Folk'—opp Suffolk, 'The Southern Folk'—of East Anglia. Cf NORTH.

norm; normal (adj hence n)—whence normalcy (AE), normality, normalize; normative (after formative).—Cpds: abnormal (whence abnormality), abnormous; anormal; enorm, enormity, enormous.

1. The L norma, a carpenter's square, hence a rule of conduct, is o.o.o.: perh an adaptation—after L forma, a concrete form, a mould, hence shape—of Gr gnōrimos, a carpenter's square; if that be so, cf NOTABLE and KNOW and CAN.

2. L norma becomes OF-F norme, whence—unless direct from L—the E norm. The derivative L adj normālis, patterned or made with a carpenter's square, hence, in LL-ML, conforming to rule, becomes MF-F normal, whence—unless direct from L—the E normal.

3. The L prefix-cpd abnormis, away from (ab) the rule, yields the now rare abnormous (cf enormous); derivative L abnormitās gives abnormity; abnormal=L abnormis, influenced by anormal, adopted from MF-F anormal, itself from ML anormālis, a fusion—? orig a confusion—of L anomalous (see ANOMALOUS) and L normālis.

4. L ēnormis, out of (ē-) the square or the rule, becomes MF-F ēnorme, whence the obsol E enorm, displaced by enormous (from L ēnormis); derivative L ēnormitās becomes MF-F ēnormité, whence E enormity.

Norman. See NORTH, para 4. normative. See NORM (heading).

Norn, an ancient Norse goddess of fate, is ON Norn (pl Nornir): perh cf ME nurnen, to say (? orig in prophecy or warning), and Sw dial norna, nyrna, to warn secretly.

Norse, Norseman. See para 4 of:

north, n, hence adj (whence norther, a north wind) and v (whence northing); obs norther, further north, with extn northerly; northern; Northman—cf Norman; northward; northwest—cf northeast; northward; Nordic; Norse, adj, hence n and also Norseman; sep NORFOLK; Northampton;

Northumbria, whence Northumbrian (adj, hence n); Norway, Norwegian (adj, hence n).

1. North, OE north, is akin to OFris and OS north, OHG nord, MHG nort, G Nord (but OF north, whence F nord, comes from OE) and Norden, MD nort, later noort, D noord, and ON northr; further off, Oscan nertrak, on the left, Umbrian neriru, from the left, and Gr nerteros, nether: basic idea of north is 'left (with eastern orientation)', as Webster remarks—cf the ult origin of SOUTH; but the IE r is perh ner-*, under (Hofmann).

2. Northerly tacks -ly to obs norther, further north, from OE northerra, adj, and northor, adv; northern derives from OE northerne; northward (whence northwardly), from OE northweard; northwest, direct from OE; northeast, however, is north+east.

3. Nordic anglicizes the SciL nordicus, of the north: cf F nordique, derived rather from F nord.

4. Northman, an ancient Scandinavian, derives, at least partly, from OE northman; Norseman is a Norse man, Norse deriving from D Noorsch, a Norwegian, from noordsch, northern, MD nordsch, nortsch; cf OFris norsk, contr of northesk. Norman, however, comes from OF normant—nom normans, normanz—whence F Normand: and OF normant comes, through Frankish normant* and perh through C9 ML normannus, from OGmc (cf OE northman, OFris northmann).

5. Norway derives from late ML Norwegia, earlier Norvegia, from ON Norvegr: ON northr, north+vegr, way (cf WAY); also from ML Norwegia derives Norwegian—cf the F Norvégien from Norvege.

6. Northumbria is a latinized form of Northumberland, ON Northymbralond, land of the Northymbre, Dwellers North of the River Humber. (Ekwall.)

Norway; Norwegian. See prec, para 5.

nose (n, hence v), with many obvious cpds—nosebag, nosepiece, etc., but note nosegay—and adj nosey or nosy; nostril, cf nozzle (n, hence v) and nuzzle; naze and ness;—L: nasal, whence nasality and nasalize—cf the F nasalité and nasaliser; nasute; nasturtium; Nez Percé;—nares, narine.

1. Nose, OE nosu, is akin to OFris nose, OHG nasa, MHG-G nase; ON nös (with modern Scan cognates); Lith nósis, OSl nos, OP nozy; L nāsus, nose, and nārēs, nostrils; Skt nāsā.

Germanic

2. Nosegay, a posy, cpds nose+ the n (from adj) gay, something showy: something bright that one holds to the nose.

3. Nostril, ME nostrill, earlier nosethril, earliest nosethirl, derives from OE nostryrl: nos-, c/f of nosu, nose+thyr, c/f of thyrel, a hole, an opening, n from adj thyrel, for thyrhel, pierced, from thurh, through (cf THROUGH).

4. Nose has dim nozzle (for nossle*); cf 'to nuzzle', to thrust (etc.) with the nose—a vowel-changed freq of 'to nose'.

5. OE nosu, nose, has cognate naes, nes (cf ON nes), a nose-like projection of land into sea, a promontory, whence, like the E naze (? influenced by F nez), the E ness.

6. L nāsus, nose, has adj nāsūtus, long-nosed, keen-nosed, whence E nasute; ML nāsāle, a nose-piece, becomes, via MF nasal, nasel, the E n nasal; the E adj nasal is rather adopted from EF-F, formed learnedly from MF-F nez (OF nes), nose, which occurs in Nez Percé (pl Nez Percés), lit Pierced-Nose, the F name of several W Amerind tribes.

7. L nāsus has the cpd nasturtium, a cress, lit a nose-twist: nas-, s of nāsus+urt-, corruption of tort-, s of tortus, pp of torquere, to twist (f.a.e., TORT): which, however, is perh f/e.

8. Akin to L nāsus is L nārēs, the nostrils, adopted by Med, with adj narial and narine (-ine), the latter perh suggested by OF-F narine, a nostril. nosism. See US, para 3.

nostalgic derives from nostalgia, homesickness: SciL term: nost-, s of Gr nostos, a return to one's home+Gr algia, pain (as in neuralgia).

nostril. See NOSE, para 3. nostrum. See US, para 3.

not. See NO.

notabilia. See para 2 of:

notable, notabilia, notability; notary, whence notarial, notariate, notarize; notate, notation (whence notational)—whence, anl, notative and notator; note (n and v), whence notebook, noteless, noteworthy; notice, n, hence v—whence noticeable; notify, notification; notion, whence notional, notionary; notoriety, notorious, cf the Sc notour.—Cpds: annotate, annotation (whence, anl, annotative), annotator; connotation (whence, anl, connotative), connote; denotation (whence denotative), denote; prenotation.

1. The imm source of all these words is L nota, a manner of designating, a means of recognition, a brand, a mark: deriving from or intimately related to nōtus, pp of nōscō, I begin to know, nōū, I know. L nōscere, to (begin to) know, OL gnōscere, pp gnōtus, is akin to Gr gignōskein, to know (gi-, redup of the τ+IE r gnō-, to know+-sk-, IE formative element+-ein*, inf suffix), with pp gnōtos; to OIr gnáth, and Skt jñāts, known, both so clearly and so very closely related to the syn Gr gnōtos and L (g)nōtus; Lith žinoti, OSl znati, to know; OE cunnan, to know, cann or can, I know, therefore E CAN; many OGmc cognates; Skt jānāti, he knows, OHG -knaan, E KEN; OE cnāwan, E KNOW.

2. L nota, a mark, becomes OF-F note, adopted by E. The derivative L notāre, to designate with brand or mark, becomes OF-F noter, whence 'to note'. Notāre has derivative notābilis, worthy of note, whence MF-F notable, adopted by E; notābilis has neupl notabilia, used as n 'things worth noting' and adopted by Continental and E erudites.

3. L nota, in its sense 'mark in or of writing', has derivative notārius, secretary, whence, via OF-MF notarie (MF-F notaire), the E notary, with legal sense taken from late MF. Notariate perh derives from EF-F notariat.

4. L notāre has pp notātus, whence the E adj and rare v notate; on the s notāt- arises notātiō, o/s notātiōn-, whence, perh via MF-F, the E notation.

5. L nōtus, known, has derivative nōtitia, a being recognized or known, whence MF-F notice, adopted by E; its derivative nōtificāre, to make known, becomes MF-F notifier, whence 'to notify', the subsidiary ML nōtificātiō, o/s nōtificātiōn-, passing through MF-F to become E notification; and its LL derivative nōtiō (o/s nōtiōn-), notoriety, (but also) definition, a species of knowledge, becomes—perh via EF-F—the E notion.

6. L nōtus, known, has the LL -drius extr nōtōrius, causing to be known, whence—cf the MF-F notoire—the E notorious; derivative ML nōtōrietās, o/s notōrietāt-, becomes—perh via the late MF-F notoriété—the E notoriety. The Sc notour, notorious, app blends the F notoire and the L nōtōrius.

7. L notāre has several prefix-cpds relevant to E, the alphabetical first being annotāre, to put marks or notes ad or against, at, to, pp annotātus, whence 'to annotate'; derivative annotātiō, o/s annotātiōn-, yields, perh via MF-F, the E annotation; agent annotātor is form-adopted by E.

8. ML connotāre (int con-), to mark or note, hence to suggest, becomes 'to connote'; derivative connotātiō, o/s connotātiōn-, becomes connotation.

9. L dēnotāre, to mark or note down, to signify, yields MF-F dēnoter, whence 'to denote'; derivative dēnotātiō, o/s dēnotātiōn-, yields late MF-F dēnotation, whence E denotation.

10. L praenotāre, to mark, hence to note, beforehand (prae-), becomes 'to prenotate'; derivative LL praenotātiō, o/s praenotātiōn-, becomes prenotation. But praenotatio, a presentiment, derives from L praenōtiō (prae-+nōtiō, as in para 5, s.f.), o/s praenōtiōn-.

notary. See prec, para 3.

notation. See NOTABLE, para 4.

notch (n, hence v): perh via a notch, mistakenly from an otch: MF oche: OF osche (F hoche), from OF oscher (F hocher), oschier, to notch: o.o.o.; but cf NICK.

note, whence note-book, -case, -worthy. See NOTABLE, para 2.

nothing (whence nothingness)=no+thing. Cf anything.

notice, n—hence v, whence noticeable. See NOTABLE, para 5.

notification, notify (whence notifiable). See NOTABLE, para 5. notion. See NOTABLE, para 5, s.f.

notochord. See the element noto-.

notoriety, notorious. See NOTABLE, para 6.

nototribe. See the element noto-.

notour. See NOTABLE, para 6.

Notre Dame, the cathedral of Our Lady: MF-F notre (OF-MF nostre), from L noster our+OF-F dame, lady, from L domina, mistress of the house (domus).

notwithstanding=not+withstanding, presp of withstand, to resist (successfully), q.v. at STAND.

nougat, adopted from F, comes from Prov nougat, OProv nogat, from noga, nut: via VL, from L nux (gen nucis), a nut: lit, 'made with nuts': f.a.e., NUCLEUS.

nought. See NAUGHT.

nounenial, noumenism, noumenon. See NOUS, para 1, s.f.

noun. See NAME, para 8. nourish (whence the pa nourishing), nourishment; nurse (n, hence v), whence nursemaid and pa, vn nursing, cf nursery and nursling; nurture, n hence v; nutricial, nutricism; nutrient, nutriment, nutritional, nutrition, nutritious (whence, anl, nutritive).—natant, natation;—naïad, naïd; neroid, Nereis, Nereus.

Indo-European

1. Nourishment derives from OF norrissement, from norrir, varr norir, nurir, nurrir (F nourrir), whence, via such forms as presp norissant and 'nous norissons', we nourish, the ME norisen, norischen, whence 'to nourish': and OF norir, nurir, etc., derives from L nūtrire, to give milk to, hence to feed, to nourish: akin to L nūtrix, a nursing mother, a foster-mother; akin also to L natāre, to swim, a freq of nāre, to float, and to Gr naein, to flow: all are var derivatives from an IE r sneu-, varr snu-, snu-*, to give milk to, as in Skt snauti, she gives milk, snāti, he bathes, Mīr snāim, I swim: a good example of the ubiquitous IE prefix s-. Ult IE r, prob *(s)na-

Greek

2. Gr naō, I flow, has derivative naïas (gen naïados), a water nymph, whence L naïas (gen naïadis), whence E naïad—perh via MF-F naïade; with contr naid.

3. Akin to Gr naïas is Gr Nēreus, a sea god, whence, via L, E Nereus; any of his daughters is Nērēis (f suffix -is), gen Nērēidos, L Nērēis, gen Nērēidis, E Nereld.

Latin

4. L nūtrire (as in para 1) has presp nūtriens, o/s nūtrient-, whence the E adj nutrient. Nūtrire has derivative nūtrimentum, whence E nutriment; derivative LL nūtrimentālis yields nutritional. On the pp nūtritus arises LL nūtritiō, o/s nūtritiōn-, whence MF-F nutrition, adopted by E; nutritious, however, derives from L nūtricius, nūtritiūs, from nūtrix, nursing mother; nutritory, nutritive, derives from LL nūtritiōrius, from nūtritus.

5. L nūtrix, gen nūtriciis, yields the obsol nutrice, a nurse; from the L o/s nūtrix- come both the E adj nutricial and the n nutricism (-ism) in Biol.

6. The L adj nūtricius (from nūtrix) has f nūtricia, used also as LL n for foster-mother, nurse: OF nurrice, norrice (F nourrice): ME nurice, norice, later nors, nurse, E nurse, whence nursling and, from the v, nursery (cf the F nourricerie).

7. The L pp nūtrītura has yet another relevant derivative: LL nūtrītura, OF norriture, norreture (F nourriture), ME norriture, contr to norture, whence, reshaped after the L original, E nurture.

8. L natāre, to swim, has presp natans, o/s natant-, whence E natant; and pp natātus, whence natātiō, o/s natātiōn-, whence EF-F and E natation.

nous; noetic; noumenal, noumenism, noumenon (pl noumena);—paranoia, whence (after maniac) paranoiac, adj hence n, whence, in turn, paranoid.

1. Nous, (Phil) mind, whence (orig, University sl) ready wit, shrewdness, is adopted from Gr nous (Attic νοῦς), a contr of noos (νόος), mind—cf noéō, I take thought, I perceive, whence noēsis, intellectual grasp, whence noētikos, intellectually apprehensible, E noetic. Gr noein, to perceive, has pp noumenos, with neu noumenon used as n 'a thing perceived, or thought', whence the Phil terms noumenal (perh after phenomenal) and noumenism. With the metaphysical, esp Kantian noumenon, cf the derivative F noumène.

2. Gr noós, mind, has derivative -noia, as in paranoia (para, beside), madness (cf, sem, 'beside oneself'), adopted by alienists; with derivative paranoiac, cf the F paranoiaque (from F paranoia). nouveauté. See para 3 of:

nova, novum, novus; novalia, novate, novation (whence novative, novatory), novator, novity; novel (adj, n)—whence first, novelette (cf It noveletta), hence novelttish, and second, novelist, whence novelistic, and, third, novelize; novelty (cf the EF-F nouveauté); novella, nouvelle; Novial; novice, noviciate (-itiate); L cpds: innovant, innovate, innovation (whence, anl, innovative), innovator (whence, anl, innovatory); renovate, renovation (whence, anl, renovative), renovator (whence, anl, renovatory).—Gr: neon, cf the element neo- and note esp neolithic, neologism, neophyte.—Gmc: new (adj, adv, n), newfangle (whence newfangled), newly, newness, news (whence newsboy, newsman, newspaper, the coll adj newsy)—anew—renew, whence renewal; prob akin, ult, to sep now.

Indo-European

1. Nova, a temporarily 'new' star, novum, as in Francis Bacon's Novum Organum, and novus, as in novus homo (new man), are resp the f, neu, m of ML novus, L novus, new, most recent, s and r nou-: cf Gr neos (for newos*) and Skt nāvas; cf also Hit newas, Tokh A ñu; OIr nūe, W newydd, Br névez (early nouuid), OC novios*; OSl novŭ, Lith naujas (cf Skt nāvyas); Go niujis, OHG niuwi, MHG niuwe, G neu, OS niuwī, OFris nīe, nī, OE nīwe, nēowe; ON nýr. The Gmc r is niwj*, with -j- an extn id with that of Lith naujas and the longer Skt var nāvyas; the IE r being new-* (or neu-), with var nu-. (Hofmann; Walshe.)

Greek

2. Gr neōn, new, has neu neon, whence the Chem gaseous element neon. Of the many neo- cpds, at least three deserve sep mention:

neolithic, of the new stone age: cf LITHIC; neologism, a new word, imm from F néologisme, and neology, the use or science of new words, imm from F néologie; cf LOGIC; neophyte: perh via late MF-F néophyte: LL neophytus: LGr neophotus, a new convert: Gr neophotos, newly engendered or planted: Gr phutos, grown (cf phuton, a plant): phuein, to grow: f.a.e., PHYSIC.

Latin

3. L nouus (s and r nou-) has the foll simple derivatives affecting E:

nouāle, a field new-ploughed, pl nouālia, ML nouālia, retained in Sc Law; nouāre, to make new, pp nouātus, ML novātus, legal E 'to novate'; derivative nouātiō, o/s nouātiōn-, ML novātiōn-, obsol E novation; agent nouātor, ML novātor, adopted by E, but obsol; nouellus (dim of nouus), ML novellus, whence OF-MF novel, whence E novel, adj; the LL nouella (constitutiōnes) perh suggested the VL nouella, prop neupl, whence ML novella, f sing n, whence—via derivative It novella—the late MF-F nouvelle, a short or middle-length story, whence E novel, with sense gradually enlarging to that of full-length story (the F roman); It novella and its derivative the Sp novela are occ used by scholars; the It dim novelletta perh suggested the E noveau (more prob E novel+dim suffix -ette); E novelist, prob novel+-ist, was perh suggested by EF-F nouveliste or even the It novellista or Sp novelista.

LL noeuellitās (from noeuillus), o/s noeuellitāt-, MF-EF novelté, E novelty; MF-EF novelté became EF-F nouveauté, partly, in pl -tés, adopted by commercial E for 'novelties';

LL nouitās, o/s nouitāt-, ML novitāt- MF-EF novité, E novity; nouitius, better nouicius—extn of nouus used as n—a newly acquired slave, hence, in LL, an Eccl probationer, whence OF-F novice, adopted by E; noviciate and novitiate come, the former prob via EF-F noviciat (? imm from novice) and the latter app imm from ML novitātus (gen -ūs), from ML novitius.

4. Otto Jespersen's new 'universal language' Novial=novus+international auxiliary language.

5. The relevant L prefix-cpds are:

LL innouāre (int in-), to make new, to renew, presp innouans, o/s innouant-, ML -vant, Bot adj innovant, pp innouātus, E 'to innovate'; derivative innouātiō, o/s innouātiōn-, whence, perh via MF-F, the E innovation; ML innovātor, adopted by E; L renouāre, to make new again, to renew, pp renouātus, E 'to renovate'; derivative LL renouātiō, o/s renouātiōn-, ML -vation, whence, perh via MF-F rénovation, the E renovation; ML renovātor, adopted by E.

Germanic

6. The OE adj nīwe, nēowe, becomes ME newe,

E new; the E adv new derives from OE nīwe (from the adj). Much as the syn F les nouvelles comes from the adj nouveau, f nouvelle, so does E news come from new. The adv newly goes back to OE nīwlīce; newness to OE nīwnes.

7. Newfangle—whence the adj newfangled—derives from ME newefangel, a novelty: newe, new + fangel, a silly device or contrivance, app a dim from ME fangen, to seize or grasp: a grasping or taking-up of something new.

8. The adv anew is lit 'of (a- for of) new': cf the F de nouveau and ML de novo (lit, from new), afresh.

9. 'To renew'=re-, again + the obs 'to new', from OE nīwan: cf the OF renoveler, MF-F renouveler, from OF-MF novel, MF-F nouveau.

novel, adj. See prec, para 3.

novel, n; nolette; novelist. See NOVA, para 3 (at nouellus).

novella. See NOVA, para 3 (at nouellus).

novelty. See NOVA, para 3 (at nouellitās).

November. See NINE, para 3.

novena, novenary, novendial, novennial. See NINE, para 3.

Novial. See NOVA, para 4.

novice, noviciate (or novitiate). See NOVA, para 3, s.f.

novity. See NOVA, para 3 (at nouitās).

now, ME nou, earlier nu, OE nū, is akin to OFris, Go, OS, OHG nu, MHG nu, nuon, G nu (well), nun (now), ON nū; OSl nyne, Lith nū, nūnai; L nunc; Gr nu, nun, nūni; Skt nu, nū, nūnām; Hit and Tokh A nu, then: ult akin to NEW.

nowadays=now+a, on+days: in these days.

now. See NUCLEUS, para 6.

nowhere. OE nāhwāer: cf NO and WHERE.

nowise: (in) no wise (manner): cf WISE, n.

noxal. See para 1 of:

noxious—obnoxious; noxa, noxal; nocent—innocent (adj, hence n), innocence and innocency—ninny; nocuous—innocuous; nuisance; internecine and pernicious; nectar, nectareous, nectarine, nectary; cf the element neuro-.

1. Obnoxious derives from L obnoxiosus: perh the prefix ob-+noxius, harmful. Noxious derives from L noxius, from noxa, harm, injury, retained by E as a Med term, with adj noxal (L noxālis): and noxa, prob for nocsa*, derives from nocēre (s and r noc-), to cause—to prepare—the death of, hence, by a weakening of the sense, to be (very) harmful to; nocēre, in short, was orig a caus (marked by verb -o- from noun -e-) from nex (gen necis), death, esp if violent. L nex is prob akin to Gr nekros (adj), dead, hence a dead body. The IE r is app nek-*, to cause to die: cf Skt nāçayāti, he causes to die.

2. Nocēre, has presp nocens, o/s nocent-, whence E nocent, harmful; derivative LL nocentia becomes E nocency. These two words are overshadowed by the negg innocent, from OF-F innocent, from innocent-, o/s of the L adj innocens, incapable of doing harm, hence guiltless, and innocence, var innocency, from OF-F innocence, from L innocentia, from innocens. From an innocent comes—via a ninnocent—ninny.

3. Nocēre has derivative adj nocuus, whence E nocuous; the neg innocuus yields innocuous.

4. Nocēre becomes VL nocere*, whence OF-F nuire, presp nuisant, whence the OF-(archaic)F n nuisance, harmfulness, harm, adopted by E, with gradually weakening senses.

5. L nex, (violent) death, o/s nec-, has two prefix-cpds affecting E:

internecāre (inter- used int), to slay to the last person, with derivative adj internecinus, mutually murderous, E internecine; perniciōs (int per-; -nic- from nec-), massacre, hence merely ruin, (heavy) loss, with derivative perniciōsus, destructive, MF-F pernicieux, f pernicieuse, E pernicious.

6. Akin to nex is the very odd Gr cpd nektar, a death-overcoming (drink), the drink of the Olympian gods, whence—via L nektar—the MF-F and E nektar, any delicious potion: r nek-, as in Gr nekus, a corpse, nekros, dead+-tar, from Skt tarās, victorious (cf tarati, he overcomes). Gr nektar has adj nektareos, L nectareus, E nectareous, with varr nectareal, nectarean, -ial, -ian, and esp nectarine, whence—via nectarine peach—the n nectarine, a delicious smooth-skinned variety of peach. The E nektar has derivative nectary, Bot SciL nectarium, a nectar-secreting gland.

nozzle. See NOSE, para 4.

nuance, adopted from MF-F: from OF nuer, to cloud, to shade: from OF-F nue, a cloud: VL nūba*: L nūbēs: cf obs W nudd, fog, and Cor nuibren, cloud.

nub is a var of knub, itself a var of knob; hence AE nubbin, a small (or an imperfect) ear of corn; hence also the dim nubble, with adj nubby.

nubile. See LYMPH, para 5.

nuclear (occ var nuclear); nucleate (adj, v), whence nucleation and nucleator; nucellus—cf nucleus, whence nuclein (Chem -in) and nucleoid—nucleolar, from nucleoleus—nux, nucal, nucament, nucule; enucleate, whence enucleation.—Nut, whence nutcracker, nuthatch (ME notehach, nuthake)—and nutty; nutmeg; sl nuts;—newel, nowel.

1. All these words derive from or are akin to L nux, a nut, o/s nuc-: cf OIr cnú, Ga cnú, var cnò (pl cnothan), W cneuen, Cor cryfan, OC knovā*; ON hnot; OHG-MHG nuz, G Nuss, MD nuete, note, notte, not, D noot: Gmc r, hnut-; IE (W European only), knud-.

2. E nute, ME nute, derives from OE hnutu—cf ON hnot above. The cpd nutmeg, ME notemuge, consists of ME note, var of nute, nut+muguetie, itself an alteration of (noix) muscade: OProv muscada, f of muscat, smelling like MUSK.

3. L nux, retained in the orig ML nux vomica, lit a nut to make one vomit, has LL adj nucālis, whence E nucal; derivative nucāmenta, fir-cones, gives us the Bot nucament; dim nucella suggests SciL nucellus; dim nucula becomes nucule.

4. Dim nuculeus has contr nucleus, kernel, adopted by several IE languages. From its s nucle- spring both F nucléaire (for the form, cf the ML nucleārius, a nut-bearing tree), whence E nuclear, and E nuclear; also the L v nucleāre, to form a kernel, pp nucleātus, whence the E adj and v nucleate. The prefix-cpd ēnucleāre, to remove the kernel from, has pp ēnucleātus, whence 'to enucleate'.

5. L nucleus duly acquires a LL dim of its own: nucleolus, a little kernel, adopted by Sci.

6. Nowel and newel both derive from ME nowell: OF noel, noiel, fruit-stone, newel: ML nucālē, prop the neu of LL-ML nucālīs, of or like a nut, nut-shaped.

nucule. See NUCLEAR, para 3.

nude. See NAKED, para 2.

nudge (v, hence n) is of Scan origin: cf Nor dial nuggja (var of nugga), to push gently: ? ult echoic. nudity. See NAKED, para 2.

nugacious, nugacity, nugatory; nugae.

L nūgae, trifles, is o.o.o.: ? for nucae*, nut-shells, from nuc-, o/s of L nux, a nut. Derivative adj nūgāx, o/s nūgāc-, becomes E nugacious; subsidiary LL nūgācītās, o/s nūgācītāt-, becomes nugacity. L nūgae has also the derivative v nūgāri, to trifle, whence the adj nūgātōrius, E nugatory.

nugget is app a dim of E dial nug, a lump, a block; whence nuggety.

nuisance. See NOXIOUS, para 4.

null, adj, hence (after annul) v; nullify; nullification; nullity;—annul, whence annulment.

1. 'To annul', ME anullen, adnullen, MF anuller (F annuler), adnuller, derives from LL annūllāre, adnullāre, to bring to nothing: ad, to+nullus, not any+inf suffix -āre: and nullus itself=ne, not+ūllus, any, akin to ūnus, one, q.v. at ONE. L nullus becomes OF-F nul, whence E null.

2. L nullus has the ML derivative nullītās, whence, perh via MF-F nullitē, the E nullity, and the LL cpd nullificāre, whence 'to nullify', with derivative nullificātiō, o/s nullificātiōn-, whence nullification.

numb, numbness. See NIMBLE, para 3.

number. See NIMBLE, para 6. numbles. See LOIN, para 4.

numen. See NUTANT, para 3.

numeral; numerate, numeration, numerator; numerical, numerous. See NIMBLE, para 4.

numismism, numinous. See NUTANT, para 3.

numismatic(s), numismatist. See NIMBLE, para 10.

numskull is a numb-skull: cf, sem, the G Dummkopf.

nun; nunnery.

The latter derives from late ME nunnerie, earlier nonnerie: a blending of ME nunne (whence nun) and OF-F nonne+suffix -erie, -ery. Nun, OE nunne, derives from Eccl LL nonna, a nun, also later a child's nurse: very prob a nursery word, akin to Gr nanna, aunt, and Skt nanā, mother, Alb nanē, mother, (wet-) nurse.

nuncio, a Papal permanent representative abroad: It nuñcio, obs var of nunzio: L nūntius, messenger: perh nouentius*, for nouiuentius*, one new- (L noui, c/f of nouus) coming (L uentum, supine of uemire) with a message.

2. L nūntius has derivative nūntiāre, with pp nūntiātus, whence nūntiātiō, o/s nūntiātiōn-, obs E nunciation, whence, anl, nunciative and nunciatory; LL agent nūntiātor. This v and its derivatives figure most in the cpds annūntiāre, dēnūntiāre, ēnūntiāre, internūntiāre, praenūntiāre, prōnūntiāre, renūntiāre.

3. L annūntiāre, adnūntiāre, to bear, hence to deliver, a message ad, to, becomes OF anoncier (F annoncer), ME annonce, E 'to announce', whence announcement and announcer. The pp annūntiātus, whence the obsol 'to annunciate', has derivative annūntiātiō, o/s annūntiātiōn-, E annunciation (perh via OF-F annunciation), whence, anl, annunciative; derivative LL annūntiātor becomes annunciator, which perh suggests annunciatory.

4. D dēnūntiāre (int dē-), to declare solemnly, to cite as a witness, becomes OF denoncer (F dé-), whence, after annonce, the E 'to denounce', whence denouncement and denouncer. The presp dēnūntians accounts for the adj denunciant; pp dēnūntiātus, for 'to denunciate'. The L derivatives dēnūntiātiō (o/s -iōn-)—LL dēnūntiātus (ML -ivus)—dēnūntiātor become resp denunciation (perh via MF-F dēnonciation)—denunciative—denunciator (cf the MF-F dēnonciateur).

5. L ēnūntiāre, to make known ē- or abroad, becomes EF-F ēnoncer, whence, after annonce, 'to enounce'. The pp ēnūntiātus yields 'to enunciate'. The L derivatives ēnūntiātiō (o/s -iōn-)—ēnūntiātus (ML -ivus)—LL ēnūntiātor give us resp enunciation (cf late MF-F ēnonciation)—enunciative (cf MF-F ēnonciatif)—enunciator, whence, anl, enunciatory.

6. L internūntiāre becomes the obs 'to inter-nounce'; internūntius, an intermediary, becomes It internunzio, whence, after nuncio, the E internuncio.

7. L praenūntiāre, to announce beforehand, becomes obs 'to pronunciate'; its derivative praenūntius leads to the Sci adj pronuncial.

8. L prōnūntiāre, to announce prō- or publicly, becomes OF-F prononcer, ME pronouncen, E 'to pronounce', whence pronouncement, pronouncer, pa pronouncing. On the pp prōnūntiātus arise prōnūntiātiō (o/s -iōn-), in LL 'pronunciation', OF pronunciation (MF-F pronon-), adopted by E—LL prōnūntiātus (ML -ivus), E pronunciative—prōnūntiātor, E pronunciator. Unpronounceable was perh suggested by EF-F inprononçable; pronunciamento eases Sp pronunciamento.

9. L renūntiāre, to announce in reply, (but also) to announce the retirement of, hence, esp in Eccl L, to reject: whence MF-F renoncer, ME renouncen, E 'to renounce', whence renouncement and renouncer. On the pp renūntiātus arises renūntiātiō (o/s -iōn-), MF-F renonciation, E renunciation, whence, anl, renunciative and renunciator.

nucle. See UNCLE.

nuncupate, nuncupation, etc. See NAME, para 11.

nunks, nunky. See UNCLE.

nunnery. See NUN.

nuptial. See LYPH, para 6.

nurse, nursery, nursling. See NOURISH, para 6.

nurture. See NOURISH, para 7.

nut. See NUCLEAR, para 2.

nutant, nutate, nutation; innuendo; numen, numinism, numinous.

1. L nūtāre, to nod one's head frequently, with presp nūtans, o/s nūtans-, E adj nutant, and pp nūtātus, whence 'to nutate', and derivative nūtātiō, o/s nūtātiōn-, E nutation, is a freq of nuere, to nod the head, which has prefix-cpd innuere, to nod the head in- or to, esp as a sign, with gerund innuendum, abl innuendo, by nodding, hence by hinting, adopted by E, first as legal 'namely', hence the explanation itself, hence, in general use, an insinuation.

2. L nuere, to nod, has s and r nu-: cf the syn Gr neuēin (s and r neu-) and also Sk nāuti (s, r nau-), nāvate (s nav-), he budges or stirs; perh cf also Ru nukati, to awaken, and prob cf the thinned form in OHG nicchēn, MHG-G nicken, to nod; IE r, new-*, to nod. (Hofmann.)

3. L nuere, r nu-, has derivative nūmen (cf the Gr neuma), a divine nod (of, e.g., approval), hence divine power, hence (LL) a divinity, hence, in E, a divine presiding spirit; on the o/s nūmin- arise both numinism and numinous.

nuthatch. See NUCLEAR (heading).

nutmeg. See NUCLEAR, para 2.

nutritional, nutrient, nutriment, nutrition, nutritious.

See NOURISH, paras 4-5.

nutty. See NUCLEAR (heading, s.f.).

nux vomica. See NUCLEAR, para 3.

nuzzle. See NOSE, para 3.

nyctalopia. See the element nycti-.

Nycteris. See NIGHT, para 4.

nylon is, as the manufacturers have told me, an arbitrary formation: neither N.Y. (New York) + London, as EW suggests, nor nitrogen + arbitrary -lon, as Webster proposes.

nymph, whence nymphal. See LYMPH, paras 3-4. nympholepsy, nympholept. See the element -lepsia.

nymphomania, whence nymphomaniac. See MIND, para 4.

O

-o. See Suffixes.

-o-. See Suffixes—an interpolation.

o, vocative; oh! and ho!

The 3rd is both an aspiration of the 2nd and a var of ha!; the 1st itself is orig exclamatory, as is the hi of hi (you), there! All such utterances—they cannot properly be called words—are common not only to all the IE languages but also to many others.

O', as in O'Donnell, means 'descendant': see FILIAL, para 3.

o' is short for of, as in 'The top o' the morning to you!'; also for on—cf the a- of aboard.

oaf, oafish. See ELF, para 2.

oak, whence oaken (cf ME oken, from ok or oke), comes—through ME oke, ok, var ak—from OE āc: cf OFris and OS ēk, OHG eih, MHG eich, G Eiche, MD eike, D eik, an oak; ON eik, a tree; cf, further off, the L aesculus (for aeg-sculus*), mountain oak, and Gr aigilōps, a kind of oak: IE r, aig-*.

oakum: OE ācumba: ā-, out (cf Go ur-, us-) + cemban, to comb, from camb, a comb (cf COMB).

oar (n, hence v): OE ār; akin to ON ār and its modern Scan cognates; to Fin airo; and perh, without r, to Gr oiāx, a tiller, Serb and Cz oje. (Holthausen.)

oasis, whence the adj oasal, oasitic, is adopted from L from Gr oasis, of Eg origin: cf Eg Uakh-t; the Great Oasis, lit 'fertile region'—Uahtiu, dwellers there—and esp uakh, to be green, to bloom, to flourish; cf also Copt ouaḥe, oasis. The Eg base, therefore, is uah-.

oast: ME ost: OE āst: cf MD ast, est, este, D eest and prob L aestus, a burning heat.

oat: ME ote, var ate: OE āte, pl ātan: o.o.o.: one is, however, tempted to compare Lettish auza and OSI ovlsū, which would bring us to L auēna (F avoine).

oath: ME othe, oth, var ath: OE āth: cf OFris and OS ēth, Go aiths, OHG eid, MHG eit, G Eid, MD eyd, eit, eet, D eed, ON eithr, OIr oeth, which, lit 'a going', suggests kinship with L itus (gen itūs), a going, prob from itum, the supine of ire, to go: ? basically 'a going together—in agreement'.

2. G eid has cpd eidgenoss, a confederate (genoss being a comrade): Swiss F eydguenot, softened to C16 F eiguenot, whence, by blending with the name of the Genevan syndic Hugues Bezanson, the EF-F Huguenot, a C16-17 F Protestant: adopted by E. oatmeal, late ME ote-meel, -mele, cpds OAT+MEAL, ground grain.

obligato. See LIGAMENT, para 7, s.f.

obduracy, obdurate. See DURABLE, para 4.

obedience, obedient; obeisance; obey. See AUDIBLE, para 5.

obelisk, obelize, obelus.

The 1st, a tapering pillar, derives from LL obeliscus, a little spit, Gr obeliskos, dim of obelos (o.o.o.), a spit (as over a fire), hence a pointed pillar, whence LL obelus, adopted by E; derivative Gr obelizein, to mark with an obelus or obelisk, yields 'to obelize'. For a spit-like sign in a manuscript, or in print, obelisk is now obsol, obelus customary.

obese, obesity. See EDIBLE, para 3.

obey. See AUDIBLE, para 5.

obfuscate, obfuscation; subfusc.

LL obfuscāre, to blacken, to obscure, has pp obfuscātus, whence 'to obfuscate'; derivative obfuscātiō, o/s obfuscātiōn-, becomes obfuscation. Obfuscāre=ob+fuscāre, to darken, from fuscus, dark, dun, akin to DUSK. The cpd subfuscus, rather dark (sub, under), yields subfuscous, now often subfusc.

obit, obiter dictum, obituary (n, hence adj).

Obit, a funeral service, derives, via OF, from L obitus, from obīre, to encounter, go to meet (ob, against+īre, to go), in the derivative sense 'to die' (from obīre mortem, to meet with death). Intimately akin to L obīre is L obiter, on the way (iter, a journey), in passing, as in obiter dicta, incidental sayings (hence writings). Obitus has the ML derivative obituārius, a death-notice, whence the E n obituary, whence obituarian.

object (n, v), whence objectify, whence objectification; objection, whence objectionable; objective (adj, hence n), whence objectivity; objector.

The n object derives, like MF-EF object, EF-F objet, from ML objectum, L obiectum, a thing thrown, hence put, before, hence a thing presented to one's attention, prop the neu of obiectus, pp of obicere (contr of obīcere), to throw before, hence to oppose: ob, against, before+īcere, -icere, the c/f of iacere, to throw. From the pp obiectus, ML objectus, comes, perh via MF-F objecter, 'to object'. Derivative LL obiectiō, o/s obiectiōn-, ML objectiōn-, yields OF-F, whence E, objection; the derivative ML adj objectivus yields MF-F objectif and, perh independently, E objective; the derivative LL agent obictor, ML objector, is adopted by E.

objurgate, objurgation, objurgatory.

L obiurgāre, to chide, consists of ob, against + iurgāre, to dispute, to quarrel, itself perh from iur, law, a right. The pp obiurgātus, ML objurgātus, gives us 'to objurgate'; derivative obiurgātiō, o/s obiurgātiōn-, becomes objurgation, and derivative obiurgātōrius, objurgatory.

oblate (adj, hence n) derives from L oblātus, pp of offerre, to offer (see OFFER); derivative LL oblātiō, o/s oblātiōn-, becomes, prob via OF-F, oblation.

obligate, obligation, obligatory, oblige. See LIGAMENT, para 7.

oblique, obliquity. See LIMIT, para 10.

obliterate, obliteration, obliterator. See LETTER, para 8. oblivion, oblivious, obliviscence. See the 1st LIME, para 6.

oblong. See LONG, para 11.

obloquy. See LOQUACIOUS, para 6.

obnoxious. See NOXIOUS, para 1.

oboe: It oboe: EF-F hautbois, whence E hautboy: haut, high-toned, from L altus (cf ALTITUDE) + bois, wood.

obreption, obreptitious. See REPTILE, para 2.

obrogate, obrogation. See ROGATION, para 9.

obscene, obscenity.

The latter derives from EF-F obscénité, from L obscénitātem, acc of obscēnitās, from obscēnus, varr obscāenus, obscoenus, whence, via EF-F obscēne, the E obscene. L obscēnus, obscene, orig and prop of bad augury (hence ugly): o.o.o.: perh ob-, against + scaena, a stage (SCENE); perh—though even less likely—obs, c/f of ob + caenum, mud, filth.

obscurant, whence obscurantism; obscuration, whence obscurative; obscure (adj, v), obscurity.

The L adj obscūrus (opp clārus) app = ob, against + -scūrus, akin to Skt skūtās, covered (adj), and perh to OHG scūr, scūra (G Scheuer), a barn, where the light tends to be dim. Obscūrus becomes OF-F obscur, whence E obscure; derivative obscūritās, o/s obscūritāt-, becomes OF-F obscurité, whence E obscurity. Obscūrus has the further derivative obscūrāre, to darken, OF-F obscurer, E 'to obscure'; the presp obscūrāns, o/s obscūrānt-, yields the n obscurant; pp obscūrātus has derivative obscūrātiō, o/s obscūrātiōn-, E obscuration.

obsecrate, obsecration, obsecrator. See SACRAMENT, para 18.

obsequent; obsequies; obsequious; obsequy, whence obsequial. See SEQUENCE, para 11.

observable, observance, observant, observation, observatory, observe, observer.

The base is afforded by L observāre (ML observāre), to watch over (physically, morally), to respect, to heed appropriately: ob-, over, against, etc. + servāre (ML servāre), to keep safe, preserve, conserve. ML observāre becomes OF-F observer, whence 'to observe', whence observer. Derivative observābilis accounts for MF-F and E observable. The presp observans, o/s observant-, becomes MF-F observant, adopted by E; derivative L observantia yields MF-F observance, adopted by E. The pp observātus has derivative observātiō, o/s observātiōn-, whence, via ML, the late MF-F observation, adopted by E, whence, anl, observatory—cf the EF-F observatoire. The neg inobservans and its derivative inobservantia have, perh via EF-F, yielded inobservant, inobservance.

obsess, obsession (whence obsessional, obsessive), obsessor. See SIT, para 15.

obsidian (whence obsidianite): LL obsidiānus, an opaque stone: L (Pliny's) Obsidiānus lapis, stone of Obsidius, an error for Obsius, who discovered it in Ethiopia.

obsidional. See SIT, para 15.

obsignate, obsignation. See SIGN, para 16.

obsolescent, whence obsolescence; obsolete, whence obsoleteness, obsoletism.

The L obsolescere, to wear out gradually, hence to fall gradually into disuse, cpds ob- + an inch derivative of solēre, to be in use, to be customary. Its presp is obsolescens, o/s obsolescent-, whence the E adj obsolescent; its pp obsolētus is used also as adj, whence obsolete.

obstacle. See STAND, para 29.

obstetric, etc. See STAND, para 29.

obstinacy, obstinate. See STAND, para 29.

obstreperous. See STREPENT.

obstriction. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 10.

obstruct, obstruction (whence obstructive). See STRUCTURE, para 8.

obtain, obtention. See TENABLE, para 6.

obtest, obtestation. See TESTAMENT, para 10.

obtrude, obtrusion, obtrusive. See THRUST, para 6.

obtund, obtundant; obtuse. See PIERCE, para 2.

obumbrant, obumbrate, obumbration. See UMBRA, para 8.

obvention. See VENUE, para 17.

obverse, obvert. See VERSE, para 15.

obviate, obviation, obvious. See VIA, para 15.

obvolute, obvolvent. See VOLUBLE.

occasion, occasional. See CADENCE, para 7.

occidence, occident, occidental. See CADENCE, para 7.

occipital, occiput. See CHIEF, para 2; cf the element occipito-.

occlude; occlusion, whence, anl, occlusive.

'To occlude', to shut up or confine, also to shut out, derives from L occludere (ob- + cludere, to shut), which has pp occlusus, whence ML occlusiō, a shutting, o/s occlusiōn-, whence, perh via F, the E occlusion.

occult, occultation, occultism. See HALL, para 14.

occupant (whence occupancy), occupation, occupy (whence occupier). See CAPABILITY, para 4.

occur, occurrence. See COURSE, para 10 (at occurrere).

ocean, oceanic, cf the element oceano-; Oceania, Oceanus.

An ocean, adopted from OF (F océan), derives from L oceanus, trin of Gr ōkeanos, strictly Homer's Ōkeanos (L Oceanus) or great river encompassing the earth: perh of Skt āsáyānas, lying over against. The learned EF-F derivative océanique becomes E oceanic. Oceania, the lands and waters of the central Pacific Ocean, is a Modern L formation.

ocellar, ocellate(d), ocellus. See OCULAR, para 2.

ocelot, a large spotted cat ranging from Texas to Patagonia, is adopted from F: perh via Sp ocelote: from Aztec (Nahuatl) thalocelotl, lit a 'field (thalli) jaguar (ocelotl)'.

ocher (AE) or ochre, whence ocherous, ochreous, ochrous; cf the element ochro-. Ocher, ochre derives from MF-F ocre: L ōchra: Gr ōkhra, from ōkhros, pale, esp pale yellow: perh (Hofmann) cf Skt -āghras in vyāghrás, a tiger ochlocracy. See the element ochlo-.

octachord, octagon, octahedron, octameter, octangular. See the element octa-.

octant; octave; October; octonary; octoroon

L octō, 8, is akin to Gr oktō: f.a.e., EIGHT. Its ordinal is octāvus, ML octāvus, whence the E adj octave, the n being adopted from F, which takes it from ML octāva (pars), eighth part. Derivatives of octō include the Modern L octans, o/s octanti-, whence the Geom octant, and octoni, 8 each, with derivative octonārius, whence octonary. Octōber the eighth month of the Roman year, is elliptical for octōber mensis; the adj suffix -ber connotes 'of (a) month'. Octoroon, offspring of a quadron and a white, cpds octo+-roon as in quadroon.

octopus. See FOOT, para 25.

octoroon. See OCTANT, s.f.

octuple, 8-fold=octu-, c/f of L octo, 8+-plex, a fold (cf PLY).

ocular, oculate, oculist, oculus; cf the element oculo-; ocellar, ocellate, ocellated, ocellus; œil-de-bœuf, œilade; ogle; inoculate, inoculation (whence, anl, inoculative), inoculator; inveigle, whence inveigler; antler; cf the sep EYE and OPTIC.

1. L oculus, an eye (whence oculist), retained in E Arch, is akin to Hit tun-akalas, eye of the sun: 'Here, the suffix -lo- indicates an active being, of the animated sort, and has no diminutive value' (E & M). The L word prob has Gr cognates: cf OPTIC.

2. L derivatives relevant to E include: the adj oculāris, of the eye, whence ocular; oculātus, furnished with eyes, whence oculate; the dim ocellus, little eye (retained by Zoo), with E derivative ocellar (-ar, adj suffix); derivative ocellātus, furnished with little eyes, yields ocellate, often anglicized as ocellated.

3. L oculus, VL oculus, becomes OF-F oel, as in œil-de-bœuf, lit 'ox's eye', retained by Arch; derivative MF-F œilade (œil+euphonic -l-+suffix -ade) is partly adopted by E for an amorous glance, the E 'an ogle, usu ogling', which derives from 'to ogle', from LG oegeln, the freq of oegen, to look at, to eye, cf D oogen, to eye, from oog, an eye, MD oge, an eye, ogen, to eye: cf OE ēage, OFris āge, OHG ouga, all akin to L oculus.

4. L oculus has LL derivative v oculāre, to eye, with cpd inoculāre, lit to put an eye into, to put a bud or graft—a derivative sense of oculus—into, to engraft, with pp inoculātus, whence 'to inoculate', orig to graft (a tree) by budding, hence the Med sense; the derivative inoculātiō, o/s inoculātiōn-, becomes E inoculation, and derivative agent inoculātor is adopted by E.

5. ML has aboculis (app ab, from, hence without +oculis, abl p of oculus), var aboculus, blind; hence OF-F aveugle, with derivative OF-F aveugler, to blind, whence AF enveigler, whence late ME envegle, whence 'to inveigle', orig to throw deceptive dust into the eyes of, hence to blind and lead astray, hence to entice away, to ensnare guilefully.

6. L ante oculos, before (in front of) the eyes, becomes the VL antoculāris*, set before the eyes, hence that which is set there (sc ramus, a branch), OF antoillier, ME antelere, E antler. (EW.)

odd (adj, hence n), whence oddity (-ity) and oddment (-ment); odds.

Odd, ME odde, comes from ON oddi, a point or a tip, hence the odd or third point or angle of a triangle, hence an odd number, a triangle, a tongue of land: cf ON oddr, point, e.g. of a weapon, OE ord, OHG-MHG ort, a point, G Ort, a place; cf also Lith usnis, a thistle (notably pointed), and Alb usht, an ear of corn. Odd, adj, used as n, has pl odds, uneven or unequal things.

ode; epode, palinode; comedy, comedian, comedic, comic (whence comical), Comus; melody, melodic, melodious, and (from melody) melodism, melodist, melodize, cf the element melo-; monody, monodic; parody, parodic, parodist; prosody, whence prosodic; rhapsody, rhapsodic (whence rhapsodical) and, from rhapsody, rhapsodist and rhapsodize; threnode or threnody, whence threnodic (cf threnē, threnetic, threnos); tragedy (whence tragedize), tragedian, tragedienne, tragic (adj, hence n), extended as tragic; cf the element tragi- and tragopan.

1. Ode, adopted from late MF-F, derives from L oda, var of odē, from Gr ōidē, a song, esp if lyric: contr of oidē, from aeidein, to sing: IĒ r, app a-ud-*: cf Skt vādanti, he sings, he plays music, and vadinti, to call.

2. Gr ōidē and aeidein have numerous cpds, of which the two most obvious are perh epaidein, to sing to, whence the adj epōidos, singing to, sung after, used also as n ('aftersong'), whence LL epōdos, epōdus, F épode, E epode; and palinōidia (palin, again+a var of ōidē), a song of recantation, LL palinōidia, whence, via MF-F, the E palinode.

3. But far more important is Gr kōmōidia: kōmos, a musical and dancing festivity, which, as Kōmos, a god of festive mirth, yields L, hence E, Comus+ōidia, a singing: L comœdia: MF comédie (F comédie): E comedy. The derivative Gr adj kōmōidikos, L comœdicus, becomes comedic. EF-F comédien and its f, comédienne, lead to E comedian, comedienne.

4. Gr kōmos has adj kōmikos, L comicus, MF-F comique, E comic, adj hence n.

5. The Gr cpd melōidia, a choral song (from melōidos, musical, lit melodious, from melos, a tune, lit a limb or member + oidos, musical, a singer), becomes LL melōdia, OF melodie (F mélodie), E melody. The derivative Gr adj melōidikos becomes LL melōdicus, (EF-F mélodique and) E melodic; melodious derives from MF melodius (F mélodieux), from melodie.

6. Gr monōidia (from the adj monōidos, singing monos or alone) becomes LL monōdia, E monody; derivative Gr monōidikos yields monodic.

7. Gr parōidia (para, beside), L parōdia, (EF-F parodie and) E parody, whence 'to parody' (cf the F parodier), has adj parōidikos, whence, anl, parodic; EF-F parodie has EF-F agent parodiste, whence E parodist.

8. Gr prosōidia, a song (from ōidē) with accompaniment (connoted by pros, to), becomes L prosōdia, (EF-F prosodie and) E prosody; derivative Gr prosōidiakos becomes LL prosōidiacus, whence E prosodiac.

9. Gr rhapsōidia (from rhapsōidos, a rhapsodist; rhaptein, to sew, hence to unite) becomes L rhapsōdia, EF rhapsodie (F rapsodie), E rhapsody; derivative rhapsōidikos yields rhapsodic.

10. Gr thrēnōidia, a song of thrēnos or lamentation, yields threnody. Gr thrēnos, a dirge, LL thrēnus, E threnē (cf F thrène), has adj thrēnikos, LL thrēnicus, E threnic; the modified Gr adj thrēnetikos becomes threnetic. Gr thrēnos derives from thrōmai, I cry aloud; IE r, dhre- (var dher-*), a loud or a confused noise: cf OE drēam, a joyous din (itself akin to E dream), OHG treno, a resounding, a droning, and Skt dhronāti, he sings. (Hofmann.)

11. Gr tragōidia, app lit 'goat song', from tragos, a he-goat (IE r, trag-, ireg-)—cf the Asiatic pheasant named tragopan, in L a fabulous bird of Ethiopia, from Gr Tragopan, Goat Pan—this Gr tragōidia passes through L tragoedia and MF tragedie (F tragédie) to become ME tragedie, E tragedy. OF tragedie has derivative MF tragedien, F tragédien, f tragédienne: E tragedian and tragedienne. Influenced by tragōidia, Gr adj tragikos, goatish, acquires the sense 'of or for (a) tragedy', whence L tragicus, (EF-F tragique and) E tragic. The L cpd tragicocomoedia becomes, by contr, LL tragicomoedia, EF-F tragicomédie, E tragicomedy; the anl EF-F adj tragicomique leads to tragicomic.

Odin, odinite. See WEDNESDAY, para 2.

odious, odium; odimeter; odor (AE), odour, odo(u)r of sanctity, odorous and malodorous; odoriferous; olfactory; redolent; ozone; annoy, annoyance; ennui; noisome;—Ulysses; Odysseus, Odyssey.

1. Odious comes from MF odieux (EF-F odieux), from L odiosus, adj of odium, itself adopted by E. L odium prob derives imm from ōdi, I hate: cf Gr odussomai*.

2. L ōdi and odium—? orig to dislike, a dislike of, the smell of—are perh akin to L odor, a smell: cf olēre (for odēre*), Gr ozein (? for odzein*), Lith uosti, to emit a smell, and Arm hot, a smell, hotim, I smell an odour.

3. L odor becomes OF odor, MF odour (F odeur), both adopted by ME, the latter explaining E odour, the former (along with L odor) explaining AE odor. The derivative adj odōrus becomes—perh via MF odoreux—the E odorous, whence, anl, malodorous. L odorifer, odour-bearing, leads to E odoriferous; the ill-formed E odimeter should be odorimeter, smell-measurer.

4. Odo(u)r of sanctity translates the F odeur de sainteté, a pleasant odour—cf LL odor, incense—supposed to have been emitted by the corpses of saints.

5. L olēre, to exhale an odour, has two cpds relevant to E:

olefacere (for odefacere*), to cause to smell, has shortened form olfacere, with pp olfactus, whence the adj olfactōrius* (attested by olfactōrium, a scent-box), whence E olfactory; redolēre, to diffuse a smell (good or bad), has presp redolens, o/s redolent, whence MF-EF, whence E, redolent; derivative MF-EF redolence becomes E.

6. L 'esse alicui in odio', to be in hatred to someone or something, to feel intense dislike of or discomfort at, leads both to the OF n enui, F ennui, a weary dissatisfaction or even disgust, adopted by E, and hence to AF anui, with var anoi, both adopted by ME and the latter surviving as the n annoy, now archaic. The L 'esse alicui in odio' becomes VL inodiāre (cf LL inodiāre, to render loathsome), OF-MF enuier (F ennuyer), AF anuiet, with var anoiier, whence MF anoiien, E 'to annoy'; AF anoiier has derivative anoiance, adopted by ME, whence E annoyance.

7. Both the n and the v annoy had, by aphesis, the derivative noy, long since obs; the n noy acquired the adj noysome, soon spelt noisome.

8. Gr ozein, to emit a smell (good or bad), has presp ozōn, whence the n ozone. The Gr odussomai* (I hate), postulated in para 1 and, in certain parts, attested in old Gr poetry, has s oduss- and prob the ultimate r od-* (cf the L r in ōdi, I hate, and odor). Derivative is the name Odusseus, perh via the adj odussos*, irritated, irritable; hence Odysseus, with derivative Odusseia, the story of Odysseus, whence L Odyssea, whence F odyssee and E Odyssey. Odysseus is less prob 'the way-farer', for hodos (way) is unlikely to become odos*.

9. But Odusos has, in Attic, the var Olusseus, whence the L Ulysses, adopted by E.

odograph (occ hodograph) and odometer; cathode, whence catholic—whence, anl, anode, anodic; episode, episodic (whence episodical); exodus, Exodus; method (whence methodology), methodic (whence methodical), Methodism, Methodist; period, periodic (whence periodical, adj hence n); synod, synodal, synodic (whence synodical).

1. All these words derive from Gr hodos (ὁδός), a way, a road, hence a journey, hence also a way, manner, means of doing something: cf OSI choditi, to go, L cēdere, to go, and Skt sad- in asad-, to come to, to reach: IE r, sed-, to go, ult id with sed-, to sit, ? orig to go to sit.

2. The cathode of EI (cf the complementary anode) derives from Gr kathodos, a descent: kata, down+hodos, way.

3. Gr episodios (adj), coming in besides (epi, upon, besides+eis, in(to)+hodos, adj c/f of hodos), has neu episodion, used as n 'a coming in besides, an episode', whence EF-F épisode, adj épisode: whence E episode, adj episodic.

4. Gr exodos, a going ex or out, becomes LL exodus, adopted by E, as also LL Exodus, from LGr Exodos, the Israelites' going out of Egypt.

5. Gr methodos (meta, after) becomes L methodus, EF-F méthode, E method; derivative Gr methodikos becomes LL methodicus, late MF-F méthodique, E methodic. Method, applied to religion, has derivatives Methodism, -ist.

6. Gr peri, around, combines with hodos to form periodos, a going round, hence a period of time, hence also of a complete, well-rounded sentence: L periodus: MF-F période: E period; derivative Gr periodikos becomes L periodicus, MF-F périodique, E periodic.

7. Gr sun, with+hodos=Gr sunodos, a meeting, LL synodus, a conjunction, an assembly of bishops, a Church council (Souter), EF-F synode, E synod; derivative LL synodālis becomes MF-F synodal, adopted by E; derivative Gr sunodikos becomes LL synodicus, whence (F synodique and) E synodic.

8. E odograph and odometer are, lit, (journey, hence) distance-describer (cf graph at GRAMMAR) and distance-measurer, the former being of E formation, the latter deriving from Gr hodometron (cf metre at MEASURE).

odontic, odontoid. See TOOTH, para 12.

odor, odorous, odour. See ODIUM, para 3.

Odysseus, Odyssey. See ODIUM, para 8.

oecumenical. See the element -oeca.

Oedipus is Gr Oidipous, Club-Foot; the O. complex derives from the myth that Theban Oedipus unwittingly married his mother.

œil-de-bœuf; œillade. See OCULAR, para 3.

oenology, oenomancy. See the element oeno-; for oenology cf VINE, para 2.

oesophagus. See the element esophago-.

oestrous, oestral, oestrus. See IRASCIBLE, para 2.

of and off (adv, hence adj)—whence n—and prep).

The latter derives from ME of, orig id with the prep of, OE of, adv and prep: and OE of, var aef, of, from, hence off, is akin to OFris of, af, OS and Go af, MD of, off, aff, af, ave, D af, OHG aba, MHG abe, G ab, ON af (as also in Da and Sw), from; cf L ab (app for ap*), away from, from, by, and the syn Gr apo (before a vowel, aph-) and Skt āpa, away, back; cf also Umbrian ap-ehtrē, from outside, and Hit appa, again, back (adv), off, away. The Gmc etymon is abha*, abh*, af*; the IE etymon apō* or āpo. (Walshe.) Cf:

offal eases off-fall, that which falls off or is allowed to fall off; adv off+n fall.

offence, offend, offender, offense, offensive. See FEND, para 3.

offer (n, v), offering, offertory.

An offer derives from OF-F offre, itself from OF-F offrir, from L offerre, to bring (ferre) before (ob), to present, to offer, to sacrifice, whence also OE offrian, to offer, esp to sacrifice, ME offrien, later offren, whence 'to offer'. OE offrian has derivative vn offrung, a gift, a sacrifice, whence offering; offertory, however, comes—prob via MF-F offertoire—from ML offertorium, an offering of money in church, from LL offertorium, a place of sacrifice, from offerre, to sacrifice.

office (n, hence v)—cf officer (n, hence v); official (adj, hence n), whence officialdom and officialism—cf officialious; officiary; officiant, officiate; official.

1. At the base of this group is the L officium, performance of work, work, a task, hence a public duty: app lit a work-doing: opus+-ficere, c/f of facere, to do, to make. L officium becomes OF-F office, adopted by ME.

2. L officium has ML derivative agent officiarius, whence the E n and adj officiary; officiarius becomes MF-F officier, whence E officer. Derivative LL officiālis, of a public duty or office, becomes E official; its derivative officiālitās, o/s officialitāt-, yields officiality.

3. The L adj officiōsus, conformable to duty, becomes (EF-F officieux and) E officialious; the derivative sense 'complaisant', present already in LL and in EF, explains the modern E sense.

4. L officium also has the derivative ML officiāre, to perform one's public duty, with presp officians, o/s officiant-, whence the E n officiant; the pp officiātus gives us 'to officiate'; with these two words, cf the MF-F officier (v) and the EF-F officiant (n).

5. With L officium, cf L officina, workshop, contr of opificina, from opifex, a workman (opus+-ficere, c/f of facere: cf para 1): whence ML officinālis, belonging to or characteristic of a workshop, esp an apothecary's: whence E official, (of drugs) stocked by apothecaries, now by A drugstores and E chemists.

offish: off, adj, connoting 'at a distance'+the dim or moderative -ish.

often is a reinforcement of late ME ofte, itself a lengthening of ME oft, from OE oft, frequently, whence directly—i.e., unchanged—the now archaic oft: cf OFris ofta, OS oft, ofto, OHG ofto, MHG ofte, G oft, Go ufta, OSw ofta, ON opt: perh all from ON of, a (large) quantity (Walshe); perh akin to L opus, work, opēs, abundance, riches (Feist).

ogam, ogham, ogum, an early Ir script, represents Ir ogham, Mīr ogom, ogum, an invention attributed to Ogma mac Eladan, Son of Science (Learning), himself akin to Gaul Ogmios, god of eloquence. Cf the Ga oghun, ogam writing, (derivatively) occult science.

ogive, adopted from F, goes back to MF ogive, varr orgive, augive, esp the latter, which predominated over the two others until C18: o.o.o.: but perh from OF-F auge, a trough, a flume, from its shape; or perh from Sp algabe, a vaulted cistern, from Ar al, the +g'ubb, a well. (B & W; Dauzat.)

ogle. See OCULAR, para 3.

ogre, ogress; ogrish or ogrish; Ugrian—Hungarian, Hungary.

1. Ogreish, often contr to ogrish, merely tacks -ish, of, like, to E ogre, which is adopted from late EF-F; F ogre, which has f ogresse, whence E ogress, comes either from L Orcus, god of death, hell (cf OSp huerco, a devil, hell), as B & W propose and uphold, or from OF Ogre, a Hungarian, from ByzGr Ogōr, as Dauzat prefers.

2. ByzGr Ogōr became Hung Ogur, a Hungarian, early Ru Ugri (pl), whence Ugrian and, anl, Ugric, with c/f Ugro-. The Hung Ogur and early Ru Ugri are nasalized in ML (of Germany) Ungarus, whence Ungaria, whence E Hungaria, later Hungary, whence Hungarian, adj, hence n.

ogum. See OGAM.

Ohio state is named from the river: Iroquoian Ohionhilo, lit 'the beautiful river' or perh 'the beautiful ohayo, ohio, or great river'.

ohm: G physicist (EI), Georg Simon Ohm (1787–1854), author of Ohm's law. Hence megohm, a million ohms: meg-, mega-, great.

oil—whence oiler and oily and such obvious cpds as oilfish and oilskin—derives from ME oile, adopted from OF-MF oile, oille (cf F huile), from L oleum, itself an adaptation (? after L olēre, to emit a smell) of Gr elaion, olive-oil. Note that L oleum answers to L olea, an olive-tree, with var oltua (cf Gr elaia), ML oliva, whence OF-F olive, olive-tree, an olive, adopted by E. The basic Gr elaia is for elaiwa*, hence elaion for elaiwon*: like Arm eul, prob from an Aegean speech—Hofmann suggests Cretan.

2. L oliva has the foll derivatives relevant to E: oliuarius, of or like olives, whence olivary—cf the E formation olivaceous; oliuētum, an olive-grove, whence olivet. Olivine, whence olivinite, is an E formation: olive+the Min suffix -ine: cf the F olivine.

3. L oleum, olive-oil, and olea, olive-tree, an olive, have the foll relevant L derivatives:

SciL Olea, the genus of true olives;

L oleāginus (var oleāgineus), adj of olea: whence, perh via MF-F oléāgineux, the E oleaginous;

L oleāster, wild olive-tree, adopted by E;

L oleātus, made with olive-oil, has prob suggested the Chem n oleate;

L olei-, c/f of olea, and oleo-, c/f of oleum; adopted by E, as in oleiferous, oleograph, oleomargarine: see olei-, oleo- in Elements;

L oleōsus, whence oleose.

4. E words not directly from L olea, oleum, include:

olefiant: F oléfiant, oil-forming: L ole(um)+-fiant from -ficiens, presp of -ficere, c/f of facere, to make; hence the Chem olefin or -fine: olefiant+Chem suffix -in. -ine:

oleic, Chem adj: L oleum, olive-oil, hence oil+adj -ic: cf the F oléique; olein: L oleum, oil+Chem -in: cf the F oléine.

5. ML formed the cpd petroleum: petra, a rock +oleum, oil: adopted by E. ML petroleum became MF-F pétrole, whence E petrol; the adj is petrolic. The Pharm SciL petrolatum=petrol+suffix -atum.

6. Gr elaion, olive-oil, and elaia, olive-tree, an olive, occur only in Sci terms, such as the Chem adj elaidic, whence elaidin.

oinology. See the element oeno- and cf VINE, para 2.

oinomancy. See the element oeno-.

ointment. See UNCTION, para 3.

O.K. is prob not, as formerly believed, from Choctaw oke, var hoke, meaning 'Yes, it is', but perh rather (as proposed by Allan Walker Read) from the banners of the O.K. Club, the Democratic party's political club of 1840: app for Old Kinderhook, the nickname of Martin van Buren (president of the U.S.A. in 1837–41), whose birthplace was Kinderhook in the State of New York.

okapi is adopted from Mbuba, the language of the Bambuba, an important Negro tribe of Central Africa.

Oklahoma, whence the sl Okies, natives thereof: 'land of the) Red Indians': Choctaw okla, people +hummu, red.

old (adj, hence n), whence the comp older and the sup oldest; Sc var auld;—eld;—elder (adj, hence n), eldest; elderly, from elder; alderman, whence aldermanate and aldermanic;—adult (adj, hence n); adolescence, adolescent (adj, hence n); cf the sep ABOLISH (ABOLITION) and COALESCE (COALITION)—ALIMENT—ALTITUDE—ALUMNUS—EXALT—PROLETARIAN—WORLD.

1. Old, ME old, var ald, derives from OE ald, var eald: cf OFris ald, var old, OS ald, OHG-MHG-G alt, Go altheis, MD alt, olt, out, D oud; G alt is a pp formation from a v answering to Go alan, to grow up: cf ON ala, to bear or produce, OIr alim, I nourish or rear, L alere, to nourish, and its inch alascere, to be nourished, to begin to grow, to grow, and Gr aldēskein, to grow up, and its caus aldainein, to nourish, cause to grow up, strengthen (L & S): IE r, al-*, to nourish.

2. OE eald, old, has derivative n eldo, yldo, yldu, whence eld, old age (now dial), antiquity (archaic).

3. OE eald has comp ieldra, eldra, yldra, E elder, and sup ieldest, yldest, E eldest.

4. OE eald has derivative ealdor, the head of a family, with cpd ealdorman, which in its variant aldormon (-man) becomes alderman, gradually sense-changing from 'governor of a territory' to 'member of a council': cf OFris aldermann (or -monn), a senior, a forebear.

5. L alere, to nourish, has inch alascere, to begin to grow, which has cpd adolescere, to grow ad, (connoting) up, with presp adolescens, o/s adolescent-, whence the E adj adolescent; the n adolescent perh owes something to the MF-F n. On adolescent- is formed L adolescencia, whence MF-F adulescence, adopted by E. The pp adultus yields adult.

Olea; oleaginous; oleaster; oleate; olefiant, olefin; oleic, olein; oleose. See OIL, paras 3-4.

oleander. Ult akin to rhododendron.

oleo- terms. See the elements at olei-, oleo-.

olfactory. See ODIUM, para 5.

olibanum, frankincense, is adopted from ML: Ar al-lubān (al, the): cf Gr libanos, incense, from H.

oligarch, oligarchic (whence the extn oligarchical), oligarchy: Gr oligarkhēs, oligarkhikos, oligarkhia: olig- for oligo-, c/f of the adj oligos, little, oligoi, few + derivatives of arkhein, to rule or govern. Oligos is akin to Gr loigos, misfortune, illness, disease, death—hence to Lith ligà, disease, and Alb l'ik, emaciated, evil. (Boisacq.)

olio. See OVEN, para 2.

olivaceous, olivary, olive, olivet, olivine. See OIL, paras 1 (at end: olive) and 2.

olla podrida. See OVEN, para 2.

-ollop is an echoic element; recorded here, both because it is not in the usual sense an element at all and because it occurs in such picturesque words as dollop, gollop, jollop, wallop (occ represented, in dial, as wollup).

ology, jocular for a branch (esp if Sci) of knowledge. The -o- is a connective; -logy derives from Gr -logia, q.v. in Elements: Cf ism, as in 'ologies and isms'.

Olympiad; Olympian (adj, hence n); Olympic (adj, hence n—esp in pl); Olympium; Olympus.

All come from Gr Olumpos, that mountain which the Ancient Greeks believed to be the dwelling-place of the gods: Gr Olumpias, L Olympias (gen Olympiadis), F olympiade; LL Olympiānus, from L Olympius; Gr Olumpikos, L Olympicus—whence, prompted by Gr ho Olumpikos agōn, the Olympic competition, the Olympic Games, instituted in 776 B.C. and formerly called the Olympian Games; Gr Olumpeion, L Olympium; Gr Olumpos, L Olympus. Olumpos, var Elumpos, is a PIN o.o.o.: the religious significance of this mountain, situated on the Macedonian-Thessalian border, prob arises from the fact that it is the highest in the Gr peninsula.

omber, ombre (card game). See HOMO, para 13.

omega, whence omegoid (-oid) is ω, capital Ω, the last letter of the Gr alphabet: lit 'great O', it complements omicron, 'little o'. Hence, alpha and omega, the beginning and the end, alpha being the 1st letter of that alphabet.

omelet, omelette. See the 2nd LAME, para 2.

omen, ominous; abominable, abominate, abomination.

1. Ominous derives from L ōminōsus, the adj of ōmen (o/s ōmin-), an augury—adopted by E—OL osmen, prob for augsmen*, from augēre, to increase, whence augur.

2. L ōmen has derivative ōmināri, to presage, pp ōminātus, whence the obs 'to ominate'. The cpd 'to abominate' derives from abōminātus, pp of abōmināri, to reject or repel as a bad omen, which, as if from ab ōmine, is a cpd of omināri; the derivative LL abōminātiō, accursèd conduct, o/s abōminātiōn-, becomes OF-F abomination, adopted by E; derivative LL abōminābilis (abōmināri+-abilis), accursèd, becomes OF-F abominable, adopted by E.

omental, omentum. Perh cf ABDOMEN.

omission, omit. See MISSION, para 15.

omneity. See OMNIUM.

omnibus. See BUS.

omnifarious, omnipotent, omniscient, omnivorous. See the element omni-; for the 3rd, cf SCIENCE, para 8.

omnium (in finance and commerce)=L omnium, of all (things; here, shares); gen pl of the adj omnis, all; cf the jocular omnium gatherum, a gathering (E gather+L neu ending -um), a miscellaneous collection. L omnis, whence the erudite omneity (as if from L omneitās*: omne, all (neu sing)+abstract -itās), is o.o.o.

omoplate. See the element omo- (1).

omphalic, omphalos; cf the element omphalo-.

The adj omphalic derives from Gr omphalikos, the adj of omphalos, navel, hence the central part, esp the boss or knob of a shield: akin to the syn L umbilicus, itself related to L umbō, boss of a shield. L umbilicus, adopted by Med, has LL adj umbilicālis (var of umbilicāris), whence E umbilical. The Gr and L words are akin to Skt nabhhis, navel—cf OP nabis and OE nafala, E navel.

on (prep, hence adj, adv, n) and obvious cpds (e.g., oncoming); onto; don, v.

1. The prep on derives from ME-OE on (ME-OE var an): cf OFris on, OS an, ana, OHG ana, MHG ane, G an, Go ana, ON á (cf the ME reduced forms a, o); cf also the an- of L anheldre, to pant, Gr ana, Av ana, and OB, Ru na: Gmc etymon, anam*; IE etymon, aná*, ano (Walshe).

2. Prep on+prep to combine to produce onto; do, to put+on, adv produce don—cf doff, do+off. onager: L onager, var of onagrus: Gr onagros, contr of onos (ass) agrios (of the fields—wild).

once. See ONE, para 13.

oncome, oncoming. See COME, para 3.

ondine. See UNDA, para 2.

one (adj, hence n), whence oneness, and such obvious cpds as one-sided; a, an; alone, lonely (whence loneliness); none; once, nonce; anon; any; atone, whence atonement; eleven.—Latin: Una, union (and onlon), unique, unit, unite, unitive, unity; unanimity, unanimous, unicorn, uniform (uniformity), unison, universe (etc.), univocal; uncia, uncial—onza—ounce—inch; disunion, disunite—reunion, reunite. Cf the sep NULL.

Indo-European

1. One, with pron w- a survival from an obs spelling in w-, derives from ME one, ? earlier on, ? earliest an, from OE ān: cf OFris an, usu en, OS ēn, OHG-MHG-G ein, Go ains, MD en, een, D een; ON einn (cf Sw en, Da een); OIr ōen, oin, ōéndán, Ir aon, Ga aon, aonan, Cor onan, onen, onon, (on playing cards) un, W un, obs Br unan, Br eunn

(for eun*), Mx un, unnane; OP ains, and OSI inokū, unique; L ūnus, OL oinos, one, and Gr oinos (ὀινός) and oinē (οἰνῆ), the '1' or ace on dice—cf the Homeric oios (for oiwos*), sole; and prob the Skt ēkas, one, sole. The Gmc etymon is ainaz*; the IE, oinos* (Walshe).

Latin

2. L ūnus (s and r ūn-) has f ūna, neu ūnum, and c/f ūni-, q.v.—for cpds—in Elements. F ūna becomes Spenser's Una, a fair lady whose name has become a frequent 'Christian'.

3. L ūnus has the foll simple derivatives affecting E:

ūnicus (cf, in formation, Go ainaha and OS ēnug): late MF-F unique, adopted by E; the learned F derivative (from unique), unicité, becomes E unicity;

LL ūniō, oneness, union, unity, o/s ūniōn-, becomes OF-F union, adopted by E; ūnīre, to make one of, to unite, has pp ūnītus, whence 'to unite'; the cpd disunite (dis-, apart) was prob suggested by MF-F désunir, and disunion by MF-F désunion,—note that F désunir was itself perh suggested by LL disūnīre, to sever; reunite, deriving from ML reūnītus, pp of reūnīre, to make one again, to bring together again, perh owes something to MF-F réunir, as reunion prob owes something to MF-F réunion; ūnitās, oneness, o/s ūnitāt-, becomes MF-F unité, whence E unity, whence, by b/f, unit;

LL ūnītīus, ML ūnītīvus, becomes E unitive.

4. L ūniō app has, in LL, the derivative form ūniō, o/s ūniōn-, with senses 'large pearl' and esp 'onion': whence MF-F oignon, whence E onion.

5. Akin to, perh deriving from L ūnus is L uncia, a unit that is a twelfth part, esp of a foot length or of a pound weight, the latter becoming both the OF unce, ME unce, whence, influenced by F once, the E ounce, and the Sp onza and It oncia. L uncia, one-twelfth of a foot, becomes OE ynce, ME unche, inche, E inch; its derivative adj unciālīs, an inch high, becomes the E uncial, hence, as n, a large-written letter, or a script in such letters.

6. The most important full L cpds of ūnus are, in respect of E, perhaps these:

ūnānimus (or -mis), of one animus or mind, in complete agreement, becomes E unanimous, cf the F unanime; derivative L ūnānimitās, o/s ūnānimitāt-, becomes MF-F unanimité, whence unanimity; cf ANIMAL, para 6; ūnicornis (after Gr monokerōs, one-horned), of one cornu or horn, is used, esp as n, for a fabulous quadruped: MF unicorne: E unicorn; ūniformis, of one forma or form: MF-F uniforme, E uniform; the E n derives from the F n uniforme (C18+), from the adj; derivative LL ūniformitās, o/s ūniformitāt-, becomes MF-F uniformité, whence uniformity; ūniversus—see next para;

LL ūnīuocus, ML ūnīuocus, whence univocal.

7. L ūnīuersus, ML -versus, turned with a single impetus—hence, turned wholly—towards a single unity, turned into one, combined into an entity (a whole): is used in the sing with collective nouns and in the pl for 'all together', ūnīuersi being opp singuli, taken piecemeal. Cicero and later Phil writers employed the neu ūnīuersum (ML -versum) as a n: hence EF-F univers, whence E universe. Unīuersus has the foll L derivatives relevant to E:

ūnīuersālīs, ML ūnīuersālīs: OF-MF universal (F unīuersel): adopted by E. The derivative LL ūnīuersālītās (opp L singularitās), ML ūnīuersālītās, o/s ūnīuersālītāt-, becomes MF universalité, whence universality; cf the E derivative formations universalism, -ist (whence -istic), -ize, all perh prompted by F; ūnīuersitās, rare in L ('totality')—as LL, a legal term for a corporation—in ML, ūnīuersitās, a college, a university: MF-F unīuersité: E university.

Germanic

8. OE ān, one (adj), becomes the indefinite article an, a, whence the reduced form a, used before consonants.

9. OE ān combines with OE on, in, to form, in ME, anan, later anon, retained by E: lit 'in one' (sc 'moment').

10. OE ān, one (adj), connotes 'alone', a sense extant in ME, where we find al on, al one, all (i.e., utterly) alone: whence E alone. By aphesis, alone becomes lone. Compare only, ME only, anly, earlier onlich, anlich, OE ānlic: 'like one', like one only, lonely (a sense now only dial), hence the only one of its class, sole; hence the adv.

11. ME at on, later at one, also, later, written solid (atone, atoon, etc.), at one, hence in concord or agreement, has suggested EE-E 'to atone'.

12. OE ān, one, combines with ne, not, to form nān, ME nan, later non, later noon, latest none, adopted by E.

13. ME an, on, one, has adv anes, ones (-es, the gen case-suffix: OE ānes), whence E once; cf E nonce, for 'the nonce', the one (sc 'use' or 'occasion'), occurring orig, and now only, in 'for the nonce': ME 'for the nones', from ME 'for then ones', where the -n of 'then' recalls the -m of OE thāem, dat of the article sē.

14. Pronoun any derives from the adj any: ME aenig and aeni, eni and ani: OE āenig, a sense- and form-mdfn of ān, one: cf OFris ānich, usu ēnig, OHG einag, einig, MHG einec, G einig, MD enich (dial var eenic), D eenig.

15. Not imm recognizable as a cpd of 'one' is eleven, ME enleven, OE endleofan, endlufon: cf OFris andlova, alvene, elvene, elleva, OS ellevan, OHG einlif, MHG einlif, eilef, early G eilf, G elf, Go ainlif, ON ellefo: all meaning, lit, 'one leave'—in full, '(ten and) one leave over', hence 'ten+one left over': 10+1=11. For the formation, cf TWELVE.

Oneida. See the 2nd SENECA, s.f.

oneiromancy. See the element oneiro-.

onerary, onerous. See ONUS, para 2.

onion. See ONE, para 4.

only. See ONE, para 10.

onomastic, onomasticon. See NAME, para 2.

onomatopoeia, onomatopoeic. See the element onomato-.

onset is a set(ing) on, an attack.

onslaught. See SLAY, para 2.

onto. See ON, para 2.

ontological, adj of ontology. See the element onto-.

onus is adopted from L onus (o/s oner-; s and r, on-): cf Skt ánas, a dray or a waggon; perh cf also Gr ania, Lesbian Gr onia, chagrin (a weight upon one's mind and temper), and antos, importunate. (E & M.)

2. Dierivative adj onerárius yields onerary; derivat ve adj onerósus, E onerous; derivative v oneráre has cpd exoneráre, to free (connoted by ex-) from an onus or burden, pp exonerátus, whence 'to exonerate'; derivative LL exonerátio, o/s exonerátion-, whence exoneration (cf the EF-F exonération).

onward (adv, hence adj), onwards (adv): towards—connoted by -ward, -wards—a point further on. Cf the suffix -ward(s), connoting direction.

onyx. See NAIL, para 4.

onza. See ONE, para 5. oodles. See HUDDLE.

ooze (n, both senses; v), oozy. See VIRULENT, para 2.

opacity. See OPAQUE.

opal, whence opalescent and opaline (perh after F opalin) and opaloid: L opalus: Gr opallios: Skt upala, a stone, esp a precious stone.

opaque, opacity.

The latter derives from late MF-F opacité, from L opacitās, o/s opacitāt-, abstract n from opācus, shaded, shady, dark, whence, via late MF-F, the E opaque: o.o.o.: ? akin to Gr opsis, sight, opōpa, I have seen, ōps, an eye.

open, adj and v (whence ope, dial 'an opening' and poetic 'to open'); hence the agent opener and the pa, vn opening; hence also reopen, reopening.

'To open' derives from OE openian, itself from the OE—whence E—adj open, akin to OFris open, var of epen, epern, OS opan, OHG offan, MHG-G offen, MD oppen, MD dial apen, MD-D open, ON opinn, OSw ypin; prob related to E up and G auf: 'for development of meaning cf aufmachen' (to open), as Walshe has noted.

opera (whence operatic), operetta; operand, operant, operate, operation (whence operational), operative (adj, hence n), operator, operose, opus, opuscule; co-operate, co-operation, co-operative, co-operator—inoperable, inoperative; hors d'œuvre; —avera and average, forms of feudal service; cf the sep OFFICE.

1. The entire group derives from L opus, work, itself adopted by E, esp in Mus and in medieval names of embroidery, and also in magnum opus, a great work, esp in size or in time needed for writing it; its pl is opera, therefore its o/s oper-. L opus is akin to L ops, gen of ops* (attested by Ops, an ancient goddess of the harvest, her festival being the Opalia), meaning both 'abundance, hence riches, strength', and 'aid'; akin also to Skt āpas (gen āpasas), work; in Gmc, cf ON efni, material to be used, efna, to accomplish, OE aefnan, efnan, to perform. (E & M; Holthausen.)

2. The neupl opera becomes a sep f sing opera, work, whether as activity or as result, whence It opera, work, hence a composition, esp musical, adopted by E; the It dim operetta is likewise adopted. L opera has adj operōsus, whence operose; the L dim of L opus is opusculum, whence late MF-F opuscule, adopted by E.

3. Both from L opus and from L opera derives L operāri, LL operāre, with gerundive operandus, whence the Math E n operand; presp operans, o/s operant-, whence the E n operant; pp operātus, whence 'to operate', with derivatives operātiō, o/s operātiōn-, MF-F opération, E operation, and LL operātīvus, efficacious, ML operātīvus, whence, perh via F, the E operative, and LL operātor, adopted by E.

4. The LL prefix-cpd coōperāri has pp coōperātus, whence 'to co-operate'; derivative LL coōperātiō, o/s coōperātiōn-, MF-F co-opération, E co-operation; derivative LL coōperātīvus, ML -ivus, (F co-opératif and) E co-operative; derivative LL coōperātor, adopted by E.

5. LL operābilis produces operable (cf the F opérable), with neg inoperable (cf F inopérable), perh aided by LL inoperātus, inactive; cf the anl inoperative.

6. L opera, work, becomes OF oeuvre, uevre whence F œuvre, with the EF-F cpd hors-d'œuvre, adopted by E.

7. L opera also becomes OF oeuvre, var ovre, whence app ML avera, adopted by E for a feudal service; ML avera (prob influenced by ML: OF-MF aver property) has derivative averagium, whence, perh via MF average, the ME average, a feudal tenant's service.

opercle, operculate, operculum.

The 3rd (whence the 1st), adopted from L, derives from L operire, to cover (as with a lid); operculum has derivative operculāre, to furnish with an operculum, lid, the pp operculātus yielding the E adj operculate. L operire could=ob, before, hence against, hence connoting an opp or a neg +aperire, to open; the usual theory, however, is that aperire and operire prefix ap- (for ab-) and op- (for ob-) to a simple uerire*, which has correspondences in the Balto-Slavic languages (E & M). ophthalmia, ophthalmic. See the element ophthalmo-.

opiate. See OPIUM.

opine, opinable, opinion, opinionated (whence, anl, opinionative); opt, optative, option; co-opt, co-optation (whence, anl, co-optative).

1. Opinable derives from L opinābilis, from L opināri, to hold an opinion, to be of the opinion, whence MF-F opiner, whence 'to opine'. Derivative L opinō, o/s opinōn-, becomes OF-F opinion, adopted by E; hence the obs v opinionate, with pp opinionated, extant as adj.

2. Opināri is akin to L optāre, to choose, to wish, whence EF (? also MF)-F opter, whence 'to opt'; derivative LL optatius, ML -ivus, becomes optative; intimately related to optāre is L optiō, the faculty of choosing, hence a free choice, o/s optiōn-, whence OF-F option, adopted by E.

3. The LL cpd coōptāre, to choose together, to choose by election, yields 'to co-opt'; derivative coōptatiō, o/s -iōn-, yields, perh via F, co-optation.
opium; opiate; opopanax.

Opium, adopted from L, derives from Gr opion, poppy-juice, dim of opos, vegetable juice: perh cf OSI soku, juice of plants or fruits, and OP sackis, Lith sakai (pl), resin, gum, Let svakas, resin. L opium has the ML derivative adj opiātus, soporific, whence the n opiātum, a soporific, whence E opiate. Gr opos has cpd opopanax, with 2nd element panax, a sort of plant, from the adj panakēs, all-healing: cf, at element opo-, the cpd opobalsam.

opossum, an A marsupial (when caught, it pretends to be dead—hence 'to play possum', to feign illness or ignorance or absence), hence an Aus phalanger: of Alg origin: cf Virginian apāsūm, Ojibway wābassim, a white animal. (Webster.)

opponent. See POSE, para 14.

opportune, opportunist, opportunity. See the 2nd PORT, para 6.

oppose, opposite, opposition. See POSE, para 14.

oppress, oppression, oppressive, oppressor. See the 2nd PRESS, para 10.

opprobrious, opprobrium; exprobrate, exprobration.

Opprobrious derives, perh via MF-F opprobrieux, f opprobrieuse, from L opprobriōsus, the adj of opprobrium, infamy, adopted by E. Exprobration derives from L exprobrātiōn-, o/s of exprobrātiō, severe censure, from exprobrāt-, s of exprobrātus—whence 'to exprobrate'—pp of exprobrāre, to censure severely. These are op- (for ob-) and ex- (used int) prefix-cpds deriving from probrum, a reproach, a deed worthy of reproach, prop the neu of the adj prober, worthy of reproach, reproached: app prober represents IE pro-bher-os*: pro-, forward+bher-, to carry (cf 'to BEAR')+formative -o-+nom case-ending -s. (E & M.) oppugn, oppugnant. See PUNGENT, para 17.

opt, optative. See OPINE, para 2.

optic (adj, hence n), also in -al extrn optical; optician; optics; cf the element optio-.

1. Optics, imm from the adj optic, was suggested by Gr ta optika, the things (matters) of the sight, optika being the neupl of the adj optikos, of the sight, whence, via ML opticus and MF-F optique, the E optic; the passage of optics from ta optika was eased by the EF-F n optique and ML opticē, from Gr optikē, elliptical for optikē tekhnē, art of vision. The MF-F adj optique has the EF-F derivative opticien, whence E optician.

2. The Gr adj optikos is closely akin to Gr opsis, vision, sight, opsomai, I shall see, osse, the two eyes, and less closely to Gr ōps, eye, face: also to L oculus, an eye (q.v. at OCULAR), and to EYE.

3. Gr opsis and optikos appear in two prefix-cpds:

Gr autopsia—whence E autopsy (perh via EF-F autopsie)—from autoptos, seen (optos) by oneself (autos), and the corresp true adj autoptikos, whence E autoptic; -opsia may be regarded as a c/f of opsis;

Gr sunopsis, a seeing-together (sun, with), a collective view, whence LL synopsis, adopted by E, and the corresp adj sunoptikos, whence EF-F synoptique, whence E synoptic.

optimal, optimum; optimist, optimist (whence optimistic), optimum.

Optimal is the adj of E optimum, adopted from the neu (optimum) of L optimus, the best, var optumus, app derived from ops*, gen opis, q.v. at OPERA, para 1. L optimus has L derivative optimātes, members of the Roman nobility, whence, by b/f, the E optimate, and learned F derivative optimisme and, anl, optimiste, whence E optimism and optimist.

option. See OPINE, para 2.

optometer. See the element opto-.

opulence, opulent. See COPY, para 2. opus, opuscle. See OPERA, resp para 1 and para 2.

or (1), conj of alternatives: ME or, earlier other, outher, auther: OE āwther, contr of āhwaether: ā, aye+hwaether, whether; perh, however, ME (or) other comes from OE othihe, with the -r due to the influence of the preceding other, outher, either (OED): OE oththe (var eththa) is akin to OHG odar (rare), odo, eddo, MHG ode, G oder, and Go aiththau.

or (2), conj of time, 'before': ON ār, formerly influenced by OE āer, before (cf ERE).

or (3), n, 'gold': F or, L aurum. Cf AUREATE.

oracle, oracular. See ORATION, para 3.

oral, orle; orifice, whence orifical; orotund, whence orotundity; oscular, osculate, osculation, osculatory—oscillate, oscillation, whence, anl, oscillator and oscillatory; ostuary, ostiole (whence, anl, ostiole), ostium—usher (n, hence v).

1. Oral prob derives from LL ōrālis, of or for or by the mouth, from L ōs, mouth, gen ōris, o/s ōr-: cf L ōra, coast, border, OE ōr, a front, ōra, border, ON ōss, mouth of river, Mīr ā, mouth, Skt ās, mouth, L ōsculum (dim of ōs), little mouth, hence a kiss, and L ōstium, Lith uesta, uestas, river-mouth, Let uōsta, uosts, a port, OSI usta and OP austis, mouth.

2. On the L o/s ōr- is formed ōrificium, a mouth-like opening, whence MF-F orifice, adopted by E; orotund, however, derives, by contr, from Horace's ore rotundo, with round mouth; orle, adopted from F, derives from OF ourle, border, edge (of garment), from VL orulus* or orulum*, dim of L ōra, border.

3. L ōsculum, (little mouth, hence) a kiss, has derivative ōsculāri, to kiss, with pp ōsculātus, whence 'to osculate'; derivative ōsculātiō, o/s ōsculātiōn-, yields osculation, whence, anl, osculatory.

4. L ōs, mouth, bears also the sense 'face', with dim ōscillum, a (little) mask, esp of Bacchus; masks of Bacchus were, esp in vineyards, suspended from trees and bushes, so that they were agitated by the wind, hence ōscillāre, to swing (like masks in the wind: E & M), with pp ōscillātus, whence 'to oscillate'; derivative ōscillātiō, o/s ōscillātiōn-, becomes oscillation.

5. L ōstium, river-mouth, has also the sense 'gate, door', whence ōstiārius, a doorkeeper, Eccl E ostuary; ōstium has the VL or C6 dial var ūstium, whence VL ūstiārius, doorkeeper, OF uissier (F huissier), ME uschere, ussher, E usher. L ōstium, moreover, has the dim ōstiolum, a little door, whence E ostiole.

orange, orangeade, orangery; aurantium; naringin.

1. The descent of orange is long, yet clear: ME orange, earlier orenge: MF orenge (F orange): OProv auranja (influenced by aur, gold—from the colour), earlier aranja, earliest naranja: Sp naranja: Ar nāranj, Per nārang, Skt nāraṅga, orange-tree, akin to—? from—Tamil naṅu, fragrant. The OF ō- is perh caused by the F city of Orange, through which the fruit must have passed in its passage to the north (B & W); the change from naranja to aranja was caused by confusion of the -n of the indefinite article un, un naranja becoming un aranja (Dauzat). The EF-F derivative orangeade was adopted by E; the EF-F orangerie became orangery.

2. Skt nāraṅga has var nāraṅgī, whence Marathi nāringī, an orange, whence the Chem E naringin (Chem suffix -in).

orang-utan: Mal orañ utan, lit wild (utan) man (orañ).

orant; orate. See:

oration, whence, by b/f, 'to orate'—orator, whence oratorical—oratorio—oratory; orant; orison; oracle, oracular; orison.—Cpds: adorable, adoration, adore (whence adorer); exorable and inexorable; peroration (whence, by b/f, 'to perorate'), whence perorational and, anl, perorative, peroratory (adj).

1. L ōrāre (s and r, ōr-), to pronounce a ritual formula, hence to pray, to plead, has presp ōrans, o/s ōrant-, whence the Eccl n orant. On ōrāt-, s of the pp ōrātus, have arisen ōrātiō (preserved in oratio obliqua and recta), o/s ōrātiōn-, whence E oration—ōrātor, whence OF orateur (F orateur), whence E orator—ōrātōrius, whence, via ars ōrātōria and late MF art oratoire, the art of oratory, and whence, via LL ōrātōrium, a place to pray, the ME oratorie, E oratory (cf the F oratoire); LL ōrātōrium becomes It oratorio, whence, from the musical services held in the oratory of St Philip Neri in Rome, the name of a religico-musical composition (B & W).

2. L ōrātiō (o/s ōrātiōn-), a speech, acquires in LL-ML the sense 'prayer': whence MF oreison, orison, a prayer, the form orison being adopted by E; since c1800, literary.

3. Also from L ōrāre derives L ōrāculum, OF-F oracle, adopted by E; derivative ōrāculārius yields oracular.

4. L ōrāre is o.o.o.; but the so-called folk-etymology ōrāre from ōs, mouth, is prob correct, for ōs means also mouth-as-organ-of-speech.

5. L ōrāre has three prefix-cpds: adōrāre, exōrāre, perōrāre. Adōrāre, to address a prayer ad or to, becomes OF-F adorer, whence 'to adore'; derivative L adōrābilis becomes EF-F and E adorable; derivative L adōrātiō, o/s adōrātiōn-, becomes MF-F and E adoration.

6. L exōrāre (ex- used int), to pray urgently, has derivative exōrābilis, whence exorable; the neg inexōrābilis, incapable of being moved by prayer, becomes late MF-F inexorable and, prob independently, E inexorable.

7. L perōrāre, to plead per or throughout, hence to the end, hence to finish one's plea in a summing-up, has pp perōrātus, whence perōrātiō, o/s perōrātiōn-, whence peroration (cf the EF péroration and late EF-F péroraison).

orb—orbicular, orbiculate—orbit, whence orbital; exorbitant, whence, anl, exorbitance, exorbitancy.

Exorbitant derives from exorbitant-, o/s of exorbitans, presp of exorbitāre, to get out of (ex), hence off, the course or orbita, course, track, orig a rut, the trace of a wheel, whence, perh via MF-F orbite, the E orbit. L orbita derives from orbīus, shaped like an orbis, a round, a circle, e.g. a wheel, a ball, a globe, whence, perh via MF-F orbe, the E orb. The L dim orbiculus, a little orb, becomes orbicle; the derivative LL adj orbiculāris becomes MF-F orbiculaire, whence E orbicular; the from-orbiculus-derivative orbiculātus, shaped like a (little) orb, yields orbiculate.—L orbis, s orb-, r ? orb-, ? or-, is o.o.o.: perh cf Hit ürkis (acc ürkin), a trace, a track, and ürkiya, to trace or track.

orb (2), in Arch: see ORPHAN, para 2.

orchard. (Cf the 1st YARD.) Orchard, ME orchard, orchiard, comes from OE orceard, var of OE ortgeard, with ort- akin to L hortus, a garden: cf Go aurtigards, a garden.

orchestra, whence orchestral and orchestrate (whence orchestration), is form-adopted from L, which takes it from Gr orkhēstra, the place (a circular space in front of the proscenium) for the chorus of dancers, the modern E sense being aided by its earlier occurrence in EF-F orchestre; Gr orkhēstra derives from orkheisthai, to dance, itself akin to Skt ṛghāyati, he trembles or raves: IE r, ergh-, to tremble, to dance, itself perh an extn of er-, to move, go, come: cf Gr erkhomai, I come or arrive. (Hofmann.)

orchid, whence, anl, orchidaceous (adj suffix -aceous: cf rosaceous and violaceous); orchis, whence orchitis (-itis, denoting a disease); cf the element orchit-.

The Gr orkhis, a testicle, hence—from the shape of its tubers—an orchid (Bot Orchis), becomes L orchis, the plant, with faulty gen orchidis, o/s orchid-, whence the E orchid. Gr orkhis is akin to Av erezi, the two testicles, the scrotum, Alb herde, testicle, Arm orji-kh, testicles, and orji, not castrated, Lith ežilas, a stallion, Mlr uirgga, Ir uirge, testicle: IE etymon, orgh-*, testicle: perh a Medit word, ? of Eg asti, testicles.

ordain. See ORDER, para 5.

ordeal. See the 1st DEAL, para 3.

order (n and v), whence the adj orderly (whence the n)—whence also disorder, whence disorderly; ordain, ordainer, ordainment; ordinal (adj, hence n); ordinary (adj and n); ordinance and ordnance and ordnance; ordinand; ordinate, ordination;—ornament (whence ornamental and ornamentation), ornate, ornature.—L cpds: adorn, adornment; exordium; extraordinary; primordial, primordium; inordinate; subordinate (adj, hence v), subordination.

1. The base of the group is supplied by L ōrdō, a tech term for the order of the threads in the woof, hence, in non-tech language, a row, a rank, hence order in general (things in due succession or place): o/s ōrdin-, whence the v ōrdināre, to put or set in order. L ōrdō derives from—or is, at the least, intimately related to—L ōrdiri, to weave (a woof), setting the threads in order: both the s and the r of both ōrdō and ōrdiri are ord-: IE r, or-, perh with var ar- (as in L artus, Gr arthron, a joint).

Simples

2. L ōrdō, retained by E in several tech and Sci senses, has the LL Gram adj ōrdinālis, whence, perh via EF-F, the E ordinal; the normal L adj is ōrdinārius, whence OF-AF ordinaire, whence E ordinary, adj and earlier noun, several of the later senses of the adj prob deriving imm (like MF-F ordinaire) from L ōrdinārius.

3. L ōrdō, acc ōrdinem, becomes OF ordene, whence OF-F ordre, adopted by ME, whence E order; ME ordre has derivative v ordren, whence 'to order'. 'To disorder'=dis-+order, v; disorder, n=dis-+order, n, influenced by late MF-F désordre.

4. The derivative ōrdināre, to set in order, has gerundive ōrdinandus, whence E ordinand, one about to be ordained into the Church; pp ōrdinātus yields the Zoo adj ordinate and the now rare v 'to ordinate'. In LL, ōrdināre acquires the sense 'to ordain into the Church'; derivative ōrdinātiō, o/s ōrdinātiōn-, has both the Classical and the Eccl sense, whence OF-F ordination, adopted by E; the agent ordinātor is partly adopted. The ML co-ōrdināre and LL co-ōrdinātiō, and the LL prae-ōrdināre, prae-ōrdinātiō, yield co-ordinate, pre-ordinate, and their corresp nn.

5. L ōrdināre becomes OF ordener (cf the n ordene in para 3), ME ordeinen, E 'to ordain'; derivative OF-MF ordenement becomes E ordainment, and the OF-MF agent ordeneor ends in E ordainer. 'To pre-ordain' owes something to F preordonner (LL prae-ōrdināre).

6. OF ordener becomes, in late MF, ordonner (prob showing the influence of donner), whence MF-F ordonnance, arrangement (of parts in a whole), adopted by E.

7. But, seen differently, MF ordonnance derives from OF ordenance, from ordener; and OF-MF ordenance is adopted by ME, with late var (after the L original) ordinance, retained by E. The ME word, lit 'an ordering, an arrangement', derivatively means 'supplies', which, with the latter sense fully established during C16, sees the contr ordnance established not before C17.

8. L ōrdināre is very closely akin to ōrnāre, which is app—but perh only app—a contr of ōrdināre. L ōrnāre, to equip, to arrange, hence to embellish (the predominant sense), has derivative ōrnāmentum, whence OF-F ornement, adopted by ME, whence, reshaped after L, the E ornament. The L pp ōrnātus accounts for ornate; derivative LL ōrnātura, for ornature.

L Compounds affecting E

9. Adōrnāre, where ad is merely int, soon specializes as 'to embellish': OF aornen (ME aournen), reshaped by MF to adorner: ME adornen (adounen): 'to adorn'; derivative MF adornement, E adornment.

10. Exōrdiri (ex-+ōrdiri), to mount a woof, lay a warp, begin a web, has derivative exōrdium, which soon acquires the non-tech sense 'a beginning, an introduction', esp of a discourse: adopted by E.

11. Extraōrdinārius, a sense-cpd of ōrdinārius, derives from extrā ordinem, outside (extra) the order (that is customary); hence extraordinary (cf the MF-F extraordinaire).

12. L inōrdinātus, not (in-) set in order, hence lacking in order, hence lacking in proportion, yields inordinate.

13. Primōrdium, the first (prim-, pre-vocalic c/f of primus, first) beginning, is adopted by learned E; derivative LL adj primōrdiālis leads—perh via late MF-F—to primordial.

14. ML subōrdināre, to set in a lower (sub-) order, has pp subōrdinātus, used also as adj: whence subordinate; derivative subordinā iō, o/s subōrdinātiōn-, yields EF-F, and E, subordination. Insubordinate and insubordination are E negg in in-, but they perh owe something to F insubordonné and insubordination.

ordinary. See prec, para 2.

ordnance. See ORDER, para 7.

ordo; ordonnance. See ORDER, resp para 2 and para 6.

Ordu. See HORDE.

ordure, whence ordurous, is adopted from OF-F ordure, a -ure derivative from the OF adj ord, filthy, repulsively dirty: by contr from L horridus, -orrid- becoming ord. Cf, therefore, horrid.

ore; iron (n, adj, v), ironmonger, ironmongery; akin are the sep ERA and the sep ESTEEM (ESTIMABLE, ESTIMATE, ESTIMATION).

1. Ore, as a Min term, derives, through ME ōr, from OE ār, copper, brass: cf OHG ēr, ore, brass, iron, and OHG-MHG ērin, G ehern, brazen, Ofris ēren, OE āeren, brazen, Go aiz, ore, brass, ON eir, brass, copper; cf also L aer-, o/s of aes (OL ais), copper, bronze, hence money, and Skt āyas, ore, iron: IE r, ais-*, (a lump of) bronze or copper, later used to designate iron.

2. Iron, n, ME iren, OE īren, Isern, Isen, is akin to OFris irsen, Irser, Isern, iser, OS isarn, OHG isarn, isan, MHG Isern, Iser, G Eisen, Go eisarn, MD iser, isere, iseren, D ijzer, ON iðrn, isarn, a loan from C ('The early Celts were leading iron-workers': Walshe): cf OIr iārn, iārn, iarand, iarund, Ga iarunn, Gaul Isarna, W haiarn, heiyrn, heyryn, Br houarn, Cor hoarn, hoern, horn (pl hern), Mx yiarn, OC eisarno-*, eiserno-.

3. The adj iron derives from OE īren, var īsen: cf OHG isarnīn, MHG Iserīn (for Isern-in), G eisern.

oread. See ORIENT, para 7.

orectic. See REX, para 34.

Oregon, occurring in so many NA plant and bird names, derives from the territory drained by the river Oregon (now the Columbia): o.o.o., but prob Amerind.

organ, organic (whence organicism), organism (whence organismal), organist; organization, organize (whence organizer); organon and organum; orgue;—disorganization, disorganize; reorganization, reorganize;—cf the element organo-; ult akin to WORK.

1. Organ derives, via MF-F organe, the musical instrument, a part of the human body, from L organum, trln of Gr organon, s organ-, r org-, akin to s and r erg- of Gr ergon, work: f.a.e., WORK. Both Gr organon and L organum are used in erudite E.

2. The derivative Gr adj organikos becomes L organicus, MF-F organique, E organic; L organum has ML derivative organista, whence MF-F organiste, whence E organist; F organe, part of body, has derivative organisme, whence E organism. LL organum, a church organ, becomes MF-F orgue, by some rather obscure contr process; the derivative F military senses are adopted by E.

3. LL organum, church organ (a sense possessed by LGr organon), has LL derivative organizare, to play the organ (sense possessed by LGr organizein), which form-suggested the ML organizāre, to furnish with organs or parts, to invest with organic structure, whence, via MF-F organiser, 'to organize'; derivative ML organizātiō, o/s organizātiōn-, whence, prob via late MF-F organisation, the E organization.

4. 'To disorganize' and disorganization derive from EF-F désorganiser and F désorganisation, native F formations; inorganic derives from EF-F inorganique, the neg of organique; reorganize and reorganization owe something to F réorganiser, réorganisation.

orgasm, whence orgasmic: EF-F orgasme: Gr orgasma, orgasmos: organ, to 'boil' with ardour, swell with lust: cf Gr orgē, impulse, and Skt ūrjā, sap, vigour (? esp if sexual): IE r, uerg-*, to swell.

orgiac, orgiastic. See ORGY.

orgue. See ORGAN, para 2, s.f.

orgy, orgiac, orgiast, orgiastic.

1. Orgy derives from F orgie, a b/f from the late MF-EF pl orgies: L orgia, pl: Gr ta orgia, secret rites, esp in the cult of Dionysus (Bacchus): orgion*, akin to Gr ergon, work: cf ORGAN and, f.a.e., WORK.

2. The derivative Gr adj orgiakos becomes F orgiaque and E orgiac; derivative orgiazein, to practise these rites, has agent orgiastēs, whence E orgiast, and adj orgiastikos, whence E orgiastic.

oriel, a recessed window projecting from a wall: ME oriel: OF oriol, a sill, a gallery or a corridor: ML oriolum, portico, hall: o.o.o.: ? or-+connective -i-+dim -olum; or- represents ML orum*, orig a VL var or derivative of L ōra, border, edge.

orient (adj, n, v) and oriental (whence orientalism, orientalist), adj hence n, all also O-; orientate and, anl, orientation, from orient, n; cpds: disorientate, disorientation; reorient, reorientate, reorientation.—origin, original (adj, hence n), originality, originate (whence originator), origination (whence, anl, originative); aborigine, aboriginal.—abort, abortient, abortion, abortive.—oread.

1. At the root of the entire group, lies L oriri, to rise, esp of the sun and the moon, hence to arise, have a beginning, spring up, even to be born, with pp ortus: the s and the r are or-, to rise; cf Gr neortos, newborn, ormenos (pp), stirred up, ormenos, a sprout or shoot of a plant: and this or- is a var of the IE r er-* (var ar-*), to stir up—cf Skt ārnas, (of waves) rolling, and Zend ar-, to be stirred up or excited.

2. L oriri has presp oriens, o/s orient-, whence the adj orient. L oriens is also elliptical for sol oriens, the rising sun, hence, as Oriens, the Orient or East, OF-F Orient, adopted by E. The L Oriens, the East, esp E Asia, has adj orientālis, whence OF-F oriental, adopted by E, whence the n Oriental.

3. F orient, the east, has late MF-F derivative orienter, whence 'to orient', whence, in part, 'to orientate' and, prob after F, orientation; F orienter has the EF-F cpd désorienter, whence 'to disorient', largely superseded by 'to disorientate', whence disorientation; hence, anl, 'to reorient', now usu reorientate, whence, anl, reorientation.

4. L oriri has cpd aboriri, to disappear, to die, ab- connoting 'away from' (life), with pp abortus; hence abortāre, whence 'to abort'; also from pp abortus come abortiō, o/s abortiōn-, whence abortion, and abortiuus, ML abortivus, whence, perh via MF-F abortif (f abortive), the E abortive; abortiens (presp of LL aborire), o/s abortient-, leads to the E adj abortient, syn of abortifacient (L abortus, n+facient-, o/s of faciens, presp of facere, to make).

5. Deriving from L oriri is origō, source (of a spring), an origin, acc originem, whence MF-F origine, whence E origin. Derivative L adj originālis becomes MF-F original (and MF-F originel), adopted by E; the F use of original as n perh prompted the E n, but note that, as 'original form' of an artistic or literary work, the E original prob arose in ML origināle, prop the neu of the adj. The LL mdfn originārius (adj) became MF-F originaire, whence the now obsol E originary; LL originātiō, an etymology, o/s originātiōn-, became, prob via MF-F, the E origination; originality, however, derives imm from late EF-F originalité, imm from F original but perh prompted by the LL adv origināliter.

6. L origō, pl origines, has the cpd pl Aborigines, prob suggested by ab origine, from—hence of—the origin, sc 'the original country': applied first to the inhabitants of Latium: hence, by b/f, an aborigine or native inhabitant of a country (cf the f/e F aborigène, altered after indigène): hence, anl, the adj aboriginal, whence the Aus Aboriginalities, news or history, etc., of the Aus aborigines, called, in sl, abos (sing abo).

7. Ult akin to L orīri is Gr oros, a mountain—rising high above the surrounding country; hence Oreias, a mountain nymph, L Oreas, o/s Oread, whence E oread, any mountain nymph.

orifice. See ORAL, para 2.

oriflamme, adopted from F, comes from OF orie flambe, golden banner: orie, from L aureus, golden (adj of aurum, gold)+flambe (later flamme) in its sense 'banner': influenced by ML aurea flamma, the red banner of the F kings, orig of the Abbots of St Denis. (B & W.) organ. See the 2nd element ori-.

origin, original, originality, originate, origination. See ORIENT, para 5.

oriole. See AUREATE.

orison. See ORATION, para 2.

orle. See ORAL, para 2.

orlop. See LEAP, para 6.

ormolu, orig ground gold, now brass imitative of gold: F or moulu: or, gold+moulu, pp of moudre, L molere, to grind (cf MILL). OF-F or: L aurum; OL ausom: cf OP ausis, Tokh A uās, vās.

ornament, ornamental; ornate, ornature. See ORDER, para 8.

ornery (dial AE) distorts ordinary: cf the deterioration of common, mean, vulgar.

ornithologist, ornithology. See the element -ornis.

oro- terms, all erudite and most tech: see the elements oro-; e.g., orotund comes at the 3rd oro- (but see also ROLL, para 18).

orphan (n, hence v), whence orphanage; orb (in Arch); robot.

1. Orphan derives from LL orphanus, trln of Gr orphanos, orphaned, an orphan: s orphan-, r orph-: IE r, orb-, extnn orbh-, orph-*: cf Arm orb, an orphan, and L orbus, deprived, esp of one's parents. IE orb-* has the basic var arb-, with extn arbh-: cf Skt ārbhas, little, weak, a child. A different sense-development has taken place in OHG arbi, erbi, G Erbe, Go arbi, OIr orbe, inheritance, and OHG arbeo, G Erbe, Go arbja, OIr orbe, heir.

2. L orbis, bereft, becomes OF orb, MF-EF orbe, blind, F orbe, lightless, blank, whence the old Arch orb, a recessed panel.

3. Akin to Go arbi, arbja (as in para 1), is Go arbaiths, labour, toil, trouble, distress, syn OHG arabeit and MHG arebeit (G Arbeit, work), OSI rabota, Cz (and Pol) robota, servitude, forced labour. Cz robota occurs in Karel Capek's R.U.R., Rossum's Universal Robots, published—and played—in Britain and U.S.A. in 1923: there a robot was an artificially manufactured person, mechanically efficient but soulless.

Orpheus, Orphic.

The adj derives, via L Orphicus, from Gr Orphikos, adj of Orpheus, whence, via L, the E Orpheus, in myth a Thracian poet and musician, player of a most persuasive lyre: o.o.o.

orpaint. See PAINT, para 5, s.f.

orrey: named in honour of Charles Boyle (1676–1731), 4th Earl of Orrey.

ort, morsel, scrap: OFris ort: app the or- of ordeal (see 1st DEAL, para 2)+part of OE etan, ME eten, E eat (cf OFris eta).

ortho- terms: see Elements at orth(o)-. But for orthodox (orthodoxy), see DOGMA, para 3.

ortolan, a bird frequenting garden-hedges, has a name adopted from EF-F (earliest as hortolan), from Port, ortolan, the bird, orig a gardener: L hortolānus, gardener, from hortulus, dim of hortus, a garden: cf horticulture and, f.a.e., the 2nd YARD.

oryx: sense-changed from L oryx, some kind of antelope or gazelle: Gr orux, id, from orux, any sharp digging-tool, from orussein, to dig: because of its sharp horns.

oscillate, oscillation, oscillator. See ORAL, para 4. Cf:

osculate, osculation, osculatory. See ORAL, para 3.

osier. See AQUA, para 5.

Osiris, husband of the goddess Isis, is, in Eg myth, the king of the netherworld and the judge of the dead: L, from Gr, Osiris: Eg As-ār or Us-ār: cf Eg As̄t (-t merely indicating f gender), whence Gr, hence L, Isis, whose name, in Eg, is also represented as 'ise (Coptic ése); a name meaning, lit, 'seat' (cf, ult, SIT)—perh that forming the throne of mighty Osiris.

Osmanli. See OTTOMAN.

osmium—whence osmate (Chem suffix -ate) and osmic—is a SciL derivative of Gr osmē, a smell: cf Gr ozein, to smell, and L odor (q.v. at ODDIOUS).

osmosis, whence, anl, the adj osmotic, derives from Gr ōsmos, an impulse, from ōthein, to impel osprey. See para 2 of:

ossature, osselet, osseous, ossicle, ossification, ossify, ossuary; ossifrage, osprey; osteal, osteitis; cf the elements ossi- and oste(o)-;—oyster; ostracism, ostracize.

1. L os (gen ossis), a bone, is akin to Gr osteon: cf Skt āsthi, Av astam (gen pl), Alb asht, Arm oskr, W asgwrn, Br ascorn, Cor ascorn, asgorn, asgarn: IE r, perh ass-, var oss-.

2. Derivative L adj osseus produces osseous; s osse-, as in Chem ossein; dim ossiculum, E ossicle; L ossuarius (oss-+formative -u-+adj -arius) has LL derivative ossuarium, whence ossuary; L ossifragus (adj), bone-breaking, whence (sc avis, bird) ossifraga, whence the E ossifrage and, via OF osfraie* (F orfraie), the E osprey.

3. OF(-F) os has the OF-F dim osselet, adopted by E, and the F -ature (L -ātūra) derivative n, ossature, likewise adopted by E. Erudite late C17 F coined ossifier (L ossi-, c/f of os+ -fier, LL -ficare, L -ficere, c/f of facere, to make), whence 'to ossify'; derivative F ossification is adopted by E.

4. Gr osteon has c/f osteo- or, before a vowel, oste-, whence the E osteal and osteitis: suffixes, adj -al and 'disease' -itis.

5. Akin to Gr ostreon is Gr ostreon, whence L ostreum, var ostrea, LL var ostria, whence both MF oistre, whence E oyster, and MF uistre, whence F huitre.

6. Akin to Gr ostreon, hence to Gr osteon, is Gr ostrakon, a hard shell (bone-like), hence a piece of earthenware, a tile, a tablet used for voting, whence ostrakizein, to banish by vote, whence 'to ostracize', the modern sense arising in C18 F ostracisme (Gr sense, C16-17), whence E ostracism; EF ostracisme derives from LL ostracismus, trln of Gr ostrakismos (from ostrakizein).

ostensible, ostensive; ostent, ostentation, ostentatious. See TEND, paras 15-16.

osteology. See the element ost-. Cf osteopathy, with 2nd element -pathy, q.v. at element -path.

ostuary, ostiole, ostium. See ORAL, para 5.

ostler. See HOSPICE, para 3.

ostracism, ostracize. See OSSATURE, para 6.

ostrich: ME ostriche (var ostrice): OF ostruce (EF ostruce, F autruche): popular ML-LL avis(avis) strūthiō, 'the ostrich bird': avis, bird (cf AVIARY)+LL strūthiō, from Gr strouthiōn, ostrich, mdfn of strouthos, a bird, esp an ostrich: o.o.o.: perh from a PGr etymon strouthos*, from IE trozdos* (var trouthos*)—if so, cf THRUSH.

2. LL strūthiō accounts for the E adj struthious, or for or like an ostrich or ostriches.

Ostrogoth. See GOTH, para 2.

other (whence otherness and otherwise), adj hence pron: OE ōther (adj and pron), one of two, either, the second of two: cf OFris ōther, OS ōther, ōthar, āthar, OHG andar, MHG-G ander, MD-D ander, Go anhar, ON annarr: Gmc etymon, antheraz*; IE etymon, ānteros*: cf Skt antarás, anyas, Lith añtras, other, next, second. (Walshe.)

Othin. See WEDNESDAY, para 3.

otiant. See OTIOSE, para 1.

otic: LL ōticus: Gr ōtikos, of the ous (gen ōtos) or ear, akin to L auris (? for ausis*), ear.

otiose, otiosity, otiant; negotiable, negotiant, negotiate, negotiation, negotiator.

1. L ōtium (s ōti-, r ōt-), leisure, is o.o.o. The derivative ōtiāri, to be at leisure, has presp ōtians, o/s ōtiant-, whence the E adj otiant, at rest, unemployed; derivative adj ōtiōsus, idle, at leisure, becomes otiose, and its own derivative the LL ōtiōsītās becomes, perh via MF-EF otiositē, the E otiosity.

2. The opp of L ōtium is negōtium (neg- for neq- for ne-, not) business, hence business. Derivative negōtiāri, to do business, has presp negōtians, o/s negōtiant-, whence—cf the EF-F negōciant—the E n negotiant. The pp negōtiātus yields 'to negotiate'; derivatives negōtīlīō (o/s negōtīlīōn-) and negōtīōr become negotiation (cf late MF-F negōciation) and negotiator (cf MF-F negōciateur).

otology. See the element -otic.

otter, ME oter, OE otor, is akin to OHG ottar, MHG-G otter, MD-D otter, ON otr; cf also OSI vydra, Lith ūdra, Skt udras, Gr huddōr, water: therefore cf, ult, WATER.

Ottoman—whence, perh via F, the ottoman of furniture—is adopted from F: It Ottomano: ML Ottomānus: Ar 'Uthmāni, belonging to 'Uthmān, Othman, which has the Tu var 'Osmān, with adj 'Osmānli, whence OF and E Osmanli, a Western Turk.

oubliette, adopted from MF-F, derives from OF-F oublier, to forget, VL oblitare*, from L oblītus, pp of oblīuisci: cf oblivious, q.v. at LIME (1). ouch, a clasp. See the 2nd NET, para 6.

ought (1), anything, is now illit for aught, q.v. at NAUGHT, para 2.

ought (2), v. See OWE (heading).

ounce (1) in weight. See ONE, para 5.

ounce (2), a leopard-resembling cat: F once, influenced by OUNCE (1): by lonce taken as l'once, from MF lonce: VL luncea*: L lyncea, f of lynx (cf LYNX).

our, ours, ourselves. See US.

ousel. See OUZEL.

oust. See STAND, para 30.

out (adv, hence adj and n), ME out, oute, ut, OE ūt, is akin to OFris, OS, Go ūt, to OHG-MHG ūz, G aus, MD ut, ute, uet, ud, uud, D uit, ON ūt, out; and to Skt ūd-, outwards, upwards.

2. The cpds are numerous and obvious; two are old—outlaw, OE ūtlah, earlier ūtlaga, from ON ūtlagi (n; ūtlagr, adj); outward (adj, hence adv), OE ūteward, ūteward. The adv outwards derives from OE ūtweardes, orig the gen of the adj. With outlandish, cf OE ūtlendisc, foreign.

3. The comp outer and sup outmost, irreg outermost, are modern; the old forms are uter, OE ūtra, ūtera, etc., akin to OFris ūtra, ūtera, and utmost, OE ūtmest, ūtemest. Like outermost, uttermost is irreg.

outlaw, n. See prec, para 2, and cf the 2nd LIE, para 7. 'To outlaw': OE ūtlagian.

outlet. See LET, para 2.

outmoded. See MODAL, para 2.

outrage, outrageous. See ULTERIOR, para 7.

outright. See REX, para 3.

outward, outwards. See OUT, para 2.

ousel, ousel: ME osel: OE ōsle (prob for amsle*): cf OHG amsala, MHG-G amsel: perh cf the syn L merula (? for mesula*), whence OF-F merle, hence E merle, merl. (Walshe.)

oval, ovary, ovate, ovoid, ovule, ovum; cf the elements oo- and ovario-, ovi-.

The L ōvum, ML ōvum, PL ouom*, an egg, is akin to Gr ōion, ōon, PGr ōuion*, IE ōuom*, var ōuom: cf EGG and prob L avis, a bird. ML ōvum is adopted by Sci; ovule comes from F (dim from ML ōvum); ovoid=ov+adj -oid; ovate=ML ōvātus, L ōvātus (ōv+-ātus); oval, adopted from EF-F, =ov+adj -al. Ovary=SciL ōvārium (ov+-ārium, connoting a receptacle).

ovation comes, perh via EF-F, from ML ovātiōn-, L ovātiōn-, c/f of ovātīō, a Roman victory-celebration inferior to a triumph: from ovātus, pp of ovāre, to utter shouts of joy, hence to celebrate an ovation: perh cf the Gr euoi, a cry of joy uttered at the festival of Bacchus.

oven; olio—olla podrida.

1. Oven, OE ofen (ofn), is akin to OFris oven, OHG ovan, MHG oven, G Ofen, Go aühns, MD aven, MD-D oven, ON ofn: Gmc etymon, uhwnaz*; IE etymon, ukwnos*—cf Gr ipnos, stove, and L aula, aula, Skt ukhās, a pot: early ovens were pot-shaped. (Walshe.)

2. L aul(la) has var olla, retained by Sp: and Sp olla, a pot, hence a dish of stewed meat, not only becomes E olla but, in the phrasal cpd olla podrida, lit a rotted, hence rotten, pot, hence a medley, is adopted by EF-F and by E.

over (adv and prep, hence adj and n) derives from OE ofer: cf OFris over, MD-D over, OS obhar, OHG ubar (adv ubiri), MHG-G über, Go ufar, ON yfir: cf also L super (? IE prefix s+uper*), Gr huper (ὑπέρι), Skt upari—and OE ufan, (from) above. The IE etymon is prob uper*, var uperi*. (Hofmann.)

2. The cpds are very numerous and entirely obvious; among the old ones are 'to overcome', OE ofercuman; to overdo, OE oferdōn; to overdrive, OE oferdrifan; to overflow, OE oferflōwan; to overgo, OE ofergān; to override, OE oferriðan; to oversee, OE ofersēon; to overwork, OE oferwyrcan.

3. Akin to OE ufan and ofer is OE efes, brink or brim, hence eaves, ME evese (pl eveses), E eaves, whence, by b/f (implicit in ME), a sing eave. OE efes has var yfes, as in the cpd yfesdryspe, water dripping from the eaves, hence the ground onto which the water drips, hence E eavesdrop, hence 'to eavesdrop' or stand there, esp in order to learn (chiefly by listening) what goes on inside.

overture: OF overture (F overture): VL oportūra*, alteration of: L apertūra: f.a.e., APERIENT.

overweening. See VENERABLE, heading; cf para 10.

overwhelm. See WHELM (heading).

oviduct; oviparous. See the element ovario-.

Ovis, in Zoo a sheep: ML ovis: L ovis, with s and r, ov—cf Gr ots and Skt avis, a sheep, and OHG ouwi, E ewe.

ovoid, ovule, ovum. See OVAL.

owe, pt owed but formerly ought, which, becoming specialized in sense, duly became a separate v, and pp owed but formerly owen, which became specialized as an adj owen, itself coalescing with the adj own; own, adj and v, the latter yielding owner (whence ownership)—cf disown.

1. 'To owe', ME owen, earlier awen, earliest aghen, (latest sense) to owe, earlier to own, possess, have, OE āgan, to have, is akin to OFris āga. OS ēgan, aigan, ON eiga. 'To disown' is modern: dis-, apart+own, v.

2. 'To own', ME ohnien, earlier ahnien, OE āgnian, derives from the OE adj āgen, own, whence, via ME aughen, awen, later owen, the E adj own: and the OE adj āgen, own, is prop the pp of OE āgan, to have, to possess: cf these OGmc adjj OFris ēgen, ein, OS ēgan, OHG eigan, G eigen, MD egen, eigin, MD-D eigen, ON eiginn.

owl, ME oule, earlier ule, OE ūle, is akin to OHG ūwila, MHG iule, G Eule, OS ūwila, MD hule, uul, ule, D uil, ON ugla: echoic from its cry.—Dim owlet; adj owlish.

own, adj and v. See OWE, para 2.

ox, pl oxen; Oxford; aurochs.

1. An ox comes from OE oxa, akin to the syn OFris oxa, OHG ohso, MHG ohse, G Ochse, Ochs, Go aūhsa, ON uxi, oxi; Gmc uhsan-, IE uksan: cf W ych, Br egen, ox, Skt ukṣan, ox, bull: orig sense, bull; basic sense, the besprinkler—cf Skt ukṣati, he emits semen.

2. Oxford is OE Oxnaford (Domesday: Oxeneford), ford of the oxen, whence also the ML Oxonia, whence the E adj, hence n, Oxonian.

3. OHG ohso tautologically combines with OHG ūr (cf OE ūr, ON urr, aurochs) to form OHG ūrohso, MHG ūrohse, G Aurochs, whence E aurochs.

oxalic, oxalis. The adj oxalic derives from F oxalique, an -ique derivative from L oxalis, a kind of sorrel, taken over from Gr, which derives it from oxus, pungent (cf OXYGEN). Oxalis is adopted by Bot.

Oxford. See ox, para 2.

oxidate, oxidation, oxide (whence oxidize).

1. 'To oxidate' derives from F oxidier (now oxyder), whence F oxidation (now oxy-), adopted by E: and F oxidier derives from F oxide (now oxyde): a blend of oxygène+acide.

2. Peroxide=prefix per-, used int+oxide.

Oxonian. See ox, para 2.

oxter: OE ōhsta: cf AXIS, q.v.

oxygen: F oxygène (Lavoisier, 1786): oxy-, from Gr oxus, sharp, pungent, acid+the element -gène (E -gene); the F derivative oxygèner has prompted E 'to oxygenate' and prob oxygenize. Gr oxus, s and r ox-, perh stands for ok-s-us*: cf L occa, a harrow, and, ult, EDGE.

2. For oxymoron, see the 1st element oxy- and cf MORON.

3. Paroxysm (with adjj in -al, -ic) derives from MF-F paroxysme, itself—perh via ML—from Med Gr paroxusmos, from paroxunein, to irritate, lit to sharpen excessively: para, beyond+oxunein, to sharpen, from oxus, sharp.

oyer, oyez.

The former derives from the n use of AF oyer (as in legal oyer and terminer): OF otr (F outr), to hear: L audire: f.a.e., AUDIBLE. AF oyer has imperative oyez, hear ye.

oyster. See OSSATURE, para 5.

ozone. See ODIUM, para 8.

P

pa, father. See FATHER, para 16.

pabulum, adopted from L pābulum (s pābul-, r pāb-), is akin to pāscere, to nourish, esp to cause flocks and herds to eat, pp pāstus; cf PASTOR. The adj is pabular, from L pābulāris.

pace (n, hence v); pass (n and v), passable (and impassable), passage, passenger, passé-partout, passus; Passover, passport, password, pastime; compass (n, v), encompass; surpass, whence the pa surpassing; trespass (n, v), trespasser;—paten, patina, qq.v. at PAN; sep PETAL, PETALIFEROUS; sep SPANDREL, sep SPAWN, sep EXPAND (expansion); and sep FATHOM.

1. A pace, or step taken in walking, derives from ME pace, earlier pas, adopted from OF(-F) pas: L passus (gen passūs), a pace or step, orig a spreading or stretching of the legs in walking, from passus, pp of pandere, to spread or stretch: perh a nasal derivative of patēre (? orig padēre*), to be or lie open, to extend (vi), and, if so, akin also to Av pathanō, stretched out; L patēre is prob akin to L spatium (q.v. at SPACE). If the IE r were pa-*, a pace, to pace, then one would compare Hit pāi, to go, panzi, they go.

2. OF pas also becomes E pass, a pace (obs), a way through, e.g., mountains; pass, an act of passing, a permit, etc., derives from MF-F passé, from OF-F passer, to pass, from VL passāre*, from the L n passus; also from passer comes 'to pass', to move, proceed, go through, to exchange or be exchanged.

3. Cpds of pass, or of F passer, are passover, esp Passover (in afflicting the Egyptians, God passed over the Israelites)—passé-partout, adopted from EF-F—passport, imm from EF-F passéport (passé, he passes+port, harbour)—password (a word allowing one to pass)—pastime, something that enables one to pass the time agreeably (cf the late MF-F passé-temps).

4. Simple derivatives of pass, or of its F original, include:

passable, adopted from MF-F, from passer, with E neg impassable—cf impasse, adopted from F; passage, adopted from OF-F, from passer; passenger, with intrusive n (cf messenger—messenger): ME, from MF(-F), passager, from passage;

5. Prefix-cpds include:

to compass—whence 'to encompass'—from OF-F compasser, VL compassāre*, to pace off with equal steps, from the L n passus; OF com- passer has derivative OF-F compas, orig a measure, a rule, whence E compass; to surpass, from EF-F surpasser (sur, L super, over+passer); to trespass, from OF trespasser, to pass across, to transgress (F trépasser, to die), VL transpassāre* (L trans, across+the n passus); OF trespasser has derivative OF n trespas (F trépas), whence E trespass, n; derivative OF trespasseor becomes ME trespassour, E trespasser.

pachyderm. See the element pachy-.

pacific (Pacific), pacifism, pacification, pacify. See PACT, para 12.

pack (n, hence v, whence packer—cf MD packer, D pakker—and packing), package, packet (whence packet boat, whence the F paquebot); obvious cpds: packsack, packsaddle, packthread.

1. The n pack, ME pakke, is app of LG origin: cf MD pac, D pak, and MLG packe, pak, G Packe; cf also W beich, baich, Cor bedh, Br bech, a burden. With 'to pack', cf MD packen, D pakken.

2. Package either=pack+suffix -age or derives from D pakke; packet derives from AF pacquet, dim from ME pakke.

pact, paction; compact (adj, whence n and v), compaction; impact (adj, n, v), impaction, and impinge, whence impingement; dispatch (v, hence n); page (of book), paginate, pagination; pageant, whence pageantry; propaganda (whence propagandist), propagate, propagation (whence, anl, propagative and propagatory), propagator; pole, a stake (whence v), poleaxe, and pale, a stake, also v—cf impale, impalement; sep FANG; peace, whence peaceable and peaceful—cf pax, pacific, pacify.

1. Paction, an agreement, derives, perh via MF, from L pactiōn-, o/s of pactiō, itself from pactus, pp of pāscere (orig an inch v), to covenant: akin to L pāc-, o/s of pāx (for pācs*), the fact, or the act, of making, or coming to, an agreement between two belligerents, hence Pāx, the Goddess of Peace, hence also a peaceful agreement, a peace, peace. From the pp pactus comes also the n pactus, pactum, an agreement, whence MF pacti (later, as in F, pacte), whence E pact.

2. L pāscere, pp pāctus, is akin to L pangere (? a nasal form of pagere*), to knock into the ground or fix firmly, to fasten, to conclude, with pp pāctus; to the syn Gr pēgnunai; perh—but only perh—to Skt pāsas, a noose, a bond, and Av pas- to bind; certainly, however, to the OGmc words noted at FANG.

3. L pāciscere has the int (com-) prefix-cpd compācisci, with pp compāctus, whence the n compāctus, var compāctum, an agreement, whence the E syn compact. But compact, a compacted body, and 'to compact', to press closely together, join firmly, derive from the E adj compact, itself from L compactus, pp of compingere, to bring together tightly, to form a close-knit whole: com- for con-, from cum, with +-pingere, c/f of pangere, to fasten.

4. The cpd impingere is an int (im-) of pangere; in LL its dominant sense is perh 'to be driven against, to fall upon': hence 'to impinge'. The pp impāctus yields the obs adj, the v, hence also the n impact; derivative L impāctiō, o/s impāctiōn-, yields impaction.

5. But a dispatch derives—cf Sp despacho, from despachar—from 'to dispatch': and 'to dispatch' derives either from Sp despachar or from It dis-pacciare: dis-, L dis-, apart+a v 'to fasten' deriving, prob via VL, from pāctus, pp of pangere. The forms in des- show F influence. B & W think that the It and Sp vv derive from MF despeechier (F dépêcher) and make despeechier a des- derivative from empeschier (F empêcher), which is of completely different origin.

6. That L pangere is a nasalized form of a PL pagere* rather follows from the existence of L pāgina, orig a trellis, then a column of writing, finally a page, whence, via OF pagene, the MF-F page, adopted by E. Derivative LL adj pāginālis becomes E paginal; derivative LL pāgināre, to construct, to compose, to write, has pp pāginātus, whence 'to paginate', whence, anpl, pagination.

7. In AL, pāgina came to mean a stage's movable scaffold, and what was exhibited thereon (cf the Gr-LL pēgma, a scaffolding, and the 'to construct' sense of LL pāgināre); hence ME pagen, later pagent (? after extend, extent): E pageant.

8. Akin to L pangere is, also, L propāgēs (var propāgō), a layered branch or stock of a vine, a slip: pro-+r pāg-. Propāgēs has derivative propāgāre, to reproduce by slips, to propagate, with pp propāgātus, whence 'to propagate'; derivative propāgātiō, o/s propāgātiōn-, becomes, via MF-F, the E propagation; derivative agent L propāgātor is adopted by E. Propaganda—like F propagande—derives from Congregatio de propaganda fide, 'the council dealing with propagating the Faith', the Catholic Church's Congregation of Propaganda, founded in 1622: compare the College of Propaganda, instituted a few years later for the education of priests destined for missions.

9. A pale or stake, hence 'slab' of a fence, derives from MF(-F) pal, from L pālus, a stake, a pole: cf pāla, anything one drives, or fixes, into the ground: IE etymons, puk-sl-o-s* and pak-sl-a*, a stake. MF-F pal has derivative, to enclose as with stakes or pales, whence 'to pale'; cf 'to inpale', from EF-F empaler, to drive a stake into, also enclose with a palisade: em-, for en-, in(to)+ paler. Derivative EF-F empalement has prompted impalement.

10. L pālus, a stake, has VL derivative palicea*, whence OProv palissa, with derivative palissada, whence MF-F palissade, whence E palisade. The F word, however, could be palis (from pal)+ orthographic -s+-ade. Cf PALACE.

11. L pālus, stake, becomes OE pāl, whence ME pol, pole, E pole; the ME cpd pollax, polax, becomes poleaxe, AE poleax: cf AX(E).

12. Reverting to L pāx (see para 1), we find that, apart from its Eccl senses, it has the derivative cpd adj pācificus (pāci-, c/f of pāx+-ficus, derivative of -ficāre, c/f of facere, to make), peace-causing, whence MF-F pacifique, whence E pacific, whence 'the Pacific (Ocean)', so named by Magellan because, during his voyage (1520–21) to the Philippines, it behaved very calmly. L pācificus has derivative pācificāre, whence MF-F pacifier, whence 'to pacify'; the derivative pācificatiō, o/s pācificatiōn-, leads, via late MF-F, to pacification.

13. L pāx, acc pācem, becomes OF paiz, MF pais, the latter adopted by ME; ME pais becomes late ME pees, whence E peace. Derivative OF-F peisible becomes ME peisible, whence, after peace, the E peaceable.

pad (1), a path or a road, whence the v; from n and v, footpad. This pad is of LG origin: cf MD paden, to walk along a path, MD pader, a path-walker, and D-LG pad, a path: f.a.e., PATH.

pad (2), a cushion (furniture, hence foot)—hence v (whence the vn padding)—is o.o.o.—but 'pad of foot' does suggest an ult kinship to PAD (1).

pad (3), an open pannier, is a dial var of ped, ME pedde, o.o.o.; the dial derivative pedder became—? after meddler—ME pedlere, whence pedlar, peddler, whence, by b/f, 'to peddle'.

padding. See the 2nd PAD.

paddle (1), used in rowing-boats, is o.o.o.: ? sense of the 3rd PAD. Hence paddle wheel and paddle steamer.

paddle (2), to wade in shallow water, is prob a freq of pad, to walk: cf the G dial padde n, to walk short-paced, to paddle. Perh cf prec.

paddock, an enclosed field. See PARK, para 2.

Paddy. See PATRICK.

paddy, unmilled rice: Mal padi.

padlock is perh a lock shaped like a shallow basket (cf the 3rd PAD).

padre. See FATHER, para 4.

paean; pacon, paemonic (adj, hence n); peony.

1. A paean, adopted from L, derives from Gr paian, itself from Paian, the Healer, app from paiein, to strike, to touch forcibly, to touch so as to heal, Paian 'The Healer' being an epithet applied to Apollo; it began iē paiēōn (Ionic form of Attic iō paiōn), 'lo! the healer' (lī παῖων). Perh cf, ult, 'to PAVE'.

2. Gr paian, song of praise, has Attic form paiōn, whence the metrical foot (— ∪ ∪ ∪) known in L and E as paeon; the derivative Gr adj paiōnikos becomes L paemonicus, whence E paemonic.

3. Attic Paiōn, the Healer, has derivative paidōnia (his flower), L paonia, OE peonie, whence—although partly via OF peone, MF pyone (F pivoine)—E peony.

pagan (n, hence adj), paganic, paganism, paganize; paynim; peasant (n, hence adj), whence peasantry.

1. Pagan (ME-E) derives from LL pāgānus, a heathen, from L pāgānus, a civilian, earlier a peasant, orig a villager, from L pāgus, a village, a rural district, orig a boundary post stuck into the ground: prob from pangere, to stick (something) into (esp the ground), to fix firmly, and therefore akin to pāx (something firmly established): pang- is a nasal var of r pag-.

2. LL pāgānus, a heathen, has derivative adj pāgānicus, whence E paganic, and derivative n pāgānismus, whence, perh via EF-F paganisme, E paganism; learned F paganiser becomes 'to paganize'.

3. LL pāgānismus becomes OF palenisme, whence ME painime, painim, heathendom, later a heathen, whence E paynim, now archaic.

4. L pāgus, a rural district, has LL derivative pāgēnsis, an inhabitant thereof, whence OF palsenc (-enc, from Gmc -ing, 'a native'), whence MF palsent, palsant, whence ME paissaunt, whence E peasant.

page (1): of book. See FACT, para 6.

page (2): at court: MF page: It paggio: prob from Gr paidion, dim of pais (o/s paid-), a boy: f.a.e. PEDAGOGUE.

pageant, pageantry. See FACT, para 7.

paginal, paginate, pagination. See FACT, para 6.

pagoda, a temple: Port pagode: Tamil pagavadi: Skt bhagavati, belonging to a deity, from bhagavat, a deity.

pagro. See PORGY.

Pahlavi. See PARTHIA.

paid. See PAY.

paidentics. See PEDAGOGIC, para 2.

pall. See PEG.

paillasse, palliasse; paillette, pallet (bed).

The 2nd anglicizes the 1st; the 1st, adopted from F, derives from It pagliaccio, VL paleaceum*, prop the neu of paleaceus*, adj (-aceus) of L palea, chaff, straw: cf syn Skt pālāva, OSl pļeva, and perh L pellis, a skin. Pallet anglicizes F paillette, dim of paille, straw, L palea.

pain (n, v), whence painful, painless, painstaking; penal (whence penalize), penalty—penance—penitence, penitent (adj, hence n)—impenitence, impenitent—penitential, penitentiary; subpoena; repent, repentance, repentant—repine—pine (v);—punish, punishment—punitive, anl punitory—impunity;—cf the sep PATIENCE.

1. Subpoena is a modern Law Latin coinage from L sub poena, under penalty: L poena, penalty, punishment, hence torment, pain, becomes OF(-F) peine, penalty, pain, adopted by ME, whence E pain; 'to pain', ME peinen, derives from OF peiner, from peine.

2. L poena is a trln of Doric Gr poinā, var of Attic poinē, legal compensation, a fine, hence expiation, punishment: cf Av kaēnā, punishment, revenge, OSl cēna, Lith kaina, reward, Skt kayate, he revenges, exacts punishment; IE r, ket-, varr kai-, koi-*, to reckon (count), hence to make a reckoning.

3. L poena has adj poenālis, whence, via OF-MF penal, F pénal, the E penal; derivative ML poenālitās, penālitās, becomes late MF-F pénalité, whence E penality (obs), whence, by contr, penalty.

4. Poena has the v poenire (rare), with predominant var pūnire, to take vengeance upon, exact a penalty from, punish: OF punir, whence, via such parts as presp punissant and 'nous punissons' (we punish), the ME punischen, punishen, E 'to punish', whence punishable (cf the MF-F punissable); OF punir has derivative punissement, whence punishment. The L pp pūnitus has neg impūnitus, with derivative impūnitās, whence MF-F impunité, whence impunity. On the pps pūnit- are formed pūnitō, o/s pūnitōn-, whence, via MF-F, the now rare punition, and ML pūnitivus, whence punitive.

5. L poenire has caus poenitēre, var paenitēre, to cause to repent, hence also to repent; presp pacnitens, o/s paenitent-, becomes MF penitent (F pé-), E penitent; derivative LL paenitentia, regret for sin, becomes OF penitence (F pé-), E penitence. The more Gallic OF peance, penance, becomes ME penaunce, E penance. The L neg impaenitens, o/s impaenitent-, and its derivative impaenitentia, become—perh via EF-F impénitent and late MF-F impénitence—the E impenitent, impenitence. L paenitentia has, moreover, the LL derivative paenitentiālis, concerned with penitence, whence, perh via MF-F pénitential (cf the more general pénitentiel), the E penitential. Also on the s paenitent- arises the ML paenitentiāria (prob the f of an adj paenitentiārius*), a tribunal examining cases of conscience, confession, absolution, etc., whence, ult, the modern sense of 'a house of correction' (prison).

6. L poena becomes OE pīn, penalty, pain, whence OE pīnian, to torment, ME pīnen, to torment, hence also to suffer torment, whence 'to pine', now only vi. 'To repine' simply tacks prefix re- to pine.

7. 'To repent', however, derives from the OF-F v '(se) repentir', a re- cpd of OF '(se) penitir', from VL penitire*, from L paenitēre in its impersonal use, as in me paenitet, it causes me regret or repentance; derivative OF-F repentance is adopted by E, as is the OF-F presp repentant.

paint (v, hence n), whence painting—painter; pict, Pict (whence Pictish)—cf dépic, depiction; pictorial, picture (n, hence v), picturesque (adj, hence n); pigment (n, hence v), pigmentary—pimento, orpiment; pinto;—picric, picrite;—file, the instrument, whence 'to file', and, from its rough, granulated skin, the filefish, and the vn filings.

1. 'To paint', ME peinten, derives from peint, f peinte, pp of OF-F peindre, from L pingere, to paint; painter, from OF-MF peintor, from pinctorem*, acc of VL pinctor*, var of L pictor. L pingere, s and r ping-, pp pictus, s pict-, r ? pic-*, is akin to Skt piṅkte, he paints, piṅgas, reddish brown, piṅjāras, reddish yellow; the IE r is app peig-, to paint, closely linked to peik-, to adorn—whether by incision, hence by writing, or by laying-on colour: cf Skt pinsāti, he adorns, OSl pisati, to write (cf pēgū, many-hued), OP peisāt, he writes, Lith piesti, to write, to draw, Tokh B pinkam, he writes.

2. The L pp pictus yields the rare pict, to paint, whence Picti, a f/e re-shaping of OE Peohtas, the Picts.

3. L pingere has cpd dēpingere, to describe by painting or drawing, with pp dēpictus, whence 'to depict'; derivative LL dēpictiō, o/s dēpictiōn-, becomes E depiction.

4. On the L pp s pict- arise both pictor, a painter, with derivative adj pictorius, s pictōri-, whence E pictorial (cf LL pictōria, painting, for pictōria ars), and pictūra, a painting, whether process or product, whence picture. L pictor becomes It pittore, with derivative -esco (F, E -esque) adj pittoresco, whence F pittoresque, whence—after picture—the E picturesque.

5. That L pingere is a nasal development of a PL r pig-*, appears from L pigmentum (suffix -mentum), whence OF-F pigment and, perh independently, E pigment; the derivative L adj pigmentarius yields pigmentary. L pigmentum becomes Sp pimienta, Port pimenta, whence, prob by confusion with Sp pimiento (same origin), the E pimento. Cf E orpiment: OF-F orpiment: L auripigmentum, pigment of gold (aurum).

6. Two other R derivatives affecting E are (1) pintado, chintz (obs), Cape pigeon, guinea fowl: Port pintado, pp of pintar, to paint; and (2) pinto, a piebald horse or a Pakawa Indian (tattooed): Sp pinto, painted.

7. picrite derives from Gr pikros, bitter, with Min suffix -ite, much as picric (acid) derives from pikros, with general adj suffix -ic: picric acid is used in dye-making, and picrite contains a large percentage of magnesia (slightly bitter): pikros, s pikr-, r pik-, app derives from PGr peik-* (cf para 1).

painter (1). See prec, para 1.

painter (2)—of boat. See PEND, para 5.

pair (n, hence v), impair (adj, hence n); par, parity, disparity, imparity, nonpareil; peer, peeress, peerless, compeer; compare (v, hence n), comparable (incomparable), comparator, comparison, comparative; disparage, disparagement; umpire (n, hence v);—perh pornocracy, pornographer, pornographic, pornography;—cf the sep PART, q.v. at PARSE.

1. The effective base of most of these words is the L adj pār, equal, hence an equal: o.o.o.: perh cf Hit pariyas, app 'of a pair': perh also cf Gr pornē (s porn-, r por-), a prostitute (cf pornos, debauchery), from or akin to Gr pernēmi, I sell (and export), Gr prostitutes having orig been bought slaves (L & S): prob the VL pāria* (see para 6) was orig 'a term of barter, akin to L pārē to value equally, . . . Av pairyente they are compared, OIr renim [? for prenim*] I sell' (Webster): cf LL pāriāre (from pāria), to make, or be, equal, to traffic.

2. Gr pornē, a prostitute, occurs in the learned E cpd pornocracy, government (-cracy: Elements) by prostitutes. The Gr cpd pornographos, a writer on prostitution, whence F pornographe, has suggested E pornographer, pornographic, pornography (F pornographie).

3. L pār, n, esp as 'equal', is adopted by E. The derivative LL paritās, o/s paritāt-, becomes MF-F parité, whence E parity; neg LL imparitās becomes MF-F imparité, E imparity, the L n deriving imm from the neg adj impār, whence F-E impair. Anl with imparitās is LL disparitās, o/s disparitāt-, whence EF-F disparité, whence E disparity.

4. L pār, equal, has extn parilis, which perh suggested LL pariculus* (prop a dim), whence OF-F pareil, with neg MF-F nonpareil, adopted by E as adj, whence n.

5. L pār, n, becomes OF-MF per (late MF-F pair), E peer, a person of equal rank, hence, as for MF per, a nobleman; hence peerage and peeress and the adj peerless, having no peer or equal. Cf the n compeer: ME comper: MF comper: L compār, adj and n.

6. L pār, adj, has neupl pāria, whence the VL n pāria*, a pair, OF-F paire, ME pair, E pair, two of a kind.

7. With disparity (para 3, s.f.), cf 'to disparage': OF-MF desparagier (F déparager), to marry unequally: des-, L dis-, apart+parage, extraction, lineage, from per, of equal high birth; derivative OF-MF desparagement, a misalliance, becomes E disparagement, misalliance (obs), disgrace (obsol), detraction.

8. With nonpareil (para 4), cf umpire: EE 'an umpire' for 'a numpire': ME nompere (nounpere): OF nomper, earlier nonper: non, not+per, equal.

9. L pār, equal, has the derivative int compār (cf para 5, s.f.), reciprocally alike, hence n, a like person or thing, and compār itself has derivative comparāre, to render alike, to treat as alike, whence OF-F comparer, whence 'to compare'. Derivative L comparābilis becomes OF-F comparable, adopted by E, and the L neg incomparābilis becomes OF-F incomparable, likewise adopted. On comparāt-, s of the pp comparātus, arise the agent comparātor, adopted by E; comparātiō, o/s comparātiōn-, OF-F comparaison, E comparison; comparātiuus (ML -ivus), MF-F comparatif, f comparative, adopted by E.

pajama (mostly AE), pyjama (mostly E), now—except as adj—only in pl: Hind pājāmā, paijāmā, a Mohammedan's loose trousers, lit a 'leg-garment': Per pā, pāi, a leg+jamāh, garment.

pakeha: Maori for a white man, orig and esp a Briton: either 'foreign' (sc person) or 'turnip-coloured', i.e. pale, i.e. fair.

pal (n, hence v). See FRATER, para 2.

palace, palatial, palais de danse; palatine, palatine-ate; paladin; palsgrave.

1. Palace, ME from OF-F palais (cf palais de danse, dance-'palace'), derives from LL palātium, a royal abode, itself—because Caesar Augustus had his there—from L Palātium, the Palatine Hill of Rome; Palatium is perh akin to L pālus, a stake, the hill having prob, and very early, been a palisaded place (Webster).

2. Palatial, the adj of palace, represents L palāti-, s of palātium+adj suffix -al; the L adj is LL palātīnus, from L Palātīnus: MF-F palatin, E palatine. Derivative MF-F palatinat becomes E palatinate. The E adj and the E n connote '(having) royal privileges'.

3. In LL, the palātīni (pl of palātīnus used as n) were high-ranking officials; in ML, palātīnus was an official of the royal palace, whence It paladino, whence EF-F paladin, one of the twelve peers of France, whence E paladin, orig the champion of a medieval king or prince, now a legendary, esp if medieval, hero.

4. LL-ML palātium, a palace, becomes D palts, which has ED cpd paltsgrave (D paltsgraaf), whence E palsgrave, a count palatine: cf G Pfalzgraf. His wife is a palsgravine: D paltsgravin: cf G Pfalzgräfin.

paladin. See prec, para 3. palaeobotany, palaeography, etc. See Elements at palaio-.

palais de danse. See PALACE, para 1.

palama, palamate. See FEEL, para 7.

palankeen, but usu palanquin: (like F palanquin, from) Port palanquin: Javanese pēlaŋki: Prakrit pallanka: Skt palyaṅka, var (l for r) of paryāṅka, palanquin, earlier a bed, earlier a sitting posture, orig a loin-cloth: cpd of pari, around (cf Gr peri) + prob ancai, it curves or goes, but perh anka, a curving, a curve. Prakrit pallanka becomes Marathi pālkhī, pālki, Hind pālki, Anglo-Indian palkee or palki.

palate, whence palatable and—unless adopted from F—palatal, whence palatalize, whence palatalization; palatine: from palate: palation, palatitis; cf the element palato-; perh peel, a shovel.

1. Palate, roof of mouth, derives from L palātum (var palātus): o.o.o.: perh akin to L pāla, a shovel (itself perh related to L pandus, curved), whence, via OF pele (F pelle), the ME pele, E peel, a shovel.

2. From L palātum, learned F derives the adj palatal and palatin, the latter yielding E palatine.

palatial; palatinate, palatine. See PALACE, para 2.

palation (2), palatal. See PALATE, para 2.

palatine, palatitis. See PALATE (heading).

palaver. See PARABLE, para 3.

pale (1), adj (and v), whence paleness; pallid, pallor; appal or appall (whence appalling), hence, by aphesis, 'to pall'; cf the sep FALLOW, adj.

1. 'To pale' derives from OF-F pālis, itself from OF-F pāle, whence E pale: and OF pāle derives from L pallidus (whence E pallid), itself from pallēre, to be, to go, pale, whence pallor, adopted by E (cf the F pāleur): and pallēre, s pall-, r pal-, is akin to Ve pālītās, grey, Gr pelitnos (Ionic pelidnos), livid, sombre, Lith pilkas, grey, palvas, pale, OHG falo, livid, pale.

2. OF pālis has cpd apālis, apāllis, to become, to render, pale, with a- for L ad, used int: ME apallen, later appallen, E 'to appai', to become pale (obs), to cause to become pale.

pale (2), a stake; hence as v. See FACT, para 9.

paleobotany, -graphy, -lithic, -logy, paleontology. See the element palaio-.

Palestine, whence Palestinian.

The adj derives from L Palestinus (var of Palaestinus), adj of Palestīna, var of Palaestina, trln of Gr Palaistīnē, itself from H Pelesheth. The inhabitants were, in H, Pelīstīm or Pelīshīm (cf Ar Filastīn), whence Gr Philistinoi, LL Philistini, both pl, whence, by b/f, the F sing Philistin, whence E Philistine (n, hence adj). Strictly, the Philistines inhabited S.W. Palestine; 'after harassing the Israelites for centuries they were finally assimilated by the native Semites' (Webster) and were regarded as barbarians, hence Philistine, an unenlightened person, hostile to art, literature, thought, the transition being aided, both in E and in F, by G Philister, a G universities' (orig, theological students') slang name—at Jena as early as C17—for a townsman, hence outsider, hence any ignorant person. First used in France by Théophile Gautier in 1847 (B & W), Philistine was 'introduced into England by Matthew Arnold (cf Judges, xvi, 9)' (Walshe). Hence Philistinism.

palette; pallet, implement with flat blade and a handle. The painter's palette, adopted from F, derives, as a dim (-ette), from L pāla, a shovel (cf peel at PALATE, para 1, s.f.): and from F palette comes the E implement pallet.

palfrey: ME palefrat: OF palefrei (F palefroi): ML palefredus, palefredus, for (r becomes l) ML parafredus, a contr var of ML paraveredus, from LL paraueredus, 'post horse for the lesser highways and out-of-the-way places' (Souter), the ML form accounting also for the OHG-MHG forms that end up as G Pferd, horse: a hybrid of Gr para, near, beside+LL ueraedus, ueredus, a courier's horse, a post horse (Souter), the latter being of C origin: cf W gorwydd, a trained horse (app a cpd: go-rhwydd); the rare Cor verh, a horse; Gaul woredos*, app a cpd: wo+redos, the latter intimately related to Gaul-L raeda, reda, a cart, a waggon, from the C r red-, ret-, to run. (Walshe; Malvezin.)

Pali: Skt pāli, line, hence a series: from the series of Buddhist religious writings.

palimpsest, palindrome, palinode. See the element pali-; for palinode, see also ODE, para 2.

palisade. See FACT, para 10.

palkee, palki. See PALANQUIN, s.f.

pall (1), a rich stuff for garments (obs), hence a fine covering cloth, esp over a coffin (whence pall-bearer), a cloak: ME pal: OE pael: L pallium (s palli-, r pall-), a covering cloth, a man's cloak, a toga, closely akin to L palla, a woman's cloak:

o.o.o.: perh (r becoming l) cf Gr pharos, a kind of garment (E & M), or, less prob, the L pellis, skin (Webster). As used in An and Zoo, pallium has adj pallial. Cf PALLIATE.

pall (2), v. See the 1st PALE (heading).

palladium; Pallas.

The Chem element palladium (suffix -ium) is derived by SciL from the asteroid Pallas, itself named after the Gr tutelary goddess Pallas Athena, whence Palladion, L Palladium, a famous protective statue of her, whence E palladium, any potent safeguard.

Gr Pallas, gen Pallados, personifies pallas, maiden.

pall-bearer. See the 1st PALL.

pallet (1), a bed. See PAILLASSE, s.f.

pallet (2), implement. See PALETTE.

pallial. See the 1st PALL, s.f.

palliasse. See PAILLASSE.

palliate, palliation, palliative (adj, hence n).

'To palliate', to cloak or disguise (obs), hence to mitigate, derives from LL palliatus, cloaked, from palliāre, to conceal, orig to cover with a pallium, q.v. at the 1st PALL. Derivative ML palliātio, o/s palliātiōn-, and ML adj palliātivus yield—perh via F—palliation and palliative.

pallid. See the 1st PALE, para 1.

pallium. See the 1st PALL, s.f.

pall-mall. See MALL, para 1.

pallor. See the 1st PALE, para 1.

pal; palmar, palmate; palmer; palmetto; palmistry. See FEEL, para 2.

palmus. See FEEL, para 3.

palmy. See FEEL, para 2, s.f.

palp, palpable, palpate, palpation. See FEEL, para 4.

palpebral. See FEEL, para 5.

palpitant, palpitate, palpitation. See FEEL, para 6.

palsgrave. See PALACE, para 4.

palsy. See LOSE, para 13.

palter is prob a b/f from paltry, trashy, petty, contemptible, which, like dial paltry, peltry, palt, pelt, rags, rubbish, prob derives from LG: cf LG paltrig, ragged, from palte, a rag, a tatter.

paludal; paludine; paludous, marshy: resp L palūd-, o/s palūs, a marsh+adj suffix -al; L palūd-+adj -ine; L palūdōsus, marshy; and L palūs (r pal-) is akin to Skt palvalam, a marsh, a large pond, and Lith pėlkė, a marsh: the IE r is app pal-, varr pel-, pil-*, to pour (water), as in Lith pilū, pilti, and, ? metathetic, L pluit, it rains (cf PLUVIAL).

pam. See PAMPHLET, para 2.

Pampa, the great grassy plain of SArgentina; pampas, vast treeless plains S of the Amazon; joint adj, pampean (pampa, pampas+suffix -ean). Pampa and pampas, both adopted from Sp, derive from Quechua (and Aymara) pampa, a plain.

pamper, whence pa pampered and vn pampering, app comes from the syn LG pamperen, caus of pampen, to live softly and luxuriously, itself prob from pampe, thick pap, perh a nasal var of the r of PAP.

pamphlet, whence pamphleteer (n, hence v): ME pamflet, contr of pamfiler: OF pamfilet, for Pamphilet, a small book: a popular dim (-et) of Pamphilus, short form of the C12 poem Pamphilus seu de Amore, 'Pamphilus, or Concerning Love', which prob owed much of its tremendous popularity to its remarkable characterization of an old bawd.

2. L Pamphilus, Loved by All (Gr Pamphilos) becomes F Pamphile, whence the card-game pamphile, whence E pam.

Pan, whence Panpipe(s); panic, adj, whence n (whence panicky), whence v.

The n panic prob owes something to Gr to panikon deima, fear caused by Pan, often elliptically to panikon: panikon is the neu of adj panikos, of Pan, whence EF-F panique (whence the n panique), whence the E adj panic. Gr panikos is the adj of Pan (itself duly adopted by L, hence by E); and Gr Pan, var Paion, Arkadian Paon, perh derives from Skt Pūśān-, a Vedic god, the protector and increaser of herds (Hofmann).

pan (1), a part. See PANE.

pan (2), a utensil, whence pancake and pan-handle, whence panhandler (handler of a pan or bowl or cup for alms), whence, by b/f, 'to pan-handle'; pannikin; paten or patin; penny, pfennig.

1. Pan, broad and shallow and (except in sauce-pan) usu open, derives from ME, from OE, panne, which, perh via ON panna, derives prob from ML panna, contr of L patina, a cooking bowl, itself from Gr patanē: akin to Gr pataknon and L patera, a large flat vase, and therefore to Hit pittar, a plate.

2. Very closely akin to, prob a mere var of, L patina is L patena, a plate, whence MF-F patène, whence ME pateyne, E patten; the E var patin is prob influenced by L patina.

3. Akin to OE-ME panne are MD panne, D pan, and OHG pfanna, MHG-G pfanne, a pan; the D dim pannekijn becomes E pannikin.

4. Perh from OHG pfanna is OHG pfenning, MHG pfenninc later eased to pfennic, whence G Pfennig, a G penny, akin, obviously, to E penny, ME peni, OE penig, easement of pening, penning (var pending): cf ON penningr and MD pennic, penninc, and, as in D, penning, and OFris penning, penning, pannig, panning (cf OFris panne, a pan); the OGmc suffix -ing is that occurring also in shilling. The sem link is: 'made in a pan' (Walshe)—or perh 'pan-shaped' (Webster). And, by the way, the A sl pan, a face, as in 'dead pan', an expressionless face or, hence, its owner, derives from seeing one's face mirrored in the bottom of a well burnished frying-pan belonging to a gold-miner or, maybe, a housewife: cf, sem, dial and clock(-face).

pan-, 'all-', in cpds. See the element pan-.

panacea. See the element pan-.

panache. See the 2nd PEN, para 4.

Panam. See PANTRY, para 2.

panama is elliptical for Panama hat, formerly distributed mainly from Panama City, CA.

pancake. See the 2nd PAN (heading).

pancreas. See the element pan-.

panda is o.o.o.: ? Tibetan.

pandanus is a SciL re-shaping of Mal pandan.

pandar. See PANDER.

pandect, a complete digest: F pandecte: LL pandectes (pl), Justinian's collection of laws: Gr pandektēs, n from adj 'all-receiving': pan, neu of pas, all+-dektēs, receiving, from dekhesthai, to receive.

pandemic. See DEMOCRACY, para 2.

pandemonium, whence adj pandemoniac. See the element pan-.

pander, n (var pandar, obsol), whence v; Pandarus.

A pander, or sexual intermediary, derives from Chaucer's Pandare or, adopted from L, Pandarus: Gr Pandaros, in The Iliad: the intermediary between Troilus and Cressida: the E popularity of the word owes a little to Boccaccio's Pandaro and much to Shakespeare's Troilus and Cressida.

Pandora. See the element pan-.

pandore, pandura. See MANDOLIN.

pane (1), a piece, and pan, a part; panel (n, hence v).

1. Pane, a piece, usu square, of cloth (obs), hence a piece or a facet, a division or compartment as, e.g., of a window, derives, like pan, a part or a division, from ME pan: OF pan: L pannus, a piece of cloth, a rag, influenced, in several senses, by the cognate L panis, a panel. L pannus prob belongs to the IE group typified by pen-*, (vi) to hang: f.a.e., PEND.

2. Panel, ME from MF panel, derives from VL pannellus*, dim of L pannus, and prob also from VL panellus*, dim of L panis, a panel.

pane (2); peen.

1. A pane or peen, that end of a hammer's head which is opp the face, derives, the former from OF-MF pane (F panne), the latter perh from the MF var penne: prob from VL patina*, app from Gr pathnē, var of phatnē, a crèche, but perh from that Gmc r which is represented by MD penne, D pen, a pin, and by G Pinne, pane of a hammer (f.a.e., PIN).

panegyric. See the element pan-.

paneity. See PANTRY, para 5.

panel. See the 1st PANE, para 2.

pang, n, hence v—esp in pp panged; prong whence the quadruped pronghorn.

Pang, a sharp pain, is o.o.o.; but app it blends—or, if you prefer, confuses—E pain and ME prange, var of pronge, a sharp pain, prob intimately related to ME pronge, prange, a fork, hence the tine of a fork: cf MLG prange, a (sharp) stick, prangen, to pinch, and MHG-G pranger, a pillory, and Go anapraggan (pron -prangan), to afflict, oppress: ? ult echoic.

panhandle, panhandler. See the 2nd PAN (heading).

panic, panicky. See PAN.

panification. See PANTRY, para 7.

Panjab (Punjab), Panjabi; punch, the drink.

1. Panjabi is prop the adj (indicated by -i) of Panjab, the land of the 'five rivers' (Indus and tributaries). With pan-, cf Skt pañca, 5; the E pron pun- occurs also in pundit, prop pandit; f.a.e., FIVE, para 16.

2. Pan- app recurs in punch, a drink consisting of five ingredients.

panjandrum. See CONUNDRUM.

pannage. See PASTOR, para 7.

pannam. See PANTRY, para 2.

pannier. See PANTRY, para 3.

pannikin. See the 2nd PAN, para 3.

panoply. See the element pan-.

panorama, whence panoramic. See the element -orama.

Panpipe. See PAN (heading).

pansy. See PEND, para 11, s.f.

pant, to breathe hard. See FANCY, para 8.

pantaloon, with pl yielding, by abbr, pants and, by dim, pantalets or pantalettes.

Pantaloon anglicizes EF-F pantalon, recorded for 1651 in modern sense and for 1550 thus, 'L'un vêtu en Pantalon, l'autre en Zani' (cf ZANY): It Pantalone, contr of Pantaleone, a long-trousered character, always a Venetian, of It comedy: from St Pantaleon, held in high regard by the Venetians (B & W): lit 'entirely lion', hence 'exceptionally courageous'.

pantechnicon. See the element pan-.

pantheism, Pantheon. See THEISM, para 2, and cf the element pan-, s.f. panther is a Classical re-shaping of ME, from OF, pantere: L panthera: Gr panthēr: akin to Skt pundārikas, a tiger: perh to E PARD. Derivative L pantherinus yields pantherine.

pantile combines pan, a dish, and a roof tile: from the shape.

pantomime, pantomimic.

The adj derives from L pantomimicus, from the n pantomimus, whence, via EF-F, the E pantomime, orig 'he who mimes everything', as in L and in the orig Gr pantomimos: antos, of everything, mimos, q.v. at MIME.

pantry, whence pantryman; pannier; 'pannam', ? 'Panam'; paneity; pastille; panification;—prefix-cpds: accompany, accompaniment, whence, anl, accompanist; appanage; companion (n, hence v), whence companionable, companionship (? suggested by F compagnonnage), companionate—company, n and v; impanate, impanation.

1. Behind all these terms, the L pānis (s and r pān-), bread, stands unmistakable: app from PL pasnis*, pānis is prob akin, ult, to L pāscere (s pāsc-, r pās-), to nourish, q.v. sep at PASTOR. If that be so, the IE r would be pa-*, to nourish: cf Gr pateomal (s pate-, r pat-), I eat—lit, I nourish myself.

Simples

2. L pānis has acc pānem, which suggested the obs cant pannam, -um, bread, and perh blended with Paris to form the F sl Panam, Paris.

3. The derivative L adj pānārius has neu pānārium, used as n for 'bread-basket': whence OF, hence ME, panier, E pannier.

4. L pānis becomes OF-F pain, whence—perh influenced by ML panetārius, a baker—the OF-F paneterie, bread-store, whence ME panetrie, contr to pantrie, whence pantry.

5. In LL, pānis acquires the special sense 'the Eucharist'; whence the learned E paneity, the quality of being bread.

6. Pānis has dim pāstillum, a small loaf, hence, because shaped like such a loaf, a pastille; the L, in the 2nd sense, becomes EF-F pastille, adopted by E.

Compounds

7. LL forms the cpd pānificāre, to make bread, whence EF-F panifier, with derivative panification, adopted by E.

8. More numerous are the prefix-cpds, of which the most important group is that of companion, company, the latter from ML compānia, lit the sharing of bread with another, the former from ML compāniō, o/s compāniōn-, via OF-F compagnie and via OF-F compagnon; 'to company' was prob suggested by OF compagnier.

9. OF compagnier has OF cpd acompanier (or acc-), MF-F acompanier, whence 'to accompany'; the derivative, orig Mus, MF-F accompagnement becomes E accompaniment.

10. OF pain has a further cpd: MF-F apanage, whence E apanage, orig the provision made for young members of the royal family, now usu appanage: from OF-MF apaner, to support, (lit) to nourish: ML appānāre, to supply with bread: ap-, for ad, to + pān-, s of pānis + inf -āre.

11. L pānis has the Theo ML cpd impānāre, to embody in bread, with pp impānātus, whence the E Theo adj impanate; derivative ML impānātiō, o/s impānātiōn-, yields impanation.

pants, trousers. See PANTALOON (heading).

pap, a nipple, hence anything nipple-shaped, ME pappe, cf Lith papās, nipple, may ult be akin to pap, soft food, cf MD pappe (MD-D pap); the latter is prob, the former perh, akin to L pappa, a child's word for food. Therefore cf PAPILLA.

papa. See FATHER, para 16.

papacy, papal. See FATHER, para 16.

Papaver, papaverine. See POPPY.

papaw (pawpaw); papaya.

The former derives from Sp papayo, the papaw tree; the latter is adopted from Sp papaya, its fruit: of Caribbean origin, esp Antillean Carib papaya (the fruit).

paper (n, hence v), whence papery; papier mâché; papyrus, cf the element papyro-; taper (n, hence v), whence taperwise, like a taper, whence the adj taper.

1. E paper, like F papier (as in papier mâché, lit 'chewed paper'—cf MASTICATE), derives from OF-F papier: L papyrus, the tall sedge from which the Ancient Egyptians made a sort of paper (E papyrus) and which grew also in Near and Middle Eastern countries: Gr papuros; o.o.o., but prob Eg.

2. In LL-ML, papyrus meant also a wick and, in ML, also a small wax candle (the orig sense of the E taper): whence, by dissimilation, OE tapur, later tapor, then taper, whence E taper, now usu a long thin candle or waxed wick, hence, via the v, the adj tapering.

papilla, whence—cf mammillary from mammilla—papillary; pappus; papule, whence papular; pimple, whence pimply; cf the sep PEPPER.

1. Papilla, a nipple, LL a pustule, a pimple, is adopted from L, where, meaning orig (in L) a small bud, it is a dim, very closely related to L papula, a pimple, LL a nipple, adapted by Med E as papule. The r of both words is pap-.

2. Perh akin to papilla and papula is L pappus (s papp-, r pap-), the beard or down forming the cotton-like crest of certain plants, but orig a grandfather, an old man: trln of Gr pappos, intimately related to Gr pappas, pappa, whence L pappas, pappa, (familiarily) father, perh id with L pappa, nourishment, food: see PAP.

3. L papilla and papula are akin to Lith papās and Skt pippalaka, a nipple, themselves closely akin to the Lith pampiti, to swell up, a nasal form of papti*. Cf pimple, which perh represents a thinned nasal cognate of the syn L papula; for the thinning, perh cf the non-nasal OE piplian, to have herpes. With the basic pap-, perh cf the Hit pappars-, to sprinkle or pour, paparashun, I sprinkled or poured.

papillon. See PAVILION, para 1.

papism; papist, whence papistic, papistry. See FATHER, para 16.

pappus. See PAPILLA, para 2.

pappy (1), adj = PAP + euphonic -p- + adj -y.

pappy (2), n, papa. See FATHER, para 16.

paprika. See PEPPER, para 2.

Papua, whence the adj, hence n, Papuan, derives from Mal papuwa, frizzled, the New Guinea natives having frizzy hair.

papule. See PAPILLA, para 1, s.f.

papyraceous (L papyrāceus) and papyral (E suffix -al) are adj of papyrus, q.v. at PAPER, para 1.

par, adj, n. See PAIR, para 3.

parable (n, hence v)—parabola (whence Geom parabolic and paraboloid)—parabolical; palaver (n, hence v) and parlary; parle, parley (n, hence v), pourparler—parliance—parlatory—parlor (AE) or parlour—parliament, whence parliamentary, whence parliamentarian; parol, parole (n, hence v).

1. Geom parabola belongs to SciL, from L parabolē, a placing beside; the form is that of LL parabola, a similitude, a proverb, esp a parable, from the syn LGr parabolē: from paraballein, to throw (ballein: cf BALLISTICS) beside (para), hence to compare. Derivative Gr parabolikos, in its LGr sense, becomes LL parabolicus, whence late MF-F parabolique, whence E parabolic, now usu (except in Geom) in extn parabolical.

2. LL parabola, proverb, parable, becomes MF-F parabole, adopted by ME, which promptly contracts it to parable.

3. In ML, parabola acquires the further senses 'word' and 'tale, story': whence Port palavra (cf the Sp palabra), whence E palaver, with several new, very naturally derivative senses.

4. ML parabola, word, becomes OF-F parole, word in general, speech, whence E parole or, in Law, parol, esp by parol, by word of mouth. Military and legal parole derives from F parole in its special sense 'word of promise', itself prob from Eccl L parabola Christi, the word(s) of Christ.

5. LL parabola has ML derivative parabolāre, whence OF-F parler, to speak, whence ME parlen, E 'to parle' (obsolet); app from the OF-F pp parlé, f parlée, comes E parley. Parabolāre becomes It parlare, whence E parlary, that jargon of C19-20 itinerant actors, circusmen, showmen, which is based upon It words.

6. The OF-EF cpd v pourparler becomes, in C16, n, adopted by E as a diplomatic term; the OF-MF parlance (parler+suffix -ance) has likewise been adopted by E.

7. OF parleoir (from parler), whence F parloir, has, by confusion with parleor, a speaker, the var parleor, whence ME parlur, parlour, E parlour, AE parlor; this OF parleor owes something to ML parlatōrium (for parabolatōrium*), a room—orig in a monastery or a nunnery—for conversation with visitors, whence Eccl E parlatory.

8. OF-F parler has the OF-F derivative parlement (suffix -ment), perh suggested by ML parlamentum, for both orig meant 'conversation, hence a conference'; hence ME parlement, whence—influenced by the ML var parliamentum—the E parliament, a conference; as in MF, so in late ME, the term came to designate a judicial, hence a political, assembly, whence Parlement, Parliament, whence, influenced by EF-F parlementaire, the E parliamentary.

parachute is a device para-, against (see Prefixes), a chute or fall (see CADENCE).

parade. See PARE, para 2, s.f. paradigm. See DICT, para 23.

paradise, whence the adj paradisiac(al) and paradisal, derives from ME paradis, adopted from OF(-F) paradis: LL paradisus, the Garden of Eden: Gr paradeisos, a park, a pleasure garden: MPer paridaiza*, a nobleman's park: cf Av pairi-daēza, an enclosure—pairi, about, around (cf Gr peri) + daēza, a wall (cf Gr teikhos, toikhos): cf also Syriac pardēza, a garden, from H pardēš, enclosed garden, from Per. (Hofmann.) The sense 'abode of the blest, heaven', occurs as early as Tertullian; hence the LL adj paradisiacus, whence E paradisiac (cf F paradisique), often in extn paradisiacal.

2. LL paradisus becomes VL parauisus*, ML parauisus*, MF parevis, later parvis, paradise, later (parvis) a forecourt, because, early in the Middle Ages, the forecourt of St Peter's, Rome, was, in Eccl L, named Paradisus.

parados. See DORSAL, para 4.

paradox, paradoxical. See DOGMA, para 3. paraffin, (obsolet) paraffine: G Paraffin: L parum, too little + affinis, related: from its Chem inactivity.

paragon (n, hence v) is adopted from EF paragon (F parangon): It paragone, a model: prob from MGr parakonē, a polishing stone, from Gr parakonan, to rub against: para, beside + akonē, a whetstone.

paragraph (n, hence v—whence paragrapher): MF-F paragraphe: ML paragraphus (cf LL paragraphe, 'brief summary of a subject before passing to another': Souter): from Gr paragrapheos (sc grammē), a marginal stroke or line, from paragraphein, to write (graphein: cf graph, q.v. at GRAMMAR, para 7) in the margin (para, beside).

parakeet. Cf parrot and see PETER, para 10.

parallactic derives from Gr parallaktikos, adj of parallaxis, whence, via EF-F parallaxe, the E parallax; Gr parallaxis derives from parallassein, to change slightly, to deviate: para, beside + allassein, to change.

parallel (adj, hence n and v): EF-F parallèle: L parallelus: Gr parallēlos, lit of two or more lines (lying) beside each other: para, beside + allēlōn, of each, or one, another, from allos, other (cf alias and else).

parallelogram. See the element paralleli-.

paralogism, paralogy. See LEGEND, para 30, s.f.

paralysis, paralytic, paralyze. See LOSE, para 12.

parameter, parametric. See MEASURE, para 4.

paramount. See MINATORY, para 10.

paramour. See AMATEUR, II, 3.

paranoia, paranoiac. See NOUS, para 2. parapet. See DORSAL, para 4.

paraphernalia derives elliptically from ML 'paraphernalia bona' (bona, goods): from LL from Gr parapherna (pl), property other than the marriage portion: para, beside, besides + phernē, a bride's dowry, itself akin to pherein, to bring.

paraphrase, paraphrastic. See PHRASE, para 2. paraphysis=Gr para, beside + physis, nature, SciL physis, q.v. at PHYSIC.

parapodium, a SciL formation: Gr para, beside + pod-, o/s of pous, a foot (f.a.c., FOOT), suffix -ium.

parasite (whence parasitism), parasitic(al); cf the element parasito-.

Parasitic, whence the extn parasitical, derives, via L parasiticus, from Gr parasitikos, adj of parasitos, itself prop an adj for '(eating) sitos, food, beside (para)' another, esp at table.

parasol. See SOLAR, para 5, s.f. parataxis. Cf TAXIS.

parathyroid. Cf THYROID.

paravane. See VANE.

parboil. See BOIL, para 2.

parcel. See PART, para 7.

parcener. See PART, para 9.

parch. See PIERCE, para 5.

parchment; Pergamene, pergameneous, Pergamon or Pergamun.

1. Parchment derives from ME, from OF(-F), parchemin, which represents a VL particaminum*, a confused blend of parthica (pellis), lit 'Parthian skin' (some Parthian texts are, in the fact, written on parchment)+LL pergamēnum, (a sheet of) parchment, ML pergamēna (prop a neupl become f sing), var pergamīna, parchment: the former from L pergamēnus, of Pergamum, the latter from Gr pergamēnē, '(skin) of Pergamon', an ancient city of Mysia in NW Asia Minor; at Pergamon the art of preparing sheepskins for writing on was invented. The -t- of the E parchment derives from ML pergamēntium, var of LL pergamēnum, with -t- for 'parthica' (as above).

2. Gr Pergamon has adj Pergamēnos, whence L Pergamēnus, whence E Pergamene, with varr Pergamenous, Pergameneous.

pard. See LEO, para 3.

pardon, pardonable, pardonner. See DONATION, para 3.

pare, whence vn parings; parade (n, hence v); parry (v, hence n)—cf 'to spar', as in boxing.—Prefix-cpds: sep APPAREL (APPARATUS); imperative, imperator—cf the sep EMPEROR (EMPIRE); prepare—preparation, preparative, preparatory; rampart; repair, to mend—reparable and neg irreparable—reparation, reparatory; separable (and inseparable), separate, separation, separative, separator—cf sever (whence severable), several, severalty, severance—dissever, disseverance; cf the prefix para- (cf parry) in sep PARACHUTE, PARAPET, PARASOL; cf the cognate PARENT, the perh cognate PAUPER, the prob cognate PART, and the element -parous.

Indo-European

1. In the L words, the r is basically par-, as in parāre, to prepare, parere, *to procure, to produce (a child), pars, a part, with var per-, as in reperire, to find, and pauper, poor; the r per- occurs also in Lith periti, perėti, to hatch; in Gr, the r is por-, as in eporon (aorist), I procured; in Skt, the r is pur-, as in pūrtām, a wage—that which one procures by producing. The IE r, therefore, is perh per-*, to procure, hence to produce, to prepare.

Latin Simples

2. To 'prepare' an apple is to pare it: OF pare, to prepare, hence to arrange, hence to trim, to adorn: L parāre. But parāre acquires, in It parare, the further senses 'to prevent, to ward off', whence the EF-F parer, to ward off a thrust or blow in fencing, whence 'to parry'. L parāre becomes Sp parar, to prepare, with the further sense 'to stop' (esp to stop a horse short), whence parada, orig of stopping a horse, hence a stopping or halting of a group of cavalymen, hence of soldiers in general, hence an assembling for exercise, hence the assembly itself: whence EF-F parade, adopted by E.

3. With 'to parry', cf 'to spar', as a boxer does: from the EF vr s'esperer (F s'esperer), to kick (vi): from It sparare, to kick: from It parare, as above.

Latin Prefix-Compounds

4. L imperāre, for imparāre*, to prepare (parāre) against or for (in), hence to give orders against or for, hence to order, has agent imperātor and LL adj imperātiuus, ML imperātiuus, whence, perh via MF-F impératif, f impérative, the E imperative.

5. L praeparāre, to produce, or make ready, prae or beforehand, to prepare, becomes MF-F préparer, whence 'to prepare'; derivative praeparātiō, o/s praeparātiōn-, becomes MF-F préparation, E preparation, and LL praeparatōrius, E preparatory; and MF-F préparatif, f préparative, yields E preparative.

6. The VL anteparāre*, to prepare (esp to defend oneself), becomes OProv anparar, eased to amparar, whence MF emparer, to fortify (whence EF-F s'emparer de quelquechose, to take possession of something), with late MF-F cpd rempar (re-, again, used int), whence late MF-F rempart, whence E rempart.

7. L reparāre, to procure again, to procure in exchange, hence to restore or mend, becomes OF reparer (F réparer), whence 'to repair'; derivative L reparābilis becomes late MF-F réparable, whence E reparable; derivative LL reparātiō, o/s reparātiōn-, becomes MF-F réparation, whence E reparation, whence, anl, reparative, reparatory. The L neg irreparābilis becomes MF-F irréparable, whence E irreparable.

8. L sēparāre, to prepare sē- or apart, to separate, has derivative sēparābilis, whence late MF-F séparable and E separable; the L neg insēparābilis yields MF-F inséparable and E inseparable. The L pp sēparātus accounts for E separate, adj and v alike; derivative sēparātiō, o/s sēparātiōn-, becomes MF-F séparation, whence E separation; LL sēparātiuus, ML -ivus, yields E separative; the LL agent sēparātor is adopted by E; the anl F sēparatiste becomes E separatist.

9. L sēparāre becomes VL sēperāre*, whence OF sevrer, to separate (MF-F to wean), whence 'to sever'; derivative OF sevrance becomes AF severance, adopted by E. The LL cpd dissēparāre becomes OF dessevrer, whence 'to dissever'; derivative OF dessevrance leads to E disseverance.

10. L sēparāre app has derivative adj sēpar, separate, with ML extn sēparālis, whence AF several, adopted by E; derivative AF severalité (severauté), whence E severalty.

paregoric (adj, hence n—a soothing medicine), often in extn paregorical: LL parēgoricus: Gr parēgorikos, extn of the adj parēgoros, addressing (an assembly), hence encouraging or, esp, soothing: para, beside, in the company of + agora, an assembly.

parent (n, hence adj), parentage, parental; parturient, parturition; repertory. Cf the element -para, -parous, 'producing young'.

1. L parere (s and r, par-), *to procure, hence to produce young, is akin to L parāre (s and r, par-), to procure, to prepare: cf, therefore, PARE, para 1, and OE fearr, a bull, Gr poris (s and r, por-), calf, and Skt prthuka, the young of any animal: IE r, prob per-*.

2. Parere has presp parens (o/s parent-), which, used as n, becomes OF-F parent, adopted by E; derivative L parentālis becomes E parental; and derivative OF parentage is adopted by E.

3. Parere has desid parturire, to desire to give birth, with pp parturiens, o/s parturient-, whence the E adj parturient; derivative LL parturitiō, o/s parturitiōn-, yields parturition, childbirth.

4. The basic sense of parere—‘to procure’—occurs in the cpd reperire, to procure for oneself, hence to find, with pp reperitus, whence LL reperitōrium, a list or a catalogue, whence (late MF-F répertoire and) E repertory, with theatrical sense influenced by the F word, which directly yields E repertoire: a list, specialized as a list of plays, becomes a stock of plays; hence (repertoire only) a fund of, e.g., good stories.

parenthesis, parenthetical. See THESIS, para 13.

parergal, parergon. See ENERGETIC, para 3.

par excellence, adopted from F, is lit ‘by excellence’: par, L per+excellence, as in E (cf EXCEL).

parget, pargetting. See the 2nd JET, para 4.

parhelson. See SOLAR, para 6.

pariah: Port paria: Tamil paraiyan, member of a low (but not the lowest) caste, lit a drummer, from parai, a drum. The sense ‘outcast’, as in F paria and E pariah, is a sense-degradation peculiar to Europe.

parietal. See the element parieto-.

parings. See PARE (heading).

Paris (1), the city, with adj (hence n) Parisian.

The former is adopted from F, the latter derives from F parisien, f parisienne, adj of Paris, which, like It Parigi, derives from L Parisii, the Gallic tribe whose capital was Lutetia, whence the literary F Lutèce; both L names are prob of C origin.

Paris (2), the herb, is elliptical for ML herba paris, from L pār, equal, a pair: from its even or symmetrical parts, and by a f/e connexion with Paris (o.o.o.), that Trojan prince who abducted the beautiful Helen.

parish, parishioner. See ECONOMIC, para 4.

parity. See PAIR, para 3.

park (n, hence v); parquet, parquetry; paddock.

1. Park, ME parke, earlier parc, is adopted from OF-F parc: Barbaric (early) ML parcus, contr of parricus: prob of PGmc origin (parrak*, parrik*)—cf OHG psarrih, psarrich, pserrich, whence G Pferch, a small enclosure of land, a fold or pen: itself perh from Go parra*, an enclosure—preserved in OProv parran, enclosure, esp an enclosed garden, and Sp parra, a trellis. (B & W.) Perh rather of C, esp Gaul, origin.

2. PGmc parrak* would explain OE pearroc, a fence, an enclosure, E parrock, now only E dial and Sc, whence, ? by easement, E paddock, an enclosed field.

3. OF-F parc has MF-F dim parquet (with MF var parchet), small enclosure, and then, in C16, that part of a law-court where the judges sat, from the bar that separates this part from the rest, hence, in carpentry, a small enclosure with board floor, hence a type of flooring first used there; derivative F parqueterie becomes E parquetry. (B & W.)

parlance. See PARABLE, para 6.

parlary. See PARABLE, para 5.

parlatory. See PARABLE, para 7.

parle; parley. See PARABLE, para 5.

parliament, parliamentary. See PARABLE, para 8.

parlor, parlour. See PARABLE, para 7.

parlous. See PERIL, para 1.

Parnassian, Parnassus.

The former derives from F parnassien, adj. of Parnasse: L Parnassus: Gr Parnassos, var Parnasos (cf It Parnaso), a Gr mountain sacred to Apollo (as God of Poetry) and the Muses: o.o.o. parochial. See ECONOMIC, para 5.

parodist, parody. See ODE, para 7.

parol, parole. See PARABLE, para 5.

paroli—whence the AE parlay (v, hence n)—is adopted from F, itself from It, paroli, the using of orig stake+winings as new stake: mdfn of It pār, equal, from L pār.

paronomasia; paronymous.

The former, adopted from the L grammarians, is ult a Gr word, derived from paronomazein, to form a word by making a small change: para, beside+onomazein, to name, from onoma, name: f.a.e., NAME. The latter derives from LL parōnymon, from Gr parōnumon: para+onuma, var of onoma.

parotid is lit ‘near the ear’: via L from Gr parōtid-, o/s of parōtis: para, beside+ous, o/s ōtid-, ear.

paroxysm. See OXYGEN, para 3.

parquet, parquetry. See PARK, para 3.

parrakeet. See PETER, para 10.

parricide. See FATHER, para 13.

parrock. See PARK, para 2.

parrot. See PETER, para 10.

parry. See PARE, para 2.

parse. See PART, para 12.

Parsee (-si). See PERSE, para 1.

parsimonious, parsimony.

The former derives from the latter, much as F parcimoneux (f -ieuse) does from late MF-F parcimonie: the E and F nn derive, resp, from L parsimōnia and from its var, parcimōnia: parsi-, c/f of parsus, pp of parcere, to spare+the suffix -mōnia: parcere is o.o.o. Sem, ‘what one—grudgingly—spares’.

parsley: ME persely, metathesis of peresil, adopted from OE peresil (whence, by contr, the F persil): like OE peterslitie, from ML petrosilium, parsley: LL petroselinum, petroselinon, rock parsley: Gr petrosēlinon: petro-, c/f of petra, a rock, and of petros, a stone (cf PETER)+selinon, parsley, itself perh from the Gr river-name Selinous. (Hofmann.)

parsnip: ME parsnepe: a blend of ME nepe, a turnip+OF pasnaie (F panais), parsnip, the latter from L pastināca, parsnip, carrot, perh akin to L pastinum, a hoe, itself perh akin to pangere, to thrust into the ground (f.a.e., FACT).

parson, parsonage, parsonical. See PERSON, para 6.

part, n and v (whence parter and vn parting); partial, partiality—with derivative negg impartial, impartiality; partible, impartible; particle, parti- cular (adj, hence n), particularism, particularity, particularize, particulate—perh cf pernickery—parcel (n, hence v); partisan, -izan; partite (as in tripartite), partition, partitive; partner (n, hence v), whence partnership (suffix -ship); parse, whence the vn parsing; parti, party.—Cognate portion (n, hence v), whence portionable, portional (unless imm from LL portionālis), portioner, portionist (cf ML portionista), portionless.—Full cpds of part: sep JEOPARDY; participable, participant (whence participation), adj hence n, participate, adj and n, participation (whence participative), participator (whence participatory)—participial, participle; parti-colo(u)r, -colo(u)red; partake, whence partaker, vn partaking.—Prefix-cpds of part, n and v: apart, apartment; compart, compartition, compartment (whence compartmental); sep COUNTERPART—depart (whence departing, departing), department (whence departmental), departure; dispart, whence, anl, dispartition; impart, whence, anl, impartition; repatee, repartition.—Prefix-cpds of portion, n and v: apportion, apportionment; proportion (n and v), proportionable, proportional, proportionate—disproportion (n, hence v), whence, anl, disproportionable, disproportional, disproportionate.

Indo-European

1. In all these words, the base is L pars (s par-), o/s part-, with one section deriving imm from the cognate portiō (s porti-, r port-, *PL r por-), o/s portiōn-: cf, in L, parere, *to procure, (hence) to produce children, parare, to procure, to prepare, L pauper, poor, qq.v. at, resp, PARENT, PARE, POOR; cf, in Hitt, pars-, parsiya, to break, to divide; cf, in Gr, pernēmi, I sell, s and r pern-, *PGR per-, and eporon, I procured; in C, perna*, a part, a leg, a thigh, a ham—cf Gr perna, a ham, and L perna, a leg, thigh, ham—the s being pern-, the r per-*, as implied by Malvezin; in Skt, pūrta, a reward, pūrtām, wages; IE r, per-, with varr par-, por-, pur-: basic idea, to procure; whence to cause to be procured (to make ready; to sell), to produce (e.g., children), to prepare; hence, also, to allot, whence a part.

Simples of L pars, gen partis

2. A part, ME part, derives both from OE part (L c/f part-) and from OF part (L acc partem), both from L pars; 'to part', from OF partir, to divide, from *VL partire, from L partiri, from part-, c/f of pars: the sense 'to part from' (somebody) arises in MF 'soi partir de quelqu'un', lit 'to divide oneself from him', whence, almost imm, both partir de qqn*, part from someone, and partir (d'un endroit), to depart from a place. (See esp B & W.)

3. L pars, part-, has derivative adj LL partialis, whence, via MF-F partial (cf F partie), the E partial; derivative MF-F partialité yields E partiality.

4. L partiri, to divide, has adj LL partibilis, divisible, with neg LL impartibilis, whence E partible, impartible. The pp partitus yields E partite, mostly in bipartite, tripartite: L bipartitus, tripartitus. On the pp s partit- arises partitiō, a sharing, a division, o/s partitiōn-, whence, via OF-F, the E partition, whence to partition; and EF-F partitif, f partitive, accounts for E partitive.

5. L pars has dim particula, a little part, whence, perh via late MF-F particule, the E particle. The derivative LL adj particularis becomes MF particular (F particulier), adopted by ME, reshaped by E to particular; derivative LL particularitās becomes MF-F particularité, whence E particularity. MF-F particulariser and F particularisme have led to particularize and particularism. Derivative particulāre has pp particulāus, used by LL as adj, whence learned E particulate.

6. Perh either particulate or particular has blended with pernicious to produce the coll pernickety, finical, finicky, fussy.

7. The L dim particula app has the VL varr particella*, whence MF-F parcelle, whence E parcel.

8. L pars, part-, becomes It parte, whence partigiano, one who takes the part of—supports—another, with dial varr partizano, partezan, whence late MF-F partizan, adopted by E, with varr partizan.

9. The L acc partitiōnem (cf para 4) became, by contr, the OF parçon, a sharing, a share, a booty, whence OF parçonier, varr parcenier, an associate, whence EF-F parçener, a joint heir in an estate, itself adopted as an E Law term; now, parcener blends with ME part, a share, to form ME partener, whence E partner—which, by re-exportation, becomes F partenaire.

10. OF partir, to divide, has pp parti, which, as adj, yields E party, as in party wall; the c/f is parti-, as in parti-colo(u)red.

11. The OF-F pp parti, divided, becomes, in MF, also n, 'that which is divided or shared', whence 'a person', partly adopted by E, esp in 'a very eligible parti'. This F n has had a share in the genesis of E party, which, however, derives mainly from OF-F partie, part of a whole, with a number of derivative senses.

12. L pars, a part, is used by the grammarians for 'a part of speech', elliptically for pars oratiōnis: hence, perh via OF pars (parz), the E 'to parse'—another indication of the influence of L on E grammar.

Simple of L portiō, gen portiōnis

13. L portiō, acc portiōnem, becomes OF-F portion, adopted by E; the derivative MF-F portionner yields 'to portion', now rare.

Full Compounds of part

14. L pars, c/f parti-, combines with capere (c/f -cipere), to take, to form the adj particeps, part-taking, share-taking, sharing, whence participium, a sharing, ML a participle, whence MF-F particeps, with MF varr participle, adopted by E; the MF -iple form was prob influenced by the L adj participiālis, whence E participial.

15. L particeps has also the important derivative participāre, to have a share (in), with derivative LL adj participābilis, whence E participable; with presp participans, o/s participant-, whence the E adj, hence also n, participant; and with pp participātus, whence the now rare adj, and the v, participate. On the pp s participāt- arise both the LL participātiō, o/s participātiōn-, whence MF-F participation, adopted by E, and the LL agent participator, adopted by E.

16. L particeps and participāre prob suggested the E part-taking, part-taker, soon eased to partaking, partaker, whence, by b/f, 'to partake', to share (usu v).

Prefix-Compounds of part (n and v)

17. The L phrase a parte, from a part, i.e. separately, becomes OF a part (F à part), whence the E adv, hence occ adj, apart. L, hence It, a parte has derivative appartare, to separate, whence appartamento, a separate suite of rooms, whence F appartement, whence E apartment.

18. L partiri, to divide, has the LL cpd compartiri, to divide and share with (com-), whence E 'to compart' (obs); derivative ML compartitiō, o/s compartitiōn-, yields E compartition. Compartiri becomes, prob via VL compartire*, the It compartire, with derivative compartimento, whence EF-F compartment, whence E compartment.

19. OF partir, to divide, has cpd 'soi departir', to divide, hence separate, oneself, hence to go away, whence ME departen, to divide, to depart, whence 'to depart'. OF departir, to divide, has not only the OF-MF derivative departement, orig the action of dividing, F département, whence E department, but also derivative departeüre, division, separation, hence a parting, a going away, whence E departure.

20. The L cpd dispartiri, to divide and separate (connoted by dis-, apart), has var dispartire, whence OF despartir, whence 'to dispart', used derivatively also as n.

21. L partiri has the LL cpd impartiri, var impartire, to give a share of, to accord or grant, and becomes MF-F impartir, whence 'to impart'.

22. OF partir, to divide, (later) to depart, has cpd repartir, to depart again, (later) to reply, whence MF-F repartie, a reply, esp a witty one, whence E repartee; the other derivative répartir (OF-F), to divide again, (but usu) to distribute, perh suggested the E repartition, formed as if from L repartitiō*.

Prefix-Compounds of portion

23. OF portion has derivative portionner, with the MF cpd apportionner, to divide and—connoted by ap-, L ad, to—assign, whence 'to apportion'. Derivative F apportionnement prob suggested E apportionment.

24. L portiō occurs in the phrase prō portiōne, as a (due) share, conformably to the shares of each person, whence. the n prōportiō, o/s prōportiōn-, MF porporcion, adopted by ME, whence, as in the

EF-F reshaping, the E proportion; derivative OF porporcionner, F proportionner, yields 'to proportion'. Derivative LL proportiōnalis becomes MF-F proportionnel and, prob independently, E proportional; subsidiary LL prōportiōnālītās, o/s prōportiōnālītāt-, becomes MF-F proportionnalité and E proportionality. As if from the L v prōportiōnāre* come both LL prōportiōnābilis, whence E proportionable, and LL pp-as-adj prōportiōnātus, whence E proportionate.

25. EF-F proportion has derivative EF-F cpd disproportion, adopted by E; subsidiary EF-F disproportionner has suggested 'to disproportion'. Disproportionable, disproportional, disproportionate have all been formed anl with proportionable, etc.

partake. See pre, para 16, and cf TAKE, para 2. parterre. See TERRA, para 4, s.f.

parthenian, parthenic, Parthenium, Parthenon.

The 1st is an anglicized var (-ian for -ic) of the 2nd, which derives from Gr parthenikos, adj of parthenos (for a wild guess, see VIRGIN, para 1) (o.o.o.), a maid, a virgin; parthenikos is a var of parthenios (parthenos+adj-ios), whence—prop the neu of that adj—the n parthenion, whence, via L, the Bot Parthenium, a woody herb, so named from its white flowers, white connoting virginity. Gr parthenos has derivative Parthenōn, temple of the goddess Athena, L Parthenon, adopted by E.

Parthia, whence the adj, hence n, Parthian; Parthian shot—parting shot;—Pahlavi, var Pehlevi.

1. Pehlevi is a var of Pahlavi (whence the coin pahlavi), adopted from Per Pahlavi, the chief Per language of c200–800 A.D.: from OPer Parthava, Parthia, a country to the SE of the Caspian Sea, with inhabitants of an app Turkoman stock. OPer Parthava becomes Gr, hence also L, Parthia, the natives being Gr Parthoi, L Parthi, adj Parthus, whence—unless imm from Parthia—the E adj Parthian.

2. Notable mounted archers, the Parthians used, after each discharge of their bows, to turn their horses as if in flight: whence Parthian shot: whence, f/e, parting shot.

partial, partiality. See PART, para 3.

partible. See PART, para 4.

participable, participant, participate, participation, participator. See PART, para 15, and cf CAPABILITY, paras 4, 8.

participial, participle. See PART, para 14.

particle. See PART, para 5.

parti-colo(u)red. See PART, para 10.

particular, particularity, particularize. See PART, para 5. particulate. See PART, para 5, s.f.

parting. See PART (heading).

parting shot. See PARTHIA, para 2.

partisan (1), party-man. See PART, para 8.

partisan (2) or -zan, a halberd. See PIERCE' para 6.

partition, partitive. See PART, para 4. partizan. See PART, para 8, and PIERCE, para 6.

partner, partnership. See PART, para 9.

partridge: ME partriche (cf the Sc partrich), var of pertriche: OF pertris (var perdriz, cf F perdrix): a partial metathesis of OF perdis: L perdicem, acc of perdis, adopted from Gr: ? echoic of the whirring wings of the rising bird (Hofmann).

parturient, parturition. See PARENT, para 3, and cf the element parturi-.

party, adj. See PART, para 10.

party, n. See PART, para 11.

party wall. See PART, para 10.

parvenu. See VENUE, para 18.

parvis. See PARADISE, para 2.

Pasch, paschal; pasqueflower.

Paschal reshapes OF-F pascal, adj of OF pasche, whence, via ME pasche, the E Pasch, the Passover: LL pascha: LGr paskha: H pesah, from päsah, to pass over. OF pasche has var pasque, whence pasqueflower.

push (v, hence n), to hurl, to smash, is echoic: cf bash, crash, dash, mash, smash.

pasha. See CHECK, para 4.

Pashto. See PATHAN.

pasqueflower. See PASCH.

pass, n and v. See PACE, para 2. passable, passage. See PACE, para 4.

passenger. See PACE, para 4. passee-partout. See PACE, para 3. passible. See PATIENCE, para 3. passion, passionate, passionate. See PATIENCE, para 4.

passive, passivity. See PATIENCE, para 5.

Passover. See PACE, para 3.

passport. See PACE, para 3.

passus. See PACE, para 1.

password. See PACE, para 3.

past, adj hence n: orig the pp of 'to pass', q.v. at PACE.

paste (n, hence v), whence the adj pasty; pasty, n, and pastry and patty; pastose and impasto; pastel and pastiche.

1. Paste, adopted from OF paste (whence F pâte), derives from LL pasta (whence It and Sp pasta), a pastry cake: trln of Gr pastē, sauce mixed with flour (cf Gr pasta, barley porridge), akin to pastos, sprinkled, esp with salt, pp of passō, I sprinkle.

2. LL pasta has derivative ML pasticius, pastry, var pasticum*, whence pasticiare*, to cook pastry, whence OF pastissier, which, soon used as n, has MF derivative pastisserie, which app combines with E paste to form E pastry.

3. OF paste has OF derivative pasté, whence E pasty, n; F pâté, whence E patty.

4. LL pasta becomes It pasta, paste, dough, with adj pastoso, whence E pastose; It pasta has the further derivative impastare, to make im- or into a paste (whence E 'to impaste'), whence the n impasto, a 'doughy'—i.e., thick—application of pigment to canvas, adopted by E painters.

5. LL pasta, paste, has dim pastellus, a seal, or its impression, in wax, whence It pastello, whence EF-F pastel, adopted by E; and VL pasticum* (as in para 2) becomes It pasticcio, a paste, hence a hodge-podge, literary or musical, whence EF-F pastiche, adopted by E, now—as in F—only of a direct imitation.

pastel. See prec para.

pastern. See PASTOR, para 5.

pasteurize. See PASTOR, para 3.

pastiche. See PASTE, para 5.

pastille. See PANTRY, para 6.

pastime. See PACE, para 3.

pastor (whence pastorate), pastoral (whence pastoralist), pastorale, pastorium; pasteurize, whence pasteurization; pasture (n, hence v), pasturage, pastural; pastern; repast; sep PABULUM; pannage. Akin to sep FEED (FOOD).

1. Pastor, orig a shepherd, ME pastour, derives from OF pastor, pastur: L pāstor, agent from pāst-, s of pāstus, pp of pāscere, to nourish, pasture, feed: s pāsc-, pāst-, r pās-, extn of pā-, as in pābulum, food: app akin to the pāt-, pet-, attested by Gr pateomai, I eat, and Go fōdjan, to nourish. Cf PANTRY, para 1, s.f.

2. L pāstor has adj pāstorālis, whence, perh via MF-F, E pastoral (adj, hence n) and It pastorale, which, used as n, is adopted by E for a Mus composition of pastoral life. The adj pāstōrius, of or for a shepherd, has the Southern U.S. derivative pastorium, a Protestant parsonage.

3. OF pastor, pastur becomes F pasteur, whence the PN Pasteur, esp that famous F chemist, Louis Pasteur (1822-95), who invented this way of sterilizing milk, whence F pasteuriser and its subsidiary, pasteurisation, whence E 'to pasteurize' and pasteurization.

4. L pāscere, pp pāstus, has the LL derivative pāstūra, OF pasture (F pâture), adopted by E; the derivative OF-MF v pasturer (F pâturer) app contributes to E 'to pasture', and the subsidiary OF-MF pasturage (F pâturage) is adopted by E. The E adj pastural, although perh aided by the ML n pasturalis, app=E pasture+-al.

5. The L adj pāstōrius has the VL derivative pāstōria*, a shackle put on beasts as they graze, attested by It pastoia; hence the MF pasture, a horse's pastern, whence late MF-EF pasturon (F paturon), whence, by contr, the late ME pastron, whence the E pastern.

6. L pāscere becomes OF paistre, with cpd repaistre (re-, again, is vaguely int), to feed; and pāscere, pp pāstus, has derivative n pāstus (gen -ūs), food, whence OF past, food, hence a meal; both contribute to OF-MF repast (F repas), a meal, adopted by E.

7. On the L pp s pāst- arose also pāstiō, a pasturing, o/s pāstiōn-, whence the LL pāstiōnāticum (suffix -āticum), whence OF pasnage (F panage), whence the E legal term pannage, (the right of) feeding swine in a wood, hence the fee therefor.

pastose. See PASTE, para 3.

pastry. See PASTE, para 2.

pastural, pasture. See PASTOR, para 4.

pasty, adj and n. See PASTE, heading and para 3.

pat, n and v, (to deliver) a light, flat-handed stroke or blow, is prob echoic: cf such words as bat and spat. Prob from the v derives the adv pat, neatly, timely, hence easily, fluently.

patch, patchwork, patchy. See PIECE, para 10.

paté, recorded first in ME, is o.o.o. patella, L dim of patina, a bowl: f.a.e., the 2nd PAN. Cf:

paten. See the 2nd PAN, para 2.

patent (adj, hence n, hence v, whence patency) derives from L patent-, o/s of patens, presp of patēre, to be or lie open: akin to Av pathanō, stretched out. The corresp L adj is patulus, open, distended, whence E patulous: cf the sep PETAL. Also from patēre comes Sp patio, an open court-(yard).

pater. See FATHER, paras 1 (s.f.) and 5.

paterfamilias. See FAMILY, para 3.

paternal; paternity. See FATHER, para 6.

paternoster. See FATHER, para 11.

path, whence pathfinder, pathway, footpath, derives from OE path, paeth: cf OFris and OS path, MD paden, to walk along, D pad (cf the 1st PAD), OHG pfad, MHG pfat, G Pfad: ? Scythian—cf Av pathā, akin to Skt pathā, a way, a road. Akin to FIND.

Pathan; Pashto. A Pathan or member of the principal race of Afghanistan, derives from Hind Paṭhān, by b/f from Afghan Pēštāna, Afghans, pl of Pēštūn. Their language is Pashto—often anglicized as Pushtu—from Pēštūn.

pathic, L pathicus, Gr pathikos, derives from Gr pathos, suffering, adopted—perh via LL—by E with accruing senses: from pathēin, to suffer, akin to the syn Gr paskhein, and to the nasal, app basic penthos, sorrow, mourning, hence akin to Lith kenčiū, kenėti, to suffer. Gr pathos has adj pathētos, susceptible to pain or suffering, with extn pathētikos, LL pathēticus, E pathetic (F pathétique). Cf the element patho-, as in pathology.

2. The chief cpds are antipathy, L antipathia, Gr antipatheia, a passion (-patheia) against (anti) someone, with adj—after pathetic—antipathetic (contrast F antipathique); empathy, Gr empathēia, sympathetic (connoted by em-, for en, in) understanding or suffering, with adj empathic; sympathy, L sympathia, Gr sumpatheia, a feeling (sum-, for sun) with another; adj sympathetic, Gr sympathētikos; and v sympathize (whence sympathizer), EF-F sympathiser, from MF-F sympathie.

patible. See para 6 of:

patience, patient; passible, passion (whence passionless), passional, passionate, passive, passivity—cf impassionate, impassioned, impassive—impatience, impatient; compassion, compassionate—dispassionate; patible—cf compatible, compatibility—incompatible, incompatibility;—penury, penurious.

1. Of the pat- and -pat- words, the base is L pati, to suffer, to endure, to be patient; app the s and r pat- is an extn of IE pa-, which has varr pē-, as in Gr pēma, suffering (n), and pō-*, as in Gr talaipōros, unhappy, unfortunate, and pe-*, as in Gr penēs, poor, penomai, I work painfully, and po-*, as in Gr ponos, pain, punishment: perh cf also L paenitet, it causes regret or remorse, and Skt pāpman, harm.

2. L pati has presp patiens, o/s patient-, whence OF patient, adopted by ME; like F, E reshapes patient to patient. Derivative L patientia becomes OF pacience, patience, the latter adopted by ME. The L negg impatiens and impatientia yield—via OF—the ME impacient, impacience, E impatient, impatience.

3. L pati has pp passus, s pass-, whence LL passibilis, capable of suffering, whence OF-F passible, adopted by E; the LL neg impassibilis becomes MF-F impassible, adopted by E. The subsidiary LL passibilitās, o/s passibilitāt-, and impassibilitās, pass through OF-F to become E passibility, impassibility.

4. On the pp s pass- arises LL passiō (o/s passiōn-), endurance of ill or illness, suffering, whence OF-F passion, adopted by E, which takes most of its modern senses from MF-F; the derivative LL adj passiōnālis becomes E passional, and the subsidiary ML n passionāle, prop the neu of the adj, becomes E passional, a book of martyrs. In ML, passiō, o/s passiōn-, acquires the adj passiōnātus, whence (MF-F passionné and) E passionate; and in MF, passion acquires the v passionner, whence the now rare 'to passion', to affect with—to be moved with—passion. The int impassion, pp as adj impassioned, and impassionate, adj and v, owe much to It impassionare and impassionato.

5. Also on the pp s pass- arises L passivus, ML passivus, susceptible to suffering, hence, in LL, passive (as in grammar): whence, perh via MF-F passif, f passive, the E passive. Derivative LL passiuitās, ML passiuitās, o/s passiuitāt-, becomes—perh via F passivité—the E passivity. The negg impassive, impassivity are anl E formations.

6. L pati, s pat-, has derivative patibilis, sensitive, (but also) supportable, bearable, whence the now rare E patible.

7. Prefix-compounds of pati, etc., not already treated include compassion, adopted from OF-F, from LL compassiōn-, o/s of compassiō, from compassus, pp of LL compati, to suffer with (com-) another, to feel pity, hence the anl compassionate, adj and v; derivative LL compassibilis and compassivus, ML -ivus, become the rare compassible, compassive; the ML-from-compati derivative compatibilis passes through MF-F to become E compatible, and the F subsidiary compatibilitē yields compatibility; the ML incompatibilis* and its attester incompatibilitas have passed through MF-F into E incompatible, incompatibility.

8. Gr penēs, poor, s and r pen-, has a cognate in L pēnūria, extreme poverty, whence, via EF-F pénurie, the E penury; derivative ML pēnūriōsus, MF penurieus, f penurieuse, leads to penurious.

patin. See the 2nd PAN, para 2.

patina, a film or a glaze, is adopted from It and usu said to be o.o.o.: perh, however, it derives from verdigris forming upon a disused patina (E paten), a shallow dish, q.v. at the 2nd PAN, para 2.—Hence patinous, coated with a patina.

patio. See PATENT.

patois; patrol, n and v; patten.

1. Behind all three words we find the late OF-F patte, a paw, a foot, akin to OProv pauta and Cat pota and the Gallo-Roman PN Pauto: either C, Malvezin postulating OC patta*, the flat part of the foot, from the C r pat-, var of bad-, to be broad, perh cf Cor paw, baw, a paw; or (B & W) from some such pre-C stratum as Illyrian.

2. Patois, adopted from MF-F, has the suffix -ois of françois (F français), French, and its r expresses the uncouthness of the people speaking a rural dialect: (perh via OF patoier, to paddle, and certainly) from patte. (B & W.)

3. A patrol derives from EF-F patrouille, from late MF-F patrouiller, to 'paddle' in the mud, to go through puddles, a var of OF-F patouiller (for patouiller*), to paddle, to paw, from patte; the suffix -ouiller is that of barbouiller, to daub. (B & W.)

4. Patten, a clog, a sabot, derives from MF-F patin, orig a shoe, then a skate, app a dim of patte. patriarch, patriarchal. See FATHER, para 10.

patriarch. See FATHER, para 6.

patricide. See FATHER, para 13.

Patrick derives from OIr Patricc, itself from L patricus, nobly born. Its pet-forms are Pat and Paddy and Patsy, the 2nd being often used as sl for an Irishman; hence, app, be in a paddy, to be angry—cf sl scotty, angry. The f Patricia = L patricia, f of patricius; f.a.e., FATHER.

patrimony. See FATHER, para 14.

patriot, patriotic, patriotism. See FATHER, para 15.

patristic, patristics. See FATHER, para 6.

patrol. See PATOIS, para 3.

patrology. See the element patri-.

patron, patronage, patronize. See FATHER, para 6, s.f.

patronymic. See the element -onym.

patten. See PATOIS, para 4.

patter (1), n from v: glib talk. Cf paternoster; see FATHER, para 11, s.f.

patter (2), n from v: to run short-steppingly: freq of PAT.

pattern. See FATHER, para 7.

patty. See PASTE, para 3. patulous. See PATENT.

paucity. See the element pauci-.

pauldron. See PAWL.

paunch, whence paunchy: OF panche, var of pance (F panse): L panticem, acc of pantex, belly (pantrices, intestines): o.o.o.

pauper. See POOR, para 2.

pause, whence pausal; menopause, whence menopause; pose, to place.

1. Menopause combines meno-, c/f of Gr mēn, a month + pause, n: cf the L-become-Med-E menses. 'To pause' (cf EF-F pauser and L pausāre, to cease) derives from 'a pause': and pause, n, is adopted from MF-F pause, from L pausa, from Gr pausis, from pauein, to cause to stop, also vi, to cease: r pau-: o.o.o.

2. L pausa has derivative pausāre, (vi) to stop, to cease, hence, in Eccl LL, to rest (in death); in spoken LL, pausāre takes over, from L ponere, the sense 'to place, to put', whence OF-F poser, to rest (surviving in 'se reposer', to rest), but also and finally only, to place or put, whence 'to pose'; the derivative EF-F n pose is adopted by E, as is the derivative poseur.

3. The cpds of 'to pose' can very easily cause a quite spectacular confusion: the simplest, most logical treatment is to deal with all of them, along with the -pone, -posit (-position) cpds, at the 2nd PONE.

pavan (anglicizes pavane, adopted from EF-F, itself from Sp pavana, mdfn of pavo, a peacock, from ML pavo, pavus (L pāuō, pāuus), a peacock, o.o.o.—but, like Gr taos, of presumably Asiatic origin. A slow, stately dance, resembling a parade of strutting peacocks.

2. L pāuō, pāuus becomes OE pāwa, with var pēa, whence the f/e ME pecok, E peacock, where -cock is the male of the hen.

pave (whence paver—cf MF-F paveur—and pavior, paviour), pavé, pavement; putation, putative; pit, n (cavity), hence v, whence the pa pitted.

1. 'To pave' derives from OF-F paver: VL pavāre*, ML pavīre (L pavīre), to beat, or tread, earth down to level it: perh akin to L putāre, Lith piauti, to cut. F paver has pp pavé, used also as n and adopted by E. The L derivative pauimentum, ML pavimentum, becomes OF-MF pavement, adopted by E.

2. Prob akin is pit, a cavity, ME pit, var put, OE pytt, app from L puteus, a well, s pute-, r put-.

3. Prob akin to L puteus, a hole cut in the ground, esp a well, is L putāre, to prune (loosely, to cut), hence to 'prune' an account, to count or calculate, app akin to Skt pūtás, purified; the pp putātus has derivatives putātīō, a pruning, LL an estimating, and LL putātīvus, ML putātīvus, believed, supposed, whence, perh via MF-F putatif, the E putative.—For the cpds of putāre, see the 2nd COUNT.

pavilion; papillon, a tiny European dog.

1. The latter, adopted from F, is so named from the shape of its ears and it derives from F papillon, a butterfly, from L pāpiliōnem, acc of pāpiliō, a butterfly, akin to OS fifoldara, fisalde, OHG fifaltra, MHG vivalter, G Falter, ON fifriildi: cf also G pollō, I shake, the other forms, esp L pāpiliō, representing an int redup (Walshe).

2. In LL, pāpiliō means also—? orig in soldiers' sl—a large tent, from the resemblance of the curtains that closed it to a butterfly's wings: whence OF paveillon, MF-F pavillon, ME pavilon, later pavilioun, pavilion, E pavilion.

pavior, paviour. See PAVE (heading).

paw, n, hence v: ME pawe, var of powe: OF poue, var of poe: cf OProv pauta, therefore cf para 1 of patois; cf also MLG pōte, MD pote and, as in D, poot, and G Pfote.

pawl, occ paul or even pall, in machinery a sliding bolt or a pivoted tongue: app from F épaule, a shoulder, OF espaule (cf epaulet and, f.a.e., SPOON), whence espauleton, whence, by aphesis and prob by contamination of cauldron, the E pauldron, var pouldron.

pawn (1), in chess. See FOOT, para 9.

pawn (2), a deposit at a moneylender's, whence 'to pawn' and pawnbroker: OF pan, var of pand, a pledge, a surety: cf the syn MLG pand and OHG-MHG pant, G Pfand: perh of L pondus, a weight (f.a.e., the weight POUND).

pax. See PACT, paras 1 and 13.

pay (1) a vessel's bottom: MF peier: L picāre, to cover with tar, from L pix, tar, pitch: cf Gr pissa, pitch: f.a.e., FAT.

pay (2), to compensate monetarily (whence payable and payee), and such compensation (whence paymaster); payment. The last derives from MF-F paiement, itself from OF paier (F payer), from L pācāre, to pacify, in VL to appease, hence to pay: from L pāc-, o/s of pāx, peace: f.a.e., PACT. Also from OF paier comes the MF-F paie (F paye), whence the E n pay.

paynim. See PAGAN, para 3.

pea comes, by b/f, from EE pease, sing—but extant, mostly in dial, as a collective pl: ME pese (pl pesen): OE pise (pl pisan): LL pisa, f sing from L pisa, pl of pisum: Gr pison, var pisos: o.o.o. (? Thracian-Phrygian: Hofmann). Hence, by shape-resemblance, peanut, the nut-like seed of the Brazilian herb Arachis hypogaea.

peace, peaceable, peaceful. See PACT, para 13.

peach (1), n. See PERSE, para 1.

peach (2), v. See FOOT, para 13.

peacock. See PAVAN, para 2.

peak (n and v), peaked, peaky. See PICK, para

3.

peal. See APPEAL.

peanut. See PEA, s.f.

pear; perry; pyrus; pyriform.

1. Pear, ME-OE pere, derives from LL pera, var of pira, f sing from L pira, pl of pirum, a pear, the 'parallel' of L pirus (gen piri), a pear-tree: o.o.o.; perh an aphetic derivative of an IE r api-* represented by Gr apios, pear-tree, and apion, pear. The ML form pyrus has been adopted by Bot, with c/f pyri-, as in pyriform, pear-shaped.

2. The fermented liquor made from pears is perry: MF peré: from OF pere.

pearl (n, hence v), whence the adj pearly, whence 'Pearlies', Cockneys jacket-adorned with pearl buttons; from pearl: pearled, pearlite (Min -ite)—cf perlite, from F perle; purl (liquor).

1. A pearl, ME perle, derives from MF-F perle, itself from ML perna, a pearl, from L perna, a mussel, a ham, either via ML perla, a pearl, or via It pèrla—cf the Neapolitan and Sicilian perna, pearl. The n-l change was perh caused by L sphaerula, a globule. Perh of the Gr pterna, ham, heel, and Skt parṣṇi, pārṣṇiś, heel, and therefore Go fatrna, OHG fersana, MHG versene, verse, G Ferse, a heel.

2. The spiced or bittered malt liquor known as purl derives, perh, from F perlé, (of liquor) beaded, lit pearly, from MF-F perler, to take the shape of a pearl.

pearmain has nothing to do with Parma in Italy: see MANOR, para 8.

peart. See PERT.

peasant, peasantry. See PAGAN, para 4.

pease. See PEA (heading).

peat. See PIECE, para 11.

peavey, occ peavy, a lumberman's hook, prob derives from its inventor, Joseph Peavey, a New England blacksmith, c1872. (Mathews.)

pebble (n, hence v), whence pebbly, derives, by b/f, from OE papolstān (var popelstān), a small roundish stone: perh, as EW suggests, 'imitative of rattling sound'.

pecan, earlier pacan, the nut, or the tree, of a hard-wooded hickory, is of Alg origin: cf Ojibway pagān, any hard-shelled nut.

peccable and impeccable; peccadillo; peccancy, peccant.

L peccāre, to sin, has derivative ML peccābilis, prone to sin, whence E peccable; the ML neg impeccābilis yields impeccable. The presp peccans, o/s peccant-, is, in LL, used as adj, whence E peccant; derivative LL peccantia yields peccancy. From the pp peccātus is formed the n peccātum, whence Sp pecado, with dim pecadillo, anglicized as peccadillo.

L peccāre has s pecc-, r pec-: ? IE pik-*, to be angry—cf L piget, it irks (me).

peccary: ASp pecarí, varr pecari, paquiro, paquira: Cariban, as in Chayma pekera and Aparai pakira (paquira).

peck (1), a measure of weight, ME from OF pek, is akin to PITCHER, ME picher, OF pichier, app (p for b) via OGmc from LL becarium* (cf E beaker): cf MF-F picotin, a peck, MF picote, a wine measure, ML picotinus, a grain measure, ML picotus, a liquid measure: cf also OHG bikeri, a pitcher, and OF bichet, a grain measure, pichet, a salt measure, OF-EF pichier, a liquid measure, mdfn (p for b) of syn OF-MF bichier: LL becarium* prob derives from Gr bikos, a wine-vase, o.o.o.

peck (2), v, hence n; pecker; peckish. See PICK, para 2.

pecten; pectinate, whence pectination.

Pectinate, adj and v, derives from L pectinātus, comb-shaped, from the pp of pectināre, to comb, from pectin-, o/s of pecten, a comb, itself akin to pectere, to comb, Gr pekein, pp pektos. L pecten, derivatively any comb-like object, is adopted by E.

pectoral, adj and n, derives, prob via OF-F, from L pectorālis, adj, with neu pectorāle used as n: from pector-, o/s of pectus, the breast in sense of chest: perh of L pexus, woolly, hairy, and Skt paḥsmala, hairy, shaggy; perh also cf PECTEN.

2. L pectus, pector-, has derivative expectorāre, to eject (phlegm) ex or from the pectus or chest, with presp expectorans, o/s expectorant-, whence the E adj, hence n, expectorant, and with pp expectorātus, whence 'to expectorate', whence an expectoration.

peculate, peculation. See para 3 of:

peculiar (adj, hence n), pecularity; peculate, peculation; pecuniary, pecunious, impecunious, whence anl impecuniosity.

1. The phon and sem base is L pecū, livestock, one's flocks and herds, hence also money, since in the IE civilizations and, indeed, in the Sem and the Ham, cattle formed the earliest assessable wealth; 'property in livestock', hence 'wealth in livestock', hence 'money', are the senses attaching to the derivative L pecūnia.

2. L pecū (pl pecua) and its syn pecus (gen pecoris) are akin to OLith pekus, OP pecku, livestock (cattle); to syn Skt pāṇu (pāṣū); and to Go faihu, OE feoh, ON fē, cattle, money, and OHG fihu, MHG vihe, G Vieh, cattle. Cf, therefore, the sep FEE.

3. L pecū has dim pecūlium, that small part of a herd or a flock which is given, as his own property, to the slave acting as herd, hence private property, hence, from dishonest appropriation of a beast, theft of property entrusted to one's care: whence peculāri, to commit such a theft, pp peculātus, whence 'to peculate', esp at expense of the State; derivative LL peculātiō, o/s peculātiōn-, becomes peculation.

4. More directly from L pecūlium, private property, comes peculīaris, whence—perh via C16 F peculier—the E peculiar; derivative LL peculīaritās, o/s peculīaritāt-, yields peculiarity, whence—cf particularize—the anl 'to peculiarize'.

5. L pecūnia, property in cattle, hence money, has adj pecūniarius (LL var pecūniāris), relating to money, whence—prob via MF-F pecuniaire—the E pecuniary; pecūniōsus, rich, becomes MF-F pecūnieux, f pecunieuse, and E pecunious, now much rarer than its neg impecunious, from F impécunieux, f -ieuse; im-, for in-, not + pecunieux.

ped, a basket. See the 3rd PAD.

pedagogic (whence pedagogics), pedagogue, pedagogy; pederasty; paideutics; pedant (whence pedantic), pedantism, pedantry; cf the element pedo- (paedo-); prob of the sep PUERILE.

1. This group rests upon Gr pais, o/s paid-, c/f paido-, a boy, hence a child: PGr pawis*, gen pawidos*, cf Old Attic paus, gen pawos: cf Skt putrās, son, boy, child, L puer, boy, child: IE r, prob pu-, with varr pou- and peu-*, little, a young child (Hofmann).

2. On the Gr o/s paid- is formed Gr paideuein, to teach, whence the adj paideutikos, whence 'hē paideutikē (tekhnē)', the art of teaching, education, whence the E paideutics—cf ethics from ethic.

3. But the principal impact of Gr pais, paid-, upon E comes from two cpds, the lesser being paidēraistēs, boy-lover (paido-+erastēs, agent from erān, to love, cf EROS), whence the abstract n paidēraistia; whence, resp, the EF-F pédéraste, E pederast, and EF-F pédérastie, E pederasty.

4. More important is the Gr cpd paidagōgos, lit child-leading, -leader, orig a slave leading children to school, whence L paedagōgus, n, whence MF pedagogue (F pédagogue), adopted by E; the Gr derivatives paidagōgia, paidagōgikos, pass through late MF-F pédagogie, EF-F pédagogique, to become E pedagogy, pedagogic.

5. L paedagogus has the ML derivative paedagōgāre, to teach, be a teacher, with presp paedagōgans, o/s paedagōgant-, whence, app, the It n pedante, a schoolmaster, hence he who never stops being one, whence C16 F pedant (later pédant), adopted by E; the C16 F derivative pedanterie (F pé-) and pedantisme (F pé-) yield E pedantry and pedantism; pedantic, whence pedanticism, is an E var of C16 pedantesque (F pé-).

pedal. See FOOT, para 6.

pedant, pedantic, pedantry. See PEDAGOGIC, para 5.

pedate. See FOOT, para 6.

peddle, peddler. See the 3rd PAD.

pederast, pederasty. See PEDAGOGIC, para 3.

pedestal. See FOOT, para 16.

pedestrian. See FOOT, para 7.

pediatric. See the 1st pedo- in Elements.

pedicel, pedicle, pedicule. See FOOT, para 8.

pedigree. See FOOT, para 17.

pediment is prob a learned f/e corruption—after pedi-, c/f of L pes, a foot—of earlier periment, itself app a less learned corruption of pyramid.

pedlar. See the 3rd PAD.

pedograph, pedology. See the 2nd pedo- in Elements.

pedometer, pedomotive. See the 3rd pedo- in Elements.

pedro. See PETER, para 9.

peduncle anglicizes SciL pedunculus, lit a little foot (L pes, c/f ped-): f.a.e., FOOT.

pee. See PISS, para 3.

peek (v, hence n); its syn peep (v, hence n); its virtual syn peer. The second is prob, after peep, to chirp feebly, an alteration of the first, which derives from ME piken, o.o.o.—but perh akin to peer, itself o.o.o.—possibly aphetic from ME apperen, q.v. at APPEAR.

peel (1), a stake, a palisade, a palisaded enclosure (all obs), hence a small castle, derives from syn ME pel, from OF pel, a stake, from L pālus: cf the 2nd PALE.

peel (2), a shovel. See PALATE, para 1, s.f.

peel (3), to deprive of hair, hence of skin, hence of rind, etc., whence the corresp n peel and the vn peeling, usu in pl; pelage; pill, to plunder, pillage (n, hence v); sep pile, hair, pilose, depilate, depilatory, depilous; pilligan; Poilu; pellet and medical pill, whence pillbox; plush and pluck, v; platoon; sep CATERPILLAR.

1. 'To peel', ME pelen, pilen, app derives in part from OE pilian, vi, to peel, and in part from OF peler, vt, to remove the hair from, to peel, itself partly from OF pel, var of OF-F peau, skin, from L pellis, and partly from L pilāre, to deprive of hair, from pilus, a hair—cf pelage, a quadruped's coat of wool or fur or hair, adopted from late MF-F, from OF pel, hair, and Poilu, F sl for a F soldier, from late MF-F poilu, hairy, earlier pelu, from pel.

2. L pilus, a hair, whence E pile, as of a carpet, is akin to Gr pilos, felt (n), and perh to L filum, a thread. Cf FILAMENT, q.v. for pilose, depilatory, etc.

3. With 'to peel', cf 'to pill' or plunder, ME pillen, pilen, partly from OE pilian, to strip, *to peel, and partly from MF(-F) pillier, to plunder, o.o.o.—but prob, ult, either from L pilleum, a rag (B & W), or from L pilum, a pestle, a javelin (Webster). Derivative MF-F pillage has been adopted by E.

4. L pilus, hair, perh has derivative pila, a ball, whence OF pile, whence E pill, the 'little ball' of Med; the L dim pilula becomes MF-F pilule, adopted by E; cf pellet, from OF(-F) pelote, from ML pelota, mdfn of pilota, from L pila; cf also platoon, from late MF-F peloton, dim of pelote and, in C16, acquiring the sense 'group of soldiers'.

5 That odd-looking word piligan, a kind of moss, derives from SciL Piligena, a blend of pili-, an inferior c/f of Gr pilos, felt (n)+the element -gen.

6. E plush derives from F pluche, a contr (? orig phon only) of EF-F peluche, itself either from It peluzzo, (lit) little hair, dim of pelo, hair (L pilus) or, less prob, from OF-MF peluchier (F pelucher), to pick out, to pluck, from VL piluccare*, ? a freq from L pilāre, to deprive of pilus or hair.

7. Prob from piluccāre* derives, by contr, the late OE pluccian (var ploccian), E 'to pluck', to pick out, to cull, to strip of (e.g., feathers): cf It piluccare, to gather grapes; ON plokka, plukka, MHG-G pflücken, MD plocken, plucken, D plukken. 'To pluck' generates a pluck, act of plucking, hence that which is plucked, hence the heart, lungs, windpipe of an animal killed for food, hence —cf heart in sense 'courage'—the (orig sl) sense 'courage' (cf, sem, guts).

peeler, a policeman. See ROBERT, para 3.

peen. See the 2nd PANE.

peep (1), to cheep, to chirp feebly, ME pepen, is echoic: cf ME pipen, to pipe (cf PIPE), and L pipīre, pipiāre. Hence n. Cf PIPE.

peep (2), to peer. See PEEK.

peer (1), n. See PAIR, para 5.

peer (2), to glance sharply. See PEEK.

peerage; peeress; peerless. See PAIR, para 5.

peeve, a coll v, hence n, is a b/f from peevish, ME pevische, var peivesshe: o.o.o.

peewee derives from peewit, better pewit: echoic: cf KIBITZ, s.f.

peg, n, hence v; pail.

Peg, ME pegge, app derives from MD pegge: cf MD-MLG pegel, a gauge-rod or water-mark, and OE paegel, a wine-measure; OE paegel app becomes—influenced by OF paiete, a pan (L patella)—ME payle, E pail.

Pegasus, L Pegasus, Gr Pēgasos (from pēgē, a spring of water), is that myth winged horse which, with a blow of his hoof, caused Hippocrene, the Muses' inspiring fountain (fig, source of inspiration), to gush from Mt Helicon.

pegmatite. See the element pegmato-.

Pehlevi. See PARTHIA, para 1.

pejorative. See PESSIMISM, para 2.

pekin; Pekinese, Pekingese; Peiping.

The silk fabric pekin anglicizes F pékin, from F Pékin, corresp to E Peking, now called Peiping; derivative adj, hence n, Pekingese is applied esp to a small dog originating in China. Peking=Ch Pe-king, Capital (king) of the North (pe).

pelage. See the 3rd PEEL, para 1.

pelagian and pelagic. See ARCHIPELAGO.

pelican. See PELICAN.

pelerine. See PEREGRINE, para 2.

pelf; pilfer.

Pelf, orig booty, stolen goods, derives from OF peľfre, o.o.o.: peľfre has derivative peľfrer, to rob, despoil, whence, by 'thinning', to pilfer (cf the long obs syn 'to pelf').

pelican, occ pelecan, derives from LL pelicānus, var of LL pelēcān (acc peleccāna), trln of Gr pelekán (acc pelekana): cf Gr pelekas (acc pelekanta), a woodpecker: therefore cf Gr pelekeus, an axe, in Lesbian Gr a hammer, and Skt paraśús (pársús), an axe: prob Mesopotamian—cf Ass-Babylonian pilakku and, b for p, Sumerian balak, an axe. (Hofmann; Webster.)

pelisse, adopted from OF-F, derives from LL pellicia, a cloak, app elliptical for uestis pellicia, garment 'made of fur' (pellicius), prop 'made of skin', from L pellis, skin: cf the n PELT.

pell; pellagra, pellagrous. See PELT, n, paras 2, 3.

pellet. See the 3rd PEEL, para 4.

pellicle. See PELT, n, para 2.

pelitory derives—l for r—from ME paritorie: OF paritoire, var of paritaire (F pariétaire): L parietāria, from the adj parietārius, from pariet-, o/s of pariēs, a wall: o.o.o. Cf the element parieto-.

pell-mell. See MIX, para 7.

pellucid, whence pellucidity. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 19.

pelmet anglicizes F palmette, dim of palme, q.v. at FEEL, para 2.

pelorus, a navigating instrument, derives from Hannibal's pilot Pelorus; cf Pelorus Jack, a porpoise that, following ships plying the Wellington Straits, was famous in N.Z. of late C19—early 20. Pelorus app derives from Gr pelōros, monstrous.

pelota, adopted from Sp and parallel to OF-F pelote, a ball, comes, via VL pilotta* (a dim), from L pila, a ball: cf the 3rd PEEL, para 4.

pelt (1), a skin or fell, as of a sheep or, now esp, of a fur-bearing animal, peltry; pell and pellicle (whence pellicular); pellagra, pellagrous.

1. A pelt app derives, by b/f, from peltry: OF-MF peleterie (F pelletterie), a collective, in -erie, from OF pelletier (F pelletier), itself from OF pel, from L pellis, a skin, s pell-, r pel-: prob cf Homeric pella, pellis, a milk-bowl, ? orig of leather: cf also the n FELL.

2. OF pel becomes E pelt, a skin or a hide (both obs), whence a roll of parchment, whence a record in parchment, whence the obs Master of the Pelts, and L pellis has dim pellicula, whence—perh via EF-F pellicule—E pellicle.

3. Pellagra, adopted from It (whence the F pellagre), blends Gr pellā, *skin, *hide+Gr Med suffix -agra, from agra, a catching or seizing, as in Gr podagra, hence Med E, gout, lit a seizure of the podēs or feet. It pellagra has adj pellagroso, whence E pellagrose, pellagrous; cf E podagrous, from L podagrōsus, and podagric, from L podagricus, from Gr podagrikos.

pel (2), vt and vi, to strike (with) a series of usu vigorous blows, derives from ME pelten, var pilten (whence the obs 'to pilt'), to push or thrust, both being app var of syn ME pulten, itself perh from—at least, very prob akin to—L pultāre, to strike, to beat, repeatedly, a freq of pellere, to push, hence to strike: f.a.e., PULSE, to throb.

pelate. See the element *pel*ti-.

peltry. See the 1st PELT.

pelvic (cf the element pelvi-) is the learned E adj—cf pelvien, the learned F adj—of ML pelvis, L peluis, a basin: cf Gr pelux, a bowl, and Skt pālavī, a sort of vase.

pemican now usu (as in F) pemmican, derives from Cree pemikkān, var of pimikkān, from pimiz, fat, grease. The Crees are a Canadian, esp Manitoban, branch of the Algonquins.

pen (1) an enclosure, and pen, to enclose. See PIN, para 4.

pen (2), a feather, hence a quill for writing, whence penknife and penmanship, hence also 'to pen'; pennant, pennon; pencil and pennoncel; pennate and pinnate; pinion, n, a wing, a feather, hence v; panache.—Cf the elements penni-, -ptene, -ptera, and also E FEATHER.

1. A pen derives from ME penne, feather, quill, adopted from late OF-MF, from L penna, a wing, a large feather, ML a writing pen: OL pesna, perh for petsna*, that which serves for flying, IE pet*-, to fly, cf Gr petomai, I fly, and Skt pātram, a feather.

2. OF-MF penne has the OF-MF derivative pennon, with var penon, adopted by ME, whence E pennon, whence—? after pendant—the syn pennant, a flag that flies out lengthways like a long, waving plume. OF-MF penon has both the dim penoncel, whence the obsol E pennoncel, often contr to the obsol pencil, and the var pignon, whence ME-E pinion, a (part of a) bird's wing.

3. L penna, a feather, has derivative pennātus, furnished with wings or with feathers, whence E pennate, winged, feathered; and the perh orig mere var L pinna, a feather, a wing, has derivative pinnātus, feathered, whence E pinnate, feather-like; dim pinnula, a small feather, yields E pinnule, whence, anl, pinnulate.

4. Panache, adopted from F panache, late MF-EF pennache: It pennaccio, var of pennacchio, from penna, a feather, from L.

pen (3), a headland. See PENGUIN.

penal, penalty. See PAIN, para 3. penance. See PAIN, para 5.

penates; pencil (n, hence v); penetrable (whence, anl, penetrability), penetralia, penetrant (adj, hence n), penetrate, penetration, penetrative, penetrator— cf neg impenetrable, whence impenetrability; penicillate; penicillin, penicillium; penis.—fenestra, fenestral, fenestrate, fenestration, fenestella; defenestration.

1. Penātes, gods of the Roman household, gods of the interior, derives from L penes (r pen-), inside, in the interior of, which has derivative adv penitus and derivative adj penitus, interior, hence both penetrālis, internal, with neupl penetrālia, the innermost, hence most secret parts, adopted by learned E, and penetrāre, vt, to go right inside, whence penetrābilis, whence, perh via MF-F pénétrable, the E penetrable; the LL neg impénétrābilis, obscure, incomprehensible, yields MF-F impénétrable, whence E impenetrable. L penetrāre has presp penetrans, o/s penetrant-, whence, perh via F, penetrant. The pp penetrātus gives us 'to penetrate', whence the pa penetrating; derivative penetrātiō, o/s penetrātiōn-, becomes MF-F pénétration and, perh independently, E penetration; derivation ML penetrātivus yields penetrative, and LL penetrātor is adopted by E.

2. Prob, with -n- infix, from an IE r pe*-, as in G peos and Skt pāsas, penis, is L pēnis, the male member, adopted by many European nations as the Med or tech word; perh, however, despite the vowel change (? imposed as differentiation), L pēnis derives from or is, at least, akin to L penes, inside: 'the withinner, the penetrator'. From pēnis in its sense 'tail'—superseded by cauda—comes the dim pēnicillus, a painter's brush, cf that other dim, pēniculus, a brush, a broom; the VL var pēnicellus* becomes MF pincel (F pinceau), whence ME pencil, E pencil. L pēnicillus has suggested both the E penicillate, pencil-shaped, and the Sci Penicillium, a fungus bearing conidiophores with tufts at their ends; whence the Biochem penicillin (Penicillium + Chem suffix -in).

3. Prob distinct from, yet perh—by a p-f alternation—cognate with, L penes, within, is L fenestra, orig a mere hole made in a wall in order to admit light, hence a window; the L word is adopted by An with the new sense 'a small opening', as is the dim fenestella by Arch; but whereas the adj fenestrate, having many openings, derives from L fenestrātus, provided with windows, the adj fenestral=L fenestra+E adj suffix -al, as if from L fenestrālis*.

4. The adj fenestrate has prompted the learned defenestration, the act of throwing somebody de, from, a fenestra or window.

pence. See PENNY.

pencil. See the 2nd PEN, para 2.

penchant. See PEND, para 6.

pencil. See PENATES, para 2.

pend, whence the pa, whence the prep, pending (cf F pendant from pendre), pendant—pendent, pendentive; pendicle; pendulous, pendulum, pendule; —painter (a rope); penchant;—pensile; pension (n, hence v), pensionary, pensioner, pensionnaire, pensive, pensum, pensy—cf pensée and pansy—c also poise (n and v), peso, peseta.—Cognate: pondus, ponder (whence pondering), ponderable, ponderant (whence ponderance), ponderate (adj, v), ponderation, ponderosity, ponderous.—Cpds: append, appendage, appendant (adj, hence n), appendicitis, appendix, appendicle (whence anl appendicular and appendiculate); appentice and penthouse; compend (whence compendency), compendious, compendium—compensable, compensate, compensation, compensative, anl compensator (whence compensatory); depend (whence dependable), dependant, dependent, dependence (whence dependency)—and the neg independent, whence independence, with var independency; dispend, dispendious—dispensable (cf indispensable), dispensary, dispensation (whence, anl, dispensive), dispensator, dispensatory, dispense, dispenser—spence, spencer, spend (whence spender and pa, vn spending), spendthrift, spent; equipoise and counterpoise; expend (whence expenditure), expense; impend, impendent; imponderable; perpend—perpendicular; prepend; preponderant (whence preponderance, with var -ancy), preponderate, preponderation; propend, propendent—propense, propension, propensity; stipend, stipendiary; suspend (whence suspender), suspense (adj, n), suspension, suspensive (whence anl suspensoid), suspensor, whence anl suspensorium and suspensory.

Indo-European

1. In this constellation, there are two vv with the one s pend-: pendēre, vi, to be hanging or suspended, and pendere, vt, to hold in suspension, to suspend, hence to weigh, esp to weigh money, hence to pay, to evaluate; both vv have pp pēnsus, with its neu pēnsūm used as n, whence pēnsāre, which is syn with pendere; and the s and r pend- has var pond- in L pondus, weight. Prob the r pend- is an extn of IE pen-*, to weigh. For the vi pendēre—vt pendere alternation of form and sense, cf iacēre, to be lying on the ground, and iacere, to cause to lie on the ground, i.e. to throw or cast.

Simples

2. 'To pend' derives, via OF-F pendre, from L pendēre, to be hanging; and the F presp pendant, used (already in OF) as n, is adopted by E; the adj pendent, deriving from the F presp, shows the influence of L pendent-, o/s of pendens, presp of pendēre; the L o/s pendent- occurs in the EF-F n pendentif, whence E pendentive.

3. Pendulous derives from L pendulus, hanging, suspended, from the common r pend-; hence, anl, pendulosity. Pendulus has neu pendulum, used by SciL as a n, adopted by E; F pendule likewise comes from pendulus.

4. Pendulus has the dim pendiculus, a cord, whence, in part, the E pendicle. Pendiculus has the cpd perpendicularum, a plumb line (obs E perpendicular), with derivative LL adj perpendicularāris, whence MF perpendiculariter, perpendicularer (F perpendiculaire), whence E perpendicular.

5. L pendere app had a pp penditius*, whence VL penditiōrium*, whence OF pentoir, a suspensory cord, whence the naut E painter.

6. With L pendiculus, cf the L adj pendicus*, whence VL pendicāre*, to lean, whence MF-F pencher, with presp penchant, used as n in EF-F and thereupon adopted by E.

7. L pēnsus, pp of pendere, to suspend, to weigh, to pay, has adj pēnsilis, pendent, whence E pensile, and derivative n pēnsiō (acc pēnsiōnem), a paying, (a) payment, salary, rent or hire, whence MF-F pension, adopted by E; F pension, a boarding-house, is modern. Derivative MF-F pensionner becomes 'to pension', and its own derivative MF-F pensionnier becomes E pensioner. L pēnsiō, pēnsiōn-, has ML agent pēnsiōnārius, a pensioner, whence both E pensionary and F pensionnaire, partly adopted by E in the modern sense 'boarder'.

8. The L pp pēnsus, weighed, has neu pēnsūm, used in LL-ML as n, a weight of wool distributed to the maids for spinning, hence a task; in the latter sense, it has been adopted in some secondary schools. More importantly, the L n pēnsūm, a weight, becomes VL pēsum, whence OF peis, soon—under influence of L pondus—pois (F pois), adopted by ME, whence E poise; note, however, that OF has var peise (perh imm from LL pēnsa, a weight), whence poise, a weight, balance. 'To poise' derives from ME poisen, from MF 'il poise', from OF-F peser, to weigh, from VL pēsāre*, from L pēnsāre, orig an int of pendere.

9. OF pois has cpd OF contrepois (F contrepois), whence, ult, the E counterpoise; cf the anl formed equipoise, equality in weight, and avoirdupois, ME avoir de pois, adopted from MF, lit 'goods (property, avoir) of weight'.

10. LL pēnsūm, VL pēsum*, a weight, becomes the syn Šp peso, which acquires the sense 'a Spanish, or a Mexican, dollar', which, silver, weighs heavy; its dim is peseta.

11. L pēnsāre, to weigh, to judge, becomes OF-F penser, to think, whence OF-F pensif, f pensive, whence E pensive; the OF nom sing pensis yields Sc and dial pensy, thoughtful. OF-F penser has derivative OF-F pensée, a thought, as in arrière-pensée, an after thought; pensée, moreover, became, in EF-F, a flower-name, whence E pansy.

12. L pondus, weight, is notable for its derivatives:

ponderāre, to weigh, MF-F pondérer, E 'to ponder'; hence LL ponderābilis, late MF-F pondérable, E ponderable, with neg imponderable; presp ponderans, o/s ponderant-, E ponderant; pp ponderātus, whence the E adj and v ponderate; its derivative ponderātiō, o/s ponderātiōn-, whence, perh via EF-F pondération, the E ponderation; ponderōsus, heavy, E ponderous; hence ML ponderōsitās, o/s ponderōsitāt-, E ponderosity.

Compounds

13. L appendere (ad, to + pendere, suspend), to hang (something) on to or from, becomes OF-F appendre, E 'to append', whence—perh after LL appendicia, appendages—appendage; the F presp appendant is adopted by E as adj, hence n. Derivative L appendix is adopted by Sc, and on its o/s appendic- is formed appendicitis (Med suffix -itis); its dim appendicula yields appendicle. F appendre has late MF-F derivative appentis, whence both the obs E appentice, a penthouse, and, by aphesis, the obs penits and pentice, whence, by f/c (HOUSE), penthouse.

14. L compendere, to weigh together, hence to weigh, has presp compendens, o/s compendent-, E Math adj compendent; derivative compendium, LL a short cut, an epitome, is adopted by E; LL adj compendiōsus becomes MF-F compendieux, f -ieuse, E compendious.

15. With L compendere, cf L compensāre, to weigh (several things) together, to balance together, whence MF-F compenser, with derivative compensabile, adopted by E; the L pp compensātus yields 'to compensate'. On the pp s compensāt- arise compensātiō, o/s compensātiōn-, whence, prob via MF-F, the E compensation, and LL compensātiuus, ML -ivus, E compensative.

16. L dēpendere, to be suspended or hanging down (from), hence to derive from or rely upon, becomes OF dependre (F dé-), E 'to depend'; whereas the L presp gives us dependent, the F presp gives us dependant. Derivative MF-F dépendance yields E dependence. The EF-F neg indépendant and its subsidiary indépendance leads to independent, -ence.

17. L dispēdere, to weigh out, distribute, spend, becomes OF-MF despendre, whence 'to dispend'; derivative L dispēdium has LL adj dispēdiōsus, whence E dispēdious, costly, extravagant.

18. 'To dispend' has been superseded by 'to spend', ME spenden, by aphesis from OF despendre, to spend also to weigh out or distribute, with derivative n despense, whence, aphetically, both the E, now only dial, spense, expenditure, expense, and the Sc spence, a pantry; derivative OF despensier becomes, by aphesis, the now only Hist E spencer. 'To spend' has cpd spendthrift, lit a spender of savings, and pp spent.

19. Orig the int of L dispēdere is dispēnsāre, OF dispenser, E 'to dispense', with agent dispenser (owing something to OF despensier, despenseor) and adj dispensabile, the neg indispensabile prob coming direct from the EF-F word. Dispēnsāre has pp dispēnsātus, whence dispēnsātiō, o/s dispēnsātiōn-, OF-F dispensation, adopted by E, and LL dispēnsātiuus, ML -ivus, E dispensative, and dispensator, OF-F dispensateur, AF dispensatour, E dispensator, and LL dispēnsatoriūs, E dispensatory. Note that dispensary, whence F dispensaire, comes from 'to dispense'.

20. L expēdere, to pay in full, yields 'to expend', whence expendable; the derivative ML agent expēditor, a disbursor, occurs in E Hist, and on it is anl formed expenditure. The pp expēnsus becomes, in its f expēnsa, LL for an expense, money for expenses, with the ML var expensum, whence OF espense and AF expense, whence E expense, whence expensive.

21. L impēdere, to hang into, to hang over, yields 'to impend'; its presp impēdens, o/s impēdent-, explains the E adj impendent.

22. L perpendere, to weigh per- or exactly, hence to examine carefully, becomes 'to perpend'.

23. L praeponderāre, to weigh more, to exceed in weight, has presp praeponderans, o/s praeponderant-, whence E preponderant, and pp praeponderātus, whence 'to preponderate', with derivative LL praeponderātiō, o/s praeponderātiōn-, E preponderation.

24. L prōpendere, to be hung in front, yields 'to propend'; its presp prōpendens, o/s prōpendent-, yields the adj propendent; its pp prōpensus is used also as adj 'hanging, hence inclining, forward', E propense, and the L derivative prōpensīō, o/s prōpensīōn-, becomes propension, almost superseded by propensity (propense + -ity).

25. With propense, cf prepense: L prōpensus has perh influenced OF purpenser, to plan beforehand, lit to think (penser) forward (pur-, var pour-, for pro-); the OF pp purpensē led to ME purpensed, whence EE purpensed, pp, whence the E adj prepense.

26. L pendere, to weigh, to pay, has the cpd OL stipēdium*, whence, by contr, L stipēdium, the 1st element being stips (gen stipis, c/f stipi-), a small piece of money: 'payment of a small sum', e.g. as alms, hence, in LL, stipēdia (pl), the revenues of the Church, hence, in ML, stipēdium, a priest's salary, whence, prob via MF, the E stipend; the derivative L adj stipēdiārius becomes perh via EF-F stipēdiare, the E stipendiary, salary-receiving.

27. L suspēdere, lit to hang sub or under, i.e. to hang up, becomes OF souspendre, suspēdere (as in F), whence 'to suspend', lit and fig. The LL pp suspēnsus becomes the late MF-F adj suspens, whence E suspense; the E n suspense derives, by b/f, from 'in suspense', trans of the late MF-F adv phrase, en suspens (from the adj). L suspēnsus has these derivatives affecting E: LL suspensibilis, E suspensible; suspēnsīō, o/s suspēnsīōn-, OF-F, whence E, suspension; ML suspēnsivus, MF-F suspensif, f -ive, E suspensive; suspēnsōrius, nei -ōrium, as LL n, whence the E adj and n; ML agent suspēnsor, adopted by E.

pendant; pendent; pendentive. See prec, para 2. pendicle. See PEND, para 4.

pending. See PEND (heading).

pendule, pendulous; pendulum. See PEND, para 3. peneplain (or -plane); peninsula, whence—after insular—peninsular; penult, penultimate; penumbra, whence penumbral.

1. Pene- or, before a vowel, pen- represents the L adv paene, almost, occ written pēne: o.o.o. Peneplain is an anl E formation, after peninsula, which derives from L paeninsula, an 'almost insula or island' (f.a.e., SOLE, adj).

2. Penult shortens penultima, the last syllable but one: L paenultima (syllaba): f of paenultimus, last but one: paene + ultimus, last. From penultima comes, after ULTIMATE, the adj penultimate.

3. Penumbra is a SciL formation, as if from L paenumbra*, an 'almost (paen-) shadow (umbra):

f.a.e., UMBRA. Cf the F pénombre.

penetrable, penentralia, penetrant, penetrate, penetration, penetrative. See PENATES, para 1.

penguin; pen, a headland.

Penguin, app orig the great auk, seems to represent W pen, head + W gwyn, white; both W pen and W gwyn have numerous cognates in other C languages. Pen, in its derivative sense 'headland', occurs, e.g., in Cor surnames beginning with Pen-.

penicillate; penicillin, Penicillium. See PENATES, para 2. peninsula, peninsular. See PENEPLAIN.

penis. See PENATES, para 2.

penitence, penitent, penitential, penitentiary. See PAIN, para 5.

penknife, orig used for cutting quills to write with. See the 2nd PEN (heading).

pennant. See the 2nd PEN, para 2.

pennate. See 2nd PEN, para 3.

pennon, pennoncel. See 2nd PEN, para 2.

Pennsylvania, whence adj (hence n) Pennsylvanian, is lit 'the Sylvania, or Sylvan Country, of William Penn', that E Quaker (1644–1718) who, in 1681, founded the settlement that was to grow into a State. For the formation, cf Transylvania, Rum-silvania, formerly a province in East Hungary; for -sylvania, see, f.a.e., SILVAN.

penny. See the 2nd PAN, para 4. The pl pennies, numerical, becomes, by contr, pence, collective.

pennyroyal is f/e for ME puliall royal, itself via an AF royal elaboration of MF peuliol (C14), earlier poulioel (C13), from VL puleium*, mdfn of L pūleium (cf LL pūliatum, pennyroyal wine), itself a contr of pūlegum, so named because anciently this kind of mint, with pungently aromatic leaves, was used against the pūlex (o/s pūlic-) or flea: cf F herbe aux puces, herb for (i.e., against) fleas. (Enci It.)

pennywort is a wort or herb with leaves round like pennies.

penology. See the element peno-.

pensée. See PEND, para 11.

pensile. See PEND, para 7.

pension, pensionary, pensioner. See PEND, para 7.

pensive. See PEND, para 11.

pensum. See PEND, para 8.

pensy. See PEND, para 11.

pent, adj, is the pp of pend, var of pen, to enclose, q.v. at PIN.

pentacle, pentad. See FIVE, para 13.

pentagon, pentagram, pentameter, Pentateuch. See the element penta-.

pentathlon. See FIVE, para 5.

Pentecost. See FIVE, para 14. Cf PINKSTER.

penthouse. See PEND, para 13, s.f.

penult, penultimate. See PENEPLAIN, para 2; cf ULTERIOR, para 6.

penumbra. See PENEPLAIN, para 3; cf UMBRA, para 9.

penurious, pennyry. See PATIENCE, para 8.

peon, whence peonage. See FOOT, para 9.

peony. See PAEON, para 3.

people, n and v; populace, popular, popularity (whence, anl, popularize, whence popularization), populate, population, populous—cf depopulate, depopulation;—public (adj, hence n), publican, publication, publicist, publicity, publish (whence publisher)—cf republic, whence republican; pueblo;—perh akin are plebe, plebeian (adj, hence n), plebscite, plebs.

1. People, ME people, poepel, OF poepel, puuple (F peuple), derives from L populus, a State's citizens collectively, s popul-, IĒ r perh popl-, ? var pupl-, with -b- varr pobl-, publ-, as in the L corresp adj pūbicus; L plēbs (var plēps), c/f plebi-, the generality of non-noble Roman citizens, (later) the populace, is perh a contr of polebs* (var poleps*).

2. OF puuple has v puepler, poepeler (F peupler), whence 'to people'.

3. L populus has derivative adjj populōsus, whence E populous, and populāris, of the people, democratic, whence, perh via OF populeir, MF-F populaire, the E popular; derivative LL populāritās, populousness, fellow-citizenship, comradeship, but also general opinion (Souter), o/s populāritāt-, becomes late MF-F popularité, hence E popularity; late EF-F populariser (from L populāris) fathers E 'to popularize'. Populace is adopted from EF-F, which thus adapts It popolaccio, a pej extn of popolo (L populus). L populus has, moreover, the LL-ML v populāri, populāre, to people, with pp populātus, whence 'to populate'; derivative LL populātiō, o/s populātiōn-, the people, yields—perh via late MF-F—the E population.

4. LL populātiō and LL-ML populāri, -are, are not to be confused with Classical L populāre, -ari, to devastate (populātiō, devastation) which perh represent a b/f from L dēpopulāre, to deprive—or reduce the number—of people; dē-, down from, connoting descent, reduction, deprivation + populus + inf suffix -are, -ari. Dēpopulāre has pp dēpopulātus, whence 'to depopulate'; derivative dēpopulātiō, o/s dēpopulātiōn-, yields depopulation.

5. The corresp adj pūbicus, only perh akin to populus, passes through MF-F public, f publique, to become E public; derivative L publicānus, adj and n, passes through OF-F publicain into E publican; derivative pūbicāre, to render public, has pp pūbicātus, whence the LL n pūbicātiō, o/s pūbicātiōn-, whence MF-F, hence E, publication. F public has derivatives publiciste and publicité, whence E publicist and publicity, whence, anl, 'to publicize'. 'To publish', ME publisshen, derives from OF-F publier, with incorrect -ish anl with that of astonish, from L pūbicāre.—With public-house (orig, as often still, public house), cf the F maison publique (lit, public house), a brothel, and LL pūbicus locus (lit, public place), a latrine, and perh LL pūblica, a public street, elliptical for pūblica uia.

6. L pūbicus occurs in the important cpd respūblica, lit 'the public res or affair', whence MF-F republique, whence E republic, whence—aided by EF-F républicain—the adj, hence n, republican.

7. L populus, a people, becomes Sp pueblo, a village—cf OF poblo and later OF pueble.

8. L plēbs, as in para 1, becomes MF-F plèbe, whence E plebe (obs), the Roman plebs, the common people, whence, at least in part, the AE plebe, a freshman at West Point or at Annapolis. The derivative L adj plēbeius becomes MF-F plébéien, whence E plebeian; and the derivative cpd plēbiscitum (c/f plebi-+scitum-, from scitus, adj from the pp of scire, to know, hence, in LL, also to decide, to decree): a decree or decision made by the Roman plebs; whence MF-F plēbiscite, with modern sense arising in 1792; hence as EE-E plebiscite.

pep, n hence v, is a sl abbr of PEPPER.

pepo. See MELON, para 2.

pepper (n, hence v), whence the adj peppery and such obvious cpds as pepperbox, -corn (OE pipor-corn), -grass, -mill, -mint, -pot, -tree, -wort; the sl pep, whence sl peppy; paprika; pipal; Piper, piperin(e), piperonal; pimperl.

1. Pepper, ME peper, OE pipor, derives from LL piper (gen piperis), itself from—or at the least akin to—Gr pēperi, prob (Hofmann) via Persia from India—cf (l for r) Skt pippalī, peppercorn, a grain of pepper, and pippala, a berry.

2. App from Gr pēperi comes Hung paprika, Turkish pepper, whence—perh via G—the E paprika.

3. Skt pippala, a berry, also denotes the sacred fig tree of India (Ficus religiosa), whence Hind pipal, E pipal.

4. L piper becomes Bot Piper, the true pepper, usu a climbing shrub: whence Chem piperin, -ine (perh suggested by the LL-ML adj piperinus), whence, in turn, piperitone (Chem suffix -one) and, adopted from G, piperonal; cf piperate, n, and piperic, adj: piper, pepper+Chem -ate, Chem -ic.

5. The LL-ML adj piperinus app has derivative LL pimpinella, a plant with medicinal qualities (Souter)—cf It pimpinella, OProv pempinella—whence ML pimperl, whence MF-F pimperl, whence E pimperl. (OF piprenelle came perh from a VL piperinella*, from LL piperinus.)

pepsin, peptic. See the element -pepsia. (Peptone=Gr pepton, neu of peptos, cooked+Chem suffix -one.)

per, adopted from L per, through (whence F par), is akin to Gr peri, Aeolic per, round about (cf, sem, E about), beyond, and the syn OPer paryi and Skt pāri.

peradventure, which has prompted perchance, derives from ME per aventure, from OF par aventure. Cf prec.

perambulate, perambulation. See AMBLE, para 4. perceive. See CAPABILITY, para 7.

percentage; percentile.

Percentage is an -age n formed from per cent, (so much) per hundred, from L per centum; the adj is percental. Percentile=percentage+adj -ile.

perception, perceptive. See CAPABILITY, p. 7.

(The Psy n percept=L perceptum, prop the neu of perceptus, pp of percipere.)

perch (1), the fish; perchiform; ? pulchritude, whence pulchritudinous (cf multitudinous from multitudo).

1. Perch, ME perche, derives from MF-F perche: L perca: Gr perkē, itself akin to Gr perkos, speckled, dark (cf perknos, dark), and Skt pr̥śni, speckled; IE r, prob perk-*, speckled, spotted.

2. L perca has c/f perci-, as in E perchiform, perch-like.

3. Perh akin to L perca, Gr perkē, etc., is L pulcher (f pulchra), beautiful, whence pulchritūdō, beauty, whence E pulchritude.

perch (2), a measure of length, ME from MF(-F) perche, comes from L peritica: ? of C origin.

perch (3), to alight and settle, as a bird does: MF-F percher: from MF perche, as in prec.

perchance. See PERADVENTURE.

Percheron, a heavy draught horse, is, in F, lit a 'native of Le Perche', a famous horse-breeding district of NW France.

perchiform. See the 2nd PERCH.

percient. See CAPABILITY, para 7.

percolate, n and v; percolation, whence, anl, percolative and percolator.

The Pharm n percolate derives from L percolātium, prop the neu of percolātus, pp of percolāre, to cause (a liquid) to be strained through interstices: per, through+colāre, to be filtered, to flow, to strain (a liquid); percolātus yields both E 'to percolate' and L percolātiō, o/s percolātiōn-. Colāre derives from L colum, a filter, a sieve: o.o.o.

percurrent. See COURSE, (at percurrere in) para 10.

percuss, percussion (whence, anl, percussive), percussor, percutient: all derive from L percutere, to strike per- or violently, -cutere being the c/f of quater, to shake (f.a.e., QUASH), hence to strike; the presp percutiens, o/s percutient-, yields the E adj hence n percutient; the pp percussus yields E 'to percuss' and L percussio, o/s percussio-, whence, perh via MF-F, the E percussion.

perdition; perdu.

The former derives, via ME perdicion and OF perdicion (MF-F perdition), from L perditio-, o/s of perditio, from perditus, pp of perdere, to lose, ruin, destroy: per, through+-dere, c/f of dare, to put (hence, via 'put into the hands of', to give). L perdere becomes OF-F perdre, pp perdu, lost, hence, in E, lost to view.

perdurable, perdure. See DURABLE, para 7.

peregrine (adj, hence n), whence peregrinoid (suffix -oid, -resembling); pelerine—cf pilgrim, pilgrimage; peregrinate, peregrination, peregrinator, peregrinity.

1. The L adj peregrinus, travelling abroad, coming from abroad, (hence) concerning foreign parts (cf LL peregrina, foreign parts)—whence E peregrine, foreign, exotic—derives from the L adv peregrē, from abroad, and peregrī, in or to foreign parts, themselves very closely akin to L peragrāre, to travel from or to or in foreign parts: per, through+agrōs, acc of agri, the fields+inf suffix -are-sc ire, to go, or ambulāre, to walk. (For agri, pl of ager, c/f agri-, cf 'agriculture'.)

2. L peregrīnus has the LL var pereger, with LL var peleger, which—after peregrīnus—prompts the ML pelegrīnus, of a pilgrim, hence as n, a pilgrim: whence OF pelerin (F pèlerin), adj and n, f pelerine, used, centuries later (pèlerine), for a woman's fur cape, esp with long ends hanging down in front, whence E pelerine.

3. OF pelerin app had a var pelegrin*, to judge by ME pelegrim, later pilegrim, latest pilgrim, extant in E. OF pelerin had derivative v peleriner, to go on a pilgrimage, with derivative n pelerinage (F pè-), later pelrimage, adopted by ME and duly re-shaped to pilgrimage, extant in E.

4. L peregrīnus has derivative peregrīnāri, LL peregrīnāre, to travel abroad, with pp peregrīnātus, whence 'to peregrinate'; derivatives peregrīnātiō (o/s peregrīnātiōn-) and peregrīnātōr become E peregrination (prob via OF peregrination, F péré-) and peregrinator. Peregrīnus has abstract n peregrīnitās, the being a foreigner, o/s peregrīnitāt-, whence—perh via EF-F pérégrinité—the E peregrinity.

père. See FATHER, para 3.

peremptory. See EXEMPT, para 6.

perennial. See ANNUAL, para 4.

perfect (adj—hence v, whence perfecter), perfectible (whence, anl, perfectibility), perfection (whence perfectionism, perfectionist), perfective; negg imperfect (adj, hence n), imperfection (whence, anl, imperfective); pluperfect, adj, hence n; cf, f.a.e., the sep FACT.

1. A perfect thing is one 'made, or done, thoroughly': L perfectus, pp of perficere, to make or do thoroughly: per-, through(out)+ficere, c/f of facere. The archaic parfit is ME (e.g., Chaucer), adopted from OF parfit (cf the F parfait), from L. From perfectus, learned F coins perfectible, whence perfectibilité: cf the E perfectible, perfectibility. On L perfectus arise perfectiō, whence, via the acc perfectiōnem, the F perfection, adopted by E, and LL perfectius, ML perfectivus, whence E perfective.

2. L perfectus has derivative neg adj imperfectus, whence E imperfect; derivative LL imperfectiō, acc imperfectiōnem, becomes OF-F imperfection, adopted by E.

3. The LL plusquamperfectus (plus, more+quam, than+perfectus, completed) of the grammarians became EF-F plus-que-parfait; E has drastically coined the contr pluperfect.

perfidious is per- or thoroughly fervid, q.v. at FERVENT.

perfidious, perfidy. See FAITH, para 15.

perflation. See FLATUS, para 7.

perforate, perforation. See FORAMEN, para 2.

perforce anglicizes F par force, by force. Cf perform, whence performance and performer, derives from ME performen, earlier parfourmen (these two forms being influenced by form and perh by L performāre, to form thoroughly), earliest parfournen, from OF-EF parfornir, parfournir: par-, L per-, thoroughly+fournir, fornir, to complete, to furnish (f.a.e., FURNISH).

PERADVENTURE.

perfume, perfumery. See FUME, para 4.

perfunctory. See FUNCTION, para 3. perfuse, perfusion. See the 2nd FOUND, para 10. pergameneous. See PARCHMENT, para 2.

pergola, adopted from It, comes from L pergula, a shed, a vine arbour, perh from pergere, to proceed with, from regere, to guide.

perhaps. See HAP, para 3.

pericarditis is an inflammation (connoted by Med suffix -itis) of the pericardium, a SciL trln of Gr perikardion, orig the neu of perikardios, near the heart: peri, round about (cf PER) the kardia or heart.

pericarp, like F péricarpe, derives from Gr perikarpion: peri, round about+karpos, fruit.

pericycle: Gr perikuklos, spherical. Cf prec two entries.

peridium: Gr peridion, dim of pera, a leather pouch.

perigee: EF-F périgée: from Gr perigeios, (passing) around the gē or earth.

peril, n, hence v—usu Imperil, with im- for in, into; perilous—cf barous;—piracy, pirate (n, hence v), piratic, piratical.

1. Parlous stands for perlous, a contr of perilous, from OF perillous, var of perilleus (F périlleux), from L periculōsus, adj of periculum, contr of periculum, an attempt, hence a risk, danger, akin to perītus, experienced, and to Gr peira, a trial or attempt, and peiran, to attempt.

2. Gr peiran has agent peiratēs, a robber at sea, L pīrāta, MF-F pirate, adopted by E. Derivative Gr peirateria becomes ML pīrātia, whence E piracy; and derivative Gr peiratikos becomes L pīrāticus, whence E piratic, now usu in extr piratical.

perimeter. See MEASURE, para 4.

perineal is the adj of perineum, SciL trln of Gr perinaion, perineos: peri, round about+inaō, I urinate or defecate (cf Skt īṣṇāti, he discharges).

period, periodic, periodical, periodicity. See ODOGRAPH, para 6.

periosteum is a SciL coinage from Gr periosteos, round (peri) the bones (osteon, a bone). Hence periosteal.

peripatetic, adj hence n, derives from late MF-F péripatétiq: L peripatēticus: Gr peripatētikos, walking about, from peripatein, to walk (patein) about (peri): cf Gr pátos, a path, a step: perh cf the 1st PAD.

peripheral (cf the F périphérique) derives irreg from periphery: EF-F périphérie: LL periphēria: Gr periphēreia, lit a carrying (-phēreia, from pherein, to carry) around (peri).

periphrasis, periphrastic. See PHRASE, para 2, s.f.

periscope, periscopic. See SCOPE.

perish, whence perishable (? prompted by MF-F périssable) and the paa perished, perishing; imperishable, partly prompted by EF-F impérissable, but imm from perishable.

'To perish', ME perisshen, perissen, derives from perissant, presp, and the pres pl perissons, perissez, perissent, of ÓF perir (F périr), from L perire, to go through, hence to come to nothing or be lost: per, through + ire, to go: f.a.e., ISSUE.

peristaltic (Physio): Gr peristaltikos, compressing as it clasps, from peristellein, to envelop: peri, round about + stellein, to place.

peristyle. See the element -stylar.

peritoneal is the adj of peritoneum: LL peritonaeum: Gr peritonaion, from peritonos, stretched around (peri): f.a.e., TONE.

periwig. See PETER, para 12.

periwinkle (1), a trailing herb or its flower; vetch; vinculum.

1. Periwinkle—prob influenced by the mollusc periwinkle—derives from ME pervenke, pervinke, themselves—the former via ONF pervenke (MF-F pervenche), the latter via OE perwince—from ML pervinca, L peruinca, from L peruincire, int (per-) of uincire, to bind or twine, itself o.o.o.

2. L uincire has derivative vinculum, something that ties, binds, joins together, adopted, in its ML form vinculum, by An and Math.

3. Akin to L uincire is the denasalized L uicia, ML vicia, whence OF vece, with var veche, adopted by ME, whence E vetch. With L uicia, ML vicia, cf Lett vikne, a tendril periwinkle (2), a mollusc; winkle.

This periwinkle—perh influenced by the 1st-app derives from OE pinewincle, a shellfish, with pine—perh deriving from L (from Gr) pinna, var pina, a mussel, and -winkle is OE -wincle, which, recorded only in cpds, seems to be a dim of wince, a reel, a winch (f.a.e., WINCH)—from the convoluted shell (EW).

perjure, perjury. See JURY, para 4, s.f.

perk, to rise, esp jauntily, in order to see, ME perken, is app a var of 'to perch'—see the 3rd PERCH. Hence, perky, lively and self-confident.

perks is a sl derivative of perquisites, q.v. at QUERY.

perlite. See PEARL (heading).

permanence, permanent. See MANOR, para 7. permanganate, permanganic. The former = permanganic + Chem suffix -ate; the latter = prefix per- + manganic, which = manganese + -ic: f.a.e., MAGNESIA.

permeable, whence, anl, permeability; permeate, permeation, whence, anl, permeative; negg impermeable, whence impermeability.

1. Impermeable derives from LL impermeabilis, perh via EF-F impermeable; permeable from LL permeabilis (cf EF-F perméable), from L permeare, to pass (meare) through (per): and meare has s and r me-, prob akin to migrare and mūtare: cf OSi mimo, across, athwart. On the pp permeatus—whence 'to permeate'—is, anl, formed the E permeation.

2. Cf, ult, ZENITH.

permissible, permission, permit. See MISSION, para 16.

permutation, permute. See MUTABLE, para 7.

pernicious. See NOXIOUS, para 5.

pernickety. See PART, para 6.

peroneal, peroneus, peronium, all An terms, come from Gr peronē, the fibula, the 3rd imm from its dim peronion.

perorate, peroration. See ORATION, para 7.

peroxide is an oxide (see OXYGEN) with a high proportion—connoted by the int per- (L per, through)—of oxygen. Hence as v.

perpend. See PEND, para 22.

perpendicular. See PEND, para 4.

perpetrate, perpetration, perpetrator. See FATHER, para 8.

perpetual, perpetuate, perpetuation (whence, anl, perpetuator), perpetuity.

Perpetual is a reshaping of OF-F perpétuel, from L perpetuālis, mdfn of perpetuus, continuing throughout, lasting for ever, from perpet-, o/s of perpes, lasting throughout, uninterrupted: per, through, per-, throughout + petere, to seek: f.a.e., PETITION. On perpetuus arise both perpetuitās, o/s perpetuitāt-, MF-F perpétuité, E perpetuity, and perpetuāre, to render lasting throughout or for ever, pp perpetuātus, whence 'to perpetuate'; derivative ML perpetuatiō, o/s perpetuatiōn-, becomes perpetuation.

perplex, perplexity. See PLY, para 27 perquisite, perquisition. See QUERY, para 11.

perrier. See PETER, para 7.

perron. See PETER, para 7.

perry. See PEAR, para 2.

perscribe, perscription. See SCRIBE, para 15.

perscrutate, perscrutation. See SHRED, para 9.

perse, Persia (whence Persian, adj, hence n); Persicaria, whence persicary; persienne and persiennes; peach.

1. The colour perse, dark blue, is adopted from F perse, prop the f of the OF-F adj pers, from ML persus, a form-and-sense mdfn of L persicus, peach-coloured, from Persicus, Persian (obs E Persic), adj of Persia (Gr ἡ Περσική, Persis; OPer Pārsa, whence Pārsi, a Persian, whence E Parsee or Parsi); L Persicus = Gr Persikos, adj of Persēs, a Persian, itself—by the Greeks—derived from the Myth Perseus, slayer of the Medusa. Gr Persikos or Persikon, the latter elliptical for Persikon melon, Persian fruit, i.e. the peach, became L persicum, LL persica (neupl as f sing) and VL persicca*, whence OF pesche, later peche (F pêche), ME peche, E peach.

2. The Bot Persicaria is derived by SciL from L persicum; whence persicary. And persienne, painted (or printed) cotton (or cloth), orig made in Persia, is adopted from F, where it is elliptical for toile persienne, Persian cloth, persienne being the f of MF-F persien, adj derived from the older adj perse, of Persia; and persiennes (f pl used as n), Venetian blinds, are supposed to have come from Persia.

persecute, persecution, persecutor. See SEQUENCE, para 12.

perseverance, persevere. See SEVERE, para 3.

Persia, Persian; Persicaria, persicary; persienne(s). See PERSE.

persiflage, adopted from F, derives from persifler, to quiz: per-, vaguely int+siffler, to hiss, to whistle, from VL sifiläre* (attested by LL sifilatiō, a hissing in the theatre, L sibilatiō), from L sibiläre, ult echoic (cf SIBILANT).

persimmon is of Alg origin—cf Cree pasimian, Lenape pastmēnan, dried fruit. (Webster.)

persist, persistence, persistent. See SIST, para 7.

person, persona, personable (from person), personage, personal (whence personalize, whence personalization), personality, personalty, personate (adj and v, whence personation), personative, personator (cf the derivative impersonate, impersonation, impersonator), personify, personification, personnel; impersonal, impersonality; parson (whence, from its colouring, the parson bird), personage, parsonic(al), parsonify; squarson.

1. Person, ME person and earlier persone, derives from OF persone (late MF-F personne): L persōna, orig a mask (Gr prosōpon), as worn in the Ancient Classical theatre, hence the role attributed to this mask, hence a character, a personage, hence—already in Cicero—a person, hence in Gram: and L persōna, a mask, is prob of Etruscan origin, for cf Etruscan phersu, app a mask or a masked person; both persōna and phersu may well be akin to Gr πρόσωπον, prosōpon, var prosōpeion (E & M). The Gr prosōpeion, a mask, is a derivative of prosōpon, a mask, orig and prop the face: pros (πρός), towards, at + ōpa (ὄπτα), eye, the face.

2. L persōna is retained by E (persona) in several erudite or tech senses.

3. L persōna has the following derivatives affecting E:

ML personāgium, an Eccl duty or office, MF personage, id, (late MF) a personage (F personage), E personage (cf parsonage in para 6);

LL persōnalis (often opp materialis), relating to a pson, OF personal (F personnel), E personal; derivative LL persōnālītās, o/s persōnālītāt-; MF personalitē, EF-F personnalitē, E personality; MF personalitē becomes AF personaltie, whence the E Law term personalty, a sense going right back to L persōna in its LL sense 'a person in the eyes of the law', hence 'legal status' (Souter)—persōna as opp rēs, property;

the LL neg impersōnalis becomes E impersonal and OF impersonal (F impersonnel), with derivatives impersonality and impersonnalitē;

L persōnātus, masked, hence disguised, hence feigned, whence E personate, both adj and v; hence anl:

LL persōnātivus, ML persōnātivus, E personative, and ML persōnātor, adopted by E.

4. OF persone, MF and F personne has derivative late EF-F personnifier, whence 'to personify'; F personnification becomes E personification.

5. OF personal, MF and F personnel, personal, becomes a n ('total number of persons attached to a Service'), opp matériel; adopted by E.

6. ME persone, persoun, etc., acquires the sense 'parson' (already by 1250); the spelling parson is adopted from AF parson, earlier parsonne, itself perh suggested by MF, esp Picard, parsoune. (OED.) AF has likewise influenced the change from ME personage, in its Eccl sense (from ML personāgium, q.v. in para 3), into parsonage. Parson has direct E derivatives parsonic (adj -ic), with extn parsonical, and parsonify (parson+connective -i+-fy, to make, render).

7. Parson blends, irreg, with squire to form squarson, a landowner+clergyman, hence a fox-hunting parson.

personnel. See prec, para 5.

perspective; perspicacious, perspicacity; perspicuous, perspicuity. See SPECTACLE, para 13.

perspiration, perspire. See the 2nd SPIRIT, para 11.

persuade, persuasion, persuasive. See SUAVE, para 3.

pert is aphetic for ME-from-OF apert, open, free, hence impudent, from L apertus, pp of aperire, to open; cf the archaic malapert, from OF mal apert, badly opened, ill-taught or -bred. Pearl is a dial form of pert.

pertain; pertinence (var pertinency), pertinent; impertinence, impertinent.

1. 'To pertain', ME partenen, derives from OF parienir, from L pertinēre, in its sense 'to concern': per, through+c/f of tenēre, to hold (f.a.e., TENABLE). Pertinēre has presp pertinens, o/s pertinent-, MF-F pertinent, adopted by E; derivative late MF-F pertinence is likewise adopted.

2. L pertinens, as adj, has LL neg impertinens (o/s impertinent-), lit not belonging, irrelevant, whence MF-F impertinent, adopted by E, with sense 'impudent' coming from F; derivative late MF-F impertinence is likewise adopted.

3. With 'to pertain', cf 'to appertain', ME apperteinen, earlier aperteinen, from OF apartenir (F appartenir), L appertinēre, to belong to, an adcpd of pertinēre. OF apartenir has derivative apartenance, whence AF apurtenance, whence E apurtenance.

perthite (Min) was discovered at Perth in Ontario, Canada.

pertinacious, pertinacity.

The former derives from L pertināx (per-, thoroughly+tenāx, tenacious); derivative ML pertinācītās, o/s pertinācītāt-, becomes MF-F pertinacitē, E pertinacity. Cf tenacious at TENABLE; and, for formation, cf PERTAIN.

pertinence, pertinent. See PERTAIN.

perturb, perturbation. See TURBID, para 5, s.f. pertuse, pertusion. See PIERCE, para 2.

Peru; Peruvian bark, cinchona, a native product of Peru. Like F péruvien, Peruvian is the adj, hence n, of Peruvia, SciL name of Peru, a name given by the Spaniards, taking it, app, from the small river Pirū, var of Birū.

peruke. See PETER, para 11.

perusal, peruse. See USE.
 Peruvian bark. See PERU. pervade. See VADE, para 6. pervagate, pervagation. See VAGABOND, para 4, s.f. pervasion, pervasive. See VADE, para 6. perverse, perversion, perversity; pervert. See VERSE, para 15. pervigilate, pervigilium. See VIGOR, para 6. pervious. See VIA, para 15. pes, L pēs (gen pedis), the foot. See FOOT, para 1. peseta. See PEND, para 10. pesky. See PEST, para 2. peso. See PEND, para 10. pessary: LL pessarium (-arium), pessary, from L pessum, var of pessus, pessary: Gr peessos (Attic peitos), an oval stone used in games, LGr (in Med) a pessary: prob of Sem origin—cf Aram pīsā, pīssā, a stone, a tablet. (Boisacq.)
 pessimism, pessimist, pessimistic; pejorative; impair, v.

1. Pessimism merely tacks -ism to L pessimus, the worst, and pessimist is an anl derivative: opp optimism, optimist. L pessimus is prob for pedsimus*, resting upon pedyōs-, as in that pedyōr which becomes L peior, contr to peior, worse, neu peius: and pedyōs-* is app akin to Skt pādyate, he falls, 'worse' and 'worst' representing a progressive 'fall' from 'bad'. (E & M.)

2. L peior, worse, has LL derivative peiōrāre, to make worse, to become worse, with pp peiōrātus, ML pejōrātus, whence 'to pejorate', whence, anl, pejorative. Cf pejorism = ML pejor + -ism and answers meliorism (L melior, better).

3. LL peiōrāre has the VL int impeiōrāre*, ML impeiōrāre, whence OF empeirier (F empirer), ME empeiren, E 'to impair'; OF empeirier has derivative empetremment, whence, via ME forms in em-, en-, the E impairment.

pest, pestiferous, pestilence, pestilent, pestilential.

A pest, or plague, derives, via EF-F peste, from L pestis, s and r pest-; o.o.o.: ? cf Hit pashāti, to crush, trample. L pestis has the foll derivatives affecting E:

pestifer, with var pestiferus, E pestiferous; pestilens, o/s pestilent, E pestilent; derivative pestilentia, OF-F pestilence, adopted by E; OF-F pestilence has EF-F adj pestilential, whence E pestilential.

2. As if from a very prob adj pesty*, comes the coll AE pesky.

pestle, n and v; pistil, pistillate; piston; pile, arrowhead; ptisan, tisane.

1. 'To pestle' derives from OF pesteler, from OF pestel, which, adopted by ME, yields pestle, n: and OF pestel comes from L pistillum, pistillus, a pestle, a dim of pilum, a pestle, but also (? orig a club: Webster) a javelin, whence OE pīl, a stake, a dart, E pile, obs as dart and spike but extant as arrowhead and, in Arch, a long, slender piece of timber or steel.

2. Pistillum, pistillus, although a dim of pilum, is therefore akin to pinsere, to pound (e.g., grain), to crush, pp pistus; indeed, pilum, a pounding-device, and pīla, a mortar, are—whatever the origin of pilum, a javelin—usu derived from pinsere. The ult IE r is perh pī-, to pound or crush, with extn pis- (nasalized as pīns-) and perh extn pīl-*.

3. L pistillum, var pistillus, becomes, by shape-remembrance, the late EF-F, whence E, pistil of a flower, whence, anl, the adj pistillar and pistillate.

4. On L pist-, s of pistus, pp of pinsere, LL builds pistāre, to pound, whence It pistare, var pestare, whence It pistone, a piston (cf pestone, a large pestle), whence EF-F piston, orig a pounder, later a piston: whence E piston.

5. Akin to L pinsere, LL pistāre, VL pisāre*, to crush or pound, is Gr ptissein, to crush, to husk or peel, whence ptisanē, peeled barley, barley water, whence LL ptisana, barley-gruel, often written tisana: whence MF tisane, occ, in EF-F, ptisane: whence E ptisan, tisane.

pet, n and v; both senses. See PIECE, para 8.

petal (whence -petalled, pa), whence petaloid and petalous; petalite; petalody;—c/f petali-, as in petaliferous, petal-bearing (cf the element -fer), and petalo-.

1. Petal, like F pétale, comes from C17 Bot SciL petalum, trln of Gr petalon, a leaf, a plate of metal, from petalos, broad, flat, outspread, akin to Gr petannumi (Attic future petō, r pet-), I broaden, I lay open: cf PATENT. SciL petalum prob owes something to LL petalum, plate of metal.

2. The Min petalite (Min suffix -ite) is so named from its occurrence in foiated masses; and, petalody is a Bot n, derived from Gr petalōdēs leaf-like, with -ōdēs a post-c/f of eidōs, a form.

petard, petardeer or -ier; fart.

Petardeer (obs) anglicizes EF-F pétardier, agent of pétarder, to petard, from EF-F pétard, detonator, lit 'farter', from MF peter (EF-F péter), to explode, orig to break wind, from MF-F pet, a wind-breaking, from L pēditum, itself from pēdere (pp pēditus), to break wind. The L r pēd- app derives from an IE r pard-*, as in Gr perdomai, I break wind, with var pard-*, as in Gr epardon, I broke wind, and Skt pardate, he breaks wind; with Gmc f for Gr and L (etc.) p, we get the E 'to fart', whence the n.

Peter (whence the underworld peter, a safe, etc.), with dim Peterkin, whence the contr Perkin, whence Perkins; modern pet-form Pete; cf It Pietro and Sp (and Port) Pedro, and F Pierre, LL Petrus. Latin derivatives: petrean and petrine, Petrine; petrify, whence petrification; petrol, petrolatum, petroleum (whence petroleous), petrollic; petrosal, petrous; saltpetre.—Romance derivatives: petrel; petronel and perrier; perron and pier; pierrot, piquette; parrot—parrakeet; peruke and periwig and wig; sep PARSLEY.

Indo-European

1. Peter derives from LL Petrus, trln of LGr Petros, a personification of Homeric Gr petros, a stone, mdm of petra, a rock: o.o.o.: perh a Medit word—cf Hit perunas, a stone, a rock, and pirwa, a rock, and, more doubtfully, Eg batgā and behus ? b- for p-)—haqar-t—perchan (?)—tekhanu, ekhnu (? t- for p-).—With LL Petrus, cf the Eccl L use of petra for ‘the Rock (of Faith)’ and fundati super petram, (they who are) founded upon that Rock, i.e. Christians. (Souter.)

Latin derivatives: direct

2. L and LL petra: Petrus:: Gr petra: LGR Petros, Gr petros,—these forms have the foll derivative adj relevant to E:

Gr petraios (from petra), L petraeus, LL petreus, E petrean;

LL petrālis, E petral;

Gr petrinos (πέτρινος), LL petrinus, rare E petrine, the LL and E words prompting Petrine, of, by, for, like, the apostle Peter;

L petrōsus, whence both petrosal and petrous.

3. L petra, a rock, a stone, has in ML the cpd sal petrae, salptrae, rock salt, whence MF salpêtre (F salpêtre), whence, after salt, the E salpêtre or AE salpeter.

4. The ML petroleum, a contr of petrae oleum, rock-oil, oil from the rocks, hence from the earth, is adopted by E; ML petroleum becomes MF-F pétrole, whence E petrol, whence petrolic; the Pharm petrolatum app=petrol+that -atum which becomes Chem -ate.

Romance derivatives

5. Petrel, C18 petril, C17 pitteral, derives either from peterel*, for Peterel*, ‘(a bird of St) Peter’, with suffix -el as in cockerel, or from the LL-ML Petrellus or Petrillus, dimm of Petrus: St Peter walked upon the sea (Matthew, xiv, 29) and, feeders upon surface-swimming organisms and ships’ refuse, these birds appear to walk upon it—a sem reason far from being necessarily f/e.

6. L petra becomes It pietra, a stone, hence the flint for a gun, with derivative pietronello, contr to petronello, whence the now only Hist E petronel, a large carbine of the late C16–17, unless, as is possible, the E petronel be a reshaping of EF-F petrinal, which derives from OF peitrine (F poitrine), ult from L pector-, o/s of pectus, the chest: this firearm was supported against the chest (Dauzat).

7. L petra became OF-F pierre, whence MF perriere, var perrier, a stone-throwing engine, adopted by E, which adds a sense. Also from OF pierre comes OF-F perron (aug-on), a large stone, esp one used as a base, adopted by E, which adds a sense.

8. OF piere occurs also in the form piere, to which is perh akin the ML (esp AL) pera, whence AF pere, ME pere (var per), E pier, orig an intermediate support, usu of stone, for a bridge: cf Picard and Walloon OF piere, pire, a breakwater. (EW.)

9. LL Petrus becomes Sp Pedro, whence the card-game pedro; it also becomes F Pierre, with pet-form Pierrot, m, and Pierrette, f, the former being applied to a jesting character in pantomime, whence E pierrot.

10. OF-F Pierrot has ME var Perrot, itself with var Parrot, adopted by ME, whence the bird-name parrot. Perh from MF parrot (var of perrot, a parrot) comes the MF paroquet (F perroquet), whence E parakeet, occ parrakeet. B & W, however, derive MF paroquet from It parrochetto, a playful dim of parroco, a curé, from LL parochus (cf parish at ECONOMIC, para 4).

11. Perruque anglicizes late MF-F perruque, trln of It perrucca, var parrucca, dressed hair, o.o.o.—but possibly akin to MF paroquet, EF-F perroquet, for the It perrucca, like the OProv peruca, perh meant, orig, ‘with hair resembling a parrot’s ruffled feathers’ (Webster).

12. MF-F perruque became, not only E peruke but now obs E perwyke, eased to perewyke, whence E periwig, whence, by a thoroughgoing aphesis, the E wig.

13. F has coined a cpd: EF-F pétrifier (L petri-, c/f of petra+F -fier, LL -ficāre, var of L -ficere, c/f of facere, to make), whence E ‘to petrify’; whence, anl, petrification (cf EF-F pétrification).

petiolar, petiolate, petiole. See FOOT, para 8, s.f.

petit, petite. See PIECE, paras 1 and 2.

petition (n, hence v, whence petitioner; hence also petitionary); petitory; petulance, petulant.—Cpds: appetence, appetency, appetent, appetible, appetite, appetition, appetitive, appetize (from appetite), whence appetizer; compete, competence (var -ency), competent, competition (whence, anl, competitive), competitor, whence competitory; impetigo, impetuosity, impetuous, impetus; sep PERPETUAL; repeat (v, hence n; hence also repeater), repetend, repetition, whence, anl, repetitious and repetitory.

1. Petition derives from OF peticion, EF-F petition, from L petitiōnem, acc of petitiō, from petītus, pp of petere, to try to obtain, to seek, to beg: the IE r pet-* occurs in, e.g., Gr, but with senses ‘to fall’ and ‘to fly’: cf FEATHER.—Derivative LL petitiōrius, emulous, yields E petitory.

2. From a freq derivative petulāre* comes L petulans, presp used as adj, with o/s petulant-, whence MF-F petulant, whence E petulant; derivative L petulantia becomes EF-F petulance, whence E petulance.

3. L appetere (ap- for ad, to, towards), to try to seize, to attack, hence to desire violently, with presp appetens, o/s appetent-, E appetent; derivative L appetentia becomes E appetency, the var appetence deriving from EF-F appétence (from appetentia). From the L pp appetitus derive appetitio, o/s appetitio-, E appetition, and the n appetitus, whence OF apetiit (EF-F appétit), ME-E appetite. EF-F appétit has derivative appétitif, f -ive, whence E appetitive. The pa appetizing owes something to the MF-F appétissant; appetible, however, is L appetibilis, desirable.

4. L competere, to meet the requirements, to seek com- or along with another, whence, perh via MF-F compéter, the E ‘to compete’. The L presp competens, o/s competent-, becomes MF-F compétent and E competent; derivative L competentia, agreement, adequacy, becomes MF-F compétence and E competence. On the pp competitūs arise both LL competitiō, rivalry, o/s competitiōn-, whence E competition, and LL competitor, whence MF-F compétiteur, whence E competitor.

5. L impetere, to seek im-, at, after, to attack, has derivative impetiġō, whence Med impetiġo, with adj impetiġinus prompted by LL impetiġin-ōsus. Derivative impetus (gen -ūs), assault, shock, is adopted by E; its LL adj impetuōsus becomes MF-F impétueux, f -euse, whence E impetuous, and the subsidiary ML impetuōsitās, o/s impetuōsitāt-, becomes MF-F impétuosité, whence E impetuosity.

6. L repetere, to attack again, seek again, yields OF repetr, MF-F répéter, whence 'to repeat'; the gerundive repetendus becomes the E Math n repetend. On the pp repetitūs arises L repetitiō, o/s repetitiōn-, MF-F répétition, E repetition. E repetitory perh owes something to the L agent repetitor.

petral, petrean. See PETER, para 2.

petrel. See PETER, para 5.

petrification, petrify. See PETER, para 13.

petrine and Petrine. See PETER, para 2. petrography. See the element petri-.

petrol, petrolatum, petroleum, petrolic. See PETER, para 4.

petrology. See the element petri-.

petronel. See PETER, para 6.

petrosal, petrous. See PETER, para 2.

petticoat. See PIECE (heading).

pettifogger. See PIECE, para 6.

pettiness. See PIECE (heading).

pettish. See PIECE (heading, s.f.).

pettitoes. See PIECE, para 7.

petty. See PIECE, paras 1 and 6.

petulance, petulant. See PETITION, para 2.

petunia is a SciL derivative from EF-dial F petun, tobacco, from Port petum, petume, either from Guarani petume (B & W) or from Tupi putūma (Webster).

pew. See FOOT, para 21.

peewee, pewit, varr peewee, peewit: echoic: cf MHG gibiz, G Kiebitz, and LG kīwit. (Walshe.) Cf KIBITZ.

pewter (n, hence adj), pewterer. The latter comes from OF peautrier, peutrier, agent of peautre, peutre, varr of OF-MF peltre, tin: o.o.o.: ? Ligurian (Webster).

pezograph. See the element pezo-.

pfennig. See the 2nd PAN, para 4.

phacoid; phacolith. See the element phaco-.

phaeton. See FANCY, para 5.

phagocyte; sarcophagus.

The Bio and Med phagocyte (cf the element -cyte) exemplifies the element phago-, from Gr phagein, to eat. The terminal -phage, -phagous, -phagus, -phagy, occur in such words as anthropophagous, -phagy, man-eating (adj, n), and sarcophagous, Zoo adj for 'feeding on flesh'; and esp sarcophagus, a tomb, a coffin, orig a limestone that, used by the Greeks, 'ate' the corpses deposited in it: L sarcophagus, trln of Gr sarkophagos (adj), flesh-eating: sarko-, c/f of sarx, flesh+-phagos, E -phagos.

phalange, phalanger; phalanstery, phalanx.

The 2nd derives, in SciL, from the Zoo phalange, which is adopted from F phalange, orig (C13) a phalanx, from LL phalanga, from Gr phalang-, o/s of φάλαγγε, phalanx, line of battle (adopted, via L, by E), orig a big, heavy stick, a log: IE r, prob bhelag-* or ? bhelaks-*, a piece of wood (Boisacq). From F phalange, a phalanx, Fourier (1772-1837) coined—after 'monastère', monastery—phalanstère (a community), anglicized as phalanstery.

phalarope, a small shore-bird, is adopted from F: SciL Phalaropus: Gr phalaro-, c/f of phalaris, a coot+opus, a foot.

phallic (whence phallicism), phallus.

Phallic derives from Gr phallicos, adj of phallos, a penis, whence L phallus, adopted from E; and Gr phallos derives from IE r bhel-*, to swell—cf the E BALL, a sphere.

phantasm, phantasmagoria, phantasy, phantom. See FANCY, paras 3-4.

Pharaoh. See FARO.

Pharisaic, of the Pharisees; pharisaical, hypocritically formal; Pharisee.

The 2nd is an -al extn of the 1st, which derives, prob via Calvin's pharisatque, from Eccl LL Pharisatcus, trln of LGr Pharisaikos, adj of LGr Pharisaios, a Pharisee, from Aram perishaiyd, pl of perish, corresp to H pārūsh, separated, hence exclusive: cf Matthew, iii, 7. LL Pharisatcus becomes MF Pharisé (F Pharisien), whence E Pharisee.

pharmaceutic, with extn pharmaceutical and derivative pharmaceutics and, anl, pharmaceutist; pharmacopoeia;—pharmacy, whence, anl, pharmacist. See the element pharmaco-.

pharyngeal is the adj of pharynx, SciL trln of Gr pharunx (akin to Gr pharanx, a ravine), gen pharungos, E c/f pharyng(o)-, as in pharyngitis.

phase, phasis. See FANCY, para 9.

pheasant: ME fesant: MF faisant, early MF (and F) faisan: L phasianus: trln of Gr phasianos: elliptical for phasianos ornis, lit 'the Phasian bird': Phasis, a river in Colchis—a region in what has become Georgia, in Transcaucasia.

phene. See the element phen-, which combines with the Chem element -ol to produce phenol and with the Chem -yl to produce phenyl.

phenomena, phenomenal, phenomenology, phenomenon. See FANCY, para 6.

phenyl. See PHENE, s.f.

phial and vial.

1. The former derives from ME firole: OF firole, MF firole: either from OPov fiola (from ML) or direct from ML fiola, phiola: L phiala, a flat, shallow cup (or bowl): Gr phialē: o.o.o.

2. ME firole has var virole, whence, anl, E vial.

Philadelphia is adopted from the Gr for 'brotherly love': adelphos, a brother+phil-, connoting affection. See the element -phil and cf next entries.

philander, to flirt, whence philanderer and the pa, vn philandering, prob derives from E Philander (the Gr PN Philandros, from adj philandros, man-loving: the element phil-+andros, gen of anēr, a man) used as the stock name for a lover in early romances, as EW has noted. (Could the n Philander have been influenced by the F filandre, fibre, esp as pl filandres, gossamer? Filandre is for filande, from filer, to thread.)

philanthropic, philanthropy (whence, anl, philanthropist).

The adj philanthropic—cf the F philanthropique—derives from Gr philanthrōpikos, corresp to philanthrōpia—whence LL philanthrōpia, whence E philanthropy (cf late EF-F philanthropie)—from philanthrōpos (adj), mankind-loving: element phil-+anthrōpos, man in general.

philatelic and philatelist (cf F philatéliste) derive, anl, from philately: F philatélie, created in 1864 by the collector Herpin: element phil-+atelie*, from Gr ateleia, incompleteness (privative a-+teleia, from telos, an end or purpose), immunity, esp from taxation, ref Gr ex ateleias, freely, with a Gallic pun on F 'franco de port', carriage-free. (B & W.)

philippic, an oratorical invective, derives from L Philippicus, trln of Gr Philippikos, pertaining to Philippos, Philip—Philip of Macedon, against whom the Gr orator Demosthenes fulminated. Philippos=Horse-Loving; hippos, a horse. Cf:

Philippine is the adj (hence n) of 'the Philippines', Sp Filipinas, elliptical for Islas Filipinas: Filipino, adj of Sp Felipe (cf It Filippo), Philip II (of Spain), from L Philippus. Cf prec.

Phlilistine. See PALESTINE.

philologist and philologer are -ian, -er varr of philologist, an -ist derivative of philology, whence—unless direct from EF-F philologie (from philologie)—philologic, now usu philological: and philology derives from MF-F philologie, from L philologia, a love of learning, (later) philology: Gr philologia, love of learning, from philologos, fond of learning, orig phil-, fond of, -logia, talking, a discourse, from logos, a word, speech, a discourse (f.a.e., LOGIC).

philosopher, philosophic (with extn philosophical and with anl derivative philosophize), philosophy.

The Gr philosophos, a lover of sophia or wisdom, sophia deriving from sophos, wise (f.a.e., SOPHISM), becomes L philosophus, OF-F philosophie, adopted by ME, which deviates with philosophre (? influenced by MF-F philosopher, to philosophize), whence E philosopher. Philosophic comes, like MF-EF philosophique, from L philosophicus, trln of Gr philosophikos, from philosophia, itself from philosophos; Gr-become-L philosophia yields OF-F philosophie, whence E philosophy.

philter (AE) or philtre: MF-F philtre: L philtrum: Gr philtrōn: instr, connoted by -iron, from philein, to be fond of, from philos, fond: f.a.e., the element -phil.

phlebitis, phlebotomy. See the element phlebo-. The LL phlebotomus (Gr phlebotomos, instrument for cutting the veins) passed through a contr VL form to become OF-MF flieme (F flamme), whence E fleam.

phlegm, flegmatic.

1. The latter derives, via MF, from L phlegmaticus, trln of Gr phlegmatikos, adj of phlegma, a flame, hence an inflammation, hence mucus, from phlegein, to burn, ult akin to BLACK. Gr-hence-LL phlegma becomes MF fleugme, fleume, the latter adopted by ME, whence, reshaped from the Gr word, the E phlegm.

2. Corresp to the Gr v s phleg- is the Gr n s phlog-, as in phlox (for phlogs*), a flame, a blaze, gen phlogos, o/s phlog-, whence phlogizein, to set ablaze or on fire, whence phlogistos, burnt, hence inflammable, whence medieval SciL phlogiston, the hypothetical principle of fire; moreover, Gr phlox has the derivative sense, 'plant with a flame-coloured bloom', L phlox, such a flower, hence the Bot Phlox. Gr phlegein has IE r bhleg-, with metathetic var bhleg-, as in Skt bhargas, a shining, splendour. (Hofmann.)

phloem, in Bot, is adopted from G, which adapts the form and sense of Gr phloos (s and r phlo-), bark, akin to phleō, I teem, an overflow.

phlogiston; phlox. See PHLEGM, para 2.

phobia—whence phobic, whence, anl, phobism, phobist—is a SciL reshaping, in abstract -ia, of Gr phobos (s phob-), dread, a strong fear, a fear-determined aversion. Rare as simples, both phobia and phobic and also phobe, '(one) having a phobia', occur very often in cpds: see the element -phobe.

phoebe, an American flycatcher, is prob so named, after Gr Myth Phoebe (Phoibē), from its cry: cf pewee. Gr Phoibē is the f of Phoibos, God of the Sun, personification of phoibos, shining, bright.

Phoenician (adj, hence n); Phoenix, phoenix.

Phoenician derives, via F phénicien and L Phoenicius, from L Phoenicē, trln of Gr Phoinikē, Phoenicia, from Phoinix, a Phoenician, whence phoinix, a date palm (Bot Phoenix), lit 'the Phoenician (tree)', and the bird, lit 'the Phoenician (bird)', whence, via L phoenix, both OF phénix (F phénix) and E phoenix. Gr Phoinix, a Phoenician, is perh akin to Gr phoinos, phoinios, blood-red. The sem succession and interaction are obscure. The date-palm, the bird, and the colour 'purple' or 'scarlet' senses of Gr phoinix all follow naturally from Phoinix, a Phoenician; and Phoinix could be an -ix derivative of phoinos, blood-red, purple, if the Phoenicians were so named because they wore purple or scarlet robes. Prob, however, Gr Phoinikes, Phoenicians (cf L Poeni, the Carthaginians), represents, as Boisacq suggests, the influence of Gr phoinos, blood-red, purple, upon Eg Poun-t, a collective name for the Semites of the E Medit hinterland.

phone (whence phonic), phoneme (whence phonemic), phonetic (whence phonetics, phonetician, phoneticize); c/f phono-, as in phonogram (-gram), phonograph (-graph), phonology (-logy: cf LOGIC), and -phone, as in telephone, whence telephonic, telephonist, telephony; cpds: euphony, whence euphonic and euphonious; ? diphthong, whence diphthongal.

1. Gr phōnē, a sound, whence E phone, a speech-sound, is the n corresp to phēmi, I speak, and is perh akin to phthongē (φθγγή), voice, and phthongos (φθόγγος), a speech-sound, a word, and phthengomai (φθέγγομαι), I speak: IE r, at least of phēmi, phōnē, is prob bhā-*, to speak.

2. Gr phōnē has derivative phōnēma (suffix -ēma), a sound regarded objectively as an element of speech: F phonème: E phoneme. Also from phōnē comes phōnein, to produce a sound, whence phōnētos, spoken, with extn phōnētikos, whence SciL phonēticus, whence F phonétique and E phonetic.

3. Phonograph derives from F phonographe, and telephone derives from F téléphone, modelled on télégraphe.

4. From phōnē, Gr derives euphōnōs, well (eu), hence sweetly, voiced, whence euphōnia, whence, via LL, the EF-F euphonia, whence E euphony.

5. Gr phthongos has cpd diphthongos (di- for dis, twice), whence, via LL diphthongus, the F diphthongue, whence E diphthong.

phoney. See ADDENDA.

phonograph. See PHONE, para 3.

phosphorescence, phosphorescent, phosphoric and phosphorous, from phosphorus.

The last derives from L Phosphorus, the Morning Star, Gr Phōsphoros, from phōsphoros, light-bringer: cf the elements phos- and phor-. The F form phosphore has derivatives phosphorescence and phosphorescent, prob influencing the E words, and phosphate (Chem -ate), adopted by E Cf:

photic derives from Gr phōt-, o/s of phōs, light. The element photo- occurs notably in photograph (cf the element -graph), whence photographic and photography and, via the v photograph, the agent photographer.

phragma, in Zoo, derives from Gr phragma, a fence.

phrase (n, hence v), whence phrasal and, via the Gr c/f phraseo-, phraseology (element -logy: cf LOGIC); cpds: antiphrasis, whence, anl, antiphrastic; paraphrase (n, hence v), paraphrastic; periphrasis, periphrastic.

1. Phrase, adopted from EF-F, derives from L-from-Gr phrasis, from phrazein, to indicate, to explain: ? PGr r phrad-*.

2. Gr phrazein has three cpds affecting E: antiphrazein, to express antithetically, whence antiphrasis, adopted, via L, by E; paraphrazein, to say the same thing, but in other words, whence paraphrasis, whence, via L, the EF-F paraphrase, adopted by E; derivative adj paraphrastikos, whence, via ML paraphrasticus, the E paraphrastic; periphrasis (peri, round about), adopted, via L, by E; derivative adj periphrastikos, whence, via LL periphrasticus, the E periphrastic.

phratry. See FRATER, para 3.

phrenetic, phrenic. See FRENZY, para 1.

phrenology, whence phrenological and phrenologist. See the element -phrenia.

phthisic, via OF and L, from Gr phthisikos, is the adj of phthisis, adopted by E; from phthiein to waste away. Cf the element phthisio-.

phycology. See the element phyc-.

phylactery, whence the adj, hence n, phylacteric, comes, via LL phylactērium, from Gr phulaktērion, a safeguard, from phulaktēr, a watcher or guard, from phulassein, to watch over, to guard: o.o.o.

2. Gr phulassein has cpd prophulassein, to guard pro-, forward, hence against, with derivative adj prophulaktikos, whence EF-F prophylactique and E prophylactic.

phylon, from Gr phulon, a tribe, a race, and phyllum, the SciL trln thereof. See the element phylo-, were also phylogeny. Cf:

physic, adj. (whence, influenced by the n, physics) and n, physical, physician, physicist (from physic, adj, and physics), physique; cf the element physico-, physio-, but note, here, physiognomy (whence physiognomic and -gnomist) and physiological, physiology (whence, anl, physiologist); metaphysic (adj, with extn in -al, and n), metaphysics, whence, anl, metaphysician (perh imm from late MF-F métaphysicien).

1. The adj physic derives, via OF and L, from Gr phusikos, natural, adj of phusis, nature, s phus-, r phu-, as in phulon, phulē, a tribe, a race (see prec entry), phuton, a plant, whence E phyte in cpds, and esp in phuein, to cause to grow, to engender, and phunai, to be produced, i.e. to be born: IE r, bheu-*, to grow, exemplified in all the principal IE languages.

2. The Gr adj phusikos has derivative (hē) phusikē (tekhnē), the science of nature, L physicē, physica, OF phisique, fisque (cf F physique) physics, ME fisike, phisike, whence reshaped E physic.

3. L physicus has the ML extn physicālis, whence E physical; in LL, physicus is used also as n, 'a doctor of medicine', whence OF physicien, physicien, fiscien, ME fiscien, later fiscian, whence reshaped E physician; the OF-F adj physique becomes, in C18, n (? elliptical for constitution physique), duly adopted by E.

Compounds

4. Gr phusis has cpd phusiognōmia (2nd element from gnōmōn, one who knows, hence an examiner, a judge), whence LL phusiognōmonia, soon contr to physiognōmia, 'science of determining character from the features' (Souter), whence, via MF-F physionomie and comparable ME forms, the reshaped E physiognomy. The E adj physiognomic perh owes a little to the LL physiognōmicus.

5. Gr phusis has also the more important cpd phusiologia, L physiologia, EF-F physiologie, E physiology. The derivative Gr adj phusiologikos becomes LL physiologicus, whence E physiological.

6. Aristotle's meta ta phusika, lit 'after, hence beyond, the physical things (or Nature)', becomes the ML n metaphysica, neu pl, whence, anl, E metaphysics; the derivative ML adj metaphysicus becomes E metaphysic, now usu metaphysical; the E n metaphysic derives, perh via MF-F métaphysique, from ML metaphysica, ? elliptical for cientia metaphysica, from adj metaphysicus.

physical; physician. See prec, para 3. physiognomy. See PHYSIC, para 4.

physiological, physiology. See PHYSIC, para 5. physique. See PHYSIC, para 3.

phyte, whence phytic. Cf PHYSIC, para 1, s.f., and, for phyto- cpds, see the elements -phyte, phyto-. pianissimo, pianist, piano, pianoforte. See PLANE, para 7.

plaster (AE) or piastre. See PLASM, para 7.

piazza. See PLANE, para 13.

pibroch. See PIPE, para 3.

pica. See PICK, para 5, s.f.

picador. See PICK, para 10.

picaninny, occ piccaninny, often pickaninny, in A and WI usage a Negro or other coloured child, hence in Aus an Aboriginal and in N.Z. a Maori child, derives from Sp pequeñito, dim of pequeño, little, from pico, a point, hence a small part—or perh rather from Port pequenini, dim of syn pequeno.

Picard, a native or the dialect of Picardy, F Picardie (recorded in C13), from Picard: o.o.o.; perh from OF pic, a pike (f.a.e., PICK).

picaresque, adopted from F, derives from Sp picaresco, adj of picaro, a rogue (picaro in Port), itself from picar, to wound lightly, lit to prick. Sp picaro has aug picarón, whence E picaroon.

picayune—whence A sl piker—orig a small A Sp coin, then a five-cent piece, finally something very small, esp if of slight value, derives from F picaillon, a C18 copper coin of Savoy and Piedmont: Prov picaïoun, dim of picaïo, collective coins, money in cash; perh 'money that rings', from Prov pica, to sound, to ring. (B & W.)

piccaninny. See PICANINNY.

piccolo is, in It, 'a small flute'.

picine. See PICK, para 6.

pick, a tool. See para 9 of:

pick, to pierce or prick, to clear of unwanted matter, to pluck or gather (esp fruit), hence to choose, to separate as desirable, whence 'to pick up', whence the n pick-up; hence n; hence also pa picked, agent picker, vn picking (often in pl); hence also such cpds as toothpick, picklock and pickpocket;—pick, the tool, with cpd pickaxe, AE pickax—pica—picador—pike, the weapon and the fish, cf pickerel—peak, peaked—picket (n hence v), piquet, pique, piquant (whence piquancy);—picnic;—pickle, n hence v;—perh picric;—peck, v, to strike with the beak, hence n, hence also the agent pecker, as in woodpecker, and the adj pecky and the coll adj peckish;—pink, to pierce; pinch (n hence v), pincers;—prob pitch, to thrust into the ground, hence to erect (a tent) and to throw, whence the n pitch, 'act of throwing, place for throwing' (in cricket, baseball, etc.), and agent pitcher, va and vn pitching; perh cf the sep POKE, to prod or thrust; pie, the bird (also magpie), the dish, perh the type, prob the Eccl term;—prob cf the sep SPIKE.

Indo-European

1. The IE r is pik-, with—at least in Gmc—an occ var pek-; basic sense, either 'a sharp point' or, better, 'to pierce or prick', or, more prob, 'the birds magpie and woodpecker', whence, because of their sharp bills and 'pecking' habits, the ideas 'sharp point' and 'to pierce, to prick': cf L pīca, a magpie, and pīcus, a woodpecker; Umbrian peico (cf the L acc pīcum) and peica (cf the L acc pīcam); perh Gr pikros, bitter (sharp to the taste; biting the tongue); Skt pikás, the Indian cuckoo; perh, with the IE prefix s-, the OHG speh, speht, MLG-G specht, ON spætr, the woodpecker—cf the sep SPIKE.

The -e- Variants

2. The pek-* (pec-) var of the IE r may, as C suggests (Malvezin and Malvezin²), have var bek-, as in BEAK, treated sep. But to avoid that alluring side-issue and to keep on the course:

'to peck' is a var of 'to pick' (para 9 below), to pierce—cf MLG pecken, to pierce; from the derivative n, in sense 'a stroke, a light blow', comes pecky, the Forestry adj; and from peck in its now dial senses 'to throw' (vt) and 'to pitch forward' (vi) comes pecky, tending to stumble; 'peck at' (something) leads to peckish, hungry;

the agent pecker, esp as 'a bird that pecks at wood', occurs usu as woodpecker, a modern formation.

3. Peak, a sharp tip or pointed end, is a var of pīke (see para 8); peak, a hilltop, a mountain crest, was earlier pīke, from the syn Sp and Port pīco, collateral with pīca, of L origin (cf para 1 above). E peak has derivative 'to peak', now mostly in the pa peaked, and the derivative peaky, sharp-featured through ill-health.

The -i- Words: Greek

4. Gr pikros, bitter, yields F picrique and E picric (acid), whence picrate (Chem -ate) and picrite (Min -ite) and picrol (Element -ol). Perh, however, Gr pikros is of another origin: see PAINT, para 7.

The -i- Words: Latin

5. L pīca, a magpie, becomes OF, whence ME-E, pie; for magpie, see MARGARET, para 1. Perh because orig made with magpies, ME pie, a dish with pastry crust over meat, fish, etc., could be the same word, as also could Eccl pie, pye (also ME), a collection of rules for determining the service for the day, as in 'pie (or pye) book', perh 'from some resemblance to the colors of the bird' (Webster); moreover, the culinary pie could, from its miscellaneous contents, have originated the printers' pie, type in confusion, hence a medley. With Eccl pie, cf the type named pica, perh 'once used in printing the service book' (Webster), from ML pica, a collection of these rules.

6. L picus, a woodpecker, has pl pīci, whence the Zoo Pici; pīcus accounts for the Zoo adj picine (-ine).

7. L pīcus has VL var piccus*, whence piccāre* (cf It piccare and Sp picar), whence OF-F piquer, whence E 'to pique'; the derivative F n pique is adopted by E, as also is the F presp piquant. Derivative EF-F piquet, a game of cards, is likewise adopted, and derivative MF piquet, a stake (cf the E 'picket fence'), whence the C18-20 military piquet, becomes E picket. Prob from F piquer comes piquenique (a redup), whence E picnic, whence 'to picnic'; certainly from OF-F piquer comes late MF-F piqûre, adopted by Med E.

8. Akin to F piquer, which some say it originates, is OF-F pic, whence (unless from piquer) the MF-F pique, a foot-soldier's weapon, whence E pike, whence, mainly from its head, shaped like the tip of that weapon, and partly from its elongate form, the fish pike. The weapon pike (although of the Nor dial pēk, a sharp mountain-top) app led to the mostly N. Eng dial pike, a peaked hill-top. The fish pike has dim pickerel (for pikerel*), occ corrupted to pickering.

9. The n pick, a long-handled garden tool pointed at one or both ends, partly derives from 'to pick' or pierce, partly varies pike, a pick, a pickaxe (senses obs except in dial), a prick, a prickle (now only dial), from OF pic, and, in its form, partly blends OF pic, a pick, pickaxe, and pike, the weapon, but in its sense comes straight from that OF pic.—The v 'to pick', ME piken, deriving from OF-MF(-F) piquer, was influenced by the v of OE picung, a pricking, and perh by ON pikka, to pierce, as with a sharp-pointed tool—cf the syn MLG pikken and G picken, MHG bicken, to peck (Walshe).

10. The picador or lance-bearing teaser of the bull is adopted from Sp, where it forms the agent of picar, to prick (cf para 7).

11. OF-F pic, a pick, has the nasalized derivatives pince or pinque, a supporting stake, a pointed tool; the latter has perh suggested E 'to pink' or perforate, pierce, stab; 'to pink', however, could nasalize 'to pick' or pierce.

12. EF-F pince, however, perh (like OProv pinsar) comes rather from OF pincier (F pincer) from VL pinctiāre*, a blend of VL piccāre* (see para 7) and VL punctiāre* (from L punctum, a pricking, a point); pinctiāre*, pincier, pinsar, orig, like It pinzar and Sp pinchar, signified 'to prick or pierce'. OF pincier led, ? via ONF, then AF, to ME pynsours, whence E pincers.

13. OF pincier, to pierce or prick, later to pinch, became ONF pinchier*, whence ME pinchen, whence 'to pinch'.

? Germanic

14. 'To pitch' or fix in the ground, later (cf the heading) to throw, derives from ME picchen, which strikingly resembles ME piken, MLG pikken, ON pikka, to pierce, esp with a sharp tool (cf para 9, s.f.). Hence pitchfork.

15. Pickle, a preservative brine, hence 'to pickle' and that which is pickled, a pickle, esp in pl pickles, derives from ME pykyl, pekille, app from MD peeckel, pekel, perh lit 'that which is sharp on the tongue'—cf MD peken, pecken, picken, D pikken, to pierce, to use a pick on, etc.

pickaback, whence, by f/e, piggyback, derives from a pick back, by f/e from a pick pack, where pick is a thinned redup of pack, a bundle, and where a is is 'on' (cf aback, on or at one's back)—cf F à pic, vertically.

pickaninny. See PICANINNY.

pickerel, pickering. See PICK, para 8, s.f.

picket. See PICK, para 7.

pickings. See PICK (heading).

pickle, preservative brine. See PICK, para 15.

picklock, pickpocket. See PICK (heading).

pick-up. See PICK (heading).

picnic. See PICK para 7.

picrate, picric, picrite. See PICK, para 4, and PAINT, para 7.

Pict. See PAINT, para 2.

pictograph. See the element picto-.

pictorial. See PAINT, para 4.

picture. See PAINT, para 4.

picturesque. See PAINT, para 4, s.f.

piddle. Cf pizzle, q.v. at PISS, para 2.

pidgin, occ pidgeon, by f/e pigeon. See BUSY, para 2.

pie in all senses. See PICK, para 5.

piece, n, hence adj and v; apiece, pièce de résistance, piecemeal, piecework (simply piece+work);—patch, n hence adj and v; patchwork (patch+work), patchy (patch+adj-y)—petit, petite, petty (whence pettiness)—petticoat (petty, little+coat), pettifogger (whence pettifoggery and, by b/f from pettifogger, pettifog, whence the pa pettifogging), pettitoes; pet, n hence adj and v (whence pettable and va, vn petting)—and pet, a fit of ill-humour, whence pettish; peat, whence peaty.

Indo-European

1. According to Dauzat and B & W, the OF-F petit (f petite)—therefore E petty—is of different origin from F pièce, therefore from that of E piece. Those etymologists derive petit from 'a root piit-, belonging to the language of the nursery and expressing "smallness" and occurring in LL piitninus, "little", "little boy"' (prob after E & M), but they add 'Solely Gaulish-Roman, cf OProv and Catalan petit'; and of OF-MF piece, EF-F pièce, they say: 'Same word as petia in ML, cf et alia petia, "and another piece (of land)", c730 A.D.', comparing It pezza and Sp pieza (cf also Port peça), and add: 'From a Gaul pettia* for pettis*, which may be presumed from the W peth and the Br pez'—cf also Cor peth, pith. I derive OF piece, not from ML petia but from its var pecia; other varr are petium (pecium) and petius (whence Sp pecio, a fragment)—the recorded dimm are pecliola and petiolum.

2. The LL pitinnus is app a var of the syn pisinnus or pissinus, little, cf LL pisinna, a little girl. (Souter.) These -s-, -ss- forms help us to relate OF-F petit to OF-MF piece, EF-F pièce.

3. The evidence of C may be severely condensed thus:—In C, b and p are interchangeable—and frequently interchanged. Of the C r pic Malvezin says, 'Form of bic, little'; of bic, var beic, he says, 'Hence: (the etymons) beicos and biccos, in the OIr becc, the Ga beic; and a derivative bicanos, in the Br bihan, with same sense "little", and the cpd Morbihan, little sea'. Malvezin also notes the C r pet, app of basic idea 'little, a part' (esp in the space-time continuum), and continues, 'In our [i.e., F] word petit; in the dial petion and petiot C14', a (very) small child; 'in pièce, from petia, and dial pète, connoting a form petā*'.

4. Both the C r bic, var bec*, little, and the syn extrn bican-* are well represented in the ancient and modern C tongues, thus:

OIr becc, Ir and Ga beag (pron beg); Ir beccán, Ga beagan;

Mx beg;

W bechan, bychan;

Cor bechan, bichan, býghan (often contr to býan);

Br bihan.

5. Sem, the link is: a piece is a small or very small part (a bit, a fragment) of something. Phon, the C peth (or pith), pez, a piece, represent the p varr of C bec (bic), little. In short, we are here confronted with prob two cognate groups; if, however, one group is primary, that group is very prob the 'little' one.

The F petit, E petty Group

6. The from-F-adopted petit is now only a Law term for 'small' or 'insignificant'; the F petite is applied to small, neatly built girls and women. OF-MF petit, adopted by ME, with later var pety, duly becomes petty, which figures in pettifogger, app a tautological cpd of petty+obs fogger, a monetary trickster, o.o.o.—but cf LG fokker, a usurer.

7. By early etymologists treated, f/c, as being for petty (little) toes, the odd word pettitoes, pig's feet used as food, but prob, at first, a beast's heart, lungs, liver, etc., app derives either from the sing pettyioe, as in a pygges pettyioe, a pig's pettitoe, from MF petite oye, giblets, lit 'little goose', i.e. little parts of a goose, or from MF pettiose, goose offal (? from pettites oies, little geese): MF-F ole, goose, derives from OF oue, from LL auca, a goose, from VL auica*, goose, from L auis, a bird. With LL auca, cf the It and Sp oca.

8. From F petit used as n, 'little one' or 'child'—cf the endearment mon petit, ma petite—comes the

E pet, a tame animal treated as a dear companion, hence a (usu young) human being treated similarly: prob thence comes pet, a fit of ill-humour, for spoiled children and young people tend to sulk and to have little control of their tempers.

The piece Group

9. E piece derives from late MF piece, ME pece: OF pece, var of piece: f.a.e., para 1. Apiece, for each, was orig a piece. The F pièce de résistance is lit 'piece of resistance', the main dish of a meal, hence the chief article or feature. Piecemeal, piece by piece, derives from ME peceemele: ME pece, a piece+a derivative from OE maelum, for or by measures, from mael, a measure, hence a portion: see also MEASURE, final para.

10. E patch derives from ME pacche: o.o.o.; but prob akin to—? a dial var or mdfn of—ME pece.

11. E peat, orig a piece of turf cut for and used as fuel, hence, particularly or generally, semi-carbonized vegetable matter (esp mosses) used as fuel: ME pete: ML petā, prob akin to ML petia (as in para 1).

*pie*d, of two colours (esp black and white), hence occ of more, derives from pie, a magpie: f.a.e., PICK, para 5.

*pie*dmont. See FOOT, para 18.

*pie*poudre, *pie*powder. See FOOT, para 19.

*pie*r. See PETER, para 8.

piece (whence piercer and piercing)—*pie*rcel (gimlet), a dim from piece, influenced by EF-F perce, gimlet; parch (whence parching); partisan or -zan, a sort of pike or halberd; obs tund, to pound or beat—contund, contuse, contusion, contusive—extund—obtund, obtundent, obtuse (adj and v), obtusion, obtusity—pertuse, pertusion—retuse; —stut, stutter (v, hence n), whence stutterer and pa, vn stuttering.

1. 'To piece' derives, via ME percen, from OF percer, var of percier; VL pertusiāre*, from L pertūsus, pp of pertundere, to pound or beat (tundere) through (per), hence to piece: and tundere, to strike, beat, pound, s and r tund-, is akin to Ve tundānās, knocking (against), tundate, he knocks against: a nasal var of IE r tud-*, as in Skt tuddāti, he knocks (against). L tundere yields the obs 'to tund'.

2. Tundere occurs in the foll cpds relevant to E: contundere, to beat or pound strongly (int con-), to crush, whence 'to contund', rare for 'to contuse', from the pp contūsus, s contūs-, whence contūsio, o/s contūsion-, whence, via MF-F, the E contusion; contusive perh derives from F contusif, f -ive (from contusion); extundere, to beat out (ex), whence the rare 'to extund'; obtundere, to beat towards (ob) or against, hence to blunt (the edge of an instrument), to dull, whence 'to obtund'; presp obtundens, o/s obtundent-, explains the Med adj hence n obtundent; the pp obtusus, blunted, dulled, is used also as adj, 'blunt' or 'dull', whence the E obtuse, perh via EF-F obtus; derivative LL obtusio, o/s obtusiōn-, becomes the obsol obtusion, and LL obtusitās, o/s obtusitāt-, becomes obtusity; pertundere (as in para 1) has pp pertūsus, whence 'to pertuse'; derivative pertūsio, o/s pertūsioŋ-, yields pertusion; retundere, to strike, beat, pound back, gives us the obsol 'to retund'; the pp retūsus gives us the Bot adj retuse.

3. The IE r tud-, teud-, has the var stud-, steud- (IE prefix s-), with Gmc var stut-*, as in Go stautan, knock against, push, and OHG stōzan, MHG stōzen, G stossen, ON stautā, steyta, to push. Prob of the L stupēre, to be knocked stupid (hence, to remain stupid, hence to be stupid), with s stup- and *r stup-, an s- mdfn of that IE r tup-, teup-, which we see in Gr tuptein (tupt-, extn of tup-), to strike, and in Skt tupāti, he strikes—cf tudditi in para 1.

4. The IE stud-, steud-, has the t-for-d var stut-, steut-, as in ME stuten, late ME stutte, stute, whence EE and dial stut, to push one's tongue too hard, to stutter, whence the EE-E freq stutter: cf MLG stoteren, G stottern (from LG stotteren, int of stossen), MD stoteren, D stotteren.

5. 'To parch' derives from ME parchen, var of perchen: perh, ref piercing heat, from ONF parchier, var of perchier, cf OF percier, var of percer (cf para 1).

6. A partisan, -zan comes from EF partisane (now pertuisane; late MF pourtaisane)—itself from It partesana, var partigiana (influenced by partigiano, party-man), from portugiaire, from VL pertūsidiere* (as in para 1).

Pierre, pierrette, pierrrot. See PETER, para 9.

pietism, piety. See PITY, para 2.

pile, whence the adj pillling, is perh (EW) a blend of piddling and trifling.

pig, whence piggery (-ery) and piggish (-ish) and such obvious cpds as pigfish (a grunting fish), pig-headed, pig-iron (cast into pigs, crude castings so called from their large size), pignut (beloved of pigs), pigskin, pigsty (see STY), pigtail, pigweed—and the not entirely obvious pigsney (pig's nye; nye being eye preceded by the n rather of an than of mine and thine), now only dial for a sweetheart; dim, piggy or piggie, with redup piggy-wiggy.

'A pig'—whence 'to pig it' or live like a pig—derives from ME pigge: b for p, cf the LG bigge and the D big, bigge, which, note well, has the MD form pigge: o.o.o.

pigeon (1), the bird: ME pigeon, var of pejon: MF pijon: LL pipionem, acc of pipiō, from LL pipire, to whimper, to make the sound peep: echoic (IE pt-*). Cf PIPE.

pigeon (2), speech. See BUSY, para 2. pigment, pigmentary. See PAINT, para 5. pigsney, pigsty. See FIG (heading, s.f.).

pika, an A and Asiatic rodent, derives from Tungusic (E. Siberia) peeka.

pike (all senses). See PICK, para 8.

piker (A sl). See PICAYUNE.

plaster—pīle (pillar)—pillā, n hence v, all derive from L pila, a pillar, esp a breakwater:

o.o.o.: ? cf (r for l) the Hit pirwa, a rock, ? also pir, a house. L pila has It derivative pilastro, whence EF-F pilastre, whence E pilaster, a pier, a column; pila becomes MF-F pile, adopted by E, with sense 'large heap' deriving from the obs 'breakwater' (a mass of rocks and stones); pila has the VL derivative *n pīlāre (? suggested by L pīlārium, pedestal for a funerary urn), whence MF pīlar (F pīlier), adopted by ME, whence E pillar.

pilch, a light saddle, an infant's garment covering the napkin or diaper, derives—prob via F rather than from OE pylce—from LL pellicia, a cloak, elliptical for pellicia uestis, garment of fur or skin, pellicius being an adj of pellis, skin: f.a.e., the E FELL, a skin, a hide.

pilchard, var pilcherd, derives from the syn EE pilcher: ? pilch*+suffix -er, with pej -ard substituted later for -er.

pile (1), a column (obs), a great heap (whence 'to pile'). See PILASTER.

pile (2), hair, hence the 'hair' of a carpet; pilose (pilosity), pilous. See FILAMENT, para 13, and of the 3rd PEEL, para 2.

pile (3), a blade of grass, an arrow head. See PESTLE, para 1.

pilfer. See PELF.

pilgrim, pilgrimage. See PEREGRINE, para 3.

pilgan. See the 3rd PEEL, para 5.

pill (1), the Med n. See the 3rd PEEL, para 4.

pill (2), to plunder, to peel; pillage. See the 3rd PEEL, para 3.

pillar. See PILASTER.

illed, peeled: pp as adj: cf the 2nd FILL.

pillion: Ga pillean (cf Ir pillin): from Ga (and Ir) peall, a covering, a hide: EIr peall, earlier pell, a horse: cf L pellis, a hide: f.a.e., FELL, skin, hide.

pillory, n hence v, derives, in ME, from OF pilor: ML pilorium, prob an -orium derivative of L pila, pier, column. (B & W.)

pillow, n, hence v and cpd pillowcase and adj pillowy: ME pilwe: OE pyle or pylu: ML pulvinus, L pulvīnus, cushion, pillow: o.o.o.: ? an -inus derivative of a lost pulu*, itself from an IE pul-*, a short log, a billet, the earliest 'pillow'—? cf Hit pulpule, either the trunk of a tree or some kind of tree, with pulpul- a redup of pul-*, (a block of) wood, piece of a tree: sem cf Eg urs, a cedar or other wood pillow.

pilose. See the 3rd PEEL, para 2.

pilot, pilotage. See FOOT, para 22.

pilous. See the 3rd PEEL, para 2; cf FILAMENT, para 13.

pilule. See the 3rd PEEL, para 4.

pilum, a heavy javelin. See PESTLE, para 1.

pimento, piniento. See PAINT, para 5.

pimp, n hence v: EF-F pimpant, smart, seductive, adj from the presp of late MF-EF pimper, to be seductively dressed: nasal mdfn of MF piper, to deceive by seduction, to wheedle: L pipare, var of pipire, (of a bird) to peep or cheep, hence to murmur seductively.

pimpernel. See PEPPER, para 5.

pimple. See PAPILLA, para 3.

pin (n, hence v), whence pinafore (afore, in front), pinfish ('from their sharp dorsal spines': Webster), pin money (a wife's pocket-money), pintail, with long central tail feathers; pint; pintle;—pen, an enclosure, 'to pen', with old pp pent.

1. Pin, ME pinne, derives from OE pin, a pin, orig a peg: cf MD pinne, penne, D pin, MLG pinne, ON pinni; perh cf G prine, a pin, and MlR benn, a point.

2. The liquid measure pint derives from ME pinte, adopted from OF: cf OProv and Sp pinta and MD pinte: o.o.o.: perh orig of Gmc origin and at first meaning 'a pin' or rather 'a peg'.

3. The pintle of Ordnance and Mechanics derives from pintle, OE pintel, penis: phon, cf MLG pint, penis, and sem, cf prick.

4. Pen, a small enclosure (for, e.g., sheep), derives, through ME penne, from OE penn: a vocalic var of OE pin, a peg or a pin. OE penn has the derivative v pennian, as in OE on-pennian, to unfasten; hence ME pennen, E 'to pen', to bolt (a gate: obs), to shut in.

pinā. See the n PINE.

pinafore. See PIN (heading).

pince-nez: F, lit 'pinch-nose': f.a.e., PICK.

pincers. See PICK, para 12.

pinch. See PICK, para 13.

pinchbeck, an alloy (copper-zinc), hence spurious, derives from a Fleet Street London watchmaker, Christopher Pinchbeck (d. 1732).

Pindar, Pindaric (adj, hence n). Pindaric comes from L Pindaricus, trln of Gr Pindarikos, adj of Pindaros, L Pindarus, F Pindare and E Pindar.

pine (1), the tree. See FAT, para 2.

pine (2), to languish. See PAIN, para 6.

pineal: EF-F pinéal: L pinea, pine-cone: cf the 1st pine, q.v. at FAT.

pineapple, orig a pine-cone: cf the 1st pine, q.v. at FAT.

ping is echoic; hence the redup ping-pong, now called 'table tennis'.

pinguefy: LL pinguefiō, I become fat, L pinguefacere, to render (facere) fat (pinguis).—pinguid: from L pinguis, ? after languid.—pinguin, an A tropical plant: SciL, perh from pinguis.

pinion (1), a bird's wing. See the 2nd PEN, para 2, s.f. pinion (2), in machinery. Cf pinnacle, but see SPINE, para 5.

pink (1), adj, derives from:

pink (2), a carnation, hence both the colour (whence the adj) and the sense 'perfection, a paragon' (Shakespeare's 'the very pink of courtesy' and the Cockney's coll 'in the pink' of health): EE pinke, pynke, pincke, pinck: o.o.o.: perh from the v pink, 'as if the edges were picked out' (Webster).

pink (3), a small, narrow-sterned coastal vessel, is adopted from D pink, MD pinke: o.o.o.

pink (4), a minnow, now a young salmon: earlier penk: of Gmc origin—cf G dial pinke.

pink (5), to pierce or perforate. See PICK, para 11.

pinkeye: An eye that is pink (acute conjunctivitis).

Pinkster, Whitsunday or Whitsuntide (esp in New York)—whence pinkster (for Pinkster flower, blooming at that season)—is adopted from D ('in regions of early Dutch influence': Mathews): ult from Gr pentēkostē—cf E Pentecost, q.v. at FIVE, para 14.

pinna. See the 2nd PEN, para 3.

pinnacle: F pinace, pinasse: prob from Sp pinaza, itself from pino, from L pinus, a pine tree, hence a boat built from one. (B & W.)

pinnacle. See SPINE, para 6.

pinnate. See the 2nd PEN, para 3. pinnulate; pinnule. See the 2nd PEN, para 3.

pinochle, occ pinocle, an A card game, is app a blend of earlier penuchle and binochle: 'the form of the word and the relation of the game to bezique suggest Fr. origin' (Webster): perh MF-F pinacle (cf E pinnacle), ref the facts that two packs (cf, sem, CANASTA) and only the cards higher than '8' are used and that one can meld, e.g., four kings, a meld being permitted only after one wins the preceding trick.

pinole, edible seeds used for making flour, flour sweetened with such seeds, is a Sp adaptation of Nahuatl (Aztec) pinolli. (Webster; Whitehall.)

piñon, a pine nut or seed, is Sp piñón, from pino, a pine tree: f.a.e., FAT, para 2.

pint. See PIN, para 2. pintado. See PAINT, para 6.

pintail. See PIN (heading).

pintle. See PIN, para 3.

pinto. See PAINT, para 6.

Pinus. See FAT, para 2.

pioneer (n, hence v): OF peonier, a foot soldier, later (pionnier) an Army 'labourer', finally a fore-runner in a new, uncivilized land: tautological agent (-ier) from OF peon, foot soldier (F pion, in chess): L pedōnem, acc of pedō, one who goes on foot: cf E pawn, q.v. at FOOT, para 9.

pious. See PITY, para 2.

pip (1), a poultry disease: ME, from MD, pippe: VL pipita: L pituita, phlegm: cf pituitary, q.v. at FAT, para 3.

pip (2), on cards: earlier peep: o.o.o.

pip (3), of fruit. See PIPPIN.

pip (4), v, is a var of peep, to cheep.

pipal. See PEPPER, para 3.

pipe (n and v); many cpds, all obvious (pipe of peace, from an old N Amerindian custom); piper; pipette; thinned form of v: pip; sep PEEP, to cheep; sep PIGEON; pibroch; vife.

1. Ult, both the n and the v pipe come from L-ML pipāre, pipiāre, pipīre, varr of echoic pip-, extn of IE pi-, a bird's cry, to cry thus. 'To pipe', orig as a bird does, derives from OE pipian from L pipiāre; a pipe, orig a wind instrument, from OE pipe, from ML pipa, from pipāre. A piper derives from OE pipere, from pipe.

2. L pipāre becomes OF-F piper, whence the OF-F n pipe, a reed used as a musical instrument, a tube, whence the late MF-F dim pipette, adopted by E.

3. The E n pipe becomes Ga piob (pron peeb), a pipe (tube), esp a Sc Highland bagpipe, whence piobaire, a piper, whence piobaireachd, pipe music, whence E piibroch, elaborate musical variations for the bagpipe.

4. ML pipa becomes OHG pfifa, MHG pfife (G Pfeife), whence E pipe.

Piper (pepper plant), piperin. See PEPPER, para 4.

pipe (player on the pipe). See PIPE, para 1. pipette. See PIPE, para 2.

pipit, a small A bird, is as echoic as, say, PEWEE (PEWIT), q.v.

pipin, a seed, whence, by abbr, pip: ME pipin, var of pepin, a seed: OF-MF pepin (F pépin; F dial pipin): as in the Sp pepita and It pippolo, 'the repetition of p expresses the tininess of the object' (B & W).

piquancy, piquant; pique. See PICK, para 7.

piquet. See PICK, para 7.

piqure. See PICK, para 7, s.f. piracy, pirate, piratical. See PERIL, para 2.

pirl. See the 3rd PURL.

pirouette, v, derives from EF-F pirouetter, itself from EF-F pirouette, adopted by E: late MF prouet: ? (Webster) a blend of pivot+girouette, a weathercock.

piscary, piscatorial, Piscis. See FISH, para 3. pismire, an ant. See FORMIC, s.f.

piss (v, hence n), hence dial 'a pissing while', a moment; pizzle; piddle, whence the pa piddling, trifling; pee, v hence n.

1. 'To piss', ME pissen, derives from MF-F pisser, OF pissier (cf OFris pissia), VL pissiare* (cf It pisciare); ? cf Hit pisan, a vessel for water: ult echoic.

2. Perh akin is pizzle, an animal's—e.g., a bull's—penis: app a dim—cf LG pesel with D pees, MD pese, a sinew.

3. 'To piss' app has softened dim piddle, syn, also to trifle, and the childish—? orig euphem— pee.

pistachio; fistic, fustic.

1. Pistachio anglicizes It pistacchio: L pistacium, the nut, LL pistacia, the tree: Gr pistakion, the nut, from pistakē, the tree: OPer pistah, the nut.

2. Gr pistakē becomes Ar fustuq, whence Sp, whence F, fustoc, whence E fustic; and Ar fustuq has the coll form fistuq, whence ML fisticum, whence the now obs E fistic.

pistil, pistillate. See PESTLE, para 3.

pistol: EF-F pistole: G Pistole: late MHG pischol, var pischula: Cz (c1421) pišt'al, pišt'ala, lit 'hand fire-arm'. (Walshe.)

piston. See PESTLE, para 4.

pit (1), a cavity. See PAVE, para 2.

pit (2), a fruit-stone. See PITH.

pita (plant fibre): Sp: prob Quechuan pita, fine thread.

pitapat: easement of pitpat, redup of PAT.

pitch (1), black, sticky substance: ME pich: OE pic: L pix, o/s pic:- cf Gr pissa, Attic pitta: IE r, pt*-, fat (adj, n): cf pine at FAT, para 2. Adj: pitchy.

pitch (2), a throw, a place for throwing balls, to throw. See PICK, para 14.

pitcher (vessel). See the 1st PECK.— pitcher, as in baseball: see PICK, para 4. pitchfork. See PICK, para 14.

piteous. See PITY, para 6.

pith, whence pithy (whence pithiness); pit (fruit-stone). Pith derives from OE pitha; pit is adopted from D pit, MD pitte, kernel, cf Fris and LG pit, pith, kernel: o.o.o.

pithcan, loosely 'ape-like': Gr pithēkos, an ape, ? lit 'hateful creature': IE r, bhidh*:- cf L foedus, frightful, outrageous. (Hofmann.) Cf the element pithec(o)-.

pithy. See PITH (heading).

pitiable, pitiful, pitiless. See PITY, the 1st at para 6, the others in the heading.

pittance. See PITY, para 7.

pituitary. See FAT, para 3.

pity, n, hence v (cf MF piteer, MF-F pitoyer); piteous; pitiable; pitiful, pitiless (pit- for pity+-ful, -less); pittance;— piety, pietas, pietism (whence pietist, whence pietistic), pious; impious, impiety;— expiable (inexpiable), expiate, expiation, expiator, expiatory.

1. The base of all these words is the L pius, dutiful to one's gods and one's parents: with s and r pi-, the word is of Italic origin, well attested in Oscan, Umbrian, Volscian.

2. L pius becomes OF pieus, F pieux, f pieuse and, perh independently, E pious. Derivative L pietās, o/s pietāt-, becomes OF-MF pieté (F piété), whence E piety; on the s piet-, G has coined Pietismus, whence E pietism.

3. L pius, pietās have negg impius, impietās whence E impious and impiety, the latter perh via OF-MF impieté (F impiété).

4. Pius has derivative piāre, to purify, to perform the due rite for, to expiate, with cpd expiāre (ex- used int), to expiate, with derivative LL expiābilis, whence F and E expiable; the neg inexpiābilis becomes late MF-F and E inexpiable. The pp expiātus yields 'to expiate'; derivative expiātiō, o/s expiātiōn-, yields OF-F and, perh independently, E expiation; derivative LL expiātor is adopted by E; derivative LL expiātorius becomes EF-F expiatoire and, perh independently, E expiatory.

5. L pietās has acc pietātem, whence OF pitet, varr pité, pitée (MF-F pitété), piety, also pity, whence ME pite (dissyllabic), whence E pity, which, like F pitée, means only 'compassion'.

6. L pietās has the VL derivative adj pietōsus, whence OF pitos, later pitous (MF-F piteux, f piteuse), whence ME pitous, whence, influenced by the MF f piteuse, the E piteous. The MF piteer, var pitier, has the MF derivative piteable, with var pitiable, retained by F and adopted by E.

7. OF pité, in sense 'pity', has OF derivative pitance, pity, hence a monk's portion of food: the subsistence of monks and nuns was generally assured either by pious foundations or by the charity of the faithful (DAF): hence ME pitance; whence E pittance.

pivot (n, hence—unless from EF-F pivoter—v) is adopted from OF-F pivot: o.o.o., but perh (B & W) from an IE r pu-, pi-, attested by Angevin (F dial) pue, tooth of a weaver's comb, prong of a harrow, OProv pua (now pivo), tooth of a comb, Sp pua, var puga, a point.

pixy, occ pixie, a mischievous fairy, is o.o.o.; cf E dial pisky (? a metathesis of a Scan word) and Sw dial pyske (pyšk), a goblin.

pizzle. See PISS, para 2.

placable. See PLEASE, para 2.

placard, n, hence v; placket; plaque, plaquette.

1. A placard is adopted from F: a poster, C16, from an official document or notice that is not folded, C16: app for plaquard*, from MF-F plaquer, from MD placken, to piece together, to paste or stick on or together, whence MD placke, a piece or a patch, also a coin: the MD v is prob echoic (EW). EF-F plaque (dim plaquette, adopted by E)—whence E plaque—comes partly from MD placke and partly from MF plaquer.

2. The MD n placke (D plak) becomes, as coin, the obs E plack, with form perh influencing E placket, a petticoat, now a slit in skirt or petticoat; placket, which app has the dim suffix -et, might be a distortion of placard, as Webster suggests and Whitehall states.

placate, placation, placatory. See PLEASE, para 3.

place. See PLANE, para 12.

placebo. See PLEASE, para 4. placement. See PLANE, heading—cf para 12.

placenta, placentary, placentation. See PLANK, para 2; cf the element placo-.

placer. See PLANE, para 13.

placet. See PLEASE, para 4.

placid, placidity. See PLEASE, para 5.

placitum. See PLEASE, para 4.

placket. See PLACARD, para 2.

placoid, scaly: plac-+-oid: plac- for placo-, from Gr plax, o/s plak-, a tablet, a flat plate, a scale.

plagal; plagiarism, plagiarist, plagiarize, plagiary.

1. Behind these words lies Gr plagios (s plagi-, r plag-), crooked, oblique, hence, fig, treacherous; cf Gr ta plagia, the sides, plagos, a side, related by Hofmann to pelagos, the open sea (cf ARCHI-PELAGO).

2. Gr plagios becomes L plaga, a Mus mode, whence ML plagalis, of that mode, whence E plagal.

3. From Gr plagios, LL derives plagium, a kidnapping, whence LL plagiarius, a plunderer, a kidnapper (of another's slaves), whence the E plagiary, n hence adj, whence plagiar-ism, -ist, -ize.

plague, n, whence v and the adj plaguey or plaguy: L plāga, a (severe) blow, hence a plague: prob from Gr plēgē, from plēssō, I strike or wound; less likely, an n-less derivative of L plangere, orig to strike, later to mourn (vt)—cf the 2nd PLAIN, para 1.

plaigne. See PLANE, para 15.

plaid: Ga plaide, a blanket, app a contr derivative of peallaid, a sheepskin, from peall, a skin or hide: cf PILLION.

plain (1), adj and n. See PLANE, para 6.

plain (2), to mourn (vi); plaint, plaintiff, plaintive; plangent (whence plangency), plangor, whence plangorous; complain, complainant, complaint.

1. The group rests upon L plangere (s and r plang-), to strike, esp se plangere, to strike one's breast in grief, hence plangere, to lament: echoic. (Cf PLAGUE.)

2. L plangere becomes OF-F plaindre, ME playne, E 'to plain', obs except in the cpd. Presp plangens, o/s plangent-, yields E plangent; derivative L plangor is adopted by E. On the pp plactus arises the n plactus (gen -ūs), whence OF-F plainte, whence ME plaint, retained by E; the derivative OF-F adj, hence n, plaintif becomes the E n plaintiff and, via the f plaintive, the E adj plaintive.

3. The ML cpd complangere (com- used int) becomes OF complaindre, whence 'to complain'; the derivative OF-F n complainte becomes E complaint; E complainant, orig an adj, derives from OF-F complainant, presp of the v.

plain(-)song. See PLANE, para 6.

plait. See PLY, para 5.

plan. See PLANE, para 4.

planar, planarian, planate, planation. See PLANE, para 5.

planch, planche, planchette. See PLANK.

plane, adj, n, v (whence planer), planish; aeroplane, whence 'plane (aircraft)—cf volplane;—plan, n hence v (whence planner and the pa, vn planning), and planless;—planarian, planate, planation; planula;—plain, adj (whence plainness) and n;—plano; piano, pianoforte, pianissimo, pianist; llano, llanura. Cpds of plane and plain (adj, n): complanate, complanation; explain, explanate, explanation, explanatory; for plani-, plano- cpds, see the Elements.—Perh of the sep treated PLANT group.—place (n, hence v—perh prompted by EF-F placer), placement (perh adopted from F, perh from the E v), placer in mining; cpds of place, v: displace, whence displacement; emplacement; and replace, whence replacement;—plaigne: plaza and piazza; plat; plate (n, hence v—whence plater) and plateau; platitude, whence, anl, plati-tudinous and plati-tudinarian; plattend, platform, Platdeutsch; platen, platina, platinize, platinum, plattens; ? Plato, Platonic (whence, anl, Platonism and Platonist); platypus—cf the element platy-; Plautus, Plautine; splat, n, hence v.—plot of ground, the 'scheme' sense being influenced by complot (n, v)—whence 'to plot', whence plotter and plotting.—Cf the sep FLAT (FLATTEN, etc.).

Indo-European

1. Sem, the basic idea is that of 'flat' (hence of 'flatness'), whence that of 'easy to see or determine'

(hence 'easy to build upon', etc.): this fact illuminates the identity of plane or plain with plat or, in the Gmc mode, flat; on the other hand, it shows up the fundamental difficulty of relating plant (herb, shrub, etc.) to them, although the plant or sole of a foot may be related rather to plane, plat, etc., than to the growing plant. Phon. the IE r is app pla-* (meaning 'flat', hence 'to widen'), with extrn plat-*, as in Gr platus, and with extrn plan-, as in L plānus, and prob with extrn plag-*, as in L plaga, a flat surface, a district, a zone; cf—with r for l—the Skt práthati, he flattens out. In Hit we find what is app a metathesis of pla-: pal-, as in palhis, broad.

The plane, plain, -plain Group

2. The L adj plānus, flat, level, hence straightforward, clear, becomes E plane; derivative L plānum, prop the neu of the adj, becomes the E n plane, a level surface, and the tool plane derives from the syn LL plāna; derivative L plānāre, to level, LL to make smooth, becomes EF-F planer, whence 'to plane', and also MF planir, whence, via such parts as presp 'planissant' and 'nous planissons', the E 'to planish'.

3. L plānum becomes EF-F plan, a plane, whence F aéroplan, biplan, monoplan, whence E aeroplane, biplane, monoplane; F vol plané, lit 'planed, hence glided, flight', yields 'to volplane', to glide in an aircraft.

4. EF-F plan acquires, in C16, the sense 'a design': influenced by It pianta, L planta, sole of foot.

5. L plānum, a flat surface, a plane, has the derivative LL adj plānāris, whence E planar, and plānārius, on level ground, whence E planarian, adj hence n. L plānāre, to flatten, LL to make smooth, has pp plānātus, whence the E adj planate, whence, anl. planation. From the L n plānum, SciL coins the Zoo dim planula.

6. L plānus became OF-MF plain, flat, level, surviving in plain-chant, whence E plain song, an Eccl chant or chanting. This adj plain was adopted by ME (var plein, whence the confusion with F plein, full). The L n plānum, in sense 'a plain', becomes OF plain (the F plaine derives rather from the f of the adj), whence ME plein, plain, the latter retained by E.

7. Several other R derivatives of L plānus and n plānum have got into E. For instance, the It piano, flat, hence, in Mus, softly, is adopted by E, along with its sup pianissimo. It piano combines with It forte (L forte), strongly, loudly, to form the Mus instrument pianoforte, whence, prob via F piano-forte (Voltaire, 1774), the E pianoforte; the It, hence F (1798), hence E piano is an abbr. (B & W.) The derivative It pianista becomes F pianiste, whence E pianist.

8. L plānus, level, becomes Sp llano, level, whence the n use, esp in ASp, whence llanero, a plainsman, a cowboy; derivative Sp llanura, flatness, occurs in ASp as 'plains country', the plains.

Compounds in -plane (-planation) and -plain.

9. L plānāre, to flatten or level, has cpd complānāre, with pp complānātus (com- used int), whence both the v (obs) and the adj complanate, whence, anl. complanation, a levelling, perh suggested, in form, by the LL complānātiō, o/s complānātiōn-.

10. L explānāre, to flatten, hence spread, out, both lit and before the mind, yields 'to explain'; the pp explānātus gives us the Bot adj explanate; derivative explānātiō, o/s explānātiōn-, yields explanation; and derivative LL explānātōrius leads to explanatory.

The place Group

11. Akin to L plānus, flat, level, is the syn Gr platys (s and r plat-), which occurs purely in the platy- cpds, notably platypus, a SciL coinage, from LGr platupous, '(a) flat- or broad-footed (creature)', used occ as nickname.

12. Gr platus has f plateia, used by LGr for 'a public place, a public square', whence L platēa, a wide street, whence, via VL plattea*, the OF-F place, predominantly a city square, adopted by ME, orig a city square, hence an open space, a space, and finally a locality, E place. Gr platus has extrn platikos, broad, hence general, whence LL platicus, whence E platic.

13. VL plattea* becomes It piazza, Sp plaza, G Platz, all in the 'city square' acceptance. From the s of plaza, Sp derives placel, a sandbank, with var (r for l) placer, which acquires a mining sense, adopted by E.

Compounds of place, v.

14. F placer has cpdd desplacer (F dé-), whence to displace', whence—perh after F—displacement; EF-F emplacement, adopted by E; EF-F replacer, whence 'to replace', whence replacement.

Other plat- Derivatives

15. Plaice, ME plais, derives from MF plais (F plie): L platessa, a flatfish, a plaice; ult from Gr platus, f plateia, flat, broad.

16. The now only dial plat, flat, and the derivative n plat, a flat surface, a small piece of ground (orig flat), derive, in ME, from OF-F plat, f platte, flat, level, from LL platēa (cf para 12).

17. A plate, whether metallic or culinary, reaches ME from OF-MF plate, a sheet or plate of metal, prob elliptical for lame plate (later platte), a flat sheet (of metal). The OF adj plat has the OF-F derivative plateau, basically 'something flat': adopted by E.

18. Platitude, adopted from late EF-F, derives, by suffix -itude, from the F adj plat: anl with altitude, latitude, etc. Also from F come the Arch platband, EF-F plate-bande, and platform, late MF-F plate-forme. But Plattdeutsch, the LG of N Germany, is adopted from G: platt, flat + Deutsch, German: cf D platteland, countryside (Walshe). G platt comes from F.

19. Platen, a flat plate of metal, derives from F platine: C18 Sp platina (now platino), from Sp plata, silver, either from OProv plata, a plate of metal, or from syn OF plate (as in para 17). The Sp platina is, in Chem, used for crude native platinum; and platinum itself is its SciL derivative, with the anl E derivative platinize. Platten, however, is a sort of blend of the adj plat and 'to flatten'.

Miscellaneous

20. Gr platus, flat, level, hence broad or wide, perh (Enciĭt) accounts for Gr Platōn, ? a nickname 'The Broad-Minded' or 'The Versatile': hence L, whence E, Plato. The Gr adj Platōnikos becomes L Platonicus, whence F platonique and E Platonic, whence Platonic (or spiritual) love.

21. Plautus is L plautus, lit 'flat', hence '(the) flat-footed (one)'; the derivative adj Plautinus affords us Plautine.

22. With plat, flat, cf a chair's splat or flat upright middle piece of wood in the back. The word is puzzling: have we here the IE prefix s- (usually int)?

23. With a plat of ground, cf a plot of ground; indeed, this plot is prob a var of that plat. Plot, a secret scheme, has app been influenced by complot, from OF-F complot, OF var complete, orig a closely packed crowd, prob from comploter*, contr of compeloter*, to form into a ball (pelote), as Webster proposes. Derivative MF-F comploter yields 'to complot'. Clearly, however, the literary plot and 'to plot' could equally well be aphetic for '(to) complot'.

'plane, n hence v, now usu plane. See prec (heading).

planet, planetary. See FLAUNT, para 2.

plangency, plangent, plangor, plangorous. See the 2nd PLAIN, para 2.

plangish. See PLANE, para 2, s.f.

plank (n, hence v—whence vn planking); planch, planchette; placenta, placental, placentary, placentation.

1. A plank, ME planke, derives from ONF planke, corresp to OF-F planche: LL planca, perh the f (taken as n) of the adj plancus, flat, usu flat-footed. OF-F planche becomes E planch, a plank (now dial); the MF-F dim planchette is adopted by E.

2. With LL planca, cf the n-less Gr plax (gen plakos, o/s and r plak-), a flat surface, anything flat and broad; cf Lett plakt, to become flat. Gr plax has derivative plakous, a flat cake, whence, from the acc plakounta, the L placenta, perh influenced by placent-, o/s of placens, presp of placēre, to please: hence the SciL placenta of Zoo and An. The derivative L adj placentarius yields E placentary, with var placental. Placentation is an anl formation, based upon placentate, possessing a placenta, itself formed anl.

plankton, adopted from G, derives from Gr plankton, prop the neu of the adj planktos, wandering, from planesthai, to wander: akin to planet.

plant (1), sole of foot: OF-F plante: L planta: prob a nasal derivative of IE plat-*, q.v. at PLANE, para 1. The adj is plantaris, E plantar. Planta has derivative plantāgō, named from its flat leaves: from the acc plantāginem comes MF-F plantain, adopted by E.

2. Planta has derivative plantāre, to stamp the ground with one's foot, with cpd supplantāre, to put one's foot under (sup-for sub) another, to trip him up, to upset him: OF-F supplanter, orig to upset: E 'to supplant', whence supplanter. Derivative LL supplantātiō, o/s supplantātiōn-, becomes, prob via MF-F, the E supplantation.

plant (2), a herb, shrub, (young) tree, a sprig, a slip; to plant, whence planter; plantation;—implant, whence, anl, implantation; transplant, whence, anl, transplantation.—clan, whence clannish.

1. L planta, a shoot, sprout, or a slip, cutting, lacks the modern sense (represented by L herba), which arose in the R languages and has been adopted by the Gmc: o.o.o. Some senses of the n derive from the derivative v plantāre, to put something into the ground to start it growing.

2. Planta becomes OF-F plante and OE plante, whence E plant; plantāre becomes OF-F planter and OE plantian, whence 'to plant'. Derivative plantātiō, o/s plantātiōn-, becomes MF-F and, prob independently, E plantation.

3. LL implantāre, to ingraft, becomes It implantare, to place (in), whence EF-F implanter, whence 'to implant'; derivative EF-F implantation is adopted by E.

4. LL replantāre, to plant again, becomes MF-F replanter, whence 'to replant', whence, anl, replantation.

5. LL transplantāre becomes MF-F transplanter and, prob independently, E transplant: derivative EF-F transplantation perh suggested the E word (otherwise formed anl).

6. L planta becomes OIr cland, offspring, hence a tribe, with eased var clann, whence Ga clann, descendants, tribe, whence E clan, all the larger family bearing the one name. With OIr cland, cf W plant, children, planta, to beget children, and Cor plans, planz, a plant, plansa, to plant.

Plantaganet comes, through F, from L planta, a sprout+genesta, a broom plant: orig, prob a MF nickname.

plantago: Bot term, from L plantāgō, q.v. at the 1st PLANT, para 1, s.f. plantain (1), a weed. See 1st PLANT, para 1, s.f. plantain (2). See BANANA.

plantation. See the 2nd PLANT, para 2; the heading, for planter.

plantigrade. See the 2nd element planti-.

planula. See PLANE, para 5, s.f.

plaque, plaque. See PLACARD.

plash (1), to cut lightly, then bend and intertwine, e.g. branches, derives from OF-MF plassier (varr plæssier, pleissier, plæssier), from VL plexāre*, plexāre*, either via an intermediate plectāre* or direct from L plexum, the supine of plectere, to intertwine (reeds, branches, etc.).

2. From VL *plexāre, via ONF plechier (F plécher)—a var of OF plessier—comes ME plechen, whence E 'to pleach' or unite by interweaving or interlacing.

plash (2), to splash, whence plashy. See SPLASH.

plasm (whence plasmic), plasma; ectoplasm, protoplasm, with adj in -ic; cf the elements plasmato-, plasm-; plaster (n, whence v, whence plasterer, plastering) and emplaster—cf the elements -plast, plasto-; plastic (adj and n, whence plastics), whence plasticism, plasticity, plasticize; plastid; plastron; cf the element -plasty; piaster (AE), piastre.

1. Plasm derives from plasma, the fluid part of blood, a sense-adaptation of LL plasma, anything moulded, hence anything formed, adopted from Gr plasma, gen plasmatos, itself from plassein, to mould, hence to form: IE r, pela-*, to spread, often contr to pla-*.

2. Of the cpds in -plasm, perh the two best known are ectoplasm, where ecto- means 'outside', and protoplasm, from G Protoplasma, where proto- means 'first, virginal'.

3. Gr plassein, to mould, has derivative adj plastikos, whence L plasticus, whence EF-F plastique and E plastic; hē plastikē tekhnē, the plastic art, elliptically hē plastikē, becomes LL plastica, a thing created by the hands, whence E plastic, a sculptor (obs), something that is plastic, whence plastics, plastic surgery.

4. The agent of plassein is plastēs, f plastis, with pl plastides, whence G Plastiden (pl), whence Biol E plastid.

5. Plassein has prefix-cpd emplassein, to daub into or upon, with derivative emplastron, whence L emplastrum, a plaster, adopted by Pharm; derivative LL emplastrāre, to apply a plaster to a wound, etc., has ML derivative emplastrātiō, o/s -ātiōn-, whence Med emplastration.

6. L emplastrum has the ML aphesis plastrum, with farming and building senses: hence, with sense from the L cpd and form from the simple, the OE-E plaster, whence the v—perh suggested by OF-EF plastrir (EF-F plātrer), itself from OF-MF plastre (F plâtre), prob from ML.

7. L emplastrum becomes It impiastro, whence It piastra, orig a sheet of metal, whence—perh via Sp—the EF-F piastre, a coin (Turkey, Egypt), adopted by E.

8. It piastra, sheet of metal, has the derivative piastrone, whence late MF-F plastron, a metal breastplate, whence, C17 onwards, the Zoo and other senses, adopted by E.

plaster. See prec, para 6.

plastic, plastics. See PLASM, para 3. plastid. See PLASM, para 4.

plastron. See PLASM, para 8.

plat (1), adj and n. See PLANE, para 16.

plat (2), v. See PLY, 5.

plathand. See PLANE, para 18.

plate. See PLANE, para 17.

plateau. See PLANE, para 17.

platen. See PLANE, para 19.

platform. See PLANE, para 18.

platic. See PLANE, para 12, s.f.

platina, platinize, platinum. See PLANE, para 19.

platitude. See PLANE, para 18.

Plato, Platonic. See PLANE, para 20.

platoon. See the 3rd PEEL, para 5, s.f.

Plattddeutsch. See PLANE, para 18.

platten. See PLANE, para 19, s.f. platypus. See PLANE, para 11.

Platz. See PLANE, para 13.

plaudit (whence plauditory), plausible, whence plausibility; applaud, applause; explode and explosion, explosive, whence, resp, the Phon plosion, plosive.

1. L plaudere, to beat or strike, esp to strike hand against hand, has s and r plaud-, var plod-: echoic. The imperative pl plaudite, Clap your hands!, yields the E n plaudit. On plaus-, s of pp plausus, arises L plausibilis, worthy of applause, whence EF-F and, prob independently, E plausible, both with a new meaning, soon to predominate. The neg implausible is an E formation.

2. The cpd applaudere (ap- for ad- used int), becomes MF-F applaudir and, perh independently, E applaud; E applause is formed, anl, after the syn L simple n plausus (gen -ūs).

3. L explōdere, to chase away (connoted by ex-) by clapping one's hands, becomes 'to explode', orig as in L; derivative L explōsiō, o/s explōsiōn-, yields (F and) E explosion, whence, anl, the adj explosive (cf F explosif, f -ive).

Plautine, Plautus. See PLANE, para 21.

play, n and v; with such obvious derivatives and cpds as player (OE plegere), playful, playing, playboy, playground, playwright.

The n play derives from OE plega, app from plegian, plegan, whence, through ME pleien, comes 'to play': akin prob to MD playen, pleyen, to frolic, and perh to OHG pflegen, MHG pflegen, to pay attention to, G pflegen, be answerable for: o.o.o.

plaza. See PLANE, para 13.

plea. See PLEASE, para 11.

pleach. See the 1st PLASH, para 2, and PLY, para 6.

plead, pleader, pleading. See PLEASE, para 11.

pleasance. See PLEASE, para 7.

pleasant, pleasantry. See para 7 of:

please, whence the pa, vn pleasing; pleasance, pleasant, pleasantry; pleasure (n, hence v), whence pleasurable; displease (whence pa displeasing), displeasure;—placability, placable (implacable, implacability), placate, placation, placatory; placebo, placet, placitum; placid, placidity;—complacence (var complacency), complacent, cf complaisance, complaisant; displacency;—plea, plead (whence pa, vn pleading), pleadable, pleader.

1. L placāre, to appease, to pacify, and placēre, to please, form complementary aspects of PL: plac-, app from an IE r plac-, plak-*, as in Tokh B plaki, agreement, mutual understanding.

2. placāre (s and r plac-) has derivative placābilis whence MF-F, hence ME-E, placable; derivative L placābilitās, o/s -itāt-, becomes placability. The I neg implacabilis becomes late MF-F implacable, adopted by E; derivative implacabilitas becomes implacability.

3. Placere has pp placatus, whence 'to placate'; on s placat- arise placatiō, o/s placatiōn-, and LL adj placatiōrius, whence resp placation and placatory, with anl var placative.

4. L placere (s and r plac-), to afford satisfaction or happiness to, has placet, it pleases, and pp placitus, neu placitum, used as ML n, adopted by E Law for a court decree; the future placēbō, I shall please, has passed into F as an Eccl and Med term.

5. Placere, s plac-, has adj placidus, orig pleasing, soon peaceable, easy-going, with derivative placiditas, o/s placiditāt-; hence, resp, placid (cf late MF-F placide) and placidity (cf F placidité).

6. Placere becomes OF plaisir (MF-F plaire), almost imm used also as n (retained by MF-F); whereas the v passes through ME plaisen, plesen, to become 'to please', the n passes through ME plesir, later plesure, to become pleasure.

7. MF-F plaire has presp plaisant, whence E pleasant; derivative MF-F plaisance yields E pleasance, orig a pleasing, now usu a pleasure ground; plaisant has the further MF-F derivative plaisanterie, whence E pleasantry.

8. OF plaisir, v, has the cpd desplaisir (MF-F déplaire), whence 'to displease'; used as n, the OF desplaisir (MF-F déplaisir) yields E displeasure (cf para 6).

9. L placere has cpd complacere (int com-), to be very pleased, presp complacens, o/s complacēt-, used as adj, whence E complacent; derivative ML complacētia yields complacence. Complacere becomes OF-F complaire, presp complaisant, used in MF-F as adj, whence the E word; derivative MF-F complaisance is likewise adopted.

10. The L cpd displicere has presp displicens, o/s displicēt-, whence the n displicētia, reshaped by ML to displacētia, whence E displacency.

11. The placitum of para 4, as a Law term, becomes OF-EF plaid (varr plait, pled), adopted by ME with later varr plai, plee, whence E plea; and OF plaid has the derivative v plaidier, later plaidier, whence ME plaiden, pleden, whence 'to plead'; derivative OF-F plaidable and OF plaidēor (F plaidēur) become E pleadable and pleader.

pleasure. See prec, para 6.

pleat. See PLY, para 5.

plebe, plebeian, plebiscite, plebs. See PEOPLE, para 8.

pledge (n, hence v—cf the OF plegier, F pleiger); plevin and replevin.

1. Pledge comes from OF-EF plege, var pleige, a guarantee, from ML plebium, var plevium, app of Gmc origin: cf OS plegan, to be answerable for. DAF derives the OF n from the OF v, which it makes a var of plevir, to guarantee, to pledge oneself, (with l for r) from L praebere, to offer.

2. The OF plege, pleige is a var of, or has the MF var, plevie, itself with var plevine, whence the Law term plevīn. OF plevir has the MF cpd replevir, to give security for, whence the AF n replevine, whence E replevin; MF replevir becomes the corresp v replevy.

plein-air. See PLENARY (heading).

Pleistocene, ref the Geol period imm preceding the present: Gr pleistos, most (sup of polus, much) + kainos, fresh, new.

plenary; plenarty; plenipotentiary; plenish, whence plenishment—cf replenish, whence replenishment; plenitude; plenty (whence plentiful), plenteous; plenum; plein-air, lit 'full'—hence 'open'—'air', short for en plein air and adopted from F; —plethora, plethoric.—Nn in -plement and -pletion, vv in -plement and -plete, with related adj, etc.: accomplish, accomplishment; complement (whence complemental, complementary), complete, completion—cf the neg incomplete (whence, anl, incompletion) and the doublet compliment (n, v), whence, anl, complimentary; compline; deplete, depletion, whence, anl, depletive; explement, expletive (adj, hence n); implement (n, hence v), implementiferous; replete, repletion; supplement (n, hence v), whence, anl, supplemental, supplementary—supply, v hence n.

1. The L r is plē-, as in the simple plēre, to fill, genuine only in the cpds complēre, dēplēre, implēre, etc., and in the adj plēnus, full. The IE r plē-* occurs also in, e.g., Gr pimplēmi, I fill, plēthō, I am full, and, with r for l, in Ve áp̄rāt, he has filled, Skt prātás, full; this IE r has the var p̄l-*, to fill—cf, with f for p, the Go fulls, full, therefore cf the sep FULL (where fill).

Latin plēnus

2. L plēnus, full, has neu plēnum, used as n 'a space full of water'; whence E plenum. The c/f plēni- occurs esp in LL plēnipotens, fully potent, o/s plēnipotent-, whence E plenipotent; derivative ML plēnipotentiārius becomes EF-F plēnipotentiaire and, perh independently, E plenipotentiary. Derivative plēnitūdō, fullness, becomes OF-MF plenitude (EF-F plénitude), adopted by E.

3. L plēnus has the LL extn plēnārius, whence plenary; whence also OF-MF plenier (F plénier), whence MF pleniereté, with contr plenerté, whence E plenarty, (the state of) a benefice fully occupied.

4. The OF-F adj plein (L plēnus) has derivative MF plenir, to fill, presp plenisant, whence 'to plenish'. The MF cpd replenir, to fill again, hence to re-stock, has presp replenissant, whence ME replenissen, E 'to replenish'.

5. L plēnus has the ML derivative plēnitās, the state of being full, with acc plēnitātem, whence OF-EF plentē, abundance, ME plentee, E plenty. Derivative OF-EF plentiosus becomes E plenteous.

Greek plēthein

6. Gr plēthein, to be, to become, full, has derivative plēthōrē, whence LL plēthōra, fullness of habit (Souter), adopted by E; the derivative Gr adj plēthōrikos becomes LL plēthoricus, whence EF-F plēthorique and, independently, E plethoric.

Latin plēre*, to fill

7. L complēre, to fill up (com- is int), becomes OF-MF complir, presp complissant, whence 'to complish' or fulfil, superseded by accomplish, itself from OF-MF acomplir, F accomplir (ac- for ad-, used int), with presp acomplissant (cf ils accomplissent, they fulfil), whence ME acomplissen, var -isen, E 'to accomplish'; derivative MF acomplissement (F accom-) finally yields E accomplishment.

8. L complēre has pp complētus, whence—perh via MF-F complet, f complète—the E adj complete and the v 'to complete'; the LL neg adj incomplētus yields incomplete. Derivative LL complētīō, o/s complētīōn-, yields completion; and LL complētīus, ML -īvus, tending or helping to complete, gives us completive.

9. Complēre has derivative complēmentum, an act of filling up or filling out, LL a fulfilling, whence—cf the MF-F complément, orig in the LL sense—E complement. E complementary perh owes something to late EF-F complémentaire.

10. Complēre app has the VL var complire*, whence Sp complir (cumplir), to complete, to perform what is due, hence complir (cumplir) con alguien, to be polite to someone, with derivative complimiento (cum-), whence It complimento, whence, in turn, EF-F compliment, adopted by E, orig as 'a civility'; derivative EF-F complimenter affords us 'to compliment'.

11. In LL, the pp complētus is used in complēta hōra, occ in pl complētae hōrae, a church service completing the religious day, soon (LL) elliptically complēta, whence OF-MF complie (MF-F complies): ME complie: E complin, now usu compline; with -in perh (EW) from the Eccl matins.

12. L dēplēre, to empty, has pp dēplētus, whence 'to deplete'; derivative dēplētīō, o/s dēplētīōn-, yields depletion.

13. L explēre, to empty (determined by ex, out of), but also to fill completely (determined by the int use of ex-), has derivative explēmentum, that which fills up or completes, whence E explement. On the pp explētus arises LL explētīus, ML explētīvus, supplementary, redundant, whence the E adj expletive, whence the n, an expletive being an unnecessary word.

14. L implēre, to fill up (im- vaguely int), to fulfil, has derivative implēmentum, a filling up, whence E implement, with additional senses; hence the archaeological implementiferous, tool-bearing (cf the element -fer).

15. L replēre, to fill again, to fill up, has pp replētus, whence the MF-F replet, hence the E adj replete; derivative LL replētīō, o/s replētīōn-, completion, fulfilment, becomes MF-F replētīōn, whence E repletion, with additional sense 'overfullness'.

16. L supplēre, lit to fill from below (sup- for sub), hence to fill up, hence to supply, has derivative supplēmentum, whence MF-F supplément and, prob independently, E supplement, and LL derivatives supplētīus, ML -īvus, and supplētōrius, whence suppletive (rare) and suppletory. Supplēre becomes the badly formed MF souploier, later souplier and supplier (badly formed), the last being taken into ME and finally becoming E 'to supply'.

plenipotentiary. See prec, para 2. plenish. See PLENARY, para 4.

plentitude. See PLENARY, para 2.

plenteous, plenty. See PLENARY, para 5. plenum. See PLENARY, para 2.

pleonasm, pleonastic.

The adj derives from Gr pleonastikos, adj of pleonasmus, whence, via LL pleonasmus, the EF-F pléonasme and the E pleonasm; Gr pleonasmus = pleon, neu of pleōn, greater, more + suffix -asmos (E -asm). Cf PLURAL.

plethora, plethoric. See PLENARY, para 6.

pleura, pleurisy, pleuritic; cf the element pleuro-, esp for cpds.

Gr pleuron, the side, mostly in pl pleura, the side, esp the ribs, is o.o.o., but perh ult akin to Gr platus, flat (cf PLANE). Adopted by Med, pleura has the E adj pleural. Gr pleura has derivative pleuritis, adopted by LL, whence MF pleurisie (F pleurésie), whence E pleurisy; pleuritic comes, via MF and LL, from the Gr adj pleuritikos.

plevin. See PLEDGE, para 2.

plex, plexure, plexus. See PLY, para 4.

pliable. See PLY (heading).

pliant. See PLY, para 4.

plicate, plicatile, plication, plicator. See PLY, para 3. pliers. See PLY (heading).

plight (1), condition or state, derives from AF plit, a fold, a plait, hence a manner, a state or condition (cf ME plet)—a var of OF pleit: f.a.e., PLY. The -gh- perh comes from:—

plight (2), a pledge, derives from ME pliht, an engagement, earlier (a) danger, from OE pliht, danger; 'to plight', from OE plihian, to expose to danger, from the n. Cf OFris plicht, OHG-MHG plihit, care, obligation, G Pflicht, duty, OS plegan, to pledge.

Plimsoll is elliptical for Plimsoll's mark (occ line), the load-line safety mark on ships: from its procurer (1876), Samuel Plimsoll, M.P. plinth. See FLINT, para 3.

plod—whence agent plodder and pa, vn plodding—is echoic: cf the syn D ploeteren.

plonk. See PLUNK.

plot, n (both senses) and v. See PLANE, para 23.

plough. See FLOW.

plover. See PLUVIAL, para 2.

plow (E and AE) or plough (E only), n hence v, with such obvious derivatives and cpds as plower, plowing, plowman, plowshare (cf G Pflugshare), E forms usu plough-: ME plouh or plow: (late) OE plōh, prob from ON plōgr (cf Sw plog): cf OHG pfluog, MHG pfluoc, G Pflug, and MD ploech, plouch, D ploeg: ? of Rhaetian origin. (Walshe.)

ploy. See PLY (heading).

pluck, n (whence PLUCKY) and v. See the 3rd FEEL, para 7.

plug, n hence v, comes from MD plugge (D plug): cf MLG pluck (OHG phloc, G Pflock) and Sw plugg: ? ult echoic, from the noise of insertion.

plum, whence the adj plummy, comes from OE plūme: (with l for r) from LL prūna, f from L neu pl prūna, sing prūnum: Gr prounon, easement of earlier proumnon (tree proumnos), o.o.o.: ? from Asia Minor, perh Phrygian. (Hofmann.)

2. LL prūna becomes OF-F prune, adopted by E; the dim OF-F prunelle prob suggested the Bot Prunella, and certainly the transferred sense of prunelle led to E prunella, a woollen stuff app orig sloe-coloured.

plumage. See PLUME.

plumate. See PLUME, para 2.

plumb (n hence adj), a lead weight, derives from OF-F plomb (C12 varr plon, plom, plun): L plumbūm: prob of Iberian origin, lead having orig come from Spain. The derivative plumbāgō has been adopted by E; the L adj plumbeus becomes plumbeous. The n plumb has derivative 'to plumb', whence plumber and vn plumbing.

2. OF plom has dim OF plommée, MF var plommeit, adopted by ME, whence the reshaped plummet, whence 'to plummet'.

3. L plumbiām has VL derivative plumbiāre*, with extn plumbicāre*, to plumb, whence OF-MF plongier (F plonger), whence ME plongen, later plungen, whence 'to plunge', whence 'a plunge' and plunger (cf MF-F plongeur).

4. Perh akin to L plumbūm is the syn Gr molubdos, whence molubdaina, a vein of silver mingled with lead, whence L molybdaena, whence SciL molybdenum, whence, in turn, molybdenite (Min suffix -ite). From Gr molubdos, Sci has coined the adj molybdic and its syn molybdous, both meaning 'of or like molybdenum'.

Hofmann aptly cfs Basque berun, lead.

plumbago. See prec, para 1.

plumbeous, of or like lead (esp in colour). See plumb, para 1, s.f.

plume, n hence v (prob suggested by OF-F plumer, L plūmāre), orig to strip of feathers, derives from OF-F plume, L plūma: o.o.o.; perh cf Lith plūnksna, a feather (E & M). E plumage is adopted from MF-F plumage, itself from plume but perh suggested by LL plūmācium, a feather bed.

2. The L derivatives plūmātus, plūmōsus, plūmula have duly become E plumate, plumose, plumule.

3. Cf the sep FLEECE.

plummet. See PLUMB, para 2.

plumose. See PLUME, para 2.

plump, blunt (obs), well rounded, hence rather, but not very, fat: MD plump, var of plomp (plomb), blunt—cf MLG plump, 'orig, falling, heavy, clumsy, and of imitative origin' (Webster). The MD-MLG adj prob derive from the corresp vv MLG-MD plumpen, MD plompen, clearly echoic: and from MD plumpen (plompen) E derives 'to plump', to fall, heavily or suddenly or clumsily, with several intimately derivative senses and the adv plump. Prob from the ideas conveyed by adj and v alike, E derives the n plump, a cluster or group, e.g. of ducks.

plumule. See PLUME, para 2.

plunder (v, hence n): G plündern, to plunder, from late MHG plündern, to plunder, but orig to remove household goods, from MHG plunder, household goods (whence G Plunder, lumber, ? orig household goods relegated to an attic or a storehouse, hence rubbish): app introduced into England 'by men who had served in the 30 Years War' (1618–1648). (Walshe).

plunge, plunger. See PLUMB, para 3.

plunk, oc plonk: echoic: the v, prob from the interjection.

pluperfect. See PERFECT, para 3.

plural, adj, hence n: plurality, whence, anl, pluralism, pluralist, pluralize; plus.

Plural derives, either direct or via OF plurel (EF-F pluriel), from L plūralis, itself from plūr-, o/s of plūs, more, akin to Gr pleon, neu of pleōn, var of pleiōn: IE r, plē-*. (Cf PLEONASM.) Derivative LL plurdlitās, o/s plurdlitāt-, yields-MF-F pluralité, whence E plurality.

plurivocal. See VOCABLE, para 9.

plush. See the 3rd PEEL, para 6.

Pluto, God of the Underworld (Gr Myth), is adopted from L Plūto: from Gr Ploutōn (var Ploutēus), with adj Ploutōnios, whence, via L Plūtōnius, the E Plutonian (var Plutonic, prob from F plutonique): perh, as Plato says, akin to Gr Ploutos (L Plūtus), God of Wealth, from ploutos, wealth, itself akin to polus, much.

plutocracy, plutocrat. See the element -cracy, 2nd para.

pluvial, Jupiter Pluvius; plover.

1. Pluvial derives from ML pluuialis, L pluuialis, adj of pluuia, rain, from pluuuus, rainy—Jupiter Pluvius being Jupiter in his role of Rain God: and pluuuus derives from pluere, to rain, s and r plu-: cf Skt plavayati, it overflows, and Gr pluō, I wash.

2. L pluuia, rain, has VL derivative pluuīarius*, pluviārius*, lit the rain bird (because flocks arrive with the rainy season), whence OF plouvier, plovier (EF-F pluvier), whence E plover.

ply, to fold, to bend, whence pliable and pliers; plica, plicate, plicature, plicator, plicature; plex, plexal, plexure, plexus.—Simple derivatives: pliant (whence pliancy); plait, plat, pleat; pleach.—Cpds of L plīcāre: applicable, applicant, application, whence, anl, applicative, applicator, applicatory, appliqué—apply, whence appliance; complicate (whence complicacy), complication, whence complicative; deploy, whence deployment—display, v hence n, and splay, adj and v (whence n); explicable (inexplicable), explicate, explication, explicative (whence, anl, explicatory), explicator—explicit—exploit, n and v (whence exploiter), exploitation; implicate (adj and v), implication (whence, anl, implicative)—implicit—imply—cf employ (v, n), whence, by aphesis, the n ploy and, directly, employee, employer, employment; replica—replicate (adj and v), replication, whence, anl, replicative— reply, v hence n; suppliant (adj, n), whence suppliance—supplicant, supplicate, supplication, supplicator, anl supplicatory.—Cpds of L plexus, pp and n, and of -plex: simplex, simplicist, simplicity, simplify (simplification), simple (adj, n); complex (adj, n), complexion, complexity—complice, complicity—accomplice; duplex—duplicand, duplicate (adj, hence n and v), duplication (whence, anl, duplicative), duplicator—duplicity—double, adj (hence n) and v, doublet, doubleton; triplex, triplicate (adj, hence n and v), whence, after doublet, triple (adj, hence n and v), whence, after doublet, triplet; quadruplex, quadruplicate, quadruplication, quadruple—quintuple (whence quintuplet), hence, anl, quintuplicate—and so on; multiple, multiplication, multiply; perplex (adj, v), perplexed, perplexity; supple (adj, hence v) and souple—supplejack.—Cf the sep entries at FLAX and FLEX.

1. Ply, to fold or bend, ME plien, comes from OF-F plier (cf the doublet OF ploier, F ployer), from L plicāre, to fold; cf the intimately related L plectere, to intertwine, to weave, pp plexus, and Gr plekein, to plait, to weave: IE r, plek-*, to intertwine, to plait.

2. Ply in the sense 'to use, wield, practise frequently or diligently', derives, by aphesis, from the cpd apply (oneself)—see para 8.

3. L plicāre has the ML derivative plica, a fold, adopted by Med and Bot. The pp plicātus yields both the pa and the v PLICATE, whence such anl forms as plication (prob after F), plicative, plicator: four words that partly set the pattern for the cpds. The cpds have, app, omitted to utilize the simple plicatile, from L plicātīlis, and few have utilized the simple plicature, from L plicātūra.

4. L plectere, to intertwine, has, via the pp plexus, the derivative n plexus, a network, adopted by E, with adj plexal; hence 'to plex', to form one. Also from E plexus comes, anl, plexure.

Simple Derivatives

5. L plicāre becomes OF plier, with presp pliant, whence the E adj; the irreg L pp plicitus, plicitum, used as n, becomes OF pleit, whence ME pleyt, plays, E plait, hence 'to plait', with var plat, of which pleat is a var, with sense promptly differentiated.

6. L plectere becomes VL plectiāre*, whence OF plessier, with ONF var plechier (F plécher), whence ME plechen, E 'to pleach'.

Compounds of L plicāre, to fold or bend

7. L applicāre, to bend oneself ad or towards, hence to address oneself to, has presp applicans, o/s applicant-, whence the E adj, hence n, applicant, and pp applicātus, whence the E adj applicante; derivative L applicatiō, o/s applicatiōn-, becomes MF-F, hence E, application. MF-F appliquer (from L applicāre) has derivative MF appliquable, EF-F applicable, adopted by E; pp appliqué is adopted by E as an adj.

8. L applicāre also becomes OF aplier (cf para 1), whence ME aplien, E 'to apply'.

9. L complicāre, to fold together, has presp complicans, o/s complicant-, whence the E adj complicant, and pp complicātus, whence the E adj and v complicate; derivative LL complicatiō, o/s complication; whence MF-F and E complication.

10. L displicāre, to unfold (dis-, apart), becomes OF despleier, whence ME displaien, E 'to display', whence, by aphesis, 'to splay', to display (obs), to open out, whence both the adj and the n splay.

11. OF despleier becomes F déployer, whence déploiement: hence the E 'to deploy' and deployment. (Cf para 1.)

12. L explicāre, to unfold, hence to explain, has derivative explicābilis, whence EF-F and E explicable; the L neg inexplicābilis becomes F and, perh independently, E inexplicable. The pp explicātus becomes the obsol adj and the v explicate; derivative explicatiō, o/s explicatiōn-, becomes MF-F and, prob independently, E explication—L explicatiuus, ML -ivus, E explicative (perh via EF-F explicatif)—L explicator, adopted by E. The LL-ML explicit is short for explicit(us est volumen) and for explicit(us est liber), 'the book has been completely unrolled'; then, at end of MS, as if vi, 'here endeth' (Souter). Cf the E adj explicit, which comes, through late MF-F explicite, from that same pp explicitus.

13. L explicitum, neu of explicitus, becomes OF espleit, var exploit, revenue, force, an achievement, adopted by ME, whence—as in F—the E exploit; OF exploit has OF-MF derivative exploitier (F exploiter), whence 'to exploit'. Exploitable and exploitation perh owe something to the id MF-F and F forms.

14. L implicāre, lit to fold in, hence to entangle, hence to involve, hence to engage (labour), has presp implicans, o/s implicant-, hence, in Logic, the E implicant, and pp implicātus, whence the E adj and v implicate. Derivative implicatiō, o/s implicatiōn-, whence MF-F and, perh independently, E implication. The irreg or var pp implicitus becomes late MF-F implicite and, perh independently, E implicit.

15. L implicāre also becomes OF emplier, whence 'to imply' (cf the formation of apply and reply, cf also para 1), whence EF emploier, F employer, with that sense 'to engage (labour)' which occurs in ML; derivative EF-F emploi becomes the E n employ.

16. L replicāre, to fold back or again, hence to repeat, becomes It replicare, whence It replica, a reproduction, adopted by E; the L pp replicātus yields the E adj and v replicate; derivative replicatiō, o/s replicatiōn-, yields OF-MF replication, adopted by E. Replicāre becomes OF replier (F replier), to bend back, whence, with L secondary sense restored, ME replen, E 'to reply'.

17. Rather from L supplex, bowed to one's knees (see para 28), than from subplicāre*,—but conveniently treated here,—is L supplicāre, to kneel before (someone: in entreaty), with presp supplicans, o/s supplicant-; whence the E adj—hence-n supplicant, whence supplicancy. The pp supplicātus yields 'to supplicate'; derivative supplicātiō, o/s supplicātiōn-, becomes OF-F, hence E, supplication, and agent supplicator is adopted by E. Supplicāre becomes OF souploier, MF souplier, late MF-F supplier, presp suppliant, adopted by E as adj, hence n.

Compounds of L plexus, folded, and, as n, a folding, and of -plex (in adj)

18. L simplex is for semplex*: sem-, as in L semel, once + -plex, -fold (as in manifold): 'of one fold', hence 'single', hence—via 'single-minded'—'simple'. Simplex, which is adopted by E for 'uncompounded', hence as n, becomes OF-F simple, adopted by E; C13-16 F simple médecine (opp médecine composée)—cf ML simplex medicina—becomes, in C16, the n simple, a medicinal plant (B & W), adopted by E.

19. L simplex has o/s simplic-, as in derivative simplicitās, whence OF-F simplicité, adopted by E; hence the anl simplicist. Subsidiary LL simplicitūdō becomes E simplicitude. ML simplicifāre (-ficāre, L -ficere, c/f of facere, to make) becomes late MF-F simplifier, whence 'to simplify'; derivative late MF-F simplification is adopted by E.

20. L complexi, to entwine around, to embrace, to comprise, has pp complexus, whence the late EF-F adj complexe and, independently, the E adj complex; the n complex derives from L n complexus (gen -ūs), an embrace, a connexion, a network. Derivative from the L pp is complexiō, o/s complexiōn-, combination or collection, ML temperament, which becomes OF complexion, adopted by E, esp in the ML sense; complexity, however, comes from the E adj—cf E complexité from complexe.

21. In LL, the L pp-become-adj complexus acquires the n complex, a partner or a colleague, hence, esp as pej, a confederate: hence MF-F complice, adopted by E, but now archaic; derivative late MF-F complicité becomes E complicity. Accomplice prob = a complice.

22. L duplex = duo, two + -plex ('two-fold') and is adopted by E, as adj, hence n; the mdfn duplus becomes E duple; derivative LL duplātiō yields duplation. Derivative duplicāre, to double, has gerund duplicandū, whence, from duplicando (by doubling), the E duplicand. The pp duplicātus gives us the adj, hence n and v, duplicate; derivative duplicātiō, o/s duplicātiōn-, yields F and E duplication, and the LL agent duplicator is adopted by E. L duplex has LL derivative duplicitās, whence, via MF-F duplicité, the E duplicity. The LL reduplicāre leads to reduplicate, etc.

23. L duplex becomes OF duble, MF-F double, adopted by E as adj, whence the n; 'to double', ME doublen, derives from MF-F doubler, OF dobler, from LL duplāre, from duplus. F double has dim OF doblet, MF-F douplet, adopted by E; the orig OF sense was 'a stuff made of two materials'. L duplus becomes Sp doble, whence the Sp doblón, when EF-F doublon, whence E doubloon.

24. L triplex, three-fold (tri-, c/f of tres, neu tria, 3+ -plex), is adopted by E (adj, hence n); derivative triplicāre has pp triplicātus, whence the E adj (hence n) and v triplicate, and subsidiary LL triplicātiō becomes triplication. The L mdfn triplius becomes MF-F, hence E, triple, whence, anl, triplet. LL triplicitās (from triplex) yields triplicity.

25. L quadruplex, four-fold, quintuplex, five-fold, and their derivatives—anl with those of duplex and triplex—yield quadruple (-plex), quintuple, and quadruplicate, quintuplicate, etc.

26. L multiplex, manifold, is adopted by E; the derivative MF-F multiple is also adopted. Derivative L multiplicāre becomes OF-F multiplier, whence 'to multiply', whence multiplier; derivative L multiplicātiō (o/s -ātiōn-), LL multiplicātus (ML -ivus), LL multiplicator, LL multiplicitās (o/s -itāt-), yield MF-F, hence E, multiplication—E multiplicative—E multiplicator—OF-F multiplicité, whence E multiplicity.

27. L perplexus, lit thoroughly (per) intertwined (plexus), hence involved, confused, becomes MF perplex (EF-F perplexé), adopted by E, whence, anl, the pa perplexed, whence the E 'to perplex'; derivative LL perplexitās (o/s -itāt-) becomes MF-F perplexité, whence E perplexity.

28. The L adj supplex, bending sub or low, hence kneeling, becomes OF supple, sople, MF-F souple, adopted by ME, but now mostly Sc; hence 'to souple'. The E adj supple comes from ME souple; hence 'to supple'. The supplejack is a plant-stemmed vine, whence canes, etc., are made; jack is the instrumental form of Jack used for devices, machines, etc.

pneuma, pneumatic, pneumonia; neume.

Pneumatic, like EF-F pneumatique, derives from L pneumaticus, trln of Gr pneumatikos, adj of pneuma, air, wind, breath, from pnēin, to blow: echoic (cf ANIMAL). Adopted by erudite E, pneuma has the ML derivative neuma, a group of notes sung while one breath lasts, whence late MF-F neume, adopted by E. Cognate Gr pneumōn, pl pneumones, the lungs, has derivative pneumonia, adopted by SciL, hence by E; the adj pneumonic derives from Gr pneumonikos.

poach (eggs). See POCK, para 5.

poach (2), to thrust, to trespass, whence poacher and poaching; pochard; poke (v), whence poker (utensil and prob the game).

1. 'To poach', earlier poche, derives from MF pocher, to thrust, hence to encroach upon, from MLG poken, to poke; prob akin to MD pochen, puchen, to boast, talk big, bluff. Derivative F pochard—perh from the F source of 1st POACH—is adopted by E for a species of European duck.

2. MLG poken (cf G pochen, to knock or beat, to boast) becomes ME poken, whence 'to poke' or thrust, prod. With the game poker, essentially an exercise in bluffing (whence poker-faced), cf G Pochspiel, lit 'boast game', D pochspel.

pochard. See para 1 of prec.

pochette. See para 2 of:

pock (n, hence v) and pox (n, hence v), smallpox; pocket (n, hence v) and pochette; poke, a sack or bag; poach (eggs); pouch, n hence v; puck and pug, elf, and pooka; pucker, v hence n.

1. Pock, a pustule—pl pocks, soon pox, syphilis—comes, through ME pokke, from OE pocc, var poc: cf MD and MLG pocke (G Pocke), 'prob connected with LG pogge "frog" and OE pohha "pocket". Orig. meaning "to swell" (Walshe). E smallpox=a disease characterized by small pocks or pustules.

2. Pocket, ME poket, derives from AF pokete, dim of ONF poke, poque, bag, pouch; pochette, adopted from F, is OF pochette, dim of OF-F poche, pocket, from Frankish pokka.

3. OF poche has N var poque, poke, whence ME-E poke: cf MD poke and OE pocca, mdfn of OE pocc (as in para 1).

4. OF poche has the further var pouche, adopted by ME, whence E pouch.

5. Early in MF, OF-F poche has derivative pocher, esp in pocher les yeux, prob 'to make them swell like pouches', whence, app, late MF-F pocher les oeufs, to cook eggs so that the white envelops the yolk, as in a bag (B & W): whence E 'to poach eggs'.

6. Akin to OE pocca (var pohha), a bag, is OE puca, ME pouke, E pook and puck, a hobgoblin, often as Puck—cf Kipling's book-title Puck of Pook's Hill (1906). With pook, cf pooka, an Ir goblin, from Ir puca: cf EIr bocánach, Ga bocan, a goblin, and Cor bucca, a ghost.

7. E puck, hobgoblin, has var—? orig dial—pug, an elf, a loved one (both senses obs), hence a small, alert quadruped (mostly dial), esp a small, compact dog.

8. E poke, a bag, has EE-E derivative freq pucker, to crinkle as a bag does: cf F faire des poches, to pucker (OED).

pocket. See prec, para 2.

pocky. Adj of POCK (para 1).

pocourante, indifferent, hence an indifferentist: It poco curante, little-caring: poco from L paucus, little, pauci, few+curante, from It-from-L curare, to care about: f.a.e., CURE.

pod (n, hence v) of plant. EE podd: o.o.o.

podagra. See FOOT, para 23, and the 1st PELT, para 3, s.f.

podgy. See PUDDING, para 3. podium. See FOOT, para 21.

podo-words. See the element.

poem, poesy (and posy), poet (and poet laureate), poetaster, poetic (often in extn poetical), poetics, poetize, poetry; poesias, poietic.

1. Behind this group stands the Gr poiain, to make or construct: r poi-: IE r, quet- (Hofmann), var quoi- (Boisacq), to construct, to make—cf Skt cáyati, he constructs or arranges, var cinóti, cf OB činiti, to arrange, and Skt citts, arrangement, collection.

2. Gr poiain has agent poiētēs, var poētēs, whence L poëta, OF-F poète, ME poete, E poet—cf sem, the mainly Sc maker, a poet. What he makes is particularly a poem, MF-F poème, L poëma, Gr poëma, var of poiëma; generally, either poesy, EF-F poésie, L poësis, Gr poësis, var of poiësis, or poetry, ME poetrie, ML poëtria—app a blend (? a confusion) of LL poëtia, poetry+L poetria (Gr poiëtria), a poetess. The adj poetic derives from late MF-F poétique, L poëticus, Gr poiëtikos; poetics app derives from Aristotle's treatise; EE-E poetaster prob comes from Erasmus (1521: OED): cf, sem, criticaster. Poetize derives from late MF-F poëtiser, an erudite formation.

3. Gr poiësis is occ used (poiesis) in erudite E for creative power or the creative act, with the corresp adj poietic (Gr poiëtikos).

pogrom comes from the Ru for 'devastation', itself from gromit', to batter.

poiesis, poietic. See POEM, para 3.

poignancy, poignant. See PUNGENT, para 10.

Pollu. See the 3rd PEEL, para 1, s.f.

poind. See POUND, v.

point (n, v), pointel, pointer, pointillism, pointless; point-blank and point-device. See PUNGENT, para 8.

poise. See PEND, para 8.

poison (n, v), poisoner, poisonous. See POTABLE, para 3.

poke (1), pocket, pouch, sack. See POCK, para 3.

poke (2), to thrust or prod; hence n. See the 2nd POACH, para 2.

poker: utensil from prec; game, perh from prec (2nd POACH, para 2).

Polack, a Pole, occurs in Shakespeare's Hamlet (I. i. 63)—hence, in part, the coll ÆE use; mostly from G Polack, pej of Pole, a Pole; the correct word for a native of Poland is Pole, and the adj for both is Polish. Poland, app influenced by E land (contrast, e.g., the G Polen and the F Pologne), prob derives from MHG Polan, a Pole, pl Polâne, from Pol Poljane, lit field-dwellers, from Pol pole, a field (OED): ? cf Ru polesse, forest land.

2. The F adj polonais, Polish, is, in the f polonaise, used elliptically for danse polonaise, a Polish dance; Sw, hence E, polska, a Swedish dance, is lit 'a Polish dance', from Sw polsk, Polish; and ML Polonia, Poland, has Chem derivative polonium (Chem suffix -ium).

3. But polka, often stated to come ult from Pol Polka, a Polish woman, in fact comes, via F and perh G, from Cz pálka, a half-step, from Cz pál, a half. (Walshe.)

polar, polarity, polarize. See the 2nd POLE.

Pole. See POLACK, para 1.

pole (1), a stake. See PACT, para 11.

pole (2), either extremity of an axis or of a sphere, whence the North and South Pole; polar, whence polarity; polarize (whence polarization); cf such cpds as polarimeter and polariscope—see the element polari-;—pulley.—Ult akin to sep WHEEL.

1. E, from ME, pole derives from MF-F pôle: L polus: Gr polos, a pivot, hence an axis, hence a Geog pole, s and r pol-: cf Gr pelō, I turn (vi), am in motion, IE etymon quelō, I am in motion, I stir or move (Hofmann): f.a.e., WHEEL.

2. MF-F pôle has EF-F adj polaire, whence—unless from ML polāris—the E polar. EF-F polaire has derivative polariser, whence polarisation; whence 'to polarize' and perh polarization.

3. Gr polos app has LGr derivative polidion*, whence OF-MF polie (F poulie), ME poley, later puly, E pulley.

poleax (AE), poleaxe. See FACT, para 11.

polcat: ME polcat, lit 'poultry cat' (from its fondness for poultry): by f/e from MF pole (var of MF-F poule), a hen, a fowl: L pulla, f of pullus, a chicken, orig the young of any animal: s pul-, perh extn of that IE pu-* which occurs in L puer, a boy, orig a child: 'a grow-er'; basic sense prob 'to grow'.

2. MF-F poule has MF-F dim poulet, var polete, adopted by ME: whence E pullet. MF poulet, adopted by ME, becomes pultie, whence E poult, a young turkey; ME pulte has—from MF pouletier—the agent pulter, E poulter, now only in the Poulterers' Company, the ordinary word being now its derivative poulterer; OF-F poulet, moreover, has derivative pouleterie (perh suggested by pouletier), whence ME pultrie, E poultry.

3. Cf PULLULANT.

polemic (adj, hence n), esp in pl polemics; with E extn polemical; hence polemicist (-ist).

Polemic, of, in, for, by a verbal attack, derives—like F polémique—from Gr polemikos, of, by, for war, the adj of polemos, war, s polem-: cf Gr pelemizō, I set in motion, s pelem-, prob an extn of IE r pel-*, to shake: cf the 2nd PULSE, para 1.

polenta. See POLLEN, para 1.

police (n, hence v), whence policeman; policy (science, or the tactics, of government); polity, politic (with extn political, now sense-differentiated), whence politician (cf technician from technic), politics—polis, esp in Acropolis—cosmopolis, cosmopolitan (adj, hence n), cosmopolite (whence cosmopolitism)—metropolis, metropolitan (adj, hence n), metropolitite; cf the element -pole.

1. Clearly the base rests firmly in Gr polis, a city, hence a state: s and r, pol-: cf Lith pilis, a citadel, a castle, and—r for l—Skt pūr, pūram, puris, a castle, a fortress, a town, a city.

2. Gr polis, city, has agent politēs, a citizen, with adj politikos, of a citizen, of the citizens, of the state: L politicus: MF-F politique: E politic, whence the n politics, perh suggested by Gr hē politikē (sc epistēmē), the political knowledge, hence the art and science of government.

3. Gr politēs (s polit-), a citizen, has derivative abstract n politeia, whence LL politia, citizenship, government, administration, which has, in MF, two offshoots: policie, political organization—whence E policy—soon with var police, still in same sense, the modern one arising in Fénelon's L'Education des Filles, 1687, and borrowed, c1730 (OED), by E: perh prompted by LGr politeia, police regulations; the 2nd being late MF (and J. J. Rousseau) politie, E polity, form of government, constitution of a state.

Compounds

4. The Acropolis of Athens particularizes, already in Gr, the common n akropolis, a citadel: akros, at the crest or highest point + polis, city.

5. A metropolis is lit '(the) mother-city' whence spring the colonies: via LL from Gr mētropolis, mētro- being a c/f of mētēr, mother (see MOTHER). The F form metropole becomes E metropole, now rare. LL mētropolis has LL adj mētropolitānus, of a metropolis, whence, as n, a metropolitan bishop: whence, resp, the E adj and the E n, the former perh imm from late MF-F métropolitain. The LL derivative mētropolitā, citizen of a metropolis, becomes E metropolitite.

6. A cosmopolis is lit a world (cosmos, Gr kosmos) city, but the sense does not exist in Gr; the E sense is a b/f from Gr kosmopolitēs, a citizen of the world, whence EF-F cosmopolite, adopted by E, which coins—after metropolitan—the adj cosmopolitan.

policy (1), science of government. See prec, para 3.

policy (2), an insurance certificate. See TEACH, para 3.

polio is a shortening, orig coll, of poliomyelitis. See the element polio-.

polis. See POLICE, para 1.

Polish. See POLACK, para 1.

polish (v, hence n), whence polisher; polite (whence politeness), politesse; impolite, whence impoliteness.

1. 'To polish', ME polischen, polishen, derives from the present-tense-pl and presp s poliss- of OF-F polir, from L polire, perh from an IE peld-, extn of pel-, to strike, hence to polish by striking. (E & M.)

2. L polire has pp poiltus, whence E polite. Politesse, borrowed from EF-F poliessie, a reshaping, after the L pp, of OF-F poli, adj from pp.

3. L politus, used as adj, has neg impolitus, whence E impolite (contrast F impoli).

polite. See prec, para 2.

politic (political). See POLICE, para 2.

politician. See POLICE (heading).

politics. See POLICE, para 2, s.f. polity. See POLICE, para 3, s.f.

polka. See POLACK, para 3.

poll (1), the head, esp the top and back; hence 'to poll'; pollard (adj, hence n, hence v); tadpole.

1. Poll, head, comes, through ME pol or polle, from MD polle, poll, app a mdfn of MD pol, top, crest: cf (b for p) the L bullā, a bubble: f.a.e., BULB.

2. 'To poll,' remove the hair, horns, top branches, etc., has pp pollēd, whence, with substitution of suffix -ard, the EE-E adj pollard, anl with other adjj (and nn) in -ard.

3. Poll has the cpd tadpole: ME tade or tadde, a toad (see TOAD) + pol, head: the young toad and the young frog have very large heads.

poll (2), as in the University of Cambridge's poll degree, a degree without honours: from Gr 'hoi polloi', the many, the multitude, the rabble.

pollack, occ pollock, prob comes from the syn Ga pollag; perh akin to POOL, a pond.

pollard. See the 1st POLL, para 2.

pollen, pollinate (whence pollination), pollinium—and polenta; powder (n, v), whence the adj powdery; pulse (edible seeds) and poultice (n, hence v), pulvaceous and syn pulverulent, whence pulverulence—pulverize, whence pulverization, pulverizer, pulverizing—pulvis et umbra.

1. Pollen is L pollen, a fine meal obtained from cereal grains, hence a very fine powder. From its o/s pollin- is formed the ML pollināta, whence, unless merely anl, 'to pollinate' and ScIL pollinium. An app irrelg derivative of pollen is L polenia, a fine barley meal, adopted by It with new sense 'a thick porridge' and, in that guise, known in Britain.

2. Akin to L pollen is L puls (o/s pult-), a meal porridge: whence OF-MF pols, pouls, a collective pl: whence ME pols, puls: E pulse. L puls has pl pultes, with ML sense 'pap': whence E pultes, E poultice.

3. Also akin to L pollen is L pulvis, ML pulvis (o/s pulver-), dust (esp of arena or battlefield), as in the Classical tag, pulvis et umbra, dust and shadow. Derivative adj pulvereus, pulverulentus yield pulvaceous, pulverulent, dusty, tending to crumble to dust; derivative LL pulverizāre, ML pulverizāre, becomes MF-F pulvériser, whence 'to pulverize'.

4. L pulvis has acc pulverem, ML pulverem, whence OF puldre, pouldre, poldre, whence MF-F poudre, adopted by ME, whence E powder; 'to powder' comes from MF-F poudrer, earlier pouldrer.

5. With L puls, occ pultis, cf the syn Gr polτός, s polit-. The L r, therefore, wavers between pol- and pul-; the Gr r wavers between pol- (polit- is an extn) and the app more basic pal-, as in palē, fine meal, dust; cf Skt pālalam, ground seeds (of the sesame plant). The IE r is prob pel-*, dust.

pollock. See POLLACK.

pollute, pollution.

The n comes—prob via OF-F pollution—from pollutiōn-, o/s of LL pollutiō, from pollūt-, s of pollūtus, pp of polluere, to render thoroughly filthy, to defile: app for por-* (sometimes for per-, throughout, as here, sometimes for pro-, forward) + luere, to make dirty, perh a var of L lutāre, to plaster with mud, from L lutum, mud, akin to Gr lumē, a soiling, Homeric Gr luthron, blood mingled with dust, and Cor lued, Ir loth, EIr (and Ga) lathach, mud.—From L lutum, mud, clay, derives E lute, a clay cement.

polo: Balti (Indus Valley dial) polo, the ball used in the game, hence the game: cf Tibetan pulu, polo, and—? a loanword—bolo, a ball.

polonaise. See POLACK, para 2.

polonium. See POLACK, para 2, s.f. polony. Cf BOLONEY.

polska. See POLACK, para 2.

poltergeist, a G word, is lit a 'noisy ghost':

Polter, noise, from poltern, to make a great noise, ult echoic + Geist, spirit (f.a.e., GHOST).

poltroon, poltronnery: EF-F poltron and its EF-F derivative poltronnerie: It poltrone, a colt, hence a coward (colts being easily alarmed), from poltro, a colt, ult from L pullus, a young animal (B & W): cf E pullet, q.v. at POLECAT.

poly, a herb: L polium: G polion, app the neu of polios, grey: cf FALLOW.

polyandry (adj -androus). See the element andro-.

polyanthus. Cf the element anth-, but see ANTHOLOGY, para 3.

polychrome, many-hued: via F, from Gr polukhrōmos. Cf CHROMATIC.

polygamist, polygamous, polygamy. See MONOGAMIST, para 2, and cf the element poly-.

polyglot. See the element poly-, and see GLOSS (comment).

polygon: LL polygonum, n, from Gr polugonos, many-angled: cf the element -gon.

polymath. See MATHEMATIC, para 1.

Polynesia, whence Polynesian (adj, hence n). See the element poly-.

polyp, polypus. See the element poly-; cf FOOT.

polyphonic, polyphony: Gr poluphōnos, many-sounded, and poluphōnia. Cf the element poly- and PHONE.

polysemia, polysemant. See elements poly- and sema- (para 2). polysyllabic, polysyllable. See SYLLABLE, para 3. polytechnic. See the element poly- and TECHNIC.

pomade, pomander. See FAT, paras 4, 5.

pomato blends potato and tomato.

pomatium. See FAT, para 7.

pome, pomegranate. See FAT, para 8; cf GRAIN, para 5.

pomeranian=Pomeranian dog. Pomerania, a Baltic province of Prussia, app comes, like G Pommern, from Pol Pomorze, '(Land) by the Sea'.

(Enci It.)

Pomfret cake. See PONS, para 5.

pommel. See FAT, para 6.

Pommy, Aus sl for a newcomer from Great Britain, esp England: pomegranate, ref his or her rosy cheeks.

pomp, pomposity, pompous; pompon and pompadour.

1. Pomp, ME pompe, derives, via MF-F, from L pompa, trln of Gr pompē, lit a sending, hence a procession, esp if sumptuous and solemn, hence organized magnificence, from pempein, to send: Gr r, pemp-: o.o.o.

2. L pompa has LL adj pompōsus, whence, via MF-F pompeux, f pompeuse, the E pompous; derivative LL-ML pompōsītās, o/s pompōsītāt-, yields pomposity.

3. Influenced by, yet prob not from, late MF-EF pomper, to dress oneself magnificently, is F pompon, an ornamental ball for women's robes: rather is it an arbitrarily picturesque redup.

4. But Pompadour, a style of dress, a style of headdress, derives from the Marquise de Pompadour (1721-64) Louis XV's mistress, whose name derives from a locality in Corrèze, a department of S Central France, perh from L pompa, though prob of C origin.

pompion. See MELON, para 6.

pompon. See POMP, para 2.

pomposity, pompos. See POMP, para 2.

poncho, adopted from Sp, is Araucan (S Am) poncho, perh better written pontho.

pond is a doublet of pond (an enclosure), for it was orig an enclosed body of water.

ponder, ponderable, ponderous. See PEND, para 2.

pone (1), n, is, in AE, short for corn pone, corn bread; pone is of Alg origin—cf Virginian âpan, something baked, esp bread, from âpen, she bakes (Mathews).

pone (2), v; ponent. See POSE, para 2.

poney. See FOAL, para 3.

pongee: Pekinese pen-chi, home-woven, home loom.

poniard. See PUNGENT, para 14.

pons (pons asinorum); pont, pontage, pontifex, pontiff, pontifical, pontifical pontificate, pont-levis, ponton, pontoon; Pontefract, Pomfret (Pomfret cake); punt (n, hence v) (whence punter, punt and pontil; Transpontine).

1. L pons, a bridge, retained by An and Zoo, and aspic'd in the outmoded Geom pons asinorum or 'asses' bridge', has o/s pont-, so clearly present in all the E words coming straight from L: o.o.o.: perh cf Gr pontos, sea—regarded as a means of crossing from land to land (E & M; Hofmann); Skt pánthas, like OSl poſt and OPr pintis, means a path. If the word pons be basically Italic, it could represent the nom -s attached to pon-, the s—and extn r—of ponere, to place.

2. Pont, a ferry (S Afr), comes imm from D pont (MD pont, ponte), a ferryboat, from the L o/s pont-.

3. L pons has the foll derivatives relevant to E: pontō, a ferry, a pontoon, o/s pontōn-, whence OF-F ponton, whence E pontoon and the occ AE syn ponton; L pontō, s pont-, in Caesar's Gallie Wars a punt, also becomes OE-E punt;

LL pontilis, of or like a bridge, yields the rare adj pontile; the derivative LL n pontile, a bridge-like structure, becomes F pontil, occ used in E but much less common than its derivative punty (in glass-making); cf the bridge-toll pontage, adopted from late MF-EF pontage (F pont + -age).

4. L pons has the important cpd pontifex (gen pontificis), *bridge-builder, a priest important in Roman religion and so named because, anciently, Rome was essentially 'the City of the Bridge' (E & M), hence, in LL, a bishop (later, the Pope). L pontifex, acc pontificem, becomes late MF-F pontife, whence E pontiff. The L adj pontificius yields E pontifical (-al for -ous), of a pontifex or a Pope; the L adj pontificālis yields late MF-F pontifical, adopted by E, now usu in the sense 'oracular' or 'dogmatically authoritative'. The derivative L n pontificātus (gen -ūs) passes through late MF-F pontificat into E pontificate. The E v

'to pontificate' takes its form from the n pontificate and its sense from pontifical (oracular, etc.)—cf the F pontifier (from pontife).

5. L pons occurs in the E PIN Pontefract, from ML Pontefractus, 'Broken Bridge'—whence AF Pontfret, whence the pron pumfrit and the spelling Pomfret, whence the Pomfret cake orig made in this Yorkshire town.

6. OF-F pont, a bridge, has the cpd OF pons levels, MF-F pont-levis, a drawbridge, adopted by E, now usu a term in formal horsemanship.

7. From pont, F learnedly coins transpontin, whence E transpontine, situated on or belonging across (L trans) the bridge, applied esp to melodrama formerly popular in S London.

pont. See prec, para 2.

pontage. See PONS, para 3, s.f. pontifex; pontiff. See PONS, para 4.

pontifical, pontificate (n and v), pontifical. See PONS, para 4.

pontil. See PONS, para 3.

pont-levis. See PONS, para 6.

ponton. See PONS, para 3.

pontoon. See PONS, para 3.

pony, occ poney. See FOAL, para 3.

poodle: G Pudel, 'said to be for Pudelhund' (Walshe), i.e. 'puddle-hound', from LG pudeln, to splash about in water.

pook, pooka. See POCK, para 6.

pool (1), a pond, a small lake: OE pōl: cf OFris pōl, MD puel, poil, a pool, a morass, D poel, a pool, LG pool, OHG-MHG psuol, G Pfuhl; cf Ga poll, Cor pol, pul; perh (Walshe) cf Lith balà, OB blato, a swamp.

pool (2), a stake—now usu an aggregated stake—deposited by each player in certain games, hence a type of billiards: EF poule, a player's stake in card games, later in others too, from OF-F poule, a hen (layer of an egg a day). Hence 'to pool'.

poop (1), n, hence v: MF pope (late MF-F poupe): OProv, rather than It and Sp, poppa: L puppis: o.o.o.: perh an Italic confusion of Eg pehui, the stern of a boat, and Eg tepi, the hindmost part of a boat's stern.

poop (2), v (hence n), to toot, gulp, break wind: ME poupen, popen: all echoic—cf MD puppen, to bubble.

poor, whence adv, whence adj, poorly; poverish (whence poverishment), poverty—impoverish (whence impoverishment); pauper (n, hence adj), whence pauperize, whence pauperization.

1. Poor, ME pore, earlier poure, is adopted from MF poure, a var of OF-MF povre (EF-F pauvre), from L pauper; derivative L paupertās becomes OF poverté (EF-F pauvreté), whence ME poverte (trisyllabic), whence poverty; OF pouverir (cf VL pauperāre*) has var poverir, presp poverissant, whence E 'to poverish', now mostly dial. 'To impoverish' derives, anl, from MF empovrir (em- for en-, from L in- used int).

2. Pauper, n, derives from L pauper, poor (orig of soil): s paup-, extn of the r pau- that occurs in paucus, pl pauci, few, and paullus, little.

pop (1), n. See FATHER, para 16. pop (2), v hence n: echoic: cf the 2nd POOP.
 Freq: popple.

pope, popery. See FATHER, para 17.

popinjay: ME popingay, earlier papejay; influenced by E JAY in its transit from OF papegai: OProv papagai: Sp papagayo: Ar babaghā.

poplar: ME popler: OF poplier (MF-F peuplier): agential extn of OF pople (var peuple): L populus, a poplar: ? cf Gr ptelea, an elm.

poplin: EF papeline: perh from It papalina, n from f of papalino, of the Papa or Pope, because made at papal Avignon.

poppa. See FATHER, para 16.

poppet. A var of puppet, q.v. at PUP, para 4.

popple. See the 2nd POP.

poppy, whence pa poppied; Papaver, whence the adj papaverine, papaverous (cf ML papāvereus, L papāvereus).

Poppy is OE popig, popaeg, ult from L papāuer, ML āver: o.o.o.: perh Medit—? cf Eg peger, poppy-seed.

populace, popular, popularity, popularize; populate, population; populous. See PEOPLE, para 3. porbeagle. See PORK, para 3.

porcelain. See PORK, para 4.

porch. See the 2nd PORT, para 2. porcine. See PORK, para 1.

porcupine. See PORK, para 6.

pore (1), n; porosity, porous.

1. Pore, minute orifice, is adopted from MF-F porc: L porus: Gr poros, orig a passage: f.a.e., FARE.

2. MF-F pore has derivative MF-F adj poreux, f porouse, whence E porous; subsidiary MF-F porosité becomes E porosity.

pore (2), v, to gaze intently: ME pouren, puren: o.o.o.: ? from MF pur, from pūrāre, to cleanse, to pass through a sieve, hence to examine, from pūrus, clean, pure.

porgy, a food fish, app derives from the fish pargo, adopted from Sp and Port: L pagrus, mdfn of phagrus, trln of Gr phagros (o.o.o.). Porgy is mainly AE, pargo mainly E.

pork, whence porker, porky, and, because of its grunt, porkfish; porcine;—porbeagle; porcelain and porcine; porcupine and porcupine; porpoise.—Cf the sep FARROW.

1. L porcus, a pig male or female, is akin to OE fearh (see FARROW) and to several Sl words, e.g. Lith pařtas. The L adj porcinus becomes MF-F porcin, whence E porcine.

2. L porcus becomes OF-F porc, whence ME porc, E pork, with sense 'pig's flesh' deriving from F.

3. E porbeagle, a viviparous shark, perh comes, f/c, from F porc, a hog + E beagle.

4. Porcelain derives from EF-F porcelaine, MF porcelaine: It porcellana, orig 'the porcelain'—or 'the Venus'—'shell': It porcello, L porcellus, dim of porcus: 'the shell has the shape of a pig's back, and a surface like porcelain' (Webster); B & W, however, derive It porcellana from L porcella, a young sow, f of porcellus, and explain the semantics thus: 'so called from the resemblance of the shell's opening to a sow's vulva'.

5. L porcus has influenced L portulāca (o.o.o.), the plant purslane, into the form porcilāca, whence the irreg MF porcelaine, porcelaine, whence E purslane.

6. Porcupine, ME porkepyn, derives from MF from OProv, porc-espīn, from It porcospino, lit 'spiny pig' (cf SPINE); porpentine is an EE, esp a Shakespearean, var.

7. Porpoise comes, via ME porpoys, var porpeys, from MF porpois, var of porpeis; a contr of L porcus pisces, lit a pig fish, a hog fish.

pornocracy. See PAIR, para 2.

pornographer, pornographic, pornography. See PAIR, para 2.

porosity, porous. See PORE, para 2.

porphyrogenite, porphyrite, porphyry. See PURPLE, para 3, and cf the element porphyro-.

porpoise. See PORK, para 7.

porridge; porringer. See POT, para 8.

port (1), wine: shipped from Oporto (now Porto): Port o (the) porto (harbour): 'the harbour' par excellence. Therefore see:

port (2), harbour, and the cognate port, a gate; portal; porte-cochère; portcullis, porthole, portreeve; porch; porter; portico; ? Portingale, Portugal, Portuguese (and Portuguese man-of-war), Portugee;—opportune, opportunism, opportunist, opportunity—importunate, importune (adj, v), importunity.

1. Port, a harbour, derives partly from OE, partly from OF-F, port, both from L portus (gen -ūs), orig a mountain pass and a gate, a door, basically, therefore, a passage; hence a harbour; and port, a gate, derives from OF-F porte, a gate, a door, from syn L porta. In L, the senses become differentiated, portus coming to denote a harbour: s and r port- is an extn of IE r por-, a var of per-, to cross, to go through (cf L per, through): cf the sep E FORD (f for p); Av peretuš, a passage, a ford; Skt pārāyati, he causes to traverse, Gr peirō, I traverse, go through; L portāre, to cause to pass, to transport, to bring to port; hence, to carry—with E derivatives treated in the next entry. (E & M.)

Derivatives of L porta, gate, door

2. L porta has LL portārius, a doorkeeper, whence OF-F portier, whence E porter, doorkeeper; derivative L porticus (gen -ūs), a covered passage supported by a colonnade, becomes It portico, adopted by E. L porticus also becomes OF-F porche, adopted by ME, whence E porch; the VL adj portālis* has neu portāle, whence ML portāle, a large gate or door, MF portial (late MF-F portail), adopted by E; F porte-cochère, a large gate admitting coaches (EF-F coche), is adopted by E, AE omitting the accent.

3. The chief cpds are portcullis, MF porte coletce, lit a sliding door, coletce being the f of OF-EF coletz, ult from L colāre, to filter (whence F coul, to glide); and porthole (cf HOLE).

Derivatives of L portus, (passage), harbour

4. Prob from portus, harbour, comes port, the left side of a ship as you look from stern to bow; certainly, portreeve, OE portigerēfa, from port, a market town, from port, a harbour, and OE gerēfa, (by aphesis) ME reve, E reeve—cf sheriff, ME shereve, OE scirgerēfa, where E scir=E SHIRE.

5. Another full cpd is Portugal, known in the Middle Ages as Portucale, the region behind the L Portius Cale, port of Cale, on the left bank of the Douro; cf It Portogallo. The adj, hence n, Portuguese (whence the b/f Portugee) derives from Port portuguez or its Sp shape portugués; cf F portuguais. Portuguese man-of-war is a sailors' name for the Siphonophora of Sci: it has a sail-like crest that enables it to float on the surface.—Portingale is a late ME-EE name for Portugal, hence also for a Portuguese.

6. L portus has a notable prefix-cpd: opportūnus (for oportūnus*), lit of a wind blowing ob, towards, port, hence favourable at a given moment; whence MF-F opportun, f opportune, adopted by E. Derivative L opportūnitas, acc opportūnitātem, yields MF-F opportunité, whence E opportunity. The F derivatives opportunisme, opportuniste, account for opportunism, opportunist.

7. L has, for opportūnus, created the opp importūnus, not blowing towards port, hence not, at a given moment, favourable: whence late MF-F importun, whence E importune, adj, displaced by inopportune, from LL inopportūnus. The v importune derives from EF-F importuner (from importun); importunity, from late MF-F importunité, from importūnitātem, acc of LL importūnitas (from importūnus); importunate, as if from ML importūnāre*, pp importūnātus*.

port (3), to carry, now only military; portable (whence portability); portage; portamento; portative; portly; porter (carrier), whence porterage and porterhouse; portas (-ass, -hors, -house), portfire, portfolio; portmanteau.—Cpds from L portāre, to carry, and its L derivatives: apport, n and v; asport, asportation; comport, comportment; deport, deportation, deportment; disport, n and v—cf sport (n, v), whence sportful, sporting, sportive, sportsman, sporty; export (v, hence n and exporter), exportation; import (v, hence n and, anl, importation, also importer), importance, important; purport, n, v; rapport; report (n, v), whence reportable, reporter, reporting, reportorial; support (v, hence n), supportable (and insupportable), supportance, supporter; transport (n, v; whence transportable and transporter), transportation.

1. L portāre, to carry, is akin to L portus and portia: see the 2nd PORT, para 1, esp s.f.; also cf FARE. Hence OF-F porter, E 'to port'. Derivative LL portabilis yields MF-F portable, adopted by E; LL portātor yields OF porteur (MF-F porteur)—acc of portere—whence E porter, carrier of burdens, whence porter, orig a drink fit for porters, whence porterhouse, where porter and, later, other malt liquors were sold, whence porterhouse steak, orig the sort of steak you'd expect to find there. From OF-MF porter, MF forms both the adj portatif, f portative, adopted by E, and the n portage, likewise adopted by E. The Mus term portamento, however, is adopted from It (from It, from L, portāre). The E n port, a manner of carrying, carriage, demeanour, is adopted from MF-F port, from the v; hence the adj portly, with narrowing sense.

2. N-cpds, mostly deriving from or imitative, either of F cpds of OF-F porter, or of It cpds of It portare, to carry, include:

portas (-ass), varr porthors, porthouse, a medieval breviary, ME portous, porthos, MF porte-hors, lit a 'carry-outdoors'—an easily portable prayer-book; portfire, suggested by F porte-feu, lit a 'carry-fire'; portfolio, adapted from It portafoglio, var portafogli, lit a 'carry-leaf, -leaves' (i.e., sheets of paper): porta, it carries+foglio, pl fogli (cf E folio): cf F porte-feuille; portmanteau (obs -mantua, -mantle): EF-F portemanteau, lit a 'carry-cloak' (cf MANTLE).

Compounds of L and R portāre, to carry

3. Whereas apport is adopted from OF-F apport, from apporter, from L apportāre, to bring (ap- for ad, towards), the rare asport, to carry off, comes from L asportāre, to carry away (as- for abs-, from ab, away from), pp asportātus, whence asportātiō, o/s asportātiōn-, E asportation, a (felonious) removal.

4. L comportāre (com-, with) becomes MF-F comporter, esp in 'se comporter', whence E 'to comport oneself'; derivative late MF-F comportement yields E comportment.

5. L deportāre, to carry dē or away, yields the EF 'se déporter', to behave oneself (irrelevant senses in OF-MF), whence déportement, whence E deportment; the lit sense occurs in F déporter, to banish (a criminal), whence 'to deport'; E deportation comes imm from F déportation, itself from L déportātiōnem, acc of déportātiō, from déportātus, pp of déportāre.

6. The archaic E disport, ME var desport, merriment, games, derives from OF-MF desport, from 'se desporter', to amuse oneself, from ML disportāre* (attested by disportat), where dis- denotes 'apart' and connotes 'apart, or away, from business or gravity'; 'se desporter' yields 'to disport oneself', to make merry, play games.

7. From that v comes, by aphesis, E 'to sport' or play; the E n sport comes from the ME n disport.

8. L exportāre, to carry abroad (ex, out of), yields 'to export'; derivative L exportātiō, o/s exportātiōn-, yields exportation.

9. L importāre, to carry in (im- for in), esp to bring into a country, becomes E 'to import', whence the trade n. But import, something important, importance, significance, derives from 'to import', to be important or significant, from the syn EF-F importer, 'formed to serve as verb for importance and important' (B & W), which, arising, the former in C14, the latter in C15, derive from ML importāre, to be of importance, from L importāre, and have been adopted by E.

10. The E n purport is adopted from MF purport, from OF-MF purporter, varr pourporter, porporter, from VL prōportāre*, lit to carry prō- or forward, bear forth; purporter becomes E 'to purport'.

11. The F-become-E rapport ('to be en rapport' or, AE, 'in rapport') derives from MF-F rapporter; re-, again, afresh + apporter (cf para 3).

12. 'To report' derives from OF-F reporter, from L reportāre, to carry re-, back or again (in LL, occ weakened to 'to carry or bear'); OF reporter has OF-F derivative n report (or raport), whence the E n. The E senses have been influenced by MF-F rapporter, as above, esp from its EF-F senses 'to bear news of, to relate'; E reporter owes something to F rapporteur; E reportage is borrowed from F.

13. L supportāre (sup- for sub, under, from below), to convey, LL to bear or endure, becomes OF sorporter and MF-F supporter, whence 'to support', whence the n—unless adopted from late MF-F support. Derivative late MF-F supportable and its neg insupportable go straight into E; supporter derives from 'to support', whence also supportance.

14. L transportāre becomes OF-MF tresporter, late MF-F transporter, E 'to transport'; the derivative MF-F n transport is adopted by E; derivative L transportātiō, o/s transportātiōn-, yields—perh via F—the E transportation.

- portable; portage. See prec, para 1. portal. See the 2nd PORT, para 2. portamento. See the 3rd PORT, para 1, s.f. portas, portass. See 3rd PORT, para 2. portative. See 3rd PORT, para 1. portcullis. See 2nd PORT, para 3. porte-cochère, (AE) -cochere. See 2nd PORT, para 2. portend, portent, portentous. See TEND, para 17. porter (1), carrier. See the 3rd PORT, para 2. porter (2), doorkeeper. See 2nd PORT, para 2. porterage. See 3rd PORT (heading). porterhouse steak. See 3rd PORT, para 1. portfire. See 3rd PORT, para 2. portfolio. See 3rd PORT, para 2. porthole. See 2nd PORT, para 3, s.f. portico. See 2nd PORT, para 2. portion. See PART, para 13; for derivatives, the heading. portly. See the 3rd PORT, para 1, s.f. portmantle (archaic), portmanteau. See 3rd PORT, para 2. portrait, portraiture, portray, portrayal. See tract, para 18, and cf the heading. portreeve. See the 2nd PORT, para 4.
Portugal; Portuguese (man-of-war), whence the coll Portugee. See the 2nd PORT, para 5.
Portulaca. Cf PORK, para 5.

pose, v (hence n), whence posed, pa, and agent poser; posit, posite, position (whence positional), positive (whence positivism, positivist), positor, posture, post (to place; position), postage, postal, posture (whence postural); the corresp pone (a writ) and 'to pone', ponend, ponent (adj, hence n), and derivative ponency, ponible.—Compounds of pone, to place, and of pose (n, v), position, etc.: antepone (obso), anteposition; appose, apposite, apposition, appositive; circumpose, circumposition; compone, component (adj, hence n), compose (whence pa composed and agent composer), composite (adj, hence n), composition, compositive, compositor, compost (n, hence v), composture, composure—cf compound, v and n; contraponend, contrapose, contraposition (whence, anl, contraposition); depone, deponent (adj, hence n), depose (whence deposal), deposit (n, v), depository (and depository), deposition (whence, anl, depositive), depositor—cf dépôt (AE depot); dispone, disponent, dispose (whence disposable and disposal), disposition, dispositive; exponent (whence exponential), exponible, exposé, expose, exposition (whence, anl, expositive), expositor, expository, exposure—cf expound; imponent, impose (whence imposer, imposing), imposition—cf superimpose, superimposition—impot, impostor, imposture; interpone, interpose, interposition—cf entrepôt; juxtapose, juxtaposition; opponent (adj, hence n; hence also opponency), oppose (whence opposal), opposite (adj, hence n), opposition (whence, anl, oppositive)—cf the irreg appose, and esp pose, to nonplus, and puzzle, n hence v; postpone (whence postponement), postpose, postposition (whence, anl, postpositive); praepositor, praepositor, praepositive (AE pre-), prepose, preposition (whence prepositional), prepositive—cf provost; propone, proponent, propose (whence proposal), proposition (whence propositional)—cf propound; purpose, n (whence purposeful, purposive) and v; repose, repose, n (whence reposeful) and v (L and F senses), reposit, reposition, repositor, repository; sepone, sepose; superpose, superposition; suppose (whence supposal), supposition (whence, anl, suppositive), supposititious, suppository, support—cf presuppose, presupposition; transponible, transpose (whence transposal and transposer), transposition (whence, anl, transpositive and, directly, transpositional).

1. With one remarkable exception, the entire structure rests clearly and firmly upon L ponere, orig to put aside, hence simply to put or place or set. The s pon- is app an extn of an IE r po-, var pa-, perh aphetic for the r in Gr apo, away from (with -b- var in L ab), and epi, upon, and Skt āpa, away. (E & M; Hofmann.)

Simples

2. The pres s pon- occurs in the E v pone*, to place, seen in many prefix-cpds; in the legal and card-game n pone, from L pone, place thou; in ponent, from L ponent-, o/s of the presp ponens; in ponend* and ponible*, attested by several prefix-cpds.

2A. The L pp positus, s posit-, occurs in:

Posit, to place firmly, prob from pp positus, perh from the supine positum; position, from OF-F position, from L positiōnem, acc of positiō (o/s positiōn-), from positus; positive, from ME positif, adopted from MF, from ML positivus, L positivus; derivative F positivisme becomes E positivism; positor, lit a placer, adopted from L (posit-+ agential -or); posture, from L positūra, position, whence, by contr, EF-F posture, adopted by E; post, the place where a soldier stands on guard, hence an assigned position, whence both a trading station and one's earning position: late MF-F poste (m); It posto: LL postum, contr of positum, orig the neu of pp positus;—hence 'to post' or station (someone) in a given place;

post, orig a man stationed in a series along a road, e.g. a courier, hence the vehicle used, hence the state packets or, later, mail carried, whence in post-haste, speedily, whence posthaste, hastily: from F poste (f), orig (C15) a relay of horses: It posta, either the f of posto, pp of porre, to place or set, from L ponere, or from LL posta, contr of posita, orig the f of pp positus;—hence 'to post', to travel with relays of horses, from late MF-EF poster, from poste;—postage, postal=E post, mail (letters, etc.)+-age, adj -al;

3. The exception is pose. The n pose, a sustained posture, adopted from late EF-F pose, derives from OF-F poser, to place (definitely or firmly), whence the syn E to pose. Now, OF poser comes from LL pausāre, to place, from L pausāre, to pause, from L pausa, a pause: f.a.e., PAUSE, para 1. That is true; but the pos- of OF poser was, as early as LL, influenced by pos-*, the r of posit-, s of positus, pp of ponere, and therefore it would hardly be wrong to say that, analogically, OF-F poser, hence E 'to pose or place', comes, ult, from L ponere. The same view is, by extn, valid for the cpds in -pose: one cannot abruptly sever them from the cpds in -pone; or, if you prefer, the E-from-F -pose cpds derive from F poser, but the F cpds themselves were, except juxtapose, prompted by the L cpds.—For 'to pose' or puzzle, see para 14.

Compounds both Manifest and Aphetic

4. L anteponere, to place ante or before, in front becomes 'to antepone'; the pp antepositus has, anl, suggested E anteposition. L apponere (ap- for ad-, towards) is better represented: the pp appositus yields E opposite, and the derivative appositio, o/s *appositio*n-, the F, whence the E, apposition; cf 'to oppose', to place (something) before or opposite (someone), from F apposer, from poser.

5. L circumponere, to place circum or around, has pp circumpositus, whence LL circumpositio, o/s *circumpositio*n-, whence E circumposition, whence, anl and by b/f, 'to circumpose'.

6. L componere, to put con- or together, yields the obs compone; the presp componens, o/s component-, yields the E adj component, whence componency; the pp compositus is used also as adj 'formed of parts', whence E composite; derivative L compositio, o/s *compositio*n-, becomes MF-F, whence E, composition, and LL agent compositor, an arranger, an inventor, is adopted by E, prob after MF-F compositeur. But 'to compose' derives from OF-F composer, which, in one opinion, = com-+ OF poser and, in the other, L compos- (as in pp compositus)+F inf ending -er. The L derivative compositura and its contr compositura yield the obs E compositure and, via F, composture; the L pp compositus has the VL derivative n composita*, composta*, whence OF-F compost, adopted by E. E composure='to compose'+the -ure of compositure, posture, etc.—L componere also becomes OF-MF componre, var comprendre, whence ME componen, whence E 'to compound': cf expound in para 10 and propound in para 17. The ME pp compound becomes the E adj compound; the v has derivatives compound, n, compounder, compounding.

7. L contraponere, to set over against, has gerundive contraponendus, neu -ponendus, whence the contraponend of Logic; the pp contrapositus has the LL derivative contrapositio, o/s *contrapositio*n-, whence contraposition and, anl, contrapositive; 'to contrapose' derives from EF-F contreposer: contre- (L contra)+OF-F poser.

8. L dēponere, to put dē- or down, ML to state under oath, yields 'to depone'; presp dēponens, o/s dēponent-, yields deponent; pp dēpositus yields 'to deposit'—the n deposit comes from L dēpositum, orig the neu of the pp, and dēpositum also becomes MF-F dépôt, adopted by E; derivative LL dēpositarius, a trustee, yields depository (cf MF-F dépositaire); LL dēpositor is adopted by E, and LL dēpositorium becomes depository. 'To depose' blends two F vv, one old (deposer), the other (dēposer) modern.

9. L disponere, to set dis or apart, in different places, gives us 'to dispone', which, like most of the -pone cpds, is a Law term; presp disponens, o/s disponent-, accounts for disponent; pp dispositus has derivative dispositio, o/s *dispositio*n-, whence OF-F disposition, adopted by E, the sense 'temperament' going back to LL; the anl MF-F dispositif, f -ive, becomes E dispositive. 'To dispose' derives from OF-F disposer. The derivative predispose, predisposition perh owe something to F.

10. L exponere, to put out, LL to interpret or explain, yields the obsol 'to expone', whence, anl, exponible; presp exponens, o/s exponent-, becomes exponent; pp expositus becomes the rare 'to exposit'; derivative L expositio, o/s *expositio*n-, LL an interpretation, becomes OF-F, whence E, exposition; LL expositor, a textual critic, passes into E; ML expositorius yields expository. 'To expose'—whence exposure (cf composure)—derives from OF-F exposer; the F pp exposé becomes a late EF-F n, adopted by E.—Moreover, L exponere becomes OF-MF espondre, whence ME expounen, expouden, whence 'to expound': cf compound (para 6) and propound (para 17). Hence expounder.

11. L imponere, to place, hence lay, into or upon, explains the obsol impone; presp imponens, o/s imponent-, E imponent; pp impositus, neu impositum, becomes MF impost, F impôt, both adopted by E. Th L derivative agent impositor is, in LL, contr to impostor, a deceiver, whence, via EF-F imposteur, the E impostor, and subsidiary LL impostūra yields, via EF-F, the E imposture; derivative L impositiō (o/s impositiōn-) passes through MF-F into E imposition, whence the school s impost, occ impo. 'To impose' derives from MF-F imposer (im-+OF-F poser), prompted by L impositus. 'To superimpose', whence, anl, superimposition, was perh prompted by F surimposer, but it derives, anl, from superimpositus, pp of ML superimponere.

12. L interponere, to set between, to insert, affords us the rare 'to interpone'; pp interpositus has derivative L interpositiō (o/s interpositiōn-), LL intervention, whence—perh via OF-F—the E interposition. 'To interpose' derives from MF-F interposer. Cf entrepôt (AE entrepot), adopted from EF-F, which forms it upon dépôt.

13. As if suggested by L iuxtaponere*, ML juxtaponere* (cf ML juxtāre), with derivative juxtapositiō* (o/s -positiōn-), learnèd F coins (1690) juxtaposition, whence, by b/f, F juxtaposer: hence E juxtaposition and 'to juxtapose'.

14. L opponere, to set ob or against, has presp opponens, o/s opponent-, whence E opponent, and pp oppositus, whence MF-F, whence E, opposite; derivative L oppositiō, o/s oppositiōn-, becomes OF-F opposition, adopted by E. 'To oppose' derives from OF-F opposer. 'To oppose' is corrupted to ME-EE appose, to put questions to, whence apposer (obs), a questioner or examiner: hence, by aphesis, the EE 'to pose' or question, hence (E) to baffle or nonplus, whence poser, an examiner (obs), a baffling question or problem. ME-EE appose, to question, has the late ME-EE derivative apposal, whence, prob via posal*, the E puzzle.

15. LL postponere, to place after, L to defer, yields 'to postpone', whence postponable; the pp postpositus has LL derivative postpositiō (o/s -positiōn-), a placing after, a postponement, whence E postposition. 'To postpose' derives from EF-F postposer (post-+OF-F poser).

16. L praepone, to place prae or before, hence to set (someone) over (others), has ML agent praepositor, contr praepositor, adopted by E: cf the LL praeposita, an abess, from the f of the pp praepositus. Derivative praepositiō (o/s -positiōn-) becomes late MF-F preposition, whence E preposition; LL praepositivus, ML -ivus, becomes E prepositive (cf F prépositif); LL praepositūra becomes E praeposition, AE preposition. 'To prepose' derives from late MF-F preposer. The pp praepositus is, in LL, used as n, 'one set in authority', whence, by influence of praepone, to set forward (pp praepositus)—see next para—the LL var praepositus, whence OF provost (cf the F prévôt) and OE profost: whence the E provost; provostry derives—perh after MF prevosterie (cf the F prévôté, OF prevosté)—from provost.

17. L praepone yields 'to propone'; presp praeponens (o/s -ponent-), proponent—opp opponent; pp praepositus has derivative praepositiō, o/s praepositiōn-, whence OF-F, hence E, proposition. Gallicized, after OF-F poser, from praepone is OF-F proposer, whence 'to propose'. 'To propose' itself has—via the var propoune—become 'to propound'.

18. Influenced by L praepone, OF-F poser has the OF-MF cpd pourposer, purposer (pour, pur, por derive from L prō, forward), whence ME purposen, E 'to purpose'; the derivative OF-MF n porpos, pourpos, becomes ME purpos, E purpose.

19. L reponere, to put back, becomes legal 'to repone'. The pp repositus yields 'to reposit' (cf deposit); derivative LL repositiō, o/s repositiōn-, E reposition; LL repositōrium, E repository, whence prob, anl, E repositor. App from pp repositus comes E 'to repose' in its senses 'to restore' (obs), 'to set' (e.g., trust in someone). But 'to repose', to lay at, or to, rest, vi to rest, derives from OF-F reposer, from LL repasāre, to rest (vt and vi): cf the OF poser in para 3. OF reposer has derivative OF-F n repos (cf LL repasātiō), whence—influenced by 'to repose'—the E n repose.

20. L sēponere, to place or set sē- or in hiding or aside, hence to reserve, yields the rare 'to sepone'; cf the rare syn 'to sepose', app from the L pp sēpositus.

21. L superponere, to place super or above, has pp superpositus, whence LL superpositiō (o/s -positiōn-), whence F and E superposition; learnèd F superposer (super+poser, as in para 3) yields 'to superpose'.

22. L supponere, to place sub or under, hence to substitute, becomes 'to suppone' (obs). The pp suppositus has neu suppositum, used by scholastic ML as a n, whence the E adj supposital. Derivative L suppositiō, ML a hypothesis, yields MF-F supposition, adopted by E. The subsidiary L suppositivus, var suppositivus, yields E supposititious; and subsidiary suppositivus, placed underneath, has derivative Med n suppositōrium, whence MF-F suppositoire and E suppository. LL suppositivus, ML -ivus, becomes suppositive. The L pp suppositus and supine suppositum app prompted MF-F supposer (cf OF-F poser), whence MF supposen, E 'to suppose'.—MF-F supposer itself acquires a cpd: the late MF-F présupposer (pré-, L prae-, before), whence 'to presuppose'; derivative late MF-F présupposition becomes presupposition.

23. L transponere, to place across or beyond, yields, anl, transponible; pp transpositus has derivative LL transpositiō (o/s transpositiōn-), a change of position, whence—prob via the late MF-F word—E transposition. 'To transpose', however, derives from OF-F transposer, from L transpositus (and supine transpositum)—gallicized after OF-F poser (as in para 3).

poser, a puzzling question. See prec, para 14, where also pose, to nonplus.

poseur. See PAUSE, para 2.

posit. See POSE, para 2^A. position. See POSE, para 2^A. positive, positivism. See POSE, para 2^A. positor, positure. See POSE, para 2^A.

posology. See the element poso.

posse and posse comitatus; possible, possibility—impossible, impossibility; potence, potency, potent, potentate, potential—impotence, impotent—omnipotence, omnipotent, qq.v. at the element omni—cf plenipotentiary at PLENARY, para 2,—prepotence, prepotent; puissance, puissant—impuissance, impuissant; power (n, hence v), whence powerful, powerless; cf the sep DESPOT (DESPOTIC, DESPOTISM) and the sep POSSESS.

1. The n posse, a small force that has legal authority, as of a sheriff and his deputies, or of police, derives from the Law term posse, short for posse comitatus, which, in ML, means 'power of the county' (cf COUNT, a person of high rank). ML posse, power, derives from L posse, to have power, lit to be able: for potse*, from PL potesse*, to be able: from a PL r pot*-, able, hence strong, powerful: cf L potis, s and r pot-, orig 'a master, a possessor, of', hence 'having, esp exercising, one's ability or mastery or power', displaced by potens, which, the presp of posse, is soon used also and mostly as adj. With L potis, master or possessor (of), cf Skt pátis, master, husband, and Gr pósis, Tokh A pats, Lith patis, pàts, husband, and, with f for p, Go -faths, master (in brüth-faths, bridegroom); cf also the -pot- of Gr despotēs, (prop) master of the house. (E & M; Hofmann.)

2. Either from L posse, to be able, or from L possum (potsum*), I am able, comes L possibilis, (that which is) able (to be done), MF-F possible, adopted by E; derivative L possibilitās (o/s -itāt-) becomes MF-F possibilité, whence E possibility. The neg L impossibilis and LL impossibilitās become MF-F impossible, adopted by E, and MF-F impossibilité, whence impossibility.

3. The L presp and adj potens has o/s potent-, whence E potent; derivative potentia yields E potency and OF-EF potence, adopted by E. L potentia has LL adj potentiālis, whence E potential (adj, hence n)—cf EF-F potentiel; hence potenti-ality. Derivative L potentatus (gen -ūs), power, esp if political, LL a powerful person, yields MF-F potentat, whence E potentiate.

4. The L neg impotens, o/s impotent-, and its derivative impotentia, become MF-F impotent and impotence, both adopted by E; L praepotens, o/s praepotent-, and its derivative praepotentia yield prepotent and prepotency, the var prepotence deriving from EF-F prépotence (from the L word).

5. L posse has the VL var potere*, whence OF pouvoir, pouvoir, with pres forms pois-, puis- (cf Je puis, I can), whence the OF-F adj puissant, adopted by E; derivative OF puissance, MF-F puissance, is likewise adopted, as are the neg MF-F impuissance and impuissant.

6. The OF v pouvoir had earlier forms pooir, poeir, podeir* (cf podir, recorded for 842); it becomes, as early as C12 and first in the form poeir, a noun, with early var pooir: whence ME poer, var power: hence E power. (Dauzat.)

possess (whence pa possessed), possession, possessive, possessor, possessory; dispossess, whence, anl, dispossession.

1. L potis, a master of (esp, property)—see POSSE, para 1—has derivative potidēre*, L possidēre, lit to sit (-sidēre, c/f of sedēre), as master of, i.e. to be master of (property), with mdfn possidere, to make oneself master of, to occupy, with pp possessus, whence—perh via MF-EF possesser—'to possess'; derivative L possessio, o/s possessiōn-, yields—prob via the OF-F word—the E possession; derivative possessiuus, ML -ivus, yields—perh via late MF-F possessif, f -ive—the E possessive; derivative possessor is adopted by E (cf MF-F possesseur); and possessorius becomes possessory.

2. MF-EF possesser has cpd despossesser, whence 'to dispossess'. But prepossess is an entirely E formation with pre-, in advance; hence, anl, prepossession and prepossessive.

posset, a hot drink of milk curdled with ale or wine: ME possot, poshote: o.o.o.: cf the dubious MF possette.

possibility, possible. See POSSE, para 2.

possum, esp play p. See OPOSSUM.

post (1), an upright piece of timber, etc., serving as stay (e.g., of a fence), hence as v: ME post: OE and OF post: L postis, a door-post: perh cf Gr pastas, a stake, a post, ? for parastas*, that which stands beside (para)—here, beside the open space of the doorway. (Hofmann.)

post (2), a station, to station; a relay, a coach, the mail—and the corresp v. See POSE, para 2.

post-. See POSTERIOR, para 1.

postage, postal. See POSE, para 2, s.f.

postchaise=post, as in POST (2)+F chaise, a chair.

poster, a large bill or placard displayed publicly, was orig a notice affixed to a POST (1).

poste restante, adopted from F, is lit 'post (letters, etc.) resting'—i.e., remaining until called for by the addressee; restante is the f of restant, presp of rester, to remain.

posterior, adj, hence n (usu posteriors, buttocks)—posteriority; posterity; postern; posthumous; preposterous; cf the element postero-; postil.

1. The L prep post, after, derives from OL poste from PL postil* (pos-ti*); PL r pos*- is perh akin to Gr epi, upon, after, and therefore app an extn of the IE r po*- occurring in L ponō, I place.

2. The L derivatives affecting E are:

posterus, coming after, with derivative posteritās, o/s posteritāt-, whence MF-F postérité, whence E posterity, and with comp posterior, coming still later, adopted by E (cf late MF-F postérieur), the LL derivative posterioritās, o/s posterioritāt-, yielding posteriority (cf late MF-F postériorité), complementing priority; postumus, last of all, becomes—by f/e association with humus, soil, ground—the LL posthumus, whence E posthumous, esp born after the father's death or published after the author's;

LL posterula, a back gate or door, at first a dim of LL postera, a back gate or door, ? orig elliptical for postera ianua, whence posterus: whence OF-early MF posterle, whence OF-MF posterne (F poterne): whence E postern; praeposterus, having the sense before-behind or, as we'd say, back to front or the cart before the horse: whence E preposterous.

3. Perh from L post, after, comes E postil, an annotation: MF-EF postille: ML postilla: perh elliptical for post illa verba, after those words, or, more prob, simply a contr of post illa, after those things. MF postille has derivative late MF-F apostiller, to make a marginal note, whence the EF-F n apostille, adopted by E and anglicized as apostil. (B & W.)

posthaste. See POSE, para 2A.

posthumous. See POSTERIOR, para 2.

postil. See POSTERIOR, para 3.

postillon or postillion: EF-F postillon: It postiglione, from posta: cf E post at para 2A (s.f.) of POSE.

postliminium. See LIMIT, para 7.

postlude. See LUDICROUS, para 11.

postman; postmark; postmaster, postmistress; post office. Obvious cpds of the 2nd post (q.v. at POSE, para 2A)+MAN, etc.

postmeridian: L postmeridiānus (adj), after noon: cf post at POSTERIOR, para 1, and meridian, q.v. at DIANA, para 13.

post-mortem. See MORTAL, para 8.

postnatal, postnate: ML postnātus, born later: cf NATIVE.

postpone, postponement. See POSE, para 15.

postpose, postposition. See POSE, para 15.

postscribe, postscript. See SCRIBE, para 15.

postulant, postulate, postulation, postulatory. See PRAY, para 7. posture. See POSE, para 2A.

posy, orig a rhymed sentiment, hence—prob from 'the language of flowers'—a bouquet, is a contr of poesy, q.v. at POEM, para 2.

pot (n, hence v), potter, pottery, potteen; potage; pottle; pot-boiler, -hook, -house, -hunter, -luck, -sherd, -shot, -walloper; potpourri; potash, potass, potassium; putty; hotchpotch and hodgepodge;—porridge; porringer.

1. Pot, an earthen vessel, derives from late OE pott, which, like OF-F pot (whence EF-F pot de chambre, E chamber pot, whence both chamber in this sense and E pot pron pɒ), prob comes from some VL derivative (cf ML pottus) of pōtāre, to drink: cf the L pōtōrium, a drinking vessel (cf Gr potērion, drinking-cup): f.a.e., POTABLE.

2. OF pot has OF-F agent potier, a maker of pots, whence, in part, the E potter; derivative MF-F poterie leads to pottery. OF-F pot, moreover, has the MF-F derivative potage, adopted by E cookery but, elsewhere, anglicized as potage, and the EF-F cpd pot-pourri, lit 'rotten pot'—a trans of the Sp olla podrida. The MF dim potel (cf MF potet) is adopted by ME, whence E pottle.

3. OF-F pot has a further notable derivative: the OF-F potée, a potful, (later) a cement made orig in a pot—in short, the E putty, for potty*.

4. E pot becomes Ir pota, later poite, with dim poitin, a small pot, hence whiskey made in a private still: whence AIr poteen.

5. Akin to OE pott-E pot is MD-D pot, with cpd potasch, lit 'pot-ash', whence both E potash and late EF-F potasse, whence E potass, whence, in 1808, Sir Humphry Davy's Sci L potassium.

6. E pot, a vessel, esp for cookery or for drinking, has the foll cpds:

pot-belly, potbelly, shaped like one;

pot-boiler, something written, painted, composed hastily to keep the domestic pot boiling; pot-hook, in handwriting, derives from a pot's S-shaped hook; pot-house, potthouse, a tavern, pots of ale being served there, hence potboy and potman; pot-hunter, orig a parasite, now a contestant that, in sports, plays only for the trophies; pot-luck, potluck, usu to take potluck, to be prepared for an informal meal; potsherd, a shard or fragment of an earthenware pot;

potshot, orig a shot fired to kill something for the pot, hence a chancy or unskilled shot; pot-valiant, -valo(u)r: (with) the courage that comes from liquor; pot-walloper, lit one who boils (wallops) his own pot, later a scullion, a sea cook.

7. Pot occurs in hotchpotch, for earlier hotchpot, itself from MF-F hochepot, lit a shake-pot; hoche comes from MF-F hocher, OF hocier, to shake, of Gmc origin. Hotchpotch has the 'blunted' var hodgepodge.

8. E contains two 'disguised' derivatives from F derivatives of F pot: porridge from pottage from MF-F potage, the -rr- coming perh from ME porree, an orig leek pottage, from OF-EF porrée, from L porrum, porrus, a leek, prob of Medit stock—cf Gr prason (E & M); and porringer, earlier pottinger, var of pottanger, which, with intrusive n, stands for pottager*, from MF-F potager (from potage).

pot, a hole. See POTHOLE.

potable; potation, potatory; potion—cf poison (n, v), whence poisoner, poisoning, poisonous.

1. Potable, adopted from late MF-F, derives from LL pōtābilis, drinkable, from pōtāre, to drink, s and r pōt:- cf Gr potos, a drinking, and potis (? for potis*), a drink, pinein, to drink, OSí piti, to drink, Skt pibati, he drinks: IE r pi-, to drink, with extn pib-, pin-, pit-.

2. Pōtāre has pp pōtātus, whence pōtātiō, o/s pōtātiōn-, MF-EF, whence E, potation, and pōtātor, adopted but rare, and pōtātōrius, whence potatory.

3. Intimately akin to pōtāre is the adj pōtus, having drunk and having been drunk: whence pōtiō, a drink, esp a love-potion or a poison:

indeed, from pōtiō, o/s pōtiōn-, comes both MF-EF potion, adopted by E, and the gallicized MF-F poison, likewise adopted. 'To poison' derives from MF-F poisonner, suggested by LL pōtiōnāre, to give to drink, from the n pōtiō.

potage. See POT, para 2.

potash, potass, potassium. See POT, para 5. potation. See POTABLE, para 2.

potato: Sp patata, orig the sweet potato: a p for v var of Sp batata, the sweet potato: adopted from Taino (an extinct Caribbean language).

potator, potatory. See POTABLE, para 2.

potbelly (whence potbellied), potboiler. See POT, para 6.

potteen. See POT, para 4.

potence, potency, potent, potential. See POSSE, para 3.

pothier. See PUT, para 2.

pothole, a large hole, tacks hole to the now mainly Sc and N dial pot, of Scan origin: prob akin to the Sw dial pot, varr putt, pit, and therefore to PIT, a hole. Nevertheless, pothole could equally well be a cpd of POT and HOLE.

pothook, pothouse, pothunter. See POT, para 6.

potion. See POTABLE, para 3.

potlatch comes, with f/e form and via Chinook jargon, from Chinook patshail, a giving, a gift.

potluck, potman. See POT, para 6.

potpourri. See POT, para 2.

potsherd, potshot. See POT, para 6.

pottage. See POT, para 2.

potter (1), n. See POT, para 2.

potter (2), v, is a freq of the now dial pote, a var of the v poke, q.v. at POACH, para 2.

pottery. See POT, para 2.

pottle. See POT, para 2, s.f.

pot-valiant, pot-walloper. See POT, para 6.

pouch. See POCK, para 4.

pouf. See PUFF, para 2.

pouldron. See PAWL, s.f.

poultier, poultierer. See POLECAT, para 2.

poultice. See POLLEN, para 2.

poultry. See POLECAT, para 2, s.f. pounce (1), n (a powder). See the element pumici- pounce (2), v (to swoop down), derives from pounce, a bird's claw. See PUNGENT, para 11.

pound (1), an enclosure: OE pund, only in cpds: o.o.o. Hence, 'to pound', now usu in the orig int form, 'to impound'. From pp of pen, enclose?

pound (2), a unit of weight, the gold unit of value: OE pund: L pondo, meaning 'in weight': akin to POND, where cf esp ponderous. Hence poundage and, from 'weight', poundal and pounder.

pound (3), to beat as with a pestle, to pulverize: ME pounen: OE punian, to bray, to bruise, whence also the now dial var 'to pun'.

poundage; poundal; pounder (weight). See the 2nd POUND.

pour: ME pouren: o.o.o.: ? orig 'to filter or strain' and therefore from the syn MF purur, ult from L purus (cf PURE).

pourparler. See PARABLE, para 6.

pout (1), a fish: OE -pūte, as in āelepūte, an eelpout: cf the D puut, a frog: basic idea, prob 'inflated', as in Sw puta, to be inflated. Therefore akin to:

pout (2), to puff out, thrust out, the lips: ME pouten: cf Sw puta, to be inflated—hence also Skt budbuda, redup of r bud-*, swollen, to be swollen. Cf prec—and perh PUDDING.

poverty; impoverish. See POOR, para 1.

powder. See POLLEN, para 4.

power, powerful, powerless. See POSSE, para 6.

powwow (n, hence v), a (noisy) conference, a sense orig AE and still coll, derives from 'Indian conference', itself from Alg 'medicine man': cf Narragansett powaw, Massachusetts pouwaw, medicine man (DAE), from a r 'to dream': 'he derives his art from his dreams' (Mathews).

pox. See POCK, para 1.

praam, occ pram, a flat-bottomed Nor boat: D praam; MD praem, prame: cf LG prahm, from Sl pram, akin to FARE (Walshe).

practic (adj, n), practicable, practical, practice (n; AE n and v) and practise (v), practician, practitioner; chiropractic; impracticable, impractical; pratique; praxis; pragmatic (adj, hence n), whence, anl, pragmatism and pragmatist.

1. Practical (whence the neg impractical) is an extn of the late ME-E (obsol) adj practic, from MF practique (soon pratique): ML-LL practicus: Gr praktikos, able in, fit for, doing, activist: from prassein, Attic prattein, to do, to do habitually; akin to perā, perān, over, beyond, via prā-ko*, leading over, or through, and beyond (Hofmann).

2. Gr praktikos has the derivative n praktikē, ? elliptical for hē praktikē tekhnē, the practical art, i.e. technology: whence LL-ML practicē, MF practique (F pratique, borrowed by E and used in naut sense), ME practike, E practic (now only Sc), whence practics; cf chiropractic, often chiropractics, manual manipulation of the spine—from Gr kheir, the hand (our element chiro-).

3. 'To practise or, AE, practice' derives, via ME practisen, from MF practiser, for MF practiquer (late MF-F prattiquer), from ML practicāre, from LL practicē; hence the n practise, later—influenced by the LL n—practice.

4. Late MF-F prattiquer has the EF-F derivative practicable, which at least prompted the E practicable, precisely as the EF-F neg impracticable prompted impracticable. The MF practicien (later praticien) suggested practician, which in turn generated the irreg and unnecessary practitioner.

5. Gr prassein, to do (habitually), has the derivative n praxis, habitual action, practice, adopted by scholastic E. More generally interesting is the derivative pragma, a thing done, o/s pragmat-, whence the adj pragmatikos, whence L pragmaticus, esp in sense 'skilled in business', whence E pragmatic, whence William James's pragmatism.

praelection, praelector. See LEGEND, para 14.

praenomen. See NAME, para 4, s.f.

praepositor, praepostor. See POSE, para 16.

praetor, for an ancient Roman magistrate, is adopted from L: for praetor*, lit a goer (-itor) before (prae); the L adj praetorianus yields praetorian.

pragmatic, pragmatism. See PRACTIC, para 4. prairie; pratincole, whence pratincolous.

Prairie, adopted from F ('a large meadow'), is for OF praerie, formed, with suffix -erie, from OF-F pré, a meadow, from L prātum, itself o.o.o. Sci combines L prātum+L incola, an inhabitant, to give us pratincole, lit a meadow-inhabiter.

praise. See PRICE, para 3.

Prakrit, whence Prakritie; Sanskrit, whence Sanskritie.

Prakrit derives from Skt prakṛta, original or natural, hence usual, common, hence vulgar; pra- is akin to E FOR. Sanskrit derives from Skt saṁskṛta, (lit) made together, hence prepared or artificial, hence elaborate or polished, highly cultivated; saṁs-, from saṁ, together (cf E SAME). The common element -krit derives from the Skt r kṛ, to make, to do.

pram (1), boat. See PRAAM.

pram (2) is a contr abbr of perambulator, q.v. at AMBLE, para 4.

prance, whence prancer and pa, vn prancing, derives from ME prauncen: perh (Webster) from MF paravancier, int (par- for L per- used thus) of OF avancier (MF-F avancer): cf ADVANCE.

prank, n and v; prink.

Prank, a piece of mischief, is o.o.o.—unless, as prob it does, it derives from 'to prank' or adorn gaily, now usu in the thinning, 'to prink': and 'to prank' derives from or is, at the least, akin to MLG prank, pomp, display, adornment: cf G Prunk, ostentation, and MLG-MHG-G prangen, and MD-D pronken, to adorn oneself.

prase, prasine.

The latter, as n, derives from prasine, adj, which derives from L prasinus, trin of Gr prasinos, adj of prason, a leek; prasinos is a mdfn of the adj prasios, whence L prasius, whence the F n prase, adopted by E; prase, however, perh comes direct from Gr prasos, var of prason. The nn prasine and prase denote minerals of a leek-green colour; the former as already in the LL n prasinus (Gr prasinos).

prate, whence prater, has freq prattle (perh, however, direct from MLG prätelen), whence prattler and pa, vn prattling, and itself comes from MD-MLG prāten: ? ult echoic.

pratincole. See PRAIRIE.

pratique. See PRACTIC, para 2.

prattle, prattler. See PRATE.

prawn: ME prane or prayne: o.o.o.

praxis. See PRACTIC, para 4.

pray, prayer, praying mantis; prie-Dieu; prithe; precarious, precation (obs), precative, precatory; deprecable, deprecate, deprecation, deprecative, deprecatory; imprecant, imprecate, imprecation, whence, anl, imprecator and imprecatory;—postulant, postulate, postulation, postulator, postulatory—cf expostulate, expostulation (whence, anl, expostulatory).

1. 'To pray', ME preien, derives from OF-MF preier (MF-F prier): VL-LL precāre: L precāri: L prec-, o/s of prex (attested by oblique cases and pl), a request, hence esp a prayer: prob akin to L procus, a wooer, and poscere, to ask or demand, and to Skt prechati, he asks, praśnás, a question, OE fricgan, to inquire, OHG prāgēn, frāhēn, G frāgen, OS frāgōn, Go fraihnan, to ask (questions): IE r, prēk-* or prēk-, var prok-; Gmc r, frēh-, frāzh-, var frāeg-*. (Walshe.)

2. L precāri has derivative adj precārius, obtainable only by prayer, not assured, with f precāria, used by VL as n, whence OF-MF preiere (MF-F prière), adopted by ME, whence—after 'to pray'—the E prayer.

3. Straight from L precārius comes E precarious (cf the MF-F precaire); the L pp precātus has derivative precātō, o/s precātōn-, whence E preca-tion, extant only in cpds—LL precātūus, ML -ivus, E precative—and LL precātōrius, E precatory.

4. The L cpd dēprecāri, to avert (connoted by de-), by prayer, has derivative LL dēprecābilis, E deprecable, and pp dēprecātus, whence 'to deprecate', with derivatives dēprecātō, o/s dēprecātōn-, OF deprecation (F dépré-), E deprecation—LL dēprecātūus, ML -ivus, E deprecative—and LL dēprecātōrius, late MF-F dépréatoire and, perh independently, E deprecatory.

5. L imprecāri, to pray, rarely for, usu against (in-), someone, has pp imprecans, o/s imprecant-, E imprecant, and pp imprecātus, E 'to imprecate', with derivative imprecātō, o/s imprecātōn-, MF-F imprecation and, perh independently, E imprecation, whence, anl, imprecator and imprecatory.

6. Remaining are: praying mantis (Mantis religiosa), from its reverent posture; prie-Dieu, adopted from F, is 'a stool on which one kneels to) pray to God'; prithe derives from ME-EE preythe, (I) pray thee.

7. Akin to L precāri is L poscere, to ask (see para 1), which app has the freq postulāre, to demand, presp postulans, o/s postulant-, whence the E n postulant, whence postulance or postulancy, and pp postulātus, whence the obs adj postulate and 'to postulate', with the n postulate deriving from L postulātum, a request, prop the neu of the pp. That pp postulātus has derivative postulātō, o/s postulātōn-, whence E postulation. The cpd expostulāre, to demand vehemently (int ex-), has pp expostulātus, whence 'to expostulate'; derivative expostulātō, o/s expostulātōn-, yields expostulation.

preach, preacher, preachment. See DICT, para 9.

preamble. See AMBLE, para 3.

prebend, prebendary. See HABIT, para 15.

precarious. See PRAY, para 3.

precative, precatory. See PRAY, para 3. precaution, precautionary. See CAUTION, para 4. precede, precedence, precedent. See CEDE, para 9.

precentor: LL praecentor, from praecinere, to sing before: f.a.e., cf CHANT.

precept, preceptor. See CAPABILITY, para 7.

precession. See CEDE, para 9.

précieuse. See PRICE, para 4. precinct. See CINCH, para 4. preciosity, precious. See PRICE, para 4. precipice; precipitance, precipitant, precipitate, precipitation, precipitous. See CHIEF, para 4. précis; precise, precisian and precision.
Précis is adopted from EF-F: n use of the MF-F adj précis, whence, with the senses new in F, the E precise. The adj précis derives from L praecisus, succinct, adj use of the pp of praecidere, lit to cut off prae- or in front, hence simply to cut off, to shorten, -cidere being the c/f of caedere, to cut: cf CAESURA. The L pp-adj praecisus has derivative praecisiō, o/s praecisiōn-, whence, perh via EF-F précision, the E precision. But the E adj precise acquires its own derivative: precisian, where the suffix -ian is agential. preclude; preclusion, whence, anl, preclusive.
Preclusion derives from L praeclesiōn-, o/s of praeclesiō, from praecclusus, pp of praeccludere, to shut prae- or in front, hence to place a barrier before (someone), to shut out, whence 'to preclude'. Cf CLOSE.
precocious, precocity.
The latter derives from late EF-F précocité, itself from the adj précocce, which, like E precocious, derives from L praecoc-, o/s of praecox (gen praecocis), cooked—hence ripened—beforehand, hence early, hence too early, from praecoquere, to cook in advance: f.a.e., COOK. preconceive, preconception. See CAPABILITY, para 4. precurrent; precursor. See COURSE, para 10 (at praecurrere). predator, predatory. See PREY, para 1. predecessor. See CEDE, para 9, s.f. predestinate, predestination; predestine. See DESTINATION. predeterminant, predetermination, predeterminate, predetermine. See TERM, para 6. predicament. See DICT, para 8, s.f. predicate (adj, v, v), predication. See DICT, para 8. predict, prediction, predictive. See DICT, para 7, s.f. predilection. See LEGEND, para 13. predispose, predisposition. See POSE, para 10, s.f. predominant, predominate, predomination. See DOMESTIC, para 6 (at dominatus, s.f.). pre-eminence, -eminent. See MINATORY, para 3. pre-empt, -emption, -emptise, -emptor. See EXEMPT, para 3. preen, orig vt 'to trim (feathers) with beak', app takes the sense of earlier prune, to preen, and the form of preen, to fix with a pin, from the now dial preen, a pin, a brooch, OE prēon, a bodkin, a clasp, akin to ON prjónn, a nail. The now obsol prune, to trim or dress, ME prunen, pruinen, derives from MF poroindre, to anoint (oindre), the por- (L pro-) being here int: cf ointment at UNCTION.
preface, prefatory. See FAME, para 4. prefect, prefecture.
The latter derives, perh via MF-F préfecture, from L praefectūra, itself formed from praefectus, pp of praeficere, to place prae or before, to set over, -ficere being a c/f of facere, orig to put: f.a.e., FACT. L praefectus, used as n, becomes OF-MF prefect (MF prefet, late MF-F préfet), adopted by E.

prefer, preferable, preference, preferent, preferential, preferment.

'To prefer', whence preferable (cf the F préférable) and preferment (-ment), derives from MF-F préférer, itself from L praeferre, lit to carry (ferre) in front (prae-): cf the -fer of confer, defer, infer, etc. The pp praefers, o/s praefersent-, becomes E preferent; on L praefersent-, F forms the late MF-F préférence, whence E preference; preferential is the anl adj of preference.

prefiguration, prefigure. See FIGURE, para 7.

prefix. See FIX, para 3.

preform, preformation: L praeformāre, LL praeformātō: prae, before+formāre, to shape: f.a.e., FORM.

pregnancy, pregnant. See NATIVE, para 9.

prehend, prehensile, prehensile, prehension—whence, anl, prehensive, prehensor; prise, usu prize, a lever, to lever—cf the syn pry; prison (n, v), prisoner, prisoner's base—cf imprison, imprisonment.—Cpds of L prehendere or of derivative F prendre (n prise): apprehend, apprehensible, apprehension, apprehensive—whence, anl, misapprehend, misapprehension—cf apprise and apprentice, n (whence the v), whence apprenticeship (suffix -ship), whence also the aphetic prentice (n, hence adj); comprehend, comprehensible, comprehension, comprehensive,—negg incomprehensible, incomprehensibility, anl incomprehension:—cf comprise; obs deprehend (L déprehendere); enterprise, n hence the obsol v, whence pa enterprising—cf emprise and entrepreneur; impregnable; misprision; reprehend, reprehensible, reprehension—cf reprisal, reprise; surprise, n and v (whence surprisal, pa surprising).—cf the sep PREY.

1. The base of this group is supplied by L praehendere (Plautus has prehendere); prae, before (sense lost in our word)+hendere, to grasp, app attested, without n, in praeda, q.v. at PREY, but not in ON henda, OE gehendan, to seize, these being from the old forms of HAND.

Simples

2. L praehendere, prehendere, yields E prehend, to seize; and L prehensio (from pp prehensus), o/s prehensiōn-, yields prehension; prehensile is formed anl with, e.g., comprehensible; prehensile derives from F préhensile, itself formed anl from préhension.

3. L prehendere has the contr prendere, whence OF-F prendre, pp pris, f prise, whence the OF-F n prise, a taking, seizing, capturing, whence ME prise, E prize, a lever, whence 'to prize', to move or force with a lever, esp 'to prize open'. Prize, a lever, apprehended as a pl, gives us pry a lever, whence 'to pry', to move, raise, with a lever.

4. L prehensio has the contr presio, whence the VL presio*, o/s presion-, acc presionem, whence the OF-F prison, adopted by E, whence the now rare 'to prison'; derivative OF-MF prisonier (MF-F prisonnier) explains E prisoner. The ancient game prisoner's base was orig prisoners' bars; the station, or bāse, at first represented prison bars. The cpds OF-MF emprisoner, MF-F emprisonner, and MF-F emprisonnement duly became E 'to imprison' and imprisonment.

Compounds

5. L prehendere (with ap- for ad-, used int), to seize, hence to grasp with the mind, yields 'to apprehend'—prob via MF-F apprehender; much as E apprehension prob comes from L apprehensio, o/s apprehensio-, via MF-F apprehension. Derivative LL apprehensibilis becomes apprehensible; and derivative ML apprehensivus, apprehensive.

6. L prehendere becomes OF-F apprendre, pp appris, f apprise, whence 'to apprise', give (someone) notice of. In OF-MF, apprendre has var aprendre, with MF derivative aprentiz, itself with MF-EF var aprentis (F apprenti), whence ME aprentis, E apprentice. The form prentice occurs already in late ME.

7. L comprehendere, to grasp thoroughly (int con-), both lit and fig, gives us 'to comprehend'. On the pp comprehensus arise comprehensibilis, whence comprehensible (cf late MF-F comprehensibile), with derivative LL comprehensibilitās, whence comprehensibility; comprehensio, o/s comprehensio-, whence late MF-F comprehension and, perh independently, E comprehension;

LL comprehensivus, ML -ivus, whence comprehensive.

8. The L neg incomprehensibilis, whence LL incomprehensibilitās, yields incomprehensible and incomprehensibility.

9. L comprehendere becomes MF-F comprendre, pp compris, f comprise, whence 'to comprise'.

10. Enterprise, adopted from OF-F, derives from entrepris, f entreprise, pp of OF-F entreprendre (entre, L inter+prendre), whence MF-F entrepreneur, adopted by E. The archaic emprise derives from MF empris, f emprise, pp of emprendre, to undertake, from VL imprenderere* (for imprehendere*).

11A. Impregnable—whence impregnability—derives, with an intrusive g (prob after impregnate or pregnant), from MF-F imprenable, untakable, uncapturable, the neg of OF-F prenable, from OF-F prendre, to take, from LL prendere, a contr of L prehendere.

11. Misprison, (in Law) misdemeanour, (ordinarily) misapprehension (archaic), derives from MF mesprison, from OF (se) mesprendre, MF-F (se) méprendre, lit to take oneself (se) amiss (mes-, L minus; E mis-).

12. L reprehendere, lit to take (and lead) back, to hold back, to check, hence to blame, accounts for 'to reprehend'. On the pp reprehensus are formed.

LL reprehensibilis, whence MF-F répréhensible, E reprehensible, whence, anl, reprehensibility;

L reprehensio, o/s reprehensio-, OF-MF reprehension, MF-F réprehension, E reprehension.

13. L reprehendere becomes OF-F reprandre, pp repris, f reprise, the latter used, in MF-F, as n, adopted by E (with derivative v); it also becomes It riprendere, whence OIt ripresaglia (f sing), whence ML represalia, which, apprehended as neu pi, becomes MF reprisailles, whence EF-F représailles, whence, by b/f, the E reprisal.

14. In E, both the n and the v surprise come from MF-F surprendre (OF sorprendre), the v from the pp surpris, f surprise, the n from the derivative MF-F n surprise, in modern sense only since C16: OF sor, L super, over, above+prendre: perh suggested by VL superprendreere*, for superprehendere*. (B & W.)

prehistoric, prehistory. See HISTORY, para 3. prejudge; prejudice, prejudicial. See DICT, para 18A.

prelacy, prelate (whence prelatic or prelatical), prelation, prelature.

Prelacy derives from ML praelatia, an -ia formation from ML praelātus, a prelate, cf LL praelātus, a noble, n use of the adj praelātus, preferred, from L praelātus, used as pp of praeferre, lit to carry forward, hence to prefer: see PREFER. ML praelātus, a prelate, becomes OF prelat (MF-F prélat), ME prelat, E prelate. Derivative LI praelatiō (o/s praelatiō-) passes through MF to become E prelation, much as ML praelātūra passes through late MF-F prélature to become E prelature.

prelection, prelector. See LEGEND, para 14.

preliminary. See LIMIT, para 3.

prelude, prelusive. See LUDICROUS, para 9.

prelature. See MATURE, para 4.

premeditate, premeditation: L praemeditātus, pp of praemeditāri (prae, beforehand), and its derivative praemeditatiō, o/s -meditātiō-. Cf meditate, q.v. at MEASURE.

premier; première. See PRIME, para 4. premise and premiss. See MISSION, para 17.

premium. See EXEMPT, para 7.

premonish; premonition, premonitory. See MIND, para 19.

prenotation, prenote, prenotion. See NOTABLE, para 10.

prentice. See PREHEND, para 6, s.f.

preuncio. See NUNCIO, para 7.

preoccupation, preoccupy: L praecooccupatiō (o/s -atiō-), from praecooccupātus, pp of praecooccupāre, to possess beforehand, whence, via late MF-F préoccupper, the E 'to preoccupy'.

preordain, preordination. See ORDER, para 5 and, for the n, para 4, s.f.

preparation, preparatory, prepare. See PARE, para 5.

prepen. See PEND, para 25.

preponderance, preponderant, preponderate, preponderation. See PEND, para 23.

prepose. See POSE, para 16.

preposition. See POSE, para 16. prepositor, prepositure; prepostor. See POSE, para 16.

preposess, whence, anl, prepossessing. See POSSESS, para 2. preposterous. See POSTERIOR, s.f.

prepotence, prepotent. See POSSE, para 4.

prepuce, whence the adj preputial; pustule (whence pustular), pustulate, pustulation, pustulous.

1. Prepuce, the foreskin, derives from OF prepuce, MF-F prépuce: L praeputium: app prae-, in front+putium*, perh akin to White Ru poika, penis, and Lith pusti, to blow, to swell, and pusli, a vesicle, a bladder, hence also to Gr phusa, a bubble, a bellows, and the echoic Skt-E phut, therefore to L pustula, varr pussula, püsula, a bubble, a pimple.

2. L pustula becomes MF-F pustule, adopted by E; the derivative EF-F adj pustuleux, f pustuleuse, yields E pustulous. In LL, pustula has derivative pustuläre, vi and vt, to (cause to) break out in pimples, with presp pustulans, o/s pustulanti-, whence E pustulant, and with pp pustulätus, whence 'to pustulate'; derivative LL pustulätid (o/s -ätidön-) yields pustulation.

prerogate, prerogation, prerogative. See ROGATION, para 10.

prerupt, prurption. See RUPTURE, para 9.

presage. See SEEK, para 6.

presbyopia, presbyopic. See the element presby-.

presbyter; Presbyterian, whence Presbyterianism; presbytery; priest, priesthood.

Presbyterian, designating a sect, derives from the adj presbyterian, of or by or in or for a presbyter, an elder, adopted from LL presbyter, an elder in the early Christian church, the term being pagan and deriving from LL presbyter, a senior, from LGr presbuteros, an Eccl elder, Gr presbuteros, a senior, from the adj 'older', the comp of Gr presbus, an old man, old, important, orig 'going in front, taking precedence' (L & S): two elements, pres- akin to L prae-, in front+but-, IE var gu-, an ox, presbus being orig '(an ox) leading the way' (Boisacq).

2. LGr presbuteros, a church elder, has derivative presbuterion, whence LL presbyterium, whence OF presbiterie (MF-F presbytère), whence E presbytery.

3. Akin to and perh ult deriving from LL presbyter is OE preost (cf the OF-MF prestre, MF-F prêtre), ME preost, var prest, E priest, whence priestess and priestly; derivative OE preosthād becomes priesthood. But Walshe thinks that OE preost comes rather from L praepositus: one who is set over a congregation.

prescience, prescient. See SCIENCE, para 9.

prescribe; prescript, prescriptible, prescription, prescriptive. See SCRIBE, para 17.

presence, present (adj, n, v), presentation. See ESSE, para 8.

presentient, presentiment. See SENSE, para 17.

presentment: OF presentement (MF-F présé-), from presenter: cf ESSE, para 8.

preservation (whence, anl, preservative, adj hence n); preserve (v, hence n), whence preserver.

Preservation derives from MF-F préservation, formed anl from LL praeservāre, to observe (a custom), whence MF-F préserver, whence 'to preserve'. Cf CONSERVE.

preside, presidency, president, presidential, presidium. See SIT, para 16.

presignification, presignify. See SIGN, para 17.

press (1), as in press gang; press, to commandeer; prest;—impress, imprest.

1. Press, a compulsory enlistment, is for prest, a loan, enlistment for advance pay (both obs): OF-MF prest (MF-F prêt), a loan, from OF-MF prester (MF-F prêter, to lend): LL praestāre, to lend (money), L praestāre, to supply: f.a.e., STAND. OF-MF prester becomes 'to prest' (obs), whence 'to press'.

2. E prest, n and v, has the prefix cpd imprest, n and v; and press, v, has prefix cpd impress, to levy (money) for the state, to force into enlistment.

press (2), to squeeze, crowd, a being squeezed or crowded,—whence agent presser and pa pressing and pressible; pression (obsol); pressive (from E press); pressor; pressure;—print (n and v), whence printable, printer, printing, printless.—Compounds of press, print, also of the L c/f -prim-: appressed, appressor, appressorium; compress (n, v), compression (whence, anl, compressive), compressor; depress (whence depressant), depression (whence, anl, depressive), depressor; express, adj (whence n) and v, whence expressible (and inexpressible), expression, expressive (and inexpressive), expressor; impress (v, hence n, hence also inexpressible), impression, impressionable, impressionism; impressionist, impressive (neg unimpressive)—imprimatur—imprint, n and v; oppress, oppression, oppressive, oppressor; repress (whence repressible, whence irrepressible), repression, repressive, repressor—reprimand, n and v; sprain, v, hence n; suppress (whence suppressible), suppression (whence, anl, suppressive), suppressor.

1. L premere, to press (lit and fig), to squeeze, pp pressus, has r pre-, which could well be the IE r, perh with metathetic var per-*: cf L prelum (s prel-, r pre-), a wine-press, and perh Ru peret', to press, OSI ptrati, to trample, Lith perti, to thrash, flog; perh also Skt sphurāti, he knocks with the foot. (E & M.)

2. On the L pp pressus is formed the freq pressāre, whence OF-F presser, whence 'to press'; the n press derives from OF-F presse (from presser). Also from pp pressus comes pressiō, o/s pressiōn-, MF-F pression, adopted by E—LL pressor, adopted by E—pressūra, OF-EF pressure, adopted by E.

3. L premere becomes OF-MF preindre, pp preint, f preinte, used as MF n, adopted by ME with var printe, whence E print; 'to print' derives from ME printen, from ME printe.

Compounds

4. L apprimere (ap- for ad, to, towards), to press to, hence to fit closely to, has pp appressus, whence 'to appress', used only in the Bot and Zoo pa appressed; cf the SciL (Bot) appressorium, consisting of appressus+-orium.

5. L comprimere, to press con- or together, has pp compressus, whence the LL int compressāre, to press hard, whence the OF-EF compresser, whence 'to compress'; the derivative MF-F n compreſse yields E compress. Derivative L compressiō, o/s compressiōn-, passes through MF to become E compression; derivative ML compressivus becomes—perh via MF-F compressif, f compressive—the E compressive; derivative L compressor is adopted by E.

6. L dēprimere, to press dē- or down, has pp dēpressus, whence the LL int dēpressāre, to press down hard; E 'to depress' could derive from either the L pp or the LL inf. The pp dēpressus has derivatives dēpressiō, o/s dēpressiōn-, whence, perh via MF-F depression, the E depression, and dēpressor (crusher of weakness), whence perh the form of the tech E depressor.

7. L exprimere, to press out, has pp expressus, whence the OF-F adj expres, f expresse, E express; 'to express' derives from MF expresser, expresser, from OF-F presser after the L. Derivative L expressiō, o/s expressiōn-, becomes MF-F expression, adopted by E; the F expression has anl derivative expressif, f -ive, whence E expressive. Derivative LL expressor provides at least the form of E expressor.

8. L imprimere, to press onto or upon, has the modern offshoot, imprimatur, let it be printed, hence as n. The pp impressus yields 'to impress'; its derivative impressiō, o/s impressiōn-, passes through MF-F to become E impression, whence, anl, impressive. F impression has derivatives impressionable, impressionisme, impressioniste: whence E impressionable, impressionism, impressionist.

9. L imprimere becomes MF-F empreindre, pp empreint, f empreinte, which, used as MF-F n, yields 'an imprint'; 'to imprint' derives from ME imprenten, earlier empreynten, from MF empreinter, from empreinte.

10. L opprimere (op- for ob), to squeeze, to crush, has pp oppressus, with ML int oppressāre, whence MF-F oppresser, E 'to oppress'; derivative L oppressiō, o/s oppressiōn-, passes through OF-F to become E oppression; late MF-F oppressif (from oppresser) yields E oppressive, which, however, may—like the F word—derive from ML oppressivus; L oppressor (from pp oppressus) is adopted by E—perh via MF-F oppressur.

11. L reprimere, to press re- or back, to check, has gerundive reprimendus, with f reprimenda used elliptically for culpa reprimenda, a fault to be checked, hence a scolding, EF réprimende, later réprimande, whence E reprimand; derivative EF réprimender, later réprimander, gives 'to reprimand'.

12. L reprimere has pp repressus, whence 'to repress'; derivative LL repressiō, o/s repressiōn-, whence, perh via late MF-F repression, the E repression; derivative OF-F répressif, f -ive, yields E repressive. The L agent repressor is adopted by E.

13. To interpolate! 'To sprain' derives, by aphesis, from MF espreindre, from VL expremere*, for L exprimere: 'to press (a muscle, etc.) out of place'.

14. L supprimere, to press sub or under (hence to put down), to press under foot, hence to cause to disappear, to subjugate, has pp suppressus, whence 'to suppress'; derivative L suppressiō (o/s suppressiōn-), LL concealment, becomes E (and EF-F) suppression, and LL suppressor, hider (of another's slaves) supplies the form of E suppressor.

prest. See 1st PRESS, para 1.

prestidigitation, prestidigitator. See DICT, para 3, s.f. prestige, prestigious. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 11.

presto: adopted from It (adj, hence adv): LL praestus, quick: L praesto, quickly: ? from L praesto, I am at the head of.

presume, presumable, presumption, presumptive, presumptuous. See SUMPTION, para 4.

'To presume' derives from OF-MF presumer (MF-F présumer), from L praesumere, to take prae- or in advance, hence to take for granted: for sumere, see SUMPTUARY. Derivative L praesumptiō, o/s praesumptiōn-, yields—perh via OF-MF presomption (MF-F prés-)—E presumption; anl LL praesumptivus, bold, contentious, ML praesumptivus, conjectural, yields MF-F présomptif, f -ive, whence the reshaped E presumptive; the LL mdfn praesumptuosus, conceited, audacious, (pej) self-confident, becomes OF-MF presomptueux, f -ueuse (MF-F prés-), whence E presumptuous.

presuppose, presupposition. See POSE, para 22, s.f.

pretend, pretender; pretence, pretension, pretentious. See TEND, para 18.

preterit, now usu preterite (adj, hence n): MF preterit (later prétérit): L praeteritum (tempus): praeteritus, pp of praeterire, to go (ire) beyond (praeter), pass by: cf prefix preter- and ITINERARY. —Derivative LL praeteritiō (o/s -itiōn-) becomes, perh via EF-F prétérition, the E preterition, a being passed over, a passing over (in silence).

pretermisssion, pretermitt. See MISSION, para 18.

preternatural: ML praeternaturalis; praeter, beyond+natura, nature.

pretext. See TECHNIC, para 13, s.f.

pretty (adj, hence adv), whence prettify, prettily, prettiness: ME prati: OE praetig, sly, cunning, the adj (-ig) of praet, praett, deceit, cunning: cf ON prettugr, tricky, deceitful, adj of preitr, a trick.

pretzel comes, as Walshe notes, from the Upper German pron of G Bretzel: MHG brezel: OHG brezitella: ? from VL braciola* (cf LL brac(c)holum), dim of VL bracia, f sing from L brac(c)hia, pl of brac(c)hium, an arm.

preux chevalier. See PROUD, para 1, s.f.

prevail (whence pa prevailing), prevalence, prevalent. See VALUE, para 19.

prevaricate, prevarication, prevaricator. See VACILLANT, para 8. prevent, prevention, preventive. See VENUE, para 19.

previous. See VIA, para 15.

previse, prevision. See VIDE, para 14.

prey, n and v; predator, predatory;—depredate, depredation, depredator, depredatory.

1. 'To prey' derives from OF-MF preier, preër: L praedâri, from praeda, booty, OL praida: perh from the r of L praehendere, prehendere, to seize. The n prey, ME preie, OF preie, comes from praeda. Praedâri has agent praedâtor, whence E predator; derivative praedâtôrius becomes E predatory.

2. Praedâri has LL cpd dēpraedâri, -praedâre, to plunder or thieve, pp dēpraedâtus, whence 'to depredate'; derivatives dēpraedâtiō (o/s -âtîōn-) and dēpraedâtor yield depredation and depredator, the latter acquiring, anl, the adj depredatory.

Priapean, priapism, Priapus.

Priapean (verse) derives from L Priapeius, of Priapos, trln of Gr Priapos, the God of Virility: o.o.o.: ? from Asia Minor: but perh rather of Skt sâpas, penis. The Med priapism=LL priapismus, earlier -ismos=Gr priapismos=Priapos+suffix -ismos.

price, n (whence priceless) and v; prize, n and v, 'value', and apprise and misprize, to undervalue; precious, précieuse, preciousness; praise (v, hence n)—appraise, whence appraisal, appraisement, appraiser—dispraise, v, hence n; appreciable, appreciate, appreciation (whence, anl, appreciative and appreciator)—depreciable, depreciate, depreciation (whence depreciative, depreciator, depreciatory).—interpret, interpretable, interpretation (whence, anl, interpretative), interpreter, (from interpret) interpretive.

1. L pretium, a price paid for goods or service, hence also a reward, has s preti-, r pret-: o.o.o., unless, as seems not improbable, akin to L interpres, o/s interpret-, an intermediary, a commercial agent, a negotiator, hence an interpreter: inter, between, among+pres* (? for preis*), a trafficker, gen pretis, r pret-*.

Simples and their Prefix-Compounds

2. L pretium becomes OF-MF pris (MF-F prix), adopted by ME, whence E price; 'to price' derives from the n rather than from ME preis, to value, which, the source of the syn 'to prize', comes itself from MF prisier, OF preisier, LL pretiäre, to value, to prize, from L pretium. Prize, v, occurs in the prefix-cpds apprize, to put a value on (ap-, L ad), from MF aprisier (cf appraise in para 3), and misprize, to misvalue, to scorn, from MF mesprisier, OF mespreisier (cf the F mépriser): mes-, L minus, E mis-+preisier, prisier.

3. OF preisier becomes ME preisen, whence 'to praise', whence the n praise. There are two cpds:

appraise, which, prob after the corresp L cpd, is formed of ap- (for ad-)+praise; dispraise, ME dispreisen, MF despreisier (des-, L dis-+preisier).

4. L pretium has adj pretiösus, whence OF-MF precios, MF-F précieux, f précieuse, partly adopted by E for '(an) affectedly literary (woman)': hence E precious. Derivative L pretiösität, o/s pretiösität-, becomes MF-F préciosité, whence E preciosity.

Latin Compounds and English Derivatives

5. LL appretiäre, to value ap- for ad, i.e. at a price, has pp appretiätus, whence 'to appreciate'; appretiäre becomes MF-F apprécier, with derivatives late MF-F appréciable, late MF-F appréciation (perh suggested by LL appretiätîō, acc appretiätîōnem), EF-F appréciatif (f -ive), EF-F appréciateur, whence, resp, appreciable, appreciation, appreciative, appreciator.

6. L dēpretiäre, to price dē- or down, has pp dēpretiätus, whence to depreciate; it becomes F déprécier, with derivatives dépréciable and dépréciation, which have perh influenced E depreciable and depreciation; depreciator (cf F dépréciateur) comes from LL dēpretiäre, a cheapener.

Interpretation

7. L interpres (o/s interpret-), negotiator, agent, hence interpreter, has derivative interpretâri, to explain, to interpret, whence MF interpréter (F interpréter), whence 'to interpret'; L derivative interpretâtiō (o/s -âtîōn-) becomes OF-MF interpretation (later interpétation), adopted by E, and LL derivative interpretâtor prob influenced MF interpréteur (imm from the MF v), whence the E interpreter. LL interpretâbilis yields interpretable; whereas interpretive comes from 'to interpret', the now less usual interpretative comes from the obs 'to interpretate' (L interpretätus, pp of interpretâri).

prick (n, v), whence the dim pricket; prick-eared, prick song; pricker, from 'to prick'; prickle (n, hence v), whence prickly—whence prickly heat and prickly pear; ? prig, whence priggish.

1. A prick, orig the mark made by anything sharply pointed, hence a tapering point (e.g., a thorn, a goad), a sting, derives from OE prica, a point or a dot: cf MD pric, pricke, D prik, LG prick or pricke, and several Scan cognates. Akin to, prob deriving from, OE prica is OE prician, to pierce slightly, whence E 'to prick', with many naturally effluent senses, e.g. 'to ride with spurs'; cf ON prica, to beat, and, syn with E, LG pricken, MD priken, D prikken, Sw pricka. Prick-eared refers to sharp, pointed ears; prick song, to the 'points' or notes.

2. OE prica has dim pricel, whence a prickle: cf MD prikel, D prikkel, LG prickel: with the v, cf G prickeln, MHG prekeln, MD prikeln, D prikkeln.

3. Sl prig, to steal, perh derives from prick, to stick a sharp point into something in order to remove it. A prig, orig a fellow, then a tiresomely self-sufficient or virtuous fellow, perh derives from sl prig, a thief, from the v; the thieving prig, n and v, was orig an underworld term (P¹). The too obviously virtuous fellow might, however, draw his name from 'to prick' in its now dial sense 'to adorn'.

pride. See PROUD, para 2.

prie-Dieu. See PRAY, para 6.

priest, priesthood, priestly. See PRESBYTER, para 3.

prig, n and v. See PRICK, para 3.

prim. See PRIME, para 3. primacy. See PRIME, para 5, s.f. primage. See PRIME (heading).

primary. See PRIME, para 4.

primate. See para 5 of:—

prime, adj and n and—mostly from that adj or that n—v; prim; primacy, primate; naut primage, from adj prime; primary (adj, hence n)—cf premier and première; primeval; primer; primero; primitive (adj, hence n); primogeniture; primordial, primordium; primrose; primula; primus—prior (adj, n), priority, priory; prince (whence princely) and princess; principal (adj, hence n), principality, principate; principium; principle (n, hence v), whence pa principled, with neg unprincipled; Priscian; pristine.

1. In L primus, first, earliest, the sup corresp to the L comp prior, earlier, and prob occurring in L pristinus, existing in, or as if in, its first state, and L priscus, syn except that the thing no longer exists, we have a set of derivatives from—or, at the least, cognates with—the OL adv pri, forwards, from in front: akin to the virtually syn OL adv pro; cf also the Homeric adv and Attic prep and conj prin, before: the IE r is pri-*, before. (Boisacq.) In L, prim-, prin-, pris-, are therefore extn of pri-.

2. L primus, (the) first, is retained by E in certain special usages; the portable stove so named is prop Primus, a trade-name. L primus becomes the OF-MF adj prin, f prime (surviving only in phrases); hence the E adj. The Eccl E prime, the first hour of the Eccl day, derives from OE prim, from L prima (hora), f of primus; derivative is prime, one's maturity, the best part, etc. 'To prime' derives mainly from the adj; in sense 'to trim' (a shrub, a tree), it perh owes something to the 3rd PRUNE (to trim); 'to prime or put into working order' is to establish, or to restore, what should be its first condition.

3. OF-MF prin has—influenced by the f prime—the var prim, which, in the derivative MF-EF sense 'fine or delicate', yields the E prim, formally precise or neat, (later) stiffly or fussily decorous.

4. L primus, first, has mdfn primarius, orig a military term for 'of the first rank'—cf the LL sense 'a leader'; hence E primary. L primarius becomes OF-F premier, f première, first in rank, later first in appearance, whence the n première, first showing of a play, elliptical for première représentation. Largely displacing prime minister, the n premier is elliptical for premier minister (c1680-1740: OED). ML primarius, used as n

(? for p. liber, primary book) for 'prayer book', var primarium, becomes, in C14, E primer, first used in its modern sense late in C15. L primarius becomes Sp primero, whence primera, a card game, re-shaped by E to primero.

5. L primus has the derivative primas, one who belongs to a leading family, hence a leading person, in LL the chairman of a Church council, a metropolitan bishop (Souter), in ML the head of the Church: from the acc primatem comes OF-F primat, adopted by ME, whence E primate. Derivative ML primatia—cf LL primatus, gen -ūs—becomes MF primacie (EF-F primatie), whence E primacy.

6. L primus has derivative adv primtus, in the first place, whence the adj primitivus, ML primitivus, first-born: MF-F primitif, f primitive, adopted by E.

7. In ML, primus has the derivative n primula: whence, prob by illiterate corruption, OF-MF primerole, altered, after rose, to OF-F primerose: ME prymerose: E primrose.

8. The foll cpds will be found:

primeval, at AGE, para 2; primogeniture, at GENERAL, para 27—cf primogenous, ib, para 27, s.f.; primordial, at ORDER, para 13.

9. For prince and princess, see CAPABILITY, para 8 at princeps—where also are treated principal, principate, as well as (para 8, s.f.) principle.

10. Akin to L primus are both priscus and pristinus, as in para 1. Priscus has derivative Priscianus, a famous Roman grammarian: E Priscian, often used generically, as in 'breaking Priscian's head' or flouting grammar. Pristinus yields E pristine, fresh and unspoilt.

11. L prior, coming before, earlier, is adopted by E; the ML derivative prioritās, o/s prioritāt-, becomes MF-F priorité, whence priority. In ML, prior is used as n, adopted by both OF and OE, whence, perh rather from OF-MF than from OE, the ME priour, prior, E prior; MF prioress becomes E prioress, and OF-MF prioré (F prieuré) becomes E priory.

primer. See prec, para 4, s.f. primeval. See AGE, para 2; cf PRIME, para 1.

primitive. See PRIME, para 6.

primero. See PRIME, para 4, s.f. primogeniture. See GENERAL, para 27; cf PRIME, para 1.

primogenous. See GENERAL, para 27, s.f., and cf PRIME, para 8. primordial. See ORDER, para 13; cf PRIME, para 8.

primrose. See PRIME, para 7.

primula. See PRIME, para 7.

primus. See PRIME, para 2.

prince, princess. See CAPABILITY, para 8, at princeps.

principal; principate. See CAPABILITY, para 8, at princeps.

principle. See CAPABILITY, para 8, at princeps.

prink. See PRANK.

print, whence printer, printing. See the 2nd PRESS, para 3.

prior, priority, priory. See PRIME, para 11.

Priscian. See PRIME, para 10.

prism: LL, from Gr, prisma: from Gr prizein, extn of priein, to saw; perh cf Alb prīš, to break up; IE r, ? perēi-*, to break into small pieces. (Boisacq.) On the Gr o/s prismat- are formed F prismatique and E prismatic.

prison, prisoner. See PREHEND, para 2.

pristine. See PRIME, para 10.

prithée. See PRAY, para 6.

private (adj, hence n), whence privacy (for privately*) and privateer (agential -eer); privation, privative; privity, privy (adj, hence n; hence also privily); cpd privilege (n, v); prefix-cpd deprivation (whence, anl, deprivative, deprive).

1. At the base, lies OL prīuus, taken in isolation, singular, owned by one person. 'Prīuus could have issued from prei-u-os* [pri-u-os]: that which is in front, hence that which is isolated from the rest' (E & M): if that be so, cf PRIME, para 1.

2. OL prīuus has derivative prīuāre, ML prīvāre, to put aside, to exempt, hence to deprive of, with pp prīuātus, ML prīvātus, used as adj, hence also as n 'a private person'; hence the E adj private. Derivative prīuātīō, ML prīvātīō, o/s prīvātīōn-, leads through MF-F to E privation; derivative L prīuātīuus, ML prīvātīuus, to E privative.

3. L prīuātus, ML prīvātus, becomes OF-F privé, whence E privy; derivative MF priveté, adopted by ME, whence privity.

4. OL prīuus acquires the cpd prīuīlēgium, ML prīvīlēgium, a law affecting a private person (L lex, o/s leg-, a law), whence OF-MF privilege (MF-F privilège), adopted by ME; and OF privilege has MF derivative v privelegier (F privilégier), whence 'to privilege'.

5. L prīuāre has the ML cpd dēprīvāre, whence (MF depriver and E) 'to deprive'; the ML derivative dēprīvātīō, o/s dēprīvātīōn-, yields E deprivation.

privet, a Eurasian shrub widely used for hedges, is, in Sc, privie: perh, therefore, from the privacy it ensures—cf privy at PRIVATE, para 3. Perh, however, it is a f/e alteration of primet*, from prime, to prune.

privilege. See PRIVATE, para 4.

privity, privy. See PRIVATE, para 3.

prize (1), a lever; to lever. See PREHEND, para 3.

prize (2), a reward; to value. See PRICE, para 2.

probabilism, probability, probable. See PROVE, para 3. probant. See PROVE, para 4.

probate, probation, probationary, probative. See PROVE, para 4.

probe, n and v. See PROVE, para 5.

probability. See PROVE, para 2.

problem, problematic (with extn in -al).

The latter derives from late MF-F problématique, LL problēmaticus, Gr problēmatikos, the adj of Gr problēma, L problēma, MF-F problème, ME probleme, E problem. Gr problēma is lit 'a thing thrown forward', esp for the mind to solve: Gr pro, forward + blēma, a throwing, something thrown, from ballō, I throw: f.a.e., BALLISTIC.

proboscis. See the element proboscidi-.

procedure, proceed, proceedings; process, procession, processional. See CEDE, para 10.

proclaim; proclamation. See CLAIM, para 8.

proclivity, proclivous. See CLIVUS, para 4.

proconsul, one acting pro or for a consul, hence, in E, a governor of a province, is adopted from L; adj, proconsular (L proconsularis).

procrastinate, procrastination.

The latter derives, perh via F, from L procrastinātiōn-, o/s of procrastinātiō, from procrastinātus, pp of procrastināre, to bring pro or forward until cras, tomorrow, to make it a matter for tomorrow; procrastinātus yields 'to procrastinate'.

procreate, procreation, procreative, procreator. See CREATE, para 3.

Procrustean derives from Procrustes, that legendary highwayman of Attica who stretched or abbreviated his victims to fit them to the length of an iron bed: L: from Gr prokroustēs, agent of prokrouein, to beat out and so to stretch: pro, forward + krouein, to beat or strike, a v with Sl cognates.

proctor. See CURE, para 4.

procuracion, procurator; procure, procurer. See CURE, para 3.

procurent, procursive. See COURSE, para 10 (at procurrere).

prod (n, hence v), a pricking with a pointed instrument or remark, is app akin to the now only dial brod, a thorn, a goad, ME brod, ON broddr: cf BRAD.

prodigal (adj hence n), prodigality.

Prodigal, adj, is adopted from late MF-EF prodigal, app a b/f from MF-F prodigalité, whence E prodigality; and MF prodigalité derives from LL prodigalitatē, acc of prodigalitatās, itself—influenced by liberalitatās—from L prodigus, wastefully extravagant, from prodigere, to dissipate (one's substance), orig to drive (agere) before (pro) oneself: f.a.e., ACT.

prodigious; prodigy.

The former derives—perh via late MF-F prodigieux, f prodigieuse—from L prōdigiōsus, adj of prōdigiūm, a prophetic sign, hence a marvel, hence something or someone extraordinary, whence E prodigy: prō, before + adagiūm (see ADAGE), with -ag- thinned to -ig-.

produce (v, n); product, production, productive. See DUKE, para 6 (at producere).

proem, whence proemial: ME, from MF, proheme (F proème): L prooemium: Gr prooimion: pro, before + oimē, a song.

profanation, profane (adj, v), profanity. See FANE, para 2.

profess, profession (whence professional, adj, hence n), professive, professor, professorial.

'To profess' is a b/f from ME professed, bound by a religious vow: syn OF-MF profes (F profès), f professe: syn LL professus, f professa, from L professus (f -fessa), declaring (adj), from the pp of profitēri, to declare: pro, before+-fitēri, c/f of fatēri, to admit, confess: cf CONFESS. Derivative L professio leads, via the acc professionem, to OF-F profession, adopted by E; LL professiuus, ML -ivus, yields professive; L professor, a (public) teacher, becomes MF-F professeur and, perh independently, E professor; L professōrius becomes, with different suffix, professorial.

proffer, ME proferen, proferen, comes from MF proffrir, contr of poroffrir: por (F pour), for+offrir, to offer, VL offerire*, L offerre (cf OFFER).

proficiency, proficient. The former derives from the latter, itself from L proficient-, o/s of proficiens, presp of proficere, which, in LL, means 'to advance, to develop': prō-, forward+-ficere, for facere, to make: f.a.e., FACT. Cf PROFIT.

profile. See FILAMENT, para 8.

profit, n and v; profitable; from the n, both profiteer and profitless.

Profitable, adopted from OF-F, derives from OF-F profter, whence E 'to profit'; OF profiter derives from OF-F profit, whence the E n; and OF profit derives from the L n prōfectus, advance, improvement, profit, from prōfectus, pp of prōficere, to progress, hence to yield a profit: prō, forward+-ficere, c/f of facere, to make: f.a.e., FACT.

profligate (adj, hence n), whence profligacy: L prōfligātus, pp of prōfligāre, to strike or fling prō, forward, hence to the ground; -fligāre, for fligere, to strike down: cf Gr phlibein, to press hard—cf also AFFLICT, CONFLICT, INFLICT.

profound, profundity. See the 1st FOUND, para 5.

profuse, profusion. See the 2nd FOUND, para 11.

prog (now only dial), to forage; hence food, derives from—or from the same source as—ME prokken, to forage, which has MD, MLG, also Scan cognates.

progenitor, progeniture. See GENERAL, para 12.

progeny. See GENERAL, para 24.

prognosis; prognosticate, prognostication. See the 2nd GNOME, para 7.

program, -gramme. See GRAMMAR, para 5.

progress, progression, progressive. See GRADE, para 15.

prohibit, prohibition, prohibitive. See HABIT, para 11.

project (n, v), projectile (adj, hence n), projection, projective, projector (from 'to project').

L prōicere, contr prōicere, to cast forward, is a prefix-cpd: prō, forward+-icere, c/f of iacere (ML jacere), to cast or throw: cf JET. Its pp prōiectus, ML prōiectus, yields 'to project'; the neu prōiectum, ML prōiectum, yields the n project. LL prōiectiuus, ML -ivus, becomes E projective; projectile is a learned F derivative, in -ile, from ML prōiectus.

prolapse. See LABOR, para 2.

prolation, prolative. See the 1st TOLL, para 6. prolegomena, prolegomenon. See LEGEND, para 31.

prolepsis, proleptic.

The latter comes from Gr prolēptikos adj of prolēpsis, whence, via LL, the E prolepsis, lit a taking in advance: Gr pro, forward+lēpsis, from labanein, to take: cf CATALEPSY.

proletarian (adj, hence n), proletary, proletariat.

The 1st is a mdfn of the 2nd, which derives from L prōlētārius, adj of prōlēs, offspring; L prō, forward+alere, to nourish: cf ALIMENT. Proletariat adapts F prōlētariat, itself from F prōlētaire (L prōlētārius).

proliferate, proliferation. See the element proli-, whence prolificacy: EF-F prolifiquē: ML prōlificus: prōli-, c/f of prōlēs, offspring (q.v. at PROLETARIAN)+-ficus, -making, from facere, to make (f.a.e., FACT).

prolix, prolixity. See LIQUEFY, para 7.

prolocutor. See LOQUACIOUS, para 7.

prologue. See LEGEND, para 28, s.f. prolong, prolongation. See LONG, para 11.

prolusion. See LUDICROUS, para 10.

promenade. See MINATORY, para 5.

Promethean is the adj of Prometheus, which, adopted from L, is the Gr Promētheus, the Fore-thinker, n from promēthēs, forethoughtful: pro, forward+perh a derivative from menos, mind.

prominence, prominent. See MINATORY, para 3.

promiscuity, promiscuous.

The former derives from F promiscuité, learnedly formed from L prōmiscuus, confused, whence E promiscuous: prō, for, instead of+miscēre, to mix: f.a.e., MIX.

promise, promissive, promissory. See MISSION, para 19.

promittor. See MISSION, para 19, s.f.

promontory. See MINATORY, para 4.

promote, promotion. See MOVE, para 13.

prompt, promptitude, promptuary. See EXEMPT, para 9. promulgate, promulgation, promulgator, promulge. See VULGAR, para 2.

prone, whence prone; pronation.

The 3rd derives from prōnātiō-, o/s of ML prōnātiō, itself from the source of E prone: L prōnus, leaning forward, hence inclined to (do something): from prō, forwards (for -nus, cf infernus): E & M): cf Skt pravāna, inclined (lit and fig).

prong. See PANG.

pronominal, pronoun. See NAME, para 8.

pronounce, pronouncement. See NUNCIO, para 8.

pronto. See EXEMPT, para 10.

pronunciamento; pronunciation. See NUNCIO, para 8.

proof. See PROVE, para 6.

prop, n, hence v (cf the syn MD proppen): ME, from MD, proppe, a stake or pole that supports, later a stopper or stopple: cf MLG prop, proppe, a plug, G (C18+) Pfropfen, a stopper, a cork, from LG: Walshe, however, thinks that the LG-MD words are unrelated to E prop and that they are akin to L propāgō, a shoot for grafting (OHG phrofa), and therefore to:

propaganda, propagate, propagation. See PACT, para 8.

propel, propeller. See PULSE, para 14.

propend. See PEND, para 24.

propensity. See PEND, para 24.

proper, propriety and property; proprietary (adj, n) and proprietor; improper, impropriety; appropriate (adj, v, whence appropriator), appropriation; expropriate, whence expropriator and expropriation; inappropriate, whence impropriation and impropriator.

1. Proper derives, as ME propre, from OF-F propre, from L proprius, private or peculiar to oneself, prob (E & M) from prō priuō (priuus, ML privus, private), by private and particular right. Derivative proprietas, o/s proprietas, particular character (peculiarity), hence a private possession, becomes OF-F propriété, whence E propriety, orig private property; OF-MF propriété also becomes ME proprete, later, by metathesis, properte, whence E property. L proprius acquires, in LL, the extn propriarius, a proprietor, and, as adj, belonging to a proprietor, whence the E n and adj proprietary, which, as n, generates, with suffix -or for -ary, proprietor.

2. L proprius has neg improprius, with derivative improprietas, whence, via MF-F impropre, impropriété, the E improper, impropriety.

3. The L cpd appropriare, to make private ad, or to, oneself, has pp appropriatus, whence both the E adj and the E v appropriate; derivative appropriatio, o/s appropriation-, yields appropriation.

4. ML expropriare, to deprive of (connoted by ex-) private property, hence to take the property, has pp expropriatus, whence 'to expropriate'.

5. ML impropriare, to take into (im- for in) one's own property, to appropriate (a benefice), has pp impropriatus, whence the E adj and v impropriate.

prophecy (n), prophecy (v); prophet, prophetic.

Gr prophētēs, lit 'a speaker out' (pro, forth + phanai, to speak: f.a.e., FAME), becomes LL prophēta, OF prophete (MF-F prophète), adopted by ME, whence prophet. Derivative Gr prophēteia becomes LL prophētia, OF prophétie (MF-F prophétie), ME prophecie, É prophecy. 'To prophecy', ME prophesien, derives from MF prophécier, short for OF prophetiser (MF-F prophétiser), from LL prophētizāre (var prof-), from Gr prophētizein, from prophētēs: cf the syn LL var prophētāre, var prof-, suggested by the Gr var prophēteuin. Prophetic comes, perh via late MF-F prophétique, from LL prophēticus, trln of Gr prophētikos, adj of prophētēs; prophetess, prob via EF-F prophétesse, perh suggested by LL prophētissa (Gr prophētis).

prophylactic. See PHYLACTERY, para 2.

propinquity, propinquous.

1. The former derives from L propinquitat-, o/s of propinquitās, itself from the source of propinquous, that is near: L propinquus, from the adv prope, near (? an extn, in sense as in form, of pro, forwards).

2. Prope has comp propior, nearer, with sup proximus, nearest (adj; adv, proxime), as in the abl proximo, used in commerce for 'in the next month (L mense)'; from proximus comes, with -al for -ous, the E adj proximal. Proximus has derivatives proximitās, whence late MF-F proximité, whence E proximity, and proximāre, to approach, pp proximatus, whence the E adj and v proximate.

3. Proximāre has the LL cpd approximāre, to come near to (ad), approach to, with pp approximatus, whence the É adj and v approximate; derivative LL approximatio, o/s approximatio-, yields MF-F approximation, adopted by E.

propitiate, propitiation, propitiator, propitiatory, propitious.

L propitiatus, favourable, is akin to Gr propetēs, (lit) falling forward, hence well-disposed, therefore to L petere, to hasten towards, to seek; it becomes MF propicius (cf OF-F propice), whence E propitious. Derivative L propitiare has pp propitiatus, whence 'to propitiate'; whence LL propitiatio, o/s propitiatio-, and LL propitiator and LL propitiatorius, whence, resp, propitiation, propitiator, propitiatory.

propone, proponer. See POSE, para 17.

proportion, proportional, proportionate. See PART, para 24.

proposal, propose, proposition. See POSE para 17.

propound. See POSE, para 17, s.f.

proprietary, proprietor, propriety. See PROPER, para 1.

propulsion, propulsive. See PULSE, para 14.

prorogate, prorogation, prorogue. See ROGATION, para 11.

prorruption. See RUPTURE, para 10.

prosaic. See VERSE, para 15.

proscenium. See SCENE, para 3.

proscribe, proscription, proscriptive. See SCRIBE, para 18.

prose. See VERSE, para 15.

prosecute, prosecution, prosecutor. See SEQUENCE, para 13.

proselyte, whence proselytism and proselytize, derives from ME proselite, from MF proselite (F proselite), LL proselitus, var of proselytus, LGr proselutos, a proselyte, orig—in Gr—a newcomer: pros, toward + -elutos, from eluthon, I came, with r luth-*, akin to OIr lod, I went (Webster).

prosit. See ESSE, para 10.

prosodic, prosodic, prosody. See ODE, para 8.

prospopoeia. See the element prospopo-.

prospect, prospective, prospector, prospectus. See SPECTACLE, para 14.

prosper, prosperity, prosperous. See DESPAIR, para 4.

prostate. See STAND, para 7.

prosthesis, prosthetic. See THESIS, para 14.

prostitute, prostitution. See STAND, para 31.

prostrate, prostration. See STRATUM, para 6. protagonist. See the element -agonist.

protean. See PROTEUS.

protect, protection, protective, protector, protectorate; protégé. See TECHNIC, para 10.

protein: G Protein: Gr prôteion, neu of prôteios, primary: mdfn of Gr prôtos, first: f.a.e., PROTON. protend, protension, protensity. See TEND, para 19.

protest, protestant, protestation. See TESTAMENT, para 11.

Proteus, protean.

The latter (orig Protean) is formed with adj suffix -an from Proteus, adopted from L: from Gr Prôteus, a sea god notable for ability to change his shape: perh a -eus derivative from prôtos, first.

prothallium. See THALLIC.

prothesis, prothetic. See THESIS, para 15.

prothonotary. See PROTON.

protocol. See the element proto-.

proton is a SciL derivative of Gr prôtôn, neu of prôtos, first, itself from pro-, forwards, before; cf the prefix pro-. For the E derivatives (e.g., prototype) of prôtos, see the element proto-; see sep PROTEIN above; prothonotary is irreg for protonotary, from LL prôtonotârius, a chief clerk (Gr prôto, c/f+notârius, cf E notary); for protoplasm, see PLASM, para 2; for protozoic, cf the element zo-.

protract, protraction, protractor. See TRACT, para 18.

protrude, protrusion, protrusive. See THRUST, para 7. protuberance, protuberant. See THIGH, para 6. proud; pride.

1. Proud derives from ME proud, var prout, earlier prud, var prut, from OE prûd, var prût: OF prud-, var of prod-, in the OF cpd produme, MF-F prud'homme, loyal man (the orig OF adj is proz, acc preu, from VL prodis*, from): LL prode, as in prode est=L prodest, it is useful or advantageous, where the -d- is euphonic, prod- or prode standing for pro-, forward (connoting 'advantage'). Ult from OF preu comes MF-F preux, as in preux chevalier, 'a verray parfit gentil knight', adopted by literary E. OF-MF preu has var prou, used also as n: whence the ME-now archaic E pro, valiant, valour (prowess).

2. OE prût has derivative prÿte: ME prute, later prude, latest pride (dissyllabic): E pride. Cf IMPROVE, para 1.

prove, provable; probe (n, v), probability, probable—cf improbable, improbability—probate (obs adj, hence n), probation (whence probationary and probationer), probative, probator (hist), probatory, probity; proof (n, adj).—Cpds: apprabate, approbation (whence, anl, approbative and approbatory, the latter perh after the L agent approbator)—disapprobation—cf approve (whence approval, approver) and disapprove; disprove, disproof; improbation—improbability; reprobate (adj, v), reprobation (whence, anl, reprobative, reprobatory)—cf reprove, reprovable, and reproof.

1. The effective basis is afforded by L probus, upright, honest, good: pro-, forwards+-bus, occurring also in superbus (super, over+-bus) and deriving from an IE bhos*, going (cf Gr bainō, I go: bai+-n+o), or bus* (bu-s), with bu- a *b-*for-f var of the fu- of L fui, I have been, and therefore denoting 'being'. The 'going forward—hence, in the open—hence, uprightly' theory is proposed by E & M; the 'being forward—hence, in the open—hence, upright' theory, by Webster. (Both, extended by the author.)

Simples

2. L probus has derivative probitās (o/s probitāt-), uprightness, strict honesty, whence, prob via late MF-F probité, the E probability; the L neg improbitās yields improbability.

3. From probus comes also probāre, to find or think good, also to cause to be found good, to test. Derivative probābilis and its subsidiary probabilitās pass through late OF-F probable and late MF-F probabilité to become E probable, probability; the L neg improbābilis becomes late MF-F improbable, adopted by E and having its anl EF-F subsidiary improbabilité, whence E improbability.

4. Probāre has presp probans, o/s probant-, whence the E adj probant, and pp probātus, whence the E adj, hence n (whence v), probate; derivatives probātiō, o/s probātiōn-, probātiuus (ML -ivus), probātor become E probation, probative, probator; probatory owes something to the LL probatōria (sc epistula).

5. Probāre also has derivative LL proba, a test, hence a successful test—a proof; hence the surgical probe. 'To probe' derives mainly from the n, partly from L probāre.

6. LL proba becomes OF-MF prueve, var preve (cf F preuve), whence ME preve, var prefe, later—influenced by the E v—prove, var profe, whence E proof. 'To prove' comes from OF prover (MF-F prouver)—from L probāre. The MF derivative provable, EF-F prouvable, has suggested E provable.

Compounds

7. L approbāre, an int (ap- for ad used int) of probāre, means both 'to approve' and 'to cause to be approved'. The pp approbātus yields 'to approbate'; derivative approbātiō, o/s approbātiōn- becomes MF-F, whence E, approbation, and the anl EF-F approbatif, f -ive, becomes E approbative (unless imm from the E n). L approbāre passes into MF as approver (EF-F approuver), whence ME aproven, E 'to approve'. Approbation, approve have E negg disapprobation, disapprove (whence disapproval), the latter perh indebted to EF-F désapprouver.

8. OF aprover has the further derivative desprover, whence, with reversion to L dis-, the E 'to disprove', whence, anl (after proof), the E disproof.

9. L improbus, dishonest, not upright—as in para 2—has derivative improbāre, not (im-) to approve, i.e. to disapprove, to blame, pp improbātus, with derivative improbātiō, o/s improbātiōn-, whence E improbation, whence, anl, improbative and improbatory.

10. L probāre has the further cpd, the LL reprobāre, to test again, to reprove, pp reprobātus, whence both the adj (whence the n) and the v reprobate; derivative LL reprobātiō, o/s reprobātiōn-, becomes—perh via late MF-F réprobation-—the E Reprobation; LL reprobator is adopted by E. 'To reprove' derives from ME reproven, OF-MF reprover (EF-F réprouver), LL reprobāre; reproof, from ME reproef, earlier reprove, MF reprove, reprovee, formed—after OF-MF prueve—from the v.

provection. See VIA, para 12.

provedor. See VIDE, para 14.

provenance, provenient. See VENUE, para 20.

Provençal, Provence. See PROVINCE.

provender. See HABIT, para 16.

proverb, proverbial. See VERB, para 7.

provide, providence, provident, providential. See VIDE, para 14.

province, provincial (whence provincialism); Provence, Provençal.

Provençal (adj, hence n) is the F adj of Provence, from ML prōvincia, a province: 'the province'. ML prōvincia becomes early MF-F province, adopted by E, as also is the MF-F adj provincial. ML prōvincia is L prōvincia, orig a magistrate's charge or duty, hence esp the administration of a conquered territory, hence that territory itself: o.o.o.; perh a loan. (Any talk of prō, in place of, and of vincere, ML vincere, to conquer, is prob, as E & M imply, merest f/e. Yet, f/e or not, I suggest that prōvincia=prōvincia*, contr of prōvidentia.) provision, provisional, proviso, provisor, provisory. See VIDE, para 14.

provocation, provocative, provoke. See VOCABLE, para 10.

provost, provostry. See POSE, para 16, s.f.

prow (1), adj. See IMPROVE, para 1; cf PROUD, para 2.

prow (2), of a ship: MF-F proue: C13 proe: OProv proa (cf Genoese prua): (by dissimilation from) L prōra: Gr prōira: app from pro, in front—cf Skt pūrva, (situated) in front, first; perh cf pravand, steep. (B & W; Hofmann.)

proress. See IMPROVE, para 1.

prowl (v, hence n), whence prowler and prowling, comes from ME prollen, to rove in search (e.g., of food): o.o.o.

proximal, proximate, proximity, proximo. See PROPINQUITY, para 2.

proxy. See CURE, para 5.

prude. See IMPROVE, para 3.

prudence, prudent, prudential, are doublets of providence, etc.: f.a.e., see VIDE: prudence and prudent come, via MF-F and OF-F from L prudentia and its source prūdens, o/s prūdēt-, an adj from L prōuidens, foreseeing, presp of prōuidēre, to foresee. Cf also PROVISION.

prudery, prudish. See IMPROVE, para 3.

prune (1), n. See PLUM, para 2.

prune (2), v. See PREEN.

prune (3), v, to cut off the superfluous twigs, branches, shoots of: C17-18 pruin, pruine, C16-17 proine (OED): MF proignier, contr of prooignier, itself perh for MF porroignier*, int (por, L per) of rooignier, to clip: VL rotundiāre*, prop to round off: L rotundus, round: f.a.e., ROTUND.

prunella. See BROWN, para 5.

prurient, prurience, pruriency; prurigo, pruriginous; pruritus, pruritic. See FREEZE, para 3.

Prussia, whence Prussian (adj, hence n); prussiate; prussic;—spruce, n hence adj hence v.

1. E Prussia, from ML Prussia, derives, as does G Preussen, from ML Prussi, a p-for-b contr of Borussi, the orig Baltic, then the Gmc, inhabitants of the present East Prussia; ML had the alternative form Borussia (from Borussi). From F (la) Prusse comes bleu de Prusse, blue of Prussia, Prussian blue: whence both F acide prussique and prussiate: whence, resp, E prussic acid and E prussiate.

2. ML Prussia became ME Pruce, with var Spruce, whence, the tree being earliest known as a native of that country, the evergreen, handsome spruce, whence spruce, smartly and neatly dressed, whence the coll 'to spruce' or dress neatly and smartly.

pry (1), to force with, or as with, a lever. See PREHEND, para 3, s.f.

pry (2), to look closely or inquisitively: ME prien: o.o.o.: ? a confusion of 1st PRY and SPY.—Hence the pa, vn prying.

psalm, psalmist, psalmody, psalter, psaltery. See FEEL, para 8.

pseudigraphous; pseudonym, pseudonymous. See the element pseudo- and, for pseudonym, also NAME, para 3.

psilo-, psittaco-, psoro- cpds. See these elements. psst! See HUSH, para 2.

Psyche, psyche; psychic (whence psychical), whence, anl, psychism and psychist; psychosis, whence—after neurotic—psychotic.—Cpds: metempsychosis; psychiatry, whence, anl, psychiatric and psychiatrist; psychoanalysis (whence—after the analysis derivatives—psychoanalytic, psychoanalyst, psychoanalyze); psychology, whence, after logic and its derivatives, psychologic (now usu psychological—for p. moment, see MOVE, para 8) and psychologist; psychopathy, whence psychopathic and, by b/f, psychopath—qqv at the element -path.

1. The Gr goddess Psukhē (Ψυχή), Goddess of the Soul or Spirit, personifies psukhē, a breath, the breath of life, the spirit or soul or mind-and-spirit; cf L spiritus (E SPIRIT). As spiritus is akin to spirāre, to breathe, so is psukhē to psūkhein, to breathe: both words are notably echoic; two of the four prob most remarkable echoic words in the IE group, the third and most remarkable being L anima, breath, soul, the fourth being the Gr atmos, vapour, air (cf Skt ātman, breath, soul). Gr psūkhō, I breathe, represents the out-, followed by the in-, breathing.

2. Gr psūkhē, the soul, becomes, via L psychē, the E psyche of Psy and esp of Psychi; cf Psyche, via L Psychē. The derivative Gr adj psukhikos yields E psychic and F psychique; LL psychicus, bearing—at first sight, very oddly—the contrary sense of materialistic, carnal (Souter), did not intervene.

3. Gr psūkhē, in its sense 'mind', had the derivative psūkhoun, to breathe life into, to animate, whence psūkhōsis, animation, which, misapprehended as 'state of the psyche, state of mind', became the psychosis of the psychiatrists.

4. Gr psūkhoun had the prefix-cpd empsūkhoun (em- for en-, in, into, used int), to animate, which itself, after psūkhōsis, acquired the prefix-cpd metempsūkhōsis, the passing—connoted by meta, beyond—of one person's soul, after death, into another body: whence LL metempsychōsis, E metempsychosis.

*Psychi-, Psycho-*Compounds

5. From Gr psūkhē, mind, and Gr iātreia, (the art of) healing (cf iātros, healer, physician, from iainō, I heal), SciL has formed psychiatria—cf F psychiātrie, from psychiātre—whence E psychiatry.

6. The psycho- cpds, formidable in appearance, are, in formation, easy and simple, the generally known ones being:

psychoanalysis: a SciL joining of analysis to psycho-; psychology=psycho-+-logy, discourse, from Gr -logia, from logos (f.a.e.: LOGIC); prob aided by EF psychologie (or psi-), modern sense only in 1754 (Bonnet)—from the G Psychologie of the philosopher Christian, Baron Wolff (1679-1754); EF psychologie (psi-) derives from the modern L psychologia, coined by Melanchthon (1497-1560), who himself app took it from the modern Gr title Ψυχολογία, Psūkhologia, used, in 1590, by the G philosopher Rudolf Göckel (B & W; Enci It); psychopathy=psycho-+-pathy, suffering, feeling, emotion (cf PATHIC).

psychiatry. See prec, para 5.

psycho- words in general. See that element.

psychoanalysis. See PSYCHE, para 6.

psychology. See PSYCHE, para 6.

psychopathy. See PSYCHE, both heading and para 6, s.f. psychosis. See PSYCHE, para 4.

ptarmigan: Ga tārmachan: o.o.o.: ? 'the settler'—cf Ga tārmach, to settle.

pteridology; pterodactyl. See the element -ptera.

ptisan. See PESTLE, para 5.

Ptolemaic, Ptolemy.

The former derives from Gr Ptolemaikos, adj of Ptolemaios, whence L Ptolamaeus, F Ptolémée, E Ptolemy: and Ptolemaios derives from ptolemos, var of polemos, war (cf POLEMIC).

ptomaine: It ptomaina: an -ina derivative of Gr ptōma, a corpse, itself from piptein, to fall. Cf ptosis, a SciL derivative of Gr ptōsis, a falling (from piptein).

puberal, puberty (whence pubertal), pubes, pubescence, pubescent, pubic, pubis (from the L var of pūbēs).

1. Puberal derives from L pūber, an adult, a var of pūbēs, gen pūberis. Orig an adj, pūbēs, an adult, is prob id with L pūbēs, that hair which, covering much of the pelvis, indicates the ability to generate, or to bear, children. Perh cf Skt pumán (gen pumás), a man: if pum- and pūb- be extn of an IE r pu-, L pūbēs is akin to L puer, a boy: cf PUERILE.

2. L pūber-, o/s of pūbēs, an adult, has derivative pūbertās, whence—perh via late MF-F puberté—the E puberty.

3. L pūbēs, pelvic hair, has s and o/s pūb-, whence the E adj pubic. Also from pūb- derives pūbescere, to become covered with hair or down, to become sexually adult, with presp pūbescens, o/s pūbescens-, whence, perh via EF-F pubescent, the E pubescent; derivative F pubescence is adopted by E.

public (adj, n); publican. See PEOPLE, para 5. publication, publicist, publicity, publicize; publish, publisher. See PEOPLE, para 5.

puce is flea-coloured: F puce, from puce, a flea: L pūlicem, acc of pūlex: cf Gr phulla.

Puck, puck. See POCK, para 6.

pucker. See POCK, para 8.

puckish, from Puck (see POCK, para 6).

pudding; puddening; puddle; puddy; sep POODLE; sep POUT.

1. Pudding has ME var poding: cf OE puduc, a wen, E dial puddy, pudgy, and LG puddig, stumpy, thick, (? basically) swollen: ? a Gmc r pu-*, to be swollen. From the dial var pudden comes the naut puddening, a thick fender of rope yarn—from the softness.

2. Prob akin to OE puduc, a wen, is OE pudd, a ditch, whence the ME dim puddel (podel), E puddle: cf the G dial pfudel (puudel), a puddle.

3. Akin to dial puddy (as in para 1) is the orig and still mainly dial puddy, the adj of the Sc, and N dial, puddy, a short, thick person, itself with a var—or, at the least, a, cognate—poddy, anything sticky, a mire, whence app, the adj podgy, syn with puddy.

puidency, puident—puident, whence puidental—puadic, puadicity; impudence, impudent—cf impudicity. (Not repudiate.)

L puḍere (s and r puḍ-), to be ashamed, is o.o.o. The presp puḍens has o/s puḍent-, whence E puḍent, bashful, modest; derivative LL puḍentia yields puḍency. Gerundive puḍendus has neu pl puḍenda, used as n—'genitals'; the neu s puḍendum is used in mod L for 'vulva'. From r puḍ- comes puḍicus, whence MF-F puḍique, whence puḍic; the neg impudicus has derivative impudicitās, whence impudicity, shamelessness. Puḍens, as adj, has neg impudens, o/s impudent-, whence EF-F, whence E, impudent; derivative impudentia yields EF-F impudence, adopted by E.

puddy. See PUDDING, para 3. puḍblo. See PEOPLE, para 7.

puerile, puerility; puerperal, puerperium.

Puerile derives, perh via late MF-F puérile, from L puerilis, adj of puer, a child (between infancy and adolescence), hence esp a boy; the derivative puerilitās yields, perh via late MF-F puérilité, the E puerility. Puer, moreover, has cpd puerpera, a woman in childbirth (-pera from parere, to bring forth a child: cf PARENT), whence E puerperal (esp with fever); derivative L puerperium, child-birth, is sense-adopted by Med E.— Cf the sep PUPIL (at PUP).

puff (n, v), whence puffer, puffin (puffy-eyed), pa and vn puffing, adj puffy, and also such obviously derived cpds as puff adder and puffball; pouf.

1. The n puff, ME puf, derives from ME puffen, whence 'to puff': and puffen is prob from OE pyffan, to breathe out: cf also G and MLG puffen, to buffet, MD-D puffen, to blow: ult, echoic.

2. From the syn and cognate EF-F pouffer comes pouf, jokingly employed for a woman's bonnet (C18—mid 19) and then (C19+) a large, flat cushion used as a seat—adopted by E.

pug, an elf, a small quadruped (esp dog). See POCK, para 7.

pugilism, pugilist, pugilistic. See PUNGENT, para 12.

pugnacious, pugnacity. See PUNGENT, para 13.

puisne. Cf puny; see NATIVE, para 12.

puissance, puissant. See POSSE, para 5.

puke (v, hence n), whence pukish and puky, is perh a de-sibilated derivative of spew, after MHG-G spucken, to spit, to spew, but perh independent and merely echoic.

pulchritude. See the 1st PERCH and cf the element pulchri-.

Pulex. See PUCE.

pull (v, hence n) whence, puller, pullery, pull-over: OE pullian, to pull, to pluck: cf syn LG pulen: o.o.o.: ? ult akin to L uellere, to pull violently, to pluck.

pullet. See POLECAT, para 2.

pulley. See the 2nd POLE, para 3.

pullulant, pullulate, pullulation.

L pullulare, to bear young, hence to teem, derives from pullulus, dim of pullus, the young of an animal, esp a chicken (cf pullet at POLECAT, para 2), also a bud. The presp pullulans, o/s pullulant, leads to the E adj pullulant; the pp pullulātus, to 'to pullulate', and the derivative LL pullulātio (o/s pullulātiōn-), propagation, to pullulation.

pulmonary, of or like the lungs, whence the Zoo syn pulmonar; whence also, anl, pulmonate and pulmonic (? imm from F pulmonique) and cpd pulmoniferous (cf -ferous at the element -fer). Pulmonary, like EF-F pulmonaire, derives from L pulmōnārius, adj of pulmō, a lung, o/s pulmōn-: perh metathetically from an IE r pleum-*, to breathe, as in Gr pleumōn, a lung.

pulp (n, whence v), whence the adj pulpy: EF-F pulpe: late MF poulpe: L pulpa, flesh (esp the lean of meat), pith: o.o.o.: ? cf Hit pulpuli, ? trunk of tree.—Derivative L pulpōsus yields E pulpous (cf F pulpeuse, f of pulpeux).

pulpit: L pulpitum, a trestle, a scaffold, in LL 'the platform from which the reader read scripture in church . . . ; a pulpit' (Souter): o.o.o.

pulpous, pulpy. See PULP.

pulque, a fermented drink, is adopted from Sp, which gets it app from a Mexican Amerindian source.

pulsant. See the 2nd PULSE, para 3.

pulsate, pulsation, pulsator, pulsatory. See 2nd PULSE, para 3.

pulse (1), edible seeds. See POLLEN, para 2.

pulse (2) of the heart, hence v; pulsate, pulsatile, pulsation, pulsator (whence, anl, pulsatory); pulsion, whence, anl, pulsive; push (v, hence n), whence pusher, pushful, pushing.—Compounds, whether in -pulse, -pulsion, -pulsive, -pulsory, or in -pel (var -peal), -pellant, -pellate, -pellation; or in -pellent: appeal (n, v), appellant, appellate, appellation, appellative—appulse, appulsion, whence, anl, appulsive; compel, compellation, compellent—compulsion, compulsive, compulsory; dispel; expel, expulse, expulsion, expulsory; impel, impellent—impulse, impulsion, impulsive; interpel, interpellant, interpellate, interpellation, interpellator; propel, propellant, propellent, propeller—propulsion, propulsion (whence, anl, propulsive), propulsor; repel, repellent (whence repellence)—repel (n, v)—repulse (n, v), repulsion, repulsive, repulsory.

1. At the base, stands L pellere, to push, hence to chase, hence to chase away (to rout): s pell-, r pel-: IE r pel-, varr pal-, as in Gr pallo, I shake, and pol-*, as perh in Gr polemiōz, I agitate violently, polemos, war (cf POLEMIC); with the Gr r pal-, perh cf—with b for p—Sumerian bal-, to cause to revolt, and—with r for l—Hit parh-, to drive (horses) at a gallop (Sturtevant).

2. L pellere has presp pellens, o/s pellent-, whence E -pellent, and pp pulsus, whence the n pulsus (gen -ūs), a push, a shaking, hence, in Med, prob elliptical for pulsus uēnarum, the beating or throbbing of the heart, as indicated in the wrist: ME puls: E pulse (cf EF-F pouls). 'To pulse' or throbs comes straight from the n, but pulse, to drive (obs), comes from L pulsāre, to push or drive, to beat or strike, from the n pulsus.

3. L pulsāre acts, in usage, as an int (and freq) of pellere. The presp pulsans, o/s pulsant-, becomes the E adj pulsant; the pp pulsātus yields 'to pulsate', and its derivative pulsātiō, a beating, a striking, o/s pulsātiōn-, becomes—perh via MF-F pulsation—E pulsation; its agential derivative pulsator is adopted by E; its ML derivative pulsātilis, pulsating, becomes E pulsatile. L pulsiō, o/s pulsio-, E pulsion, derives, however, from pulsus, pp of pellere.

4. L pulsāre, to push, to strike, becomes OProv polsar, later poussar, whence MF poulsar, later pousser, to push, the sense 'to grow' arising only in C16; late MF-F pousser yields 'to push', whence 'a push'—perh influenced by the syn late MF-F pousse.

5. L pellere, moreover, has—although only in cpds—the mdfn pellāre*, to push oneself, esp to address oneself to, as in appellāre, compellāre, interpellāre, the first two existing alongside appellere, compellere. In E: -pellant, -pellate, -pellation, etc.

(Paras 1–5: with thanks to E & M.)

Compounds

6. L appellāre, to address oneself ad or to, to invoke, to summon, has presp appellans, o/s appellant-, whence—perh via F—E appellant, adj hence n, and pp appellātus, whence the E adj appellate; derivative appellātiō, acc appellātiōnem, yields EF-F appellation, adopted by E, and derivative LL appellātīvus, ML -ivus, becomes the E adj appellative, the E n deriving from LL appellatīvum (sc nomen). L appellāre passes into OF as apeler (EF-F appeler), whence ME apelen, later apelen, whence ‘to appeal’; the n appeal derives from ME appel, apel, from OF-MF apel (late MF-F appel), from OF apeler.

7. L appellere, to push ad or towards, (of a ship) to touch land, with pp appulsus, whence the n appulsus (gen -ūs), whence E appulse, now mostly in Astr; whence, anl, appulsion.

8. L compellere, to drive con- or together, hence (con- used int) to urge, LL to force (to do something), becomes—prob via MF-EF compeller (or -ir)—‘to compel’; presp compellens, o/s compellent-, yields the adj compellent. The pp compulsus has derivative LL compulsio, o/s compulsio-, whence, perh via F, compulsion, whence—perh suggested by F compulsif (f -ive)—compulsive; the ML derivative compulsōrius gives us compulsory. But compellation (whence, anl, compellative) derives, of course, from L compellātiō, o/s compellātiō-, from compellātus, pp of compellāre, to accost, (later) to accuse.

9. L dispellere, to scatter (connoted by dis-) and drive away, yields ‘to dispel’.

10. L expellere, to push, to drive, out, becomes ‘to expel’; the presp expellens, o/s expellent-, accounts for the Med adj (hence n) expellent, irreg expellant.

11. L expellere has int expulsāre, to drive out (violently), whence, via late MF-F expulser, ‘to expulse’; expulsion, however, derives—via the MF-F word—from L expulsio, acc expulsio-, from expulsus, pp of expellere; as derivative ML expulsivus becomes expulsive, so derivative LL expulsōrius becomes expulsory.

12. L impellere, to push, or drive, into or onto (im- for in-) or towards, becomes ‘to impel’; its presp impellens, o/s impellent-, the adj, hence n, impellent. From the pp impulsus come: the n impulsus (gen -ūs), whence E impulse; impulsio, acc impulsio-, MF-F impulsion, adopted by E; LL impulsivus, ML -ivus, whence, perh via late MF-F impulsif (f -ive), E impulsive.

13. L interpellāre, to interrupt (connoted by inter, between) by speaking, becomes late MF-F interpeller, whence Sc legal interpel; the pp interpellātus yields ‘to interpellate’; derivative LL interpellātiō, acc interpellātiōnem, becomes late MF-F interpellation, adopted by E, and derivative LL interpellator is adopted by E (cf the EF-F interpellateur).

14. L prōpellere, to push, or drive, prō or forward, furnishes us with ‘to propel’, whence propeller; the presp prōpellens, o/s prōpellent-, with propellent, adj hence n. The pp propulsus leads, anl (after compulsion), to propulsion and to propulsor. The obs ‘to propulse’ derives from L propulsāre, int of propellere.

15. L repellere, to push, or drive, re- or back, explains ‘to repel’; presp repellens, o/s repellent- explains the E adj (whence repellence or repellency)—hence n—repellent; pp repulsus, E ‘to repulse’—the E n repulse, however, from the L derivative repulsa; derivative LL repulsio, o/s repulsio-, E repulsion (perh cf the MF-F répulsion), whence, anl, repulsive (cf late MF-F répulsif); derivative LL repulsōrius, the rare E repulsory.

16. OF apeler (as in para 6) forms the OF cpd rapeler (MF-F rappeler), to summon re- or back, whence ‘to repeal’; the E n repeal derives from OF rapel (from rapeler).

pulsometer is merely a ‘pulse-measurer’: cf prec and METER.

pulverize; pulverulent. See POLLEN, para 3.

puma, a cougar, is adopted by Sp, which adopts it from Quechuan.

pumice. See the element pumic-.

pummel: var of pommel, q.v. at FAT; para 6.

pump, n, hence v: ME pumpe, earlier pompe: app imm from MD pompe (D pomp): prob (B & W) from It pompa: ? VL pompa*, of echoic origin, opp the more tech L tromba. Walshe, like Webster, prefers origin in Sp bomba (also echoic).

pumpkin. See MELON, para 6.

pun (1), a play on words, hence v: o.o.o.: perh (Webster) from It puntiglio, a quibble (cf the E punctilio, q.v. at PUNGENT); but prob (EW) a C17 clipped form of the syn EE punnet, var pundigrion, itself perh from the It word; EW appositely cfs the F pointe, a verbal conceit. At one time, I entertained the idea that pun might afford an early example of blend: puzzle+conundrum, with *con-*pron cun-. Agent: punster.

pun (2), to beat, to pound. See the 3rd POUND.

Punch. See PUNCHINELLO.

punch (1), the drink. See PANJAB, para 2.

punch (2), a short, thick draught horse, prob comes, by abbr, from PUNCHINELLO.

punch (3), to hit with the fist, hence as n. See PUNGENT, para 11, s.f. puncheon. See PUNGENT, para 11.

Punchinello—whence Punch—or punchinello: Neapolitan dial Pulcinella (adopted by It), a figure in regional farce, perh from It pulcina, a chicken (from L pullus, as in pullet, q.v. at POLECAT, para 2); the Neapolitan var Polecenella becomes F Polichinelle. (Prati.) punctate, punctuation. See PUNGENT, para 3.

punctilio, punctilious. See PUNGENT, para 4.

punctual, punctuality. See PUNGENT, para 5.

punctuate, punctuation. See PUNGENT, para 6.

punctum. See PUNGENT, para 2.

puncture. See PUNGENT, para 7.

pundit: Hindi paṇḍit, from Skt paṇḍita, a learned man—esp in Hindu lore.

pungent (cf the obs punge), whence pungence, pungency; punct, punctum—punct, v; punctate, punctuation, punctator; punctule; punctilio, punctilious; punctual, punctuality; punctuate, punctuation (whence, anl, punctuative, punctuator); puncture, n hence v; pounce, a talon, hence to leap on, as with talons; punch, to hit with the fist, hence n; puncheon; point (n, v), point-blank, point-device (or -devise), pointer (from point, v), pointless (point, n+-less), pointsman (points, pl n+man)—pointel—pointillism; poignant, whence poignancy.—L pugil: pugilant, pugilism, pugilist; cf pygmy.—Cpds of L pungere: compunct (obs), compunction (whence, anl, compunctious)—expunction, expunge (whence, anl, expungible). L pugnāre: poniard; pugnacious, pugnacity; expugn (obs), expugnable—neg inexpugnable; impugn, impugnation; oppugn, oppugnant, oppugnation; propugn (obs), propugnaculum, propugnatio, propugnator; repugn, repugnance, repugnant, repugnatorial.—Cpds from F: appoint, appointment; counterpoint; disappoint, disappointment; embonpoint.

Indo-European

1. L pungere, to prick, has s pung-, with pp punctus, s puncti; L pugil, a boxer, has s pug-, r pug-; pugnus, fist, has s pugn-, r pug-. The L pung-, punct-, represents a nasal var of the r pug- of pugil and pugnus; basic idea, to strike; IE r peug-* or pug-*: cf the Gr pugmē (s pugm-, r pug-), fist. One strikes with the fist.

L pungere, to prick: Direct Derivatives (Simple)

2. Pungere yields the obs 'to punge' or goad. The presp pungens, o/s pungent-, yields pungent. The pp punctus has neu punctum, retained by Sci, with derivative punct; the dim punctulum yields punctule. L punctum also becomes Sp punto, a point, esp in a game, whence, perh via F ponte, the E punt, esp in a game against the bank; the corresp 'to punt' derives rather from the E n than from F ponter.

3. L punctum gains, in ML, the derivative punctāre, to point, esp to mark with points or dots, pp punctātus, whence the E adj punctate and the E n punctuation and agent punctator.

4. The LL dim punctillum, a little point, becomes It puntiglio (cf Sp puntillo), whence E punctilio; the derivative It adj puntiglioso has at least suggested the E punctilious.

5. L punctum, as n, has var punctus (gen -ūs), with ML adj punctuālis, whence E punctual (cf the late MF-F ponctuel); derivative ML punctuālitās, o/s punctuālitāt-, becomes punctuality.

6. L punctus, a point, has, in ML, the v punctuāre, to point out, to define, pp punctuātus, whence the adj and v punctuate, developing the sense 'to separate sentences, etc., with points'—perh influenced by LL punctum in sense 'a punctuation mark'; derivative ML punctuātiō, o/s punctuātiōn-, leads to punctuation (cf EF-F ponctuation).

7. L punctus, pp of pungere, has derivative punctūra, whence E puncture.

L pungere: Indirect Derivatives (Simple)

8. L punctum, a point, a dot, becomes OF-F punct, adopted by ME; in several senses, E point (n) prob derives rather from F pointe, from L puncta, prop the f of the pp punctus. 'To point', ME pointen, comes from MF-F pointer, from the OF n point. The adj point-blank derives from the adv, itself perh from F de pointe en blanc, from a point into the white (of the target); point-device or -devise, from ME at point devis, at point exact, OF-MF devis, exact, fixed, from L diuisus, (sharply) divided.

9. OF point has MF derivative pointel, tip of a lance, where ME pointel, a stylus, now a tech of Bot and Zoo. OF-F point has the further derivative EF pointiller, to strew with dots, pp pointillé, used as n in painting, with late C19 derivatives pointillisme, pointilliste, both adopted by E and both, by AE, deprived of the -e.

10. L pungere becomes OF poindre, to prick, presp poignant, ME poynant (-ant), E poignant, with sense 'keenly affecting the senses, hence very moving', arising in C18 F.

11. Pounce, a bird's talon, app derives from ME ponson or ponchon or punchon; the last certainly yields E puncheon, a dagger (obs). Puncheon, a large cask, although perh of different origin, prob derives from puncheon, a die, a punch, a figured stamp, from a mark or sign 'punched' into the wood: and the latter puncheon (id with the 'dagger' one) derives, in ME, from MF poinchon, var of poinçon (as still in F), from punctiōnem, acc of L punctiō, a point, from the pp punctus. MF poinçon has MF-F derivative poinçonner, whence—with form prob affected by ME punchon—'to punch'.

L pugil

12. L pugil, a boxer, s and r pug-, is intimately related to pugnus (s, r pug-), a fist: whence E pugilism and pugilist and anl pugilistic; derivative L pugilāre, to box, pp pugilans, o/s pugilant-, accounts for the E adj pugilant. Corresp to L pugnus is the syn Gr pugmē, with adj pugmaios, of the size, esp the length, of a fist, hence the n Pugmaios one of a myth race of dwarves: L Pygmaeus, E Pygmy, whence the common n pygmy.

Simple Derivatives of L pugnus

13. L pugnus, a fist, has derivative pugnāre, to strike, hence to fight, with one's fists, hence to fight generically, whence pugnāx, combative, gen pugnācis, whence E pugnacious; derivative pugnācītās, o/s pugnācītāt-, gives us pugnacity.

14. L pugnus becomes OF-F poign, whence, though perh not imm, the EF-F poignard, whence E poniard.

Compounds of pugnāre

15. L expugnāre, to fight (a garrison) out of a place, hence to take by assault, yields MF expugner, whence 'to expugn'; derivative L expugnābilis becomes MF, hence E, expugnable. The L neg inexpugnabilis becomes late MF-F inexpugnable, adopted by E.

16. L impugnāre, to fight in, against, passes through MF impugner into ME impugnen, E 'to impugn', now to assail verbally, to question pugnaciously; derivative L impugnātiō, o/s impugnātiōn-, becomes impugnatio.

17. L oppugnāre, to deliver battle ob, around, yields 'to oppugn', to assail; presp oppugnans, o/s oppugnans-, E oppugnant; oppugnātiō (from pp oppugnātus), o/s oppugnātiōn-, E oppugnatio.

18. L repugnāre, to fight back, i.e. backwards, to repel by fighting, yields—perh via MF-F répugner—'to repugn' or oppose; presp repugnans, o/s repugnans-, becomes MF repugnant (EF-F ré-), adopted by E, as is MF repugnance (F ré-). Derivative L repugnātorius explains Zoo E repugnatorial, serving to repel—fitted for repelling—the enemy.

Compounds (direct) of L pungere

19. L compungere (com- for con-, using int), to prick severely, LL to prick one's conscience, has pp compunctus, whence compunct (obs), conscience-stricken; derivative LL compunctius, ML -ivus, yields compunctive, and derivative LL compunctiō (o/s compunctiōn-), remorse, repentance, becomes OF-MF compunction (EF-F componction), adopted by E.

20. L expungere, to prick out, to mark (with dots) for deletion, becomes 'to expunge', whence, anl, expungible, erasable; derivative LL expunctiō (from pp expunctus), o/s expunctiōn-, yields expunction.

Compounds, via French, of L punctus (pp) and punctum (n)

21. From L punctum, a point, derives—after punctāre (cf para 3)—VL appunctāre*, to bring to (ap- for ad) the point, to fix the points of a contract or an agreement (perh of LL appungere, to 'attach a critical point (to a passage in a book)': Souter), whence MF apointer (EF-F appointer), orig a legal term that perh derives rather (B & W) from OF point, a point; whence ME apointen, later appointen, whence 'to appoint'. Derivative MF-F appointement leads to E appointment.

22. MF apointer has its own cpd: MF desapointer (EF-F désappointer), to dismiss from an apointement or office; whence 'to disappoint', in that sense, the modern E sense arising only in C16, whence the modern F sense.

23. Late MF-F contre-point is anglicized as counterpoint; EF-F embonpoint, plumpness, esp a 'corporation', from en bon point, in good point or form or condition, is adopted by E.

punish, punishment; punition, punitive. See PAIN, para 4.

Punjab, Punjabi. See PANJAB.

punk, a prostitute (late C16—early 18, then archaic), whence, prob, the A sl senses 'young tramp'—'worthless young fellow', etc., is o.o.o.; the A sl punk is prob influenced by AE punk, wood so dry as to be crumbly, hence fit only for burning (of Alg orig—cf Lenape punk, ashes, powder: Webster); the E sense perh conceals a learned pun on L (femina, or puella, saepe) puncta, a woman, or a girl, frequently punctured. Adj: punky.

punster. See the 1st PUNED, s.f.

punt (1), boat. See PONS, para 3.

punt (2), to gamble. See PUNGENT, para 2.—Hence the gambling punter.

punty. See PONS, para 2.

puny. See NATIVE, para 12.

pup (n, hence v), from puppy; puppet (whence puppetry), and poppet; pupa (c/f pupi-), whence pupal and purpate; pupil (of eye; scholar, whence pupillage), pupillary.—Cf the sep PUERILE.

1. Puppy, orig a toy dog, derives from MF-F poupée, itself from VL puppa*, a doll, from L pūpa, a girl child, hence a puppet, a doll, orig a nursery word, prob from L puer, orig any child (f.a.e., PUERILE).

2. L pūpa is sense-adapted by SciL to mean 'an insect in the intermediate stage'.

3. Pūpa has dim pūpillus (m), pūpilla (f), which in L Law, came to designate a child, esp an orphan child, in the charge of a guardian or of a tutor, whence the sense 'young scholar': whence MF-F pupille, orig in the L legal sense: whence E pupil. The L derivative adj pūpillāris yields pupillary. L pūpilla also denoted the pupil of the eye, 'so named because of the tiny image reflected there' (E & M): MF-F pupille, E pupil.

4. VL puppa* becomes dial MF-EF poupe, with late MF-F dim poupette, little doll, whence ME popet, whence both poppet and, re-shaped after L, puppet.

puppl. See prec, para 3.

puppet. See PUP, para 4.

puppy. See PUP (heading).

purblind. See PURE, para 7.

purchase (v and n), whence purchasable, purchaser. See CATCH, para 3.

pardah: Urdu, from Per, pardah, a veil.

pure, purity—negg impure, impurity; purée; purify, purification, purificatory; purin or purine; purism, purist; Puritan (whence puritan), whence Puritanical (whence p-) and Puritanism (whence p-); purblind;—depurant, depurate, depurative (whence, anl, deuration and deurator).—purge (v, hence n), purgation, purgative (adj, hence n), purgatory, adj and n (whence purgatorial); expurgate (adj, n), expurgation (whence, anl, expurgative, expurgator, expurgatory), expurge.

1. Standing behind all these terms is L pūrus, spotless, soiled, hence (lit and fig) pure, s pūr-, r perh pū-*: cf Skt pūtās, purified, pure, pundīti, he purifies, cf pavate, he cleanses or purifies, but prob not L putus, unmixed, pure.

2. L pūrus becomes OF-F pur, f pure: ME pur, pure: E pure. The LL derivative pūritās, o/s pūritāt-, becomes OF purité, MF-F pureté, whence ME purte, purete, whence—after the L—purity. The L neg impūrus and its LL derivative impūritās (o/s impūritāt-) become MF-F impur (f impure) and impureté and, perh independently, EE-E impure, impurity.

3. L pūrus has derivative pūrāre, to purify, whence MF-F purere (pp puré), whence the MF-F n purée, a sieved soup, adopted by E; but the F-looking purin or purine=L purus+SciL uricum, uric acid+the Chem suffix -in.

4. The late C16-mid 17 Puritan adds the n-from-adj -an to LL pūritās.

5. OF-F pur has the EF-F derivatives purisme, puriste, whence E purism, purist.

6. L pūrus has the cpd v pūrificāre (c/f pūri+ficāre, a c/f of facere, to make), with pp pūrificātus, whence pūrificātiō, acc pūrificātiōnem, whence OF-F purification, adopted by E; 'to purify' derives from OF-F purifier (from pūrificāre). Derivative LL pūrificātōrius yields purificatory.

7. Whereas purblind derives from ME pur blind, wholly blind, depurant, 'to depurate', depurative derive from ML dēpurant-, o/s of the presp dēpurans—dēpurātus, pp—dēpurātivus (adj from the pp s).

L pūrgāre

8. L pūrgāre has the OL derivative pūrgāre* (cf L iūrāre—iūrgāre: E & M), whence, by contr, L pūrgāre, to purify, to cleanse (lit and fig): whence OF purgier, MF-F purger: whence 'to purge', whence 'a purge'—prob suggested by F purge, juridical in late MF-EF, medical since C17. On the L pp pūrgātus are formed L pūrgātiō, acc pūrgātiōnem, OF-F purgation, adopted by E, and pūrgātiuus, ML -ivus, MF-F purgatīf, f -ive, E purgative, and LL pūrgātōrius, E purgatory (adj); the n purgatory comes, prob via OF-F purgatoire, from ML pūrgātōrius (prop the neu of the LL adj: cf LL pūrgātōrium, a purgative, a means of cleansing: Souter) in the Eccl sense.

9. L pūrgāre has the cpd expūrgāre (ex- used int), to purify, cleanse, purge, with pp expūrgātus, whence the adj (obsol) and v expurgate; derivative expūrgātiō, o/s expūrgātiōn-, yields expurgation; the very probable ML expūrgātorius* perh accounts for expurgatory.

purée. See prec, para 3.

purfle. See FILAMENT, para 9.

purgation, purgative, purgatory. See PURE, para

8.

purge. See PURE, para 8.

purification, purificatory, purify. See PURE, para 6.

purin or purine. See PURE, para 3.

purism, purist. See PURE, para 5.

Puritan, puritanical, Puritanism. See PURE, para 4 and heading.

purity. See PURE, para 2.

pur (1), n: a liquor. See PEARL, para 2.

pur (2), v: to ripple, swirl, eddy, hence as n. To pir or purl, to ripple, is of Scan origin—cf Nor purla (Sw porla), to ripple, to murmur: prob echoic.

pur (3), v, as in embroidery, derives from 'a purl' or border, edging, made with gold (or silver) thread or with twisted wire: earlier pir, n, from pir, v: It *pir*ale, to twirl about: app from It pirolo, a spinning top; prob akin to PIROUETTE. (EW.)

purlieu is a f/e corruption—after F lieu, a place—of AF puralee (var poralee), from OF-MF puraler (poraler), to go through, hence to survey: pur-, L per, through+aler (F aller), to go—cf E alley at AMBULANCE.

purloin. See LONG, para 9.

purple (n, hence adj and v); purpura, purpurate (adj)—purpure—purpureal and purpureous—purpurescent—purpuric (acid)—purpurino—purpurite; porphyry, (whence porphyritic), porphyrogenite.

1. Purple derives from ME purpel, an l-for-r metathesis of ME purpre, adopted from OF-MF purpre (C11, porpre; EF-F pourpre), rather than adapted from OE purpure: L purpura, a purple dye, a purple fish: Gr porphura, the fish, hence the dye obtained therefrom: o.o.o., perh (Hofmann) from Asia Minor.

2. L purpura is sense-adapted by Med; its derivatives purpurātus, purpureus, become E purpurate, purpureous (var purpureal); Her purpure survives from ME, which derives it from L purpura. Purpurescent=L purpura+the inch suffix -escent; purpuric=L purpura+adj -ic; purpurin=L purpura+Chem -in (cf the F adj purpurin); purpurite=L purpura+Min -ite.

3. Gr porphura has derivative adj porphuros, porphureos, whence ML porphyreus, It porfiro, OF porfire, EF-F porphyre, E porphyry. Gr exhibits also the adj porphuritēs, which, used as n (elliptical for porphuritēs lithos), becomes L porphyrites, a purple-hued precious stone, whence E porphyrite. LGr porphurogennetos, lit 'born of porphyry', passes through ML porphyro genitus into E porphyrogenite, a son born into the purple.

purport. See the 3rd PORT, para 10.

purpose. See POSE, para 18.

purpura, purpurate, purpure, purpureal (-eous), purpuric, purpurin, purpurite. See PURPLE, para 2.

purrr, v, hence n, is eminently echoic: cf MURMUR (mur-mur).

purse (n, hence v), whence purser; bursar, bursary—cf BOURSE; disburse, disbursement; reimburse, reimbursement;—sporrān.

1. Purse, ME purse, earlier purs, OE purs, derives—p for b—from LL bursa, a leather bag, itself adopted from Gr: o.o.o.?

2. LL bursa becomes OF borse, later MF-F bourse, purse, hence the exchange of money, hence la Bourse, the Stock Exchange of Paris; in E, bursa is used by An and Zoo for a sac, with adj bursal. Bursar, whether in the E or in the Sc sense, derives either from ML bursārius (bursa+-ārius) or from the late MF-F boursier; bursary, from ML bursāria, prop the f of adj bursārius.

3. MF bourse has MF-F derivative desbourser (later déboursier), to pay out (connoted by des-, L dis) from one's purse, whence 'to disburse'; disbursement, imm from the v, perh owes something to EF-F déboursement, precisely as 'to reimburse' and reimbursement owe something to late MF-F rembourser and remboursement.

4. LL bursa is akin to, it may even (b becoming p, with an int s-prefixed) have generated, E sporan, Ga sporan: cf the syn MlR sboran.

purslane. See PORK, para 5. pursuance, pursuant, pursue, pursuer, pursuit, pursuivant. See SEQUENCE, para 7.

pursy, short-winded: AF pursif: MF-F poussif (pousser+adj -if), 'from pousser in the sense "to breathe hard"' (B & W): from L pulsāre: f.a.e., the 2nd PULSE.

purulence, purulent. See FOUL, para 6.

purvey, purveyance, purveyor. See VIDE, para 14.

purview. See VIDE, para 14.

pus. See FOUL, para 6.

push. See the 2nd PULSE, para 4.

Pushta. See PATHAN.

pusillanimity, pusillanimous. Cf the element pusilli-, but see ANIMAL, para 6.

puss (1), a cat, whence pussy, whence 'to pussy-foot' or walk stealthily like a predatory cat: o.o.o., but prob echoic of a cat spitting: cf D poes, cat, and Ga puis, cat, piseag, kitten, ? also W pws, an expelled breath, an utterance: prob also Sumerian pū (gen pī), the mouth.

puss (2), the face: A sl and dial: Ir pus, a lip, the lips, (usu pej) the mouth.

pustule. See PREPUCE, para 2, and cf the element pustuli-.

put, to thrust or throw, hence to place firmly, hence the mainly dial n put, with golfing var putt; hence also the agent putter (two pronn) and the vn putting; hence, further, input and output;—perh pothor and bother.

1. 'To put', ME putten, earlier puten, OE putian, var potian, to thrust or push: cf Ice puta, D peuteren, MD peuderen, poderen, to stir, to fumble: ? ult echoic.

2. Pother, n hence v, and bother, v hence n, are o.o.o., but perh both akin to 'to put': cf esp the MD peuderen, poderen. There is, however, some reason to suppose that pothor, earlier pudder, owes its modern form to bother, and that bother is independent and of C origin (EW)—cf Ir bodhrain, Elr bodraim, I deafen (someone) with noise, Ga bodhair, to deafen, and Ga bodhar, OIr bodar, deaf.

putative. See the 2nd COUNT, para 2.

putid. See FOUL, para 7.

putrefaction, putrefy; putrescence, putrescent; putrescible; putrid, putridity. See FOUL, para 7.

putt. See PUT (heading).

puttee: Hi paṭṭī, a bandage, prop a strip (of cloth): Skt paṭṭikā: Skt paṭṭa, perh akin to Skt paṭṭra, a feather, a wing, hence a leaf: for Skt paṭṭra, cf FEATHER.

putty. See POT, para 3.

puzzle. See POSE, para 14, s.f.

pycni- (pycno-), pyelo-, -pygal (-pygous), words in. See the elements pycno-, pyelo-, -pygal.

pygmy. See PUNGENT, para 12, s.f.

pygo-. See the element -pygal.

pyjama. See PAJAMA.

pylon, orig a gateway (building): Gr pulōn, a gateway: Gr pulē, a gate: o.o.o.: ? cf, with l for r, the Skt gōpuram, a city-gate.

pyloric is the adj of An pylorus: cf the element pyloro-.

pyo-, words in. See that element.

pyramid (n, hence v), whence—unless from ML p̄yramidālis—the adj pyramidal, derives from OF-F pyramide: LL p̄yramida: L pyramis, o/s pyramid-: Gr p̄yramis, o/s pyramid-: prob either from Eg pi-mar, the pyramid (Webster), or ironically from Gr p̄yramis, a sort of cake.

pyre. See FIRE, para 3.

Pyrenean derives from L Pyrēnaeus*, attested by Pyrēnaei (montes), suggested by Gr ta Purēnaia orē, the mountains of Purēnē; the range, also called simply Purēnē (L Pyrene), derives either, first, from a Danubian city Purēnē, visited by traders from Massilia (Marseilles), or (Webster), myth, from Purēnē, a girl beloved of Hercules and buried there, Purēnē being prob, at least orig, a nickname 'Roundhead', from purēn, a knob, a fruit-stone (cf the element pyreno-).

pyreno-, pygo-, words in. See those elements.

pyriform. See PEAR, para 1, s.f. pyrites. See FIRE, para 4.

pyrogenic, pyromania; pyrotechnic. See the element pyro-.

pyroxene. See the element -xene.

Pyrrhic, esp in Pyrrhic victory, one too dearly gained. The Gr King Pyrrhus, L from Gr Purrrhos, in defeating the Romans, 279 B.C., lost a very high proportion of his soldiers and exclaimed, 'One more such victory over the Romans, and we are utterly undone'. Purrrhos is prob of same origin as Purrrhō, the Gr philosopher known to us as Pyrrho: 'The Red-Haired', from Gr pur, q.v. at FIRE.

pyrrho-, words in. See that element.

Pyrus. See PEAR, para 1, s.f.

Pythagorean or -ian, whence Pythagoreanism, derives from L Pythagoreus, trin of Gr Puthagoreios, adj of Puthagoras, E Pythagoras, a famous early Gr philosopher.

pytho-, words in. See that element.

python derives from L Python, Gr Puthōn, the great primeval serpent slain by Apollo at Puthō, the very ancient name of Delphi and its surrounding district; hence the huge, non-venomous snakes we call pythons.

pyx, pyxis (pl pyxides). Pyx derives from a ML sense acquired by the L pyxis, a box, trin of Gr pyxis, a box, orig one made of boxwood: an -is or 'derivative, or descended, from' alteration of Gr puxos, the box tree or its wood: cf BOX. Pyx is Eccl; pyxis, Hist, An, Bot.

pyxie, when not a bad spelling of pixy, an A evergreen creeper, is perh a confusion between Gr puxos, box tree, L pyxis, and pixy.

pyxis. See PYX.

Q

quab. See QUAVER, para 2. quack (whence quackery) is an echoic v, hence n: cf MD quacken, quaken (D kwakken), MHG-G quaken, to quack, ON kvaka, to twitter. MD has the cpd quacksalver (D kwakzalver), one who quacks or boasts about his salves: whence E quack-salver, whence E quack, a Med charlatan.

quad is coll short for quadrangle and has, as var, the slquod, a prison, from a prison's courtyard; for quadrant, quadrat, quadruped, quadruple, quadruplet, quadruplex, see f.a.e., next.

quadra, whence quadric; quadragenarian; Quadragesima, Quadragesimal—cf quarantine; quadral; quadrant (adj, n), whence quadrantal; quadrat, quadrata (adj, n), whence quadratic—quadrature; quadrua; quadrille.—Cpds in quadr-: quadrangle, quadrangular; quadrennial (see ANNUAL, para 3); quadriform; quadrilateral (adj, hence n: cf the element quadri-); quadrillion; quadrupartite (see the element quadri-); quadrivium; quadrumana, whence quadrumanous; quadruped (see FOOT, para 20); quadruple, quadruplet, quadruplicate (see PLY, para 25).—quart, quartan, quartation; quarter (n, hence v, whence quartering), quarterage, quarter-master; quartern; quartet, quartette; quartile (adj, hence n); quarto.—quatern, quaternary; quaternion—cf carillon; quaternity.—quatorzain; quatrain; quatral; quatrefoil; quadrille; quadroon.—quarry.—Sep QUIRE (of paper) and SQUAD, SQUADRON and SQUARE.

Indo-European

1. Primary to the entire group is L quattuor, 4, of which quadr- (quadra-, quadri-, quadru-) is the c/f; the ordinal is quārtus; the adv, quāter. Akin to quattuor are Skt catvāras, neu catvāri, Gr tettares (Attic) or tessares or teiores (Doric), c/f tetra-, OIr ceithir, OSI četyre; the IE etymon is app kuetuor-* or kwetwor-*.—The Gmc cognates are treated sep at FOUR; the Gr at TETRA.

2. L quattuor has the VL var quattor*, whence OF-F quatre, as in quatrefoil, a four-leaved flower (quatre+OF foil, feuille—cf F feuille); derivative EF-F quatrain is adopted by E—cf quatorzain, a 14-lined poem, a sonnet, from MF-F quatorzaine, from quatorze, 14, from VL quattordecim*, L quattuordecim, lit '4+10'. App from F quatre, comes Gram quatral, with var quadrua from the L quadr-.

3. The cognate L adj quadrus, square, occurs mostly as n quadra, a square, esp in Arch, whence its use in European Arch, e.g. a plinth; E quadra has adj quadral. In L, quadra has derivative quadrāre, to square (vt and vi), with pp quadrans, o/s quadrant-, whence the E adj, hence n, quadrant, with many tech senses, and with pp quadrātus, whence E quadrata, adj hence n (var quadrat); An exhibits quadrātus used as n. Derivative L quadrātūra becomes quadrature.—L quadrus acquires, in Sp, the n quadro, a battle square, with dim cuadrilla, whence EF-F quadrille, with new senses: adopted by E.

4. L quattuor, 4, has cognate quadrāgintā, 40, with adj quadrāgēsimus, 40th, whence LL Quadrāgēsima, Lent, also Quadragesima Sunday, both senses adopted by Eccl E; derivative LL quadrāgēsimalis, yields E quadragesimal. Akin to L quadrāgintā is L quadrāgēni, whence quadrāgēnārius, forty years old, whence in LL a man of that age, whence E quadragenarian.

5. L quadrāgintā, 40, becomes quadranta*, whence VL (LL) quarranta, whence It quaranta, with derivative quarantina, a set of 40, esp of 40 days, whence—cf the OF-F quarantaine—the E quarantine; the legal quarantine owes much to ML buarentena (from LL-VL quarranta).

Compounds in quadr-

6. Quadrangle: LL quadrangulum, a quadrangle: L quadrangulus, 4-cornered (cf ANGLE); derivative LL quadrangulāris yields quadrangular;

quadrennial: see ANNUAL, para 3; quadriform: LL quadriformis, 4-shaped (cf FORM); quadrilateral: EF-F quadrilatéral, from EF quadrilatère: L quadrilaterus: c/f quadri-+laterus, from later-, o/s of latus, a side; quadrillion: EF-F quadrillion (F var quatrillion): quadr-+million (cf MILE); quadrupartite: L quadrupartitus, pp of quadri-partīri, to divide into 4 parts—cf PART; quadrivium: ML form of LL quadrivium, a group of 4 Math sciences, from L quadrivium, a four-ways (uia, ML via, a way or road), a crossways;

Quadrumana, in Zoo a group of 4-handed mammals: a SciL formation: quadru-, var of quadri-+L manus, hands (cf MANUAL);

quadruped: see FOOT, para 20; quadruple: EF-F quadruple: L quadruplus, var of quadruplex, 4-fold, o/s quadruplici-: see PLY, para 25.

L quārtus

7. L quārtus, 4th, becomes OF-EF quart, whence —cf the L derivative nn quārta, quārtum—the MF-F n quart, var quarte: whence E quart. L quārtus has extn-mdfn quārtānus, whence quārtāna, elliptical for quārtāna febris, quartan fever, occurring every four days (reckoned inclusively): MF-F quartaine and, prob independently, E quartan. Quartation is an anl E formation, as if from L quārtātiō*.

8. L quārtus has the further extn quārtārius, the fourth part of a measure: OF-F quartier: E quarter. Derivative MF-EF quarterage is adopted by E. Quartermaster imitates F quartier-maitre. Quartern, ME quarteroun, derives from MF-F quarteron, from OF-MF quartier; quartet, var of quartette, from F quartette (It quartetto); quartile, from ML quārtilis (from quārtus); quarto, from L n quārtiō, in fourth.

9. L quāter, four times, acquires quāterni, four each, whence the E adj (obs), hence n (obsol), quatern; derivative quāternārius yields quaternary, adj hence n—cf late MF-F quaternaire; derivative LL quāterniō, o/s quāterniōn-, becomes E quaternion, orig a set of 4—cf carillon, which, adopted from F, derives from MF quarelon, from VL quādriniō*, o/s quādriniōn-*, reshaped, after the quadr- words, from L quāterniō; and derivative LL quāternitās, o/s quāternitāt-, yields quaternity.—Cf the sep QUIRE (2).

10. L quārtus, 4th, becomes Sp cuarto, with derivative aug n cuarterón, a quarter-Negro: whence E quadroom, reshaped after the L and E quadr- words.

English quarry

11. Reserved to the end because it looks so different from the quadra simples is quarry: ME quarey, perh influenced by ML quareia: earlier ME quarrere: OF quarriere (MF quarriere: F carrière): an -iere (F -ière) derivative of L quādrus or quādrum, a square, or squared, stone, from the adj quādrus, square.

quadragenarian. See prec, para 4, s.f.

Quadragesima. See QUADRA, para 4. quadrangle, quadrangular. See QUADRA, para 6.

quadrant. See QUADRA, para 3.

quadrat, quadrante (whence quadratic), quadrature, quadratus. See QUADRA, para 3.

quadrennial. See ANNUAL, para 3. quadic. See QUADRA (heading).

quadrilateral. See QUADRA, para 6.

quadrille. See QUADRA, para 3, s.f. quadrillion. See QUADRA, para 6.

quadrupartite. See QUADRA, para 6.

quadrivium. See QUADRA, para 6.

quadroom. See QUADRA, para 10.

quadrual. See QUADRA, para 2, s.f.

Quadrumana. See QUADRA, para 6.

quadruped. See FOOT, para 20.

quadruple, quadruplet, quadruplicate, quadruplication. See PLY, para 25.

quaestor. See QUERY, para 3.

quaff is app a var—? from long s taken as f—of the obs syn 'to quass', itself from MLG quassen: perh echoic.

quagga is of SAfr native origin: cf Zulu qwara, 'in which r=G. ch in ach' (Webster).

quaggy, quagmire. See MIRE.

quahog (AE) is of Alg origin: an aphetic (esp Narragansett) var of an Amerind word represented by Massachusetts poquahoc, a hard-shelled clam (cf the syn Pequot p'quaghhaug). The four best A dict complement one another in a most illuminating way.

quail (1), the bird: OF-MF quaille (F caille): ML quacula: echoic.

quall (2), orig to perish, is perh id with the now only dial quail, to curdle: OF-MF coaillier (F caillier), cf It quagliare: L coagulare, to coagulate: cf coagulate at COGENT. The modern sense 'to shrink or cower' prob owes something to the somewhat timorous bird.

quaint, orig skilful, knowledgeable, prudent, hence crafty, is ME queint, earlier cointe, adopted from OF-MF, which derives it from L cognitus, pp of cognoscere, to know (cog- for con-, used int+noscere, to know): f.a.e., CAN.

quake, v (hence n), whence quaker, whence Quaker; whence also pa, vn quaking and adj quaky; earthquake.—quetch.—Cf QUAG, as in quagmire, q.v. at MIRE.

1. Earthquake is simply a quake or trembling of the earth. 'To quake' comes from OE cwacian, akin to OE cweccan, to vibrate: cf Ice kwija, to move or stir: ? orig echoic.

2. The now dial quetch, to move (obs), to twitch, is, like quag, a var of quake; hence quetch grass, quaking grass.

quale; qualification (and, anl, qualificatory). qualify, whence disqualify, disqualification; quality, qualitative.

Quale, in Psy, is adopted from L, where it forms the neu of quālis, of what kind; akin to qui, quis, who (relative, interrogative): f.a.e., WHO. Quālis has derivative quālitās, o/s quālitāt-, whence, via OF-F qualité, the E quality; derivative LL quālitātūus, ML -ivus, whence—perh via late MF-F qualitatif—the E qualitative. Derivative ML quālifīcāre, to give definition to, to limit, and its n quālifīcātiō, o/s quālifīcātiōn-, pass through late MF-F and EF-F to become 'to qualify' and qualification.—Complementary and akin is quantity, q.v. at QUANTIC.

qualm, whence qualmish and qualmy, orig denoted a sudden nausea or faintness or fear, and is akin to G Qualm, black smoke (LG and D: kwalm, Sw kvalm), MHG twalm, stupor: o.o.o.: sem cf vapours (EW). Connexion with OE cwealm, (violent) death, pestilence, has not been conclusively disproved; the predominant ME form of OE cwealm is cwalm, death, slaughter, torture.

quamash. Var of camas(s).

quandary, a dilemma, perplexity, is o.o.o.: ? an easing of L quam dare, how (in what manner) to give?, How much, or in what way, shall I (or you or he) give?, or a contr, or perh blend, of L quando dare, when to give?, When (exactly) shall I (etc.) give?, or of quantum dare, how much to give?, How much shall I give?

quandong (occ quantong or quandang), the Aus 'native peach', is of Aboriginal origin.

quantic and quantum and quantulum; quantify (whence, anl, quantification and, directly, quantifier); quantily (whence quantize), quantitative.

1. Quantulum is prop the neu of L quantulus, dim of quantus (f quanta), how big or large, neu quantum, how much, which, used as n, occurs in 'the quantum theory'; whereas quantic, adj, is quantum + -ic, quantic the n represents quantus + -ic. L quantus, -a, -um derives from L quam, how, how much.

2. Quantus has LL derivative quantitās, a specified amount or sum, whence, via the acc quantitātem, the OF-F quantité, whence E quantity; whereas derivative ML quantitativus yields quantitative, ML quantificāre yields 'to quantify'.

3. Cf the complementary and cognate quality, q.v. at QUALE: f.a.e., WHO.

quantulum; quantum. See prec, para 1.

quarantine. See QUADRA, para 5.

quarrel (1), a square-headed bolt or arrow, hence, in Arch, a square of glass, a small square paving-stone: ME quarel, quarrel: OF-MF quarrel: VL quadrellus* or quadrellum*, dim of L quadrus, adj, quadrum, n, (a) square: f.a.e., QUADRA.

quarrel (2), discord. See QUERY, para 6.

quarry (1), orig (a part of) the entrails given to hounds that have brought a beast to bay or to a hawk that has killed, hence a prey: ME querre or quirre: MF cuirié (F curée): either (B & W) imm from OF-F cuir, from L corium, a beast's skin regarded as potential leather (cf CORTEX), or (Webster) from cuirié, pp of OF cuirier, var of OF-F curer, to clean (cf CURE), esp to eviscerate, influenced by ML cordāta, entrails, from L cor, heart (cf CORDIAL).

quarry (2), an open excavation, hence v. See QUADRA, para 11.

quart. See QUADRA, para 7. quartan. See QUADRA, para 7.

quartation. See QUADRA, para 7.

quarter, whence quartering and quarterly. See QUADRA, para 8.

quartermaster. See QUADRA, para 8.

quartern. See QUADRA, para 8.

quartet, quartette. See QUADRA, para 8.

quartile. See QUADRA, para 8.

quarto. See QUADRA, para 8, s.f.

quartz, adopted from G, is o.o.o.: but the MGH quarz prob derives from MHG quarc, a dwarf, 'like Kobalt from Kobold' (Walshe).

quash, to dash to pieces, to crush, is id with quash, to annul, for both derive from OF-MF quasser (later casser), from L quassāre, to shatter, int of quātere (pp quassus), to shake, itself prob echoic. Whereas quash, to annul, to render void, has been sense-influenced by LL cassāre, to annul, from cassus, empty (akin to carēre, to lack), quash, to crush, has been sense-influenced by 'to SQUASH'.

quasi is L quasi, as if: prob for quam (as) si (if).

Quassia, the tree, hence quassia, the drug extracted therefrom, is a SciL derivative from Graman Quassi, that Surinam Negro who, c1730, discovered the drug's virtues.

quatern, quaternary. See QUADRA, para 9.

quaternion. See QUADRA, para 9. quaternity. See QUADRA, para 9, s.f.

quatorzain. See QUADRA, para 2.

quatrain. See QUADRA, para 2; cf FOUR, para 6.

quatrefoil. See QUADRA, para 2.

quaver, v hence n, whence semiquaver, etc.; quiver, v hence n.—quab; squab.

1. 'To quiver' or tremble is a thinning of 'to quaver', which is a freq of the now dial quave, from ME cwavien: cf Sw dial kvabba and G quabbeln, to quiver, MLG quabbe, a bog: all are prob echoic.

2. The small fish named quab derives from MD quabbe (D kwabbe); and squab, a young bird (esp a young pigeon), is of Scan origin—cf Sw dial skvabb (kv=kw), a var of kvabb, anything quivery and soft and thick, and skvabba, a var of kvabba, a fat woman, and also kvabba, to quiver.

quay. See HAW, para 4.

quean. See QUEEN, para 2.

queasy, orig unsettled or uncertain, now unsettled of stomach or of conscience or taste, is o.o.o.: prob cf Nor kveis (pron kw-'), a 'hangover', and ON kveisa, a boil, a whitlow, and perh (Holthausen) Gr deisa, slime, filth.

Quebec perh derives from an Alg word for 'contraction'—of the St Lawrence river—as the EncilIt proposes.

queen (n, hence v), queenly; quean.

1. Queen, ME quen or quene, a queen, comes from OE cwēn, a woman (esp a wife), hence 'the woman' of a country, its queen: cf OS quān, woman, wife, Go qēns, ON kvān, wife, queen—Gr gunē (OSl žena), woman—Skt jani, woman, hence wife, cf Skt gand, a goddess: IE etymon, prob gwunā*, woman. (Hofmann.) OE cwēn has adj cwēnlic, womanly, whence, in part, E queenly.

2. OE cwēn, a woman, is modified as cwene, akin to the syn OS and OHG cwena, Go qinō, ON kona, a harlot: whence E quean, a slut, a harlot, whence the Sc and Northern E dial sense 'a girl' and also the sl sense 'a pathic'.

queer, adj, hence n and v; thwart, adj, hence both the naut n and the v 'to baffle'.

1. Queer, as used in C16 Scots, app=queried, questionable, and is perh independent of C16-18 cant, where it=worthless, inferior, hence dishonest, criminal, hence, in sl, dubious, unwell. The cant-hence-sl term prob derives from MHG twer (OHG dwerah, twerh), G quer, (adv) athwart: perh cf L torquere, to twist (IE r, twerkw-*), as Walshe suggests.

2. MHG twer, twerch, OHG dwerah, are akin to ON thverr, transverse, neu thvert, whence ME thwert, E thwart: cf OE thweorh, transverse, per-verse, MD dwers, dwersch, dwaers, dwers (D dwers), transverse, (lit and fig) cross-grained, and Go thwairhs, angry.

quell. See the 2nd KILL, para 2.

quench, whence the pa, vn quenching, derives from ME quenchen: OE -cwencan in ācwencan, caus of cwincan, ācwincan, to grow less, to disappear: cf OFris quinka, to dwindle, to fade away, and utquinka, to be extinguished, to die out.

quercine, quercus. See FIR, para 2.

querimonious, querimony. See QUERY, para 5.

quern, a primitive grain-mill, a small hand-mill: OE cwyrn, cweorn: cf ON kvern (kv=kw), OHG quirn, Go -quairnus: ? ult akin to cereal CORN.

querulent, querulous. See para 5 of:

querer, v (whence querist) and n:—quest (v, n); quaestor; question (v, n), whence questionable and questioner; questionary, questionnaire;—querimonious, anl from querimony; querulent, querulous; quarrel, v hence n.—Cpds: acquest—acquire (whence acquirement), acquisition, acquisitive; conquer, conqueror—conquest, conquistador; disquisition; exquisite; inquest—cf inquire, whence inquiry—cf enquire, whence enquiry—inquisition, inquisitive, inquisitor; perquisite, perquisition, perquisitor; request, n, v—cf require (whence requirement), requisite (adj, hence n), requisition.—Cf wheeze.

1. L quaerere (s and r quaer-), to seek, make an inquiry about, inform oneself of, hence to seek to obtain, to ask for, is o.o.o.: perh it is akin to L querī, to utter plaintive cries, hence to complain, and, if that be so, it is prob akin to 'to wheeze' (whence the n), ME whesen, which derives from or is, at the least, akin to ON hvaesa, to hiss, itself related to Skt śvasiti, he breathes audibly, sighs, snorts.

Simples from L quaerere

2. The n query app derives from L quaere, ask thou!, imp of quaerere; the v, either from the E n or, less prob, from quaerere, to ask, or quaerō, I ask—cf the OF-EF querre, late MF-F quérir.

3. L quaerere has pp quaesitus, occ contr to quaestus, whence the VL n quaesta*, whence OF-MF queste (late MF-F quête), whence E quest; derivative OF-MF quester (late MF-F quête) yields 'to quest'. On the pp s quaest- arises the agent quaestor, a magistrate in the criminal courts, adopted by E, with anl adj qu(a)estorial.

4. Also on quaest- is formed quaestio, a querying, acc quaestionem, whence OF-F question, adopted by ME; 'to question' derives partly from the E n and partly from MF-F questionner (from question). Whereas the adj questionary derives from the E n questionary, the n itself derives from LL quaestionarius, a judicial torturer extracting answers; questionary, n, serves also as an Anglicized form of EF-F questionnaire.

Simples from L queri

5. Querī, to complain, has the LL derivatives querimōnia (for the suffix, cf alimōnia, E alimony), whence E querimony, with adj querimonious—prob after ceremonious—LL querulōsus (var of LL querellōsus), complaining, quarrelsome, whence E querulous—and ML querulāri, to complain, presp querulans, o/s querulant-, whence (though partly after querulous) E querulent.

6. Querī has the L derivative, mostly legal n querella (querēla), whence OF-MF querelle (and as in F, querelle), ME querele, E quarrel; whence, in part, 'to quarrel', which owes something to OF-F quereller (from querelle).

Compounds from L quaerere

7. Quaerere has a number of cpds important to E. The L c/f is -quirere, s -quir-, with pp -quisitus. Acquirere, to seek, to procure, additionally, yields 'to acquire'; from the pp acquisitus are formed acquisitiō, o/s acquisitiōn-, whence—perh via MF-F—the E acquisition, and LL acquisitiuus, ML -ivus, whence E acquisitive. Pp acquisitus has neu acquisitum, which, used as n, has the VL contr acquestum*, whence OF-MF acquest (late MF-F acquét), adopted by E.

8. L conquirere (int con-), to seek for, to recruit or requisition, LL to conquer, has the VL var conquerere*, to acquire, to conquer, whence OF-EF conquerre (soon also conquerir, F conquérir), whence 'to conquer'; derivative OF-MF conquereor becomes E conqueror. OF conquerre has pp conquest, f conqueste, which, used as MF n (EF-F conquête), becomes the E conquest. Conquistador, with pl conquistadores, as in 'the C., or Sp conquerors of CA and Peru', is taken from Sp, which derives it from conquistar, to conquer, from ML conquistāre, from conquisitum, supine of conquirere.

9. L exquirere, to seek ex or out, to seek carefully for, yields the obs 'to exquire'; pp exquisitus, used as adj 'refined, elegant', yields exquisite, adj hence n. The almost syn disquirere, pp disquisitus, has derivative disquisitiō, o/s disquisitiōn-, whence disquisition.

10. L inquirere, to search in or into, yields 'to inquire'; 'to enquire', reshaped from the L, derives from ME enqueren, from OF-early MF enquerre (MF enquerir, F enquérir), from VL inquaerere*, from L inquirere. On the pp inquisitus are formed L inquisitiō, whence, via the acc inquisitiōnem, the OF-F inquisition, adopted by E—LL inquisitiuus, ML -ivus, whence E inquisitive—L inquisitor, whence, prob via late MF-F inquisiteur, the E inquisitor—and ML inquisitōrius, whence EF-F inquisitorial, adopted by E. Inquest is reshaped, after L, from ME enqueste, adopted from OF-MF enqueste (late MF-F enquête), either orig the f of pp enquest*, from OF enquerre, from VL inquaerere*, from L inquirere (B & W), or from VL inquaesita*, n from inquaesitus*, pp of inquaerere* (Webster).

11. L perquirere, to seek on all sides, to diligently ask for, has pp perquisitus, neu perquisitum, which, used as n, accounts for E perquisite; derivatives LL perquisitiō, o/s perquisitiōn-, and L perquisitor become E perquisition (perh imm from late MF-F) and perquisitor.

12. L requirere, to ask re- or again for, yields 'to require', ME requiren, earlier requeren, from OF-MF requerre (MF-F requérir), from VL requaerere* (from requirere). The L pp requisitus gives us requisite; derivative requisitiō, o/s requisitiōn-, becomes OF requisition (MF-F ré-), adopted by E. 'To request' derives from OF-MF requester (F requêter), from the OF-MF n requeste (F requête), adopted by ME, whence E request: and OF requeste derives either from OF request, pp of requerre, or from VL requaesita*, prop the f of the pp of requaerere*.

quest. See prec, para 3. question, questionnaire, questionnaire. See QUERY, para 4.

quetch. See QUAKE, para 2.

quetzal, loosely quezal, a brilliant CA bird, derives from Sp quetzal, short form of quetzale: Nahuatl quetzalli, a tail feather—esp of the quetzaltotil, as the Aztecs call the bird, itself=quetzalli (from quetza, it stands up)+totil, a bird. Cf the Aztec god Quetzacoatl, lit '(the) plumed serpent': quetzalli+coatl (or cohuatl), a serpent, lit 'hurting thing'. (Webster.)

queue. See CUE.

quib (obs), whence the dim quibble (n, hence v—whence quibbler), derives from L quibus, to whom, as in 'to whom it may concern': dat pl of qui, who: f.a.e., WHO.

quick, quicken, quickness, quicksand, quicksilver. See VIVA, para 7 and heading.

quid (1), for chewing. See CUD.

quid (2), sl for £1 (coin or sum), is o.o.o.; but prob suggested by L quid pro quo, something for something, hence a fair exchange. L quid is the neu of quis, who?: whence the scholastic ML quidditas o/s quidditat-, whence E quiddity: cf the archaic quillet, a quibble, perh a slovening of quidlibet, anything you please, from quid tibi libet, What pleases thee?

quiesce, quiescence, quiescent. See para 2 of:

quiet (adj—whence quieten; n; v)—quietism, quietist—quietude—quietus—quiesce, quiescence, quiescent; coy, whence coyness; quit (adj and v), quittance; quite.—Prefix cpds: acquiesce, acquiescence, acquiescent—cf acquit (whence acquittal), acquittance; disquiet (adj n, v), disquietude—cf inquiet (adj, v), inquietude; requiem, requiescat in pace, requiescence—cf requite, whence requitual; tranquil (whence tranquillize), tranquillity.—Cf the sep WHILE (AWHILE, WHILOM).

1. Quiet, n, derives from L quies-, o/s of quies, repose, calm, hence peace; quiet, adj, from L quiesus—prob orig the pp of quiescere, to rest, itself from the n quies—via MF-EF quiet; 'to quiet', from LL quietare, to put to rest, from quiesus. The E n quietus derives from ML quiesus est, he is quiet, implying the 'at last' of death. Quiesus has derivative LL quiesitudo, whence quietude, literary for ordinary quietness (quiet, adj+-ness). L quiesus becomes It quieto (now cheto), whence quietismo, quietista, whence E quietism, quietist.

2. Quiesus displaced the adj quies (gen quiesis), whence quiescere, to be or keep quiet, to rest, whence 'to quiesce'; presp quiescens, o/s quiescent-, yields quiescent, and the derivative LL quiescentia yields quiescence and quiescency.

3. L quiesus becomes VL quiesus*, whence OF quei, MF-F coi, E coy (whence coyness).

4. L quiesus becomes VL quitus*, whence the OF-F adj quitte, whence the E adj quit, whence the n quits; ML quitus has derivative vi quitare, whence OF-F quitter, whence ME quitten, quiten, E 'to quit'. OF quitter acquires, via the presp quittant, the n quittance, adopted by ME, where often quittance. In C13-17, the adj quit had the var quite (also a var in MF), whence the ME-E adv quite. The legal quitclaim (v, hence n) derives from MF quite clamer, to declare quit or free or clear.

Prefix-Compounds

5. L acquiescere, to give oneself ad, to rest, hence to find one's rest, or peace (in something), becomes late MF-F acquiescer, whence 'to acquiesce'; the L presp acquiescens, o/s acquiescent-, yields acquiescent, whence—unless from EF—acquiescence.

6. The OF v quitter has cpd acquiter (MF-F acquitter), whence ME acquiten, E 'to acquit'; derivative acquittance (MF-F acquittance) yields E acquittance.

7. Disquiet, disquietude simply prefix dis-, implying 'want of', to quiet: cf inquiet, adj and n, from L inquiēs, o/s inquiēt-, adj and n; derivative LL inquiētūdō yields inquietude, and derivative inquiētāre, 'to inquiet' (obsol).

8. L quies, n, has cpd requies, a rest again, a respite, hence simply rest: whence, via 'Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine' (Grant them eternal rest, O Lord: the Introit of the Mass begins thus), the E requiem. The corresp v requiescere, presp requiescens, o/s requiescent-, yields both the rare adj requiescent, whence, anl, requiescence, and the LL tag Requiescat in pace, May he rest in peace!

9. Prob akin to L quies is L tranquillus, calm (esp of the sea): app trans, across, beyond, (hence) all the way across or through+quillus, perh for quillus* (for quielus*): ? 'calm throughout'. L tranquillus yields late MF-F tranquille and, perh independently, E tranquil; the derivative L tranquillitas, o/s tranquillitat-, yields OF-F tranquillité, whence tranquillity; and EF-F tranquilliser (from tranquille) perh suggested 'to tranquillize'.

quiff is a sl var of coif.

quill, ME quil, is akin to MHG kil, G Kiel (cf LG quiele): o.o.o.

quillet, a quibble. See the 2nd QUID.

quilt (n, hence v); quoit, orig a discus, whence the game quoits.

1. Quilt, ME quilde, derives from OF-MF cuilte, coilte (late MF-F coite, with var couette), itself from L culcita, a bed, a cushion; akin to Skt kūrca, a bundle.

2. Quoit, ME coite, ? orig a flat stone, app comes—with changed sense—from MF-F coite.

quin. See FIVE, para 10.

quina. See QUININE.

quinary, quinate. See FIVE, para 7.

quince: a b/f from MF quynes, pl of quyne, var of coyn: MF coin (F coing): OF cooin: L cotōneum, var of cydōnium: Gr kudōnion, a quince, prop the neu of kudōnios (indeed, kudōnion malon, the Cretan fruit, occurs), either an extn of the adj Kudōn, Cretan (cf Kudōnea or -nia, Cydon, a Cretan town), or a mdfn of Kutōnton, a city of Asia Minor and therefore from a language of that country. But the earliest Gr form is kodumalon, with kodu- prob the true Near East name of the fruit; both of the PIN origins would then, as Boisacq suggests, be mere f/e explanations.

quincuncial (L quincuncialis) is the adj of quincunx, q.v. at FIVE, para 6, s.f.

quinine, quinic, quina, quinol: cinchona.

1. Quina is the Sp name of both the cinchona bark and hence of the alkaloid extracted therefrom: and whereas quinine (occ quinin)=quina+Chem -ine, -in, quinic=quina+adj -ic; the Sp quina is aphetic for Quechuan quinquina.

2. Cinchona is a SciL derivative from the Conde de Chinchón, name of a C17 Sp viceroy of Peru: his wife recommended its use (discovered by the Jesuits) after having been cured by this Peruvian (or Jesuits') bark. The name Cinchona is applied to the tree; cinchona to its bark, hence to the drug. Chinchón itself is an aug of Sp chinche, a bed-bug, L cimex.

quinquagenary, Quinquagesima. See FIVE, para 6.

quinquennial. See ANNUAL, para 3.

quinsy derives, by either contr or slovening, from ML quinancia, from Gr kunankhē, a dog-collar (kuōn, a dog, gen kunos+-ankhē, a constriction, from ankhein, to squeeze, constrict), hence a very sore throat.

quint; quintain. See FIVE, para 8.

quintal, adopted from MF-F, derives from ML quintāle, an l-for-r reshaping of Ar qinšar, itself, via Byz Gr kentēnariōn, from LL centēnārium, 100 pieces (of gold): orig the neu of the adj centēnārius, from L centum, 100.

quintessence. See ESSE, para 3.

quintet, quintette. See FIVE, para 9. quintuple, quintuplet, quintuplicate. See FIVE, para 9; cf FLY, para 25.

quinzaine, quinze. See FIVE, para 10.

quip (n, hence v, whence quipster): C16 quippy: o.o.o., but prob from L quippe, indeed, is that so?, used sarcastically: quidpe*, What then?

quire (1). See CHOIR, para 2.

quire (2), orig 4, later 24 (occ 25), sheets of paper: ME quair, quaer: OF-MF quaer, MF caer, caier (F cahier): VL quaternum*, a set of 4 sheets of paper, or a sheet folded in 4: L quāterni, 4 each, from quāter, 4 times: cf para 9 of QUADRA.

quirk, whence quirky, is o.o.o.: prob Scan (? cf Nor kvarik—pron kvarik—throat).

quirt derives, by thinning and shortening, from Mexican Sp curta, a short riding whip: obscurely from Sp cuarta, a fourth part, L quārta, elliptical for quārta pars: f.a.e., QUADRA.

quit, adj and v. See QUIET, para 4.

quitch (grass). See the 1st COUCH; cf VIVA, para 8.

quitclaim. See QUIET, para 4.

quite. See QUIET, para 4.

quits (n). See QUIET, para 4.

quittance. See QUIET, para 4.

quiver (1), n, for arrows, recorded first in C14, derives from AF quiveir: OF-MF cuivre, var of cuivre: OHG kochar, kochāri (MHG kocker, G Köcher), cf OE cocur: o.o.o. (Walshe.)

quiver (2), to vibrate or tremble. See QUAVER, para 1.

qui-vive. See VIVA, para 1, s.f.

quixotic, whence, anl, quixotism, quixotry, refers to the eccentric, generous idealism of Don Quixote, eponymous hero of Cervantes's satiric romance published in 1605, 1615. The name Quixote personifies Sp quixote (now quijote), a cuisse or thigh-piece, ref the fact that this knight rode forth in armour; quixote derives, with suffix -ote, from L coxa, hips, thigh.

quiz, orig an odd or eccentric person; later one who banters, also a piece of bantering, a jest; hence 'to quiz' or banter: hence 'to quiz' or examine orally, whence 'a quiz', such an examination—senses that go back to the prob origin of the old n and v: either a person exciting inquisitions, or, if the basic sense was *'a person asking odd questions', a person ludicrously inquisitive.

quod. See QUAD.

quoin. See COIN.

quoit, quoits. See QUILT, para 2.

quorum is the L quorum, of whom (pl), from a L phrase used formerly in the commissioning of justices of the peace: 'a select body of these justices' becomes 'any sufficiency of members entitled to transact business': f.a.e., WHO.

quota, quotient, quotiety, quotity; quote (whence quotable and quoter) and quotation, whence, anl, quotative.

1. The imm and effectual base of this tight little group is afforded by L quot, How many?, as in Quot homines, tot sententiae. So many persons, so many opinions: akin to L quis, Who?, quī, who (relative): f.a.e., WHO.

2. L quot has derivative adj quotus, In what number?: whence, elliptical for quota pars (How numerous a part or proportion?), the ML quota, a part-share, a proportion (of countable objects), adopted by E. From ML quota, learned late MF(-F) formed—after quantité, quantity—quotité, whence E quotity.

3. L quot has the further derivative quoties or quotiens, How many times?: whence the learned late MF-F quotient, adopted by E.

4. From L quoties, but prob influenced by quotity, E has coined quotiety.

Quote

5. Either from L quotus or perh from ML quota, ML forms quotāre, to distinguish by numbers, hence to divide a literary work into not only chapters but also verses: whence—perh aided by late MF quoter (EF-F coter), to number (the parts of)—the E 'to quote'. Derivative ML quotātiō, o/s quotātiōn-, yields E quotation (as also in late MF).

quoth, quotha; bequeath (whence bequeathal) and bequest.

1. Quotha=quoth'a, said he (dial 'a for he): a sarcastic interj, sem id with 'Sez you!' The archaic Quoth I, or he (she), said, derives from the OE pt cwaeth, from cwethan, to say, to speak: cf OFris quetha, OS and OHG quethan, OHG var quedan, Go qithan (pt qath), ON kvetha: o.o.o., but perh (Feist) cf L uetō, I forbid.

2. OE cwethan has cpd becwethan (int be-), to affirm, esp in a will: ME biquethen: E 'to bequeath'.

3. OE cwethan has the derivative or, at the least, the cognate cwide, a saying: whence ME bicwide, with var biquide, later corrupted—? after quesi—to ME biqueste: whence E bequest.

quotidian. See DIANA, final para. (Cf the element quot-.)

quotient. See QUOTA, para 3. quottiety; quotify. See QUOTA, para 4; para 2, s. f.

R

Ra, the Zeus of Ancient Egypt, personifies Eg ra or rē, the sun, for, lit, he is 'the shining, or resplendent, one'.

Rab. See ROBERT, para 2. rabban. See RABBI.

rabbet. See the 2nd BAT, para 3.

rabbi, rabbinical, rabbinism, rabbinist; rabban and rabboni.

1. Rabbi, adopted from LL, derives from LGR rhabbi: H rabbī, lit 'my great one', from H rabbh, the great one—whence E rab, master or teacher. Rabbī has pl rabbīn, whence, by b/f, the EF-F rabbīn, a rabbi, whence the EF-F adj rabbīnique, whence E rabbīnic, var rabbīnical. F rabbīn has the further derivatives rabbīnisme, rabbīniste, whence E rabbīnism, rabbīnist.

2. Aram exhibits the cognate ribbōni, lit 'my great master': whence H rabbōni, E rabbōni. Aram ribbōn has var rabbān, adopted by H, whence E rabbān.

rabbit: ME rabet; MF-F rabot, carpenter's plane, prob orig a rabbit: perh from MD robbe, dim robbeken, a rabbit, prob orig the nickname 'Robert' (EW).

rabble (1), a bar used in puddling iron: MF roable, later rule (F râble): L rutābulum, a fire shovel, app from ruere (s and r ru-), to overturn, to fall suddenly upon.

rabble (2), a swarm of animals (obs), hence a mob: ME rabel, a pack of hounds: o.o.o.: ? akin to—and, from the noise it makes, deriving from—MD-D rabbelen (LG rabbeln), to chatter, E (now dial) rabble: prob ult echoic—cf babble.

rabboni. See RABBI, para 2.

Rabelaisian: EF-F rabelaisien, adj of François Rabelais (1490–1553), satirist and humorist. The name Rabelais was perh orig an adj of Rabel, itself occ a dim from Prov raba (F rave), the plant rape. (Dauzat.) Rabelais was often grossly robust.

rabic, rabid. See RAGE, para 2.

raccoon. See COON.

race (1), n hence v, (to) rush, run fast (whence racer, racing): ME ras: ON rās, a leap, a running, akin to OE rāes, a running: prob echoic.

race (2), a family, a tribe, a people, whence racial, racy: EF-F race: It razza: prob L ratio, a species, in medieval scholastic Phil (Walshe).

race (3), a root. See RADICAL, para 3.

race (4), to scratch. See RASE, para 4.

raceme, racemic. See RAISIN.

rachis, rachitic, rachitis. See the element rachi-, 2nd para.

rack (1), neck and spine, now the foresaddle, of a carcass: OE hreacca (hreca), neck.

rack (2), a rush or a shock (obs), a mass of wind-driven clouds: akin to ON rek, something that has drifted ashore, and reka, to drive or thrust, with numerous Scan cognates; akin also to wrack, q.v. at WRECK.

rack (3), a set of bars, or a single bar, hence in torture, hence v (cf the OGmc words): ME racke, var of rekke: (prob) MD, MLG rec, a framework, recken, to put on one and stretch (OHG recchēn, Go -rakjan): caus of OGmc rikan*; IE r rig-*, as in OIr rikim and L porrigo, I stretch: cf, therefore, REACH. Whence rackrent, an excessively high rent.

rack (4). A var of wrack, q.v. at WRECK.

rack (5), a path. See the 2nd RAKE.

rack (6), a horse's gait: o.o.o.: ? id with (1) or, more prob, with the v in (3).

rack (7), as in rack-punch, is short for arrack, from Ar 'araq, spirituous liquor.

rack (8), to draw (wine) off from the lees: aphetically from Prov arraca, to treat (wine) thus: from Prov raca, the skins and stems of pressed grapes. Cf RAISIN.

rack and ruin. See WREAK, para 3; cf the 2nd RACK.

racket (1), a din (whence rackety and the v, whence, in turn, racketeer), is o.o.o. but prob echoic: perh, in part, suggested by the rattle of dice in the long-obsolete game so named, although, obviously, the game could, theoretically, have come from the noise. The AE sense derives from the E underworld.

racket (2), in ball-games: EF-F raquette (modern sense): MF raquette, palm of the hand (used before the implement was): vulgar Ar rāhet: Ar rāhar palm of hand. The indefensible form racquet arises from a confusion of E racket and F raquette.

raccoon. See COON.

racý. See the 2nd RACE.

raddle. See RED, para 2.

radial, radian, radiant, radiate, radiation, radia-tor. See the 2nd RAY, para 3. radical (adj, hence n), whence radicalism, radicalize; radical and radicle and radicule (whence, anl, radicular, radiculous), radicose; radix and radish and race, a root; radicand, radicant, radicate.—Cpds: déraciné; eradicable (whence ineradi- cable), eradicate, eradication (whence, anl, eradicative) eradicator.—Cognate: root (n, hence v), whence rootless and rooty; wort.—Also: ramus (rame), ramulus (whence, anl, ramular), ramose, ramulose (irreg ramelose).—Cf the sep LIQUORICE (AE LICORICE) and ORCHARD—and perh the sep RAY group.

1. There is app an IE r *rā-, to derive, as a growing plant, from (the soil, a tree), to grow out of or off from. In L, *rā- has the extnn *rād- (Gr rhād-) and *rām-; in Gmc, rād- has the var rōt-, with further changes or manifestations in wort. Sem, the root-branch alternation presents no difficulties, and it has phon support: E & M compare, sem, the Skt śaka, a branch, śaknis, a root, and, phon, W gwraidd, roots, gwrysgen, branch (with initial w), and Gr rhiza, a root, rhadannos, young shoot, branch. With Gr rhiza, of the element rhizo- and the E derivatives rhizoid and rhizome (Gr rhizōma).

2. L rāmus, a branch, and its dim rāmulus survive in SciE; their resp adj rāmōsus and rāmūlōsus yield E ramose (var ramous) and ramulose (var ramulous), whence the irreg Bot ramelose. Ramage, boughs, is adopted from EF-F (from OF-MF rame, from L rāmus). In ML, rāmus acquires the cpd rāmificāre, to form branches, hence to branch out, with derivative rāmificātiō, acc rāmificātiōnem:
whence MF-F ramifier and EF-F ramification: whence 'to ramify' and ramification.

L rādix

3. L rādix, a root, acc rādicem, o/s rādīc-, becomes OF-early MF rals, ralz, whence E race, a root, esp of ginger.

4. On the o/s rādīc- arises the LL adj rādīcalis, having roots, (deeply) rooted, whence the MF-F and, prob independently, the E radical. L rādix has dim rādīcula, whence E radicle, rare for the more anglicized radicle; var radicel perh imitates F radicelle. The L adj of rādix is rādīcōsus, whence radicose.

5. Rādix, retained by Sci, becomes It radice, whence EF radice, F radis, whence E radish, with sense narrowed from 'root' to 'radish' as early as in It.

6. L rādix has LL derivative rādīcāre, to root, with presp rādīcans, o/s rādīcant-, whence the E adj radicant, and gerundive rādīcandus, whence the Math n radicand, and pp rādīcātus, whence the now rare adj and v radicate.

Compounds from rādix

7. L rādix has the LL extn rādīcina, whence OF-F racine (whence the PN Racine—cf E Root), with the MF-F cpd déraciner, to uproot, pp déraciné, used occ in literary E, with anl E derivative deracinator, whence deracination.

8. LL rādīcāre has the cpd ērādīcāre, to root out, whence LL ērādīcabilis, E eradicable; pp ērādīcatus yields 'to eradicate', and its LL derivatives ērādīcatiō (o/s ērādīcatiōn-) and ērādīcator become E eradication and eradicator.

Gmc root and wort

9. Gmc *rot- (as in para 1) occurs in ON rōt, a root, whence OE rōt, ME rote, later roote, E root.

10. Akin to ON rōt and to L rādix, Gr rhadix, is —with initial w—E wort, ME wort, earlier wurt, OE wyrt, a root, a herb: cf OS wurt, Go waurts, root, OHG-MHG wurz, root, herb, G Wurz, herb, and—without the w—ON urt, cf Da urt and Sw ört.

radicel, radicle, radicule. See prec, para 4.

radio. See RAY, para 2.

radish. See RADICAL, para 5.

radium. See RAY, para 2.

radius. See RAY, para 2.

radix. See RADICAL, para 5.

radula. See RASE, para 4.

raff (whence raffish) and riffraff; raffle (n, hence v);—ravel (whence ravelling), whence unravel, with pa, vn unravelling.

1. Raff, a jumble, esp if worthless, hence dregs or scum, whence the redup riffraff, app derives from the now dial raff, to rake, hence to jumble, together: and 'to raff' prob derives from EF raffer (cf the C16 n raffe), a var of EF-F rafter, orig a dicing term, itself from MF-F rafle (dicing term), app from MD rassel (dicing term): of Gmc origin—
? cf MHG-G rafften, to snatch away, and ON hrapa, to hasten. (Dauzat; Walshe.) MF-F rafle becomes ME rafle, E raffle, a dicing game, hence a kind of lottery, whence 'to raffle'.

2. Akin is 'to ravel': MD ravelen (D rafelen)— cf LG reffeln, reb(b)eln.

raffia derives from a word (and product) of Madagascar: rafia (whence ScIL Raphia), var raofia.

raft, orig a rafter, later a log float: ME raft:
either by shortening from OE raefter, whence, direct, E rafter, or from ON raptr, a rafter: with OE raefter, cf also MLG rafter and OS rehter.

rafter. See prec.

rag, n hence v, ME ragge, OE ragg (attested by the adj raggig, whence E raggy), comes from ON rōgg, a tuft, also anything shaggy, whence shagginess, whence both Nor rugga, a coarse rug (cf ruggig, shaggy), and, perh not direct, the E rug (n, hence v), whence rugged, orig 'shaggy'.

2. Akin to ON rōgg and E rug is E rough, ME rough, earlier rugh, earliest ruh, OE rūh, akin to OHG rüh, MHG rüch, G rauh, rough, coarse: cf Lith raūkas, L rüga, a wrinkle, and Skt rükśās, rough. (Walshe.) The E adj rough has derivative n and v rough (with extn roughen) and roughness, and many cpds, e.g. rough-and-ready, rough-and-tumble, rough-cast, rough-hew, rough-rider, roughshod.

3. L rüga, a wrinkle, has adj rügōsus, whence E rugose and, perh via late MF-F rugueux, f rugueuse, the var rugous; derivative LL rügōsitās, o/s rügō-sitāt-, yields E rugosity and EF-F rügosité. The cpd corrügāre (cor- for int con-), to wrinkle considerably, has pp corrügātus, whence the E adj and v corrugate, whence, anl, corrugation.

4. E rag occurs in sl the red rag or tongue and in the archaic 'to bullyrag', to bully by scolding, hence to badger: whence the sl 'to rag' or scold, hence to make fun of, whence the corresp n.

rage, n and v (whence pa raging), and enrage; rabic, rabid and rabies—cf rave (v, hence n), hence raving (pa, vn)—reve, rêve, reverie.

1. This small group stands upon the base formed by L rabere (s and r rab-), to be furiously angry: cf Skt rābhas, impetuosity, violence, rabhasās, impetuous: IE r, prob rebh-*, to be impetuous.

2. L rabere has derivative adj rabidus, whence E rabid, and n rabiēs, the 'madness' of a 'mad' dog, adopted by Med E; from rabies, learned F derives rabique, whence E rabic.

3. L rabiēs soon added the sense 'violent anger, violent passion', whence VL and rare LL and occ ML rabia, whence OF-F rage, adopted by E; derivative OF-F rager becomes 'to rage'. The OF-MF cpd enrager (en, L in, into), to cause to rage, becomes 'to enrage'.

4. L rabere becomes, influenced by LL-VL rabia, raziāre, whence perh MF raver, later resver (whence EF-F rêver), to wander, to be delirious, with modern sense 'to dream while awake' hardly before C18; MF raver yields ME raven, E 'to rave'.

5. MF resver has derivative resverie, delirium, EF-F rêverie, with modern sense hardly before C18; whence E reverie. The rare 'to reve' = F rêver, which has n rêve, occurring in Gallic E.

raglan, a loose, unbelted, but orig a caped, overcoat, derives from General Lord Raglan (1788–1855).

ragman rolls; rigmarole.

The latter derives, by slovening, from ragman roll*, b/f of ragman rolls, those rolls (deeds on parchment) in which, 1291 and 1293, the Scottish lords and gentlemen swore allegiance to Edward I of England, there being an obscure ref to ragman, ME rageman, a state, or a papal, document, esp that of an act (1276) of Edward I for the hearing of ancient wrongs; this ME rageman, usu said to be o.o.o., is in fact o.o.o.—but perh it comes, by metathesis, from OF-F parchemin, parchment.

ragoût, AE ragout. See GUST, para 4.

raid, raider. See RIDE, para 3.

rail (1), a bar from one post to another, whence railroad (whence v) and -way: ME raile: MF-EF reille: VL regla*, contr of L regula, a wooden ruler: cf regular: f.a.e., REX.

rail (2), a wading bird: MF raale (EF-F râle): prob echoic.

rail (3), to scold: late MF-F railler: OProv ralhar, to jest at (someone): ult echoic. Derivative EF-F raillerte becomes E raillery. Also from MF-F railler comes 'to rally' or banter.

raiment. See ARRAY, para 2.

rain, n (whence rainy) and v; rainbird, supposed to presage wet weather; rainbow (OE regnþoga), whence rainbow trout.—irrigable, irrigant, irrigate, irrigation (whence irrigational and, anl, irrigative), irrigator.

1. Rain, ME rein, OE regn, is akin to OFris rein,

OS and OHG regan MHG-G regen, Go rign, ON regn; 'to rain', OE regnian, is akin to OFris reinia, Go rignjan, G regnen: and both are akin to L rigāre (s and r rig-), to water, to irrigate (a field), itself o.o.o.

2. L rigāre has cpd irrigāre (in-, int rather than 'into'), s irrig-, whence E irrigable. Presp irrigans, o/s irrigant-, yields the E adj, hence n, irrigant; pp irrigātus yields 'to irrigate', and derivatives L irrigātiō, o/s irrigātiōn-, and LL irrigātor become irrigation and irrigator.

raise (v, hence n) and rise (v, hence n), whence riser, rising, and pt rose, pp risen; arise, pa and vn arising;—rouse (pa rousing), whence arouse.—rear, with vn rearing.

1. To raise, ME reisen, comes from ON reisa, caus of ON rīsa, to rise. Intimately akin to ON rīsa is OE rīsan, whence 'to rise': with both, cf OFris rīsa, OS and OHG rīsan (also OHG reisa, MHG reise, a journey: Walshe), Go -reisan.

2. OE rīsan has cpd ārīsan (ā-, approx 'out'), a form occurring also in OS, cf Go urreisen, to arise: whence 'to arise', which has perh prompted 'to arouse', cpd of 'to rouse', to cause to arise from covert or bed, which, o.o.o., is conceivably a secondary (? orig dial) caus of 'to rise'.

3. OE rīsan has a caus cognate rāesan, with the phon and sem var rāeran, to raise or elevate, whence ME raeren or renen, 'to rear', to elevate, hence to bring up a child; with OE rāesan, cf ON reisa, to raise (as in para 1).

raisin; raceme, whence racemic.

Raisin derives from OF-MF raizin, reisin (F raisin): VL racīmus*: L racēmus, a bunch of grapes or berries: prob akin to Gr rhāx (gen rhāgos) in that both words prob diverge from a Medit r. L racēmus yields the Bot E raceme raja, E rajah. See REX, para 35.

rake (1), implement: OE raca, racu: cf OHG rehho, MHG reche, G Rechen, MLG and MD rake, a rake, ON reka, a shovel, also Go rikan, to heap up (with, or as with, a rake), to collect, prob Gr oregein, to stretch out, perh L rogus, a funeral pyre. (Walshe.) Prob of the sep RECKON.

rake (2), a path or track, var rack: ME rakke, rake: partly ON rāk, raku, a stripe or a streak, a track, and partly OE racu, race, a hollow path, e.g. the dry bed of a stream: cf OS raca. Gmc r, rac-*.

rake (3), v, to use a rake on: partly, prob mainly, from (1); partly of Scan origin—cf Ice rake, to rake away, and ON raka, to rake. Hence raker.—A rakehell (archaic) is lit a 'hell-raker': whence rake, a dissolute fellow, whence rakish.

rake (4), v, to incline: o.o.o.: perh of Sw raka, to reach, and therefore REACH itself. Hence as n.—Hence rakish, as in 'at a rakish angle'.

rake (5), v, to move fast (as in 'a raking stride'): OE racian: cf the 2nd RACK and see WREAK.

rakehell. See the 3rd RAKE, s.f.

raking, adj. See the 5th RAKE.

rakish, debauched: see the 3rd RAKE, s.f.—Inclined: see the 4th RAKE.

rally (1), to banter, lightly mock. See the 3rd RAIL.

rally (2), to reunite, hence to rouse to action. See LIGAMENT, para 5.—Hence the n, finally in tennis sense.

ram (n, hence v), the male sheep, noted for its butting, hence an engine of war, comes straight from OE (var ramm): cf OHG-MHG and MD-D ram and prob ON ramr, (very) strong, and OB ramēnz, violent. (Walshe.) ramage, boughs. See RADICAL, para 2.

ramble, v hence n. See AMBLE, para 6. rambunctious. See ROBUST (heading).

ramentum. See RASE, para 4.

ramification, ramify. See RADICAL, para 2, s.f.

ramose. See RADICAL, para 2.

ramp (v, hence n), whence rampage, whence rampageous—cf rampant, whence rampancy; romp (n and v, whence rompers and pa, vn romping); rump, n, v; rimple (v, hence n).

1. 'To ramp', orig to creep or crawl, hence to stand menacingly, to climb, ME rampen, derives from the sem id OF-F ramper, from Frankish rampōn*, earlier hrampōn*, to creep or crawl, with hr-echoic of effort. OF-F ramper has presp rampant, whence the E adj, orig in Her.

2. ME rampen bears the secondary sense 'to be boisterous', whence ramp (obs), a bold, esp a sexually bold, woman, whence romp, a romping girl; hence 'to romp', whence, in turn, romp, a boisterous frolic; rompers, orig romper, denotes a dress suitable for young children to play in.

3. Akin to Frankish (h)rampōn are OHG rimpfan, to wrinkle, MHG rimpfen, later, as still in G, rümpfen, OE gehrumpen (int prefix ge-), wrinkled, and MD rompelen, rumpelen, whence, imm, the E 'to rump'; MD rompel, rumpel, yields the E n. Perh, however, 'to rump' derives rather from MHG-G rumpeln, to rumpel, int of late MHG rummelen (G rummeln), cf D rommelen, to rattle.

4. Akin to OE gehrumpen, wrinkled, and MHG rimpfen, to wrinkle, are MLG-MD (and D) rimpel, a wrinkle, rimpelen, to wrinkle: whence, prob, the E n and v rimple, unless rimple be simply a thinning of rumpel.

rampage. See prec (heading).

rampancy, rampant. See RAMP, heading and para 1, s.f.

rampart. See PARE, para 6.

ramrod is a rod you ram home.

ramsackle. See SEEK, para 3.

ramulose, ramulus, ramus. See RADICAL, para 2.

ranch, rancher, ranchero, rancho.

Rancher (ranch+agent -er) owes something to ASp ranhero, agent of ASp rancho, whence AE, hence E, ranche, now usu ranch: and ASp rancho derives from Sp rancho, a soldiers' mess, hence a mess hut (esp of soldiers), hence any hut: OHG hring, MHG rinc (G Ring), a ring, a circle, hence an assembly: cf RANGE, para 1.

rancid; rancor (AE), rancour (E), adj rancorous. L rancēre (s and r ranc-), to be rancid, has adj rancidus, whence E rancid, and LL n rancor, acc rancorem, whence OF-MF rancor (F rancoeur), var rancur, whence ME-E rancour, AE rancor; derivative OF-MF rancoros, rancuros, becomes E rancorous. L rancēre is o.o.o.

rand; the Rand. See RIM, para 2.

random. See RIM, para 3.

randy. See RIM, para 4.

range (n and v), whence ranger, ranging (pa, vn), rangey or, usu, rangy; arrange, arrangement (whence disarrange, disarrangement)—derange (whence pa deranged), derangement;—rank, n (whence ranker) and v (whence ranking, pa, vn); rink;—ring, a circlet, hence v (pt rang or rung, pp rung), whence ringer and ringing, pa, vn.—Cf the sep RANCH and HARANGUE.

1. At the base of the entire group stands, on the F side, Frankish hring*, a circle, a ring, and, on the Gmc, OHG hring, a ring: cf OFris, OS, OE hring, MD and MHG rinc, MD ryng, D and G ring, Go hriiggs* (pron hriings), Crimean Go rinck, ON hringr (and modern Scan cognates): Gmc etymon, hrengaz*; IE r, krengh-, var krongh-: cf OB krogū, a circle. (Walshe.)

2. OE hring becomes E ring; with this i form, cf E rink, orig Sc (a course, a race), earlier Sc renk, from OF-MF renc.

3. OF renc, from Frankish hring*, a circle, a ring, becomes OF-MF ranc, whence the late MF-F rang; whence also E rank, a line or row, whence 'to rank'.

4. OF-MF ranc has the derivative OF-F v ranger, to set in a line, OF-MF var rangier, whence 'to range'; the OF-MF derivative n range (late MF-F rangée) becomes E range.

5. OF-F ranger has the OF-F cpds arranger, derivative MF-F arrangement, and OF-MF deranger, late MF-F déranger, derivative EF-F dérangement: whence ME arayngen, E 'to arrange', and E arrangement—and E dérange, derangement.

rani. See REX, para 35.

rank, adj: OE ranc, proud, strong: cf MD ranc, ranke, D rank, erect, slender, and ON rakkr, slender, bold: perh ult akin to E right, q.v. at REX.

rank, n and v. See RANGE, para 3. rankle. See DRAGON, para 3.

ransack. See SEEK, para 3.

ransom. See EXEMPT, para 13.

rant, whence ranter and ranting and perh the archaic rantipole (? rant+connective -i-+pole, var of poll, head): MD ranten, randen, to dote, to be in an extravagant rage: o.o.o.—? echoic.

rap (1), a smart, quick, not very severe blow: app echoic, with Scan cognates: cf SLAP.

rap (2), to snatch. Cf rape, to seize, q.v. at RAPT, para 2. rapacious, rapacity. Cf rape, to seize, q.v. at RAPT, para 4.

rape (1), a turnip (obs), hence a forage plant (whence rape oil): L rāpa (var rāpum): cf Gr rhapus (var rhapsus), turnip, akin to Gr rhaphanos (var -anē), radish, in Attic a cabbage: Gmc and Sl cognates: ? a Medit word.

rape (2), the pomace of grapes, hence a filter; rappee.

1. Rape derives from late MF-F rape: ML raspa, seeded grapes: ? from OGmc raspōn, to rasp, to grate. (Dauzat.)

2. F rape derives imm from MF raspe*, whence the MF rasper, EF-F raêper, to grate, with pp rapé, f rapée, whence E rappee, a coarse snuff.

rape (3), a Sussex topographical division: o.o.o.: ? OE rāp, a rope, used in measuring. (EW.)

rape (4), to snatch forcibly, hence to plunder or ravish. See RAPT, para 2.

rapid, rapidity. See RAPT, para 4.

rapier: EF-F rapière: late MF espée rapière (F épée, sword): o.o.o.: perh a pej sl expression 'rasping, or grating, sword' from raêper.

rapine. See RAPT, para 5.

rappee. See the 2nd RAPE, para 2.

rapport. See the 3rd PORT, para 11.

rapt, adj, whence enrapt and rapture (whence enrapture), whence rapturous; rapt, n; rape, v and n, whence rap, v and n, '(to) snatch'; rapacious, rapacity; rapid, rapidity; rapine and ravine; raven, ravin, v—ravin, raven, n—ravenous; ravish (whence ravishing), ravishment (whence enravishment), ravissant (and -ante); ravage, n, v; raptorial.—A prob Greek cognate: Harpy, whence harpy, whence harpy bat and harpy eagle.—Cpds from L rapere: corruption; direption; erept, ereption; surreption, surreptitious.

1. L rapere, to seize and forcibly remove, to take by force, has s and r rap-, pp s rapti-; the cpds are in -ripere, pp -reptus. The IE r is prob rap-, with var rep- (senses as for rapere): cf Lith ap-rėpiu, I take forcibly, Alb rjep, I take, carry off, perh the Gr pcp ereptomenos, eating greedily, and prob, by metathesis of the IE r, Gr harpazo, I seize or snatch.

2. L rapere becomes OF-MF, hence AF rapier, ME rapen, to seize, E 'to rape', with sexual sense added; rap, to snatch, is a thinned var.

3. L rapere has pp raptus (f rapta), s rapti-: whence E rapt, adj. The n rapt derives from L raptus (gen -ūs), from the pps rapti-.

4. On the L press rap- is formed L rapāx, o/s rapāc-, whence MF-F rapace and E rapacious; derivative L rapācītās, o/s rapācītāt-, yields late MF-F rapacitē and E rapacity. Also on rap- is built rapidus, tending to carry away, hence impetuous, hence (very) fast, with derivative rapiditās, o/s rapiditāt-, whence EF-F rapide (adj, hence n) and rapidité, whence E rapid, adj and n, and rapidity. With the n F rapide, E rapid, cf the ML pl n rapida, the rapids of a river.

5. Likewise from rap- comes L rapinae, plunderings. hence plunder, whence, by b/f, the sing LL rapīna, a plundering, plunder: whence OF-F rapine, adopted by E. Also from LL rapīna descends the OF-F ravine, orig impetus, rapine, the topographical sense being recorded first in 1388 (B & W): whence E ravine (orig, impetus).

6. From OF-MF ravine, impetuosity, rapine, derives the now archaic ravin, rapine, rapacity, predacity, with var raven—prob indebted to the OF-MF var raveine; OF-MF ravine, rapine, has derivative OF-EF v raviner, whence 'to ravin', now usu 'to raven', and derivative OF-MF adj ravinus, rapacious, predacious, whence E ravenous, rapacious (archaic), eager for food.

7. L rapere becomes VL rapire*, whence OF-F ravir, with presp ravissant (f ravissante), used also as adj in F and in Gallic E; from such forms as ravissant and 'nous ravissons' comes ME ravissen, later ravischen or ravishen, whence 'to ravish', with fig sense deriving from late MF-F. Derivative MF-F ravissement produces ravishment.

8. OF-F ravir has late MF-F derivative ravage, adopted by E; derivative EF-F ravager supplies us with 'to ravage'.

9. On the L pps rapt- is formed the L agent raptor, adopted by SciE, with pl raptores; raptātor, pl raptātores, however, is the agent of raptāre, int of rapere. LL raptōrius (rapti+ōrius) explains E raptorious, usu raptorial, whence, anl, the E raptorial, var raptatory.

A Greek Cognate (?)

10. Gr harpazein (s harpaz-, r harp-), to seize, has the app derivative Harpuia, whence L Harpyia, later Harpya, whence (late MF arpe and) EF-F harpie, whence E Harpy, a fabulous, rapacious Gr monster, whence the Common Noun, C17 in E, but C16 in E.

Compounds from L rapere, c/f -ripere, pp -reptus

11. L corripere (int cor- for con-), to seize violently or suddenly, hence, in LL, to shorten, pp correptus, has derivative correptiō, o/s correptiōn-, whence E correction, a shortened pronunciation; L diripere, to tear (di- for dis-, i.e.) asunder, has LL derivative direptiō, o/s direptiōn-, whence the now Hist direption, a plundering, pillage; L ēripere, to snatch away, pp ēreptus, whence LL ēreptiō, o/s ēreptiōn-, whence resp 'to erept' and ereption.

12. Finally, L surripere, to snatch (sur- for sub, under, hence) from under, hence secretly, has pp surreptus, with derivatives surreptiō, o/s surreptiōn-, whence E surreption; surrepticius, clandestine, secret, whence E surreptitious—cf MF surreptice, later subreptice, reshaped on the L var subrepticus.

raptorial, raptatory; raptor, raptorial, raptorious. See RAPT, para 9.

rapture, rapturous. See RAPT (heading).

rare (1), rarity; rarefaction (whence, anl, rarefactive) and rarefy, whence the pa rarefied.—hermit, hermitage; eremic, eremite, eremitic.

1. Rarity derives, like EF-F rareté, from rāritāt-, o/s of L rāritās, from rārus, whence, perh via EF-F, the E rare. The cpd rārefacere and its ML derivative rārefactiō, o/s rārefactiōn-, yield MF-F rārefier, rārefaction, whence E rarefy, rarefaction. L rārus, having many intervals or gaps, hence sparse, hence rare, has s and r rār-, app an extn of an IE r rā-, var rē-, as, with other extnn, in Gr erēmos, solitary, Lith retas, rare, and, with l for r, Skt virāla, rare (Webster).

2. Gr erēmos, solitary, has derivative erēmīa, solitude, hence a desert, whence erēmītēs, lit a desert-dweller, whence LL erēmīta, var herēmīta, whence OF-MF ermite and hermite, both adopted by ME, whence E hermit and, reshaped after LL erēmīta, the archaic eremite. The OF-MF (h)ermite has derivative MF (h)ermitage, both adopted by ME, the h-form surviving in E. Gr erēmīa, a desert, has adj erēmikos, whence E eremic; and LL (h)erēmīta acquires LL adj (h)erēmīticus, whence E eremitic.

rare (2), not thoroughly cooked, dial var rear, derives from ME rere, OE hrēr: ? cf OE hrēren, OHG hruorēn, MHG rüeren, G rühren, ON hroera, to stir.

rarefaction, rarefy, rarity. See the 1st RARE, para 1. rascal, rascality. See para 6 of:

rase and erase, whence erosion and erasure—cf abrade, abrasion, abrasive; race, to scrape; raze—cf raze—razor; perh rasp (n, v), raspberry; radula, ramentum; rash on skin; rascal, whence rascality.—Cf the sep RAPPEE and perh the sep RAT.

1. 'To erase' derives from L ērāsus, pp of ērādere, to scrape, hence to rub, out: ē-+rādere, to scrape or scratch, to scrape or scratch away; 'to abrade' derives from L abrādere, to scrape ab-, off, with pp abrāsus, whence abrāsīō, o/s abrāsīōn-, whence abrasion, whence, anl, abrasive.

2. 'To rase' derives from OF-F raser, from VL rāsāre*, from rāsus, pp of L rādere: and rādere, s and r rād-, is prob akin to Skt rādati, he scrapes or scratches.

3. 'To raze', with sense-deviation in E, likewise comes from OF-F raser; raze is a var. Razor, ME rasor, derives from OF-MF rasor (OF var rasur; F rasoir), from LL rāsorium, a scraper, a burin, from rāsus, pp of rādere. Prob suggested by rāsorium is the E adj rasorial.

4. 'To race' or scratch, slash, is a var of rase. The Zoo radula is sense-adapted from L rādula, a scraper, from rādere; likewise adopted is rāmentum (prob for rādimentum*), something scraped off.

5. A rasp derives from ME, from MF, raspe (cf F râpe), itself from OF-MF rasper (F râper), whence 'to rasp'; OF-MF rasper, of Gmc origin (cf OHG raspōn), is perh akin to VL rāsāre*. Raspberry stands for EE raspis berry, var for raspis, a raspberry, app id with raspis (wine), prob from OF-MF vin raspé, with raspé perh orig the pp of rasper, to scrape. (Webster; B & W.—All very confused and hypothetical.)

6. A rash on the skin derives from OF-EF rasche, rache, skin eruption, scurf, from VL rāsica*, from rāsīcāre*, to scratch often, freq of L rādere. From OF rasche, rache, app derives, prob via a dial, the OF-MF rascaille, the rabble, adopted by ME, whence the E rascal, a scurvy fellow, whence the adj rascally.

rash (1), adj (orig 'lively'), whence rashness: ME rasch, prob adopted from MLG rasch (cf MD rasc), or from MHG rasch, from OHG rasc, dash-ing, lively: cf ON rōskr: o.o.o. (Walshe.)

rash (2), n. See RASE, para 6.

rasher of bacon: o.o.o.: ? from the obs rash, to slash, to cut—a var of RASE.

rashness. See RASH, adj.

rasorial. See RASE, para 3, s.f.

rasp, n v (whence rasper, rasping). See RASE, para 5. raspberry. See RASE, para 5, s.f. rasper, rasping. See RASP.

rat (n, hence v), ratten, ratton, 'ratty'; rodent.—Cpds from L rōdere: corrode, corrosion, corrosive; erode, erodent, erosion (whence, anl, erosive).

1. Rat, ME rat or ratte, OE raet, is akin to MD rat (also D), ratte, rotte, OHG ratta, MHG-G ratte, OS ratta, and prob akin to L rōdere, to gnaw. E dial exhibits the var ratten, whence prob the E 'to ratten', to rob of tools or machinery; the now dial ratton, however, comes rather from the MF-F dim raton. The sl ratty, angry, easily angered, derives from ratty, of or like a rat, rats being fierce creatures.

2. L rōdere has presp rōdens, o/s rodent-, whence the E adj hence n.

3. The cpd corrōdere (int cor- for con-) yields MF-F corroder, whence 'to corrode'; the pp corrōsus has derivatives corrōsiō, acc corrōsiōnem, and corrōsius, ML corrōsivus, whence MF-F corrosion, adopted by E, and MF-F corrosif, f -ive, E corrosive. Likewise through EF come 'to erode' and erosion, from L ērōdere, to gnaw away, and its derivative ērōsiō, the pp ērōdens leading to erodent. ratchet; rock, a distaff, and rocket (n, hence v).

1. Ratchet derives, ? irreg, from EF rochet, a bobbin, a distaff, in MF the extremity of a jousting lance, from Frankish rokka*, a distaff, id with OHG roccho, MHG rocke, G Rocken, a distaff; cf OIr rogait, a spindle. MHG rocke is id in MD, whence prob ME rokke, roc, the now Hist E rock, a distaff.

2. The firework rocket comes either from EF roquet (var of rochet) or, more prob, from It rocchetta, earlier rocchetto, dim of rocca, a distaff, of the same OGmc origin; a rocket, with its stick, resembles a distaff.

rate, n and v. See REASON, para 2.

rate (2), to chide, ME raten, ? aphetic for ME araten, to chide or rebuke, app from OF areter, to accuse (L reputāre, to compute, repute, impute).

rathe; rather.

The latter derives from OE hrathor, the comp of hrathe or hraethe, quickly, the adv of OE adj hraeth, quick, whence the archaic rathe, early (obs: 'quick'), as in Milton's 'the rathe primrose': and akin to OE hraeth, var hraed, are, e.g., OHG hrad and ON hrathr.

ratification, ratify. See REASON, para 6.

rating, n. See REASON, heading and para 2.

ratio. See REASON, para 3.

ratiocinate, ratiocination, ratiocinative. See REASON, para 5.

ration, rational, rationale, rationalism, rationalist, rationality, rationalize, etc. See REASON, para 3. ratimble. See REASON, para 3, s.f.

ratline or ratlin, a small transverse rope (naut): a f/e alteration (to rat and line) of earlier radelyng: perh, as EW pertinently proposes, from naut and dial raddle, to intertwine, from raddle, var of raddling, dim of the obs rathe, a rail.

ratoon, a sprout or shoot of cottonplant or sugarcane: Sp retoño, from retoñar, to sprout again, either re-, again + toñar*, to sprout, or from the syn EF-F rejeton (from rejeter, ML rejectāre, to throw forth again).

ratton: Mal rotan.

ratten. See RAT, para 1.

rattle, ME ratelen, is akin to MD-D ratelen and MHG razzeln (G rasseln), freq of razzen, to rattle, to roar: echoic.—Hence rattler, rattling, rattle-snake, etc.

ratton. See RAT, para 1.

ratty. See RAT, para 1, s.f.

raucity, raucous.

1. The former derives, like late MF-F raucité, from raucitāt- (acc raucitātem), o/s of L raucitās, from L raucus, whence, like late MF-F raucie, the E raucous: and L raucus derives from L rauis, hoarseness or huskiness: prob echoic and therefore akin to Skt rauti, he roars, and L rūmor, (loud) noise—cf RUMOR.

2. With the IE r rū-, var rau-, cf OE rūn, a secret or mystery, hence a rune, akin to syn ON rūn, Go, OS, OHG rūna. a secret, hence a secret conversation, and to OIr rūn, Cor ryn, W rhen, OC rūnd*.

rage. See RAPT, para 8.

rave. See RAGE, para 4.

ravel. See RAFF, para 2.

raven (1), the bird, OE hraefn, is akin to OHG hraban (MHG raben), extn of OHG rabo (MHG-G rabe), and to ON hrafn—and more remotely to L coruus and Gr korax: ult echoic.

raven (2), v and n; ravenous. See RAPT, para 6.

ravin, n and v. See RAPT, para 6.

ravine. See RAPT, para 5, s.f.

ravish, ravishing, ravishment; ravissant, ravissante. See RAPT, para 7.

raw (adj, hence n and v), whence rawness, derives from OE hrāew, with var hrēaw: cf OHG rāo, contr rō, MHG rō (gen rāwes), G roh, ON hrār: Gmc r hrāew-; IE r, krew-, var krow-*: cf L cruur, gore, Gr kréas, flesh, Skt kravīṣ, raw meat. (Walshe.) Cf, therefore, the sep CRUDE.

ray, n (a light-spoke, prob also the fish), hence v; hence also rayless and, in part, rayon;—radius, radial, radiant (whence radiance), radiate, radiation, radiator (from radiate); irradiate, irradiation; radio, whence many obvious cpds; radium.

1. The fish ray derives from MF-F rale, from L raia, prob akin to, or even (from the ossature, resembling the spokes of a wheel) deriving—by contr—from L radius, whence, via OF-F rai, the E ray of light. Orig a pointed rod or stick or wand, hence a ray of light or the spoke of a wheel, L radius is o.o.o. but perh akin to L rādix, a root, with IE r rā-*: cf RADICAL, para 1.

2. Radius, adopted by E, has E derivatives radial (unless adopted from late MF-F radial, which = L radius + adj -al); radio, usu short for radio-telegraphy, where radio- is the c/f of L radius; SciL radium, with Chem -ium substituted for L -ius.

3. L radius has derivative radiāre, to emit rays (hence spokes, etc.), with presp radians, o/s radiant-, whence the E adj radiant, and with pp radiātus, whence ‘to radiate’; derivative L radiātiō, o/s radiātiōn-, becomes late MF-F and, prob independently, E radiation.

4. Radiāre has the cpd irradiāre (ir- for in-, here used int), with presp irradians, o/s irradiant-, whence E irradiant, whence irradiance, and with pp irradiātus, whence the adj and v irradiate; derivative LL irradiātiō, o/s irradiātiōn-, yields irradiation.

rayon. See prec (heading).

raze. See RASE, para 3.

razee. See RASE, para 3.

razor, razorial. See RASE, para 3.

re, as in the L tag in re. See the 1st REAL, para 5.

reach (1), to stretch, hence n, whence reachless, overreach (over + reach).

‘To reach’, ME rechen, derives from OE rāecan: cf OE reihhēn, MHG-G reichen, MD reken, MD-D reiken, and perh (Walshe) L regere, to direct in a straight line (f.a.e., REX).

reach (2) is a dial var of RETCH.

react, reaction, reactive, reactor, reagent, etc, merely prefix re-, again, to act (etc.) and agent, qq.v. at ACT.

read—whence readable and reader (OE rāedere) and reading (OE rāeding)—derives, via ME reden, earlier raeden, from OE rāedan, to counsel, to interpret, to read: cf OFris rēda, OS rādan, OHG rātan, MHG rāten, G raten (to advise, to guess). MD raiden or, as in D, raden, Go -rēdan, ON rātha: cf also OSi raditi, to take thought for, and perh the rat- of ratus, pp of L rēri, to compute, to think: cf therefore REASON.

2. OE rāedan, to counsel, has both the derivative n rāed, whence the archaic rede, advice, interpretation, a story, and the cognate rāedels (rāed-else)—cf the G rātsel—whence ME redels, whence, the s being apprehended as that of the pl, the later ME redel, rydel, whence E riddle, a conundrum.

readjust, readjustment. See JURY, para 7, s.f.

ready (adj, hence n and v), whence readiness and already (all + ready): ME readi, earlier redi: OE rāede, aphetic for gerāede, akin to OFris rēde, OHG beretti, equipped, ready, MHG berete (also gereite), G beretit, Go garaiiths (established), MD gereit, gereet, D gereed, and MD beretit, beretet, D beretid, ON g-reidr, greithr: prob akin to RIDE.

2. Akin to OE rāede is OE rāedan, to arrange, whence ME reden, whence, app, the Sc—and the North Country and Midlands E dial—redd, to put in order, to clean or clear, to tidy.

reagent, suggested by react, is a Chem term: f.a.e., ACT.

real (1), adj (hence n), whence realism and realist (whence realistic), influenced by F réalisme, réaliste; reality, realize (whence realization); realizable, irrealizable, realty, Realtor; res—in re—rebus—reify.—Cpds: irreality, cf unreality, unreal; sur-realism, surrealist;—for republic, republican, see PEOPLE, para 6.

1. The rare irreality derives from the rare irreal, from F irréel, neg of MF-F réel, f réelle; unreal (whence unreality)=un-+real. Surrealism and surrealist derive from F surréalisme, surréaliste, where sur- is L super, above, hence beyond.

2. The E adj real derives from MF real (MF-F réel), itself from LL realis, adj of rēs (s and r ré-), property, a property, a thing, hence an orig business affair: cf Ve rām, rās, acc sing and pl, riches, Skt revān, rich, and MW rāi, goods, riches: IE r, rē-*, property.

3. The LL adj realis later (ML) develops the scholastic n realitās, whence the late MF-F réalité and, prob independently, the E reality. 'To realize' derives from EF-F réaliser (from MF real); E realizable and realization, and also E irrealizable, owe something to F réalisable, EF-F réalisation, F irréalisable, all from réaliser.

4. Realty, real estate, which=real, adj+-ty (for -ity), no longer clashes with reality, royalty, realm, now obs; with reality-reality, cf specialty-speciality. Realty, real estate, acquires the AE agent Realtor, Member of National Real Estate Boards.

5. Latinisms include in re, in the matter, hence concerning; rebus, a particular kind of riddle, is L rebus, with things, via EF-F rébus; reify, to invest with reality, whence reification, is lit 'to make property of'.

real, a coin. See regal at REX, para 10.

realm. See REX, para 5.

realtor, realty. See the 1st REAL, para 4.

ream (1), n: ME reme: MF rayme (EF-F rame): Sp resma: Ar rizmāh, a bundle, esp of paper.

ream (2), v, to widen an opening in (whence reamer): ME remen, rimen: OE rȳman, to extend or enlarge, from rūm, space, room, whence, via ME roum, the E room (with an additional, a narrow sense), whence 'to room', whence roomer. With OE rūm, space, cf OHG-MHG rūm, G Raum, OS rūm, ON rūm, and OFris rūm, Go rūms, OE rūm, spacious, roomy. The IE r is app ru-*, spacious: cf L rūs, the country (the open spaces), and prob Av ravō, free or open space. (Roomy=room, n+adj -y: cf G geräumig.) reanimate. See ANIMAL, para 5.

reap, reaper. See RIPE, para 2.

rear, adj, derives from rear, n, aphetic for arrears, n (now usu arrears), itself from the obs adv arrear, ME arere, from OF-MF ariere (MF-F arrière), from VL ad retrō*, taut for L retrō, backwards.

2. The F cpd arrière-garde, soldiers guarding the rear, becomes, by aphaesis, the AF reregard, whence E rearguard; rearward is relatively modern (cf -ward). Reredos, coined by AF, is AF rere, for rear-, situated behind+AF (from OF-F) dos, back, L dorsum.

rear, to raise. See RAISE, para 3.

reason, n (whence reasonless) and v (whence reasoning), reasonable; rate, n hence v (whence rateable or ratable, rating); ratify, ratification; ratio, ration (n, hence v), rational, rationale, rationalism, rationalist (whence rationalistic), rationality, rationalize (whence rationalization)—cf irrational (whence, anl, irrationality); ratiuncle; ratiocinant, ratiocinate, ratiocination, ratiocinative; arraign, arraignment, and deraign.—Perh of the sep HUNDRED.

1. The entire group rests upon L ratus, pp (s rat-) of rērī, to count, calculate, reckon, hence to think: o.o.o.: ? from an IE r ra-* or re-* (var rē-*), to count. (The Go rathjōt, reason, is prob a borrowing; I suspect a Medit origin—perh of Ar raqm, a number, and even the Eg metatheses hebs, hesb, to count.)

2. The L pp ratus acquires, by ellipsis for rata pars, a calculated share, the ML n rata, whence AF, whence E, rate.

3. In L, ratus acquires the n ratio, a counting, an account, hence a manner, or the faculty, of counting, hence judgement, reason, method, form and senses adopted or adapted from R by E. L ratio has acc rationem, whence MF-F ration, adopted by E; the F derivative raisonner prob suggested 'to ration', whence rationing. L ratio has adj rationālis, whence E rational—perh via OF-F rationnel; the n rationale is adopted from LL rationāle, prop the neu of rationālis. Derivative LL rationālītās, o/s rationālītāt-, yields rationality. Learned F ration-aliser, rationalisme, rationaliste perh suggested rationalize, rationalism, rationalist. The L rati-uncula, dim of ratio, gives us the Math ratiuncle.

4. L rationālis has neg irrationālis, whence irrational.

5. L ratiōcināri, to calculate, hence to reason, has presp ratiōcinans, o/s ratiōcinant-, whence E ratiocinant, adj, and pp ratiōcinātus, whence the adj and v ratiocinate; derivative ratiōcinātiō, acc ratiōcinātiōnem, yields late MF-F ratiocination, adopted by E, and anl LL ratiōcinātius, ML -ivus, yields ratiocinative.

6. L exhibits a notable cpd: ML ratificāre. Ratificāre, to fix by calculation, to validate, becomes MF-F ratifier, whence 'to ratify'; derivative ML ratificātiō, acc ratificātiōnem, yields late MF-F ratification, adopted by E.

7. L rationem, acc of ratio, becomes OF-F raison, ME resoun, E reason; derivative OF-F raisonner becomes 'to reason', and subsidiary MF raisonable (F raisonnable) becomes ME reasonable, E reasonable.

8. In LL, ratio has the further sense 'legal cause', whence VL arratiōnāre*, to summon before a court, whence MF araisnier, ME arainen, E 'to arraign'; derivative MF araisnement becomes E arraignment.

9. The implied VL ratiōnāre* occurs in legal MF deraisnier, to plead, to vindicate, whence 'to deraign'.

reave, pp ref. See ROB, para 3; reaver, ibid, para 4.

rebate. See the 2nd BAT, para 3.

rebel (adj, n, v), rebellion, rebellious.

The adj and n rebel derive from the OF-F adj, hence n, rebelle, from L rebellis, akin to L rebellāre, to fight back, to rebel, cpd of bellāre, to make war, from bellum, war: cf BELLICOSE. Rebellāre becomes OF-F rebeller, whence 'to rebel'; derivative L rebelliō, acc rebelliōnem, yields MF-F rebellion, whence E rebellion, whence, anl, rebellious.

2. See REVEL.

rebound, v hence n, derives from OF-F rebondir, to bound back: cf the v BOUND.

rebuff, v, comes from EF rebuffer, itself from EF rebuffe, whence the E n; EF rebuffe derives from It rebuffo, var of rabuffo, from rabbuffare, to jostle or hustle: re-, again, used int+buffare, to puff out one's cheeks: cf BUFFON. (B & W.)

rebuke, v, hence n: AF rebuker: MF rebuchier, to repel: re-, back+MF buschier, to strike, from OF-MF busche (F bûche), a piece of wood: ? Frankish bûsk*, a stick.

rebus. See the 1st REAL, para 5.

rebut, whence rebuttal, prob derives from late MF-F rebuter (cf OF-F rebouter), to knock back, to repulse: re-+buter, from MF-F but, from Frankish bûr*, a log. Cf BUTT.

recalcitrance, recalcitrant. See KICK.

recall, v hence n: re-, back+CALL.

recant, whence, anl, recantation: L recantāre, to sing 'back', to recall one's words: re-+cantāre, to chant, int of canere, to sing. Cf CHANT.

recapitulate, recapitulation. See CAPITAL, s.f.

recapture, recast=re-, back, again+the simples.

recede. See CEDE, para 11.

receipt. See CAPABILITY, para 7.

receive. See CAPABILITY, para 7. recension. See CENSOR, para 2.

recent, whence recency, derives, via late MF-F recent-, from L recent-, o/s of recēns, newly arrived, fresh: ? re-, again, afresh, used int+cēns, akin to Gr kainos, new, and Skt kanīna, young, and OSl kont, a beginning. Cf RINSE.

receptacle: L receptāculum, from receptāre, int of recipere, to receive, pp receptus: cf CAPABILITY, para 7.

reception, receptive. See CAPABILITY, para 7.

recess, recession, recessive. See CEDE, para 11.

recherché. See CIRCLE, final sentence.

recidivism, recidivist, recidivous. See CADENCE, s.f.

recipe: L recipe, Take (it back)!: orig a Med formula.

recipient: L recipient-, o/s of recipiens, presp of recipere, to receive: cf CAPABILITY, para 7.

reciprocal, reciprocalant, reciprocate, reciprocation (whence, anl, reciprocative, reciprocatory), reciprocity.

Reciprocal, like F réiproque, derives from L reciprocus, going backwards and forwards (like the sea), hence alternating, working both ways: recoprocus*: recos*, from re-, backwards+procos*, from pro-, forwards. Derivative reciprocāre has presp reciprocans, o/s reciprocant-, whence E reciprocant, and pp reciprocātus, whence 'to reciprocate'; derivative LL reciprocātiō, o/s reciprocātiōn-, yields reciprocation. Reciprocus has LL n reciprocitās, o/s reciprocitāt-, whence F réiprocity, E reciprocity.

recital, recitation, recitative, recite. See CITE, para 5.

reck (v, hence n), reckless; reckon, whence reckoner, reckoning.

1. 'To reck' comes, through ME reken, earlier reccen, from OE reccan, var of recan, to take heed: cf MHG ruochen (geruochen), OS rōkjan, ON roekja: o.o.o. The adj reckless=OE reccelās, rēcelās: recce* or rēce*, from the v+-lēas, E -less.

2. Akin to OE reccan, rēcan, is OE gerecenian. to explain, whence ME rekenen, E 'to reckon': cf OFris rekenia, reknia, MD-D rekenen, OHG rechann, MHG-G rechnen, to count, Go rahnjan, to calculate, and, further off, the Skt račáyati, he regulates. (Walshe.) reclaim, reclamation. See CLAIM, para 9. recline, reclination, recline. See CLIME, para 11.

recluse (adj, n), seclusion (whence, anl, reclusive).

Both the E adj and the E n recluse derive from OF-F reclus, f recluse, orig the pp of OF-MF reclure, from recludere, LL to shut back, hence up, L to open: re-, back+-cludere, c/f of claudere, to shut or close: cf CLAUSE. Derivative ML reclūsio (from the pp reclūsus), o/s reclūsion-, leads to reclusion.

recognition, cognitive, recognize. See COGNITION, paras 3 and 4.

recoil, v hence n: ME recoilen: OF-F reculer: re-, backwards+OF-F cul, backside+inf -er: L cūlus: cf Skt kāla-, as a rearguard, and OIr cúl (Ga cúl), W and Cor cil, the back.

recollect, recollection. See COLLECT, para 2.

recommence, recommencement. See COMMENCE.

recommend, recommendation, recommendatory. See MANUAL, para 25.

recompense, n and v: MF-F récompense, n, from récompenser: LL recompensāre: re-, again, back+compensāre, (lit) to weigh together: f.a.e., PEND.

reconcile, reconciliation. See CONCILIATE, para 1.

recondite; abscond; sconce, a candlestick.

L condere, to put together, to store=con-, together+-dere, c/f of dare, to put, (later) to give: f.a.e., DATA. The cpd abscondere is to put away (abs-), to hide away: whence 'to abscond', to hide oneself away. From the L pp absconsus comes ML absconsa, by aphasis sconsa, a screened lantern or candlestick, whence—via MF—the ME skonse, E sconce. The cpd recondere, to store back, i.e. out of the way, hence to hide, has pp reconditus, whence the E adj recondite.

reconnaissance. See COGNITION, para 3, s.f. reconnoitre, AE reconnoiter: F reconnoître (now reconnaltre: OF reconoistre, to recognize: cf COGNITION, para 3.

reconsider, reconstitute: simply re-, again+the simples.

reconstruct, reconstruction. See STRUCTURE, para 3.

record (n, v), recorder.

The n record is adopted from OF-MF record, memory, a memory, which derives it from OF-EF recorder, to remember for oneself, to recall to another, whence ME recorden, E 'to record': and OF-EF recorder derives from L recordāri, to remember: re-, back+cord-, o/s of cor, heart, mind +inf -āri, i.e. to bring back to mind: f.a.e., CORDIAL. OF-EF recorder has agent recordeor, a rememberer, a relater, a minstrel (whence the Mus instrument), in AF a magistrate, a sense extant in E.

recount, recountal. See the 2nd COUNT, para 6.

recoup derives from OF-F recouper, orig to cut back: re-+couper, to cut: cf coppice. Derivative OF-F recouplement gives us recoupment.

recourse. See COURSE, para 4.

re-cover. See COVER, para 3.

recover (regain), recovery. See CAPABILITY, para 5.

recreant. See CREDENCE, para 6, s.f. recreate, recreation, recreative. See CREATE, para 4. recrescence, recrescent. See CRESCENT, para 9.

recriminate, recrimination. See CRIME, para 5.

recrudescence, recrudescents. See CRUDE, para 2.

recruit (n, v), recruitment. See CRESCENT, para 9.

rect. See REX, para 23.

rectangle, whence, anl, rectangular. See the element rect-: f.a.e., REX.

rectification, rectify. See REX, para 23.

rectilinear: Element recti-+linear, q.v. at LINE.

rectitude. See REX, para 23.

rector, rectory. See REX, para 23.

rectum. See REX, para 24.

recumbency, recumbent. See HIVE, para 8.

recuperate, recuperation. See CAPABILITY, para 4.

recur, recurrence, recurrent. See COURSE, para 10 (at recurrere).

recusancy, recusant. See CAUSE, para 8.

red (adj, hence n); red tape; redd; reddens, reddish, redness, all from red, adj: raddle and ruddle; rud and rudd, ruddock and ruddy; russet; rust; rubella, rubellite; rubeola; rubescent, whence rubescence; rubric (n, hence adj), rubricate (adj, v, whence rubrication and rubricator); ruby—cf rubine; rubefacient; rubor; rutilant, rutil; rufous; rouge, n, hence adj and v; rowan; roll—cf rubiginous; rubicund, rubicundity; rubidic, rubidine, rubidium; ? ribbon (n, hence v, whence the int beribboned), with f/e var ribband or riband;—erythrin, erythrim, erythrite, cf the element erythro-; erysipelas.

1. Redd, fish spawn, comes from E dial red, spawn (from colour); red tape, excessive routine, refers to the tape used for tying documents. The adj red, ME red, earlier reed, read, derives from OE rēad: cf OFris rād, OS rōd, OHG-MHG rōi, G rot, Go rauths, MD rode, D rood, ON rauthr; Lith raidas, Cz rudý; L rūfus (for roudhos*); EIr rúad, OW rudd, Cor rūd, OC roudos*: IE etymon, roudhos*, Gmc rauthaz*. 'In some languages the base is rudhir-*: Skt rudhirás, Gr ἐρυθρός [eruthros], L ruber' (Walshe).

2. Akin to OE rēad, red, is OE rudu, a ruddy colour, whence E rud, with dim ruddle, with var raddle; OE rudu has adj rudig, whence ruddy. E rud has, esp for the fish, the var rudd; and OE rudu has derivative rudduc, a robin, whence E ruddock.

3. Akin to OE rudu is OE rüst (prob also rust), E rust, that reddish coating which iron forms if long exposed to damp air: cf OHG-MHG-G rost, MD rost and, as in D, roest, Let rūsa, rust, rusta, brown colour, and other Sl cognates. (Walshe.) Derivative OE rustig becomes E rusty.

4. Russet, however, derives from OF-MF rousset, f roussette, dim of OF-MF ros, rus, rous (F roux), red, reddish, from L ruscus, akin to L ruber, red.

5. L ruber, red, o/s rubr-, has a lost extn rubricus*, surviving in rubrica (sc terra, earth), red earth, red chalk (used for colouring): MF rubriche, later rubrique: ME rubriche, later rubrike: E rubric, red ochre (obs), hence a portion (of MS, etc.) coloured red. Derivative LL rubricāre has pp rubricātus, whence the E adj and v rubricate.

6. Intimately related to L ruber is L rubēre (s and r rub-), to be red, with inch rubescere, presp rubescens, o/s rubescens-, whence the E adj rubescens.

7. L ruber has dim rubellus, reddish, whence Med rubella, a skin disease, and Min rubellite, a gem, and tech rubelle, a kind of red. The cpd rubefacere, to make red, has presp rubefaciens, o/s -facient, whence rubefacient.

8. The Med rubeola is a SciL derivative from L rubeus (from rubēre), red, whence OF-MF rubi (MF-F rubis), the gem ruby, whence E ruby. The dye rubine, orig a ruby, derives from ML rubinus, an extn of rubeus.

9. L rubēre has derivative adj rubidus, whence both the rare E rubid, rubidic, and the Chem rubidine and rubidium; its derivative n rubor, redness, is adopted by Med for inflammation of the skin.

10. Also from rubēre derives rubicundus, whence (late MF-F rubicund and) E rubicund; derivative ML rubicunditās, o/s rubicunditāt-, leads to rubicundity.

11. L ruber has the perh orig dial var rūfus, whence E rufous and the PN Rufus; the dim rufulus, reddish, yields rufulous.

12. Akin to L ruber, but with s and r rut- for rub-, is L rutilus, of a golden red, whence G Rutil, F rutile, E rutile, a brilliant reddish-brown mineral. Rutilus has derivative rutilāre (vt), to turn red, presp rutilans, o/s rutilant-, whence E rutilant.

13. Akin to ruber is the syn rōbus, var rubus, whence rōbigō, rūbigō, mildew, rust, with LL adj rūbiginōsus, whence E rubiginose, rubiginous. From L rūbīgō, via VL rūbicula*, derives OF-MF rouil (MF-F rouille), mud, rust, with derivative OF-F rouiller, whence E 'to roil' or render turbid, hence to vex.

14. L rubeus becomes OF-F rouge, adopted by E.

15. Ult akin to rubeus and red is the red-berried rowan (tree), imm of Scan origin—cf Nor raun, rogn, ON reynir. Cf the likewise not easily recognizable ribbon, ME riban, from MF riban (late MF-F ruban), app of Gmc origin—perh from the MD ringband, a neckband or necklace (B & W), but perh from some syn of Go rauths, red, for, as Webster acutely remarks, the sem original is perh 'a red band'.

Greek

16. Gr eruthros, red (cf para 1, s.f.), has these E derivatives: erythrin, erythrine (Chem -in, -ine); erythrim (Med -ism), with anl adj erythritic; erythrite (Min -ite).

17. App a cognate cpd of eruthros is Gr eruspelas, whence Med L, hence E, erysipelas, adopted by E; the 2nd element, -pelas, derives from Gr pella, skin, erusi- being a var of c/f eruthro-.

- red tape*. See RED, para 1. redan. See TOOTH, para 9. redd (1), n. See RED, para 1. redd (2), v. See READY, para 2. reddition. See RENDER, para 3. rede. See READ, para 2. redeem, redeemer, redemption, redemptory. See EXEMPT, para 12. redhibition. See HABIT, para 11. redintegrate, redintegration. See TACT, para 17. redirect, redirection. See DIRECT, para 2. redivivus. See VIVA, para 6. redolence, redolent. See ODIUM, para 5. redouble: F redoubler: f.a.e., DOUBLE. redoubt, a small strongplace. See DUKE, para 9. redoubtable. See DOUBT, para 4. redound. See UNDA, para 4. redress. See REX, para 9. redshank and redstart are birds with pale-red legs and chestnut-red start (OE steort) or tail. reduce, reduction. See DUKE, para 6 (at reducere). redundance, redundancy, redundant. See UNDA, para 4. reduplicate, reduplication. See PLY, para 22, s.f. reed, whence reedy and reedbuck (trans of D rietbok, partly anglicized as rietbuck: D riet, a reed, a (bamboo) cane): ME rede, earlier read: OE hrēod: cf OFris hriād, MD ried, reet, G Riet, MHG riet, OHG riot, earlier hriot, OS hriod: OGmc etymon hreutha* (Kluge).
reef, a chain of rocks: ME riff: ON rif, prob id with ON rif, a rib, app the origin of the reef of a sail (ME riff)—f.a.e., RIB—whence 'to reef', whence the agent, whence the garment, reefer.
reek (n and v), whence reeky, smoky, whence Auld Reekie, Old Smoky, Edinburgh—cf The Big Smoke, London, and Reykjavik (ON reykr, smoke + -vik, bay, ML vīcus, L uīcus), Smoky Bay.

1. Reek, n, derives from OE rēc; the v from OE rēocan, to steam or smoke: cf OFris rēk, n, and rēka, v, OS rōk, OHG rouh, MHG rouch, G Rauch, and OHG riohhan, to steam or smoke, MHG-G riechen, to smell, ON riūka, to smoke. The OGmc r is perh reuk-* or rauk-* (Kluge).

2. The mostly diai roke, fog, mist, smoke, prob derives from D—cf MD roke, rooc, D rook, smoke.

reel, a lively Sc dance, app comes from reel, 'a revolvable device on which yarn or thread is wound' (Webster)—itself from OE hrēol, akin to OFris hreitl and ON hræll of cognate meanings. Hence 'to reel', to whirl, to sway dizzily.

reeve (1), n. See the 2nd PORT, para 4.

reeve (2), naut v., to pass, e.g. a rope, through an opening: prob (EW) from It refare, to thread, from refe, a strong thread, a twisted thread, itself either (Prati) from It ripe (rare and o.o.o.), a thread, or (EW) from OHG-MHG reif, a rope, a loop, and therefore akin to ROPE.

refection, refectory.

The former comes, via OF-MF refectio (F refectio), from L refectiō, acc refectiōnem, lit a re-making, LL food, from refectus, pp of reficere, from facere, to make: f.a.e., FACT. Also on the pps refect- is formed LL-ML refectōrium, a dining-room, whence OF refectoir, MF refectoire (F ré-), whence E refectory.

refer, whence referable and referee; referendary, referendum (whence referential); referent, whence, anl, reference, whence referential.

'To refer' derives, perh via MF referer (F référer), from L referre, to carry (ferre: f.a.e., BEAR, v) back (re-). The presp referens, o/s referent-, yields the adj, hence n, referent. Referendary, an arbitrator, derives from LL referendarius, an official charged with reports and petitions; referendum is prop the neu of the gerundive referendus.

refine, refinement, refinery. See FINAL, para 8.

reflate, reflation. See FLATUS, para 8.

reflect, reflection (or reflexion), reflective, reflector; reflex, etc. See FLEX, para 7.

refluent; reflux. See FLUENT, para 9.

reform, reformation (whence, anl, reformatory), reformer, reformist. See FORM, para 7.

refract, refraction, refractory. See FRACTION, para 8.

refragable. See FRACTION, para 10.

refrain (1), burden of a song: MF-F refrain, from OF-F refraindre, to break back or off, hence to modulate: VL refrangere*: L refringere: re-, back + -fringere, c/f of frangere, to break: f.a.e., FRACTION.

refrain (2), to check: ME refreinen: OF-MF refrener (F réfréner): L refrēnāre, to hold back with the frēnum or reins.

refresh, refreshment. See FRESH, para 3. refrigerant, refrigerate, refrigeration, refrigerator. See FRIGID, para 3. refuge, refugee. See FUGITIVE, para 6.

refulgence, refulgent. See FLAGRANT, para 4. refund. See the 2nd FOUND, para 12. refurbish. See FURBISH. refusal; refuse, adj, n, v. See the 2nd FOUND, para 13. refutation, refutatory, refute.
 'To refute' derives from L refūtāre, to repulse, esp in argument, a cpd of the same simple fūtāre*, as occurs in confūtāre, whence the sep CONFUTE: perh an int of fundere, to pour. On the pp refūtātus are formed refūtātiō, o/s refūtātiōn-, whence refutation, and LL refūtātōrius, whence refutatory. regain=re-, back+gain: cf OF-F regagner. regal. See REX, para 12.
 regale, to entertain agreeably or richly, derives from EF-F régaler, from late MF-EF régale (F régal), from OF-F gale, pleasure: cf GALLANT. regalia, regality. See REX, para 12. regard (n, v), regardant, regardful, regardless. See WARD, para 11.
 regatta: It regat(t)a: Venetian regata, a gondola race, orig a challenge: Venetian regatar, to compete, to be rivals, prob from It gato, a cat, 'cats having the reputation of being very quarrelsome' (B & W). regency. See REX, para 19. regenerate (adj, v), regeneration. See GENERAL, para 8. regent. See REX, para 19. regicide. See REX, para 13. regime, regimen, regiment, regimental. See REX, paras 20 and 21. regina. See REX, para 14. region, regional. See REX, para 22. register, registrand, registrant, registrar, registrar, registration, registry. See GERUND, para 13. regius. See REX, para 12, s.f. regnal, regnant. See REX, para 15. grate (masonry and commerce); grater. See SCRATCH, para 3. regress, regression, regressive. See GRADE, para 16. regret, regretful, regrettable. See GREET. regular, regularity, regularize; regulate, regulate, regulative, regulator, regulatory; reguline, regulus. See REX, paras 17 and 18. regurgitate, regurgitation. See GORGE, para 3. rehabilitation, rehabilitation. See HABIT, para 7. rehearsal, rehearse. See HEARSE, para 2.
 Reich. See REX, para 1. reification, reify. See the 1st REAL, para 5. reign, n, v. See REX, para 15. reimburse, reimbursement. See PURSE, para 2. rein (n, hence v): ME reyn, rene: OF-MF resne (F rêne): VL retina*, from L retinēre, to hold back: f.a.e., TENABLE. reincarnate, incarnation. See CARNAGE, para 2. reindeer. See DEER. reinforce=re-, again+force, v: cf F renforcer.
 Hence, reinforcement.
 reins. See RENAL.
 reinstate, reinstatement. See STAND, para 16. reintegrate; reintegration: LL reintegrātus, pp of reintegrāre; derivative LL reintegrātio, o/s reintegrātiōn-; cf integrate at ENTIRE.

reitbok, reitbuck. See REED.

reiterate, reiteration. See ITERATE, para 2.

reject, adj (hence n) and v (whence rejector); rejection, whence, anl, rejective. Rejection derives from ML rejection-, o/s of rejection, L relectio, from relectus, pp of reicere, relicere: re-, back+-licere, c/f of iacere, to throw.

rejoice. See JOY, para 3. rejoin, rejoinder. See JOIN, para 17.

rejuvenate, rejuvenation; rejuvenesce, rejuvenescence. See JUVENILE, para 3, s.f. relapse. See LABOR, para 2, s.f.

relate, relation (whence relationship), relative (whence relativity), relator; correlate, correlation, correlative.

1. 'To relate' derives from relātus, pp of referre, to carry back; derivatives relātiō, o/s relatiōn-, LL relātius, ML -ivus, LL relātor, become E relation, relative, relator.

2. Anl with relate is correlate, perh suggested by LL correferre, to report at the same time, pp correlātus, whence ML correlātiō, o/s correlatiōn-, whence correlation, and ML correlātivus, whence correlative: cf EF-F correlation and MF-F correlatif, f -ive, perh intervening.

relax, relaxation. See LANGUID, para 4.

relay. See LANGUID, para 10.

release. See LANGUID, para 5.

relegate, relegation. See LEGAL, para 6.

relent, relentless. See LINDEN, para 3. relevance derives from relevant, itself from scholastic ML relevant-, o/s of relevans: re-, back+levāre, L levāre, to raise: f.a.e., LEVER. Hence, anl, irrelevant, whence irrelevance.

reliable, reliance, reliant. See LIGAMENT, para 6.

relic. See LEND, para 4, s.f.

relict. See LEND, para 4.

relief, relieve. See LEVER, para 9.

relegate, relegation. See LIGAMENT, para 9.

religion, religious. See LIGAMENT, para 10.

relinquish, whence relinquishment. See LEND, para 2. Cf:

reliquary: MF-F reliquaire: ML reliquarium: L reliquiae (pl), akin to relinquere, to leave behind.

relish. See LANGUID, para 8.

reluctance derives from reluctant: L reluctant-, o/s of reluctans, presp of reluctāri, to struggle back or again, LL to force oneself to do something: re-, back, again+luctāri, to struggle, akin perh to Gr lugizein, to bend, to twist about, and therefore to E LOCK.

2. Luctāri has also a cpd eluctāri, to struggle to get free (connoted by e-, out of), whence eluctābilis, with neg ineluctābilis, irresistible, whence E ineluctable.

rely. See LIGAMENT, para 6.

remain, remainder. See MANOR, para 9.

remand, v hence n: OF-EF remander, to send word again, to send a new order: LL remandāre, to reply: re-, back, again+mandare, to give (dare) into the hands (manus) of: cf MANDATE.

remanent. See MANOR, para 9. remark. remarkable. See MARK, para 6. remediable, remedial, remedy. See MEDICAL, para 3. remember, remembrance, remembrancer. See MEMORY, para 7. remigrant, remigrate, remigration. See MIGRANT, para 5. remind, reminder. See MIND (heading). reminiscence, reminiscent. See MIND, para 16. remiss, remissible, remission, remit, remittance. See MISSION, para 21. remnant. See MANOR, para 9. remonstrance, remonstrant (adj, hence n), remonstrate (whence remonstrator), remonstrator (whence, anl, remonstrative). See MONSTER, para 4. remora, adopted from LL ('a sucking sea-fish': Souter), is a sense-adaptation of L remora, a delay or a hindrance: f.a.e., MORATORIUM. remorse, whence remorseful and remorseless. See MORSEL, para 6. remote. See MOVE, para 14. remount, n, v. See MINATORY, para 10. removal, remove. See MOVE, para 14. remunerate, remuneration, remunerative. See the 1st MEAN, para 3. renaissance. See NATIVE, para 9, s.f. renal; reins, kidneys, loins.
Renal, of the kidneys, derives—cf EF-F rénal—from LL rēnālis, adj of L rēn, a kidney, pl rēnēs, whence OF-F reins, adopted by E; L rēn is o.o.o. renaissance, renascent. See NATIVE, para 9, s.f. rencounter, n: MF-F rencontre. Cf encounter, q.v. at COUNTER, adv.
 read (pt, pp rent), with dial var rent, whence the n rent; rind.
 'To rend' or remove, or tear, violently, derives from ME renden, OE rendan, akin to the syn OFris renda (cf the OFris n rend), var randa, and perh to Skt randhra, a slit or a split; prob also to OE-E rind, orig the bark of a tree or a crust of bread; cf OHG rinta, MHG-G rinde, bark, rind, itself perh (Walshe) akin to G Rand, edge.
 render (v hence n), whence renderer and rendering; rendezvous; rendition—cf reddition; rent, a monetary return, hence 'to rent'—cf rental; surrender, n and v.
 1. 'To render' or give (e.g., pay) back, hence to melt, to recite, etc., comes from OF-F rendre, from VL rendere*, influenced by prendere but deriving from L reddere: re-, back, again+-dere, c/f of dare, to give: f.a.e., DATA.
 2. OF-F rendre has the EF-F derivative n rendezvous, from Rendez-vous. Give yourselves up!, and the MF-EF derivative rendition, adopted by E.
 3. With rendition, cf reddition, adopted from MF-F, which took it from redditiōn-, o/s of LL redditiō, from redditus, pp of reddere.
 4. OF-F rendre has a further derivative, the OF-F rente, which owes something to VL rendita*, from renditus*, pp of rendere*. The derivative MF renter yields 'to rent' or pay money for use of.

5. Rental, however, is adopted from AF, which takes it from AL rentale (? for ML renditāle*).
 6. Surrender is adopted from AF, which uses as n the AF v surrender, from MF surrendre, to deliver: OF-MF sur-, over, L super+rendre. rendezvous. See prec, para 2. rendition. See RENDER, para 2. renegade. See NEGATE, para 4. renege. See NEGATE, para 4. renew, whence renewal. See NOVA, para 9. rennet. See RUN, para 2. renounce. See NUNCIO, para 9. renovate, renovation, renovator. See NOVA, para 5. renown. See NAME, para 7. rent (1), adj ('torn'). See REND (heading). rent (2), a tear, a split. See REND. rent (3), a monetary return; also v. See RENDER, para 4. rental. See RENDER, para 5. renunciation. See NUNCIO, para 9. re-organization, re-organize. See ORGAN, para 4. re-orient, re-orientation. See ORIENT, para 3, s.f.
 rep or repp, occ reps, a fabric: F reps: E ribs, pl of RIB, q.v.: from its ribbed surface. repair (1), to go, to resort. See FATHER, para 10. repair (2), to mend. See PARE, para 7. repairable, reparation, reparatory. See PARE, para 7. repartee. See PART, para 22. repartition. See PART, para 22. repast. See PASTOR, para 6. repatriate, repatriation. See FATHER, para 9. repay (whence repayment): MF-EF repaier; re-, back+paier, to pay: f.a.e., PAY. repeal. See the 2nd PULSE, para 16. repeat, v (whence repeater), hence n. See PETITION, para 6. repel, repellent. See the 2nd PULSE, para 15. repent, repentance. See PAIN, para 7. repercussion: MF-F répercussion: L repercuss-iōnem, acc of repercussio, from repercussus, pp of repercutere: re-, back, again+percutere, to strike (quater) hard (per-, throughout, from per, through): cf PERCUSS. repertoire, repertory. See PARENT, para 4. repeting; repetition, repetitious. See PETITION, para 6. repine. See PAIN, para 6. replace, replacement. See PLANE, para 14. replant. See the 2nd PLANT, para 4. replenish, replenishment. See PLENARY, para 4. replete, repletion. See PLENARY, para 15. replevin, replevy. See PLEDGE, para 2. replica, replicate, replication. See PLY, para 16.
 Cf:
 reply. See PLY, para 16.
 repone. See POSE, para 19. report, reportage, reporter. See the 3rd PORT, para 12. repose, repository. See POSE, para 19. repp. See REP.

reprehend, reprehensible, reprehension. See PREHEND, para 12.

represent, representation, representative. See ESSE, para 9.

repress, repression, repressive, repressor. See the 2nd PRESS, para 12.

reprise, v hence n: ME-EE repy (F repris, pp of repandre—cf reprise, q.v. at PREHEND, para 13), influenced by ME repreven (cf reprove at PROVE, para 10).

reprimand. See the 2nd PRESS, para 11.

reprint, v hence n=re-, again+print.

reprisal. See PREHEND, para 13.

reprise. See PREHEND, para 13.

reproach, n, derives from OF-F reproche, itself from OF-F reprocher, whence 'to reproach': and OF-F reprocher comes from VL repropiāre*, to again (re-) come close to (propiāre*, from L prope, adv and prep 'close (to)'—cf propinquus, adj 'close'): cf APPROACH.

reprobate, reprobation. See PROVE, para 10.

reproduce=re-, again+produce (q.v. at DUKE, para 6); reproduction, prob anl from reproduce, but perh imm from EF-F réproduction; reproductive, perh imm from F réproductif, f réproductive. reproof. See PROVE, para 10. Cf:

reprove. See PROVE, para 10.

reps. See REP.

repant, reptation. See para 1 of:

reptile, Reptilia, both with derivative adj reptilian; reptant, reptation; obreption, obreptitious; surreption.—serpent, serpentine (adj, n); serpiginous, serpigio; serpolet; Serpula, whence, anl, serpuline;—herpes, Herpestes, herpetic, herpetism—and cf the element herpeti-, herpeto-.

1. Reptile, adj, derives from LL reptilis; the n, from LL reptile (? for animal reptile, a creeping animal), pl reptilia; both from L reptum, supine of rēpere, to creep, which has freq reptāre, presp reptans, o/s reptant-, whence the E adj reptant, and derivative n reptātiō, o/s reptātiōn-, whence E reptation.

2. L rēpere, supine reptum, is akin to Lett raptiēs, to creep, and Lith replioti, to go on all fours, to crawl. Rēpere has cpd obrēpere, to creep up to (ob), supine obreptum; the derivatives L obrēptiō, o/s obrēptiōn-, and LL obrēpticius, yield E obreption and obreptitious. The cpd surrēpere, to creep upon (sur- for super), has derivative LL surrēptiō, o/s surrēptiōn-, whence E surreption, a moral lapse.

3. Perh akin to L rēpere, to creep, is L serpere, to glide, to creep, esp as a snake does. Serpere is akin to the syn Gr herpein (cf herpeton, a snake) and to Skt sarpās, a snake, lit a creeping animal, and sárpati, he creeps. E & M regard L serpere, s and r serp-, as an extn of IE ser-*, to go, to flow; is serpere perh rather a contr (with vocalic change) of serēpere*, to creep, or glide, away: se-(sē or sē), connoting apartness or removal+rēpere?

4. L serpere has presp serpens, o/s serpent-, which, used as n (elliptical for serpens bestia, a creeping or gliding beast), becomes OF-F serpent, adopted by E; the Serpent, or Devil, represents LL Serpens. The derivative LL adj serpentinus becomes OF-F serpentin (f -ine), whence E serpentine; the E n serpentine owes its senses to OF-MF serpentin, EF-F serpentine.

5. L serpere has the ML derivative serpigo, a creeping skin-disease, e.g. ringworm, adopted by Med. On the o/s serpigini- are formed the EF adj serpigineux, f serpigineuse, and—prob independently—the E adj serpiginous.

6. Serpolet, the wild thyme, is adopted from EF-F: Prov serpolet, dim of serpol: Serpullum: from serpere, but after the syn Gr herpulos.

7. Zoo SciL Serpula sense-adapts L serpula, a little snake, irreg dim of serpens, a snake.

Greek

8. Akin to L serpere, to creep, to glide, is the syn Gr herpein, s and r herp-, whence herpēs, a creeping skin-disease, adopted—via L and perh via EF-F herpēs—by Med; the derivative Gr adj herpētikos becomes E herpetic (cf F herpétique); with E herpetism, cf F herpétisme.

9. Also from Gr herpein comes Gr herpēstēs, a creature that creeps: whence the SciL Herpestes (including the mongoose).

republic, republican. See PEOPLE, para 6.

repudiate, repudiation. See FOOT, para 14.

repugn, repugnance, repugnant. See PUNGENT, para 18.

repulse, repulsion, repulsive. See the 2nd PULSE, para 15.

reputable, reputation, repute. See the 2nd COUNT, para 3, s.f. request. See QUERY, final sentence.

requiem. See QUIET, para 8.

require, requirement. See QUERY, para 12.

requisite, requisition. See QUERY, para 12.

requital derives, by the n-suffix -al, from requite, which stands for the earlier requit: re-, back+quit, q.v. at QUIET, para 4.

reredos. See REAR, adj, para 2.

rescind, rescission, rescissory. See the 2nd SHED, para 4.

rescribe; rescript, rescription, rescriptive. See SCRIBE, para 19.

rescue (v, hence n), whence rescuer, comes from ME rescouen: OF rescourre (var rescorre, confused with OF rescorre, to run back): re-, back+escorre, to shake, to move, from L excutere, to shake, hence to drive, out (ex, out of+cutere, c/f of quater, to shake: cf QUASH).

research. See CIRCLE, para 6.

resect, resection. See the 2nd SAW, para 13.

resemblance, resemble. See SIMILAR, para 13.

resent, resentful, resentment. See SENSE, para 18.

reservation, reserve (n, v), reservist, reservoir.

Reservation derives from MF-F réservation, itself from OF reserver (EF-F réserver), whence, via ME reserven, the E 'to reserve'; whence also the MF-F n réserve (whence F réserviste, whence E reservist), whence the E n reserve. Reservoir derives from EF-F réservoir. The OF reserver itself derives from ML reservāre, LL-L reseruāre: re-, back+servāre (ML servāre), to keep. Cf CONSERVE, OBSERVE, PRESERVE. The pa reserved owes something to F réservé.

reside, residence (and -cy), resident, residential; residual, residuary, residue, residuum. See SIT, paras 17 and 18.

resign, resignation. See SIGN, para 18.

resile, resilience, resilient. See SALLY, para 13.

resin (whence resinoid), resinous; rosin; retinol.

1. Resin derives from MF-F résine, L rēsina, Gr rhēsīnē, var of rhētīnē, perh akin to rhēō, I flow. Derivative L rēsīnōsus yields EF-F résineux, f -euse, and, prob independently, E resinous.

2. Retinol=Gr rhētīnē+-ol, oil (L oleum).

3. Rosin, a var of resin, derives from MF roisine, var of raisine, a f/e var (after raisin, a grape) of résine.

resist, resistance, resistant, resistible. See SIST, para 8. resolute, resolution. See LOSE, para 8.

resolve. See LOSE, para 8.

resonance, resonant, resonator. See SONABLE, para 5.

resort, v and n: both from OF-F, where the n derives from the v: re-+sortir, to go out: cf sort, q.v. at SERIES. The E senses accord with the F.

resound. See SONABLE, para 2.

resource, resourceful. See SURGE, para 5.

respect, respectable, respectful, respective. See SPECTACLE, para 15.

respiration, respirator, respiratory, respire. See SPIRIT, para 12.

respite. See SPECTACLE, para 15.

resplendence, resplendent. See SPLENDID, para 3. respond, response, responsible, responson. See DESPOND, para 3.

rest (1), stopping-place, repose, refreshment, to pause, refresh oneself, whence resting, pa and vn, and restful, restless (perh imm from OE restlēas).

'To rest' comes from OE restian, var raestian, akin to OFris resta, OS restian, OHG restan, var rastōn, G rasten; the n rest, pause, repose, comes from OE rest, var raest, akin to OHG rasta, MHG raste, a day's march, a rest, G Rast, rest, and syn OHG restī, rest—cf Go rasta, ON röst, a stage on a journey, and Go razn, a house. 'The term appears to derive from the nomadic period: "resting-place for the night"' (Walshe).

rest (2), a remainder, to remain. See STAND, para 32.

restaur; restaurant; restaurateur, restauration. See STORE, para 2.

restitute, restitution, restitutory. See STAND, para 33.

restive. See STAND, para 32, s.f.

restless. See the 1st REST (heading).

restoration, restorative, restore. See STORE, para 2.

restrain, restraint. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 12.

restrict, restriction, restrictive. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 12.

result, resultant. See SALLY, para 17.

resume, résumé, resumption, resumptive. See SUMPTION, para 5.

resurgence, resurgent; resurrect, resurrection. See SURGE, para 5.

resuscitate, resuscitation. See CITE, para 6.

retable. See TABLE, para 4, s.f.

retail, retailer. See the 2nd TAIL, para 6. retain, retainer. See TENABLE, para 7.

retake. See TAKE, para 2. retaliate (whence retaliator), retaliation (whence, anl, retaliatory); talion, lex talionis.

1. Talion, adopted from late MF-F, derives from tālīōnem, acc of L tālīō, the law—lex tālīōnis—of 'an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth': prob akin to OIr tale, Mlr taile, pay, W talú, to pay, tāl, compensation, Cor taly, tylly, dāl, to pay to recompense.

2. L tālīō has a tālī-, which app recurs in ML retālīāre, to return like (injury) for like, pp retālīātus, whence 'to retaliate', whence, anl, retaliation.

retard, retardation, retardative. See TARDY, para 1.

retch (whence the vn retching): OE hrāēcān, to clear one's throat, akin to—perh deriving from—OE hrāca, spittle, (an) expectoration: cf ON hrāki, spittle, hraekja, to spit, to hawk, and OHG hrākhisōn, to hawk (? also MHG riuspfern, G (sich) räuspfern, to hawk, and MLG ruspen, to belch).

retention, retentive, retentor. See TENABLE, para 7.

retinary. See RETICULAR.

reticence, reticent. See TACIT, para 2.

reticular, reticulate (whence, anl, reticulation), reticue; retiarius, retinary, reticella.

L rēte, a net, is o.o.o.: ? Medit (cf Eg skhet, a net). Its dim is rētīculum (adopted by An and Zoo), whence F réticule, whence E reticule; the It dim reticella is adopted by E for 'a needle-point lace'. From rētīculum, L derives rētīculātus, whence E reticulate; reticular derives from SciL rētīculāris. L rēte, c/f rēti-, has derivative rētīārius, a gladiator armed with net and trident, whence E retiary, used also as adj.

2. L rēte has the ML extn rētīna, that net-like, sensitive membrane of the eye which receives the image: adopted by Sci (cf the MF-F rétine); its adj is retinal (-al).

retina. See prec, para 2.

retinol. See RESIN, para 2.

retinue. See TENABLE, para 7.

retire, retirement. See TIRADE, para 1.

retort, retortion. See TORT, para 11.

retouch. See TOUCH, para 3.

retrace. See TRACT, para 2, s.f.

retract, retractation, retraction, retractor. See TRACT, para 20.

retreat. See TRACT, para 21.

retrench, retrenchment. See TRENCH, para 4.

retribute, retribution, retributive. See TRIBUTE, para 8.

retrieval, retrieve, retriever. See TROUBADOUR, para 3, s.f.

retro- words. See, in general, the prefix retro- (L retro, backwards). Note, in particular, these terms:

retro(-)active: cf F rétroactif; retrocede, retrocession: L retrocēdere, to go backwards, LL retrocēssiō, o/s retrocēssiōn-, F rétrocession; retroflex, bent backwards: cf FLEX; retrograde: see GRADE, para 17;

retrogression: see GRADE, para 17; retropulsion, a driving, hence, forcing, backwards: cf the 2nd PULSE; retrospect, retrospection, retrospective: see SPECTACLE, para 17; retroversion, retrovert: see VERSE, para 15.

retrode, retrusible, retursion. See THRUST, para 8.

return. See TURN, para 3. retuse. See PIERCE, para 2, s.f.

Reuben. See RUBE.

reunion; reunite. See ONE, para 3.

revalence, revalent; revalidate. See VALUE, para 20.

reve, rève. See RAGE, para 5. reveal. See VEIL, para 3.

revehent. See VIA, para 12.

reveille. See VIGOR, para 6.

rev, n, is adopted from OF-MF revel, a revolt, hence din or disorder, hence merrymaking, from OF-MF reveler, to revolt, make a din, make merry, whence 'to revel': and OF-MF reveler derives from L rebellāre, to revolt: cf REBEL.

revelation, revelatory. See VEIL, para 3.

revenant. See VENUE, para 21.

revenge, revengeful. See DICT, para 21, s.f.

revenue. See VENUE, para 21.

reverberant, reverberate, reverberation, reverberatory. See VERVAIN, para 3.

revere, reverence, reverend, reverent, reverential.

'To revere' comes, prob via EF-F révérer, from ML reverēri, L reuerēri, a *re-*int of uerēri, to fear: akin to E WARY. The L presp reuerens and its derivative reuerentia, the gerundive reuerendus, yield resp—perh via F—the E reverent, reverence (adj reverential), reverend.

reverie. See RAGE, para 5. revers, reversal, reverse, reversible, reversion, reversionary; revert. See VERSE, para 15.

revest, revestment. See VEST, para 3.

revet, revetment. See VEST, para 3.

review, reviewer. See VIDE, para 14.

revile. See VILE.

revise, reviser, revision. See VIDE, para 13.

revisit. See VIDE, para 12.

revival (whence revivalism, revivalist), revive, revivification, revivify. See VIVA, para 6.

revocable, revocation, revocatory. See VOCABLE, para 10, s.f. revoke. See VOCABLE, para 10, s.f.

revolt, revolting. See VOLUBLE, para 4, at reouluere, s.f. revolution, revolutionary, revolutionize. See VOLUBLE, para 4, s.f. revolve, revolver, revolving. See VOLUBLE, para 4, s.f.

revue. See VIDE, para 14.

revulse, revulsion, revulsive. See VELLICATE, para 7.

reward. See WARD, para 17.

rex; regal, regale, regalia, regality; regina; raja (maharaja) and rani (maharani)—cf raj; regency, regent; regicide; régime, regimen, regiment (whence regimental); region, regional; regius;—real, n, and realm; Roy (cf vive le Roi!), royal, royalism, royalist; Reich; reis, milreis; rix-dollar; rect, rectitude, rector (whence rectoral, rectorial), rectum (whence the adj rectal); rectification, rectify (whence rectifier); rial, ryal; rye, gentleman;—regula and Regulus; regular (adj), hence n, regularity—irregular, irregularity; regularize, regularization; regulate, whence, anl, regulation, regulative, regulator;—rule, n also v, whence ruler and pa, vn ruling; misrule, v, hence n;—right (adj, adv, n, v), right whale, righteous, righteousness, rightful, rightly, rightness; aright—downright—outright—upright;—regnal, regnant (whence regnancy)—regnum and reign (n, v)—interregnum.—Cpds in -rect: arrect, arrector; correct (adj, v), correction, corrective, correctness, corrector—negg incorrect, in correction, incorrectness; direct (adj, v), direction, directive, directness, director, directory—indirect, indirection—dirge—droit and adroit; erect, erection, erector.—Cpds in -rigible: corrigible, corrigibility—negg incorrigible, incorrigibility; dirigible.—dress (n, v), dressage, dressing; address—maladdress—redress.—ergo.—Cf sep RICH and perh REACH; cf also SURGE.

I. Germanic

1. Reich, the German Empire, in 1919–45 the German Republic, derives from MHG riche, OHG rihhi, realm, itself from OC rig-*, a king (cf OIr ri), akin to OFris rike and rēx. Hence Reichsmark, the G monetary unit, and Reichswehr, the G militia.

2. Right, adj, ME right, earlier riht, derives from OE riht, akin to OS and OHG-MHG reht, G (and D) recht, MD richt, Go raihits, ON rētr, also to L rectus, straight, and perh Gr orektios, stretched (out), upright. OE riht, adj, is used also as n, whence the E n right, and it has derivatives rihte, adv, whence the E adv right, the v rihtan, whence 'to right', the adv rihtlice, whence rightly, the abstract n rihtness, whence rightness, the cpd rihtwis (wis, wise), ME rightwis, rightwys, E righteous, with derivative adv rihtwislice, E righteously, and derivative n rihtwisness, E righteousness.—A right whale is prob so named because it is the typical whale, the norm in whales.

3. Right has the foll prefix-cpds:

aright, correctly: a-, on (+the)+right, straight, right; downright, adv 'straight down', hence adj: down, prep (+the)+right, straight; outright, adv, hence adj: lit 'straight out'; upright, adj, hence adv and n: OE upriht (uppriht), lit 'being up the straight', hence 'erect'.

II. Romance: A, French

4. The name Roy comes from an OF-MF var of MF-F roi, itself a var of OF rei, from L rēgem, acc of rēx, king; Vive le roi is '(Long) live the king!' The adj is OF reial, OF-MF roial, EF-F royal: ME rial, riall, ryal, then roial, EE-E royal. The ME forms rial(f) and ryal survive in the now only Sc rial, royal, magnificent, and the late ME-EE coin rial or ryal. The OF-MF roial has derivative roialté, with var royaulté (F royauté), whence E royalty.

5. The OF adj reial, var real, has OF-MF derivative realme, a kingdom, adopted by E; hence E realm.

6. The OF-F adj droit, straight, hence upright and also 'on or to the right' (the right hand being normally the more exact), cf E 'right (hand)', was, in its derivative n use, adopted by E Law, esp in droits, dues. The F adj droit derives from L dirēctus—cf direct in para 28 below.

7. The F adj droit has the OF-F cpd adroit, situated, or placed, à droit or on the right, hence skilful, adopted by E, whence adroitness; in Cl16, F adroit acquires maladroit (mal à droit)—cf, sem, gauche—likewise adopted by E; cf maladdress.

8. Also from L dirēctus (para 28 below) comes VL directiāre*, whence OF drecier (? for direcier*), MF-F dresser, to direct, hence to arrange, to dress, hence also, in EF-F, to train a horse, whence F dressage, adopted by E; MF-F dresser yields 'to dress', whence 'a dress' and the vn dressing.

9. Drecier, dresser has the prefix-cpds OF adrecier, MF-F adresser, to direct, or to direct oneself in a given direction, whence ME adressen, to adorn, etc., whence 'to address', the derivative MF-F n adresse, direction, EF-F skill, combining with the E v to yield the E n address; and OF redrecier, to make straight again, MF-F redresser, to straighten, whence 'to redress', whence the E n redress. Maladdress derives from F maladresse, which blends, as it were, maladroit, clumsy, and adresse, skill.

9A. See also paras 13, 15, 16, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23.

III, B. Spanish and Portuguese

10. That old Sp coin, the real, derives from the Sp adj real, royal, from L rēgālis: cf, sem, the E sovereign. Cf the Port reis (pl of Port real), discontinued in 1911; hence the Port milreis (lit, mil, 1,000+reis), likewise discontinued in 1911; the Brazilian milreis survives.

III. Latin: A, rēx

11. L rēx, a king, was orig, it seems, a commander, a president, as in rēx sacrōrum; it prob stands, with vocalic change from short to long e, for regs*, from regere (s and r reg-), to guide or direct, in a straight line, hence to have the direction, the command, of (persons). The lit sense occurs in rēctus, straight, whence the moral sense; cf rectangle at the element recti-.

12. L rēx becomes the E PN Rex. The o/s is rēg-, whence the adj rēgālis, worthy of a king; whence, perh via OF-MF regal (MF-archaic F régāl), the E regal; the neu rēgāle becomes E regale, a royal prerogative, usu in pl regalia, now applied to the emblems and symbols thereof hence to any ceremonial, esp if official, dress. L rēgālis has the ML derivative rēgālitās, o/s rēgālitāt-, whence, perh via MF, the E regality.—The secondary adj rēgius occurs in Regius Professor.

13. L rēx, o/s rēg-, acquires in ML the cpd rēgicida, king-slayer, and rēgicidium, a king-slaying, whence EF-F rēgicide, whence E regicide.

14. L rēx has f rēgīna (rēg-, o/s of rēx+the f suffix -īna), seen on British coins; hence the adj in -al: reginal.

15. L rēx, s rēg-, has derivative rēgnum—prob a contr of rēginum*, neu of adj rēginus* (cf PN Rēginus, PIN Rēginum, perh rēgīna)—the control exercised and the power possessed by a king, hence his kingdom, has ML adj regnālis, whence E regnal. Rēgnum becomes OF-MF regne (EF-F règne), var reigne, orig kingdom, whence ME regne, reyn, whence E reign. 'To reign,' ME reinen, earlier regnen, derives from OF-MF regner (EF-F régner): LL regnāre, from rēgnum. The cpd inter-rēgnum, from inter, between+rēgna, the reigns, is retained by E; regnant=L regnant-, o/s of regnans, presp of regnāre.

16. The dim of rēx is rēgulus (rēg-+dim suffix -ulus), a kinglet, whence the PN Regulus. The f rēgula, a straight piece of wood, esp a measuring-bar, a ruler, hence, fig, a pattern of conduct, a discipline, becomes OF-MF reule (riule, rieule)—cf the Walloon rule—whence ME reule, E rule; 'to rule' comes from OF-MF reuler (rieuler, etc.), from LL rēgulāre, itself from rēgula.

17. LL rēgulāre, to keep straight, has pp rēgulātus, whence 'to regulate'.

18. L rēgula has adj rēgulāris, whence OF reguler (MF regulier, F régulier), adopted by ME, whence, re-formed upon the L word, the E regular; the MF-F derivative régularité becomes E regularity. The Eccl LL irrēgulāris and its derivative irrēgulāritās, o/s irrēgulāritāt-, yield—prob via MF—the E irregular, irregularity.

III. Latin: B, regere

19. L regere, to guide straight, has presp regens, o/s regent-, whence, perh via MF-F régent, the E regent, adj and n; derivative LL regentia, office of ruler, yields—perh via late MF-F régence—the E regency.

20. L regere, s reg-, has derivative regimen, a guiding, a governing, adopted by MF and, prob independently, by E—esp in Med sense. The late MF-F shape, régime, has also been adopted by E, esp as 'form of government'.

21. L regimen has the LL doublet regimentum, a direction for government, hence governance; hence, via MF-F régiment (military sense borrowed from G), the E regiment, whence 'to regiment'.

22. Also from the s reg-, derives L regiō, o/s regiōn-, a straight line (esp if a boundary), hence a frontier, hence a quarter or a district: whence OF region, MF-F région, whence E region; derivative LL regionalis, whence—cf EF-F régional—the E regional, whence regionalism (cf the F régionalisme).

23. The pp of regere is rēctus, whence, in E, the obs adj and the Phil n rect and the element rect(i)-, as in rectangle and rectilinear, or -rect, as in correct, erect, etc. Cf rectify and rectification, resp adapted and adopted from MF-F rectifier and rectification, from LL rectificāre and rectificātiō, o/s rectificātiōn-; rectifiable is adopted from F.

24. L rēctus, s rēct-, has the LL derivative rēctitudō, straightness (lit and fig), whence—perh via MF-F—the E rectitude. Also from rēctus comes L rēctor, a guide, controller, director, adopted by E, with ML derivatives rectoratus (gen -ūs) and rectoria (domus), whence E rectorate and rectory; E rectorial is perh adopted from EF-F.

25. Rectum is the ScIL rēctum (intestinum), the straight (part of the great) intestine.

III. Latin: C, Compounds of regere, esp of pp rēctus

26. L regere has several prefix-cpds relevant to E, e.g. arrigere, to straighten ad or towards or upwards, with pp arrēctus, with ears erect, hence eagerly attentive, whence E arrect and the ScIL arrector.

27. More important is corrigerere, to straighten (cor- for con-, used int), lit and fig. The neu gerundive corrīgendum, (something) to be straightened or set right, has, with its pl corrīgenda, been adopted by learned IE; corrīgibilis, correctable, becomes MF-F corrigible, adopted by E, and the LL neg incorrīgibilis becomes MF-F and E incorrigible. The pp corrēctus, used also as adj, yields the E adj, whence v, correct. Derivatives corrēctiō, o/s corrēctiōn-, and corrēctor and LL corrēctiuus (ML -ivus) become MF-F correction, correcteur, correctif (f -ive), whence E correction, corrector, corrective (adj, hence n). The neg incorrēctus becomes (MF-F and) E incorrect; LL incorrēctiō, o/s incorrēctiōn-, becomes (EF-F and) E incorrection. Correctitude blends the adj correct+rectitude.

28. L dirigere, to lead, or guide, in various directions, hence merely to guide, has presp dirigens, o/s dirigent-, whence E dirigent; dirigibile—cf F dirigeable—represents dirig-+adj -ible. The pp dirēctus yields both the adj—cf the F direct—and the v direct; derivatives LL dirēctiō, o/s dirēctiōn-, LL dirēctor, LL dirēctōrius, its derivative n dirēctōrium, yield resp (MF-F and) E direction—AF directour, E director—directory, adj—directory, n, and F directoire, as in the period of the Directoire. The ML adj dirēctivus and its 'derivative' dirēctiva littera (or epistola) account for the E adj and n directive.

29. L dirigere has imperative dirige, Direct thou!: whence, via the Catholic Dirige, Domine, . . . viam meam (in the Office for the Dead), the E dirge.

30. The pp dirēctus, used as adj, has neg indirēctus, whence—perh via late MF-F—the E indirect.

31. L ērigare, to straighten out, hence to raise straight, has pp ērēctus (used also as adj), whence the E adj and v erect; derivative LL ērēctiō, o/s ērēctiōn-, becomes, perh via late MF-F erection, the E erection; the LL agent ērēctor becomes E erector. From ērēctiūs, pp, learned F has derived erectile, whence E erectile.

32. L surgere (? for subrigere*), to rise: see SURGE.

33. The L ergō, therefore, 'is doubtless formed from the preposition e [ex, out of]+the abl of a vn of regō [I guide straight]': E & M.

IV. Greek

34. Perh akin to L regere, pp rēctus, is Gr oregein, to stretch for, to reach towards, pp orektos, whence the adj orektikos, whence the Phil orectic, appetitive. Cf the 1st REACH (2).

V. Sanskrit

35. Hindi rāj, n, rule or reign, and Hindi rājā (from Skt rājan) have become E raj and raja or rajah; the Hindi f rānī (Skt rājñī) becomes E rani or ranees. The cpds maharajah, -raja, and maharanees, -rani, derive from Skt mahārāja (mahat, great) and Hindi mahārānī: lit, 'great king' and 'great queen': with rājā, cf L rēx; with rānī, cf L rēgina.

VI. Indo-European

36. Clearly the IE r of all those words is reg-, to set straight, to lead or guide straight, hence, as n, a true guide, hence a powerful one, hence a chief, a king; perhaps the basic sense of reg- is 'a straight line' or, better, 'a movement straight from one point to another, hence a movement along a straight line'. (E & M.)

Reynard. See HARD, para 4.

rhabdite. See VERVAIN, para 4.

rhamnus. See VERVAIN, para 4.

rhapontic. See RHUBARB, para 2.

rhapsodic(al), rhapsody. See ODE, para 9, and cf WRAP, para 2.

rhea, the SAM ostrich, comes fancifully from L Rhea, Gr Rhēā ('Péā'), 'the mother of the gods': derived by Chryseippus from Gr rheo, I flow, 'because rivers flow from the earth'.

rhematic, rheme. See RHETOR.

rhematology. See the element rhemato-. Cf prec. Rhenish, rhenium, Rhine.

The 1st blends and alters L Rhenus, the Rhine+G rheinisch, of the Rhine; Rhine blends, phon, L Rhenus and G Rhein; rhenium, a rare Chem element=Rhenus+Chem -ium. L Rhēnus derives from Gaul Renos, perh akin to RISE.

rheostat. See the element rheo-.

rhetor, rhetoric, rhetorical, rhetorician; rhematic, rheme.

Rhematic=Gr rhēmatikos, adj of rhēma (gen rhēmatos), a word, whence adj rhēmatikos, whence E rheme and rhematic: and Gr rhēma is akin to Gr rhētōr, a teacher of oratory, whence, via LL, the learned E rhetor: both rhēma and rhētōr, for whrēma* and whrētōr*, derive from eirō (for weriō*), I say: f.a.e., VERB. Gr rhētōr has adj rhētorikos, whence L rhetoricus, whence the obs E adj rhetic, now in extn rhetorical. The Gr adj rhētorikos has f rhētorikē, used as n, elliptical for r. tekhnē, the art of the rhetor or orator: whence MF rhetorique (F rhétorique), ME retorike, whence the reshaped E rhetic. F rhétorique has derivative rhétoricien, whence E rhetician.

rheum, rheumatic, rheumatism; catarrh, whence catarrhal—diarrhoea, AE diarrhea, whence diarrh(o)cal, diarrh(o)ic—haemorrhoid, AE hemor-rhoid, whence h(a)emorrhoidal—logorrhoea, AE -rhea; ult cf STREAM.

1. Rheum, old-fashioned word for the common cold, is reshaped from ME reume, adopted from OF-MF (later rheume, F rhume): LL reuma, var of rheuma, adopted from Gr: from rhēō, I flow, inf rhein: cf STREAM.

2. Gr rheuma has adj rheumatikos, whence, via LL rheumaticus, the late MF-F rhumatique, E rheumatic; EF rheumatisme (F rhumatisme) becomes E rheumatism.

3. Gr rhein, to flow, has several cpds affecting E: katarrhein, to flow kata or down, whence katarrhoos, -rrhous, whence LL catarrhus, late MF-F catarrhe, E catarrh; diarrhein, to flow dia or through, whence diarrhoia, LL diarrhoea, adopted by E (cf the MF-F diarrhée);

*haimorrhoo*s, flowing with haima or blood, whence haimorrhōis, o/s haimorrhoid-, pl haimorrhoides, whence L haemorrhoidae, MF emeroydes (archaic E emerods), EF-F hémorroides, reshaped E haemorrhoids; the sing refers to one 'varicosal' swelling;

SciL logorrhoea, a flow of logoi or words: erudite E.

Rhine. See RHENISH.

rhinoceros, adopted from L, is the Gr rhinokerōs, '(the) horny-nosed (beast)': cf the element rhino-. The adj rhinocerotica=LL rhinocerōticus, Gr rhinocerōtikos.

rhizoid, rhizome. See RADICAL, para 1, s.f.

rhododendron. See element -rhodin on p. 943.

rhomb, rhombus. See VERVAIN, para 4.

rhubarb; rhapsodic.

1. Rhubarb derives from EF-F rhubarbe, var of MF reubarbe: ML reubarbarum, rheubarbarum, either 'the barbarian root' (L barbarus), from rheu, according to Isidore of Seville (C7) a 'barbarian' word meaning 'root', or, if the ML var rhabarbarum be taken as primary, from LL rha (var ra), rhubarb, from Gr rha (var rhēon), from Rha, the Volga, as Rabelais declares (B & W);

Rha, the Volga, perh derives from Gr rhein, to flow—'the flow-er'?

2. The LL var ra (ML rha) ponticum, both written also as one word, lit 'rhubarb of the Pontus' in Asia Minor, becomes EF-F (now archaic) rhapsodic, adopted by E for the domestic rhubarb.

rhumb perh blends rhom+either EF-F rumb or (the certainly-from-L-rhombus) Port and Sp rumbo: o.o.o.

rhyme, n and v (whence rhymer and rhymester, and pa, vn rhyming), with archaizing var rime; rhythm, rhythmic or rhythmical; ult cf STREAM.

1. Rhyme or rime derives from ME rime or ryme, var rym: OF-F rime, either from L rhythmus, rhythm, ML verse, from Gr rhuthmos, a measured movement, a poetic measure, app akin to rhein, to flow, or from some OGmc source—cf OE, OFris, MHG rīm, a number or a sequence; note, however, that the MHG and OFris words perh derive from the OF rime.

2. L rhythmus becomes EF rihme, later EF-C19 F rhythme (later rythme), whence E rhythm; the adj rhythmic, often in extn rhythmical, derives either from EF-C19 F rhythmique (later rhythmique), itself from LL-ML rhythmicus, Gr rhuthmikos (rhuthmos+-ikos), or direct from LL-ML rhythmicus.

rhynco- words. See the element rhynch(o)-.

rhyo- words. Cf the element rhyo-.

rhyparo-, rhypo- words. See the element rhyparo-.

rhythm, rhythmic. See RHYME, para 2.

ria. See RIVER, para 7.

rial. See REX, para 4.

rib, n, hence v, whence ribber and ribbing; naut ribband; cf sep REEF.

The naut ribband, a long and narrow piece of timber, merely joins band to rib: and rib of ship (etc.) derives from rib of the animal body: OE rib, ribb: cf OFris ribb (var rebb), OHG rippa, MHG-G rippe, ON rif, OSl rebro, and perh OHG reba, MHG-G rebe, a vine, and Gr orophos, a reed, orophē, a roof of reeds, akin to erephein, to cover with a roof: IE r, perh rebh-*, to arch over (Hofmann).

ribald, ribaldry.

The latter derives from ME ribaldrie, var of ribaudrie, from MF ribauderie, itself from OF-MF ribault, var of ribaut, var of ribaud (still in Walloon), from OF-MF riber, to be wanton, from OHG rihan (MHG riben), to be amorous, orig to rub—cf OHG hriba, a prostitute.

riband. Cf ribbon, q.v. at RED, para 15.

ribband (1). See RIB.

ribband (2). See:

ribbon, occ var ribband, riband. See RED, para 15. rice, whence ricey, derives from ME ris, rys: MF ris (F riz): It riso: by aphesis from LL oriza: L oryza: Gr oruzā, var oruzon: either deriving, via East Iranian, from or akin to Skt vrihis, rice (cf Afghan vrižē), prob from some indigenous South Asiatic language. (Hofmann.)

rich, riches; enrich, whence enrichment; cf, ult, REX.

1. Riches derives from ME richesse, MF(-F) richesse, wealth, OF richesse, power: OF riche, powerful, MF-F wealthy+suffix -esse: OF riche derives from Frankish riki*, powerful: f.a.e., REX. But E rich derives from ME riche, a blend of OE rice, powerful, rich+OF-MF riche; OE rice is akin to OFris rike, OS rihi (G reich), Go reiks, powerful, and ON rikr, powerful, rich: f.a.e., REX.

2. OF riche has OF(-F) cpd enrichir, to make rich: en, L in, used int+riche+inf -ir. Hence the E 'to enrich'; derivative enrichment perh prompted by MF-F enrichissement.

Richard. See DICKENS . . ., s.f.

riches. See RICH.

rick (1), of hay; ridge; ruck, undistinguished members of crowd.

1. Rick, ME reke, derives from OE hrēac, akin to ON hraukr, rick, hroki, a heaped-up mass, MD roke, roic, rooc, D rook, rick; perh, ult, to CROSS.

2. Ridge, ME rigge, OE hrycg, is akin to MD rigge, ric, regge, rugge, D rug, OHG hrukki, rucki, G Racken, ON hryggr, and to the rick words.

3. Ruck, orig a heap or stack, is of Scan origin: cf ON hraukr (as in para 1 above), var hrūga, and Nor dial ruka.

rick (2), a sudden or painful twist of neck, back, ankle, (as v) so to twist, is a var of syn wrick, n hence v: ME wricken, to twist or jerk, akin to D wriikken. Cf MD wrigen, to twist, whence the MD-D freq wriggelen, akin to MLG wriggeln, whence the E 'to wriggle' (whence the n). Cf, further, WRY.

rickets, whence rickety. See the element rachi-, 2nd para.

rickshaw. See JINRIKSHA.

ricochet, adopted from MF-F, orig designated 'an endless repetition' (modern sense, C17): o.o.o.

rictus, adopted from L, derives from rictus, pp of ringere, to show one's teeth: cognates in Sl: IE r, reng-*, to grin.

rid, whence riddance: ME ryddan (var ruden): ON rythja, to clear (land): cf OE āryddan, to strip, and hryding, a clearing, a patch of cleared land, syn ON ruthning, and perh OHG ar-riutan, to extirpate (lit).

ridden. See RIDE.

riddle (1), a sieve, OE hriddel, an l-for-r var of hridder, is akin to OHG ritara, MHG riter, G Reiter—to OIr criathar—to L cribrum: f.a.e., CERTAIN. (Walshe.)

riddle (2), a conundrum. See READ, para 2.

ride, pt rode, pp ridden; rider;—raid (n, v), whence raider, raiding;—road, whence roadstead, roadway, roadster;—cf the sep RILL.

1. 'A ride' derives from 'to ride': ME riden, ryden: OE riðan: cf OFris rida, OHG ritan, MHG riten, G reiten, LG riden, ON rīða—OIr riadaim, I ride or travel, riad, a riding, a driving, Gallo-L rēda, a cart; also OE rād, a journey—see para 3. PROB OF READY.

2. OE riðan has agent ridere, whence rider.

3. Ridan has the further derivative rād, the act of riding, hence a journey: ME rade, var rode: E road, which has the Sc var raid, a riding, esp if hostile, hence 'to raid'.

ridge. See the 1st RICK, para 2. ridicule, ridiculous. See RISIBLE, para 2.

riding (1), an administrative district of Yorkshire: OE thriding*, attested in L documents, the th- disappearing because of its clash with prec -th of North Riding: ON thrithjungr, the 3rd part (there being three Ridings), from thrithi, 3rd: f.a.e., TRI-.

riding (2), pa and vn. See RIDE.

ridotto. See DUKE, para 8.

rietbuck. See REED (heating).

rife: OE rife: cf the syn ON rifr and MLG rive, MD riff, rive, also ON reifa, to bring forward, to manifest.

riffle, n, v; ripple, n, v; rip (of water); ruffle, v.

All these words are o.o.o.; prob riffle is a thinning of ruffle, and perh ripple is a blend of riffle+rip of water; rip may owe something to RIP (1). Not impossibly the p words represent n-less varr of rimple and rumple, qq.v. at RAMP, paras 4 and 3.

rifraff. See RAFF, para 1.

rifle (1), to despoil or plunder, whence rifler and rifling (plundering): OF-MF rifer, to plunder (F, to plane): OHG riffilon, to tear by rubbing; cf ED riffelen, to rub or scrape, to plunder; ? freq of, e.g., OFris rīva, MLG rīven, ON rifa, to tear.

2. From ON rifa, comes ME riven, E 'to rive' or tear apart, to rend asunder, with pp riven, used also as adj. Cf RIFT.

rifle (2), v hence n, whence the rifle bird, from its cry; rifling (grooving).

The firearm derives, by b/f, from rifled (i.e., grooved) gun, from 'to rifle' or groove internally: from OF-F rifer, to scrape or file: cf prec, para 1.

rifling, grooving. See prec.

rift, n hence v, is of Scan origin—cf the syn Da rift and ON ripa and ON rifa, q.v. at the 1st RIFLE.

rig, to fit (esp naut), to furnish, hence n, is of Scan origin: cf Nor and Sw rigga, Da rigge, to rig, and Nor, Sw rigg, Da rig, the n: o.o.o. Agent: rigger; vn: rigging, esp of ship.

right (adj, n, v), righteous, rightly, rightness. See REX, para 2.

right whale. See REX, para 2, s.f.

rigid, rigidity; rigor (r. mortis), rigour, rigorous, de rigueur.

L rigēre, to be stiff or inflexible, s and r rig-, is o.o.o.: prob akin to L frigus, o/s frigor, coldness, and frigidus, cold; cf also Gr rhigos (from srigos*), frost, the cold. Rigēre has two derivatives notably affecting E:

rigidus, whence late MF-F rigide and, prob independently, E rigid, the LL derivative rigiditās, o/s rigiditat-, yielding rigidity (cf F rigidité); rigor, adopted by Med E, esp in rigor mortis, the stiffness of death, and by AE, E preferring rigour, already in ME, which adopts it from MF (F rigueur),—the derivative LL rigorōsus, severely cold, ML also fig, becoming MF-F rigoureux, f rigoureuse, whence E rigorous. The phrase de rigueur, compulsory, indispensable, comes from F être de rigueur, to be compulsory or indispensable.

rigmarole. See RAGMAN ROLLS.

rigor, rigorous, rigour. See RIGID.

rile is a var, mostly AE, of roil, q.v. at RED, para 13.

rill prob derives from LG rille—unless from D rill; prob akin to MLG ride, a brook, OE rithe, a stream, OIr riathor, a torrent, ? Ga srùlag, a stream, and Skt rīti, a stream; prob, therefore, cf RIDE.

rim (n, hence v), rand, the Rand, random, randy.

1. Rim comes from OE rima, akin to the syn OFris rim and to ON rima, a raised strip of land, at, e.g., the edge of a field.

2. Prob akin to OE rima, etc., is OE, hence E, rand: cf OHG rant, boss of shield, MHG rant, rim of shield, hence rim in general, G Rand, edge; the Rand, in Safr, shortens and anglicizes Witwatersrand (MD rant, MD-D rand)—in Afr, 'White Waters Ridge'. With OE rand, cf ON rönd, and perh (Walshe) OHG rama, a support, MHG rame, G Rahmen, a frame.

3. Perh akin to OHG rant is the OGmc origin of the OF-MF phrases à randon and de randon, rapidly, suddenly, violently, where randon means 'rapidity' or 'impetuosity'; hence ME randon, whence the eased EE random, impetuosity, force, whence E at random, haphazardly. (But randon could well derive from a Frankish rant*, a running, a course, from OHG rennen (MHG-G rennen), to run, as B & W hold.)

4. Randy, lecherous, derives from obs randy, loud- or coarse-spoken, ult akin to random.

rime (1), a white frost: OE hrim: cf ON hrim, MD-D rijm, and also OHG hriso, MHG rife, G Reif, OS hrīpo, MD ripe, D rijp, hoar-frost.

rime (2), in verse. See RHYME.

rimple. See RAMP, para 4.

rind. See REND.

ring (1), a circlet (whence ringworm), hence 'to ring' or surround. See RANGE, para 2.

ring (2), vi and vt, to (cause to) sound clearly or resonantly, pt rang (occ rung), pp rung: OE hringan: echoic—cf ON hringja, MD ringhen, D rinkelen. Hence the agent ringer and the pa, vn ringing.

rink. See RANGE, para 2.

rinse (v, hence n): ME rinsen, earlier rincen: MF(-F) rincer: OF reincier: app from VL recentiāre*, to make fresh, from LL recentāre, to refresh, from L recens, fresh: cf RECENT.

rio. See RIVER, para 7.

riot (n, v—whence rioter, rioting). 'To riot' derives from OF-MF rioter, rihoter, to quarrel, whence OF-MF riote (F riotte, archaic), E riot: o.o.o.: ? echoic. OF riote has MF derivative riotous, adopted by E.—Cf the 2nd RUT.

rip (1), n, of water. See RIFFLE.

rip (2), to tear asunder, hence n, is, ult, prob echoic: cf Flem rippen, MLG reppen, MD riten, D rijten—also Sw reppa and Da reppa, rippe. Hence agent ripper and pa, vn ripping.

ripa, riparian. See RIVER, paras 1 and 2.

ripe, whence ripen; ripeness;—reap, whence reaper and pa, vn reaping.

1. Ripeness comes from OE ripeness, a -ness derivative of OE ripe, whence E ripe: cf OS ripi, MD ripe, D rijp, OHG rīfi, MHG rife, G reif o.o.o.

2. Akin to OE ripe is OE ripan, to cut with sickle or scythe, perh orig to cut (grass, cereals) when ripe, var reopan, repan: ME ripen, reopen, repen: E 'to reap'.

ripple. See RIFFLE.

Rip van Winkle, one far behind the times, comes from the eponymous hero of a story in Washington Irving's The Sketch Book, 1819–20: cf, sem, The Story of Sleepy Hollow in the same collection.

rise, pt rose, pp risen; pa, vn rising. See RAISE, para 1.

risible, risibility (cf EF-F risibilité); ridicule (n, hence v), ridiculous (whence, anl, ridiculosity); deride, derision (whence, anl, derisive), derisory.

1. Risibility derives from LL-ML risibilitās, o/s risibilitāt-, from LL risibilis, laughable, whence, via late MF-F, the E risible: and LL risibilis derives from risus, pp of ridēre, to laugh, also to laugh at, s and r riā-, prob akin to Skt vrīdate, he is ashamed (perh from being laughed at), with IE r kriā-*.

2. Ridēre has derivative adj ridiculus (for riđitlos*), laughable, used also as n 'a buffoon', the neus ridiculum being also used as n 'something to be laughed at, also a joke, a witticism', whence the late MF-F adj ridicule, hence, in C17–18, n, adopted by E, whence 'to ridicule'. The L adj ridiculus and the LL ridiculōsus (from the L n ridiculum) combine to yield E ridiculous.

3. L ridēre has the prefix-cpd dēridēre, to laugh dē- or down, whence 'to deride'; the pp dērisus has derivatives L dēristō, o/s dērisiōn-, whence MF-F dērisiōn, whence E derision, and LL dērisōrius, worthy of derision, whence both late MF-F dērisoīre and E derisory, and LL dērisibilis, whence the rare E derisible.

risk (n, v), whence risky—cf the F risqué, partly adopted by E.

'To risk' derives from EF-F risquer (with pp risqué used as adj), itself from the EF-F n risque, whence E 'a risk'; F risque comes from It risco (now rischio): o.o.o.

Risorgimento. See SURGE.

rissole: MF-F rissole: earlier MF roissole (cf OF rousole, from roux, red, f rousse): VL russeola*, prop the f of the LL adj russeolus, red (cf LL russulus, reddish): L russus, red—cf the E rust at RED, para 3.

rite; ritual (adj, hence n), whence ritualism and ritualist (prompting ritualistic).

Ritual derives from L ritualis, adj of ritus (gen -ūs), a religious rite, whence E rite: s ritu-, r rit-; IE r, rit-, prob an extn of ri-, number, hence order. Cf Gr nēritos, numberless, and arithmos, number, OE, OHG, ON, OIr rūn, number, calculation.

rivage. See RIVER, para 4.

rival, rivalry. See RIVER, para 8.

rive (1), n. See RIVER, para 4.

rive (2), pp riven. See the 1st RIFLE, para 2.

river, riverain, riverine (cf Aus Riverina); rivage; Rive Gauche; rival, rivalry, rivalry; ripa, riparian (whence, anl, the var riparial); ? rivose, rivulose, rivulet; ria and rio; dubiously rivet, n hence v.—Cpds: arrive, arrival, arriviste; corrial, whence corrialry; derive (whence derivable), derivant, derivate, derivation, derivative.

1. We are concerned with two L words: ripa, bank of river, occ shore of sea, whence the adj ripārius, and rius, ML rius, a brook, adj riudlis, ML riwālis: although they are not certainly cognate, they prob share an Italic r ri-*, akin to the rhei- of Gr rhein, to flow, and perh to the IE r sreu-*, to flow: IE int prefix s-+reu-* (cf L riu-).

L ripa

2. Ripa, a river-bank, is retained by learned E, esp in An; its adj ripārius yields both riparious and, with -ian substituted for -ious, riparian.

3. Most authorities attribute arrive to a VL arripāre* (for adripāre*), to come to the bank; they should, I think, add that OF-F arriver has prob been influenced by dēriuāre and perh by corriuāre. OF-F arriver, OF var ariver, becomes ME ariven, E 'to arrive'; MF arriver leads to AF arrivaille, adopted by ME, whence E arrival; F arriviste (agential -iste) has been adopted by E.

4. Ripa becomes OF-F rive, as in la Rive Gauche, the Left Bank of the Parisian Seine; whence OF-F rivage, partly adopted by E.

5. L ripārius, of the river-bank, has the ML derivative ripāria (prob elliptical for terra ripāria), land imm behind river-bank or sea-shore, whence both It riviera, as in 'the Riviera', and OF-MF riviere (later rivière), MF var rivere, adopted by ME, whence E river; the modern sense appears as early as C12. Derivative C16 F riverain, then riverain, is adopted by E, with var riverine.

L rius, ML rius, a brook

6. Riūs has dim riūulus, ML riwulus, whence It riwolo, with further dim riwioletto, whence the reshaped E rivulet. Whereas rivulose is formed from ML riwulus, rivose is formed from ML riwus.

7. Riūs becomes Sp rio, a river, occurring in many PINn; Sp rio has derivative ria, estuary, creek, or a long, narrow inlet.

8. Riūs has adj riūālis, ML riwālis, of the river bank, whence riwāles (ML riwāles), the inhabitants of the river-bank, whence, from the idea of those on opposite banks, rivals in love, whence, by b/f, riudlis, a rival, and the derivative riwālitās, ML wāl-, whence late EF-F rivalité, and, prob independently, E rivalry, virtually superseded by rivalry (rival+ry).

9. Doubtfully cognate is E rivet, a headed pin or bolt used for joining two pieces, adopted from a MF-F derivative of OF-F river, thus to join perh (Webster) from VL ripāre*, to make (a ship) fast to the ripa or shore, but prob (B & W) from MD wriwen (D wrijven), to cause to turn. Note that MD possesses rivet, a rivet, and also the v riveren, to rivet.

10. L riūs has the LL derivative riūāre, to carry water, with the foll cpds:

LL corriuāre, to cause to flow together (cor- for con-), and, after riudlis, the ML corriwālis, a competitor (cf the LL corriwium, a confluence of rivers), whence EF-archaic F corrial, adopted by E—but now rare;

LL dēriuāre, to flow, hence come, dē- or from, whence MF deriver (F dé-), whence 'to derive'; derivative LL dēriuābilis (ML -riw-) has perh influenced derivable; dēriuātio, o/s dēriuātio- (ML -riw-) yields late EF-F dérivation and, perh independently, E derivation; LL dēriuātius, ML -rius, yields late MF-F dérivatif and, perh independently, E derivative; the LL pp dēriuātus (ML -riw-) accounts for the adj, hence n, derivate, and the presp dēriuans, o/s dēriuant-, ML dérivant-, for the adj, hence n, derivant.

rivet. See prec, para 9.

Riviera. See RIVER, para 5.

rivose. See RIVER, para 6.

rivulet, rivulose. See RIVER, para 6.

roach (1), the fish: ME, from ONF, roche, var of roce: ML rocea: o.o.o.

roach (2), rock: see ROCK (heading).

roach (3), naut: o.o.o.

road, roadster, roadway. See RIDE, para 3.

roam, whence roamer and roaming, derives from ME romen, o.o.o.: improbably by aphesis from OE arāeman, to arise, and therefore akin to rise, q.v. at RAISE; or, despite the very general scorn poured on the notion, not improbably from 'pilgrimages to Rome'.

roan. See GRAY, para 5.

roar, v, hence n (cf OE gerār), hence also roarer and pa, vn roaring: ME roren, earlier raren, from OE rārian: cf OHG-MHG rēren, G röhren, MLG rāren, MD rēren: perh cf Skt rāyati, he bellows: ult, echoic. (Kluge.)

roast, n, v, whence roaster and roasting; roster.

1. 'A roast' derives, partly from OF-MF rost (from rostir), partly from 'to roast', itself from OF-MF rostir (F rôtir): Frankish hraustjan*: cf OHG rōstēn, to roast, from OHG rōst (G Röst), a gridiron or a grate, perh akin to OHG-MHG rōr (G Rohr), a reed, and—note the form—the syn Go raus. (Walshe.)

2. Intimately akin to OHG-G rōst and OHG rōstēn are MD rosten (MD-D roosten), to roast, and MD roster (MD-D rooster), a gridiron, hence—from the parallel bars corresp to parallel lines—a list: hence E roster.

Rob. See ROBERT, para 2.

rob, robber, robbery; reave (pt reaved, pp reft), reaver—cf bereave, whence bereavement; robe, n hence v—disrobe—enrobe—wardrobe.

1. Robbery derives from MF roberie, robber from MF robeor, both F words coming from OF-MF rober, to rob, whence ME robben, E 'to rob': OF rober comes from OF robe, booty, whence, in MF-F—from booty in form of robes—a gown, a robe, adopted by ME: and OF-F robe comes from W Gmc rauba*, booty: cf OHG roub, MHG roup, G Raub, spoil, robbery, and OHG roubōn, MHG rouben, G rauben, Go bi-raubōn, to which are prob akin the Go raupjan, to pluck, and OHG roufēn, MHG roufen, G raufen, to pluck, to fight, and, perh akin, the ON riúfa, L rumpere (nasalized rup-*), to break.

2. OF-F robe, gown, robe, has the foll cpds relevant to E:

OF desrober, to despoil, to strip, hence, in MF, also to disrobe (vt), prob the prompter of 'to disrobe';

MF enrober, to furnish with robes, whence 'to enrobe';

MF-F garde-robe, with ONF var warderobe, adopted by ME, whence wardrobe—cf the v WARD.

3. With Go bi-raubōn (int bi-), to despoil, cf the syn OFris birēva and OE berēafian, ME bireven, E 'to bereave'. OE berēafian is the int of OE rēafian, ME reven, E 'to reave', akin to OFris rēva, to rob, itself akin to the OGmc words noted in para 1—to which add, e.g., ON reyfa, to rob, and OE rēofan, to break. Cf RUPTURE.

4. OE rēafian has agent rēafere, whence E reaver. robe. See prec, para 1.

Robert, whence Roberts (Robert's son) and Robertson; Rob, Rob Roy, Robbie—Bob, bob, Bobbie, bobby—Rab, Rabbie; Robin (whence Robins and Robinson), Robin Goodfellow, Robin Hood—and robin; Dobbin; Hob, hob, hobgoblin; Hodge; Rupert; Roger, roger; Roderick; Roland and Orlando.

1. Robert, adopted from F, itself adopted from OHG (varr Hrodperht, Ruopert, etc.), means 'fame-bright' (bright in fame): OHG hrud-, ruodh-, is akin to OE hrōth-, a vocalic var of hrēth, glory, cf the syn ON hrōthr; and -perht, -berht, -bert, akin to OHG beraht, OE beorht (E bright). OHG Ruopert becomes G Ruprecht and E Rupert.

2. Robert has pet-form abbr Rob, dim Robbie, with Sc varr Rab, Rabbie; Bob 'assimilates' Rob and has dim Bobbie or Bobby. A bobby or policeman—whence humorously the syn Robert—derives from Mr, later Sir, Robert Peel (whence also peeler), who was Home Secretary when (1828) the Metropolitan Police Force was organized. A bob, or shilling, perh commemorates some topically famous Bob of the late C18.

3. F Robert has pet-form Robin, soon independent and duly adopted by E; the robin is merely one of several PN origins of bird-names; F Robin itself acquires the dim Robinet, whence E robinet, a chaffinch. The PN Robin occurs in the names of at least two folk-lore 'heroes':

Robin Goodfellow, a syn of Puck;

Robin Hood, legendary redresser of social wrongs.

4. Dobbin, a (prob dial) var of Robin, is a traditional E name for a farm horse; hence dobbin, any farm horse, esp if gentle.

5. Hob, a dial var of Rob (for Robert and Robin), becomes hob, a rustic, hence a rustic sprite, hence any sprite, with elaboration hobgoblin (cf GOBLIN).

6. Hodge, a rustic, is prop a var of Rodge*, pron of Rog, pet-form of Roger, adopted from F, from OF Rogier: cf OHG Hrothger, Rothger, Hrotger, Hrodger, lit '(the) Spear-Famous', famed for, or with his spear: 1st element as in Robert, 2nd the OHG gēr (OE gār), a spear. Often applied, as PN, to a bull, Roger leads to the sl v roger (loosely rodger), to copulate with (a woman). Cf the (Jolly) Roger, nickname of pirates' black flag with cross-bones. Hodgkin, whence Hodgkins and Hodgkinson, is a dim (-kin) of Hodge.

7. Roderick blends ML Rodericus and OHG Hroderich, Ruodrich (G Roderich): 1st element as in Robert, with 2nd akin to RICH: lit, '(the) Rich in Fame'; pet-form Rod, dim Roddy.

8. Roland, adopted from the name famous in F chivalry, is of Gmc origin: cf Hruodland, Hrodland, Ruodland (or -lant), lit '(the) Land-Famous'—cf LAND. Pet-form: Roly. Var: Rowland, pet-form Rowley. The It var Rolando* becomes, by metathesis, Orlando.

9. Rob, as in para 2, occurs in Rob Roy (lit, Red Rob), a famous late C17—early C18 Sc outlaw, Robert MacGregor, hence, a light canoe, esp built for river work, from Rob Roy, pseudonym of that John MacGregor who, in 1865, devised it.

Robin and robin. See ROBERT, para 3. robinet. See ROBERT, para 3.

roble. See ROBUST, para 3.

robot. See ORPHAN, para 3.

Rob Roy (canoe). See ROBERT, final para.

robant, roborate; roboreous. See ROBUST, para 4; para 2, s.f.

robur, roburite. See para 2 of:

robust, whence robustious (whence, prob, the AE (sl) rumbustious, var rambunctious) and robustness; roble; roborean or -eous; robur, roburite; roburant (adj, hence n), roborate (whence, anl, roboration and roborative)—cf corroborant (adj, hence n), corroborate, corroboration, corroborative and corroboratory.

1. Robust derives—prob via MF-F robuste—from L robustus, oaken, hence hard and tough (lit and fig), the adj of OL rōbus, L rōbur, the red oak (o/s rōbor-), s and r rōb-; IE r, prob rudh-*, red: cf RED.

2. Robur is used by E for the British oak; the fig sense of L rōbur is 'vigour' or 'strength', recurring in, e.g., E roburite (Min -ite), a mining explosive. Derivative L rōboreus yields E roboreous, with var roborean.

3. L rōbur, an oak, becomes Sp roble, adopted by AE for several species of Californian and Mexican oak.

4. L rōbur, o/s rōbor-, has derivative v rōborāre to strengthen, presp rōborans, o/s rōborant-, whence Ē roborant; the pp rōborātus yields the now rare 'to roborate'.

5. L rōborāre has the cpd corrōborāre, to strengthen (cor- for con-, here vaguely int), with presp corrōborans, o/s corrōborant-, whence E corroborant, and with pp corrōborātus, whence the E adj (archaic) and v corroborate; derivative LL corrōborātiō, a strengthening, o/s corrōborātiōn-, whence MF-F, hence E, corroborat; the anl EF-F corroboratif, f -ive, becomes E corroborative, whence, anl, corroboratory.

roc. See the 2nd ROOK (chess).

rocaille. See the 1st ROCK, para 2.

rochet, Eccl vestment: OF-F rochet: dim (-et), from Frankish rok*: cf ML roccus, OHG-MHG roc (G Rock), OE rocc, ON rokk, a coat, and, prob, OIr rucht, a jacket. (Walshe.)

rock (1), a cliff, or a peak, of stone, hence a large, esp if fixed, stone, whence rockery (-ery) and rocky; dial roach; rocaille; rococo.

1. The now only dial roach, a rock or a stony hill, hence gravelly soil, derives from ME, from OF-F, roche; rock, however, derives from ME rokke, from ONF roque. Both OF roche and ONF roque come from *VL rocca (whence also It rocca and Sp roca): o.o.o.; presumably pre-L.

2. From EF-F roc we have both EF-F rocaille, artificial rockwork, and, orig a workshop tech, the F rococo, ornamentation employing rocaille, hence any florid ornamentation, hence adj 'florid'.

rock (2), a distaff. See RATCHET, para 1, s.f.

rock (3), to move (vt, hence vi) as in a cradle, comes from OE roccian: cf OHG rucchēn, MHG rucken, G rücken, ON rykkia, to jerk, push, pull, and OHG-MHG ruc, G Ruck, ON rykker, a jerk: ? echoic.—Hence rock and rocking chair—horse—etc.

rocket (1), a plant: EF-F roquette: It rochetta, var of rucchetta: (? a dim of) It ruca: apethically from L ērūca, colewort: o.o.o. (B & W.) rocket (2), a firework. See RATCHET, para 2.

rococo. See the 1st ROCK, para 2.

rod: ME, from OE, rodd: app akin to ON rudda, a club, with cognates in the modern Scan diall.

rode. See RIDE (heading).

rodent. See RAT, para 2.

rodeo. See ROTA, para 12.

Roderick. See ROBERT, para 7.

Rodomont, rodomontade. See ROTA, para 13.

roe (1), deer: ME ro: OE rā (var rāha): cf ON rā; OS and OHG-MHG rēh, G Reh, with OS-OHG var rēho; MD re, MD-D ree; 'prob connected with OIr riach, "grey, spotted"' (Walshe).

roe (2), fish-eggs: app for C17(–19) rone, dial var roan: late ME rowne, EE-E (now dial) rown: ON hrogn, akin to OHG rogan, MHG roge, G Rogen, roe.

rogation (whence, anl, rogatory) and Rogation Sunday; rogue, whence roguey and roguish. From cpds of L rogāre: abrogate, abrogation (whence, anl, abrogative), abrogator; arrogance, arrogant, arrogate, arrogation (whence arrogative), arrogator; corvée; derogate, derogation (whence derogative), derogator, derogatory; erogate, erogation; interrogant, interrogate, interrogation, interrogative, interrogator, interrogatory; obrogate, obrogation; prerogate, prerogation, prerogative (adj, n); prorogate, prorogation, prorogator, prorogue; subrogate, subrogation; supererogate, supererogation (whence, anl, supererogatory); surrogate (adj, n, v), surrogation.

1. Rogation Sunday comes next before the Rogation days, three days of supplication preceding Ascension Day: from rogation, a petition, hence— from LL—a litany, from L rogātiō, o/s rogātiōn-, from rogātus (whence obs E rogate), pp of rogāre, to address oneself to (hence prob akin to L regere, q.v. at REX), to question, to ask or petition: s and r rog-.

2. Perh from L rogāre comes the o.o.o. rogue, a rough beggar (or begger): C16–17 roag, roog, C16 rooge, earliest roge: perh cf LL roga, largesse, and certainly cf Martial's use of rogātor, petitioner, for a beggar. More prob, however, E rogue form-adopts and sense-adapts MF-F rogue, arrogant, offensive, itself app from ON hrōkr, arrogant—just possibly aided by MF-F rogation (Dauzat).

Compounds of rogāre

3. Rogāre bears also a 'parliamentary' sense: 'to propose' a law or a regulation, with cpd abrogāre, to demand the repeal, the cessation of: ab-, away from. The pp abrogātus yields the E adj and v abrogate; derivative abrogātiō, o/s abrogātiōn-, yields—perh via the MF-F word—abrogation; LL abrogātor, an abolisher, is adopted by Ē.

4. L adrogāre (ad-, towards), to ask for, appears mostly as arrogāre, to appropriate for oneself, to adopt (an heir); presp arrogans, o/s arrogant-, becomes OF arrogant*, MF-F arrogant, adopted by E, the L derivative arrogantia producing OF-F arrogance, likewise adopted; pp arrogātus yields 'to arrogate', with 'arrogate to oneself' prompted by L sibi arrogāre. Derivative arrogātiō, o/s arrogātiōn-, yields arrogation; and derivative LL arrogātor becomes E.

5. L corrogāre, to beg or demand together (cor- for con-), to procure by asking, to invite effectually, has pp corrogātus, f corrogāta, whence—? for opera corrogāta—the LL n corrogāta, a contribution, ML labour exacted by the authorities: whence OF corovée, almost imm contr to corvée; adopted by E.

6. L dērogāre, to annul (negation connoted by de-, down from), LL to disparage, with pp dērogātus, whence the E adj and v derogate. The LL derivatives dērogātiō (o/s dērogātiōn-), dērogātius (ML -ivus), dērogātor, dērogātōrius become E derogation, perh via late MF-F dērogation—derogative—derogator—derogatory.

7. L ērogāre, to spend, pp ērogātus, yields the obsol erogate; derivative LL ērogātiō, o/s ērogātiōn-, yields the obsol erogation.

8. L interrogāre, to ask the advice of, to question, has presp interrogans, o/s interrogant-, whence E interrogant, n, and pp interrogātus, whence 'to interrogate'; derivatives interrogātiō (o/s interrogātiōn-), LL interrogātīvus (ML -ivus), LL interrogātor, LL interrogātorius yield E interrogation, prob via the MF-F word—interrogative (cf EF-F interrogatif)—interrogator (cf EF-F interrogateur)—interrogatory (cf late MF-F interrogatoire).

9. L obrogāre, to repeal, or to modify, a law, has pp obrogātus, whence 'to obrogate'; derivative obrogātiō, o/s obrogātiōn-, yields obrogation.

10. LL praerogāre, to question in advance, has pp praerogātus, whence the rare 'to prerogate'; derivatives LL praerogātiō (o/s -rogātiōn-), praerogātīvus (ML -ivus), asked before others for his opinion, voting before the rest, its derivative n praerogatiūna (ML -iva), give us resp E prerogation (rare)—prerogative, adj—the n prerogative, via MF-F prérogative.

11. L prōrogāre (prō-, forwards), to postpone, hence to prolong, has pp prōrogātus, whence 'to prorogate'; derivative prōrogātiō, o/s prōrogātiōn-, becomes MF-F, whence E, prorogation; LL prōrogātor, a cashier, suggests the rare E prorogator, a postponer. But prōrogāre yields also 'to prorogue' (parliament)—by way of late MF-EF proroguer (EF-F proroger).

12. L subrogāre, to propose (someone) as an alternative, has pp subrogātus, whence 'to subrogate'; derivative LL subrogātiō, o/s -rogātiōn-, yields subrogation, perh via late MF-F.

13. Subrogāre has the assimilated var surrogāre, pp surrogātus, whence the E adj (hence n) and v surrogate; derivative LL surrogātiō, o/s -rogātiōn-, yields surrogation.

14. L ērogāre, in sense 'to pay', has the LL cpd superērogāre (often contr to supērogāre), to pay or spend in, or as an, excess, pp superērogātus, whence 'to supererogate'; derivative LL superērogātiō (o/s rogātiōn-) yields supererogation.

Roger; roger. See ROBERT, para 6.

rogue, roguery, roguish. See ROGATION, para 2.

roi. See REX, para 4.

roil. See RED, para 13.

roister. See RURAL, para 5.

roke, fog. See REEK, para 2.

Roland. See ROBERT, para 8.

rôle, role. See para 1 of:

roll, n and v; hence roller and rolling; rôle, anglicized as role; roly-poly; ? rollick, whence rollicking; roulade, rouleau, roulette; rowel; control (n, v), controllable (from the v), controller, comptroller; enroll (or enrol), enrol(l)ment.—rota, rotal, rotary (whence rotarian), rotate, rotation (whence, anl, rotative and rotatory), rotator; rote; rotifer; rotula, rotulet, rotulus;—rodeo; Rodomont, rodomontade; roué; barouche; Rotten Row.—rotund, rotunda, rotundity—cf orotund, whence, anl, orotundity; round, adj (whence adv, prep, v and, in part, the n), whence roundabout, rounder, rounders, roundhouse, rounding, roundness, roundsman, the Roundheads, the Round Table; roundel, roundelay—cf rondeau, rondel or rondelle; rondo; rondure;—around.

I. The roll Sub-Group

1. 'A roll' derives, in its 'movement' senses, from the v, but for the rest from ME rolle, from MF rolle, OF role; the C15-16 F var roole produces the F rôle, adopted by E, in theatrical, hence general, sense—from 'the roll on which an actor's part was written' (Webster). OF role derives from VL rotulus, a roll of 'paper', from L rotulus, a little wheel, dim of L rota, a wheel; cf Skt rāthas, a car or a chariot, OHG rad, MHG rat, G Rad, OFris rath, Lith rátas, OIr and Ga roth, W rhod, a wheel, and Lith ritu, I roll: Gmc r, rath-; IE r, roth- (Walshe).

2. 'To roll,' ME rollen, derives from MF roller, OF roler, roueller (cf F rouler): VL rotulāre*: L rotulus, rotula, dimm of rota. 'To roll' acquires the redup roly-poly, in dial a ball-game, in E a pudding.

3. 'To rollick' or walk swaggeringly, hence also to frolic, app blends roll+frolic (in EE, often frolick).

4. OF-F rouler, to roll, has these derivatives adopted by E:

EF-F roulade, a 'run' in Mus; late MF-F rouleau, lit a little roll, more prob from role, var roole, as in para 1;

OF-F roulette, with OF-MF varr, lit a little roll, perh rather from role, roole.

5. Rather from LL rotella, a small wheel, than from the syn L rotulus, comes OF-MF rouele, rouelle, MF-F rouelle, whence E rowel, a little wheel (obs), esp that on horses' spurs.

6. OF-MF role, rolle, has two prefix-cpds affecting E: MF enroler (F enrôler) and MF contrerole, EF-F contrôle. MF enroler, to inscribe en, in, hence on, a roll, hence, ca 1700, in military sense, becomes 'to enroll'; derivative MF-F enrôlement becomes E enrol(l)ment.

7. MF contrerole, a roll, hence a register, kept in duplicate, becomes E counter-roll (archaic); the EF-F contrôle becomes E control. MF contrerole has late MF derivative contreroller, whence EF-F contrôler, whence 'to control'. Derivative MF contreroleur (EF-F contrôleur) yields ME conterroller, whence, influenced by the EF-F n, the E controller; the Official E comptroller is a f/e alteration, after F 'les comptes', commercial accounts.

II. L rota, continued

8. L rota, a wheel, acquired in C16 Pontifical L the sense 'an eccl tribunal whose members dealt, in due turn, with matters submitted to it', whence, ult, the E sense, 'duty-list, orig of soldiers'. The derivative LL adj rotālis becomes E rotal; the more usual var, LL rotārius, yields rotary. The derivative v rotāre, to cause to turn like a wheel, i.e. in a circle, has pp rotātus, whence rotate, adj, and 'to rotate'; derivative L rotātiō, o/s rotātiōn-, yields MF-F and, prob independently, E rotation, and derivative LL rotātor, although in a special, quite different sense, prob suggested the E rotator.

9. Prob from L rota in its ML sense 'a public road or way, hence a regular course', derives by rote, hence, by b/f, rote, a regular course of study, hence repetition.

10. From L rota, a wheel, SciL forms the cpd rotifer, lit a circle (hence a disc)-bearer, applied, by Zoo, to a class of minute, multi-celled aquatic organisms.

11. The L dimm rotulus, rotula, and LL dim rotella, all adopted by E, are techh; rotulus, a written roll, has the anglicized var rotulet.

12. L rota and rotäre have, in the R languages, several not imm recognizable derivatives: rodeo, rodomontade, roué, barouche. Rodeo has been adopted by AE from AmSp rodeo, a mustering (and a counting) of cattle, hence the place into which they are mustered, from AmSp rodear, to muster, from Sp rodear, to surround, from L rotäre.

13. Rodomont, a brave yet boastful warrior king, and a Moorish hero, in It epics of late C15–early C16, derives, via EF, from It Rodomonte (or Roda-), lit a roller-away of mountains: It dial rodare, to roll away + It monte, a mountain; hence the It rodomontata, boastfulness, EF rodomontade, adopted by E.

14. Roué, a debauchee, is adopted from F, where it arose in C18: n from roué, lit 'broken on the wheel', pp of rouer, to break on the wheel, from OF roer, to shape like a wheel, from L rotäre. (Dauzat.)

15. Barouche comes from G Barutsche: It baroccio, alteration of biroccio: ML birotium* (var biroddium), var of ML birotum: LL birotus, a two-wheeled carriage, n use of LL birotus, two-wheeled: bt-, from bis, twice + rota.

16. English, however, affords a still more heavily disguised derivative: 'Rotten Row': prob for 'Rotan Row': C18–mid-19 cant rotan, a wheeled vehicle: L rotam, acc of rota.

III. Both rotund and round

17. L rota, a wheel, has a further adj: rotundus, shaped like a wheel, hence circular, round: whence E rotund. Derivative rotunditäs, o/s rotundität-, yields rotundity (cf MF-F rotundité). L rotundus has f rotunda, used in LL as n 'a circle', whence—reshaped from late MF-F rotonde, a rotunda—the E rotunda.

18. With L rotundus, employed fig for (a) well-rounded style of speaking, hence of writing, cf Horace's ore rotundo, with round mouth, i.e. enunciating fully and clearly: whence E orotund.

19. L rotundus passes through VL retundus* into OF-MF reont (OF var: roont), with f reonde, roonde, whence late MF-F rond, f ronde: whence ME roonde, late ME-EE rownd, E round. The E n derives, in part, from the F n—MF reond, later rond. The Roundheads, or Parliamentary party in the reign of Charles I, were so named by the Cavaliers apropos their close-clipped heads; the Round Table seated King Arthur and his knights.

20. The foll F derivatives of rond concern E, the first four being verse-forms:

MF-F rondel (prop a dim of rond, n), a roundelay, adopted by E, with anglicized var roundel;
MF-F var rondelle, adopted by E; MF-F rondelet, whence E roundelay; late MF-F rondeau, adopted by E; late MF-F rondeur, roundness, whence E rondure.

21. Late MF-F rondeau became It rondò, mostly as a Mus term and, as such, adopted by E.

22. After the simples comes the prefix-cpd around, which (adv, hence prep) consists of a-, on + round, n: cf the MF to la reonde, EF-F to la ronde, lit 'in the round'.

23. 'To surround' has been influenced by round but does not derive from it: see UNDA.

rollick, rollicking. See prec, para 3.

roly-poly. See ROLL, para 2.

Romaic. See ROME, para 2.

romaine. See ROME, para 3, s.f.

Roman. See ROME, para 3.

Romance. See ROME, para 5.

romance (n, v), romancer. See ROME, para 5.

Romanesque. See ROME, para 7.

Romanic. See ROME, para 2, s.f.

Romanism, Romanist. See ROME (heading).

Romanity, romanian, Romanize. See ROME (heading).

Romans(ch). See ROME, para 5.

romantic (adj, hence n), romanticism, romanticist, romanticize. See ROME, para 8.

romaunt. See para 6 of:

Rome, whence Romish; Romaic and Romic; romaine; Roman (adj, hence n), whence roman, Roman candle, Roman holiday, etc., and Romish, Romanism, Romanist, Romanity (? rather from LL Romanitäs), romanium (perh from Romanus); romance (n, v), romancer; Romanesque; Romanize; romantic (adj, hence n.) whence romanticism and romanticist; romaunt; Rumania (var Roumania), whence Rumanian (adj, hence n)—cf Rumelia, whence Rumelian; perh rum, adj—whence rummy, adj, whence, app, the chancy card-game; ? ROAM, q.v. sep.

1. E Rome, adopted from OF-F, derives from L Rōma (whence It Roma): o.o.o., but prob either Italic or Etruscan; cf Italic Rumon, an ancient name of the River Tiber, Rome being 'the settlement, then town, finally city on the Tiber'; more likely from Etruscan Ruma, the name of an Etruscan clan. (Encilt.)

2. The derivative Gr name is Rhōmē, with adj Rhōmatkos, whence ML Rōmatcus, whence E Romaic. Contrast the phon n Romic, which = Rom(an letters) + adj, hence n, suffix -ic. Cf also Romanic, from L rōmānicus, extn of rōmānus.

3. The true L adj is rōmānus, whence, prob via OF-F romain, f romaine, the E Roman; the roman, orig Roman (cf italic, orig Italic), of printing owes something to F romain, recorded in C17, the characters having been invented, 1466, by the F printer Jenson; romaine, the Cos lettuce, is adopted from F, where (C17 onwards) it is elliptical for laitue romaine, lit 'Roman lettuce'.

4. The firework Roman candle originated in Italy; Roman holiday, originating in Byron's '[gladiators] butchered to make a Roman holiday', refers to the games in the Circus of imperial Rome.

5. Romance, v, derives from F romancer, app from F roman, a novel, not from the F romance, which, however, does originate the Mus romance. The literary romance comes from ME romance, earlier romans, adopted from early MF romans (C13-17, romant; C16+, roman), from OF romanz: VL rōmānicē*, in the Roman way, (esp) in Latin: L rōmānicus, Roman: L Rōmānus, a Roman (orig an adj). The adj Romance, as in 'a Romance language', comes from F 'une langue romance' (now 'une langue romane'), from MF romans, OF romanz, something translated from Latin, hence written in French. Cf, in general, para 8; cf, in particular, Romansch, from F dial (of the Swiss Grisons) rumansch, lit 'Roman'. The late MF-F derivative romancier, writer of romances, has suggested E romancer.

6. MF-EF romant becomes E romaunt (archaic): cf romance, a ME var of romance.

7. Romanesque has, esp among the semi-erudite, caused some confusion, there being prop two distinct words: Romanesque and romanesque. Whereas the former derives from It romanesco, Roman, in the Roman style, with form influenced by F romanesque, the latter comes straight from EF-F romanesque, in the style of a romance, romantic.

8. Romantic derives from late EF-F romantique, from the already archaic romant (as in para 5 above). MF-EF romant acquired, in C14, the sense 'a verse romance of adventure', hence, in C15, 'prose romance of chivalry', whence the modern sense 'a novel'.

9. The L adj rōmānus has the LL derivative Rōmānia (territorial -ia), the Roman world, the Roman Empire existing early in our era: this LL word has influenced the formation of modern L Rumania from Rum Ruman, Rumanian, a var of Rum Roman, Rumanian, ult from L Rōmānus. Cf Rumelia, the C15-19 name of the Tu possessions on the Balkan peninsula.

10. The coll-from-sl-from-cant rum, inferior, odd, shady, orig denoted 'superior, excellent, (very) fine'; the C16-18 var rome (cf the C17 room or roome) suggests that, as John Camden Hotten proposed, rum, excellent, fine, derives either from Rome or from L-ML romanus. For the form rum, cf Tu rūmt, belonging to the ancient Romans, and Ar Rūmi, belonging to Rome; for the sense, note Poe's 'the grandeur that was Rome' and the many favourable connotations of Roman and of such phrases as rōmāno more, in the Roman way, i.e. candidly, frankly.

Romic. See prec, para 2.

Romish. See ROME (heading), esp in ref to the Catholic Church.

romp, rompers. See RAMP, para 2.

ronde. See ROLL, para 19.

rondeau. See ROLL, para 20.

rondel, rondelle. See ROLL, para 20.

rondo. See ROLL, para 21.

roundure. See ROLL, para 20.

rood, a crucifix, a square measure of land, comes, through ME rode, from OE rōd, a crucifix, a land-measure: cf OFris rōd, rōde, a crucifix, OS rōda and OHG ruota, MHG ruote, G Rute, MD rode, rouede, D roede, a staff—and perh L raitis, a raft.

roof (n, hence v)—whence roof-tree—ME roofe, earlier rof, comes from OE hrōf, a roof, a top or covering: cf ON hrōf, hrāf, a boat-shed, MD roof, rouf, D roef, a cabin, MLG rōf, a penthouse, a covering: app with C and Sl cognates.

rook (1), the bird, whence rookery: ME rook, earlier rok; OE hrōc: echoic, as are the Gmc, L, Gr cognates—cf esp the Gr hrōzein (s hrōz-), to caw or croak.

rook (2), in chess: ME rōk: OF-EF roc: Sp roque: Ar rokh, var of rukk: Per ruk, orig the fabulous bird roc.

rooky (sl), a recruit. See CRESCENT, para 10.

room, roomy. See the 2nd REAM.

roost (n, hence v), whence rooster: ME rooste: OE hrōst, a perch, a roof's framework: cf MD roest, OS hrōst, a hen-roost, ON hrōt and Go hrot, a roof.

root (1). See RADICAL, para 9. Its freq is rootle.

root (2), vi, to applaud noisily: 'prob from rout, to shout, roar' (Webster); perh from the grunting of pigs as they root about for food.

rope (n, hence v, whence ropeable), whence ropey or ropy, of or like rope; stirrup and stirrup cup.

1. Rope, ME roop, rop, earlier rap, comes from OE rāp: cf OFris rāp, OS rēp, a rope, Go skauda-raip, a latchet, OHG-MHG reif, a rope, a loop, a hoop, G Reif, a hoop, MD roop, roip, (also D) roep, ON reip, a rope: o.o.o.

2. OE rāp, a rope, has cpd stigrāp (for the 1st element, cf STY), whence ME stirap, E stirrup: cf OHG stegareif, MHG stegereif, ON stigreip. A stirrup cup was orig a cup of usu wine, taken by a departing rider, hence any farewell, or parting 'glass of something'.

roric, dewy; rosemary, whence Rosemary.

Roric=L rōr-, o/s of rōs, dew+adj -ic; rōs is akin to Skt rāsas, humidity, Ve rasā, dew, and to OSl rosa, Lith rasa, dew. From rōs, dew, and marinus, of the sea, LL forms rōsmarinus, the shrub rosemary: whence ME rosmarine, later rosemaryn (f/e influence of ROSE), whence E rosemary (f/e influence of the Virgin Mary); cf the MF-F romarin.

Rosa; rosaceous; Rosalind; rosary; rose, whence rosy—cf vin rosé; roseal and roseate and roseous; rosellate and rosulate; rosette. Cf the element -rhodin.

1. Rose (n, hence adj), OE rose, comes from L rosa, akin to or perh arising (? via Rhodia*, with suffix -ia, 'originating in') from Gr rhodon, app for wrodon*: prob Medit—cf the Av vareda (whence Arm yard) and, with g for w, the Per gul; cf also the Eg uariat.

2. L rosa has adj rosāceus, whence E rosaceous; rosārius (see next para); roseus, whence E roseous, varr roseal and roseate; SciL rosellātus and rosulātus, whence E rosellate and rosulate.

3. L rosārius has neu rosārium, used also as n 'rose garden', hence, in ML, a rose garland for crowning the Virgin, whence, perh from the colour, a string of beads fingered in counting one's prayers, hence a series of prayers: E rosary (cf late MF-F rosaire).

4. OF-F rose has the MF-F dim rosette, adopted by E.

5. F rose has MF-F adj rosé, rosy, whence vin rosé, ordinary red wine: E sl 'the rosy'.

6. L rosa becomes the R feminine PN Rosa, adopted by E; and E adapts Sp rosa linda, pretty rose, as Rosalind: cf Rosabella, anglicized as Rosabel, from L rosa bella, a lovely rose.

rosemary. See RORIC.

rosette. See ROSE, para 4.

rosin. See RESIN, para 3.

roster. See ROAST, para 2.

rostrum: L rōstrum, a ship's beak, orig any beak: from rōsus, pp of rōdere, to gnaw; the L adj rōstrālīs yields rostral; cf rodent, q.v. at RAT, para 2.

rosy. See ROSE, heading (the adj) and para 5 (the n).

rot (v, hence n), rotten.

'To rot' comes from ME rotien, OE rotian, akin to ON rotinn, rotten, whence, in fact, ME rotin, later roten, E rotten: cf also ON rotna, OFris rotia, OS rotōn, MD roten, D rotten, to rot. The sl sense 'nonsense' follows naturally from the standard sense; sl rotter = 'to rot' + orthographic -t- + agent -er.

rota, rotal, rotary, rotate, rotation, rotator, rotatory. See ROLL, para 8.

rote, custom, repetition. See ROLL, para 9. rotella. See ROLL, para 11.

rother. See RUNT.

rotifer. See ROLL, para 10.

rotor: contr of rotator, q.v. at ROLL, para 8.

rotten. See ROT.

Rotten Row. See ROLL, para 16.

rotter. See ROT, s.f.

rotula, rotulet, rotulus. See ROLL, para 11.

rotund—rotunda—rotundity. See ROLL, para

17.

rouble. See RUPEE, para 2.

roué. See ROLL, para 14.

rouge. See RED, para 14.

rough, roughen, roughness. See RAG, para 2.

roulade, rouleau, roulette. See ROLL, para 4.

round (adv, adj, n, v). See ROLL, para 19.

roundel, roundelay. See ROLL, para 20.

Roundhead; Round Table. See ROLL, para 19, s.f.

roup, the poultry disease, comes from roup, hoarseness, from roup, clamour (obs), from 'to roup', to shout, to call, hence to speak, hoarsely, from MD rouepen, ruepen, ropen, roepen: cf OE hrōpan, Go hrōpjan, OHG hruofan, ruofān, G rufen, to call: echoic.

rouse (1), a carousal, is aphetic for CAROUSE.

rouse (2), to awake, whence rousing. See RAISE, para 2.

roust is a dial var of the prec; hence roustabout—cf the dial rouse-about, a hustler.

rout (1), a roaring or shouting, derives from the now only dial 'to rout', to roar or shout: ON rauta: echoic.

rout (2), a throng (obs), whence a fashionable assembly, a confused flight. See RUPTURE, para 2.

route. See RUPTURE, para 2.

routine. See RUPTURE, para 2.

rove (1), whence tech roving, is prob a var of the 2nd REEVE.

rove (2), in archery, hence to ramble or wander, hence rover, a rambler or wanderer, and roving, wandering; rover, a pirate.

'To rove' prob derives, by scribal confusion, from MF rouer, to ramble or roam, from L rotāre, to turn as a wheel does, but is certainly influenced by rover, a pirate (as in sea rover, a sea robber), ME rovere, MD rover, a robber, from MD rōven, to rob—cf E reave (q.v. at ROB, para 3) and its agent reaver.

row (1), a continuous line or series of persons or things: ME rowe, earlier rawe and rewe: OE rāw and raew, akin to OHG rīga, a line, MHG rihe, G Reihe, a series, and to Skt rēkhā, a line.

row (2), a brawl, a din, prob comes either from the 1st ROUSE apprehended as a pl or from the 1st ROUT. Hence 'to row' or quarrel, and the adj rowdy. But the d of the adj suggests that row is perh ult akin to the rau- of L raucus and rauus, hoarse, harsh, and to L raudus (var rōdus, rūdus), a rude mass, from the IE r ru-*, to bellow—cf L rugire, to roar, and Skt aru-, to bellow.

row (3), to oar a boat along, whence rower, oarsman, comes from OE rōwan: cf ON rōa, MD roeyen, royen, D roeien, also to OE rōther, ME rother, E rudder, OFris rōther, OHG ruodar, MHG ruoder, G Ruder, an oar, a rudder, perh also, further off, OIr rāme, L rēmus, Gr eretmos, Skt arītras, an oar, and therefore to an IE rā-, varr rē- and rō-*, to row (a boat).

rowan. See RED, para 15.

rowdy. See the 2nd ROW.

rowel. See ROLL, para 5.

Rowland, whence Rowlands, Rowlandson, is a var of Roland, q.v. at ROBERT, para 8.

rowlock 'corrupts' the earlier oarlock (OAR + LOCK).

Roy (roy). See REX, para 4.

royal, royalty. See REX, para 4.

rub, v hence n, hence rubber, the agent, and, from the use of caoutchouc for erasers, rubber, the vegetable substance; hence also the pa, vn rubbing.

'To rub', ME rubben, is of Gmc origin: cf Fris rubben, Nor rubba, Da rubbe, Sw rifva (f for b): ? ult echoic. Perh cf:

rubbish, whence rubbishy; rubble.

1. Rubbish comes from ME rubus, robys, robous; perh, orig, that which is rubbed off, e.g., bricks or stones.

2. Rubbel, from ME robyl or robel, is clearly akin, both phon and sem, to rubbish. Hence the adj rubbly.

rube, AE sl for a rustic, derives from Rube, pet-form of Reuben, from H Rē'ūbēn, (lit) Behold a son. Cf, sem, the syn hick, from Hick, a rural var of Dick, pet-form of Richard.

rubefacient. See RED, para 7.

rubella, rubellite. See RED, para 7.

rubeola. See RED, para 8.

rubescence, rubescence. See RED, para 6.

Rubicon, to cross, or pass, the, to commit oneself irrevocably, comes from Julius Caesar's precipitation of civil war by crossing the river Rubicon, which separates Cisalpine Gaul from Italy. Hence the use of Rubicon in card-games. Rubicon derives from L Rubicon-, o/s of Rubico, that river, perh so named from a red soil in its region.

rubicund. See RED, para 10.

rubidic, rubidine, rubidium. See RED, para 9.

rubiginous. See RED, para 13.

rubine. See RED, para 8.

ruble. See RUPEE, para 2.

rubor. See RED, para 9.

rubric, rubricate, rubrication. See RED, para 5.

ruby. See RED, para 8.

ruche (n, hence v—whence ruching): F ruche, as a dressmaking term: MF rouche, earlier rousche or rusche, bark of tree, hence a beehive (made with bark): ML rūsca, bark: of C origin, presumably Gaulish—cf OIr rúsc, Ga rúsg, Cor rusc, OC rúsk-*.

ruck (1), a heap, the mediocre part of a crowd. See the 1st RICK, para 3.

ruck (2), a crease, whence the v: ON hrukka: f.a.e., WRINKLE.

ruckus; ruction.

The former, dial and sl, app blends ruction+rumpus; the latter, orig Alr, derives from the Irish insurrection of 1798 (The Ruction), the vowel e becoming u by assimilation to the preceding u.

rud, red (n), whence the fish rudd. See RED, para 2.

rudder. See the 3rd ROW.

ruddle. See RED, para 2.

ruddock. See RED, para 2, s.f. ruddy. See RED, para 2.

rude, whence rudeness; rudiment, whence rudimentary (cf the F rudimentaire); erudite, erudition.

1. ME-E rude is adopted from MF, from L rudis, in the crude state, hence unpolished, gross: akin to L riudus, crushed stones, debris: both, o.o.o.

2. Rudis has the LL derivative rudimentum, incompetence, ignorance, hence an element or first principle of learning: prob influenced by elementum (cf ELEMENT). Hence later MF-F and, perh independently, E rudiment.

3. Also from rudis comes LL erudire, to form by training, with pp eruditus, used also as adj: cf, sem, the LL eruderare, to clear of rubbish, (fig) to purify. Hence late MF-F erudit, f erudite, and, prob independently, E erudite. Derivative LL eruditio, o/s eruditio-, yields late MF-F erudition and E erudition.

rue (1), the herb, is adopted from MF-F: L rūta: Gr rhuē: o.o.o.

rue (2), to feel regret or be repentant, also n 'regret' or 'compassion', whence rueful; ruth, pity, whence ruthless.

1. Rue, n, comes from OE hrēow, sorrow, itself from OE hrēowan, to cause sorrow to, whence, through ME reouwen, rewen, the E 'to rue': cf OFris hriōwa, OS hreuwan, hrewan, OHG riuwan, MHG riuwen, G reuen.

2. Akin to OE hrēow (cf OHG hriuwa, pain, MHG riuwe, sorry, G Reue, repentance), is OE hrēowe, var hrēow, sad, whence ME reowthe, reuthe, E ruth: cf ON hrygth, sorrow.

ruff (1), at cards. See TRIUMPH, para 3.

ruff (2), a wheel-shaped collar (C16-17), whence, from its 'collar' of feathers, a common sandpiper; hence 'to ruff', to arrange in, or as if in, a ruff, whence to disorder; ruffle, to make a ruff of, to cause wrinkles in, to discompose, to irritate, whence the n 'that which is ruffed or plaited or gathered'.

'A ruff' is app a shortening of 'a ruffle', from ME-E 'to ruffle': cf EFris ruffeln, LG ruffelen, to crumple: perh ult echoic. The group is sem confused and phon obscure.

ruff (3), a fish, ME ruffe, rowe, prob derives from ME rough, rugh: f.a.e., RAG, para 2.

ruffian (n, hence adj), orig a pimp: EF-F rufian, MF ruffien: It ruffiano: o.o.o., but prob Gmc—cf MLG ruffer, a pimp. Prob akin is 'to ruffle', to become rough or turbulent, hence (ruffle it) to swagger, ME ruffelen, to brawl, to swagger, app of Gmc origin—cf LG ruffeln, freq of MLG ruffen, to fornicate. Hence agent ruffler and pa, vn ruffling.

ruffle (1), to wrinkle, and the originating n. See the 2nd RUFF and cf RIFFLE.

ruffle (2), to swagger. See RUFFIAN.

rufous. See RED, para 11.

rug. See RAG, para 1.

Rugby football, whence sl rugger (the Oxford -er), arose at Rugby School, situated at Rugby in Warwickshire: from Rokebi, from Rocheberi: prob 'Hroca's burg' or fort. (Ekwall.) rugged. See RAG, para 1.

rugger. See RUGBY.

rugose, rugosity. See RAG, para 4.

ruin (n and v); ruinate (adj and v), whence ruination; ruinous.

Ruinous derives from OF-MF ruineux, f ruineuse (cf LL ruinosus), which, like MF-F ruiner, whence 'to ruin', comes from L ruina, a falling or a crumbling, pl ruinae, fallen or crumbled buildings, monuments, etc., in LL a Christian's downfall: from ruere, to fall in pieces, to crumble away, also vt, to cause to do this: L s and r, ru-: IE r, prob ru-*, to shatter.—Ruina has the LL derivative ruināre, to crumble away, pp ruinātus, whence the E adj and v ruinate, whence, anl, ruination.

rule, whence ruler (both agent and instrument) and ruling, pa and vn. See REX, para 16.

rum (1), adj. See ROME, para 10.

rum (2), n, the sugar-cane spirit, is short for the syn rumbullion (obs), app a var of the cant rum booze, excellent liquor: cf BOOZE.

Rumania, Rumanian. See ROME, para 9.

rumble, to make a low yet heavy, rolling sound, as thunder does, hence n, hence also the pa, vn rumbling: ME romblen: cf late MHG rummelen and MD-D rummelen: app freq of a Gmc rom-, rum-, to make a noise, akin to L rūmor (cf RUMOR).—Hence rumble-tumble, a heavy cart, and prob rumble seat.

rumbustious. See ROBUST (heading).

Rumelia. See ROME, para 9.

rumen, ruminant, ruminate (adj, v), ruminatio (whence, anl, ruminative), ruminator.

Rumen is adopted from L rūmen, the first stomach of cud-chewers, also the belly, a gullet: o.o.o.: perh cf Akk rimmu, (?) womb. Now, rūmen has o/s rūmin-, whence rūmināri (occ -āre), to chew the cud, with presp rūminans, o/s rūminant-, whence E, and EF-F, ruminant, adj hence n, and with pp rūminātus, whence both the adj and the v ruminate; derivatives L rūminātiō, o/s rūminātiōn-, and LL rūminātor become MF-F and E ruminatio and E ruminator.

rummage, n hence v, is aphetic for MF arrumage (F arrimage), from arrumer, to stow goods, esp in a ship's hold, var arumer, aruner, arruner: from MF run, a ship's hold, from Gmc rūm, as in OHG(-MHG) rūm (G Raum), and OE, ON rūm, a space: cf room at the 2nd REAM.

rummy, strange also the card-game. See ROME, heading, s.f.

rumor, rumour; rumor.

The adj rumorous derives from MF rumoreux, f -euse, itself from MF rumor, var rumour (cf the F rumeur), whence the AE rumor and the E rumour: L rūmor. Akin to L rūmor are Skt rūti, he roars or shouts, OSI rjuti, to cry, Gr ōruomai, I roar or yell; IE r, reu-* or rū-*, to cry or shout.

—Cf rune at RAUCITY, para 2.

rump: ME rumpe, of Gmc origin: cf MHG-G rumpf, trunk, rump, MD rump (D romp).

rumple. See RAMP, para 3.

rumpus is o.o.o.: perh orig University sl, from Gr rhombos, a bull-roarer, kettle-drum, spinning-top. (EW.)

run, v, hence n (cf OE ryne); hence also runner and pa, vn running and such obvious cpds as runaround, runaway, run-on, runway, etc., and as outrun.—Cf RUNNEL below.

1. 'To run' comes prob from ME runnen (var ronnen), pp of rinnen, var rennen, pt ran, from OE rinnan; but perh, in part, from OFris: cf OS, OHG, Go rinnan, ON rinna, OFris renna, rinna, runna, to run, to flow; cf more remotely OSI roniti, to pour out, and Skt arṇas, a wave a stream. The exact sem and phon originations and interactions are at once complicated and obscure.

2. ME rennen has derivative rennet, extant in E: cf OE gerinnan (int ge-), to curdle.

3. Prob akin to OE rinnan, to run, to flow, is L rigāre, to besprinkle, to water (e.g., a field), with cpd irrigāre (ir- for in- used int), pp irrigātus, whence 'to irrigate'; derivative irrigātiō, o/s irrigātiōn-, yields irrigation.

runagate, from ME renegat, from ML renegātus, a renegade (cf renegade at NEGATE, para 4), has, by f/e, been confused with 'to run' and the Sc and dial E adv agate (a-, on+gate, way), lit 'on the way', hence 'happening (amiss)'.

rune, whence the adj runic (cf the F runique). See RAUCITY, para 2.

rung, orig a staff, a cudgel, ME ronge, comes from OE hrung, a staff, a pole: cf Go hrugga (pron hrunga), a staff, MD ronghe, ronge, runge, rung, a prop, a rung, MHG-G runge, a rung; perh a nasalized cognate of L crux, a cross, o/s cruc-.

runic. See RUNE.

runnel, a rivulet: ME rinnel, rinel, form-influenced by 'to run'.

runner, running. See RUN.

runt, an undersized cow or ox, hence other domestic animal, comes from Sc runt, an old cow, hence an old withered woman, and is akin to MD runt (varr rent, rint), D rund, a cow, a bullock: nasalized cognates of OE hrither (hrýther), a horned beast, whence ME, whence dial E, rother, with which cf OHG hrind, MHG rint, G Rind, an ox. All these words prob derive from IE r ker-*, horn (Walsh).

runway. See RUN (heading).

rupee; ruple or rouble.

1. The rupee or principal silver coin of India, derives from Hi rūpiyah, var rupayā: Skt rūpya, coined silver, from rūpa, form, shape.

2. Perh from Hi rūpiyah—? via Persia—comes the Ru rubl', whence E r(ou)ble.

Rupert. See ROBERT, para 1, s.f.

ruption, ruptive. See para 2 of:

rupture (n, hence v), ruption (whence, anl, ruptive); roat, a throng (obs), hence a fashionable assembly and a disordered flight; route (n, hence v), routine (n, hence adj).—Cpds in -rupt, -ruption, etc.: abrupt (whence abruptness), abruption; corrupt (adj, v), corruptible, corruption, corruptive; disrupt (adj, v), disruption (whence, anl, disruptive); erumpent, erupt, eruption (whence eruptive); interrupt, interruption (whence interruptive); irrupt, irruption (whence irruptive); prerupt; prorruption.

1. All these terms rest upon L rumpere (s rump-), to break, pp ruptus (s rupt-): the r is rup-*; rump- being a nasalization. The L word has cognates in Gmc, in Sl, in Skt.

2. On rupt-, s of the pp, L forms LL ruptiō (o/s ruptiōn-), a rupture, and ML ruptūra; whence E ruption and, perh via MF-F, rupture; also VL rupta* (? for turba rupta), whence OF-MF route, a troop, a throng, whence the syn EE roul, whence the E senses; also VL rupta* (for uia—ML via—rupta), a broken, hence well-beaten, way, a customary road, whence MF-F route, adopted by E, with var rut soon acquiring a special sense. MF-F route has derivative EF-F routine, the following of a beaten track, likewise adopted by E.

Compounds

3. L abrumpere, to break ab or off, pp abruptus, used also as n, yields the adj, whence the v, abrupt; derivative abruptiō, o/s abruptiōn-, yields abruption.

4. L corrumpere, to break entirely (cor- for con-, used int), hence to break up morally, has pp corruptus, whence the adj and v corrupt; from the derivative corruptiō, o/s corruptiōn-, comes OF-F corruption, adopted by E, and from the LL derivative corruptibilis, neg incorruptibilis, come corruptible and incorruptible; from LL corruptius, ML -ivus, E corruptive.

5. L disrumpere, to break dis- or asunder, has pp disruptus, whence the adj and v disrupt; from derivative L disruptiō, o/s disruptiōn-, E disruption.

6. L ērumpere, to bring out by breaking, esp in sē ērumpere, to precipitate oneself out from, hence to make a sortie, has presp ērumpens, o/s ērumpent-, whence the adj erumpent, and pp ērūptus, whence 'to erupt'; derivative ērūptiō, o/s ērūptiōn-, E eruption (cf MF-F éruption), whence anl—although cf the F éruptif—eruptive.

7. L īrrumpere, to break between, to cut by breaking, hence fig, has pp īrruptus, whence 'to interrupt'; derivative īrrūptiō, o/s īrrūptiōn-, becomes (MF-F and) E interruption.

8. L īrumpere, usu īrrumpere, to break upon, to force an entry upon, to force the entrance of, has pp īrruptus, whence 'to irrupt'; derivative īrrūptiō, o/s īrrūptiōn-, whence (late MF-F and) E irruption.

9. L praerumpere, to break (from) in front, has pp praeruptus, used as syn of abruptus: whence E prerupt, suddenly broken off, hence precipitous (cf the LL n praeruptus, gen -ūs, a steep precipice); derivative praerūptiō, o/s praerūptiōn-, rare E preruption.

10. L prōrumpere, to break violently prō- or to the front, has pp prōruptus, with LL derivative prōrūptiō, o/s prōrūptiōn-, rare E proruption.

rural (whence ruralism and ruralize), rurality, Ruritanian (whence Ruritanian); rus in urbe; rustic (adj, hence n), rusticate, rustication, rusticity;—roister, n, hence v.

1. L rūs (gen rūris), country as opposed to town—cf rus in urbe, country in a city, i.e. a garden suburb—has r rū- and therefore is ult akin to Av ravō, an open space, and to the syn OHG rūm (cf room at the 2nd REAM).

2. Rūs has two adj, the LL rūrālis, from the o/s rūr-, and the L rūsticus, from rūs itself. Rūrālis, becomes MF-F rural, adopted by E; the derivative ML rūrālitās yields rurality.

3. Rūsticus becomes MF-F rustique and E rustic; derivative LL rūsticitās, o/s rūsticitāt-, becomes late MF-F rusticité and E rusticity

4. Rūsticus, has, moreover, the derivative v rūsticāri, (of a townsman) to live in the country, with pp rūsticāus, whence 'to rusticate', whence the University sense; derivative L rūsticātiō, o/s rūsticātiōn-, becomes rustication.

5. Irreg from rūsticus comes OF-MF ruste, var ruiste, boorish, rough, violent, whence the MF n-extnn rustre and ruistre, the latter yielding EE-L roister (archaic), a noisy reveller, a brawler, whence EE-E 'to roister', whence a roisterer.

ruse, a trick, trickery: MF-F ruse, orig a hunting term: from OF reüser, MF-F ruser, orig to recoil or cause to recoil or give way or turn aside, hence in MF to make detours in order to throw dogs off the scent: (prob via a VL sense, from) L recusāre, to refuse. (B & W.) Cf the 2nd RUSH.

rush (1), the plant; bulrush.

Bulrush comes from ME bulrysche, bolroysche, a 'bole-rush' (a large rush): cf BOLE, stem. Rush itself comes from ME rusch, earlier risch, from OE rysc or risc: cf MHG rusch, rusche, and MLG rusch, risch, MD rusch, ruysch, resch, risch, D rus.

rush (2), to move violently or very hastily, whence n: ME russhen: AF russher, earlier russer: MF ruser: OF reüser: see RUSE.—Hence the pa, vn rushing and the agent rusher. Cf the 1st RUSTLE.

rusk: Sp rosca, a twist, or a roll, of bread, earlier something circular, earliest a turning-and-twisting machine; although existing also in Port and Cat, it is o.o.o.

Russ; Russia, whence Russian, adj hence n; Ruthenia, Ruthenian, ruthenium.

1. Russ, obs for a Russian, derives from F Russe, a Russian (adj russe): Ru Rus', Russians, prob orig the Scandinavians wandering eastwards into Russia—cf Fin Ruotsi, Scandinavians. Also from Ru Rus' come F la Russie, It and E Russia, whence Russian.

2. In ML, the Russians were Rutheni, whence Ruthenia (territorial -ia), orig Russia, whence both E Ruthenian and Chem ruthenium, an element present in a metal discovered in the Ural Mountains.

russet. See RED, para 4.

Russia, Russian. See RUSS, para 1.

rust. See RED, para 3.

rustic, rusticate, rustication, rusticity. See RURAL, paras 3 and 4.

rustle (1), to sound as dry leaves moving, hence the n rustle and the pa, vn rustling: ME rustle or rustel, prob earliest ruschel: echoic: cf D rütselen, to rustle, MD rutselen, to glide, and MHG riuschen, ruschen, G rauschen, to rustle, to roar, to rush, and, ult, Skt rōṣati, is angry: rustle, therefore, is prob a freq of 'to RUSH'.

rustle (2), AE sl for 'to act energetically', hence 'to obtain thus', whence rustler: a blend of rush and hustle.

rusty. See RED, para 3.

rut (1), a well-worn track, hence a regular, monotonous course. See RUPTURE, para 3.

rut (2), sexual impulse, esp the season thereof, in quadrupeds, hence v: EF-F rut, modern sense:

MF ruit, sexual roaring, bellowing, lowing: OF ruit, roaring, bellowing: L rugitus, a roaring, etc.: from rugire, to roar: echoic.—Cf RIOT.

ruth, pity. See the 2nd RUE, para 2.

Ruthenia, Ruthenian, ruthenium. See RUSS, para 2.

ruthless. See the 2nd RUE, para 2.

rutilant, rutil. See RED, para 12.

ryal. See REX, para 4.

rye (1), the cereal: ME ry, rie, reye: OE ryge, akin to OFris rogga, OS roggo, OHG roggo, rocco, MHG rocke, G Roggen; to ON rugr; to Lith rugys, pl rugiai, with Ru and OB cognates.

rye (2), Gypsy for 'gentleman': Romany rei, rai, lord: cf raja at REX, para 35.

S

s, 'the whispering and hissing letter', occurs initially in many echoic words; as a final, -s denotes the nom sing of a vast number of IE adj and nn. This letter comes, via L, from Gr from Phoen (cf H shīn): see esp Walshe.

Saba, Sabaeen. See SHEBA.

Sabbath, Sabbatarian (n, hence adj); Sabbatic—now usu in extn Sabbatical, whence sabbatical—Sabbatism; sabbat.

1. From H shābath, to rest, comes shabbāth, rest, esp the Jewish weekly day of rest: LGr sabbaton: LL sabbatum: both OF and OE satat: MF-F sabbat and ME sabat, sabath: E Sabbath, the Christian day of rest; the LL n sabbatarius yields the E n Sabbatarian.

2. LGr sabbaton has adj sabbatikos: LL sabbaticus: EF-F sabbatque and E Sabbatic. The Sabbath falling on every seventh day, Sabbatical becomes sabbatical, as in sabbatical year, s. leave of absence.

3. LGr sabbaton has v sabbatizein, to observe the day of rest: LL sabbatizāre: E 'to Sabbatize'; LGr sabbatizein has derivative sabbatismos, whence LL sabbatismus, E Sabbatism.

4. In MF, sabbat acquires the sense 'witches' nocturnal gathering', adopted by E, which, however, prefers witches' Sabbath.

saber. See SABRE.

Sabir. See the 1st SAGE, para 7.

sable; zibeline. Sable is adopted from OF-F sable (cf MHG-G zobel), the animal, hence the fur: ML sabellum: of Sl origin—cf Pol sabol, Ru sobol'. The syn zibeline is likewise adopted from EF-F zibeline, MF sibeline (cf the OF sebelin), from It zibellino, also of Sl origin. (B & W.)

sabot and savate; sabotage (n, hence v). Sabot, a wooden shoe, is adopted from MF-F sabot, OF çabot, and blends OF-F savate+OF-MF bot (MF-F botte), two forms of shoe. Sabot has derivative MF-F saboter, to knock with the foot, hence to shake or torment, hence to work carelessly, whence F sabotage, adopted by E.

sabre, AE saber, whence the sabre- (or saber-) toothed tiger; shabble.

1. Sabre, whence saber, is adopted from EF-F sabre (occ EF var, sable): G Sabel (now Säbel): late MHG sabel, var sebel: prob from Hu száblya (from szabni, to cut), perh via Pol szabla: cf Ru sablya.

2. The now only Sc shabble, a cutlass, esp if old and rusty, hence—? influenced by shabby—an inferior thing or contemptible person, prob comes from the Pol rather than from the Hu form.

sac and sack (n, hence v); sackcloth and ashes; sachet and satchel; cf the element sacci- (sacco-).

1. The source is Sem, prob H saq, a hair-shirt, also a bag (cf Ass chaqqu, shirt, and Sumerian shagadu, an under-garment): Gr sakkos (s sakk-, r sak-): L saccus (s sacc-, r sac-): whence both OF-F sac, adopted by E, esp in its Sci senses, and OE sacc, ME sacke, E sack, a large, oblong bag. 'To get the sack,' to be dismissed from one's job, prob arises from the dismissed person's stuffing his clothes into a sack. Hence 'to sack'.

2. Sackcloth and ashes is (the, orig Biblical, wearing of) sackcloth—a coarse cloth—next to the skin and ashes on one's brow, as a penance: app a trans of LL saccus et cinis.

3. OF sac has OF(-F) dim sachet, finally adopted by E; L saccus has dim sacculus, whence OF-MF sachel, adopted by ME and then, in E, adapted as satchel.

saccharate, saccharic, saccharin or saccharine, saccharinic. See SUGAR, paras 2 and 3.

sacellum. See SACRAMENT, para 4. sacerdotal, whence sacerdotalism. See SACRAMENT, para 8.

sachem and Grand Sachem; sagamore. Orig a supreme chief among the Algonquins, hence, in AĒ, a political chief, sachem is an Alg word: cf esp Narragansett sâchimau. Hence the Grand Sachem or the head of Tammany.—Akin is sagamore, prop, in Abnaki (Alg), the chief of a tribe. (Mathews.)

sachet. See SAC, para 3.

sack (1), a large, oblong bag. See SAC, para 1.

sack (2), a strong, white wine: earlier seck, for wyne seck, dry wine: EF-F vin sec: L siccus, dry.

sack (3), pillage, of, e.g. a city, after capture, hence the v: late MF-F sac: It sacco: prob from ML saccāre, VL saccāre*, to pillage, from putting the plunder into a saccus or sack.

sackcloth. See SAC, para 2.

sacral. See para 4 of:

sacrament, sacramental (whence sacramentalism); sacramentarian, sacramentary; sacrarium; sacred, whence sacredness; sacerdotal; sacrifice (n, hence v), whence sacrificial; sacrilege, whence sacrilegious; sacring and sacring bell; sacrist, sacristan, sacristy—cf sexton; (os) sacrum, sacral; sacellum;

—sanct, sancta, sanctum, Sanctus; sanctimony, whence sanctimonious; sanction (n, hence v); sanctitude and sanctity; sanctuary; sanctify, sanctification; saint (n, hence v), whence saintly; San—Santo, Santa—Sao; sainfoin.—sacrosanct, whence, anl, sacrosanctity.—Prefix-cpds from L sacrāre, to consecrate: consecrate (adj, v), consecration (whence, anl, consecrative and consecratory), consecrator; desecrate, whence, anl, desecration and desecrator and desecratory; execrable, execrate, execration (whence, anl, execrative and execratory), execrator; obsecrate, obsecration (whence, anl, obsecratory), obsecrator.

L sacer

1. L sacer is primarily 'sacred'; hence—for that which violates the sacred is accursed—'accursed'; whence the double sense of F sacré. The L word has cognates in the ancient Italic languages and also in Etruscan (the prob origin).

2. L sacer, o/s sacr-, has many derivatives and cpds, e.g. sacramentum, a deposit made to the Gods, hence, from the accompanying oath, an oath, whence, in LL, the Christian sense: whence OF-MF sacrament, MF-F sacrement: both adopted by ME, the former surviving. Derivative LL sacramentālis yields sacramental (also in EF); ML sacramentārius, agent, becomes E sacramentary, as also does LL-ML sacramentārium, a service book, these two L words deriving from adj sacramentārius*.

3. Also from L sacr- comes sacrārium, a shrine, with Christian senses in LL-ML, adopted by Eccl E.

4. Sacer has neu sacrum, as in Med L os sacrum, the lowest spinal vertebra, whence Med E sacrum, whence, via Med L sacrālis, the adj sacral. L sacrum, a sacred place, has dim sacellum, adopted by Eccl E, with sense 'a small chapel'.

5. Sacer has derivative v sacrāre, to treat as, to render, sacred, whence OF-F sacer, ME sacren, pp sacred, whence the adj sacred. For the cpds of sacrāre, see paras 8–10 below; ME sacren becomes 'to sacre', whence the pa, vn sacring, as in sacring bell.

6. Sacer has ML agent sacrista, whence the now rare sacrist, a sacristan: and sacristan itself derives from ME sacristane (cf the EF-F sacristain)—from ML sacris ānus, prop the adj of sacrista, which, moreover, has the -ia derivative sacristia, whence—perh via MF-F sacristie—the E sacristy.

7. ML sacristānus becomes MF secrestein, whence, irreg, the ME sekestejn, contr to sextejn, whence E sexton.

8. Sacer has three important full cpds: sacerdōs, a priest; sacrificium, an offering to a god; sacrilegus, a stealer of sacred things. L sacerdōs=sacer +dōs, from dare, to give, dō, I give, basically I place. Its adj sacerdōtālis becomes MF-F sacerdotal, adopted by E.

9. L sacrificium derives from sacrificus, sacrificial, from sacrum facere, to perform a sacred ceremony; sacrificium becomes OF-F sacrifice, adopted by E.

10. L sacrilegus, a gatherer—hence a stealer—of sacred things=sacri-, c/f of sacer+legus, from legere, to gather. Sacrilegus has derivative sacrilegium, whence OF-MF sacrilege, MF-F sacrilège, whence E sacrilege.

L sanctus

11. L sancire, to render sacred, hence inviolable, whence—cf the double sense of sacer—to proclaim execrable, hence to solemnly forbid, hence to punish. Basically, sanc- is a nasalized sac-. The derivative adj, from pp sanctus, rendered sacred or inviolable, is potent in E.

12. L sanctus becomes the now rare E adj sanct and the OF-F adj saint, adopted by E; both F and E soon became also n. L sanctus becomes It santo, f santa; Sp San; Port São: all known to E from their occurrence in Pl Nn. L sanctus, from 'Sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, Holy, holy, holy', in a Church service, is an Eccl E n; as is its f sancta; the neu sanctum, used for 'a holy place', becomes general E, after being Eccl LL-ML (as, e.g., in sanctum Domini, the Eucharist).

13. L sanctus, holy, has the foll derivatives relevant to E:

sanctimōnia (suffix -mōnia), MF-F sanctimonie, E sanctimony; sanctiō, o/s sanctiōn-, MF-F and E sanction, with its double meaning; sanctiās, o/s sanctiāt-, E sanctity—ME sauncite, saintete, from MF forms; syn sanctitiūdō E sanctitude; sanctārium, a sacred place or depository: MF-F sanctuaire (OF saintuaire), E sanctuary; the LL cpd sanctificāre, to render holy, MF sanctifier (OF-MF saintifier), E sanctify; pp sanctificātus, whence LL sanctificatiō, o/s -ficatiōn-, OF-F, whence E, sanctification; sacrosanctus, both sacred and holy, whence E sacrosanct and EF-F sacro-saint.

14. The OF-F adj sain has—by confusion with sain (L sānus), healthy—the cpd EF-F sainfoin (foin, L fēnum, hay), adopted by E; but perh sain, healthy, is the correct 1st element, the spelling sainct-foin (1549) coming from confusion with MF sainct. (B & W.)

Prefix-Compounds of L sacrāre

15. L sacrāre, to render sacred, has several cpds affecting E. The first is consacrāre, usu consecrāre (con- vaguely int), to consecrate, with pp consecrātus, whence adj and v consecrate; derivative consecrātiō, o/s consecrātiōn-, OF-MF consecration (MF-F consé-), adopted by E; LL consecrātor, adopted by E.

16. L dēsacrāre, usu dēsacrāre, to desecrate, has pp dēsacrātus, whence the adj and v desecrate.

17. L exsacrāre, often in the eased form execrāre, to execrate, has derivative execrābilis, execrābilis, whence execrable (cf late MF-F exécrible); the pp execrātus, execrātus, yields the adj and v execrate; derivative ex(s)ecrātiō, o/s ex(s)ecrātiōn-, yields execration, perh via MF-F exécration; LL ex(s)ecrātor is adopted by E.

18. L obsecrāre, to ask for religious reasons or in the name of the gods, has pp obsecrātus, whence 'to obsecrate'; derivatives L obsecrātiō and LL obsecrātor become E obsecration, obsecrator.

sacrarium. See prec, para 3.

sacre. See SACRAMENT, para 5.

sacred. See SACRAMENT, para 5.

sacrifice, sacrificial. See SACRAMENT, para 9.

sacrilege, sacrilegious. See SACRAMENT, para 10.

sacrist, sacristan, sacristy. See SACRAMENT, para 6.

sacrosanct. See SACRAMENT, para 13.

sacrum. See SACRAMENT, para 4.

sad, whence sadden, sadly, sadness, derives from ME sad, sated, tired, satisfied, from OE saed, sated, satisfied: cf OS sad, OHG-MHG sat, G satt, Go saths, ON saddr, sathr, OIr and Ga sathach (cf EIr and Ga sáith, Ga sath, plenty, enough), L sat, satis, enough, satur, sated; various Sl, Gr, Skt cognates; IE r, *sā-, *sa-.

2. 'To sate' is app a contr of satiare, which derives from L satiātus, pp of satiāre, to provide with enough, hence with more than enough (gluttony exceeding capacity), from sati-, c/f of satis, enough. Also from sati- comes L satiētās, acc satiētātem, whence OF-F satiété, whence E satiety.

3. The pp satiātus, used as adj, has neg insatiātus, whence insatiate. The cognate LL satiābilis yields satiabile; the neg insatiābilis, MF-F insatiabile, adopted by E; derivative LL insatiabilitas (o/s -itāt-) becomes insatiability.

4. The L c/f sati- has var satū-, attested by satur, replete or sated with food; the f satura, used elliptically for satura lanx (a composite dish), becomes satira, a macédoine of fruits or vegetables or a composite dish of meats, hence a mixed literary composition, esp the satires of Horace and Juvenal: whence MF-F satire, adopted by E; the derivative L adj satiricus yields late MF-F satirique, whence E satiric, often in the extrn satirical; anl satirist and satirize perh owe something to F satiriste and EF-F satiriser.

5. L satur, replete, has derivative saturāre, to fill with food, to render replete or sated, to satisfy utterly, later to dye richly, to smear, pp saturātus, whence the adj and v saturate; derivative LL saturātiō, o/s saturātiōn-, gives saturation. The presp saturans, o/s saturant-, explains the Sci adj, hence n, saturant.

6. L satis has the cpd satisfacere, to do, or give, enough for or to someone, which leads to MF satisfier (displaced by satisfaire), whence 'to satisfy'; derivative L satisfactiō, acc satisfactiōnem, produces OF-F satisfaction, adopted by E; LL satisfactōrius, yielding satisfaction, penitential, becomes the Theo MF-F satisfactoire, whence E satisfactory, with secular senses added (cf the F satisfaisant). Dissatisfy, whence, anl, dissatisfac- tion, and unsatisfied (cf F insatisfait), are E formations.

7. VL coins the phrase ad satis*, enough, much, whence OF-F assez, enough, (until C16) much: OF-MF var asez, whence AF asetz, esp in the Law term aver assets, to have, hence own, enough (to pay one's debts and meet one's other obligations): whence assets, one's realizable property.

saddle, n and v (whence saddler, saddlery, saddling), whence unsaddle. 'To saddle' comes from OE sadellan, from OE sadol, whence ME sadel, E saddle: and OE sadol is akin to OFris sadel, MD sadel, D zadel (cf MD sadelen, to saddle), OHG satul, MHG satel, G Sattel, ON sōthull; prob to OB sedlo and therefore to L sella, hence to E settle and sit.

2. Most of the cpds are modern; note, however, saddlebow, ME sadelbowe, OE sadulboga—cf G Sattelbogen, OHG saitlipo.

sadism, sadist, sadistic. See MASOCHISM.

sadly, sadness. See SAD (heading).

safari, basically an expedition, hence esp for hunting, derives ult from an Ar adj (connoted by -i) for 'of, for, on, by a journey or travel', but imm from Swahili safari, journey, expedition, esp when used for msafara, a hunting expedition—cf Swahili safiri, to go on an expedition.

safe (adj, hence n), safe-conduct, safeguard, safety; sage plant; save (v and prep), savings, saviour; salvable, salvage (n, hence v), salvation, salvatory, salve (to save), salver, salvo;—salutary, salutation, salutatory (adj, n), salute (n, v);—salubrious, salubrity.—Akin to the sep SOLID, SOLEMN, SOLICIT—and to holism (cf catholic).

1. Safe derives from ME sauf, adopted from OF-F sauf (f saue): ML salvus, L saluus, entire, intact, with moral senses added by LL-ML: akin to L salūs, good health, safety, salūbris, wholesome, salutary, sollus, entire, solidus, solid, resistant; Gr holos, entire; Skt sárvas, entire, intact.

2. L saluus, ML salvus, has the ML derivative n salvitās, acc salvitātem, whence OF-EF salveté, var sauveté, whence E safety, and the LL derivative v saluāre, ML salvāre, to save, to heal, whence both 'to salve', to provide an explanation of, hence to justify, hence also to maintain one's honour, promise, credit, etc., and OF salver, MF-F sauver, E 'to save', whence the pa, vn saving, whence savings.

3. Of the safe cpds, two are worth noting: safe-conduct, from OF-F sauf-conduit; safeguard (n, hence v), from MF-F sauegarde, whence the F v sauegarder: cf WARD, para 10.

4. L saluus has derivative salua, ML salvia, from its—at least reputed—medicinal properties: whence MF-F sauge, E sage.

5. Other derivatives of saluus, ML salvus, affecting E include:

*ML salvābilis, salvable, OF-EF, whence E, salvable, prob owing something to 'to salve' (para 2 above);

ML salvagium, late MF-F salvage, adopted by E; LL saluātiō, o/s saluātiōn-, ML salvātiōn-, whence OF-F salvation, adopted by E, with its own subsidiaries salvationism, salvationist;

LL saluātor, a savor or rescuer, Saluātor, ML Salvātor, the Redeemer, whence OF salveor, MF saveor (-our), var saveor (-our), ME saveour, saviour, whence E saviour, AE savior, esp the Saviou(r);

LL saluatōrium, deliverance, ML salvatōrium, a receptacle (esp for ointment), E salvatory; from the assumed L adj saluatōrius comes the E adj salvatory.

6. LL saluāre, ML salvāre, becomes Sp salvar, with special sense 'to taste' the food and drink of royalty and nobility before they do: whence Sp salva, such tasting, whence a salver: whence late EF-F salve: E salver. And from ML salvo jure, law (hence, a right) being safe, comes the now rare E salvo, a proviso, safeguard; but a military salvo comes from It salva, a salute, hence a volley, prob from ML Salve (L Salue), Hail!, the voc of salvus (L saluus), safe, unharmed, well, apprehended as the imp of saluēre, to be well.

L salūs, (good) health, safety

7. As L saluus has s salu-, so has L salūs, o/s salūt-. The adj of salūs is salūtāris, whence MF-F salutaire and E salutary. Also from salūs comes salūtāre, to wish good health to, hence to greet, with pp salūtātus, whence both salūtātiō, o/s salūtātiōn-, whence late MF-F salutation, adopted by E, and LL salūtātōrius, whence E salutatory. L salūtāre yields 'to salute'; a salute derives from MF-F salut, from L salūtem, acc of salūs.

L salūber, healthy

8. Also from salūs comes salūber, var salūbris, whence late MF-F salubre and E salubrious; derivative salūbritās, acc salūbritātem, yields late MF-F salubrité and E salubrity.

saffron, safranine, safrole; zaffer or zaffre. Saffron, ME saffran, derives from OF-F safran: ML safranum; Ar-Per za'faran—cf Ar asfar, yellow. The ML form suggested the Chem saffranin or saffranine; the F, safrol or safrole: cf the Chem suffixes -in, -ine, and -ol.

2. Influenced by the 'saffron' words is zaffer or zaffre, an impure cobalt oxide: either F zafre or It zaffera: Ar sufr, yellow copper.

sag (v, hence n), whence pa, vn sagging: late ME saggen: cf MLG-LG sacken, D zakken, with Scan cognates: ? ult echoic.

saga. See SAY, para 2.

sagamore. See SACHEM, s.f.

sage (1), adj, hence n, is adopted from OF-F, which takes it from VL sapius* (presupposed by Petronius's nesapius, imbecile), from L sapidus, pleasant to the taste, LL prudent, wise, itself from sapere, (of things) to have a pleasant taste, hence (of persons) to have good taste or judgement: IE r, sap-* or sep-*.

2. L sapidus yields E sapid, whence, anl, sapidity: cf the F sapide and sapidité. Sapidus has neg insipidus, tasteless, whence, perh via EF-F insipide, the E insipid; derivative EF-F insipidité prob suggested insipidity.

3. L sapere has presp sapiens (also adj, as in homo sapiens), acc sapientem, whence OF-EF sapient, adopted by E; derivative L sapientia becomes OF-F sapience (archaic), adopted by E; sapientia acquires the LL adj sapientialis, whence late EF-F and E sapiential.

4. L sapere has derivative n sapor, taste, savour, hence also sense of taste, whence LL sapōrus, extrn sapōrōsus, pleasant to the taste, which app combine to yield E saporous; SciL coins sapōrificus, whence E saporific.

5. L sapor, acc sapōrem, becomes OF savor, MF savor, savour (F saveur), whence ME savur, savour, savor: E savour, AE savor. 'To savour' comes from MF-F savourer, MF-OF savorer, from savor. Whereas savoury, adj hence n, derives—perh influenced by LL sapōrātus—from MF-F savouré (OF savoré), pp of savourer, savourous derives from OF-MF savoros, var -eros, either from savor or direct from LL sapōrōsus.

6. L sapere, in its LL senses, became OF-F savoir, to know, as in late EF-F savoir-faire, a knowing how to act, and in late EF-F savoir-vivre, a knowing how to live, both—at least, partially—adopted by E. The OF-MF presp savant (superseded by sachant) soon became the n 'man of learning'; as such, adopted by E.

7. L sapere, in its LL senses, became Sp saber, to know, which, esp in the phrase Sabe usted?, Do you know, yields the sl n and v savvy. The Sp saber passes into Lingua Franca as sabir, which, esp in Molière's jargonic Si ti sabir, If you know, and, still more, in the Lingua Franca perfunctory phrase Mi non sabir, Me not know, has produced the Philological Sabir, the late Lingua Franca spoken in the ports of N Africa. (B & W.) sage (2), the plant. See SAFE, para 4.

sagitta, whence sagittal and, via SciL, sagittate; Sagittaria, Sagittarius. Sagittaria, an aquatic herb, is a SciL derivative from the L adj sagittārius, of a sagitta or arrow, whence the Astr Sagittarius, the Archer: L sagitta is o.o.o.—? Scythian or Parthian.

sago, extracted from the sago palm of Malaya, derives from Mal sāgi.

Sahara: lit 'the desert', hence 'the desert' (the world's largest): Ar sahrā, desert.

sahib: Hind sāhib: Ar ṣāhib, ṣaheb, lord, master, companion.

said. See SAY (heading).

sail (n, v), whence pa, vn sailing and instr sailer, agent sallor.

'To sail' derives from OE seglian, segelian, from segl, or its var segel: cf OFris seil, as also in Da and MD (D zeil); OHG segal, MHG-G segel; ON segl: perh orig 'a cut piece of material', akin to L secāre, to cut. (Walshe.)—The cpds are self-explanatory.

sain, v. See SIGN, para 2. sainfoin. See SACRAMENT, para 14.

saint, whence saintly. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

Saint Elmo's fire is named after the patron saint of sailors.

Saint Vitus's dance. See the 2nd GUY.

sake, a dispute, fault, obs, hence a purpose, a motive, a reason, hence an advantage or benefit ('for your sake'), derives from ME sake, lawsuit, fault: OE sacu, strife, lawsuit: cf OFris sake, seke, thing, matter, dispute, strife, OHG sahha, MHG sache, dispute, lawsuit, G Sache, thing, matter, Go sakjō, strife, MD sake (zake), saec, matter, lawsuit (D zaak), ON sök, lawsuit, guilt: f.a.e., SEEK. Cf also SEIZE.

2. OE sacu has v sacan, to contend (cf OFris seka, Go sakan, to quarrel, ON saka, to contend, to accuse), with cpd forsacan, to oppose (for-, against), whence 'to forsake', pt forsook, pp forsaken.

sal, as in sal volatile. See SALT, paras 1 and 3. salaam. See ISLAM.

salacious, salacity. See SALLY, para 2.

salad. See SALT, para 9. salamander: OF-F salamandre: L from Gr sal-amandra: o.o.o. The Myth sense arose with Paracelsus in C16: its fire-defying properties originated the 'stove' sense.

salary. See SALT, para 4.

sale, whence salesman (sale's man); sell, pt and pp sold; handsel.

1. Sale, late OE sala, is adopted from ON sala. Akin is 'to sell', ME selle, varr sillen, sellen, OE sellan, syllan, to deliver, to sell: cf OHG sala, n, and sellen, v, and the vv OFris sella, OS sellian, to deliver, sell. Go saljan, to offer a sacrifice, ON selja, to sell; perh cf LGr helō, I shall take, Gr heilōn, I took; perh also EIr selb, Ga seilbh, W helw, property. IE r, perh kel-*, to take.

2. ON sala has var sal, sale, bargain, with cpd handsal, lit a 'hand-sale', hands being clasped to seal the bargain: whence E handsel, often eased to hansel.

saleratus. See SALT, para 3, s.f.

salicin(e). See SALLOW, para 1, s.f.

salience, salient. See SALLY, para 3.

salina. See SALT, para 3.

saline, salinity. See SALT, para 3.

saliva, salivary. See para 2 of:

sallow, adj and n; salicin(e), Salix; saliva, salivary, salivate, salivation, salivous.

1. The adj sallow, pale reddish-yellow, OE salu, is akin to OHG salō, MD salu, saluw, D zaluw, Ice sölr, dirty-yellow. Both phon and sem akin to OE salu is OE sealh, ME salwe, later sallow, a broad-leaved willow: cf OHG salaha (G Salweide, from the OHG var salewida), MHG salhe, ON selja, OIr sail, L salix. The L word, adopted by Bot, has o/s salic-, whence Chem salicin(e) and salicyl.

2. Perh akin to L salix, willow (and OE salu, sallow) is L saliva, ML saliva, the fluid secreted in the mouth; hence E saliva. L saliva has adj salivarius and salivōsus—ML salivarius and salivōsus: E salivary (cf EF-F salivaire) and salivous. Saliva has derivative v salivare, pp salivatus, ML salivatus, whence 'to salivate'; derivative salivatio, o/s salivatiōn-, ML salivatiōn-, yields EF-F and E salivation.

sally, n hence v; salience, salient (adj, hence n); salacious, salacity; salmon; saltant, saltate, saltation, saltator, saltatory; saltier, saltire; saltgrade, saltimbanco.—Prefix-cpds: assail, assailant, assailment—assault, n and v; desultor, desultory; exile, n, v—exult, exultance or -cy, exultant, exultation; insult (n, v—whence insulting), insultation—insolence, insolent; resile, resilience, resilient, resilium (whence the adj resilial)—result (v, hence n), resultant (whence resultance), whence, anl, resultative; somersault (n, hence v).

1. All these words descend from sal-, the s and r of L salire, to leap; its c/f is -silire, as in exile and resile; its freq is saltāre, which has c/f -sultāre, as in exult and insult; -sail, for L salire, arises in Fr, i.e. at an intermediary stage. Akin to salire are Gr hallesthai, to leap, and Skt ucchalati, he leaps up: IE r, sal-* or sel-*, to leap.

L salire

2. Salire, s sal-, to leap, hence to gush forth and, vt, (of quadrupeds) to cover the female, has adj salāx, lustful, o/s salāc-, whence EF-F salace and E salacious; derivative L salācītās, o/s salācītāt-, yields EF-F salacitē and, prob independently, E salacity.

3. L salire has presp saliens, o/s salient-, whence E salient, whence salience.

4. Salire becomes OF-F saillir, whence the MF-F n saillie, whence E sally.

5. Prob akin to L salire, r sal-, is L salmō (salm-, an -m extn of sal-), a salmon, acc salmōnem, whence MF-F saumon, ME saumoun, later, by a reshaping, salmon. The salmon is a 'leaper'.

L saltāre

6. L saltāre, to leap repeatedly, hence to dance, has presp saltans, o/s saltānt-, whence Her saltant, and pp saltātus, whence 'to saltate'; L derivatives saltātō, o/s saltātōn-, saltātor, saltātōrius, yield E saltation, saltator (esp in Zoo), saltatory (whence saltatorial). L saltātōrius has the ML derivative saltātōrium, a stirrup, whence MF-F sautoir, an Her term that becomes E saltire or saltier.

7. Both L saltāre and L saltus, a leap (from salire), have, although not occurring in L itself, the c/f salti-: saltigrade, having legs suitable for leaping—cf GRADE; saltimbanc or -banque or -banco, the 1st anglicizing the 2nd, adopted from EF-F, the 2nd gallicizing the 3rd, which is It, lit (he who) leaps on a banco or bench.

8. L saltus, a leap, combines with L supra, above, to form Sp sobresalto, whence—rather than from Prov sobresaut or MF-F soubresaut—the E somersault, dial var summerset.

Prefix-Compounds from -silire

9. L salire has the foll cpds affecting E: assilire, dēsilire, exsilire*, resilire. Assilire, to leap ad or at, upon, becomes VL assalire*, whence

OF asalir, MF asaillir (F assaillir), whence ME asailen, E 'to assail'; the presp OF asalat, MF asaillant, later assaillant, is adopted by E. The MF assaillement becomes E assailment (obs).

10. Akin to L assilire is L assultus (ad+saltus, gen -ūs, a leap, a leaping), whence VL assultus*, whence OF-MF assali, MF assault (MF-F assaut), whence, via ME, the E assault; 'to assault' derives from MF assalter, assaulter (from the n).

11. L dēsilitre, to leap de- or down, supine dēsultum, has agent dēsultor, adopted by erudite E for 'a circus rider leaping from horse to horse'. Also from the supine s dēsult- comes the adj dēsultōrius, leaping about, unsteady, whence E dēsultory.

12. L exsilire* has prompted LL exsiliāre, often eased to exiliāre, to drive out, to banish, whence MF essillier (var eissillier), whence the reshaped EF-F exiler, whence 'to exile'; the ME-E n exile comes from MF exil, a reshaping of OF essil, var eissil, from L exilium, an easing of exsilium, from exsilire*.

13. L resilitre, to leap back, to recoil, becomes EF resilir (later -ir), whence 'to resile', to recoil, to retract. The presp resiliens, o/s resilient-, yields resilient, whence resilience, var resiliency. From resilitre, SciL has coined the Zoo resilium.

Prefix-Compounds from -sultāre

14. L exsultāre, usu eased to exultāre, to leap vigorously (ex- used int), hence to exult, becomes late MF-F exulter, whence 'to exult'; the L presp exultans, o/s exultant-, yields exultant.

15. L insultāre, to leap in or upon, to attack, becomes late MF-F insulter, whence 'to insult'; the derivative EF-F n insulte, deriving from the F v, displaces the late MF-EF insult, itself from LL insultus, deriving from insult-, the s of insultum, supine of insilitre, to leap upon, but influenced by Cicero's insultāre, to insult. The E n insult comes either from MF-EF insult or from LL insultus.

16. Perh akin to L insultāre is L insolescere, to be insolent, with presp insolescens, whence—? by contr—L insolens, o/s insolent-, whence E insolent; derivative L insolentia yields insolence. Cf the id F words. L insolescere, however, perh derives rather from solēre, to be accustomed (to do something).

17. L resultāre, to leap back, LL to rise again (cf LL resultātiō, a reverberation, an echo), ML to be or form a consequence, yields late MF-F résulter and E 'to result'; presp resultans, o/s resultant-, yields resultant, adj; the n resultant prob derives from Sci EF-F résultante.

salmagundi, a mixture of pickled herring and chopped meat: EF-F salmigondis: o.o.o.: Webster cfs It salame, salt meat (L sal, salt), and It, from L, condire, to pickle (cf CONDIMENT): I suggest that Rabelais's salmigondin is one of his verbal fantasies and that, in it, he playfully, arbitrarily mutilates the LL salimuria (Gr halmuris), sea-salt, hence brine, hence a pickle.

salmon. See SALLY, para 5.

salon, saloon. The latter, like the former, derives from late EF-F salon: It salone: aug of sala, a hall: It sala, like F salle, OF sale, is of Gmc origin: cf OHG-MHG sal (G Saal), ON salr (OE sele), hall, and Go saljan, to dwell: perh ult akin to L sedēre, to sit—cf SADDLE and SIT.

Salopian is the adj (hence n) of Salop, Shropshire: a shortening of late C11–12 Salopescira, a Normanized shape of Domesday Book Sciro-pescire, itself an alteration of C11 (and prob earlier) Scrobbesbyrigscire, 'the shire with Shrewsbury as its head' (Ekwall).

salse. See SALT, para 5.

salsify: EF-F salsifis (earliest—1600—as sercifi): C16 It sassifrica (It sassefrica), var of salsefica: C14 It (erba) salsifica (B & W): ? 'salt-making herb'—cf salse at SALT, para 5.

salsilla. See para 6 of:

salt, n (whence salty, whence saltiness) and adj, both leading to the v, whence salting, saltings; many cpds, e.g. saltbush (salt+bush), saltcellar (ME salt seler: taut from salie, salt+seler, var of saler, from MF-F salière, saltcellar, from L sal, salt), saltpan, saltpetre, AE saltpetar (see PETER, para 3), saltweed (cf WEED), saltwort (cf WORT); saltern:—sal volatile, saleratus; saline, whence salinity; salad; salary, whence salariat and salaried;—salse; salsilla; sauce (n, hence v), saucer; sausage; seuse, a vinegar'd dish, whence the v;—silt (n, hence v), whence silty.—Cf the element halo-.

E salt

1. Salt, adj, OE salt, var of sealt, app derives from the n salt, OE sealt: cf OFris salt, adj, OS, Go, ON salt, n, OHG-MHG-G salt, MD sout, D zout; EIr and Ga sāl, salt-water, OIr salann, salt, Cor sāl, zāl, adj, and salla, zalla, n, W hal, salt, n, adj, with Chem n halan; Let sāls, OB solī; Tokh B sālyi; L sāl; Gr hals (? for sals*); cognates in Finno-Ugric (Walshe). IE r, sal-*.

2. OE sealt has cpd sealtaern, sealtern, lit a salt-house (OE aern, ern): whence E saltern.

L sāl

3. L sāl, salt, gen salis, occurs in such combinations as sal ammoniac (cf AMMONIA) and sal volatile (cf VOL). Its adj is salinus, whence—perh via EF-F salin, f saline—the E saline. Salina, a salt-marsh, a depository of crystallized salt, a salt-works, is adopted from Sp, which draws it, by b/f, from the L pl salinae, saltworks, from salinus. From SciL sāl aerātus, aerated salt, comes saleratus.

4. L sāl has a second adj: salārius, relating to salt, with neu salārium used as n for 'sum of money paid to soldiers to enable them to purchase their salt', hence 'pay, wages': whence AF salarie, whence E salary.

5. L sāl has v salere, salire, to salt, with pp salsus used as adj 'salted, salty': whence It salsa, a mud volcano or volcanic spring, 'because often impregnated with salts' (Webster), whence F salse, adopted by E.

6. L salsus has f salsa, used by VL as n 'a salty seasoning', hence 'a sauce'; adopted by Sp, salsa acquires the sense 'a kind of garlic', with dim salsilla, a WI and SAM plant.

7. The VL n salsa becomes OF salse, MF saussie, later saucie, adopted by E; late MF-F saucer perh suggested 'to sauce'. Derivative OF-MF saussiere, later saucière, yields E saucer.

8. L salsus, salted, has the VL derivative salsicius, seasoned with salt, whence salsicia, seasoned meat (cf LL salsicia farta, sausages), whence OF-F saucisse, ONF saussiche, ME sausage, E sausage.

9. L sâl becomes Prov sal, whence salar, to salt, whence salada, a dish of salted vegetables, esp lettuce or cress, whence MF-F salade, whence E salad.

OHG salz

10. Akin to OHG salz, salt (n), as in para 1, is OHG sulz, sulza, MHG sülze, salt water, G Sülze, brine, a pickle: whence OF solz, later souz, later sous, something pickled, whence the syn E souse, varr souce, sowse, whence the sense 'a steeping, a drenching'; hence 'to souse' or pickle, hence to drench or immerse.

11. Akin to OHG sulza, salt water, and salz, salt, is the Nor (dial) and Da sylt, a salt-water swamp, of the same origin—app Scan—as ME sylt, whence E silt.

saltant, saltate, saltation, saltatory. See SALLY, para 6.

saltcellar. See SALT (heading).

salttern. See SALT, para 2.

saltier. See SALLY, para 6, s.f.

saltigrade. See SALLY, para 7.

saltimbanco, -bank, -banque. See SALLY, para 7.

saltire. See SALLY, para 6, s.f.

salpeter, -petre. See PETER, para 3.

salubrious, salubrity. See SAFE, para 8.

saluki: Ar salūqi, of Salūq, an ancient S Arabian city.

salutary. See SAFE, para 7.

salutation, salutatory, salute. See SAFE, para 7.

salvable. See SAFE, para 5.

salvage. See SAFE, para 5.

salvation. See SAFE, para 5.

salvatory. See SAFE, para 5, s.f.

salve (1), a healing ointment: OE sealf: cf OHG salba, MHG-G salbe, LG salwe, D zalf (MD salzf), and also Go salbōn, to anoint; Gr olpē (for solpē*), an oil-bottle, elpos, oil, fat; Tokh A šälyp, Tokh B šalype, fat, butter, oil.; Skt śarpiś, grease, clarified butter. IE r, selp-*, fat, oil. (Hofmann.)

salve (2), to explain, justify, save. See SAFE, para 2.

salver, tray. See SAFE, para 6.

salvo. See SAFE, para 6.

Sam, short for Samuel (LL Samuel, LGr Samouēl, H Shemüel, His name is El or God, occurs in Sam Browne (belt), from General Sir Samuel Browne (1824–1901), and in Uncle Sam, perh from that meat-inspector (Samuel Wilson, locally 'Uncle Sam') who, c1812, stamped barrels of meat with 'U.S.—E.A.' for 'United States—

Elbert Anderson', the contractual supplier of meat (Webster). From Uncle Sam comes the World War I sl Sammy, an American (private) soldier.

Samaria, Samaritan. The latter (LL Samaritanus)—as in 'a good Samaritan' (Luke, x, 30–7)—is a native of the former, a kingdom (and its capital) in Palestine: H Shōmerōn.

same (adj, hence adv and pron), whence same-ness; dial 'to sam';—some (adj, hence pron)—cf the suffix -some—with such obvious cpds as somebody (cf BODY), somehow (cf HOW), someone (cf ONE), something (cf THING), sometime, sometimes (cf TIME), somewhat (cf WHAT), somewhere (cf WHERE);—Sanskrit, q.v. at PRAKRIT;—semper (L), sempiternal (q.v. at AGE, para 4);—simile; similar, similarity, and dissimilar, dissimilarity—cf assimilate, assimilation, assimilative, and dissimilate whence, anl, dissimilation, dissimulative; similitude and dissimilitude; simulacrum; simulate (adj and v), simulation (whence, anl, simulative), simulatory, simulator—and dissimulate, dissimulation (whence, anl, dissimulative), dissimulator;—semblable, semblance (whence, anl, semblative), semble—cf assemblage, assemble, assembly—dissemblance, dissemble (whence dissembler)—resemblance, resemble;—simultaneous, whence simultaneity;—simple, simplificity, simplify, qq.v. at PLY, paras 18–19;—single (adj, hence n and v), whence singleness and such cpds as single-handed, -hearted, -minded—cf single-let, singleton; singular (adj, hence n), singularity;—seem (whence pa, vn seeming), seemly (adj, hence adv);—cf the sep HYPHEN and HOMILY and ANOMALOUS).

Indo-European

1. Same, ME same, derives from the ON samr (cf Da samme): cf OE same, adv, and OS sama, samo, OHG sama, adj and adv, and Go sama, adj; C r sam-, var sem-, similar, as in OIr semail, an image, a likeness, Ga samhail, like (adj), OBr hemel for semel*, similar; OB samū; Skt samās, same; Gr homos, same, homoios, similar, homalos, even (whence anomalous); L similis, similar, singulus, single, semper, always, semel, once. C also Gr hama, together with, OHG samant, MHG sament, together, and G samt, together with; OE samnian (whence the now dial 'to sam'), OFris samnia, OHG samanōn, MHG samenen, G sammeln, OS samnōn, ON samna, to collect (to bring together). Akin to ON samr, adj, and OE same, adv, is OE sum, ME som, E some: cf OFris, OS, OHG sun, Go sums, MD som, ON sumr. In all, the basic idea is 'single' or 'united'.

2. The IE r is app sem-*, single: L similis prob derives from PL semelis*—cf OL semol, L simul; with L sim-, var sin- (as in singulus), cf Go simle, OHG simble, once. In Gr homos, we glimpse an IE var som-*, occurring also in Tokh A šoma-, Tokh B somo-, the same, similar. (Hofmann.)

Sanskrit

3. The Skt word most notable for E is Sanskrit, q.v. at PRAKRIT.

Greek

4. Gr homos, one and the same, derives from IE somos*, corresp to Skt śamás, even or level, similar, identical; homalos, even, similar, like homoios, similar, like, is a mdfn of homos. See the elements homalo-, homeo- (or homoeo- or homoio-), homo-; notable E words are anomalous, homeopathy (homoeo-), homily—all treated elsewhere. (Cf, more distantly, hyphen.)

Latin: i, similis

5. L has no sem- word meaning '(one and the) same'; only a word for 'of the same kind or general features'—'approximately the same'—'similar': similis, with s simil- an extn of sim- (for sem-). Its neu, simile, used as n in Rhetoric, has been adopted by E: cf the similis-derivative similitūdō, MF-F similitude, adopted by E. From similis, EF formed similaire, whence E similar, whence similarity—cf the rare C17–18 F similarité. Hence the anl E formations dissimilar, dissimilarity, prompted by L dissimilis; cf dissimilitude, prob adopted from the MF-EF word, from L dissimilitūdō, from dissimilis after similitūdō.

6. Dissimilis also lies behind dissimilate, dissimilation (cf LL dissimilāre, to be different), formed as complementaries to assimilate, assimilation (cf late MF-F), from LL assimilātus, pp of assimilāre, to make similar, and its derivative assimilātiō, o/s assimilātiōn-: from the adj assimilis, eased form of adsimilis (ad, towards); assimilative comes from LL assimilatiuus, ML -ivus.

Latin: ii, simul

7. L simul, at the one—the same—time, was orig the OL neu of similis; it occurs in E in simultaneous (cf F simultané), which, suggested by momentaneous, recalls, in form, the ML simultaneus, simulated. With derivative simultaneity, cf the F simultanéité.

Latin: iii, simulāre

8. Simulāre, deriving, via the old neu simul, from similis, means 'to represent exactly, to copy, to imitate', hence 'to feign'. The pp simulātus yields the adj and v simulate; derivatives simulātiō (o/s simulātiōn-), simulātor, LL simulātorius yield simulation (adopted from MF-F), simulator, simulatory. Also from simulāre comes simulācrum (suffix -ācrum), a painted or sculptured representation, an image, hence a spectre or phantom: adopted by E (cf OF-F simulacre).

9. Simulāre has cpd dissimulāre, pp dissimulātus, whence 'to dissimulate'; derivatives dissimulātiō (o/s dissimulātiōn-) and dissimulātor become, via OF-F dissimulation and late MF-F dissimulateur, the E dissimulation and dissimulator.

10. Influenced by L simulāre but deriving rather from LL similāre, to resemble, is OF-F sembler, to resemble, but also—app imm—to seem, whence OF-F semblable, resembling, seeming, apparent—OF-EF semblance—OF-F semblant, all adopted by E, but now archaic.

11. From L simul comes VL assimulāre*, to bring together (as- for ad, towards), which app combines with LL assimilāre, to make similar, to produce OF-F assembler, whence 'to assemble'; derivatives late MF-F assemblage and OF-F assemblée yield assemblage and assembly.

12. Cf the origin of 'to dissemble' (whence dissembler), to feign, mask, disguise: a blending of earlier dissimule (from MF-F dissimuler—cf para 9 above) and dissemble, to be different, unlike (from OF-MF dessembler). Dissemblance, a dissembling, comes from 'to dissemble', influenced by the earlier (now obs) dissemblance, unlikeness (from OF-MF dessemblance).

13. Cf also 'to resemble', from OF-MF resembler (EF-F ressembler), lit to be similar, or like, again, to resemble (someone): OF-F re-+sembler. The MF derivative resemblance (F ress-) is adopted by E.

Latin: iv, singulus

14. L singulus, single, is an extn in form, a mdfn in sense, of the L r sim-. Via the acc singulum, it becomes OF-EF single (var sengle, as also in ME), adopted by ME. Singulus has the extn singulāris, whence OF-MF singuler (late MF-F singulier), adopted by ME, whence the reshaped E singular; derivative L singulāritās becomes OF-F singularité, whence E singularity.

15. E single has derivative singlet, orig an unlined waistcoat, imitating and complementing doublet; and singleton: single+euphonic t+one, influenced by the PN Singleton.

Latin: v, simplex

16. L simplex, lit 'of one fold', has the 1st element sim-, var of the sin- of singulus: for the E derivatives, see PLY, paras 18–19.—For L semper, cf sempiternal at AGE, para 4.

Germanic

17. For same, see para 1 above; for some (IE somos*), see ib, s.f., and cf para 4.

18. Akin to OE same (adv) and ON samr (adj), same, and to OE sēman, to reconcile (make one again), is ME sēmen, sēme, to befit, and, vi, to become, to appear to be, whence 'to seem': cf ON soemr, fit, becoming (adj), and sōma, to beseech, ON soemr has extn soemiligr, comely, whence E seemly. The cpd 'to beseech' derives from late ME bi-sēme (bi- used int).

samite. See SIX, para 7.

samovar, adopted from Ru, is lit a 'self-boiler'.

sampan: earlier champan or champana: Port champana, champão: Sp champán: prob from Panama and Colombia—cf Chococoan jampua, var jamba, a canoe. From Port, the word travelled to Malaya and China; the s- form derives imm from Ch san-pan.

sapphire contracts and mutilates F 'l'herbe de Saint Pierre', St Peter's herb.

sample (n, v), sampler. See EXEMPT, para 5.

Samson, whence the naut, whence the logging, Samson (or s-) post, whence the syn samson; samsonite, from the Samson mine in the Harz mountains of Germany.—Samson, become generic for an immensely strong man, figures in Judges (xiii): LL Samsōn, earlier Sampsōn: LGr Sampsōn: H shimshōn, 'Sun's Man'.

Samuel. See SAM.

San, in PINn. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

sanable, sanative, sanatorium, sanatory. See SANE, para 3.

sanct. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

sancta. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

sanctification, sanctify. See SACRAMENT, para 13.

sanctimonious, sanctimony. See SACRAMENT, para 13.

sanction. See SACRAMENT, para 13.

sanctitude, sanctity. See SACRAMENT, para 13.

sanctuary. See SACRAMENT, para 13.

sanctum. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

Sanctus. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

sand (n, hence v), sandy; sabuline, sabulite, sabulose and sabulous.

Sabuline is an -ine adj, sabulite a Chem -ite n, from L sabulum, sand, adj sabulōsus, whence sabulose and sabulous: L sabulum is ult akin both to Gr psammos and the aphetic ammos, psamathos and amathos, and to OE-ME-E sand: and OE sand is imm akin to OFris sand (var sond), OHG-MHG sant, G Sand, ON sandr: prob cf also Skt bhas-, to grind (Walshe).—The adj sandy derives from OE sandig (adj suffix -ig).

2. The cpds are all either absolutely or relatively obivous: e.g., sandpiper, from its haunting sandy shores; sandman, ref sleep causing eyes to feel as if sand were in them.

sandal: OF-F sandale: L sandalium: Gr sandalion, dim of sandalon (whence Per sandal): o.o.o.: ? Parthian.

sandalwood. See CANDID, para 4.

sandman; sandpiper. See SAND, para 2.

sandwich comes from the 4th Earl of Sandwich (1718–92), that passionate gambler who once spent some twenty-four hours at table without refreshment other than slices of cold beef placed between pieces of toast.

sandy. See SAND, para 1, s.f. sane, sanity—insane, insanity; sanative, sanatorium, sanatory; sanitary, whence sanitarium; sanitate, sanitation—and the neg insanitary.

1. Sane, like F sain, derives from L sānus (cf sani-): o.o.o.: perh aphetic for isānus*, from the IE r present in Gr iaīnō, I heal (prob for isanīō*), corresp to IE isniō*: cf Skt iṣanyāti, he progresses. (Hofmann.)

2. L sānus has derivative sānitās, good health, o/s sānitāt-, whence E sanity. The L neg insānus, in bad health, and its derivative insānitās, o/s insānitāt-, yield insane, insanity. The transition from physical to mental health is normal.

3. L sānus has v sādre, to render healthy, to heal or cure, whence sānābillis, E sanable; on the pp sāndtus arise LL sānātius, ML -ivus, healing, E sanative, and the syn LL sānatōrius, whence the adj sanatory and the SciL sanatorium.

4. From L sānitās, learned F derives the adj sanitaire, whence E sanitary (anl neg insanitary): cf the LL sānitans, a healing, implying sānitāre*, to keep-on healing (a freq of sanāre), with pp sānitātus* and derivative sānitātiō*, o/s sanitātiōn-*, whence 'to sanitate' and sanitation, which, lik SciL sanitarium, prop issue, anl, from sanitary.

5. L sānus has the ML derivative sānicula, a plant with reputed healing properties, whence E sanicle.

6. Perh cf SAD.

sangfroid. See para 2 of:
sanguinary, sanguine, sanguineous, sanguinous; consanguineous, consanguinity; sangfroid.

1. L sanguis, blood, s sangu-, r sang-, is o.o.o.: ? by a guttural metathesis of the IE r present in Skt asnās, blood.

2. Sanguis has the var sanguen, whence—perh rather than from sanguis—the OF sanc, later sang, as in the EF-F sangfroid, (lit) cold blood.

3. Sanguis, o/s sanguin-, has the adj sanguineus, whence both sanguineous and—via OF-F sanguin—sanguine. Sanguineus acquires the varr L sanguinari, whence sanguinary (cf EF-F sanguinaire), and LL sanguinōsus, whence sanguinous (cf MF-EF sanguineux).

4. Sanguineus has cpd consanguineus, of the same parental blood (con-, with), whence derivative consanguinitās: hence the E consanguineous, consanguinity.

Sanhedrin. See SIT, para 2.

sanicle. See SANE, para 5.

sanies, sanious. The latter derives from L saniōsus, adj of saniēs, the watery-blood discharge from a wound: o.o.o.—but prob akin to sanguis, q.v. at SANGUINARY.

sanitarium, sanitary, sanitation. See SANE, para 4. sanity. See SANE, para 2.

sannup, a married A Indian, complementing squaw: of Alg, esp Abnaki, origin: basic sense, 'full-grown, hence a complete, man'.

Sanskrit. See PRAKRIT; cf SAME, para 1.

Santa Claus: D Sant Nikolaas: St Nicholas of Asia Minor, who died A.D. c345, was that patron saint (seamen, merchants, children), who, on Christmas Eve, bore gifts to children.

Santo; São. See SACRAMENT, para 12.

sap (1), of plants, whence the v 'to drain', comes from OE saep: cf OHG-MHG saf, G Saft, ON safi, prob L sapa, must (of wine), perh L sapor, flavour.—Hence sapless and sapling. Sappy: OE saepig.

sap (2), an undermining, to undermine, hence a trench and the v, to build a trench in (the ground). The n sap comes from EF-F sape, itself from the source of 'to sap': late MF-F saper, from MF-F sape, a mattock: (early) ML sappa: o.o.o.

2. The military sapper owes something to EF-F sapeur (from saper).

sapid, sapidity. See the 1st SAGE, para 2.

sapience, sapient, sapiential. See the 1st SAGE, para 3.

sapless, sapling. See the 1st SAP.

sapodilla and dilly; Sapota, sapote. Dilly, a WI tree, derives from sapodilla: Sp sapotillo (var zapo): dim of sapote (var za-), adopted by E, whence the Sci Sapota: Aztec tzapotl or zapotl, short for cuauhzapotl, the 1st element representing Aztec cuahuil, a tree. (Santamaria.)

saponaceous, saponification, saponify, saponin, saponite. See SOAP, para 2.

sapor, saporific, saporous. See the 1st SAGE, para 2.

Sapota, sapote. See SAPODILLA.

sapper. See the 2nd SAP, para 2.

Sapphic. See SAPPHO.

sapphire, sapphirine. See SATURN, para 5.

Sappho, Sapphic, Sapphics. The 3rd=verse in Sapphic forms; Sapphic (cf the F saphique)=L Sapphicus, Gr Sapphikos, adj of Sapphō (Σαπφώ), poetess of c600 B.C.

sappy. See the 1st SAP.

saraband: EF (occ sarabante)-F sarabande: Sp zarabanda: Ar-Per serbend, a kind of dance.

Saracen, whence Saracenic; sarrazin;→sarcenet or sarsenet; sarsen. Saracen derives, by b/f, from LL Saracēni, trin of LGr Sarakēnoi: o.o.o., but presumably Sem: perh cf modern Ar Sawāriqah, pl of Sariqī*, an Oriental, from Ar sharqī, Oriental (Enci I); B & W adduce a Medieval Ar sharqiyin, the Orientals, from sharqī.

2. The F word corresp to E Saracen, adj, is sarrasin, var -zin, whence, elliptical for blé sarrasin (-zin), Saracen wheat, the E sarrazin, buckwheat.

3. The MF-F adj sarrasin (-zin) derives from the n Sarrasin (-zin), whence, by contr, the ME Sarzin, adj sarzin, whence the AF dim sarzinett, whence E sarsenet or sarsenet, a soft silken fabric.

4. Saracen stone, a heathen (large) stone or monument, becomes, by contr and ellipsis, sarsen, a sandstone block.

sarcasm, sarcastic; sarcode, sarcoid, sarcoma, sarcophagus; sarcosis; cf the element sarco-.

1. The origin lies in Gr sarx, flesh (gen sarkos, c/f sarko-), pl sarkes, slices of meat: prob from an IE r for 'to cut'. Sarx has derivative sarkazein, to tear flesh, to bite one's lips in rage, hence to sneer: whence sarkasmos, a flesh-tearing, a sneering. LL sarcasmos, esp in Rhetoric, var sarcasmus, EF-F sarcasme, E sarcasm. F sarcasme has adj sarcas-tique, whence E sarcastic, whence the sl and dial sarky.

2. Gr sarx, o/s sark-, has the cpd adj sarkōdēs, fleshy (2nd element: eidōs, form), whence both the Biol n sarcode and the Med adj sarcoid; and the nn sarkōma (suffix -ōma, q.v.), a tumour, whence E sarcoma, any malignant growth; and sarkōsis, E sarcosis.

3. From sarx, Gr forms also the cpd adj sarkophagos, flesh-eating, whence E sarcophagous (cf the element -phaga); sarkophagos, used elliptically for s. lithos, lit a flesh-eating stone, is applied to a limestone that, serving as a coffin, quickly dis-integrates the corpse: whence L sarcophagus, adopted by E.

sard, sardonix. See NAIL, para 4.

sardine; Sardinia, Sardinian;→sardonic, whence sardonicism.

1. Sardine, adopted from F, derives from L sardīna: Gr sardēnē, from Gr Sardō, Sardinia, with var Sardōnē, whence the thinned L Sardinia, adj Sardiniānus, E Sardinian.

2. Gr Sardō has adj Sardōnios, whence, perh, sardānios gelōs, later sardōnios gelōs, whence, imitatively, the L sardonicus risus (sardonicus from Gr Sardōnikos, extn of Sardōnios), EF ris sardonice, F rire sardonique, whence the adj sardonique, whence E sardonic. The sem link is app this: the Sardonina herba (later, elliptically, sardonina), lit the Sardinian herb (L Sardonius from Gr Sardonios), 'renders men insane, so that the sick person seems to laugh' (Paré, C16: B & W). Learnèd f/e has perh intervened.

sardonix. See NAIL, para 4.

sargasso, a floating seaweed—whence both the Sargasso Sea and the Bot Sargassum—derives from Port sargasso (var sargaço: cf the Sp sargazo): app from Port sarga, var sargo, a kind of grape: o.o.o.: ? cf Sp sarga, a kind of willow, from L salix.

sari; sarong. The Mal sarong answers to the Hindu woman's sari: Mal saroni, sārung, to Hi sarī (or sarhī): the former perh, the latter certainly, from Skt śārī. Mal sārung, however, may derive—as OED proposes—from Skt sāranga, variegated.

sark (garment). See CUTTY SARK.

sarrazin. See SARACEN, para 2.

sarsaparilla, a CAM shrub, hence a derivative: ASp zarzaparrilla (Sp z. de Indias): from its resemblance to the two plants, zarga, a shrub+parrilla, dim of parra, a vine: zarza, from Ar xaraç, a prickly plant; parra, as also in Port, o.o.o. sarsen, sarsenet. See SARACEN, paras 4 and 3.

sartorial, sartorius (muscle). Both come, the latter via SciL, from L sartor, a tailor, lit a patcher, from sartus, pp of sarcire, to patch or mend, orig to re-sew: o.o.o. SciL sartorius was prob suggested by LL sarsōrius, relative to patching, from LL sarsor, var of sartor. The sartorius muscle—man's longest—'noticeably assists in rotating the leg to the position assumed in sitting like a tailor' (Webster).

2. Perh akin to L sarcire is Gr herkos, a fence, with its cognate horkos, an oath (fencing one about), whence horkizein, to bind with an oath, with cpd exorkizein (ek-, ex-, out), to swear (evil spirits) out from a man: LL exorcizāre: MF-F exorciser: E 'to exorcize'. Derivative Gr exorkismos, LL exhorcismus, usu exorcismus, yields late MF-F exorcisme, whence E exorcism, whence exorcismal; derivative Gr exorkistēs becomes LL ex(h)orcista, EF-F exorciste, E exorcist.

sash of window, and as worn. See the 2nd CASE, final para.

Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, saskatoon. The shrub saskatoon, like the city Saskatoon, represents a contr of Saskatchewan, itself aphetic for the Cree—an Alg dial—misâskwatomin, lit 'berry of the tree with much wood' (Webster); misâskwat, the tree of much wood.

sassafras, from Sp sasefrás, is perh a blend (? rather a confusion) of Sp saxafrax, saxifrage, with an Amerind word.

sassy, impudent, is certainly a dial var; sassy, a W Afr tree, is reputedly a corruption; of E saucy.

Satan (whence Satanism and Satanist), Satanic. The adj derives from late MF-F satanique, imm from F Satan but prob influenced by LGr satānikos, the adj of LGr satān, satānas, whence LL satān, satānās, whence F and E Satan: and LGr satān(as) represents H šāḏān, adversary (whence 'The Adversary').

satchel. See SAC, para 3.

sate. See SAD, para 2.

sateen. See SATIN, para 2.

satellite (n, hence adj), whence the Astr adj satellitic, satellitery, satelloid: MF-F satellite: L satellitēem, acc of satelles, a bodyguard: o.o.o.: 'perh Etruscan, the first Roman king to whom legend attributes bodyguards being Tarquin the Proud' (E & M), himself of Etruscan origin.

satiate, satiety. See SAD, para 2.

satin, whence satinwood; sateen, whence sateenwood; satiné; satinette, with AE var satinet. Satin, adopted from MF-F (MF var zatany), prob derives—perh via Sp aceituni—from Ar zaytūnī, orig the adj 'of Zaytūn', the Ar name of the great medieval Ch seaport Tzu-t'ing (now Chuanchow, F Tsia-Toung), where the fabric was first manufactured.

2. Whereas sateen, a cottony satin, 'anglicizes' the F satīn, satīné, a Brazilian hardwood with a satin-like sheen, derives from the pp of EF-F satīner, to render like satin, and satīnette is adopted from F (satīn+dim -ette).

satire, satiric(al), satirist, satirize. See SAD, para 4.

satis, enough. See SAD, para 1.

satisfaction, satisfactory, satisfy. See SAD, para 6.

satrap. See CHECK, final para.

saturate, saturation. See SAD, para 5.

Saturday. See para 4 of:

Saturn, Saturnalia (whence Saturnalian), Saturnian, saturnine; Saturday;—sapphire, sapphirine.

1. Saturn, like F Saturne, derives from L Sāturnus, itself o.o.o., the association with serere, to sow, pp satus, being f/e: perh Etruscan (E & M)—cf the Etr god Satre; perh rather Oriental—cf para 5; ? Medit—cf Eg Sba àmentī (tcha pet), Saturn.

2. L Sāturnus has the adj sāturnius, as in sāturniī uersūs, whence E Saturnian verse; hence E Saturnian (cf EF-F saturnien). From L Sāturninus, of Saturn, F derives saturnin, orig a Med adj, whence E saturnine (opp jovial).

3. L Sāturnus has yet another adj: Sāturnālis, whence, via the neu pl, the n Sāturnālia, the festival—unofficially, a carnival—of Saturn, whence E saturnalia, a period of licence.

4. L Sāturnus combines with OE daeg, day, to form OE Saeternesdaeg, Saturn's day, contr to Saeterndaeg and still further to Saeterdaeg, whence ME Saterdai, whence E Saturday.

5. Skt exhibits sanipriya, lit 'dear to Saturn' (śanis, the planet Saturn), hence, by f/e, a sapphire, whence—via Sem (cf H sappīr)—the Gr sappheiros (σάπφειρος), L sapphirus (LL saphirus), OF safir, MF-F saphir, E sapphire. The L adj sapphirinus yields sapphirine. (Hofmann.)

satyr, satyriasis. As 'lecher', satyr derives from MF-F satyre, from L Satyrus, trln of Gr Saturos, a sylvan demigod addicted to riotous and lascivious ways: perh from IE sator* (setor), 'a sower', cf L sator. (Hofmann.) Derivative Gr satyriasis, insatiable sexual desire in the male, becomes LL satyriāsīs, adopted by Med—cf the element -lasis.

saucy, whence saucy. See SALT, para 7.

saucypan. See the 2nd PAN, para 1; cf SALT, para 7.

saucer. See SALT, para 7.

saucy. See SAUCE.

sault. See SALLY, para 6.

saunter, v (hence n), whence pa, vn sauntering and agent saunterer, is o.o.o.: ? for MF s'auanter*, not 'to adventure oneself' but 'to advance oneself, move forward', for s'auanter*, for s'avanter*, from OF-F avant, forward, before: for the u, cf MF s'auanter, var of s'avanter (F se vanter), to boast; the reflexive connotes effort.

Sauria, whence both saurian (adj, hence n) and saury, is a SciL neu pl, based upon Gr saura or sauros, a lizard: o.o.o.: ? (with Boisacq) for psauros*, akin to Gr paukros, agile, restless.— Cf the c/f sauro—

2. The best known E cpd is dinosaur, one of the Dinosauria (dino- from Gr deinos, terrible).

sausage. See SALT, para 8.

savage (adj, hence n and v), savagery; silva, sylva—silvan, sylvan—Silvanus, Sylvanus, cf Pennsylvania and Transylvania, with adj (hence nn) in -ian; silvics and silviculture; Silvia, Sylvia; Silvester, Sylvester.

1. Savage, orig of the forest, hence untamed, hence cruel, derives from OF-F sauvage—whence sauvagerie, whence E savagery. OF sauvage comes from ML salvāticus, from VL saluāticus, a var of L siluāticus, living in the woods, an adj of L silua, ML silva, a wood or forest, inferior spelling sylua, sylva: o.o.o.

2. ML silva, sylva, is retained by tech E. The E adj silvan, var sylvan, derives from late MF-F silvain, sylvain, from ML Silvānus, var Sylvānus, L Silvānus, Syluānus, a god of the woods and fields, from silua, sylua.

3. From siluānus*, adj, comes siluāna*, syluānia*, ML -vania, wooded country, whence both Pennsylvania, founded by William Penn, and Transylvania, now a province of central Rumania, from trans, across; discovered in Transylvania was sylvanite (Min -ite).

4. ML silva leads to silvics and the approx syn silviculture, forestry; cf silvicolous, forest-inhabiting, from L siluicola, an inhabitant of the woods.

5. L silua has a further adj: silvester (or siluestris), var syluester or -tris, ML -vester, -vestris, whence MF-F silvestre, sylvestre, and E Sylvester.

6. L silua has derivative PN Siluius, ML Silvius, var Sylvius, f Silvia, Sylvia, adopted by E.

savanna, savannah, a treeless plain: Sp zavana (now sabana): Taino (WI) zabana.

savant. See the 1st SAGE, para 6.

savate. See SABOT.

save. See SAFE, para 2, s.f.

savior (AE), saviour. See SAFE, para 5.

savoir-faire and -vivre. See the 1st SAGE, para 6.

savor, savorous, savory (adj, hence n). See the 1st SAGE, para 5.

savory, an aromatic mint, derives from ME saverey—with -v—perh from OF-EF savoré, tasty—from OE saetherie, itself from L satureia: o.o.o.

savour, savoury (adj, hence n 'a relish'). See the 1st SAGE, para 5.

savoy (cabbage) derives from Savoy cabbage, trans of F chou de Savoie. Savoy=F Savoie, in SE France, formerly It Savoia in NW Italy: app (Enci It) 'The Country of Fir-Trees', (with p becoming v) from an Italic, ? orig C, r sap-, a fir-tree (cf the F sapin). Hence F Savoyard, an inhabitant of Savoy; E Savoyard, an admirer of the Gilbert & Sullivan operas, derives from the Savoy Theatre (London), where, from Iolanthe (1882) onwards, they were produced.

savvy. See the 1st SAGE, para 7.

saw (1), a maxim. See SAY, para 2.

saw (2), a tool (hence the v), whence sawyer (agential -yer, for -ier); seesaw; scythe (n, hence v); sedge, whence sedgy; sickle; sect, a section (distinct from religious sect)—sectile—section (n, hence v), whence sectional, whence sectionalism, -ist, -ize—sector, whence sectorial; secant, secateur(s); segment (n, hence v), whence segmental and segmentary—segmentate, whence, anl, segmentation; dissect, dissection (whence, anl, dissective and dissector); insect (adj, n), insectarium (anglicized as insectary), insectile; insection; intersect, intersection (whence intersectional); resect, resection (whence resectional); subsection; transect, whence, anl, transection;—perh the sep SAIL.

1. Saw, ME sawe, comes from OE sagu or sage: cf OHG saga, var sega, G Säge, MD sege, sage, zage, D zaag, ON sög: further off, L secāre, to cut, scēcula, a sickle, secūris, an axe (cf OSi sekyra): IE r *sek-, to cut, with cognates in C and Sl.

2. From the motion of a saw in use, comes, by redup, the juvenile pastime of two persons sitting at either end of a plank and keeping it moving: a seesaw.

3. Akin to the Gmc words noted in para 1 is scythe, influenced by OF-F scier, to saw, in the passage from ME sithe, itself from OE sithe, var sigthe: cf OHG seganse, sickle, scythe, MHG segense, sengse, G Sense, scythe, OS segasna, scythe, ON sigthr, sickle.

4. Akin to the Gmc words of paras 1 and 3 is sedge, ME segge, OE secg (cf OE secg, a sword), cf LG segge: ? because often cut by the ancient English.

5. Akin to all the Gmc words so far mentioned, and also esp to L scēcula, is sickle, ME sikel, OE sicel or sicol: cf OHG sihhila, MHG-G sichel.

L secāre, to cut

6. L secāre has presp secans, o/s secant-, whence E secant, adj (hence n); E secateur represents F secateur, formed anl (-ateur) from L secāre.

7. L secāre has the irreg (supine sectum and) pp sectus, whence the rare E sect, a section, a cion.

8. On the L pp sectus, have been formed the foll L words relevant to E:

sectilis, cuttable, whence—perh via EF-F (obs)—sectile; sectiō, o/s sectiōn-, a cutting, a piece cut off, late MF-F section, adopted by E; L sector, a cutter, EF-F secteur and E sector.

9. L secāre has derivative segmen, a piece or portion cut off, usu in extn segmentum, s segment-, EF-F segment, adopted by E; derivative segmentātus yields segmentate.

Compounds of secāre

10. L dissecāre, to cut apart, has pp dissectus, whence 'to dissect'; derivative LL dissectiō, o/s dissectiōn-, yields EF-F and E dissection.

11. L insecāre, to cut in or into, has pp insectus, whence both the E adj insect and the E n insect (L insectum, neu of the pp), its body being so sharply cut-into that it almost seems divided; derivative LL insectiō, o/s insectiōn-, accounts for E insection, but E insectile is an anl formation; derivative ML insectārium (-arium connoting 'receptacle'), a place for the breeding of insects, is adopted by E.

12. L intersecāre, to cut between, has pp intersectus, whence 'to intersect'; derivative intersectiō, o/s intersectiōn-, produces MF-F and E inter-section.

13. L resecāre, to cut back, to cut off, has pp resectus, whence 'to resect'; derivative rese tiō, o/s resectiōn-, produces EF-F and E resection.

14. Subsection has nothing to do with L subsecāre, to cut under; it simply=sub-, subordinate + E section. Transect and transection=trans, across + sect, section.

saw (3), pt of SEE.

sawyer. See the 2nd SAW (heading).

sax, a sword. See SAXON, para 2.—2. Short for saxophone, where also saxhorn and saxtuba.

saxifrage. See FRACTION, para 9, and cf the elements saxi- and -frage.

Saxon (n, hence adj), cf Anglo-Saxon; Saxony; sax, a sword.

1. Saxon, adopted from F, derives from LL Saxō, o/s Saxōn-, of Gmc origin: cf OE Seaxe, Seaxan, Saxons, app orig 'men of the (long) knife': OE seax, a knife or a dagger, syn OHG sahr, OFris sax, knife, sword, and Saxa, a Saxon, Sax-land (-lond), Saxony: perh—"knives being orig made of stone' (Webster)—akin to L saxum, a rock, a stone: ? cf also L secāre, to cut.

2. OE seax becomes E sax, a short sword, hence a builder's chopper; and LL Saxō, o/s Saxōn-, has LL derivative Saxōnia (territorial -ia), whence Saxony.

3. Anglo-Saxon, n hence adj, derives from ML Anglo-Saxōnes, from earlier Angli Saxōnes, the English, taut combining LL Angli, the English, L the Angles, with Saxōnes, the Saxons of Saxony, later the English. Cf ENGLISH.

saxophone: invented, app c1860, by the Belgian Adolphe Sax (1814-94), saxo- being the c/f and -phone the Gr phōnē, voice, tone. Earlier came his saxhorn (cf HORN), and are saxtromba (cf trombone at TRUMPET) and saxtuba (cf TUBA).

say, pt and pp said (OE saegde), presp and vn saying and agent sayer (as in soothsayer); saga; saw, a saying, a maxim;—cf the sep SEE, v.

1. 'A say' derives from 'to say', and 'to say' from ME sayen, seyen, earliest seggen, from OE secgan: cf OS seggian, LG seggen, MD secgen, seggen, D zeggen, ON segja, to say, and the OFris nn sega, a speaker, sege, a speech, all from a Gmc r sagja-*, whereas OHG sagēn (G sagen) comes from the var sagai-: IE r, sek- (varr sak-, sok-), to say, as in the OL imp insece, Tell, Relate (cf Gr ennepe, from ensepe); Lith sakjiti, to say; OB soctiti, to notify; cf also, with h for s, the OW hepp, he says. (Walshe; Hofmann.)

2. Akin to ON segja is ON saga, a story, adopted by E: cf the intimately related OHG saga (G Sage, a tale), OFris sege, OE sagu, a speech, a recital, the last yielding, via ME sawe, the E saw.

scab (n, hence v), whence scabby; scabies, scabious (adj and n), scabish; scabrid, scabrous; shab, shabby; shave (n, v), whence shaver and pa, vn shaving—cf shaveling.

1. Scab, ME scab, scabbe, derives from ON skabb, a scab, mange: cf Da and Sw skab, Nor skabb.

2. Very closely akin to ON skabb is the syn OE sceabb, varr sceb, scebb, scaeb, with sc- pron sh-, whence ME shabbe, a scab (now dial), hence a paltry fellow (obs sl), whence the adj shabby, whence shabbiness: cf the senses of scabby.

3. OE scaeb, sceabb, scebb and ON skabb are akin to L scabiēs, roughness of the skin, the mange, from scabere, to scratch (oneself), to shave: L r, scab-; IE r, skebh-, varr skabh-, skobh-*, to scratch, as in Go skaban, Lith skabiū, skōbti, to scratch, Gr skaptein, to dig.—L scabiēs has adj scabiōsus, scabby, whence E scabious; the plant scabious derives from ML scabiōsa (herba), reputed to cure scabies; the plant scabious becomes, by (? dial) corruption, scabish, the field scabious.

4. The L r scab- occurs also in L scaber, wrinkled, rough, mangy, o/s scabr-, as in L scabrātus, whence E scabrate (-ate, adj). Scaber has the LL extn scabrōsus, rough, wrinkled, whence EF-F scabreux, f scabreuse, whence E scabrous, and another L LL extn scabridus, slightly scabrous, whence E scabrid.

5. Akin to L scabere, to scratch, to shave, is 'to shave', ME shaven, earlier schaven, OE scafan or sceafan (sc- pron sh-): cf OHG scaban, MHG-G schaben, to scrape, to shave, Go skaban, to scratch, to shear, MD-D schaven, ON skafa, to shave—cf also Lith skabus, sharp.—OE scaefan has derivative n sceafa, a carpenter's plane, whence syn E shave; the other senses of the E n shave derive from 'to shave'. From his tonsure, comes shaveling (dim suffix -ling), a priest; from the infrequency of his need to shave, a youth.

6. Prob cf SCAFFOLD.

scabbard. See SHARE, para 10.

scabies, scabious (adj and n). See SCAB, para 3. scabrid, scabrous. See SCAB, para 4.

scaffold, n hence v, whence scaffolding: ME scaffold: ONF escafaüt: MF escafote, a shell, dim of MF escafe, var scaphe, a shell: L scapha, a light boat, a skiff: Gr skaphē, a trough: prob IE r, skebh-, var skabh-, as for SCAB.

scalar, ladder-shaped, L scälāris, adj of scälā, whence E scale, q.v. at ASCEND, para 1.

scalawag, var scallawag, scallywag, and scallaway: o.o.o.o.: ? from Scalloway, a former capital of the Shetlands, ref the Shetland ponies or perh the small Shetland cattle. (Webster.)

scald (1) or skald. See SCOLD.

scald (2), to burn with water, hence n; hence also the pa, vn scalding. 'To scald' comes from ME scalden: by aphesis from ONF escalder: OF eschalder (later eschauder, finally échauder): LL excaldāre, also—by aphesis—scaldāre, to bathe, or to cook, in hot water: L int ex-+L caldāre, to warm, to heat, from caldus, warm: f.a.e., CALDRON.

scale (1), a ladder, hence the v. See ASCEND, para 4.

scale (2), a balance: ME scale, var scole, ON skäl, a bowl, hence, from things being weighed in one, a balance: cf OHG scala, MHG schäle, G Schäle, a drinking-vessel, OS skala, a cup, ON skäl, a drinking-vessel, whence the Scan toast Skol! Akin to:

scale (3), a fish's or a reptile's, hence the v: ME scale, skale: OF-MF escala (late MF-F écale, husk), a husk, a cup: via ONF from Frankish skala, a husk, a fish's scale, an egg-shell: cf the OGmc words cited in prec and the Go skalja, a tile: prob akin to ON skilia, to split. Cf SCALLOP and SHALE.

scalene: L scalēnus, unequal-sided: Gr skalēnos; akin to Gr skelos, the thigh; IE r, skel-* (skuel-*), to bend.

scaling: pa and vn of scale (1) and (3). scallaway. See SCALAWAG.

scallion; shallot, eschalot.

1. Scallion, a shallot, a leek, comes from ME scalyon: by aphesis from ONF escalogne, var of OF eschalogne or eschaloigne: VL scalōnia*: L ascalōnia; elliptical for a. caepa, onion of Ascalon, a Palestinian seaport: adj of Ascalō, o/s Ascalōn-: Gr Askalōn: app of Sem origin, prob Canaanite; during the Crusades, it was known as Escalone.

2. OF eschalo(i)gne, by change of suffix, becomes MF eschalette, var eschalotte (F échalotte), whence both E eschalot and, by aphesis, E shallot.

scallop, n hence v, whence scalloping; scalp, n hence v.

1. Scallop, a bivalvular mollusc, whence the dressmaking sense, derives, by aphesis, from MF escalope, a shell, an animal-matter scale: of Gmc origin—cf SCALE (3) and MD schelp(e), schilpe, scholpe, schulpe, D schelp, schulp.

2. Scalp (ME id) comes from ON skalpr, a sheath, akin to the MD words in para 1.

scalpel. See SHELL, para 2.

scaly: adj of the 3rd SCALE.

scamble (v, hence n); shamble, adj, n, v (whence shambling); scrabble (v, hence n) and scramble, v, hence n—hence also A sl scram; scrap, n hence v (whence scraper and scrapping); scrape (v hence n), whence scraper and scrapping.

1. Scamble (now mostly dial), to scramble, stumble along, sprawl, and, vt, to scatter, to collect, or to remove, bit by bit, to trample clumsily, is echoic.

2. Echoically (at least) akin is 'to shamble', to walk with unsteady or shuffling awkwardness; it derives from the adj shamble, walking thus, awkwardly unsteady, as in 'He has shamble legs', itself from the n shamble, a stool (obs), a bench, esp in a butcher's shop, hence a slaughterhouse, whence shambles, a scene of slaughter: ME schamel, from OE sceamol or scamel (sc- pron sh-), stool, bench: L scamellum, dim of scamnum, stool, bench, form: nasal derivative from IE skabh-*, to support—cf Skt skabhndti, he supports, props up, and skambhás, a support, a pillar.

3. 'To scramble' is a nasal var of 'to scrabble', to scrape or scratch with hands or feet, hence to scramble or clamber, and to scrawl or scribble. 'To scrabble' comes from MD-ED schrabbelen, freq of MD-ED schrabben, to scratch or scrape: echoic.

4. Scrap, a (left-over) fragment of food, a detached piece, coll 'a fight with fists' (cf scrape, a predicament), ME scrappe, comes from ON skrap, prob orig 'something scraped off' and certainly very closely akin to, if not derived from, ON skrapa, to scrape, whence, app, OE scrapian, ME scrapien, later scrapen, E 'to scrape': cf the syn MD schrappen (D schrapen), var of schrabben (cf above), MLG-G schrapen (MHG schraffen), with int G schrappen; cf also Lett skrabt (Walshe).

scamp (1), a rogue. See CAMP, para 4.

scamp (2), to perform hastily and imperfectly. See SCANT, para 2.

scamper, to run fast or in haste. See CAMP, para 4.

scan. See ASCEND, para 1. scandal, scandalize, scandalous. See ASCEND, para 2.

Scandinavia, whence Scandinavian. See AQUA, para 8. The 'Chem scandium'=ML Scandia, Scandinavia + Chem -ium.

scansion. See ASCEND, para 1.

scant, adj hence v; hence also the extrn scanty (whence—after panties—the sl scanties); to scamp, whence the pa, vn scamping; skimp, adj, hence n (whence skimpy) and v; scrimp, whence scrimpy; shrimp, n and v; shrink, whence shrinkage, shrinker, shrinking—pt shrank or shrunk, pp shrank or shrunk—(also pa).

1. Scant, ME skant, derives from ON skamt or skammt, the neu of skam(m)r, short: cf OE and OHG scamm, short.

2. Akin to ON skam(m)r is ON skemma, OHG skemmēn, to shorten, which, along with ON skamt and E scant, have app suggested E 'to scamp' or shorten one's work on (something) by doing it hastily or carelessly.

3. 'To scamp' has the thinned derivative 'to skimp', perh imm from the adj skimp (? prompted by scant and pa scamped).

4. With both 'to scamp' and 'to skimp', cf 'to scrimp', to provide (someone) with insufficient money, to provide insufficient money for (something): perh influenced by 'to shrink'.

5. 'To shrink', ME shrinken, earlier shrinken, comes from OE scrincan: cf MD shrinken: prob related intimately to a shrimp, ME shrimpe, so named because it looks shrivelled, and perh deriving from MHG schrimpfen (G schrumphen), to shrink—cf, without the IE prefix s-, the syn MD crimpen, crempen, D krimpen. Note that in Gmc words, scr- (skr-) is usu representational or picturesque, and often echoic.

scantle: ONF escanteler (OF-MF eschanteler), to break into cantles: es- (L ex-, out of) + cantel (OF chantel). Cf CANTLE.

scantling is for earlier scantillon, aphetically from ONF escantillon, MF eschantillon (F échantillon), a standard measure or weight, mdfn of MF eschandillon, dim of escandille* (cf OProv escandil), from VL scandilia*, from L scandere, to mount: cf ASCEND. (B & W.) scanty. See SCANT (heading).

scape (1), to—or an—escape. See ESCAPE, para 3.

scape (2), a scenic view or painting, derives from landscape, earlier landskip, from ED landschip (D landschap), MD lantschip, -schep, -schap: cf OE landscipe, a region, and the E suffix -ship.

scape (3), in Bot and Zoo. See SHAFT, para 2.

scapegoat, orig a goat bearing the sins of the people and allowed to 'escape' into the wilderness: cf SCAPE (1).

scapegrace is one who has 'escaped' from religious grace.

scaph- and scapo- words. See those elements.

scapula, whence the adj scapular; scapular, n, scapulary. Scapula, the shoulder-blade, is adopted from LL scapula, a b/f from L scapulae, the shoulders: o.o.o.: perh cf Gr skaptein (s skapt-, r skap-), to hollow out. The LL derivative scapulāre, a monk's working garment, becomes EF-F scapulaire (cf the C13 capulaire, C14 chapulaire), whence E scapular; the ML extn scapulārium accounts for the E var scapulary.

scar (1), an isolated, esp if protruding, rock, hence a clinker; skerry. Scar, ME skar, earlier skerre, derives from ON sker, a rocky isle, whence —? orig a dim—the E skerry: f.a.e., the v SHEAR.

scar (2), a wound- or a burning-mark left in the skin, whence the v, whence the pa scarred and the vn scarring; eschar, (Med) a dry scab.

1. Eschar derives from MF-EF eschare (var -arre: F escarre): L eschara: Gr eskhara: o.o.o.—perh (Hofmann) cf OSI iskra, a spark. The derivative Gr adj escharōtikos, LL escharōticus, yields E escharotic.

2. Scar derives either, by apheresis, from ONF escare (MF eschare), or from LL scara, aphetic for L eschara. Sem, scar owes something to the obs E scar, a crack, from the now only dial scarth, a cleft, from ON skerth (f.a.e. SHARD).

scar (3), a chink. See prec, final sentence.

scarab, scarabaeus. See CARBINE.

scarce (whence 'to scarce'), scarcity. The n derives from ME scarsete, from ONF escarseté, itself from ONF escars, whence ME scars, E scarce: and ONF escars, OF-MF eschars, avaricious, derives from VL excarpus*, from L excerptus, pp of excerpere, to pluck out, to gather (cf E excerpt): ex, out (of)+carpere, to pluck fruit, hence to gather: f.a.e., HARROW.

scare (v, hence n), whence the pa scared and the dial and coll scary; scarecrow, orig something to scare a generic crow.

'To scare,' ME skerren, derives from ON skirra, itself from ON skjarr, shy, timorous: o.o.o.

scarf (1), pl scarves, comes—with f for p—from ONF escarpe, a pilgrim's wallet, usu worn round the neck, ÓF-MF escharpe (F écharpe), escherpe, such a wallet (OF), hence, in MF, a broad band worn around the body: Frankish skerpa*: L scirpus, a reed (cf scirpea, a reed basket): o.o.o.

2. By metathesis, L scirpus becomes LL (scrippus* and scrippum, whence ME scrippe, E scrip (archaic), a pilgrim's wallet.

scarf (2), to join (pieces of timber or metal), comes from the n scarf, a joint (in building): ON skarfr: cf OE scearfian, to scrape, and sceorfan, to gnaw, to bite, and perh (Walshe) Gr skorprios, a scorpion.

2. Akin to those OE vv is OE sceorf, with var scurf prevailing into E: cf also OHG scorff, MHG-F schorff, a scab, scurf, and ON skurfur (pl). Scurf has adj scurfy, eased to scurvy, whence the disease.

scarification, scarify. See SCRIBE, para 5.

scarlatina. See para 2 of:

scarlet (n, hence adj), scarlatina (whence scarlatinous).

1. Scarlet, ME scarlet, earlier scarlat, orig a fabric, hence its usu colour, is aphetic for OF-MF escarlare (F écarlate): ML scarlātum: Per sāqirlāt: Ar siqillāt, a fabric decorated with seals (as for letters): via LGr from L sigillātus, decorated with sigilla (LGr sigillia) or seals: f.a.e., SIGN.

2. From ML scarlātum, Med has coined scarlatina (cf the F scarlatine).

scarp, the parapet side of a trench, a steep descent, whence 'to scarp', is aphetic for escarp, from EF escarpe, from It scarpa, from Go skrapa*, deduced from MHG schrof, a cliff. The EF escarpe originates both EF escarper, whence F escarpement, whence E escarpment, and EF-F contrescarpe, whence E counterscarp.

scat. See SCATTER.

scathe, n, 'whence scatheless, and v, whence scathing (orig a presp) and unscathed.

Scathe, injury, ME scathe, comes from ON skathi: cf OFris skatha, OS skatho, OHG scado, MHG schade, G Schaden; cf also Gr askēthēs, not (a-) harmed (-skēthēs, from skēthos*, injury); there are several C cognates. 'To scathe,' ME scathen, comes from ON skatha: cf OFris skathia, OE sceathan, sceththan, OHG scadōn, MHG-G schaden, Go skathjan, MD-D schaden. The IE r is prob skedh-, var skadh-, to injure. Perh cf SCATTER.

scatology, whence scatological. See the element scato-.

scatter (v, hence n), whence the pa scattered, the vn scattering; hence also the A sl Scat! (Run away!) and the orig humorous scatteration and the adj scattery (whence—prob assisted by scatter-brained—the sl scatty, crazy); shatter (v, hence n), whence the pa, vn shattering and the adj shattery; skedaddle (v, hence n); perh of the sep SKID.

1. Scatter and shatter are doublets: the origin of the former is ME scateren; of the latter, its var schateren: either deriving from or, at the least, akin to MLG schateren: ult echoic, as in the cognate Gr skedannunai, to split up or strew about: cf also Skt skadhatē, he splits; IE r, prob skhed-*, to split up. (Hofmann.)

2. App from Gr skedannunai, to split up, comes the coll E skedaddle, to run hurriedly away, esp in fear: ? some scholarly wit's blend of Gr skedannunai+either 'paddle away' or 'saddle up (and depart)'. scavenge, scavenger; scavage. 'To scavenge' is a b/f from scavenger, itself deriving—with intrusive n, as in E passenger from F passager—from ME scavage, an official concerned with scavage, a toll mediævally exacted from foreign merchants for the display, or the offer, of goods for sale: AF scawage, by apheresis from ONF escawuage, from escawuer, to examine (goods): of Gmc origin: f.a.e., SHOW.

scena. See para 2 of SCENE.

scenario. See para 2 of:

scene, scenery—scenario, scena—scenic; proscenium.—squirrel.—shine (v, hence n), presp hence pa shining, pt and pp shone; shimmer (v, hence n), with pa, vn shimmering.—scintilla, scintillant, scintillate, scintillation.—stencil and tinsel.—sheer, bright, hence unclouded, hence pure.

Indo-European

1. Scene derives from MF-F scène: L scēna, var scaena: (perh via Etruscan from) Gr skēnē (Doric skānā), a covered place (e.g. a tent), hence a stage, hence a scene thereon, hence a scene in general: IE r, skā-, var skāi-, as in Skt chāyā, brilliance, lustre, (but also, by that 'perversity' which characterizes language) shade, a shadow—cf the cognate Gr skia, shade, a shadow, and, sem, contrast Go skeirs, clear, bright.

Greek-Latin

2. Gr skēnē has adj skēnikos, whence L scēnicus (scaenicus), MF-F scénique, E scenic. L scēna develops its own adj, LL scēnarius, of the stage, whence It scenario, adopted by E (cf the F scénario); It scenario becomes thoroughly anglicized in the form scenery, orig with theatrical denotations and connotations. The Mus scena is adopted from It (from L).

3. Gr skēnē has the derivative prefix-cpd proskēnion, lit a stage at the front (pro-), hence the part in front of the curtain, whence L proscēnium, adopted by E.

4. Gr skia, shadow, has full cpd skiouros, lit the 'shadow-tail'; Gr oura, tail, is akin to E arse. Skiouros becomes L sciūrus, with VL metathesis sciūrus*, whence the VL dim sciūriōlus*, whence OF-MF escuriuel, MF esquireul (F écureuil), whence late ME squirrel, sqyrel, E squirrel.

5. Prob akin to Gr skia and skēnē is L scintilla, ? lit 'a little shiner' (-illa, dim suffix; -t-, perh euphonic), a spark, adopted by SciE. L scintilla has the derivative v scintillāre, to sparkle, with presp scintillans, o/s scintillans-, whence E scintillant, sparkling, and with pp scintillātus, whence 'to scintillate'; derivative L scintillātiō, o/s scintillātiōn-, becomes EF-F and, prob independently, E scintillation, whence, anl, scintillator. The LL adj scintillōsus yields the rare E scintillose and scintillous.

6. L scintilla becomes, by metathesis, the VL stincille*, whence MF estencelle, whence MF estenceler, whence E 'to stencil', whence the n stencil.

7. MF estencelle has the L-influenced var estincelle, whence the EF-F étincelle, whence E tinsel, with derivative adj and v.

Germanic

8. Akin to Gr skēnē and L scēna, varr scaena and scaina, is OE scīnan, ME schinen, later shinen, E 'to shine': cf OFris skīna (with n skīn), MD schinen, D schijnen, OS scīnan, OHG scīnan, MHG schīnen, G scheinen (n Schein), Go skeinan, ON skīna. 'To shine,' whence the n shine, has presp, vn shining and agent shiner.

9. The OE scīnan, to shine, has the OE freq scimrian (? a 'thinning' of scīnrian*), to shine fitfully, hence faintly, ME schimeren, E 'to shimmer': cf OE scīma, a shining, brightness, Go skeima, torch, lantern, MD-D and LG schemeren, G schimmern, Sw skimra, to shimmer.

10. Prob not deriving from, but app influenced by the cognate OE scīr, ME shire, clear, bright scenery, scenic. See prec, para 2.

(cf Go skeirs, OS skīri, MHG schīr, G schier, ON skīrr), is E sheer, bright, hence pure, hence sole, hence also transparent, perpendicular, ME schere, prob from ON skærr.

scent. See SENSE, para 13.

scepter (AE), sceptre. See SHAFT, para 3.

schedular, schedule. See the 2nd SHED, para 5.

schema, schematic, schematism (whence, anl, schematist), schematize, schema (n, hence v, whence schemer and scheming); sketch, n (whence sketchy), hence v (whence sketcher and sketching)—cf esquisse and schizzo and G Sieg, victory, as in Siegfried, Sigismund; sep SCHOOL (of instruction)—sep HECTIC, HECTOR—sep EPOCH.

1. Scheme derives from LL schēma—adopted by learned E: Gr skhēma, a form, an outline, from Gr ekhein, to have, to hold, future skhēsō (var of hexō): PGr hekhein*: IE r, segh-*, as in Skt sāhatē, he masters or overpowers, and as in Go sigis, victory.

2. Gr skhēma has o/s schēmat-, whence both the rare adj skhēmatikos, which prob suggested E schematic, and the v skhēmatizein, to form, LL schēmatizāre, E 'to schematize' (cf F schématiser); skhēmatizein itself has derivative skhēmatismos, ML schematismus, E schematism (F schématisme).

3. Akin to Gr skhēma is Gr skhedios, extempore, approximate, with derivative n skhedion: whence LL schediū, extempore, with n schediūm: It schizzo, a sketch, whence both EF esquiche, later esquisse, and D schets, leading to E sketch; with derivative 'to sketch', cf It schizzare (from schizzo), EF esquicher, F esquisser, D schetsen. Both It schizzo and F esquisse have been adopted by E, the former among the Italianates, the latter among the Gallomanes.

4. Deriving from IE segh-* are such forms as OIr segaim, I attain, and Go sigis, victory, and syn OHG sigu (cf OE sige), MHG sige, G Sieg; G Siegfried combines victory with peace (OHG fridu, MHG fride, G Friede), and G Sigismund calls upon OHG munt, protection.

schism, schismatic. See the 2nd SHED, para 6.

schist, schistose. See the 2nd SHED, para 7.

schizoid; schizout. See the 2nd SHED, para 8. schizophrenia, -phrenic. Cf the 2nd SHED, para 8.

schnapper. See SNAP (heading).

schnitzel, adopted from G, is lit 'a slice': from schnitzen, int of schneiden, to cut, MHG sniden, OHG snīdan, akin to Go sneithan and ON snītha: o.o.o.

schola. See the 2nd SCHOOL, para 2. scholar, whence scholarly and scholarship. See the 2nd SCHOOL, para 3.

scholastic, scholasticate, scholasticism. See the 2nd SCHOOL, para 4.

scholiast, scholium. See the 2nd SCHOOL, para 5.

school (1), of fish. See SKILL, para 2.

school (2), of instruction, hence adj and v (whence schooling), with numerous and obvious cpds, e.g. -boy, -girl, -house, -man, -master, -mistress, -teacher; schola, scholar (whence scholarly and scholarship); scholastic (whence scholasticism), scholasticate; scholiast (whence scholiastic) and scholium; cf the sep SCHEMA.

1. School derives from ME scole, itself partly from OE scōl (from LL scola) and partly from OF-MF escole (EF-F école); the OF word derives from L schola, a school: Gr skholē, orig a halt, hence a rest, leisure, hence employment for leisure, esp such employment for children, hence training or instruction, hence schooling, hence a school: from Gr ekhein, to have, to hold, pt eskhon and presperf eskhēka: f.a.e., SCHEMA, para 1. With E school and OE scōl, cf OHG scuola, MHG schuole, G Schule, and ON skōli.

2. L schola survives in academic E and in such a cpd as the Mus schola cantorum, a school for singers (cf the Schola Cantorum in the Rue St Jacques, Paris).

3. L schola (LL scola) has the LL adj scholāris (scōlāris), belonging to school, whence the ML n 'schoolchild', whence OF escoler, MF escolier (F écolier), whence ME scoler, E reshaped scholar: cf OHG scuolari, G Schüler.

4. Gr skolē, a lecture, a school, has derivative v skholazein, to keep a school, to give lectures, with derivative adj skholastikos, whence L scholasticus (cf LL 'a learned man'), whence both MF-F scolastique and E scholastic. F scolastique has derivative scolasticat, anglicized as scholasticate, a Catholic seminary.

5. Gr skolē has derivative skholion, an annotation (usu marginal), whence ML scholium, adopted—mostly in pl scholia—by the world of scholarship. From Gr skholion comes the LGr skholiastēs, whence ML scholiasta, whence both EF scholiaste (F scoliaste) and E scholiast.

schooner is of D spelling (cf G Schoner) but E (Northern) dial and Sc origin: soon, to skin along the water, a var of scun, to fly through the air, to skim swiftly along: app from ON skunda, to speed. (EDD.)

schottische. See SCOT, para 4.

sciatic (nerve), sciatica; ischiatric, ischial, ischiatric, ischium.

1. Sciatic derives from MF-F sciatique, LL sciaticus, aphetic for L ischiadicus, Gr iskhiadikos, adj of iskhion, the hip-joint, whence L ischium, adopted by SciE; from LL sciaticus, Med has coined sciatica. With Gr iskhion of Skt sákhi, hip.

2. L ischiadicus yields E ischadic, with var ischiatric deriving from the inferior LL spelling ischiatricus; L ischium yields ischial.

scibile. See para 2 of:

science, scient, sciential, scientific, scientism, scientist—scolism, sciolist (whence sciolistic), sciolous—sciuous—scibile.—Compounds: adscititious; conscience, conscient (whence inconscient), conscientious, conscionable (whence neg unconscionable), conscious (whence consciousness and subconscious and the negg unconscious, -ness); inscience, inscient; nescience, nescient—cf nice (whence niceeness), nicety; omniscience, omniscient; plebscite, q.v. at PEOPLE, para 8; prescience, prescient.—Perh akin to the 2nd SHED (where, e.g. SCISSION).

Simple

1. All these terms spring from L scire, to know; prob orig to cut through, hence to decide: perh cf Skt chryāti, he cuts, and Ir scian, a knife (E & M). L scindere could be a nasalized cognate, scin answering to sci-: cf the 2nd SHED.

2. Scire has derivative LL adj scibilis, knowable, whence the Phil scibile, something knowable, prop the neu of the adj, and the L adj scius, knowing, whence the rare E sciuous; the L dim sciolus, knowing but little, yields the now rare sciolous, whence, anl, sciolism and sciolist.

3. Scire has presp sciens, o/s scient-, whence the rare E scient, adj hence n. On L scient- arises L scientia, knowledge, whence OF-F science, adopted by E; the derivative LL adj scientiālis* (deduced from the LL adv scientiāliter), occurring in ML, becomes sciential. The ML cpd adj scientificus, knowledge-making, becomes MF-F scientifique and E scientific. On L scientia are formed scientism and scientize and esp scientist, which, unrecorded before 1840 (OED), prob owes something to It scienziato (Boccaccio; archaic), a learned man.

Compound

4. For convenience, the cpds are best treated in alphabetical order. The 1st represents the sole survival of an E word deriving from L sciscere, to seek to know the inch of scire. Sciscere has the cpd adscicere, to adjoin by decree, pp adsciots, whence—after adventitious—the E adscititious, supplemental, additional.

5. L consciūs (con-, together), sharing knowledge, yields consciuous. On consciūs arises conscire, to know at the same time, i.e. to be conscious of, with presp consciens, o/s conscient-, whence the E conscient; derivative L conscientia becomes OF-F conscience, adopted by E, whence the irreg conscionable: derivative ML conscientiōsus becomes EF-F consciencieux, f -ieuse, whence E conscientious.

6. Scientia has neg inscientia, whence the rare E inscience, ignorance; sciens has neg insciens, o/s inscient-, E inscient.

7. Scire has neg nescire, not (ne-) to know, with presp nesciens, o/s nescient-, whence E nescient; derivative LL nescientia yields nescience. From nescire comes the L adj nescius, ignorant, whence OF-EF nice, ignorant, innocent, whence ME nice, foolish, whence shy, hence discriminating ('a nice taste in literature'), hence agreeable, pleasant; derivative OF-MF niceté, ignorance, folly, gives us the syn nicety, with new senses running parallel to those of the adj, esp 'delicacy of feeling or of taste'.

8. Anl with LL omnipotentia, omnipotence, ML forms omniscientia, whence omniscience, whence, anl, omniscient—cf the Theol ML omniscius.

9. Scire has the cpd praescire, to know prae- or in advance, presp praesciens, o/s praescient-, whence E praescient; derivative LL praescientia, foreknowledge, becomes OF-MF prescience (MF-F prés-), adopted by E.

scind. See the 2nd SHED, para 3.

scintilla, scintillant, scintillate, scintillation. See SCENE, para 5. sciolism, sciolist, sciolous. See SCIENCE, para 2.

scion, also (esp in AE) spelt cion, ME syon, sioun, derives from OF-MF cion (F scion): Frankish kith* (cf OHG kīdīa) a (plant's) shoot + the dim suffix -on; the OGmc r of kith*, kidi, is ki-*, to burst forth—cf the Go pp us-kijans, (of seeds) having come forth, OE cīnan, to burst, OHG chīno, MHG kīme, G Keim, a seed, a germ. (Walshe, at Keim.)

scissile, scission. See the 2nd SHED, para 3.

scissors: ME sisours: MF cisoires, large scissors (cf ciseaux, scissors): LL cisōria, pl of cisōrium, a cutting instrument: perh via VL from L caesus, pp of caedere, to cut (cf caesura). The sc- is f/e: a confusion caused by ML scissor, a tailor, from L scindere.

scissure. See the 2nd SHED, para 3.

scleriosis, a morbid induration; sclerosis, a hardening of tissues or arteries: SciL (Med) from Gr sklēriasis and sklērōsis: Gr sklēros, hard + suffixes -iasis and -osis. The corresp adj are scleriatric and sclerotic, formed on Gr patterns.

scoff, n, hence v, whence scoffer and scoffing. See SHOVE, para 4.

scold, n, hence v, whence scolding; scald or skald. Scold, a person given to ribaldry, hence to abuse or fault-finding, derives from ME scold or scalde, earlier scald, prob from ON skāld, a poet—whence E scald (sk-)—esp as a satirist; cf ON skāldskapr, poetry, esp if satirical or libellous. With ON skāld, cf OIr scél, Ga sgeul, narration, narrative.

sconce (1), a candlestick. See RECONDITE.

sconce (2), a detached defensive work, a redoubt: late MHG-G schanze (rather than D schans): ? for schanze*, var of MHG-G schanke, a barrier, akin to OHG screnchēn, to lay crosswise. (Walshe.)

2. Sconce acquires the cpd ensconce, to shelter (esp oneself) as if in redoubt.

scone. See SHEEN, para 2.

scoop. See SHOVE, para 5.

scoot. See SHOOT.

scope, a target, hence an intention, a theme, hence range, opportunity, space in which to move; for -scope, -scopic, -scopy, etc., see the element -scope.

Scope derives, via It scopo, from L scopus, earlier scopos, trln of Gr skopos, a watcher, also a visual aim, from skopein, to view, intimately related to the syn skeptesthai: Gr r, skep-, app a metathesis of spek-, and therefore id with L specere, to look, to see: cf SPECTACLE.

scorbutic, of or like scurvy: late EF-F scorbutique, adj of EF-F scorbut: ML scorbutus: app from Ru skrobotā, via a Gmc language.

scorch (v, hence n), whence scorcher and pa, vn scorching: sense and form, app from ME scorken, from ON skorpna, to dry up, with form influenced by OF-MF escorchier, MF escorcher (F écorcher), from LL excorticāre, to scrape, or strip, the bark off, from L cortex, bark. With ON skorpna, cf ON skorþinn, shrivelled, and perh ON skarpr (therefore E SHARP).

score. See SHARE, para 5.

scoria, refuse, dross, is adopted from L: Gr skōria, an -ia derivative of skōr, dung: cf the syn Skt avaskara and Hit sakkar (gen saknas), var zakkar.—Hence 'to scorify', whence, anl, scorification.

scorn (n and v), whence scornful. Scorn, n, derives from ME scorn, earlier scarn, aphetic from OF-MF escarn; 'to scorn', from ME scornen, earlier scarnen, from OF-MF escarnir, var of escharnir, to mock, to scorn, to humiliate: both of Gmc origin—cf OHG skern (scērn), MHG schērn, mockery, scorn, OHG skernōn (scērnōn), to mock, scorn. The ME change from -a- to -o- perh arises from OF-EF escorner (F écorner), to deprive of horns, hence to despoil, hence to mock, to humiliate, from VL excornāre*, from L cornu, a horn; the OHG words perh bear the basic sense —'to cut'.

Scorpio (Astr and zodiacal), scorpion; scorpene and sculpin. L scorpiō has gen scorpiōnis, o/s scorpiōn-, whence, prob via OF-F, the E scorpion: and L scorpiō derives from Gr skorpiōn (gen skorpiōnos), var of skorpios, a scorpion, also a prickly sea-fish, whence the syn Gr skorpaina, L scorpaena, F scorpène (obs), E scorpene. The Gr skorpios, skorpiōn has s skorp-, extn of IE skor-, var of sker-, to cut.

2. App deriving from or at the least cognate with F scorpène is that very spiny fish the sculpin. scot and scot-free. See SHOOT, para 2. (For sl scot, ill-temper, see para 5 of the next.)

Scot; Scotch (adj, hence n), Scots (adj), Scottish —cf schottische; Scotia (Nova Scotia) and Scotland; Scott; Scotticism; Scotty; sl scot and scotty.

1. A Scot or (obs) a Scott (extant as surname) derives from OE Scott, pl Scottas, the Irish, from LL Scotti, the Irish, itself from OIr Scuit, the Irish, nom sing Scot: ? 'the Wanderers'—cf Ga sguit, a wanderer.

2. The OE adj is Scyttisc, whence—? influenced by ML Scotticus—ME Scottisc, E Scottish; the EE var Scottis becomes, by contr, the E adj Scots; ME Scottisc yields also Scotch, whence Scotchman.

3. Scotland is the 'land of the Scots', and Scotia a ML territorial (-ia) derivative of LL Scotti; Nova Scotia, 'the New Scotland', is still noted for its Scots; ML Scot(t)icus, adj of Scot(t)i, accounts for Scotticism, anl with Anglicism.

4. E Scottish becomes G schottisch, whence the lively round dance known as the schottische; cf that older, statelier dance the F have named the écosaise, elliptical for danse écosaise, Scottish dance, the F adj écosais deriving from l'Ecosse, Scotland.

5. With sl scot, a fit of bad temper, and its adj scotty, cf the syn Ir n irish. (The dog Scotty is coll for 'Scottish terrier'.) With Scotch for 'Scotch whisky', cf Irish for 'Irish whiskey'.

scotch, to cut superficially, but also to wound, hence n, derives from AF escocher, to notch, from OF-F coche, a notch, from VL cocca* (cf It cocca, a notch), from L cocum, excrescence on a plant. (B & W.)

Scotch. See SCOT, para 2—cf para 5.

scoter. See SHOOT, para 13.

Scotia, Scotland. See SCOT, para 3.

Scots, adj. See SCOT, para 2.

Scott, Scotticism, Scottish. See SCOT, paras 1 and 3.

scotty and Scotty. See SCOT, para 5.

scoundrel, whence scoundrelly, is o.o.o.: ? and with wastrel and by aphesis from AF escoundre, OF-MF escondre, esp in the reflexive 'to hide oneself away', from L ex, out of + condere, to place, as EW has suggested; note, however, that escondre is also a var of OF-EF escundire, to excuse oneself, from VL excondicere* (dicere, to say).

scour (1), to rub hard, to purge, whence scourings. See CURE, para 3.

scour (2), to run hard, to decamp. See COURSE, para 11.

scourge, n and v. The n derives from ME scourge (var scurge), earlier scorge, from OF-MF escorge, whence MF escorgier, whence ME scorgen, later scourgen, whence 'to scourge': and OF-MF escorge derives from L corrigia, a strap, a whip, orig a shoe-lace, akin to OIr cuiumrech, fetters, and conriug, I tie together (E & M); cf also Ga cuibrech or cuidhreach, Cor carhar or carghar (pl cargharow), a fetter: is there a C r com-, con-, cum-, cuium-, akin to L cum, along with, hence, in vv, together?

scout (1), a spy, hence v. 'To scout,' ME scouten, derives from ME scoute, whence 'a scout': and ME scoute is aphetic for OF-MF escoute, a spy, from escouter, earlier escolter, for ascolter: VL auscultāre*, for L auscultāre, to listen to, to hear, attentively: cf auscultate, q.v. at EAR (L auris).

scout (2), to reject contemptuously. See SHOOT, para 14.

scow: D schouw: MD schou, schouwe: o.o.o.: perh akin to MD schoewe (D schoe), a shoe: from shape-resemblance of a scow to a clog.

scowl (v, hence n), whence scowling, pa, vn, ME scoulen: app of Scan origin—cf Da skule.

2. Cf also skulk (whence pa skulking), akin to Da skulke.

scramble. See SCAMBLE, para 3.

scrag, n (whence scraggy), a lean, tough person or quadruped, hence a scrawny person and the nape of (a sheep's) neck, whence 'to scrag': of Scan origin, as are so many scr- words: cf Sw dial scragg, something haggard or torn, skraka, a tall, very thin man or dry tree, and the cognate Nor skragg (? also skrogg).

scram is short for scramble, q.v. at SCAMBLE, para 3.

scran, broken victuals, hence food (dial and sl) o.o.o.: ? a b/f from scannel.

scranell; scranny. See SCRAWNY.

scrap. See SCAMBLE, para 4.

scrape. See SCAMBLE, para 4.

scratch, v (whence scratcher and scratching), hence n (whence scratchy);—grate, to scrape harshly, to rub vigorously, whence pa grating—cf grater; regrate, regrater.—Cf the sep SCRIBE.

1. 'To scratch' blends ME scratten, to scratch with syn ME cracchen (MD krassen): cf MHG schratzen (? int s-) and OHG krazzōn, MHG-G kratzen, to scratch, and ON krota, to engrave, and, says Walshe, the nasalized Lith grándau, I scrape.

2. Akin to OHG krazzōn is OF-MF grater (MF-F gratter), to scratch, to scrape: whence 'to grate', whence a grater (cf EF-F grattoir).

3. OF-MF grater has cpd OF-MF regrater (later regratzen), to scrape again, hence 'to regrate', both in masons' work and in commerce; the derivative OF-MF agent regratier (F regrattier) becomes E regrater, a middleman.

scrawl, v hence n, o.o.o., is perh a (dial) var of 'to scroll', q.v. at SHRED: from ornate handwriting's tendency to become illegible.

scrawny and its var scranny derive, as does the orig dim (-el) scannel, thin, lean and weak, from Scan: cf Nor dial skran, thin, desiccated, and Sw dial skran, weak; perh cf also the Scan words for lumber and trash.

screak. See SCREECH, para 1.

scream. See SCREECH, para 2.

scree is a b/f from the pl screees, itself from ON skrītha, a landslide, from skrītha, to slip, to slide, akin to OE scrīthan, OS scridan, OHG scridan or scrītan: prob echoic.

screech and screak and shriek; scream: all vv, with derivative id nn, and with agents in -er, pa and van in -ing: and all echoic. 'To screech', EE scritch, comes from ME skrichen, and 'to scream' is a var, prob influenced by ON skraekja, to screech, to shriek, whence prob the ME schriken, E 'to shriek': cf the bird shrike, OE scrīc, a thrush, akin to Ice skrikja, Sw skrika, thrush, lit the shrieker.

2. Prob akin to ON skraekja are ON screama, to terrify (? orig by screeching), and skraemast, to flee (? from the rushing sound of flight), whence app ME scremen, E 'to scream'.

3. The Scan r is perh echoic skrī* (skree-) with extn in -ch, -k, and -m; the IE base is perh krī-* (kree-), as in F crier (cf E CRY), with the int prefix s- added in Scan, where initial s so often occurs.

screened. See SHRED, para 3.

screen, n hence v, whence screenage, screener, screening: ME scren, aphetic for: MF escren, var escran (F écran), by metathesis from: MD scherm, scheerm: cf OHG scirm, MHG schirm, protection (cf G Schirm, umbrella), and MHG schirmen, var schermen, to fence: ? akin, as Walshe suggests, to Skt čarma, the skin. From the appearance of a protective screen derives the goldminers' screen or sieve, whence 'to screen' or scrutinize thoroughly before admission; the older sense 'to protect' derives from the very nature of the protective screen itself.

screeve. See SCRIBE, para 4.

screw (n, hence v), whence screwy; scrobe. Screw, earlier scrue, derives by apheresis from MF-EF escroue (EF-F écroui): VL scrova*: L scrōfa, a sow, influenced by L scrobis, scroba*, ditch, hence vulva. With scrobis, cf Ru skrebu, I scratch: therefore cf SCRIBE.

2. From L scrobis comes the Zoo scrobe, a groove.

3. L scrōfa, a (breeding) sow, is by LL used in the pl scrōfae for glandular swellings (esp in the neck), 'perh by a fanciful comparison of the glandular swellings to little pigs' (Webster): whence the syn dim pl scrōfulae, whence ML scrōfula, the old 'King's evil', adopted by E, with adj scrofulous, prob after EF-F scrofuleux, f scrofuleuse.

scribble, scribbler. See para 6 of:

scribe, v, hence n (whence scribal); script, adj (surviving in cpds) and n (whence scrip, a certificate)—scription, whence, anl, scriptive—scriptor, scriptorium (and escritoire), scriptory (adj, whence, anl, scriptorial)—sécriture (whence scriptural, whence scripturalism, scripturalist), scripturient; scribble, v (whence scribbler), hence n; screeve, v (whence screever), hence n, and scribe; scrivener; serif—scarify, scarification (whence, anl, scarificator);—shrift, shrive, Shrovetide.—Cpds from L scribere and its pp scriptus: adscript, adscription, adscriptitious, adscriptive—cf ascribe, ascript, ascription, ascriptitious; circumscribe, circumscription (whence, anl, circumscriptive); conscribe, conscript (adj, hence n and v), conscription (whence, direct, conscriptional and, anl, conscriptive); describe, description, descriptive—cf describe; inscribe, inscript, inscription (whence, anl, inscriptive); interscribe, interscription; perscribe; postscript, postscriptum; prescribe, prescript, prescriptible, prescription, prescriptive, prescriptorial; proscribe, proscrip, proscription (whence, anl, proscriptive); rescribe, rescript, rescription (whence, anl, rescriptive); subscribe (whence subscriber), subscript, subscription, subscribe—cf subscribe; superscribe, superscript (adj- and n), superscription; transcribe, transcript, transcription (whence, anl, transcriptive).

Indo-European

1. The basic idea is 'to scratch', hence 'to scratch characters upon bark or wax', hence 'to write': sem of WRITE. For the lit Gmc-Sl 'scratch' group, see SCRATCH. The 'scratch-write' terms occur in Gr, L, Gmc: Gr skariphasthai, to scratch, skariphos, a stylus: L scribere, to trace characters, to write; ON hrifa, to scratch, OFris skrīva, to write, to prescribe a penalty (cf OE scrifan, to prescribe a penalty or a penance, to shrive), OHG scriban, MHG schriben, G schreiben, MD schreven, D schrijven, to write.

I. Simples: i, Germanic

2. OE scrifan, to prescribe a penance on, becomes ME scriven, schreven, finally shriven, whence 'to shrive', pt shrove, pp shriven. The shrove form leads, irreg, to late ME shroftide, schroftide, E Shrovetide, the tide or time of confession before Lent; akin to scrif-, r of scrifan, is OE scrift, whence ME schrift and, retained by E, shrift, a shriving, a confession.

3. Serif, a printing term for a cross-stroke at head or foot of a letter, prob derives from D schreef, a written stroke, akin to schrijven, to write.

4. Three other words that perh come from D are screeve, scrivener, scribe. The 1st, cant then al, for 'to write or draw (on the pavement)', prob comes from It scrivere (L scribere), to write, but could come from D schrijven; the 2nd, from earlier scrivein, is usu said to derive from OF-MF escrivain (F écrivain), from VL scribānem*, acc of scriba, a scribe, but could derive from MD schrivein, a scrivener (cf MD schriver, D schrijver, a writer); the 3rd (scribe, to write), usu said to derive from OF-MF escrire (MF écrire, F écrire), to write, could derive from MD schreven, to write.

Simple: ii, Greek

5. Gr skariphasthai, to scratch, becomes L scarifāre, later (influenced by L sacrificāre) scarificāre, to scratch or cut the skin of, whence MF-F scarifier, whence 'to scarify'; derivative ML scarificātiō, acc scarificātiōnem, yields MF-F scarification, adopted by E.

Simple: iii, Latin

6. L scribere yields 'to scribe'; its derivative scriba, a penman, a clerk, secretary, yields MF-F scribe, adopted by E. Scribere acquires, in ML, the freq scribillāre, to write very (or too) often or much, to write hastily, whence 'to scribble'.

7. Scribere has pp scriptus, either upon or from which numerous E words form or derive. Scriptus becomes the adj script, obs except in cpds (e.g., manuscript, q.v. at MANUAL); the neu scriptum, used as n, becomes—perh via OF-MF escript—the E script, n.

8. Derivative L scriptiō, o/s scriptiōn-, becomes E scription; scriptor is adopted; scriptōrius becomes scriptory, and its ML derivative scriptōrium, a writing-room, is adopted—as is the OF-MF derivative escritoire, but in the sense of F écritoire, a writing-desk; scriptūra, (the art of) writing, LL holy scripture, and its pl scriptūrae, the Scriptures, become scripture, Scripture, the Scriptures, with adj scriptural from LL scriptūralis; scriptūrtre, to be eager to write, has presp scriptūrtiens, o/s scriptūrtient-, whence the adj scripturient, whence, anl, scripturience—cf cacoētnes scribendi, the itch to write (Gr kakoēthēs, a kakos or bad ēthos or habit).

II. Compounds of L scribere, pp scriptus

9. L adscribere (ad, towards), to add by writing, and its eased var dscribere, with pp and ppderivatives adscriptus, āscriptus—adscriptiō, ās-cryptiō, o/s -iōnem—a(d)scripticius—a(d)scriptiuus, ML -ivus—yield ascribe, adscript (adj and n), a(d)scription, a(d)scriptitious, a(d)scriptive.

10. L circumscribere, to draw a line about or around (circum), pp circumscriptus, derivatives circumscriptiō, yield circumscribe, circumscrip, circumscription, all with the connotation of 'narrow limits'.

11. L conscribere, to write con- or together, to enrol, pp conscriptus, derivative conscriptiō (o/s -iōn-), yield conscribe, conscript, conscription.

12. L dēscribere, to write from (dē-) an exemplar or model, to copy, pp dēscriptus, derivatives dēscriptiō (o/s -iōn-), LL dēscriptiōnālis and dēscriptiuus (ML -ivus), yield describe, description, descriptive. L dēscribere becomes OF-MF descrire (MF descrire, F décrire), whence the now only Sc describe.

13. L inscribere, to write in(to), pp inscriptus, derivatives inscriptiō (o/s -iōn-) and LL inscriptura, yield inscribe, inscription, (obs) inscripture with pa inscriptured.

14. L interscribere, to write inter- or between, yields interscribe, whence, anl, interscription.

15. L perscribere, to write per-, in detail, about, derivative perscriptiō, give us the rare perscribe and perscription.

16. L postscribere, to write after (the main part), pp postscriptus, neu postscriptum used as n, account for postscribe (rare) and postscript, adj and n.

17. L praescribere, to write at the top, hence state in advance and authoritatively, pp praescriptus, derivatives praescriptiō (o/s -iōn-) and praescriptiuus, ML -ivus, yield—the last, in form only—prescribe, prescript (adj and n), prescription, prescriptive. E prescriptible is adopted from MF-F, which formed it, anl, from MF-F prescription.

18. L prōscribere, to write publicly, to publish (esp the name of a person condemned to death or exile), pp prōscriptus, derivative prōscriptiō, o/s -iōn-, yield proscribe, proscript (adj and n), proscription.

19. L rescribere, (of the emperor) to write re-, back, i.e. in reply, hence to render a decision, pp rescriptus, neu rescriptum used as n, LL rescriptiō, o/s -iōn-, produce rescribe, rescript (n), rescription.

20. L subscribere, to put one's signature under (sub) an accusation, LL to set apart (esp money) or to appropriate, pp subscriptus, derivatives subscriptiō and LL subscriptiuus, ML -ivus, explain subscribe, subscript (adj and n), subscription, subscriptive. L subscribere becomes MF souscrire, EF souscrire (F souscrire), with subscriv-, soub-scriv- in certain parts: whence Sc subscribe.

21. LL superscribere, to write above, make a note above the line, pp superscriptus, derivative superscriptiō, o/s -iōn-, yield superscribe, superscript, adj and (from L neu -scriptum) n, superscription.

22. L transcribere, to write across, i.e. to transfer in writing, to copy, pp transcriptus (neu -scriptum used as n), derivative LL transcriptiō, o/s -iōn-, originate transcribe, transcript, transcription.

23. Several of the -scription nn, e.g. prescription and transcription, owe something to F intervention. scrimmage. See SKIRMISH.

scrimp. See SCANT, para 4.—Hence, app, the sl scrimshank, to scamp one's work, to mangle: to which, perch, is akin the o.o.o. SCRIMSHAW (unless from a PN).

scrip (1), wallet. See SCARF, para 2.

scrip (2), certificate. A slovening of:

script. See SCRIBE, para 7.

scription, scriptional; scriptorium, scriptory; scriptural, scripture, Scriptures; scripturient. See SCRIBE, para 8.

scribe. See SCRIBE, para 4.

scrivener. See SCRIBE, para 4.

scrobe. See SCREW, para 2.

scrofula, scrofulous. See SCREW, para 3.

scrolar, scroll. See SHRED, para 5.

scrotum, whence scrotal. See SHRED, para 1.

scrounge. See SCRUNGE.

scrub (1), vegetation. See SHRUB, para 2.

scrub (2), to rub (clothes, etc.) hard as one washes, hence n and also scrubber and scrubbing: MD and LG schrubben (D schrobben): cf Sw skrubba, Da skrubbe: prob echoic and perch, via scrub-*, an int of the IĒ r of RUB.

scruff (1), dandruff, is a dial metathesis of scurf, q.v. at SCARF, para 2. Hence the dial and coll adj scruffy.

scruff (2), nape of neck, is a var of the syn SCUFF, of Gmc origin: cf Go skuft and—p for f—ON skept, hair.

scrum and scrummage. Cf scrimmage; see SKIRMISH.

scrunge; scrounge. The latter is a sl (orig dial) var of the former, a dial word for 'squeeze'—hence for 'to pilfer': a var, perch a derivative, of dial SCRUNCH, to crunch: echoic.

scruple (n, v), scrupulosity, scrupulous. See SHRED, para 7.

scrutable, scrutability—inscrutable, inscrutability; scrutate, scrutator; scrutineer, scrutinize, scrutiny. See SHRED, para 8.

scud, scuddle. See the 3rd SCUTTLE.

scudo. See SCUTAGE, para 5. scuff (1), nape of neck. See the 2nd SCRUFF.

scuff (2), to shuffle. See SHOVE, para 3.

scuffle. See SHOVE, para 3.

scull (oar), n hence v, occurs in ME—and is o.o.o.: ?, however, a sense-development from the Sc scull, a shallow wicker basket, itself from ON skjōla, a bucket.

scullery. See SCUTAGE, para 4.

scullion, ME sculyon, represents MF escouillon, from OF-MF escoveillon, itself a dim of OF escove, a broom, from L scōpa.

sculpin. See SCORPIO, para 2.

sculptor, whence anl sculptress; sculpture, n (hence v), whence—as in F—sculptural and—after picturesque—sculpturesque; sculpsit.

1. The jocular 'to sculpi' derives from F sculpter, from L sculptus, pp of sculpere, to carve; cf sculpsit, he has carved. Sculpere is a mdfn of scalpere, to scratch: o.o.o.

2. On the pp sculptus arise sculptor, a carver, adopted by E, and sculptūra, whence late MF-F, whence E, sculpture.

scum; scumble. See SKIM, para 1 and heading.

scunner. See SHUN, para 2.

scup, an A marine fish: short for the syn scuppaug: Alg mishcuppauog (pl): mishe, big (perh of Gr megas, E much)+kuppe, close-set (ref the scales)+-uog, a suffix denoting plurality. (Mathews; Webster.) scupper. See SHOVE, para 6.

scurf, scurfy. See the 2nd SCARF, para 2.

scurril (or scurrile)—scurrility—scurrilous. The 3rd is an extn of the 1st; the 2nd derives from L scurrilitās, derivative of that L adj which generates E scurril, var scurrile: scurrilis, an -ilis derivative of scurra, a buffoon, a parasite, earlier a 'city slicker', orig a townee: o.o.o.: ? Etruscan (E & M); ? from excurrere, to run all over the place, esp out of bounds (connoted by ex, out of).

scurry, to run briskly, blends either scamper or, less prob, scatter+hurry.

scurvy, adj and n. See the 2nd SCARF, para 2.

scut. See the 3rd SCUTTLE.

scutage, scutate; escuage; scutcheon and escutcheon; scute, whence scutal; scutella, Scutellaria, scutellate, scutellum, scutular, scutulate, scutulum; scutum;—scuttle, a large, shallow dish (obs) or wickerwork basket, hence as in 'coal scuttle';—scudo and escudo—cf écu;—esquire and squire (n, hence v), squirearchy, squireen.—Cf the elements scutati-, scutelli-, scuti-.

1. L scūtum, a large oblong shield, is perh akin to Gr skutos, a hide, hence leather, and therefore perh to Skt skūti, skunāti, he covers, from IE r skewt-*, to cover, prob an s- int of keut-*, as in Gr kutos, a hide; but it may be of C origin—cf MW isgaut, a shield, and MW and Cor eskut, a shoe (and shoe is itself perh akin to scūtum: Walshe), and Ir sciath, W ysgwyd (? for scuit*), OBr scoit, a shield; perh also OIr scáth (Ga gáth), shelter. (E & M; Hofmann; Malvezin¹.)

2. L scūtum has been adopted by Zoo; its dim scūtulum by Med. Scūtum is anglicized as scute, extant only in Zoo ('a horny plate'); its derivative adj scūtātus becomes scutate.

3. The dim scutulum, whence E scutular, has suggested SciL scūtulātus, whence scutulate. SciL, moreover, has coined the dim scutella, whence, anl, scutellar; both, however, owe something to L scutella, tray or salver, a dim of L scutra, a wooden platter, prob akin to scūtum; and L scutella has originated Bot Scutellaria and scutellate.

4. L scutella, a tray, becomes OE scutel, whence E scuttle (for coal); but it also becomes OF-MF escuele (F écuelle), whence MF escuelerie, a place (connoted by -erie) where dishes are washed, whence, by aphesis, ME squillerye, whence E scullery.

5. L scūtum becomes Sp and Port escudo, a shield, whence the coins so named; it also becomes OF escut, OF-MF escu, a shield, later a coin, F écu.

6. L scūtum has the ML derivative scūtāgium, whence E scutage, a fee paid by a knight in lieu of military service: cf para 8; cf also MF escuage (from escu; F écuage), a knight's military service, adopted by E.

7. L scūtum becomes VL scūtīō*, acc scūtīōnem, whence MF escuçon (F écusson), with ONF var escuchon, whence E escutcheon, with aphetic var scutcheon.

8. With escutcheon-scutcheon, cf esquie-squire; squire derives from ME squier, aphetic for ME esquier, whence esquire; and ME esquire is adopted from MF esquier, a var of OF-MF escuier (F écuyer), itself from LL scūtārius, a guardsman of the Emperor's court, in L a maker of shields, from the adj scūtārius, of or belonging to a shield.

9. Squire has the Anglo-Ir dim (-een) squireen, a petty squire, and the E squirearchy, lit rule (cf the element -arch) by squires, hence the rural gentry.

scutch, to loosen and dress cotton or silk, hence the machine for doing so: aphetic, from MF escouche, perh of Gmc, esp Scan, origin (cf Nor skoka), but, imm from MF escoucher (F écoucher), more prob deriving from VL excussāre, from L excussus, pp of excutere, to cause, by shaking, to fall. (DAF.)

scutcheon. See SCUTAGE, para 7.

scutella, scutellar, scutellate; scutellum. See SCUTAGE, para 3.

scutter. See the 3rd SCUTTLE, para 2.

scuttle (1), for coal. See SCUTAGE, para 4.

scuttle (2), a small opening, esp in a ship; as v, hence to sink a ship by perforating its bottom: prob influenced by F in its passage from Sp escotilla, dim of escote, an opening made in a fabric, perh from Go skauts, extremity or 'edge' of a garment—cf OHG scōzza, MHG schōze, G Schoss, a coat-tail—perh an IE int *s-*prefix cognate of L cauda, tail. (B & W; Walshe.)

scuttle (3), to scurry, hence n;—scut, perh a tail, also a v; scutter;—scud, to run swiftly as if propelled, hence n; scuddle;—skid, to slide noisily.

1. Scuddle, a freq (-le) of 'to scud', suggests that scuttle is a freq of 'to scut'. It would follow that 'to scut' (to scurry) perh derives from scut, the tail of a hare or a rabbit, esp noticeable when the creature is fleeing; scut, a tail, remains o.o.o., and scud remains a prob cognate of scut.

2. Scutter, however, is clearly a freq (-ter), presumably—but not certainly—of 'to scut'. One cannot safely do more than say that prob all these words are cognates, one of another, and that, orig, they are prob echoic.

3. Skid, to slide gratingly or roughly, is a thinning of scud.

scutular, scutulate, scutulum. See SCUTAGE, paras 2 and 3.

scutum. See SCUTAGE, paras 1 and 2.

Scylla and Charybdis, between, between two dangers, either of which is difficult to avoid even if the other has been avoided: in the straits of Messina, Scylla (L, from Gr Skulla) was a rock named after a female monster, Charybdis (L, from Gr Kharubdis), a whirlpool named after another. The Gr names are o.o.o.

scythe. See the 2nd SAW, para 3.

Scyth, Scythia, Scythian (adj, hence n). The 3rd derives from the 2nd, L word from Gr Skuthia, a territorial (-ia) derivative of Skuthēs, whence E Scyth. Skuthēs perh derives either from or through Per akhšaṭna-, of a dull complexion. (Enci It.)

sea (n, hence adj), with many obvious cpds, e.g. seaman (OE sāemann); Zeeland and New Zealand.

1. New Zealand anglicizes D Nieuw Zeeland, bestowed by its discoverer (1642), Tasman, in memory of the D maritime province Zeeland, 'Sea Land'.

2. Sea, ME see, derives from OE sāe: cf OFris sē, sea, OS and OHG sēo, sea or lake, MHG sē, G See, MD see, se, D zee, ON sāer, sea, and Ga saiws, lake.

seal (1), a marine mammal: ME sele: OE seolh: cf OHG selah and ON selr (silent r).

seal (2), on letter, hence v. See SIGN, para 4.

seam. See SEW, para 2.

seaman, whence seamanship. See SEA (heading).

seamstress. See SEW, para 3.

seamy. See SEW (heading).

séance. See SIT, para 9.

sear (1), adj, whence v—adj now usu sere; sear, v;—sorrel (colour).

1. Sear, dried up, withered, reverts to OE sēar, and its var sere to the ME form, seer: and OE sēar is akin to MD soor, MD-ED zoor, LG zoor; to OE sēarian (whence 'to sear'), OHG sōrēn, to wither; to Lith sausas, dry, and Skt śoṣa, drying up. The Gr auēn, to parch, is prob unrelated, for its basic sense is 'to drain, to exhaust'.

2. The colour sorrel derives from MF sorel, dim of OF sor, yellow-brown, from Frankish saur*, ref leaves of trees, akin to the Gmc words noted above.

sear (2), that catch which, in a firearm, holds the hammer at cock; seraglio; serry, with pt, pp (hence pa) serried.

1. Serr derives from OF-F serre, from OF-F serrer, to bar, to close, to lock: VL serrāre: LL serāre, to bar: L sera, bar of a door, hence a bolt, a lock: o.o.o.

2. OF-F serrer, to bar, bolt, later to press or crowd, has pp serré, whence 'to serry'—press, crowd.

3. VL serrāre*, to bar, to close, to lock, has derivative serrāculum, whence It serraglio, a palisaded enclosure, later—by confusion with MF-EF serrail (F sérail), from Tu serāī (cf caravanserai)—a palace, a harem.

search. See CIRCLE, para 5. season, seasonal, seasonable. See the 2nd sow, para 4.

seat. See SIT, para 20.

sebaceous, sebacic, sebum. See SOAP, para 3.

sec. See DESICCATE.

secant; secateur(s). See the 2nd SAW, para 6.

secede. See CEDE, para 12.

secern. See SECRECY, para 2.

secession. See CEDE, para 12 seclude, seclusion (whence, anl, seclusive).

Seclusion derives from ML sēclūsion-, o/s of sēclūsio, from sēclūsus, pp of sēclūdere, to close off; sē-, apart+-clūdere, c/f of claudere, to close, to close up: cf CLAUSE.

second (adj, n, v), secondary, seconde; Secundus, secundine.

1. L secundus, second (next after the first), orig following, derives from sequi, to follow, pp secūtus: f.a.e., SEQUENCE. Hence, the second-eldest (child). Secundus has the LL derivative secundinae (pl), the afterbirth, whence E secundine, usu in pl, perh after MF-F secondines.

2. The fencing position seconde is adopted from F, orig the f of the adj second. L secundus becomes OF segonz, MF-F second, adopted by E; the E n second derives from MF-F seconde, from L secunda minūta, second minute, a minute being prima minūta (minūta being for pars minūta), first minute (part or division of time); the v second derives from late MF-F seconder (whence the pron of the military sense), from L secundāre, to aid, from secundus, which, moreover, bears the extn secundārius, of the second rank, whence E secondary—cf the MF-F secondeaire.

secrecy, secret (adj, n); secrete, secretin, secretion (whence, anl, secretive), secretory; secretary (secretary bird), whence secretarial—cf secretariat; secern, discernment.

1. Secrecy is for secret, adj+suffix -cy; secret, n, is adopted from OF-F secret, from L secretum, a hidden place, prop the neu of the pp-pa secretus, separated, whence the OF-F, whence E, adj secret.

2. L secretus is the pp of sēcernere, to separate: sē-, apart+cernere, to pass through a sieve, hence to decide: cf CRISIS. Sēcernere yields 'to secern', whence the n discernment (cf discernment).

3. L secretus leads to the E v secrete, to conceal, (in Bio) to separate; derivative secretiō, o/s secretiōn-, becomes late MF-F secrétion, whence E secretion. The F secréttoire (from secrétion) becomes E secretory. Chem secretin=secrete+-in.

4. L secretum, a secret place, means in LL the office of state officials, a secretariat, whence the adj secretārius, attested by the LL n 'secretary', esp in secretārii sacri consistorii, secretaries in the emperor's court (Souter): whence OF-F secrétaire, orig a confidant (depository of secrēta or secrets), whence E secretary. A secretary bird has a crest resembling 'a bunch of pens stuck behind the ear' (Webster). Derivative EF-F secrétariat becomes E secretariat, var -iate.

secretary, secretariat. See prec, final para.

secrete, secretin, secretion, secretory. See SECRECY, para 3.

sect (1), a cion. See the 2nd SAW, para 7.

sect (2), a religious creed or its believers; sectarian (whence sectarianism), sectary; sept, division of a tribe, a social group.

1. Sect derives from MF-F secte, L secta, a party, a Phil school, LL the Church, from sequi, to follow, pp secutus: f.a.e., SEQUENCE. L secta has the derivative ML n secidrius, whence sectary—perh influenced by EF-F sectaire (from secte); sectary has derivative adj, hence n, sectarian.

2. E sect acquires the irreg var sept, app influenced by L saepium, an enclosure, LL a sanctuary.

sectile; section, sectional; sector. See the 2nd SAW, para 8.

secular, secularism, secularity, secularize. See SEED, para 3.

secundine; Secundus. See SECOND, para 1.

secure, security. See CURE, para 6.

sedan, for sedan chair, brought in C17 from Spain to England, owes the idea to the Sp sillon (from L sella, a chair, cf SADDLE) but clearly not its name. EW has suggested that the E monopolist controlling their use in England coined sedan from L sedere, to sit; I'd say that he got it from L sedem, acc of sedēs, a seat, from sedere; f.a.e., SIT.

sedate, sedation, sedative. See SIT, para 4.

sedent. See SIT, para 5.

sedentary. See SIT, para 5.

sedge. See the 2nd SAW, para 4.

sedilia. See SIT, para 3.

sediment, sedimentary. See SIT, para 3.

sedition (whence seditious, adj hence n), seditious. Sedition comes from MF sedition (F sé-), from L seditiōnem, acc of seditiō, as if from sēdire*, to go aside, hence to rebel: sed- (sē-), apart + ire, to go: cf ISSUE. L seditiō generates seditiōsus, whence MF seditieux (F sé-), f seditieuse, whence E seditious.

seduce (whence seducer), seduction, seductive. See DUKE, para 6 (at seducere).

sedulous: L sēdulus, zealous, lit guileless: sē-, apart, connoting 'without' + dolus, guile, trickery, a ruse: cf DOLE, guile.

see (1), n. See SIT, para 3.

see (2), v, pp saw (OE saeh, seah, ME sagh, sah), pt seen (OE gesewen, ME sewen, later sen or sene), whence unseen; foresee, -saw, -seen, whence unforeseen; far-seeing (far + presp seeing); seer, from 'to see';—sight (n, hence v), whence far-sighted and foresight—auf wiedersehen.—Cf the sep SAY.

1. 'To see' derives, via ME seen, earlier seon, from OE sēon: cf OFris siā, OS sehan, OHG sehan, MHG-G sehen, Go saihan, MD sien, D zien, ON siā (cf Da, Nor, Sw se): Gmc r, sekw-; IE r, sekw- (Walshe): cf Hit sakwa, the eyes, and perh Hit sak- (or sakk-), var sekk-, to know (if one sees, one knows).

2. OE sēon has cpd foresēon, to see beforehand, whence foresee.

3. Intimately cognate to OE sēon, esp to the pp gesewen, is OE gesiht, varr gesihth and gesiehit: cf MHG siht, G Sicht, sight, and OHG gisit, MHG gesiht, G Gesicht, power of sight; cf also MD gesichte, gesicht, D gezicht.

seed (n, v), whence seedling and seedy; secular (adj and n), whence—perh influenced by F—secularism, secularist, secularize, whence secularization.

1. 'To seed' derives from OE sāedian, itself from OE sāed, whence ME sed or seed, E seed: and OE sāed is akin to OFris sēd, OS sād, OHG-MHG sāt G Saat, MD saet, sait, zaet, D zaad, ON sāth, saeth, and to the sep sow, v.

2. The Go mana-sēths, seed of men, i.e. mankind, hence the world, brings us to L saeculum, OL saeculum, generation (cf Gr phulon), as in saecula hominum, whence the period of a generation, hence a vaguely longer period, esp a century, finally, in LL, mankind, the world (of human beings): o.o.o., but prob akin to L satus, pp of serere, to sow.

3. The derivative L adj saeculāris takes, in LL, the sense 'worldly, profane', whence OF seculer (MF seculier, F séculier), whence E secular. Already in LL is saeculāris used as n, whence, ult, the E n; and the ML derivative saeculāritās yields secularity.

seek, pt and pp sought (OE sohte, pp gesoht), whence seeker and pa, vn seeking; dial var sick;—beseech (pt, pp besoUGHT, var beseched), whence the pa beseeching;—cf the sep SAKE, where see FORSAKE;—ransack and ramshackle.—Latin: presage (n, v), whence presageful and presagement; sagacity.—Greek: hegemony, hegumen; eisegesis, adj eisegetical, and exegesis, exegete, exegetic (with E extn exegetical).

Germanic

1. 'To seek', ME secen, sechen, OE sēcan, is akin to OS sōkian, OHG suohhan, suohhēn, MHG suochen, G suchen, Go sōkjan, ON soekja: Gmc r, sōk-*.

2. ME sechen, seken has cpd bisechen, -seken, with bi- for be-, vaguely int; whence 'to beseech': cf G besuchen, to visit.

3. Akin to ON soekja, to seek, is ON rannsaka, to search a rann, or house, for stolen goods, whence ME ransaken, E 'to ransack', which has freq ransackle, pp ransackled, whence ranshackled, whence the eased ramshackled, whence the still further eased ramshackle, adj.

4. Cf the sep SAKE.

Latin

5. With OE sēcan, cf sagacious, sagacity: late MF-F sagace, EF-F sagacité: L sagācem, acc of sagāx (o/s sagāc-), and (derivative of sagāx) sagācītās: prob deriving from—certainly intimately cognate with—sāgīre, to perceive keenly with the senses or acutely with the mind, akin to sāga, sorceress: cf SEEK.

6. L sāgīre, to trace or track, hence to perceive keenly, has cpd praesāgīre, to perceive beforehand, predict, forbode, whence praesāgium, a prediction (augury) or a foreboding, whence EF-F présage, E presage; 'to presage' comes from EF-F présager (from présage).

Greek

7. Akin to L sāgīre and OE sēcan, although with h- for s-, is Gr hēgeisthai (r hēg-), to seek, whence hēgemōn, a guide (who seeks the way), or a leader (who seeks and enforces it), whence hēgemonia, leadership, hence, esp a state's, predominant influence, whence E hegemony, with adj hegemonic, perh imm from Gr hēgemonikos. Gr hēgeisthai has presp hēgoumenos, which, used as n, leads to LL-ML hēgūmenus, an abbot, whence E hegumen.

8. Gr hēgeisthai, to guide, to lead, has two prefix-cpds affecting E:

eisēgeisthai (eis, into), to introduce, whence eisēgēsis, an introduction (as of extraneous matter), whence E eisegesis, faulty interpretation, caused by introducing one's own ideas,—and one who does this is an eisegete, Gr eisēgētēs; exēgeisthai (ex, out of), connoting 'to guide or lead (someone) out of a complexity', denoting 'to explain or interpret' a text, has derivative exēgēsis, whence E exegetis, with adj exegetic, Gr exēgētikos and agent exegete, Gr exēgētēs.

Indo-European

9. With the Gmc, L, Gr words cited above, cf OIr sāigim (s sāig-), I seek, and perh the suggestive Cor hombronk, to lead or conduct. The IE r is app sāg-, var sēg-, to have a keen sense of smell for, to seek: perh cf Hit sagāts, an omen.

seem; seemly. See SAME, para 18.

seen. See the 2nd SEE.

seep, seepage. See SUP, para 5.

seer. See SEE (heading).

seersucker, a light linen—occ cotton—fabric, comes from Hind śīrsakar, itself from the shīr u shakar, milk and sugar (Per shakar: cf SUGAR), hence a striped garment.

seethe, whence pa seething; sodden, origin the pp of seethe; sod of earth, whence soddy; sud, suds, whence sudsy.

1. 'To seethe' or boil (vt, whence vi) derives, via ME sethen, from OE sēothan: cf OHG siodan, MHG-G sieden, MD sieden, D zieden, ON siōtha, cf also Go sauths, ON sauthr (later a sheep), a burnt offering: app Gmc only.

2. App akin to seethe is sod of earth, from MD-MLG sode (MD-D sode, zode).

3. Akin to MD sode, a sod, is MD sudde, a marsh, whence prob E sud, suds, a marsh, hence soap suds. The MD sudde has the revealing var sodde.

segment, segmentate. See the 2nd SAW, para 9.

segregate, segregation. See GREGAL, para 7.

seidel, a large, usu hinge-covered, glass for beer: G Seidel, a pint: MHG sidel: L situla, a bucket: o.o.o.

seigneur, seignior, seigniory, seignorial. See SENILE, paras 4 and 5.

seine, a large fishing net, comes from OE segne, influenced by MF-F seine: L sagēna: Gr sagēnē: o.o.o. The river Seine is of very different origin, for it derives, like It Senna, from L Sequana, prob not from sequi, to follow.

seisin. See SEIZE.

seismic; sistrum. The former derives from Gr seismos, earthquake, from seiein, to shake, whence also Gr seistron, L sistrum, a jingling instrument, adopted by E (cf the F sistre). Cf the element -seism.

seize, seizin (or seisin), seizure. 'To seize'—whence seizure—comes from ME seisen (saisen): OF-MF seisir, saisir (F id): ML sacīre, to take (legal) possession: Frankish sakjan*: cf OS saca, OHG sahha, a lawsuit. But, beyond OF, the origin is confused.—OF saisir has OF-F derivative saisine, whence E seizin.

sejunct, sejunction, sejunctive. See JOIN, para 14.

seldom: OE seldum, varr seldon, seldan: cf OFris selden, sielden, OHG seltan, MHG-G selten, Go sildaleiks, marvellous (lit 'seldom the like'), ON sialdan: o.o.o.

select (adj, v), selection, selective, selector. See LEGEND, para 15.

Selene (occ Selena), whence selenian; selenite; selenium, whence selenic (whence, anl, selenate); cf the element seleno-.

1. Selenium=Gr selēnē, the moon+Chem -ium. Selenite, an inhabitant of the moon, derives from Gr selēnitēs, n from adj, the adj occurring in selēnitēs (lithos), the moon stone, whence the Min E n; the Chem n selenite=selenium+Chem -ite.

2. The moon is, moreover, personified as Selēnē, Goddess of the Moon; selēnē (Doric selana) is an extn of Gr selas, light, brilliance: perh cf Skt svargās, heaven. (Hofmann.)

self (pl selves), whence selfish (whence selfishness) and selfless; selvedge (whence selvage)=self-edge.—Self comes straight down from OE self, varr seolf and sylf: cf OFris and OS self, OHG selb, MHG selber (gen selbes), G selber, selbst, MD self, selve, zelve, D zeln, Go silba, ON sialfr—perh also OIr selb, Ga sealbh, W helw, OC selva*, possession.

sell, a saddle. See SIT, para 3.

sell, v. See SALE.

sellate. See SIT, para 3. selvage, selvedge. See SELF (heading).

semantic, adj, and semantics, n. The former derives from the Gr adj sēmantikos, bearing a meaning, from sēmainein, to mean; the derivative Gr n 'he sēmantikē', science of meanings, whence F 'la sémantique', anglicized as semantics: cf the element sema-, 2nd para.

semasiology. See the element sema-, 2nd para.

semblable, semblance, semblant. See SAFE, para 10.

semen. See the 2nd sow, para 2.

semester. See the element -mester.

semi-, half, a half, is L sēmi-, the 'answer' to Gr hēmi-: cf Skt sāmi- and OHG sāmi-, OE sam-: prob orig 'one-sided', it is akin to the sim- of L simplex (q.v. at PLY. para 18), 'one-folded'. (E & M.) seminal, seminar, seminary; seminate, semination. See the 2nd sow, para 2.

Seminole: Creek Simanóle, a runaway, a separatist. (DAE).

Semite (whence Semitism), Semitic (whence Semitics); anti-Semite, n, whence anti-Semitic and anti-Semitism.

The adj Semitic derives from Semite, whence anti-Semite, with Semite narrowed to 'Jew'; the anti- terms owe something to F antisémité and its derivative antisémitisme. A Semite—member of a Caucasian race that includes Jews and Arabs and, anciently, Aramaeans, Phoenicians, Assyrians, Babylonians, derives from modern L Semita, an-ita or descendant of LL Sem, Gr Sēm, H Shēm, lit 'name' or 'renown', E Shem, Noah's eldest son.

semivocal. See VOCABLE, para 9.

semolina; simnel. Semolina changes It semolino, dim of semola, bran, from L simila, the finest wheat flour: akin to Gr semídalis: both from Ass samidu (cf Syrian semidā, Georgian simindoj), fine meal; for IE, cf also Skt samitha-, meal, and Arm simindr, fine meal. (Hofmann.) Perh Medit.

2. L simila acquires, in OF-MF, the dim simenel, adopted by ME: whence, by contr, E simnel, a fine-flour bread or biscuit, with new sense in simnel cake.

sempervivium. See VIVA, para 6.

sempiternal. See AGE, para 4.

sempstress. See SEW, para 3.

senary. See SIX, para 5.

senate, senator, senatorial. See SENILE, para 3.

send, pt and pp sent; godsend; ult of the sep SENSE. 'To send' comes from OE sendan, akin to OFris senda, OS sendian, OHG sentēn, MHG-G senden, Go sandjan, MD senden, D zenden, ON senda, and to many OGmc words for 'a going, a journey, a way': 'to send' is a caus of *Gmc sinth-, to go, with a cognate in, e.g., L sentis, a path. (Walshe.)

2. Godsend=God's send, sending or message, send being from OE sand, from sendan.

sendal. See INDIA, para 3.

Seneca (1) of Rome. See SENILE, para 2.

Seneca (2), an Iroquoian tribe; senega. The 2nd stands for Seneca (root), connected, geog, with the Seneca tribe: D Sennecaas, the Seneca, the Oneida and two other Iroquoian tribes: Mohegan A'sin-nika, Oneida: trans of Iroquois Onēñiute' roñnon', Oneida, lit 'people of the standing boulder' (from a great stone in an Oneida village) or 'place of the stone'. Oneida itself is an 'Anglicized compressed form of the common Iroquois term tüonēñ' iote, "there it it-rock has set up (continuative)", i.e. a rock that something set up and is still standing (Hodge). (Webster; Mathews.)

Senecio. See SENILE, para 2.

senectitude. See SENILE, para 3.

senescence, senescent. See SENILE, para 3.

seneschal, steward of a large estate: OF-MF seneschal (F sénéchal): ML seniscalcus: OHG siniscalh, (lit) the oldest servant: cf Go sineigs, older, sinista, oldest + skalks, a servant. B & W, however, derive the OF word from Frankish siniskalk, oldest servant.

senile, whence senilism and senility (cf F sénilité); Seneca, Roman author; Senecio; senectitude; senescence, from senescent, senium;—senior, adj (whence seniority) and n—cf seigneur (and monseigneur), seigneurial and seignorial, seigneury—seignior (whence seignioralty), seigniorage, seignior—senhor, senhora—señor, señora, señorita—signor (and monsieur), signora, signorina—cf also sieur (and monsieur, pl messieurs), and sir, sire, sirrah, AlR sor and sorry—also surlly, whence surliness;—senate, senator, senatorial, senatus consultum;—cf the sep SENESCHAL.

Indo-European

1. The word that originates this group is L senex (r sen-; gen senis), old, used also as n 'old man' or 'one of the older men, an elder'. The IE r is sen-, the etymon senos, with var henos* in C and in Gr: cf Gr henos, Lith señas, Arm hin, Skt sánas, Av hano, and, in C, OIr sen, Ir and Ga sean, Mx shenn, Gaul seno- (PN only), and, with h for s, OW hen, W hen, Cor henn, hēn, hean, hane, Br hen, old, and cf also OIr seniu, Br hena, Go sineigs, older—the L senior; and, again, Go sinista, oldest.

Latin Derivatives from senex

2. In OL, senex app had an o/s senec-, attested by:

seneca, (?) old man, preserved in the PN Seneca; seneciō, old man, hence, from 'the white hairs' of its tuft, the plant groundsel, Bot Senecio; senectūs, old age, with ML extn senectitūdō, whence senectitude.

Latin Derivatives from r sen-

3. From r sen-, old, comes senēre, to be old, whence senēscere, to begin to grow old, presp senēscens, o/s senēscant-, whence E senescent; senium, (the effects of) old age, adopted by Med; senilis, exhibiting old age, whence late OF-F sénile, whence E senile; senātus (suffix -ātus, gen -ātūs), an assembly of old, or older, men, esp a legislative assembly, whence OF-MF senat (EF-F sénat), adopted by ME, whence senate; derivative senator becomes OF-MF senator, var senatour (EF-F sénateur), the latter adopted by ME, whence senator; the derivative L adj senātorius becomes EF-F sénatorial, whence E senatorial.

Latin Derivatives of senior, older

4. Senex, old, r sen-, has comp senior, older, hence an elder, complementary to the adj-n iunior, ML junior; both adj and n have been adopted by E. The L n senior, in LL an Elder of the Church, occ an abbot, takes in R the foll forms preserved by E:

It ignor (before a name: Mr), signore, gentleman, whence the f signora, married lady (Mrs), whence signorina, unmarried lady (Miss);

Port senhor, whence f senhora, whence (Miss) senhorita; Sp señor, whence f señora, whence señorita;

EF-F seigneur, a gentleman, a noble, influenced by L dominus, whose F derivatives it has largely displaced; as address, on levels below the titled, displaced, in C16, by MF-F monsieur, for mon sieur, my lord, with sieur a contr of seigneur; OF-F monseigneur, now only Eccl, has perh suggested the It monsignor.

5. EF-F seigneur derives from OF-MF seignor (L senior), whence E seignior. Derivative OF-MF seignorie and EF-F seigneurie yield resp E seignory and seigneury; derivative OF-MF seignorage becomes E seignorage; whereas E seignorial is adopted from MF, seignurial is adopted from EF-F.

6. OF-MF seignor, later seigneur, has OF-F var sire, from VL sior* for LL senior spoken rapidly in address; and OF-MF sire had acc sieur, preserved in monsieur.

7. OF-F sire becomes ME-E sir, used in ME-EE for 'gentleman, nobleman', then only in address with more gen social connotations. Sir, in address, acquires the pej var sirrah (long archaic); cf the AE sirree, an int of sir in address.

8. E sir, in address, becomes Aīr semi-literate sor, with dim sorry.

9. Sir, a lord, has ME-EE adj sirly, whence EE-E surlly, in EE 'arrogant' (cf 'a lordly air'), hence 'abrupt and rude', hence 'gruffly churlish'.

senhor, senhora, senhorita. See prec, para 4.

senior. See SENILE, para 3.

senium. See SENILE, para 3.

senna: ML senna, var of sena: Ar sana.

sennet. See SIGN, para 7.

señor, señora, señorita. See SENILE, para 4.

sensate, sensation, etc. See para 3 of:

sense (n, hence v), whence senseless and common-sense; nonsense, whence nonsensical; sensate and insensate, sensation, whence sensational, whence sensationalism; sensible, sensibility—cf insensible, insensibility; sensific, sensify; sensile; sension, whence perh sensism; sensitive (neg insensitive), whence sensitivity and, anl, sensitize; sensorium, whence sensorial and, anl, sensory; sensual (whence sensualism and sensualist and sensualize), sensuality; sensum, sensuous, whence sensuousness.—Derivatives from L sentire: sentence (n, v), sentential, sententiary, sententious; sentient, whence sentience—whence the neg insentience, insentient; sentiment, whence sentimental, whence sentimentalism, sentimentalist, sentimentality, sentimentalize;—sentinel (n, hence v) and sentry;—scent, v, hence n, whence scentsless.—Compound derivatives: assent (n, v), assentaneous, assentation (whence, anl, assentatious), (from 'to assent') assentive and assentor; consension, (consensual, from) consensus, consent (n, v), consentaneous (whence consentaneity), consentient (whence consentience), consentive; dissension, dissent (v, hence n—and agent dissenter), dissentient (whence dissentience), dissentious; presentient, presentiment; resent (v, hence obs n, whence resentful), resentment.

Indo-European

1. The E sens- words derive either from the L n sensus (gen -ūs), formed from the pp, or from sensūs, the pp of sentire, to feel, hence to be of an opinion, hence also to express a sentiment: the pp sensus perh stands for sentsus*; the r of sentire is sent-, app akin to OHG-MHG sin, G Sinn, sense, meaning, itself prob imm from OHG sinnan, to go, to journey, to think: cf the relationship of L sentire to L sentis, a path (by which one feels one's way): cf, therefore, SEND.

Latin Simples: i, in sens-

2. L sensus, gen sensūs, becomes OF-F sens, whence E sense; the cpd commonsense owes something to EF-F sens commun, from L communis sensus, a trans of Gr hē koinē aisthēsis (E & M), as nonsense prob does to MF-F non-sens, lack of good sense.

3. The L n sensus has the LL derivative sensātus, endowed with intelligence, sensible, whence E sensate. On sensātus, LL builds sensātiō, (an) understanding, an idea, ML consciousness of external stimuli or of bodily feeling, o/s sensātiōn-, whence MF-F sensation, adopted by E. The LL neg insensātus, lacking intelligence, lacking feeling (inanimate), yields insensate.

4. On sens-, s of the pp sensus, arise L sensilis, capable of feeling, E sensile, and L sensibilis, perceptive, intelligent, whence MF-F sensible, adopted by E; derivative LL sensibilitās, feeling, perception, becomes MF-F sensibilité, whence E sensibility. The LL neg insensibilis and insensibilitās become, prob via MF-F, the E insensible and insensibility. The LL sensificus, producing sensibility, and sensificāre, to endow with sensibility, and sensificātor, creator of sensibility, account for sensific, sensify, (anl) sensificatory.

5. The pp-derivative seniō, o/s seniōn-, occurring in L only in cpds, has suggested the SciL seniō, whence E sension, experience of feeling.

6. The ML extn sensitivus becomes MF-F sensitif, f sensitive, adopted by E; the plant called sensitive, whose leaves fold up when touched, is adopted from late EF-F.

7. LL senōrium (Boethius, trans of Aristotle), the brain as the receiving-point of the senses, is adopted by F and E as a Physio and Psy term.

8. LL sensuālis, belonging to or appreciated by the senses, and its derivative sensuālītās, o/s sensuālītāt-, becomes MF-F sensuel and OF-F sensualité, with 'pleasures of the senses' predominant from C16, whence E sensual and sensuality; with sensualism, cf the F sensualisme. As a favourable complementary to the increasingly pej sensual, sensuality, E has coined sensuous (L sensus, a feeling + E suffix -ous).

9. And as n from the L pp sensus, Phil has coined sensum, lit a thing felt.

Latin Simples: ii, in sent-

10. L sentire, to feel, hence to discern by the senses, has the extant presp sentiens, o/s sentient-, whence E sentient, and app the lost presp sentens*, o/s sentent-, whence sententia, an impression (of the mind), an opinion, hence a statement, esp a legal verdict or a gram sentence: whence OF-F sentence (orig legal), adopted by E; derivative MF-F sentencier yields 'to sentence' (to prison). The derivative LL adj sententiālis, in the form of a sentence, esp gnomic, becomes E sentential; derivative L sententiōsus becomes MF-F sentencieux, f -ieuse, and E sententious.

11. From sentire, ML derives sentimentum, whence OF sementent, MF-F sentiment, adopted by E.

12. L sentire, to perceive by the senses, becomes VL sentināre, to avoid danger, whence It sentinella, EF-F sentinelle, EE-E sentinel, whence the EE var centrinel (or -onel), whence, by b/f, sentry.

13. L sentire, to feel, to smell, becomes OF-F sentir, whence, as 'to smell', the ME sent, E scent, v.

Prefix-Compound derivatives in sens- and in sent-

14. L adsentire, eased to assentire, to join one's sentiment or opinion to (ad) another's, has the int assentiāri, to share the opinion of, to approve, whence OF-MF assenter, whence 'to assent'; assent, n, is adopted from MF (from assenter). Derivative LL assentiāneus and L assentiātiō, o/s assentiātiōn-, yield assentaneous and assentation.

15. L consentire (con-, with), to be of the same opinion, becomes OF-F consentir, whence 'to consent'; the n consent derives from MF consente; consentment, from OF-F consentement. On the L pp consensus are formed consensio, o/s consensioñ-, and the n consensus (gen -ūs), whence E consension and consensus; the presp consentiens, o/s consentient-, yields consentient. LL consentiāneus and consentiūsus, ML -ivus, yield consentaneous (whence consentaneity) and consentive.

16. L dissentire, to be of a different feeling or opinion, becomes the late MF-F (archaic) dissentir, whence 'to dissent'; presp dissentiens, o/s dissentient-, becomes dissentient. From the pp dissensus, L dissensio, disagreement, LL schism, acc dissensionem, becomes OF-F dissension, adopted by E, with derivative adj dissentious.

17. L praesentire, to perceive or feel in advance, has presp praesentiens, o/s praesentient-, whence E presentient; praesentire becomes EF-F presentir, whence EF-F presentment, whence, reshaped after L, the E presentiments.

18. OF-F sentir (L sentire) has the MF-F cpd ressentir (for resentir*), to feel back (re-) at, whence 'to resent'; the MF derivative ressentement (EF-F ressentiment) becomes E resentment.

sensibility, sensible. See prec, para 4.

sensific, sensify, sensile. See SENSE, para 4.

senion. See SENSE, para 5. sensitive. See SENSE, para 6.

sensorium. See SENSE, para 7.

sensual, sensuality; sensuous. See SENSE, para 8; for derivatives, the heading.

sensum. See SENSE, para 9.

sentence (n, v), sentential, sententious. See SENSE, para 10.

sentiment. See SENSE, para 11.

sentinel; sentry. See SENSE, para 12.

separable, separate, separation, separator. See PARE, para 8.

sepia, a cuttlefish, hence the pigment secreted thereby: LL, from Gr sepia, app from sepein, to befoul (here, to befoul the sea-water), akin to sapros, filthy.

sepone, sepose. See POSE, para 20.

sepoi: Port sipaio (ci-): Hi, from Per, sipāhi, (adj) of the sipāh or army. Cf spahi, a contr of Tu, from Per, sipāhi, (man) of the army.

sepsis. See the element -sepsis.

sept (1), division of a tribe. See SECT, para 2.

sept (2); septate. See SEPTUM.

septan; septave. See SEVEN, para 6.

September, adopted from L, was the seventh (L septem, 7) month of the ancient Roman year; for the suffix -ber, cf October, November, December; for septem, see, f.a.e., SEVEN.

septenary; septennate, septennial. See SEVEN, para 5; para 4.

septic. See the element -sepsis.

septimal, septimanal, Septimus. See SEVEN, para 5.

septuagenarian and septuagenary derive from L septuagēnārius, adj of septuagēni, 70 apiece, from septuaginta, 70, whence 'the Septuagint' or those 70 scholars who translated the Old Testament into Greek, hence this Gr text. Cf SEVEN.

septum, an enclosure, whence the anglicized sept and, anl, septate, whence septation; transept.

Septum, adopted from L, is a var of saepum, orig the neu of saepus, pp of saepire, to enclose with a hedge, from saepes, a hedge, hence an enclosure, perh akin to Gr haimos, a thornbush, brushwood, and haimasia, a hedge thereof. The ML transseptum, whence E transept, is a contr of L transuersum septum, lit a transverse enclosure.

septuple. See SEVEN, para 5, s.f.

sepulcher (AE), sepulchre, sepulchral; sepulture.

L sepulcrum, inferior var sepulchrum, a burial place, becomes OF-MF sepulcre (F sé-), var sepulchre, adopted by ME; derivative sepulcrālis, inferior sepulchrālis, becomes late MF-F sépulcral and E sepulchral. L sepulcrum derives from sepelire, to bury, pp sepultus, whence sepultūra, whence MF sepulture (F sé-). Sepelire, s and r sepel-, is perh akin to Ve saparyāte (r for l), he honours: a proper burial is an honouring of the dead (E & M); improb from L sē-, apart+VL pela*, for pala, a shovel ('to shovel away').

sequacious. See SEQUENCE, para 2.

sequel. See para 2 of:

sequence (whence sequential), sequent; sequacious, sequacity; sequel; sequitur and non sequitur; sue (whence suer), suit (n, hence v, whence suitable), and suite and suitor.—Cpds, i, of sue: ensue; (pursuance, from) pursuant, pursue (whence pursuer), pursuit, poursuivant.—Cpds, ii, direct from L sequi: consecution, consecutive, consequence (whence consequential), consequent, and the negg inconsequence (whence inconsequential), in-consequent; executant, execute, execution (whence executioner), executive (adj, hence n), executor, executorial, executory, executrix, exequial, exequy; obsequence, obsequent, obsequious, obsequy (whence obsequial); persecute, persecution (whence, anl, persecutive and persecutory), persecutor; prosecute, prosecution, prosecutor; subsecute (whence, anl, subsecutive), subsequence, subsequent.—Cf the sep EXTRINSIC and SECOND, SEQUESTER, SOCIAL.

Indo-European

1. The entire group derives, whether directly or via F, from L sequi, to follow, presp sequens, pp secūtus: and sequi is akin to Skt sācatē, he follows, Ve sāce, I follow, Lith sėkti, to follow, Ml̥r sechim, sechur, I follow, Cor sewé, sewyé, sywé, to follow, C etymon sekwo*, I follow, and, with h for s, and p for q, Gr hepomai, I follow: IE r, seku-, sekw-, to follow.

Latin Simples

2. L sequ- has two notable L derivatives: sequāx (o/s sequāc-), tending to follow, whence E sequacious, with LL derivative sequācītās, o/s sequācītāt-, yielding sequacity; sequēla, that which follows, consequence, LL a retinue, is adopted by learned E and, by MF-F, changed to séquelle, whence E sequel.

3. The presp sequens, o/s sequent-, becomes the E adj sequent; derivative LL sequentia becomes MF sequence, EF-F séquence, E sequence. The pp secūtus becomes E secute, occurring only in cpds. L sequitur, (he, she,) it follows, esp in neg non sequitur, it does not follow, have become E nn: 'logical inference' and 'illogical inference'.

French Simples

4. L sequi, to follow, has the VL var sequere*, whence OF sivre, MF-F sivre, esp OF 'il siut', he follows, soon 'il suit': whence ME suen (suven, siuen, etc.): E 'to sue'.

5. The VL sequere* has pp sequitus, whence, for sequita pars*, the VL n sequita*, whence OF siute, whence MF-F suite, whence ME suite, whence, with differentiated senses, E suit and suite, whence suitor (? via AF).

French Compounds

6. 'To ensue' derives from OF-MF enseu, pp of OF-EF ensevre, ensivre: either en, L in+sivre, sevre, or from VL insequere*, cpd of VL sequere*.—Hence, anl, ensuant: cf pursuant.

7. 'To pursue', ME pursuen, derives from MF poursuir (EF-F poursuivre), from OF persuir, from VL prosequere*, var of L prōsequi (as in para 13). The E adj pursuant derives from MF poursuivant, presp of poursuir; the E n pursuivant, from EF-F poursuivant, orig the presp of poursuivre. MF poursuir has MF-F derivative poursuite, whence ME pourseut, E pursuit.

Latin Compounds

8. L consequi, to put oneself in the following of (connoted by con-, together) or in pursuit of, hence to attain to, to obtain, has pp consecūtus, whence both L consecūtio, o/s consecūtioñ-, whence E consecution, a chain of argument or, in Gram, a series, and, anl, late MF-F consecutif (f -ive), whence perh E consecutive (more prob, anl from the E n). The presp consequens, o/s consequent-, whence E consequent—perh via MF-F consequēt. Derivative L consequentia yields E consequence—perh via MF consequence (late MF-F consé-). The L negg adj inconsequens, o/s inconsequent-, and its derivative inconsequentia yield E inconsequence, inconsequence—cf EF-F inconsequent, inconsequence.

9. L exsequi, to follow ex or out, i.e. to the end, to follow continuously or vigorously, or to the grave, has pp exsecūtus, often eased to execūtus, whence—perh via the ML exsecūtāre—the MF-F exécuter, whence 'to execute'; derivative F exécutant becomes E executant. The LL derivatives exsecūtio, execūtio (o/s execūtioñ-), judicial prosecution or sentence, and exsecūtor, execūtor, attorney, executioner, with f exsecūtrix, execūtrix, one who carries out a task, and exsecūtōrius, execūtōrius, (adj) carrying out a task, yield resp execution, executor (app via AF executour), executrix, executory, all with some assistance from the corresp OF-MF words. The MF-F exécitif, f -ive, prob influenced E executive, prob anl from E execution.

10. L exsequi, to follow (a corpse) to the grave, has derivative exsequiae, exequiae, a funeral cortege, whence, perh via EF exeques, the E exequies—cf obsequies. Derivative L exsequiālis, exequiālis, yields E exequial.

11. L obsequi (ob-, towards), to comply with, has presp obsequens, o/s obsequent-, whence the E adj obsequent; derivative L obsequentia becomes obsequence. By confusion with exsequiae, LL obsequium, military service, court of officials, acquires, in ML, the derivative obsequiae, funeral service, whence, perh via EF-F obseq̄es, the E obsequies, whence E obsequial, with form perh patterned by LL obsequiālis, complaisant, a mdfn of L obsequiōsus, compliant, whence—perh via late MF-F obsequieux, f -ieuse—E obsequious.

12. L persequi, to follow per or thoroughly, hence persistently, hence to pursue (e.g., in law), hence, in LL, to persecute (Christians), has pp persecūtus, whence 'to persecute' (cf MF-F persecūter); derivative L persecūtio (o/s -cūtioñ-), in LL persecution of Christians, becomes OF-MF persecution (late MF-F persé-), adopted by E; derivative LL persecūtor, declared enemy, esp of Christians, becomes OF-MF persecuteur (late MF-F persé-), whence, via AF persecutour, the E persecutor.

13. L prōsequi, to follow pro or forward, to pursue, has pp prosecūtus, whence 'to prosecute'; derivatives L prosecūtio, o/s prosecūtōn-, and LL prosecūtor, an official escort, ML in legal sense, become E prosecution and prosecutor.

14. L subsequi, to follow under (sub), hence to succeed to, has presp subsequens, o/s subsequent-, whence the adj subsequent (cf MF-F subsequent); derivative LL subsequentia becomes E subsequence; and the pp subsecūtus and its derivative subsecūtio (o/s -secūtōn-) yield the rare 'to subsecute' and subsecution, whence, anl, subsecutive (cf the C16 F subsecutif).

sequester (n, v), sequesterate, sequestration, sequesterator. Akin to L sequi, to follow, is L sequester, a legal depository, orig an adj, from L secus, otherwise, IE r seku-, sekw-, to follow. Derivative sequestrum or sequestre, object deposited, yields the Med n sequestrum and the legal n sequester. L sequester has LL derivative sequestrāre, to deposit, hence to abstract, whence MF-F séquestre, whence 'to sequester', to remove for a time; the pp sequestrātus yields 'to sequestrate', to confiscate; derivative LL sequestrātiō (o/s -atiōn-) becomes late MF-F séquestration and, perh independently, E sequestration; LL sequestrātor has been adopted.

sequin: EF-F sequin (cf C16 chequin): MF essequin: It zecchino, orig a Venetian gold coin, from It zecca, a mint: Ar dār as-sikka, a mint, cpd of Ar sikka, a coin. (Prati.) sequitur. See SEQUENCE, para 3.

sequoia: SciL Sequoia, the giant pine: Sequoia, anglicized form of Cherokee Sikwáyí, that half-breed Cherokee (†1843) who invented the Cherokee syllabary.

seraglio. See the 2nd SEAR, para 3.

seraph—true pl, seraphim—is a b/ from LL seraphim (var seraphin, whence F seraphin), trln of H šerāphim, pl, from H šaraph, to burn: 'the radiant ones'. Seraphic owes something to the late MF-F seraphique.

Serb, Serbia (whence Serbian, adj hence n), with outmoded varr Serv, Servia, Servian; c/f Serbo; Sorb, whence Sorbian, adj hence n.

1. Serbia derives from Serbo-Croat Srbija, itself from Serb Srb, a Serb, ? ult akin to LGr serbos, a slave: cf SLAV.

2. Sorb, a Wend, derives from G Sorbe, itself of Sl origin and akin to Serb.

serē. See the 1st SEAR.

serenade, serenata. See SERENE, para 2.

serendipity, the gift of felicitous, fortuitous discovery: Horace Walpole's coinage, ref his tale The Three Princes of Serendip: Serendip is a var of Serendib: Ar Sarandib, Ceylon: cf Skt Sīmhala, Ceylon + Skt dvīpa, an island: cf CEYLON.

serene, serenity; serenade (n, hence v), serenata; —soirée.—elixir.

1. Serenity comes from OF-MF serenité (F sérénité), from L serēnitātem, acc of serēnitās, a derivative of serēnus, (of the sky, the weather) clear and peaceful, hence fig: prob an extn of L serus, late, esp of the evening, whence the adv serō, late (cf the LL sēra, the evening), whence OF-F soir, with extn soirée, the duration of the evening, hence also an evening's entertainment, adopted by E; perh akin to Gr xēros, dry, therefore to Skt ksārās, burning. IE r, ksēr-*, dry.

2. L serēnus becomes It sereno, whence It serenata, adopted by E; It serenata becomes EF-F sérénade, whence E serenade.

3. Gr xēros, dry, has derivative xerion, a powder (Med), whence Ar al-iksīr, whence ML elixir, adopted by E; the E form, however, may have come from MF elixir (F é-), earlier eslissir (from the Ar).

serf. See SERVE, para 5.

serge, sergedesoy; Seric, seric; silk (n, hence adj and v), whence silky—silken—silkworm.

1. Serge, reshaped after EF-F serge, derives from ME sarge, adopted from OF-EF: VL sarica*: L sērica, prop the f of adj sēricus, silken: Gr sērikos, adj of sēr, a silkworm; b/f from Sēres, the Chinese: Ch se, silk. The adj Seric=L Sēricus, Gr Sērikos; the adj seric=L sēricus.

2. The F serge de soie, lit 'serge of silk', becomes E sergedesoy.

3. L sērica uestis, silk garment, generates LL sēricum, silk, prob suggested by Gr sērikon, prop the neu of sērikos: silk reaching N Europe via Sl countries, Gr sērikon or LL sēricum passes through, e.g., Ru shelk and Lith silka to become ON silki and OE seolc (or seoloc), ME selk, later silk, E silk; the l for r is perh caused by the well-known Ch difficulty with r. (See esp P¹.)

4. OE seoloc, seolc have adj seolocen, seolcen, whence silken; OE seolc occurs in the cpd seolc-wyrm, whence silkworm (cf WORM).

sergeant, legal var serjeant; sergeanty, serjeanty. The latter pair, denoting a rather menial feudal tenure, derives from EF-MF sergentie, serjantie, themselves from OF-F sergent, OF-MF serjant: ML servientem, acc of serviens, LL seruiens, a public servant, prop the presp of seruire, ML servire: f.a.e., SERVE.

sergedesoy. See SERGE, para 2.

serial, serialize. See SERIES (heading).

Seric, seric. See SERGE, para 1, s.f. For seri-cpds, see the element seri-.

series, with s seri-, whence both serial, adj, whence n, whence serialize, whence serialization, and the Sci adj seriate, whence, anl, seriation; Sertularia, sertulum, sertum; sort (n and v, whence sorter and sorting), sortiment, sortition—sorcerer (whence, anl, sorceress), sorcery. Compounds: i, of sort: sortilege;—assort, assortment; consort (n, hence v), consortion, consortium; sep resort; ii, of series: assert, assertion (whence, anl, assertive), assertor; consertal; desert, wasteland, whence adj and v (to abandon: whence, in part, deserter), desertion; disert—dissert—dissertate, dissertation, dissertator; exert, whence, anl, exertion, whence, anl, exertive—cf exsert, whence, anl, exsertion; insert (v, hence n), insertion, insertive; intersert, intersertal, intersertion; subsert; transsert.—Perh of the sep SERMON.

Indo-European

1. L serere, to attach one after another, tie together, to arrange, has s and r ser-: and that r is id with the IE r ser-*, to tie together, to join: cf Gr eirein (? for heirein*), to fasten together, herma, an ear-pendant, hormos, a necklace, hormathos, a rank, row, file, Skt sarat- and OLith séris, a thread, ON sörvi, necklace of threaded pearls, perh Go sarwa, armour, OIr sernaid, he ties, OIr sreth, Ga sreath, a rank or row, OIr sáir, sáer, Ga saor, W saer, a joiner (carpenter).

L serere: Simple

2. For E, the most important derivation of L serere is L seriēs, a file, row, linking, uninterrupted succession: adopted by E—cf F série. The pp sertus has neu sertum, whence SciL sertum with its SciL dim sertulum; cf the Bot Sertularia, as if from sertulārius*, adj of L serta, garlands, orig the neu pl of the pp.

L sors: Simple

3. Akin to L serere is L sors (s and r sor-), a tablet used in casting lots, hence a decision by lot, a share fixed by lot, hence fate, hence, in LL, manner or way, a rank or condition, in short a kind or sort: whence OF-F sort, lot, fate, share, MF-F sorte, condition, kind, whence E sort. 'To sort' derives partly from the n sort, partly as aphesis of assort, partly from late MF-F assortir (cf para 6). L sors has v sortiri, to cast lots, draw by lot, pp sortitus, whence sortitiō, o/s sortitiōn-, E sortition; sortiri becomes both the It sortire, whence sortimento, an assorting, whence G sortimentieren, to sift tea, whence 'to sortiment', and the OF-F sortir, whence, finally, the military sortie and whence, early, ressortir—see the sep resort.

4. OF-F sort, lot, fate, has pl sorts, whence Gallic ML sorcerius, OF-F sorcier, whence E sorcerer, perh influenced by ME sorcerie (whence E sorcery), adopted from MF sorcerie (F sorcellerie, for sorcererie*), itself from OF-F sorcier; E sorcery has derivative adj sorcerous, now rare.

L sors: Compound

5. L sors has, relevant to E, the full cpd sortilegus, lit 'fate-reading' (for legus, cf LEGEND), hence, as n, 'fate-reader', i.e. a soothsayer; whence—rather than from the derivative ML sortilegium, a casting of lots—comes late MF-F sortilège, divination, hence witchery, whence E sortilege.

6. L sors has two prefix-cpds affecting E, the one arising in F, the other in L:

from MF-F sorte comes late MF-F assortir, to arrange, dispose, sort into classes or groups or shares, whence 'to assort'; derivative EF-F assortiment has suggested E assortment ('to assort' + -ment);

L consors (con-, with), o/s consort-, sharing—hence, a sharer of—a lot, a decision by lot, a fate, hence a partner, a colleague, a companion, whence

MF-F consort; derivative L consortium, partnership, association, company, a company, not only is adopted by E but also, via MF consorte, a company, it becomes syn E consort (obs), whence 'to consort' or keep company; and anl derivative consortiō (o/s consortiōn-), an association, yields E consortion; from F: resort, q.v. sep.

L serere: Compounds

7. L adserere, to attach ad, to, oneself, usu asserere, hence to vindicate or defend, hence to assert, has pp assertus, whence 'to assert'; LL derivatives assertiō, o/s assertiōn-, and assertor, become, the former perh via MF-F, the E assertion and assertor.

8. L conserere, to join together, has pp consertus, with neu consertum used as n: whence the E adj consertal.

9. L dēserere, to detach oneself dē- or from, hence to let go, to relinquish, to abandon, has pp dēsertus, whence OF-F desert (F désert), forsaken, adopted by E, now mostly as the adj derivative from the E n desert, a (dry) wasteland, which, adopted from OF-MF desert, EF-F désert, comes from LL dēsertum, var dēsertia (cf the L dēsertia, neu pl), orig the neu of the pp-used-as-adj dēsertus. 'To desert' comes from OF-MF deserter (F dé-), to abandon, itself either from the OF-MF adj desert or from LL dēsertare (from L dēsertus); E deserter = MF deserteur (EF-F dé-), prob from LL desertor, apostate (from dēsertus), rather than from OF-MF deserter.

10. L disserere, to treat fully (dīs- connoting distribution), to discuss, has pp dissertus, whence 'to dissert'; the freq dissertāre has pp dissertātus, whence 'to dissertate', and its LL derivatives dissertātiō, o/s dissertātiōn-, and dissertātor become E dissertation, dissertator.

11. App from the L pp dissertus comes the L adj disertus, eloquent, whence MF-F disert, adopted by E—now only literary and rare.

12. L exserere, to pull (from, ex, a place of attachment), pull from below, has pp exsertus, whence 'to exsert' or protrude; whence, anl, the Bot exsertile and exsertion.

13. L exsertus has the 'eased' var exertus, whence 'to exert', to thrust forth (obs), to put forth, e.g., one's strength, e.g. in pressure.

14. L inserere, to set in, within, to introduce (into), has pp insertus, whence 'to insert'; derivative LL insertiō, o/s insertiōn-, and L insertius, ML -ivus, yield E insertion and insertive.

15. L interserere, to tie between, hence to insert, has pp intersertus, whence 'to intersert' and, from both, interserial; derivative LL intersertiō, o/s intersertiōn-, yields intersertion.

16. LL subserere, to put (secretly) sub or under, to subjoin, has pp subsertus, whence the learned adj and v subsert; and L transsertus (from transserere*), grafted, yields the Sci adj and v transsert.

serif. See SCRIBE, para 3.

seriosity (rare), serious (whence seriousness); c/f serio-, as in serio-comic.

Seriosity derives, anl, from serious: and serious from MF-F sérieux, f sérieuse, LL sēriōsus, extn of L sērius, weighty in manner, grave: cf Lith svarūs, heavy, sveriū, I weigh—OHG swāri, MHG swaere, G schwer, OS swār, OFris swēr, OE swāer, heavy, Go swērs, (much)honoured, lit weighty, ON svār—and prob (h for s) Gr herma, ballast. (Walshe.)

serjeant. See SERGEANT.

sermon, sermonic, sermonize. See SWEAR, para 3. serous. See SERUM.

serpent, serpentine. See REPTILE, para 4. serpiginous, serpigo. See REPTILE, para 5.

serpolet. See REPTILE, para 6.

Serpula. See REPTILE, para 7.

serra. See SERRATE, para 1.

serradella; serran, serrana, serrano. See para 3 of:

serrate and serratus; whence, anl, serratic and—unless from LL serrātiō, a sawing—serration; serrature; serra and sierra (cf sierra nevada); serradella; serran, serrana, serrano, Serranidae; serrulate, whence, anl, serrulation.

1. This group rests firmly upon L serra, the cutting instrument known as a saw: o.o.o.: ? echoic. L serra has been adopted by Zoo.

2. L serra acquires, in ML, the sense 'mountain', from its saw-like ridges. This serra becomes Sp sierra, a mountain range—c the Sierra Nevada or snow-covered range.

3. L serra has derivative pcp-type adj serrātus, toothed, or jagged, like a saw, whence both E serrate and Med serratus, elliptical for s. musculus; on L serrātus is formed LL serrātūra, a sawing, whence E serrature, serration.

4. From L serra derives Port serradela, E serradella, a herb. The Cuban Sp serrano, a fish, prob owes its form to Sp serrano, of the mountains; cf the SciL serrana, another fish, and serran (yet another fish), an anglicized form of SciL Serranus, cf Sci Serranidae: all going back to L serra, a saw.

5. L serra has dim serrula, whence, anl, the E adj serrulate, delicately or finely serrate.

serried. See the 2nd SEAR, para 2.

serrulate. See SERRATE, para 5.

serry. See the 2nd SEAR, para 2.

Sertularia, sertulum, sertum. See SERIES, para 2.

serum, serous, serosity; cf the element sero-;—heresy (and heresiarch), heretic (adj, with E extn heretical, and n); diaeresis (AE die-), diaeretic (AE die-);—hormē (whence hormic), hormone (whence hormonal, -nic).

1. Serosity derives from EF-F sérosité, itself from EF-F séieux, f séieuse, whence E serous; séieux derives from F serum: L serum, whey, hence any thinned liquid, esp the watery portion of blood: cf Skt sārati, it flows, sarás (adj), flowing, sarīt, a watercourse: IE r, ser-*, to flow.

2. Akin to the Skt and the L is Gr oros (for horos*), whey, itself akin to Gr hormē, an impulse (prob cf Skt sāmas, a flowing), lit an outflowing of emotion: whence Psy hormē (dissyllabic). Intimately related to Gr hormē is Gr hormaein (s horma-, r horm-), to excite, with presp hormōn, whence the Physio n hormone.

3. Prob akin to Gr hormē is Gr hairein, to seize, to take, with derivative n haireisis, a taking, esp for oneself, hence a choosing, hence a sect, esp if aberrant, hence an unorthodox religious creed: LL haeresis, often heresis: OF eresie, OF-MF heresie (EF-F hérésie), adopted by ME: E heresy. The derivative Gr adj haireitikos becomes LL haereticus, adj hence n, often hereticus: MF hérétique (EF-F hérétique): ME heretike: E heretic.

4. Gr hairein, to seize, to take, has cpd diairein (dia, through), to divide, whence diairesis, LL diaeresis, adopted by E; the derivative Gr adj diairetikos yields diaeretic.

Serv, Servia, Servian. See SERB.

servage. See SERVE, para 5.

serval, an Afr wild cat: either Sp 'gato cerval' or Port 'lobo cerval', lynx: lit, stag-like wild cat or wolf: cerval deriving from ML ceruus, L ceruus, a stag, lit the horned animal: cf HORN.

servant. See para 4 of:

serve (whence server and servery); servant; service (n, hence adj and v), serviceable; servient (whence serviential); serviette; servile, servility; servitor, whence servitorial; servitude—cf serf (whence serfdom), serfage, servage; cf the sep SERGEANT.—Compounds: deserve (whence pa deserving)—cf desert, merit, now usu in pl, and dessert; disserve, disservice (whence disserviceable); subserve, subservient (whence subservience).

Indo-European

1. Behind all these words stand L seruus, ML servus, slave, adj hence n, and its derivative seruire, ML servire, to be a slave, (vt) to be a slave to, hence to serve. The L s and r seru- (ML serv-) answers to the IE r ser-, which, like uer- (wer-), is a var of the IE swer-*, to be in the service of, perh to guard; but the often alleged kinship between L seruus, (a) slave, and seruire, ML servire, to guard, to preserve, is far from being proved.

Simples

2. L seruus has adj serviūtis, ML servilis, slavish, whence MF-F and E servile; derivative EF-F servilité yields servility. L seruire has pp servitus, on which are formed:

servitium, ML servitium, slavery, the condition of being a servant, whence OF-early MF servise, MF-F service, both adopted by ME, the latter surviving; derivative MF servisable, serviçable, adopted by ME, becomes E serviceable;

LL servitor, ML servitor, becomes OF-MF servitor, ME servitour, E servitor;

L serviūtō, ML serviūtō, becomes MF-F servitude, adopted by E.

3. L seruire has presp seruiens, o/s seruient-, ML servient-, whence the E legal adj servient.

4. Seruire, ML servire, itself becomes OF-F servir, ME servien (cf late OE servian), serven, whence 'to serve'. From the OF-F presp servant, f servante, both used also as nn (perh after LL serviens, a public servant), orig one who serves, hence, C16 onwards, in modern sense, comes ME servant (var servaunt), retained by E. OF-F servir has MF-F derivative serviette, predominantly a towel; adopted by E, it acquires the sense 'table napkin' (a little towel).

5. L servus, ML servus, becomes OF-F serf, slave, hence, feudally, a bonded servant, adopted by E, as in the OF-F derivative servage, usu anglicized as serfage.

Compounds

6. L serviŕe has two cpds affecting E: dĕserviŕe, to serve well or zealously (dĕ- used int), and subserviŕe, to serve in a minor way or capacity. Dĕserviŕe, ML dĕserviŕe, becomes OF-EF dĕservir, to merit, whence 'to deserve'; via VL deservita*, things merited (prop the neu pl of the pp), used as f sing, comes OF-EF deserte, merit, whence E desert, merit, now mostly in pl.

7. F servir acquires the MF-F cpd desservir (des- for dĕ-, L dĕ, from), to remove, esp from the table, what has been served: whence EF-F dessert, the removal itself, hence that which comes onto the table after the main courses; adopted by E.

8. MF-F desservir gains—from the 'removal of main dishes' sense—the sense 'to render a bad service to'; derivative EF-F desservice has suggested the E disservice.

9. L subserviŕe, ML subserviŕe, to serve in a minor way, hence to assist unimportantly, to help promote, whence 'to subsere'; the presp subserviŕiens, o/s subserviŕient-, ML subserviŕient-, yields subservient.

service, serviceable. See SERVE, para 2. servient. See SERVE, para 3.

serviette. See SERVE, para 4, s.f. servile, servility. See SERVE, para 2. servitor; servitude. See SERVE, para 2.

sesame, sesamoid, Sesamum. The 2nd derives from Gr sĕsamoeidĕs, resembling sesame: sĕsamo-, c/f + -eidĕs, from eidōs, form. Sesame derives, prob via late MF-F sĕsame, from L sesama, sesamon (whence the Sci Sesamum): Gr sĕsamĕ, sĕsamon: of Sem origin, says Hofmann, who adduces Ass šamaššamu, Aram šumšĕmĕ, sesame: but perh Medit, for Eg has shemshem-t (merely indicating f gender), sesame seed.

sesquipedalian. See the element sesqui-.

sessile. See SIT, para 8.

session. See SIT, para 8.

sestet. See SIX, para 6.

sestina. See SIX, para 4.

set (n, v). See SIT, para 21.

seta, setaceous, setose. The 3rd derives from L saetōsus, sĕtōsus, bristly, the 2nd from the syn LL saetĕcius, sĕtĕcius, adjf of L saeta, sĕta, a bristle, shaggy hair (quadrupeds'); seta has been adopted by Bio and Bot. L sĕta, saeta, is o.o.o.

settee, setter, setting, settle (n, v), settlement. See SIT, para 22; for SETTEE, para 21, s.f.

seven, seventh; seventeen, seventeenth; seventy, seventieth;—septem, septave, septenary (adj hence n), septennate, septennial, septet (or septette), septimal, septimanal, Septimus, septuple (whence septuplet and septuplicate)—cf the sep SEPTEMBER, SEPTUAGENARIAN, SEPTUAGINT;—hebdomad, hebdomadal, hebdomadary—heptad, heptagon, heptameter (after hexameter).

Indo-European

1. This group contains three sub-groups: Gr (h- for s-), L, Gmc (f for p): IE r, sept-*, with Gr var hept-. Among the chief particularizations of the IE r we find OE seofon, E seven—Go, OS, OHG sibun, MHG siben, G sieben, MD seven, zeven, D zeven, ON siau; OSI sedmi, Lith septyni; OIr secht, Ga seachd, W saith, Cor seith, Br seih; Tokh A spät;—L septem; Gr hepta; Hit siptamiya, 7th; Skt saptá, Av hapta.

Greek

2. Gr hepta has derivative heptas, a set of 7, gen heptados: L heptas, gen heptadis, E heptad. Of the many Gr cpds affecting E, note heptagōnos, seven-cornered (gōnia, a corner, hence an angle), whence the Geom n heptagon.

3. Gr hepta has ordinal hebdomos, 7th, s and r hebd- (b for p, d for t): whence Gr hebdomas, a set of 7, gen hebdomados, L hebdomas, gen hebdomadis, o/s hebdomad-, E hebdomad; the derivative LL adj hebdomadarius, a monk performing a duty for a week, yields the E n hebdomadary, the E adj hept- coming from EF-F hebdomadaire.

Latin

4. L septem, 7, besides becoming F sept, appears in many E cpds, e.g. septennate (F septennat), a period of 7 years, and septennial (L septennium: cf ANNUAL), lasting 7, or occurring every 7, years.

5. L septem has the foll simple L derivatives relevant to E:

September—see the sep SEPTEMBER;

septĕni, 7 each, whence septĕnarius, whence septenary; septimus, 7th, whence both the PN Septimus and the adj septimal; septimānus (extn of septimus), concerning the number 7, whence LL septimāna, a week, whence both the E adj septimanal, weekly, and OF-F semaine, a week; septuaginta, 70—see the sep SEPTUAGENARIAN; LL septuplus, seven-fold (cf PLY), whence septuple.

6. L septem accounts also for SciL septānus, whence—after quartan—E septan, esp in septan fever, and for the Mus septave—after octave.

Germanic

7. E seven comes, through ME seven, earlier seoven, earliest seofon, from OE seofon; seventh, ME seventhe, from OE seofotha, siofunda, from seofon;—seventeen, ME seventene, from OE seofontiene, -tĕne, -tĕne (7+10: cf TEN), and seventeenth

ME sevententhe, from OE seofontēoþa; seventy, from OE seofontig (7 × 10), and seventieth, ME seventiithe, from OE seofontigotha.

sever. See PARE, para 9.

several, severalty. See PARE, para 10.

severance. See PARE, para 9.

severe, severity; asseverate, asseveration, asseverative—perseverance, perseverant, perseverate, perseveration, persevere.

1. Severity derives from OF-MF severité, EF-F sévrité, from ML sevērītātem, acc of sevērītās, L sevērītās, from L seuērus (ML sevērus), austere, grave, morally hard: prob (E & M) sē-, apart + uērus, true, by a sem development still obscure. L seuērus becomes OF severe, MF sevère (EF-F sévère), whence E severe.

2. L seuērus has cpd adseuērāre (ad- used int), usu asseuērāre, to affirm either vigorously or persistently, with pp asseuērātus, ML assevērātus, whence 'to asseverate'; derivatives L asseuērātīō, ML assevērātīō, o/s assevērātīōn-, and LL asseuēratiuus, ML assevēratiuus, yield asseveration and asseverative.

3. The L cpd perseuērāre, to continue firmly to (do something), whence OF-MF perseverer (EF-F persévérer), É persevere, has presp perseuērans, o/s perseuērānt-, ML acc perseverantem, OF-MF perseverant (EF-F persévérant), E perseverant; derivative LL perseuērāntia, long duration, becomes OF-MF perseverance (EF-F persévérance), adopted by E. The pp perseuērātus has suggested the Psy v perseverate; its LL derivative perseuērātīō, continuance, persistence, o/s perseuērātīōn-, ML persev-, yields perseveration.

sew, pt sewed, pp sewn, presp and vn sewing; seam, n (whence seamy), hence v—seamstress and sempstress; sutra, suture; accouter (AE), accoutre, accoutrement (AE -ter).

1. 'To sew', ME sewen (var sowen), comes from OE siwan, var sōwian, akin to OFris sīa, OHG siuwan, Go siujan, ON sjya: cf also Lith siūti, OSl siti, L suere, to sew, Skt sṛiyati, he sews, syūtás, sewn: IE r, syū-, var sū-, to sew.

2. Akin to OE siwan is OE sēam, akin to OFris sām, OHG-MHG soum, G Saum, ON saumr—and Skt syūman.

3. OE sēam has derivative sēamestre, whence ME seamster, whence E seamstress, var sempstress; sēamestre and seamster are f; -ess has been added in order to render the sex unmistakable.

4. L suere, to sew, has pp sūrus, whence L sūtor, lit a sewer, hence a shoemaker, and sūtūra, a sewing, esp in surgery, whence EF-F suture, adopted by E.

5. Akin to Skt syūtás, sewn, is Skt sūtra, a thread, hence a string of precepts, a collection of aphorisms, whence E sutra, a precept, esp a collection of precepts, with varr in Buddhism and Jainism.

6. Not imm recognizable as related to sew is 'to accoutre': EF-F accouterer, MF accostrer, to dress or equip: VL accōstūrāre*, for acconsūtāre* (ac- for ad-), from LL consūtūra, a stitching together, extn of LL consūtīō, a sewing, from L consuere, to sew: con-, together + suere.

sewage, sewer (for sewage). Sewer, id in ME, derives from AF sewre, aphetic for MF esseveur, itself from MF esvever, to drain: either OF-MF es-, L ex-, out + OF-MF ever, to drench, or from VL exaquāre*, to take water out of, to empty of water: cf AQUA, water. From E sewer comes, with change of suffix, sewage (-age is collective).

sewing; sewn. See SEW (heading).

sex, whence the pa -sexed and the coll sexy; sexual, whence sexuality (cf the F sexualité) and sexualist, sexualize.—Sexual derives from LL sexuālis, adj of L sexus (gen -ūs); the neu var secus has suggested kinship with L secare, to cut: ? orig, with ref to female sex, a division.

sexagenarian, sexagenary, sexagesimal, sexangle, sexennial. See SIX, para 4.

sext, sextain, sextan; sextant. See SIX, para 4.

sextet; sextic. See SIX, para 6.

sextile; sextō. See SIX, para 4.

sextōn. See SACRAMENT, para 7.

sextuple, sextuplicate. See SIX, para 6.

sexual, sexuality. See SEX.

shab. See SCAB, para 2.

shabble. See SABRE, para 2.

shabby. See SCAB, para 2.

shack (1), harvest gleanings, hence refuse: dial var of SHAKE used as n.

shack (2), a hut, a small, primitive sort of house: app a b/f from syn AE (dial) shackle: ASp, esp Mexican Sp, xacal (later jacal), pron shacal: Axtex xacalli, a wooden hut. (Mathews.)

shackle, n hence v: ME schakle, schakkyl: OE sceacul, scacul, a shackle: cf MD-D schakel, MD var schaeckel, ON skökull, a cart-pole: all these Gmc words look like dim forms—could the origin be the OGMc simples corresp to SHAKE?

shad, a deep-bodied, herring-like fish: OE sceadd: o.o.o.: prob C—cf Elr scatán, Ir scadán, G sgadan, Mx skeddan, a herring, and W ysgadan, herrings.

shaddock derives from Captain Shaddock, who, in 1696, introduced into Barbados the seed he had brought from the EI.

shade (n, hence v), whence shady; shadow, n, whence shadowy, and v; shed, n.

1. Shed, a light structure (a lean-to, an outbuilding), usu open in front, represents a var, prob orig dial, of shad, itself a var of the n shade in sense 'shelter'.

2. Shade, comparative darkness, a space sheltered from the sun, derives, via ME schade, from OE scead, in its var sceadu, oblique cases sceadwe becoming ME schadewe, later shadowe, E shadow, but also generating the OE v sceadwian, ME schadewen, var schadowen, later shadowen, E 'to shadow': and OE sceadu is akin to OS skado, OHG scato (gen scatawes), MHG schate, G Schat-ten, Go skadus, MD schade, schadewe, schaduwe, D schaduw, OIr scáth (? also the syn Mlr scáil, Ga sgáil), Cor scōd, shade, a shadow, and Gr skotos, darkness; and, without s-, the Alb kot: IE r, app skot-*, shade, shadow, darkness.

shaft (n, hence v); scape, n, as in Bot and Zoo; scepter (AE) or sceptre (n hence v, whence the pa sceptered, sceptred).

1. Shaft, ME schaft, comes from OE scaft: cf OFris skeft, OHG scaft (esp a spear), MHG-G schaft, MD schaft, D schacht, ON skapt, a (long) handle of, usu, a spear; cf also Lett škāps, spear, L scāpus, shaft, stalk, and Doric Gr skapon, a staff, Gr skēptron, a staff, esp a sceptre: IE r, skap-, varr skep- and skop-*, all occurring also without the IE prefix s-. (Hofmann.)

2. L scāpus yields E scape, a Bot peduncle, loosely any flower-stalk, a Zoo stem, an Arch shaft.

3. Gr skēptron becomes L sceptrum, OF-F sceptre, adopted by E.

shag, coarse hair or wool (hence a cormorant and a coarse tobacco), hence also adj and v—and the adj shaggy and the cpd shagbark (with shaggy outer bark); shaw, a thicket; skæg, afterpart of a ship's keel.

1. Shag, coarse, matted hair, comes from OE sceacga, bushy hair: cf ON skegg, beard, and its modern Scan cognates.

2. With OE sceacga, cf OE scaga, a thicket, whence ME schawe, E shaw, akin to ON skögr, a wood, and its modern Scan cognates.

3. Akin to all those words is the naut E skeg, from D scheg, schegge, from Da skjeg; cf ON skaga, to shelter or protect.

shagreen. See the 2nd CHAGRIN.

shah. See CHECK.

shake (v, hence n), pt shook, pp shaken; whence shaker, shaking, shaky; Shakespeare or -spere, whence Shakespearean.

Shakespeare is simply 'a shake-spear': and 'to shake' comes, through ME shaken, earlier schaken, from OE scacan, sceacan: cf ON skaka, to shake, also OS scacan, OHG scachōn, to flee (cf sem the sl 'shake a leg' and 'stir one's pins'), and, without the s- prefix, Skt khājati, he churns, and perh OB skakati, to hop; ult also the 2nd shock, basically 'to shake', both being, orig, echoic.

shako: F shako, var schako: Hu shako, written čšakó, lit 'peaked (cap)': MHG zacke (now usu Zacken), a peak, prop a prong: cf MD tacke, varr tac, teck, D tak, a twig: perh (Walshe) cf Gr daknein (s dakn-, r dak-), to bite.

shaky. See SHAKE (heading).

shale, in Min, derives from shale, a shell (obs), a fish's scale (now dial): ME schale, schal: OE scealu, scalu, a shell, a drinking-cup, a balance: cf SHELL.

shall and shilly-shally; should. Shall and should: ME shal, earlier schal, pt sholde, earlier scholde: OE scal, sceal, I am obliged or bound (to do something), pt scolde, sceolde, the corresp inf being sculan: cf OS and Go skulan, OHG scolan (G sollen), to be bound, obliged, OHG sculd, obligation, debt (G Schuld), ON skula, to be bound: 'this v was orig used in all Gmc languages to express the future' (Walshe); but it occurs also in Sl—cf Lith skelėti, to be bound to, to owe, and skolà, a debt.

2. Shilly-shally=shill-I, shall-I?, shill-I being a thinning of shall-I: 'Shall I, shall I . . . ?'

shallow. Cf sloop; see SLEEVE, para 2. shallof. See SCALLION, para 2.

shallow, adj hence n; shoal, adj hence n (sand bank);—skeletal, whence, by b/f, skeletal and skeletin (Chem -in) and the c/f skeleto-.

1. The adj shallow, ME schalowe, prob derives from OE sceald, shallow: ? by confusion with HOLLOW. With OE sceald, cf Sw skäll, G schal, insipid, MHG schal, dull.

2. OE sceald becomes ME scheald, later schold, whence the 'eased' E shoal, as in 'shoal water': hence that which renders the water shoal or shallow—a sand bar or a sand bank.

3. Akin to OE sceald, shallow, is Gr skeletos (s skelet-, r skel-), parched, desiccated, either deriving from or at least cognate with Gr skellein (s skell-, r skel-), to parch, to dry up, therefore prob akin to Gr sklēros, dry: IE r, skel-*, to dry up (vt), var (without the IE s-), kel-*, as in Lett kālsis, thin, meagre, and kālst, to dry up. (Hofmann.) Gr skeletos has neu skeleton, used as n elliptical for skeleton sōma, a dried-up body, a skeleton, prob suggested by Gr skeletos, itself used as n, but signifying 'mummy' not 'skeleton': whence E skeleton (cf the F squelette also, in C16, written scelete).

sham. See SHAME, para 3.

shamble, v; shambles. See SCAMBLE, para 2.

shame, n, whence shameful and shameless (OE scamleas) and v, whence pa, vn shaming; shamefaced; ashamed.—Perh of the sep CHEMISE.

1. Shamefaced is f/e for shamefast, '(held) fast, i.e. firm, by shame'. 'To shame' comes from OE scamian, sceamian, from OE scamu, sceamu, whence, via ME schame, the E n shame: and the OE n scamu, sceamu is akin to OFris skame, OS skama, OHG scama, MHG schame, G Scham, shame, modesty, MD schame, schaem (adj), ashamed, schamen, to be ashamed (OHG scamēn, Go vr skaman sik). These OGmc nn and vv are perh related to Go ga-hamōn, to dress (to cover oneself), and to OHG hamo, clothing, and OHG hemidi (MHG hemed, G Hemd), OE hemethe, a shirt, a chemise. The IE r is app skam-*, var (without IE prefix s-) kam-* (Gmc kam-*): cf Gaul camisia, whence F chemise. (Walshe.)

2. OE scamian has cpd āscamian, to shame, whence the rare 'to ashame', with pp ashamed, retained as adj.

3. E shame, n, has dial var sham, whence perh sham, orig a fraudulent trick, hence an imposture: it causes shame.

shammy. See CHAMOIS.

shampoo, v hence n: Hind champo, a massage described by European travellers in India since 1616 (B & W): app orig the imperative of Hind shampna, to perform this massage.

shamrock: Ir seamróg (cf Ga seamrag): MÍr semrach: dim of EIr semar, Ir seamar, clover.

shandy, beer and either lemonade or ginger-beer, shortens shandy gaff: o.o.o.: ? from low London sl shant o' gatter, a pot of beer, with London sl gaff (as in 'a penny gaff') substituted for gatter.

shanghai (1), a slingshot, is a f/e—after Shanghai—derivative of Sc shangan, a cleft stick, from Ga seangan.

shanghai (2), to render (someone) insensible, esp by drugging his liquor, put him aboard and enlist him as a sailor: from Shanghai, where this practice either originated or earliest flourished. Lit, Shanghai is 'above'—i.e., at—'the sea'.

shank (n hence v), whence Longshanks, lit 'long-legs': ME shanke, earlier scanke: OE scanca, sceanca, the shin: cf OFris skunk, skunka, thigh, MD shenke, schinke, leg, MHG-G shenkel, thigh, OHG scinca, thigh, MHG schinke, thigh, ham, G Schinken, ham—cf also ON skakkr (for skankr*), bent sideways, and prob Gr skazein, OHG hinchan, MHG-G hinken, ON hinka, to limp, Skt khanjati, he limps; IE r, app kheng-, var khong, with varr skheng-, skhong-, where s- is the vaguely int IE prefix.

shanty (1), a hut. See GANTRY, para 2.

shanty (2), a lively song, is a var of the naut chanty, chantey, prob from F Chantey / Singl, from chanter, to sing: cf chant, q.v. at HEN.

shape, n (whence shapeless and shapely) and v, whence shaper, shaping; hence misshape, pp-pa misshapen; the suffix -ship (ME -schipe, OE -scipe, from OE sceap).—'To shape', ME shapen, earlier schapen, comes from the ME n schap, a shape, later shap, whence E shape, n: and ME schap comes from OE -sceap, as in ge-sceap, something shaped or created, a creature, from OE sceppan, scieppan, scyppan, to shape, (also) to do or effect: cf OFris skeppa, OS skeppian, OHG scaffēn, MHG-G schaffen, to create, to obtain, MD schepen, D scheppen, to make or form, Go gaskapjan, ON skapa, skepja; perh akin to such 'scrape-scratch-dig' words as OHG scaban (MHG-G schaben), ON skafa, L scabere, Gr skaptein; IE r skap-, var skabh- (Feist; Walshe.)

shard. See para 4 of:

share of a plough (whence ploughshare, AE plowshare: ME plouhschare) and share, a portion, whence 'to share', with paa shared, sharing, and agent sharer; shear, n (now shears) and v, with pt shore (archaic) and sheared, pp shorn, occ sheared, whence agent shearer and vn, pa shearing; naut sheer, v; shard and sherd; score, a notch, a tally (esp one of 20), whence 'to score' (whence scorer) or notch, hence to count; shore of the sea; short (adj, hence adv and n; and v)—(from short, adj) shortage and shorten—such obvious cpds as short-arm, -cake, -circuit, -coming, -cut, -hand, -horn, -sighted, -term, -winded, etc.—shortly and shortness;—shirt and skirt; scabbard, n hence v.—Cf the sep SHARP and SHRED and prob CARNAL and CURT and such 'leather' words as CORTEX and CUIRASS.

1. Behind all these words lies the idea 'to divide, or separate, by cutting'. A ploughshare or -blade, ME schar derives from OE scear, akin to OFris sker, OHG -scar in plöhschar (MHG pfluoschar, G Pflugschar); and share, a portion, ME schare, derives from OE scaru or scearu, which, like OE scear, either derives from or is intimately related to OE sceran, to cut.

2. OE sceran, to cut, esp to shear, with varr scieran and scyran, not only generates OE scēara, pl scēara, a pair of shears, whence E shear, pl shears, but becomes ME scheren, later sheren, whence 'to shear'. OE sceran, the most fundamental of all the E words in this group, is akin to OFris skera, OHG sceran, G scheren, MD scherven, MD-D scheren, ON skera, to cut, to spear—Cor scar, a separation, kescar, to separate, W ysgar, Ga sgar, OIr scaraim, OC skaraō*, I separate—Lith skirti, to separate—and, without the IE prefix s-, Gr keirein, to cut or shear, Hit karss-, to cut, esp to cut off, and prob L carō, flesh (E CARNAL): IE r, ker-, var sker-, to cut.

3. Basically 'to divide by cutting', 'to shear' has the naut var 'to sheer', (to cause) to deviate from a course.

4. Shard and sherd derive from ME shard and sherd, themselves diverging from OE sceard, orig a pp from the r of OE sceran, to cut, to shear: akin to MD schard(e), D schaard, a fragment, MHG-G scharte, a dent (cf OHG scart, dented), ON skarth, a dent.

5. Akin to OE sceran is the syn ON skera, with derivative—or, at least, very close cognate—ON skor, a notch, hence a tally, whence ME scor, E score.

6. With E score, ME scor, cf E seashore, ME schore, prob from an OE score* derived from OE scieran, var of sceran, to cut or shear: either 'that which is cut, or shorn, off', hence an edge or border, or 'that which cuts off' (land from sea): MD schoor, MD-D schor, a mud flat.

7. The 'cut off' idea occurs a so in the E adj short, ME schort, OE scort, sceort: cf OHG scurz, short (and OHG-G kurz, ON kortr, short, L curtus), MHG scherze, a piece cut off, OFris skortinge, a shortening (prob from OE), skerta, to shorten, ON skort, a lack or deficiency, OSl oskōrd, a hatchet, Lith skardus, steep. (Walshe; Holthausen.) OE scort or sceort has derivatives OE sceortian, whence the obs 'to short', make or become short—the modern E l v derives from 'to short-circuit'; sceortlice, whence shortly; sceortness, whence shortness.

8. The idea of '(a garment) cut short' or 'short (garment)' is present in E shirt, ME schirte, earlier schurte, from OE scyrte, a short garment, a kirtle (cf CURT); cf MHG schurz, G Schurze, apron, MD schorte, D schort, apron, petticoat.

9. With those Gmc words, cf ON skyrt, a shirt, a kirtle, whence ME skyrte, E skirt: akin to Sw skört, skirt, skjorta, shirt, Da skiorte, skirt, skiört, petticoat.—Hence 'to skirt'.

10. OHG -scar, a blade (cf para 1), hence a sword, combines with OHG bergan, to hide (cf G bergen), to produce OF escarberc*, whence, by dissimilation, OF escalberc, whence AF escauberc (or -bert), whence ME scauberc, later scabbard, retained by E.

shark (n, hence v), the fish, prob derives from shark, a parasite, a sharper, with derivative v: the 'sharper' shark app derives from G Schurke, a rogue (OHG fir-scurgo, a rogue), with emphasis upon greed and rapacity. G Schurke comes from schürgen, to vex or plague, mdfn of schüren, to poke, to stir up, MHG schürn, either deriving from or akin to OHG scora, Go -skaürö, a shovel.

2. App also from G Schurke comes—unless it merely 'thins' shark—the E shirk, a sharper (obs), whence a malingeringer: whence 'to shirk': whence shirker and vn, pa shirking.

sharp, adj (whence sharpen, naut sharpie, sharpness), hence adv and n and v (OE scerpan), whence the agent sharper and the pa, vn sharping; from the adj, such self-evident cpds as cardsharper and sharp-set, -shooter, -tailed; cf the sep SCARP.

The adj sharp, ME sharp, OE scearp, is akin to OFris skarp, skerp, OS skarp, OHG scarf, MHG-G scharf, MD scharp, schaerp, MD-D scherp, ON scharpr—and ult to shear, q.v. at SHARE, para 2. scatter. See SCATTER.

shave, shaven, shaveling. See SCAB, para 5.

shaw. See SHAG, para 2.

shawl (n, hence v) comes, via Hind, from Per shāl.

Shawnee, member of an Alg tribe: Shawnee shawunogi, lit 'southerners' (they came from Tennessee): from shawun, the south. (Webster.)

she. See HE, para 7.

sheaf, pl sheaves: ME sheef, earlier shef, earliest schef: OE scēaf: cf OHG scoub, MHG schoub, schoup, G Schaub, OS skōf, MD schove, MD-D schoof, a sheaf, ON skauf, a fox's brush: IE r, perh skēi-*, to cut—cf Skt chyāti, he cuts.—From the pl sheaves comes the v 'to sheave' or gather into sheaves.

shealing. See SHIELING.

shear, shearer, shearing, shears. See SHARE, para 2.—With the bird shearwater ('cut-water'), cf the G Wasserschere, 'water-cutter'.

sheath, whence, from the sheath over part of the upper mandible, the bird sheathbill, and sheathfish, now usu sheathfish; hence also 'to sheathe' (cf OFris skētha), whence the vn sheathing.—A sheath, ME schete, comes from OE scēth, var of scēath: cf OFris skēth, OS skēthia, OHG skeida, MHG-G scheide, MD scheide, schede, D scheede, ON skeithir (pl): perh also cf the 2nd SHED; basic idea 'a separating cover' (Walshe).

sheave, a slice, a grooved wheel or pulley. See the 1st SHIVER, s.f. sheave, v. See SHEAF, s.f.

shebeen, an illicit grog-shop: Ir sibín, var sēibín, a little (-ín) mug, hence inferior ale: cf, sem, the G Krug, a pitcher or a pot, hence a pot-house, a tavern, and, phon, perh the Cor seth, seith, a pot.

shed (1), a light structure. See SHADE, para 1.

shed (2), to separate (now only dial), hence to pour forth, cast off, whence shedder and shedding; watershed; shingle (of a roof), hence a signboard, also a short haircut, n hence v;—scissile, scission, scissura, scissure; scind—abscind, abscissa, abscission—rescind, rescission, rescissory;—schedule, n (whence schedular), hence v; schism, schismatic; schist, schistose; schizoid, schizont; cf the element -schisis, where (s.f.) see SCHIZOPHRENIA.—Prob cf the sep SHEATH.

Indo-European

1. The n shed, a separation, as in watershed (cf G Wasserscheide), derives from OE scēada, itself from OE scēadan (? contr scādan), to separate, whence, via ME scheden, shaeden, to separate, to pour, the E 'to shed': cf OFris skētha, OS skēthan, OHG sceidan, MHG-G scheiden, Go skaidan; Lith skiedžiū, I separate, and sklesti, to separate; Gr skhizein (? for skhidsein*), to split; nasalized L scindere, to split or cleave, pret scidī, and Skt chindāmi, I split, and chinātti, chintte, he splits; cf also OIr sciath, shoulderblade, shield: IE r, skhid-*, to split, hence to separate. The s-less Ve khidāti, he tears, and L caedere, to cut, indicate that the IE r skhid-* is prob a reinforced var of khid-*, to cut.

2. With the Gmc group focussed by 'to shed', cf the partly Gmc-partly L shingle, a piece of wood sawn or split small and thin, used esp in roofing: ME shingle, for skindle: L scindula, akin to and prob deriving from L scindere, to split.

Latin: scindere, pp scissus

3. L scindere, to split, hence to tear, whence, from 'splitting or tearing apart', to separate, divide, even—occ—to interrupt, yields 'to scind', rare except in cpds. The L pp scissus (cf the supine scissum) has three L derivatives affecting E:

LL scissilis, (easily) splittable, whence EF-F scissile, adopted by E;

LL scissio, acc scissionem, MF-F scission, adopted by E; L scissura, whence E scissure, a cleft (in Med, the L form).

4. L scindere has the foll relevant prefix-cpds:

abscindere, to split or tear, hence to cut, ab- or off, whence 'to abscind'; the pp abscissus has f abscissa, which, used as Geom n (prob elliptical for abscissa linea), is adopted by E (cf the F abscisse); it also has derivative abscissio, o/s abscission-, whence E abscission;

rescindere, to split, hence cut, back, hence to cut off, yields 'to rescind', now usu to abolish (a law); on the pp rescissus are formed LL rescissio, o/s rescission-, whence E rescission, and LL rescissorius, whence rescissory.

Greek

5. Gr skhizein (for skhidsein*), to split, has derivative skhidē, a split piece of wood, whence L scida, a leaf or sheet of papyrus, var scheda or sceda, with LL dim scedula, scidola, predominantly schedula, a piece or slip or scrap of paper, whence —prob via OF-MF cedule (extant)—the E schedule, orig a written document, esp governmental; the E adj scheduler was app prompted by F cédulaire.

6. Gr skhizein, s and r skhiz-, has the further derivative skhisma, whence LL schisma, whence, via the LL var scisma, the OF cisme, MF scisme, adopted by ME; whence, resp, the reshaped EF-F schisme and the reshaped E schism. Derivative Gr skhismatikos becomes LL schismaticus, MF cismatique, later scismatique, EF-F schismatique and, perch independently, E schismatic.

7. Gr skhizein, to split, has the pa skhistos, split, divided, hence divisible, whence L schistus (lapis), a stone easily split or cut, whence, via F schiste, the E schist; the E adj schistose is prob indebted to the F adj schisteux, f schisteuse.

8. On the Gr s skhiz-, anglicized as schiz-, is formed schizoid (suffix -oid), lit tending to split, applied esp to schizophrenia ('split mind'); from the presp skizōn, o/s skhizōnt-, comes the Zoo n schizont.

shee or, occ, sidhe; banshee. A banshee or female spirit warning of death, derives from Ga beanshíth: Ga-Ir bean (OIr ben), a woman+Ga síth, fairy-like, preternatural (cf sítheach, a fairy), akin to Ir síod, a fairy abode, whence syn E sidhe, usu shee, and to Ir síde, fairy folk, whence syn E shee; cf also Mx sheeaghan, a fairy, and, for Ga bean, OIr ben, a woman, the OC r ben-, var of gen-, to engender (E GENERAL).

sheen, adj, hence n and v; scone. Sheen, radiant, resplendent, comes, through ME schene, from OE scēne, scýne, sciene, splendid: cf OFris skēne, var skōne, OS scōni, OHG sconi, MHG schoene, G schön, Go skauns, MD schone, MD-D schooln, and ult to E SHOW: Gmc etymon, skauniz*.

2. Prob from MD schoonbrot (D -brod), lit 'clear, or bright, bread', fine bread, comes E scone.

sheep, whence sheepish; shepherd (n, hence v), whence shepherdess (suffix -ess). Sheep (sing and pl) derives from ME shep, scheep, from OE scēp, contr of scēap: cf OFris skēp, OS skāp, OHG scāf, MHG schāf, G Schaf, MD schaep, D schaap: o.o.o.: perch ult Medit—cf Eg sāu, sa, sua, s-t.—The fish sheepshead has teeth like a sheep's.

2. OE scēap has cpd scēaphyrde, whence ME shepherd, -herde (cf MD schaepherde), whence E shepherd; cf HERD.

sheer (1), adj, bright, pure, transparent, perpendicular (whence the naut n). See SCENE, para 10.

sheer (2), naut v. See SHARE, para 3.

sheet, fabric cover, naut rope. See SHOOT, v, para 4.

sheik or sheikh, occ shaikh(h); cacique.

1. Sheik(h) anglicizes Ar shaykh or cheikh, prop an old man, hence an elder, hence a chief. With Ar shaykh, cheikh, cf the Eg skhemu, kherpa, a chief.

2. A WI chief, or petty king, is a cacique: adopted from Sp, which adopts it either from Carib, as the best all-Sp dictt hold, or from Taino, which adapted it from Arawak kassequa, a chief, as Webster proposes; but Arawak could, as Georg Friederici suggests, have vocalized it, in the course of the slave-traffic, from the Ar r CHK; Santamaria, however, derives it from Mayan cah, hand, as the symbol of power or authority+isic, or tsik, to honour, to obey. An Amerind origin seems preferable to the Ar origin. Provisionally, I accept Santamaria's theory.

shekel: H sheqel: from shāqal, to weigh, prob orig in barter.

sheldrake=sheld, speckled (now dial), akin to the syn MD schillede (cf MHG schillen, G schillern, to vary, or fluctuate, in colour)+DRAKE, male of duck.

shelf, pl shelves, whence prob 'to shelve' (orig to put away, out of mind, on a shelf); scalpel.

1. Shelf, ME shelife, OE scielfe, scylfe, is akin to MD schelf and, with p for f, the L scalpere, to scrape, carve, cut (therefore cf sculpture): IE r, perch skel-*, to curve or cause to curve.

2. L scalpere has derivative scalprum, a cutting tool, with dim scalpellum: whence EF scalpelle, F scalpel, adopted by E.

shell, n (whence adj shelly), hence v; shellac, q.v. at the 2nd LAC, para 4; shelter, n, hence v; shield (n and v), whence shield-bearer; skull—cf NUMSKULL.

Indo-European

1. Shell, ME shelle, OE scell (varr sciell and scyll), is akin to MD schelle, D schel, OHG scala, MHG-G schale, ON skel, a sea shell—and Go skalja, a tile, OB skolika, a mussel shell (cf Lith skala, a wood-splinter), and Gr skallein, to dig, therefore prob ON skilia, to split (cf Lith skeliū): IE r, skel-* (extn of kel-*), to split, to cut. Therefore cf SCALE (of fish).

2. Shield, ME sheld, OE sceld, scild, scyld, is akin to OFris skeld, skelde, OS scild, OHG scilt, MHG schilt, G Schild, Go skildus, MD schelt, schilt, D schild, ON skiöldr, and prob Lith skiltis, a slice: o.o.o.: basic sense, perch 'a board' used for protection.

3. OE scild, shield, has cpd scildtruma (cf TRIM), lit a shield band, i.e. a troop of men carrying shields: whence ME scheldtrome, eased to scheltrome, whence later ME scheltrun, whence E 'a shelter'.

4. With OHG scala, ON skel, a sea shell, cf Nor skalla, Sw skulle, ME skulle, E skull, essentially a hard, bony case.

shellac. See the 2nd LAC, para 4.

shelta, secret language of Ir (hence also of Sc) tinkers, anglicizes Ir sheldru, perch from OIr bétre, speech: ? cf Ir sceala, a word, a message.

shelter. See SHELL, para 3.

shelve. See SHELF (heading).

shepherd. See SHEEP, para 2.

sherbet. See the 2nd SHRUB, para 2.

sherd. See SHARE, para 4.

sheriff. See SHIRE, para 2.

sherry. See CAESAR, para 5.

Shetland—whence Shetland Pony—and its var Zetland derive from ON Hjaltland, perch 'High Land'.

shew, as in shewbread. See SHOW.

shibboleth, a criterion in form of word or saying, a watchword, arises in Judges, xiii, where the Gileadites used H shibbōleth, ear of corn, to detect the Ephraimites, who, unable to pronounce sh, had to say sibbōleth.

shice, shicer. See SHOOT, para 5.

shield. See SHELL, para 2.

shieling, shealing, a shepherd's hut during summer, a summer pasturage, is a dim of Sc shiel, sheal, akin to ON skjöl, a shelter. (EDD.)

shift, v, basically to divide, hence to change (the position of), whence the n shift (including 'chemise'); whence shifter and pa, vn shifting, also shiftless and shifty, orig adaptable, resourceful.—'To shift' comes, through ME shiften, earlier schiften, from OE sciftan, to divide: cf the syn OFris skijta (var skiffā) and D-LG schiften, as well as ON skipta, to arrange; prob akin, ult, to the 2nd SHED.

shilling: ME shilling, earlier schilling, OE scilling, is akin to OFris skilling, OHG scilling, MHG schilling, G Schilling, Go skilliggs (pron skillings), and the ON skillingr, with modern Scan cognates: prob echoic, from Gmc skel-*, to resound—cf OHG scal, G Schall, resonance, and, sem, E sl chink, F sl clinquaille, Hu pengō, lit 'coin that goes peng!'—cf E ping! (Walshe.)

shilly-shally. See SHALL, para 3.

shimmer. See SCENE, para 9.

shimmy, coll for a chemise, becomes the name of a tremulous dance.

shin (n, hence v), whence shinny, informal hockey, with varr shindy, shinty; chine; skein, in basketwork and metallurgy.

1. Shin, the tibia, comes from ME shine, earlier schine, from OE scinu, and shinbone from OE scinbān: cf MHG schinebein, G Schienbein, a cpd of OHG scina, MHG schine, G Schiene, a splint, a rail, the tibia, MD schene, D scheen, the shin: app an s-prefix var of the r in Gr klōn (o/s klōn-), a pillar, with which prob of the syn Arm siun and certainly cf MHG schie, a post, and OE scia, shin.

2. D scheen has a derivative basketwork sense, whence E skein.

3. OHG scina, tibia, has Frankish var skina*, whence OF-MF eschine (F échine), whence the apthic E chine. 'To chine' owes something to OF-MF eschiner, F échner.

shindig (sl), a festive occasion, and shindy (sl), an uproar, a fracas, are o.o.o.: prob of C origin—? cf Ga sinieag, a skip or a jump, from Ga sīn, to stretch, OIr slinim, I stretch.

shindy (1), hockey. See SHIN (heading). Perh influenced by:

shindy (2), uproar. See SHINDIG.

shine, pt and pp shone, with modern var (vt) shined; whence n shine, agent shiner, pa, vn shining, adj shiny. See SCENE, para 8.

shingle (1), of roof. See the 2nd SHED, para 2.

shingle (2), of seashore, is app echoic: cf Nor singl, pebbles. The earlier form chingle suggests a n-from-v chingle, freq of 'to chink', itself echoic.

shingles (disease). See CINCH, para 7. shinny, hockey. See SHIN (heading).

Shinto, the J national religion, is J Shintō, the tō (from Ch tao) or way, hence doctrine, of the shin or gods. Shin is ult related, prob to Ar jinn, pl of jinni, a demon of the wilderness, and perh to Basque Jinko, Jainko, God.

shinty, hockey. See SHIN (heading).

shiny. See SHINE (heading).

ship, n—whence shipshape, shipwreck (n, hence v)—and v, whence, in part, shipper (cf OE scipere, a sailor)—cf skipper; skiff;—equip, equipage, equipment.

1. 'To ship' derives, in part, from the modern n ship and, in part, from OE scipian, to take ship—cf gescipian, to supply with ships. OE scipian derives from OE scip, whence ME schip, later ship, retained by E: and OE scip is akin to OFris skip, OS scip, OHG scif (var scef), MHG schif (var schef), G Schiff, Go skip, MD scheep, schep, schip (also D), ON skip: o.o.o.: but perh akin to SHAPE.

2. App from OHG scif, MHG schif, comes It schifo, whence late MF-F esquif, whence, by aphasis, the E skiff.

3. MD schip has derivative schipper, a ship's captain, whence E skipper, n hence v.

4. From a LG form of OHG scif, a ship, comes OF-MF esquiper (EF-F équiper), to fit out, orig a ship, later a body of men, finally an individual: whence E 'to equip'. Derivative late MF-F équipement and EF-F équipement becomes E equipage, equipment.

shippen, shippon. See SHOP.

shire; sheriff. Shire derives from OE scīr, official business, administration, hence an administrative division, hence a county: o.o.o.: but akin to OHG scīra, an official charge, official business.

2. OE scīr has cpd scīrgerēfa, whence ME shereve, E sheriff: cf REEVE. The ME shereve becomes, by contr, shreve, E shrieve (archaic), with derivative shrievalty, office of sheriff.

shirk, shirker. See SHARK, para 2.

shirt. See SHARE, para 8.

shit; shite. See SHOOT, para 6.

shive. See:

shiver (1), n and v—a fragment, to break into fragments, whence shivereens (-een=the Ir dim -in); skewer, n hence v.

A skewer app derives from E dial skiver, a skewer, from shiver, a fragment, ME schivere, schivre, scifre, akin to OHG scivaro, scivero, MHG schiver, a splinter, G Schiefer, a slate, themselves akin to OHG sciba, MHG schibe, G Scheibe, ON skifa, ME schive, a slice, whence E shive, a slice, a fragment, var sheave, both now mostly dial, although the latter has several tech E senses. ME schivere, a fragment, has derivative v schiveren, whence 'to shiver' or break into small pieces.

shiver (2), to tremble with cold or fear, whence n; whence also the pa, vn shivering and the adj shivery. 'To shiver' comes from ME chiveren, o.o.o.; the var ME cheveren suggests a possible connexion—via EE cheverel, ME cheverelle, leather made of kidskin, from OF-MF chevele (F chevreau), a kid, dim of chevre (F chèvre), a goat, L capra—with 'TO CAPER'.

shoad. See SHODDY.

shoal (1), adj 'shallow', hence n. See SHALLOW, para 2.

shoal (2) of fish. See SKILL, para 2.

shock (1), a heap of grain-sheaves, hence v; dial var, shook.

Shock, ME schokke, is akin to MHG schoc (MLG schok), a heap, G Schock, heap, shock (of grain), MD schoc, schocke, a heap: cf, without the IE int prefix s-, the G Hocke, Lith kūgis, haystack, heap of hay.

shock (2), v and n, to jolt or shake violently, a violent impact. The n derives, in part from 'to shock' and in part from EF-F choc, n, from MF-F choquer, to shake violently, whence the ME schokken, whence 'to shock': and MF-F choquer is app of Gmc origin—cf ED schocken, D schokken, to jolt, and ED schocke, a swing, D schok, a jolt, and esp OHG scoc, a swinging movement: perh echoic; perh akin to SHAKE.—Hence the pa shocking.

shod. See SHOE (heading).

shoddy, reclaimed wool, whence the adj, is o.o.o.: cf the Min shoad or shode, a detached fragment of vein material, also, collectively, a series of such fragments, and N. Country shade, a fragment, which are akin to—prob derived from—OE scādan, to divide, to separate, and therefore akin to the v SHED.

shode. See prec.

shoe, archaic and dial pl shoon; 'to shoe', pt and pp shod; cf the sep OBSCURE.

'To shoe' derives from OE scōian, scōgan, from OE scōh, scōh, whence ME sho, later sho, E shoe: and OE scōh, with var scēoh, is akin to OFris skōch, scōh, OS skōh, OHG scuoh, MHG schuoch, G Schuh, Go skōhs, MD schoech, schoeh, schoewe, schoe (as in D), later schoen, schuen, ON skōr (cf Da sko); prob to OHG scūra, a barn, and L scūtum, a shield; perh to Skt kōśa-, a container or a case; see also OBSCURE (ob-+scure).

shoneen. See JOHN, para 1.

shook (1), a bundle of sheaves. See the 1st SHOCK (heading).

shook (2), pt of shake (heading).

shoot (v, hence n), whence shooter and pa, vn shooting; pt and pp shot; shot, n—cf scot, a contribution, whence scot-free; shotten;—sheet, covering, naut rope, whence the corresp vv; shit (var shite), v hence n—cf shitehawk, shitepoke—cf also shice, shicer, prob shyster; shut, whence shutter; shuttle, n hence adj and v, shuttlecock (shuttle, n+cock bird, from its crest);—skeet; skit, n (whence skittish) and v—cf skite (n and v), blatherskite; skitter and skittle, usu in pl, n, whence v;—scoot, n and v (whence scooter)—cf scoter—cf also scout, to scoff at, with pa, vn scouting; perh shout, v, hence n.

1. 'To shoot' has basic sense 'to get rid of, throw or propel forcefully, to let fly', e.g. a stone, a dart, an arrow, hence 'to hit thus': and it derives, via ME shotien, earlier scheoten, from OE scēotan, akin to MD-D schieten, OFris skīdta, OS sciotan, OHG sciozzan, sciozan, MHG schiezen, to hurl, to shoot, G schiessen, to shoot, Crimean Go schieten (Go skiutan*), ON skīdta (skjōta)—and the OE var, or secondary, sceotian, and its source scotian, to shoot (someone) with a missile; cf also Lith šauti, to shoot. (Walshe.) There is reason—cf Boisacq and Holthausen—to think that the OGmc sk-, sch- vv represent a reinforcement (the IE int prefix s-) of an IE r in k- (? orig kh-*): cf OSI is-kydati, to cast out, and perh Gr kuđazein, to scoff at (cf E scout in para 14 below), the basic IE sense being 'to cast or throw'.

2. Intimately akin to—indeed, prob deriving from—OE scēotan is OE sceot, from basic scot, a shooting, and gesceot, a missile. From OE scot derives ME shot, later shot, retained by E, with senses 'a shooting—a missile—and, prob from the casting of lots, a reckoning, a contribution'; with the 3rd sense, cf OFris and ON skot, MD-D schot, and, of course, E scot, a contribution, a tax, which prob comes from ON skot.

3. A shotten herring has 'shot forth' its spawn: OE scoten, sceoten, pp of scēotan.

4. A sheet or covering, ME shete, earlier schete, derives from OE scēte, with var scēte, a piece of cloth, a sheet, akin to OE scēat, a projecting corner, a (fold of) cloth, and scēata, a corner, esp the lower corner of a sail, but also a cloth: cf MD schote, MD-D shoot, sheet, a person's lap, OHG scōzza, MHG schōze, G Schoss, lap, coat-tail, OFris skot, Go skauts, ON skaut. The 'corner of sail' sense of OE scēata occurs in the OE cpd scēatline, whence, prob by abbr, the naut E sheet, a rope with which one regulates the angle of a sail.

5. Prob—from uninhibited excretion—akin to OHG scioz(z)an, MHG schiezen, G schiessen, to shoot, is OHG scīzan, MHG schīzen, G scheissen, to defecate, whence the agent Scheisser, whence the Aus Min shicer, an unproductive lode or mine, whence the E sl shicer, a worthless person, whence, by b/f, the sl shice, worthless, spurious, used also as n, 'base money'. A corruption of G Scheisser is the AE, orig sl, shyster (? for Scheisser*), a pettifogger, esp a pettifogging lawyer. (Note that some authorities adjudge the G v to be cognate with G scheiden, to separate.)

6. Very closely akin to OHG scīzan are the syn ON skīta and OE scītan, whence ME schīten (cf the id MLG form), later schīte, schīte, shyte, whence the E 'to shīt' and its var 'to shīte'. The E n shit, var shite, is, in ME, schīte, as also in MLG, the MHG form being schīze. Like the simples, the foll cpds are no longer in polite use: shitehawk and shitepoke, birds, and shithouse.

7. OE scēotan, to shoot, has agent scytta, a form that helps us to understand the, at first sight, obscure connexion of 'to shoot' with 'to shut': the orig sense of 'to shut' a door is revealed by 'to shoot a bolt' (or arrow) and 'to shoot the bolt' of a door—in order to fasten the bolt, to fasten with a bolt, hence to close that which the bolt serves to fasten: ME shutten, with varr schutten and schetten or schitten: OE scyttan, to bolt (a door), to close it, perh a deliberately thinned var of scēotan: cf MD schotten, MD-D schutten. With derivative E shutter, cf MD schutter, schotter.

8. OE scēotan, to shoot, has derivative or, at the least, cognate OE scutel, scytel, a missile (cf OE gesceot): EE, now rare, shittle: (prob after 'to shut') E shuttle. Cf ON skutill, a harpoon, MLG shotel (=G Schoss), and Da, Sw skyttel, a shuttle: all these forms prob represent a dim of the n occurring in, e.g., OE gesceot, a missile.

9. The naut skeet—hence a form of trap-shooting—usu said to be o.o.o., has an origin easily deducible from its meaning, 'a scoop, fixed to the end of a long pole and used to throw water on yacht sails (and thus to tighten the canvas)': it is lit a shooter or 'thrower' (of water) and prob it derives from a Scan or perh a D form of the v 'to shoot'.

10. Prob of Scan origin is skit, to leap aside, jump about: cf ON skytta, skyti (cf OE scytta), a shooter, a marksman, and the vv in para 1 above; hence 'to skit' or gibe (at), whence 'a skit', a lightly satirical piece, but also an easily frightened horse, a silly flirtatious girl, etc.

11. A var spelling, pron, and sense-change, of 'to skit' is 'to skite', to dart or dash about, hence to act objectionably, esp to boast, whence 'a skite' or boaster, with cpd blatherskite (cf BLATHER).

12. 'To skit', jump about, caper, has freq skitter; moreover, it has prob suggested, or rather, both it and shuttle, n, have suggested the n skittle, a pin used in the game deriving its name skittles therefrom.

13. Akin to shoot are scoot, a sudden flow of water (Sc), and 'to scoot', to shoot, or squirt, water forth, hence, orig dial and coll, to dart away, to decamp; dial 'to scoot' or dart (away), has var scote, whence, app, the sea duck called the scoter.

14. Scout, to scoff at, hence to reject contemptuously, has, in its passage from Scan, perh been form-influenced by 'to shout'; both its sense and its form are related to skit (para 10): cf ON skūta, a gibe, skūti, a scolding, and sciōta, to shoot: cf, sem, 'to stand to be shot at' or strongly criticized.

15. 'To shout', ME shouten, is o.o.o., yet prob of Scan origin: cf, phon, scout, to scoff at, and sem the possibility that, orig, 'to shout' was 'to shoot forth words or, rather, interjections or curses'. Hence the pa, vn shouting.

shop, n (hence v), whence shopkeeper (cf KEEP) and shopworm (cf WEAR); whence the pa, vn shopping, the agent shopper, the adj shoppy; shop-lifter, q.v. at the 3rd LIFT.

Shop, ME shoppe, earlier schoppe, OE sceoppa (a trans of LL-ML gāzophylacium, an Eccl strong-box or treasury, Gr gazophylākion), akin to OE scypen, a shed, E shippen or -on, a cowshed, OHG scopf, scof, MHG schuppen, G Schuppen, LG schup, a shed, and perh akin to OHG scioban, MHG-G schieben, OE scūfan: see SHOVE.

shore (1), of sea. See SHARE, para 6.

shore (2), a support, to support. 'To shore', ME schoren, derives from the ME n schore, whence 'a shore' or prop: and ME shore is akin to—perh adopted from—MD (and LG) schore (D schoor), itself akin to ON skortha: ? cf E shear (q.v. at SHARE, para 2), as being cut off (Webster).

shore (3): pt of shear.

short, shorten, shortly, shortness. See SHARE, para 7.

shot, n. See SHOOT, para 2.—Pt and pp: ibid (heading).

shotten. See SHOOT, para 3.

should. See SHALL.

shoulder, n (whence shoulder blade, etc.), hence v: ME shulder, earlier schulder: OE sculdor: cf OFris skolder, skulder(e), OHG scultarra, MHG-G schulter, D schoulder, Da shulder: o.o.o.—? akin to L scapula.

shout. See SHOOT, para 15.

shove, v hence n; shovel, n hence v, whence, from its broad bill, the river duck shovel(ler); shuffle, v hence n; derivative shovelboard, shuffleboard; scoff, n hence v, whence scoffer, scoffing; scuff, v hence n; scuffle, v hence n; scoop, n and v; scupper, n hence v.

1. 'To shove', ME shoven, shouven, OE scūfan, is akin to OFris skūva, MD schuven, schuyven, D schuiven, OHG scioban, MHG-G schieben, to push, to shove, Go af-skiuban, to shove, or push, off, ON skūfa, and, importantly, Skt kṣubh, a push, and, prob, Lith skūbti, to hasten: IE r, prob skeubh-*, to push or shove.

2. Akin to OE scūfan is OE scoft, ME schovele, schovel, E shovel: cf OHG scūval, MHG schüfel, G Schaufel, MD schuffel, D schoffel.

3. 'To shuffle', a freq (-le) from OE scūfan, has prob been influenced by shovel; cf LG schuffeln. With shuffle, cf 'to scuffle', prob a freq of 'to scuff', app a derivative—with widely divergent senses—of OE scūfan; cf the Sw skuffa, to shove.

4. A scoff or gibe, ME scof, is akin to the syn OFris skof, OHG scof, scoph, ON skop or skaup, OSw skiup, and to Da skuffe, to deceive, to mock—and prob to OE scūfan, to push or shove, one form of mockery being a persistent shoving-about.

5. Also, in part, akin to shove, and to shovel, is a scoop or large ladle: ME scope: partly from MD schoppe (cf MLG schuppe), a shovel, but mainly from MD schōpe (id in MLG), a scoop, akin to G schopsfen (OHG scepsfan), to draw water, of an entirely different origin (G schaffen, E 'to SHAPE').

6. Obscurely yet very prob akin to 'a scoop' is the late ME-E scupper, an opening that allows water to flow overboard from a ship's deck.

shovel. See prec, para 2.

shovel(ler). See SHOVE (heading).

show (v, hence n), pt showed, pp shown—archaic shew, shewed, shewn; whence shewbread, showbread, the vn showing, the adj showy.

1. 'To show', ME schowen or schewen (later shewen), var showen, OE scēawian, to look at, is akin to OFris skāwia, var skōwia (contr skōia), with secondary skūa, OS scawōn, skauwōn, OHG scouwōn, MHG schouwen, G schauen, MD schauwen, MD-D schouwen, Da skue, to look: the transition from OE scēawian, to look at, to E show, cause to be looked at, is explained by the fact that the E v denotes 'the same action from the opposite point of view' (Walshe).—With the OFris secondary skūa and perh the Da skue, cf OHG scū-kar, Go skuggwa (for skuwwa*), a mirror.

2. The r skeu-, var skou-, is not merely Gmc; it occurs also in Gr thuskōos, a watcher of sacrifices, i.e. a sacrificial priest. Moreover, all these sk-, sh- words represent a reinforcement, by the IE int prefix s-, of IE keu-, kou-, to watch: cf Lith kavju, I watch, L caueō, I watch carefully, am on guard against, Gr koēō, I notice, perceive, as one does by watching, and Skt kavis, adj and n seer, hence sage.—Cf the sep CAUTION and HEAR.

shower (n, hence v), whence showery, comes from ME shour, earlier schour, from OE scūr, akin to OFris skūr, OHG scūr, MHG schūr, G Schauer, a shower, Go skūra (windis), a gale, ON skūr, shower: app a reinforcement, by IE prefix s-, of IE kur-, kaur-—cf the L caurus, the N.W. wind. (Walshe, who adduces two SI form-and-sense cognates in sh-.)

showy. See SHOW (heading).

shrub. See the 2nd SHRUB, para 1. shrapnel commemorates its inventor (c1803), General Henry Shrapnel (1761–1842).

shred, n and v (whence pa shredded and agent shredder); screed, n and v; scroll, n (whence the adj scrolar), hence v, with cpd enroll or inscroll—cf escrow; shroud, n and v, with cpd enshroud; scrotum, whence scrotal; scruple, scrupulosity, scrupulous—whence neg unscrupulous; scrutable, whence, anl, scrutability—inscrutable, whence, anl, inscrutability—scrutate, scrutation, scrutator—scrutiny, whence scrutineer (cf mutineer from mutiny) and scrutinize and scrutinous—cf perscrutate, whence, anl, perscrutation.—Cf, ult, 'to SHEAR'.

1. 'To shred', ME shreden, earlier schreden, OE scrēadian, to cut, esp to cut off or into small pieces, derives from the OE n scrēade, whence ME schrede, later shrede, E shred: cf the vv OHG scrōtan, G schroten (cf MHG verschrōten, to hack to pieces), and MD schrooden, schroden, and the nn OFris skrēd (cf MLG schrāt), OHG scrōt, a cut, MHG schrōt, a sawn-off log, G Schrot, a log or block (of wood), MD schrode, D schroode, a cut-off piece, ON skrjöthar, a shred; Lith skraudūs, brittle (easily flaked off); L scrōtium, adopted by Med, prob a var, both phon and sem, of L scrutum, a quiver for arrows; prob, with o-u mutation, L scrūpus, a sharp pebble; perh L scrūta (pl), cast-off or very old clothes; Gr grūtē (syn with L scrūta) and its cognate grūméa, (a bag for) old clothes, frippery, trumpery, if scrū:a does belong to this group, suggest an IE r krud-, krut-, with reinforced (IE prefix s-) varr skrud-, skrut-, to cut (perh also tear by cutting).

2. With shredder, cf OFris skrēdere, a cutter, and LG Schrader, a tailor.

3. 'To screed', orig to tear, derives from OE scrēadian, from the n scrēade, a shred, whence (with sk- for sh- pron) the n screed, orig a piece, a strip, torn off, hence a long list, hence a long discourse, whether spoken or, as now usu, written.

4. Akin to OE scrēade is OE scrūd, clothing (cut off or out), a garment, ME schrud, later shrud, finally shroud, a garment, retained by E, esp as a garment for the dead; whence 'to shroud', perh in part from OE scrýðan (scrūðan), from scrūd.

5. With MD schroode, schrode, a piece cut off (as in para 1), cf the syn Frankish skroda*, whence OF-EF escroue, orig a piece of fabric or leather, then a piece of parchment (and finally, as écrou, an entry in a prison roll): whence ME scrowe, whence—after rowle, a roll or record—EE scrowle, hence E scroll, influenced by E roll.

6. MF escroue, a piece of parchment, hence a roll of written records, becomes the legal E escrow, with narrowed sense.

7. L scrūpus, a sharp pebble or stone, whence fig, in Cicero, anxiety, a keen uneasiness; the fig sense is usu conveyed by the dim scrūpulus, lit a small sharp stone: whence MF-F scrupule, whence E scruple, whence 'to scruple'. Derivative L scrūpulosus becomes MF-F scrupuleux, f scrupuleuse, whence E scrupulous; and the secondary derivative, LL scrūpulosiās, o/s scrūpulosiāt-, passes through EF-F into E scrupulosity.

8. L scrūta (pl), old clothes, frippery, has derivative scrūtāri, scrūtāre, to search, to fossick, as an old-clothes man does in a heap of discarded garments, hence to examine (lit and fig), whence LL scrūtābilis, searchable, and its LL neg inscrūtābilis, unsearchable, i.e. impenetrable: whence E scrutable and (late MF-F and) E inscrutable. L scrūtāri, -āre, has pp scrūtātus, whence 'to scrutate' or investigate closely and in detail; derivatives scrūtātiō (o/s scrūtātiōn-) and scrūtātōr become E scrutation and (late MF-F scrutateur and) E scrutator. L scrūtāri, -āre, has the further derivative, the LL scrūtīnium, a minute search, whence E scrutiny (cf the EF-F scrutin).

9. L scrūtāri has the cpd perscrūtāri, to examine per- or thoroughly, with pp perscrūtātus, whence 'to perscrutate'.

shrew, n, whence shrew, adj (obs), and shrewish: as person, first in ME: from ME-E shrew, earlier shrewe, earliest schrewe, OE scrēawa, scrāewa, that tiny quadruped the shrew-mouse, supposed, by folklore, to be venomous: o.o.o.: perh 'the squeaker', from the Gmc r present in, e.g., OFris skria, OHG scrian, MHG schrien, G schreien, to cry: IE r skrei-, or skri-, to cry, itself a reinforcement, by the IE prefix s-, of IE krei-, kri-, as in Gr krizō, I scream. Cf:

shrewd: EE shrewed, malicious, formed from shrew, ME-E (obs) malignant, malicious, from the shrew(mouse), much as crabbed from crab, the crustacean, and dogged, from dog.

shrewish. See SHREWH (heading).

shriek. See SCREECH, para 1.

shrievalty. See SHIRE, para 2.

shrift. See SCRIBE, para 2.

shrike. See SCREECH, para 1, s.f.

shrill, adj and v; skirl, v, hence n. The adj shrill (cf G schrill, LG schrell), ME shrille, earlier schrille, is intimately related to ME schrillen, to cry piercingly: ? a 'thinning' of the etymon in OE scralletan, to sound loudly, early G schralen, to bark loudly, with 'thinned' sense in Sw skrälla, to shrill: echoic (cf YELL).

2. With Sw skrälla and esp with Nor skrylla, Nor dial skrella, to shrill, cf 'to skirl', as the bagpipes do, of Scan origin: cf also the Sc, and N Country dial shirl, a metathesis of shrill, adj.

shrimp. See SCANT, para 5.

shrine, n hence v, with cpd enshrine: ME schrin: OE scrīn; like OFris skrin and OF-MF escrin (F écrin), from L scrīnium, a circular portable case or chest: o.o.o.: but Gr krikos, a finger-ring, OSl krivū, Lith kreivas, curved, suggest that L scrī- is a int (IE prefix s-) of IE krī-*, krei-, curved, with metathesis to kīr- attested by Gr kirkos, finger-ring, and L circus, orig a circle.

shrink, shrinkage. See SCANT, para 5. shrive. See SCRIBE, para 2.

shrivel is app of Scan origin: cf Sw skryvla, to wrinkle: OScan r skru-, skri-, to wrinkle, with extn varying according to the particular Scan language.

shriven. See SCRIBE, para 2.

shroud. See SHRED, para 4.

Shrovetide. See SCRIBE, para 2.

shrub (1), a very small tree, a bush, whence shrubbery (shrub+euphonic b+collective suffix -ery) and the adj shrubby; scrub, a shrubby vegetation, whence scrub, undersized, inferior, and the adj scrubby.

1. A shrub, ME shrubbe, earlier schrubbe, a shrub, derives from OE scrybb, a shrubbery: cf Da skrub, brushwood, and Nor skrubba, a dwarf cornel tree: ? of the Scan r skru- noted at SHRIVEL.

2. The Da skrub leads directly to E scrub.

shrub (2) and shrab, a fruit-acid liquor, laced with spirit; sherbet and sorbet; sirup, now usu syrap, whence syropy.

1. Shrab is a contr of Hind, from coll Ar, sharāb, from Ar shurb, a drink; Ar shurb yields, by metathesis, the E shrub.

2. Ar shurb, coll Ar sharāb, derive from Ar shariba, to drink, whence also Ar sharbah, a drink, whence Per and Tu sharbāt, a fruit-juice drink, whence E sherbet. Cf sorbet, sherbet, adopted from EF-F sorbet: It sorbetto: Tu chorbet, a blend of Tu sharbāt+vulgar Ar chourba, shurba, from Ar shurb.

3. Coll Ar sharāb (as above) becomes ML sirupus, syropus, whence OF-F sirop, whence ME sirap, syrop whence E sirup, syrup.

shrug, v to draw up and usu to contract the shoulders, EE shrugge, late ME schrugge, is o.o.o.—but cf Da skrugge, to stoop or crouch, Sw dial skrugge, to walk with a stoop.

shrunken. See SCANT (heading).

shuck, a shell, a husk, whence 'to shuck' and the interj shucks!: app from some Alg word—cf Narragansett anāwsuck, shells.

shudder (v, hence n): ME shoderen, shuderen earlier schuderen: cf LG schuddern, to shudder, MD schudden (also D), schodden, to shake, MHG schüdern, G schaudern, OS skuddian, to shudder, OHG scutēn, scuttēn, to shake, and, further off, L quatere, to shake: cf, therefore, QUASH. App ME schuderen is a freq of a Gmc r schud-, to shake.

shuffle. See SHOVE, para 3.

shun; shunt; scunner.

1. 'To shun,' ME shunien, earlier schunien, OE scunian, is o.o.o.; and 'to shunt' (imm from dial), ME shunten, schalier schunten, to avoid, is perh an int derivative from ME schunien: ? akin to the 1st SHY.

2. The Sc and North Country scunner, an intense dislike, a strong aversion, derives from 'to scunner', app a freq derivative from ME shunien.

shut. See SHOOT, para 7. shutter. See SHOOT, para 7, s.f.

shuttle. See SHOOT, para 8. shuttlecock. See SHOOT (heading).

shy (1), adj, whence shyness and 'to shy' or shrink away, to start, ME schey, earlier scœuh: OE scēoh, timid, hence shy, akin to MD schu, schouw, D schuw, MHG schiech, G scheuchen (v): perh an orig int (IE prefix s-) form of an IE r in keu-*, to hide; the Da sky, shy (adj), also v, to avoid, points to kinship with SHUN.

shy (2), to fling (e.g., a stone), is o.o.o.: perh related to the v in prec.

shyster. See SHOOT, para 5.

sial. See SILICA, s.f.

Siam, whence Siamese (adj, hence n, esp of cats and twins); siamoise. The 3rd, adopted from late EF-F, is prop the f of adj siamois, Siamese: and F and E Siam derives from Siamese Saiam, Sayam, app a corruption of Burmese Shan, a collective name for Burma's eastern neighbours (Enci It).

sib. See GOD, para 8.

Siberia, whence Siberian (adj, hence n), is a European (late C16 onwards) derivative of Ru Sibir, a locality near Tobolsk.

sibilance derives from sibilant: L sibilant-, o/s of sibilans, presp of sibilāre, to hiss, from L sibilus, a whistling, a hissing, a hiss: echoic. Perh cf:

sibyl, sibylline. The latter derives from L sibyllinus, the adj of L sibylla, trln of Gr sibulla, a prophetess attached to a shrine or temple: Sibulla, the sibyl of Cumae: o.o.o.: ? orig 'The Hisser', akin to L sibilus.

siccative. See DESICCATE.

Siceliot, Sicilian (adj, hence n), Siciliana, sicilienne, Sicily.

Sicily derives from L Sicilia, from Gr Sikelia, land of the Sikeloi (L Siculi); a Greek colonist of Sicily is a Sikeliotēs, whence E Siceliot; the It adj is siciliano (cf ML Siciliani, the Sicilians), whence siciliana (sc danza), a rustic dance, E Siciliana; the F adj is sicilien, whence the rich poplin called sicilienne, adopted by E. Sicilian derives partly from Sicily, partly from F sicilien.

sick (1), adj, whence the extn sickly, the adj sickish, the v sicken (whence the pa sickening), the n sickness.

Sick, ME sik, sek, OE sēoc, is akin to OS seoc, siook, OFris siäk, OHG sioh, MHG-G siech, Go siuks, MD siec, MD-D ziek, ON siükr, and, with h for s, the Arm hiucanim, I am ill.

sick (2), to search out, to chase, is a dial var of SEEK.

sickle. See the 2nd SAW, para 5. sickly, sickness. See the 1st SICK (heading).

side (n, whence adj and v, whence siding, vn), whence sideboard, sideling now usu sidelong (adv hence adj), sideways; alongside—beside, besides—inside and outside; side.

1. Side, a border, a facing surface (hence of the body), comes from OE sīde, akin to OFris side, OS sīda, OHG sīta, MHG sīte, G Seite, MD side, zide, sijt, D zijde, ON sītha, a side, and to OE sīd, spacious, whence the now dial side, spacious, long and flowing, hence also to ON sīthr (adj), hanging down.

2. From side, n, perh influenced by sideling, comes 'to sidle', prob orig freq.

sidereal. See CONSIDERATE, para 3.

siderite, orig loadstone: L sidēritis, loadstone: Gr sidēritis (elliptical for s. lithos, lit iron-stone), var of sidēritēs, adj of sidēros, iron: ? from Asia Minor.

sideways. See SIDE (heading).

sidhe. See SHEE.

sidle. See SIDE, para 2.

Sieg (G), victory. See SCHEMA, para 4.

siege. See SIT, para 3, s.f.

sierra, adopted from Sp, derives from L serra: cf SERRATE.

siesta. See SIX, para 6.

siur. See SENILE, para 6.

sieve (n, hence v) and sift, whence sifter, sifting. 'To sift', OE sifan, derives from OE sife, whence ME sive, E sieve (n): cf OHG sib, MHG sip, G Sieb: perh (Walshe) akin to L dissepāre, to scatter: from sipāre*, supāre*, to throw—cf Skt kṣipāti, he throws (E & M).

sift. See prec.

sigh, id in ME, derives from ME sighen, var sihen, from sihte, pt of sihen, var of sicken: OE sīcan: echoic—cf MD versiken (int ver-), suchten, sochten, D zuchten, to sigh, MD sucht, socht, OHG-MHG sifti, a sigh, OHG sūfen, to draw breath, suftēon, suftōn, MHG siufzen (earlier siuftēn), G seufzen, to sigh.

sight. See SEE, para 3.

sigil, sigillary, sigillate. See SIGN, para 3.

sigma (whence sigmate), sigmoid. Sigma is the Gr σ: capital Σ, small final σ, small elsewhere σ; whence Gr sigmoeidēs, s-shaped, whence E sigmoidal (suffix -oid). The Gr letter comes from Phoenician.

sign, n and v (whence signer and pa, vn signing)—signum; sain, to cross oneself; sigil, sigillary, sigillate, whence, anl, sigillation and (unless imm from MF sigillatif, f -ive) sigillative—cf seal, n and v (stamp); signal, adj (whence signalize) and n (whence signalman), whence v (whence signaller, signalling)—cf signalment; signary, signate, signation, signatory, signature; signet and sennet.—Full cpds: significance, significant—whence the negg insignificance, insignificant—significate, signification, significative, significator, significatory, significavit, significs, signify (whence signifier); toesin.—Prefix-Cpds: adsignification, adsignify, assign, n and v (whence—perh suggested by the MF-F word—assignable), assignat, assignation, assignee, whence, anl, assignor, assignment; consign (whence consignee, consignment, consignor), consignation, consignificant, consignification, consignify; design (n and v, whence designer), designate (adj and v), designation, designative, designator; ensign, n and v, and insigne, insignia; obsignate, obsignation; presignificant, presignification, presignify; resign (whence pa resigned and resignee), resignation; subsign, subsignation.—Cf the sep SEEM and perh the 1st SAW.

1. L signum, a distinguishing mark, a sign, a signal, has s sign-, r sig-: o.o.o.: but prob akin to the sec- of L secūre (s and r sec-), to cut, f.a.e. SAW, a cutting tool, esp if the first distinguishing marks consisted of notches cut in wood, etc.; much less prob akin to the IE r sekw-*, to follow, as in L sequi, f.a.e. SEQUENCE.

2. L signum survives in learned E, but the truly E form is sign, from OF-F signe, from L signum; Eccl sign of the Cross is a trans of LL signum crucis. 'To sign' derives, via MF-F signer, from L signāre (from signum). The MF-EF var seigner (or -ier) has perh influenced the now archaic 'to sain', ME sainen, earlier seyne, from OE segnian (from L signāre).

3. L signum, r sig-, has dim sigillum, a statuette, a seal, whence E sigil; the derivative LL adj sigillārius, of statues or marionettes, has prompted the E adj sigillary, of a seal or seals, and originates the LL sigillārium, image or idol of a pagan god, and Sigillāria, feast of the images (during the Saturnalia), and suggests Sci Sigillaria, a genus of fossil trees. Derivative L sigillātus yields the E adj and v sigillate.

4. L sigillum becomes MF seel (later scel, finally sceau), whence ME seel, E seal, a stamped design; derivative MF seeler (later sceler, finally sceller) becomes ME seelen, selen, E 'to seal'.

5. L signum has LL adj signālis, intended as, or to give, a sign, whence, in part, the E adj signal; the derivative VL signale*, prop the neu of the adj, used as n 'something intended as a sign', produces the OF seignal, whence, after OF-F signe, the MF-F signal, adopted by E; derivative EF segnaler, later signaler, to render distinguished (modern sense, C18 onwards), has pp signalé, whence, in part, the E adj signal. 'To signal' derives partly from the E n signal, partly from the F v signaler whence, by the way, signalement, a systematic, esp if by police, description of a person, whence the E signalment.

6. Whereas E signary is an E formation (signum + suffix -ary), signate derives from L signātus, pp of signāre, to mark, to distinguish. On the pp s signāt- are formed the foll L words relevant to E:

LL signātiō, a marking sign, o/s signātiōn-, whence E signation;

LL signātor, a marker, adopted by E;

L signātōrius, relating to a mark or sign, E signatory, adj hence n;

LL signātūra, a marking (orig of sheep), hence, in F and E, one's personal mark or signature, EF-F whence E signature.

7. MF-F signer has MF-F derivative signet (first as sinet), a ring serving as a seal, adopted by E. MF sinet has var senet, whence EE-E (archaic) sennet, a theatrical signal on a trumpet.

8. L signum occurs in two full E cpds: tocsin and signify (etc.). Tocsin is adopted from EF-F tocsin, MF toquesain, OProv tocashen: toca, it touches (tocar: E touch) + senh, a church-bell, from the syn LL signum, from the L sense 'signal'.

9. 'To signify' derives from OF-F signifier, from L significāre, to make a distinguishing mark, hence to show by marks or signs, to mean: signi-, c/f of signum + -ficāre, c/f of facere, to make. The presp significans has o/s significant-, whence E significiant; derivative LL significantia yields E significance; the negg insignificance, insignificant, were perh prompted by LL insignificatiuus (ML -ivus), undefined. The pp significātus has neu significātum, whence the learned E n significate. On the pp s significāt- arise

L significātiō, acc significātiōnem, OF-F significatiōn, adopted by E;

LL significātiuus (ML -ivus), indicative, symptomatic, significant, MF-F significatif, f -ive, whence E significative;

LL significātor, a signifier, adopted by E astrology;

LL significātorius (syn of significātiuus), E significatory.

10. L significāre has the derivative LL adj significus, notable, whence, in part, the E n significs, the theory or science (?) of meaning; and L significauit, ML significavit, he has signified, is now a Eccl E n.

11. Of the prefix-cpds, best taken alphabetically, the 1st is LL adsignificātiō, an additional meaning, whence E adsignification, whence, by b/f, adsignify, to denote additionally (ad, towards).

12. L has the v assignāre (as- for ad-), to appoint, whence OF-F assigner, whence 'to assign'; the F derivatives EF-F assignat and MF-F assignation are adopted by E; MF assignement becomes assignment; the pp assignē, f -ée, yields assignee.

13. L consignāre (con-, together, hence an int prefix), to mark with a seal, to confirm in writing, LL to entrust, becomes MF-F consigner, whence 'to consign'; derivative L consignātiō (from pp consignātus), o/s consignātiōn-, becomes (MF-F and) E consignation. The significāre cpd consignificāre (LL), its pp consignificātus and the derivative consignificātiō yield 'to consignify', consignificate, consignification.

14. L dēsīgnāre (dē- used int), to mark out, LL to name, becomes MF-F designer, whence 'to design'; pp dēsīgnātus yields the adj and v designate, and the derivatives L dēsīgnātiō, o/s dēsīgnātiōn-, LL dēsīgnātiuus, ML -ivus, and LL dēsīgnātor yield E designation (cf MF-F dēsīgnation), designative (cf EF-F dēsīgnatif), designator.

15. L insignis, distinguished by a particular mark, hence distinguished, notable, becomes the late MF-F insigne, adopted by E but long obs; the L neu insigne is used as n, a distinguishing mark of office, authority, honour, with pl insignia, adopted by E. This L pl, taken as f sing, becomes OF-F enseigne, a distinguishing mark, then a standard (flag), then, in C16, a standard-bearer: whence, in the 2nd and 3rd senses, the E ensign.

16. L obsīgnāre, to close (connoted by ob-) with a seal, hence merely to seal, has pp obsīgnātus, whence both the E 'to obsignate' and the LL obsīgnātiō (o/s obsīgnātiōn-), the 'seal' of baptism, whence E obsignation.

17. L praesīgnificāre, to mark—hence to signify—beforehand, accounts for 'to presignify'; derivative praesīgnificātiō (o/s -ātiōn-), for presignification; presp praesīgnificans, o/s -ficant-, for presignificant.

18. L resīgnāre, to seal re- or back, i.e. to unseal, hence to annul, also to abdicate or resign: MF-F résigner: E 'to resign'. Derivative ML resīgnātiō (o/s -ātiōn-), the act of resigning from a benefice, becomes MF-F résignation, whence E resignation.

19. L subsignāre, lit to undersign, hence, LL, to assign, yields 'to subsign'; derivative LL subsignātiō, signature, E subsignation, likewise rare.

signal, signalize, signalment. See prec, para 5.

signary, signate, signation, signatory. See SIGN, para 6.

signature. See SIGN, para 6, s.f.

signet. See SIGN, para 7.

significance, significant, signification, significative, signify. See SIGN, para 9.

signor, signora, signorina. See SENILE, para 4.

signum. See SIGN, para 1.

Sikh, whence Sikhism, comes from the Hi for a disciple: Skt sis̥hya.

silage. See SILO.

silence (n, hence v, whence silencer), silent, silentiary;—site (n, hence v), situate, situation, situs.

1. L silēre, to say nothing, keep quiet, has presp silens, o/s silent-, whence E silent; derivative L silentium becomes OF-F silence, adopted by E; silentium acquires, in LL, the derivative silentiarius, a law-court usher, whence E silentiary, with new sense 'advocate, or devotee, of silence'. The IE r is perh si-*: cf Gr sigē, silence, OHG swigan, MHG swigen, G schweigen, OE swigian; the Gmc words suggest a var r suī-*; yet note Go ana-silan, to fall silent, ON sil, standing, or quietly flowing, water, OFris sil, a sluice. (Feist.)

2. This IE si-* app occurs also in L sinere, to allow, esp allow to be in a place, pp situs, used as adj 'situated', whence the n situs (gen -ūs), a position, a situation; whence E site. Derivative LL-ML situāre, to place, has the pp situātus, whence the E adj and v situate; ML situātiō (situātus+-iō, n suffix), o/s situātiōn-, becomes, perh via MF-F, the E situation.

silex. See SILICA.

silhouette is a b/f from à la silhouette, from the F Comptroller-General, E de Silhouette, who, arriving unexpectedly (1759) at high office, proved incompetent, the phrase denoting 'badly made or done, incomplete', whence in 1801 the n silhouette. (B & M.) Cf the F surname Silhol, from dial silhol, var of selhol, dim of F seau, a pail.

silica (whence silicate and silicic and silicon), siliceous, silex. Siliceous comes from L siliceus, adj of silex (o.o.o.), any very hard stone, esp flint; on the o/s silic-, SciL forms silica. From 'silicate of quartz' derives silicosis (suffix -osis, connoting a disease); and from silica+alumina comes sial.

silk, silken, silkworm, silky. See SERGE, paras 3-4.

sil, the base of a frame: ME sille, var syll: OE syl or syll: cf OHG swelli, MHG swelle, G Schwelle, ON syll, svill, a threshold, OFris beddselma, bedstead, E selma, a bed, Gr selma, a beam, selis, a plank, prob Lith suólas, a bench, perh L solum, ground, soil, orig the flat, lower part of a whole, prob Go ga-suljan, to establish: the IE r is perh suel-*, flat base.

sillabub. See para 2 of:

silly, whence silliness, derives from ME seely, sely: OE sæelig, good, happy, adj of sæel, good fortune, happiness: cf the syn OS sálig and OHG sálig, MHG saelec, happy, G selig, blest, Go sels, good, MD salich, zalich, D zalig, blest, ON saell, good, kind: perh cf L sōlāri, to console, and—with h for s—Gr hilaros (for helaros*), cheerful: IE r, sel-*, happy.

2. Silly bub, simple liquor, becomes sillabub (cf dial sillibank), cider—or wine—mixed with milk to form a soft curd.

silo, whence silage; ensilage, ensile. Ensilage, adopted from F, derives from F ensiler, to put into (en) a silo; E from F silo is adopted from Sp; Sp silo derives, with l for r, from L sirus, trln of Gr siros, o.o.o., but perh from Gr Suria, Syria, silos having first been used in the Fertile Crescent: Egypt—Palestine, Syria—Mesopotamia.

silt. See SALT, para 11.

Silurian: L Silures, an ancient people of S. Wales: prob of C origin.

silva, silvan, Silvanus. See SAVAGE, para 2.

silver (n, hence adj and v), whence silvern (OE sylfren, seolfren) and silvery and numerous cpds, all self-explanatory.

Silver, ME silver or selver, earlier seolver, derives from OE seolfor, siolfor (-fur), silofr, sylofr, akin to OFris selover, selver, silver, OS silubar, OHG silabar, MHG-G silber, Go silubr, MD selver, silver, D zilver, ON silfr, also to Lith sidābras and one or two other Sl words: o.o.o.: perh Medit—? cf Eg hetch silver, and Hit hattus*, the Hattic (Hittite) metal, silver.

silvicolous, silvics, silviculture. See SAVAGE, para 4.

Simeon. See SIMONY.

simian. See the element simo-.

similar, similarity; simile; similitude. See SAME, para 5.

simmer eases the earlier syn simper, itself echoic.

simnel. See SEMOLINA, para 2.

simony: OF-F simonie: Eccl ML simonia, whence simoniacus, late MF-F simoniaque, E simoniac: simonia refers to Simon (the Magician: Magus), who attempted to bribe Saints Peter and Paul (Acts, viii, 9-24): Simon, L Simon, Gr Simōn, var Seimōn, H Shim'ōn, bearing, the bearer, whence also, via LGr Sumeōn, the LL Simeon, adopted by E.

simoon or simoom, a strong, suffocatingly hot, dry wind, represents Ar samiin, semūn, poisoning, from samm, to poison.

simper, to smile affectedly (whence the n), is app of Scan origin: cf the Da dial simper, var semper, coy, affected.

simple, simplex, simplicity, simplify. See PLY, paras 18-19.

simulacrum. See SAME, para 8, s.f. simulate, simulation. See SAME, para 8.

simultaneous. See SAME, para 7.

sin, n and v (whence sinner and sinning); sinful, sinless. The two adj derive, as OE synfull, synlēas, from the OE n syn, synn, whence also OE syngian, ME sinegen, singen, later sinnen, whence 'to sin': and OE syn, synn, is related to OFris sinne, OS sundia, OHG suntea, MHG-G sünde, MD sende, sunde, sonde, D zonde, ON synd, and, further off, to L sōns (o/s sont-), guilty, and 'morbus sonticus', a dangerous illness or disease; perh also to ON sannr, true, (but also) guilty. The sem and phon history at the Skt stage is obscure.

since: C16 sins, C15-16 syns: contr of ME sithens, contr of sithenes: ME sithen+gen-hence-adv ending -es: OE siththan, afterwards, (lit) after that: OE sith, after (prep and adv)+OE thon, instr of OE form of THE.

sincere, sincerity. The latter comes, through MF-F sincerité, from L sinceritātem, acc of sinceritās, itself from sincērus, pure (unmixed), whence EF-F sincère, whence E sincere; insincere, from LL insincērus, impure, with derivative LL insinceritās, whence E insincerity. L sincērus app has ult r sin-, id with the sim-, single, of L simplex. (E & M.)

incipital, inciput. See CHIEF, para 2, s.f.

Sind, Sindh, Sindhi. See INDIA, para 2.

sindon. See INDIA, para 3.

sine and cosine; sinus, sinuate, sinuous, sinuosity; insinuate (whence insinuating), insinuation, insinuatīve, insinuator (whence, anl, insinuator).

1. Cosine=co. sinus=complementi sinus, the sine of the complement; and Math sine comes from L sinus (gen -ūs), a concave fold, esp of a garment, hence breast, hence shelter, the L word (o.o.o.) being retained by An and Zoo for 'a cavity'.

2. L sinus has adj sinuōsus, bending in and out, hence serpentine, whence EF-F sinueux, f sinueuse, with EF-F derivative sinuosité: whence E sinuous and sinuosity.

3. L sinus (s sinu-) has v sinuāre, to wind in and out, with pp sinuātus, whence the E adj and v sinuate; derivative LL sinuātiō, o/s sinuātiōn-, yields sinuation.

4. L sinuāre is app a b/f from L insinuāre, esp in se insinuāre, to snake one's way into a place, hence into someone's confidence; the pp insinuātus yields 'to insinuate', and its LL derivatives insinuātiō, insinuātius (ML -ivus), insinuātor, all with senses mainly different from those of F and E, become E insinuation, insinulative, insinuator.

sinecure is the 'solid' of sine(-)cura, n, from Eccl ML sine cūra, without (L sine) care (L cūra: see CURE) of souls.

sinew (n, hence v), whence sinewy (adj -y), comes, via ME sinewe, senewe, from OE sinu, seonu: cf OHG senawa, MHG senewe, sene, G Sehne, MD senewe, senuwe, D zenuw, ON sin (cf Da sene), and Skt snāvas (? for senāwas*): IE r, sen-, var sin-.

sinful. See SIN.

sing, pt sang (occ sung), pp sung; whence singer and pa, vn singing;—song, songster (whence, anl, songstress);—perh singe, v hence n.

1. Sing, OE singan, is akin to OHG singan, MHG-G singen, OS singan, MD singen, MD-D zingen, to sing, Go siggwan (pron sing-wan), to intone or sing, ON syngva (syngja), Da syng, to singe.

2. Song, OE song, has OE var sang, akin to OHG-MHG sanc, G Sang, a singing, a song, Go saggws (pron sangws), MD sanc, zanc, sang, D zang, ON söngr; cf, remotely, Gr omphē (? for songhwd*). Walshe suggests that the OGmc vv derive, by b/f, from the PGmc nn.—Songster, orig f, derives, in part from song, in part from OE sangestre, female singer.

3. Perh akin to OE singan, to sing, is OE sengan, ME sengen, E 'to singe': cf OFris senga, sendza (sandza), MHG-G sengen, MD singen, sengen, D zengen: both Walshe, firmly, and Webster, tentatively, suggest that OGmc seng- is the caus form of OGmc sing-, to sing: 'to make (the flames) sing' or 'hiss'.

singe. See prec para.

singer. See SING (heading).

Singhalese, Sinhalese. See CEYLON.

single. See SAME, para 14.

single; singleton. See SAME, para 15.

singletree. See SWING (heading).

singular, singularity. See SAME, para 14.

sinister, whence the adj sinistral, sinistrate (cf LL sinistrātus; hence sinistration), sinistrous and the Chem n sinistrin (Chem suffix -in); cf the element sinistr(o).

Sinister, app imm from L, prob comes into E via the MF-F sinistre: L sinister, (placed or situated) on the left, cf the derivative sinistrum, the left side, and sinistra, the left hand, the complement of dextra, the right hand: hence unfavourable, orig in the language of augury; the modern E and F sense arises in C15 F. L sinister is o.o.o.; the suffix is -ter, as in dexter.

sink (v, hence n), pt sank (occ sunk), pp sunk, ppa sunken: ME sinken, OE sincan: cf OS sincan, OHG sinchan, MHG-G sincken, Go siggan (? pron singan), MD senken, sincken, D zinken, ON sökkva, to sink, Lith senkù, I sink: IE r, prob sengh-* or senkh-*, to collapse.

sinless, sinner. See SIN.

Sinn Fein: Ir sinn fein, we ourselves.

Sinologue. See the element Sinico-.

sinuate, sinuation. See SINE, para 3.

sinuosity, sinuous. See SINE, para 2.

sinus. See SINE, para 1.

Sion. See ZION.

Siouan is the adj of Sioux (pron see-oo), adopted from F: a shortening of F Nadowessioux: Chipewa Nádowessi, lit 'little snake, enemy', the Dakota tribe: app a dim of Nádowe, lit 'big snake', the Iroquois. (Mathews; Webster.)

sip. See SUP, para 4.

siphon (n, hence v), siphonium, siphuncle; cf the element siphoni- (or -no-).

Siphuncle derives from L siphunculus, dim of siphō, tube, siphon, acc siphōnem, whence EF-F siphon, adopted by E; the L word derives from Gr siphōn, with dim siphōnion, whence the SciL siphonium in Zoo.

sippet. See SUP.

sir. See SENILE, para 7.

sire. See SENILE, para 6.

Siren, siren, syren. The 3rd, esp as 'warning instrument' (or its sound), is prop a misspelling of the 2nd; the 2nd, a dangerously attractive woman, orig luring by song, generalizes the 1st, one of a group of minor female divinities enchanting sailors to their doom, as in The Odyssey: L Siren: Gr Seirēn: ? 'The Binder, the Spellbinder', as Hofmann implies—cf Gr seirā, Ionic seiré, a rope, and—for the IE r sei-*, to bind—Skt syāti, he binds. The adj sirenic, with extn sirenical, prob derives from Gr seirēnikos, Syren-like.

sirloin. See LOIN, para 2.

sirocco: It sirocco, sciocco: Ar sharqī, eastern, used elliptically for an easterly wind: sharq, the east + adj suffix -ī.

sirrah, sirree. See SENILE, para 7.

sirup, sirupy. See the 2nd SHRUB, para 3.

sisal stands for sisal hemp, hemp from Sisal, once a seaport of Yucatan in CA: Mayan sisal, cold waters.

siscowet. See CISCO.

sise. See SIX, para 6.

sissy: adj of sis, a girl, prop a sister. Hence n.

sist (v, hence n).—Cpds in -sist, v (and its derivatives): assist (v, hence n), assistance, assistant, (from assist) assistful and assistless; consist, con- sistence (with extn consistency), consistent, consistorial, consistorian, consistory; desist, desistance, desistive; exist, existence, existent, existential, existentialism; insist, insistent, insistence; persist, persistence (with extn persistency), persistent; resist (v. hence n)—resistable, resistible and irresistible—resistance, resistant—(from resist) resistful and resistless—resistive, whence, anl, resistivity—resistor and resister, both from resist; subsist, subsistence, subsistent, subsistential.

1. 'To sist', to stay (vt) or cause to stand, comes from L sistere (s sist-), to cause to stand: sistere, then, is the caus of L stāre, to stand, stō, I stand: cf STATE: f.a.e., STAND. (The STAND constellation is so vast that, in this dictionary, it would be inconvenient to have only one entry: see the groups at STATE and at STAND.)

2. Of the numerous cpds, the first is assist, MF-F assistere, to cause to stand ad or by, hence to stand by (someone); the F presp assistant, used also as n, is adopted by E, as is its derivative the MF-F assistance. L assistere, to stand near.

3. L consistere (int con-), to stand firm, yields—perh via MF-F consistere—'to consist'; the presp consistens, o/s consistent-, used as adj by LL, becomes consistent (cf F consistant), whence inconsistent; derivative LL consistentia yields MF consistence (F -ance), adopted by E. On the L s consist-arises LL consistorium, a place of assembly, hence an assembly, whence ONF consistorie (OF-F consistoire), whence E consistory; derivative ML consistorialis, adj, and LL consistorianus, adj and n, become E consistorial (as in MF-F) and E consistorian, adj and n.

4. L dēsistere, to cease dē- or from, to renounce, becomes MF-F (se) dēsister, whence 'to desist', whence, anl, desistance and desistive.

5. L existere, LL existere, to stand forth, emerge, to exist, becomes MF-F exister, whence 'to exist'; presp existens, existens, o/s ex(s)istent-, yields existent; derivative LL ex(s)istentia yields MF-F existence, adopted by E. LL ex(s)istentia has—prob after essentialis—derivative adj ex(s)istentiālis, whence E existential, whence existentialism—cf F existenciel, existencialisme. The LL neg inex(s)istens, unsubstantial, non-existent, becomes E inexistent (cf F inexistant), whence, unless from EF-F inexistence, the E inexistence; non-existent and non-existence prob owe something to F non-existent, non-existence.

6. L insistere, to stand in or upon, to apply oneself diligently to, to insist, becomes MF-F insister, whence 'to insist'; the L presp insistens, o/s insistent-, yields insistent, adj, whence insistence (cf F insistance).

7. L persistere, to stand per- or firm, becomes MF-F persistere, whence 'to persist'; the L presp persistens, o/s persistent-, E persistent; derivative LL persistentia, E persistence (cf MF-F persistance).

8. L resistere, 'to cause to stand re- or back, to stand against, to withstand or oppose, passes through MF-F résister, into E 'to resist', whence resistable and—cf F résistible—resistible, with neg irresistible perh prompted by F irrésistible, from ML irresistibilis. The F presp résistant, used as adj, becomes E resistant, and derivative MF-F résistance, perh suggested by LL resistentia, becomes resistance; resistive='to resist' + adj -ive.

9. L subsistere (L sub-, under, connotes endurance—cf suffer), to stay still or alive, to endure, LL to exist, to subsist, yields MF-F subsister and, perh independently, E subsist; the L presp subsistens, o/s subsistent-, yields subsistent; derivative LL subsistentia, substance, leads to at least the form of E subsistence; the occ var subsistance is prob adopted from EF-F. Derivative LL subsistentiālis, endowed with existence or life, yields E subsistential.

sister. See ADDENDA.

sistrum. See SEISMIC.

sit (v, hence n), whence sitter and pa, vn sitting—pt sat, archaic sate—pp sat, obs sitten; set (v, hence n), whence settee, setter and pa, vn setting—cf settle, n and v (whence settlement and settler); sep SADDLE; seat, n, hence v, whence pa, vn seating; sedate, sedation, sedative—sedent, sedentary, sederunt—sedilia, sediment (whence sedimentary)—see, n—sessile, session (whence sessional, sessionary); séance; siege, besiege (whence besieger and pa, vn besieging).—Cpd in -sede: supersede, supersedeas, supersession (whence, anl, supersessive)—cf surcease, v, hence n.—Cpds in -sid-, from L -sidere, c/f of sedere, and in -sess: assess, assession, assessor—assident, assiduity, assiduous—cf assize(s), whence assizer, cf also sizar and size; dissidence, dissident (adj, hence n); insidiate, insidious; obsidional (whence, anl, the var obsidionary)—obsess (whence, anl, obsessive), obsession (whence obsessional), obsessor; sep POSSESS, etc.; preside, presidence and presidency, president (adj and n), presidential, presidium (whence presidial); reside, residence (whence the var residency), resident (adj, hence n; whence residential), residentiality—cf residue (whence, anl, residual, residuary), residium; subside, subsidence, subsident, subsidiary (adj, hence n), subsidy (whence, anl, subsidize); cf the sep SOOT.—Gr hedra, a seat, see the element -hedral; Sanhedrin; cf CATHEDRAL, q.v. at the sep CHAIR.

Indo-European

1. With E sit, seat, set, akin to L sedere, to sit, and, with h- for s-, Gr hedra, a seat, cf also Skt śdāti, he sits, and sādas, a seat, OSi śēditū, he is seated, Lith šėdėti, to sit, OIr saiddi, thou art seated, W assedu, Br azéza (for adseda*), to sit: IE r, sed-*.

Greek

2. As Gr hedra stands for sedra*, so the syn hedos stands for sedos*.—Chair has, with cathedral, been treated at the former word; there remains only Sanhedrin: LH sanhedrin: Gr sunédriōn, lit a sitting sun- or together, hence an assembly, -(h)edriōn being an end-c/f of hedra; cf the LL synedrium, a council-chamber.

Latin

3. L sedere (s and r, sed-), to sit, has derivative nn:

sēdēs, a seat, acc sēdem, whence OF-MF sied, sie, the latter yielding the E see, a seat, esp of power or dignity, e.g. of a bishop, hence the seat or focus of a bishopric; sedile, a seat, pl sedilia, adopted by Eccl E; sedimen, var sedimentum, a sitting, a settlement, hence what has settled at the bottom, whence (EF-F sédiment and) E sediment;

sedla*, eased to sella, a seat, esp on horseback, whence OF-F selle, whence E sell, a saddle (archaic; obs, a throne); hence the learned E adj sellate;

VL sedica* or sedicum*, a seat, whence OF-MF siege, a place where one sits, also where one establishes oneself, EF-F siège; the military sense arises either in late OF or in very early MF, and from MF siege, var sege, comes ME sege and E siege, whence the rare 'to siege', usu expressed by 'to besiege', ME besegen (be-, round about, locally by).

4. Before passing to the presp and pp (and their derivatives) of sedere, it is well to note the var sidere, occurring in possidere, to own (see the sep POSSESS), and the caus sedare, to cause to sit, hence to quieten or keep quiet, to allay or calm, with pp sedātus, whence the E adj (and obs v) sedate; derivatives sedātiō, o/s sedātiōn-, and ML sedātivus, tending to calm, yield E sedation and sedative, adj hence n.

5. L sedere, to sit, has presp sedens, o/s sedent-, whence the E adj sedent, sitting. On the o/s sedentarius L sedentārius, habitually or necessarily sitting, late MF-F sédentaire, E sedentary. The v-part sedērunt, they have sat, has become an E legal n.

6. The cpd supersedere, to sit super or above, to be superior to, hence to omit or forbear doing, yields late MF-EF superseder, whence 'to supersede', the occ var supercede deriving from the MF-EF var superceder; both L supersedere and supercedeas, Mayst thou forbear, have become E legal nn. The pp supersessus has derivative ML supersessio, o/s -sessiōn-, whence E supersession.

7. L supersedere, in its legal sense 'to stay', becomes OF-F surseoir, pp sursis, whence, influenced by CEASE, the E 'to surcease', to desist.

8. L sedere has pp sessus, s sess-, on which arise L sessilis, capable of serving as seat or base, whence E sessile;

L sessiō, o/s sessiōn-, whence E session.

9. L sedere becomes OF-F seoir, with presp seant, later séant, whence the EF-F n séance, a sitting, a session, esp of spiritualists.

Latin Compounds in sid- and sess-

10. The predominant c/f of sedere is -sidere, presp -sidens (o/s -sident), pp -sessus. The 1st is adsidere, to sit ad, at or by, usu eased to assidere (s assid-), with presp assidens, o/s assident-, whence the Med E adj assident. On the s assid- is formed the L adj assiduus, constantly sitting near, hence diligent, persistent, whence E assiduous; the derivative assiduitās, acc assiduitātem, yields MF-F assiduité, whence E assiduity.

11. Assidere has pp assessus, whence assessiō, o/s assessiōn-, E assession; whence also the LL assessāre, to value or rate for taxing (cf the syn LL sense of assidere), E 'to assess', whence assessment; whence also assessor, a sitter-beside, LL a valuer for taxes, MF-F assesseur, E assessor.

12. L assidere becomes OF-F asseoir, pp assis, f assise used as OF-F n, session, esp, MF-F, in a lawcourt: whence ME assise: E assize, esp in the pl, periodical sessions of justice. Aphetic for assize, esp in sense 'assessment', is size, a standard of conduct, etc., physical extent, hence proportions, at the University of Cambridge an allowance of victuals, whence sizar. The OF-F assise, settlement, a basic layer (of, e.g., cement), develops the sense 'a setting', hence 'a material that sets', whence E size, glue, shellac, etc., with derivative v.

13. L dissidere, to sit dis- or apart, hence to sit opposite, to differ in opinion, has presp dissidens, o/s dissident-, whence E dissident; derivative L dissidentia yields E dissidence.

14. L insidere, to sit in, has derivative insidiae, an ambush, with adj insidiōsus, late MF-F insidieux, f insidieuse, E insidious, and with v insidiāri, to lie in ambush, pp insidiātus, whence insidiātiō, o/s insidiātiōn-, whence the obsol insidiate, insidation.

15. L obsidere, to sit, hence be established, in front of (a place), to occupy it, has pp obsessus, whence 'to obsess'; derivative obsessiō, o/s obsessiōn-, yields (late MF-F and) E obsession, and agent obsessor is adopted. On the L inf s obsidi- is formed obsidiō, a siege, o/s obsidiōn-, with adj obsidiōnalis, whence E obsidional.

16. L praesidere, to sit in front of, hence in authority over, whence late MF-F présider, E 'to preside'. The presp praesidens, o/s praesident-, yields MF president, EF-F prés-, whence E president, n, the adj coming from L praesident-; derivative MF-F présidence becomes E presidence with var presidency; derivative ML praesidentialis yields E presidential (cf F présidentiel). On the L inf s praesid- arises praesidium, a presiding over, hence a garrison, a defence, adopted by E, whence the adj presidial—? prompted by the LL praesidiārius.

17. L residere, to sit back (re-), hence to stay behind, hence to remain, hence, in LL, to sojourn, yields, via late MF-F résider, the E 'to reside'; the presp residens, acc residentem, becomes MF resident, EF-F résident, E resident, adj; derivative MF residence, EF-F résidence, leads to E residence; the derivative ML adj residentiārius, resident, becomes the Eccl residential.

18. Also on the L inf s resid- is formed the L adj residuus, with neu residuum used as n, both adopted by E and, via MF-F residu, anglicized as residue.

19. L subsidiere, to sit under, hence to sit or be placed in reserve, affords us 'to subside'. Derivative subsidiūm, troops placed in reserve, hence support or assistance, hence a loan, a tax, whence MF-F subsidi, AF subsidi, E subsidy; the derivative L adj subsidiarius becomes (MF-F subsidiare and) E subsidiary. The presp subsidents, o/s subsident-, accounts for E subsident; its derivative subsidentia for E subsidence.

Germanic

20. 'To sit', ME sitten, OE sittan, is akin to OFris sitta, OS sittian, OHG sizzan, MHG-G sitzen, Go sitan, MD siti, D zitten, ON sitja (sitja). Akin to ON sitia, to sit, is ON saeti, a seat, whence ME saete, var sete, whence E seat.

21. The OGmc vv for 'to sit' have a corresp caus 'to seat', the OE being settan, ME setten, E set: cf OFris setta, OS settian, OHG sezzēn, MHG-G setzen, MD setten, D zetten, G satjan.—'To set' has derivative settee, where one 'sets (oneself or others) down'.

22. Not a freq of OE settan, but a derivative of OE setl, a seat, is OE setlan, ME setlen, E 'to settle', orig to place in a seat, hence to place oneself there, to establish oneself: and OE setl, whence ME setil or setel, whence E settle (n), is akin to OHG sezal, MHG sezzel, G Sessel, and Go sitls—and, further off, L sella (for sedla*) and OB sedlo, a saddle (cf SADDLE itself).

site. See SILENCE, para 2.

sitter, sitting. See SIT (heading).

situate, situation. See SILENCE, para 2.

Siva. See CITY (heading).

Siwash, siwash (n, v). Both siwash, an Alaskan dog, and 'to siwash', to live like a Red Indian, esp to travel very light, derive from Siwash, an Indian of the N Pacific coast of America: and Siwash itself is a Chinook-jargon word—a corruption of the F sauvage, uncivilized, wild (f.a.e., SAVAGE).

six, sixth—sixteen, sixteenth—sixty, sixtieth; L sex, 6—sexagenary, Sexagesima, sexagesimal; sex-angle, sexennial—sex—sextain, sextan—sextant—sextet (or sextette)—sextic, sextile—sexto—sextuple (whence sextuplet, whence, anl, sextuplicate); senary; sestet; sestina; siesta; sise; Sistine; sixte.—Gr hex: cf the element hexa-; for E cpds, see HEX-; samite.

1. E six, OE six, siex, seox, is akin to OFris sex, OS sehs, OHG-MHG sehs, G sechs, MD ses, sesse, D zes, G saihs; ON sex; OIr sé, Ga sè, W chwech, Br c'houech, Cor whēgh, whēh, hwēh, Mx shey; Tokh sāk; OSl šestī, Lith šeši; with h- for s-, Gr hex (dial wex); Skt ṣaṣ, Av khšvaš; Gmc etymon, sehs*; IE etymon, sueks*, sweks*, perh an s--reinforcement of ueks* or weks*—cf Arm veç and OP uschts. (Hofmann.)

2. OE six has derivative sixta, whence E sixth: cf OFris sexta*, OHG sehsto, G sechste, Go salhsta, OIr ressed, Lith šeštas, L sextus, Gr hektos.

3. OE six has the further derivatives sixtēne or sixtŷne, with ordinal sixtēoþa, and sixtig or sixstig, with ordinal sixtigoþa or sixtigoþa: whence E sixteen and, in part, sixteenth, and E sixty and sixtieth. All four words have numerous IE, esp Gmc, cognates.

4. L sex, 6, occurs in the foll derivatives notably relevant to E:

sexāgēni, 60 each, with adj sexāgēnārius, whence E sexagenary, whence the n sexagenarian, a person 60 years old;

sexāgēsīmus, 60th, f sexāgēsīma used as n in LL sexāgēsīma (sc diēs, day), our Sexagesima (Sunday); the ML extn sexāgēsīmālis becomes E sexagesimal; sexangulus, 6-angled, whence E sexangle, a hexagon; sexennium, a 6-year (annus, c/f -enn-) period, adopted by E, which forms the adj sexennial; sextius, 6th, f sextia, used as n by LL, whence E sex, a canonical hour; whence It sesto, with derivative sestina, a verse-form adopted by E, with var (as in F) sestine; sextāneus, belonging to the 6th, whence SciL sextanus, whence the Med E adj and n sextan; the L and SciL adj have, influenced by It sestina, (obs) F sestine, prompted E sextain; sextans (from sextus), o/s sextant-, a 6th part, yields E sextant, in Math the 6th part of a circle, hence the naut instrument; sextilis, 6th, used also as n: whence E sextile; sextio, abl of sextus, used as E n in the making of books.

5. The L for '6 each' is sēni (for sexnoi*), which has adj sēnārius, comprising 6 units; whence E senary.

6. Less directly from L are:
sextet, sextette: L sextus+n-dim -et; cf sestet, from It sestetto, an -etto n from sesto, 6th (L sextus);

sextic, adj hence n: L sextus+adj -ic; sextuple: L sextus+-uple, as in quadruple, quintuple, etc.;

sise, a cast of 6 (in dicing): OF sis (F six): L sex; sixte, in fencing: EF-F sixte, var of OF-MF siste, 6th (L sextus); siesta: adopted from Sp for '6th (hour)': suggested by L sexta hora;

Sistine: It sistino, adj for any Pope named Sixtus (sixtus: a late ML var of L sextus, 6th): famous to bookmen and art-lovers.

7. Of the E words derived from Gr hex, 6, the least obvious, perh the most interesting, is samite, which comes from OF-MF samit, from ML samitum, an aphetic var of examitum, from MGr hexamiton, from Gr hexamitos, six-thread: hexa-, c/f of hex+mitos, a thread: cf dimity. sixteen, sixteenth. See prec, para 3.

sixth. See six, para 2. sixtieth, sixty. See six, para 3. sizar. See sit, para 12.
size, magnitude, glue; hence v (whence sizable) corresp to each sense. See sit, para 12.

sizzle, whence pa, vn sizzling: a freq of sis or sizz, a, or to, hiss: echoic.

sjambok: SAfr sjambok: Mal cambok, a nasalized derivative from Per chābuk, a whip.

skald. See SCOLD.

skate (1), the fish: ON skata: o.o.o.

skate (2), for moving on ice (whence the v), is a b/f from earlier skates, a trin of ED (C16) schaeitse (D *skaat*s): OF-MF eschace (F échasse), orig a stilt (cf OProv escassa, a cripple's crutch): Frankish skatja*—cf Fris skatja, a stilt, and LG schake, a shank, a bone, the earliest skates being quadrupeds' thin bones (Webster).

skedaddle. See SCATTER, para 2.

skeet. See SHOOT, para 9.

skag. See SHAG, para 3.

skain (1), of yarn, silk, wool: ME skeyne: MF escaigne (F écagne): o.o.o.: perh a reinforcement (IE prefix s-) of L canna, a reed, for (Dauzat) early reeler or winders consisted of reeds.

skain (2), in basketwork. See SHIN, para 2.

skeletal, skeleton. See SHALLOW, para 3.

skelp, n and v: Sc, Ir, E dial for '(to deliver) a smart blow': echoic.

skep, a coarse round basket, hence a measure of capacity, with var skip: ME skep: ON skeppa: cf OHG scaf, a measure, and OHG scefil, MHG-G scheffel, a bushel: perh from the Gmc word for 'to make' (e.g. OHG scaffen, MHG-G schaffen; E 'to shape').

skeptic, skeptical, skepticism. See ADDENDA.

sketch (n, hence v), whence sketchy. See SCHEMA, para 3.

skew (1), in architecture: ME skewe, earlier scuwe: aphectically from OF-MF escu (F écu): L scūtum a shield: f.a.e., SCUTAGE.

skew (2), vi and vt, to turn obliquely, to twist, whence the adj and n skew: ME skewen: ONF eskieru, escuer: OF-MF eschuiver (F esquiver): cf ESCHER—SHUN—SHY, adj.—Hence skewness and skewy.

skewbald. See SKY, para 2.

skewer. See the 1st SHIVER.

skewness, skewy. See the 2nd SKEW, s.f.

ski, n hence v (whence skier), is adopted from Nor and comes from ON skīth, a billet of wood, akin to OE scid, scide, whence E slide, a thin board, and to OHG scit, MHG schit, G Scheit, a log: f.a.e., the 2nd SHED.

2. From ON skīth derives, ult, the E skid, a log, or a plank, set under, e.g., a structure or on a roll-way.

skiagraphy, skiapod. See the element scia-.

skid (1), n (hence v), a supporting log, etc. See SKI, para 2.

skid (2), v (hence n), to slide noisily. See the 3rd SCUTTLE, para 3.

skiff. See SHIP, para 2.

skill, n (whence skillful) and v (whence the pa skilled); a shoal or school of fish.

1. Skill, n, discernment or judgement (obs), hence the ability to use one's judgement or knowledge, esp in a particular art or science, derives, through ME skile or skil, from ON skil, discernment, very closely related to ON skilja, to part or separate, hence to distinguish, whence ME skilen, E 'to skill': cf MD-D verschillend, different, from

MD-D verschillen, to differ (cf MD-D verschil, difference), MLG schillen, to differ (schele, a difference): there are several OHG-G cognates.

2. A school of fish is adopted from MD-D school, MD var shole, akin to the syn E shoal, from OE scolu, sceolu, a company or troop, akin to OS skola.

skillagalee, var of skilligalee; skilly. The 3rd is short for the 2nd: dial and s for gruel or a thin broth: o.o.o.: prob of C origin—cf Ga sgilig, shelled grain, from Ga sgil, a husk, a shell, akin to ON skilja, to separate (cf SKILL).

skillet, a small cooking pot or kettle, frying-pan, etc.: o.o.o.: perh from MF escuelette, dim of OF-MF escuelle (F écuelle), a pan: L scutella (a salver), q.v. at SCUTAGE.

skilligalee, skilly. See SKILLAGALEE.

skim, v (whence skimmer), hence n and—prob for skimmed—adj; scum, n (whence scummy) and v; scumble, v (freq of 'to scum'), hence n; meer-schaum.

1. 'To skim', late ME-E, is a thinning of ME scume, E 'to scum', itself from the ME n scume, whence the E n scum: and ME scume comes from MD schume, schüm, schuum, akin to OHG scūm, MHG schūm, G Schaum, foam, and perh, ult, to L scūtum (see SCUTAGE).

2. G Schaum occurs in the cpd Meerschaum, lit 'sea-foam'—cf E MERE, a pond, a lake.

skim, skimp. See SCANT, para 3.

skin, n (whence skinny), hence v (whence skinner); skint (one who would skin a flint).—A skin or hide came into ME from ON skinn (cf Sw skinn); literally that which one peels off, it is akin to MD schinnen, D schinden, OHG scintan, MHG-G schinden, to flay, MHG schint, a peel, and Br scant (? for scantos*), a fish-scale, Ir scáinim, I tear or burst, G sgäin, to tear or burst, Cor cen, a skin or peel, OC r scan* (var of scal*), to tear (Malvezin).

skink (a small lizard): L scincus: Gr skinkos (σκινκος), var skingos (σκινγος): o.o.o.: ? Medit—cf Eg hentasu, hunta, a lizard.

skip (1), a basket. See SKEP.

skip (2), to move with light, low leaps (whence skipper, skipping), hence n: ME skippen: a thinned derivative from the OScan skop-*, to leap, to run, attested by ON skopa and OSw skoppa, var skuppa: cf also Lith skūbti, to hasten, MHG schüft, a gallop, and perh OE wid-scop, ? running far and wide. (Holthausen.)

skipper, captain. See SHIP, para 3.

skirl. See SHRILL, para 2.

skirmish, n and v; scrimmage, n, hence v, and its orig dial var scrummage (n, hence v), with shortened form scrum, n hence v, whence scrummer and scrumming.

Scrimmage, orig a skirmish, hence a fencing bout, hence a confused struggle, whence the Rugby Football sense, is an alteration, app at first a Sc, and a NE E dial, of skirmish, via a dial and illiterate scrimmish: and a skirmish, ME scarmsishe, earlier skarmoch(e), derives from late MF-EF escarmuche (earlier MF escharmuches; F escarmouche), prob from It scaramuccia, prob of Gmc origin; 'to skirmish', ME skirmishen, earlier scarmishen, prob from OF-EF escremir, to fight with the sword, from OGmc (western) skirmjan*—cf MHG schirmen, to fence, and OHG scirm, MHG-G schirm, protection. It is prob, not certain, that the presumed OGmc origin of It scaramuccia is id with the Gmc origin of OF escremir.

skirt. See SHARE, para 9.

skit. See SHOOT, para 10.

skite. See SHOOT, para 11.

skitter. See SHOOT, para 12.

skittish. See SHOOT (heading).

skittle, skittles. See SHOOT, para 12.

skaal!: Nor, Da skaal!, from skaal, a cup: ON skál, a bowl.

skua, of Scan origin, is akin to ON skúfr, OHG scubil, Ru čub, čup, a tuft, a knob.

skulk. See SCOWL, para 2.

skull. See SHELL, para 4.

skunk, a fur-bearing quadruped able to emit a stinking secretion (whence the fig use), is of Alg origin: cf, esp, Abnaki segonku, a skunk, and even Massachusetts sagket, a urinator.

sky, n (whence skyey), hence v, with cpd ensky; many obvious cpds, e.g. skylark (cf LARK) and skyscraper.—Sky comes, by way of ME skie, sky, cloud, from ON ský, a cloud, hence a cloudy sky: cf ON skuggi, OE scua or scuwa, OHG scūwo, a shadow, with a Gmc var indicated by the syn OE scēo and OS skio; therefore of the -scu- of L obscurus, dark, shadowy, and Skt skutás, covered, and therefore of L scūtum, a shield (cf SCUTAGE): basically, the sky is 'the coverer'.

2. The ON ský, a cloudy sky, becomes ME skewe (pl skewes), to which, app, is akin the ME skewed, (of a horse, etc.) piebald, whence—after piebald—the E skewbald.

slab (1), n (whence slabby), hence v: a thick slice, a plate, of, e.g., bread, meat, timber: ME slab, earlier slabbe, sclabbe, is o.o.o. but perh akin to MF esclate (F éclat), a fragment, a shred, from OF-MF esclater (F éclater), perh from Frankish slaitan* (cf OHG slēzan, G schleissen), to tear or slit. Cf SLAT (1).

slab (2), slime, hence as adj; slabber and slaver; slob, mire, hence (also in part from next term) a dull lout—slobber, v, hence n; slub, mire—slubber, v; cf the obs redup slibber-slabber, or derivatively (?) slibber-sauce, a sloppy food or medicine or cosmetic.

1. In this group, E and E dial exhaust the gamut of the IE short vowels, for dial fills the gap in the list by offering sleb, a large underlip (tending to be wet), and slebbly, a var of slabby, sloppy or greasy; the basic idea is '(a sloppy or slovenly or sickening) wetness, hence mire, ooze, slime'; the languages mostly concerned are app E, D, LG, Ice.

2. The now mainly dial slab, mire, slime, comes from Scan, perh direct from the syn, now obs, Da slab—cf Sw dial slabb.

3. 'To slabber', to drool, slobber, gulp, prob comes from LG: cf the syn LG slabberen, a freq (denoted by -er) of a Gmc v attested by MD-D slabben, var slebben; cf also the Ice slafra.

4. 'To slaver', or drool, is prob of Scan origin: ? ult from the ON origin of Ice slafra.

5. The mostly AIR slob, mire, ooze, whence the Can slob, mushy ice, either derives from or was prompted by the syn Ir slab. Akin is 'to slobber' or drool: app of D (or LG) origin—cf MD -slobberen, slubberen, D slobberen: cf 'to slabber'.

6. Slub, slime, slush, comes from MD slubbe: cf the related MD slubberen and MLG slubbern, from either or both of which comes 'to slubber' or daub.

7. The D-LG words mentioned in paras 5–6 also denote 'to lap (milk)', as also do D slabberen and slabben. Ult, all these words are echoic.

slabber, to drool. See prec, para 3.

slack (adj, n, v), slacken, slackness, slacks. See LANGUID, para 16.

slag, dross, whence slaggy, derives from MLG slagge (whence, via LG slacke, the G Schlacke): orig, 'scales which fly off when metal is struck' (Walshe)—therefore from OHG slahan, MHG slahen, G schlagen, to strike: cf the E SLAY.

slain. See SLAY (heading).

slake. See LANGUID, para 17.

slam (v, hence n), to strike hard and sharply, is, imm, of Scan origin and, ult, echoic: cf the syn Nor slemma, var slemba, and slam, a sharp slap or blow.

slander. See ASCEND, para 3.

slang, slangy. See SLING, para 2.

slant, v (whence the pa slanting), hence n, whence adv aslant (a-, on—sc the—slant), used also as adj, whence prob the adj slant.

'To slant' comes from ME slenten, to slope, also to slide: cf Nor dial slenta, to slope, Sw slinta, to slide: nasalized derivatives of the Scan r attested by ON slatta, to slide: ? echoic.

slap, n, hence adv and v; hence such cpds as slapdash, slapjack, slapstick.

A slap, ME slappe, like the late MHG slappe (G Schlappe), a blow in the face, is patently echoic.

slash (v, hence n), whence agent slasher and pa, vn slashing, derives from ME slaschen: o.o.o.: perh cf the OF-MF esclasier, var of esclacier, to break, itself prob of Gmc origin: ult, echoic.

slat, a piece of slate, a lath; slate, a flat layer—or a piece—of laminated rock, usu rectangular, hence the rock so called, whence slaty.

Slat, ME sclat, derives, by apheresis, from OF-MF esclat (F éclat), which, deriving from esclater (F éclater), means a piece broken off, a fragment or a splinter; slate, ME sclate, derives similarly from OF-MF esclate, f of esclat: and OF-MF esclater is—via Frankish—app akin to OHG slizan, G schleissen, and E SLIT—therefore to the 1st SLAB.

slat (2), to throw smartly or violently (now mostly dial); slattern.

Slat, like slap, is echoic: cf ON slatta, to slap, to throw. It has the freq slatter (? influenced by scatter), to spill, or slop, carelessly, vi to be slovenly: clearly akin is slattern, a sloven.

slate. See the 1st SLAT.

slatter, slattern. See 2nd SLAT.

slaughter. See SLAY, para 2.

Slav. See para 1 of:

slave (n, hence v, with cpd enslave, whence enslavement), whence the agent slaver, slavery, slavish; Slav, Slavic—Slavonia, whence Slavonian (adj, hence n) and Slavonic—Slovak (cf CZECHOSLOVAK) and Slovene (n, hence adj).

1. Both slave and Slav occur in ME as sclauē, sclave, and Sclauē, Sclave, both from ML sclavus, Sclavus; the ML var slavus, Slavus accounts for EE-E slave, Slav. The original sense, therefore, is 'a Slav'; that of 'slave' arose mainly from the fact that 'during the eastward expansion of the Germans in the Middle Ages the Slav populations were enslaved or destroyed' (Walshe, who aptly cfs, sem, the OE wealh, a Celt, a slave: see WELSH) and, much less, from the raids made by the Venetians upon Slavonia during the Crusades (B & W). Cf MF-F esclave and Slave, and late MHG slave and, as in G, sklave, a slave.

2. ML Slavus is the nearer to the OSI forms; ML Sclavus, to the imm source, LGr Sklabos, a Slav, app a contr derivative of LGr Sklabēnos, Slavic (cf ByzGr Sklauēnos, ML Sclavenus); Slavic derives, ult, from the LGr adj Sklabikos. The OSI Slovēne, a Slav, lit 'the speaker' (hence 'intelligent person'), derives from OSI slovo, a word, opp the Germans, who were called 'the mutes'.

3. The principal modern Sl names for the Slavs are Ru Slavjane, Pol Slowiane, Cz Slované, Serbo-Croat Slaweni or Sloveni; and the foll names of countries or regions all mean, ult, 'land of the Slavs': Slavonia (earlier Sclavonia—cf F Esclavonte), Serbo-Croat Slavonija, a region of Yugoslavia; Slovakia, Slovene Slovensko; Slovenia, Slovene Slovenija, another region of Yugoslavia. With Slavonia (Sci-), cf the LGr Sklabinia, ML Sclavinia, a Slavic settlement in Macedonia, and with Slavonic cf ML sclavonicus, servile; Slovakia derives (-ia) from Slovak, from Cz slovák, orig a Slav; Slovenia, from Slovene, from G Slowene, from the Slovene name.

slaver (1), a slave-trader or -ship. See prec (heading).

slaver (2), to drool. See the 2nd SLAB, para 3.

slavery. See SLAVE (heading).

Slavic. See SLAVE, para 2.

slavish. See SLAVE (heading).

Slavonia, Slavonian, Slavonic. See SLAVE, para 3 and heading.

slaw, sliced cabbage as salad: D sla, contr of salade, adopted from F: f.a.e., SALT.

slay (whence slayer), pt slew, pp slain; slaughter (n, hence v), whence slaughterhouse, -man, etc.—cf onslaught; sledge, a large, heavy hammer, whence, taut, sledgehammer—cf sley; perh sly, whence slyness, and therefore sleight and sloyd.

1. 'To slay' derives, by a kind of b/f (prob influenced by the pp and by OFris), from ME slan, varr slaen and sleen, from OE slēan, to slay, and (for slan) ON slā: cf OFris slā, OS slahan, OHG slahan, MHG slahen, occ slān, G schlagen, Go slahan, MD slaen, D slann, ON slā, to strike, and OIr slacaim, sligim, I strike, Ga slaic, a heavy or noisy stroke or blow, Ga slaightire, a rogue, I slaidhteoir, MÍr slaitaile, a robber.

2. Akin to and prob deriving from OE slēan is OE *sleah*t, slaughter, whence ME slaht, slaught; the latter form survives in E onslaught, a slaughter on, i.e. a fierce or murderous attack. ME slaht, slaught has influenced ME slaghter, slaughter, slauhter, which comes from ON slátr, butcher's meat.

3. The heavy hammer known as a sledge derives from OE slecg, akin to ON sleggja (sleggja) and MD-D slegge, themselves akin to the OGmc 'strike, hence slay' words. The sley of weaving—a batten, a lathe—derives from OE sege, akin to OFris slei and OS slegi, lit a heavy stroke.

4. Prob akin to E slay, OE slēan, is E sly, orig shrewd, clever, skilful, ME sli, earlier sleih, earliest *sleg*h, from the ON slaegr: cf, sem, the G verschlagen, cunning, sly, and schlagfertig, ready (fertig) to strike (schlagen), hence ready-witted (Webster), and also MHG verlahen, to cheat.

5. ON sloegr, skilful, shrewd, cunning, sly, has derivative *slaeg*h, skill, cunning, slyness: whence ME *slegh*t, later sleighte and sliht: whence E sleight, skill, cunning, whence sleight(-)of(-)hand.

6. Akin to ON *sloeg*h is Sw slöjd, skill, dexterity skilled work: whence E sloyd, (a system of) manual training.

slavee. See SLIVER.

sled (n, hence v, whence sledding)—sledge, vehicular—sleigh; slide (v, hence n), pt and pp slid—slidder—slither.

1. The basic idea of the group is 'to slide': and slide itself comes from ME sliden, OE slidan akin to OE slidor, slippery, whence OE sliderian, E slidder (now dial), to slide, whence the adj *slidder*y: cf slithery, from the n slither, from 'to slither', a var of slidder.

2. With OE slidan and OE slidor, cf Lith slidùs, smooth, slippery, and MHG sliten, to slide: akin to all of which is E sled, ME sledde, adopted from MD slede (as still in D), akin to OHG slito, MHG slite, G Schlitten, a sleigh. Cf the now dial E slead, ME slede, adopted from D slede, akin to MD slede.

3. Akin to MD slede is MD sleedse, whence E sledge, the vehicle; and MD slede becomes ED-D slee, whence E SLEIGH.

sledge (1), a heavy hammer. See SLAY, para 3.

sledge (2), a vehicle. See SLED, para 3.

sleek, sleekness. See the 1st LIME, para 2. sleep (n, v, with pt, pp slept), sleeper, sleeping (from 'to sleep'), sleepy. The last derives from OE slāepig, from OE slāep, whence the E n sleep; sleeper derives from OE slāepere, from OE slāepan, whence ME slepen, E 'to sleep'. OE slāep is akin to OFris slēp, OS slāp, OHG slaf, G Schlaf, Go slēps, MD slaep, D slaap; OE slāēpan to OFris slēpa, OS slāpan, OHG slāffan, MHG slāfen, G schlafen, Go slēpan, MD-D slapan; and all these are akin to OHG-MHG slaf, G schlaff, flabby, loose, OSI slabū, flabby, soft, weak. The Gmc r is slāp-*; the IE r, slab-* or slāb-, app a reinforcement, with IE prefix s-, of an IE r lab-* or lāb-, as in L lābi, to glide, to slip, labāre, to totter, and, nasalized, Skt lāmbate, it hangs down, and, with vowel-change, OIr lobur, weak, and those revelatory ON complements, lūta, to fall, give way, and slūta (var slota), to hang down.

sleet: ME sleet, earlier slete: OE slēte*: cf MHG slōze, G Schlösse, hail, sleet, and Nor dial slude, Da slud, Sw slude or sludde.

sleeve (n, hence v), sleeveless; sloop; slop; slope (n, hence v) and aslope.

1. Sleeveless, OE slēflēas, derives from OE slēf, varr slif, slīef, whence ME sleve, later sleeve, retained by E: cf OE slēfan, slīfan, to slip, to put (clothes) on, slūpan, Go slūpan, to slip, and ult the L lūbricus (E LUBRIC), slippery.

2. OE slūpan has the further cognates MLG slūpen, MD slupen, sluypen, D sluipen, to slip: app akin to the D words is the D sloep, ED sloepe, whence E sloop; ED sloep becomes F chaloupe, whence E shallop.

3. Also akin to OE slūpan, to slip, is ME sloppe, a loose garment, whence E slop, whence slops, ready-made, usu cheap, clothes: ME sloppe comes imm from MD slop, akin to MD slupen.

4. Again akin to OE slūpan is OE sloppe in cūsloppe, var cūslyppe, whence E cowslip, cow-droppings; OE -sloppe becomes, in ME, the independent sloppe, whence E slop, slush, liquid food (slops), kitchen or bedroom waste (slops). Hence, both 'to slop' or spill carelessly, and the adj sloppy. Cf slip, curds and whey, liquid clay, etc.: ME slipp, slime, curds: OE slypa, any sticky substance, akin to slūpan.

5. OE slūpan has cpd āslūpan, to slip away, with pp āslopen, whence prob, by b/f, the E n slope, an incline of land, as in a hillside, whence the adv aslope (a-, on), used derivatively as adj.

sleigh. See SLED, para 3. sleight(-of-hand). See SLAY, para 5.

slender, whence slenderness, comes from ME slendre, sclendir: prob aphetic for MF esclendre, slender, slim; cf MD-ED slinder, thin, slender: o.o.o.: ? cf ODa slente, to weaken, whence Da slentre, to lounge or stroll (cf G schlendern, to saunter).

slenth, a trail or track (obs), whence slenthound, a bloodhound, whence slenth, a detective (orig AE), whence 'to slenth' or play the detective: ME slenth, a man's or a beast's track: ON slōth, whence also the syn OF-EF esclot, whence, by aphesis, the E slot, a deer's track.

slew, pt of slay.

slew, to veer. See SLUE.

sley. See SLAY, para 3.

slibber-sauce, -slabber. See the 2nd SLAB (heading, s.f.).

slice, n, hence v (whence slicer); slit, n and v; cf the sep SLAT (1).

1. A slice, orig a sliver or a splinter, comes from ME slice, earlier schlise, aphetic for OF-MF esclice, esclisse (F éclisse), from OF-MF esclisser (esclicer), itself from Frankish slizzan, to split: cf OHG slīzan, MHG slīzen, G schleissen, to slit: prob echoic.

2. Akin to those OGmc words are ON slīta, OS slītan, OFris slīta, to split, tear, slit, Lith skleisti, to separate, and OE slītan, to tear, to slit, whence ME slīten, later slīten, whence 'to slit'; the n slit derives from ME slitte, from ME slitten.

slick, adj and v. See the 1st LIME, para 2. Whence slicker, agent and instrument.

slidder. See SLED, para 1.

slide. See SLED, para 1. Whence slider and sliding.

slight, adj (hence v: cf D slechten), whence slightly, slightness.

Slight, ME slight, sleght, orig smooth, level, prob derives from MD slicht, MD-D slecht, plain: cf OFris sluucht, OHG-MHG slēht, level, MHG slīhten, to smoothe, whence MHG slīht, G schlicht, smooth, plain, simple, Go slaihts, ON slētr, smooth: prob akin to Gr lissos (? for slīkwjos*), smooth, as Walshe suggests.

slim, orig worthless (cf the sl sense 'cunning'), whence slimness, is adopted from D slim, MD slim, var slem, slemp, slimp, oblique, crooked, bad: cf G schlimm, bad, MHG slimp, oblique, crooked, OHG slimpi, a slope, and Lith slips (for slimpas*), crooked, steep. (Walshe.) Cf, ult, the 1st LIME.

slime, slimy. See the 1st LIME, para 1.

sling, pt slang (archaic; dial) or slung, pp slung; the n sling; slang, n, whence slangy;—slink, pt slank (obsol) or slunk, pp slunk, the adj and n slink, the adj slinky.

1. A stone-throwing sling. ME sling, slinge, prob derives from ME slyng, slyng, earlier slyng, to strike with a missile from a sling, from OE slingan, to twist, to wind; the hoisting device known as a sling (whence 'to sling' or place, or raise, in one), ME slyng, var sleng, is prob akin to the weapon-name. With OE slingan, cf OHG slingan, MHG slingen, G schlingen, to twist, to wind, ON slyngva, to throw, and OFris slinge, OHG slinga, a sling (for stone-throwing); there are Sl cognates.

2. Perh from 'to sling'—prob from the dial pp slang—and therefore elliptical for 'slang, i.e. slung, language', is the n slang, orig the language of the underworld, now merely the unconventional (non-dial) speech of all classes: cf the sl 'sling off at', to cheek, to abuse, and Nor slengja kjeften, to use slang (lit, to sling the jaw), and slengjeord. (See esp P and P¹ at slang.)

3. Akin to OE slingan, to twist or wind, is OE slincan, whence 'to slink': cf Lith slinkti, to creep, Sw slinka, to creep, to glide, MD slenken, MD-D slinken, to dwindle away. As vt, slink means to cast (a calf) prematurely—as does dial sling; hence the adj and n slink, (calf) prematurely cast; the adj slinky comes from 'to slink' or glide furtively.

slink, slinky. See prec, para 3.

slip (1), n, slime, liquid clay, etc. See SLEEVE, para 4, s.f.

slip (2), n, a twig or shoot cut for, e.g., grafting, hence a narrow strip, something or someone long and slender (and young), derives from MD-MLG slippe, akin to or deriving from MD-MLG slippen, to cut on a slant, hence to take cuttings of or from, whence ME slippen, E 'to slip'. The MD-MLG words are perh akin to slit, q.v. at SLICE, para 2.

slip (3), to leave quietly or secretly (esp with away or out), to slide (and fall), also vt, as to put or take off (clothes) quickly or easily, to escape (enemies or memory); hence the corresp n, whence, for a few senses, the adj.

1. 'To slip', ME slippen, derives from MD-MLG slippen, intimately related to syn OHG slippēn and to OHG slüpfēn, MHG slüpfen, G schlupfen, to slip, and numerous other Gmc words either syn or cognate; also to, e.g., L lubricus (for slūbricus*), slippery, and therefore, ult, to E SLEEVE. The inter-relationships are complex; several, rather obscure.

2. That which one slips easily onto the foot is a slipper; also from 'to slip', as v of motion, comes slippy.

slip (4), to cut on a slant. See the 2nd SLIP.

slipper. See the 3rd SLIP, para 2.

slippery: extn of the now dial slipper: OE slipor: cf slop at SLEEVE, para 4.

slippy. See the 3rd SLIP, para 2.

slipslop is a redup of slop(s), liquid food; hence as adj. See SLEEVE, para 4.

slit. See SLICE, para 2.

slither. See SLED, para 1.

slive. See:

sliver, a long thin, usu cut off, piece, a splinter, derives from slive, to cut thin, to split, to slice, ME sliven, *OE slifan, akin to OE -slāefan, to separate, esp the filaments of a thread, whence the tech E 'to slieve'.

slob; slobber. See the 2nd SLAB, para 5.

sloe. See LIVID, s.f.

slog (v, hence n), whence slogger and slogging; slug, n and v (whence slugger, slugging). 'To slog' and 'to slug', to strike (a person) heavily, are either echoic or derivatives from a MD or MLG form of 'to slay', orig to smite: cf D slag, a heavy blow, G schlagen, MD slagen, to smite.

slogan: a contr of Ga sluagh-ghairm, a battle-cry, lit an army's war-cry: sluagh, army+ghairm, a cry, a call: from OIr sluag (slóg) and ghairm.

sloop. See SLEEVE, para 2.

slop (loose garment; liquid food;—to spill). See SLEEVE, paras 3–4.

slope. See SLEEVE, para 5.

sloppy, slops. See SLEEVE, para 4.

slosh, sloshy. See SLUSH, para 1.

slot (1), a deer's track. See SLEUTH.

slot (2), a bolt for a door: ME slot: MD slot, akin to MD sloten, varr sluten and sluyten, D sluiten, to close: cf also OFris slot, a lock, and OFris slūta. OHG sliozan (MHG sliezen, G schliessen), to close, and OHG-MHG slōz, G

Schloss, a lock (whence a castle): OGmc etymon, prob skliutan*, to close, shut, lock, with IE r skleud-*, reinforcement (in s-) of kleud-*: cf L claudere, to shut, and E CLAUSE. (Walshe.)

slot (3), a hollow (now only Sc), hence an aperture, esp if long, narrow, shallow, whence the v: ME slot: by apheresis from OF-EF esclot: therefore perh ult akin to slot, a trace or a track, q.v. at SLEUTH.

sloth, slothful. See SLOW.

slouch, slouchy. See the 1st SLUG, para 1.

slough (1), mire, a bog: ME slough, earlier slough: OE slōh: o.o.o.

slough (2), a (serpent's) skin, hence the v: ME slough, slughe: cf G Schlauch, a leather bag, MHG slüch, a skin, esp a snake's, OS sluk, a snakeskin.

Slovak, Slovakia. See SLAVE, para 3.

sloven, a rogue, a loafer (obs), hence a careless, lazy person, whence both 'to sloven' and slovenly: ME sloveyn: ME -ein (E -ane, -an) from OF-F -ain from L -ānus adj-hence-n suffix, tacked to an easing (v for f) of MD(-D) slof, careless: o.o.o.: ? akin to (Bavarian) schlauch, LG slū, G schlau, sly or cunning, therefore to E sly, q.v. at SLAY.

Slovene, Slovenia. See SLAVE, para 3.

slow (adj hence v—cf OE slāwian), whence slowness, cf slowly (OE slāwlīce); sloth, whence slothful.

Sloth, ME slouthe, derives from ME slow, earlier slaw, from OE slāw, whence obviously the E slow; generic sloth, laziness, idleness, becomes specific sloth, the slow-moving CA-SAm arboreal quadruped. OE slāw is akin to OFris slēwich, slow, dull, blunt, OS slēu, OHG slēo, MD slee, sleu, sleeu, sour, dull, blunt, slow (D sleeuw, sour), ON sljör (sljör), Sw slö, blunt, dull.

slowworm. See the 1st LIME, para 4.

slloyd. See SLAY, para 6.

slub, slubber. See the 2nd SLAB, para 6.

sludge. See SLUSH, para 2.

slue or slew, to turn about a fixed point (naut), is o.o.o.: perh akin to SLAY in its basic sense 'to smite'.

slug (1), a slow, lazy person (whence sluggish and sluggard: slug + euphonic -g- + pej suffix -ard), now only dial, hence the garden slug and, from the orig shape, a bullet; slouch, an awkward, clumsy fellow, a lazy lout, hence his gait, whence 'to slouch', whence sloucher, slouching, slouchy.

1. A slouch, formerly also slouk, is akin to D sluik, lax, languid, and esp to Nor dial slauk, a languid, or lax, person.

2. Slouch is also akin to E slug: ME slugge, a sluggard, int akin to ME sluggen, to be lazy or languid: cf Sw dial slugga, to be languid and slow: ? ult akin to the OGmc words for 'slow' and 'dull, blunt'.

slug (2), n and v, (to strike) a heavy blow. See SLOG.

sluggard, sluggish. See the 1st SLUG (heading).

sluice, n, hence v: ME scluse: by apheresis from MF escluse (F écluse): LL exclūsa, prob elliptical for aqua exclūsa, water shut out: L exclūsa, f of exclusus, pp of excludere, to shut out: ex, out + the c/f of claudere, to shut: f.a.e., CLOSE.

slum (n, hence v), whence slummy: o.o.o.: ? a b/f from slumber, n, or slumbrous, from slums having, orig, been—to the majority—unknown, back streets or alleys, wrongly presumed to be sleepy and quiet.

slumber, v, hence n (whence slumberous, often contr to slumbrous): ME slumberen, var of slumeren: OE slumerian, from OE slūma, a sleep (cf ME slumer, MHG slummer). The ME slumen, to sleep, would perh indicate that OE slumerian was orig a freq: cf ME slumi, sleepy: MD slunen, sluymen, and slumeren, D sluimeren; MHG slummen, MLG slomen, and late MHG slumern, slummern, G schlummern: prob (Walshe) cf Go slawan, to be silent.

slump, a marked decline, comes from slump, to drop suddenly, (earlier) to sink, or fall, suddenly, as into a bog, from slump, a bog or a boggy place: app echoic—cf the E, mostly dial, and the Nor dial slump, the noise made by falling into bog or water, and Nor dial slumpa, to fall into water, but also cf LG slump, a bog or a marsh, E dial slamp, moist, wet, miry, and perh MHG slam, G Schlamm, mud.

slung. See SLING (heading).—slunk. See slink at SLING (heading).

slur, whether n or v, and whatever the sense, derives ult from the now dial slur, thin mud, watery mire, app from ME sloor, mire, itself prob from MD: cf MD sloren, MD-D sluiren, to drag, ? orig in the mud, to do in a slovenly way, and MD slore, D sloor, a slovenly girl, a slut: o.o.o. Hence 'to slur' or sully, to slander or disparage, whence slur, a stigma, an aspersion; 'to slur' or trick (obs), hence to pass silently over, hence in Mus and Phon, comes, via or influenced by slur, to sully, from the n in its primary sense; slur, a trick, a glide in dancing (both obs), a silent passing-over or a slovening, in Mus and Phon, comes from the Mus-Phon v.

slush, n (hence v), whence slushy, adj hence n; slosh, n (hence v), whence sloshi; sludge, n (hence v), whence sludgy—cf slutch, n (hence v), whence slutchy;—? slut, whence sluttery and sluttish.

1. Slush and slosh, liquid mud, are prob of Scan origin: cf the Sw slask, wetness, liquid filth, and slaska, to paddle or wallow; dial and sl-coll slosh, to strike, follows echoically.

2. Akin to slush are sludge, mire, ooze, and the syn var slutch; the latter is prob the earlier—cf ME slich, liquid mud, slime, akin to MHG slich, MLG slik; note also ME sluchched, muddy, ? orig the pp of a v deriving from OE sluch*, slych*, whence ME slich. Clearly, therefore, the entire group may be akin to slick, q.v. at the 1st LIME (birdlime).

3. Slut, ME slutte, a dirty, slovenly woman, is prob akin to the syn MD slode, G dial schlutte, var schlutz, Sw slusk, with cognates in Da and Nor; but perh it is akin to ME sluchched, muddy.

slut. See prec para.

slutch. See SLUSH, para 2.

sly. See SLAY, para 4.

smack (1), a kind of sloop: D smak, MLG smacke: o.o.o.: ? id with next, from the sound of the waves smacking its sides.

smack (2), noise of lips, hence a loud kiss, a smart blow: echoic: cf MD smack. Hence the corresp v.

smack (3), a characteristic flavour: ME smak: OE smaec: cf OFris smek, OHG smac, G Geschmack, MD smac, D smak: o.o.o. OE smaec has derivative smaeccan, whence ME smaken, whence the syn E 'to smack', to have a taste (of): cf OHG smaccĥen.

small (adj), hence n—esp smalls, perhaps imm from small clothes, whence smallness: ME smal: OE smael: cf OFris smel, narrow, small, OS smal, OHG-MHG smal, small, G schmal, narrow, Go smals, small, MD-D smael, smal, small, D smal, narrow, ON smår, small, and smali, small beasts, esp sheep or goats; and, without s, OSl malū, small, Gr mēlon, a sheep, a goat, and OIr and Cor mīl, a beast—and perh L malus, evil.

smallpox. See POCK, para 1.

smalt. See MELT, para 4.

smarm, to smear (dial), to gush or flatter (coll), whence smarmy, oily, fulsomely flattering: a dial mdfn of smear, q.v. at EMBRY.

smart, adj (whence smartness), n, v.

1. The n smart, a tingling local pain, derives from ME smerte, prob from the ME adj smerte, causing such a pain, later smart, retained by E: and the ME adj smerte derives from OE smeart, intimately related to OE smeortan, to feel such a pain, whence ME smerten, E 'to smart'. With OE smeortan cf OHG smerzan, MHG smerzen, G Schmerzen (and the n OHG smerzo, MHG smerze, G Schmerz), and MD smerten, smarten (n: smerte, smarte, smart—this last, also D), and Gr smerdnos, terrible, horrible: IE r smēr-*, an s-reinforcement of IE mer-, varr mar-, mor-*, to rub—cf Skt mardati, he rubs or destroys, Gr marainein, to rub or wear, hence to waste, away, L mordēre, to bite.

2. The mar-* var of the IE r mer-* is seen in 'to mar', ME marren, merren, OE merran, mirran, to hinder or dissipate: cf OFris mēra, OS merrian, OHG merran, marrjan, to hinder, Go marzjan, to hinder, to offend, and prob ON meria (merja), OHG mēren, to strike, to crush, therefore to Skt mṛāṭi, he crushes.

3. The var mor-* occurs in L morsārium, the trough in which a building cement mortar is kneaded, hence any such container, hence also the cement itself: via OE mortere comes ME morter, E mortar, the container; and via OF-F mortier comes ME mortier, whence, after the container, the E mortar or building cement.

4. Cf the sep MARBLE, MARS (MARTIAL), MORSEL.

smash, v (whence smasher and smashing), hence n: echoic: ? orig an int (with IE prefix s-) of mash.

smatter, v (whence the vn smattering), hence n: to spatter or spot, hence to defile, whence to speak (a language) in a spotty, i.e. superficial, manner:

ME smateren, to chatter: prob echoic (cf natter)—cf Sw smattra, to clatter, and, further off, Da klapre, to clatter, to rattle.

smear. See EMERY.

smegma: L smegma, a detergent: Gr smēgma, soap, unguent, o/s smegmat-, whence the E adj smegmatic: from smēkhein, to wash off or away: IE r, smē-*, to smear.

smell, pt smelled (or smelt), pp smelt (or smelled), whence smeller, smelling; smolder (AE) or smoulder.

1. A smell, ME smel, smeol, smil, smol, derives from ME smellen—whence 'to smell'—varr smillen, smullen: and the ME v is akin to LG smellen, smelen, schmelen, smölen, to reek or smoke, and MD smolen, D smeulen, to smoulder.

2. Akin to MD smolen is ME smolderen, whence AE 'to smolder' and E 'to smoulder', to choke (obs), hence, vi, to burn smokily and flamelessly: ? orig an int derivative from MD.

smelt (1), a small fish: OE smelt, with Scan cognates.

smelt (2), v. See MELT, para 2.

smelt (3), pt and pp. See SMELL (heading).

smilax (greenbrier; bindweed): L smilax, bindweed: Gr smilax, Attic milax, holm-oak, yew, kidney-bean, bindweed: o.o.o.: ? akin to Gr smilē, a chisel, lancet, billhook.

smile. See MIRACLE, paras 1 and 6.

smirch, v (hence n), with int cpd besmirch, is a thinned derivative of ME smorchen: o.o.o.o.: ? by aphesis from MF-EF esmorcher, to torture, to hurt, also (and lit) to cause to bite, a var of MF-F amorcer, to bait, from MF-F amorce, a bait, from the pp of OF-MF amorde, to (cause to) bite: VL admordere*, from L admordere: int ad-+mordere, to bite.

smirk. See MIRACLE, paras 1 and 6.

smite, pt smit or smote, pp smitten, whence the dial smit, a heavy stroke or blow; smithereens.

1. 'To smite' derives from ME smiten, smytien, to strike hard, from OE smītan, to smear; sense-development, unclear, but perh via 'to throw mud at'. OE smītan is akin to OFris smīta, to smite, to fling, OHG smīzan, MHG smīzen, to rub, to strike, G schmeissen, to fling or throw, Go gasmēitan, to smear, MD (and LG) smiten, to throw, to smite, D smijten, to throw or fling: ? a Gmc reinforcement (IE int prefix s-) of the r attested by L mittere, to let fly (e.g., an arrow).

2. Akin to the Gmc words is Ir smiodar, a fragment, with dim smidirin, whence E smithereens, tiny fragments.

smith, n (and v), with many cpds, e.g. blacksmith and goldsmith; smithy, a -y derivative of smith, n, prompted by OE smiththe (from OE smith).

'To smith' derives from OE smithian, from the OE n smith, whence E smith, one who forges (metal), hence one who makes with his hands: cf OFris and OE smitha, OHG smid, MHG snitt, G Schmied, Go smitha, MD smet, smit, smid (also D), ON smithr, Da and Sw smed: Gmc smit- is an extn of the IE r, smei-*, smi-, to cut or hew, cf Gr smilē, a knife, billhook, sculptor's chisel, and smīnyē (σμίῆ), a hoe: and IE r smei-*, smi- is itself an int of IE mei-*, mi-, with Gmc extn meid-, meit-, to cut, as in, e.g., Go maitan, to cut, with C cognates.

smithereens. See SMITE, para 2.

smithy. See SMITH (heading).

smock (n, hence v); smug (adj, hence n and v) smuggle (whence smuggler and smuggling).

1. A smock or long, loose garment, whether outer or inner, derives from OE smoc: cf ON smokkr, OHG smocco, a smock, D smuk, finery, adornment, and MHG smucken, G schmücken, to adorn, the caus of MHG smiegen, schmiegen, to nestle, in its sense 'to slip into (clothes)'; OFris smuge, OE smūgan, to creep, ON smiuga, to creep through a narrow opening. (Walshe.)

2. Smug, orig smartly or trimly dressed, derives from the syn LG smuk—cf D smuk above.

3. Akin to OE smūgan and ON smiuga (as above) is LG smuggeln, whence E 'to smuggle', lit to creep in to land with (a cargo of) contraband goods: cf the syn D smokkelen.

smog=smoke+fog.

smoke, n (whence smoky) and v (whence smoker, smoking).

The n smoke comes from OE smoca, akin to OE smocian, var smēocan, whence 'to smoke': cf MHG smouch, G Schmauch, smoke, and G schmauchen, to emit a thick smoke, MD smooc, D (and LG) smook, n, and MD smoken, to emit smoke, and also Gr smukhein, to smoulder, and Lith smaugti, to suffocate. The IE r smeugh-* or smeukh-* is app a reinforcement (IE prefix s-) of IE r meugh-* or meukh-*, attested by Arm mux, OIr much, W mwg, Cor mōc, mōg, Br moguet.

smolder. See SMELL, para 2.

smooth, adj (whence smoothness), hence n; v, with var smoothe.

'To smooth(e)' comes from ME smothen, from the ME adj smothe, whence also the E adj smooth; ME smothe comes from OE smōth. The OE var smēthe (smōēthe) becomes ME smethe, whence the dial E smeeh, a mist or a haze. But both OE smōth and OE smēthe are o.o.o.

smother, n and v; smore, n, v. 'To smother' comes from ME smortheren, from ME smorther, whence also the E n smother, thick, hence suffocating, smoke: and ME smorther comes from OE smorian, to suffocate or smother, whence the now dial v, hence n, smore: cf MD smooren, MD-D and MLG smoren, to smother or stifle (G schmoren, to fry, to stew).

smoulder. See SMELL, para 2.

smudge, n and v, derives from ME smogen, to smear—and smutch is a var; smut (whence smutty), from LG smutt, is perh akin. Cf ME smoten, smotten, to besmirch, syn MHG smutzen, and MHG smutz (G Schmutz), grease, dirt; cf also in cpds, ME -smoteren and MD -smodderen (and -smodden). Like the interrelationships, the origins of smudge and smut are obscure; several senses of smudge lead one to suspect a connexion with smoke (EW)—perh of Ga smiud, smoke, and EIr smút, a cloud.

smug. See SMOCK, para 2.

smuggle. See SMOCK, para 3.

smut. See SMUDGE.

smutch. See SMUDGE.

smutty. See SMUDGE.

snack. See SNATCH, para 2.

snaffle (n, hence v) app derives from MD-D snavel, beak, snout, nose, akin to OFris snavel, the mouth; and MD-D snavel is cognate with the syn MD snabbe, snab, D snab; MD snab(be), moreover, represents the IE prefix s-+the Gmc r attested by E neb, beak, nose (cf NIB).

snag, a broken-off or jagged projection (hence as v), whence snaggled, cased to snaggle, jagged, roughly uneven: ult from ON snagi, a sharp point; cf Nor dial snage, a projecting point.

snail: ME snaille: OE snaegl, snaegel, snegel: cf ON snigill, MHG snegel, snail, and OHG snecco, MHG snecke, G Schnecke, snail, slug; cf also OHG snachan, snahhan, to creep.

2. A snail being essentially a 'creeper', snail is akin to snake (n, hence v), from OE snaca, akin to ON snäkr, a snake, and MLG snake, G Schnake, a water-snake; phon, cf Lith sñake, snail, slug.

3. Both snail and snake therefore suggest 'to sneak' (whence 'a sneak'): ME sniken (pron sneeken): OE snican, to creep, with ON and modern Scan cognates.

4. The IE r would appear to be snā-*, varr snē-, snē-, to creep or crawl.

snake, n (hence v), whence snaky. See prec, para 2.—Hence, from its 'snaky' neck, the snakebird, and, from being reputedly a cure for snake-bites, snakewood. (Webster.)

snap (v, hence n), whence snapper (one fish has var schnapper): either MD or MLG snappen, which, like MHG snappen (G schnappen), are akin to and perh deriving from ON snappa, snapa, var snōpa, to snatch, to snap: prob echoic.—From the n: snappy.

snare. See NARROW, para 2. snarl (1), a snare, hence a tangle, whence the v, derives from snare but is influenced, phon, by:

snarl (2), to growl gnashingly, hence to speak thus, hence the n: app a dim of C16 snar: MD-D snarren (cf MHG snarren, G schnarren, to roar, to rattle): echoic.

2. With EE snar, cf ME sneren, whence 'to sneer' (whence the n): cf Da snaerre, to 'grin' like a snarling dog.

3. With both snar and sneer, cf 'to snore', ME snoren, akin to LG snoren, snorken, snurken, MD-D snorken, MHG snarchen, G schnarchen, Sw snarka, to snore.

4. ME snoren, to snore, has freq snorten, whence 'to snort'.

5. With snarl, sneer, snore (and snort), cf MHG snurren, G schnurren, to buzz or drone; all these words are expressive variations of a central phon and sem theme.

snatch, v hence n; snack, n hence v; sneek, n hence v.

1. 'To snatch' derives from ME snacchen (var sneccchen): cf MD snacken, var snaken, to long for (? orig to snatch at), to snap.

2. ME snacchen has the dial derivative snack, to snap, whence E snack, a (dog's) snap or bite (now dial), hence a share or portion, as in go snacks, to go shares; hence also a quick bite of food, hence a quick, light meal.

3. ME sneccchen has derivative snekke, the latch of a door, prob from the 'snap' or click it makes; hence sneek, now only E dial and Sc.

sneak. See SNAIL, para 3.

sneek. See SNATCH, para 3.

sneer. See SNARL, para 2.

sneeze, v hence n: ME snesen, an easing of ME fnesen: OE fnōsan: cf MD fniesen, D fniezen, to sneeze, and ON fnýsa, to snort; influenced, in its passage from Gr pnein, to breathe, by the OGmc forms of the now E dial and Sc neeze (neese), ME nesen, perh from ON hniōsa, OHG niosan, MHG-G niesen, MD niesen, D niesen, and, more remotely, Lith skiaudėti, to sneeze, and Skt kṣauti, he sneezes: both words, ult echoic.

snib (1), to bolt or fasten a door, hence n, both now Sc: cf MLG snibbe, a beak.

snib (2), to snub. See SNUB.

snick (v, hence n), to cut slightly, to nick, is app a b/f from snick and snee, to thrust cuttingly: (by assimilation of st to sn, from) D steken, to stab (cf STICK)+E and+D snijen, an easing of D snijden (MD sniden: cf OHG snidan, G schneiden).

snicker and its var snigger—vv, hence nn—are echoic. The former, in its sense 'to whinny', recalls the syn 'to nicker', akin to the no less echoic neigh.

sniff; sniffle; sl snifter. See SNUFF, paras 1 (s.f.) and 2.

snigger. See SNICKER.

snip (v, hence n), whence snipper and snippet (dim -et): (? MD-)D snippen, cf G schnippen: perh echoic.

snipe (n, hence v, whence sniper, sniping): ME snype: ON -snipe (cf Nor snipe and Da sneppe).

snippet. See SNIP.

snivel. See SNUFF, para 3.

snob, cobbler, hence (sl) a towhee, a plebeian, hence a toady and a superior person: o.o.o.: EW, who cfs snip, a tailor, suggests kinship with SNUB (to cut short).—Hence snobby.

snood. See NERVE, para 7.

snooker, whence the pa snookered, is short for snooker pool (cf POOL) and is o.o.o.: perh a 'bit-by-bit' game, from snook, a dial var of snack, a portion.

snoop, whence snooper, derives from D snoepen: o.o.o.

snooty. See SNOT, para 2.

snooze, n and v, is o.o.o.: ? a mutilated blend of snore+doze.

snore. See SNARL, para 3.

snort. See SNARL, para 4.

snot—whence snotty, adj hence n—derives, by aphesis, from OE gnsot (cf OFris snotta): cf LG and MD snotte, MD-D snot, nasal mucus, and, f.a.e., see:

snout, an elephant's trunk (obsol), a quadruped's long nose: ME snoute, earlier snute: cf LG snüte, MD snute, D snuit, G Schnauze, Sw snut; cf also OHG snūzēn, MHG snuzen, G schnutzen, ON snýta, to blow one's nose.

2. MD snute, D snuit accounts for E snoot, snout, hence face, whence snooty, nose-in-the-air, supercilious.

snow, snowy. See NEVADA, para 1.

snub, v, hence n: syn snib, v, hence n. 'To snub' comes, via ME snubben, from ON snubba, to chide or reprove; ME snubben has the thinned var snibben, whence 'to snib', now E dial and Sc; and ON snubba is perh akin to ON snýta—cf, sem, SNOUT, para 2.

snuff, to put out (a candle), whence snuffer, derives from a candle's snuff or charred end, which itself derives from snuff, an inhalation, a (strong) sniff, whence the pulverized tobacco sniffed up the nostrils: from 'to snuff', to inhale strongly: MD snuffen, akin to MHG snüfen, G schnaufen, to draw breath, late MHG snuffe, G Schnupfen, a cold in the head. 'To snuff' has thinned var 'to sniff', whence the sl snifcer.

2. 'To snuff' has, moreover, the freq snuffle; cf D snuffelen, MD snoffelen, LG snüffeln, G schnuffeln. 'To snuffle' has the thinned var 'to sniffle'.

3. Akin to snuffle is ME snivelen, whence 'to snivel'; the ME var snuvelen recalls the MD snuyfelen; also akin is OE snýflan.

4. Perh 'behind all these words denoting nasal activity there is a Gmc base frue-*' of echoic or gestural origin (Walshe): cf the Gr pneuma, breath: and note the reinforcement with the IE int prefix s-.

snuffle. See prec, para 2.

snug, adj, hence n and v, with freq snuggle; snuggery (snug, adj + euphonic -g- + -ery, connoting 'a place'). The adj snug, orig naut, with sense 'trim, well-ordered', perh comes from EDa snyg, tidy, cf the syn Da snög and Sw snugg, prob via D snugger, clever, smart, and EFrís snugge.

so, adv, whence the adj, conj (for so that), pron, interjection: ME so, earlier sa, earliest swa: OE swā, thus: cf OFrís sā or sō, OS sō, OHG-MHG sō, G so, MD so, soo, zo, zoo (retained by D), Ga swa, so, Go swē, as; ON svā (pron sua, swa), with modern Scan cognates; the reflexive L se (himself, themselves) corresp to L suus, his own, their own; Gr hōs (ὄς, ὄς), so, thus, and the var ὄς (hōs), as, the former corresp to IE sō* (instr) + suffix -s, the latter to PGr wōs, IE suō* (Hofmann).

2. OE swā combines with al, ael, eal, all, to form OE alswā, aelswā, ealswā, whence ME al so, E also.

3. Cf SUCH and WHICH.

soak. See SUCK, para 1.

soap, n (whence soapy), hence v; with many cpds, all sufficiently obvious;—sapo, saponaceous, saponify (and saponification), saponin(e), saponite; —sebum, sebaceous (whence, anl, sebacic); suet, whence suety.

1. Soap, ME sope, OE sāpe, perh akin to OE sāp, resin: cf—with f for p—OHG seiffa, MHG-G seife, and, retaining p, the MD sepe, seep, seipe, zepe, D zeep, soap; L sāpō, o/s sāpōn-, soap, and the prob related—with b for p—L sēbum, tallow; prob cf OE sipian, MHG sifen, to trickle or seep, 'perh because urine was once used in soap' (Walshe). For L sāpō, E & M postulate an origin either Gmc or C—Walshe, a Gmc (saijō*)—Malvezin, the C etymon sapon*: cf the foll C words, all pointing to a kinship rather with L sēbum than with L sāpō, sāpōn-: Ga siabunn, Cor seban, W sebon, Mx sheabin. It is tempting to enlist Hit sapiya- (r sap-), to cleanse.

2. L sāpō is retained by Pharmacy; its SciL adj sāpōnaceus yields E saponaceous; its LL adj sāpōnārius occurs in the Bot Saponaria, whence saponary, the soapwort. On the o/s sāpōn-, F has built saponifier, saponification, Chem saponine, all adopted by E; and Sw has built saponit, whence E saponite.

3. L sēbum, tallow, grease, is retained by An; its LL adj sēbāceus yields sebaceous. Sēbum becomes OF seu, siu, and, by metathesis, sui (whence MF-F suif), whence the AF sue, with ME dim (-et) suet.

soar, v, hence n, also the pa, vn soaring; aura, a zephyr (obs), a subtle, usu invisible, exhalation or emanation, whence aural.

1. 'To soar' derives from ME soren, itself by aphesis from OF-MF essorer, to expose to the air in order to dry, whence the MF-(archaic)F falconry term s'essorer, to raise itself into the air, the imm source of the ME word: VL exaurāre*, to expose to the air: L ex-, used int+L aura, a light breeze + -āre, inf suffix.

2. L aura, adopted by E, was itself adopted from Gr (αὔρα): akin to Gr āēr, air.

sob. See SUP, para 2.

sober, sobriety. See EBRIETY, para 4.

sobriquet, adopted from EF-F, derives from the late MF syn soubriquet, from the MF soubriquet, a chuck under the chin: both chuck and nickname are endearments: but MF soubriquet is o.o.o.: the C16 F soubarbade, a chuck under the barbe, beard, hence under the chin, suggests MF soub- for soubs, soubz, under, from VL subtus, under (prep), from L subtus, under (adv), an extn of sub, under + some lost OF-MF derivative, in ri- (cf ricaner, a blend of rire + ONF recaner), of Frankish kinni*, the jaw (cf OPicard kenne, the cheek) + n-dim -et.

2. The occ E var soubriquet prob represents MF-F sobriquet influenced by soubrette.

soc, socage; soke. Socage is an AF derivative of soc, likewise a term of Old and Medieval E Law: and ME-E soc, like the syn and commoner ME-E soke, derives from ML, esp AL, soca, itself from OE sōcn, whence, via ME socne, later socen, the now only hist E soken: cf ON sōkn, an attack, a complaint, and Go sōkns, an investigation, a debate or a controversy; cf also OE sacan, to quarrel; therefore cf SAKE.

soccer. See SOCIAL, para 5. sociability, sociable. See para 2 of:

social (adj, hence n—elliptical for s. gathering), whence socialism, socialist, socialize (cf the F socialisme, -iste, -iser), socialite, sociality (perh rather from L sociālītās, o/s sociālītāt-); sociation, whence, anl, sociative; society, whence societal; cf the element socio-, as in sociology (socio+-logy), whence sociological and sociologist; socius.—Prefix-cpds: associate, adj (hence n), and v, association (whence, anl, associative and soccer); consociate, adj (hence n) and v, consociation (whence, anl, consociative); dissociable, dissocial, dissociate (adj and v), dissociation; insociable (whence, anl, insociality) and insocial.

1. At the base stands L socius, a companion, an associate: prob akin to Ve sākkā, a companion; perh, at a prehistoric IE stage, akin to L sequi (cf SEQUENCE).

2. Retained by learned E, L socius has adj sociālis, whence both F and E social, and v sociāre, to ally oneself with another, with derivative sociābilis, whence EF-F and, perh independently, E sociable, whence, anl, sociability.

3. L sociāre has pp sociātus, whence the now rare adj (hence n) and v sociate; derivative LL sociātiō, o/s sociātiōn-, yields the (obsol) sociation; both words truly alive only in the cpds.

4. L socius has the derivative abstract n sociētās, companionship, association, alliance, society (organized group): whence OF-F société, E society; society, elliptical for high society, is modern.

Compounds

5. L adsociāre, usu assimilated as associāre, to take as a companion or as an ally, ad, to, oneself, becomes MF-F associer, with derivative associable, adopted by E. The pp associātus yields both adj and v associate. Derivative L associātiō, o/s associātiōn-, becomes MF association, adopted by E. From Association Football comes, anl with rugger from Rugby Football, soccer; the phon process involved is 'the Oxford-er' (see P).

6. L consociāre (con-, with, hence together), to associate (vt), has pp consociātus, whence the adj and v consociate; derivative consociātiō, o/s consociātiōn-, yields consociation.

7. D dissociāre, to disjoin oneself from, has derivatives dissociābilis, whence dissociable, and, anl, LL dissociālis, which phon suggests the different-sensed E dissocial. The pp dissociātus yields the adj and v dissociate; derivative dissociātiō, o/s dissociātiōn-, becomes EF-F and E dissociation.

8. Suggested by L sociābilis and sociālis, the L insociābilis and LL insociālis yield EF-F and E insociable and E insocial.

society. See prec, para 4.

sociologist, sociology. See SOCIAL (heading).

sock (1), orig a low shoe, hence a short stocking:

ME sock: OE socc: L soccus, a low-heeled shoe: Gr sukkhos: perh from Skt—cf (with h for s) the Av haxa, sole of foot.

sock (2), a ploughshare. See the 1st sow, para 6.

sock (3), to throw or hit violently: sl: o.o.o.: prob echoic.

socket. See the 1st sow, para 6.

Socratic, L Sōcraticus, Gr Sōkratikos, is the adj of Socrates, Gr Sōkratēs: ? for Zōkratēs*, ruler of Zōē, life: Lord of Life.

sod (1), adj. See SODDEN.

sod (2), turf, a turf, app derives from MD-MLG sode (var zode, retained by D): OFris sāda, sātha: o.o.o.: for one theory, see SEETHE, para 2.

sod (3): sl: see SODOM.

soda, whence sodium (Chem suffix -ium), whence sodic: ML (and It) soda, abbr of ML sodanum, lit 'a headache cure', from ML soda, headache: Ar sūdā, a splitting headache, from šādā, to split. (Webster. B & W, however, derive ML-It soda from Ar suwādā, a plant whose ashes yield an excellent sodium carbonate.)

sodality: L sodālītāt-, o/s of sodālītās, companionship, fellowship: from sodālis, member of a brotherhood, college etc.: ? akin to L socer (see SOCIAL).

sodden was orig a var of sod, pp of SEETHE.

sodium. See SODA.

Sodom, from LL Sodoma, comes, via LGr, from H; the Gr word has n Sodomitēs (-itēs, a descendant), whence LL Sodomita, whence OF-F sodomite, adopted by E (whence the sl sod, n, hence v); the adj Sodomite, of Sodom, comes from LL Sodomitus, suggested by the Gr; sodomy anglicizes MF-F sodomie, itself from OF-F sodome (from LL Sodoma). Cf Genesis, chh. 18 and 19.

sofa, orig a divan: adopted from EF-F: prob via Tu sofa: from Ar suffa (suffah), a cushion, hence a raised platform covered with cushions. Cf, sem, divan.

soft (adj, hence n, whence coll softie, softy), whence soften (whence softener, softening); softness.—Sofiness comes from OE sōfness, later sōfnys, ease or rest, akin to OE sēfte, whence the adv sōfte, later also adj—cf ME softe (adj and adv), whence E soft, adj and adv: cf OFris sēft* (adj), attested by sēfichēd, gentleness, softness, OS sāfto, adv, OHG senfti, adj, sanfto, adv, MHG senfte, adj, sanfte, adv, G sanft, gentle, soft, and (phon, the most revelatory) MD saefi, saft—sochie—saechte, sachte, zachte, and D zacht (cf LG sacht). If the nasal (n) is basic, cf the Go sanfan, to please. (Walshe.)

sog (mostly dial), to soak, whence n, a bog, whence the adj soggy: o.o.o.: perh akin to soak, q.v. at SUCK.

soil (1), earth. See the 2nd SOLE, para 2.

soil (2), a mire, to stain or pollute. See the 1st sow (pig), para 4.

soirée. See SERENE, para 1.

sojourn. See DIANA, para 11.

soke, soken. See SOC.

Sol. See SOLAR.

sola; sola topi. See TOP1.

solace—n and v (whence solacement)—and solatium; consolable, consolation, consolatory, console (v)—and inconsolable.

1. Inconsolable derives, perh via EF-F incon-solable, from L inconsolabilis, the neg of consolabilis, whence, perh via late MF-F, the E consolable.

2. L consolabilis derives from consolari, whence MF-F consoler, whence 'to console'; on the pp consolatus are formed both consolatiō, acc consolatiōnem, whence OF-F consolation, adopted by E, and consolatoriū, whence E consolatory.

3. Consolari=con-, used int+solari, to comfort, with pp solatus, whence both the n solātium, LL solācium, whence OF-EF solas (solaz), adopted by ME, whence late ME-E solace, and the LL v solāciari, solāciare, whence—unless imm from OF solas—OF-EF solacier, whence 'to solace'.

4. L solari is perh—with h for s—akin to Gr hilaros, cheerful; if so, then cf SILLY.

solan, a gannet, whence solan goose: ON and Ice sūla, gannet+(prob+)ON ōnd, a duck.

solanin, or -ine; solanum. See para 2 of:

solar, adj (whence solar plexus, with ganglia radiating like rays from the sun) and n—solarium—solarize (solar, adj+-ize), whence solarization—solanum, whence solanin(e)—Sol; solstice, solstitial.—Helios, heliacal, helium; cf the element heli(o)-, where see HELIANTHUS, HELIOTROPE, etc.—L prefix-cpd: insolate, insolation; cf parasol.—Gr prefix-cpds: aphellon and parhelion.—Cf the sep SUN.

Indo-European

1. L sōl, the sun, whence personified Sōl, is akin to OE and ON sól, Go sauil, Lith sáule, Skt sáryas (r for l); also to the h- for s group represented by Gr hēlios and, in C, the W haul, Cor haul, hoal, heuul, Br héaul, hiaul—contrast the perh related OIr síl, eye. The IE r is perh sāuel-*; for the -n varr, see SUN.

2. L sōl has three adjj: sōlānus, with neu sōlānum used for the plant nightshade; sōlāris, whence E solar; and sōlārius, with neu sōlārium meaning a sundial and a sun-gallery, -porch, -terrace, which, adopted by E, has—via OE solor, soler (cf the OF-EF syn solier)—the anglicized form solar.

3. L sōl has the full cpd sōlstitiūm: sōl, sun+-stitiūm, a standing still, from sistere, to cause to stand (still), to stand still (cf sist): MF-F solstice, adopted by E. The derivative ML sōlstitiālis yields (F and) E solstitial.

4. Akin to L sōl is the syn Gr hēlios, s hēli-, r hēl-; the personified Hēlios is the Sun God. The derivative adj hēliakos becomes LL hēliacus, whence E heliac, usu in extn heliacal; and from Gr hēlios, SciL has coined helium (Chem suffix -ium).

5. From L sōl comes, as if via solāre*, to sun, the pp solātus, whence the LL insolāre, to expose to (in-) the sun, with pp insolātus, whence 'to insolate'; derivative insolātiō, o/s insolātiōn-, yields EF-F and, perh independently, E insolation.

Contrast parasol: EF-F parasol: It parasole, something that wards off (para, from parare) the sun (sole).

6. Gr hēlios radiates in three E prefix-cpds: parēlios, adj, beside (para) the sun, is used as n, a mock sun, as also is the neu parēlion, whence E parhelion; whence, anl, aphelion (Gr apo, from, away from).

solarium. See prec, para 2. solarization, solarize. See SOLAR (heading).

sold. See SELL (heading).

soldan. See SULTAN.

solder. See SOLID, para 4.

soldier, soldiery. See SOLID, para 5.

sole (1), adj ('alone')—solo—solus; solitaire, solitary—and solitude;—sullen.—Full cpds: soliloquize, soliloquy; solipsism, whence, anl, solipsist (whence solipsistic).—Prefix-cpds: desolate (adj and v), desolation, desolator.—Perh insula, insular, insulate (whence, anl, insulation and insulator)—cf insulin; isle, islet (and islot); isolate (adj and v), isolation (whence, anl, isolative).

1. Sole derives—cf the OF sol—from L sōlus, alone, solitary: o.o.o.: ? for sēlos*: sē-, privative prefix+suffix -lo+nom -s, as E & M propose. Perh, however, L sōlus is ult akin to Gr holos, whole, entire: s for h, vowel-quantity changed, the one basic idea regarded from a different angle. L sōlus, which occurs in E stage-directions (cf soliloquy), becomes It solo, adj hence n, adopted by E.

2. Sōlus has the foll derivatives affecting E:

sōlitās, a being alone, whence sōlitārius, whence E solitary and OF-F solitaire, the latter, used as n (in jewellery and card-games), being adopted by E; sōlitūdō, whence MF-F solitude, adopted by E;

VL sōlānus*, lonely (cf the LL sōlitāneus, private), whence—? via AF from OF sol—ME solain, solein, EE solen, later sollen, whence sullen—but occ sullen is derived from the ME forms of SOLEMN.

3. Perhaps the principal E full cpds from L sōlus are:

soliloquy, from L sōliloquium: an 'alone' speaking, with -loquium deriving from loquī, to speak; hence soliloquize; solipsism (in Phil): sōlus+ipse, (one)self+-ism.

4. L sōlus has the prefix-cpd dēsōlāre, to leave (someone) by himself or alone, hence to depopulate: de- used int+solus+āre. The pp dēsōlātus yields, in E, both the adj and the v desolate; the derivative LL dēsōlātiō, solitude, a desert, has acc dēsōlātiōnem, whence OF-MF desolation (EF-F dé-), adopted by E, and LL dēsōlātor, he who abandons, becomes—perh via EF-F dēsolateur—the E desolator.

L insula

5. Perh akin to L sōlus is L insula, an island, explained by f/e as the f (used as n) of adj insulus*, formed from OL en salos*, (that is) in the open sea, and by several modern philologists as formed elliptically from 'terra in salo', land in the sea; L in, E in(to)+the abl of salum, the sea. Perh L insula stands for L insōla*, f of adj insōlus, an int of sōlus, by itself, alone: 'terra insōla', land by itself (in sea or lake), becomes insula, to avoid confusion with L sōl, sun.

6. From L insula, retained by learned E, Sci derives insulin: insula+Chem -in. More importantly, L derives:

LL insulāris, of or on an island, whence EF-F insulaire and E insular, whence insularity;

L insulātus (as if the pp of insulāre*), turned into an island, hence shut off, or secluded, as in an island, whence the adj and v insulate.

7. L insula becomes VL isula*, iscla*, whence OF-MF isle, adopted by E, as are the MF-EF dim islet and the EF-F dim islot.

8. L insula—? rather OL-become-L-LL insōla—leads to It isola, whence the v isolare, pp isolato, separated as an island is (cf L insulātus), whence EF-F isolé, whence, anl, the E pa isolated, whence, by b/f, 'to isolate'; the adj isolate derives rather from It isolato. EF-F isolé produces the v isoler, whence, anl, isolation, adopted by E.

sole (2), of foot, and the fish; whence 'to sole'; soil (earth).

1. L solum, the flat, lower part of anything, e.g. the bed of the sea, a floor, hence the base or foundation, and also the ground, or soil that forms it. In its sense 'sole of foot', solum gives way to its derivative solea, which, prob via VL sola*, yields OE-MF-E sole. L solea has the secondary sense 'flat fish', whence, via VL sola*, comes the OProv sola, whence MF-F sole, adopted by E.

2. L solum, ground, floor, etc., becomes OF-MF suel, MF soil (cf late MF-F seuil), adopted by ME and retained by E.

solecism, solecist (whence solecistic), solecize. At Soloi, in Cilicia (SE Asia Minor), the Athenian colonists ended, in their isolation from the homeland, by speaking Attic Greek corruptly and carelessly: whence Gr soloiikos (-ikos, adj suffix), incorrect of speech, whence soloikizein, to speak—hence also to write—incorrectly, whence E 'to solecize'; soloikizein generates also soloikismos and soloikistēs, whence, resp, L solecismus, MF soleocisme, late MF-F solécisme, E solecism, and LL soleocista, E solecist.

solemn, solemnity, solemnization and solemnize.

Solemnization comes from MF solemnisation, itself from MF solemniser (EF-F solemniser), whence 'to solemnize'; and the MF v comes from the LL sollemnizāre, to celebrate (e.g., a mass). Solemnity represents OF-MF solemnité, from L solemnitātem, acc of solemnitās, the abstract-n derivative of solemnis, var of sollemnis, performed ritualistically or in dignified detail: app sollus, entire, complete, whole+an adj extrn. L sol(l)emnis became OF-MF solempne, solemne, both adopted by ME, whence E solemn.

solenoid. See the element soleno-.

solferino. See SULPHATE, para 2.

solicit, solicitant, solicitation, solicitor, solicitous, solicitude.

'To solicit' derives from MF-F solliciter, from L sollicitāre, lit to shake violently, from sollicitus, violently, lit entirely, moved, hence troubled: solli-, c/f of sollus, entire (cf saluus, SAFE)+citus, pp of ciēre, to set in movement (cf CITE). The presp sollicitans, o/s sollicitant-, prompts sollicitant, adj hence n; on the pp sollicitātus is formed sollicitātiō, acc sollicitātiōnem, whence MF-F sollicitation, whence E solicitation. L sollicitus, whence E solicitous, has derivative sollicitūdō, whence MF-F sollicitude, whence E solicitude. MF-F solliciter has agent MF-F solliciteur, whence E solicitor.

solid (adj and n), solidarity, solidary, solidate, solidify, solidity, solidum, solidus (cf F sol, sou, and It soldo); solder, n, hence v; soldier (n, hence v), whence soldierly and soldiery; console, n; consolidant, consolidate (adj and v), consolidation, consolidative, consolidator—cf consols.

1. The adj solid comes from MF-F solide: L solidus, full, massive, hence firm or resistant; also complete, entire: an altered extrn of L sollus, entire, itself related to L saluus (ML salvus), entire, intact (cf SAFE). The n solid prob derives from the L solidum, in Geom a solid figure, from the neu of solidus. Solidus, elliptical for solidus nummus, has the LL contr soldus, whence It soldo and OF solt, MF sol, later MF-F sou.

2. L solidus has derivatives soliditās, whence MF-F solidité, whence E solidity, and solidāre, to render solid, LL to establish firmly, with pp solidātus, whence 'to solidate'.

3. F solide has the foll derivatives affecting E: EF-F solidaire, whence E solidary; derivative solidarité, whence E solidarity;

F solidifier (cf the obs It solidificare) and the anl solidification perh suggested 'to solidify' and solidification.

4. L solidāre, to make solid, becomes OF-MF solder (F souder), to join by melting, whence, via the derivative MF n soldure (F soudure), the EE soldure, whence E solder.

5. L soldus, contr of the coin solidus, becomes OF sold (var soud), payment, esp a soldier's pay, whence OF-MF soldier, adopted by EE, the earlier forms deriving from OF-MF varr of the OF word.

6. LL solidāre, to establish firmly (cf para 2), has the int cpd consolidāre, with presp consolidans, o/s consolidant-, whence E consolidant, and pp consolidātus, whence the adj and v consolidate; derivative consolidātiō, acc consolidātiōnem, becomes MF-F consolidation, adopted by E—as is the LL agent consolidātor; F consolidation has suggested F consolidatif, f-ive, which perh suggests E consolidative. By b/f from 'consolidated annuities' we get consols.

7. L solidāre and solidus, adj, app produced an adj consolidus*, whence the LL n consolida, the plant comfrey, named (in L) from its astringent and curative properties, whence EF-F consoude, whence, by f/c after soude, healthy, the E consound.

—Comfrey itself, ME cumfirie, earlier confirie, is adopted from OF-MF confirie: perh from OF-MF firie, a mdfn of fege (F foie), the liver, app ult from L ficus, a fig.

solidarity, solidary. See prec, para 3. solidification, solidify. See SOLID, para 3.

solidity. See SOLID, para 2.

solidum, solidus. See SOLID, para 1.

soliloquize, soliloquy. See the 1st SOLE, para 3. solitaire. See 1st SOLE, para 3.

solitaire (diamond; patience as card-game). See 1st SOLE, para 2.

solitary, solitude. See 1st SOLE, para 2.

solo, whence soloist. See 1st SOLE, para 1, s.f.

Solomon, whence Solomonic, is adopted from LL Solomōn (var Salomōn): LGr Solomōn, var Salōmōn: H Shelōmōh, peaceable, from shālōm, peace.

solstice, solstitial. See SOLAR, para 3.

soluble. See LOSE, para 3.

solus. See the 1st SOLE, para 1, s.f.

solute, solution. See LOSE, para 4.

4. solve (whence solvable), solvent. See LOSE, para 4.

soma (1), a beverage (Oriental) from the leafless EI vine soma, comes from Skt—cf (h for s) the Av haoma.

soma (2), as used in An and Zoo, derives from Gr sōma, the (usu human) body: o.o.o., Hofmann's alignment with IE tum-*, to swell (L tumēre) being unconvincing. The Gr adj sōmatikos yields E somatic; E somite=Gr sōma+n-suffix -ite, and its adj is somitic. For cpds, cf the element -soma.

somber (AE) or sombre; sombrero. See UMBRA, para 10.

some. See SAME, para 1, s.f.—Hence somebody, someone, etc.

somersault. See SALLY, para 8.

somite. See the 2nd SOMA.

somnambulism, etc.; somniferous. See para 4 of: somnolence, somnolent; somnambulate, somnambulism (whence, anl, somnambulist, whence somnambulist); somnifacient, somniferous, somniloquy (whence, anl, somniloquous); somnolescent, whence somnolescence;—insomnia (whence the adj and n insomniac), insomniou.—sopite (adj and v), soporiferous, soporific (ad, hence n), soporose.—Hypnos, hypnosis, hypnotic (whence, anl, hypnotism, hypnotist, hypnotize).

1. L somnus, sleep, personified as Somnus, God of Sleep, is akin to the syn Gr hypnos, personified as Hypnos, E Hypnos, itself akin to Skt svapna, sleep, a dream, svāpati, he sleeps; cf L sōpire, to send to sleep, sōpor, something that induces sleep, hence (a heavy) sleep; cf also ON sofa, to sleep, and ON svefn, OE swefn, sleep, a dream, Sl sūpati, to sleep, Lith sapnas, a dream, and C cognates. IE r, sup-* (with varr), to sleep.

2. L somnus has the foll derivative relevant to E:

LL somnolentus, sleepy, whence late MF-F somnolent, adopted by E; derivative LL somno- lentia yields EF-F and E somnolence. Somnolescent, somnolescence are anl formations.

3. The neg L insomnis (in-, not), sleepless, has derivative insomnium, with var insomnia, adopted by E; its adj insomniōsus yields insomniou.

4. The L cpd somnifer, sleep-bringing (ferre, to bring), not only becomes EF-F somnifere and, perh independently, E somniferous, but pro suggested such other E cpds as somnambulate, to walk in one's sleep (cf ambulate at AMBULANCE) and somnambule, a sleep-walker, adopted from F, with derivative F somnambulisme leading to E somnambulism; somnifacient, sleep-causing (adj, hence n), which=somni-, c/f of somnus+facient, from L facient-, o/s of faciens, presp of facere, to make; somniloquy (somni-+-loquy, as in soliloquy).

5. The cognate L sōpire, to send to sleep, has pp sōpitus, whence the now rare E adj and v sopite, (to render) drowsy. The derivative sōpor, adopted by learned E, has adj sōporōsus, whence E soporose; the cpd sōporifer, (heavy) sleep-inducing, yields soporiferous; soporific, however, derives from late EF-F soporifique, sleep-making; sōpori-, c/f of L sōpor+fique (E -fic), L -ficus, -making, from facere.

6. Gr hypnos has derivative hypnoun, to put to sleep, whence hypnōtikos, tending to sleep, LL hypnōticus, EF-F hypnotique, E hypnotic; ScIL has, from Gr hypnos, coined hypnosis (suffix -osis), adopted by E (cf the F hypnose).

son: ME sone, earlier sune: OE sunu: cf OFris and OS sunu, OHG sunu, MHG sun, G Sohn, Go sunus, MD sone, soon, zone, D zoon; ON sunr, sonr (cf Sw son); Lith sūnūs, Osl synū; Skt sūnūs: cf also Tokh B soyā, son, Skt sūtē, she gives birth, OIr suth, birth, and—with h for s—Gr huios (υἱός), a son: IE etymon, perh su-iūs*, birth, to give birth, with r su-*. (Walshe; Hofmann.)

sonable; sonant, whence sonance; sonata and sonnet; sonic; sonority, sonorous;—sound (noise, n and v), whence sounder and sounding—cf resound, v hence n.—L prefix-cpds: absonant; assonance (whence, anl, assonantal) and assonant; consonance, consonant (adj and n, whence consonantal), consonate, consonous; dissonance, dissonant, dissonous; insonic; resonance, resonant, resonate, resonator; supersonant, supersonic (adj, hence n).

1. L sonāre, to make a noise or cause it to be heard, whence to sing, to sound, is akin to—if not the source of—sonus, a sound: cf Skt svandās, a noise, a sound, and svānati, it sounds or resounds, and Ir -seinn, it sounds: IE r, suen-, swen-, perh with var swer-*, as in L susurrus.

2. The corresp E word is sound; the n comes, through ME soun, from OF-F son, from L sonus; the v, from ME souen, earlier sonen and sunen, from OF soner, suner (MF-F sonner), from L sonāre. The cpd 'to resound', ME resouen, comes from OF-MF resoner (EF-F resonner), from L resonāre (re-, back), to resound.

3. L sonus has the doublet sonor, with adj sonōrus, whence E sonorous (cf EF-F sonore); derivative LL sonōritās becomes late MF-F sonorité and, perh independently, E sonority. Sonic is an E formation: L sonus+adj -ic.

4. OF-F son acquires in OProv the sense 'poem', with dim sonet, whence It sonnetto, whence EF-F sonnet, adopted by E; cf sonata, adopted—in F as in E—from It, perh orig 'musica sonata', music played, not sung (cantata), f of sonato, pp of sonare, from L sonāre; and L sonāre has derivative sonābilis, capable of being sound, whence E sonable, and presp sonans, o/s sonant-, whence E sonant, adj hence n.

Latin Prefix-Compounds

5. Of the numerous L prefix-cpds of sonāre, the foll affect E:

absonāre, to sound discordantly, with presp absonans, o/s absonant-, whence the E adj absonant, discordant; adsonāre, usu assimilated as assonāre, to sound ad or towards, to echo, hence, in LL (cf LL assonus, harmonious), to sound harmoniously, with presp assonans, o/s assonant-, whence E assonant; but E assonance is adopted from late EF-F, which forms it, anl, from L assonāre—the LL syn is assonātiō; consonāre, to sound con- or together, to be in harmony, with presp consonans, o/s consonant-, whence the OF-F, hence E, adj consonant; L consonans, used as n, becomes the E n consonant; the derivative LL consonantia, harmony, becomes OF-F, hence E, consonance; the pp consonātus yields 'to consonate'; the cognate L adj consonus produces E consonous, sounding simultaneously;

dissonāre, to be discordant, has presp dissonans, o/s dissonant-, used by LL as adj, whence the E adj dissonant, and the derivative LL dissonantia becomes E (and F) dissonance; the cognate L adj dissonus yields E dissonous;

(E imsonic, echoic=imitation+sonic); resonāre, to resound, to echo, has presp resonans, o/s resonant-, whence the E adj resonant; derivative L resonantia yields late MF-F résonance, whence E resonance; the pp resonātus accounts for 'to resonate'; Scil coins resonator; (supersonant, n, and supersonic, adj hence n=L super, above+sonant and sonic).

sonata. See SONABLE, para 4.

song, songster. See SING, para 2.

sonic. See SONABLE, para 3, s.f. sonnet, whence sonneteer. See SONABLE, para 4. sonority, sonorous. See SONABLE, para 3.

soon, whence comp sooner and sup soonest, is ME sonē, OE sōna, akin to OFris sōn, sān, OHG sān, OS sān, sāna, sāno, and Go *sun*s.

soot, whence (in ME) sooty: ME soot, earlier sot: OE sōt: cf MD soet, zoet, ON sōt, Lith súodys, OSl sažda, OIr súidi, súith, Ir súitche, Ga súich, súith, and, with h for s, W huddygl: perh ult akin to SIT.

sooth, adj and n, whence the cpd soothsayer (-sayer, agent of say); soothe, whence the pa, vn soothing;—suttee.

1. The n sooth. truth. comes from OE sōth. n use of the adj sōth, whence, via ME sooth, the E adj (now archaic) sooth: and the OE adj sōth is akin to OFris and OS sōth, OHG sand, ON sannr, true, real—therefore cf Skt sant, sat, real, present, existing, from as, to be, akin to L esse, to be, and E is: cf ESSE.

2. 'To soothe', orig to confirm or prove to be true, comes, via ME sothien, to verify, from OE sōthian, from the adj sōth.

3. Akin to the OGmc words cited in para 1 are such words for 'to excuse' or 'to deny' as Go sunjōn, to excuse, and ON synja, to deny or refuse, whence ML sunnia, sonia, an excuse, hindrance, whence the ML cpd exoniāre (ex, out of), later essoniāre, whence MF essonier, essoignier, whence the E legal v essoin; the E n derives, via MF, from ML essonia, exonia.

4. Skt sat (sant, genuine) has f satī, whence the n sati, a faithful wife, whence Hi sati, later sattī, a wife cremating herself on her husband's funeral pyre: whence E suttee.

sooty. See SOOT.

sop. See SUP, para 3.

sophism, sophist, sophistic, sophisticate (adj—whence n—and v, whence the pa sophisticated), sophistication, sophistry; for cpds (except for sep PHILOSOPHER), see the element -soph.

1. Gr sophos, wise, mentally adroit, originates all these words: o.o.o.: Boisaq and Hofmann approve Brugmann's postulation of IE etymon tuoghos*, tuoguhos*. The derivative sophia, wisdom, becomes the now rare E sophy, so frequent as a 2nd element, as in philosophy.

2. Gr sophos has the foll simple derivatives affecting E:

sophizein, to make wise, and sophizesthai, to become wise, whence sophisma, a logical argument, esp if subtle or fallacious, whence L sophisma, MF-F sophisme, OF-early MF soffime, ME sophime, EE-E sophism; sophistēs (from sophizein), a teacher of rhetoric, skilful argument, shrewd living, LL sophista, MF-F sophiste, E sophist; sophistikos (from sophistēs), L sophisticus, E sophistic, with extn sophistical.

3. At the L stage arises the ML sophisticāre (from L sophisticus), with pp sophisticātus, whence the E adj and v sophisticate; on sophisticātus is built ML sophisticātiō, acc sophisticātiōnem, whence MF-F sophistication, adopted by E.

4. MF-F sophiste has derivative MF sophistrie (MF-EF sophisterie, superseded by EF-F sophistiquerie), adopted by ME, whence E sophistry.

sophomore. See the element -soph.

sophy. See SOPHISM, para 1, s.f. sopite. See SOMNOLENCE, para 5.

sopor, soporiferous, soporific. See SOMNOLENCE, para 6.

soppy. See SUP, para 3.

soprano. See SUPER, para 4.

sor, sir. See SENILE, para 8.

Sorb, Sorbian. See SERB, para 2.

sorbent, absorbent. Cf ABSORB.

sorbet. See the 2nd SHRUB, para 2. sorcerer, sorcerous, sorcery. See SERIES, para 4. sordes; sordid. See SWART, para 2. sordine. See SURD, para 4.

sore, adj (whence soreness) and n; sorry, adj. The n sore, ME sor, earlier sar, comes from OE sār, from the adj sār, distressing, grievous, painful, whence the syn ME sar, later sor, E sore: akin to OHG sēr, painful (cf OHG sēro, MHG sēre, painfully, G sehr, very), OS sēr, MD seer, D zeer, ON sār, painful, and Go sār, OFris sēr, a wound, pain, and perh OIr sāeth, disease, wound, hurt.

2. The OE n sār has adj sārig, sad, ME sary, later sory, E sorry, painful, grievous, grieved, with gradual weakening of sense.

sorghum is a SciL derivative (var sorgum) of It sorgo, used by E for sweet (or sugar) sorghum: o.o.o.: perh from L syricum, for Syricum gramen, Syrian grass. (Prati postulates Syricus.)

sororal, sorority. See COUSIN, s.f.

sorrel (1), colour. See the 1st SEAR, para 1.

sorrel (2), plant. See SOUR, para 2.

sorrow (n and v), sorrowful. The adj derives, via ME sorweful, from OE sorgful, from OE sorg, sorh, whence both OE sorgian, ME sorwen, later sorowen, E 'to sorrow', and ME sorge, sorwe, later sorewe, E sorrow, n: cf OHG soraga, MHG-G sorge, OS sorga, Go saurga, MD sorge, zorge, D zorg, ON sorg, all with the related sense 'care or anxiety': perh cf Lith sérglu, I guard, and even perh Hit sarupa, discord, quarrel, but this may rather belong to SORE.

sorry (1), adj. See SORE, para 2.

sorry (2), n. See SENILE, para 8.

sort, n, v. See SERIES, para 3.

sortie is adopted from EF-F, from OF-F sortir, app from L sortiri, to draw by lots: f.a.e., SERIES, sortilege. See SERIES, para 5.

sortiment, sortition. See SERIES, para 3, s.f.

S.O.S. or SOS, a signal for help, was chosen because, in Morse, it is easy, both to transmit and to receive.

sostenuto. See TENABLE, para 8.

sot, whence the adj sottish and besotted (int be-); sottise. The last, adopted from MF-F, is a derivative of the OF-F sot, adj and n, itself from ML sottus, stupid: o.o.o.: Du Cange favours, but does not assert, a punning, ironic origin in Johannes Scotus or Scottus, known as Duns (cf DUNCE) Scotus or 'the Subtle Doctor'—a famous medieval scholastic philosopher.

sotto voce, adopted from It, is lit 'under (the) voice', hence under one's breath, in a low voice.

sou. See SOLID, para 1, s.f.

soubrette. See SUPER, para 3. soubriquet. See SOBRIQUET, para 2.

soufflé. See FLATUS, para 10.

sough. See ECHO.

sought: pt and pp of SEEK.

soul, whence soulful, soulless, comes, via ME soule, earlier saule, from OE sāl, sāwl, contr of sāwel: cf OFris sēle, OS and OHG sēola, siola, OHG sēla, sēula, MHG sēle, G Seele, Go saiwala, MD siele, siel, ziele, D ziel, ON sāla, sāl: o.o.o. soum. See SUM, para 4.

sound (1), adj (flawless, unharmed): ME sound, earlier sund: OE sund, gesund (ge-, an int prefix): cf OFris sund, OHG gisunt (gi- is Gmc ge-), MHG gesund, G gesund, MD gesunt, gesont, D gezond: o.o.o.: prob akin to L sānus (cf SANE).

sound (2), an inlet (Geog): ME sound, earlier sund: OE sund: cf ON sund: prob cf SWIM (in water).

sound (3), noise. See SONABLE, para 2.

sounder, herd of wild boars, wild boar; OE sundre, var sonre: cf OE sunor, suner, herd of wild boars: of Gmc origin.

soup. See SUP, para 3.

soupçon. See SPECTACLE, para 17.

souple. See PLY, para 18.

sour, adj (hence n) and v, sourness (OE sūrness); sorrel (plant); surette.

1. 'To sour' derives from OE sūrian (vt, vi), from the adj sūr, whence ME sur, later sour, E sour: cf OHG-MHG sūr, G sauer (whence Sauerkraut, 'sour vegetable': OHG-MHG krūt), MD suur, suur, zure, D zuur, ON sūrr (Da suur), Lith sūras, salty, OSl syřu, raw.

2. From OGmc, the OF-F sur, sour, has derivatives MF surele (F surette), whence E sorrel, a sour-juiced plant, and the dim MF-F suret, sourish, whence, as n, suret, varr surete, surette, the wood sorrel, whence, in AE, surette, a tree with edible, although tart, berries.

source. See SURGE, para 2.

sourdough, a prospector in Canada (or Alaska), orig carried a lump of sour dough with which to bake bread.

souse, a pickle, a drenching—to pickle or to drench. See SALT, para 10.

soutane: F soutane: EF sottane: It sottana, orig an under-garment: It sotto, under + n-suffix -ana: ult from L sub, under.

south (n, hence adj and v); southeast (adv—OE sūthēast—hence adj and n); southerly, adj (south + -erly, as in northerly), hence n; southern (OE sūtherne)—whence southron, adj (cf Briton) and (S-) n; southward, adv (OE sūthweard), hence adj and n—cf southwards, adv (OE sūthweardes), southwest, adv (OE sūthwest), hence adj and n.—Many cpd place-names: e.g., Suffolk, Surrey, Sussex, as well as the obvious Southampton, Southwark, etc.

1. South, ME south, earlier suth, comes from OE sūth: sunth*, land that, to the Old World of the Northern Hemisphere, lies in the sun, or a direction that leads to sunnier parts of the earth: cf OHG sund, south wind, and sundan, MHG sunden (G Süden, from MD süden), OFris and OS sūth, ON sunnr, suthr (with modern Scan cognates): f.a.e., SUN.

2. Of the full cpds, perh most notable are:

Southampton, OE Sūthhamtun;

Southwark, OE Sūthgeweorc, soon Sūthweorc, orig the southern fortifications;

Suffolk, OE Sūthfolchi, Sūthfolc, the southern folk; hence the Suffolk punch, a draught horse orig peculiar to the region;

Surrey, OE Sūthrige, the southern district (orig, kingdom: cf REX); hence the light, four-wheeled carriage popularized in that county;

Sussex, OE Sūth Seaxe, the South Saxons, hence their homeland; sussexite (Min -ite) was first found in Sussex County, New Jersey.

Southampton. See prec, para 2.

southeast, southerly, southern. See SOUTH (heading).

southern, Southron. See SOUTH (heading).

southward, southwards. See SOUTH (heading).

Southward. See SOUTH, para 2.

southwest. See SOUTH (heading).

souvenir. See VENUE.

sovereign, sovereignty. See SUPER, para 5.

soviet: Ru sovjet, a council: prefix so-, together (cf E co-, L con-, from L cum, with) + the Ru r for 'to speak', as in Ru otvjet, an answer. (EW.)

sovran, sovranly. See SUPER, para 5.

sow (1), a female pig (adult): ME sowe, earlier suwe: OE sugu, an extn of the syn Gmcetymon su, as in OE sū, OHG-MHG sū, G Sau, MD seuge, suege, soge, zoge, D zeug, zog, ON sýr (Sw sugga, so, Da so); EIr socc (Ga soc), a (pig's) snout, hence a ploughshare, and Cor höch, hōgh, W hwch, Br houch, a sow, all varr of a C r su-*, to produce (young), the sow being noted for its numerous progeny; Let suveŕs, a piglet; Tokh B suwo; L sūs (gen suis); Gr (su and hūs); Av hū (for huvō), a boar, Skt sūkārās, a hog; and Hit šah, a pig—perh cf Hit sahar, dirt. The IE etymon is sūs*; the IE r is sū-*, either 'to produce (young)', as Malvezin suggests, or echoic (Hofmann, Webster, et alii).

2. Akin to OE sū, a sow, is OE swīn, a hog, ME swin, E swine: cf OFris, OS, OHG-MHG swin, G Schwein, Go swein, MD swin (rare), swijn, later—as in D—zwiġn, ON svīn; cf Osl svinū, LL suīnus, Gr hūīnos, of a pig, hence piggyish.—Derivatives: swineherd, swinish.

3. The Gr hūīnos (ἕῖνος) is akin to Gr huaina, whence L hyaena, OF-MF hyene (EF-F hyène) and, prob independently, E hyena. Cf the sep HOG: a hyena resembles one.

4. L sūs has derivative adj suilis*, attested by the n sulle, a pigsty, whence perh OF-MF soil (EF-F souille), a pig's wallowing place, a mire, with derivative OF-MF soillier (EF-F souiller), to bemire, to stain (lit and fig), whence ME soilen, E 'to soil', whence, in return, the E n soil, a stain. But more prob 'a soil' comes, in all senses, from 'soil', ME soilen: and OF-F soillier more prob derives from VL suculāre, from LL sūculus, a piglet (from sūs, s and r sū-), as both Dauzat and B & W propose.

5. OF-MF soillier has the MF var suller, whence E 'to sully', whence E sullage.

6. The EIr socc, a pig's snout, a ploughshare, cited in para 1, is akin to Gaul soccus*, a ploughshare, whence OF-F soc, whence the syn E, now mainly Sc, sock; and OF-F soc acquires the AF dim soket, spearhead resembling, in shape, a ploughshare, whence E socket, with natural sense-divergences.

sow (2), to plant (seeds) by scattering them onto the prepared soil; pt sowed, pp sown; hence sower (OE sāwere) and pa, vn sowing; semen, seminal, seminar, seminary—cf disseminate, dissemination; season, n (whence seasonal), hence v (whence seasonable and seasoning); sep SECULAR, SECULARITY, SECULARIZE, qq.v at the sep SEED.—Cf also the sep SATURDAY and SATURN.

1. 'To sow', ME sowen, var sawen, comes from OE sāwan: cf OFris sēa, OS sājan, OHG sāen, MHG saejen, G Sāen, Go saian, MD seyen, saeyen, zayen, zaeyen, D zaaijen, ON sā, also Lith sėti, OB sēti, to sow, and L sēui (ML sēvi), I have sown (inf serere), and, in C, with l for ē, OIr sil, Ga siol, and, with h for s, OW hill. The IE r is sē-* or sē-, to sow, with Gmc var sā-* or sā-.

2. L serere (s ser-, r se-), to sow, has derivative sēmen (o/s sēmin-), a sowing, hence that which is sown; adopted by Bot and Physio. The foll derivatives concern E:

sēminālis, whence MF-F sēmināl, whence E semināl; sēminārium, a seed-plot, prop the neu of adj sēminārius; hence both the G Seminar, E seminar (at a university), and E seminary, orig as in L, hence a secondary school, whence seminarian and—after F sēminariste—seminarist; sēmināre, to sow, pp sēminātus, whence 'to seminate' (rare), the derivative L sēminātiō, o/s sēminātiōn-, yielding semination.

3. Sēmināre has the cpd dissēmināre (dis-, apart), to scatter seeds, with pp dissēminātus, whence 'to disseminate'; derivative dissēminātiō, o/s -ātiōn-, yields dissemination.

4. Serere has pp satus, whence satiō, a sowing, acc satiōnem, whence OF-F saizon (cf OProv sazon), with OF-MF varr seison, seson, whence ME seson, whence E season; 'to season'—basically to render fit for the season—derives from the E n, but perh owes something to the syn MF-F assaisonner (as-=L ad, towardc). Seasonable comes imm from AF; with seasonal, cf LL sationālis, fit for sowing.

soy; soya. The Oriental sauce known as soy comes through Jap shōyū from Ch; it is made from beans, esp the soybean (soy+bean). The E form soya (bean) derives from D and G soja, D var soya, F soya, from Jap shōyū, and has perh been influenced by a word used mainly in India—soya, fennel, from Hi soyā, itself from Skt śāleya.

spa: Spa, a small Belgian town, famous since C16 for its mineral springs.

space, n, hence v (perh influenced by late MF-F espace, from OF-F espace)—spacious—spatial (anl from E space after L spatium)—spatiative, whence, anl, spatiation; expatiative (adj and v), whence, anl, expatiation and expatiatory; interspace, whence, anl, interspatial.

1. E-ME space derives, by apheresis, from OF-F espace, from L spatium, prob an s- reinforcement (IE int prefix s-) of a derivative of L patēre, to lie open: cf Lith splėčiū beside platis, wide-open, large. (E & M.) Cf PATENT.

2. L spatium has adj spatiōsus, whence OF-MF spacieux, f spacieuse, whence E spacious; derivative LL spatiōsitas, o/s spatiōsitat-, yields E spatiously, ousted by the E formation spaciousness. Derivative spatiāri, to take a walk, has pp spatiātus, whence 'to spatiate' (now rare).

3. Spatiāri has cpd exspatiāri, with contr expatiāri, to walk, or go, far and wide (ex-, out of, used int), with pp exspatiātus, whence 'to expatiate'.

4. Spatium has the LL cpd interspatium, an interval, whence E interspace.

5. Cf the sep SPEED.

spade. See SPOON, para 2.

spaghetti, adopted from It, is the pl of spaghetto, dim of spago, a cord: o.o.o.

spahl. See SPOY.

Spain, Spaniard, Spanish; spaniel; Hispania, Hispanic (whence Hispanicism and, anl, Hispanist, a scholar in Spanish).

1. Spain derives, by apheresis, from OF-MF Espaigne (F Espagne): LL Spānia: L Hispānia: L Hispānus, Spanish, a Spaniard+-ia, denoting a land, a region. The L city-name Hispalis, Seville, suggests that the prehistoric name of Spain was Hispa*, prob of C-Iberian origin.

2. Spanish reshapes ME Spainish, which = Spain+adj -ish, but recalls LL Spānus; and Spaniard derives, by apheresis, from OF-MF Espaignart (Espaigne+-art).

3. A spaniel is lit a Spanish dog: MF (chien) espaignol (later espagnol, finally épagneul): Sp español, Spanish, from España (cf It Spagna), from L Hispānia.

4. L Hispānia has adj Hispānicus, whence E Hispanic (cf the obs F hispanique).

spale (dial) and spall, a splinter, a chip, whence 'to spall', to break into fragments (mining and masonry), derive from ME spalle, as dial spalt, var spald, to chip, derives from ME spalden, both perh akin to ON spǫlr, a short piece; ME spalden app comes from MD spalden, akin to OHG spaltan, MHG-G spalten, to split, itself akin to Skt spḥṛtāti (for spḥṛtāti*).

Cf SPOIL.

span (n and v), spanner—cf inspan and outspan; spin, v (whence spinnet and spinning, as in spinning jenny), hence n—cf spinster; spindle (n, hence adj and v), whence spindly; spider, whence spidery.—spasm (whence spasmic), spasmodic, spastic.

'To span' comes imm from 'a span', but ult from OE spannan, itself from the OE n spann, whence the É n span: with OE spannan, cf OFris spanna (var sponna), OHG spannan, G (and MD-D) spannen, whence Spanner, whence E spanner, the tool; with OE spann, cf OFris spann (var sponn), OHG spanna, G Spanne, MD-D span, and ON spönn. Ult all the OGmc words are akin to Gr spaein, spān, to drag or draw (see para 6).

2. From MD-D span comes 'a span of oxen'; from MD-D spannen comes span, to attach (horses) to a vehicle, whence to inspan or harness to, outspan to unharness from, a waggon; all, SAfr usages.

3. OE spannan, to span, to clasp, to attach, to yoke or harness up, has, app, a thinned derivative spinnan, to spin (a web, or web and woof), to twist or writhe (cf para 6)—whence 'to spin'; and OE spinnan is akin to OFris spinna, OHG spinnan, MHG-G spinnen, Go spinnan, ON spinna. In ME, 'to spin' has agent spinster (-ster, f agent), a woman that spins, hence an unmarried gentlewoman, hence any unmarried woman.

4. Akin to OE spinnan, to spin, is OE spinel, a spindle, akin to OHG spinnala, spinnila, MHG spinnel; but spindle itself comes, via MD -spindel (only in cpds, the MD single being spille or spil), supported by ED-D and G spindel, from OFris spindel.

5. OE spinnan, to spin, acquires, in ME, the derivative spithre, lit a spinner, but in usage a spider, whence the 'eased' E spider: cf MHG-G Spinne (OHG spinna, from spinnan, to spin), a spider.

6. Mentioned in para 1, s.f., and compared in para 3, the Gr spádō, I draw (a sword), pull or drag, and later, in Med, to cause a convulsion, with inf spáein, often contr to spān, derives from IE spe-* or spi-*, to stretch.

7. Gr spān, pt espassa, has derivative n spasmos, a convulsion, whence, via L spasmus and MF-F spasme, the E spasm. Whereas Gr spasmos has adj spasmōdēs, whence, via ML spasmodicus, the (F spasmodique and) E spasmodic, Gr spān has adj spastikos, whence L spasticus, whence E spastic, adj hence n.

spandrel, o.o.o., perh derives, via AF, by apheresis from OF-MF espandre (F épandre): L expandere, to spread out: ex-, out+pandere, to spread, perh akin to patēre, to lie open (cf PATENT).

spangle, a bright dress-ornament, hence v, derives from ME spangel, dim of ME spang, from OE spange, a clasp, a brooch; cf OHG spanga, MHG-G spange, MD spaenge, spange, D spang, a brooch, ON spöng, a spangle: Walshe proposes kinship with Gr sphékōō, I bind tightly; I suggest kinship with E span—cf OFris spann, sponn, both a span and a brooch.

Spaniard. See SPAIN, para 2.

spaniel. See SPAIN, para 3.

Spanish. See SPAIN, para 2.

spank, to strike with open hand, hence n and 'a spanking'; hence prob the adj spanking, moving in a lively manner and at a brisk pace, whence, by b/f, 'to spank' or move thus: echoic.

spanner (tool). See SPAN, para 1.

span-new. See SPIKE, para 4.

spar (1), a timber, e.g. a beam, later—naut—a mast, a boom; spear (n, hence v), whence, by shape-resemblance, spearfish, -grass, -mint, -wood, -wort (OE sperewyrt: cf WORT), and, even more obviously, spearhead, -man, and the adj spearly.

1. A spar, ME sparre, is akin to OHG sparro, G Sparren, MD-D spar, ON sparri (with modern Scan cognates).

2. A spear, ME spere, OE spere, is akin to OFris spēr, spere, spiri, OHG-MHG spēr, G Speer, MD spare, spere, spēr, sperre, D speer, ON spjör (spjör)—and prob to L sparus (s and r spar-), a hunting-spear. Akin is spar, to fasten (a door or a gate): ME sparren, aphetically from OE be- and gesparrian: cf OHG sperrēn, MHG-G sperrēn, to protect with spars, hence to barricade.

spar (2), a non-metallic mineral. See FELDSPAR.

spar (3), as a boxer does. See PARE, para 3.

spar (4). See the 1st SPAR, para 2, s.f.

spare, adj (hence n) and v (whence sparing).

The adj spare, not being used, reserved, derives from OE spær, sparing, and 'to spare' from the intimately related OE sparian, not to use, to forbear: cf OFris sparia, OHG sparōn, G sparen, MD-D sparen, ON spara, and, for the adj, OHG spar, MD sparich, ON sparr, sparing, OSi sporū, long-lasting, and Skt sphāra, extensive. Cf the sep SPEED.

sparge. See SPARSE, para 1.

sparhawk. See SPARROW, para 2.

spark, n and v; sparkle, v and n; sparklet. See SPARSE, paras 6-7.

sparrow (sparrowgrass; f/e for ASPARAGUS), ME sparowe, earlier sparewe, earliest sparwa, derives from OE spearwa: cf OHG sparo, MHG spar (gen sparwes), whence the MHG dim sperlinc, G Sperling—Go sparwa—ON spörr; cf also (Walshe) OP spurglis, Gr spergoulos, a small field-bird—? akin to Gr sperkhomenos (prop a presp), speedy, hasty, the sparrow being a notably lively bird.

2. E sparhawk, the sparrow hawk, comes from ME sparhawk, from OE spearhafoc.

sparse (whence sparseness and—? after scarcity—sparsity), sparsile; sparge (v, hence n), whence sparger; spark, n (whence sparkish) and v (whence sparker and sparkling)—sparkle, n (whence the dim sparklet) and v (whence sparkling, sparkling); sprinkle, v (whence sprinkler, sprinkling), hence n.—Cpds from L spargere: asperge, aspergillum, aspergillus (whence aspergillin and aspergillosis)—asperse, aspersion (whence, anl, aspersive), aspersorium; disperse (whence dispersal), dispersion (whence, anl, dispersity and dispersive); intersperse, whence interspersal and, anl, interspersion.—speak, whence speaker, speaking, and AE speakeasy; pt spoke, archaic spake, and pp spoken; speech (whence speechify), speechless (OE spāeclēas)—cf spokesman.

1. Sparse derives from L sparsus, pp of spargere, to scatter or strew; on sparsus is formed the LL sparsilis, whence E sparsile; from the inf spargere comes, via MF, the E 'to sparge', to sprinkle.

2. L spargere is akin to Gr spargan, (vi) to swell, to teem or abound: both vv have s sparg-, r spar-: cf Skt sphūrjati, it breaks, or bursts, forth, and Av fra-sparega, a branch, a twig, and Lith spūrgas, a sprout: IE r, sper-, var spar-, with extn sphereg-, var sphareg-, to sprout, to strew, to scatter.—

The Gr speirein, to sow (seeds), esp by broadcasting them, is a var of sper-*: cf SPERM, para 1.

Compounds from L spargere

3. The c/f of spargere is -spargere, with pp -spersus and derivative n-spersiō(o/s-spersiōn). Of the numerous L cpds, only three have affected general E; the others are both erudite and, even so, rare. The first is adspargere (int ad-), eased to aspergere, to scatter, strew, sprinkle, whence—via OF-F asperger—'to asperge'; derivative Eccl ML aspergillum, a sprinkling-brush or perforated globe, is retained by EcclE; the var aspergillus is now used mainly by Bot. The pp aspersus yields 'to asperse', orig to besprinkle, now to bespatter with calumny; derivative aspersiō, o/s aspersiōn-, yields OF-F aspersion, adopted by E, and derivative Eccl ML aspersōrium, basin for holy water, is retained by EcclE.

4. L dispergere (di- for dis-, apart, connoting an extensive scattering), to cause to scatter, has s disperg-, whence the Sci dispergate (-ate as vj-suffix). The pp dispersus yields the now rare adj disperse, via late MF-EF dispers, f disperse, and 'to disperse', via late MF-F disperser; derivative LL dispersiō, o/s dispersiōn, becomes MF-F dispersion, adopted by E.

5. L interspergere, to scatter inter or among, to scatter here and there, has pp interspersus, whence 'to intersperse'.

Germanic Cognates of L spargere

6. 'To spark', or issue in sparks, derives from OE spearcian, from OE spearca, an ignited particle or tiny fragment, var spearca, whence, resp, ME sperke and sparka, sparc, whence E spark; cf the related ON sparkr, brisk, lively, whence ult the E spark, a gallant (esp in the taut 'a gay, or bright, spark'), whence the AE coll v spark, play the beau to.

7. 'To spark' has the freq 'to sparkle', whence—unless it be a dim of the n spark—the n sparkle; sparklet is certainly a dim of the n spark.

8. Prob akin to L spargere is 'to sprinkle', which is clearly a freq and prob a nasalization of a metathetic var of IE spar-* or sper-*, to scatter, strew, sprinkle. 'To sprinkle', ME sprenkelen, is closely akin to D sprenkelen, to sprinkle (from MD sprenkēl, a small spot, etc., var spreinkel), and G sprenkeln, to spot or fleck (from G Sprenkēl, MHG spreinkel, a speckle, MLG a freckle). This Gmc sub-group is perh, although less prob, related, not to L spargere but (Walshe) to Gr perknos, variegated, with addition of the IE int prefix s-.

The Scattering or Sowing of Sounds-as-Words

9. The Gmc sprek-, sprik- r prob attested by 'sprinkle' words occurs in OE spreccan, sprecan, with eased var speccan, whence, via ME speken, E 'to speak': and OE spreccan is akin to OFris spreka, OS sprekan, OHG sprehhan (var spehhan), MHG-G sprechen, MD spreecken, MD-D spreken: cf also ON spraka, to crackle, and Skt spūrjati, it crackles or roars, and, in C, the W ffraeth, eloquent.

10. Most intimately related to OE sprecan, specan, to speak, is OE spræc, sprec, with eased varr spæc, spēc, a speaking, whether the power of speech, or speech in general, or a particular speaking, whence ME speche, E speech: cf OFris spreke (var sprēze), OHG sprähha, MHG spräche, G Sprache, MLG språke, MD språke, spraecke, spraec, D spraak, and also cf MD spraecwort, a spoken word.

11. 'To speak' has the dial derivative speak, speech, a saying, which has—prob after the pt spoke—the var spoke, whence app the otherwise puzzling spokesman (a spoke's man).

spart, spartein(e), Spartium. See the 2nd SPIRE, para 5.

Spartan, adj, hence n: L Spartanus, adj of Sparta: (Doric) Gr Sparta, Attic Spartē, the capital of Laconia in the ancient Peloponnesus; the inhabitants were noted for hard discipline and for the utmost fortitude and courage. Gr (hē) Spartē is elliptical for (hē khōra) spartē, the sown place.

spasm, spasmic, spasmodic, spastic. See SPAN, para 7.

spat, spats; spatter. The base is app spat, a var—now only Sc—of SPOT, a small stain, a fleck, a freckle, etc., hence, collectively, some spots of rain; hence 'to spat', of which 'to spatter' is a freq, with n derivative therefrom. Spatter occurs in the cpd spatterdash, a legging or gaiter worn against spatters of water or mud; used mostly in pl, it has the b/f spats. Moreover, the etym obscure spat, a young bivalve (esp a young oyster), perh derives from spat, a spot; and splatter, n and v, app blends splash and spatter.

spatchcock. See SPIKE, para 3.

spate, a freshet, a heavy shower, hence a very large quantity or number (as of words), is o.o.o.: perh, by apheresis, from MF espoit, gushing of a spring: es-, L ex, out of; 2nd element, o.o.o.

spatha, spathal, spathe. See SPOON, para 3.

spatial. See SPACE (heading).

spatter, spatterdash. See SPAT.

spatula, spatulate. See SPOON, para 4.

spavin, disease of a horse's hock, whence spavined: ME spaveyne, an apheresis, and an easing, of MF esparvain, esparvin (F éparvin): o.o.o.: perh from Frankish sparwun*, acc of sparo*, a sparrow, either from a shape-resemblance or from a resemblance of the bird's flight to the horse's gait (B & W).

spawn, v (whence spawner and spawning), hence n (whence spawny): ME spawnen, earlier spanen: by apheresis from OF-MF espandre (F épandre), orig to shed: L expandere, to stretch, to spread out: ex-, out, used int+pandere, to stretch, spread, prob akin to patēre, to lie open (cf PATENT).

spay. See SPOON, para 5.

speaker, whence speaker and speaking. See SPARSE, para 9.

spear, spearhead, spearmint, spearsman. See the 1st SPAR, para 2.

special (adj, hence n), whence specialism, specialist (perh prompted by F spécialiste), specialize (whence specialization)—speciality and specialty; especial; specific (adj, hence n), specification, specify; specie, species, speciosity, specious; spice (n, whence spicy, and v), spicery.

1. The basis of all these words is provided by the L speciēs, a sight, hence the outward form or shape, hence a sort or kind: speciēs derives from L speciō, I look at, I see: therefore cf and, f.a.e., see SPECTACLE.

2. L speciēs is adopted by E, orig in the senses 'mental image' and 'visible form' and later as a term in Bio (genus and species). From the L phrase in speciē, in form, in kind, hence in coin, derives E specie, coin in general, esp of gold or silver.

3. L speciēs has both the L adj speciōsus, whence E specious, the LL derivative speciōsitas (o/s speciōsität-) yielding E speciosity, and the LL cpd adj specificus, species-making (-ficus from -ficere, c/f of facere, to make), whence EF-F spécifique and, perh independently, E specific; derivative LL specificāre, to endow with form (to specify), becomes MF especificier, later spécifier, whence 'to specify'; on the pp specificātus is formed the ML specificātiō, o/s specificātiōn-, whence, prob via MF-F specification, the E specification.

4. L speciēs, in its sense 'own form or shape, hence kind or sort', has LL adj speciālis (opp generalis), whence OF-MF especial and special (F spécial), whence E especial and special; derivative LL speciālitās (o/s speciālitāt-), a particular quality, becomes MF specialité (F spé-), whence E speciality; the MF var especialité accounts—by apheresis—for the E var specialty.

5. L speciēs acquires, in LL, the sense 'articles of merchandise, esp aromatics and spices', whence OF-MF espice (later epice, F épice), whence, by apheresis, the ME-E spice, with gradually narrowing sense; derivative MF epicerie (later épicerie) similarly gives us spicery. Derivative MF epicer, to trade in spices, F to season with spices, yields 'to spice'.

specie. See prec, para 2.

species. See SPECIAL, para 2.

specific, specification, specify. See SPECIAL, para 3.

specimen. See SPECTACLE, para 3.

speciosity, specious. See SPECIAL, para 3.

speck (1), n (hence v), a spot, whence specky; speckle (n, hence v), whence pa speckled and adj speckly. A speckle is prob the dim of speck: cf MD speckel. A speck, ME spekke, derives from OE specca: of Gmc origin.

speck (2), blubber, bacon, derives, like the now only Sc spick, blubber, fat or grease, from OE spec, spic, akin to OFris spec, OHG-MHG spec, G Speck, MD spec, speck, D spek, bacon, and ON spik, blubber: perh cf, without IE s-, the Gr plōn, fat, and prob cf Skt spijī (sphigī-), hind-quarters (cf, sem, BACON).

spectacle (and spectacles), spectacular, spectator; specter (AE) or spectre (whence spectral), spectrum

—cf the element spectro-; specular, speculum; speculate, speculation, speculative, speculator, speculatory; specimen.—Cpds from L speciāre and from L -spicere (c/f of specere), pp -spectus, derivative n -spectiō and adj -spectivus (ML -spectivus) and agent -spector: aspect; circumspect, circumspection; conspicuous, whence, anl, conspicive—cf conspicuity, conspicuous; despicable—cf despise (whence, in part, despisable and, entirely, despisal)—despite (whence despiteful and despiteous), n, v (obs), prep—spite, n (whence spiteful), hence v; expect, expectable, expectance (expectancy), expectant, expectation, expectative; inspect, inspection (whence inspectional), inspective, inspector (whence inspectoral or -ial, inspectorate, (anl) inspectress); perspective (adj and n)—cf perspicacity, perspicacious, and perspicuity, perspicuous; prospect (n and v), prospection, prospective (adj, hence n), prospector, prospectus; respect (n, v), respectable (whence, anl, respectability), respectant, respective (whence irrespective)—and, from the n, respectful, respectless, and, from the v, respector; respite, n and v; retrospect (n, v), whence, anl, retrospection and retrospective; suspect (adj—whence n—and v), cf suspicion and suspicious; transpicuous.—‘Disguised’: espial, espy; espionage; spy, n (whence spyglass) and v (whence spying).—Cf the sep AUSPICE, AUSPICIOUS, qq.v. at AVIARY; sep FRONTISPIECE, q.v. at FRONT; SPECIES, SPECIFIC, SPECIFY, SPECIOUS, qq.v. at SPECIAL.—Cf also the sep, more remote SCEPTIC (in ADDENDA) and SCOPE.

Indo-European

1. Behind all these words, lies L specere (c/f -spicere), to perceive with the eyes, to see, to look at, with s and r spec-, answering to IE spek-* (var spak-), which app has the metathetic mdfn skep-, as in Gr skeptomai (s skept-, r skep-), I observe, with the normal e-o mutation in the n skopos; there is also an s-less var pek-* or -pak, attested in Skt. The corresp Gmc words are rare, with h (prob for kh) for k. Of the numerous cognates of L specere, the foll are, in even the most cursory treatment, worth noting: Skt spāṣati, pāṣyati, he sees, spāṣtās, seen, spāṣ, a seer; OHG speha, close attention, spehōn, MHG spehen, to examine closely, G spāhen, to spy out, OHG spāhi, wise, shrewd, MHG spaehe, skilful, ON spā, prophecy.

2. The L s and r spec- occurs in the derivative speculum, a mirror (that into which one looks), adopted by E, with various erudite, Sci, tech senses; the derivative adj speculāris yields E specular. L specere has the closely related derivative specula, a watch-tower or look-out, whence speculāri, to watch from one, to spy out, with pp speculātus, whence ‘to speculate’, to meditate, hence to theorize, whence the commercial sense; derivatives LL speculātiō (o/s speculātiōn-), LL speculatiuus (ML -ivus), L speculātor, L speculārōtius, yield E speculation (? imm from MF-F spéculation), speculative (from MF-F spéculatif, f -ive), speculator (cf late EF-F spéculeteur), speculatory.

3. The L spec- occurs also in L specimen, something that indicates (e.g., the quality), adopted by E—cf the F spécimen.

4. On the L pp spectus is formed L spectrum, an appearance, esp an image, later a ghostly appearance, an apparition, adopted by E and given a new sense, that of Phys; L spectrum becomes EF-F spectre, adopted by E.

5. L specere has the freq spectāre, to look at habitually, hence to fix one’s eyes upon, with pp spectātus, whence spectātor, whence late MF-F spectateur and E spectator. Spectāre has the derivative spectāculum, something often looked at or worth looking at, whence OF-F spectacle, adopted by E; the adj spectacular is an anl E formation. From spectāculum in its LL sense ‘the act of seeing’ comes the ME-EE spectacle, a spy-glass, a mirror, whence spectacles in the modern sense.

Compounds from L specere and spectāre

6. L aspicere, eased form of adspicere (ad- used int), to look at, has pp aspectus, whence the n aspectus (gen -ūs), whence late MF-F and, prob independently, E aspect; the astrological ‘to aspect’, however, derives from L aspectāre, the int of aspicere.

7. L circumspecere, to look circum, about or around, oneself, has pp circumspectus, whence the E adj circumspect; derivative LL circumspectiō (o/s circumspectiōn-), the act of looking around, becomes E circumspection, with the new sense ‘discretion’ or ‘caution’. Cf the MF-F circonspect, circonspection.

8. L conspicere (con- used int), to perceive, has pp conspicuous, whence the n conspicuous (gen -ūs), a mental survey (LL, the zodiac), adopted by E. Conspicere has derivative adj conspicuous, whence E conspicuous; the LL off-shoot conspiciūtās, o/s conspiciūtāt-, yields conspicuity.

9. L dēspicere, to look dē- or down upon, becomes OF-MF despire, with certain forms in despis-, whence perh ME despisen, whence ‘to despise’; prob, however, ME despisen comes from OF-MF despiser (var -ier), whence OF-MF despisable, adopted by E; this OF-MF despiser, -ier, would derive from a VL dēspiciāre* (from L dēspicere). L dēspicere has pp dēspicuous, whence the n dēspicuous (gen -ūs), whence both the rare E despect, contempt, and OF-MF despit (EF-F dépit), adopted by ME, whence E despite; ME despit becomes, by aphesis, E spite; OF-MF despit has derivative v despiter, whence ‘to despise’, to despise (archaic). The phrase in despite of—whence by aphesis, in spite of—derives from (OF en despit, whence) MF en despit de, orig in contempt of.

10. L dēspicere has the syn mdfn dēspiciāri, whence LL dēspiciābilis, contemptible, whence E despicable.

11. L spectāre, to gaze at, has the important cpd exspectāre, usu eased to expectāre, to look ex, out, connoting out for, whence 'to expect'; derivative LL expectabilis, L expectatiō (o/s expectatiōn-), ML expectativus, the L presp expectans, o/s expectant-, and its ML derivative expectantia, yield resp E expectable, MF-EF—whence E—expectation, EF-F expectative, adopted by E, late MF-F—whence E—expectant, E expectance, with var expectancy.

12. L inspicere, to look in or into, to examine or study, has pp inspectus, whence 'to inspect'. Derivatives L inspectiō (o/s inspectiōn-), LL inspectivus (ML -ivus), L inspector, yield E inspection, E inspective, E inspector (cf late EF-F inspector).

13. L perspicere, to look per or through, has pp perspectus, whence the ML derivative perspectivus, whence the E adj perspective; elliptical ML perspectiva (ars, art) becomes the OF-F n perspectiva, adopted by E. Perspicere has two L adj:

perspicāx, able to see through, hence keen or acute, with o/s perspicāc-, whence (late MF-F perspicace and) E perspicacious, the (LL-)ML derivative perspicaciās, o/s perspicacitāt-, yielding (late MF-F perspicacitē and) E perspicacity; perspicuus, capable of being looked through, transparent, with derivative perspicuitās, whence E perspicuous and perspicuity.

14. L prōspicere, to look prō or forward, also to foresee, has pp prōspectus, whence the n prōspectus (gen -ūs), whence E prospect; 'to prospect', on the other hand, derives from L prōspectāre, to look forward, an int of prōspicere. On the L pp prōspectus are built LL prōspectiō, o/s prōspectiōn-, LL prōspectivus (ML -ivus), suitable for getting a view from, and LL prōspector, one who foresees, the n prōspectus, whence, resp, E prospection, E prospective, E prospector (only in form, the Min sense deriving from 'to prospect'), F and E prospectus, lit a forward view.

15. L respicere, to turn round (implied by re-, back) to look at, hence to feel a regard, or admiration, for, has pp respectus, whence 'to respect', the n respect coming, perh via MF-F, from the L n respectus (gen -ūs). On the pp respectus are formed ML respectabilis and ML respectivus, whence (late MF-F and) E respectable and (late MF-F respectif, f-ive, and) E respective. The L n respectus becomes OF-MF respit (F répiti), whence E respite; derivative OF-MF respiter produces 'to respite'.

16. L retrospicere, to look retro or backwards, has pp retrospectus, whence the E retrospect, adj, n, v.

17. L subspicere, usu eased to susplicere, to raise one's head—sub, under, hence from under—in order to look at, hence to admire and, from the opp angle, to look at askance, has pp suspectus, whence, via MF-F, the E adj suspect; 'to suspect' derives, via EF-F suspector, from LL suspectāri, int of susplicere. Derivative L suspiciō (susplicere+abstract-n -iō), distrust, has acc suspiciōnem, whence OF-F suspicion, adopted by E; the F souçon, however, derives, via OF-EF sospeçon, from LL suspiciōnem, acc of suspiciō (pp s suspect+iō). L susplicere has derivative adj—influenced by suspiciō—suspiciōsus, whence MF suspicius, whence E suspicious.

18. L transpicere, to see across, hence, loosely, to see through, has suggested transpicuous, transparent, clearly understood, and with conspicuous.

'Disguised' Derivatives

19. OHG sphōn, to examine closely, to investigate (cf para 1), is id in Frankish: and from Frankish sphōn comes OF-MF espier (F épier), to watch closely, whence E 'to esp'; derivative MF espaille yields E espial, a spying, a thing espied; derivative OF-MF espie (EF-F épie, archaic), a spying, hence one who spies or spies, is adopted by ME, which, by apheresis, converts it to spie, whence E spy. OF-MF espier passes into ME as espier, later spier, whence 'to spy'.

20. Id in origin with OF-MF espie (a spying, hence) a spy, is It spia, whence the—prop, aug—It spione, whence MF-F espion, whence late MF-F espionner, to act as a spy, whence EF-F espionnage, (systematic or governmental) spying, whence E espionage.

spectator. See prec, para 5.

specter, spectral, spectre. See SPECTACLE, para 4.

spectrum. See SPECTACLE, para 4.

specular. See SPECTACLE, para 2. speculate, speculation, speculative, speculator, speculatory. See SPECTACLE, para 2.

speculum. See SPECTACLE, para 2.

sped: pt, pp of 'to speed'.

speech, speechify, speechless. See SPARSE, para 10 (and heading).

speed, n and v (pt sped); speedy. 'To speed', to go, to fare (lit and fig), esp to fare successfully, but also to hasten ('The early bird . . .'), derives from ME spēden, to fare, esp to prosper, to hasten or go fast, from OE spēdan, to fare (lit and fig), esp prosperously, prob from the OE n spēd, the way one fares, esp prosperity, whence ME spēde, prosperity, speed, whence the E speed; derivative OE spēdig, prosperous, becomes ME spēdi, prosperous, swift, whence E speedy, swift. Cf OHG spuot, success, spuōn, to succeed, OS spōdian, MD spoeden, to succeed, D spoed, swiftness, haste, MD spoedich, spuedich, successful, swift, D spoedig, swift; and, further off, Skt sphāyati, he increases, and prob SPACE and SPARE.

speer or speir. See SPUR, para 3.

spell (1), a relief, a rest, and to relieve, to rest. The n derives from the v, which derives from OE spelian, to stand in, or take, another's place, from OE spala, a deputy: o.o.o.: perh akin to pal, E Romany pal, Continental Romany plal, var of pral, ult akin to and prob even derived from Skt bhratr (cf E BROTHER).

spell (2). See the 1st SPILL.

spell (3), a spoken word, a (short) story, a charm; to spell (pt spelled, spelt, pp spelt), to speak (obs), to name, to write, to name, in order, the letters of a word, whence the pa, vn spelling.

'To spell', in the last sense, derives from OF-MF espelir, espeler (F épeler); the now only dia 'to spell' or speak, to relate, derives from OE spellian; both the OF and the OE vv are of Gmc origin, the latter prob deriving imm from OE spell, a story, a saying, speech or language, whence E spell, now only an incantation (esp magical, lit or fig): cf OFris spel, spil, OS and OHG spel, Go spill, ON spjall (spjall): o.o.o.

spelt (whence speltoid), a variety of wheat: OE spelt: LL spelta, perh of Gmc (E & M), perh of Pannonian origin (Walshe). With OE spelt, cf OHG spelta, spelza, MHG spelte, G Spelt.

spence, spencer. See PEND, para 18.

spend; spendthrift. See PEND, para 18.

sperm (whence spermic), spermaceti (for other cpds, see the element -sperm), spermary, spermatc, spermatium; spore (whence the SciL dim sporidium)—cf the element -spora, sporo-; sporadic.

1. Sporadic (cf F sporadique) derives from ML sporadicus, trln of Gr sporadikos, scattered (like seed), ad of Gr spora, a seed, a sowing, whence, prob via SciL spora, the E spore: and Gr spora is akin (Gr -o- in nn, -e- in vv) to Gr speirein, to sow: speir- is a var of the IE r spēr-*, to strew or scatter: f.a.e., SPARSE, para 2.

2. Gr speirein has derivative sperma (o/s spermat-), semen, hence seed or germ: whence, via LL sperma and MF esperme (F sperme), the ME sperme, E sperm. The derivative Gr adj spermatikos becomes LL spermaticus and MF-F spermatique, whence E spermatc; on the LL s spermat- is formed the SciL spermatium—cf SciL spermarium (formed from LL sperma), whence E spermary.

3. The ML, whence E, spermaceti=LL sperma+cēti, of a cētus or whale.

spet. See the 1st SPIT, para 2.

spew. See the 2nd SPIT, para 3.

sphacel, sphacelus (whence, anl, sphacelate and sphacelous).

Sphacelus is the SciL shape of Gr sphakelos, a convulsion, a painful spasm, a gangrene, app an -elos derivative of Gr sphak-, a var of IE sphek-, to draw, pull, tug, itself an extn of sphē-*, to stretch. The Med sphacel derives from EF-F sphacèle (from Gr).

sphagnum, a peat moss: SciL: Gr sphagnos: o.o.o.

sphenoid: Gr sphēnoeidēs, wedge-shaped: sphēno-, c/f of sphēn, a wedge+-eidēs, -shaped, from eidōs, form, shape.

sphere (n, hence v—esp as ensphere), spheric (now usu in extn spherical), spheroid; hemisphere, whence, anl, hemispherical; cf the element -sphaera, where also -sphere, sphaero-, sphero-.

1. Spheroid derives from L sphaeroeides, trln of Gr sphairoeidēs: sphairo-, c/f of sphaira, a ball, a sphere+-eidēs, -shaped, from eidōs, a shape or form; spheric, adj, derives from LL sphaericus, trln of Gr sphairikos, adj of sphaira. Gr sphaira, Ionic sphairē, is o.o.o.

2. Hemisphère=EF-F hemisphère (MF emisphere): LL hemisphaerium: Gr hēmishphairion: hēmi-, half+an -ion derivative of sphaira.

sphincter. See para 2 of:

sphinx, whence, anl, the adj sphingal and sphingine.

1. Orig the Sphinx of Thebes, an oracular divinity, hence any such divinity, esp if a poser of difficult riddles, hence any enigmatic person—cf the Sphinx of Giza, near Cairo, a Gr naming of an Eg image—sphinx has come into both F and E—through L—from Gr Σφίγξ, gen Σφίγγος, Sphingos: from sphingein, to bind tightly, to squeeze or throttle: perh cf—without n—ON spīkr, a nail, and Let spaignis, spaigle, a forked stick for catching crayfish, and—without p(h)—Mir sēn (? for spīg-no-), a net: IE r, spheig-, var spīg- to bind. (Hofmann.)

2. Gr sphingein has another derivative: sphinktēr (σφιγκτήρ), whence LL sphincter, E sphincter, the sphincter-muscle, which is contractile.

sphygmic and sphygmoid. Gr sphugmos, the pulse +E adj-suffix -ic and -oid.

spica, spical, spicant, spicate. See SPIKE, para 8.

spice, spicery. See SPECIAL, para 5.

spicilege. See the element spici-.

spick, fat, blubber. See the 2nd SPECK.

spick-and-span. See SPIKE, para 4.

spicose, spicous, spicula, spicular, spiculate, spicule, spiculum. See SPIKE, paras 8 and 9, and cf heading (latter part).

spicy. See SPECIAL (heading, s.f.).

spider. See SPAN, para 5.

spiel (n, v) and spieler. The 2nd, adopted from G and meaning a player, esp at cards, particularly if a gambler, derives from G spielen, to play, whence 'to spiel'; the derivative G n Spiel becomes AE and Aus E spiel, which, like the v, is sl, both with the additional sense of '(to utter) smooth, deceptive speech'. G spielen, MHG spiln, OHG spilōn, is akin to OFris spilia (n spil or spel), OE spilian, ON spila: o.o.o.

spiffing, spiffy. See SPV.

spifficate varies spifflicate, either a blend of spill and suffocate or a droll mdfn of 'to suffocate', with gradual weakening of sense.

Spig, a Spanish American, a Mexican, but orig and prob a Sp-speaking Negro, is short for the syn Spiggoty, which, for some lost reason, shows the influence of spigot on 'speaga de Engleesh', esp perh in 'No speaga de Engleesh', I don't speak English. (Mathews.)

spigot, ME var speget, is perh of D or LG origin: cf D spiegat, a scupper (hole), and spie, a peg, plug, spigot: perh cf Prov espigou, a bung; prob cf next.

spike, n (whence spiky), hence v; spikenard; spitchcock and spatchcock; spick-and-span; spire (of grass; of church); prob spile, a peg, and perh the sep spigot; spoke of a wheel.—L cognates: spica (whence spical, spicose, spicous), spicant, spicate; spicula (whence, anl, spicular), spiculate (adj and v), spicule (whence, anl, spiculose, spiculous), spiculum.—Cognates without s-: the sep PIE, bird, and pike, a sharp point, the weapon.—Perh cf SPINE.

1. E-ME spike is akin to and prob it derives from OE spicing, a large nail: cf esp ON spīkr, a spike, and spik, a splinter, which have cognates in Gmc and in Sl; note also L spīca, a sharp point, a spike, an ear of corn. The r spik-, spīc-, seems, like L spīna, a thorn, r spīn-, to be an extn of an IE r spī-, spei-, a sharp point.

2. Spikenard is a trans of ML spīca nardi, lit a sharp point of nard, hence the fragrant ointment prepared from a plant: ME narde, MF narde (F nard), L nardus, Gr nardos, (prob via Sem—cf H nerd—from) Skt nalada, the spikenard plant of India.

3. Spitchcock, an eel split and cooked, derives from ME spīche*, a spike+coke, a cook; spatchcock, a fowl split and grilled after a hasty killing, is a mdfn of spitchcock, influenced by despatch, speed.

4. Spick and span is short for spick and span-new, a redup (prompted by spick, a dial var of spike) of ME-E span-new, from ON spānn (or spān) nȳr, lit 'chip-new'—as fresh and clean as a chip newly chopped off; cf, sem, 'as bright as a new pin'. ON nȳr is akin to E NEW, and ON spānn to syn OHG span, to OE spōn (E SPOON) and to Gr spḗn, a wedge (cf the element spheno-).

5. Spile, a splinter (now only dial), a wooden peg or pin, a spigot (dial), comes from MLG spīle, splinter, wooden-peg, akin to syn MD spīle, MD-D spījl, MHG spīl, a spear-point, and to ON spīla, a skewer, Let spīhle, a wooden pin, Gr spīlas, -os, a sharp rock, a reef: Gmc spīl- is app, like spīc (spīk-*) and spīn-, an extn of IE spī-, spei-, a sharp point.

6. Certainly akin to spike is the spoke of a wheel: ME spoke, earlier spake: OE spāca, akin to OHG speihha, MHG-G Speiche, MD speke, speec, D speek, MLG spēke.

7. E spire, a slender stalk or blade of grass, hence a tapering top-end, as in 'spire of a church', derives from ME spire, earlier spir, a blade of grass, from OE spīr: cf ON spīra, MLG spīr, a stalk, and MD spīer, a blade of grass: app yet another extn (spīr-) of IE spī-, spei-, a sharp point.

L spīca and its derivatives

8. L spīca, sharp point (as in a spike), an ear of corn, is adopted by learned and SciE. Derivative spīcāre, to furnish with ears of corn or with sharp points, or spikes, has presp spīcans, o/s spīcant-, whence E spīcant and pp spīcātus, whence the E adj spīcate.

9. L spīca has dim spīculum, a little sharp point, hence a dart, adopted by learned E, with SciL var spīcula and with Ē derivative spīcule, whence, anl, the adj spīcular; derivative L spīculāre, to furnish with sharp points, to sharpen, has pp spīculātus, whence the E adj and v spīculate.

spīkenard. See prec, para 2.

spīle, n. See SPIKE, para 5.

spīll (1), a splinter, hence a slender piece or roll of anything, whence spīllikin, var spīllikin, is partly a var of spell, a splinter (ME-OE speld, akin to OHG spaltan, MHG-G spalten, to split: cf SPALE), and partly from spīle (q.v. at SPIKE), and, perh, partly from MD spīlle (D spil), a spindle.

spīll (2), to destroy, kill, hence to mar or maim, hence to punish (all obs), hence to cause to fall, to flow out or over, whence the n: ME spīllen: OE spīllan, which has syn cognate spīldan: cf ON spīlla, to destroy (cf Sw spīlla, to spill), MD-I and LG spīllen, MD spīlden, OHG spīldan, to squander, and ult OHG spaltan, MHG-G spalten, to split, and the 1st SPILL.

2. From 'to spīll' comes spīlth, a spilling, an effusion, prob after tīlth from 'to tīll'.

spīn. See SPAN, para 3.

spīnach comes, by aphesis, from MF espinach, espinache (var espinage and espinoche), thence, with different suffix, MF espinard(e), F épinard: ML spīnacia or -acia, spīnadium or -acium: (perh via Sp espinaca—cf Andalusian Ar isbīnākh—from) Ar isbānakh, earlier isfānākh: Per isfānākh, var isfānāj. The medieval Sp phase, which introduces p for b, perh shows the influence of the Ar-Per form ispānūkh; it was the Arabs who introduced the spinach into Spain, whence it spread to the rest of Europe. (Webster; B & W; Prati.) spīnal. See SPINE, para 2.

spīndle. See SPAN, para 4.

spīne (whence spīneless and spīny), spīnal, Min spīnel or spīnelle, spīnescent (whence spīnescence), spīnet (Mus), spīnney, spīnose (whence, anl, the var spīnous), spīnosity, spīnule (whence, anl, spīnulate and spīnulose).—pīnion (machinery); pīnnacle, n hence v; sep FIN (whence FINNY).

1. E-ME spīne derives, via OF-MF espīne, from L spīna, a thornbush (partly superseded by spīnus), hence a prickle and, by development of sense, the spine of the back: akin, on the one hand, to such other extn of IE spī-* (spei-*), a sharp point, as spīke, q.v., and spīle and spīre; and, on the other, perh to L pīnna, a feather, without the IE int prefix s- and with shortened vowel.

2. L spīna has LL adj spīnālīs, of the human spine, whence (EF-F and) Ē spīnal; the derivative L adj spīnōsus yields E spīnose, and the LL offshoot spīnōsītās, o/s spīnōsītāt-, yields spīnosity. The derivative LL spīnescere, to be covered with thorns, has presp spīnescens, o/s spīnescent-, whence E spīnescent; and the dim spīnula yields F and E spīnule.

3. Derivative L spīnētum (spīna, spīnus, thornbush+-ētum, connoting 'plantation', as in arbor-ētum) has the VL var spīnētia*, whence OF-MF espīnei (varr espinoi, espinioie, cf F épinaiie), whence, by aphesis, E spīnney (cf the archaic syn spīnet, direct from L).

4. L spīna is retained by It, which forms two dimm:

spīnella, var spīnello, a little thorn, hence— from its 'thorny' crystals—that mineral which F derivatively names spīnelle, adopted by E, which varies it to spīnel, now more common;

spīnetta, a little thorn, hence the Mus spīnetta (obs var spīnetto)—from those parts of the mechanism which are shaped like little thorns—an instrument that becomes EF espinette (F épinette), whence, by apheresis, E spinet,—the It Mus name perh aided by the Venetian musician Giovanni Spinetti ('Little Thorns'), who flourished in the latter half of C15 (Enci It).

Cognates without s-

5. Perh akin to L spīna is L pinna, a feather, whence, by shape-resemblance, certain tech objects, esp what E calls a pinion, imm from MF-F pignon, from VL pinnionem*, acc of pinnio*, a mdfn of L pinna. Cf E pinnate.

6. L pinna, also from shape-resemblance, has, in Arch, the sense 'a gable' (as MF-F pignon likewise has), a sense assumed by LL pinnāculum (lit a small wing—influenced by L penna), whence MF-F pinacle, whence E pinacle, orig an Arch term, hence—as for F pinacle—a summit in general.

spinel, spinelle. See prec, para 4. spinescence, spinescent. See SPINE, para 2.

spinet. See SPINE, para 3, s.f., for 'spinney'; para 4, for Mus instrument.

Spinifex. See the element spini-, para 2; cf SPINE.

spink, a chaffinch. See FINCH.

spinnaker, a large 3-cornered sail, is o.o.o.: said to derive from a famous yacht of the middle 1860's, The Sphinx.

spinner, whence spinneret (dim -et). See SPAN (heading).

spinney. See SPINE, para 3.

spinose, spinosity. See SPINE, para 2.—spinous: id (heading).

spinster. See SPAN, para 3.

spinule. See SPINE, para 2, s.f.

spiny. See SPINE (heading).

spiracle. See SPIRIT, para 6.

Spiraea. See the 2nd SPIRE, para 4. spiral. See the 2nd SPIRE, para 2.

spirant. See SPIRIT, para 6.

spirate, spiration. See SPIRIT, para 6.

spire (1), whether of grass or of a church. See SPIKE, para 7.

spire (2), a twist or a coil, a curl or a whorl; spiral, adj and n; spirillum; Spiraea; cf the elements spiri- and spiro- (1).—spart, sparteine, spartium, esparto.

1. This spire, adopted from EF-F, comes from L spīra, trln of syn Gr speira, perh for speria*, s and r sper-, from the IE r, sper- (var spher-*), to turn, to twist: cf the Gr sparton, a rope, and spartos, the broom (shrub), OLith spartas, a bond, a fetter, Lith springti, to strangle.

2. L spira has the derivative ML adj spīrālis, whence the (EF-F and) E spiral; the E n spiral derives from the EF-F n spirale (from the EF adj spiralis); hence 'to spiral'.

3. L spira has dim spirillum, adopted by SciE.

4. Gr speira has—? via an adj speiraíos*—the derivative speiraia, a genus of shrubs whence L spiraea, adopted by Bot.

5. The related Gr spartos, the shrub we call 'broom', has, in Aristotle, the var sparton, whence L spartum, whence both E spart, the Sp broom, and Sp esparto, a tough grass of which cordage and baskets are made, a term adopted by E. From L spartum comes SciL Spartium (Bot), whence Chem extracts sparteine or spartein (Chem suffix -ine, -in). spirillum. See prec, para 3.

spirit (n, hence adj and v—esp in the int inspirit), whence the pa spirited, spiritism, spiritless, spiritous, spirits; spirital and spirital (adj, hence n), whence spiritualism (cf the F spiritualisme)—spiritualist (cf F spiritualiste), whence, anl, spiritualistic—spiritualize (cf EF-F spiritualiser); spirituality; spiriteuel; spirituous, whence, anl, spirituosity; spiritus;—spright (obs; whence sprightly), var of sprite (whence the obs spritely); sprits, esp in esprit de corps.—Simple derivatives of L spīrāre, to breathe: spiracle, whence, anl, spiracular; spirant, adj and n; spirate, adj and n; spiration.—Prefix-Compounds of L spīrāre: aspirant (adj, n), aspirata, aspirate (adj—hence n—and v), aspiration, aspirative, aspirator and aspiratory (both, anl, from 'to aspire'), aspire (whence the pa aspiring); conspiracy, conspirant, conspiration (whence, anl, conspirative), conspirator (whence conspiratorial), conspire (whence conspiring); expirant, expirate, expiration (whence, anl, expirator and expiratory), expire (whence expiry); inspirable, inspirant, inspire (obs), inspiration (whence inspirational and, anl, inspirative), inspirator (whence, anl, inspiratory), inspire (whence the pa inspired and the pa, vn inspiring); perspirable, perspirant, perspiration (whence, anl, perspirative and perspiratory), perspire (whence perspiring); respirable, respiration (whence respirational and, anl, respirative), respirator, respiratory, respire; suspiration (whence, anl, suspirative), suspire; transpiration (whence, anl, transpiratory), transpire.

Echoic

1. The base is afforded by L spīrāre, to breathe, s and r spīr-, as clearly echoic as one could wish: cf, for echoism, the Gr anemos, wind, L anima, breath, life, soul. The L n spiritus (gen -ūs), a breathing, a breath, the breath of life, life, the soul, has s spīr- and r spīr-, and therefore (E & M) stands to spīrāre as L halitus, an exhalation, does to halāre, to breathe, themselves echoic, with the effortful h- performing much the same office as the sibilant s; cf the effort expressed—and entailed—by Gr pneuma, breath, air, wind.

L spiritus

2. L spiritus becomes OF esprit, MF-F esprit, whence, by apheresis—unless (as is more prob) direct from L—the E spirit; the Chem sense, which leads to the liquor sense (usu in pl spirits), derives from the ML of the alchemists.

3. L spiritus acquires in LL the sense 'the Divine spirit' (esp as spiritus sanctus); the LL adj spīritālis, breathed, (but esp) of the Holy Spirit, hence pure, becomes E spirital, now only in the adv spiritally, by means of the breath, by breathing. Spiritális is, by ML, modified to spirituális, whence —perh via MF spirituel, EF-F spirituel—the E spiritual; derivative ML spirituálitās becomes MF spiritualité, EF-F spiritualité, and, perh independently, E spirituality. In C17, F spirituel takes—after esprit—the senses ‘ethereal’ and ‘witty’, partly adopted by E; in C16, F forms, from L spiritus in its ML Chem and Med senses, the adj spiritueux, f spiritueuse, with liquor sense in C18; whence the E spirituous. Spiritus itself is retained by learned E, whether phon or pharmaceutical.

4. F esprit de corps, spirit of a body of men, corporate honour, has been adopted by E, esp in the combatant Services.

5. MF-F esprit becomes, by aphesis, ME spryt, whence E sprite, var spright, orig the spirit, inspiration, later a ghost, finally an elf.

L spirāre: Simple Derivatives

6. L spirāre, to breathe, has the foll simple derivatives relevant to E:

spirāculum, an air- or breathing-hole, whence E spiracle, in Geol a vent, in Zoo a breathing orifice; presp spirans, o/s spirant-, whence the E adj and n spirant; pp spirātus, whence the E adj, hence n, spirate; spirātiō, o/s spirātiōn-, whence E spiration, mostly in Theo: the Divine breath, the Holy Spirit.

L spirāre: Prefix-Compound Derivatives

7. L adspirāre, to breathe ad or towards or upon, usu in eased form aspīrāre, has presp aspirans, o/s aspirant-, which yields—prob via F—the E adj and n aspirant; and pp aspirātus, whence E aspirate, derivative L aspirātiō, o/s aspirātiōn-, and LL aspirātiuus, ML -ivus, aspirated (Gram), yield aspiration—prob via OF-F aspiration—with Gram sense deriving from ‘to aspirate’, and aspirative. ‘To aspire’ comes from OF-F aspirer (from L aspirāre).

8. L conspirāre, to breathe together, hence to agree, hence to plot together, becomes MF (? OF)-F conspirer, whence ‘to conspire’; derivative L conspirātiō, o/s conspirātiōn-, and conspirātor—both formed on the pp conspirātus—yield OF-F conspiration and MF-F conspirateur: whence E conspiration (rare) and, imm from AF conspira-tour, E conspirator. The presp conspirans, o/s conspirant-, gives us the adj, hence n, conspirant. Conspiracy, superseding conspiration, derives from ME conspiracie, adopted from MF conspiracie, var of conspiratie (? anl from conspiration).

9. L exspirāre, to breathe ex or out, to exhale, usu in eased form expīrāre, becomes OF-MF expirer, MF-F expirer, whence ‘to expire’. The presp expīrans, o/s expīrant-, yields the E n expirant; pp expīrātus yields the phon adj expire; derivative L expīrātiō, o/s expīrātiōn-, yields (late MF-F and) E expiration.

10. L inspirāre, to breathe in or into, LL to breathe religious or divine feeling into, becomes

OF-F inspirer, whence ‘to inspire’, whence inspirable. The presp inspirans, o/s inspirant-, yields the rare n inspirant; on the pp inspirātus (whence obs ‘to inspire’) are formed LL inspirātiō, o/s inspirātiōn-, and LL inspirātor, whence, via OF-F inspiration and late MF-F inspireur, the E inspiration and inspirator.

11. L perspirāre, to breathe per, through o throughout, becomes EF perspirer, with the sense ‘to sweat’, whence E ‘to perspire’ (not in L); EF perspiration and perspirable (both, anl, from perspirer) are adopted by E; E perspirant, a sweat gland, derives from ‘to perspire’—after L perspirant-, o/s of perspirans, presp of perspirāre.

12. L respirāre, to breathe back or again, to inhale and then exhale, becomes OF-F respirer, whence ‘to respire’; derivative LL respirābilis yields late MF-F, whence E, respirable; on the pp respirātus are formed L respirātiō, o/s respirātiōn-, and LL respirātorius, whence late MF-F, whence E, respiration and E respiratory, the latter prompting the anl respirator.

13. L subspirāre, to breathe sub- or from under, to sigh, mostly in the eased form suspirāre, yields OF-MF suspirer (F soupirer) and, app independently, E ‘to suspire’; derivative L suspirātiō, o/s suspirātiōn-, leads to E suspension.

14. ML transpirāre, lit to breathe across or over, hence through, becomes EF-F transpirer, with fig sense arising in C18, whence ‘to transpire’; derivative ML transpirātiō, o/s transpirātiōn-, becomes EF-F transpiration, adopted by E.

spirits (liquor). See prec, para 2. spiritual, spiritualism, spiritualist, spirituality, spiritualize. See SPIRIT, para 3—and heading.

spirituel. See SPIRIT, para 3. spirituous. See SPIRIT, para 3, s.f.

spiritus. See SPIRIT, para 3, s.f.

spirt. See SPROUT, para 3.

spit (1), a spike holding meat over fire, whence turnspit, derives from ME spitte, var spite, from OE spitu: cf the syn OHG-MHG spiz, G Spieß, MD-D spit: words akin to OHG spizzi, MHG spitze, G Spitz, sharp, themselves akin to L spīna, a thorn, and esp to L spīca, a sharp point, an ear of corn, therefore to E SPIKE (f.a.e.).

2. MD spit has var spet, whence—or from some medieval Gmc cognate—the Sp espeto and the It and F dial spet, adopted by E; this small barracuda is named ‘the spit’ because of its sharp nose and long narrow body.

spit (2), to eject saliva or phlegm (whence the n spit), pt spat (occ spit), pp spat (archaic spitten, as in the spitten image, turned by f/e into the spitting image); presp and vn spitting, agent spitter; spitfire, one who, fig, spits fire;—spittle, spittoon (spit, n + euphonic -t-+oon, It -one: cf It ballone and cartone);—sputum, whence sputative, tending to spit—prob after putative; spue (now only dial), var of spew, v, hence n; conspue;—spout, v (whence agent spouter and pa, vn spouting) and n (whence waterspout).

1. ‘To spit’ derives from OE spittan, intimately related to the syn OE spāetan, which has, in part, caused the pt, pp spat: cf also ON spýia (Da spytte) and G spützen: echoic.

2. The n spit, that which one spits, has dim spittle, saliva.

3. Akin to OE spittan and spāetan is L spūtāre, to spit, from spūtum, saliva, adopted by E, esp for (Med) phlegm; spūtum is itself from sputus, the pp of spūere, to spit.

4. Akin to L spūere is OE spīwan, spīwian, ME spīwen, speowen, later spewen, E 'to spew', to spit out, esp to vomit: cf OFris spia, OS spīwan, OHG spīwan, MHG spēwen, spien, G speien, to spew, to spit, MD spouwen, spuen and, as in D, spuwen, Go speiwan, to spit, ON spýja, to spew.—L spūere has the cpd conspūere (int con-), to spit upon, to reject contemptuously, whence, perh via EF-F conspuer, the E 'to conspue'.

5. L conspūere becomes Port cuspir, to spit, whence cuspideira, a spittoon, whence E cuspidor—a form influenced by Port cuspidor, a spitter (from cuspir): cf Sp escupidera, a spittoon, from escupir, to spit (L ex, out of + conspūere).

6. Akin to spit is 'to spout', ME spouten, to spout, to vomit, akin to D sputen, Sw sputa, to spout. Prob cf SPLUTTER.

7. Spit, spew, spout should also be aligned with MHG-G spucken, to spit, Lith spīauti, to spit (spīauju, I spit, OB pljuō), Gr ptūein, to spit, Skt ṣthivati, var kṣivati, he spits. The IE r is spiēu-* or spīu-* or spīū-, var sphīēu-*, etc.; the Gr ptūein has the revelatory mdfn pūtizein and, moreover, suggests that IE spiēu-* (etc.) is a reinforced (IE int prefix s-) or more obviously echoic var of a basic piēu-, piu-, piū-*.

spitchcock. See SPIKE, para 3.

spite, spiteful. See SPECTACLE, para 9.

spitfire. See the 2nd SPIT (heading).

spitting image, the. See 2nd SPIT (heading).

spittle. See 2nd SPIT, para 2.

spiv, a shady practitioner of 'easy' money, was orig race-course cant, but, by 1950, almost Standard: o.o.o.: perh from dial spif (spiff), smart, dandified. Hence spivvery. (P.)

splanchnic, visceral. See the element splanchno-.

splash, v hence n, with dial var splosh, is an s- int of the echoic plash. Derivative: plashy.

splat (of chair). See PLANE, para 22.

splatter. See SPAT, s.f.

splay, adj, n, v. See PLY, para 10.

spleen, whence spleeny (-y, adj); splenetic splenic, splenic.

1. E spleen, the milt, formerly reputed to be the source or seat of emotions ranging from violent mirth (obs meaning) to ill-temper and anger (cf 'to vent one's spleen'), derives less prob from OF-MF esplen (from LL) than imm from LL splēn, itself from Gr splēn, akin to Av spereza, OŠl slezena, OIr selg—and to the *s-*less L liēn and Skt plihān-, o/s of plihā, and, with b for p, the Lith blužnis (? for lihēn*). The IE r spelegh-, extn speleghen-, with varr in sph-, has contr splegh-* and spleghu-*, and is app a reinforcement (IE int prefix s-) of plegh-, pleghn. (E & M; Hofmann.)

2. The derivative Gr adj splēnikos becomes ML splēnicus, whence E splenic, of the spleen; the LL mdfn splēnēticus (var splēnīticus) yields E splenetic; the Gr splēnion (prop a dim of splēn), a bandage, strictly one that covers the spleen, becomes ML splēnium, a plaster (Med), a patch, and splēnium has prompted the E adj splēnial, used by An and Zoo.

splendent, splendescent. See para 2 of:

splendid; splendor (AE) or splendour, whence both splendiferous (splendor+connective -i-+-ferous, -bearing or -bringing), whence, anl, the sl splendacious, and splendorous; splendent and resplendent, resplendence or resplendency, splendescent.

1. Splendid comes, prob via MF-F splēndiae, from L splendidus, which, like L splendor, comes from splēndēre, to shine; E splendor comes from L splendor, either directly or via OF-F splendeur. L splēndēre, s and r splēnd-, is akin to Gr splēndos, ashes, and to Skt sphulingas, a spark: IE r, splēnd-*, an s- extn of plēnd-*, brightness; Mīr lēss, light, suggests that the ult IE r is plēd-, extn splēd-. The C languages show the illuminating catena, lānd-, plānd-, splānd-, often without the d; the OC r is app lān-, extn land-, with varr plan(d)-* and splan(d)-*; cf Mīr lāim, brilliant, shining, Ga lanair, brilliance, Mx loan, light, brightness, and Cor splān, late Cor splādn, brilliant, splānna, to shine.

2. L splēndēre has presp splēndens, o/s splēndent-, whence the E adj splēndent; the derivative L inch splēndescere, to become bright, has presp splēndescens, o/s splēndescent-, whence the E adj splēndescent.

3. The L cpd resplēndēre (re-, again, used int), to shine brightly, has presp resplēndens, o/s resplēndent-, whence E resplendent; derivative LL resplēndentia, brilliance, yields resplendence.

splenetic, splēnial, splenic, splēnium. See SPLEEN, para 2.

splice. See FLINT, para 6.

splint. See FLINT, para 4.

splinter. See FLINT, para 4.

split. See FLINT, para 5.

splosh. See SPLASH.

spotch prob derives from OE splott, a spot, much as blotch from blot.

splutter is an echoic (spl-) var of sputter: cf splatter, from spatter: and sputter itself prob derives from sput*, as spatter does from spat, but, from another angle, sputter is an s- reinforcement of putter, v. All these vv (with derivative nn) are echoic.

spoil, n and v (whence spoilage and spoiler and pa, vn spoiling); spoliare, spoliation (whence, anl, spoliative—cf the F spoliatif), spoliator, spolium;—despoil, despoliation.

1. The n spoil derives, by aphesis, from OF-MF espoille, itself from OF-MF espoiller (var -ier), whence ME spolien, whence 'to spoil': and OF-MF espoiller, -ier, derives from L spoliāre, to strip (a beast's) hide or skin, from spolium, a hide or skin stripped off, hence arms stripped from an enemy, hence booty: cf the syn Gr spolas, itself akin to several Gr words in spal-; indeed, the IE r is prob spal*-, to strip off; therefore cf SPALE.

2. L spolium is retained by Eccl E; spoliāre has pp spoliātus, whence the obs spoliāte, to plunder. Derivatives spoliātiō, o/s spoliātiōn-, and spoliātor, become E spoliation (perh via late MF-F) and spoliator (cf late MF-F spoliāteur).

3. The cpd dēspoliāre (dē-, from, used int) becomes OF-MF despoiller (EF-F dépouiller), whence 'to despoil'; derivative LL dēspoliātiō, o/s dēspoliātiōn-, yields despoliation.

spoke (of wheel). See SPIKE, para 6.

spoke (pt), spoken. See SPARSE, heading and para 9.

spokesman. See SPARSE, para 11.

spoliate, spoliation, spoliator. See SPOIL, para 2.

spondaic, spondees. See DESPOND, para 6.

spondulicks, -ics, -ix, sl for 'money', usu stated to be o.o.o., perh comes from Gr spondulika*, mock-learnedly derived from LGr spondulia, pl of spondulion (Gr sphondulion), a vertebra, a mussel or an oyster, a voting pebble: cf, sem, the cowries formerly used in some Asian and, as still, in many African countries for money.

sponge, whence spongy. See FUNGUS, para 2.

spunk. See SPUNK.

sponsor. See DESPOND, para 5.—For sponsal, cf SPOUSAL.

spontaneity, spontaneous. The adj comes from LL spontāneus, of one's own free will, from L sponte, as in mea sponte, of (lit, with) my own will, sponte, voluntarily, prop the abl of spons*, itself o.o.o., but perh, as the ancient Romans thought: from L spondēre, to promise.—The L adj becomes MF-F spontané, whence late EF-F spontanéité, whence E spontaneity.

spoof, n, whence v, derives from Spoof, a game invented, with this arbitrary name, by the E comedian Arthur Roberts (1852–1933).

spook (whence spooky): D spook: MD spooec, akin to the syn MLG spōk, G Spuk, cf Sw spok, a scarecrow: o.o.o. spool: ME spole: MD spoele (D spoel), akin to G Spule, MHG spuole, OHG spuola: perh cf SPALE.

spoon (n, hence v), whence spoonbill (a bird having a spoon-shaped bill);—spade, whether implement (whence v) or card; spatha or spathe, whence spathal, spatula (whence spatular), spatulate, spatule; spay; espalier; epalette, AE epaulet; épée.

1. Spoon, a chip of wood (obs), hence a spoon (cf the flat little wooden spoons used for eating ice-cream), derives from ME spōn, spoon, chip, from OE spōn, a chip: cf ON spōnn, chip, spoon, and OHG-MHG spān, G Span, a chip, MD spaen, D spaan, a spoon: perh cf Gr spḗn, a wedge.

2. OE spōn, OHG spān, etc., are prob -n- extn of an IE r spē*-, var spā*-, anything flat (? and wide); this IE r has another extn—one in -t- (-th- -d-), as in E spade, from OE spædu or spadu, akin to OFris spada, OS spado, spato, MHG spate (dim), EG spatten, G Spaten, MD-D spade, ON spathi, a spade; also to L spatha, Gr spathe, a broadsword, a spatula. The card sense derives from Sp espada (L spatha, spata), a sword, from the sword-device on the corresp Sp cards.

3. Gr spathē becomes L spatha, whence the BotE spatha and the BotF, hence BotE, spathe.

4. L spatha has var spata, whence the dim spatula, in LL an animal's shoulder, but orig a spatula, hence the E word spatula, a flat, spoon-like implement for spreading pastes or paints; the var spatule is adopted from MF-F. ScilL coins spatulātus, spoon-shaped, whence E spatulate (cf the F spatulé).

5. L spatha, a broadsword, yields C10 F spede, later—as still in MF—espee, whence OF-MF espeer, to pierce or cut with a sword, whence AF espeier, whence, by aphesis, E 'to spay', to cut out the ovaries of ewe, sow, mare, cow, etc.

6. OF-MF espee becomes EF-F épée, adopted by E, esp in fencing; LL spatula, shoulder, becomes OF espalde, espadle*, espalde, later espaule, whence EF-F épaule, with EF-F dim épaulette, orig a shoulder-piece, later a badge of officer's rank and, as such, becoming E epaulette.

7. LL spatula, shoulder, becomes It spalla, shoulder, whence It spalliera, a support, whence EF-F espallier, soon acquiring the modern sense, adopted by E.

spoonerism: Spoonerism: -ism, tacked onto the Rev. Dr William Spooner (1844–1930), who, for many years Warden of New College, Oxford, is credited with a few genuine and many apocryphal felicities of the 'blushing crow' for 'crushing blow' variety.

spoor. See SPUR, para 2.

sporadic. See SPERM, para 1.

sporangium. See the element sporangio-.

spore. See SPERM, para 1.

sporo- words. Cf the element -spora.

sporrán. See PURSE, para 3.

sport, sportive. See the 3rd PORT, para 7.

spot, n (whence spotty) and v (whence the pa spotted, the agent spotter, the pa, vn spotting). 'To spot', ME spotten, derives from ME spot, n, retained by E: and ME spot is related to the syn MD spot, spotte, EFris spot, and to ON spottí, a (small) bit: perh cf SPAT.

spousals, spouse. Cf espouse, but see DESPOND, para 4.

spout. See the 2nd SPIT, para 5. spuddle. See SPRAWL.

sprag. See the 1st SPRAY.

sprain. See the 2nd PRESS, para 13.

sprat, a small herring, hence—from its small size and value—a sixpence (sl): ME sprot or sprotte: OE sprott: cf MD-D sprot: o.o.o.: if regarded as any young herring, OE sprott is perh akin to OE sprote, a sprout.

sprawl (v, hence n; whence agent sprawler and pa, vn sprawling, and adj sprawly; spraddle. 'To sprawl', ME spraulen, derives from OE sprēawlian: cf OHG spratalōn and ON sprökla. An old Gmc var lies behind the dial spraddle—perh influenced by straddle, q.v. at STRIDE.

spray (1), a young or small shoot, a twig (now Sc), hence, collectively, as in 'a spray of clematis': ME spray, akin to the syn Da sprag, Sw dial spragge, which have, moreover, assisted in the genesis of E sprag, a wooden billet or prop, or the brake of a vehicle: intimately related to OE spraec, a shoot, cf ON sprek, a stick, to which, in its turn, E sprig, ME sprigge, must be related—cf LG sprikk, Fris sprik or sprikke.

spray (2), n and v, (to scatter) small drops of flying water: EE spray, to sprinkle: MD sprayen, spraeyen: cf MHG spraewen, to spray, to fly, G sprühen, to spray, and OHG-MHG spruu, G Spreu, chaff (which 'flies about'): ? cf L spargere, to scatter (Walshe), q.v. at SPARSE, as MD spreyen, to spread, perh suggests.

spread (id in pt and pp), v, hence n (whence spready); whence spreader and pa, vn spreading; spread eagle and spread-eagle, adj and v.

1. 'To spread', ME *sprede*n, OE sprædan, is akin to MD *sprede*n, spreeden, spreiden, MLG spreiden, D spreiden, OHG and G spreiten, and several Scan words: OGmc etymon, spraidjan* (Kluge). The OGmc r spraid*, var sprād*- and sprēd*-, is app an extn of the IE sprē*-, etc., itself perh a metathesis of that IE sper*-, to scatter or distribute, which we see in Gr speirein, to sow by scattering.

2. The Her spread eagle has open, raised wings and extended legs, hence the adj spread-eagle, like such an eagle, and the v spread-eagle, to stretch (a living creature) out like one, whence the pa spread-eagled.

spre; spreath. Spre, earlier also spray, app derives, like the Sc spreath (var spreagh), booty, esp of cattle, hence a raid, esp on cattle, from Ga sprēidh: EIr spréid, var spré: prob, with reinforcement in s- (int), from, or, at the least, akin to, L praeda, booty—cf the Cor prēdhya*, prēdha*, to prey on, to live by prey, deduced from prēth, he preys on. Cf PREY.

sprig. See the 1st SPRAY, s.f. spright, sprightly. See SPIRIT, para 5—and heading.

spring, whether as a leap or, derivatively, a source of water or a season (a re-beginning), derives from OE spring, itself from OE springan, to leap, whence, via ME springen, E 'to spring', with pt sprang, occ sprung, and with pp, hence pa, sprung, and presp and vn springing: cf OFris springa, OS springan, OHG springan, MHG-G springen, ON springa: prob cf, without n, the Gr sperkhesthai, to hasten, and Skt sprahayati, he desires, sprādhatē, he is emulous, and perh, without the IE int prefix s-, the OB proga, a locust (famed as a leaper): ? akin, ult, to the 2nd SPRAY.

2. The simple derivatives and the cpds are straightforward: e.g., the agent springer and the adj springy; and springboard—springbok, adopted from D, lit 'a leaping buck'—springtide. The SAfr klipspringer, a small antelope, is adopted from D, lit 'a cliff springer'—cf G Klippe, E CLIFF.

3. A springe or 'springing' trap for birds and quadrupeds, derives—after 'to spring'—from ME spreng, from ME sprengen, to cause to leap, from OE sprengan, caus of springan.

springbok. See prec, para 2.

springe. See SPRING, para 3.

sprinkle, sprinkler, sprinkling. See SPARSE, para 8.

sprint (v, hence n), whence sprinter and sprinting, derives, by e to i, from ME sprenten, to run, to leap, which, prob like MHG sprezen, OHG sprinzan, is perh of Scan origin: from the ON sprenten, later spretta, to leap or run; ME sprenten, however, perh derives from OE ge-sprintan, to (cause to) burst forth.

sprit, whence spritsail. See SPROUT, para 2.

sprite, spritely. See SPIRIT, para 5—and heading. sprocket, occ sproket, is o.o.o.: perh a dim (-et), with vowel-change, of sprag, q.v. at the 1st SPRAY. (EW.)

sprout, v, hence n; sprit; spirt or spurt, v, hence n.

1. 'To sprout', ME sprouten, earlier spruten, derives from OE sprūtan: cf OFris sprūta, OS sprūtan, MHG spriezen, G spruessen, and the int MHG sprützen, G spritzen, MD spruten, spruyten, D spruiten. With the E n sprout, cf ME sprote, OE sprota, OHG sprozzo, G Sprosse, ON sproti. Cf the 2nd SPRAY.

2. Akin to OE sprota, a sprout, is OE sprēot, a pole, a spear, ME sprete, spret, E sprit, as in bowsprit (ME bousprei, prob from MLG bochspret, cf D boegspriet) and spritsail.

3. Akin to the naut sprit is the dial sprit, a sprout, from sprit, to sprout, from OE spryttan, intimately related to OE sprūtan; OE spryttan becomes ME sprutten, whence, by metathesis, 'to spurt' or gush, with var spirt.

spruce, the tree—'smart'—the v. See PRUSSIA, para 2. sprung. See SPRING, para 1.

spry, nimble, lively: E from AE from E dial: prob Scan (cf Sw dial sprygg, very lively: EDD): perh from spright, q.v. at SPIRIT, para 5.

spud, a dagger (obs), a small spade for weed-removal, a digging-knife, hence, in dial (whence coll), a potato, whence 'Spud Murphy', both the vegetable and the surname being notably Irish; hence, 'to spud'. A spud, ME spudde, a digging-knife, app derives from ON spjōt, spjōt, a spear (cf ON spjōit, a sharp point), akin to OS spjot, OHG spioz: cf, therefore, the 1st SPIT, and also SPIKE.

spume (whence spumy), spumose or spumous. The 3rd derives from EF-F spumeuse, f of spumeux, from L spūmōsus (whence E spumose), adj of spūma, foam, whence—perh via MF espume—the E spume: f.a.e., FOAM.

spun: pp and pt of 'to spin', q.v. at SPAN, para 3.

spunk (occ sponk), whence the adj spunky: coll for 'courage, dash', Standard for 'kindling' or 'tinder'. See FUNGUS, para 3.

spur, of a horse-rider, hence an incitement and in Topo, hence 'to spur'; speer and spoor; spurn, v, hence n.

1. Spur, ME spure or spora, derives from OE spura or spora: cf OHG sporo, MHG spor, G Sporn (pl Sporen), MD spore, MD-D spoor, ON spori.

2. OE spora, a spur, is akin to OE spor, a foot-step, a footprint, akin to the syn MD spore, spor, MD-D spoor, adopted by E: cf OHG-MHG spor, MHG-G spur, ON spor.

3. Akin to OE spor, footprint, and OE spura, a spur, is OE spyrian, to follow the tracks of, to track down, to investigate, ME spuryen, spuren, later spire, E 'to spair or speer' (now mostly Sc), to inquire: cf MD sporen, D spuren, OHG spurēn, MHG spürn, G spüren, ON spyrja.

4. Akin to OE spyrian is OE spurnan, to kick, hence to reject violently, ME spurnen, E 'to spurn': cf OFris spurna, OS and OHG spurnan, ON spyrna—and, further off, L spernere, to thrust away (? orig with the foot), to spurn or despise, and still further off and without n, the Lith spirti, to kick, Skt sphurāti, he kicks, pushes with the foot, tramples on: IE r, sphur-, spher-, varr spur-, sper-, to knock or push with the foot.

spurious: L spurius, illegitimate, hence false, inauthentic: app Etruscan and perh related to L spurcus, impure, hence filthy, itself prob Etruscan. (E & M.) spurn. See SPUR, para 4.

spurt. See SPROUT, para 3.

sputative. See the 2nd SPIT, heading and para 3.

sputter. See SPLUTTER.

sputum. See the 2nd SPIT, para 3.

spy. See SPECTACLE, para 19.

squab. See QUAVER, para 2.

squabble, is prob echoic: cf Sw dial skvabbel, a quarrel: perh cf prec.

squad; squadron. Squad comes from EF esquade (soon escouade): Sp escuadra (cf It squadra), lit a square: VL exquādra*, from exquādrāre*, to make square, an ex- (vaguely int) extn of L quādrāre, to square, from quādra, a square, from quattuor, 4: f.a.e., QUADRA. It squadra has, in its military sense, the aug squadrone, whence EF squadron, adopted by E.

squalid; squalor. The former derives from L squālidus, scaly, filthy: like L squālor, whence E squalor, it derives from squālere, to be scaly, filthy, itself from squālus, scaly, hence greasy, filthy, perh akin to L squāma, a scale, whence the adj squāmosus, whence E squamose and squamous (cf the element squami-); the Italic r would then be squā-, a scale.

squall (1), a strong and sudden wind, is of Scan origin: cf Sw squālregn, a violent rain-shower, squāl, a violent gushing or running of water, prob echoic and perh akin to:

squall (2), to yell or scream discordantly, hence n: app of Scan origin: cf ON skvala, to shriek, Sw sqvāla: echoic—cf Ga sgal, a howl. 'To squeal' is of the same origin, with a closer Scan cognate in Nor skvella.

squalor. See SQUALID.

squama (Bot); squamose, squamous. See SQUALID.

squander is o.o.o.: perh (EW) akin to G verschwenden, to squander, caus of verschwinden, to disappear: ver-, int prefix + schwinden, to dwindle OHG swintan, akin to OE swindan.

square, adj, n, v. The adj square derives, by aphesis, from MF esquarré, pp of esquarrer (EF équarrer, F équarrir); VL exquadrāre*: ex- used int + L quadrāre, to square, from quadra, a square, from the adj quadrus, from quattuor: f.a.e., QUADRA. The MF esquarrer yields 'to square'; the E n square comes, by aphesis, from MF esquarre (varr esquerre, EF-F équerre): VL exquadrāre*, from the VL v exquadrāre*.

squarson. See PERSON, para 7.

squash (1), the NA fruit: of Alg origin: by ellipsis (and aphesis) from Narranganset askūta-squash (cf Massachusetts askoot-asquash), lit 'eaten green' (Webster); Alg asq means 'raw'.

squash (2), the game, is elliptical for squash rackets, from:

squash (3), to crush, to beat—or press—into pulp: by aphesis from MF esquasser: VL exquassāre, int of L quassāre: cf QUASH.

squat, short and thick, (orig) sitting on one's heels, is the pp (varr squatted) of 'to squat', to sit on one's heels, (orig vt) to strike down, to crush: ME squatten, to crush: by aphesis from MF esquater, var of esquatur: es-, L ex- + quatir, to strike down, to crush, L quater, to shake violently: see QUASH and cf SQUASH.—Derivatives: squatter, agent, and squatting, pa and vn.

squaw comes, by aphesis, from Narranganset esquaw, a woman (cf the Massachusetts squas).

squawk is a var of squeak: echoic—cf Sw sqvāka, to croak. The echoic r squa-, var sque-, occurs also in squall and squeal.

squeal (v, hence n), whence squealer and squealing. See the 2nd SQUALL.

squeamish. See the 1st SWIM, para 3. squeegee. See para 2 of:

squeeze, v (hence n), whence squeezer and squeezing; squeegee and squiglee; squelch, n and v.

1. 'To squeeze' derives, with s-reinforcement and via ME queizen, from OE cwēsan (varr cwīsan, cwīsan): o.o.o.: perh akin to QUASH; cf the relationship of squash to quash.

2. Squeegee either alters squeezee* (for squeezie or squeezy) or derives from squeegee, a dial var of squeeze; the naut squiglee is perh a mdfn—? after squelch—of squeegee.

3. Squelch could be independent and echoic, but is prob akin to squeeze—perh after belch.

squelch. See prec, para 3.

squib (n, hence v). See SWEEP, para 3.

squid. See SQUIRT.

squiglee. See SQUEEZE, para 2.

squill, scilla. Squill, the sea onion, derives from the syn L scilla (from Gr skilla), by confusion with L squilla, a crustacean, adopted by Zoo; yet both L scilla and L squilla are prob akin to Gr scilla (o.o.o.).

squint (dial var squinny), v, hence n; prob from the ME-E adv squint, obliquely, whence also—unless, by aphesis, from the adv-adj asquint—the adj squint: the adv squint derives from the earlier-recorded adv, hence adj, asquint, obliquely, squinting-ly, which, like the C15-16 syn askoynne, is o.o.o.: perh akin to the D schuin, oblique, and schuinte, a slope, a slant, the a- being 'on', but both of the D words are recorded much later than asquint; more prob, as EW suggests, from a lost OF-MF adv formed from L ex, out of + cuneus, a wedge.

squire, squireen. See SCUTAGE, paras 8 and 9.

squirm (v, hence n), whence squirmy, is o.o.o.: ? imitative; ? rather from MHG schirmen, to fence, ref the slight deflections of the fencer's body.

squirrel. See SCENE, para 4.

squirt (v hence n), dial var squit; syn dial swirt;—squid.

Squid is a thickening of dial squit, an easing of squirt, itself prob a var of dial swirt, which is app of LG origin: cf LG swirtjen, to squirt: prob echoic.

stab (v, hence n) is a var of 'to stob', from stob, a stake, a nail, a var of stub, q.v. at TYPE, para 7.

stability, stabilize. See para 1 of:

stable, adj and n; stabile; stability, whence, anl, stabilize, whence stabilizer and, anl, stabilization; instability; constable, constabulary; establish, establishment—whence disestablish, disestablishment.—Cf the sep STAND and STATE.

1. The n stable (for horses) derives, by aphesis, from OF-MF estable (EF-F étale): VL stabula: from the neu pl, taken as f sing, of L stabulum, a dwelling, from the sta- of stāre, to stand, stat, he stands; the adj stable derives similarly from OF-MF estable (EF-F stable): L stabilis, standing firm, hence firmly placed, from stāre. Stabilis has derivative stabilitās, acc stabilitātem, whence MF-F stabilité, whence E stability; instability comes from late MF-F instabilité, from L instabilitātem, acc of instabilitās, from instabilis (neg of stabilis), whence MF-F instable, adopted by E but fast giving way to the E mdfn unstable.

2. L stabulum occurs in the LL virtual cpd comes stabuli, master (cf COUNT, n) of the stable, whence OF cunestables, MF conestable, adopted by E, whence E conestable; the derivative ML adj constabularius yields the E adj, whence n, constabulary, with widely yet naturally diverging modern sense.

3. L stabilis has derivative stabilire, to make firm, to place firmly, whence OF-MF establir (F établir), whence, from parts in establiss-, the ME establissen, whence 'to establish'; derivative OF-MF establisement (F étab-) contributes towards establishment.

4. Cf STAND (f.a.e.) and cf STATE.

staccato. See TACH, para 5.

stack. See STAKE, para 2.

saddle. See STALWART.

stadium: L stadiūm, trln of Gr stadion, a measure of about 200 yards: a mdfn—after stadion, neu of the Gr adj stadios, stable, established—of the older spadion, from span, to stretch.

staff (n, hence v), pl staves or staffs; stave, a b/f from staves—whence 'to stave', with pt, pp stove; distaff—cf dizen, with int bedizen, whence bedizenment;—stem, n, whence v.

1. Staff, a pole, a rod, a stick for support, comes, through ME staf, from OE staef: cf OS staf, MD-D staf, Go stafs, OFris stef, OHG-MHG stap, G Stab (cf OHG stabēn, to be stiff), ON staf (cf Sw staf and Da stav); also Let stabs, a pillar, Lith stēbas, a staff, and prob OSI stoborū, a pillar; and Skt stabnātri, he supports. The IE s is stab-, var stabh-; the IE r, stā-*, to stand upright: f.a.e., STAND.

2. OE staef has the cpd distaeaf, a contr of disestaef* (cf the ME dyestaeaf); whence ME distaf, E distaff, the staff for holding the flax, or the wool, used in spinning, the 1st element being akin to MLG dise (LG diesse), the bunch of flax (hence of wool) placed on a distaff.

3. MLG dise yields MD disen, to dress (a distaff) with flax ready for spinning: whence the syn EE dizen, whence the late EE-E sense 'to deck out, to overdress'.

4. Akin to OE staef is OE staeftn, stem of a tree, hence of a ship, with var stefn, whence stemn, still further eased to stemm, whence E stem: cf OHG-MHG stam, G Stamm, MD stamme, MD-D stam, a tree-trunk, a stem, and MD stemme, stevens, MD-D steven, stern of ship, ON stafn, stamn, stem of ship, and OIr tamon (for stamon*), a tree-trunk, hence a pedigree (cf G Stamm, a tribe), and Gr stamos, a jar. (Walshe.)

stag, ME stag, prob derives from OE stagga*, var stacga*, an adult male quadruped or bird, hence esp an adult male deer (mostly the red deer): cf ON steggi, male bird, in Ice also a male cat; cf further, the OE stician, E STICK, to pierce, OHG stehhan, MHG-G stechen, to prick, to sting, and, with n, OE stingan, E sting.

stage. See STAND, para 6.

stagger. See STAKE, para 3.

stagnant, whence stagnancy; stagnate, stagnation; stagnum;—? stanch; stank (a pool) and tank (whence tanker)—perh tankard.

1. L stāgnum, a pool of standing water, a pond, is o.o.o.: prob akin to Gr stagōn, a drip, stages (pl), drips or drops, stazein, to drip, and staktos, a dripping, an oozing, with IE r stag-*, to flow—present, moreover, in C, as, e.g., in OBr staer, a stream.

2. L stāgnum has derivative stāgnāre, (of water) to be standing still, vt to cause to stand still or to stagnate, with presp stāgnans, o/s stāgnant-, whence EF-F and E stagnant, and with pp stāgnātus, whence 'to stagnate'; stagnation is adopted from F, which coins it from L stāgnātus.

3. L stāgnum perh becomes VL stancum*, whence OF estanc (MF estang, F étang), whence ME stang or stanc, whence E—now mostly E dial and Sc—stank, pond, reservoir, weir. B & W, however, relate OF estanc to OF estancher—see para 6.

4. L stāgnum app becomes Sp estanque, whence perh, by aphesis, the Port tanque, whence the E tank, in India a pool or a reservoir, elsewhere usu a cistern or other large receptacle for storage of water. B & W, however, relate Sp estanque to OF estancher—see para 6.

5. Improbably related to tank is tankard, app from EF tanquart (and ED tanckaert), app from ML tancardus, perh from the PN Tancard—cf, sem, toby (jug)—as EW proposes.

6. Perh from L stāgnum comes a VL stāgnicāre*, contr to stancāre*, whence OF-MF estancher (F étancher), to stop the flow of, hence also to quench (thirst): whence, by aphesis, the ME stanchen, whence 'to stanch' (preferred by AE), and its var staunchen, whence 'to staunch' (preferred by E), esp 'to stop the flow of blood from' (a wound). The adj stanch or staunch, (orig) watertight, (hence) firmly loyal, comes either from the OF estanc, f estanche, or from MF-EF estanche in both genders (F étanche, watertight). B & W derive OF-MF estancher—whence the OF-EF adj estanc, later estanche—from a VL stanticāre*, to cause to stand, to check, from L stāre, to stand. Note that OF-MF estancher means variously 'to stop or check, to exhaust, to dry up, to weary', cf the OProv estancar, to stop or check, the Sp estancar, to stop the flow of, It stancare, to fatigue or weary; and the adj estanc, estanche, means 'exhausted, feeble', as do the OProv estanc and the It stanco. (B & W are perh wrong.)

staid. See STAND, para 19, s.f.

stain (v, hence n, whence stainless), is short for distain: ME disteinen: MF desteindre (F déteindre), to remove the colour (of): des, L dis-, apart + OF-F teindre, L tingere, to colour. L tingere (pp tinctus), to steep in a liquid, e.g. coloured water, hence to dye, has s and r ting-, akin to the TENG- of Gr tengō (τέγγω), I moisten; IE r teng-*, perh nasalized mdfn of teg-*.

2. L tingere yields 'to tinge', whence 'a tinge'.

3. The L pp tinctus, coloured, yields both the adj and the v tinct; the derivative L n tinctus (gen -ūs), a dipping, a dyeing, yields the E n tinct, whence the now more general tint, whence 'to tint'. On the L pp tinctus are formed L tinctūra, a dyeing, whence E tincture, whence 'to tincture', and LL tinctiō (o/s tinctiōn-), a dipping, whence E tinction.

4. L tinctus, pp, becomes Port tinto, with f tinta, used as n for a red wine—and adopted by E; it also becomes Sp tinto, used as n for a sweet red wine, whence the obsol E tent.

5. L tinctūra becomes the OF-F teinture, a dyeing, whence the obs E tainture, recorded here because it links with 'to taint', which, in sense 'to corrupt', derives partly from 'to ATTAIN' and partly from taint, to tinge or dye (obs), which clearly derives from OF-F teint, pp of teindre, which comes from L tingere; the n taint, a stain, corruption, derives partly from attain and partly from the obs E sense 'a tincture, a colour', which clearly derives from the OF-F n teint, reinforced by the MF-F n teinte, both of which come from the OF-F pp teint.

stair—whence staircase and stairway—derives, via ME steir, earlier steyer, from OE stāeger, lit 'the riser': cf OE stīgan, to rise, to climb; cf also OFris stiga, OHG stīgan, MHG stīgen, G steigen, Go steigan, ON stīga, to climb, and MD steger, a ladder, D steiger, a scaffolding: Gmc r, stīg-; IE r, steigh-: prob cf Gr steikhō, I go. (Walshe.)

stake, n, whence v; stack, n, whence v, whence stacker; stagger, v, whence n; estacade and stockade;—stock, n (whence 'stocks and shares', whence stockbroker), whence 'to stock' and stocking (cf legging from leg), stocky; stoke, v (basically, to thrust or stick), whence stoker, whence both 'to stoke' and stokehold, stokehole; stucco.

1. Stake, basically a slim, pointed length of wood to be set in the ground as a support, hence as a mark (cf 'to stake a claim'), whence the gambling sense, comes from OE staca: cf MD stake, staec, D staak, MLG stake, G Staken, OSw staki, Sw stake, a stake, and Lett stēga, a stick, and Lith stagaras, a dry stalk: therefore, presumably, STICK (f.a.e.).

2. E-ME stack derives from ON stakkr, akin to OE staca.

3. 'To stagger' comes, through ME stakeren, from ON stakra, to stagger, to push or thrust, akin to ON stakkr.

4. From one or other of the OGmc 'stake' words noted above comes Prov estaca, a stake, whence Prov estacado, whence perh EF-F estacade, adopted by E for a defensive dike of stakes; but the EF var steccade indicates rather the It steccata, a boom, a stockade, from It stecca, a stake, of Gmc origin (Dauzat; B & W).

5. EF-F estacade has the EF v ar estocade, a f/v var prompted by EF-F estocade, a blow with an estoc or rapier; whence the E s ockade.

6. Stock, a tree-stump, a log, a (thick) wooden post, derives from the approx ^{syn} OE stoc: cf OFris stokk, OHG-MHG stock, G Stock (whence the Alpenstock, E ast, used by mountaineers: 'stick of the Alps'), MD stoc, stock, D stok, ON stokkr (cf ON stakkr in para 2)—and also OE stycce, OFris stek, G Stück, a piece.

7. Intimately related to OE stoc, E stock, is 'to stoke', ME stoken, to thrust or stab: MF-EF estoquier (estochier), to stab with a rapier, hence to thrust or strike, from OF-F estoc, a rapier, of Gmc origin (as in prec para).

8. Akin to OE stycce, G Stück, a piece, is the It stucco, any plastic material stuck on in 'pieces'; indeed, It stucco prob derives, via a Longobardic stukki*, from the OHG form of G Stück, i.e. stucchi (MHG stücke), a piece, a crust, plaster; EF-F stuc and G Stuck, stucco, comes from the It word.

stalactite (downward), and stalagmite (upward): SciL stalactites, SciL stalagmites: Gr stalaktos (adj), dripping, Gr stalagmos, a dripping: Gr stalassein, to drip: cf the 4th STALE.

stale (1), adj, whence both 'to stale', or render stale, and staleness: ME stale, cf MD stel and E stall (f.a.e.).

stale (2), a handle: ME stale: OE stalu: cf OE stela, ME stele, E dial steal, a stalk, later a rung, MD stael, stale, MLG stale, a post, chair leg, and the 1st STALK.

stale (3), a lure, a decoy. See STALL, para 2.

stale (4), v, (of horses and cattle) to urinate, whence the corresp n: ME stalen: cf MD stal, horse's urine, and esp MD-D and MGH-G stallen, (of horses) to urinate, and Gr stalassein (s stalass, r stal-), to drip: IE r stel-, var stal-, to drip, to urinate. (Cf STALACTITE.)

stalemate. See STALL, para 2.

stalk (1), of a plant: ME stalke, akin to the 2nd STALE and to:

stalk (2), to walk quietly or cautiously, also vt: ME stalken: OE bestealcian (int be-), to walk cautiously or furtively: cf Da stalke, to walk cautiously (obs), to strut, OE stealc, steep, Lith *stalgu*s, stiff, rigid, defiant, and the 1st STALK.

stall, a standing place, fixed position, a place—a compartment—for horses or oxen, and many subsidiary and derivative senses, hence 'to stall', with corresp senses; stale, a lure, a decoy (now only dial), whence—after SE stall—the underworld n and v stall; stalemate, n, whence v; fore-stall and install, installation, installment (or instalment)—and the sep PEDESTAL; stallion; sep STALE (1) and STALK (1)—and STOUT; still, adj; stilt; stool—and faldstool and fauteuil; stoop, a post.—Gr: stela, styalctic, stystole, diastole, stole and apostle, apostolate, apostolic.—L: sep epistle, epistolary and (perh) local, locate, location, etc., with cpds (incl couch), and stolid, stolidity, and stultify.

Indo-European

1. Stall, a stand, a station, a fixed position, whence naturally all the other senses, derives, via ME stal, from OE stall or steall, stand, station, place, esp a seat or a stable: cf OFris stall, OHG-MHG stal, a place, G Stall, a stable, a sty (very closely linked to G Stelle, a place, itself to OHG stellēn, MHG-G stellen, to place, or set, upright), MD stalle, stall, MD-D stal, a stand or station, a place, ON stallr, a support, a pedestal; cf also Gr stellō, I place or set, I send, and Skt sthalati, he stands, and possibly L locus, a place. Cf para 7.

Germanic

2. Of Gmc origin (prob Frankish stall*, a place, a position) is OF-MF estal, a place or something placed, whence AF estale, a lure, a decoy, whence prob ME stale, an ambush, hence, in chess, a stalemate, whence the taut stalemate, mate being a checkmate.

3. The E stall, n, has derivative 'to stall'; cpds: forestall, ME forstallen, from ME forestal, interception, OE forsteal, var of foresteall, lit a steall or stall, a placing (of oneself) fore, in front of (another person); install (occ instal), from MF-F installer, from ML installāre, to set in a stallum or place in a choir, to establish possession of an eccl office, ML stallum deriving from OHG-MHG stal (cf para 1), a place, a stall; derivative ML installātiō, o/s installātiōn-, becomes MF-F installation, adopted by E; instal(l)ment, however, blends 'to install' with earlier estallment, from estall, to agree to pay at regular intervals, from OF-MF estaler (F étaler), to stop, later to place or fix or arrange, from OF-MF estal (F étal), a stop, a position, from OHG-MHG stal.

4. With OHG-MHG stal, a place, a position, cf the syn Frankish stall* (as in para 2), whence ML stallum, a stable, whence ML stalliō, a stallion, with acc stalliōnem, whence MF estalon (F étalon), var estalion, whence, by apheresis, the E stallion.

5. Akin to OE stall, steall (as in para 1) is—a thinned form—OE stille, motionless, quiet, ME stille, E still: cf OFris stille, OS stilli, OHG stilli, MHG stille, G still, MD stille, MD-D stil—and—without s—the Lith ilti, to become silent. (Walshe.)

6. This stil-thinning occurs also in E stilt, ME stille: cf Da stylte, OHG stelza, MHG-G stelze and, ult, the 1st STALK. The derivative stilt, to raise on stilts, has pp stilted, used as adj—esp of style.

7. Also akin to OE stall, place, position, seat, is OE stōl, a seat, which gradually narrows its meaning: cf OFris (and OS) stōl, OHG-MHG stuol, G Stuhl, MD stole, D stoel, seat, stool, Go stōls, a throne (cf the obs syn E stall), ON stōll: Gmc r, stōl-; IE r, stāl-, varr stēl-, stel-: cf Gr stēlē, a pillar, Lith pa-stōlas, a stand, OB stolū, a seat, a throne. (Walshe.)

8. OHG stuol has cpd faldstuol (cf E FOLD), whence ML faldstolium, whence E faldstool; the var ML faldistorium (with r for l) yields the his, E faldistory; both of the E words mean 'a folding stool', esp one used by a bishop.

9. From OHG faldstuol, prob via Frankish faldistōl*, comes OF faldestoel, MF faldestueil, eased to MF-EF faudetueil, whence the EF-F contr fauteuil, adopted by E.

10. Akin to ON stōll, seat, stool, is ON stolpi, whence ME stolpe, var stulpe, whence the eased, now mainly dial, E stoop, a post, a support, esp a prop (in a mine); there are OSI cognates.

Greek

11. Gr stēlē, an upright gravestone, hence a pillar, has been adopted by E and, by Bot, sense-adapted; akin to Gr stellein—cf paras 1 and 7.

12. Gr stellein, s stell-, r stel-, has a corresp n in stol-: stolē, a long, loose garment, whence L stola, whence OE-E stole, esp in the Eccl sense 'a long, narrow, usu silken band, falling from the shoulders', whence the feminine adornment.

13. With Gr stolē, cf the -stole occurring in E systole and diastole, the contraction and the dilatation of the heart: SciL systole, Gr sustolē, a syllable-shortening, from sustellein, to contract, from sun-, with + stellein, to send, place, set; SciL diastole, Gr diastolē, a syllable-lengthening, from diastellein, to put apart or asunder, from dia, through + stellein. The Physio sense has been added by Sci; the LL diastolē and systolē are gram or rhetorical terms.

14. From Gr sustellein, to contract, derives also the adj sustaltikus, whence LL systalticus, whence E systaltic and F systaltique, contractile.

15. Gr stellein has another prefix-cpd relevant to E: apostellein, to send apo- or away, whence apostolos, one who is sent away, esp (in NT) forth into the world to preach: LL apostolus: OF-MF apostle (var apostre, whence F apôtre): adopted by ME. The derivative LL apostolātus (gen -ūs) yields EF-F apostatolat and, perh independently, E apostolate. Gr apostolos has adj apostolikos, whence LL apostolicus, MF-F apostolique, E apostolic.

Latin

16. The L cognates epistola (-ula), stolidus, stultus, and perh locus are here treated sep at EPISTLE, STOLID, STULTIFY and LOCAL.

stallion. See prec, para 4.

stalwart (adj, hence n) and archaic stalworth; staddle, n, hence v.

stalwart derives from ME stalworth: OE stāel-wyrthe (-wierthe), for earlier statholwierthe, firmly based, lit 'worthy in its base or foundation': OE stathol (-ul), a (firm) seat or base, whence ME stathel, E staddle, a support (obs), a small tree, the base of a hayrick + wierthe, worthy (cf WORTH). The OE stathol or stathul is akin to OFris stathul, base, foundation, and ON stōthull, a milk-stand, a milking-place, and OHG stadal, a barn—and ult to STAND.

stamen, L and Sci pl stamina; stamina, whence staminal; staminate, staminate (anglicized var stamineal); stamin and stammel.

1. L stāmen, the warp (filaments forming an upright thread), a thread, a fibre, derives from the stā- of L stāre, to stand, stat, he stands: cf Gr stēmon, the warp, from histanai, to stand: f.a.e., STAND.—Hence the Bot stamen.

2. L stāmen has o/s stāmin-, whence the pl stāmina, which, regarded as nerves, hence sinews, leads to the E stamina, essential parts (obs), hence physical and mental vigour, esp the power of endurance.

3. Prob from L stāmen comes L stāminātus, consisting of threads, whence E staminate; certainly from stāmen comes the adj stāmineus, made of, or covered with, threads, whence E stamineous.

4. From L stāmineus comes the VL n stāminea*, whence OF-MF estamine (EF-F étamine), a coarse woollen fabric, whence E stamin; from the EF-F étamine derives the syn, but obs, tamine or tamin, whence, app, the woollen (wool-and-cotton) fabric called tammy.

5. L stāmina, neu pl taken as f sing, yields MF-EF estame, woollen thread, prop a southern var of MF estaim (F étaim); estame has dimm estamel and estamet, the former accounting, by apheresis, for E stammel, a woollen fabric usu dyed red, syn of stamin, hence the colour and also an undergarment made of this material.

stammer, v, hence n; (wine-making) stum, n, hence v (cf the D Stommen); dial stummer; stumble, v (whence stumbling-block), hence n.

1. 'To stammer' has come, through ME stameren, from OE stamerian: cf the OE adj stamer (also -or and -ur), stammering, and, syn adj, the Go stamms, OHG stamal, ON stamr; cf these vv—OHG stammalōn, MHG stameln, G stammeln, LG and D stameren, MD stameren, stamelen, app the freq of vv in stam-, e.g. OHG stammēn, MD stamen, ON stama (cf Sw stamma).

2. The OGmc r stam-, to stammer, also (adj) stammering, has var stum-, dumb, as in OHG-MHG stum, G stumm, MD stum, MD-D stom; from D stom, MD stum, used as n 'must' (the dumb or silent 'worker'), comes the E stum, (partly) fermented grape-juice.

3. The OGmc r stum-, dumb, influenced by the OGmc r stam-, to stammer, occurs in the ON stumra, to stumble, whence ME stumren, soon eased to stumlen, whence—for the b, prob cf tumble—the E 'to stumble': cf the syn MD stom-melen and Efris stummeln. The ON stumra and ME stumren retain the r in the syn E dial stummer.

stamp, v (whence stamper and stamping), hence n; stampede, n, hence v; step, n, hence v, whence stepper and stepping, whence stepping-stone; stoop, a porch; stump, n (whence stumpy), hence v (whence stumper and stumping); sep STAPLE.

1. 'To stamp', to beat or pound (now dial), to strike heavily with sole of foot, derives from ME stampen, which, in its passage from OE stempān, has app been influenced by MD stampen (var stempēn), also a typically LG form: cf OHG stamsfōr, stampsfōn, MHG-G stampfen, to pound or stamp; OFris stamp, OHG stampf, a cudgel (G, a pestle); (without n) ON stappa; (with e, and with b for p) Gr stembein, to pound or stamp, to handle very roughly; perh (without s-) L temnere, to spurn. The IE r is app stemb-*.

2. Of Gmc origin is Prov estampir, to pound or stamp, whence estampida, a pounding or a stamping, adopted by Sp, whence the ASp sense 'a violent, impetuous running, esp of cattle', whence, by apheresis, AE, whence E, stampede. With the Prov estampir, cf Sp estampar, to imprint by stamping.

3. With ON stappa, to pound or stamp, cf OFris stapa, steppa, OHG stepfen, MD steppen, MD-D stappen, and esp OE stæpan, steppan, to step; cf also these nn ('a step')—OE stæpe, stepe, E step, OFris stap, stepe, MD step, MD-D stap, OHG stapfo, G Stapfe, a footstep.

4. Akin to MD-D stap, a footstep, is MD stoop (stoop), stoop, stope, stoepe, later—as still—stoep, a small porch, having seats at the front door of a house: a D custom introduced both into SAfr, as stoep, and into New Amsterdam, renamed New York, as stoop.—With MD stoop(e), stoup, stope, stoep(e), cf.—with f for p—OHG stuofa, MHG stuofe, G Stufe, a (stair, etc.) step, a degree, and esp the syn OS stōpa.

5. With the OGmc (and MD) words cited above, cf the E stump, that part of a felled tree which remains after the trunk has been cut off: ME stumpe or stompe: cf MD stump, MD-D stomp, MLG stump, OHG-MHG-G stumpf, ON stump, and the intimately related OHG stumbal, MHG stumbel, G Stummel, a piece (e.g. of a limb) cut off, but also a stump, and late MHG verstümbelen (ver-, an int prefix), G verstümmeln, to mutilate.

stampede. See prec, para 2.

stance. Cf stanza, but see STAND, para 9.

stanch, adj and v. See STAGNANT, para 6.

stanchion. Cf stanza, but see STAND, para 9.

stand represents so large a group of words that one could hardly, in such a work as this, treat all of them under the one heading; the various subgroups and the isolated terms are, however, at least mentioned; the principal developments are shown, and the argument is set forth clearly and, so far as possible, systematically. The numerous cross-references should enable even the unwariest of readers to fill in the gaps.

Indo-European

1. 'To stand' (cf para 41), OE standan, is akin to OHG stantan: OE stand-, OHG stant-, are extn of stan-, which, like the stat- of L and Gr, is itself an extn of IE sta-, to hold oneself upright (to stand), which has var stath-, seen both in Skt and in Go and ON. The IE r sta-, stha-, shows the vowel-changes ste-, sti-, sto-, stu- (and sthe-*, etc.).

2. Of the very numerous cognates of 'to stand', OE standan, the foll are perh among the most important and suggestive: OFris, OS, OHG stān, OHG stēn, OFris standa, stonda, OS standan, ON standa, OB stati, OSl stojati, Lith stōti; L stāre, presp stans, o/s stant-, pp status; Gr stēnai, to stand, histanai, to cause to stand—perh cf Hit istanta-, to tarry (or stand awhile), istantanu-, to cause to tarry; Av hištaiti, Skt tīṣṭhati, he stands upright, he remains standing, these forms constituting redupp in—resp—s (here h) and t. Note also such C forms as EIr and Ga stad, a pause (cf ON statha, a standing), Ga stad, to pause, and, corresp to L sistere (the freq of stāre: see the sep 31st group), the OIr sessim, I stand, Ga seas, and Ga seasamh, an upright posture, EIr sessam or -om, a standing.

3. The corresp nn, indeed, exhibit no irreg deviations: they conform, in the main, to the stand- and stat- extn of IE sta-*, to stand.

4. Prob the simplest treatment is to arrange the many E 'stand' words in the historical order of the originating languages—Gr; L, with the R offshoots; C; Gmc—and, at the end of each language-group, to list the chief words accorded a sep entry.

Greek

5. Whereas Gr histanai, to cause to stand (hence, to weigh), has derivatives histos, a loom, and dim hision (see Elements at hισιο-), Gr stēnai, to stand, has derivative stasis, a standing, a standing still, hence a pause, a stop, a stoppage, adopted by Physio: cf the learned terms listed at -stasis in Elements. The corresp Gr adj is statikos, causing a stand or a pause, hence, skilled in weighing: whence Scil stasticus, whence E static (cf F statique), whence, in Phys, the neg astatic (Gr a-, not); Gr 'he statikē tekhnē, the weighing art, leads to the E n statics. Cf the element stato-.

6. Gr statikos may have generated a VL stasticus* (perh rather status, pp of stāre+-icus, anl with other adjj); whatever its origin, VL stasticus* has neu staticum*, whence OF-MF estage (EF-F étage), situation or condition, a dwelling, hence the storey of a building or the stage of a theatre, whence, by aphesis, the ME stage, retaining the var F senses.

7. Several Gr prefix-cpds affect E:

existanai, to put (histanai) out of (ex-) place, to derange, whence ekstasis, LL ecstasis, a trance, MF extasie (F extase), E extasy, now usu—after LL—ecstasy; the derivative Gr extatikos becomes EF-F extatique, whence E extatic, now usu ecstatic; prolstanai, to stand, hence to place or set (histanai), before or forward (pro-), whence prostatēs, a stander before, whence the E adj prostate (gland)—perh adopted from EF-F prostate; sunistanai, to stand, hence to place or set together (sun-, from sun, with), whence sustēma, a placing together, hence a number of things placed together, whence LL systema, whence (EF-F système and) E system; derivative Gr sustēmatikos becomes LL systematicus, whence (EF-F système and) E systematic; on LL systematicus is built 'to systematize' (cf F systématiser).

8. Sep treated Gr derivatives-in-E include apostle, q.v. at STALL, para 15—stole (the garment)—and at STALL, paras 13 and 14, systole (and diastole) and systaltic.

Latin: A, Simple

9. L stāre, to stand, has presp stans, o/s stant-, whence VL stantia*, a standing, whence these four words:

Sp estancia, a standing, hence, in ASp, a standing of livestock, esp cattle, hence a cattle ranch;

It stanza, a dwelling, but also a 'dwelling' or stop in versification, hence the paragraphic unit of a poem, adopted by E;

OF-MF estance (F étance), the act or posture of standing, whence, by aphesis, the E stance; whence, via the derivative sense, 'a stay, a support';

OF-MF estañon (F étañon), with the MF, mostly Picard, var estanchon, whence, by aphesis, the ME stanchon, whence E stanchion.

10. Two L forms of the v stāre occur in learned E: stet, Let him (or her or it) stand, adopted by printers, hence by scholars and authors; and locus standi, a place of standing, hence, in Law, the right to appear in a court, hence, in general, the right to be heard.

11. L stāre has pp status, s stat-, used also as adj 'upright, fixed, secure', whence:

L statārius, remaining upright, immobile, whence E statory, fixed, stationary; perh anl is the origin of Her statant, standing, upright, as if from an adj statans*, o/s statant-*;

L statīō, o/s statīōn-, a standing immobile, hence a residence or station, a military post, (LL) a religious assemblage: whence OF estacion, soon reduced to stacion (F station), adopted by ME, whence—reshaped after the L—E station, whence 'to station'—cf EF-F stationner; the derivative L statīōnālis yields E stational, and LL statīōnārius yields E stationary; the ML n use of statīōnārius for a bookseller, from his statīō in the market place, accounts for ME stacyonere, whence E stationer, orig a bookseller or a publisher, hence a vendor of writing materials, whence stationery, at first spelt stationary.

12. On L stat- arise both LL stativus, ML stativus, immobile, whence the military and gram E stative, and the L agent stator, adopted by E, for Sci and Tech, with new senses.

13. Then there is the statuary group, also from stat-:

statua, a statue, whence OF-F statue, with F dim statuette, both adopted by E; the derivative L adj statuārius yields (late MF-F statuaire and) E statuary; the derivative nn statuārius, a sculptor, and statuāria, elliptical for statuāria ars, the statuary art, become E statuary, archaic in the former sense; the E formation statuesque=statue + suffix -esque—prob after picturesque.

14. With L statua, cf L statūra, an upright position, hence bodily height: whence OF-MF estature, whence late MF-F stature, adopted by E.

15. But by far the most important L derivative of pp status is the n status (gen -ūs), the way one stands, attitude, hence condition, position (esp political, hence also social: adopted by E): whence MF estat (EF-F état), whence E estate, orig with the L senses. MF estat becomes, by apheresis, the ME stat, whence—prob after estate—the E state, retaining most of the L senses and all the F senses, esp that of a political, and of a national, unit or power, whence stateless; stately derives from the earlier senses. The derivative v 'to state'—unrecorded before late C16—orig meant 'to fix or establish, e.g. in a condition', hence 'to fix the particulars of, to express, in detail, hence definitely'; in usage, the int of 'to say'. Hence statement.

16. 'To state' has cpd 'to instate' or establish in rank or office, whence 'to reinstate', whence, anl, reinstatement.

17. The L n status becomes It stato, with derivative statista, a statesman, whence the rare E statist. But the adj statistic, now usu statistical, derives from the n statistic, now statistics (after mathematics, politics, etc.), from the F n statistique (1771), itself from the G Statistik (1749), prompted by the academic L collegium statisticum, a college occupying itself with this subject, either from the assumed ML adj statisticus or from L status+the suffix -isticum present in phlogisticum, likewise a modern academic L neologism. (B & W.) Statistician=the n statistic+suffix -ian; cf the F statisticien.

18. L status, n, has the further derivative statuere, to cause to stand erect, hence to establish or ordain, with pp statūtus, whence the LL statūtum, an ordinance or a decree: whence MF estatur, soon reduced to statut, which, adopted by ME, becomes E statute. Derivative EF-F statuaire becomes E statutory.

19. Not imm recognizable as a derivative from a L simple, is 'to stay', to stand or depend upon (obsol), hence to wait or tarry, hence to remain or dwell, hence to endure (vi), with derivative corresp n: late ME-E, 'to stay' derives, by apheresis, from OF-MF ester, to stand, to dwell or remain, from L stāre. From the pp staid (for stayed) comes the adj staid, settled, sedate.

20. More difficult is standard: whereas the 'banner' and derivative senses come, by apheresis, from OF-MF estandard (F étendard), prob from OF-MF estendre (F étendre), from L extendere (ex-, out+tendere, to stretch: cf TEND), the 'recognized authority, accepted criterion or measure' senses app derive, in late ME, from 'to stand' in its senses 'to be upright, to remain, to endure'; nevertheless, these latter senses could well derive from that of 'banner'. Standard, authority measure, criterion, is used derivatively as adj and as a tech v; standard, n, has the further derivative 'to standardize', to regularize, whence standardization.

21. The principal sep-treated singles are stable and stamen.

Latin: B, Prefix-Compounds

22. Except for the cpds in -isist (assist, consist, desist, etc.)—to be found at SIST (L sistere, freq of stāre)—the foll are the chief prefix-cpds of L stāre, to stand:

circumstāre, to stand circum or around, presp circumstans, o/s circumstant-, whence the n circumstantia, whence MF circumstance (F circonstance), adopted by E; from the L word E coins circumstantial; constāre (int con-), to stand firm, presp constans, acc constantem, whence MF-F constant, adopted by E; derivative L constantia becomes MF-F constance, whence the PN Constance, both adopted by E—constance is superseded by constancy (direct from L constantia); Law L constat, it is evident, is preserved by Law E, and it generates the F constater, whence 'to constate'; constāre, to stand firm, has the secondary sense 'to be put up for sale at (such and such a price)', whence OF-MF coster (var couster, whence EF-F coûter), with derivative OF-MF n cost (var coust, whence EF-F coût): whence the E 'to cost' and 'the cost', whence costly; constituere (con-, together+-stituere, c/f of statuere—see para 18), to establish, with presp constituens, o/s constituent-, whence the E adj, hence n, constituent, whence constituency (for constituency*), and with pp constitūtus, whence both E 'to constitute' and L constitūtio, acc constitutiōnem, whence OF-F constitution, adopted by E, whence constitutional (adj, hence n), whence constitutionalism and -ist; derivative late MF-F constitutif, f -ive, prob suggested the E adj constitutive.

23. With L constituere, cf L dēstituere, to establish (dē- used int), LL to leave alone, to abandon (dē-, down from, away from), with pp dēstitūtus, whence, in E, the obs v and the extant adj destitute, and, in L, the subsidiary n dēstitūtio, acc dēstitutiōnem, whence MF-F, hence E, destitution.

24. L stāre has numerous other prefix-cpds, e.g. distāre, to stand di-, for dis-, apart, hence away, with presp distans, acc distantem, whence MF-F distant, adopted by E; derivative L distantia becomes MF-F distance, likewise adopted by E, with off-shoot v 'to distance'. E distant has the irreg An mdfn distal, remote.

25. L exstāre, often eased to extāre, to stand ex or out of, hence high, prominent, hence to survive, has presp exstans, usu extans, o/s extant-, whence the E adj extant, whence extancy.

26. L instāre, to stand in or over against, hence to be menacing or urgent or imminent, has presp instans, acc instantem, whence the MF-F adj, hence n (of time), instant, adopted by E. The derivative L instantia yields both the E instancy, urgency, and the MF-F instance, adopted by E; the sense 'example' is modern—and E. On the L presp s instant- is formed the EF-F instantané, whence—? after simultaneous—the E instantaneous; derivative F instantanéité yields instantaneity.

27. L instituire, to place (-stituire, from statuere) in or upon, to establish or initiate, has pp institūtus, whence 'to institute'; the pa-become-n institūtum, pl institūta, yields late MF-F institut, whence the E institute. Institūtus, pa, has derivative institutiō, acc institutiōnem, whence OF-F institution, adopted by E, with adj institutionary and institutional, whence institutionalism, -ist, etc. Whereas E institutor is adopted from L, institutive is coined, anl, from institution.

28. LL interstāre, to stand inter or between, has derivative adj interstēs, intermediate, whence the n interstitium, becoming MF-F interstice, adopted by E; interstitial=interstitium+adj suffix -al.

29. L obstāre, to stand ob or over against, hence (LL) to oppose, has derivative obstāculum, whence MF-F obstacle, adopted by E; Eccl ML forms the phrase Nihil obstat, Nothing stands in the way. Related L obstināre, to attempt firmly, to persist in doing, has the s -stin- found in dēstināre (E destine); it is, in fact, a c/f of stanāre*, a nasal var of stāre. The pp obstinātus yields E obstinate, whence obstinately*, whence obstinacy. Also related to obstāre is obstetrix, with -stetrix the f of agent stator; a stander-by, as, indeed, a midwife is. Derivative adj, L obstetricius, LL obstetricalis, yield E obstetric, obstetrical, the former leading into agent obstetrician and science obstetrics.

30. LL obstāre, to oppose, becomes OF-MF oster, which develops the sense 'to dipossess, to eject' (F ôter); whence AF ouster: whence 'to oust'.

31. L prōstituere, to place prō or forward, to expose, hence to expose oneself for sexual sale, has pp prōstitūtus, whence 'to prostitute'; the f prōstitūta, used as n, becomes E prostitute; derivative LL prōstitutiō has acc prōstitutiōnem, whence MF-F and—perh independently—E prostitution; the derivative LL agent prōstitutor is adopted by E.

32. L restāre, to stand re- or back, to remain behind, to remain, becomes OF-F rester, to remain, be left over, whence the MF-F n reste, a remainder, whence the syn E n rest. ('To rest' or get repose is of entirely different origin.) Either from OF-MF rester or from VL restivus* (from L restāre) comes the OF-MF adj restif (F rétif), f restive, whence the E restive, with gradually weakening senses.

33. L restituere, to place back, to restore, has pp restitūtus, whence both 'to restitute' and L restitutiō, acc restitutiōnem, whence MF-F, hence E, restitution; derivative agent restitutor is adopted by E and derivative adj restitutorius becomes restitutory.

34. L substāre, to stand under, hence to resist, to persist, to subsist, has pp substans, o/s substant-, whence the rare E adj substans, firm. Derivative L substantia, that which 'stands under', or underlies, appearance, yields OF-F substantia, adopted by E; its LL adj substantialis yields MF-F substantiel, whence the reshaped E substantial, and the resulting LL n substantiālitās, o/s -itāt-, yields E substantiality. The other LL adj, substantius, ML -ivus, becomes MF-F substantif, f -ive, whence E substantive, confirmed, solid, hence n, with adj substantial, perh from LL substantiālis, ML -ivālis. LL substantiātus (from substantiāre*, to endow with substance) yields 'to substantiate', whence substantiation.

35. LL substantiālis has the LL cpd consubstantiālis, whence E consubstantial; derivative LL consubstantiālitās accounts for consubstantiality. ML forms the v transsubstantiāre, to transform, with pp transsubstantiātus, whence 'to transubstantiate'; derivative ML transsubstantiō, o/s transsubstantiōn-, yields, perh via late MF-F transsubstantionem, the E transsubstantiation.

36. L substituere, to place under, to put in the place (of something else), has pp substitūtus, whence both the n (imm from the L substitūtum) and the v substituere; derivative LL substitutiō has acc substitutiōnem, whence MF-F substitution, adopted by E; the derivative LL adj substitutiūus, ML -ivus, explains at least the form of E substitutive.

37. L superstāre, to stand over, to dominate, has derivative adj superstes, remaining above or on top, hence surviving, whence, by an obscure sem development (? excrement, superfluity), the n superstitiō, a soothsaying or, in a wider sense, the opp of religion, with acc superstitionem, whence MF-F superstition, adopted by E; the derivative L adj superstitiosus becomes MF-F superstitieux, whence E superstitious.

38. Cf also the sep contrast—destination (destiny)—solstice (at SOLAR).

Celtic

39. Varlet is an OF-F var of OF vaslet, whence MF vallet, MF-F valet. In F, the former retains its orig sense 'young nobleman, esp a squire in the service of a knight', hence 'a well-born young man attendant at a court', hence, as vales, 'an attendant', hence 'a servant'; the modern sense of valet was firmly established by C17, and since adopted by E, which, moreover, has degraded varlet to 'knave' or 'low fellow' (archaic)—cf, sem, knave itself. OF vaslet, a dim (-et), derives from a LL-ML dim of LL uassus*, ML vassus*, an attendant, whence ML vassallus, whence OF-F vassal, one who vows loyalty to a lord and is protected by him, hence a well-born man doing so—adopted by E. LL uassus* has the derivative uassus uassorum, ML vassus vassorum, vassal of vassals, hence a feudal lord next below a knight; whence OF-MF vavassor, var vavassour, whence ME vasasour, retained by hist E, with var vasovor. OF vassal has the OF-F derivative vasselage, whence E vassalage.

40. The LL uassus*, ML vassus*, derives from OC vassor*, a man, esp a householder, akin to vastis*, a house, from vas*, to dwell, live in a house (Malvezin): cf the W and Cor gwās, a youth, a servant, Br gwaz, a man (a male), and OIr foss, a servant, and therefore the distant Skt upasthāna, a standing by or near (someone), hence attendance.

Germanic

41. In addition to stand (para 1), deriving from a nasal (stan-) extn of IE sta- (varr ste-, stiu-, etc.), to hold oneself upright, Gmc affords a trio of words, all lacking n, all ending in d, and all, therefore, representing stad-, a var of stat- or stath-, the other common extn of IE sta-: and these three E words are stead, steed, stud (horse).

42. Stead, a place, esp a farm, derives from ME, from OE stede (OE var stedi), a place: cf OFris sted, stede, stedi, OS stedi, var stad, OHG-MHG stat, G Statt (cf Stadt, a town), Go staths, ON tathr, cf MD-D stad, a town. From OE stede come ME steden, E 'to stead' or place, and OE tedefæst, fast—i.e., firm—in place, hence unchanging, E steadfast, and, thereby influenced, steady, and the Sc steading, a farmhouse; cf homestead, from OE hāmstede—cf OFris hēmsted(e).

43. Steed, a horse (archaic), and stud, a herd of (breeding) horses, hence the place where they are kept, are doublets: steed, ME stede, OE stēda, a male horse, esp for war or for breeding, the latter being also known as OE stodhors, E studhorse, from OE stōd, whence ME stod or stode, whence E stud: with OE stēda and stōd, cf ON stōth, a stud and OHG stuot, a drove of horses. MHG stuot.

a breeding mare, G Stute, any mare: cf also Lith stodas, a drove of horses, and OB stado, a herd, esp of horses. (Walshe.)

44. Sep treated Gmc cognates include stall, stallion, stalwart, the naut stay, stithy, stool.

standard. See prec, para 20.

stank, a pond. See STAGNANT, para 3. stannary, stannic, stannous, stannum; tin (n, hence adj and v), whence TINNY.

1. E from OE tin is related to ON tin (with modern Scan cognates), OHG-MHG zin, G Zinn: usu said to be o.o.o.: but are not the OGmc words the s-less cognates of L stannum (var stagnum), tin, stated by Pliny to be a Gaul invention? A C origin of stannum, therefore, is far from impossible; nor, Cornwall being famous in antiquity (even among the Phoenicians) for its tin-mines, is it irrelevant, or even misleading, to note the foll C words for tin: Cor stēn or stean, Ga stàn or staoín, Ir stán, Mx stainney, W ystaen, ystain, of which the Cor forms are prob prototypic.

2. From L stannum (s stann-, r stan-) come ML stannāria, a tin-mine, whence E stannary—stannic (stannum+Chem -ic)—stannous (suffix -ous)—and the element stanno-.

stannel. See YELL, para 4.

stanza. See STAND, para 9.

staple, a post or pillar (obs), a pointed loop of iron or wire for driving into wood, etc.; cognately, a settled market, hence a, or the, principal commodity of a market; hence adj and v, whence stapler.

2. The 'mart' and the 'commodity' staple derives from MF estaple, a mart, from syn MD stapel, stappel, stapele; and this MD word, meaning also the looped attaching-device, is akin to OE stapol, a post, a pillar, a step: cf ON stōpull, a post, and therefore E step (q.v. at STAMP, para 3). The sem link between pillar, post, step, and market is perh afforded by the exhibition of merchandise upon pillars, posts, steps.

star (n, hence adj and v), whence starry and numerous cpds, all obvious; sterling, n, hence adj; stella, stellar, stellate (whence stellation)—constellate (adj and v), constellation (whence, anl, constellatory); aster, asterisk, asterism, asteroid (adj, hence n), astral, astrology and astronomy—cf disaster, disastrous.

1. Star, ME sterre, OE steorra, is akin to OFris stēra, OS sterro, OHG sterro, sterno, MHG sterne, G Stern, Go stalnō, MD sterne, sterre, D ster, ON stjarna—Cor steren, sterran—Ir sterenn—L stēlla—Gr astēr, a star, astron, a constellation—Skt stár—Hit astiras—and such forms as Tokh A šre-n (pl) and Arm astl. The IE r is prob ster-, with var stel-.

2. Sterling, the legal and standard money of Great Britain, derives from ME sterling, a silver penny: app a dim of ME sterre, a star—a device found on certain medieval pennies.

Latin

3. L stēlla derives, ult. from the IE stel-*: it survives in E as the PN Stella. L stēlla has, relevant to E, these derivatives:

LL stellāris, whence stellar;

L stellātus, whence stellate.

4. Stellātus has the LL cpd constellātus, whence the adj and v constellate; derivative LL constellātiō, acc constellātiōnem, yields MF-F, whence E, constellation.

Greek

5. Gr astēr, a star, is adopted by L, whence E aster, a star (obs), hence a star-shaped flower. Derivatives asteriskos, a little star—asterismos, a constellation—asteroeidēs, star-like, become, resp, L asteriscus, E asterisk—E asterism—E asteroid.

6. Gr astron, a constellation, also a single star, becomes L astrum, with adj astrālis, whence E astral.

7. Gr astron has c/f astro-, occurring notably in the cpds:

astrolabon, lit a star-taker (labein, lambanein, to take), whence ML astrolabium, OF astrelabe, MF-F astrolabe, adopted by E; astrologos, an astronomer (lit, star-discourser; logos, from legein, to speak), whence astrologia, adopted by L, whence MF-F astrologie, whence E astrology whence, anl, astrologer; astronomios, astronomer (lit, star-arranger, from nemein, to distribute or arrange), whence astronomia, adopted by L, whence OF-F astronomie, whence E astronomy, whence, anl, astronomer.

8. Gr astron or, rather, L astrum becomes It astro, with cpd disastro (dis-, L dis-, connoting deviation), an event not favourable to one's stars, with adj disastroso (cf the L adj astrōsus, born under an unlucky star): whence EF-F désastre and désastreux, f désastreuse: whence E disaster and disasterous.

starboard. See the 2nd STEER, para 2.

starch (n, hence v), whence starchy: ME starche, var of ME sterche, from ME sterchen, OE stercan, to stiffen: OE stearc, stiff, whence, in its turn, ME-E stark, stiff, rigid, hence harsh, unadorned: and OE stearc is akin to OFris sterk, OS starc, OHG-MHG starc, G stark, MD starc, sterc, D sterk, ON sterkr; ult to:

stare (v, hence n) derives from OE starian: cf OHG starēn, G starren, MD starren, MD-D staren, LG staren, ON stara: cf G starr, stiff, ON stōrr, big, proud, Lith stóras, thick, Gr stereos, hard, Skt sthiráś, strong: cf also STARCH. The IE r is app star-, var ster-, stor-*, etc., stiff, strong. Cf STERILE, STERN (adj), STORK.

stark, adj, hence adv. See STARCH.

stark-naked. See the 1st START.

starling. See the 1st TERN.

start (1), an animal's tail; whence redstart, a small, red-tailed bird, and, by f/e, stark-naked, ME start- or stert-naked, (lit) tail-naked. Start, ME stert (later start), OE steort, is akin to OFris stert, OHG-G sterz, MLG-MD stert, start, D staart, ON stertr, and to:

start (2), to move suddenly and jumpily, vi, hence vt, to cause to do so, hence to begin, whence starter and pa, vn starting; startle (v, hence n), whence the pa, vn startling.

'To startle' comes from ME sterlten, OE steartlian, to stumble: akin to OE styrtan, to jump up, itself akin to—perh the source of—ME sterlen, whence 'to start': cf OFris sterta, OHG sturzēn, MHG-G stürzen, to hurl or plunge, MD sterlen, sturten, MD-D storten, to rush, to fall: o.o.o.; prob echoic.

startle, startling. See prec.

starvation, starve. See TORPID.

stasis. See STAND, para 5.

statant; statary. See STAND, para 11.

state (n and v), statement. See STAND, para 15.

static, statics. See STAND, para 5.

station, stationary, stationer, stationery. See STAND, para 11.

statist, statistic(al), statistician, statistics. See STAND, para 17.

stative. See STAND, para 12.

stator. See STAND, para 12.

statuary, statue, statuesque, statuette. See STAND, para 13.

stature. See STAND, para 14.

status. See STAND, para 15.

statute, statutory. See STAND, para 18.

staunch, adj and v. See STAGNANT, para 6. stauro- words. See Elements and, f.a.e., cf the 2nd STEER.

stave. See STAFF (heading).

stay (1), a strong rope supporting a mast, hence as naut v; 'to stay' or hold up, prop, support, whence the n in sense 'a prop, a support', whence a woman's stays.

1. The naut rope derives from OE staeg, akin to ON, D, G stag, MD staeye, MLG stach: cf the Skt śākatī, he withstands: IE r, perh stag-*.

2. With that n stay, cf MF estaie (F étaie), a prop, whence MF estaier (F étaier), to prop up, to support, whence the syn E 'to stay': the MF n estate derives from MD staeye (as above).

3. Cf, ult, STAND.

stay (2), to remain or tarry. See STAND, para 19.

stays (women's). See the 1st STAY (heading).

stead, steadfast, steading, steady (adj, hence n and v). See STAND, para 42.

steak. See STICK, para 14.

steal (1), a stalk, a rung—dial. See the 2nd STALE.

steal (2), to take unlawfully, pt stole, pp stolen; hence the agent stealer and the pa, vn stealing; stealth, whence stealthy.

Stealth, ME stelthe, comes from ME stelen, whence 'to steal': and ME stelen comes from OE stelan; cf OFris stela, OS and OHG stelan, MHG steln, G stehlen, Go stilan, MD-D stelen, ON stela: perh akin to Gr sterein, to take away, to rob, with s and r ster-: IE r, ? ster-, with OGmc steran becoming OGmc stelan, stela, etc. (Boisacq.)

steam, n (whence steamy) and v (whence steamer and steaming). 'To steam' derives from OE stēman, var stýman, to emit vapour, from OE stēam, vapour, smoke, whence, via ME stēam, stēm, steem, the E n steam: cf MD-D stoom, steam: ? echoic, from the hissing of steam.

stearic, stearin(e). See STONE, para 3. steatite. See STONE, para 4.

steed. See STAND, para 43.

steel, n (whence steely) and v. 'To steel' derives, via ME stēlen, from OE stýlan, itself from OE stýle, var of stēli (staeli), later stēl, whence E steel: cf OS stehli, MD staet, D staal, OHG stahal, MHG stahel, stäl, G Stahl, and ON stäl: ? orig 'something very firm and strong'—cf Av staxra, firm, strong. (Walshe.)

steenbok. See STONE, para 2.

steep, adj and v. See the 3rd STOOP, para 2. steepie, steepiejack. See the 3rd STOOP, para 4.

steer (1), a potential bull castrated before maturity; tauric, taurine, Taurus and Taurid—cf torador, torero, and the elements tauri-, tauro-.

1. E-ME steer comes from OE stēor, akin to OHG stior, OHG-G and D stier, Go stiur, ON stjōrr and, without s, thjōrr; also without the IE int prefix s-: OIr tarb, Ga tarbh, Mx taroo, Cor tarow, Br tarv, W tarw, OC tarvos*; Lith taurus, OSi iturī, an aurochs, OP taurus, a buffalo; L taurus, Umbrian toru; Gr tauros; but Av staora, heavy beasts (both bovine and equine). The IE etymon is app tauros*, but the word is prob Medit: cf Aram tōr and H šor (Hofmann)—perh Sumerian iūr, a cattle-yard—and perh even Ēg ātru, stud bulls.

2. L taurus has adj taurinus, whence E taurine; E tauric, however, represents taurus+adj suffix -ic. In Astr, Taurus is the Bull, whence the Taurids or meteors app radiating from Taurus: Taurus+-id, descendant, off-shoot.

3. L taurus becomes Sp toro, whence both torero (toro+agent -ero) and torear, to fight bulls, with derivative toreador; both adopted by E.

steer (2), to guide (a ship) with a rudder, whence steerage, agent steerer, pa, vn steering; steersman; —starboard; stern, n.—Cf the sep STORE.

1. 'To steer,' ME steeren, OE stýran, a contr of stīeran, var of stēoran, is akin to OFris stiōra, stiūra, OHG stiuren, to direct, G steuern, to steer, Go stiurjan, to guide, to establish, MD stieren, stuyren, MD-D sturen, to steer, ON stýra, to steer, to govern: cf these nn, OE stēor, OFris stiūre, OHG stiura, MHG stiure, G Steuer, ON stýri, a rudder, which prob precede the vv: cf the ON staurr, Gr stauros, a stake: ? ult from the IE r sta-*, to stand.

2. OE stēor, rudder, has the cpds stēoresmann, man of the rudder, whence steersman, and stēorbord, the steering side, whence ME sterbord, E starboard.

3. Akin to OFris stiūre and ON stýri, rudder, are the syn OFris stiārne and ON stjörn, the latter prob originating ME steorne, almost imm contr to stern, orig a rudder, hence the after part of a ship.—Whence astern: a-, in+stern.

steve. See STIFF, para 2.

stegano- and stego- words. See the element stegano-.

stein. See STONE, para 2.

stela, whence the adj stelar. See STALL, para 11.

Stella, stellar, stellate. See STAR, para 3.

stem (1), of plant. See STAFF, para 4.

stem (2), to stop, dam, check: ME stemmen: ON stemma, akin to syn OS stemmian and to MHG stemmen, to stiffen, G stemmen, to prop: ult to the n stem, q.v. at STAFF.

stench. See STINK, para 2.

stencil. See SCENE, para 6.

stenographer, stenography. See the element steno-.

stentorian. See the element stentoro-.

step, n and v. See STAMP, para 3.

step-, as in stepmother, stepchild, etc.: OE stēop-, which has Gmc cognates, related to such vv as OE āstēpan, āstýpan, and OHG arstiufan, to bereave; the simple form occurs in the ON stiūpr, stepson, and stiūpa, stepmother. The chief extant cpds are: stepchild, OE stēopcild; stepdaughter, OE stēopdohtor; stepfather, OE stēopsfaeder; stepmother, OE stēopmōdor; stepson, OE stēopsunu: mostly with cognate forms in the other OGmc tongues. Perh (Holthausen) related to OHG-MHG stampf, blunt, OHG-G stumpf, a stump.

steppe: Ru step', a waste place, wasteland.

stereoscope; stereotype, whence 'to stereotype' and the pa stereotyped. See the element stereo- and cf:

sterile, sterility, sterilize, sterilization. Sterile, barren, comes—perh via MF-F stérile—from L sterilis, s steril-, ult r ster-*: cf Gr steira, (woman or cow that is) unfruitful, Skt starls, unfruitful cow, and also Go stairō (fem), unfruitful, OHG stero, a widow: themselves akin to Gr stereos, solid, hard: IE ster-, unfruitful, and the id ster-, stiff, hard, solid. (Hofmann.) L sterilis has derivative sterilitās, whence MF-F stérilité and E sterility; MF-F stérile has the late MF-F derivative stériliser, whence sterilisation: whence E 'to sterilize' and sterilization. Cf STARCH.

sterling. See STAR, para 2.

stern (1), adj, whence sternness: ME sterne (var sturne): OE stierne (var styrne): app an -n extn of r stier- or styr-, akin to the stor- of G storrig, obstinate, OHG storto, MHG storte, a tree-stump, OHG storrēn, to project strongly or stiffly, themselves akin to MHG sterre, G starr, rigid; cf, therefore, STARE and STERILE.

stern (2), of ship. See the 2nd STEER, para 3.

sterna. See the 1st TERN.

sternal, from ScIL sternalis, is the adj of ScIL, hence E, sternum, the breastbone, from Gr sternon, the chest, ? 'the broad part': IE r, ster-*, to be wide—cf OHG stirna, MHG stirne, G Stirn, the forehead, OE sternede, having a broad forehead, and perh L sternere, to spread out, and Skt stirnds, strewn. (Hofmann; Walshe.) Zoo sternite=sternum+-ite, n-suffix.

sternutation. See:

stertor, stertorous. The latter—cf the F stertoreux —derives from the former; the former, from L stertere, s stert-, to snore, a r extn, as L sternuere, to sneeze, is an n extn, of an echoic IE r ster-*, to make a noise through the nose. L sternuere has the int sternütäre, whence sternütätätö, o/s sternütätion-, whence E sternutation; the corresp adj sternutatory comes from EF-F sternutatoire, from L sternütäre.

stet. See STAND, para 10.

stethoscope. See the element stetho-.

stevadore. See STIFF, para 2.

stew, n and v. The n stew, ME stue, stuwe, prob comes rather from the ME stuwen, to bathe in hot water, than from the OF-MF n estuve (F étuve), which derives from OF-MF estuver, whence, by aphesis, the ME stuwen: and OF-MF estuver comes from VL extüfare: ex-, out+tüfus*, trln of Gr stufhos, vapour, smoke. Cf FUME and THYME.

steward. See the 1st STY, para 2.

sthenia, sthenic; neurasthenia, neurasthenic. Gr sthenos, strength, power, perh akin to Skt saghnóti, it is full-grown, has SciL derivative sthenia, with adj sthenicus, whence Med and Psy sthenic. The Gr astheneia, weakness (a-, privative prefix), combines with neuron, a nerve, to form SciL neurasthenia, whence, anl, neurasthenic; cf NERVE.

stich, stichic. See the 3rd STY, para 2.

stick, n and v (pt stuck)—whence sticker, sticking, sticky (whence stickiness); stickleback; steak; stitch, n, hence v;—stigma, stigmatic (whence, anl, stigmatism), stigmatize—cf the derivative (Gr a-, not) astigmatic, astigmatism;—distinguish (whence distinguishable and pa distinguished), distinct (whence distinctness), distinction, whence, anl, distinctive—cf the LL distinctivus implied by the LL adv distinctive, ML distinctive, in a characteristic manner; instigant, instigate, instigation (whence, anl, instigative), instigator, instigatory—and instinct, adj, and instinct, n, whence, anl, both instinctive and instinctual;—style (n, hence v), whence stylish, stylist (whence, anl, stylistic, whence, in turn, stylistics), stylize (whence stylization)—cf the element -stylar (stylo-)—stylus, stylet, stiletto; stimulant (adj, hence n), stimulate, stimulation (whence, anl, stimulative), stimulator (whence, anl, stimulatory).—Without s-: ticket (n, hence v) and etiquette; tiger (whence tigerish), tigress, tigrine; Tigris.

Indo-European

1. The E n stick, OE sticca, and the closely related 'to stick', to pierce, OE stician, stecan*, have numerous cognates in Gmc, both old and modern, as well as in other IE languages, esp L (stimulus, a goad, stilus, a pointed instrument, -stinguere, to prick, etc.)—Gr (stigma, the mark made by a pointed instrument)—OPer (tigra, pointed) and Skt (tigmás, pointed). The IE r is tei-, var ti-, to pierce, usu in the reinforced stei-* (s-, int prefix) or sti-, with extnn teig-, steig-, or tig-, stig-, and stil- and stim-* (both attested by L).

Iranian

2. From Iranian, E gets two words belonging to this constellation: tiger and Tigris. Tiger derives from ME tigre, adopted from OF-F tigre, from L tigris, itself adopted from Gr (τίγρις), which adapted some old Iranian word related—like L-from-Gr Tigris, the river, from OPer Tigra—to Av tighra-, pointed, and tighri-, an arrow (notably pointed): the tiger is arrow-swift; the river in its upper reaches, very rapid. The F fem tigresse at least prompted the E tigress; the L adj tigrinus yields E tigrine.

Greek

3. Gr stigma, a pricked mark, hence a brand, was adopted by L, whence by E, with Sci and tech pl stigmata, as in L and Gr; and the ML derivative stigmáticus becomes E stigmatic. On the L-from-Gr o/s stigmat-, ML formed also stigmatizäre, to brand (cf the syn LL stigmäre), whence 'to stigmatize'. Gr stigma derives from Gr stizein (? for stigein*), to prick or pierce: r stig-: cf the stig- of L instigäre and the stich-, var stech-, of the Gmc words.

Latin

4. The L words -stigare (and the nasalized -stinguere), stilus, stimulus, neatly exhibit the principal extnn (stig-, stil-, stim-) of the IE r sti-, var of stei-. L -stigare occurs in instigare, to goad (someone) on (to do something), to excite or incite. The presp instigans, o/s instigant-, yields the E n instigant; the pp instigatus yields 'to instigate'. On the pps instigät-, L forms instigätio (o/s instigätion-), instigätör, LL instigätörus, whence the E words, resp instigation (perh adopted from MF-F)—instigator (cf the MF-F instigateur)—instigatory.

5. L -stigare, to goad, has the corresp nasal form, -stinguere, *-stingere, to goad—not to be confused with the self-contained, entirely distinct stinguere, to quench. L -stinguere, to goad, has two cpds relevant to E: distinguere and instinguere.

6. L distinguere, var distingere (dis-, apart), to separate by means of pricked marks, becomes MF-F distinguer, whence, irreg (after the -iss- forms of F vv in -ir, as languir, presp languissant), 'to distinguish', whence distinguished and distinguishing. The L pp distinctus becomes MF-F distinct, adopted by E; and the derivative L distinctiö, acc distinctionem, becomes OF-F distinction, adopted by E.

7. L instinguere, var instingere (in- prob int), to goad, to incite or instigate, has pp instinctus, whence the E adj instinct, impelled or animated (obsol), hence imbued; but the E n instinct derives—perh via late MF-F instinct—from L instinctus (gen -üs), itself from the L pp.

8. The IE r sti-*, in its L extn stil-, occurs in L stilus, a sharp-pointed instrument, esp for writing on wax, hence, in LL, one's manner of writing, whence MF stile, procedure (legal or military), whence, with form influenced by incorrect L stylus

(after Gr stulos, pillar, column), the EF-F style, in modern sense, borrowed by E. The derivative F styliste, stylistique, styliser have perh aided the formation of E stylist, stylistic, stylize.

9. L stilus becomes It stilo, with new sense 'dagger', whence the dim stilelto, adopted by E; from It stilelto, F derives stylet (-y- from L stylus), adopted by E, now mainly as in F, for a surgical probe.

10. The IE r sti-*, in its L extn stim-, occurs in stimulus, a goad (lit and fig), adopted by E; prob orig a little goad (dim -ulus). The derivative stimulāre, to goad, hence to incite, to arouse, has presp stimulans, o/s stimulant-, whence the E adj, hence n, stimulant; the pp stimulātus and its derivatives stimulātiō (o/s stimulātiōn-) and stimulātor result, resp, in 'to stimulate', stimulation, stimulator.

Germanic

11. A stick or (dry) piece of wood, e.g. a small branch, a twig, comes from ME sticke, from OE sticca, akin to OFris stek, OHG stec(c)ho, G Stechen, ON stik, and to OE stician, to pierce.

12. 'To stick,' to pierce, to fix by piercing, hence by other means, comes from ME stikien, aided by ME steken (whence the pt, pp stuck): OE stician and OE stecan*: cf OFris steka, OS stekan, OHG stehhan, MHG-G stechen; cf the L and Gr words cited above.

13. Akin to OE stician, to pierce or prick, is OE sticel, a prickle or thorn, whence dial E stickle, a bristle, whence the small bristle-backed fish named stickleback.

14. The ON stik, a stick, has derivative stika, to impale, from which, or at least akin to which, is ON steik, a slice of meat roasted on a spit, whence the E steak.

15. Akin to, or deriving from, OE stician, to prick, is OE stice, a pricking, a puncture, whence ME stiche, E stitch, a pricking pain, hence a single pass of a needle, hence a single turn of the thread: cf OFris stek, steke, and OHG stih, MHG-G stich (akin to OHG stehhan, G stechen), and esp OHG sticchan, MHG sticken, to embroider—a thinned derivative of stehhan, stechen.

16. Very closely related to MHG-MG stechen is MD-D steken, var sticken or stikken, to impale (also to embroider), whence MF estiquer (-quier), whence MF estiquet, estiquette, whence EF-F étiquette, a label, a ticket, hence certain labels implying a certain order, a certain rank, hence, EF-F, court ceremonial, hence formal good manners, adopted by E. The 'label' sense of MF estiquet, estiquette, EF-F étiquette, leads, by apheresis, to E ticket; 'to ticket' prob owes something to EF-F étiqueter, to put a label on.

stickle, to intervene between opponents (obs), hence to contend, or hold out, on small points, whence a stickler and stickling: perh from ME stihlen, to arrange, control, govern, the freq of the syn ME stihthen, OE stihthan (-ian), akin to ON stétta, to aid: o.o.o.

stickleback. See STICK, para 13.

sticky. See STICK (heading).

stiff (adj, hence sl n), whence stiffness and stiffen, whence stiffener, stiffening; steeve, stevadore; stipe, stipulate, stipulation, stipulator (whence, anl, stipulatory), stipule (whence, anl, stipular); sep CONSTIPATE, CONSTIPATION—and COSTIVE.

1. E-ME stiff derives from OE stif: cf OFris stēf, OHG-MHG stif, G steif, MD stief, MD-D stijf, ON stifr, Lith stiprūs, firm, L stipes, a post, stipāre, to compress, Gr stiphros, compressed, compact, and, with b for p, the syn stibaros (cf steibein, to compress by trampling): IE r, steip-* or stip-*, compact, stiff.

2. L stipāre, to compress, becomes It stivare, to stow cargo, load a ship, whence stiva, a ship's hold, whence EF-F estive, the loading of a ship, whence F estiver, to stow goods, whence, by apheresis, E 'to steeve' or stow; cf E stevadore, from Sp estivador, a loader or stower, from estivar, to stow, from L stipāre.

3. L stipes, a round stake fixed in the ground, a stock, a post, later a plant's stem, is retained by Bot, which has also adopted F stipe (L stipes). L stipes has dim stipula, a (little) stem or stalk, whence E stipule, adopted by E.

4. Akin to L stipes and stipula is (? L-)LL stipulus, firm, from or akin to which is L stipulāri, LL stipulāre, to formally engage another or oneself to do something, with pp stipulātus, whence 'to stipulate'; derivative stipulātiō, acc stipulātiōnem, becomes MF-F and, perh independently, E stipulation.

stifle: ME stuflen or stufflen: app, by apheresis, from MF estouffer (E étouffer), var estofer (C13): o.o.o.: perh cf OHG stopfōn, MHG-G stopfen, to stuff (cf E 'to stop'); after all, the commonest way to stifle someone is to stuff material into mouth and nostrils.

stigma, stigmatic, stigmatize. See STICK, para 3.

stile (1), ME stile, OE stigel, a ladder, a step, is akin to OHG stigila, a stile, and OE stigan, OFris stīga, OHG stigan, MHG stigen, G steigen, Go steigan, ON stīga, to climb: Gmc r stig-, IE r steigh-*, to climb.

stile (2), an upright piece in frame or panel. See STOIC, para 2.

stiletto. See STICK, para 9.

still (1), motionless, tranquil. See STALL, para 5. The adv, whence the conj, comes from the OE stille, which is the OE adj stille used as adv.

still (2), silence, calm, derives from the adj.

still (3), a vessel used in distilling liquids, derives from the obsol still, to (cause to) drip, from the syn L stillāre, which has cpd distillāre (? for dēstillāre), to fall drop by drop, whence MF-F distiller, whence 'to distill', var distil', whence distiller; derivative distillātiō, acc distillātiōnem, yields, prob via the MF-F word, the E distillation; derivative EF-F distillatoire becomes E distillatory; derivative F distillerie (distiller+-erie) perh intervenes for distillery.—L stillāre, by the way, comes from L stilla, a drop of water, itself akin to the syn Gr stilē.

2. L stilläre has the further cpd instilläre, to put (a liquid) in, drop by drop, whence, perh via EF-F instiller, the E 'to instill' (or instil); derivative L instillatiō, o/s instillatiōn-, yields, perh via EF-F, instillation.

still (4), (vt) to stop, to quieten, to calm, hence vi: OE stillan, akin to the OE adj stille (see 1st STILL): cf the G stillen and ON stilla.

stillborn = born still or motionless.

stillness: from the 1st STILL: cf OFris stillnisse.

stilt, stilted. See STALL, para 6.

stimulant, stimulate, stimulation; stimulus. See STICK, para 10.

sting, n (whence stingray) and v (whence stinger and stinging), pt stang (obsol) or stung, pp stung; stingo; stingy, miserly.

1. 'A sting' comes straight down from OE sting, itself from OE stingan, akin to the syn ON stinga and to ON stanga, to prick: prob a nasal mdfn of OGmc stag-, to pierce, a var of IE stigh-, to prick (see STICK).

2. Stingo (sl), a sharp, strong liquor, merely adds -o (a typical Cockney suffix) to sting, ref its 'bite'.

3. Stingy, close-fisted, derives from stinge, a dial var of sting; stinge, pron stindge, accounts for the pron stindgy. Cf the sl 'sting', to rob or charge exorbitantly.

stink, v (whence stinker and stinking, pa and vn), hence n; numerous—and entirely obvious—cpds; —stench.

1. 'To stink,' OE stincan, to emit a (whether good or bad) smell, is akin to OHG stinchan (good or bad), MHG stinken (usu bad), G stinken (bad), MD stenken, stincken, MD-D stinken: o.o.o.: ? an s- reinforcement of an IE r tang-*: cf Gr tangos, rancid. (Walshe.)

2. With MD stenken, cf MD stanc, stanck, MD-D stank, and OE stenc, E stench, a strong, esp a bad, smell.

stint (v, hence n), to cause to cease, to bound or confine, to restrict: ME stinten, earlier stenten, earliest stunten, to cause to cease: OE stynian, to dull or blunten: app a nasal mdfn of an OGmc r stus-*, to stop or cut short—cf ON stuittr, short, stytta, to shorten, and perh G stutzen, to cut back, to be taken aback, from MHG stutz, a push, and OHG stōzan, MHG stōzen, G stossen, to push.

stipe. See STIFF, para 3. stipend, stipendiary. See PEND, para 26.

stipple (v, hence n), like so many other Art terms, comes from D: D stippelen, to make dots or points, freq of MD-D stippen, to prick, to dot, from MD-D stip, a point, a dot: o.o.o.: the r stip- is, however, prob a var of the OGmc words exemplified by E STICK, to prick.

stipulate, stipulation. See STIFF, para 4.

stipule, with adj stipular. See STIFF, para 3.

stir (v hence n), whence stirless and stirring: ME stiren, varr steren and sturen: OE styrian: cf OFris stēra, OHG stōren, MHG stoeren, to scatter, to destroy, G stören, to disturb, MD stueren, stoeren, stooren, MD-D stören, to disturb, and ON styrr, a disturbance: OGmc r stur-, varr ster- and stor-: ? an s- reinforcement (IE int prefix s-) of an IE r tur-: cf L turbāre (a turb-, OL r tur-*), to disturb.

2. Akin to OE styrian is OE-ME-E storm (whence stormy), a violent disturbance of the atmosphere: cf ON stormr, a storm, OHG sturm, storm, battle, G Sturm, storm, attack (whence E 'storm troops'), MD storem (showing clearly the intimate relationship of the n to the v), stoorm, MD-D storm. 'To storm' perh owes something to MD stuermen, stoormen, MD-D stormen, (of the weather) to storm.

stirrup, stirrup-cup. See ROPE, para 2. stitch. See STICK, para 15.

stithy, an anvil: ON stethi: ? by thinning of form and by narrowing of sense, from ON stathr, a place, akin to E stead, q.v. at STAND, para 42.

stoat; stot. These words are doublets: both derive from ME stot (pron wavering from stōt to stöt), a horse, a bullock, a stoat; the latter, meaning a young horse (obs) or a steer, is now only dial. ME stot derives from OE stoti, stotte, an inferior horse, akin to MD stute, a mare, and ON stūr, a bull, cf Nor and Sw stut, Da stud, a bullock.

stob. See STAB.

stock. See STAKE, para 6.

stockade. See STAKE, para 5.

stocking. See STAKE, heading and para 6.

stodge, v, hence n, whence stodgy, is o.o.o.: prob a dial var of 'to STUFF'.

stoep. See STAMP, para 4.

Stoic, stoic (adj, with extn stoical; n), whence Stoicism, stoicism (cf the F stoïcisme). The adj stoic and 'a stoic' (courageously and quietly bearing pain or grief) come from the adj and n Stoic: perh via late MF-F Stolque: L Stōïcus, adj and n, (of) a Stoic philosopher: Gr Stōïkos, a Stoic, adj stōïkos, from stōïkos, of or in a colonnade, the adj of stōā, a roofed colonnade, a porch—notably that in which, at Athens, Zeno and his successors taught, in C4 B.C., a noble, resigned philosophy. Gr stōā is akin to Gr stulos, a column or pillar, itself akin to Skt sthūnā, a pillar: IE r sthou-* or stihau-, contr sthu-, a post, a pillar. Cf the element -stylar.

2. From Gr stulos, a column, come the -style of, e.g., peristyle (see the element -stylar), the Arch adj stylar, and prob stile, an upright piece in a frame or a panel.

stoke, stoker. See STAKE, para 7 (cf the heading).

stole (1), garment. See STALL, para 12.

stole (2), v, and stolen. See STEAL (heading).

stolid, stolidity. The latter derives from L stoliditas, o/s stoliditāt-, from stolidus, foolish, stupid, whence E stolid: o.o.o.: ? akin, ult, to STALL.

stoma, stomatic; stomach (n, hence v), whence stomacher—stomachal and stomachic; cf the element stoma-, where, e.g., STOMATOLOGY.

1. The Gr stoma (o/s stomat-), the mouth, is retained by An and Zoo; whence the adj stomatal and stomatic. Gr stoma is akin to Av staman-, a quadruped's, esp a dog's, mouth, and Hit štamar, mouth; there are also C and OGmc cognates. (Hofmann.)

2. Very closely related to, perh deriving from, Gr stoma is Gr stomakhos, gullet, 'neck' of bladder or uterus or (later) stomach, hence the stomach itself: whence L stomachus, OF estomach, MF-F estomac, by aphesis the E stomach. The adjj stomachal and stomachic owe much to late MF-F stomacal and EF-F stomachique, the former from L stomachus, the latter from L stomachicus, from Gr stomakhikos, adj of stomakhos.

stone (n, hence v—cf OE stāenan); stony; numerous cpds, e.g., stonechat, a bird whose alarm-note resembles the jarring of pebble on pebble—stonecrop (OE stāncropp), a plant growing on rocks and stones—stonegall (see YELL, para 4)—Stonehenge—stonemason—stonewall, adj, 'as resistant as a wall' (Stonewall Jackson), hence as a cricketing v—stonework (OE stānweorc)—as in such picturesque cpd adjj as stone-build, -cold, -deaf.—steenbok; stein.—stearate, stearic, stearin; steatite.

1. Stone comes from ME ston, var stan, from OE stān: cf OFris and OS stēn, OHG-MHG-G stein, Go stains, MD stein, stien, MD-D steen, ON steinn (with modern Scan cognates); OB stēna, a wall; Gr stion, var stiā, a pebble: IE r, stai-, varr stei-, sti-, a stone; perh ult akin to sta-, to stand. OE stān has adj stānig, whence E stony; the notable PIN cpd Stonehenge derives from ME Stonheng, earlier Stanhenge, earliest (C12) Stanenges, lit 'hanging stone', hence 'hanging monument' (cf 'to HANG'): Ekwall.

2. Whereas steenbok, which has irreg var steinbok, is adopted from D and is lit 'a stone, or rock, buck', stein is adopted from the derivative sense 'earthenware mug for beer' of G Stein, a stone.

3. Gr stion, var stiā, a pebble, is related to Gr steār, fat, tallow, whence F stéarique and stéarine: whence E stearic and stearine (or -in): whence, anl, E stearate (Chem suffix -ate).

4. Gr steār has gen steātos, whence L steatitis, whence E steatite (Min suffix -ite).

stood: pt and pp of STAND.

stooge. See STUDENT, para 3.

stook, a shock of corn (AE) or of grains, beans, etc., prob derives from D stuk (MD stuc), cf MLG stuke and G Stauche: cf ult the N STICK.

stool (n, hence v). See STALL, para 7; cf STAND.

stoop (1), a porch. See STAMP, para 4.

stoop (2), a post or a prop. See STALL, para 10.

stoop (3), (of persons) to bend downward and forward, whence pa, vn stooping and also the n stoop, such a bending; steep, adj and v; steeple (n, hence v), whence steeplechase (? from the goal being orig a church steeple—conspicuous landmark) and steeplejack (jack=Jack, generic for a man); stoup.

1. 'To stoop' derives from ME stoupen, stupen, from OE stūpian, s and r stūp-: cf MD stupen, stuypen, to stoop, to bow, Sw stupa, to tilt or fall,

ON stūpa, to stand upright, to stick up (the position from which one bows or stoops).

2. Akin to OE stūpian, to stoop, is OE stēap, lofty, whence ME stēp, later steep, steep, E steep: cf MHG stief (f for p), steep. To stand something—orig, to stand it upright—in liquid and let it soak is 'to steep' it: ME stepen, perh from ON steypa, which has modern Scan cognates.

3. With ON steypa, to steep, and OE stēap, lofty, cf OE stēap, a drinking vessel, akin to ON staup and MD-D stoop, which combine to give us the E stoup. Cf also the OHG stouf, G Stauf.

4. Also akin to OE stēap, lofty, is OE stēpel (var stýpel), whence ME stepel and E *steep*le.

stop (v, hence n), whence stoppage, stopper, pa and vn stopping; stopple; estop (v, hence n), whence stoppage—cf estoppel.—stuff, n (whence stuffy) and v (whence stuffer and stuffing)—cf stuff and nonsense!; Med stupe.

1. 'To stop,' ME stoppen, derives from OE -stopian, to close a gap or an aperture, esp in forstopian, to plug up: cf MD-D stoppen, MD stuppen, to close up, MHG-G stopfen, OHG stōfōn, to stuff, MLG-G stoppen and OFris stoppia, to stop up: app all from VL-ML stuppāre*, to stop with tow, from L stuppa, tow, ML a stopper, a cork, itself from Gr stupē (occ stupē), akin to Skt stūpas, stupās, a tuft of hair: IE r, stup-, to become compact, form into a round mass, esp spherical, extn of syn stu-, perh akin to IE sta-*, to stand (Walshe; Hofmann.)

Note, sem, that what stops up, checks; and that what is stopped up, ceases.

2. Certain stoppers or plugs are called stopple, ME stoppel, from stoppen, to stop up.

3. Cf the legal estoppel, from MF estopail (or -aille), a bung, a stopper, from OF-MF estoper (F étouper), to stop up, from OF-MF estope, a bung, a stopper, from the syn ML stuppa. The OF-MF estoper becomes AF estopper, whence 'to estop' or stop up, hence, in Law, to impede.

4. From L stuppa, var stupa, comes stupe, soaked tow or cloth applied to an injury.

5. OHG stōfōn (MHG-G stopfen), to stuff, as noted above, app becomes MF estoffer (F étoffer), whence, by aphesis, ME stoffen, later stuffen, whence 'to stuff'; either from MF estoffer or from L stuppa comes the MF estoffe (F étoffe), any kind of material or, indeed, matter, whence, by aphesis, ME stoffe, later—as still—stuff. 'Inferior stuff' leads to the senses 'refuse, trash, rubbish' and 'nonsense': whence Stuff and nonsense.

stopple. See prec, para 2. stopper. See STOP (heading).

storage. See:

store (n and v), whence storage, storehouse, storekeeper, storeroom; instauration, instaurator; restaur, restaurant, restaurateur, restauration—cf restoration (whence, anl, restorative), restore.—Cf the 2nd STEER.

1. Store, orig something, e.g. food, kept for future use (cf stores, supplies, provisions), derives, via ME stor and by aphesis, from OF-MF estor, supplies, provisions, from OF-EF estorer, to establish or construct, to supply, e.g. with provisions, whence, by aphesis, ME storen, E 'to store': and OF-EF estorer derives from L instaurāre, to renew, esp the forces or supplies of, whence L instaurātiō, o/s instaurātiōn-, and instaurātor: whence learned E instauration and instaurator.

2. Cf L restaurāre, to give back (something either lost or removed), whence late MF-F restaurer, whence the legal n restaur, adopted by E, and the general late MF-EF restaurateur, a restorer, whence, in C18, a restaurant-keeper, adopted by E; restaurant itself is adopted from F, where orig (C17) it had denoted 'restorative food'. Derivative LL restaurātiō, acc restaurātiōnem, becomes MF-F restauration, adopted by E.

3. Late MF-F restaurer derives imm from OF-MF restorer (from L restaurāre), whence ME restoren, whence 'to restore'; and MF-F, hence E, restauration leads, anl, to E restoration.

storey. See HISTORY, para 5.

stork, OE storc, is related to ON storkr (cf Da, Nor, Sw stork) and OHG storch, MHG-G storch: prob, by vowel-mutation, from the r of stark, q.v. at STARCH, and so named, either 'from its rigid legs' (Webster) or 'from its stiff posture' (Walshe).

storm, stormy. See STIR, para 2. storting. See THING, para 1.

story. See HISTORY, para 4.

stot. See STOAT.

stoup. See the 3rd STOOP, para 3.

stout, whence stoutness; ? stultify, whence, anl, stultification.

1. E-ME stout, orig strong and firm, derives, by aphesis, from MF estout, var of OF-MF estolt, foolish, stupid, senseless, extremely rash, arrogant: prob either, via the Normans, from ON stoltr, proud, arrogant, or from OHG-MHG stolz, arrogant, foolish, MD stolt, later stoud, MD-D stout: perh ult akin to L stultus (s and r stult-), foolish, stupid, akin to L stolidus (E stolid) and therefore prob to E stall.

2. L stultus has the LL derivative cpd stultificāre, to render foolish or stupid; whence 'to stultify', now mostly in a weakened sense.

stove, comes from OE stofa (cf the syn ON stofa), a heatable room, esp for a bath, but has, in transit, been strongly influenced by MD stove (MD-D stooft), a heated room, thence a foot-stove: cf OHG stuba, MHG stube, a bathroom, G Stube, a room. In G, the sense has expanded; in E, contracted.

stow, to place conveniently or (esp of freight) arrange compactly, whence stowage: ME stowen: ME stowe, from OE stōw, a place, as still in PIN n (cf Stowe, Godstow): cf the syn OFris stō: ? ult akin to STALL.

strabismus. See the element strabismo-.

straddle. See STRIDE (heading).

strafe, to punish, hence to bombard, to castigate, comes from MHG-G strafen, to punish, prob from the syn OFris straffia: ? echoic.

straggle (v, hence n), whence straggler and the pa, vn stragglings: prob from dial strackle, the freq of dial strake (ME straken), to roam: f.a.e., STRETCH. Perh, however, akin to L strāgulus (adj), stretching, being stretched, from sternere, to spread.

straight, straighten, straightness. See STRETCH, para 2.

strain (1), orig a getting, a gain, hence a begetting, hence descent or stock, hence an inherited characteristic, hence a sustained note (in music; influenced by the 2nd strain), general tenor, mood: ME strēn, streen, earliest streon: OE strēon, var strion, a getting, a begetting: cf OE strēonan, srienan, strīnan, to get, to gain, to beget, to beget, and OHG striunan, to get or gain: o.o.o.

strain (2) (v, hence n), whence strainer and straining; strangle, whence strangler; strait—cf strict, striction, stricture; strigil, whence strigilate; string and stringent—strong, strength (whence strengthen, whence strengthen and strengthening). —Cpds: astriect, astriectio—astringe, astringent, whence astringency; constrain, constraint—constrict, constriction, constrictive, constrictor—constringe, constringent; distrain, distrain—distress (n and v), whence distressful, distressing, and, by contr, stress—district; obstruction; perstringe; prestige; restrain, restraint—restrict, restriction, restrictive—restringent.

Indo-European

1. 'To strain' or draw (e.g., a rope) tight, but also to stretch effortfully, both with their naturally derivative senses, comes, through ME stranen or streynen, from OF-MF estraindre or estreinre (F étraindre): L stringere, to draw tight or clasp tightly, to press or contract, hence, naut, to graze or scrape: cf—without the nasal—L strigilis, a body-scraper: cf also Gr strangalē, a halter, strangos (στραγγός), twisted, and stranx (στράγγξ), a drop squeezed out; perh Lett stringu, stringt, to wither (? lit to become contracted); certainly Ml srengim, I draw (tight) or drag, and Mx strigg, a squeezing, striggey, to squeeze: IE r, prob streg-* (or streig-), with varr strag- and strig-, with nasal varr streg-, strang-, string-, to draw close, press tight, contract.

Greek

2. Gr strangalē (στραγγάλη), a rope or cord, a halter, s strangal-, r strang-, has derivative strangan, to put a halter on, to strangle, with var strangaleuein, whence L strangulāre, whence OF-MF estrangler (F étrangler), whence 'to strangle'; strangler perh owes something to the derivative MF estrangeur; strangulation comes, prob via EF-F, from L strangulātiō (o/s -ātiōn-), from the L pp strangulātus.

Latin: A, Simplex

3. L stringere, to draw tight, to contract, has presp stringens, o/s stringent-, whence E stringent, whence stringency; the pp strictus, whence both E strict (whence strictness) and OF-MF estreit (var estroit, F étroit), used as adj, hence also as n, whence the ME streit, streyt, later strait, adj and n. The L pp strictus has derivatives strictiō, o/s strictiōn-, a constricting, and strictūra, a constriction: whence E striction and stricture.

4. The cognate L strigilis, s strigil- (r strig-), a scraper, for use after a bath or after exercise, becomes—perh via EF-F strigile—the E strigil, with derivative sense in Zoo.

Latin: B, Compounds

5. L stringere has many cpds that, either directly or through F, have got into E. Alphabetically, the first is astringere (for adstringere: ad, to, towards), to draw tight, with presp astringens, o/s astringent-, whence, perh via EF-F, the E astringent, and with pp astriectus, whence 'to astriect'; derivative L astriectiō, o/s astriectiōn-, yields astriectiōn.

6. L constringere, to draw con- or together, yields 'to constringe'; presp constringens, o/s constringent-, E constringent; pp constrictus, and its derivatives constrictiō (o/s constrictiōn-), LL constrictivus (ML -ivus), SciL constrictor, whence, resp, 'to constrict', constriction (perh via MF-F), constrictive, constrictor (esp in 'boa constrictor').

7. L constringere, moreover, becomes OF-MF constraindre or constraindre (F contraindre), whence 'to constrain'; derivative OF-MF constrainte, -strainte, accounts for the E constraint.

8. L distringere, to draw or pull dis- or asunder, becomes OF-MF destreindre, destraindre, whence ME destreinen, whence the reshaped E 'to distrain'; the derivative OF-MF destreinte, destrainte, explains distrain.

9. L distringere has pp districtus, LL adj 'separate', ML n 'a district', whence, via late MF-F, the E district. Also from the L pp districtus comes VL districtia*, a being torn asunder, whence OF-MF distresse (F détresse), ME distresse, distresse, E distress; derivative OF-MF distrecier produces 'to distress'; by aphesis, distress becomes stress.

10. L obstringere, to legally oblige (someone to do something), has pp obstrictus, whence LL obstrictiō, o/s obstrictiōn-, E obstriction; and L perstringere, to bind thoroughly, gives us 'to perstringe', to censure.

11. L praestringere, to bind beforehand—cf praestringere oculos, to bind up the eyes of, hence to dazzle—has derivative praestrigiae* (pl), eased to praestrigiae, a juggler's or a conjuror's passes, hence tricks, whence LL praestigium, conjuring tricks collectively, hence (an) illusion or a delusion, whence EF-F prestige (modern sense: C18), adopted by E; the adj prestigious derives from EF-F prestigieux, f prestigieuse, from LL praestigiōsus, dazzling (from the n in -ium).

12. L restringere, to bind back or strongly, to hold in check, whence OF-EF restraindre (OF-F restreindre), ME restreinen, E 'to restrain'; derivative OF-EF restrainte becomes E restraint. The L presp restringens, o/s restringent-, leads to E restringent, and the pp restrictus to 'to restrict'; derivative LL restrictiō, o/s restrictiōn-, late MF-F, hence prob E, restriction; derivative MF-F restrictif, f restrictive, E restrictive.

Germanic

13. Akin to L stringere, to draw tight, is OE streng, ME streng and—? influenced by MD—later string, E string, a slender cord, whence 'to string' and stringy: cf MD stringe, strenc, strenge, D streng, OHG strang, MHG stranc, G Strang, ON strengr.

14. 'To string' has pt strung and pp, occ stringed (imm from the n), usu strung, used as adj, esp in high-strung.

15. Closely akin to OE streng is OE-E strong, OE var strang: cf OHG strengi, MHG strenge, strong (G streng, strict), MD strenc, strenge, MD-D streng, strong, ON strangr, strong, harsh. Akin to, prob deriving from, OE strange, strong, is OE strengthu, ME strengthe, E strength: cf long—length: cf also OHG strengida, strength, and OFris strenza, ON strengja, to strengthen.

strait, adj and n (usu straits). See prec, para 3.

strake. See STRETCH, para 3.

stramineous. See STRATUM, para 7.

strand (1), a beach, a shore, hence 'to strand', orig to run (a ship) ashore, to abandon on a lonely or desert shore: ME-OE strand (ME var strond): cf MD strant, strande, D strand, MLG-MHG strant, G Strand, ON strönd (with modern Scan cognates), cf ON strind, land: o.o.o.; but, as Walshe suggests, perh a reinforcement (IE int prefix s-) of the OGmc rand, var rant, edge, rim—cf OE and G rand, OHG-MHG rant, ON rönd.

strand (2), a fibre or thread of a plaited string, cord, rope, hence several or many fibres, etc., plaited together, as in 'strand of hair', whence 'to strand': app influenced, in form, by the prec: MF-AF estran, var estren: either from OHG streno, MHG-MD strene (D streen, G Strähne), a plait, a skein, or, less prob, from OHG strang, MHG stranc (G Strang), a rope, a string, or perh from both of the OHG-MHG (MD) words sensefused or confused. (EW.)

strange (whence strangeness) and stranger; 'to estrange', whence estrangement; extraneous, whence, anl, extraneity.

1. A stranger comes, by aphesis, from MF estranger (F étranger), a derivative of OF-MF estrange (F étrange), external, foreign, hence extraordinary, whence, by aphesis, the E strange. OF-MF estrange has the derivative OF-EF estranger (or -gier), to put outside, to expel, hence to alienate, whence 'to estrange'.

2. OF-MF estrange derives from L extrāneus, external, hence foreign, LL irrelevant, from extra, on the outside, itself from ex, out of: whence the E extraneous.

strangle, strangler, strangulation. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 2.

strap, n, hence v, whence strapper and strapping; strop (n, hence v); strophe, strophic; cf the cpds antistrophe, antistrophic—apostrophe, in rhetoric and in grammar—catastrophe, whence catastrophic and catastrophism—estrophe; strobic, strobile; stromb, Strombus; cf the elements strepho- or strepio- (where, e.g., streptococcus) and strabismo-.

1. Strap is a var, orig dial, of strop, a thong—usu of leather—for tying or holding things together: ME stroppe, strobe: mainly from OE stropp, partly from MF estrop (F étrope), itself prob from OE: L stroppus: Gr strophos, a cord, a band, from strephein, to turn, to twist, to plait: IE r, *strebh- (ult *streb-), to turn.

2. Also from strephein comes Gr strophē, a turning, hence the movement of the Gr chorus in turning from one side of the orchestra to the other, hence the first stanza of a choral ode: LL strophē: EF-F, whence E, strophe. The derivative Gr adj strophikos (rather of strophos than of strophē) prob suggested the E strophic.

3. Gr strephein has cpds affecting E: antistrophē, the returning of the chorus in, hence the corresp part of, a choral dance, from antistrophe n, to turn anti or to the opposite side: whence, via LL antistrophē, the E antistrophe; derivative Gr antistrophikos yields antistrophic; apostrophē, in rhetoric a feigned turning away from one's audience to address someone (usu dead), from apostrephein, to turn apo or away from, becomes LL apostropha (var apostrophē), EF-F and E apostrophe, whence 'to apostrophize'; apostrophos, the 'turning away' or omission of a letter, likewise from apostrephein, to turn away, becomes LL apostrophus (var apostrophos), whence EF-F and E apostrophe; katastrophē, a lit overturning (kata, down), hence a fig upsetting, hence a conclusion, esp in drama, of a tragedy, hence ruin, a great misfortune: whence L catastropha, whence EF-F and E catastrophe; whence, anl, catastrophic—perh cf LGr katas rophikōs, in the manner of a tragedy's conclusion; epistrophē, (in rhetoric) a turning epi or towards, from epistrephein, to turn towards, is adopted by LL, hence by E.

4. The ult IE r *streb-, to turn, is seen in Gr strobos, a whirling, whence the E adj strobic, spinning like a top; the Gr dim strobilos, anything twisted, esp a pine-cone, becomes LL strobilus, a pine-cone, F and E strobile, in Bot a cone or a cone-like aggregation; Gr strobilos has derivative strobilē, a lint-plug cone-shaped, whence SciL strobila (Zoo).

5. Corresp to Gr strobos, a whirling, is the nasalized strombos, a cone-like mollusc, whence L strombus, adopted by Zoo, and the anglicized stromb.

stratagem, strategic, strategist, strategy. The Gr stratos, an army, was orig an encamped army and lit a 'spread' army: cf STRATUM, but, f.a.e., see STREW. Combined with Gr agein, to drive, to lead

(f.a.e., AGENT), stratos forms stratēgos, leader of an army, a general, whence:

stratēgein, to lead an army, be a general, whence stratēgēma, a general's trick to deceive the enemy: L strategema: It stratagemma; late MF strategie: EF-F stratagème: E stratagem; stratēgeia, generalship: F stratégie, E strategy; stratēgikos, of, for, by a general: F stratégique: E strategic.

F stratégie has derivative stratériste, whence E strategist.

strath; strathspey. See STRATUM, para 2.

stratification, stratify. See para 5 of STRATUM.

stratigraphy. See the element strati-.

stratosphere, the upper 'stratum' of the atmosphere: F stratosphère: strato-, irreg c/f (strati- would be correct) of L stratum, a covering, a layer + sphere, F sphère: f.a.e., STRATUM and SPHERE.

stratum (pl strata) and stratus; stratal and stratic; stratification, stratify;—consternate, consternation; prostrate (adj, hence v), prostration; substratum;—street; strath and strathspey; estrade; stray, adj, n, v; astray (adv, hence adj) and estray (n, hence adj); stramineous.—Cf the sep STRATAGEM and the sep group gathered at STREW.

1. Both stratal and stratic, adj, are E formations from stratum, itself adopted from L strātum (s strāt-), an artificial layer, coat, bed, orig the neu of strātus, pp of sternere, to spread; on the pps strāt- is formed L strātus (gen -ūs), a spreading out or a being spread out, whence the cloud-form we call stratus. L sternere has s stern- and r ster-, akin to Gr stornunai (s storn-, r, stor-), to spread or strew, and Skt stṛiās, (re-)strewn, covered: f.a.e., STREW.

2. The L pp strātus, with f strāta and neu strātum, has, in C, the cognate strath, (the flat part of) a (wide) valley, imm from Ga srath, itself from OIr srath. Hence the Sc district Strath Spey, whence the dance, hence the music called strathspey.

3. Elliptical for L uia (ML via) strāta is LL strāta, a paved road, a street, whence OE strāet, ME strete, E street.

4. L strātum, layer, bed, LL platform, becomes Sp estrado, whence the F estrade, platform, dais, adopted by E.

5. L sternere, pp strātus, possesses a full cpd relevant to E; ML strātificāre, to form (-ficāre, c/f of facere, to make) a strātum or layer, with derivative n strātificātiō, o/s strātificātiōn:- whence, prob via EF-F stratifier and stratification, the E 'to stratify' and stratification.

6. L sternere has three prefix-cpds relevant to E: consternere (con- used int), to deject, with mdfn consternāre, to cast down, perplex, pp consternātus, whence 'to consternate'; derivative L consternātiō, o/s consternātiōn-, yields EF-F and, perh independently, E consternation; prōsternere, to spread, hence throw, prō or forward, pp prōstrātus, whence the E adj and v prostrate; derivative L prōstrātiō, o/s prōstrātiōn-, yields EF-F prostration, adopted by E; substernere, to spread, or strew, sub or under, has pp substrātus, neu substrātum, used as n and adopted by E.

7. The L r ster- exhibits the metathesis stre-, var strā-, attested by the L pp strāt- (an extn); strā-* occurs in L strāmen, straw, with adj strāminēus, whence E stramineous: cf E straw at STREW.

8. LL strāta, a street, has a VL adj strātarius*, roving—or ownerless in—the streets, whence the OF-EF estraier, roving, abandoned, ownerless, with closely linked OF-MF estraier, to wander, to be lost: whence the E adj and v stray; the E n stray is adopted from AF stray, var strai, aphetic for estrai, from the OF-MF v estraier. The AF estrai has var estray, retained by legal E; and AF estray has, in E, the var astray, adv and adj (cf 'to go astray').

stratus. See prec, para 1.

stravage. See VAGABOND, para 4.

straw; strawberry. See STREW, para 2.

stray, adj, n, v. See STRATUM, para 8.

streak, streaky. See STRIKE, para 4.

stream (n, hence v, whence streamer and streaming), whence streamlet (dim -let)—streamline—streamy.

Stream, OE strēam, is akin to OFris strām, OHG-MHG strom, strom, G Strom, D stroom and, with slightly different sense, MD strume, strum, struum, ON strauur (modern Scan cognates); Ga sramh, (a jet of) milk flowing from a cow's udder, Ga and OIr sruth, OIr srúaim, Cor strēth, OC srutu-*, a stream; OSI struja, Lith strove or rove, a flowing, a stream; Skt srávati, it flows; and, without s, Gr rhusis, a flowing—cf the sep RHYME.

streek. See STRETCH.

street. See STRATUM, para 3.

strength, whence strengthen. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 15.

strenuous: L strēnuus, active, lively, courageous: from L strēna, a good augury, hence a gift either accompanying or celebrating a favourable augury or occasion (cf the OF-EF estreine, F étrenne): prob of Sabine origin; perh akin to Gr strēnēs, rough, harsh, strong.

strepent, strepereous, strepitant, strepitous, strepur; obstreperous, whence the dial obstropolous or obstropolous.

Obstreperous derives from ML obstreperus, from L obstreperere, to make a noise (cf LL obstrepitāre, to interrupt with noise): ob-, towards, opposed to +strepere, to make a noise, esp if dull and violent: echoic, as are, e.g., stertere and crepere. (E & M.) Strepere has presp strepens, o/s strepent-, whence the E adj strepent; the LL adj strepereus, noisy, becomes strepereous; LL forms strepur (strepere+-or, as in L rumor), adopted by Sci. L strepere acquires the freq strepitāre, with pp strepitans, o/s strepitant-, whence E strepitant; also on the supine strepitum is formed the L n strepitus (gen -ūs), whence the E adj strepitous.

streptococcus. See the element strepho-.

stress. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 9, s.f.

stretch, v (hence n), whence stretcher and stretching; sep straggle, straggler; straight (adj, hence adv and n), whence straighten and straightness; strake; streek.

1. 'To stretch', ME strecchen (var streken, whence the Sc, and E dial, streek, to extend, lay out), OE streccan, is related to OFris strekka, OHG strecchēn, MHG-G strecken, MD stricken, strecken, D strekken: o.o.o.: but it is prob either a metathesis of the IE r ster-*, stiff, strong, q.v. at STARCH and esp at STARE, s.f., as certain authorities (e.g., Webster) suggest, or ult akin to REACH.

2. OE streccan has pp streht; ME strecchen, pp streght, later streight, both employed also as adj, whence the E adj straight.

3. Akin to ME strecchen (var of strecchen) is ME-E strake, a plank used in shipbuilding.

strew, archaic strow; pt strewed, archaic strowed; pp strewn (archaic strown), now often strewed;—straw.—stroma.

1. 'To strew', ME strewen (var strawen), OE streāwian, var streōwian, is akin to OFris strēwa, OS strōian, OHG strewēn, MHG strōuwen, G streuen, Go straujan, MD struwen, strouwen, stroyen, strooyen, D strooijen, ON strā; also to L sternere, pp strātus (see STRATUM), spread, and struere (s and r stru-), to pile up (see STRUCTURE); to Gr strōnnunai, perh a metathesis of the var stornunai; and to Skt stpnóti, var stpnáti, he strews or scatters: IE r, app ster-*, to stretch, to strew, to scatter: cf STRETCH, para 1.

2. Akin to OE streāwian, streōwian, to strew, is OE strēaw, whence ME stree, stre, later straw, E straw: cf the ON strā, OS and OHG-MHG strō (gen strāwes), G Stroh, MD-D stroo, and the L strāmen, straw strewn about. OE strēaw, straw, hay, has cpd strēawberige, a berige or berry prob either 'from being found under mown grass' (Webster) or 'from the tiny strawlike particles which cover the fruit' (EW).

3. Gr strōnnunai, to strew, has derivative strōma, a strawing, a bed-covering, a mattress, which is adopted by LL and then, with sense-adaptations, by An and Bot; whence the adj stromal. Cf the element -stroma.

stria, striate, striation. See STRIKE, para 6.

stricken. See STRIKE (heading).

strickle. See STRIKE, para 2.

strict, striction, stricture. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 3.

stride (v, hence n)—pt strode—pp stridden; straddle (v, hence n)—akin to the now dial striddle, a freq of 'to stride';—strive, pt strove, pp striven; strife.

1. 'To stride,' OE strīdan, to stride (i.e. to walk purposefully), also to straddle, is akin to MD strīden, strīeden, D strījden, MLG strīden, to stride.

2. Those Gmc words are closely related to the group represented by 'to strive', ME strīven, deriving from OF-EF estrīver, to try hard, (MF-

EF) to quarrel, itself from OF-EF estrif, a var of OF estrit, app from OHG strīt, a quarrel, id in MHG, Streit in G: cf OFris strīda, OS strīdian, OHG strītan, ON strītha, to quarrel, MLG and MD streven, ED strijven, to strive, MHG streben, to try hard, G streben, to strive.

3. The E Strife comes, by aphesis, from OF-EF estrif, a quarrel, contest, effort: cf OFris and OS strīd, OHG-MHG strīt, ON strīth. These OGmc words are o.o.o.; prob, however, the OGmc strīt*-, a, or to, quarrel, is either echoic or (Walshe) akin to L lis, o/s lit-, a quarrel, a lawsuit: OL stlis, o/s stlit:- stl- easily becomes str-, for the l-r (and r-l) transition forms a pillar of IE phonology. The IE stlit*-, strīt*-, is perh echoic.

strident (whence stridence or stridency), stridor; stridulous, whence, anl (as in the R languages), stridulant, stridulate, stridulation.

Stridulous comes from L strīdulus, gratingly shrill, from strīd-, the s and r of strīdere, to make a gratingly shrill, or harsh, noise: echoic: cf L strepere (E STREPENT). L strīdere has presp strīdens, o/s strīdent-, whence E strident; derivative L strīdor is adopted by erudite, esp Med, E. strife. See STRIDE, para 3. strigil. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 4.

strike (v, hence n), pt struck, pp struck or—now, except as adj, archaic—stricken; hence the agent striker and the pa, vn striking; strickle; stroke, n and v; streak, n (whence streaky), hence v; stripe, n (whence strippy), hence v (whence striper); stria, striate (adj and v, whence striated and striation), striature;—? trickle, v, hence n.

1. 'To strike,' ME striken, to strike, rub, stroke, move, go, OE strican, to rub, stroke, move, go (a sense preserved in 'Let's strike across country'): cf OFris strika, OHG strihhan, MHG strīchen, G streichen, to rub, to stroke, MLG striken, to stroke or strike, MD striken, later strijcken, to stroke or strike, to move or go, D strijken, to strike, and ON strykja, to rub, to stroke; cf also L stringere in its derivative sense 'to rub, to graze', L stria, a furrow; Gr strinx, a line or row; and, ult, STRAIN (see, esp, para 1).

2. Akin to OE strīcan, to stroke, is OE stricel, whence E strickle, (in farming) a striking or whetting or dressing instrument: cf the syn MD strekel, streeckel.

3. Also akin to OE strīcan is OE strācian, ME straken, var stroken, whence 'to stroke', to rub gently; from the ME v comes the ME n strak or strok, whence stroke.

4. Very closely akin to OE strīcan is OE strica, stroke (of a pen), a streak, ME stric, strike, with varr strek, streke, E streak: cf OFris strike, OHG strih, MHG-G strich, Go striks, MD streke, streck, D streek.

5. Akin to MD streck, streke, is MD stripe (as also in LG), adopted by E: cf MHG strife, G Streifen, a strip.

6. Akin to the OGmc words noted above is L stria, a furrow, a channel, a threadlike line (cf the virtually syn striga), whence E stria, a minute channel, furrow, channel, hence, in Med, a line, or a stripe, on the skin. Derivative L striātus, channelled, grooved, furrowed, yields the E adj and v striate; striātus, in turn, has derivative striātura, marked with tiny, parallel furrows or lines, whence E striature.

7. OE strican, to rub, stroke, go, has also the sense 'to flow', ME stricken, freq stricklen, whence, prob, the ME triklen, E 'to trickle'.

string. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 13.

stringency, stringent. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 3.

stringy. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 13.

strip, v (hence n—'a longish, narrow piece'—influenced by stripe, n, q.v. at STRIKE, para 5), whence stripper and stripping and also stripling (dim -ling).

'To strip' or deprive, esp of a covering (skin, roof, clothes, etc.), comes through ME stripen, earlier strupen, from OE -strýpan, in bestrypan or -stripan (int be-), to plunder: cf MD struppen, stroppen, stropen, D stroopen, MHG stroufen, and MHG strife, Streifen, a strip; with cognates in Frisian.

stripe. See STRIKE, para 5.

stripling. See STRIP (heading); cf, sem, 'a chip off the old block'.

strive. See STRIDE, para 2; striven: ib (heading).

strobic, strobile. See STRAP, para 4.

stroke. See STRIKE, para 3.

stroll (v, hence n)—whence stroller and strolling—prob comes from G strolchen, a dial cognate of strolchen, to tramp or wander, from Strolch, a tramp or vagabond, itself from Swiss strolche, var strolle, to wander; 'to stroll' might, however, derive from G strolchen. (Walshe.)

stroma. See STREW, para 3.

stromb, Strombus. See STRAP, para 5.

strong. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 15.

strontianite and, anl, strontium (whence, anl, strontic) come from Strontian, a village in Argyllshire, Scotland, where this Chem element was discovered.

strop. See STRAP, para 1.

strophe, strophic. See STRAP, para 2.

strow, strowed, strown. See STREW (heading).

struck. See STRIKE (heading).

structure, whence structural; construct (adj—whence n—and v), construction, constructive, constructor—cf construe (v, hence n); destroy, destroyer—cf destructible, destruction, destructive, destructor; instruct, instruction (whence instructional), instructive, instructor—cf instrument, instrumental (whence, anl, instrumentalism, instrumentalist, instrumentality), instrumentation—cf also industry, industrial (whence industrialism and industrialist), industrious; obstruct, obstruction (whence, anl, obstructive and obstructor); reconstruct, reconstruction; substract, substraction, substructure; superstruct, superstruction, superstructure.

1. This group rests firmly upon L struere (s and r, stru-), to arrange in piles, to pile up, hence to build or construct; most of the E words come from the pp structus (s struct-), whence L structūra, a construction, that which is constructed, whence MF-F structure, adopted by E. L struere is ult akin to E STREW.

2. Struere has many cpds. The first that affects modern E is construere, to pile up con- or together, to construct, LL to build up (a sentence), whence 'to construe' (cf the MF construer). The pp constructus yields both adj and v construct. On constructus, L forms constructiō, acc constructiōnem, whence OF-F construction, adopted by E—LL constructivus, ML -ivus, whence constructive—LL constructor, a builder, adopted by E.

3. LL forms the cpd reconstruere, to rebuild, pp reconstructus, whence 'to reconstruct'; on EF-F reconstruere and OF-F construction, F forms reconstruction, perh adopted by E.

4. L dēstruere, to 'build down (dē-)', to demolish, acquires the VL extn dēstrūgere, whence OF-MF détruire (F détruire), ME destruēn, later destroyen, E 'to destroy'; derivative OF-MF dēstruīōr becomes E destroyer. L dēstruere has pp dēstructus, whence LL dēstructibilis, whence E destructible—dēstructiō, acc dēstructiōnem, whence OF-F destruction, adopted by E—LL dēstructivus, ML -ivus, MF-F dēstructif (f -ive), E destructive—LL dēstructor, whence (late MF-F dēstructeur and) E destructor.

5. L instruere, to build in- or into, onto, hence to equip or furnish, hence, LL, to furnish someone with knowledge, to teach, has pp instructus (used also as adj, whence the obs E adj instruct and F instruit), whence 'to instruct'. On the pp instructus, L forms instructiō, LL education, with acc instructiōnem, whence MF-F instruction, adopted by E—and instructor, a builder-up, a preparer, ML a teacher, adopted by E (cf MF-F instructeur). The derivative MF-F instructif, f -ive, becomes E instructive.

6. Also from L instruere, s instru-, is formed the L instrūmentum, something that serves to equip or furnish, a tool, whence OF-F instrument, adopted by E; derivative MF-F instrumental and F instrumentation have been adopted by E, and F instrumentiste has perh suggested E instrumentalist.

7. Perh akin to L instruere is L industria, zeal, activity, purposeful effort, whence OF-F industrie, (orig) activity, (C18 onwards) the ensemble of trades dealing with raw materials and primary products, whence E industry; derivative L industrius, zealous, active, has the LL extn industriōsus, whence late MF-F industriex, f industriouse, whence prob, rather than from L industriōsus, the E industrious; the ML mdfn industriālis becomes F industriel, whence the reshaped E industrial.

8. L obstruere, to pile, hence build, ob or up against, hence to block up, has pp obstructus, whence 'to obstruct'; derivative L obstructiō, o/s obstruction-, yields—perh via EF-F—the E obstruction.

9. L substruere, to build sub or beneath, has pp substructus, whence 'to substruct'; derivative L substructiō, o/s substructiōn-, yields (EF-F and) E substruction, whence—after structure—substructure.

10. L superstruere, to build super, above, hence upon, has pp superstructus, whence 'to superstruct', whence, anl, the rare superstruction; superstructure = super + structure.

struggle, v, hence n, derives from ME struglen, var strogelen: o.o.o.: perh, in part, echoic; perh a blend of strife and tuggle, freq of 'to tug'.

strum and the syn thrum, to play rudimentarily or roughly or monotonously on, e.g., a piano, are echoic: cf HUM.

struma, strumose, strumous. See the element strumi-.

strumpet (n, hence v), ME var strompet, is o.o.o.: perh akin to MD strompen (s stromp-), to stride, to stalk (vi): ? 'a stalker' of men.

strung. See the 2nd STRAIN, para 14.

strut, to swell (now only dial), hence to walk pompously or swaggeringly, derives from ME strūten, var strouten, to strut, to swell, from OE strūtan, to stand out either stiffly or projectingly, to swell: cf Da strutte, to project, MHG-G strotzen, to swell, MHG striuzen, to contend, to resist, and strūz (G Strauss), a fight: o.o.o. Hence the n strut, a swaggering or pompous walk (ME strūt, strout, contention, strife), and app also, from its stiff, resistant nature (cf LG strutt, rigid), the strut of architects and engineers.

struthious. See OSTRICH, para 2.

strychnine (occ strychnin), whence, anl, strychnic: F strychnine: L strychnos: Gr strukhnos, the deadly nightshade: o.o.o.

stub. See TYPE, para 7.

stubble: ME stobil or stoble: (by apheresis from) OF-MF estuble: ML stupula: L stipula, stalk, stubble: f.a.e., STIFF, esp para 3 (stipule).

stubborn. See TYPE, para 8.

stucco. See STAKE, para 8.

stuck. See STICK, para 12.

stud (of horses). See STAND, para 43.

stud (2), a trunk or a post (both obs), a projecting knob, a large-headed nail, a knobbed fastener (e.g., of a collar): OE studu, a post: cf MHG-G stutze, D stut, a prop, OHG -stutzēn, MHG-G stützen, to prop or support, ON stoth, a post, stythia, to prop, and Lett stute, a support: IE r, stu-*, to prop—cf Gr stulos, a pillar.

student, studio, studious, study; 'stooge'.

L studēre, to be zealous or eager, hence to apply oneself (esp mentally) to, to study, LL to practise: s and r, stud-, prob akin to L tundere, to strike, a nasalized form of r tud-*; the s- of studēre is app the IE int prefix.

2. Studēre has presp studens, o/s student-, whence E student; studēre itself becomes OF-MF estudier (F étudier), whence, by apheresis, ME studien, E 'to study'; the n study comes from ME studie, apthetic for MF estudie (OF estudie), from L studium, zeal, application (to learning), from studēre. L studium has derivative adj studiōsus, whence OF-F studieux, f studieuse, and—app independently—E studious.

3. L studium acquires in LL the sense 'a place of study', whence It studio, esp of painters, and F étude (OF estuide), esp in Mus: both adopted by E.

4. App from student (influenced by studious pron stoo-djus) comes the orig AE sl (vaudeville) stooge, one who 'feeds' the comedian, hence anyone serving as an assistant, whence 'to stooge'.

stuff, stuffing, stuffy. See STOP, para 5. stultify. See STOUT, para 2.

stum. See STAMMER, para 2.

stumble. See STAMMER, para 3.

stump, stumper, stumpy. See STAMP, para 5.

stum. See THUNDER, para 8.

stung. See STING (heading).

stunt, orig a feat in athletics (and AE coll), is either a dial var of E stint, a task, or a derivative of G Stunde, an hour, MHG-OHG stunt, a point of time, cf the syn MD stont, D stond, themselves akin to stand.

stunt (2), to check, or to hinder, the normal growth of, whence the pa stunted, derives from the now only dial adj stunt, undersized, OE stunt, dull, stupid, sense-influenced by ON stuttr, Nor stutt, short: f.a.e., STINT.

stupe (Med). See STOP, para 4. stupefaction, stupefy; stupendous; stupid, stupidity; stupor. See TYPE, para 5.

stuprate, stupration, struprum. See TYPE, para 6.

sturdy. See ADDENDA TO DICTIONARY.

sturgeon comes, by aphesis, from MF-F esturgeon, of Frankish origin: cf OHG sturio (MHG stüre, G Stör) and ON styrja, prob akin to ON stör, big, 'as the largest river-fish' (Walshe).

stutter. See PIERCE, para 4.

sty (1), a pen or enclosure, esp in pigsty; steward, whence stewardess; Stewart, Stuart.

1. Sty, OE stī, is akin to ON stī, a stall, stīa, a sty, a kennel, OHG stīga, MHG stīge, a (small-) cattle pen.

2. OE stī, var stīg, has cpd stīweard (stīgeward), lit 'warden of the sty', ME stīward, E steward, with rapidly elevated status. E steward has the mainly Sc var stewart, which, used as PN, is anglicized as Stuart.

sty (2), an inflamed swelling on eyelid, is app a b/f from the now dial styany—f/e apprehended as sty on eye—from ME-EE styan, itself from OE stīgend, from OE stīgan, to rise, (hence) to swell: cf:

sty (3), to ascend (obs), ME styen, stien, OE stīgan (cf prec), akin to the syn OHG stīgan (G steigen), OFris stīga, Go steigan, ON stīga, themselves akin to Gr steikhein, to go, to walk, and Skt stīghnōti, he walks, he climbs: IE r, steig-*, to step, to walk.

2. Very closely related to Gr steikhein, to walk (make a long line of steps), is Gr stikhos, a line, a row, whence, prob via LL stichus, a line of writing, the E stich, a line of verse: cf both distich, a two-line group, esp the couplet, L distichon, Gr distikhon, prop the neu of the adj distikhos (di-, two-), having two lines, and acrostic (for acrostich*), EF-F acrostiche, L acrostichis, Gr akrostikhis, var of akrostikhion, being akro-, c/f of akros, extreme (esp at the top) + a derivative of stikhos, a line.

Stygian. See STYX.

-style, as in peristyle. See the element -stylar.

style, stylish, stylist, stylistic, stylize. See STICK, para 8.

stylet. See STICK, para 9.

stylus. See STICK, para 8.

stymie (n, hence v), orig Sc, app comes from earlier Sc stymie, a dim-sighted, hence awkward-moving, person, from styme, a (mere) glimpse, a glimmer (but no more): o.o.o.

styptic: L stypticus, astringent, Gr stuptikos, from stuptos, the pp of stuphein, to contract: cf Gr stuptikon, LL stypticum, an astringent, LL stypsis, from Gr stupsis (στυψις), astringency, adopted by Med.

Styx, a river to be crossed by the dead, comes from L Styx, trln of Gr Stux (gen Stugos), akin to Gr stugein, to hate, and stux, frost, cold (lit 'the hated'): IE r, stu-*, to be stiff. The adj of Styx is Stygios, whence L Stygius, whence E Stygian.

suasible, suasion, suasive. See para 3 of:

suave, suavity—cf sweet (adj, hence n and obsol v), whence sweeten, sweetness (OE swētness), and many cpds, e.g. sweetbread, sweetheart, sweetmeat, sweet pea, sweetsop; suade, suasible, suasion, suasive—assuage, assuagement, assuasive—dissuade, dissuasion, dissuasive—persuade (whence persuadable and persuader), persuasible, persuasion, persuasive;—hedonic, hedonism, hedonist.

1. Adopted from EF-F, suave comes from ML suāvis, neu suāve, L suāvis, suāve; and suavity adapts OF-F suavitē, from ML suāvitatem, acc of suāvitās, L suāuitās, from suāuis, sweet to taste and smell, gentle or soft to the touch, agreeable to the eye.

2. Akin to L suāvis is E sweet, ME swete, var swote, from OE swēte, adv swōte: cf OFris swēte, OS swōti, OHG swuozī, suozī, MHG sūeze, G süss, Go sūts, MD suete, soete, soet, zoete, D zoet, ON soetr.

3. L suāvis stands for suāduis*. The r suād- occurs also in L suādēre, to counsel or advise, whence the now dial 'to suade'; derivatives L suāsibilis, L suāsio (o/s suāsion-), L suāsōrius yield suasible, suasion, suatory; suasive is an anl E formation.

4. L suādēre has two cpds affecting E: dissuādēre, to counsel from (dis-, apart), i.e. against, becomes—perh via MF-F dissuader—the E 'to dissuade', and its derivative dissuāsio, o/s dissuāsion-, yields dissuasion, whence, anl, dissuasive (after persuasive); persuādēre, to counsel thoroughly (int per-), becomes MF-F persuader, whence 'to persuade'; derivatives persuāsibilis and persuāsio, o/s persuāsion-, become persuasible and MF-F persuasion, adopted by E; derivative late MF-F persuasif, f persuasive, becomes E persuasive.

5. L suāvis, ML suāvis, has the ML derivative suāviāre (suāviāri), to give pleasure to: and it occurs in OF-MF assuagier, var assoagier, formed as if from ML assuāviāre* (-āri): ad, to, towards + suāviāre (-āri). OF-MF assuagier becomes ME asuagie or aswagen (a phon var), whence 'to assuage'; derivative OF-MF assuagement (asso-, asu-) becomes assuagement. E assuasive derives, irreg, from assuage, as if from L assuāsus*, pp of assuādēre* (ad + suādēre).

6. L suāvis, sweet, is akin to Gr hēdus, sweet, whence hēdonē, pleasure, with adj hēdonikos, whence E hedonic, extn hedonical; whence, anl, hedonism and hedonist (whence hedonistic).

7. Akin to L suāvis (for suādus*), sweet, is L suādus, persuasive, so illuminatingly related to Gr hēdus, sweet: akin to all these is Skt svādus, var svādvī, sweet: cf Skt svādātē, he takes pleasure in or is pleased to, and svādma, sweetness. The Gmc r is swōt-; the IE r, swād- (suād-*), sweet.

sub. L sub, the prep 'under'—see Prefixes—occurs in a vast number of E words, sometimes in its lit sense, sometimes fig—whether 'subordinate' or 'partially' or 'secretly'. For the majority of words not listed below, one needs only to consult what is obviously the main word, as e.g. in 'subconscious'.

subaltern, adj, hence n: late MF-F subalterne: LL subalternus, subordinate: L sub, under + alternus, alternate, from alter, other (cf E altruism).

subconscions(ness). See SCIENCE (heading).

subdivide, -division. A sub-derivative of DIVIDE.

subdual. See DUKE, heading, s.f. subduce, subduction. See DUKE, para 6 (at subducere).

subdue. See DUKE, para 9, s.f. subfusc. See OBFUSCATE, s.f.

subjacent: ML subjacent-, o/s of ML subjacens, L subiacens, presp of subiacēre, to lie (iacēre) under (sub): cf adjacent and:

subject, adj, n, v; subjection, subjective (adj, hence n). In E, as for F sujet, the adj precedes the n; both of the E uses come from F; the F (MF suget, OF sugez) comes from ML subjectus, pp of subjicere, L subiicere (subicere), to throw, hence to bring or place under: sub, under + -i(i)cere, c/f of iacere, to throw, the active aspect of iacēre, to lie down: f.a.e., JET.—'To subject' derives from MF subjecter, ML subjectāre, L subiectāre, freq of subiicere; subjection and subjective derive from OF-MF subjection (ML subjectionem, acc of subiectiō, L subiectiō, from the pp subiectus) and late MF-F subjectif, f -ive (ML subjectivus).

subjoin, subjoinder. See JOIN, para 17, s.f. subjugate, subjugation. See JOIN, para 13, s.f. subjunct, subjunction, subjunctive. See JOIN, para 14, s.f.

sublate, sublation. See the 1st TOLL, para 6.

sublimate, sublimation. See LIMIT, para 9.

sublime, sublimity. See LIMIT, para 9.

subliminal. See LIMIT, para 9.

sublunary. See the 3rd LIGHT, para 12.

submarine. See the 2nd MERE, para 3, s.f.

submerge, submerse, submersion. See MERGE, para 5.

submission, submissive, submit. See MISSION, para 21.

submotive. See MOVE (heading, s.f.).

subnormal=L sub, under + normal, the adj o norm.

subordinate, subordination. See ORDER, para 14.

suborn, subornation: MF-F suborner and its derivative MF-F subornation: L subornāre, lit to equip (ornāre: cf ORNAMENT) secretly (sub-), and ML subornātiō, o/s subornātiōn.

subpoena. See PAIN, para 1.

subrogate, subrogation. See ROGATION, para 12.

subscribe, subscript, subscription. See SCRIBE, para 20.

subscribe. See SCRIBE, para 20, s.f. subsection. See the 2nd SAW, para 14.

subsecute, subsecution; subsequence, subsequent. See SEQUENCE, para 14.

subsert. See SERIES, para 16.

subserve, subservience, subservient. See SERVE, para 9.

subside, subsidence, subsident; subsidiary, subsidiy. See SIT, para 19.

subsign. See SIGN, para 19.

subsist, subsistence, subsistent, subsistential. See SIST, para 9. substance, substantial, substantiate, substantive. See STAND, para 34.

substitute, substitution, substitutive. See STAND, para 36.

substratum. See STRATUM, para 6, s.f.

substruct, substruction, substructure. See STRUCTURE, para 9.

subsume, subsumption, subsumptive. See SUMPTION, para 6.

subt-nd, subtense. See TEND, para 20.

subterfuge. See FUGITIVE, para 7.

subterranean, subterrene. See TERRA, para 6.

subtile, whence—cf the F subtiliser—subtilize; subtle, subtlety. Subtile, now only literary, derives from MF-F subtil: L subtilis, fine-woven, hence delicate, ingenious: sub, under + tēla, a (weaver's) web, from texere, to weave. L subtilis also becomes OF-MF soutil, ME sotill, E subtle; L subtilitās becomes OF-MF soutilté, ME sotelte, sotilte, sutilte, E subtlety.

subtract, subtraction. See TRACT, para 22.

subtopical. Cf TROPE, para 3.

suburb, suburban. See URBAN, para 2.

subvene, subvention. See VENUE, para 22.

subversion, subversive, subvert. See VERSE, para 15.

succeed. See CEDE, para 13.

success, successful, succession, successive, successor. See CEDE, para 14.

succinct. See CINCH, para 5.

succor. See SUCCOUR.

succory. See CHICORY, para 2.

succour, AE succor. See COURSE, para 10 (at succurrere).

succubus. See HIVE, para 5, s.f.

succulent. See SUCK, para 3. succumb. See HIVE, para 8, s.f.

succursal. See COURSE, para 10 (at succurrere).

such, whence suchlike (cf LIKE) and suchness: late ME such, earlier swich, still earlier swile or swulc, OE swelc, swilc, swylc: cf OFris sālik, salk, sēlik, selk, sullik, sulk, suk, OS sulik, OHG sulih, solih, MHG sulich, MHG-G solch, and ON slikr, with modern Scan cognates: whereas the MD forms leading to D zulk exhibit both the extreme vocalic uncertainty and the hesitation between two syllables and one, (thus:): selc, solc, swelc, swilc, suelc, suile, sulec, sulic, sullich, sulch, sulc, zulk, the Go syn swaleiks indicates that the basic meaning is 'so-bodied, having such a body' (hence 'so, i.e. thus, shaped'): swa, so, q.v. at so+leik, a body, q.v. at LIKE.

suck (v, hence n), whence sucker and the pa, vn sucking—whence also the freq (-le) 'to suckle', whence suckler and the pa, vn suckling—cf honey-suckle; soak (v, hence n), whence soakage, soaker, pa and vn soaking;—succulent, whence succulence, with var succulency; suction, whence, imm, suctional and, anl, the Zoo Suctoria.

1. 'To soak,' ME soken, OE socian, to lie in, e.g., water and thus become saturated, is akin to 'to suck', ME suken (souken), OE sūcan: cf OE sūgan (the g exhibits the common O Gmc trend), OHG sūgan, MHG sūgen, G saugen, MD sugen, zugen, suken, suynen, suyken, D zuigen, ON sūga; OIr sūgim, I suck, Ga sūghadh, a soaking, OIr sūg-, Ga sūgh, juice; Lith sūkt, to suck; L sūgere, to suck. The IE r is prob suk-* (seuk-), to suck, an extn of the sū- or seu-*, which, occurring in SUP (cf Skt sūpas, broth), perh means 'moisture'.

2. The freq 'to suckle' has the force of a caus: cf the syn OHG sougen, G sāugen, clearly the caus of saugen, to suck. (Walshe.) Suckle has influenced the passage of honeysuckle, ME hunisuccl (hony-socle), from OE hunigsūce, privet—a plant suckable for honey. (Cf HONEY.)

3. L sūgere, to suck, has pp sūctus, s sūct-, whence LL sūctiō, o/s sūctiōn-, whence MF suction (F succion), adopted by E. Akin to L sūgere, pp sūctus, is L sūcus, var succus, juice, whence LL sūculentus, var succulentus, juicy (esp if agreeably so), full of sap (lit and fig), whence late MF-F and, perh independently, E succulent.

suckle. See prec, heading and para 2. sucrose. See SUGAR, para 2.

suction. See SUCK, para 3.

sudamen, sudation, sudatory. See SWEAT, para 2.

sudden (whence suddenness), suddenty. The Sc suddenty derives, by contr, from MF sodeineté (F soudaineté), from MF sodein, sodain, sudain (F soudain), whence ME sodain, sodein, E sudden: and MF sodein, sodain derives from VL subitānus*, mdfn of L subitāneus, an extn of syn subitus, itself from subitum, the supine of subire (lit, to go, ire, under, sub), to come or steal upon: f.a.e., ISSUE.

sudor, sudorific. See SWEAT, para 2.

suds. See SEETHE, para 2.

sue. See SEQUENCE, para 4.

suède. See SWEDEN, para 2.

suet. See SOAP, para 3.

suffer (whence sufferer and pa, vn suffering, as in long-suffering), sufferable, sufferance, insufferable.

Insufferable, the neg of sufferable, was perh suggested by F insouffrable, neg of souffrable, OF-MF souffrable (whence E sufferable), from MF souffrir (F souffrir), OF-MF sofrir, sufrir, whence ME soffren, suffren, whence 'to suffer'; E sufferance reshapes ME suffrance, adopted from OF-MF sufrance (F souffrance), from sufrire. OF-MF sufrire derives from VL sufferire, mdfn of L sufferre, to bear (ferre), under (sub), hence to support (lit and fig): f.a.e., FERTILE.

suffice, sufficiency, sufficient; insufficiency, insufficient. The negg derive from LL insufficiētia (from the L adj) and LL insufficiens, o/s insufficient-: corresp to LL sufficiētia, whence E sufficiency, and L sufficiens, o/s sufficient-, prop the presp of sufficere, to make, hence put, under (suf- for sub-), hence to substitute, hence to be a substitute for: f.a.e., FACT. L sufficere becomes OF-MF soufire, late MF-F suffire, whence, via the pres s suffis- (as in suffisant, presp, and 'ils suffisant'), the ME suffisen, later sufficen, whence 'to suffice'.

suffix. See FIX, para 3.

sufflate, sufflation. See FLATUS, para 9.

suffocate, suffocation (whence, anl, suffocative); fauces, faucal.

1. Suffocation is adopted from MF-F, which derives it from L suffocātiōnem, acc of suffocātiō, itself from suffocātus, pp of suffocāre, to choke (someone): lit, to put one's hands 'under' (sub) the fauces, neck or throat, of.

2. L fauces, throat, gullet, (exterior part of the neck, is prop the pl of the syn faux, gen faucis, o/s fauc-: o.o.o. Adopted by An, Zoo, Bot, fauces has the adj faucal (fauc-+-al).

Suffolk. See NORFOLK.

suffragan. See FRACTION, para 11.

suffrage, whence suffragette. See FRACTION, para 11.

suffuse, suffusion. See the 2nd FOUND, para 14.

sugar, n (whence sugary), hence v (cf the F sucrer); sucrose; saccharin, n, and derivatively saccharine (adj and var n, whence saccharinic), whence, anl, saccharate (Chem -ate), saccharic, saccharose—cf the element saccharo-; jaggery.

1. Sugar, ME suger, earlier sucre, earliest sucre, derives from MF-F sucre, OF-MF sukere: It zucchero: Ar sukkar (soukkar): Perh shakar: Prakrit sakkara: Skt śárkarā, sugar, orig grit or gravel—cf Gr krokalaí, gravel, pl of krokalē, a pebble. Note that the -ar form prob shows the influence of ML succarum (var zugurum), app an extn of LL zuccar (cf the Sp azucar, where a- represents Ar al, the), itself from the Ar word; note also that the Per intervention illustrates the fact that sugar was first refined in Persia. (Webster; E & M; Hofmann.)

2. From F sucre, Chem derives sucrose—prob after saccharose—by adding the suffix -ose (cf dextrose, glucose, etc.).

3. In saccharose, -ose is tacked onto sacchar-, the base of saccharin, which tacks the Chem suffix -in to L saccharum, a kind of sugar made from bamboo shoots: Gr sákkharon, var of sákkhari, itself a var of sákkhar (σάκχαρ); Pali sakkharā, this sort of sugar: Skt śárkarā (as above).

4. Skt śárkarā becomes Hi jāgrī, crude sugar, whence E jaggery.

suggest, suggestible, suggestion, suggestive. See GERUND, para 14.

suicide (n, hence v), whence suicidal, is adopted from F: in F, suicide the person derives from suicide the act; and the latter, both in form and in senses, imitates the F homicide: L sui, of oneself + L -cidium, a slaying, and -cida, a slayer, c/ff of caedere, to slay.

suit, suitable, suite, suito. See SEQUENCE, para 5.

sulfur. See SULPHATE.

sulk (v, hence n), sulky (adj and n). 'To sulk' comes, by b/f, from sulky, sullen, whence the carriage sulky, built for use by only one person: and the adj sulky app comes, with the suffix -y for the ending -en, from ME sulken*, OE -solcen, slothful, as in āsolcen, orig the pp of -seolcan, as in aseolcan, to be slothful, to be weak: cf MHG selken, to drop, to droop. (Webster.)

sullage. See the 1st sow, para 5.

sullen. See the 1st SOLE, para 2, s.f.

sully. See the 1st sow, para 5.

sulphate, sulphide, sulphite; sulphuric, sulphurous; sulphur, var sulfur. The first three come from sulph-, r of sulphur, whence sulphuric (cf the F sulfurique); sulphureous comes from L sulphureus, and sulphurous, like F sulfureux, comes from LL sulphurōsus, adj of sulphur, var sulfur, both being varr of sulpur, o.o.o.

2. From sulf-, r of L sulfur, comes the syn It solfo (zolfo), whence the adj solferino, dark-red, whence the PIN Solferino, scene (1859) of a battle, which, by the way, gave its name to a dye called also magenta.

sultan, sultana, sultanate; soldan; Soudan or Sudan.

1. Soldan is reshaped from ME soudan, adopted from late MF-EF soudan, a sultan—a form preserved in 'the Soudan (or Sudan)', formerly ruled by the Sultan of Egypt, lit '(the Land of) the Sultan'. Like MF-F soudan, the EF-F sultan, adopted by E, derives, via Tu-Ar solšān, from Ar šulṣān, a ruler, (orig) power, dominion, itself from Syriac.

2. A sultan's wife is a sultana, adopted from It (the f of sultano); his dominion is a sultanate (-ate, connoting 'possession')—perh from F sultanat. The sultana grape, hence the sultana (raisin), is grown near Smyrna in Turkey; but the dictionaries omit to explain why these particular grapes and raisins are called sultanas; yet the explanation is simple—these grapes are seedless.

sultry. See SWELTER (heading).

sum (n and v) and soum; summa, summary (adj, n), whence summarize, whence summarization; summit;—consummate (adj, v), consummation (whence, anl, consummative), consummator—cf consummation.

1. 'To sum' derives from OF-MF summer (MF-F sommer), ML summāre, to calculate the total of, LL to bring to the culminating point, from L summa, elliptical for res summa, the highest thing, hence the aggregate or total of the parts, esp—from summa linea, the highest line—the total of a set of figures (esp monetary), 'from the Romans', like the Greeks', habit of counting upwards from the foot' of a column of figures (E & M), hence a sum of money, also the essential or most important part or point, in ML a comprehensive treatise, notably Thomas Aquinas's Summa Theologica.—The L n summa becomes OF-MF summe (MF-F somme), adopted by ME (var somme), whence 'a sum'.

2. L summa has a derivative that concerns E: summārius*, containing a summing-up, whence LL summārius, an accountant, and L summārium, an abstract or an abridgement, whence the E n summary, whence, in part, the adj summary.

3. From LL-ML summāre, pp summātus (s summāt-), comes the Modern L summātiō, o/s summātiōn-, whence E summation, which, however, prob owes something to MF-F sommation (from sommer); and from the adj summus, highest, comes the LL summiās, the top part or highest point, whence E summit, owing perh something to OF summet (MF-F sommet), dim of OF sum, som, varr of OF-MF summe, MF-F somme.

4. The odd-looking soum (mostly Sc), a fixed area of pastureland, is merely a var of E sum.

5. The L summa, a total, a sum, has the derivative prefix-cpd consummāre (con- used int), to sum up, hence to finish or complete, to achieve, with pp consummātus, whence both the E adj and the E v consummate. Derivatives LL consummātiō (o/s consummātiōn-), a completion, LL consummātor, a completer or achiever, LL consummātorius, yield OF-MF consummation (MF-F consummation), adopted by E—(EF-F consummateur and) E consummator—E consummatory.

6. L consummāre becomes OF-MF consummer, MF-F consummer, with pp consummé used as adj and then, in EF-F, as n—as n influenced by OF-F consumer, to consume, a confusion existing already in LL between consummāre and consumere. The culinary consummé was adopted by E.

sumac, var sumach: MF-F sumac: ML (Med or apothecaries') sumach: Ar summāq.

summa. See SUM, para 1.

summary. See SUM, para 2.—SUMMATION: ibid, para 3.

summer (n, hence v), whence summers; gosamer, gosmore.

1. Summer, ME sumer (var somer), OE sumer, sunor, is akin to OFris sumur, OS sumar, OHG sumar, MHG sumer, G Sommer, MD sommer, somer, MD-D zomer, ON sumar (with modern Scan cognates); OIr sam and, with abstract suffix -rad, samrad (Ga sámhradh), OC samo-*, there being the normal h-for-s variation in W and Cor háf, Cor and Br hân; Arm amarn; Av hama, summer, and Skt sāmā, a year, a half-year, a season. The IE r is app sam-, var sem-, summer.

2. ME sumer or somer occurs in the cpd gossomer, often contr to gossomer or gossum(m)er, lit 'goose summer'—? warm November weather, suitable for the eating of geese—hence, cobwebs floating in calm, esp calm autumnal, weather, hence gossamer, applied also to a cobweb-like fabric: cf, sem, the G fliegender Sommer, lit 'flying summer', hence gossamer. In dial E, gossamer is applied to plant-down, whence, prob, gosmore, a herb with feather-like leaves and feathery tufts.

summer set. See SALLY, para 8.

summit. See SUM, para 3.

summon, summons. The latter comes, through ME somouns, from OF-MF somons, sumons, sumuns, a vn from OF-MF somondre, sumondre, sumundre (var semondre), to convoke, to bid come, esp to a meeting: VL summonere*, assimilation of VL submonere*: L summonēre, for submonēre, to warn (monēre) secretly (connoted by sub, under): cf admonish and monition, monitor, qq.v. at MIND.—The OF-MF sumundre, sumondre, somondre becomes ME sumonen (somonen), whence 'to summon'.

summum bonum: L 'the highest good': cf SUM, para 1, and BONNY.

sump. See SWAMP.

sumption; sumptuary, sumptuous.—Cpds: assume assumpsit, assumption, assumptive; consume (whence consumer), consumptible, consumption (whence, anl, consumptive, adj hence n); presume (whence presumable), presumption, presumptive, presumptuous; resume, résumé, resumption, resumptive; subsume (whence, anl, subsumption).

1. Sumption, a taking, e.g. for granted—sumptuary—sumptuosity, sumptuous, derive from L sumptiō (o/s sumptiōn-)—L sumptuārius—L sumptuōsītās, from sumptuōsus: cf EF-F somptuaire, MF-F somptieux, f somptueuse, late MF-F somptuosité. All the L words are formed upon sumptus, pp of sūmere, to take (upon oneself), to take charge of, hence to undertake, to take by choice, also to spend: o.o.o.: perh sus- (for sub-), eased to sū-+emere, to take (cf EMPTION).

2. L assūmere, for adsūmere, to take ad, to oneself, to borrow, yields (late MF-F assumer and) 'to assume': derivative from the pp assumptus are assumptiō (o/s assumptiōn-) and assumptiuus, ML assumptiuus, whence—cf the OF-F assomption—assumption (Eccl senses from LL) and assumptive. The legal assumpsit is sense-adapted from L assumpsit, he has undertaken.

3. L consumere, to take con- or completely, to devour or destroy (e.g., by fire), yields OF-F consumer, whence 'to consume'. On the pp consumptus are formed LL consumptibilis, whence E consumptible; consumptiō, o/s consumptiōn-, whence consumption (cf MF-F consumption).

4. L praesumere, to take prae- or in advance, hence, for granted, hence, in LL, to be arrogant or think arrogantly, whence OF-MF presumer (F pré), whence 'to presume'. On the pp praesumptus are formed praesumptiō, o/s praesumptiōn-, whence OF-MF praesumpcion, MF presomption (F pré-), whence E presumption; LL praesumptiuus, ML -ivus, OF-MF presumptif, MF presomptif (F pré-), whence E presumptive; LL praesumptuōsus, OF presumptueux, MF-F presomptieux (F pré-), E presumptuous. The inferior E presumptious goes back to LL praesumptiōsus, arrogant, conceited.

5. L resumere, to take, or to take up, again, becomes MF-F résumer, whence 'to resume'; used as n, the F pp résumé is adopted by E. On the L pp resumptus are formed LL resumptiō, o/s resumptiōn-, whence, perh via F, the E resumption, and LL resumptiuus, ML -ivus, whence E resumptive.

6. Formed anl with the prec E vv in -sume is 'to subsume', lit to take, hence to put or include, under.

sun (n, hence v), whence sunny; Sunday; many other cpds, all self-explanatory; cf the sep SOLAR and the sep SOUTH.

1. Sun, ME sunne (var sonne), OE sunne, is related to OFris sunne, OS sunna, OHG sunna, MHG-G sonne, Go sunnō, MD sunne, sonne, zonne, D zon, ON sunna; perh the OIr, Ga, Mx grian, W greian; Av khvēng, of the sun (for soan-s*), and xvanvant (? khvanvant), sunny. If the IE r be swon-*, and if that of L sōl be swol-, the ult base is swo-, to shine. Cf para 3.

2. OE sunne has cpd sunnandaeg, whence E Sunday, lit 'the day of the sun', prompted by L dies solis: cf OFris sunnan-dei, OHG sunnuntag, G Sonntag, ON sunnudagr.

3. Akin to L sōl (q.v. at solar) is Gr hēlios, s hēli-, r hēl-: the Sun God, therefore, is Helios. The derivative Gr adj is hēliakos, whence Astron heliac, extn heliacal. The c/f of hēlios is hēlio-, occurring in such cpds as helianthus and heliotrope, qq.v. at the element heli-.

sundae, as Mencken and Mathews admit, is, like the obs spelling sundi (or S—), a derivative of Sunday, a common spelling c1900–1908; both of those authorities, like Webster, think the term o.o.o. Whitehall suggests 'from being orig sold only on this day'. Perh rather because, whereas an ordinary ice-cream was good enough for a week-day, only this special kind was good enough for a Sunday.

Sunday. See SUN, para 2.

sunder and asunder; sundry. 'To sunder', ME sundren, OE -sundrian, -syndrian, occurring in cpds: perh from OE sundor, separately, asunder: cf OHG suntarōn, ON sundra, to sunder, and OFris sunder, OS sundar, OHG suntar, MHG sunder, G sonder, MD sunder, sonder, MD-D zonder, without, Go sundrō, separately, alone, ON sundr, asunder: cf also Skt sanītar, far away, sanitūr, separately—therefore cf L sine, without, and Ir sain, Cor kēn, different. The IE r is app sen-*, separately; Gr has an *s-*less var in aneu, without. IE sen-* is perh an extn of a basic se-*, as in the L privative prefix se- (as in separate).

2. Sundry, ME var sondry, derives from OE syndrig, akin to OE sundor, apart, separately: cf the syn OHG sundric.

sunk, sunken. See SINK (heading).

sup, to sip (whence sup, a mouthful, a sip) and to take supper—cf supper; seep (v, hence n), whence seepage; sip (v, hence n), whence sipper and sipping; sop (n and v), whence sopping and soppy; soup, whence soupy;—sob.

1. Sup, take supper, comes partly from ME soupen, supen, to drink in sips, and partly from OF-MF soper, super (F souper), to take one's evening meal (F to take supper); supper, the evening meal, comes from ME super, var soper, from OF-MF super (soper), the v used as n; 'to sup' or sip has been influenced by supper, but comes, in form, from ME soupen, supen, from OE sūpan, akin to MD supen (var zupen), D zuipen, OFris sūpa, to sip, OHG sūfan, MHG sūfen, G saufen, ON sipa (with modern Scan cognates): ult echoic.

2. With the ON sūpa, cf the syn Da sōbe: cf also 'to sob' or weep convulsively (as if in sips), ME sobben, akin to OE sēofian, siofian, to wail or complain: cf OHG sūfan, MHG sūfen, to sip, used also for 'to draw breath' (whence OHG-MHG sūft, a sigh), and MHG siufzen, G seufzen, to sigh: all clearly echoic.

3. OF-MF soper, super, to take one's evening meal, derives from (doubtless OF-)MF supe, sope, later soupe, a piece of bread steeped in broth or soup, hence, in EF, bread soup, hence soup: whence E soup. OF-MF supe, MF-F soupe, comes from LL suppa, a slice of bread dipped in gravy, a sop (Souter), itself prob of Gmc origin: cf E sop, from OE sopp (cf ON soppa), whence OE soppian, to steep or dip in a liquid, whence 'to sop'.

4. Akin to—and prob a thinned derivative from—OE sūpan, to sip, is ME sippen, E 'to sip': cf OE sypian, sipian, and LG sippen, to sip. Hence, sense-influenced by 'a sop', comes sippet.

5. Akin, phon, to OE sypian, sipian, to sip, is 'to seep', to leak slowly through pores or very small interstices: but prob imm, both phon and sem, from MD sipen, to drip.

super, above, over, occurring in so many prefix-cpds, is the syn L adv and prep super, akin to Gr huper (h for s); also to L sub, under, up under. Clearly, then, L sub and super represent a b-p alternation (sense-imposed), super being sup+ suffix -er: and they answer to an IE sup-* (var sub-), very prob an extn of su-, applied to the 'above-and-below' relationship: cf OVER, Skt ūpari, Go ufar, above; cf also Gr hupo, Skt ūpa, under.

2. Most of the super- cpds not listed below are explained by the main word it prefixes. But L super has a few direct, simple derivatives that are best treated here.

3. L super has derivative superāre, to overcome, whence superābilis, neg insuperābilis, whence E superable and insuperable; superāre becomes Prov soubra, to be (fig) above, whence soubret, coy, f soubrette, whence the EF-F theatrical soubrette, a coquettish lady's-maid, adopted by E; L super acquires the adj supernus, being above, hence or high, hence sublime, heavenly, whence MF-EF supernal (F -nel), adopted by E.

4. L super also acquires the VL adj superānus*, whence It soprano, adj, hence n, adopted by Mus, as is the It cpd mezzo-soprano, a 'medium soprano' half-way between soprano and contralto.

5. Also from VL superānus* comes the OF-MF adj sovrain, whence the archaic adj, hence n, sovrain, with sovranty deriving from OF-MF sovraineté. The OF-MF adj sovrain has varr souvrain and esp soverain (cf F souverain), whence ME soverain (-ein), soverayn (-eyn), E sovereign. The OF-MF soverain (sovrain), F souverain, is used also as n, whence the E n 'a king'; the sense 'gold coin' derives from the royal heads effigied on coins. OF soverain, sovrain has the abstract OF-MF derivative soveraineté (sovraineté; F souveraineté), whence ME soverainete (etc.), whence E sovereignty. (Cf the complementary SUZERAIN.) superabound; superabundance, superabundant. See UNDA, para 4. superadd: L superaddere.—superaddition: LL superadditiō, o/s superadditiōn-. Cf SUPER and ADD.

superannuate, superannuation. See ANNUAL, para 4.

superb: F superbe, magnificent, EF-F imposingly beautiful, OF-EF haughty: L superbus, (arrogantly) proud, (orig) lofty: super, above+ suffix -bus—cf L prōbus from prō (E & M). supercargo. See CARGO.

superciliary, supercilious. See CILIARY, para 2.

supererogate, supererogation, supererogatory. See ROGATION, para 14.

superfetate, superfetation. See FETUS, para 2. superficial, superficiality, superficies. See FACE, para 7.

superfine: late EF-F superfin, f -fine, whence, in the 1890's, the abbr super, which has influenced the E sl word.

superfluity, superfluous. See FLUENT, para 10.

superhuman. See HOMO, para 9.

superimpose, superimposition. See POSE, para 11 s.f.

superintend, superintendence, superintendent. See TEND, para 21.

superior (adj, hence n), superiority; supreme, supremacy. L super (cf SUPER) has adj superus, being, or placed, above, with comp superior, adopted by OF-MF (F supérieur) and, in turn, by E, the derivative superiority coming, via late MF-F superiorité, from ML superioritās; and with sup suprēmus, whence, perh via late MF-F suprême, the E supreme, the derivative supremacy being supreme+-acy.

superlative. See the 1st TOLL, para 6.

superman. See MAN, para 3.

supernaculum, adv. (to drink) to the last drop: mock-L cpd of super, above+ naculum*, a finger-nail: G 'auf den Nagel trinken', to drink to the nail—no drop falling onto one's thumb-nail from an upturned glass.

supernal. See SUPER, para 3. supernatural. See NATIVE, para 10.

supernumerary. See NIMBLE, para 5, s.f.

superpose, superposition. See POSE, para 21.

superscribe, superscription. See SCRIBE, para 21.

superseede, supersession. See SIT, para 6.

supersonant, supersonic. See SONABLE, para 5, s.f. superstition, superstitious. See STAND, para 37.

superstruct, superstruction, superstructure. See STRUCTURE, para 10.

supervene, supervenient, supervention. See VENUE, para 23.

supervise, supervision, supervisor, supervisory. See VIDE, para 14.

supervolute. See VOLUBLE, para 4, s.f.

supinate (whence, anl, supinator), supination, supine (adj and n). Supination derives, phon, from LL supinātiōn-, o/s of supinātiō, regurgitation, formed from supinātus—whence 'to supinate'—the pp of L supināre, to turn or bend or lay backwards, from supīnus, overturned backwards, lying on one's back, hence, in LL, listless, whence E supine, the derivative supinity coming from LL supinitās; the supine of Gram goes back to LL supīnum, sc uerbum, a word. L supīnus perh stands for subinus*, an -inus adj from sub, under.

supper. See SUP, para 1.

supplant, supplantation, supplanter. See the 1st PLANT, para 2.

supple, supplejack. See PLY, para 28.

supplement, supplementary, suppletory. See PLENARY, para 16.

suppliant. See PLY, para 17, s.f.

supplicant, supplicate, supplication. See PLY, para 17.

supply. See PLENARY, para 16, s.f.

support, supportable, supporter. See the 3rd PORT, para 13.

suppose, supposition, supposititious, suppository. See POSE, para 22.

suppress, suppression, suppressor. See the 2nd PRESS, para 14.

suppurant, suppurate, suppuration, suppurative: L suppurant-, o/s of suppurans, presp—suppurātus, pp—suppurātiō (o/s suppurātiōn), from suppurātus—F suppuratif, f -ive, from F suppuration: the L words from suppurāre, to yield pus: f.a.e., PUS.

supra-, L supra, above (mostly adv), occurring in many cpds, is intimately related to SUPER: in L, it contracts supera, abl of supera, f of superus (q.v. at SUPERIOR). These cpds tend to be Sci and, in general speech, rare.

suprahuman. See HOMO, para 9. supramundane. See MUNDANE, para 2.

supremacy, supreme. See SUPERIOR.

surcease. See SIT, para 7.

surcharge. See CAR, para 4, s.f.

surcingle. See CINCH, para 6.

surd, surdity—cf absurd, absurdity; sordine;—swarm, n, hence v.

1. Surdity, deafness, comes—perh via EF-F surdité—from L surditās, itself from surdus, deaf: o.o.o.: kinship with L sonāre, to sound, is both phon and sem improb; but L surdus is perh akin to such C words as OIr-Ir bodar, Ga bodhar (id in Cor).

2. L surdus has the secondary meaning 'indistinct (to hearing, also to smell, etc.)', whence the E adj surd, esp in Math for 'inexpressible in rational numbers', hence as n.

3. L surdus has the prefix-cpd absurdus, discordant, hence incongruous, hence making no sense; derivative LL absurditās: whence MF-F absurde (OF-MF absorde) and MF-F absurdité: E absurd, absurdity.

4. L surdus becomes It sordo, with extn sordino, f sordina, which, employed as Mus n, yields EF-F sourdine, whence the reshaped E sordine, which, inserted in a trumpet's mouth, dulls the sound.

5. There are those who, not very convincingly, relate L surdus to the echoic L susurrus, a humming, a murmuring, a rustling, a whispering, adopted by E. L susurrus has derivative LL susurrāre, to whisper, presp susurrans, o/s susurrant-, E susurrant, adj, and pp susurrātus, whence 'to susurrate'.

6. Perh akin to at least one of these words is E swarm, a vast number of bees emigrating or settling, from OE swearm: cf OHG-G swarm (of bees), G Schwarm, any swarm, MD swarm, D *zwer*m, a swarm of bees, ON svarmr (pron thus), a tumult: perh cf Skt svāratī, it resounds, and svara, a sound, a noise.

sure. See CURE, para 7. surette. See SOUR, para 2, s.f.

surety. See CURE, para 7.

surf. See FLATUS, final para.

surface. See FACE, para 8.

surfeit (n, hence v): ME surfet: MF surfait, OF-MF sorfait, (an) excess, prop the pp of OF-MF sorfaire (MF-F surfaire), to overdo: sur, over (L super)+faire, to do (cf FACT).

surge (v, whence, mainly, n—partly from L urgere), surgent, surrection; source—resource, whence resourceful and resourceless.—Cpds: insurge, insurgent (whence insurgence and insurgency), insurrection (whence insurrectionary, adj, hence n); resurge, resurgent (whence resurgence, -cy), resurrect, resurrection (whence resurrectionary, resurrectionism, etc.); sep RUCTION.

1. The adj urgent derives from L urgent-, o/s of urgens, presp of urgere, to rise, whence, via EF-F urgir (late MF sourgir), 'to surge'; the L pp surrectus leads to LL surrectiō, a rising, o/s surrectiōn-, whence the rare E surrection. L urgere is a contr of surregere, vi, itself an assimilation of subregere, vt, to direct (regere) from under (sub): f.a.e., REX.

2. L urgere becomes OF-F sourdre (OF-MF var sordre), whence the OF-MF sourse (EF-F source), orig the f of the pp: ME sours, whence, influenced by EF-F, the E source. For resource, see para 5.

3. The L cpd insurgere, to rise in, hence up into, hence up, yields—perh via EF-F (s)insurger—'to insurge. The presp insurgens, o/s insurgent-, accounts for the E adj-hence-n insurgent; the pp insurrectus for 'to insurrect'; derivative LL insurrectiō, o/s insurrectiōn-, for MF-F insurrection, adopted by E.

4. L resurgere, to rise re- or again, yields 'to resurge'; its presp resurgens, o/s resurgent-, E resurgent; its pp resurrectus, E 'to resurrect'; derivative LL resurrectiō, o/s resurrectiōn-, OF-F resurrection, adopted by E.

5. L resurgere becomes OF-F ressoudre, whence the OF-MF n ressourse (prop the f of the pp), EF-F ressource, E resource.

surgeon, surgery, surgical. Surgeon derives from ME surgien, adopted from AF surgien, contr of MF serurgien, var of OF-MF cirurgien (F chirurgien): from OF-MF cirurgie, MF var serurgie (EF-F chirurgie)—whence, via the MF contr surgerie, the ME surgerie, E surgery. OF-MF cirurgie derives from L chirurgia, trln of Gr kheirurgia, lit 'a working (ourgia) with the hands' (kheir, hand). The adj surgical comes, anl, from surgery; prompted by the archaic chirurgical, extn of chirurgic, from L chirurgicus (Gr kheirurgikos)—cf the archaic chirurgeon (EF-F chirurgien).

surly. See SENILE, para 9.

surmise (n, hence v): MF-EF surmise (var sormise), an accusation: orig the f of the pp of surmettre (sormettre), lit to put (mettre, L mittere) sur (L super) upon, to impose, to accuse: f.a.e., MISSION. An accusation implies a supposition or guilt; hence, any supposition or conjecture.

surmount. See MINATORY, para 10, s.f. surmullet. See MELANCHOLY, para 6.

surname. See NAME, para 7. surpass. See PACE, para 5.

surplice: OF-MF surpliz (later, surplis): ML superpellicium: super, over+LL pellicia, a fur robe, prob the f of the adj pellicius, made of skin, esp of fur, from pellis, skin.

surplus (whence surplusage), n, hence adj: OF-F surplus: OF-F sur, over (L super)+plus, more (L plus).

surprise, surprising. See PREHEND, para 14.

surrealism, surrealist. See the 1st REAL, para 1.

surrender. See RENDER, para 6.

surreption. See REPTILE, para 2.

surreptitious. See RAPT, para 12.

surrey, a horse-drawn four-wheeled, double-seated carriage, derives from the E county Surrey: OE Suthrige, partly from the pl Suthrige, the inhabitants of the region, partly from the OE name of the region itself: Sūthergē: sūth, south+gē, district.

surrogate, surrogation. See ROGATION, para 13.

surround, surroundings. See UNDA, para 4, s.f.

surtax. See TACT, para 7, s.f. surveillance, surveillant. See VIGOR, para 6, s.f.

survey, surveyor. See VIDE, para 14, s.f.

survival, survive, survivor. See VIVA, para 6, s.f. susceptibility, susceptible. See CAPABILITY, para 7, s.f.

suscitate, suscitation. See CITE, para 6.

suspect. See SPECTACLE, para 17.

suspend, suspender; suspense, suspension, suspensive. See PEND, para 27.

suspicion, suspicious. See SPECTACLE, para 17.

suppiration, inspire. See SPIRIT, para 13.

Sussex (whence—from the New Jersey county—sussexite): OE Sūth Seaxe, the land of the Sūth Seaxe or South Saxons: f.a.e., SOUTH and SAXON sustain, sustenance, sustentation, sustention. See TENABLE, para 8. susurrant, susurrate, susurrus. See SURD, para 5.

sutler: ED soeteler (D zoetelaar), agential derivative of ED soetelen (D zoetelen), to do the dirty work: cf the syn MHG sudelen (G sudeln), to dirty, cf MHG sudel, a dirty cook: akin to OHG siodan, MHG-G sieden, to boil—therefore cf SEETHE.

sutra. See SEW, para 5.

suttee. See SOOTH, para 4.

suture. See SEW, para 4.

suzerain, suzerainty: MF-F suzerain, suzeraineté, earliest as suserenete: OF-F sus, above (VL sūsum, L sūsum, on high, above: subs, for sub+uorsum, uersum, neu of uorsus, uersus, pp of uertere, to turn)+, or anl with, EF-F souverain (OF-MF sovrain—cf SUPER, para 5).

svelte. See VELLICATE, para 2.

swab, n, comes from the v, itself a b/f from swabber, a sailor employed in washing (swabbing) the decks: D zwabber, akin to D zwabberen, to swab (a deck), perh a freq from MLG swabben to splash—cf the syn LG schwabbeln, G schwappeln, app from the interj schwabb!, slap!, splash!: echoic.

swaddle, swaddling-clothes. See SWATH, para 3.

swag, orig a bag crammed full, hence a swaying motion, a wooden or metal wreath or festoon used in decoration, (Aus) a tramp's bundle (whence the coll swaggie, a tramp): from EE-E (now dial) swag, to sway, akin to Nor svaga, to sway, from ON sveigja, to sway, swing, bend; also from ON sveigja comes Nor svagga, to walk unsteadily, which has perh influenced E 'to swagger', to strut, prop the freq of 'to swag' or sway.

2. Also from ON sveigja, to sway, comes ME sweiyen, later sweyen, then swayen, whence 'to sway' (whence the n): perh cf the D zwaaijen, to swing (vi). The ON sveigja is prob akin (a cognate without n) to OE-OHG swingan (f.a.e.: SWING).

swage, a moulding in Arch: MF souage (F suage), an -age derivative of OF suage, a cord: LL sōca, of C origin (Dauzat): cf Br sūg (for sōg*), a cord, and perh Ga sūgan, a straw-rope.

swagger, v, hence n. See SWAG, para 1, s.f. swaggie. See SWAG, para 1.

Swahili, a Bantu people with an admixture of Ar blood, hence their language: Ar sawāhil, coasts (they occupy the Afr coasts off Zanzibar), the pl of sāhil+the adj suffix -i. In Swahili, Mswahili is a Swahili; and Kiswahili, the Swahili language.

swain; boatswain (coll bo'sun) and coxswain (abbr cox). Orig a male, esp a knight's, servant, swain (ME swein) derives from ON sveinn, a boy, esp if a servant, akin to OE swān, a (swine)herd, and OS swēn, OHG swein, a boy, a male servant—cf also Sw swen, Da svend, a lad, a journeyman.

2. E swain has two modern cpds: boatswain (cf BOAT) and coxswain (a cock's or cockboat's swain or 'servant').

swale, a depression, or a shallow valley, esp in a moor or a plain, was orig a cool or shaded place; app it derives from ON svalr, cool—cf the syn Nor and Sw sval.

swallow (1), the bird: ME swalowe: OE swalewe (contr swalwe), predominantly swéalwe, akin to OFris swale, OS swala, OHG swalowa, MHG swalwe, G Schwalbe, MD swaluwe (zwaluwe), swalewe, swaluē, D zwaluw, and ON svala—perh (Walshe) to Lett swalstīti, to move hither and thither; 'the darter'. But cf para 4 of:

swallow (2), to take, through the mouth and gullet, into the stomach: ME swolewen, swolwen, swelwen, swelghen: OE swelgan: cf OHG swelahan, swelgan, MHG swelhen, swelgen, G schwelgen, and ON svelgia, svelja.

2. Akin to 'to swallow' is 'to swill', ME swilen, to wash, OE swilian, occ swillan, to wash, but also to gargle. Hence the n swill, as in swill-tub, a tub of semi-liquid food for pigs. Both of these vv are clearly echoic.

3. OE swelgan, to swallow, perh occurs in OE gundeswelge, a medicinal herb, ? lit 'pus (gunde) swallower', later, by f/e, grundeswelge (as if lit 'ground-swallower (hence absorber)'), with var grundeswylige, whence ME grundswilie, E groundsel.

4. All the best philological opinion is opposed to what it calls the f/e derivation of swallow the bird from swallow the verb; phon, the orthodox position is—or, at an easy glance, appears to be—unassailable. 'A partridge is always game': and I suggest that the bird-name does, in fact, derive from the v, for the foll reasons: the swallow darts here and there, its mouth ever agape, seeking to swallow the insects it encounters (cf fly-catcher)—cf the prob origin of the bird duck in 'to duck' or dive; the predominant first-vowel a of the bird-name and the predominant first-vowel e of the v do rather suggest a deliberate differentiation; the discrepancy of the 2nd (or 3rd) syllable perh merely exemplifies the fact that such consonant-shifts (here, as in yard-ward) do sometimes occur within a group (here, the Gmc) forming one of the IE languages, and not only in the transition from one group to another.

swam. See SWIM (heading).

swamp (n, hence v), whence swampy; sump.

Sump has been adopted from MLG sump, a morass; prob also of LG origin is swamp, for cf the MHG-MLG swamp (OHG schwamb), var swam, G Schwamm, Go swamms, a sponge, OE swamm, Da and Sw svamp, sponge, fungus—cf also MHG-G sumpf, a swamp. OGmc, therefore, exhibits four varr—with or without w, with or without b (p); and should prob be related to Gr somphos, loose, porous, spongy (Walshe). The IE etymon is perh suombhos*, swombhos* (Hofmann), app with var sombhos*. But the ON suöppr, svöppr, a sponge, suggests a non-nasal IE r suob*, swob* (? cf E swab), which, without w, is sob* (? cf E sob, sop, sup), with basic idea 'wetness, dampness'.

swan, whence the AE euphem for 'to swear' ('I swan!'); whence swannery (cf MD swanerie), swan's-down, swan song (folklore tale of swans 'singing' before they die), swan-ucking (the marking of young swans on the upper mandible)

Swan, id in OE, var swon, is akin to OHG-G swan, G Schwan, MD swan, swane, swaen, zwane, D zwaan, ON svanr (with modern Scan cognates): perh—for the w, cf It suono, a sound (L sonus)—cf L sonāre, to sound, and Skt svānati, it resounds, ? from the singing swan: cf, sem and phon, HEN (Walshe) and, phon, SOUND.

swank, n (whence swanky), adj, v: o.o.o.: perh cf MHG swanc, G Schwank, a jest.

swap (pron and often written swop), v, hence n: orig to strike, hence to strike a bargain, hence to exchange: ME swappen, to strike: o.o.o.: prob echoic, perh cf SWEEP.

sward, orig a skin: OE sweard, a skin, a covering: cf OFris sward, skin, MHG swarte, hairy scalp, G Schwarte, (thick) skin, MD sward, swaerde, hairy scalp, thick hair, ON svörthr, skin, sward. 'The development of the meaning in E is Scan: Da grönsvaerd, "greensward"' (Walshe).

swarm. See SURD, para 6.

swart, var swarth, whence the extn swarthy; sordes, sordid.

1. Swart, blackish, dark-complexioned, ME swart, OE sweart, black, is akin to the syn OFris swart, swert, OS swart, LG swart, MD swert, swart, MD-D zwart, OHG-MHG swarz, G schwarz, Go swarts, ON svartr (Sw svart)—and, without w, the ON sorta, black colour, and Da sort, black, blackish, and, with d for t, L sordidus, filthy. OE sweart has derivative sweartness, E swartness.

2. L sordidus, filthy, becomes late MF-F sordide, whence E sordid; it derives from L sordēs, filth (lit and fig), adopted by SciE; sordēs is perh akin to L suāsum, brown colour (? for swart-tum*). The IE r is app sward-, filthy, black, with Gmc var sward-, and with w-less varr.

swash (v, hence n)—whence swashbuckler (cf BUCKLER, a shield)—and its thinned var swish (v, hence n) are echoic. Cf the many other words in -ash.

swastika: Skt svastika: svasti, well-being, welfare, from su, well+asti, lit 'is', hence 'being' (n).

swat (v, hence n) is echoic. Var: swot.

swath, a track or truce, hence the sweep of a scythe; var swathe; swathe, to bind or wrap with a band of cloth, to swaddle, hence (?) n, with var swath, a bandage, (pl) swaddling clothes; swaddle, a swaddling band, occ a bandage, hence (?) the v, whence swaddling clothes.

1. Swath, a track, comes from the syn OE swaeth, swathu; cf OFris swethe, a boundary (made with a scythe), MD swade, swat, zwat, MD-D zward, zwade, MLG swade, swat, MHG swade, G Schwad, and prob E swathe.

2. Swathe derives from OE swath- (only in cpds), itself akin to—? deriving from—the OE v swathian, whence 'to swathe' or bandage or swaddle.

3. 'To swaddle,' ME swathlen, to bind, to swaddle, app derives from ME swathel- (cpds only), itself from OE swaethil (var swethel), a band, intimately related to OE swathian, to bind, to swaddle, which is prob related to OE swaeth (as in para 1): cf also ME swathel, tightly bound, and MD swadel, OHG swedil, a swaddling cloth.

swathe, to bind with a cloth band; and the corresp n. See prec, para 2.

sway. See SWAG, para 2.

swear (pt sware, archaic, and swore, pp sworn), whence the agent swearer and the pa, vn swearing; answer, n and v; sermon (n, hence v), whence sermonic and sermonize.

1. 'To swear' comes from ME sweren, earlier swerien, from OE swerian: cf OFris swera, OS swerian, OHG swerian, MHG swern, G schwören, Go swaran, MD swaren, sweren, MD-D zweren, ON svertia (-ja).

2. Akin to ON sveria, to swear an oath, is ON svara, to answer: cf OE andswaru, lit a swearing and-, against (cf L antf), whence ME andsware, eased in E to answer; the v answer derives, via ME andswerien, from OE andswerian, andswarian, from the n andswaru.

3. The OGmc swer-, to swear (an oath), is perh akin to L sermō, conversation, if serm- be an extn of ser- and ser- a *w-*less cognate of swer-; the ancients (and E & M), however, think sermō an extn of the ser- in L series, E series: 'a series of words'. L sermō has acc sermōnem, whence OF-F sermon, whence ME sermoun or sermun, whence E sermon. 'To sermon' (archaic) derives from OF-F sermonner (from sermon).

sweat, n (whence sweaty) and v. 'To sweat,' ME sweten, OE swāetan, derives from the OE n swāt, whence ME swot, whence, after the v sweat, the E sweat. The OE n swāt is akin to OFris and OS swēt, OHG-MHG swetz, G Schweiss, MD swete, sweiz, sweet, MD-D zweet, ON svelti (cf Sw svett): cf L sūdor, n, sūdāre, v; cf also Skt svēdas and, with h- for s-, Gr hidrōs. The OGmc r is swait-, varr swit- and swit-*; the IE r, sweid-, swoid- (as in L), swid-* or swid-*. (Walshe.)

2. L sūdāre, to sweat, has pp sūdātus, whence sūdātiō, o/s sūdātiōn-, and sūdātōrius, adj, with neu sūdātōrium used as n: whence E sudation and sudatory, adj and n. Sūdāre, s and r sūd-, has derivative adj sūdārtius, with neu sūdārium used as n: whence E sudarium and n sudary. L sūdor, adopted by Sci, has adj sudoral, sudoric, and the SciL cpd sūdōrificus, whence E sudorific, lit 'sweat-making, hence -causing', perh imm from EF-F sudorifique. Cf the SciL sūdāmen (sūdare+ suffix -men) of Med.

3. L sūdāre has cpd exsūdāre, to sweat ex or out, often eased to exūdāre, whence 'to exude'; on the pp ex(s)ūdātus is formed the LL ex(s)ūdātiō, o/s ex(s)ūdātiōn-, whence E exudation, whence, anl, the adj exudatory.

4. From L sūdāre, erudite F has formed transsuder (trans, across, hence through) with derivative transsudation: whence the eased E 'to transude' and transudation.

Swede, hence swede (turnip); Sweden; Swedenborgian; Swedish, adj, hence n; suède.

1. Swede has been adopted from MD-MLG Swede (cf G Schwede), var Zwede, Sweden, from MD Sweden (cf D Zweden); Swedish=Swede+adj-ish (cf G Schwedisch). The r Swed- is app an extn of Swe-, Sue-: cf OE Swēon, L Suiones, the Swedes; cf also Sw Sverige, OSw Svearicke, OE Swiorice, the kingdom of the Swedes. Swedenborgian is the adj of Emanuel Swedenborg (1688–1772), a Sw philosopher and writer about religion, who changed his name from Swedberg because his family's homestead was called Sveden.

2. From F Suède, Sweden, comes a leather we call suède, either from a process first practised there or (EW) from gants de Suède, Swedish gloves.

sweep, v (pt and pp swept), hence n, hence also sweeper and pa, vn sweeping, and chimney-sweep and sweepstakes (winner 'sweeping away' all the stakes); swipe, v, hence n, a mere var of sweep; swoop, v, hence n; swift, adj hence n (esp the bird), swiftly, swiftness; squib, n, hence v.

1. 'To sweep,' ME swepen, is akin to ME swopen, whence 'to swoop'; ME swopen comes from OE swāpan, to rush, to sweep along, akin to OFris swēpane, a sweeping, ON svēipa, to swoop, to sweep, to wrap, OHG sweifan, MHG sweifen, to swing, G schweifen, to roam, to sweep, and OHG swēban, MHG swēben, to float, to soar, G schweben, to soar or hover.

2. OE swiflice, E swiftly, and OE-E swiftness derive from the OE-E adj swift, akin to ON svifa, to rove, move swiftly, OHG sweibōn, to soar, OE swipu and MD swiep, sweipe, sweep, swepe, swepe, D zweep, a whip, and OE swāpan, to sweep.

3. Prob deriving from ON svifa, to move swiftly, to swoop, to dart, is ME swippen, to move swiftly, with var squippen, whence, app, the E squib, a fire-cracker, hence, a brief, witty speech or writing.

sweet, sweeten, sweetheart, sweetness. See SUAVE, para 2 and heading.

swell, v (pt swelled, pp swelled or swollen), hence n, whence the adj; hence also the pa, vn swelling. 'To swell' comes from OE swellan, akin to MD swellen, zwellen, to cause to swell, D zwellen, to swell, OFris swella, OS and OHG swellan, MHG swellen, G Schwellen, Go ufswalleins, pride, lit a swelling-up, ON swella—perh also (E & M) to L insollescere, to swell, to increase: in-, used int+sol- (? a *w-less var of swol-)+-esc, the characteristic inch formative+-ere, inf ending.

swelter, v (hence n), whence the pa sweltering and the adj sweltry; dial swelt; sultry, a var of sweltry.

1. The now dial swelt, to succumb to heat, derives from ME swelten, to faint, to die, from OE sweltan, to die, akin to ON sveltia, to die, to hunger, OS sweltan and Go swiltan, to die, MD swiltan, swelten, to thirst, to hunger, to pine away—and Lith svilti (vi), to parch, to burn slowly.

2. From ME swelten, to faint, to die, comes the freq-int 'to swelter', orig to faint, to feel faint, from heat, hence to sweat, (of the weather) to be oppressively hot.

3. With OE sweltan, cf OE swelan, to waste away, esp to melt away, akin to MLG swelen, G schwelen, to burn slowly or smokily, and OE swōl, heat.

swerve, v, hence n: ME swerven: OE sweorfan, to rub off, to scour, to file: cf OFris swerwa, to rove, OS swerbhan, to wipe off, OHG swerban, to wipe off, MHG swerben (vi), to whirl, Go afswairban, to wipe off, MD swerven, MD-D zwerwen, to rove, to swerve, ON sverfa, to file; cf also Go hwairban, to rove or wander. The IE r is perh kwerbh-*, with the s-for-h var skwerbh-*, (?) to move crookedly or obliquely or waveringly. (Feist.)

swift. See SWEEP, para 2.

swifter (naut n). See SWIVEL, para 2.

swiftly, swiftness. See SWEEP, para 2.

swig, n, hence v, to drink (dial and coll): o.o.o.: perh from dial swig, to sway (cf sway, at SWAG, para 2)—from the motions of one's head, and the wavings of one's glass, as one drinks.

swill. See the 2nd SWALLOW, para 2.

swim (1), dizziness, esp if temporary, hence the v (to be, or feel, dizzy): ME swime: OE swīma: cf OFris swīma, MD swijm, D zwijs, OHG swintan, MHG swinden, G schwinden, to dwindle, ON svlmi (and the v svīma, to dwindle), OE swindan, to dwindle.

2. OHG swintan, to dwindle, has the freq swintilōn, MHG swindeln, G schwindeln, to feel dizzy, to cheat, whence G Schwinder, a cheat, a rogue, whence E swindler, whence, by b/f, 'to swindle', whence 'a swindle'.

3. OE swīma becomes ME swime, var swem, swem, whence, app, the ME swymous, var sqwymous, whence E squeamish.

swim (2), v (pt swam, pp swum), hence n and the agent swimmer (cf MD swimmer), and the pa, vn swimming. 'To swim,' OE swimman, is cognate with OHG swimman, MHG swimmen, G schwimmen, MD swimmen, swemmen, MD-D zswemmen, ON svimma (var svymja): perh akin to SWEEP.

swindle, swindler. See prec, para 2.

swing. See the 1st sow, para 2.

swing, v (pt swang, now usu swung, pp swung), hence n; swinge, v (hence n), with pa swingeing; swingle, whence swingletree, with f/e var single-tree; swink, n and v; switch, n (hence v), whence switchback, -board, -yard, etc.

1. 'To swing,' ME swingen, to beat, swing, vibrate, OE swingan, to scourge or beat, to beat the wings, i.e. to flutter, is akin to OFris swinga, OS and OLG-OHG swingan, MHG swingen, G schwingen, to oscillate, to swing.

2. OE swingan has caus swengan, to cause to flutter or swing, to shake, whence ME swengen, whence—with i from swing—E 'to swinge', to beat.

3. Akin to OE swingan is OE swingele, swingel, a scourging, a heavy blow, a whip or a scourge, whence E swingle: cf MD swinghel, a flax-beater's implement, varr swingel, swengel. Hence, 'to swingle' flax: cf MD swinghelen, swingelen.

4. Also akin to OE swingan is OE swincan, to toil, whence 'to swink' (archaic) or 'punish' oneself; derivative OE swinc or geswinc yields the n swink.

5. Akin to MD swing(h)el is MD swick, a whip, whence, app, EE swits, E switch, which, if not of MD, is prob of cognate LG, origin. The modern sense comes from the smart tap or stroke with which one depresses a lever.

swinge, swingeing. See prec, para 2. swingle and swingletree. See SWING, para 3 and heading.

swinish. See the 1st sow, para 2.

swink. See SWING, para 4.

swipe. See SWEEP (heading).

swirl, to move eddyingly, hence n, is Scan: cf Nor svirla (freq of the syn sverra), Da svirre, to whirl, and therefore perh MHG swirren, to swarm, G schwirren, to whirl.

2. With swirl, cf whirl, to turn rapidly (vi, hence vt): ME whirlen, from ON hvirla (pron hw-), the freq of ON hverfa (pron hw-), to turn: cf the G wirbeln, freq of werben, to solicit, MHG werben, to be active, OHG hwerban, to turn; cf also MD-D wervelen, to turn rapidly, freq of MD werven. Here we have a good example of the IE h-s alternation, with extn hw-sw, hw- becoming (as, e.g., in who) wh-.

3. With G schwirren, to whirl, as adduced in para 1, cf E 'to whir', whence the n: cf Da hvirre (pron hw-), to whirl.

swish. See SWASH.

Swiss, adj and n, comes from F suisse, adj and n: MHG Suiz, Swiz—cf MD Switse, a Swiss. With Switzerland, cf MD Switzerland.

switch. See SWING, para 5.

swivel, n, hence v; swifter, n. E-ME swivel, a mechanical part that turns on a bolt or a pin, comes app from ON sveifla (pron sw-), to turn, a freq of svifa, to turn or rove—cf OE swifan, to move.

2. EE swifter, a naut rope (retaining the capstan-bars in their sockets while the capstan is being turned), derives, as instr (-er), from the late ME-E naut v swift, to tauten or make fast with a rope: perh akin to swivel; perh to ON svipta, to reef (itself prob cognate).

swizzle, a compounded intoxicant, whence the swizzlestick used in mixing one, is o.o.o.: ? a sl or coll alteration of swindle (cf the archaic school-sl swizzle, a swindle): so pleasant to drink—and so treacherous.

swollen. See SWELL (heading).

swoon, v, hence n: ME swōnen, swounen, swōynen, app a b/f from ME swowening, swōyning, a swooning: from OE geswogen, having fainted, in a faint (cf geswōgung, a swooning), the pp of swōgan*, to faint, improb from OE swōgan, to make a (loud) noise, to move noisily or violently.

swoop. See SWEEP, para 1.

swop. See SWAP.

sword (n, hence v), whence many cpds, all phon and sem self-explanatory: EE-late ME sworde; ME swerd: OE sweord: cf OFris and OS swerd, OHG-MHG swert, G Schwert, MD swert, swaert, swart, swaerd, sward, D zwaard, ON sverth (with modern Scan cognates): OGMc r swerd*:- ? a var of hwerd-, extn of r kwer*-, to cut, as in Hit kwer-, to cut or cut off; the Hit var kur- suggests kinship with the richly attested syn IE r ker*- (cf Gr keirō, I cut).

swore, sworn. See SWEAR (heading).

swot: var of SWAT.

sybarite and sybaritic, a voluptuary and voluptuous, luxurious: Sybarite, Sybaritic: L Sybarita, Sybariticus: Gr Subarītēs, whence Subaritikos: Gr Subaris, an ancient Gr city that, situated in southeastern Italy, was famous for the luxurious, pleasure-seeking habits of many of its inhabitants. The E sybarite was perh adopted from EF-F.

sybil, sybilline. See SIBYL.

sycamore. See MULBERRY, para 3.

sycophancy, sycophant, sycophantic. The 1st derives from L ŷŷophantia, trln of Gr sukophantia; the 3rd, anl, from Gr sukophantikos; both of the Gr words come from sukophant-, s of sukophantēs, an accuser (esp if false), a rogue, whence L ŷŷophanta, whence, perh via late MF-EF sicophante, EF-F sycophante, the E sycophant, orig an informer, hence a parasite, a flatterer. Gr sukophantēs=suko-, c/f of sukon, a fig+-phantēs, a show-er, an agential derivative of phainein, to show: sukon is prob an Aegean or Asia Minor word; for phainein, see FANCY. Sukophantēs is lit 'a fig-shower' for any of three or four reasons: orig such an informer as denounced those who sold contraband figs or who stole fruit from the sacred fig-trees, as the ancients explained it; a rogue, because, as Boisacq proposes, he was addicted to the indecent gesture indicated by the MF-F faire la figue (à quelqu'un), trans of It far la fica (later, le fiche), 'to make the fig'—cf Shakespeare's fig and fico—a phrase based upon It fica in its low and trivial sense pudendum muliebre, a sense attached already to the Gr sukon.

Sydney, whence Sydneyite, was named after the 1st Viscount of Sydney, who happened to be Secretary for the Colonies when, in 1788, Port Jackson was discovered and settled.

syenite, whence syenitic, derives from L Syenites (lapis), stone of Syene, Gr Suēnē: this sort of granite was first quarried at Syene in Upper Egypt.

syllabary, syllabic, syllabication (whence, anl, the v syllabicate), syllable (n, hence v); monosyllabic, monosyllable—dissyllabic, dissyllable—trisyllabic, trisyllable—tetrasyllabic, tetrasyllable—polysyllabic, polysyllable.

1. All these words derive from Gr sullabē, whence L syllaba, whence OF-MF sillabe (MF-F syllabe), whence, by assimilation (l to ll), ME sillable, E syllable. Lit 'what has been taken—hence, is held—together' (letters taken together to form a sound), Gr sullabē=sul- (for sun-, together, from sun, with)+labē, a taking, what has been taken, from lab-, the pt s of lambainein, to take (lamb-, nasal form of IE lab*-, to take+infixd formative -an+inf suffix -ein).

2. Gr. sullabē has adj sullabikos, whence LL syllabicos, ML syllabicus, EF-F syllabique, E syllabic, whence, anl, syllabication; syllabary, a table of syllables, derives from modern L syllabarium, form-suggested by LL syllabārius, a boy in a spelling class; syllaba+adj-n suffix -ārius.

3. The chief E cpds are these:
monosyllable, whence, anl, -syllabic: EF-F monosyllabe, adj and n: LL monosyllabus, -syllabos, adj: Gr monosullabos, adj, with rare var monosullabikos, of one syllable; dissyllable, whence, anl, dissyllabic: EF-F dissyllabe, adj and n: L dissyllabus, inferior var of dissyllabus, adj: Gr disullabos, of two syllables; trisyllable, whence, anl, trisyllabic: F trissyllabique, adj, trissyllabe, adj and n: L trisyllabus, adj, cf LL trisyllaba, trisyllabic words: Gr trisullabos, of three syllables; tetrasyllable, whence, anl, tetrasyllabic: LL tetrasyllabus, adj: Gr tetrasullabos, of four syllables; polysyllable, polysyllabic: late MF-F polysyllabe, adj and n: ML polysyllabus, LL polusyllabus, adj: Gr polusullabos, many-syllabled.

syllabus is adopted from EcclL syllabus, a list: alteration—? after syllabas, acc pl of syllaba (see prec)—of L sillybus, from Gr sillubos, a strip of parchment: o.o.o.

sylogism, sylogistic. See LEGEND, para 30.

sylyph, a (young) slender and graceful woman, whence sylyphic: EF-F sylype (first written sylyfe): Paracelsus's sylyphus, a mortal but soulless, tiny elemental being of the air: L sylyphus, a genius of air and woods: o.o.o. EF-F sylype has derivative sylyphide, whence E sylyphid.

sylva, sylvan, Sylvanus. See SAVAGE, paras 2 and 3; Sylvester, Sylvia: ib, paras 4 and 5.

symbiosis, symbiotic. Symbiosis is the SciL trln of Gr symbiōsis, a living (-biōsis) together (sun), from symbioun, to live together: cf the element bio- and such E words as biology.

symbol, symbolic, symbolism, symbolist (whence symbolistic), symbolize (whence symbolization). A symbol derives from late MF-F symbole, LL symbolum, var symbolus, the baptismal creed, L symbolum, -lus, a mark or sign as a means of recognition, Gr sumbolon, from sumballein, to throw, hence put, together, to compare; derivative Gr sumbolikos becomes LL symbolicus, whence (cf EF-F symbolique) the E symbolic, with extn symbolical. Derivative ML symbolizāre becomes MF-F symboliser, whence 'to symbolize'; and the anl F symbolisme and symboliste yield E symbolism and symbolist.

symmetric(al), symmetry. See MEASURE, para 4, s.f. sympathetic, sympathize, sympathy. See PATHIC, s.f.

symphony, whence, anl, the adj symphonic and symphonious, derives—perh via OF-MF simphonie, EF-F symphonie—from L symphonia, trln of Gr sumphōnia: sum- for sun-, together (sun, with)+ an -ia derivative of phōnē, a sound (cf PHONE).

symphysis, symphytic. SciL symphysis and symphyticus*: Gr sumphusis and its derivative sumphutikos: from sumphuein, to cause to grow (phuein) together (sun-): f.a.e., PHYSIC.

symposium, adopted from L, is a trln of Gr sumposion, a convivial party, dining together and then either talking or listening to music: sum-, together (sun, with)+posis, a drinking (cf POTABLE).

symptom, symptomatic: EF-F symptōme, symptomatique: LL symptōma (gen symptomatis), in Med sense: Gr sumptōma (gen sumptomatos), orig a coincidence, whence the adj sumptōmatikos (whence the F adj): sumptēin, to fall (ptēin) together (sun-), to coincide. Cf the element symptomato-.

synagogue, whence synagogal and synagogical, has been adopted from MF-F synagogue, OF-MF sinagoge: LL synagōga, (the place of) a Jewish religious meeting: syn LGr sunagōga: Gr sunagōga, an assembly, lit a bringing together: sunagein, to bring (agein, to lead: f.a.e., ACT) together (sun-, from sun, with).

synchronic, synchronize, synchronous. See CHRONIC, para 2.

synclinal, syncline. See CLIME, para 6.

syncopate, syncopation. See the element -copate.

syndetic. See ASYNDETON.

synergetic, synergism, synergy. See ENERGETIC, para 3.

synod, synodic. See ODOGRAPH, para 7. synonym, synonymous, synonymy. See NAME, para 3, and of the element -onym.

synopsis, synoptic. See OPTIC, para 3.

synovitis is a SciL tacking of -itis, connoting 'disease', to synovia, that An term for a transparent lubricating fluid ('oiling' the articulations, etc.) which SciL has adopted from Paracelsus (1493-1541)—who coined synovia from we know not what.

syntactic(al), syntax. Syntactical is an extn of syntactic, from Gr suntaktikos, adj of suntaxis, a putting together, hence in order, whence, via L syntaxis, much used in the Gram sense, the EF-F syntaxe, whence E syntax. Gr suntaxis derives from suntassein, to arrange together in an orderly way: sun-, together (sun, with)+tassein, to put in order (cf TACTIC).

synthesis, synthesize, synthetic. See THESIS, para 16.

syphilis, syphilitic. The latter derives, via F syphilitique, from SciL syphiliticus, adj of SciL syphilis, the venereal disease: Syphilis, a Latin poem that, published in 1530, was written by the It humanist Fracastoro, who coined it from the shepherd hero of the poem: Syphilus, var of Siphylus, itself a var of Sypilus, Niobe's elder son, born near the Lydian Mt Sipylus in Asia Minor. (B & W) syren. See SIREN.

Syria, Syriac, Syrian; Assyria, Assyrian. Gr Suria becomes L Syria, adopted by E; derivative Gr Suriakos becomes L Syriacus, whence F syriaque and E Syriac, adj, hence n; Syrian, however, comes from F syrien (OF-MF sirien), from L Syrius (from Syria).

2. Although perh influenced by Gr Suria (L Syria), the Gr Assuria, L Assyria, adopted by E, is of different origin: Gr Assuria is elliptical for Assuria gē, the Assyrian land, from the adj Assurios, itself a b/f from Assurioi, the Assyrians: Assurioi derives, like their capital city Assur, from their god Assur, better Aššur, i.e. Ashshur (loosely Ashur), with very ancient var Ašir, i.e. Ashir: o.o.o.; but, if of Sem origin (as were the Assyrians), Ashshur perh means 'The Benign' (Enci It); cf Hit assus, kind, good. L Assyria becomes F Assyrie, whence the adj assyrien, whence—unless independently from E Assyria—the E adj, hence n, Assyrian, with c/f Assyria—, as in Assyriology.

syringa; syringe (n, hence v); syrix; seringa. Seringa is the Port, whence the Sp and F, form of the syringa shrub; hence the F seringue, a syringe, the hollowed-out stems being used for pipes, flutes, syringes. The shrub syringa is a SciL sense-derivative from ML-LL syringa, syringia, a fistula, an injection, whence the E syringe, injections being expelled from tubes: and LL syringa, -gia, derives from Gr suring- (L syring-), the o/s of surinx, a tube, a pipe, itself from Skt surungā, a tube. Gr surinx (σῦριγγή) is personified as Surinx, a nymph changed by Pan into a clump of reeds, from which he fashioned his pipes; whence L Syrinx, whence SciL syrix, a bird's vocal organ.

syrup. See the 2nd SHRUB, para 3.

staltic. See STALL, para 14.

system, systematic, systematize. See STAND, para 7, s.f. stysole. See STALL, para 13.

syzygy. See JOIN, para 9.

T

tab, n, hence v, is o.o.o.: ? akin to TAG.

tabard: ME tabari: o.o.o.: prob of Gmc origin and perh akin to prec.

tabby, a striped taffeta, whence the cat (whence a gossiping woman): EF-F tabis, aphetic for MF atabis: Ar 'Attābī, (fabric) of Attāb, that quarter of Baghdad where it was orig manufactured: Attāb, a member of the Ommiad family (fl 661-750).

tabella. See TABLE, para 3.

tabellion. See TABLE, para 3.

tabernacle. See TAVERN, para 2, s.f.

tabes, tabid, tabific. See THAW.

tablature. See para 4 of:

table (n, hence v), tabella, tabellion, tablature, tableau, tablet, tabloid, tabula, tabular, tabulate (adj and v), tabulation (whence, anl, tabulator); entablature, entablement; retable; taffrail.

1. Table is adopted from OF-F table: L tabula, a plank, OL var tabola (cf It tavola, a table), hence in VL, a table: o.o.o.: the basic sense of L tabula being 'a plank', hence a small flat board for writing, one may perh relate the Hit tapulli, a plate, a dish.

2. L tabula has the derivative adj tabularis, shaped like a plank, hence like a table, whence E tabular, and tabulatus, made of planks, whence the adj (rare) and v tabulate, which, however, could derive from LL tabulatus, pp of tabulāre, to fit with planks. Derivative tabulatiō, o/s tabulatiōn-, yields tabulation.

3. L tabula has dim tabella, adopted, like tabula, by SciE; the pl tabellae was used esp for 'writing tablets'. L tabella has the LL derivative tabelliō (o/s tabelliōn-), a notary, a scrivener, whence MF-F tabellion, adopted by E.

4. OF-F table has the foll derivatives affecting E: EF-F tablature (from ML tablatūra, for tabulatūra*), adopted by E: cf MF-F entablature (prompted by It intavolatura, a wainscot), likewise adopted by E, as also is the OF-F entablement;

MF-F tableau (sense-development unclear), adopted by E;

MF-F tablette, orig a small flat board, whence E tablet;

EF-F retable (from Sp retablo: re-, back, to the rear + tabla, a plank, from L tabula), adopted by E.

5. E table + suffix -oid yields the proprietary name Tabloid, a concentrated drug (etc.), whence a small, compact newspaper.

6. L tabula becomes MD tavele, taefle, taeffel, tafle, MD-D tafel, whence MD tavereel, taeffereel, tufreel, MD-ED taffereel, a panel, whence EE tafferel, a panel, whence, by f/c (both phon and sem) after E rail, the E taffrail.

tableau. See prec, para 4.

tablet. See TABLE, para 4.

tabloid. See TABLE, para 5.

taboo anglicizes tabu, orig the Tongan word for 'sacred', akin to the syn Tahitian, Samoan, Maori tapu; hence the n.

tabor, taboret—tabour, tabouret. See TAMBOUR, para 1.

tabu. See TABOO.

tabula, tabular, tabulate, tabulation, tabulator. See TABLE, para 2.

tach or tache, a buckle, a clasp, and v; tack, n, hence v.—Cpds of tach: attach, attaché, attachement; detach, détachement; attack; staccato.

1. The now dial tach, tache, to attach, derives from the now archaic tach or tache, a nail, buckle, clasp, itself from OF-MF tache, a fastening, a nail; this tache has the ONF var taque, whence E tack. The OF-F tache is app aphetic for OF-MF estache, a stake, from Frankish stakka* (cf E STAKE).

2. OF-MF estache has the OF-MF derivative v estachier, with mdfn OF atachier, OF-MF attachier, MF-F attacher, whence ME attachen, whence 'to attach'; derivative MF-F attachement becomes E attachment; the n attaché is prop the pp of attacher.

3. Of the same OGmc origin as OF atachier, attachier, is It attaccare, to attach, to join, hence to join battle with, whence EF-F attaquer, whence E 'to attack', whence attacker and attacking; the derivative EF-F n attaque yields the E n attack.

4. OF-MF tache, a fastening, has derivative OF-MF destachier, MF destacher, EF-F détacher, whence 'to detach'; derivative EF-F détachement yields E détachment.

5. Corresp to It attacare is It distaccare, to detach, with 'lopped' var staccare, pp staccato, used as Mus adj 'with every note sharply detached from the prec and foll notes'.

tache (1). See prec, para 1.

tache (2), a spot, a blemish, is adopted from MF-F tache, orig a distinctive mark, EF-F a spot, stain, blemish: OF-MF teche: of Gmc origin—cf token; f.a.e., TEACH. From OF-MF teche comes ME tecche, a bad habit, whence E techy, var tetchy, peevish, irascible.

tachygraphy; tachymeter. See the element tacheo-.

tacit—Tacitean, Tacitus—taciturn, taciturnity; reticence, reticent.

1. L tacēre, to be silent, to silence, has s and r tac- and is akin to Go thahan, to be silent, and W gosteg, Ga tosd, EIr toft, silence. The L pp is tacitus, used as adj 'silent', whence both the PN Tacitus, whence the E adj Tacitean, and late MF-F tacite, whence E tacit. The L extn taciturnus becomes the late MF-F taciturne, whence E taciturn; the L derivative taciturnitās, acc taciturnitātem, yields MF-F taciturnité, whence E taciturnity.

2. L tacēre has c/f -ticēre, as in reticēre (re-vaguely int), to keep silent, presp reticens, o/s reticent-, whence E reticent; derivative L reticentia yields (EF-F reticence and) E reticence.

tack (1), a fastening device, e.g. a small nail. See TACH, para 1.

tack (2), substance, esp food, app shortens: tackle, instrument, gear, equipment, whence 'to tackle', orig to equip with tackle (D and LG cognates): ME takel, adopted from MD-D, MLG takel: o.o.o.: ? ult akin to Gr taxis, an arrangement.

tact, whence tactful and tactless; tactile and tactical; taction; tangent, whence both tangency, var tangence, and tangential; tangible (whence tangibility) and intangible (whence intangibility); tango, n, hence v; taste, n (whence tasteful, tasteless, tasty) and v (whence taster, tasting)—distaste; tax, v, hence n—taxable, taxation (whence taxational), taxer, task, n, hence v.—Cpds: attain, whence attainment—attainder—attaint, n and v—attinge, attingent; contact (n, whence adj and v, whence contactor), contactual—contagion, contagious—perh contaminable, contaminate, contamination (whence, anl, contaminative)—contango—contiguity—contiguous—contingence, contingency, contingent; entire, entirety; intact, intactile; integer, integral (adj, hence n), integrant, integrate (whence integrator), integration (whence, anl, integrative), integrity; redintegrate, redintegration (whence, anl, redintegrative).

1. The base of the group is app tag-* (var teg-) or tak- (var tek-*: cf Go tēkan, to touch), which we see in the pp tactus (? taktus*, tagtus*) and perh in L contāgio, with c/f -tig- in L atiguus and contiguus. L tangere (pp tacius) is a nasal var of tag-*, to touch, with c/f -tingere. In short, this group seems to be no older than L.

Simples

2. L tangere has presp tangens, o/s tangent-, whence the E adj tangent, whence the n tangent, prob influenced by the EF-F n tangente. The E tangence, with extn tangency, is perh indebted to F tangence (from adj tangent), whence the F adj tangentiel, whence perh the E tangential.

3. From L tangere comes the LL tangibilis, whence MF-F tangible, adopted by E; derivative F tangibilité perh prompted tangibility. The ML neg intangibilis yields late MF-F intangible, adopted by E.

4. L tangere becomes Sp tangir, with subsidiary sense (already in L) 'to pluck the strings of, to play' a musical instrument, whence Argentine Sp tango, a dance, a festival, whence Argentine Sp tango, a fiesta, a specific kind of dance, adopted by E, F, etc.

5. On the L pp tactus are formed the foll words relevant to E:

tāctiō, a touching, o/s tāctiōn-, whence taction; syn tactus (gen -ūs), whence MF-F tact, adopted by E;

(partly from the n tactus) tāctilis, with neg intāctilis, whence EF-F tactile, adopted by E, and E intactile.

6. The E adj tactical derives—after visual—from E tact; cf the F tactuel, after visuel.

7. L tangere has the int taxāre, to touch hard or sharply, to handle, to estimate or value: whence MF-F taxer, whence 'to tax', whence the n—cf ML taxa and MF-F taxe. The ML taxa becomes OF-MF tasche (EF-F tâche), ONF tasque, ME taske, E task, whence taskmaster. Taxāre also means 'to blame, to point out or mention', senses extant in E. Derivative L taxātiō, a valuing, LL blame, acc taxātiōnem, becomes MF-F taxation, adopted by E. MF-F taxer has AF derivative taxable, retained by E, which gets taxer from AF taxour, from ML taxātor (from taxātus, pp of taxāre). Surtax comes from EF-F surtaxe.

8. L taxāre has freq taxitāre*, whence VL tastāre*, whence OF-MF taster (F tāter), to feel, to taste, whence the syn ME tasten, whence 'to taste'. The derivative OF-MF n tast leads to the E n taste.

9. 'To distaste'—whence the n, whence distasteful—merely prefixes dis-, implying negation, to 'to taste'.

Compounds

10. L tangere has prefix-cpds in -tingere; esp attingere and coningere. Attingere, to touch upon (ad, towards), yields the obsol 'to attinge'; presp attingens, o/s attingent-, yields the adj attingent, in contact.

11. L attingere has the VL var attangere*, whence OF-MF attaindre (var ataindre; MF-F atteindre), whence ME at(t)ainen, atteinen, whence 'to attain'; in E, as in F, the senses ramify; one is 'to accuse, hence to convict', and OF-MF at(t)aindre, used as n, explains the E n attainder. Moreover, OF-MF at(t)aindre has pp at(t)aint, which has f at(t)ainte, later atteinte, which, used as n, becomes ME atteynt, an accusation, a conviction, E attaint; the ME n acquires the derivative v atteynten, whence 'to attain'. Both attainder and attaint have been f/e influenced by taint.

12. L coningere (con- vaguely int), to touch upon, hence to arrive at, hence to happen, has presp coningens, o/s coningent-, whence the MF-F adj and EF-F n coningent, adopted by E. Derivative LL coningentia becomes MF-F contingence, adopted by E, with var contingency. The Stock Exchange term contango is perh a mock-L derivative of contingent.

13. L contingere has pp contactus, whence the L n contactus (gen -ūs), whence EF-F and, perh independently, E contact, whence anl—after tactual—contactual.

14. Akin to contingere and esp to contactus, pp and n, is L contāgiō, a touching, contact, acc contāgiōnem, whence MF-F contagion, adopted by E; the derivative LL adj contāgiōsus becomes MF-F contagieux, f contagieuse, whence E contagious. The r tag- prob lies behind L contāmināre (? for contagmināre*: cf the formation of examināre or rather of its imm source examen), to get into touch with, hence to soil by contact, whence the LL contāminābilis, with neg incontāminābilis, whence E contaminable, incontaminable. From the pp contāminātus derive both the adj and the v contaminate; its LL derivative contāminātiō, o/s contāminātiōn-, yields contamination.

15. Also, though without n, akin to contingere is the L adj contiguus, whence E contiguous (cf MF-F contigu); derivative LL contiguitās, acc contiguitātem, yields late MF-F contiguité and perh independently E contiguity.

16. The var r teg-* noted in para 1 occurs in L integer, untouched, whole, adopted by learned E, which uses it mainly as n. The LL-ML mdfn integrālis (integr-, o/s of integer+adj suffix -alis) becomes MF-F intégral, whence E integral. L integer, o/s integr-, has derivative v integrāre (in-vaguely int), to re-establish as before, to renew, with presp integrans, o/s integrant-, whence E integrant—cf E integrand, from L integrandus, gerundive of integrāre. The L pp integrātus yields the E adj and v integrate; derivative L integrātiō, o/s integrātiōn-, yields integration. L integer, o/s integr-, has the further derivative integritās, acc integritātem, whence late MF-F intégrité, whence E integrity.

17. L integrāre has cpd redintegrāre, to restore, pp redintegrātus, whence the E adj and v redintegrate; derivative redintegrātiō, o/s -atiōn-, yields redintegration.

18. With L integer, cf L intactus: in-, not+tactus, touched: hence unbroken, entire: whence (EF-F and) E intact. The derivative L intāctilis—after tactilis—gives us intactile.

19. L integer becomes OF-F entier, whence ME enter and E entire; derivative MF-EF entiereté accounts for entirety.

tactic, tactical, tactics—tactician; taxis; sep SYNTAX, SYNTACTICAL.

1. Tactical is an E extn of the now obsol adj tactic, from Gr taktikos, adj formed from tassein, Attic tattein, to put in its right place, to arrange: IE r, tag-*, to place fittingly. The Gr adj has f taktikē, as in taktikē tekhnē, the science or art of arrangement, esp in war, whence the F la tactique, whence—cf ethics from ethic—E tactics, and also F tacticien, whence E tactician.

2. Gr tassein has derivative taxis, arrangement, adopted by learned E; whence taxonomy, the law (nomos), hence art, of arrangement.

tactile. See TACT, para 5.

taction. See TACT, para 5.

tactical. See TACT, para 6.

tadpole. See the 1st POLL, para 3.

tael. See the 1st TOLL, para 7.

taeni-words. See that element.

taffeta: MF-F taffetas: It taffetà, ML taffeta: Per tāsta(h), lit twisted, spun, woven, from tāstan, to twist, spin, weave.

taffrail. See TABLE, para 6.

taffy or toffy, toffee; taffia, tafia. Toffee or toffy is app an E phon and sem var of AE taffy, 'a kind of pulled candy made usually of molasses or brown sugar' (Webster)—itself perh from taffia (or tafia), a WI spirit distilled from sugar-cane juice; a Creole word o.o.o.: but perh (B & W) short for the syn Creole ratafia or (Mathews) the syn Mal word.

tag, a loose fabric-end or fragment, a rag, hence a tab, whence 'to tag'; whence—after rag—the redup tagrag, with the extn tagrag and bobtail. Tag is prob of Scan origin—cf Sw tagg, a point, a prickle, and Nor tag, a jagged point or piece: OGmc tagga* (Torp).

tail (1) of an animal's body, whence v ('tail off, tail along', etc.); with such cpds as tailband, -board, -end, -piece, etc.—all obvious.

Tail, ME tail, earlier tayl, derives from OE taegl, var taegel: cf ON tagl, Go tagl (hair), OHG zagel, MHG zagel, MLG tagel (a rope-end)—and prob Olr dūal, a lock of hair, a fringe: OGmc r, tagl-*; IE r, dokl- (Walshe)—or is it merely the OC r? Cf Ga dual, a ply of rope, and prob Cor gols, a lock of hair.

tail (2), adj, n, v, (something) cut to size, to cut thus, hence to limit; entail, n, v—detail, n, v—retail, n, v; tailor, n, hence v; tallage; tally, n, hence v.

1. This group goes back to L tālea, var tālia, a twig, a stake, a sharp point: o.o.o. Tālia has derivative LL-VL tāliāre, to cut, to split, whence OF-MF taillier (MF-F tailler) whence, 'to tail' or cut to size (obs), to limit, esp with an entail; from the derivative OF-MF pp taillié and OF-F n taille come the E adj and E n tail, extant only as legal terms.

2. The E legal n entail app derives from the E legal v entail, itself from OF-MF entaillier, MF-F entaillier, with derivative OF-F n entaille, which perh influenced the E n.

3. OF-MF taillier, MF-F tailler, has derivative agent tailleur (later tailleur), already used in C12 in the modern sense; whence the E taylor. Cf the MF-F derivative tallage, a toll, adopted by ME, with extant var tallage.

4. LL-VL-ML tālia is adopted by AL, whence AF tallie (perh influenced by the OF-F n taille), whence E tally, orig a stick or wooden tablet on which notches were cut to record numbers.

5. OF-MF taillier, MF-F tailler, has two prefix-cpds relevant to E: OF-MF dentaillier and OF-MF retailier. The former (whence MF-F détailler), to cut off, esp into pieces, yields 'to detail'; the derivative OF-MF n detail (later détail) yields the E n detail.

6. OF-MF retailier (MF-F retailer), to cut back, hence off, hence into pieces, has derivative OF-MF n retaille (EF-F ré-), var retail, adopted by AF, whence E retail, whence the E v (prob influenced by the F v), whence retailer.

tailor. See prec, para 3.

taint. See STAIN, para 5.

take, v (hence n), pt took, pp taken, whence agent taker and pa, vn taking; intake—partake, partaker, partaking—retake, v, hence n.

1. 'To take,' ME taken, late OE takan, derives from ON taka (pt tök, pp tekinn)—cf OSw taka, Sw taga, Go tēkan, MD tāken (and prob MLG tacken, to touch): IE r, perh dag-, dak-, with OGmc offshoot tag-, tak-.

2. 'To take in' results in an intake; 'to take again' becomes 'to retake'. 'To partake' is a b/f from partaking and partaker, which sloven partaking and part-taker, which translate the L particeps, adj, hence also n, from partem capere, to take a part: cf participate.

talc, talcum: EF-F talc: ML talcum (s talc-): Ar ṭalq: Per talk. The F talc perh comes direct from Ar.

tale, talesman. See the 2nd TELL, para 2.

talent, whence talented, is ME talent, the sum of money, desire, (late) ability: syn MF talent: OF talent, the sum of money: L talentum, from Gr talanton, the sum of money, (from) a definite weight, (from) a thing weighed, (from) a balance: cf Skt tuḷā, a balance, a weight, tuḷayāti, he weighs, and the tol- of L tolerāre, (lit) to support, app an extn of tollere, to raise (a weight), with cognates in Gr, C, Gmc: cf the 1st TOLL.

taligrade. See the element tali-.

talion. See RETALIATE, para 1.

talisman is adopted from EF-F talisman, which, like Sp talismán and It talismano, comes from coll Ar ṭīlsamān, pl of ṭīlsam, a metathesis of Ar ṭīlasm, itself from MGr telesma, (lit) a sanctified object (as, orig, was a talisman), LGr an initiatory religious rite, Gr a payment, (lit) a completion, from Gr telein, to complete—cf TELEOLOGY.—Hence, perh after F talismanique, the adj talismanic.

talk, talkative, talker. See the 2nd TELL, para 3.

tall. See the 2nd TELL, para 4.

tallage. See the 2nd TAIL, para 3.

tallboy. See the 2nd TELL (heading).

tallow, whence tallowy and such obvious cpds as tallow-face, -weed, -wood. Tallow, ME talgh, prob comes from MD-MLG talch (ED talgh, D talk, cf G Talg): akin to ON tōlgr and perh to Go tuḷg, firm: IE r, dalg-, varr delg-, dolg-, dulg-. (Feist.)

tally. See the 2nd TAIL, para 4.

Talmud, the corpus of ancient Jewish canonical and civil law, derives from H talmūdh, doctrine, lit instruction or study, from lāmadh, to learn.

talon; talus; tassel. E-ME talon is adopted from

OF-F, which takes it from VL tālōrem*, acc of tālō*, heel, a bird's spur, a mdfn of L tālus, the ankle (Med E talus, ankle-bone), hence the heel, s and r tāl-, akin to OIr sāl, Ga sàil, W sawdl, heel.

2. L tālus has dim taxillus (? for talsillus*, contr of talusillus*), a small die (in gambling), whence VL tassellus*: OF-MF tassel (F tasseau, a bracket), the small plaque of a buckle or clasp, hence an ornamental small square of fabric or a small mending-piece: ME tassel, as in 1st OF-MF sense: E tassel.

tamale, a Mexican seasoned dish of minced meat and crushed maize: ASP tamales, pl of the syn tamal: Nahuatl tamalli. (DAE.)

tamarack, a NA larch, is of Alg origin.

tamarin, a SAM marmoset, is adopted from F (EF tamary), which adopts it from Galibi—the language of the Caribs of F Guiana.

tamarind. See INDIA, para 5.—Whence, at the It stage, the It condiment tamara.

tamarisk: LL tamariscus, extn of L tamarix, var tamaricē: o.o.o.: perh (B & W) ult akin to Ar ṭamār (as in tamarind).

tambour, tambourin, tambourine; tabor (tabour), taboret (tabouret), taborin (or -ine); timbal, timbale.

1. Tambourine anglicizes the late MF-F tambourin, dim of MF-F tambour, OF tambor, a drum, hence an embroidery-frame shaped like the frame of a drum: cf Port atambor. Earlier is OF-EF tabour, tabor, likewise adopted by E: cf Per tabūr. The n (F m) infix exists already in coll Ar ṭanbūr (Ar ṭunbūr), a drum, from Per ṭanbūr, a Mus instrument; but OF-EF tabor, tabour, must have derived from an n-less Ar or Per form. The old F word has two dimm: tabo(u)ret (late MF-F) and tabo(u)rin (late MF-EF), both adopted by E.

2. Timbal anglicizes F timbale, a kettledrum; the Mus senses of both words are modern. Late MF-F timbale is a f/e mdfn—after cymbale—of MF tamballe, itself a f/e mdfn—after tambour—of Sp atabal: Ar aṭṭabal, a coll assimilation of Ar al-ṭabl, the (al) drum (ṭabl).

tame, adj (whence tameness) and v (whence tamer); domitable and indomitable.—Cf the sep ADAMANT (where DIAMOND)—DOE—DOMESTIC (where DAME).

1. 'To tame' derives from ME tamen (cf MD tamen), from the ME—whence E—adj tame: OE tam, akin to ON tamr, MD tem, taem, MD-D tam, OHG-MHG zam, G zahn; also to the vv ON temja, OHG zemmen, G zähmen, Go gatamjan, L domāre, Gr daman, to subdue or tame, Skt dāmayāti, he tames, he is tame, OIr domnaim, I bind fast, and Hit damass-, tamass-, to oppress. The IE r is perh dam-, with var dem- and dom-*, to subdue, to tame.

2. L domāre, to tame, has the app freq, yet syn, derivative domitāre, whence domitābilis* and LL indomitābilis, untamable: whence E domitable and indomitable.

Tamil, the oldest, richest, best known of the Dravidian (non-IE) languages: Dravidian Tamiḷ, var Tamiṛ (cf Skt Dramiḷa and Prakrit and Pali Damiḷa): o.o.o.

Tammany, corruption in municipal government, derives from Tammanny Hall (orig occupied by the Tammany Benevolent Society), occupied by a political club controlling the Democratic party of New York City: from the wise and friendly Delaware chieftain Tamanen or Tamanend, usu Tammany, lit 'the affable', who flourished c1700.

tammy. See STAMEN, para 4.

tam-o'-shanter, a Sc flat-topped, top-tasselled cap, commemorates Robert Burns's drunken eponymous farmer Tam o' Shanter, Tom of Shanter.

tamp, whence agent tamper and pa, vn tamping—cf tampion and tampon; tompson; tap, faucet, slap.

1. The 1st prob derives from F tamponner, to stop up, bung, plug, from F tampon; tompson is a var of tampion, which anglicizes tampon, itself adopted from EF-F tampon, a nasalized var of MF tapon, aug of MF-EF tape, a cork, bung, plug, from OF-EF taper, to cork, bung, plug, from the syn Frankish tappōn*: cf OHG zapho, MHG zapfe, G Zapfen, a bung, a tap, and OE taeppa, ME tappe, E tap, a faucet (whence the v), akin to ON tappi, MD tappe, MD-D tap, a bung. Tap has derivative tappet (tap+euphonic t+dim -et): cf the formation of tippet.

2. OF-EF taper, to stop up, to bung or cork, is perh akin to OF-F taper, to strike with the flat of the hand, which could be a sem development from 'to stop up'—cf the sem development of E plug. More prob, however, OF-F taper, to slap, to tap—whence E 'to tap', whence the n (perh suggested by the MF-F derivative n tape)—is echoic.

tamper (1), n. See prec (heading).

tamper (2), v. See TEMPER, para 2.

tampion. See TAMP, para 1.

tampon. See TAMP, para 1.

tam-tam. See TOM-TOM.

tan, n and v, whence tanner (cf MF-F tanneur), cf tannery (perh from MF-F tannerie), tanning; tannic and tannin; tawny and tenné.

1. The E n tan is adopted from MF-F tan: ML tanum (s and r tan-): perh from OHG tanna, an oak, tan being made from oak-bark. 'To tan' comes from MF-F tanner, either from the F n or from ML tannāre (from tanum).

2. MF-F tan has the derivative tanin (Chem -in), whence E tannin; E tan, n, has derivative tannic (tan+euphonic n+adj -ic).

3. MF-F tanner has pp tanné, with var tenné, which, used as Her n, denotes a bright-brown colour; in MF, tanner has also the pp tané (var of tanné), whence E tawny.

tandem, two horses (hence cyclists) one behind the other: L tandem, by a jocose extn of sense from 'at last' to 'lengthwise'.

tang, prong, fang, sharp flavour. See LANGUAGE, para 6.—For the seaweed, see TANGLE, para 3. tangency, tangent, tangential. See TACT, para 2. tangerine: Tangerine, adj and n, 'native of Tangier': Sp (and F) Tanger: L Tingē or Tingi: prob Hamitic.

tangibility, tangible. See TACT, para 3.

tangle, v, hence n: a contr of ME tangil, tangel, nasal var of tagil, tagel, tagle, app of Scan origin: cf the syn Sw dial taggla (Webster). Perh, however, ME tagel(-il) derives, by aphesis, from AF entagler, from ME takel (see TACKLE), as EW proposes.

2. 'To tangle' has the EE-E prefix cpd 'to entangle', whence entanglement.

3. Tangle, large seaweed, much too late to supply the origin of the v, comes from ON thöngull, extn of thang, whence E tang, a large, coarse seaweed.

tango. See TACT, para 4.

tank, tanker. See STAGNANT, para 4.

tankard. See STAGNANT, para 5.

tanner, tannery. See TAN (heading).

tannic, tannin. See TAN, para 2.

tansy: MF tanésie (F tanaisie): VL tanacēta*: L tanacētum: o.o.o.

tantalice=tantalum+adj -ic; tantalum, a metallic element difficult to isolate=Tantalus+Chem -um; Tantalus, whence both tantalus, a locked liquor-cabinet, and 'to tantalize', was that myth Gr Tantalos who, as punishment, stood in a lake without being able to quench his thirst or to reach the fruit-laden branches suspended over him. Tantalos=tan-tal-os, dissimilation of tal-tal*, redup of the IE r tel-* or tal-*, to drag or carry, with var tol-, as in L tollere. (Hofmann.) 'To tantalize' was perh form-suggested by Gr tantalizein, to wave about.

tantamount, adj: tantamount, n (obs): AF tantamunter, to amount to as much: OF-F tant, L tantum, so much+OF-MF amont, to ascend, raise, increase, from OF-F amont, upward, L ad montem, towards the mountain (cf AMOUNT).

tap. See TAMP, paras 1 (faucet) and 2 (slap).

tape, n (hence v), whence red tape (used on legal documents) and tapeworm; tapestry—cf tapet, tapetum, 'on the tapis'.

1. Tape, ME tape, earlier tappe, comes from OE taeppe, akin to Gr tapēs, a rug or a carpet, with dim tapētion, which, pron tapition in Byz Gr, becomes OF-F tapis, a carpet, whence 'on the tapis' or carpet—standing before 'the boss' in his office.

2. Whereas Gr tapēs, o/s tapēt- (gen tapētos), becomes L tapēte, LL tapētum, tapētium, whence both the different-sensed Bot tapetum and the ME-E tapet, OF-F tapis has MF-F derivative tapisserie (cf the late MF-F v tapisser), whence E tapestry, with -t- perh from ME-E tapet; tapestry is, as it were, a wall-carpet.

3. Gr tapēs, with Attic varr tapis and dapis, is prob of Iranian origin: cf Per tāstan, to turn, spin, weave: IE r tap-, to turn, to spin, ult akin to IE r ten-, to stretch (as in L tendere, s tend-, r ten-): perh Medit, for cf Eg qen, rug, carpet.

taper. See PAPER, para 2.

tapestry. See TAPE, para 2.

tapet, tapetum. See TAPE, para 2.

tapeworm. See TAPE (heading).

tapioca: Port (whence Sp and F) tapioca: Brazilian natives' Tupi and Guarani tipyóca, tipyóca: ty, juice + p̄ya, heart + ocō, to be removed. (Webster.)

tapir, adopted from Sp, comes from Tupi tapira, tapyra, any large quadruped.

tapis. See TAPE, para 1.

tappet. See TAMP, para 1, s.f.

tar (n, hence v), whence the adj tarry; tarpaulin, derivatively a sailor, hence tar, a sailor.

Tarpaulin app=tar+paulin, for palling, a covering, from pall, a cloth. Tar, ME tarre, earlier terre, derives from OE teru, teora, tar, and the var tierwa, tyrwa, tar, resin, gum: cf ON tiara (tjara), MD tarre, tar, ter, MD-D teer, LG tēr, G Teer, and, with d for t, Lett darva, tar, and Lith dervà, pine-wood: ult, therefore, cf TREE. (Walshe.)

tarantella. See para 2 of:

tarantula—cf tarantulite; tarantism—cf Taranto, Tarentum, Tarentine; tarantella.

1. About 700 B.C., the Greeks settled in southern Italy and founded the city of Taras, gen Tarantos, o/s Tarant-, whence L Tarentum, with adj Tarentinus, E Tarentine. Tarentum becomes It Taronto, later Taranto, whence It tarantismo, whence SciL tarantismus and Med E tarantism, with var tarentism adapting F tarantisme (from Tarente, from It Taronto), a nervous complaint f/1 attributed to the bite of the tarantula, a large spider common to the country around Taranto. Tarantula is adopted from ML, which thus adapts It taràntola, from Taranto; cf the F tarentule, from the It var tarentola, from Taronto. At Tarantula Spring, in Nevada, was discovered that variety of rock which we call tarantulite (Min -ite).

2. The It people f/1 supposed the tarantula's bite to be curable by lively dancing, whence the tarantella, a var of taràntola (the spider); the F tarantelle derives from the It var tarentèlla.

tardy, whence tardiness; cf the element tardi-; retard, retardance, retardant, retardation, retardative, retardment.

L tardus, slow, is o.o.o.; from the adv tardē comes the VL-LL-ML extn tardivus*, whence OF-F tardif (OF-early MF nom tardis), f tardive, whence both E tardive and E tardy. Tardus has derivative v tardāre, with cpd retardāre, to cause to slow down so as to be re- or behind, whence MF-F retarder, whence 'to retard'; the presp retardans, o/s retardant-, and pp retardātus, with derivative retardātiō-, o/s retardātiōn-, yield E retardant and retardate, v, adj, n, and MF-F, hence E, retardation, whence, anl, retardative (cf F retardatif) and retardatory (cf F retardataire).

tare (1), (seed of) a vetch—like dial tarefitch, the wild vetch—app comes into ME from MD teeru, varr terwe, taruwe (MD-D tarwe), wheat: o.o.o. The wild vetch tends to grow in grain, esp wheat, fields.

tare (2), a reduction, an allowance; MF-F tare: It tara: Ar tarḥa, a deduction, lit what one throws away (rejects), from taraha, to throw (away), hence to reject, to deduct.

target comes from MF-F targette, dim of OF-F targe, a small, usu circular, shield; the latter, adopted by E, is now archaic. OF-F targe, from Frankish targa*, is akin to OE targe, OE and ON targa, a buckler, OHG zarga (G Zarge), a frame or a case.

Targum: H Targūm: Aram targūm, (an) interpretation.

tariff, like F tariffe, later tarif, comes from It tariffa: Ar ta'rif, notification, from 'arifa, to notify, to explain.

tarmac. See MACADAM.

tarn: ME terne: ult from ON tjarn (tiarn), var tjörn.

tarnish, v, whence n, derives from such parts of the MF-F ternir, to dull or dim, as presp ternissant and nous ternissons, we tarnish: of Gmc origin—cf OHG tarnjan, to hide, to obscure, and OE dearn, derne, OFris dern, OS derni, OHG arni, hidden, obscure.

taro is a Maori and Tahitian word: cf Samoan talo and prob Hawaiian kalo. (Tregear.)

tarot is adopted from EF-F tarot, which has the C16 var tarau: prob via It tarocci, pl tarocchi: Eg Tar, a specific god of the nether world, taru, the gods of that world. These cards, used in fortune-telling, bear 'pictures' of supernatural or divine powers, mostly inimical to man.

2. L Tartarus, trln of Gr Tartaros, the nether world (the infernal regions) of Gr myth, is ignored by the etymologists of Gr: but does not Tartaros=tar-tar+formative -o-+nom suffix -s, with tar-tar a redup of tar, a god of the underworld, adopted from the Eg tar of para 1? The adj Tartarean, -ian, substitutes -ean, -ian, for the -eus of L Tartareus, trln of Gr Tartareios.

3. Gr Tartaros, L Tartarus, has influenced the spellings Tartar, Tartary, qq.v. at TATAR.

4. Perh tar- is a Medit r: ? cf the Hit tarḥ-, to be powerful, to control: '(the) powerful (one)'.

tarpaulin. See TAR.

tarpon, a large A marine fish, is o.o.o.: as Webster points out, the D tarpoen and the Guiana native trapoeng perh both derive from E. tarragon. See DRAGON, para 4.

tarry (1), adj. See TAR (heading).

tarry (2), v, to vex or irritate (obs), to fatigue, to wait for, whence the vi, to wait, to delay: ME tarien, to vex, hinder, delay: OE tergan, tirgan, tyrgan, to vex or irritate: cf MD-D tergen, G zergen: OGmc (Western) targjan*: IE r, dergh-* (Kluge). The change from e to a was app caused by the syn OF-MF tarler, of the same origin; cf, however, Hit tarkumma-, to announce, to explain.

tarsal, adj (-al) of tarsus; tarsier; metatarsus. The last is a SciL cpd of meta-, between+tarsus; the 3rd, adopted from F, is an agential -ier derivative of EF-F tarse, from L tarsus: and tarsus itself is a trln of Gr tarsos, a hurdle for drying things on, a flat object, hence the flat of the foot. With the Attic var tarros, cf OHG darra, G Darre, a kiln. The IE r is perh ters-*, to dry (vt), as Hofmann proposes.

tart (1), adj, whence tartness, comes from OE teart, sharp, severe: perh cf 'to TEAR'.

tart (2), n, ME tarte, is adopted from MF-F tarte, perh orig a var of OF-F tourte, from LL torta (panis), a round (loaf of) bread, a cake, o.o.o. The sl tart, a prostitute, is short for jam tart, a sweet 'dish'.

tartan is o.o.o.: perh either a contr of MF-F tiretaine, itself o.o.o., or a contr of ME tartarin, lit a cloth or fabric 'of Tartary'. (B & W.) tartar (1). See TARTAR, para 2.

tartar (2), wine-sediment, hence a re-crystallized substance: ME tartre: EF-F tartre: MF tartaire: ML (presumably also LL, to judge by the LL adj tartarālis) tartarum: MGR tartaron: o.o.o.—Hence tartaric.

Tartar, a kind of Mongol, derives from ML Tartarus, a f/e reshaping—after L Tartarus, the nether world—of Per Tātār, whence the more correct form Tatar; Per Tātdr, of Tatar origin, affords the Oriental parallel to Gr barbaros (bar-bar-os), q.v. at BARBARIAN.

2. Fierce and ruthless soldiers, the Tatars occasioned the generic Tartar, usu written tartar. From Tatar, Tartar, derives Tatary, Tartary.

tartaric. See the 2nd TARTAR, s.f.

Tartarean (-ian), Tartarus. See TAROT, para 2.

task, taskmaster. See TACT, para 7.

Tasmania, whence Tasmanian (adj, hence n) and tasmanite (Min -ite), was, in 1853, named after the D navigator Abel Tasman (1602–59), who discovered it in 1642 and called it Van Diemen's Land.

tassel. See TALON, para 2.

taste, tasteful, tasteless, tasty. See TACT, para 8 and heading.

Tatar, Tatary. See TARTAR.

tat. See TATTING.

tatler. See TATTLE.

tatter, n, hence v, whence the pa tattered; tatterdemallion. Tatter, a part either torn and hanging, or torn off (a rag), is of Scan origin, with several modern cognates. A tatterdemalion or ragamuffin is perh a somewhat arbitrary cpd of tattered+mal, evil+agential -ion, or tattered+euphonic -e+mal, bad+one.

tatting, the process of making a knotted lace, derives, as does the v tat, from dial tat, a tuft of wool, of Scan origin: cf Ice taeta, to tease wool.

tattle (v, hence n)—whence tattler, (formerly) occ spelt tatler—derives from MD tatelen, to babble (var tateren), to stammer: echoic: cf BABBLE.

tattoo (1), a military call, hence an evening entertainment, is an easing of earlier taptoo: D taptoe, lit a tap(house)-shut: D tap, a faucet+toe (adj), shut, akin to TO.

tattoo (2), picture(s), etc., pricked indelibly into the skin, hence the v: Tahitian tatu, a puncturing—cf Maori ta, to paint, to tattoo. (Tregear.)

taught. See TEACH.

taunt (1), adj. See TAUT, para 2.

taunt (2), v, hence n. See TEMPT, para 5.

tauric, Taurid, taurine, Taurus. See the 1st STEER, para 2.

taut, whence tauten; taunt, adj.

1. Taut derives from EE taught, from ME toght, var ioht, tough, firm, binding, tight: ? akin to OE togian, tēon, to pull—or rather (OED) to TIGHT.

2. Perh related to taut is the naut taunt, very tall or high: o.o.o.: doubtfully from OF-MF auiant, to the full (EF-F so much).

tautochronous; tautology, whence tautological. See the element tauto-.

tavern, taverner; tabernacle, whence, anl, tabernacular; trabeated, trabecula—cf trave, architrave; thorp; troop (n, hence v), whence trooper (cf F troupier)—cf troupe, whence trouper.

1. Tavern is ME taverne, adopted from MF-F, which takes it from L taberna, perh orig any wooden habitation, but in practice a shop, esp a wine-shop: o.o.o.: perh either Etruscan (E & M) or a metathesis for traberna*, from L trabs, a wooden beam (Webster et alii).—L taberna has derivative tabernārius, a tavern-frequenter or -keeper, whence MF-F tavernier, adapted by E as taverner, archaic except as PN Taverner. Another derivative is the dim tabernāculum, a tent, LL the Jewish tabernacle: OF-F tabernacle, adopted by E.

2. L trabs (gen trabis), a beam, has Oscan and Umbrian cognates: cf also Lith trobà, a house, OBR, OW, EIr treb, a house, a homestead, EIr trebaim, I inhabit, and ON thorp, a small enclosure.

3. L trabs has dim trabecula, a little beam, adopted by Sci, with various specialized senses and with derivative adj trabecular. The adj trabal represents L trabālis (trab-, s and r of trabs+adj suffix -ālis); trabeated is an E formation.

4. L trabs, a beam, becomes OF-MF tréf, MF trave, whence MF-F travée, the space between beams, whence ME-E trave, used in Arch; cf architrave, adopted from EF-F, from It, architrave: archi-, principal+trave, from L trabs.

5. With ON thorp, a small enclosure (as in para 2), cf OHG-G dorf, a village, OS and OFris thorp, a hamlet, Go thaurp, a field, a farm, a landed estate, and OE thorp, a hamlet, retained by E—var thorpe—esp in PINn.

6. OE thorp has the metathetic var throp, which perh helps to explain the OGmc origin of LL-ML tropus, a herd, whence OF-F troupe, derivative agent F troupier, the former adopted, the latter adapted, by E, in their theatrical senses. OF-F troupe, orig a herd, whence a company of people, hence in military sense, becomes E troupe.

7. Note that the OGmc forms adduced in paras 2, 5, and 6, go back to the OGmc r thurb-; the IE r is turb-, as in L turba, Gr turbē, a crowd, a mob. (Walshe.)

taw (1), a 'shooter' in the game of marbles. Like the tee in certain ball-games, taw prob derives from the letter T used as a mark; the Gr name of that letter is tau. (EW.)

taw (2), to dress (hemp), obs—to prepare (hides and skins) with alum—comes, through ME tawen, from OE tāwian, to dress (hemp), hence to beat: cf OFris tāwa, OS tōian, Go taujan, MD tauwen, MD-D tāuwen, to make, to do. Cf TOOL, f.a.e.

tawdry, whence tawdriness, comes from tawdry laces, a contr of St Audrey's laces, necklets sold at St Audrey's fair mediævally held at Ely: St Audrey ult derives from OE Aethelthryth, latinized as Etheldreda.

tawny. See TAN, para 3.

tax, taxable, taxation. See TACT, para 7.

taxis; taxonomy. See TACTIC, para 2.—For taxidermy, cf the element taxeo- (taxi-).

tea; 'char'; theine or thein. The 3rd derives from F théine (Chem suffix -ine), from F thé (1664); and thé, like the E tea, prob derives from Mal tēh (whence the early pron tay—perh influenced by the id F pron).

2. Mal tēh is an adaptation of Ch chia or tcha, whence E cha, a specified rolled tea, and sl char, any tea.

teach, pt taught (ME taughte, earlier tahte: OE tāhte, tāhte), pp taught (OE getāeht, getāht); hence teacher and pa teaching (the vn comes from OE tāēcung, var tāēcung);—teen, n and v; token, n and v—whence betoken.—insurance policy.

1. 'To teach' or show, guide (obs senses), hence to guide educationally, to show to (someone) by way of instruction, derives, via ME techen, from OE tāecan, akin to OE tācen, tācn, a token, whence, indeed, ME taken, later token—as still in E. With OE tāecnian, cf OFris tēknia and OHG zeihhinēn, MHG zeichnen, G zeichnen, to provide with means of recognition or knowing, and OHG zeigōn, MHG-G zeigen, to show; with OE tācen, tācn, cf OFris tēcan, OS tēcan, OHG zeihan, MHG-G zeichnen, Go taikns, ON teikn. With both, cf—further off—L dicere, to show, hence to say, and Gr deiknumi, I show: f.a.e., DICT.

2. Akin to the OGmc words cited above are the now mainly dial teen, injury, grief, vexation, and 'to teen' or harm, distress, vex: ME tene, from OE tēona, injury, reproach, and OE tynan, tēonian, to vex, to slander, to accuse: cf the ON tjōn (tjōn), n, and OE tēon, OFris tiōna, tiūna, OS tiohan, OHG zihan, MHG zihen, G zeihen, to accuse, Go gateihan, to proclaim.

3. Gr deiknumai, to show, has cpd apodeiknumai (apo-, off), to show forth, whence apodeixis, a proof, ByzGr a receipt, whence ML apodixa, a receipt, whence It pólizza, MF-F police, orig a certificate, then, C16 onwards, a contract, whence the E policy of insurance.

teak: Port teca: tēkka, tēkku, in Malayalam, a Dravidic language, spoken on India's Malabar coast. Cf the F teck, orig teka.

teal comes from ME tele: cf—perh a b/f from—D teling, var taling, MD taling, var talinc: o.o.o.

team, whence teamster and teamwork, is ME tem, team, from OE tēam, offspring, a line of harnessed animals: cf LG toom, offspring, team, bride, MD tome, MD-D toom, a bride, OHG-MHG zoum, G Zaum, ON taumr, a bridle: akin to OHG ziohan, MHG-G ziehen, to draw or pull: therefore of the E 'to tow'.

tear (1) in the eye, whence tearful and tearless; lachryma, lachrymal, lachrymatory, lachrymose; cf the element dacryo-.

1. Tear, ME ter, tere, OE tēar, tæher, tēagor, is akin to OFris tār, OHG zahar, MHG zaker, G Zähre, Go taqr, ON tār; OIr der, Ga deur, W dagr, Cor dagar, dager, OC dakrū*; Gr dakru, extn dakruma, whence OL dacruma, whence—cf lingua for dingua—lacruma, usu in var lacrima; IE etymon dakru*.

2. L lacrima has the inferior spelling lachryma, which has shaped all the E derivatives:

lachrymal, from ML lachrymālis, lacrimālis; lachrymatory, LL lacrimatōrius; lachrymose, L lacrimōsus.

tear (2), to rend, whence the n; pt tore (archaic tare); pp tor.

'To tear', ME teren, OE teran, is related to OFris tera, to consume, OS farterian (far-, akin to G ver-, int prefix), to consume, OHG firzeran, to destroy, MHG verzern, G zehren, to consume, use up, Go gatairan, to destroy, MD eer, MD-D teren, to consume, ON taera, to use, to use up—also to OHG zerrēn, MHG-G zerren, to pull about, to tear; OB derō, I tear, and Lith dirti, to flay; Arm terem, I flay; Gr derō, I flay; Skt dar-, to burst, darndti, he bursts; IE r, der-*, to rend, esp to flay.

tease, v (whence teaser and teasing), whence n; teasel; touse, whence touser or towser, a large, boisterous dog; tousle and tussle.

1. 'To tease', ME tesen, OE tāesan, to pluck, to disentangle, to comb, were orig applied to flax and wool: cf MD tēsen, tesen, D teezen, OHG zeisan, MHG-G zeisen: perh echoic.

2. Akin to OE tāesan is OE tāesel, ME tesel, E teasel: cf OHG zeisila. The teasel has a flowered head, with very stiff, hooked bracts; dried, the head was formerly used to produce a nap on woollen fabrics.

3. Akin to ME tesen is ME -tousen, -tusen, akin to OFris tūsen, to pull about, to rend, and OHG zizūsōn, MHG zizūsen, G zausen, to tousle: 'perh' (as Walshe suggests) 'related to L -dumus "bramble" (for dusmos*)'.

