4. ME -tusen acquires the freq 'to tussle'—a sense-differentiated doublet of tousle.

teasel. See para 2 of prec.

teat: ME, from OF-MF, tete (F tette): OGmc (western) titta*: cf MHG-G zitze, MLG and MD tiite, and OE tit, titt, whence, via ME titte, this particular pron, now held to be vulgar: cf Arm-tit, breast, and Gr tithē (τίθη), nipple: IE r, dhei-*, to suck (Hofmann). Cf TITILLATE.

technic, adj (with extn technical, whence technicality) and n (cf technics)—technician—technique; cf the element techni-, var techno-, where see, e.g.

technology; tectonic, adj and n (usu in pl), architectonic, adj and n (cf architectonics)—architect, architecture (whence architectural); test (a shell, a cupel, a trial), testaceous, testudo—cf tester, testy, tête-à-tête; text, textile (adj, hence n), textual, texture (whence textural)—context (whence, anl, contextual), contexture—pretext, n, hence v; anis, whence tissual; toga; toil, a snare, usu in pl—toilet, toilette; telary (with derivative syn telarian)—cf tiller of a boat; cf the sep subtle; tectum, tegula, tegument, tile (n, hence v)—thatch, n and v (whence thatcher)—cpds detect, detection, detective, detector, and protect, protection, protective, protector (whence protectorate).

1. The interrelationships of Gr tekhñē, a manual skill, and Gr tektōn, a carpenter, with L tegere, to cover, and L texere, to weave, are not entirely clear: but that the two L words are related to each other, and the Gr to the L, can hardly be doubted. Sem, building (lit and fig) is either stated or implied in all three groups; phon, the relationship is abundantly clear.

Gr tekhñē

2. Gr tekhñē (s and r tekhñ-, extn of tekh-), a working with the hands, a craft, manual skill, an art, art, is akin to Gr tektōn, Skt tákṣan, a carpenter, a builder, and Skt tákṣati, he forms, constructs, carpenters; phon id with tákṣati is L texere, to weave, hence, fig, to construct, with pp textus. Cf also the Hit takkss- (taks-), to join, build. Prob akin to those Skt, Gr, L words is L tegere, to cover, hence to put a roof onto, with s teg- and pp tectus. At first sight distinct from all these words, the L tēla, a weaving, a web, represents the IE etymon teksala*, whence tesla*, whence tēla (Hofmann). The IE r is tekth-, to put in hand, work on, build, carpenter, which app has the transitional form tekh-.

3. The adj of Gr tekhñē is tekhnikos, whence the F technique and the E technic, with the -al extn technical. The F adj technique soon became also n, adopted—finally—by E; the derivative F technicien produces E technician.

Gr tektōn

4. Gr tektōn, a carpenter, a builder, perh for tektōn* (tekhñ-* an extn of tekh-), has adj tektionikos, whence LL tectonicus, whence E tectonic, whence the n tectonics.

5. A Gr master-builder, an architect, is an arkhitektōn, with arkhi- connoting 'chief, principal'; the adj arkhitektonikos becomes LL architectonicus, MF-F architectonique, E architectonic, used also as n, mostly in pl. Arkhitektōn, moreover, becomes L architecton, latinized still further to architectus, whence EF-F architecte, whence E architect; L architectus has derivative architectūra, whence EF-F architecture, adopted by E.

L tegere

6. L tegere, to cover, s and r teg-, has pp tectus, whence tectum, a roof, adopted by An, with adj tectal; the L c/f tecti- occurs in E: see the element tecti-.

7. From tegere derives L tegumen, a covering, var tegmentum, with contrr tegmēn, tegmentum, both adopted by SciE; tegmentum becomes (F tégument and) E tegment. Also from tegere, but with vowel-change, comes L toga, a covering, hence a garment, esp a Roman citizen's (formal) outer garment, a sense preserved in E. L toga becomes MF-EF togue, EF-F toge, adopted by EE, whence the underworld togeman (-man, a suffix), a cloak, a coat, whence, by b/f, the underworld, later sl, tog, a coat, pl togs, outer garments, clothes.

8. Also from tegere derives L tegula, a tile, adopted by An, with adj tegar. Tegula becomes OE tigule, anglicized further as tigele, contrr to tigle, whence ME tigel, contrr to tile, retained by E. Akin to L tegula, a tile, and tectum, a roof, is OE thaec, a roof, with numerous cognates in Gmc, both old and modern; thaec yields ME thak and thacche, the latter giving us thatch; the cognate OE theccan, theccēan, becomes ME theccen, whence, after the n, 'to thatch'.

9. L tegere has prefix-cpds; two affect E; dētegere and prōtegere. Dētegere, to uncover, to expose, has pp dēiectus, whence the E adj and v detect; the LL derivatives dēiectiō, o/s dēiectiōn-, and dēictor account for E detection (whence, anl, detective, adj, hence n) and detector.

10. L prōtegere, to cover prō- or in front, hence to shelter or guard, has pp prōtectus, whence 'to protect'. The LL derivatives prōiectiō, o/s prōiectiōn-, and prōictor become E protection (via OF-F) and protector (cf the MF-F protecteur). Protective derives anl from protection; protégé is prop the pp of MF-F protéger, to protect.

L texere

11. L texere, to weave, prob stands for tegere* a weakening of teghsere*, var of tekhserē* (r tekh-* + extn s- + inf suffix -ere). Its pp textus has the derivative n textus (gen -ūs), something woven, hence the 'woven' structure of a narrative, hence tenor, narrative, whence the modern sense 'text': whence OF-F texte, with modern sense from C13 onwards (B & W); whence E text. Derivative late MF-F textuel yields E textual. L textūra, tissue, becomes late MF-F texture, adopted by E; and L textilis, woven, becomes F and E textile.

12. L texere becomes OF-EF tistre (reshaped, by F, to tisser), with pp tissu, used in MF-F as n, whence E tissue.

13. L texere has two prefix-cpds affecting E: contexere and praetexere. Contexere, to weave con- or together, hence to join, has pp contextus, whence the n contextus (gen -ūs), whence EF-F contexte and, perh independently, E context; from the L pp, EF-F has, after L textūra, coined contexture, adopted by E. Praetexere, to weave prae- or in front, hence to allege in excuse, has pp praetextus, neu praetextum, used as n, whence EF-F prétexte, whence E pretext.

14. Prob akin to the L pp and n testus are L testa, an earthen vessel of baked clay, hence a shell, a potsherd, and L testū or testum, an earthen vessel. From testa comes the Zoo test, a hard outer shell. L testa has the derivative L testāceus, lit '(made) of baked earth', whence testaceus; the L neu testāceum is used as n for a shell-covered creature, whence the Zoo Testacea, the order of such creatures, whence the E adj, hence n, testacean. Cf the L testūdō, a tortoise, its shell, hence a protective cover, a word very closely related to testū, an earthen vessel; from the o/s testūdin- come the E formation testudinal and the L testūdinātus, whence E testudinate.

15. L testum, the var of testū, an earthen vessel, becomes OF-MF test (F tēt), potsherd, shell, that refining vessel the cupel, whence ME-E teste, EE-E test, orig a cupel, hence a means of refining, therefore of testing, hence—from examination, or trial, by cupel—any critical examination or trial; whence 'to test', whence the agent tester and the pa, vn testing.

16. As early as in L, the senses—esp the derivative senses—of testa and testum became confused; both of the L words came to mean 'the skull'; in VL, testa went further, for it came to designate 'the head', in which sense it occurs in OF-MF teste (F tête), whence MF testiere (F têteière), a headpiece, a helmet, whence the syn ME testere, whence E tester, a bed-canopy frame, the canopy itself; whence also MF testu (F têtu), obstinate, headstrong, perh suggesting the AF testif, E testy, petulant, irascible, irritable.

17. OF-MF teste, head, becomes EF-F tête, whence the adv phrase tête à tête, head to head, intimately, whence the n tête-à-tête, an intimate conversation; both adopted by E.

18. Cognate with L texere, to weave, is L tēla, a weaving, a web: cf para 2, s.f. From tēla derives the E telary (adj suffix -ary), web-spinning, prob influenced by ML tēlarium, a weaver's beam, whence MF telier, var tellier, whence E tiller, now only—except in dial—a boat's 'lever' for steering.

19. L tēla becomes OF-MF teile, later toile, a cloth, cloth, a spider's web, whence toiles (pl), nets; whence E toil, a net, toils, snares. OF-MF teile has dim MF telleite, later toilette, a little cloth, then, in EF-F, a cloth for keeping toilet accessories clean, hence the table on which they are placed, then, C17, the act of dressing or adorning oneself, finally, in C18, clothes and adornments, whence, naturally, the current senses, all adopted by E and anglicized in form toilet, whence toiletry.

techy. See the 2nd TACHE.

tectal. See TECHNIC, para 6.

tectonic(s). See TECHNIC, para 4.

tectum. See TECHNIC, para 6.

ted, to spread (grass) for drying, whence tedder, prob derives from ON tethja (s teth-), to dung (a field)—which entails spreading: cf ON tath, dung, and OHG zettēn, to spread out: perh cf Gr dateomai, I share out—which entails spreading—and Skt ditás (adj), shared, distributed: IE r, det-*, to spread, distribute, share.

teddy bear: Teddy (pet-form of Theodore) Roosevelt (1858–1919), ref his fondness for big-game hunting.

Teddy boy is a would-be 'tough', dressed in a parody of the outer garments characteristic of a smart young fellow in the reign of Edward (Teddy) VII: 1901–10.

tedious, tedium. The latter represents L taedium, disgust, LL sadness, grief, whence LL taediōsus, sad, irksome, the latter sense predominating in MF tedieus (MF-EF tedieux), whence E tedious: and L taedium derives from taedet, it is disgusting, LL it irks: o.o.o.

tee in certain ball-games. See the 1st TAW.

teem (1), to be pregnant, to produce fruit, hence to be prolific; whence the pa, vn teeming: ME temen: OE tēman, occ týman and tieman: cf OE tēam, offspring, therefore of TEAM.

teem (2), to pour out, to empty (now only dial), hence, vi, to rain (very) heavily: ME temen: ON toema: cf OFris tēma, OS tōmian, to empty, and ON tōmr, OE tōm, OS tōmig, OHG zuomig, empty.

2. From OE tōm, ME tom, comes the mainly dial toom, empty.

teen. See TEACH, para 2.

teenage, teenager, teens. See TEN, para 4. teeter. See TITTER.

teeth; teethe. See TOOTH.

teetotal; teetotum. See TOTAL, para 4.

tegula, tegular. See TECHNIC, para 8.

tegument. See TECHNIC, para 7.

teind. See TEN, para 5.

tel in Ar PINn; tell, a mound, a hill. The former is a var of the latter: and the latter, used by archaeologists to denote an ancient and artificial mound containing relics of a past civilization, is the Ar tall.

telary. See TECHNIC, para 18.

tele- See Prefixes.

telegram. See GRAMMAR, para 6.

telegraph. See GRAMMAR, para 9.

teleology. See the element teleo-.

telepathic comes, anl, from telepathy, coined by the E author and psychologist F. W. H. Myers (1843–1901) in 1882: tele-, from afar+pathy, a feeling (f.a.e., PATHIC).

telephone, telephonic, telephonist, telephony. See PHONE, para 3.

telescope (n, hence v), whence telescopic: EF-F télescope: SciL telescopium, from Gr tēleskopos, far-seeing or -viewing (f.a.e., SCOPE).

television: tele-, from after+vision (q.v. at VIDE).

tell (1), a mound. See TEL.

tell (2), to relate—pt (OE tealde) and pp told (OE geteald), whence teller and pa, vn telling; tale (whence telltale, n, hence adj);—talk (v, hence n), whence talkative (suffix -ative), talker, talking;—tall, whence tallboy.

1. 'To tell,' OE tellan, to state, narrate, count, is akin to OFris tella, OS tellian, OHG zellēn, MD telen, MD-D tellen, to count, and ON telja, to count, to say.

2. Akin to OE tellan is OE talū, a narrative, (a) speech, whence E tale: cf ON tal, tala, speech, a number, with modern Scan cognates—OS tala, speech, a number, OFris tale, tele, OHG zala, MHG zal, G Zahl, MD-D tal, number, MD tale, D taal, speech: ? ult akin to tally, q.v. at the 2nd TAIL, para 4.

3. 'To talk,' ME talken, is akin to Efris talken; the ME talken is app an int, from OE tellan, to say, to tell.

4. Prob akin to the OE-ME words noted above is tall, orig docile, quick to learn: ME tal, docile, seemly, tall: OE getael (pl getale), quick (whether physically or mentally), ready (e.g., to learn): cf Go untals, indocile, slow to learn, OHG gizal, quick. telluric, tellurium, tellurous. See the element telluri-.

temerarious; temerity. See TENEBOUS, para 2. temper, v, hence n; temperament, whence temperamental; temperance, temperate—intemperance, intemperate; temperative; temperature; tempera; temper, to meddle; distemper, n and v.—tempest, tempestuous—cf intempestive;—tempo, temporal (both senses), temporality; temporary; temporize, temporization; contemporaneous, contemporary, adj, hence n; extemporal, extemporaneous, extempore, extempore.—temple, whether Eccl or An—Templar; template or templet.—tense (grammatical).—contemplate, contemplation, contemplative, contemplator, contemplatory.

1. The interconnexions of the temper-tempest, temporal-temple groups are not at all points clear; there is some doubt whether these groups are indeed connected. The degree and the validity of the doubt will emerge.

L temperāre

2. First of all, 'to temper with', deriving from F tempérer (L temperāre), is a doublet of 'to temper'—cf the latter in its tech sense 'to mix (clay) with water', perh influenced by F tremper, earlier temperer.

3. The n temper, orig the state of a compound having ingredients proportionately mixed, comes straight from 'to temper', to mix proportionately, hence to regulate or determine by mixing, hence esp by moderating: OE temprīan, to mix proportionately, to regulate, to moderate: cf the syn ON tempra, OHG temprōn (temparōn), MLG temperen: all from L temperāre; the E word was influenced by OF-MF temperer (F tempérer), likewise from the syn L temperāre, s temper-, prob a vocalization of tempr-*, extn of r temp-: o.o.o.: perh, as many hold, akin to L tempus (s and r temp-), time.

4. L temperāre has presp temperans, o/s temperant- (cf the obs E adj temperant), whence temperantia, whence MF temperance (F tempérance) and, perh independently, E temperance; the L neg intemperantia becomes MF-F intemperance, E intemperance. The pp temperātus, used as adj, and the neg intemperātus yield the E adj temperate and intemperate. On the pps temperāt- are formed LL temperātiusus, ML -ivus, whence E temperative, and L temperātūra, due measure or proportion, temperament, temperature, whence EF-F température and prob independently E temperature. From the pres s temper- comes L temperamentum, due measure or proportion, hence a man's physical 'balance', hence the modern sense: EF-F tempérament and prob independently E temperament. Finally, L temperāre remains It temperare, with derivative n tempera, adopted by painters throughout the civilized world.

5. L temperāre has the LL prefix-cpd distemperāre, to mix badly, hence to disorder (cf the Med LL-ML distemperantia, unhealthy air conditions); whence MF destemperer, whence E 'to distemper' or disorder, derange, whence the n distemper, malady, esp of a particular kind among dogs. But LL distemperāre also means 'to mix', the dis- being, here, vaguely int: MF destemperer (var destemperer, F détemperer), to soak, to steep, later to mix colours, in a certain way, whence the painters' v, whence n, distemper.

L tempus

6. Perh akin to L temperāre, which may orig have borne the connotation 'to do things at the right time—the suitable season', is L tempus, time, esp in its fractional aspect, hence a season; s and r temp-; ult IE r, as for temperāre and also for templum, perh tem-, to cut, hence to divide (cf TOME).

7. L tempus becomes OF tens, reshaped, in C14, to temps; whence the E tense, time-indication in Grammar. It also—from being misapprehended as m instead of neu—becomes It tempo, whence the European Mus term tempo.

8. L tempus has o/s tempor-, whence several L derivatives germane to E:

temporalis, of or in time, LL worldly (not of eternity, not spiritual); whence E temporal and F temporel, in OF-MF sometimes temporal; derivative LL temporalitās yields temporality;

LL temporāneus, E temporaneous (now rare);

L temporārius, E temporary and EF-F temporaire;

ML temporizāre, to pass the time, MF-F temporiser, whence EF-F temporisation; whence E 'to temporize' and temporization.

9. From L tempus comes the OL tempestus (adj suffix -estus), timely, superseded by tempestiusus, ML -ivus, with neg intempestiusus, ML -ivus; whence E tempestive and intempestive, both now rare.

10. From the L adj tempestus derive the nn tempesta* and tempestius, the latter superseded by tempestās, whence the LL adj tempestuōsus, whence MF tempestueus (M tempêteueux), f tempestueuse, whence E tempestuous; E tempest, however, comes from OF-MF tempeste (F tempête), itself from VL tempesta*, time, a period of time, a season good or bad, esp the latter, hence a storm.

11. LL temporāneus and L temporārius, as in para 8, have—either in or anl with L—prefix-cpds in con-, with, here connoting synchrony, and ex-, out of, here connoting unexpectedness:

L contemporāneus, living or happening, hence originating, in the same period, whence E contemporaneous, whence, anl, contemporaneity: cf EF-F contemporain and, perh the imm source of the E word, F contemporanéité;

L contemporāneus and LL contemporālis contribute to the formation of E contemporary;

LL extemporāneus, extempore, yields E extemporaneous; but the E extemporary derives—after temporary—from E extempore, adj from adv, spoken at the time, without preparation, from L ex tempore, out of time, therefore immediately, at the very time the occasion arises, precise time, the very moment.

L templum (1), a place of religious worship

12. The L templum, s templ-, r temp-, was orig that space 'cut off' or demarcated, by the augur, in the heavens and on earth, in which he collected and interpreted omens, hence a space consecrated to the gods, a precinct, hence the edifice in which they were worshipped (E & M): whence OF-F temple, adopted by E. Situated near the Jewish temple in Jerusalem was the headquarters building of the military order, created in C12, of MF-F 'les Templiers' (B & W), whence 'the Templars'.

L templum (2), a transverse beam

13. Either from the transverse lines traced by the augur in the templum or sacred space or from the figure traced by the transverse beams determining the orig simple templum or sacred edifice comes L templum, a transverse beam (E & M): whence MF-F temple, whence the E weaving term temple; MF-F temple has the (obs) dim templet, adopted by E, which, by f/e after plate, anglicizes it as template.

E temple of the head

14. Influenced by L templum, E temple—as in para 12 (and perh as in para 13)—becomes also 'the space that, on either side of the head, lies behind the eye and adjoins the forehead'. This E temple is adopted from OF-EF temple (EF-F tempe): VL tempula*, a dim formed from L tempora, pl of tempus (o/s tempor-), the An temple, used mostly in the pl, with LL adj temporalis, whence EF-F temporal, adopted by E. Despite the contrary opinion of numerous Classical and other scholars, L tempus, the An temple, is prob id with the earlier-recorded, far more widely used, L tempus, time: in the temples one can see the beat of that Physio chronometer pulse.

L contemplāre

15. From L templum, a precinct, a sacred edifice, derives L contemplāre, var -āri, to view con- or intensely or long: either because, from a temple precinct or a temple edifice, the augur can see all around him or because the temple itself can be seen from all sides, as Varro indicated in C1 B.C. Contemplāre has presp contemplans, o/s contemplant-, whence the E contemplant, adj and n, and pp contemplātus, whence 'to contemplate'. On the pps contemplāt- are formed these words relevant to E:

contemplātiō, acc contemplātiōnem, OF-F contemplation, adopted by E; contemplātūus, ML -ivus, OF-F contemplatif, f -ive, adopted by E; contemplātor, whence—perh via MF-F contemplateur—E contemplator;

LL contemplātōrius, whence E contemplatory. From the pres s contempl- derives LL contemplābilis, visible, whence E contemplable, able to be contemplated.

Indo-European

16. One does not need to be a profound philosopher nor even an acute philologist to be able to perceive that in L temperāre, to mix judiciously (as strong liquor with water: cf, sem, the F couper le vin), to regulate, to modify—in L tempus, time finite or divided into seasons or periods, hence in L tempētās—in L tempus, the An temple—and in L templum, a delimited space, a transverse beam, the idea 'to cut, to cut out, to cut off', hence of 'division, whether spatial or temporal' (the notorious space-time continuum, as valid in language as in science), is either clearly denoted or potently connoted.

17. That, phon, the IE r is tem-, var ten-, and that, sem, tem-* or ten-* signifies 'to cut, to cut off or out' is, one would suppose, incontrovertible; the only L word perh foreign to the group is temperāre. Cf the TOME group.

18. Without cluttering the ground with a mass of IE cognates, one should adduce as esp significant such words as Gr temnein, to cut (pret etemon and etamon), pres s temn-, r tem-, and the cognate temenos (? for temnos*), syn, in all important aspects, with religious templum.

tempera. See prec, para 4, s.f. temperament; temperance, temperant; temperate, temperative; temperature. See TEMPER, para 4.

tempest, tempestive, tempestuous. See TEMPER, paras 9 and 10.

Templar. See TEMPER, para 12.

template. See TEMPER, para 13.

temple (1), anatomical. See TEMPER, para 14.

temple (2), religious. See TEMPER, para 12.

temple (3), transverse beam; in weaving. See TEMPLE, para 13.

templet. See TEMPER, para 13.

tempo. See TEMPER, para 7.

temporal (1), anatomical. See TEMPER, para 14.

temporal (2), of time; temporality; temporaneous; temporary; temporize. See TEMPER, para 8.

tempt (whence tempter and pa, vn tempting), temptation; tent, a probe, a roll of lint, and tent, to probe; taunt, v, hence n; tentacle, whence, anl, the adj tentacul (cf spectacle—spectacular)—cf tentative; attempt, v, hence n.

1. 'To tempt' comes, through ME tempten, tenten, and OF-MF tempter, MF-F tenter, from L temptāre, to touch, to feel experimentally, to try or test, to undertake, to attack: in form a freq, temptāre is o.o.o.—and distinct from tentāre, to agitate, a freq-int of tendere, to stretch; tentāre has influenced the VL form of L temptāre, the MF-F form tenter, the ME tenten, E 'to tent'.

2. Temptāre has pp temptātus, whence temptātiō, o/s temptātiōn-, whence OF-MF temptation (later temptation), adopted by E.

3. Temptāre has the cpd atemptāre, to feel ad or towards, whence MF-EF atempter, atempter (EF-F attenter), whence 'to atempt'.

4. MF-F tenter leads to the surgical E 'to tent'; the MF-F derivative n tente becomes the E n tent, orig a probe, hence lint used in surgical dressing.

5. MF-F tenter has MF-EF var tanter, whence E 'to taunt'—which exhibits a specialized sem development.

6. L temptāre, often eased to tentāre, has the SciL derivative tentāculum, whence E tentacle, with adj tentacular (cf the F tentaculaire, from tentacule, from tentāculum); it also has the derivative ML adj tentātīvus, whence E tentative; the E n tentative was prob suggested by the EF-F n tentative, from the scholastic ML tentātiva (prop the f of the adj), a university test or examination.

ten, tenth—cf -teen, -tenth, and teenage, teenager, and -ty (as in twenty, thirty, etc.); teind; tithe and tithing; cf the sep DECEM group.

1. Ten, OE tēn or tȳn, contr of tien, is akin to OFris tiān (contr tēne, tīne), OS tehan, OHG zehan, MHG zehen, G zehn, Go taihun, MD-D tien, ON tīu, and Arm tasn; the other IE cognates are of the Gr deka, L decem, OIr deich, Skt daśa types—see DECEM.

2. In the numbers thirteen–nineteen, -teen, whence -tenth, derives from OE -tēne, -tȳne, contr of -tiene, with cognates in the other Gmc languages; and in the numbers twenty–ninety, -ty (whence -tieth) derives from OE -tig, with OGmc cognates.

3. E tenth = ten + -th, the -th deriving from ME tethe, from OE tēoþa, tenth: cf, e.g., MD tende, tinde, MD-D tiende, and OFris tiānda.

4. Teenage—whence teenager—is for teensage*: one's teens (13–19), from -teen (para 2) + age.

5. OE tien, tēn, becomes ME tyen, teon, tēne, 10, whence ME teind, teinde (and tend, tende), 10th, which, used as n, accounts for the Sc teind, a tithe.

6. Tithe itself derives from the ME n use of tithe, var of tethe, from OE tēoþa, tēoþeþa, 10th (as in para 3). OE tēoþa has derivative v tēoþian, whence both 'to tithe' and OE tēoþung, whence tithing.

tenable; tenace, tenacious, tenacity, tenaculum, tenaille—tenancy, tenant (n, hence v; hence also tenantry)—tenement—tenet—tenon—tenor and tenure. Cpds: abstain, abstention, abstinence, abstinent; sep CONTAIN, CONTENT, CONTINENCE, CONTINENT—INCONTINENCE, INCONTINENT—CONTINUAL, CONTINUE, CONTINUANCE; sep DETAIN, DETENTION; sep ENTERTAIN, ENTERTAINMENT; sep MAINTAIN, MAINTENANCE; obtain, obtention; sep PERTAIN, PERTINENCE, PERTINENT—IMPERTINENCE, IMPERTINENT—APPERTAIN; retain (whence the agential retainer), retainer (legal), retent, retention, retentive, retentor—retinue; sustain (whence, anl, sustention, whence sustentive), sustenance, sustenant, sustentation (whence, anl, sustentative), sustentator.

1. All these words derive from L tenēre, to hold, (vi) to hold firm, to endure; presp tenens, o/s tenent-; pp tenus (for tenetus*); c/f -tinēre, presp -tinens, o/s -tinent-, pp -tenus; derivative abstract nn, -tinentia and -tentiō, o/s -tentiōn-: derivative parts and forms that recur throughout the group with a notable regularity, as does -tain (indicating passage through F). L tenēre is intimately related to L tendere (s tend-, r ten-), to stretch: f.a.e., TEND.

Simples

2. L tenēre becomes OF-F tenir, whence OF-F tenable, adopted by E; the OF-F presp tenant, used as n by MF-F, has also been adopted. Tenancy, however, prob = tenant + -cy, although it has perh been influenced by ML tenentia (presp o/s tenent- + -ia)—cf also the OF-MF tenance. OF-F tenir has other derivatives affecting E: OF-EF tenement (perh imm from ML tenementum), adopted by E; OF-F tenure, adopted by E. Tenor, coming straight from L, perh owes something to OF-MF teneor, AF tenour, a holder (F teneur); but tenon, in carpentry, is adopted from MF-F, which forms it from OF-F tenir.

3. L tenet, he holds, becomes the E tenet, a belief held to be true; L tenāx, acc tenācem (o/s tenāc-), and its derivative tenācītās, acc tenācītātem, becomes EF-F tenace (which, as n, is adopted by E), influencing E tenacious (L tenāc- + Ē ious), and late MF-F tenacitē, whence E tenacity. LL tenāculum (ten- + āculum), adopted by SciE, has pl tenācula, used by VL as a sing f n, whence OF-F tenaille, a pair of pincers, hence (MF-F) a term used in fortification and adopted by E, as is the derivative MF-F tenaillon.

Compounds

4. L tenēre has the foll prefix-cpd vv relevant to E: abstinēre, continēre, dētinēre, obtinēre, pertinēre (corresp adj pertināx—E pertinacious), retinēre, sustinēre. See the sep entries at CONTAIN, DETAIN, ENTERTAIN, MAINTAIN, PERTAIN.

5. Abstinēre, to hold (oneself) ab or from, to withhold (vt and vi), becomes MF-F abstenir (mostly as vr), ME *abstene*n, *absteyne*n, E 'to abstain'; the presp abstinens, o/s abstinent-, and its derivative n abstinentia become OF-F abstinent and abstinence, both adopted by E; the pp abstentus has derivative LL abstentiō, o/s abstentiōn-, whence E abstention.

6. L obtinēre (ob, towards, against), to get hold of, either with effort or purposely, becomes MF-F obtenir (s obten-), whence 'to obtain'; derivative LL obtentio (pps obtent-+-io), acc obtentioñem, yields EF-F obtention, adopted by E.

7. L retinēre, to hold -re or back, to keep possession of, becomes VL retenere*, whence OF-F retenir (s reten-), whence ME reteynen, retaynen, E 'to retain'; used as n, OF-F reténir yields the legal retainer; derivative OF-F retenue (cf the pp retenu) is adopted by ME and becomes E retinue. L retinēre has pp retentus, neu retentum, which, used as n, yields the Psy retent; on the pp s retent- are formed L retentiō, acc retentiōñem, whence MF-F retention, adopted by E, and retentor, adopted by E, and ML retentivus, whence MF-EF retentif, E retentive.

8. L sustinēre, to hold sub-, for sub-, from under, to uphold, yields VL sustinere*, OF-MF sustenir (var sostenir; EF-F soutenir), ME sustenen, sustinen, E 'to sustain'. The L presp sustinens, o/s sustinent-, yields MF-EF sustenant (sostenant; F soutenant), E sustenant (archaic adj), and the derivative LL sustinentia, endurance, at least prompted MF-EF sustenance (EF-F soutenance), adopted by E. L sustinēre has the int sustentāre, to maintain, with pp sustentātus, whence both the LL sustentātiō, acc sustentātiōñem, MF-F sustentation, adopted by E, and LL sustentātor, likewise adopted.

tenace (in card-games). See prec, para 3.

tenacious, tenacity. See TENABLE, para 3.

tenaculum; tenaille. See TENABLE, para 3.

tenacity, tenant. See TENABLE, para 2.

tench: MF-EF tenche (F tanche): LL tinca: prob of C (Gaul) origin, 'from a nasalization of tic, to dye, with the sense of spotting with little dots' (Malvezin¹): cf the Poitou dial tinche (Malvezin). tend, to attend. See next, para 7, s.f.

tend, tendance, tendency, tendent, tendential and tendentious; tender, agent—legal n—v; tendon, tendinous; tense (adj, hence v), tensile, tension (obs tention), tensive, tenson, tensor; tent, a portable cloth shelter, tenter, a frame for stretching cloth, whence tenterhook, whence 'be on tenterhooks'; tentorium, whence, anl, tentorial.—Cpds: attend, attendance, attendant (adj, hence n)—attensity.—attent, attention, attentive, whence the negg inattention (but perh adoption from F) and inattentive (cf the F inattentif); contend, contention, contentious; detent, détente; distend, distention; extend, extense, extensible, extension, extensive, extensor, extent; intend, intendment, intense (whence intensify, whence, anl, intensification), intention, intensive, intent (adj and n), intention, intentional, intensive—cf 'double entendre' and 'entente cordiale'; ostend, ostensible, ostension, ostensive, ostensory, ostent, ostentation, ostentatious; portend, portent, portentous; pretend (whence pretender), pretendant, pretense (pretence), pretension (pretention), pretentious; pretend, proten-sion (whence, anl; proten-sive), proten-sity; subtend, subtense (adj and n); superintend, superintendence, superintendent—cf intendance, superintendent.—The allied group: thin, adj (whence thinness) and v (whence the pa, vn thinning); tenuity, tenuous—attenuate (adj and v, whence attenuator), attenuation—extenuate (whence extenuator), extenuation, extenuatory; tender, adj, whence tenderfoot, tenderloin, tenderness; tendrill and tendron; tetanus (whence, anl, tetanism, tetelize, tetanioid) and tetanic; hypotenuse; tone, tonal, tonality, tonic (adj and n)—whence, resp, the negg atonic, atonal, atonicity—intonation, intone—cf the element tono-.—Cf the sep DANCE and esp the sep TENABLE.

Indo-European

1. All these words spring from the IE r ten-* (varr tan-, tein-, ton-, tun-, occ with d for t-), to stretch (? also to span): cf Ve tanōti, tanutē (cf Homeric tánutai), he stretches, Gr teinō (for tenio*), I stretch, tenō, I shall stretch, L teneō, I hold (? orig 'I keep at a stretch'), with such extn as L tendo, Lith tempiù, I stretch. The IE r occurs also in C and Gmc—cf para 26 (thin).

L tendere, to stretch: Simples

2. L tendere, to stretch (vt), to be stretched to (tend to), becomes OF-F tendre, whence, by ease-ment, the ME-E 'to tend', orig, and always mainly, vi; whence tendance. The L v has presp tendens, o/s tendent-, whence, rather than from the F presp tendant, the erudite E adj tendent; L tendent- issues in the ML n tendentia, whence tendency, whence, anl, tendentious (cf the F tendancieux, from MF-F tendance) and tendential. OF-F tendre, in its senses 'to extend, to offer', yields E 'to tender', whence the Law term tender, as in 'legal tender' or exchange.

3. L tendere, to stretch, s tend-, has the ML derivative tendō, acc tendōñem (perh cf the syn LL tenōn, from Gr tenōn), whence MF-F tendon—adopted by E—with derivative EF-F adj tendineux, f tendineuse, whence E tendinous.

4. L tendere has pp tensus, var tentus, both fruitful for E. Tensus yields the E adj tense and the SciL tensilis, whence E tensile. Built on the pp tensus are the LL tensio, acc tensioñem, whence late MF-F and—prob independently—E tension, and LL tensibilis, whence E tensible, stretchable, and ML tensitās, E tensity (perh anl from tense), and ML tensor, adopted by E. F, moreover, accounts for tensive (F tensif) and tenson, a lyric-debate: OF-F tenson, from OF tencier (F tancer), to reprimand, orig to make an effort, from VL tentiāre*, from L tentus, pp of tendere.

5. The L var pp tentus has f tenta, whence the ML n tenta and MF-F tente, whence E tent: cf L tendere pelles, to stretch skins, whence L tendere, to put up tents; cf also LL tentōrius, of or for tents, whence the n tentōrium, a tent, adopted by An and Zoo.

6. From OF-F tendre, but after MF-F tente, is formed EF-F tenture, the re-shaping of OF-F tendeure: cf LL praetentūra, an ententment that is prae- or in advance, a frontier garrison (Souter), which perh contributed towards ME tenture, lit a stretching, a frame for stretching cloth, whence E tenter.

L tendere, to stretch: Compounds

7. L attendere, to stretch (esp the mind) ad or towards, to pay attention to, becomes OF-MF atendre, MF-F attendre, ME atenden, later attenden, E 'to attend'. Derivative OF-MF atendance and the OF-MF presp atendant, later attendant, yield the ME attendaunce, E attendance, and E attendant. The derivative OF-MF atente, MF-F attente, an awaiting, expectation, whence the obs E attent, has the adj attentif, f attentive (cf the ML attentivus), whence E attentive. Whereas the attensity of Psy = attributive sensory clarity + the -ensity of Psy cpds, attention is adopted from EF-F, which derives it from L attentiōnem, acc of attentiō, from attentus, pp of attendere.—'To tend,' as a syn of 'to attend', is, in fact, aphetic for 'to attend'.

8. L contendere (int con-), to stretch, esp oneself, with all one's strength, to strive, esp in competition, yields OF-EF contendre, to strive, dispute, compete, whence E 'to contend'; derivative L contentiō, acc contentiōnem, and contentiōsus yield OF-F contention and MF-F contentieux, f -ieuse, whence E contention and contentious.

9. L dētendere, to unstretch, to lessen the tension of, becomes OF-F dētendre, whence the MF-F dētente, adopted by European diplomacy and, as a tech, anglicized to detent.

10. L distendere, to stretch dis- or apart, yields 'to distend'; from the L pp distentus comes L distentiō (var distensiō), o/s distentiōn-, whence—perh prompted by MF-F distension—E distention.

11. L extendere, to stretch out, to stretch to the full, becomes ME extenden, E 'to extend'. On the L pp extensus are formed LL extensiō, o/s extensiōn-, whence MF-F and, prob independently, E extension, and LL extensivus, ML -ivus, whence (MF-F extensif and) E extensive, and LL extensor, adopted—in form—by An. Extensible is adopted from MF-F, which forms it, anl, from extension; and extent derives from AF extente, var of estente, adoption of OF-EF estente, itself from the f of OF estent, lost pp of OF-EF estendre (F étendre), from L extendere.

12. L intendere, to stretch into (in-) or towards, be directed at, to have the purpose or pretension of, to plan, leads to E 'to intend', a reshaping of ME entienden, from OF-F entendre (L intendere), which, used as n, is part-adopted in the cpd double entendre (var of double entente), a deliberate, often an indelicate, ambiguity: cf 'entente cordiale', a friendly understanding, OF-F eniente, from OF entent, lost pp of entendre, and ME-E entendement (anglicized as intendment), adopted from OF-F (from entendre).

13. L intendere has pp intensus, var intentus; both important to E. L intensus, used by LL as adj 'forcible' and 'eager', yields MF-F intense, adopted by E, whence intensity (cf F intensité); derivative MF-F intensif accounts for E intensive; derivative LL intensiō, o/s intensiōn-, yields E intension.

14. L intentus, used as adj 'attentive', explains the E adj intent; the n intent derives, via ME and OF-MF entent, from L intentum, prop the neu of intentus. On the L pp intentus are formed L intentiō, acc intentiōnem, whence OF-F intention adopted by E, the derivative ML adj intentionālis yielding E intentional (cf the late MF-F intentionnel); and LL intentiūsus, ML -ivus, whence—perh via MF ententif—the E intensive.

15. L ostendere (for obs-tendere*, for obtendere, which does exist), to stretch ob- or in front of, towards, to expose, to exhibit or show, results in the archaic 'to ostend'. On the pp ostensus, var ostentus, are formed LL ostensiō, var ostentiō, o/ss in -iōn-, whence ostension, ostention, and ML ostensōrium, adopted by EcclE and anglicized as ostensory, and ML ostensivus, whence MF-EF ostensif, f -ive, whence E ostensive; but learned F has superseded ostensif with ostensible, adopted by E. The var pp ostentus occasions the n ostentum, whence the learned and literary E ostent.

16. L ostendere acquires the int-freq ostentāre, to show affectedly or blatantly or proudly, with pp ostentātus, whence the obsol 'to ostentate'. On that L pp are formed L ostentātiō, acc ostentātiōnem, whence MF-F ostentation, duly adopted by E, and LL ostentāticius, which has helped towards E ostentation (anl from ostentation).

17. L portendere (por-, an ancient var of prō-), to stretch before or into the future, to presage or predict, becomes 'to portend'; from the pp portentus comes portentum, a presage, whence a marvel, whence a monster—hence the E portent; derivative L portentiōsus gives us portentous.

18. L praetendere, to stretch prae- or forward-hence to assert and to simulate, yields (MFF, prétendre and) 'to pretend'; late MF-F prétendant becomes E pretendant. The ML pp praetensus (L praetentus) is, in the f praetensa, used as n—a thing asserted, whence AF pretensse, whence E pretense, var pretence; derivative EF-F prétention and its F adj prétentieux have at least prompted E pretension and pretentious.

19. L prōtendere, to stretch prō- or forth, becomes 'to protend' (obsol); from the pp prōtensus come L prōtensiō, o/s prōtensiōn-, whence protension (obsol) and the Psy protensity (after intensity).

20. L subtendere, to stretch sub or under, and its pp subtensus, yield the Math 'to subtend' and subtense.

21. LL superintendere (super, over + intendere), to supervise, with presp superintendens, o/s superintendent-, whence ML superintendentia, yield 'to superintend' and superintendent (id in MF; F surintendant) and superintendence. From (? OF-) MF superintendent comes OF-F intendant, with EF-F derivative intendance, both adopted by E.

L tener and L tenuis

22. L tener, tender, both physically (esp of young, growing things) and morally, in LL occ slender or thin, becomes OF tenre* (attested by tenrement and tenreté), whence the eased tendre, adopted by ME, whence E tender, whence—prob suggested by MF-F tendresse—tenderness.

23. From OF-F tendre comes tendron, (OF) a cartilage, (MF) a tender shoot, a sprout, adopted by E; tendron has the MF-F (obs) dim tendrille, a tender little sprig or branch, whence E tendrill.

24. Very prob akin to L tener (s and r ten-) is L tenuis (s tenu-, the -u- often consonantal; r, ten-), thin, fine-drawn, hence tender, weak: whence—cf the EF-F tenu—the E tenuous. Derivative L tenuitās, acc tenuitātem, yields late MF-F ténuité and E tenuity.

25. L tenuis has two derivative prefix-cpd vv that affect E:

attenuāre (at- for ad-, vaguely int), to make thin, presp attenuans, o/s attenuant-, whence the Med E adj, hence n, attenuant; pp attenuātus, whence the adj and v attenuate; derivative LL attenuātiō, acc attenuātiōnem, whence EF-F atténuation, whence E attenuation; extenuāre, to thin out, hence to loosen, to weaken, with presp extenuans, o/s extenuant-, whence the rare E extenuant, and pp extenuātus, whence 'to extenuate'; derivative LL extenuātiō, acc extenuātiōnem, MF-F exténuation, E extenuation; and LL extenuātōrius, weakening, whence E extenuatory.

E thin

26. With L tenuis, cf the Skt tanūs and Lith tėnvas, and such C forms as Br teneū, Cor tanow, W teneu, Ga and OIr tana, Mx thanney, with OC r ten-, var tan-, to stretch. With all these, as with the L and Gr words, cf the Gmc group: OE thynne, ME thunne, thenne, E thin, with OE derivative thynnys, ME thinnesse, E thinness; OFris thenne, OHG dunni, MHG dünne, G dünn; ON thunnr: OGmc r, thun-*.

Greek

27. The Gr r is ten-, with var tan-: cf tanaos, stretched (out), hence long. Gr teinein, to stretch, has cpd hupoteinein, to stretch hupo- or under, with presp hupoteinōn, f hupoteinousa, as in hupoteinousa pleura, a side subtending, whence the n hupoteinousa, whence LL hypotēnūsa, EF-F hypotēnuse, E hypotenuse; the E adj hypotenusal derives from LL hypotēnūsālis (from hypotēnūsa).

28. Gr teinein has pp tēnanos (te + tan + o + s), used as Med n for a disease characterized by muscular spasms, whence L tēnanus, adopted by E.

29. By the usual e-o mutation, Gr teinein (for teniein*) has the cognate n tonos (s and r ton-), a stretching, hence a raising of the voice, a pitch or an accent, a measure or a metre: L tonus: OF-F ton: E tone. The derivative ML adj tonālis yields tonal, whence tonality: cf F tonal and tonalité. The Gr adj is tonikos, whence tonic (cf F tonique). E tonal, tonality, tonic have the negg (Gr a-, not) atonal, atonality, atonic (cf F atonique): cf Gr atonos, toneless, whence the MedGr atonia, slackness, whence LL atonia, debility, whence Med MF-F atonie and, prob independently, E atony.

30. L tonus acquires the LL-ML cpd intonāre (in- vaguely int?), whence OF-F entonner and, independently, E 'to intone'; from the pp intonātus come both 'to intonate', to intone, (phon) to voice, and MF-F, whence E, intonation. Note that this intonāre has been confused with—and prob caused by—L intonāre, to thunder, an int of the syn tonāre, which (cf THUNDER) has nothing whatever to do with L tonus.

tendency, tendential, tendentious. See prec, para 2.

tender, adj. See TEND, para 22.

tender, legal n. See TEND, para 2, s.f.

tendon. See TEND, para 3.

tendrill; tendron. See TEND, para 23.

tenebrous; temerarious, temerity. Tenebrous, dusky, gloomy, comes from OF-MF tenebrus (F ténébreux): L tenebrōsus, adj of tenebrae (pl; no sing), shades, darkness, conserved in the Eccl Tenebrae: akin to the syn Skt tāmas, gen tāmasas, and to Ve tāmīrās, a dark night, and also to the L adv temere.

2. L temere, blindly, hence carelessly, unthinkingly, chancily, risky, has, with corresp senses, the derivatives temeritās (as if from an adj temerus*, from the adv) and temerārius: whence MF-F témérité, whence E temerity, and MF-F téméraire and, independently, E temerarious.

tenement. See TENABLE, para 2.

tenet. See TENABLE, para 3.

tenné. See TAN, para 3.

tennis: ME tenys, teneyis, tenetz, tennes: prob via F: either from F Tenez!, Hold (it), i.e. Receive (it—the ball), uttered by the server, or from Ar Tinnis, that Lower-Egyptian medieval city which was famous for its fabrics: 'the early balls were made of light cloth' (Webster): cf the Ar origin of the tennis racket. Orig applied to Royal Tennis (early played esp by royalty), it was modified, in 1874, as lawn tennis, now usu tennis.

Tennysonian: Alfred, Lord Tennyson (1809–92) + adj -ian: Tennyson, a var of Tennison (var Tenneson) or Tenison: Denison: Denis' son.

tenor. See TENABLE, para 2, s.f.

tenor. See TENABLE, para 2. The tenor voice (hence the singer), late MF-F ténor, It tenore (L tenor), was so named because it took up and held the dominant part.

tense (1), adj, hence v. See TEND, para 4.

tense (2), n (Gram). See TEMPER, para 7.

tensible, tensile, tension, tensity, tensive, tensor. See TEND, para 4.

tent (1), a portable skin or canvas or cloth shelter. See TEND, para 5.

tent (2), a wine. See STAIN, para 4.

tent (3), to probe—and corresp surgical n. See TEMPT, para 4.

tentacle. See TEMPT, para 6.

tentative. See TEMPT, para 6.

tenter, a frame; tenterhook(s). See TEND, para 6 and heading.

tenth. See TEN, para 3.

tenorium. See TEND, para 5.

tenuis, tenuity, tenuous. See TEND, para 24.

tenure. See TENABLE, para 2.

teocalli, a CAM or a Mexican temple, is the Sp adoption (var teucalé) of Nahuatl teocalli, (the) god's house: teotl, a god (? cf L deus, Gr theos and Zeus)+ calli, a house.

tepee, a Plains Indians' tent, represents Siouan, esp Dakotan, tipi: ti, to live (somewhere), to dwell + pi, used for: '(a place) used for living'.

tepefy: tepid, tepidity. The 3rd comes from LL tepiditās, lukewarmness, from L tepidus, lukewarm, whence E tepid: and tepidus comes from tepēre (s and r tep-), to be warm: IE r, tep-*, to be warm. The LL cpd tepefacere, to cause (facere, to make, hence to render) to be tepid, has become E 'to tepefy'.

tequila, a Mexican plant, hence the liquor made from its juice, is a Sp name: from the Mexican district of Tequila, famed for the manufacture of this liquor: Nahuatl Tequilan or 'Place of the Divide'. (Webster.)

teratology. See the element terato-.

terbium. See YTTERBIUM.

terce, tercel. See THREE, para 7.

tercentenary. See THREE, para 5.

tercet. See THREE, para 7.

terebellum. See THROW, para 3.

terebinth, terebinthine. See TURPENTINE, para 1.

tebrera, terebrate, terebration. See THROW, para 3.

teredo. See THROW, para 9.

terete. See the element tereti-.

tergiversate, tergiversation. See the element tergi-.

term (n hence v), whence termless and termly; terminable (interminable), terminal, terminate (adj and v), termination (whence, anl, terminative), terminator, terminer, terminer, terminology (cf the element termino-), terminus; determinant, determine (adj, hence n), determination, determinative (adj, hence n), determine (whence the pa determined and—cf the F déterminisme—the Phil determinism)—cf predeterminant, predetermine (adj), predetermination, predetermine (whence predeterminism); exterminable, exterminate, extermination (whence, anl, exterminative and exterminatory), exterminator; indeterminable, indeterminate;—thrum (in weaving); tram (a bar, a shaft, a shafted vehicle), with cpds tramline and tramway.

1. Term derives from MF-F terme, a word, or an expression: ML terminus, a definition, an expression: L terminus, a boundary, an end (cf LL 'a pause or a stop in reading or in writing'): termin-, o/s of syn OL termen: cf Gr terma, termōn, an end, a limit; perh of L trans.

2. L terminus, adopted by E with gradually narrowing sense, has adj terminālis, whence E terminal, adj, hence n. The derivative v termināre has the derivative LL adj terminābilis, whence E terminable, and neg interminābilis, whence E interminable. From the pp terminātus, whence the E v and adj terminate (neg adj interminate), are formed both L terminātiō, acc terminātiōnem, whence OF-MF termination (MF-F terminaison), adopted by E, and LL terminātor, adopted by E. L termināre becomes OF-F terminer, adopted by E as a legal term in oyer and terminer; and from L terminus, erudite F coined—after théologie, etc.—terminologie, whence E terminology, with anl adj terminological.

3. Ult akin to L terminus (s termin-, r term-) is E thrum, a weaver's warp thread, a row of such threads, with several derivative senses, as in the naut pl thrums, short pieces of yarn: ME thrum, var throm: OE thrum, an end-piece: cf ON thrömr, an edge or brim, and OHG trum, drum, an end, a fragment, G Trümmer (pl), ruins.

4. Akin to those Gmc words is E tram, orig dial and prob deriving imm from LG traam, a beam, bar, handle.

Prefix-Compounds

5. LL dētermināre, to mark out, to distinguish, to indicate, to decide (a Law case) or bring (a Med case) to a crisis, becomes OF-MF determiner (EF-F dé-), whence 'to determine'. The LL derivatives dēterminābilis and—from the pp dēterminātus—dēterminātiō (acc dēterminātiōnem), Med dēterminātius (ML -ivus), yield resp OF-MF determinable (F dé-), adopted by E—from the pp, the adj determine—MF-F determination, E determination—F déterminatif, E determinative. The LL negg indēterminābilis, indēterminātiō, indēterminātus produce E indeterminable, indetermination, indeterminate. The presp dēterminans, o/s dēterminant, produces the E adj, hence n, determinant.

6. LL dētermināre has its own cpd: praedētermināre, to settle prae- or beforehand, esp as an Eccl word, whence EF-F prédeterminer, with EF-F derivative prédetermination: hence E 'to predetermine' and predetermination. The LL presp praedēterminans, o/s -ant-, and pp praedēterminātus yield the adjj predeterminant and predetermine.

7. L extermināre, to put ex, outside, the termin or boundaries, to banish, LL to destroy utterly, has the foll derivatives affecting E:

LL exterminābilis, whence exterminable; pp exterminātus, whence 'to exterminate'; exterminātiō (LL destruction), acc exterminātiōnem, OF-F extermination, adopted by E; LL exterminātor, a destroyer, adopted by E—cf the MF-F exterminateur;

LL exterminatōrius, destructive, whence exterminatory;

LL inexterminābilis, imperishable, whence inexterminable.

termagant: ME Termagant, a rough, vociferous Mohammedan deity in the morality plays, with ME var Tervagant: the -m- form is prob a scribal error, for the source is OF-MF Tervagant (var -an), itself app a var of Trivigant (var -an): cf the It Trivigante, prob the intermediary of an Ar word.

terminable, terminal. See TERM, para 2. terminate, termination, terminator, terminology, terminus. See TERM, para 2.

termite, Termes. See THROW, para 4.

termly. See TERM (heading).

tern (1); starling, sterna. The 1st, prob coming from ON therna (cf Da terne and Sw tärne), app has r ter- and represents an s-less var of the r star- attested by OE staer, E dial stare, a starling, OE staerlinc, ME sterlyng, E starling being, in form, a dim, and by the OE var stearn or stern (Shetlands dial starn), with SciL derivative Sterna. Cf OHG stara, MHG-G star, ON stari—and L sturnus (s sturn-, r stur-)—and prob Gr psar (Ionic psēr) or psaros.

tern (2), a set of three. See THREE, para 8.

ternary, ternate; ternion. See THREE, para 8.

terpene, terpene, terpineol, terpinol. See TURPENTINE, para 2.

Terpsichore, terpsichorean. See CHOIR, para 1.

terra—terra cotta—terra firma; terrace, n, hence v—cf trass; terrain and terrane and terrene; terraqueous; terrestrial; terrier; terrigenous; terrine and tureen; territorial (whence territorialism), territory;—F: terre—terre à terre—terreplein—terre-verte—parterre;—inter, interment, cf disinter, disinterment; mediterranean (whence Mediterranean); subterrane, subterranean, subterrene; turmeric.—Cf the sep THIRST.

Indo-European

1. L terra, dry land (opp the sea), the earth hence a part of the earth, a region or a country: cf W, Ga, Oir tēr, Cor tȳr (voc tir), land, earth, country, OC etymon iērsos* (cf PL tersa* or tērsa*, ? for ter-es-a*): o.o.o.: connexion with L torrēre (tor-r-ēre), to parch, is improb. Tentatively I propose that L terra consonantizes taia*, extn of ta*; that taia, ta, answer to Gr gaia (cf Gaia, the Earth God), Doric ga, Attic gē; and that here we have a Medit r ta-, var ga-—cf Eg ta, land, a land, earth, the earth, the world, Ta, the primeval Earth-God, taia, lands, the world.

2. Whereas terra firma is L (firm or solid land), terra cotta is It (cooked earth: It terra+cotta, f of cotto, L coctus, cooked).

3. The foll L derivatives of terra affect E:

VL terrāceus*, earthy, f terrācea*, used as n, becomes OProv terrassa, late MF-F terrasse, E terrace, 'to terrace' perh owing something to the EF trasser; OProv terrassa, however, perh derives from OProv terra (from L); cf It terrazzo (from It terra), whence ED terras, contr to ED-D tras, whence G Trass, whence E trass, used in hydraulic cement;

ML terra merita, lit 'deserving earth', becomes F terre-mérite, EE turmeric, E turmeric;

L terrēnus, earthy, E terrene, the n terrene coming from derivative L terrēnum, whence also the OF-F terrain, adopted by E, with the Geol mdfn terrane;

ML terraqueus, of land and agua, water, whence terraqeous;

L terrestis, neu terrestre, whence, perh via OF-F terrestre, the E terrestrial (adj suffix -ial);

LL terrārius, earthy, ML earthy, of land, esp in terrārius liber, a book dealing with landed estates, whence EF-F, whence E, terrier, now an inventory of property; cf OF-F terrier, a quadruped's den or burrow, which, from ML terrārium, prob contributed towards F chien terrier, abbr to terrier, adopted by E;

LL terrigenus, earth-born, E terrigenous;

VL terrīnus* (from L terrēnus), earthy, whence the OF-MF adj terrīn, whence MF-F terrīne, orig an earthenware dish, adopted by E, which anglicizes it, in special sense, as tureen;

L territōrium (terri-, c/f of terra+tōrium, as in dormitōrium), whence both MF-F territoire and E territory; derivative LL territōriālis becomes (F and) E territorial, with cpd extraterritorial, as in 'e. waters', outside (extra) the territorial limits.

4. From OF-F terre (L terra) have come several cpds:

terre-à-terre, lit 'earth to earth', orig (EF) applied to a horse that takes short steps and keeps close to the ground;

terre-plein (EF-F) adapts It terrapieno, from It terrapienare, to fill with earth: whence Eng E terreplein; terre-verte, lit 'green (vert, ML veridis) earth', glauconite, adopted by E; and parterre (EF-F), from par terre, by—hence on—(the) earth.

5. OF-F terre has the derivative OF-F enterrer, to put into (en) the earth, to bury, whence OF-F enterrement: whence ME enteren, enterment, whence the reshaped E 'to inter' and interment. The late MF-F (obsol) derivative désenterrer produces 'to disinter', whence disinterment.

6. L terrēnus has, in cpds, the var -terrāneus, as in mediterrāneus (medi-, c/f of medius, situated in the middle), whence the obs E medierrane, displaced by mediterranean (adj suffix -ean), whence, elliptically, 'the Mediterranean' (sea)—as already in LL Mediterrāneus; subterrāneus (sub, under), whence subterranean; cf the learned E subterrene, from L subterrēnus.

terrace. See prec, para 3.

terra cotta. See TERRA, para 2.

terrain. See TERRA, para 3.

terrane. See TERRA, para 3.

terrapin, an edible NA turtle, is of Alg orig, with new suffix: cf the Lenape turupe, a little turtle.

terraqeous. See TERRA, para 3.

terrene. See TERRA, para 3.

terreplein. See TERRA, para 4.

terrestrial. See TERRA, para 3.

terre-verte. See TERRA, para 4.

terrible. See TERROR, para 3.

terrier, a landed-estate document, a dog. See TERRA, para 3.

terrific, terrify. See TERROR, para 3. terrigenous. See TERRA, para 3.

terrine. See TERRA, para 3.

territorial, territory. See TERRA, para 3, s.f.

terror, terrorism, terrorist, terrorize; terrible and terrific, terrify;—deter, deterrent (whence, anl, deterrence), adj hence n.

1. Deterrent comes from L dēterrent-, o/s of dēterrens, presp of dēterrēre, to frighten from, hence away: dē, down from + terrēre, to frighten badly.

2. L terrēre, to cause to tremble, has s terr- and r ter-: cf the cognate tremere, to tremble, s trem-, r tre- (of which, app, ter- is, in terrēre, a metathesis): cf TREMBLE.

3. L terrēre, s terr-, has three simple derivatives affecting E:

terror (cf L horror and tremor), MF-F terreur, E terror; terribilis, OF-F terrible, adopted by E; terrificus, E terrific, and terrificāre, MF-F terrifier, E terrify.

4. E terrorism, terrorist, terrorize, owe much to three words coined by F in the mid-1790's: terrorisme, terroriste, terroriser.

tery (cloth): o.o.o.: perh F tiré, drawn, pp of tirer, to draw or pull.

terse (whence terseness) and tersion; abstergere, abstergent, abstersion, abstersive; detergere, detergent, detersion.

1. Terse derives from L tersus, adj from the pp of tergere, to rub off or away: o.o.o.: ? an s-less var of the sterg- of Gr stergis, var of stlēngis, a scraper. From tersus comes, anl, tersion.

2. L tergere has two cpds relevant to E:

abstergere (abs- for ab-, from, away from), to rub or wipe away, whence 'to absterge'; presp abstergens, o/s abstergent-, EF-F n abstergent, adopted by E; from the L pp abstersus, both the erudite EF-F abstersion, adopted by E, and the erudite EF-F adj abstersif, f -ive, whence E abstersive, adj hence n; dētergere, to rub or wipe dē, from, hence away, whence 'to detergere' (cf EF-F déterger); presp dētergens, o/s dētergent-, (EF-F détergent and) E detergent, adj hence n; pp dētersus, whence LL dētersiō, acc dētersiōnem, EF-F dētersion, E detersion; anl EF-F dētersif, f -ive, becomes E detersive, adj hence n.

tertial, tertian, tertiary; tertius, tertium quid. See THREE, para 6.

terza rima; terzet, terzetto. See THREE, para 7. tessellate, tessellation. See FOUR, para 8.

test, a shell: See TECHNIC, para 14.—A trial (whence 'to test'): ib, para 15.

testacean. See TECHNIC, para 14.

testacy. See heading of:

testament (and Testament), testamental, testamentary; testamur; testate (whence testacy, for testatecy*), testation, testator, testatrix, testatum; testicle, testicular, testiculate; testificate, testification (whence, anl, testifactory), testify; testimonial (adj and n), testimony; testis, pl testes.—Cpds: attest, attestation (whence, anl, attestative); contest (v, hence n), contestant, contestation; detest, detestable, detestation; incontestable; intestable, intestate (whence intestacy); obtest, obtestation; protest (n and v, whence protester), protestant (and Protestant), protestation.—Ult akin to the sep THREE constellation.

1. All these words originate in L testis (s and r test-), a witness. Testis app stands for terstis*, metathetic for irestis*, var of tristis*; tri- (cf THREE) 3 + the st- of stō, I stand, stāre, to stand + formative -i- + nom -s. In short, tristis* is substituted for tristans* (tri, 3 + stans, presp of stāre), with agential -is for presp -ans: he who stands in the third part, he who stands by, a third party, as it were an intermediary between accuser and accused. (Developed from E & M.)

Simples

2. L testis has the derivative sense 'testicle', adopted by SciE, with pl testes: a witness to virility. The dim but syn testiculus and its derivatives testiculāris and testiculātus yield resp testicle, testicular, testiculate.

3. L testis, a witness, has the foll simple derivatives affecting E:

testificāre, to make a legal declaration (-ficāre, c/f of facere, to make), pp testificātus, derivative testificātiō, o/s testificātiōn-, whence, resp, 'to testify', testificate, testification; testimōnium, the bearing of witness, a solemn declaration (esp by a witness), whence OF-MF testimoigne, testemoine, testemonie, ONF testemonie, whence E testimony; derivative LL testimōniālis becomes MF-F testimonial, adopted by E; the n testimonial is indebted to LL testimōniāles (sc literae), a certificate; testor, vt and vi, I bear witness (to), pp testātus, whence E testate; the neu testātum becomes a legal E n—cf testāmur, we testify, adopted by universities.

4. Testāri, to bear witness (to), hence to take for witness, hence to make a will, has derivative testāmentum, a taking for witness, hence a will, whence MF-F testament, adopted by E; derivative testāmentārius becomes (EF-F testamentaire and) E testamentary. Already in LL does testāmentum become nouum (ML novum) and uetus (ML vetus) testāmentum, The New and The Old Testament: whence the OF-F Testament, adopted by E. The ML testāmentālis, relating to the Testament, yields E testamental.

5. On L testātus, pp of testāri, are formed testātiō, o/s testātiōn-, whence E testation—testātor, adopted by E (cf the MF-F testateur)—testātrix, likewise adopted.

Prefix-Compounds

6. L testātus, used both actively and passively, has neg intestātus, not having witnessed, not having been witnessed: from the sense 'not having made a will' comes E intestate. From testāri comes— anl after intestātus—L intestābilis, whence legal intestable.

7. Testāri gathers a number of prefix-cpds, most of them relevant to E. The first is adestāri, usu eased to attestāri, to certify, pp attestātus, whence attestātiō, acc attestātiōnem, whence MF-F attester, E 'to attest', and MF-F attestation, adopted by E.

8. L contestāri (con- vaguely int), to bring together the witnesses for both parties, whence contestāri litem, to call witness in order to begin a lawsuit, presp contestans, o/s contestant-, pp contestātus, whence contestātiō, acc contestātiōnem, result in, resp, MF-F contester, F 'to contest'—E contestant, adj and, perh after F, n—MF-F contestation, adopted by E. Derivative EF-F contestable and its EF-F neg incontestable are both adopted by E.

9. L dētestāri (int dē-), to reject the testimony of, hence to curse, to detest, the derivative dētestābilis (whence LL dētestabilitās, o/s -itāt-, whence E detestability), the pp dētestātus, whence dētestātiō, acc dētestātiōnem, become MF-F dētester, dētestable, dētestation, whence E detest, detestable, detestation.

10. L obtestāri, to bear witness ob- or towards, and—from the pp obtestātus—obtestātiō, o/s obtestātiōn-, yield 'to obtest' and obtestation.

11. L prōtestāri, to declare prō-, forward, hence publicly, presp prōtestans, o/s prōtestant-, pp prōtestātus, whence LL prōtestātiō, a solemn declaration, acc prōtestātiōnem, become MF-F protester, EF-F protestant, MF-F protestation: E 'to protest', protestant (adj and n), protestation. Derivative late MF-EF protest (F protêt) and EF-F protestantisme become the E n protest and Protestantism. Eccl EF-F protestant, n, was adopted from G Protestant, a name given to Luther's partisans.

testate, testation, testator, testatum. See prec, paras 3 and 5.

tester, a canopy. See TECHNIC, para 16.

testicle, testicular, testiculate. See TESTAMENT, para 2.

testificate, testification, testify. See TESTAMENT, para 3.

testimonial, testimony. See TESTAMENT, para 3.

testis. See TESTAMENT, para 2.

testitudinal, testudinate, testudo. See TECHNIC, para 14.

testy. See TECHNIC, para 16, s.f. tetanic, tetanus. See TEND, para 28.

tetchy. See the 2nd TACHE.

tête à tête. See TECHNIC, para 17.

tether (n, hence v): ME tether, var of tethir, earlier tedir: prob from ON tjóthr (cf Sw tjuder), influenced by OFris tiäder—cf OHG zeotar, a waggon-pole, and MLG tiuder, a tether.

tetra- words. See the element tetra-, where, e.g., tetragon and tetrameter. For tetralogy, see LEGEND, para 32; for tetrasyllabic, see SYLLABLE, para 3.

Teuton, Teutonic. See DUTCH, para 2.

Texan, adj, hence n=Texas+adj suffix -an; Texas, adopted from ASP, comes from Caddoan (SW U.S.A.) techas, friends, allies, ref a group of East Texan Amerindians allied against the Apache.

text. See TECHNIC, para 11.

textile. See TECHNIC, para 11.

textual. See TECHNIC, para 11.

texture. See TECHNIC, para 11, s.f.

thalami- (thalamo-); thalasso- (thalatto-); thalli- (thallo-). For E words—all learned, the 1st and 3rd groups also Sci—corresp to those c/ff, see the elements thus indicated.

Thames: OE Temes: early ML Tamisa: L Tamesa (Tacitus) and Tamesis (Caesar), the imm source of the OE word: akin to Skt Tamasā, a tributary of The Ganges, from tamasās, dark: The Dark River. (Ekwall.)

than. See THE, para 7.

thane, whence thane, is a Sc shape of ME thein, earlier thegn: OE thegn, with var thegen: cf OFris thiāner, a servant, OS thegan, a boy, a follower, a warrior, OHG degan, MHG-G degen, a warrior, athane, ON thegn, a freeman, athane, and, further off, the Gr tekon, a child (etekon, I gave birth), and Skt takman-, a child.

thank, thankful, thankless, thanks, thanksgiving. See THINK, para 3.

that. See THE, para 2.

thatch. See TECHNIC, para 8, s.f.

thaumaturge, thaumaturgy. See the element thaumato-.

thaw, v, hence n; tabes, tabid, tabific. 'To thaw' derives from OE thāwian, akin to OHG douwēn, MHG tōuwen, G tauen, MD douwen, D dooiyen, ON theyja—OB tajati, to melt, to thaw—L tābēre, to melt, hence to perish, and its derivative n tābēs, a thawing, LL corruption of the flesh, a wasting away, and adj tābidus, E tabid, and the cpd adj tābificus, causing tabes—Doric Gr tākō, Attic tēkō, I melt—OIr tām, tabes, Ir toineadh, a thaw, Ga aiteamh (n and v), Cor tedha, to thaw (teth, he thaws), W tawdd, a state of fusion, (adj) melted, toddi, to melt or dissolve—Ossetic (Indo-Iranian) tain, tajun, (of snow) to melt. The IE r is therefore tā-, varr tēi-, tei-, tī- or il-*, to melt. (Cf Walshe; E & M; Hofmann.)

the; then, thence—than; there, cf thereof, thereby, therefore, therefore, therefrom, therein, thereof, thereon, thereupon, therewith; thither; that and those—this and these; they, them, their, theirs; thus; cf the sep BOTH and the sep SINCE.

1. The definite article the comes from late OE thē, which had displaced the earlier sē (cf Skt sā), the: cf OFris and OS the, the, OHG-MHG der (m), diu (f), daz (neu), (orig) that, (later) the, G der, die, das: f.a.e., para 12.

2. E that, pron and adj, comes from OE thaet, the neu of the demonstrative adj and pron (also a relative pron): cf ON that (neu), Go thata (neu), MD datte, MD-D dat, OHG-MHG daz, G das, OFris thet: f.a.e., para 12. The pl is those, ME thos, earlier thas, OE thās, orig the pl of OE thēs, this. The conj that derives from the demonstrative pron (in the acc), used in apposition before the governed clause.

3. These, OE thās, ME thas, with varr thaes, thes, these, is the pl of E this, ME this, thes, OE thēs (m), thēos or thīos (f), this (neu): cf ON thesse, thessi, OFris this (f thius, neu thit), MD dese, D deze, OS these, OHG deser (f desiu, neu diz), MHG diser (f disiu, neu ditz), G dieser: from the s of OE thē, that+sē, that: in short, an int by sem redup.

4. They, ME thei (thai), comes from ON their, they, orig the m nom pl of ON sā (m), sū (f), that (neu), that; the acc them comes from OE thāem, dat pl of OE thē, that, the, but shows the influence of the corresp ON them, used for 'they'.

5. E their, possessive adj, derives from their, possessive pron ('of them'): ME thair: ON theira, var of theirra, of them—but orig the gen pl of ON that (neu; f sū, m sā), that, the: ON their(r)a is very closely related to OE thāra, var thāera, gen pl of thē. Theirs=their's.

6. E-ME-OE thus, in this way, is akin to OFris and OS thus, MD-D dus (MD var dos), OHG sus.

7. E then is a doublet of—indeed, id with—than; dial E still employs then for 'than'. E than, prob at first 'from that (place or point), from there', derives from ME than (thanne), varr then (thenne) and thon (thonne), than, then: OE thanne, thaenne, thonne, at that time, (but also) than: cf OFris and OS than, OHG-MHG danne, denne, G dann, then, and OHG-MHG denne (var danne), G denn, than (in G, denn and dann did not become clearly distinguished until C18), Go than, MD danne, MD-D dan, then.

8. E thence, ME thens, earlier thennes (var thannes), where -s is an adv, orig the possessive, suffix, still earlier thenne, var of thanne, derives from OE thanon, thanan (var thonan): akin to OS thanan (cf OFris thana) and OHG danān, danana, MHG-G dannen.

9. E there, at that place or point, ME ther or thar, OE thēr, thāer, thār, is akin to OFris thēr (or thēr), OS thar, OHG dār (MHG da, G da), Go thar, MD daer, dare, dar, D daar, ON thar: IE r, tar*-.

10. OE thāer—the predominant form—has many cpds extant in E, the principal being these: OE thāer abūtan (cf ABOUT): thereabout, the -s var exhibiting the adv -s;

OE thāer aet (cf AT): thereat;

OE thāerbig (cf BY): thereby;

ME therfore (cf FOR), for that (now therefor); later, for that reason: therefore;

OE thāerin (cf IN): therein;

OE thāerof (cf OF): thereof;

OE thāeron (cf ON): thereon;

OE thāerūt (or -ūte: cf OUT): thereout (archaic);

OE thāertō (cf TO): thereto;

OE thāerunder (cf UNDER): thereunder;

OE thāer uppan (cf UPON: UP+ON): thereupon;

OE thāerwith (cf WITH): therewith, whence—after withal, q.v. at WITH—therewithal, adv, hence n ('means').

11. E thither, to that point, ME-from-OE thider, var of thaeder, comes from the s of OE thaet: for the suffix, cf ON thāthra, there, and Go thathrō, thence.

Indo-European

12. Besides all the OGMc cognates listed above, there are many other IE cognates: but we need concern ourselves only with those which mean 'the', orig 'that', and answer to the and that. The principal non-Gmc cognates are perh: L iste (m), ista (f), istud (neu), pron and adj 'that', is- being merely a formative particle and the r te-* occurring also in, e.g., tum, then, and tot, so many; Gr iota (neu), the; Skt tat, for tad (neu)—note that, as in OGMc, the m and f are in s-, not t-, thus Skt sa and sā, Gr ho (for so*) and hē (for sē*), OE sē and sēo, Go sa and sō, ON sā and sū; Lith tās (m), tà (f), Ru tū (m), ta (f), OB tū, ta, neu to (perh after Gr); Tokh B te (neu; m se, f sāu); Alb ke-ta, this, te, when, tē, whither; Hit tā (neu pl; m sing tas or sas—an illuminating alternation); note also the Gr acc ton (m), tēn (f), to (neu), and the Skt acc tām, f tām, neu tād.

13. The IE etymons, therefore, were app so*, f sā*, neu tod*, of which only the 3rd is strictly relevant; the IE r is t-, vocalized ta-, te-, to-, tu-*. In certain IE languages, t- gives way to d-, as, e.g., in Arm dā, this, doyn, the (or that) same, and, occupying the final position, in Ga ud (but OIr út), that, and Ga iad, they, and Ga sud (but EIr sūt, siut) that.

14. The word is perh Medit: cf Eg then, this, and thui, that, and ti, there: forms that well accord with a Medit r t-, vocalized ta-, te-, ti-, to-, tu-, with varr in th-* and d-* and, in C, d* (or t*).

theater (AE) or theatre; theatral, theatric (theatrical)—whence theatricize (cf the LL theātriciāre).—theorem; theoretic (now usu theoretical), theory (whence, anl, theorist).—Cf the sep THAUMATURGE, q.v. at the element thaumato-.

1. Theater is the AE spelling of E theatre, adopted from MF-EF (F théâtre), which takes it from L theātrum, trln of Gr theatron, akin to Gr thea, a sight, and esp to Gr theasthai, to view, itself akin to Gr thauma, a thing compelling the gaze, a wonder, and Gr theōrein, to look at: IE r, dheu-, var dheu-, to look at.

2. Gr theatron has adj theatricos, whence LL theātricus, E theatric, with -al extn theatrical; L theātrum has its native adj theātrālis, whence EF-F théātral, which prob suggested E theatral.

3. Gr theōrein, to look at, has derivative theōrēma, a seeing, a sight, an object of study, hence a speculation, hence a theorem: L thēorēma, EF-F théorème and, perh independently, E theorem.

4. Gr theōrein has another derivative n: theōria, a looking, a seeing, an observing or a contemplation, hence a speculation: LL theōria: late MF-F théorie: E theory. The Gr adj theōrikos becomes LL theōricus, (MF-F théorique and) E theoric (obsolet); the current E adj theoretical is an -al extn of E theoretic, which, like F théorique, derives from LL theōrēticus, trln of Gr theōrētikos, adj corresp to theōrēma. Whereas the obsol E theorician derives from EF-F théoricien (théorie+mathématicien), theorist is a native E formation (theory+agential -ist).

theca. See THESIS, para 2.

thee. See THOU, para 2.

theft. See THIEF.

thegn. A var of THANE.

thein(e). See TEA.

their, theirs. See THE, para 5.

theism, theist (whence theistic). Theist (cf F théiste) derives, anl, from theism, which=Gr theos, a god+-ism. Gr theos represents IE dhesos*: cf Skt dhiṣnyas, pious, devout, and Arm dikh, gods.

2. The prefix-cpds atheism, atheist—monotheism, monotheist—pantheism, pantheist, all with adj -theistic, derive, resp, from F athéisme, athéiste (Gr a-, not)—Gr mono-, sole+theism, theist—Gr pan-, all+theism, theist.

them. See THE, para 4.

thema, thematic, theme. See THESIS, para 3.

then. See THE, para 7.

thence. See THE, para 8.

theocracy, theodicy, theogony. See the element theo-.

theologian, theologic, theological, theology. The last derives from MF-EF theologie (later théo-): LL theologia, adopted from Gr: from Gr theologos, a theologian: theo-, c/f of theos, a god (cf THEISM) +-logos, a discourses, from logos, reason, word, esp, in LGr, the Word of God. Derivative MF-EF theologien (later théo-) leads to E theologian. Derivative Gr theologikos becomes LL theologicus, whence MF-EF théologique (F théo-), whence E theologic, superseded by theological, from ML theologicālis (extn of LL theologicus).

theophany. See FANCY, para 7. Cf THEISM.

theorem. See THEATRE, para 3.

theoretical, theorist, theory. See THEATRE, para 4.

4. theosophy—whence, anl, theosophical and theosophist—derives from ML, from LGr, theosophia, a knowledge of the divine, from theosophos, one who is wise in divine matters: theo-, c/f of theos, a god (L Gr Theos, God)+sophos, wise (cf SOPHISM).

therapeutic (whence therapeutics), therapy. Therapeutic derives, perh via EF-F thérapeutique, from Gr therapeutikos, adj of therapeutēs, an attendant (esp a Med attendant), agent of therapeuein, to take care of, from theraps, an attendant, whence Gr therapeia (medical) attendance, whence E therapy. Gr theraps, acc therapa, s therap-, has r ther-: IE dher-*, to hold (up), to support.

there. See THE, para 9.

thereabout(s), thereat, thereby, therefor, therefore, therein, thereof, thereon, thereout, thereto, thereunder, thereupon, therewith, therewithal. See THE, para 10.

theriac, theriaca. See FIERCE, para 4.

therm, whence thermal and thermic and thermion (whence thermionic); cf the element -therm-, where see, e.g., thermatology, thermometer, thermostat. The heat-unit therm derives from Gr thermē, heat, from thermos, warm: f.a.e., WARM.

therology. See the element -there.

thesaurus. See THESIS, para 4.

these. See THE, para 3.

thesis (pl theses), thetic; theca, thecium, cf the element theco-; thema, thematic, theme; thesaurus—cf treasure (n, hence v), treasurer, treasury; tick, a cover.—Prefix-cpds: antithesis, antithetic; apothecary; diathesis; epithesis, epithet, epithetic; hypothec, hypothecary, hypothecate, hypothecation—hypothesis, hypothetic(al); metathesis, metathetic(al); parenthesis, parenthetic(al); prosthesis, prosthetic; prothesis, prothetic; synthesis, synthetic(al), synthesize.

1. Thesis, via L from Gr thesis, a thing placed, hence laid down, hence a statement, and the adj thetic, via LL theticus from Gr thetikos, fit for placing, from thetos, placed,—these two words establish the pattern. Gr thetos is the pp of tithenai, to place or set: ti-, redup+then-+inf -ai: then-, extn of r the-, corresp to the IE r dhe-*, to place, set, lay down: cognates in Skt (and Ve), Hit, L, Sl, Tokh (A and B), OGmc. The -e- of both the- and dhe- may be either long or short, but basically it was prob long. Ult cf do.

2. Akin to Gr tithenai is Gr thēkē, a small container, whence L thēca, adopted by Bot for a capsule and by Zoo and An for a case, with SciL derivative thecium; ult from L hēca comes, prob via MD tike (D tijk), the E tick, a strong cover or case, esp for bolster or mattress; whence the n ticking.

3. From Gr tithenai, to place, lay (down), comes Gr thema, what one lays down or states or poses, hence the subject proposed (for discussion or discourse): adopted by L, it is then adopted by learned E (and G), with adj thematic, from Gr thematikos; the predominant E form, however, is theme, from EF-F thème (MF teme, whence ME teme).

4. Akin to Gr thesis, but with long e, is Gr thēsaurus (with 2nd element o.o.o.), a store of objects laid up or by, hence treasure: L thēsaurus (in LL, often thensaurus): E thesaurus, a store, a storehouse, a literary, or a lexicographical, repository.

5. L thēsaurus becomes OF-MF tresor (EF-F tré-), adopted by ME, with var tresour, whence E treasure. Treasurer owes much to OF-MF tresorier (EF-F tré-), itself indebted to LL thēsaurārius, a treasurer; treasury is a reshaping—after treasure—of ME tresorie, a contr of MF tresorerie (EF-F tré-), from OF-MF tresor.

Prefix-Compounds

6. Gr antiitithenai, to set anti- or against, to oppose, has n antithesis, adopted—via L—by E, with adj antithetic, from LL antitheticus (Gr antithetikos).

7. Gr apotithenai, to put apo- or away, has derivative apothēkē, whence L apothēca, whence LL apothēcarius, a shopkeeper, OF-MF apothēcaire (F apothécaire), varr apoticaire, apotecaire, ME apotecary, reshaped E apothecary.

8. Gr diatithenai, to place dia-, asunder, hence separately, to arrange, has n diathesis, adopted by SciL and employed in Med, with anl adj diathetic.

9. Gr epiithenai, to place or put epi-, upon, hence to add, has n epithesis, with adj epithetikos: whence LL epithesis, adopted by E, with adj epithetic. The Gr pp epithetos has neu epitheton, used as n for 'an added word', i.e. an adj: L epitheton: EF-F epithète, an adj, hence a significant name: E epithet.

10. Gr hupoithenai, to put hupo- or under, to pledge, with n hupothēkē, something pledged or legally involved, whence L hypothēca, MF-F hypothèque, E hypothec. Derivative ML hypothēsarius becomes MF-F hypothécaire, E hypothecary. L hypothēca has derivative ML hypothēcāre, to pledge, pp hypothēcātus, whence 'to hypothecate'; derivative ML hypothēcātiō, o/s hypothēcātiōn-, yields hypothecation.

11. Gr hupoithenai has also the n hupothesis, a supposition, a foundation for argument, with adj hupothetikos: LL hypothesis, hypotheticus: perh via EF-F hypothèse and MF-F hypothétique: E hypothesis, hypothetic—often in extn hypothetical.

12. Gr metatithenai, to place meta, beyond or after, hence to transpose, has n metathesis, adopted by LL, hence by E, with anl adj metathetic.

13. Gr parentithenai (para, beside + en, in), to put (something) in beside something else, to insert, has n parenthesis, adopted by LL, hence by E; parenthetic (extn parenthetical) derives from anl formed ML parentheticus.

14. Gr prostithenai, to put pros, to or towards, has n prosthesis, an addition, with adj prostheticos: LL prosthesis, adopted by E, with adj prosthetic.

15. Gr protithenai, to place or set pro- or before, has n prothesis, adopted—prob via ML—by E, with adj prothetic (Gr prothetikos).

16. Gr sunthithenai, to place sun- or together, has n sunthesis, whence, via Med LL synthesis, the E synthesis, whence, anl, 'to synthesize'. Gr syntheticos becomes E synthetic (cf EF-F synthétique). 'To synthesize' derives from F synthétiser, itself prob suggested by Go synthetizesthai.

thetic. See THESIS, para 1.

thew, a custom or habit (obs), a virtue or strength (obs), hence a muscle: ME thew, earlier theau, manner, custom, strength: OE thēaw, manner, habit: cf OFris thāw, OS thau, OHG dau, custom, habit: o.o.o.

they. See THE, para 4.

thick, whence thicken and thickness; thicket. The last, a thick growth of trees, comes from OE thiccet, from the OE adj thicce, whence ME thicke and E thick: cf OFris thikke, OS thikki, OHG dicchi, MHG dicke, G dick, MD dicke, dic, D dik, ON thykk—cf also OIr tiug, Ir and Ga tiugh, W teu, Cor teu (teu), Br teù, tiù, Mx chiu. The OGmc r is thik-; the IE r, tig-.

thief (pl thieves), thieve, thievish (from thief after thieves); theft. 'To thieve' derives from OE thēofian, from OE thēof, var thiof, whence ME theef or thief, whence thief. Also from OE thēof, thiof, comes OE thēofth (var thiefsth), dissimilated var thēofst: ME theofthe, thiefthe, slovened thefte: E theft. OE thēof (thiof) is akin to OFris thiāf, OS theof, thiof. Go thiufs, ON thiofr, OHG diob, MHG diep, G Dieb, MD-D dief: o.o.o.: ? (Webster) cf Lith tupėti, to crouch.

thigh; thumb and thimble;—tomb; tumefaction, tumefaction, tumefy, tumescant, tumid, tumidity, tumor (AE) or tumour; tumulose, tumulus; tumult, tumultuary, tumultuous;—tuber, tuberosa (adj, n), tuberosity, tuberous and tubercle, tubercular, tuberculin, tuberculosis, tuberculous, cf protuberant (whence protuberance), protuberate; truffle—cf trifle, n and v (whence agent trifler and pa, vn trifling); perh turgent, turgescent (whence turgescence), turgid (whence, anl, turgidity), turgor.

Indo-European and Germanic

1. Thigh, ME thi or thih, var thēh, derives from OE thioh, var thēoh, contr thēh: cf OFris thiāch, OHG dioh, MD die, D dij, dije, thigh, and ON thjö, thigh, rump—Lith tukti, to become fat, and taukas, animal-fat—OIr tōn, rump, and MIr tomm, Ga and W tom, a large mound, a knoll—L tumēre, to swell—Gr tumbos, a (burial) mound—perh Skt tumbas, a large cucumber. The IE r is prob tubh-, to be fat or thick, to swell, with nasalized var tumbh-; but tubh-* itself prob amplifies a syn IE tu-*.

2. The 'fat' or 'swollen' basic idea recurs in E thumb ('the fattest—hence strongest—finger'): ME thombe or thoumbe, earlier thume: OE thūma: cf OFris thūma, OS thūmo, MD dume, duum, duym, D duim, OHG dūmo, MHG dūme, G Daumen, thumb, ON thumall, a glove's thumb.

3. OE thūma, a thumb, has derivative thymel, whence E thimble; the intrusive b arrives—under the influence of ME tho(u)mbe—in C15.

Latin and Romance

4. L tūber, a swelling, a knot (in a tree), a plant that is prob the truffle, is adopted by Bot for a fleshy (underground) shoot or stem, as of the potato; its adj tūberōsus becomes the adj tuberosa and tuberous, the latter prob via EF-F tubéreux, f tubéreuse, whence EF-F tubérosité, E tuberosity; the derivative EF-F n tubéreuse (for plante tubéreuse) prob suggested the E tuberosa, the bulbous flowering herb.

5. L tūber has the dim tūberculum, whence E tubercle (cf EF-F tubercule, MF tubercle), a small excrescence on a plant, adopted by An, Med, Bot, with naturally deviating senses. The Med tubercle, F tubercule, a small, rounded, morbid growth, leads to:

tubercular, formed anl from tubercle; tuberculous, via F tuberculeux, f tuberculeuse; tuberculosis (-osis, disease), suggested by F tuberculose; tuberculin, -ine: L tuberculum+Chem -in, -ine.

6. L tüber, a swelling, a knob, has the LL derivative cpd vr prötüberäre, to swell or bulge prö-, forwards, hence out, with presp prötüberans, o/s prötüberant-, whence (EF-F protuberant and) E protuberant; and with pp prötüberätus, whence 'to protuberate'.

7. L tüber (the plant) has the Osco-Umbrian var tüfer*, whence VL tüfera, whence, by metathesis, the OProv trufa (cf the It truffa), whence MF-F truffe, whence E truffle; the l has perh come from MF-EF trufle, a var of MF-EF trufe, mockery, cheating.

8. MF-EF trufle, deception, mockery, and its derivative v trufier (var of trufier) become the ME n trufle, the ME v trufsten: thinned to trifle and triflen or trifelen: whence the E n and v trifles, with sense gradually weakened from 'mockery' to 'jest' to 'something of small importance' and 'to act frivolously'; already in MF there existed truferie (from trufier), mockery, a jest, jesting. MF-EF trufe, var trufle, is o.o.o., but not impossibly akin to MF-F truffe.

9. Akin to L tüber is L tumēre, to be swollen, to swell, whence both the n tumor, whence—perh via MF tumour (F tumeur)—the AE tumor, E tumour, and the adj tumidus, whence E tumid, and derivative LL tumiditās, whence tumidity. L tumēre has the inch tumescere, to begin to swell, to swell up, with presp tumescens, o/s tumescant-, whence E tumescant, whence tumescence; it also has the cpd tumefacere, to cause to swell, whence EF-F tuméfier, whence 'to tumefy'; and the presp tumefaciens, o/s tumefacient-, and the pp tumefactus, whence the learned EF-F tumefaction, become the E tumefacient and tumefaction.

10. Akin to L tumēre is L tumulus, a hillock, a (large) mound, esp one that covers a corpse; orig, indeed, tumulus was prob a dim of tumor. L tumulus has the adj tumulōsus, whence E tumulose; the var E adj tumular comes from F tumulaire (L tumul-+adj -aire).

11. Also akin to L tumēre, to swell, hence to be vain or conceited, is L tumultus (gen -ūs), the 'swelling' or agitation, commotion, uprising, of a mob, whence MF-F tumulte, whence E tumult. The derivative L adj tumultuārius and tumultuōsus become MF-F tumultuaire, tumultueux (f -ueuse), whence E tumultuary, tumultuous.—L tumultus is perh linked, phon, with L tumulus by the Skt n and adj tumulas, tumult, noisy.

12. Unless akin to L tumēre, L turgēre, to be swollen and hard, is o.o.o.: but surely both tum- and turg- are extenn of IE tu-*, to be swollen? Turgēre has derivative adj turgidus, whence E turgid, and derivative n turgor, adopted by E. Its inch turgescere, to become hard and swollen, yields 'to turgescē'; its presp turgescens, o/s turgescant-, yields turgescant, whence, anl, turgescence.

Greek

13. Akin to L tumulus, a mound covering the dead, is the syn Gr tumbos, whence the LL tumba, a mound-grave, hence any grave: OF-F tombe, with AF var tumbe: ME tumb, toumb(e), tombe, later tomb: E tomb, with adj tombal perh adopted from F.

thill. See the 2nd DEAL.

thimble. See THIGH, para 3.

thin. See TEND, para 26.

thine. See THOU, para 2.

thing, whence the coll thingummy and the adj thingy; whence also the cpds anything, everything, nothing, something; storting—cf the sep HUSTING, q.v. at HOUSE, para 4.

1. The Storting, Norway's parliament, derives from ON störthing, the great (stórr) assembly (thing).

2. The E thing, OE thing, a thing (single object, whether material or immaterial), a thing of value, a circumstance, a cause, a means, a meeting convened, a court or an assembly: intimately related to OE thingan, to negotiate (about things) and thingian, to intercede, to reconcile: related also to ON thing, a thing, an assembly (whether political or judicial), syn OS and virtually syn OFris thing, OHG-MHG dinc, an assembly, a court, G Ding, a thing, MD dinc (dync), dinge, MD-D ding, Go theihs (from thinks*), time, prob the Langobardic thinx: with the OE thingan and thingian, cf OFris thingia, OS thingōn, OHG dingōn, MHG dingen, to negotiate, G dingen, to bargain, to hire. The OGmc r is thin-* or thing-, and the IE r tenkw-; perh ult akin to the TEMPER group, esp to L tempus, time.

think (pt and pp thought), whence thinkable, thinker, thinking; thought, n, whence thoughtful and thoughtless; thank, n, whence thankful (OE thancfull), and thankless—thanks (pl of the n thank), whence thanksgiving, whence Thanksgiving Day.

1. 'To think' owes the -i- to the think of methinks, it seems to me, ME thinken, var of thinchen, var thunchen, from OE thyncan or thyncean, to seem or appear, akin to OFris thinza, OS thunkian, OHG dunchen, G dünken, to seem (impersonal), Go thugkjan (pron thunkyan), ult related to 'to think' or form in the mind, ME thenken, var of thenchen, from OS thencan or thencecan, pt thöhte: cf OFris thenka, thanka, thenza, OS thenkian, OHG denchen, MHG-G denken, Go thagkjan (pron thunkyan), to think, ON thekkia, to know: OGmc r, thank-, IE r perh tong- (cf L-of-non-L-origin tongēre, to know). (Walshe.)

2. From OE thenc(e)an, to think, pt thöhte, derives OE gethöht, also shortened as thöht, whence ME thoght or thought, whence the E 'a thought': cf MHG (ge)däht.

3. Akin to OE thenc(e)an, to think, is thancian, whence 'to thank': cf OFris thankia, thonkia, OS thankōn, ON thakka. The OE n perh comes straight from OE thanc, thonc, a thought, hence a grateful thought, hence the expression of such a thought: whence the n thank, now usu in the pl: cf OFris and OS thank, thonk, OHG-MHG danc, G Dank, MD danc, thought, meaning, thanks, D dank, Go thagks (pron thanks), thought, thanks, ON thökk.

thio- words. See that element.

third, whence thirdly. See THREE, para 2.

thirl. See THOROUGH, para 2.

thirst (n, v), thirsty, athirst; toast, v, hence n; torrent, whence torrential; torrid (whence torridity)—cf torrefaction, torrefy.

1. Athirst, ME ofthurst, is a b/f from OE ofthyrsted, pp of ofthyrstan: of-, here vaguely int + thyrstan, whence 'to thirst'. OE thyrstan derives from OE thurst, whence ME thurst, later thirst, retained by E: and OE thurst is akin to OS thurst, Go thaurstei (cf thaursus, dry), ON thorsti (cf Da törst), OHG-G durst, MD durst, MD-D dorst—Homeric Gr tersesthal, to become dry, Gr tersainein, to dry up (vt), and Skt tarśayati, he dries up (vt), tarśyati, he thirsts, torśús, thirsty—and also L torrēre, (vt) to dry, dry up. The IE r is ters-*, to dry (vt).

2. OE thurst has adj thurstig, thyrstig—cf OFris thorstich and OS thurstig—whence E thirsty.

3. L torrēre, to cause to become dry, esp to burn, to consume with fire, with presp torrens, o/s torrent-, used as adj 'burning', hence 'roaring' (as a fire does) or 'boiling', whence the E adj torrent (obsol) and the OF-F n torrent, adopted by E, a violent stream (? orig of lava).

4. From L torrēre comes the L adj torridus, whence—perh via late MF-F torride—the E torrid.

5. Torrēre has pp tostus, whence the LL tostāre, to roast, to grill, whence OF-MF toster, whence the MF tostée, a grilled slice of bread: whence, resp, the E v and the E n toast. From such a slice having formerly been dipped in the wine in which one drinks to another's health, comes toast, the person to whom one drinks and the action itself.

6. Torrēre has the cpd torrefacere, to roast, or dry, with fire, with pp torrefactus, whence EF-F torréfier, E torrefy, and EF-F torréfaction, E torrefaction.

thirteen, thirteenth; thirtieth, thirty. See THREE, para 4.

this. See THE, para 3.

thistle, whence thistly, comes from ME thistil, OE thistel: cf ON thistill, OHG distil, distilla, distula, MHG-G distel, MD destel, diestel, MD-D distel: OGmc etymon, thistilo*.

thither. See THE, para 11.

thole (1), a wooden (later, a metal) pin serving as fulcrum for a rowing-boat's oar: OE thol, tholl: cf OFris tholl, ON thollr, a (young) fir, hence a thole, MD dolle, MD-D dol, and perh the syn Gr tulos: ? cf, ult, THIGH.

thole (2), v. See the 1st TOLL, para 2.

Thomas, whence the pet-form Tom; Thomism, Thomist (whence Thomistic); tomboy, tomcat.

1. Thomas, adopted from LL Thomas ('doubting Thomas' the Apostle): LGr Thōmas: Aram Tē'ōma, (lit), a twin. From Thomas Aquinas (C13), greatest of medieval philosophers, comes the philosophical and religious system we call Thomism, its adherents Thomists, imm from F thomisme and thomiste: Thomas + -isme, -iste.

2. The pet-form Tom gets rid of an entirely unnecessary h. From the widespread use of Tom—cf that of Jack—comes the sense 'male', as in tomboy and tomcat, orig Tom boy and Tom cat.

thong; twinge; whang.

1. Thong, ME thong, earlier thwong or thwang, derives from OE thwong, var of thwang, akin to ON thvengr, a thong.

2. Akin to thong is twinge, n from v: ME twengen: OE twengan, to squeeze: cf OFris and OS thwinga, to constrain, OFris thwang or thwong, constraint, compulsion, OHG thwingan, dwingan, MHG dwingen, twingen, G zwingen, to compel, to oppress, and OHG dwang, MHG twanc, G Zwang, compulsion, oppression, ON thvinga, to constrain, to oppress: prob (Walshe) akin to Skt ivanakti, he pulls together, pulls close.

3. From OE thwang, a thong, comes—at least, in part, for the v is perh, in part, echoic—'to whang' or thrash (dial), to hurl (dial and Sc), whence the n.

Thor. See THUNDER, paras 1 and 3.

thoracic, thorax. See the element thoraci-.

thorite, thorium. See THUNDER, para 3.

thorn, thorny; turbot.

1. Thorn, coming unchanged from OE, is akin to OFris (and OS) thorn, Go thaurnus, ON thorn, OHG-G dorn, MD doren, dorn, D doorn: cf also OB trīnū, thorn, Skt t[ə]nam, blade of grass, Gr ternax, stem of thistle, and such C words as Ir tráinín, a little (-in) blade of grass, Cor drain, draen, drēn, Br dren, drein, W drain, thorn: IE r, thorn-*. (Holthausen.)

2. OE thorn has adj thornig, whence thorny.

3. IE torn-* appears in OSw törn, thorn, with cpd törnbut, lit—'from its prickles'—'thorny flatfish' (cf BUTT), end: whence OF tourbout, MF-F turbot, adopted by E.

thorough, adj (whence thoroughness, and such cpds as thorough-going and -paced) and adv (whence, e.g., thoroughbred) and prep (whence, prob, thoroughfare)—var through (whence through-out); thirl; thrill (v, hence n), whence the pa thrilling and agent-instr thriller.

1. The adj—like the adv—thorough derives, by contr, from the now archaic prep thorough, ME thoru, thoruh, thuruh, varr of ME thurgh, thurh: OE thurh, akin to OFris truch, OS thurh, Go thairh (cf Go thairkō, a hole), OHG duruh, MHG durh, G durch, MD dure, duere, doer, dore, doorch, dorch, D door; with cognates in L (trāns), C, Skt.

2. OE thurh has derivative thyrel, holed, perforated, hence a hole, whence thyrelian, contr thyrlian, to pierce, ME thurlen, thinned to thirlen, whence 'to thirl', whence thirl, a perforation; both v and n are now mainly dial.

3. ME thirlen has the metathetic var thriren, to pierce, whence 'to thrill', to pierce (obs), hence esp with horror or delight, whence the modern n 'sensation of delight'.

thorp or thorpe. See TAVERN, para 5.

those. See THE, para 2.

thou, thee; thy, thine.

1. Thou, ME thou, earlier thu, derives from OE thū, thu: cf OFris (and OS) thū, Go thu, ON thū, OHG-G du, OHG-MHG var dū; cf also Ir and Ga tu, W and Cor ti (Cor var to), L tū, Doric Gr tū (Attic sū), OB ty, Lith tu, Skt tvam. The OGmc etymon is thu*, with u long or short; the IE, tu, with u long or short. (Walshe.)

2. Thee, acc of thou, derives from OE thē, acc and dat of thū; thy derives from ME thy, earlier thi, a shortened—? rather a worn-down—form of ME thin, whence E thine: from OE thīn, orig the gen of thū, thu: cf ON thinn, possessive pron, from thīn, of thee, and OHG-MHG dīn, G dein, thy, Go theins, possessive pron: OGmc etymon, thūnaz; IE, h₂nos*. (Walshe.)

though: ME thogh, thoh, thouh: ON thō: cf OS thōh, OHG doh, Go thau, and OE thēah, thāēh, all 'though' and also at least tending to mean 'yet': OGmc etymon, thau*; IE, kwe*. (Walshe.) thought, n: thoughtful, thoughtless. See THINK, para 2 and heading.

thousand, whence thousandth, comes, via ME thousand, earlier thusend, from OE thūsēnd: cf OFris thūsēnd, thusind, thusindig, MD duſent and duſant (with -ich varr), D duizend, Go thūsindī, OHG thūsunt, dūsunt, tūsund, MHG tūsēnt, G tausend, ON thūsund; Lith tūkstantis, Ru tysyacha, OB tysešta; prob cf Skt tavās, strong. The 2nd element is app the hund- of E hundred, G hundert: and therefore 1,000=strong 100. (Walshe.)

thrall, n, hence v—now usu enthrall (int en-); whence thralldom (cf the suffix -dom and the n DOOM). A thrall, orig a bondman, virtually a slave, derives from ME thral; OE thraēl: ON thraell: cf OHG dregil or drigil, a servant, and perh OE thraegan, Go thragjan, to run, and OFris thralle, quick.

thrash (whence vn thrashing), thrasher (bird); thresh (whence thresher) and threshold.

1. 'To thresh' is a dial var of 'to thresh', whence the dial bird-name thresher, whence E thrasher: 'to thresh', to beat grain, comes, through ME threschen, from OE threscan, var therscan, to tread, hence to thresh: cf OHG dreskan, MHG-G dreschen, MD derschen, D dorschen, Go thriskan, ON threskja—also Lith trašketi, to break—and L terere, to rub, to beat (grain)—cf TERSE.

2. Threshold, ME threshwold or threswold, comes from OE therscwold or therscold (cf ON threskjöldr): therscan+a doubtful 2nd element (? 'to hold').

thrown. See THROW.

thread, threadbare. See THROW, para 2.

threat (n, v), threaten (whence the pa threatening).

'To threaten' derives from OE thrēatnian, to compel, itself—as also OE thrēatian, to press, to threaten, whence the archaic 'to threat'—from OE thrēat, a crowd, a throng, hence a crowding, esp an overcrowding, whence compulsion or oppression: ME thrēat, a crowd, oppression, a threat: E threat. OE thrēat is akin to OE thrēotan, Go ushrīutan, to vex, to weary, OHG exdrīozan, MHG verdrīezen, G verdrīessen, to vex, to grieve, ON thriōta, to fail, to lack—OSl trudite, to vex, to weary—L trūdere, to push. Cf THRUST.

three and third—thirteen and thirteenth—thirty and thirtieth—and thrice; tertius and tertium quid—tertial, tertian, tertiary—tercel—tercet, terzetto—terce and tierce—tercentenary; tern, ternary, ternate, ternion; trinity, Trinity; tre and trio, triolet; triad; the tri- cpds—e.g., triangle, tripod and tripes, etc.; trammel and the sep DRILL (a fabric); cf the sep TESTAMENT.

Indo-European

1. E three, OE thrī or thrīe, f and neu thrēo, is akin to OFris thrē, m, thriā, f, and thriū, neu, OS thria (var threa), Go threis, neu thrija, MD dre, dri (dry), MD-D drie, OHG-MHG drē, drie, m, OHG drio, f, OHG driu, neu, G drei, ON thri, m, thriar, f, thriū, neu; Lith trys, Ru tri, OSl trije; OC treis*—Br, W (f teir), OIr-Ir (f teoir), Ga trī—Cor trī (in cpds, occ tre-), Mx troor; L trēs, neu tria; Gr treis, neu tria; Skt trāyas, Ve trī (cf the OSl tri); Hit tri-. The IE etymon was app trei-es*; the IE r, trei-, var tri-*, whence the predominant IE c/f tri-, which, in L, has —? by metathesis—the rare var ter-, which occurs also in tertius, third.

Germanic

2. OE thrī(e), f and neu thrēo, become ME thrī, thrēo, thrē, with the 1st predominating and the 2nd increasingly rare; whence E three. The OE cardinal thrī acquires the ordinal thridda, whence ME thridde, whence, by metathesis, the E third, adj, hence also n. With OE thridda, cf OFris thredda, OS thriddio, Go thridja, OHG drīto, MHG-G drītte, ON thrihe or thrihi, Gr tritōs.

3. OE thrī has adv thriga, predominantly thriwa, three times, whence ME thrie, later thries (adv suffix -s, orig the suffix -s, -es, of the gen), whence E thrice. With OE thriwa, cf OS thriwo and OFris thria—and Hit triyanna.

4. OE thrī, thrēo, has both the cpd thrēotēne or -týne (lit 3 + 10), whence ME threttene and—? after thrið—E thirteen, whence thirteenth (cf the OE thrēotēotha); and the cpd thrētīg (lit 3 × 10), var thritīg, whence ME thriity, whence, by metathesis, E thirty, whence thirtieth (cf the OE thritīgōtha).

Latin

5. The var L r ter- occurs in, e.g., tercentenary—an E formation, after bicentenary: LL centenārium, a hundred pieces.

6. It occurs also in L tertius, third (ter+-tius, adj suffix), adopted by E, as in 'Smith Tertius'. The scholastic L tertium quid, a third somewhat, something that falls beyond a supposedly exhaustive 'either-or', has been adopted and jocosely sense-adapted by E. E tertial=L tertius+the E adj suffix -al; but tertian derives from L tertianus, an -ānus extn of tertius, and tertiary derives from L tertiarius, containing or constituting a third part or share.

7. Also from L tertius come:

terce, a Sc (from F) var of tierce, adopted from OF-F tierce (OF-MF var terce), orig the f of the OF-F tiers, from L tertius; tercel, a male goshawk or peregrine falcon, adopted from OF-MF tercel, var terçuel, from ML tertiolus, VL tertiolus*, dim of tertius, the bird being named 'a third part' for any of several f/e reasons, of which the best is that the male is one-third smaller than the female;

tercet, three successive verse-lines with but a single rhyme, from It terzetto, dim of terzo, third (L tertius);

It terza rima, lit 'third rhyme', hence 'triple rhyme', adopted as a literary term;

It terzetto, adopted as a Mus term for a vocal trio.

8. The var L r ter- occurs yet again in terni, three by three, three each, triple, whence E tern, threefold. L terni has the foll derivatives relevant to E:

L ternārius, triple, (of a verse-line) having three feet, whence E ternary;

Sci L ternātus, consisting of—or arranged in—threes, E ternate;

L terniō, o/s terniōn-, the number 3, whence E ternion, esp a set of 3; and, though more prob from trini,

LL trinitās, the number 3, esp Trinitās, the Trinity, whence OF-F Trinité, whence E Trinity; the EF-F derivative trinitarien becomes E Trinitarian.

9. L terni has the var trini (prob from tria), three each, whence trinus, triple, whence OF-MF trin, f trine, the latter being adopted by E.

10. L trēs, 3, becomes OF-MF treis (EF-F trois), with var treie, imm from the L neu tria; as a dicing term, treie becomes E trey. Also from L tria comes It trio, collective 3, adopted by EF-F, whence the E word; EF trio app has the dim triolet, adopted by E.

Greek

11. Gr treis, neu tria, has derivative trias, a set of three (gen triados), whence LL trias (gen triadis), acc triadem, whence EF-F triade and, perh independently, E triad, with derivative adj triadic. LL trias is adopted by European Geol, the system having in Germany a threefold division; whence the adj Triassic.

12. Gr treis, tria, and L trēs, tria, have the c/f tri-, the L being prob imitative of the Gr. Of the numerous E tri- cpds coming straight from either Gr or L, or imitating Gr and L cpds, the chief are perhaps these:

triangle, adopted from MF-F: L triangulus (cf the n ANGLE); triangular, late MF-F triangulaire, LL triangularis (from triangulus); triangulation, ML triangulātiōn-, o/s of triangulātiō (anl from triangulus); tribasic = tri- + E basic, adj of BASE, n; tribrach, LL tribrachus, L tribrachys, Gr tribrachus, having 3 short (brachus) syllables; triceps, a SciL sense-adaptation of L triceps, having three heads (L caput, a head); trichord, Gr trikhordos, 3-stringed (khordē, a string); trichotomy, a division into three: after dichotomy: Gr trikha, threefold + -tomy, a cutting hence a division (Gr tomē: cf TOME); tricolor, F tricolore (the flag), EF tricolor, 3-coloured;

tricycle: see CYCLE, para 1;

trident: see DENTAL, para 2;

triennial: see ANNUAL, para 3;

trifid, L trifidus, 3-cleft;

Trifolium, adopted from L for 'the 3-leaved'—cf trefoil; triglyph, L triglyphus, Gr triglyphos (gluphē, a carving: E glyph); trigonometry: see the element trigono-; trilingual, after bilingual: L trilinguis, 3-tongued; trillon = tri + million;

trilogy: see LEGEND, para 32;

trimester: see the element -mester;

trimeter, L trimetrus, Gr trimetros, 3-measured (cf meter at MEASURE); trimorphous, Gr trimorphos, 3-shaped or -formed (cf MORPHEUS); whence, anl, trimorphism; trinomial, after binomial (q.v.);

tripartite: see PART, para 4;

triphthong = tri + diphthong;

triplane = tri + plane: cf biplane; triple, triplex, triplicate, triplication: see PLY, para 24;

tripod, tripos: see FOOT, para 27;

triptych, Gr triptukhos; trireme, L trirēmis, (a boat having) 3 banks of rēmi or oars—cf late MF-F trirème; trisyllabic, trisyllable: see SYLLABLE, para 3; tritone, Gr tritonos, 3-toned; triumvirate: see the element -vir; trivial, trivium: see TRIVIA.

12. A 'disguised' cpd—cf the fabric DRILL—is the n-whence-v trammel: OF-MF(-F) tramail (F trémâil): LL trēmaculum, a 3-meshed net for catching fish: trē- (from trēs) + macula, a mesh + suffix -um.

threne, threnody. See ODE, para 10.

threpology. See the element threps-.

thresh, threshold. See THRASH.

thrice. See THREE, para 3.

thrift, thrifty. See THRIVE, para 2.

thrill, thrilling. See THOROUGH, para 3.

thring. See THROG.

thrips, a wood worm, is adopted from L thrips from Gr θρίψ, perh 'the borer' and akin to Go dreiban, OHG triban, to push. (Hofmann.)

thrive, pt throve, pp thriven; hence the pa thriving; thrift, whence thrifty, whence thriftiness.

1. 'To thrive,' ME thriven, comes from ON thrifast, to grasp for oneself: vr of ON thriafa, var threifa, to grasp, with modern Scan cognates: o.o.o.

2. From ON threifa, thrifa, comes ON thrif, thrift, whence ME-E thrift, lit '(the result of) grasping for oneself', hence a thriving condition, hence good management, hence frugality.

throat, whence the c/f -throated and the adj throaty; throttle, n, whence v, and throttle, n, whence v.

1. Throat, ME throate, derives from OE throta or throta: cf OHG drozza, OS strota, OFris strot-, MD stroot, strodt, strote, D strot: o.o.o.

2. The mainly dial thropple, throat, windpipe, prob derives from OE throibolla, gullet, windpipe, Adam's apple.

3. The n throttle is almost certainly a shortening of throaite*, dim of throat: for the form, perh cf OHG drōscala, MHG droschel, G Drossel, a thrush and E throistle.

throb (v, hence n; whence the pa, vn throbbing): ME throbben: app echoic.

throe, n, now usu in the pl throes: ME throwe, earlier thrawe: OE thrāwu, a var of OE thrēa, a threatening, a compulsion or oppression, hence suffering: ? influenced by ON thrā, a throe or extreme pang or pain: cf G drohen, to threaten, MHG drōn, a b/f from MHG drō, a threat—cf OHG drewen, to threaten: o.o.o. (Walshe.)

thrombosis. See the element thrombo-.

throne, n (whence the adj thronal) and v, now usu in the derivative cpd enthrone, whence enthronement; dethrone, whence dethronement, prob owes something to EF-F détrôner.

'To throne,' reshaped after the n throne, derives from ME tronen, from ME trone, whence—by reshaping after the L word—E throne; ME trone was adopted from OF-MF trone (F trône): L thronus: Gr thronos: akin to the sep FIRM.

throng, n, whence both the E v and the Sc (and E dial) adj, derives from ME throng, a var of thrang: OE thrang or gethrang: cf ON thróng, OHG-MHG dranc, G Drang, a throng, a thrusting or an urging: cf also OE thringan (whence the now only dial 'to thring'), to crowd, OFris ur-thringa, to oppress, OS thringan, to crowd, OHG dringan, G dringen, to thrust, MHG dringen, to crowd a prince at court, Go threihan (for thrinhan*), MD drengen, MD-D dringen, ON thryngva: cf also Lith trėnkti, to push, to jolt, and esp Skt thrakhia-, pressed together (Walshe): either echoic or, at the least, expressive.

thropple. See THROAT, para 2.

thrortle. See the 1st THRUSH, para 2.

throttle. See THROAT, para 3.

through. See THOROUGH, para 1.

throw: pt of THRIVE.

throw, pt threw, pp thrown (with Sc var thrawn, crooked, perverse); whence the n throw and numerous cpds—throwback, throw-in, throw-out, etc.; thread, n, whence both the v and threadbare.—L cognates: terebella, terebra; Termes, termite; tribulate, tribulation; triturate, trituration, triturator; atrite, atrition, atritus—contribute, contrition—detriment (whence detrimental), detrition, detritus.—Gr cognates teredo; tribade, diatribe; trema; trepan (n, v), trepanation; trephine, n, hence v.—Cf the sep THRASH and TURN.

Indo-European

1. 'To throw,' ME thrown, earlier throwen, to throw, to twist, OE thrāwan, to twist, to cause to turn, is akin to OHG drāen and drājan, MHG draejen, G drehen, MD dreyen, drayen, draeyen, D draaien (draaijen), to turn, to twist; L terere, to rub, to rub away, to thrash, pp tritūs, and terebra, an auger; Gr tribein, to rub, tetrainein, to pierce, trēma, a hole (made by, e.g., piercing), teirein (for teriein*), to pierce or bore, to turn; OB trýti, to rub, téro, I rub, and Lith tirti, to pry into, to investigate; Skt turás, wounded, injured; perh Hit teripp-, to plough (pierce the soil). The IE r is ter-*, to rub, to turn or twist, to pierce or bore. (E & M; Hofmann.)

Germanic

2. Akin to OE thrāwan, to twist or turn, is OE thrāed, ME threed or thred, E thread: cf OFris thrēd, ON thrāthr, a thread, OHG-MHG drāt, thread, wire, G Draht, wire, MD draet, D draad, thread.

Latin

3. L terere, to rub, to rub away, to wear away, to waste, to beat grain, has s and r ter-, extn tere-, as in terebra, a drill, an auger, with dim terebellus, with ScIL mdfn terebellum; terebra and terebellum appear in learned E. L terebra has the LL derivative terebrare, to pierce, pp terebrātus, whence both E terebrate (adj and v) and ML terebreatiō, o/s terebreatiōn-, whence E tebration.

4. Prob from the L r ter- comes LL termes (s and r term-, an extn), a wood worm, o/s termit-, whence the Zoo Termes and the E termite.

5. L ter- has the metathesis trē-, var trē-, with mdfn trī-, occurring not only in the pp tritūs and supine tritūm but also in tribulum (occ tribula), a threshing-sledge, a wooden platform studded, underneath, with nails or sharp flints, whence tribulāre, to beat grain with one, hence to harass, to afflict, pp tribulātus, whence both 'to tribulate' (rare) and LL tribulātiō, acc tribulātiōnem, whence MF-F tribulation, adopted by E.

6. On the L pp tritūs is formed tritūra, a beating of grain, a rubbing away, whence the LL tritūrāre, to thresh, pp tritūrātus, whence the E adj and v triturate; the LL derivatives tritūrātiō, acc tritūrātiōnem, and tritūrātor become E trituration (perh via MF-F) and triturator.

7. Straight from the L pp tritūs, used as adj, comes E trite, whence triteness.

8. L terere, to rub, to rub away, has prefix-cpds; the foll concern E:

atterere, to rub ad or against, to wear out by rubbing, pp atritus, whence the Theo adj atritite; whereas the derivative LL atritiō, o/s atritiōn-, yields atrition, the derivative L n atritus (gen -ūs) is adopted by Geol; conterere (con-, vaguely int), to wear away by rubbing, to grind, hence to abase, pp contritus, used also as adj, whence OF-F contrit, f contrite, whence E contrite; derivative LL contritiō, acc contritiōnem, yields OF-F contrition, adopted by E; dēterere (dē-, away from, dē, down from), to remove by rubbing, hence diminish, to destroy, pp dētritus, whence the n dētritus (gen -ūs), a rubbing away, hence that which is rubbed away, adopted by Geol; derivative ML dētritiō, o/s dētritiōn-, yields detrition. On the r dētrī- (cf para 5 above) was formed dētrimentum, a rubbing—hence a wearing—away, hence a diminution, a loss, whence MF detriment, EF-F détriment, whence E detriment.

Greek

9. Gr teirein (IE r ter-*), to rub, has derivative terēdōn, lit 'a wearer-away', a worm that gnaws either wood (cf termes in para 4 above) or clothes; whence—as if the Gr word had been terēdō*, gen terēdonos—the L terēdō, adopted by Zoo.

10. Akin to Gr teirein, to rub, is the syn Gr tribein (s and r trib-, extn of the IE var tri-*); whence Gr tribas, gen tribados—L tribas, gen tribadis—EF-F tribade, adopted by E (a Lesbian), whence tribadism.

11. Gr tribein, to rub, has the cpd diatribein, to rub dia or through, to rub away, hence to spend time (cf L terere tempus, to spend time uselessly); whence diatribē, an erudite discussion, L diatriba, EF-F diatribe, with modern sense conferred by Voltaire in 1734 (B & W)—adopted by E.

12. The IE var r trē-* occurs in Gr trēma, a perforation, a hole; whence Bot Trema, a genus of shrubs, with a fruit that has holes.

13. Akin to Gr trēma is the syn Gr trupa, whence trupan, to pierce or bore, whence trupanon (c/f trupano-, E trypano-), a piercing or boring instrument, whence ML trepanum, a surgical instrument, late MF trépane, EF-F trépan, and its derivatives, late MF-F trépaner and MF-F trépanation: whence, resp, the E words trepan, n, and 'to trepan' and trepanation.

14. E trepan, n, has the mdfn trephine, an improvement on the trepan.

thrum (1), usu in pl thrums. See TERM, para 3.

thrum (2), to strum. See STRUM.

thrush (1), the bird; throstle. Thrush, ME thrusche, OE thrysc, var thraesce, is akin to OHG drōscala, MHG drōschel, G Drossel: perh cf L turdus, a thrush, and, with the IE int prefix s-, Gr strouthos, a bird, esp a sparrow and then predominantly an ostrich ('the bird').

2. Also akin to OE thrysc, thraēsce, is OE throstle, ME throstel, E throstle.

thrush (2), an affection of the infantile mouth and throat, has, in its passage from Scan, been influenced by THRUSH (1): o.o.o.

thrust, v (hence n), whence the agent thruster and the pa thrusting, derives from ME thrusten, varr thristen and thresten—from ON thrysta, to thrust, to compel: o.o.o.: perh cf THREAT and prob of L trūdere, to push, to thrust, pp trūsus.

2. L trūdere has several prefix-cpds relevant to E, the first being abstrūdere, to push or thrust away, pp abstrūsus, used also as adj 'thrust out of sight, secret, hence very difficult to understand': whence, prob via MF-F abstrus, f abstruse, the E abstruse.

3. L dētrūdere, to thrust dē, down, hence away, yields 'to detrude'; from the LL dētrūsio (from the pp dētrūsus), o/s dētrūsion-, comes detrusion.

4. L extrūdere, to thrust ex or out, yields 'to extrude'; the pp extrūsus has suggested E extrusile, extrusion, extrusive.

5. L intrūdere, to thrust (something) into, hence upon, yields 'to intrude', now usu for 'to intrude oneself', whence intruder; from the pp intrūsus, MF-F has formed intrusion, adopted by E, whence, anl, intrusive.

6. L obtrūdere, to thrust towards or upon, yields 'to obtrude'; to thrust forward, esp unasked; derivative LL obtrūsio, o/s obtrūsion-, gives us obtrusion, whence, anl, obtrusive.

7. L prōtrūdere, to thrust prō- or forward, becomes 'to protrude' (vt and vi), whence, anl, protrusion and protrusive.

8. L retrūdere, to thrust back, becomes 'to retrude', whence, anl, retrusible and retrusion.

thud, v and n, is prob echoic; for the form, however, cf ME thuden (OE thyddan), to push or press.

thug, thuggee. The latter derives from Hi thagī, prop the adj of Hi (and Mahratti) thag: Prakrit thagā, an easing of Skt sthaga, a rogue, a cheat (also adj) dishonest: Skt sthagati, he hides: cf thatch at TECHNIC, para 8. A thug, or rough, derives from Thug, a member of that religious fraternity in which murder had been regarded as a profession and which, by 1840, was suppressed by British soldiers in India. Cf, sem, ASSASSIN.

thumb. See THIGH, para 2.

thump. See BUMP.

thunder, n (whence thunderous and thundery) and v (whence thunderer and the pa, vn thundering); hence numerous cpds, mostly self-explanatory—e.g., thunderbird, -bolt, -clap, -cloud, -fish (supposed to foretell thunderstorms: Webster), -head, -stone, -strike (esp as pa thunderstruck), -worm (leaving its burrows after a thundershower: Webster);—Thor, thorite, thorium; Thursday; blunderbuss.—L: tonant, tonite, tonitruous; astonish, astonishment—astonied—astound, whence pa astounding and astounding; detonate, detonation (whence, anl, detonator); tornado.—stun, whence stunner and stunning.

Indo-European

1. 'To thunder' derives from ME thunderen, earlier thuneren, from OE thunrian, itself app from OE thunor, whence ME thuner, thoner, later thonder, thunder, the latter retained by E: and OE thunor is akin to OFris thuner and, with d- for th-, OHG donar, MHG doner, G Donner, MD dunder, donre, dondere, MD-D donder, and, without nasalization, ON Thörr, the Thunder God (E Thor); likewise akin, but with t- for Gmc th- or d-, are L tonāre, to thunder, and tonitrus, tonitru, thunder, and Ve tányati, it thunders, tanyatús, a thundering; akin also, but bearing the IE int prefix s-, are Skt stanati, stanayati, it thunders, and Gr stenein, to groan, to moan, and, in Sl, such words as Lith stenėti, OSi stenati, Ru stonat, to groan.

Germanic

2. From MD-D donder comes D donderbus, lit a thunder-box, hence a musket, whence, by f/e, the E blunderbuss.

3. From ON Thórr, the Thunder-God, comes E Thor, whence both thorite (Min -ite) and thorium (Chem -ium), discovered in thorite. ON Thórr has cpd Thórsdagr (whence, anl, OE Thurresdaeg), whence ME Thoresday, later Thuresdai, then Thurs-daye, whence E Thursday: cf OFris thunresdei and OHG donarstag, G Donnerstag.

Latin

4. L tonāre, to thunder, has presp tonans, whence both the adj tonant (from the L o/s tonant-) and Jupiter Tonans, Jupiter the Thunderer, whence The Thunderer, a C19 name for The Times. From tonāre come E tonite (Min -ite) and tonitrus, var tonitru, thunder, with LL adj tonitruālis, which has suggested E tonitruous, and with derivative LL tonitruāre, to thunder, presp tonitruans, o/s tonitruant-, whence the E adj tonitruant.

5. L tonāre has at least two cpds that affect E: L dētonāre and VL extonāre* (for L attonāre). Dētonāre (int dē-) has pp dētonātus, whence 'to detonate'; the anl late EF-F derivative dētonation leads to detonation; with detonator, cf the F détonateur.

6. VL extonāre*, to affect violently (int ex-)—to stupefy—with noise, becomes OF-MF estoner, whence ME astonen, astonien (astunien), whence, on the anl of E derivatives from OF-F vv in -ir, E 'to astonish', whence astonishment—prompted by the syn MF estonement (F étonnement).

7. ME astonen has pp astoned, with var astounded, contr to astound, whence the now archaic adj astound, whence 'to astound'. Also from ME astonen comes the now archaic 'to astony', pp astonied.

8. OF-MF estoner, to resound, hence to stun, becomes, as we have seen, astonien or astunien, whence, by aphesis, ME stonien, stunien, E 'to stun'.

9. That E tornado comes from Sp, all are agreed, but whereas certain authorities assert that tornado is an adoption of Sp tornado, others assert that it is a f/e adaptation of Sp tronada, a thunderstorm, from tronar, to thunder, an assimilation from L tonāre. Despite the OED, tornado is a Sp word, the substantival use of tornado, the pp of tornar, to turn.

Thunderer, The. See prec, para 4.

thurable. See THYME, para 3.

thurifer. See the element thuri-.

Thursday. See THUNDER, para 3.

thus. See THE, para 6.

thwack, v, hence n: echoic: cf WHACK.

thwaite. See WHITTLE, para 2.

thwart. See QUEER, para 2.

thwittle. See WHITTLE, para 1.

thy. See THOU, para 2.

thyme. See THYME, para 2.

thylacine. See the element thylaco-.

thyme (whence thymy)—whence thymol (-ol); thyne; thurible.

1. Thyme, reshaped after EF-F thym, comes from ME tyme: MF tym: L thymus: Gr thumos (var thumon, whence L thymum): akin to Gr thūmos, courage (cf THYMUS), and to Gr thúon, a tree with sweetly odorous wood, whence Gr thūmīama, incense—and ult to L fumus, therefore to E FUME.

2. Akin to Gr thúon, is Gr thúa, var thula, a fragrant African tree, whence the adj thuinous, LL thynus, E thylene.

3. Akin to Gr thúon and thúa is Gr thúos, incense, hence sacrificial incense, hence sacrifice, whence L thus (tus), o/s thur- (tur-), whence L thuribulum (tur-), whence E thurible, a censer.

thymic, thymine. See THYMUS.

thymol. See THYME (heading).

thymus, in An a gland, is the SciL form of Gr thūmos, courage, akin to Skt dhūmās, smoke; f.a.c., FUME. (Cf THYME, para 1.) Hence the adj thymic and the Chem thymin or thymine (Chem suffix -in, -ine).

thyreo- words. See the element thyreo-.

thyroid; parathyroid. The latter merely prefixes Gr para, beside, alongside, to thyroid, which derives from EF-F thyroïde: MGr thuroidēs, door-shaped, a false reading of LGr thureoïdēs, shield- or buckler-shaped: thureos, a long shield+eidōs, form. Gr thureos derives from thura, a door; in shape, it resembles a door.

thyro- words. See thyro- at the element thyreo-.

thyrus, a Bacchic wand, is adopted from L; it derives from Gr thursos: o.o.o.: ? Thracian or Phrygian.

2. L thyrus, such a wand, hence, in Bot, a stalk, a stem, becomes VL tursus*, whence It torso, a stalk, hence, orig jocularly, the An sense 'trunk', whence EF-F torse and E torso.

tiara, whence the dim tiarella, is adopted from L, from Gr, tīārā, var tīārās: o.o.o.: prob Oriental—cf OPer tara.

Tibet—whence Tibetan, adj, hence n—'seems to have passed to us through the Ar name (Tibat, Tobbat), drawn from the ancient Ch name (Tu-pat, Tu-fan): Enci It.

tibia (whence tibial): L tibia, a flute, hence—cf the sem development of Gr aulos, a flute, hence the blow-hole of cetaceans or the funnel of a cuttlefish—the bone: o.o.o. (E & M; L & S.) tick (1), a small arachnid: ME tike, var of teke: either borrowed from MD teke, var tieke (cf D teek, tiék), or surviving from a slightly dubious OE ticia: cf MHG zeche, MHG-G zecke: perh (Kluge) OGmc tikan*, from IE deigh-*, a nipping insect: cf Arm tiz (Walshe).

tick (2), a cover. See THESIS, para 2.

tick (3), to pat or tap lightly or gently, hence both as in 'the clock ticks' and 'to tick—hence tick off—the answers'; hence n: cf MD teeckenen, teekenen, telkenen, teken, D tikken: app echoic.—Hence the agent-instrument ticker and the pa, vn ticking.

ticket. See STICK, para 16.

ticking (1), of a mattress. See THESIS, para 2.—(2). See the 3rd TICK.

tickle, whence tickler and ticklish. See KITTLE, s.f.

tick-tack and tick-tock are echoic redupp of the 3rd TICK.

tidal. See TIDE.

tidbit. See TITBIT.

tiddle. See TIDE, para 4.

tiddlywinks. See para 4 of:

tide, whence tidal; tidings; tidy (whence tidiness)—'tidd(e)y'—tiddlywinks—titivate or tittivate, whence tit(t)ivation; betide.—time, n, whence both 'to time' (whence the vn timing) and timeless and timely (whence untimely), and such obvious cpds as timekeeper, -piece, -serving, -table; betimes.—Perh cf the sep DEMOCRACY.

1. The tides of the sea were so named, in C14, from their occurrence at regular times: the basic sense of tide (ME tide, earlier tid: OE tīd) was 'time', hence a definite time, hence an opportune time, as in 'Time and tide wait for no man' (C16): cf OFris and OS tīd, MD tide-, D tijd, ON tīth, OHG-MHG zīt, G Zeit.

2. Time, ME time, OE tīma, is akin to ON tīmi (with modern Scan cognates). It is therefore clear that, already in ON and OE, time and tide were doublets: they have the same r, but different suffixes: the OGmc r, then, is rt-, corresp to an IE r ṛ-: cf Arm tī, time, and the Skt goddess Aditiṣ (a-, not + ditiṣ), 'the timeless, hence eternal, one': perh cf also Skt dāyatā, he divides, he apportions, and Gr daiomai, I divide or apportion —and therefore of Gr dēmos, the people, which has C cognates. (Walshe.)

3. Whereas the only non-obvious derivative of time is betimes (be-, for by+ + times, with adv suffix -s), tide has:

betide, to happen, to happen to, ME bitiden: bi- (E be-) + tiden, to happen, OE tīdan; tiding, an occurrence, a happening (archaic), an account, now mostly in pl tidings: ME tīdinge, tīthinge, tīdinde: app influenced, in its passage from OE tīdung, by ON tīdende, tīthindi (pl); tidy, ME tīdy, tīdi, from tīd, time or season: orig, seasonable or opportune: cf MD tīdich, D tīdig, tīmely.

4. App from tidy, neat, comes—via the dial (S.W. England) tīdivate (tīddi-)—to tītivate' (or tītti-), perh after such L-derivative vv as captive: certainly from tidy comes the Nav sl tīdly or tīddley. In general sl, tīddley means 'very small' (? after tiny), whence prob the game of tīddly-winks: tīddly, from the smallness of the disks, winks because of their 'winking' movement when they are struck.

tiding(s). See prec, para 3.

tidy. See TIDE, para 3.

tie, n and v. See TOW (3), para 4.

tier, layer, rank, row, esp in a series: OF-EF tire, var of OF tiere, a row or rank: o.o.o.: dubiously related to OHG ziari, MHG ziere, G Zier, an ornament (E tire, for attire, adornment, dress; cf ARTILLERY).

tierce. See THREE, para 7.

tiff, a slight quarrel, prob eases the Sc, and Northern E dial, tift, a puff of wind, itself app echoic.

tiffany. See FANCY, para 7, s.f.

tiffin slovens tiffing, a drinking, vn of tiff, to drink, from tiff, a small drink or draught: ? orig a sniff: cf ON thefa, to sniff, and thefr, a sniff, a smell, a taste. (Webster.)

tiger. See STICK, para 2.

tight (adj, hence adv), whence tighen (v suffix -en) and tightness: ME tight, earlier tigt, still earlier thight or thyht: either deriving from or, at the least, related to ON thētt: cf MHG dhīte, G dicht, tight, thick, MD dichte, MD-D dicht: prob akin either (Webster) to Lith tánkus, tight, and Skt tanakti, it draws together, or (Walshe) to L tectus, covered, hence impenetrable (cf TECHNIC, para 6).

tigris; tigrine. See STICK, para 2.

Tigris. See STICK, para 2.

tilke. See TYKE.

tilbury, a two-wheeled horse-drawn carriage, was designed by one Tilbury, a London coach-builder: from the PIN Tilbury, OE Tilaburg, Tila's burg (or fort).

tilde. See TITLE.

tile. See TECHNIC, para 8.

till (1), orig a tray or drawer in a chest or a trunk: EE tille, tylle: ME tillen, tyllen, to pull or draw: OE -tyllan, as in fortyllan, to draw away: cf OFris tilia and OS tīlōn: o.o.o.: ? akin to OE tēon, to pull or draw (cf the v TOW).—Cf the 3rd TOLL.

till (2), orig to work hard for, to strive for, to gain (obs), to cultivate (land): ME tīlen, earlier tīlien: OE tīlian (var teolian), to work hard for, to cultivate: cf, sem, LABOR (LABOUR): cf, phon, OS tīllian, to earn or get, MD teilen, teelen, to get, plough, propagate, D telen, to propagate, G zielen, to aim, OHG-MHG zīl, G Ziel, aim, goal, Go tīl, opportunity, and tīls, opportune, suitable, and, in C, the OIr dīl, agreeable, pleasant, Ga dīl, zealous, OC dīlis*, agreeable. Cf also the next entry.

2. 'To till' has the derivatives tillage and, already in OE, tīlth.

till (3), prep, whence conj; until. E till, to (a place of arrival, whether in space or in time), hence throughout a period, or, termination implied, with interval, from one point of time to another, derives, via ME tīll, earlier tīl, from OE tīl, itself perhaps deriving from, certainly related intimately to, ON tīl: cf also OFris tīl. Those OGmc prepp are closely akin to these OGmc adj: OE and OFris til, good, and Go tils, opportune—cf prec. The basic idea of till (2) and (3) is app: a striving for the good and the agreeable.

2. ME til has cpd until, var ontil (un- as in UNTO, q.v.): whence E until. Perh it would be more sensible to pose (with EW) the substitution of until (or ontil) for unto.

tillage. See the 2nd TILL, para 2.

tiller of a boat. See TECHNICAL, para 18.—(2) a cultivator: from the 2nd TILL.

tilt (1), a covering, a tent (both obs), an awning, (in Newfoundland) a log hut: ME telt, var of teld: OE teld or geteld: cf OHG zelt or gizelt, MHG zelt or gezelt, G Zelt, MD telt, teldē, ON tiald (tjald)—and ON tjalda, OE beteldan, to cover; the ge- and be- are int prefixes.

tilt (2); tilt at windmills. Tilt, to cause to totter or overturn (obs), hence vi (obs), whence to (cause to) slope or shift, derives from ME tilten, var tulten, to totter, to totter and fall, ult from OE tealt, unsteady: cf OE tealtian, to be unsteady, tealtrian, to totter, akin to ON tyllast, to cause to fall (cf Sw tulta, Nor tylta), and MD-D touteren (? for toulieren*), to tremble.

2. To 'tilt at windmills' or fight an imaginary enemy or evil, derives from an exploit of Don Quixote's: cf QUIXOTIC.

tilth. See the 2nd TILL, para 2.

timbal, timbale. See TAMBOUR, para 2.

timber, n and v (whence the pa -timbered); cf the sep DOMESTIC.

'To timber' derives from OE timbran (-ian), akin to OFris timbria (occ eased to timmeria), Go timrjan, ON timbra: and OE timbran (-ian) derives from OE-E timber, wood, a building, akin to OFris timber, OS timber, a building, a room, Go timrja, a builder, OHG zimbar, MHG zimber, timber, a wooden dwelling (or room), G Zimmer, a room, MD timber, timmer, wood, a building, D timmer, a room, ON timbr, timber: OGmc words with Sl, L, Gr, Skt cognates in d- (see DOMESTIC).

timbre. See TYMP, para 2.

timbrēl. See TYMP, para 3.

time, timeless, timely. See TIDE, para 2.

timid, timidity—cf intimidate, intimidation (whence, anl, intimidatory); timor and timorous.

Intimidation is adopted from EF-F, which forms it, anl, from EF-F intimider, from ML intimidāre, to strike fear into, pp intimidātus, whence 'to intimidate'; ML intimidāre (cf LL intimorātus, full of fear) derives from L timidus, which, like timor (adopted by E, but rare), derives from timēre, to fear, to be afraid, akin to Gr deos (? for deios*, for dweios*), fear, and perh Gr deinos, terrible: IE r, duei*, dwei-*, to fear.

2. Whereas L timor has derivative LL adj timorōsus, whence, via MF timoreus, the E timorous, L timidus—whence late MF-F timide, whence E timid—has derivative timiditās, acc timiditatem, whence late MF-F timiditē, whence E timidity.

timocracy. See the element timo-.

timorous. See TIMID, para 2.

Timothy, timothy. The latter, elliptical for 'Timothy grass', derives from Timothy Hanson, who, c1720, carried the seed from New York to Carolina (Webster): and Timothy derives from MF-F Timothée, L Timotheus, Gr Timotheos, 'God-honouring': Gr timos, honour + theos, a god, LGr Theos, God.

tin. See STANNARY, para 1.

tinct, tinction, tincture. See STAIN, para 3.

tinder (whence tinderbox and tinder fungus): ME tinder: OE tynder, var tyndre: cf ON tundr, OHG zuntra, zuniara, G Zunder: OGmc words that prob derive from the common var—OE -tendan, ON tendra, Go tundnan (vi), tandjan (vt), OHG zunden, MHG-G zünden, to kindle, MHG zinden, to glow.

tinē (1), a slender, pointed projection, as of a fork or an antler, esp if one of a set, eases ME, from OE, tind, akin to the syn ON tindr (Sw tinne) and MHG zint, and prob to OHG zinna, MHG-G zinne, a pinnacle, a battlement, and to OHG zinko, MHG-G zinke, a spike: perh (Walshe) related to OHG zand, MHG zant, later zan, G Zahn, a tooth (cf TOOTH).

tinē (2). See TOWN, para 1.

ting. See TINK.

tingle. See para 1 of:

tink, whence the freq tinkle (v, hence n), of which tingle (v, hence n) is a doublet (imm from 'to ting'), with gradual sense-differentiation; hence also tinker (from the noise he makes, whence 'to tinker'), with var tinkler (now E dial and Sc); ting, a var of tink; tingtang, an E dial, and Sc, redup of ting: whence prob the E dingdong. All these words are echoic; 'to tink' derives imm from ME tinken.

2. They are related to L tintinnābulum, a bell, adopted by E, with anl E adj tintinnabular; L tintinnābulum (cf the syn LL tintinnus) derives from L tintinnāre, itself a redup of L tinnire, to jingle, itself clearly echoic. Tintinnābulum has derivative tintinnābulātus, whence 'to tintinnabulate', whence, anl, tintinnabulation.

tinker, n, hence v. See prec, para 1.

tinkle, v, hence n. See TINK, para 1.

tinny: adj of tin, q.v. at STANNARY, para 1.

tinsel. See SCENE, para 7.

tin. See STAIN, para 3.

tintinnabular, tintinnabulation, tintinnabulum. See TINK, para 2.

tiny: ME tine: o.o.o.: prob either (OED) C15-early 17 tine, little, also, as n, a very little + adj suffix -y, or (EW) a shortening of late MF-F tantinet, a little: perh (E.P.) from tine, a slender pointed projection that, relatively to that to which it is attached, is small.

tip (1), n (point at summit), hence v; tip, to tap, hence n; tip-toe; tip-top; tippet; tipple, to drink, hence n; tipster;—top, summit, hence v (whence topper and pa topping); topsy-turvy; tope, v; toupee, toupet; toff—cf tuft (n, hence v), whence tufted.

A tip or pointed end

1. Tip, a pointed extremity, ME tip, is akin to MD-D tip, MD var tep, MLG tip, Da tip, Sw tipp, and also to MHG-G zipfel, dim of zipf, itself perh akin to OHG zapho, MHG zapfe, G Zapfen, a tap or bung (Walshe). Cf para 6.

2. Tiptoe, esp 'walk on tiptoe', is—obviously—the tip of one's toe, esp of all one's toes; tiptop is the tip of the top, hence an adj (cf the AE coll tops, first-rate).

3. Tippet, ME tipet, was orig, it seems, a dim of ME tip, var tippe, a point: cf MHG-G zipfel (as in para 1).

4. Akin to tip, a point, is 'to tip' or strike lightly (prob orig on the tip), itself akin to G tippen, to tap; hence the cricketing phrase tip-and-run, n, whence adj ('tip-and-run' raids'); hence also, but much earlier, the sl sense 'to give', whence 'to give (someone) a warning or information', now SE, hence as n (a hint), whence the racing tipster (agential -ster).

5. Also akin to tip, a point, and tip, to tap, is 'to tipple', perh imm from Nor tipla, to tipple: cf dial G zipfeln, to eat and drink little but often, from the MHG-G n zipfel (as in para 1).

A top or summit

6. ME-E tip, a pointed end, is app a thinned derivative of OE-ME-E top (predominant OE: topp), a summit: cf MD-D top (MD var tob), top, OFris topp, top of a tree, a tuft, OHG-G zopf, oppr a pointed end, top of a tree, hence a tuft, ON toppr, top, tuft (cf Da top, Sw topp, top, pinnacle).

7. Prob from top comes topsy-turvy, earlier topsy-tervy; app for top so tervy*, top so overturned—cf ME terven, to roll, and the syn OE tearflian.

8. Akin to OE topp, OE-E top, is OF-MF top, tip, summit, of Gmc origin, whence Sp tope, tip, summit, whence Sp topar, (of a quadruped) to butt with the horns, to strike against, to meet (cf the syn OF topter), topo, I strike or encounter, whence EF-F tope, to cover a stake, esp tope! (for Je tope, I agree), 'Agreed!': whence E 'to tope', prob orig of drinking as acceptance of a bargain or a wager, hence to drink habitually or excessively, whence topter.

9. OF top, summit, has var toup, with OF-F dim toupet, a tip, whence a head of hair, esp if false, adopted by E and anglicized as toupee.

10. Prob from OHG-G zopf, top of tree, a tuft, comes MF toffe, tofe, tufe (EF-F touffe): whence ME-E tuft, whence the Oxford and Cambridge Universities' sense 'a gold tassel worn by titled students', whence the University sl 'a wearer thereof', with dial var toft, whence the eased toff, a dandy, hence a fine fellow.

tip (2), to overturn, to cause to slant or slope, to tilt, hence also vi, hence also n; whence the freq tipple and—influenced by tipple—the adj tipsy (for tippy*); topple, to tumble over, pitch head first, to tilt, with sense from the approx syn tipple and with form from both top, summit, and tipple.

'To tip' or overturn, incline, tilt, derives from late ME type: o.o.o.: prob, however, from ME tip, a pointed extremity, from causing either end of an object to become visible.

tip-and-run. See the 1st TIP, para 4.

tipplet. See the 1st TIP, para 3.

tipple (1), to drink frequently. See the 1st TIP, para 5.

tipple (2), to topple. See the 2nd TIP (heading).

tipster. See the 1st TIP, para 4, s.f.

tipsy. See the 2nd TIP (heading).

tiptoe; tiptop. See the 1st TIP, para 2.

tirade; tire, to pull; retire (whence retiral), retirement.

1. Retirement is adopted from late MF-F, which forms it from MF-F retirer, to draw or pull back, whence E 'to retire'.

2. MF-F retirer derives from OF-F tirer, to pull or draw, whence the obs EE-E 'to tire', (esp of a hawk) to pull, tear, seize; cf tirade, adopted from EF-F, where the orig sense was 'action of drawing or pulling', from It tirata, from It tirare, to pull or draw. It tirare is, of course, akin to and prob derived from OF-F tirer, or perh imm from OProv tirar, itself prob from OF tirer: and OF tirer is perh a shortened derivative from OF-EF martirer (OF-MF var martirier), to martyrize, hence to torture, ref 'the drawing and quartering' of medieval torture, from OF-MF martire (E martyr), as B & W propose; Dauzat, however, prefers a VL tirāre*, to rend, from the OGmc origin of, e.g., E 'to TEAR'; perhaps—a mere guess—OF-F tirer is a doublet of OF-F traire, in that, ult, it could, via some provincial mutilation, derive from L trahere, to pull, to draw.

tire (1), apparel (obs), headdress (archaic), esp, with var tyre, 'covering' of a vehicular wheel. See ATTIRE, s.f.

tire (2), to dress (archaic). See ATTIRE.

tire (3), to weary or fatigue, whence the pa tired and the pa, vn tiring, and the adj tireless and tire-some: OE -tȳrian or -tīerian, tīoran or tēorian: o.o.o.

tiro, or tyro, is adopted from ML tīrō, tyrō, LL tīrō, a novice (Eccl): L tīrō, a military recruit: o.o.o.: ? ult from, or akin to, trahere—'one drawn into military service'.

tissane. See PESTLE, para 5.

tissue. See TECHNIC, para 12.

tīt (1). See TEAT.

tīt (2), basically any small quadruped or bird or thing; tītbit; tītark; tītmouse; tomtīt.

1. This tīt is prob, as Webster suggests, orig—among the Scan languages—'a child's word for small animal or thing; cf OW titlingr small bird [cf the dial E titling], Ice tītr titmouse, small plug or pin, Nor dial tīta small object': perh the small object was orig tīt, var pron of TEAT.

2. Tītbit is a sem duplication: tīt, something small + bit, a small piece; hence, because 'All good things come in small packets' (an E proverb seldom recorded), a small delicacy.

3. Titlark, a pipit, merely prefixes tīt to lark.

Titmouse, now usu tit, is another duplication: ME titemose, titmase: tit+OE māse, a titmouse, akin to OHG meisa, MHG-G meise, MD meise, meese, mese, D mees, ON meisingr. The f/e-mouse prob arises from the bird's nesting in holes.

4. Tomtit=Tom, used generically+tit; cf tomcat.

Titan, Titanic (whence titanic). The adj Titanic derives from Gr Titanikos, from Gr Tītān, whence, via L, the E Titan. The Titans were the primeval deities (whence Zeus and the Olympians) of Ancient Greece; the word derives from Gr tītō, sun—a word coming prob from Asia Minor. (Hofmann.) Hence the Chem titanium (suffix -ium), whence the Min titanite (suffix -ite).

titbit. See the 2nd TIT, para 2.

tit for tat is perh a f/e alteration, after the 2nd TIT, of tip for tap. (EW).

tithe. See TEN, para 6.

titilliant, titillate, titillation (whence, anl, titillative and titillator).

L titillāre, to tickle (lit, hence fig), is app a redup of L titta, a nipple (cf TEAT). The L presp titillans, o/s titillans-, yields the E adj, hence n, titillant; the pp titillātus yields both E 'to titillate' (cf OF-F titiller) and L titillātiō, acc titillātiōnem, whence MF-F titillation, adopted by E.

titivate, titivation. See TIDE, para 4.

titlark. See the 2nd TIT, para 3.

title, n and v; titular, with extn titulary, adj, hence n; titulus; entitle, whence entitlement—cf intitule; titrate, whence, anl, titration; tilde; tittle.

1. L titulus, a written notification, esp one borne, in a triumph, at the end of a staff, or at a funeral, also a notice of sale, whence an inscription, the name of a book, whence, further, renown, glory, and, in LL, official authority or power,—this word is app a redup, perh of a term meaning 'staff' or 'plank': cf OE thel, a plank, as E & M suggest; add ON thil, thili, OS thili, OHG dil, dili, a plank.

2. L titulus becomes OF-early MF titile (whence, with r for l, MF-F titire), adopted by E; derivative MF titiler (whence—after titire—titrer) accounts for 'to titile'. An erudite EF-F derivative from L titulus is titulaire, whence both E titular and, in part, E titulary. L titulus is retained by erudite E.

3. Perh influenced by OF-MF titile is ME titel, var titil, from L titulus; whence E tittle, a point or other small mark used to indicate pron or emphasis, hence a jot, anything tiny. With the Gram sense of tittle, cf tilde, the diacritic in Sp ñ, for this adoption from Sp likewise comes from L titulus.

4. The F titrer+the v suffix -ate combine to give us the Chem E titrate, suggested by the syn meaning of the F v; whence titration.

5. L titulus has derivative LL titūlare, to title (a book), with int intitūlare, whence both 'to intitule' (esp a legislative act) and MF entituler (F in-), whence, influenced by OF-MF titile, the AF entitler, whence 'to entitle'.

titmouse. See the 2nd TIT, para 3.

titrate, titration. See TITLE, para 4.

titter (v, hence n): prob from ON titra, to tremble, to shake, cf Nor dial titra, to shake with laughter; perh, however, independent and echoic. ON titra certainly becomes ME titeren, whence both E 'to teeter' and the syn dial E titter. With ON titra, cf OHG zitarōn, MHG zintern, G zittern, to tremble. The redup present in the three OGmc words is 'picturesque': cf of the redup in the prob related L titubāre, to totter, hence to waver, to hesitate, pp titubātus, whence 'to titubate'; titubation derives from L titubātiō (o/s titubātiōn-), from titubātus.

tittle. See TITLE, para 3.

tittle-tattle is a redup of TATTLE.

titubate, titubation. See TITTER, s.f.

titular, titulary. See TITLE, para 2.

tmema, tmesis. See TOME, para 3.

to; too. The latter is a doublet of the former: too derives from to used as adv, esp in sense 'besides'. The prep to, OE tō, is akin to OFris tō, adv, and to (varr te, tī), prep; OS tō, prep; MD-D te, prep, and toe, adv (to- in c/ff); OHG zō, zuo, zua, MHG zuo (stressed), ze (unstressed), G zu; and, with d instead of t, Go du, Lith da, OB do—cf of the enclitic Av -da, Gr -de (oikade, homewards), L -do (quando, when), OL -du (indu, an int of in, in, into). The IE base is app do*, towards, to.

Cf indigenous and tatto.

toad, whence the adj toady, whence—prompted by earlier toadeater—the n toady, a sycophant, whence 'to toady'; such obvious cpds as toadfish (appearance) and toadstool (ditto).—Cf TADPOLE, q.v. at the 1st POLL.

A toad, ME tode, earlier tade, derives from OE tādie, var tādige: o.o.o.

toast. See THIRST, para 5.

tobacco: Sp tabaco (whence also EF-F tabac; C17 var, tobac): Taino (Caribbean) tabaco, a small roll of tobacco leaves, also a pipe the Antilles Indians used for the inhalation of smoke: perh ult (Webster) from Tupi tabóca, a reed. The E form of the word prob owes something to Tobago, a West Indian island.—Tobacconist=tobacco+euphonic or learned f/e n+agential -ist.

toboggan: Can F tobagan: of Alg origin—cf Micmac tobāgun, a hand-sled made of skins. (Webster.)

toby (1), is elliptical for 'Toby jug': dim of Tobias: LL Tobias: LGr Tōbias (or -eias): H Tobhiyah, whence the var Tobiah: 'the Lord, my good'. Why the jug—or, for that matter, the dog Toby of Punch-and-Judy shows—was named after the OT son of Tobit, is not precisely known; but, for the jug, cf jeroboam and rehoabam, and for the dog—well, Tobias did have a favourite dog.

toby (2), as in the underworld 'the high toby', robbery by highwaymen (mounted), and 'the low toby', robbery by footpads, derives from Shelta tobar, a road, a metathesis of the syn EIr-Ir bōthar, a road: cf Ga bothar, a lane. (See esp P¹.)

toccata. See TOUCH, para 3.

Tocharian. See TOKHARIAN.

tocsin. See SIGN, para 8.

today: OE to daege, at—hence on—(the) day.

toddle. See TOTTER.

toddy slovens Hi tārī, juice of the palmyra, from tārī, adj of tār, from Skt tāla, the palmyra tree.
to-do. See DO, para 2.

toe (n, hence v): ME too, var taa: OE tā, perh short for the var tahe: cf OHG zēha, MHG zēhe, G Zah, Zehe, OFris tāne, MLG tēn, tēne, and tē, tēwe, MD-D teen, ON tā: cf, further off, L digitus, finger, toe (E DIGIT); therefore, perh, cf Gr deiknumi, I show (E DICT).—Hence such cpds as toe-hold and toenail.

toff. See the 1st TIP, para 10.

toffee. See TAFFY.

toga. See TECHNIC, para 7.

together. See GATHER, para 2.

toggle, occ toggel, is app a dim from tog, obs var of TUG.

togs. See TECHNIC, para 7, s.f.

toil (1), a snare, a net. See TECHNIC, para 19.

toil (2), hard work, and 'to toil', whence toiler and pa, vn toiling. The n toil is adopted from AF toil, a struggling, a struggle, turmoil, which comes from OF-EF tooil, toeil, itself from OF-EF toillier, toeillier, to stir, to stir up (cf F touiller), to roll in the dirt, to struggle, whence the syn ME toilen (also to toil), whence 'to toil': and OF-EF toillier, toeillier, derives from L tudicula, to pound or crush, from tudicula, a small mill for pounding olives, from tudes, a mallet, a hammer, a denasalized derivative of tundere, to strike, beat, pound.

toilet, toilette. See TECHNIC, para 19.

toils, in the. See TECHNIC, para 19.

Tokay comes from the vineyards of Tokay in Hungary.

token. See TEACH, para 1.

Tokharian, often Tocharian, blends the form of Gr Strabo's (B.C.—A.D.) Tokharoi (pl), an Asiatic people or tribe, and the sense of Uigur (East Turkic) Tokhri or Tukhri, the language of the Tokharians.

Tokio or Tokyo: Jap Tōkyō, Eastern Capital.

tollbooth. See the 1st TOLL (heading).

told: pt of TELL.

Toledo is a (sword-)blade manufactured a Toledo, Spain: L Toletum.

tolerable, tolerance, tolerant, tolerate, toleration, tolerator. See para 5 of:

toll (1), a tax, a paid due, whence tollbar, tollbooth, var tollbooth (ME tolbothe)—gate, -house, -keeper, etc.; toll, to take away; thole, to endure; tæl and the sep TALENT and ATLAS; extol, whence extolment.—tolerable (whence, anl, tolerability), tolerance or occ tolerancy, tolerant, tolerate, toleration (whence, anl, tolerative), tolerator—cf intolerable, intolerance (occ intolerancy), intolerant.—Cpds in -late: ablation, ablative (adj, hence n), collate, collation, collative, collant; delate, delation, delator; dilatory; sep ELATE, ELATION, etc.; illation, illative; sep LEGISLATIVE, LEGISLATION, etc. (see LEGAL); sep OBLATE, OBLATION, etc.; prelate, prelate (whence prelatie), prelation; prolate, prolation, prolative; sep RELATE, RELATION, etc.; sublata, sublation; superlative, adj, hence n; translate, translation, translative, translator.

Indo-European

1. Whereas the now only hist toll, to take away, derives from L tollere, to raise, to remove, a toll or tax, ME tol, derives from OE tol, toll, var tolne: cf OFris tolen, tolene, tolne, OS tolna, OHG-MHG zol, G Zoll, ON tollr: and all these OGmc words derive from ML tolōnēum, -ium, from LL tolōnēum, -ium, from Gr tolōneion, a toll-house or custom-house, from telōnēs, a tax-collector, from telos, a tax, akin to tlēnai, to hold up, to support, to bear, pp tlētōs, Doric tlātōs, both 'enduring' and 'having to be endured', whence, in part at least, the OL tlātus, L lātus, pp of the related L tollere and used as the pp of ferre, to carry, to bear, to bring, precisely as tulī (OL statulī), pret of tollere, is used as the pret of ferre. With L tollere and Gr tlēnai (OGr varr talássai, telássai), cf Skt tlayāti, he raises, he weighs, and tuḍā, a balance (pair of scales)—Ir tlēnaid, he removes, W tlawd, needy, wretched (having much to endure), and perh Ga giulain, to carry, support, endure—Go thulan, OS tholon, OHG dolēn, MHG doln, to endure, the closely related OHG-MHG dult, tolerance (G Geduld), whence OHG-MHG dulten, G dulden, to endure, to tolerate, ON thola, OE tholian, to endure. There are cognates also in Arm and Sl. The IE r is tel-, with var tl-, to raise, to remove, to carry, to support, to endure. (E & M; Hofmann; Walshe.)

2. OE tholian, to endure, becomes ME tholen, whence 'to thole', now archaic when not dial.

3. L tollere has the cpd extollere, to lift out, to raise high, hence to exalt, whence 'to extol'.

4. Before passing to the E -late, -lation, -lative derivatives of L lātus, it is as well to dispose of the derivatives of L tolerāre, orig (though rarely) to support a weight, hence to endure: app for tollerāre*: tollere+-erāre; such formations are not unknown—and this one was sem aided by onerāre, to load, from onus, a load, which prop=oner-, o/s of onus+-āre, not onus+-erāre. (E & M.)

5. L tolerāre has derivative tolerābilis, whence MF-F tolérable, whence E tolerable; the neg L intolerābilis becomes MF-F intolérable, whence E intolerable. The L presp tolerans, also adj, with acc tolerantem, yields late MF-F tolérant, whence E tolerant; derivative L tolerantia yields late MF-F tolérance, whence E tolerance. The negg L intolerans, o/s intolerant-, and intolerantia become EF-F intolérant, intolérance, whence E intolerant, intolerance. The L pp tolerātus generates both 'to tolerate' and L tolerātiō, o/s tolerātiōn-, whence perh via EF tolération, the E toleration, and the LL agent tolerātor, adopted by E.

Prefix-Compounds in -late

6. L tollere, to raise, to remove, has pp lātus, used as the pp of ferre, to carry or bear. The cpds of ferre have pp in -lātus: and here it is convenient to list the E derivatives in -late (abstract n -lation, adj -lative, agent -lator). The sep -fer cpds are, of course, to be found elsewhere. The following -latus prefix-cpds affect E:

ablātus, serving as pp of aufferre (for abferre*), to carry away, with derivatives ablātiō, o/s ablātiōn-, and ablatiuus, ML -ivus, whence E ablation and ablative, lit 'relative to removal';

collātus, serving as pp of conferre, to bring together, with derivatives collātiō (acc collātiōnem), LL collātiuus, ML -ivus, LL collātor, whence, resp, 'to collate', collation (via MF-F collation), collative, collator; dēlātus, serving as pp of dēferre, to carry, hence bring, down, with derivatives dēlātiō, an accusation, dēlator, whence 'to delate', delation (perh via EF-F délation), delator (cf EF-F délateur); dilātus, serving as pp of differre, to delay, with derivative LL dilātorius (prop dilatus+adj -ōrius), tending to delay, delaying, whence MF-F dilatōire, whence E dilatatory; ēlātus, serving as pp of efferre, to carry out: see sep entry at ELATE; illātus, serving as pp of inferre, to carry, hence bring, in, with derivatives LL illātiō, o/s illātiōn-, and LL illātiuus, ML -ivus, whence E illation and illative;

see the sep LEGISLATE;

oblātus, serving as pp of offerre, to bring ob or forward, hence to offer: see the sep entry at OBLATE; praelātus, serving as pp of praeferre, to carry in front, hence to prefer: see PRELACY; prōlātus, serving as pp of prōfferre, to bring prō or forth, with derivatives prōlātiō (o/s prōlātiōn-), LL 'pronunciation', and LL prōlātiuus, ML -ivus, whence E prolation and prolative; relātus, serving as pp of referre, to carry back: see sep RELATE; sublātus, serving as pp of sufferre (for subferre*), to support, but, in 'to sublata' and sublation (L sublātiō, o/s sublātiōn-), taking its sense from tolle, to remove;

superlātus, both serving as pp of superferre, to place over, hence beyond and above, and used also as adj 'excessive', with LL derivative superlātiuus, ML -ivus, adj and n 'superlative' in Gram, whence, via MF-F (Gram: C16 onwards) superlatif, f superlative, the E superlative;

translātus, serving as pp of transferre, to carry across, to transfer, with derivatives translātiō (acc translātiōnem), a transferring, in LL removal to heaven (Eccl) and a version (Grammarians'), LL translātiuus, ML -ivus, deduced from LL translātiuus, figuratively, and LL translātor, copyist, translator, whence, resp, 'to translate' (both senses), translation (perh via late MF-F), translative, translator (prob via MF translatour).

Non-Latin

7. Besides the sep Gr ATLAS and TALENT, there is tael, an Eastern Asiatic weight, a Ch coin: Port and Sp tael: Mal tail, tahil, a measure of weight: prob from Hi tolā, a weight, from Skt tulā, a weight, a balance (cf para 1 above).

toll (2), to remove. See prec, para 1.

toll (3), to pull or draw, hence to entice (game), hence also to pull a bell (whence vi): ME tollen, var of ME tullen, tillen, tyllen: f.a.e., the 1st TILL.

tollbar, -booth, -gate, -house, etc. See the 1st TOLL (heading).

tolu, toluene, toluic, toluol. The 1st is adopted from Sp tolu, 'balsam of Tolú': exported from Santiago de Tolú, seaport of Colombia. The others = tolu+benzene; tolu+adj -ic; tolu+benzol.

Tom. See THOMAS.

tomahawk (n, hence ʔ)—formerly also tomhawk or tomhog—is of very widespread Alg origin, with varr, always recognizable, among the tribes.

tomato, tomatillo. The latter, adopted from ASp, is the dim of ASp, hence Sp, tomate, whence, with the famous Sp suffix -o, the E tomato; tomate eases the Nahuatl tomatl.

tomb, tombal. See THIGH, para 13.

tombola, adopted from It, derives from tom-bolare, to fall head downwards, from the obs tombare, to fall: cf OF-F tomber (OF-MF tumber): VL tumbāre*, to fall: ? echoic. (Dauzat.) Perh cf TUMBLE.

tomboy; tomcat. See THOMAS, para 2.

tome, -tome, -tomy and -ectomy (as in appendectomy); tmema and tmesis; anatomical, anatomist, anatomize (whence anatomization), anatomy; atom (whence atomism, atomize), atomic (whence atomicity), atomy; diatom, diatomous; entomic, entomology (whence entomological and entomologist); epitome.—L: tonsorial, tonsurate, tonsure; sep CONTEMPT, where also CONTEMN.—Cf, ult, the TEMPER group.

1. Tome comes, via EF-F tome and LL tomus, from Gr tomos, a piece cut out or off, hence part of a book, a volume, with c/f -tomon: corresp to Gr temnein, to cut, akin to L temnere, to despise) superseded by the int cpd contemnere (E contemn, and to MlR tannaim, I hew off, and Lith timi, tinti, to sharpen by hammering: IE r, ten-*, to cut, (Hofmann.)

2. The c/ff -tome (dissyllabic) or -tomy, a cutting, a section, and -ectomy (cf Gr ektomē, an excision), occur esp in surgical terms, e.g. pharyngotomy, arteriotomy, gastrectomy. Cf -tome, etc., in Elements.

3. Akin to Gr temnein, to cut, are Gr tmēma (app for temnēma*: suffix -ēma), a section, adopted by Bot, and tmēsis (app for temnēsis*: suffix -ēsis), in Gram a cutting by interpolation, as in 'what place soever' (Webster), adopted—via LL—by Gram.

4. Gr exhibits several prefix-cpds that have impinged upon E, as, e.g., anatemnein, to cut ana- or up, whence anatomē, later anatomia, adopted by LL, whence MF-F anatomie, whence anatomy. The derivative Gr adj anatomikos becomes LL anatomicus, EF-F anatomique, E anatomic, now usu in extn anatomical. Derivative EF-F anatomiste and anatomiser and F anatomisme account for E anatomist, anatomize, anatomism.

5. Gr atomos (a-, not), uncut, hence undivided, hence indivisible, hence also n, becomes L atomus, MF-F atome, E atom. The derivative EF-F atomique and F atomisme and atomiste yield E atomic (whence atomical), atomism, atomist; atomize imitates anatomize; and atomy results from the f/e false division an atomy.

6. Gr diatemnein, to cut dia- or through, has adj diatomos whence both the Bot n diatom and the Min adj diatomous.

7. Gr entomos, cut en- or in, hence nearly cut in two, has neu entomion used also as n, an insect (sem cf L insectum, E insect): whence the E entomic, of, for, like an insect or insects, and the F entomologie (entomo-, c/f of entomon+-logie, E -logy: cf the element -loger), whence E entomology.

8. Gr epitemnein, to cut epi- or upon, hence into, hence to cut short, has derivative epitomē, lit a superficial incision and fig an abridgement: whence LL epitomē, a summary exposition, EF-F epitome (now épitomé), adopted by E.

9. Prob akin to Gr temnein, to cut, is Gr tendein, to gnaw (cut with one's teeth): certainly akin to Gr tendein is L tondēre, LL tondere, to shear, hence to shave, pp tōnsus, whence both tōnsūra, a shearing, a shaving, whence MF-F tonsure, adopted by E, and tōnsor, a shearer, hence a barber, with adj tōnsōrius, whence E tonsorial.

tomfoolery derives, anl, from tomfool, orig Tom Fool: cf THOMAS, para 2.

tommy, a loaf, or a ration, of bread, hence provisions, prob derives from bread distributed on St. Thomas's day. (See esp P.)

tommyrot, nonsense, app combines tommy, for Tommy, dim of Tom, pet-form of Thomas+rot in its sense 'dry rot'.

tomorrow. See MORN, para 2.

tomplon. See TAMP, para 1.

tomtit. See the 2nd TIT, para 4.

tom-tom is a var of, and now more usual than, tam-tam, adopted from Hi: meaning a Chinese gong or similar percussion-instrument, it is clearly echoic.

ton (1), the weight 2,240 pounds, whence tonnage; tonneau; tun; tunnel, n, hence v.

1. A ton comes from ME tonne, var of tunne, a large cask, whence E tun; the modern sense, arising late in C15, derives naturally from the capacity of a very large tun. ME tunne comes from OE tunne, akin to OFris tonne, var of tunne, OHG tunna, MHG tunne, G Tonne, MD tonne, D ton, ON tunna: all, either via ML tunna, tonna (whence OF-F tonne), from C, or all, incl C, from ML that is itself o.o.o.; Elr (whence Ga) has tunna, a tun, later a ton; the Cor and W tonnel or tonel are prob loans, via Br, from F.

2. OF-F tonne has the OF-F derivative tonneau, a cask, whence, in late C19–20, the afterbody of an automobile: adopted by E.

3. OF-F tonne has the further derivative tonnelle, orig (C14) a cask, hence, very soon, from the shape of a long cask, a longish arbour covered, top and sides, with interlacing branches: whence, via the MF var tonel, the late ME tonel, EE tonnel, whence ton (2), as in le bon ton, often simply le ton, the prevailing fashion, answers E tone (q.v. at TEND).

E tunnel, with the modern sense arising late in C18. (DAF; OED.)

tonal, tonality. See TEND, para 29.

tonant. See THUNDER, para 4.

tone. See TEND, para 29.

tong (1). See LANGUAGE, para 7.

tong (2), an association, a secret society, of Chinese, is the Cantonese t'ong (Pekinese t'ang), a hall—meetings being held in halls.

tongs. See LANGUAGE, para 7.

tongue. See LANGUAGE, para 1, s.f.

tonic. See TEND, para 29.

tonite. See THUNDER, para 4.

tonitruant, tonitruous. See THUNDER, para 4.

tonnage. See the 1st TON (heading).

tonneau. See the 1st TON, para 2.

tonology. See the element -tone and cf tone at TEND, para 29.

tonsil is a b/f from tonsils (c1600), which comes, via EF tonsilles, from L tōnsillae, the tonsils, app a dim of tōlēs (pl), a goitre: o.o.o.: ? Gaul.—Hence the SciL tōnsillitis, whence, anl, tonsillitic.

tonsorial, tonsure. See TOME, para 9.

tonine, a collective and eliminatory form of life-insurance, is adopted from F tontine (1663): It tontina (la tontina reale, 1653), elliptical for pólizza Tontina: Lorenzo Tonti+suffix -ina. This Tonti (1630–95) was a Neapolitan banker.

too. See TO.

took. See TAKE (heading).

tool (n, hence v): ME tool, earlier tol: OE tōl: cf ON tōl (pl) and OFris tāwa, OS tōian, Go taujan, to make with the hands, to do: OGmc r, tōu-*, IE r, dou-*, to make. (Feist.)

toom, empty. See the 2nd TEEM, para 2.

toot (a horn), v hence n, is echoic: cf MD tuten, MD-D toeten, G tuten, Sw tuta: cf also the equally echoic E hoot. 'To toot' has freq tootle.

toot (2), to peep. See TOUT.

tooth (pl teeth), whence toothsome (adj -some) and toothy (adj -y) and such cpds as toothache, 'fight (with) tooth and nail' or grimly, toothpick, toothwort (from the tooth-like scales on the stem of its root); tusk and its var tush.—L cognates: dancetté—dent (a tooth-like notch), dental, dentary, dentate, dentelated, dentelle, denticle (whence, anl, denticular), denticulate, dentil, dentin or dentine, dentist (whence dentistry), dentition, denture.—Prefix-cpds: edentate; indent (n, hence v), indentation, indention, indenture (n, hence v); redan.—Full cpds: dandelion; dentifrice; bident and trident (whence tridental), tridentate.—Gr cognates: odontic, odontoid; for mastodon, see the element -odon.

Indo-European

1. Tooth, ME tooth, earlier toth, comes from OE tōth: cf OFris tōth, OS tand (id in D), OHG zand, MHG zant or zan, G Zahn, MD tant, MD-D tand, Go tunthus, ON tōnn. The OGmc r is tanth-; the IE dent- or dont-, perh extn of den-, don-, themselves perh for eden(t)-, edon(t)-*, suggesting that teeth are 'eaters', cf L dēns (o/s dent-); Arm atamn: Gr odōn (o/s odont-), Aeolic pl edontes; Lith and OP dantēs; Cor dans, Br and W dant, OIr dét (denasalized), OC etymon dantis*; Skt dān, acc dāntam, gen datās.—With the OE pl tēth, cf the ON pl tethr.

Germanic

2. Akin to the OGmc words noted above, esp to Go tunthus, is OE tusc, ME tusch, E tush, a long tooth, a tusk; OE tusc has the var tux, ME tux, later tusk, retained by E. With OE tusc, tux, cf the OFris tusch or tusk.

Latin

3. L dēns, acc dentem, becomes OF-F dent, adopted by E for a tooth-like notch, hence, esp in pl, the projections separating such notches.

4. The foll F derivatives of OF-F dent have been either adopted or adapted by E: EF-F, whence E, dental; MF dentele, little tooth, whence both the EF-F pa dentelé, whence, anl, the E dentel(l)ated, and the EF-F dentelle, lace, adopted by E, and also EF-F dentelure, likewise adopted; MF dentille, E dentil; F dentiste, E dentist; MF-F denture, adopted; the Her F danché, whence perh, by suggestion, the Her E dancetté.

5. Not from F, but from L (although two via F), come:

dentary, F dentaire, L dentārius (o/s dent- + -ārius); dentate, L dentātus;
denticle, L denticulus, dim of dēns; denticulate, L denticulātus, from denticulus; dentition, F dentition, L dentitiōnem, acc of dentitiō.

6. Formed from L dēns, o/s dent-, but not from L derivatives, are:

dentin, a notch—imm from E dent, a tooth-like notch; dentin, dentine, an An term, the 'ivory' of a tooth.

Latin (and French) Prefix-Compounds

7. L ēdentāre, to break (someone's) teeth, to render toothless, has pp ēdentātus, whence the E adj edentate (cf the OF-F v ēdenter).

8. ML indentāre, to make tooth-like notches in, becomes OF-MF edenter, ME indenten, whence 'to indent', hence to sever a document in such a way that the contractual halves will fit together, whence to bind by indenture, etc. The derivative MF endenteüre, later indenture, is adopted by ME, whence E indenture. The ML pp indentātus has suggested indentation, with contr indention (partly from 'to indent').

9. From OF-F dent comes the EF redent, a double—lit an 'again'—notching, hence a term in fortification, later redan, adopted by E.

Latin (and French) Full Compounds

10. OF-F dent occurs in the EF-F phrasal n dent de lion, lit a lion's tooth, hence a plant with tooth-like taproots: E dandelion. But EF-F dentrifrice, adopted by E, comes from L dentifricium; c/f denti-+frictum, (something for) rubbing, from fricāre, to rub.

11. L bidēns, having two teeth, two-pronged, hence n, o/s bident-, yields E bident; and L tridēns, having three teeth or prongs, hence n, o/s trident-, yields MF-F trident, adopted by E.

Greek

12. Gr odōn, a tooth, has o/s odont-, whence the E adj odontic; derivative Gr odontoeidēs, tooth-shaped (eidos, form, shape) suggests E odontoid, tooth-like.

13. Cf the element -odon, odonto-.

tootle. See TOOT.

top (1), a summit. See the 1st TIP, para 6.

top (2), a child's toy, is id in ME and OE: cf OHG-MHG-dial G topf, a top (and prob, from the shape-resemblance, MHG-G topf, a pot), and MD top, dop, a top, and prob MLG dop, a hollow, a dish; OProv topin, a pot, and OF-MF topoie, MF-F toupie, a top, derive from OGmc. Wälshe relates MHG-G topf, a pot, to OHG tiof, tiuf, MHG-G tief, deep: therefore cf DEEP.

topaz: ME topace: OF-MF topace, var of topase (F topaze): L topazus: Gr topazos (var topazion): Topazos, the Gr name of that island in the Red Sea where chrysolites—not unlike topaz—were discovered.

tope, topee. See the 1st TIP, para 8.

topi, var topee, a pith helmet: Hi topi, a hat, itself perh (EW) from Port tope (var topo), summit. Often called a sola topi, from Hi solā, a shrub with pithy stems used in the making of sun-helmets.

topia, topiary. See para 3 of:

topic, adj (now always in the extn topical, whence topicality) and n; topia, topiary (whence topiarist); cf the element -tope, topo-, where, e.g., topography and toponymy.

1. The base is Gr topos, a place; IE top-*, the spot one comes from or goes to or strives to reach: perh akin to certain OGmc and Sl words meaning 'to arrive at, attain', and 'to become'. (Hofmann.)

2. Gr topos has adj topikos, of, in, for a place, whence LL topicus, whence E topic, whence topical. The E n topic derives from L Topica, trln of Aristotle's Ta Topika (neu pl), 'The Commonplaces': topikos, concerning commonplaces: topoi, commonplaces, pl of topos, a place.

3. Gr topos, a place, has the LGr dim topion, a small place, pl topia, adopted by LL in sense 'ornamental gardens', whence ML topiarius, concerning such gardens or landscape-gardening, whence E topiary.

topknot, topless, topman, topmast (and topgallant), top-notch: derivatives of top, summit, q.v. at the 1st TIP, para 6.

topography (whence topographical) and toponomy (whence toponymic). See the element -topo-.

topper, topping. See the 1st TIP (heading).

topple. See the 2nd TIP (heading).

topsy-turvy. See the 1st TIP, para 7.

toque; tuque. The former, adopted from late MF-F, is akin to Sp toca and the It tocca, var tocco: o.o.o. The latter is a Can F form-and-sense adaptation of F toque.

tor. See TOWER, para 1.

torch. See TORT, para 3.

tore, n. See TORUS.

tore, v. See the 2nd TEAR (heading).

toreador, torero. See the 1st STEER, para 3.

toreutics. See the element toreumato-.

toric. See TORUS.

torment, tormentil, tormentor. See TORT, para 4.

tora. See the 2nd TEAR (heading).

tornado. See THUNDER, para 9.

torose. See TORUS.

torpedo. See para 2 of:

torpid (whence *Torpid*s and torpidity), torpor (whence torporific), torpedo; starve, starvation.

1. Torpid, sluggish, numb, derives from L torpidus, itself from torpère, to be numb or sluggish: cf the syn Lith tipti, Ru terpnut, to become numb, OSi u-trüposta, they became numb. (E & M.)

2. Also from L torpère derive both torpor, numbness, sluggishness, whence—perh aided by late MF-F torpeur—the E torpor, and torpédo (suffix -édó), numbness, hence the fish known as the crampfish or the electric ray, adopted by Zoo and sense-adapted, from its ‘cramping’ effects, by E for a weapon that orig, as invented and named, c1806, by Robert Fulton, consisted of a towed or floating mine. (OED.)

3. Perh akin to torpid is ‘to starve’ (whence, anl, starvation): ME sterven, to die, hence, in E, to die from hunger: OE steorfan: cf OFris sterva, OHG sterban, G sterben, to die, ON starf, labour or toil, Gr sterphnios, stiff: sem of E dial starve with cold and al stiff, a corpse. (Walshe.)

torque. See TORT, para 3.

torrefaction, torrefy. See THIRST, para 6.

torrent, torrential. See THIRST, para 3.

torrid. See THIRST, para 4.

torsion. See TORT, para 2, s.f.

torso. See THYRSUS, para 2.

tor, tortious, tortuous, tortuosity; torment, mentil, tormentor; torque and torch; torsion, whence, anl, torsive; tortile; torture (n, hence v), turturous;—turd.—Prefix-cpds: contort, contortion (whence, anl, contortive and, agentially, contortionist); detorsion; distort, distortion (whence, anl, distortive); extort, extortion (whence, anl, extortionate and extortive and, agentially, extortionist); intorsion, intort; retort (Chem n), ‘to retort’ (whence the rejoinder retort), retortion.

1. A tort or wrongful act derives from ML-^{*}VL torium, prop the neu of tortus, pp of torquère (VL ^{*}torquere), to cause to turn, to twist, hence to torture (physically); the s torq- derives, by metathesis, from an IE ^{*}trokw-.

2. Whereas tortious derives, anl, from E tort, tortuous derives, via OF-F tortueux, f tortueuse, from L toruōsus, from tortus (gen tortūs), a twisting, from the pp tortus, whence also the LL tortūra, whence MF-F torture, adopted by E; derivative late MF-F torturer perh suggested ‘to torture’, and derivative MF toriuereus became AF torturous, adopted by E; tortuosity comes from LL tortuōsitās (from toruōsus). The L pp tortus has two further simple derivatives affecting E: tortillis, twisted, twistable, whence E tortille, and LL tortiō, with var torsiō, o/s torsiōn-, whence E torsion.

3. Akin to L torquère is L torquēs, a twisted collar or necklace or chain, whence E torque. L torquēs has var torquis, whence VL torqua, var ^{*}torca, whence OF-F torche, orig syn with L, hence MF-F torche, a flaming light, whence E torch. (See esp B & W.)

4. Also akin to L torquère is L tormentum (? an easing of ^{*}torqmentum or a contr of ^{*}tortimentum), an instrument of torture (hence torture itself), a missile-throwing engine: whence OF-MF torment, OF-F tourment, ME tourment, torment, E torment. Derivative OF-F to(u)rmenter yields ‘to torment’. L tormentum, torture, severe pain, has the ML dim derivative tormentilla, a plant supposed to allay toothache, MF-F tormentille, E tormentil. Derivative OF-MF tormenteor, tormentere, an official torturer, prob contributed to E tormentor.

5. A less easily recognizable simple E derivative from L torquère is the now vulgar turd, which, deriving from OE tord, is related to OF-F tordre, to twist, which comes, via VL ^{*}torcere, from L torquère.

Prefix-Compounds from Latin

6. Of the numerous L prefix-cpds of torquère, re- foil affect extant E: con-, dē-, dis-, ex-, in-, the torquère.

7. L contorquère, to twist together or strongly, has pp contortus, whence ‘to contort’; derivative L contortiō, o/s contortiōn-, yields contortion (cf MF-F contorsion).

8. Whereas dētorquère, to twist aside, has suggested the Med detorsion, L distorquère, pp distortus, has yielded ‘to distort’; derivative distortiō, o/s distortiōn-, accounts for distortion (cf EF-F distorsion).

9. L extorquère, to twist out of or from, has pp extortus, whence ‘to extort’; derivative LL extortiō, o/s extortiōn-, yields extortion (cf MF-F extorsion).

10. L intorquère, to twist in or into, has pp intortus and derivative intortiō, o/s intortiōn-, whence ‘to intort’ and intortion.

11. L retorquère, to twist (or bend) back or backwards, has pp retortus, whence ‘to retort’; the sense ‘to return (an argument)’ exists already in L. The Chem n retort comes, via EF-F retorte, from ML retorta, prop the f of pp retortus. From ML retortiō, o/s retortiōn-, derives retortion (cf F rétorsion).

tortile. See prec, para 2.

tortious. See TORT, para 2.

tortoise; turtle. The latter is naut f/e—after turtledove—for F tortue, itself from OProv tortuga, alteration—after tort, something twisted (a wrong), the tortoise having 'twisted' feet—of OProv tartuga (cf It and Port tartaruga): LL tartarūca, beast of Tartarus: corruption of LL tartarūchus, of Tartarus: LGr tartaroukhos, irreg formed from Tartaros, the lower world (cf TAROT, para 2). The tortoise 'was taken to symbolize heretics' (B & W).

tortuosity, tortuous. See TORT, para 2.

torture, torturous. See TORT, para 2.

torus, tore, toric, torose; torulus, whence ScIL torula, whence torulosis. The L torus, a swelling, protuberance, elevation, knot, in Arch a convex moulding, the fat or brawny part of an animal body, is o.o.o.: ? akin to Gr tornos, a circle, anything round. The L torus becomes EF-F tore (Arch), adopted by E; whence the adj toric and toroid. The adj torose, however, derives from L torōsus, from torus, whence also the dim torulus, whence, in turn, the Sci adj torulose.

Tory, orig an evicted Irishman turned highwayman (the political sense arising only in the late 1670's), derives from the Ir tōruídhe, lit a pursuer but used for a robber, a 'wanted' man: cf OIr toracht, pursuit. In those two Ir words, the base is tōr-: cf ÉIr tōir, pursuit, a body of troops, and Ga tōir, pursuit, a band of pursuers.

tosb, nonsense, is o.o.o.: ? a t-for-b alteration of BOSB.

toss (v, hence n): o.o.o.: cf Nor dial tossa, to scatter: perh an s-less var of the stoss- in G stossen, MHG stōzen, OHG stōzan, Go stautan, to push.

tot (1), a small thing (e.g., drink) or a little child: o.o.o.: prob cf Da tommelot, Sw tutte, a little child, ON tuttr, a dwarf, OHG tutta, tuta, a nipple, and Gr tutthos (τυτθός), small, still very young. (Holthausen; Hofmann.)

tot (2). See heading of:

total (adj, hence n, whence v), whence, by shortening, tot, a total, (coll) an exercise in totaling, whence the coll 'to tot up'; totality, whence totalitarian; totalize, whence totalizer, whence the coll toté; teetotal, whence teetotaller and teetotalism; teetotum and factotum.

1. The adj total is adopted from MF-F, which derives it from ML tōtālis, an -ālis extn of L tōtus, whole, all (no part omitted): o.o.o.: perh (E & M) akin to the r tot-* of Umbrian tota (acc), Oscan toute (nom), a city, a city-state, OIr tūath, Go thiuda, a people, a nation.

2. ML tōtālis has derivative tōtālītās, acc tōtālītātem, whence MF-F totalité, whence E totality.

3. MF-F total has derivatives totaliser, totalisation, totalisateur: cf the earlier E 'to totalize' and totalization and the from-F-derivative totalizer (or -isator).

4. E teetotal=t-total, with redup-int t-; adj, hence n, esp one who entirely abstains from strong drink. And teetotum=t-totum, where t- represents T, for L totum, all, the all, prop the neu of the adj tōtus and implying, orig (in games of chance), 'Take all the stakes'; the sem transition to teetotum, a child's top, finger twirled, is not entirely clear.

5. With teetotum, cf factotum, adopted from ML: from L fac tōtum, Do everything! Hence Johannes factotum, an eruditely punning 'translation' of Jack-of-all-trades.

tote (1), a totalizer. See prec (heading).

tote (2), to carry, esp on one's person: coll (AE), very general: o.o.o.: app of West Afr origin—cf tota, tuta, to pick up, to carry, in the native diall of Angola and the Belgian Congo. (Mathews.)

totem is an Alg word—cf the Cree ototema and the Ojibway and Chippeway ototeman, his relations; the s is ote-. (Mathews.)

totter=t'other=the other: cf OTHER.

totter; tottle; totty. 'To totter' derives from ME toleren, o.o.o.: perh akin to TITTER; perh to OE tealtrian, E dial tolter, to hobble. 'To tottle' is app a freq of 'to totter'; and totty, ME toty, shaky, app derives from 'to totter'.

tucan, adopted from EF-F, comes—through Sp tucan or perh rather Port tucano—from Tupi tucano, tucan. (Tupi is a Brazilian native language.)

touch, n (whence touchy) and v (whence the pa touching), and retouch (whence the vn retouching); whence many cpds, all sufficiently obvious;—toccata—tuck, to beat (a drum), whence n 'fanfare' and tucket; sep TOCSIN, q.v. at SIGN, para 8.

1. The n touch derives from MF-F touche, itself from the OF-MF v tochier, var tuchier, MF touchier (EF-F toucher), whence 'to touch': and OF tochier derives from VL toccare, to strike (a gong, a bell, etc.), from toc, a purely echoic word (cf a clock's tick-tock).

2. OF tochier or tuchier has the MF derivative retochier, retuchier, to touch re- or again, EF-F retoucher, whence 'to retouch'.

3. VL toccare becomes It toccare, with pp toccato, whence the n toccata, adopted as a Mus term.

4. OF tochier has the ONF form toquer, whence the now mostly Sc tuck, to beat, to sound (a drum); tucket, a fanfare of trumpets, app blends 'to tuck' and toccata.

tough (adj, hence n), whence toughen and toughness, derives from ME tough: OE tōh: cf MD taye, tay, taey (D taai), Eastern MD tege—cf LG tage, tau, taa—and OHG zāhi, MHG zæhe, G Zäh: cf also OE getenge (nasalized form), oppressive, and OHG zangar, sharp, biting. (Walshe.)

With the n tough, sem cf the syn n rough.

toupee and toupet. See the 1st TIP, para 9.

tour. See TURN, para 7.

tourbillon, tourbillon. See TURBID, para 2, s.f.

tourist. See TURN, para 7.

tourmaline (var tur-) is adopted from F (early var tourmalin), which thus adapts the Singhalese tormalli, carnelian.

tournament and tourney. See TURN, para 8 tourniquet. See TURN, para 9.

touse, touser, tousle. See TEASE, paras 3 and 4 and heading.

tout, to peer, hence, orig in the underworld, to keep watch, comes from ME tuten, to peep or peer, from OE tȳtan, to peep out, itself prob akin to OE tōtīan, to project, (? also) to peep out, whence the now dial toot, to sprout, to spy: cf MD tote, toot, D tuit, a spout, a nozzle, a snout. An obscure group.

2. Hence the n tout, orig one who keeps watch, hence a spy, now esp for a bookmaker.

tow (1), the coarse part of flax or hemp: ME tow; OE tow (in cpds), a spinning or a weaving: cf the 2nd taw, ON tō, a tuft of wool (in spinning), MD tow, touw, touwe, tow.

tow (2), a rope: OE tohline, with cognates in OGMc: akin to next.

tow (3), to pull along: ME towen: OE togian, to drag or pull: cf OFris togia, to pull about, ON toga, OHG zogōn, to pull or drag, and the intimately related group formed by OE tēon, OHG ziohan, MHG-G ziehen, Go tiuhan, to pull or draw: cf, further off, L dūcere, to lead (q.v. at DUKE).—Hence the n, as in 'a ship in tow'.

2. Tug, n, derives from 'to tug' or pull hard at: ME tuggen, var of toggen, an int derivative from OE togian, to pull.

3. Akin to the vv tug and tow is 'to tuck', to tug away or off, to pluck, hence to pull up in a fold: ME tuken, to tug, also to reprimand: OE tūcian, to harass, to ill-treat, akin to OHG zucchēn, MHG-G zucken, to jerk or shake or tug, int of OHG ziohan, MHG-G ziehen, and MD tucken, token, to tug. (Walshe.)

4. A tie, band, bond—cf OE tēh, contr of tēah, var tēag—derives from 'to tie': ME tien, var teyen: OE tīgan, itself from tēah, tēag, a rope: cf ON taug, a rope, and the OGMc words noted in para 1. The n tie has var tye, obs except as a naut and mining term.

5. Akin to all those Gmc words is E toy, perh adopted from MD toy, tooy, D tuig, gear, a gadget—cf esp D speeltuig, playthings (lit 'play-gear'); cf OHG-MHG geziuc, G Zeug, an instrument, a gadget, and the syn ON týge and OE getēoh. (Walshe.)

6. The adj wanton—whence both n and v—ill-bred, badly educated, untrained, hence undisciplined, hence very—whence excessively—gay, derives from ME wanton, var of wantoun, a slovening of wantowen: wan- (cf WANE), wanting in, (hence) not+the pa towen, brought up, educated, from OE tothen, pp of tēon (cf para 1): cf the archaic wanhope.

7. Cf the sep TAUT and the sep TEAM.

toward, towards. See VERSE, para 3.

towel: ME towele, earlier towaille: OF-MF toaille (archaic F touaille), a cloth used for wiping or drying: Western Gmc thwahlja*, deduced from OHG dwahila, MHG wehele, G Zwehle, MD dwale, dwael, dwele, a towel (D dwaal, an altar-cloth), OE thwēal, a washing, and the OGMc words for 'to wash (oneself)'—cf OP twaxtan, a bathing-apron. (B & W; Walshe.)

tower, n, hence v (whence the pa towering); tor; turret.—Tyrrhenian; Tuscan, Tuscany; Etruscan, Etruria.

1. Whereas tor comes from OE torr, either akin to or more prob deriving from L turris, a lofty palace or fortified place, esp a tower, turret comes via ME turet, varr toret and touret, from MF turet touret, toret, dim of OF tor, tour (extant), varr of OF-MF tur, from L turris; tower, as shown by the ME varr towr, tour, tor, represents OE tor as influenced by MF-F tour.

2. L turris is akin to—prob derived from—Gr turrhis, var tursis, which itself app comes, perh via the Etruscans, from either the Aegean or Asia Minor: and is therefore related to L Tyrrhēni, Gr Turrhēnoi, var Tursēnoi, the Etruscans (? 'The Tower-Builders'), and to the derivative adj Gr Turrhēnos, L Tyrrhēnus, whence E Tyrrhenian, as in 'the Tyrrhenian Sea'.

3. Related to Gr Turrhēnoi, L Tyrrhēni, the Etruscans, is the Gr Etrouria, L Etruria, land of the Etruscans, with adj Etruscus, whence E Etruscan (adj, hence n: cf F Etrusque); and very closely linked to L Etruscus is L Tuscan, an Etruscan, with adj Tuscānus, whence E Tuscan (adj, hence n); derivative L Tuscānia yields E Tuscany.

4. The entire ancient history of all these words, esp of their interconnexions, is obscure. It does, however, seem probable that the r is tur-*, with s turrh- or turs- (rh-s is a frequent IE alternation); and that there were the metatheses trur(rh)-* and trus-* (with eased var tuskh-), which underwent vocalic extn etrur- and etrusca-*.

town (whence townee, townish, towny)—township—townsman; tine, to enclose; dun, a fort.

1. The now dial tine, to shut or enclose, derives from OE tīnan, from tūn, an enclosure, a hedge or a fence, a manor, a settlement, a village, a town, whence, via ME tun, later toun, the E town: and OE tūn is akin to OFris and OS tūn, a hedge, a courtyard, OHG-MHG zūn, G Zaun, a fence, ON tūn, an enclosure, a homestead, a manor; also to OIr dūn, a citadel, whence E dun or doon, a fortified homestead—cf Ga dūn, W dm, Cor dm and tūn, and the Celticized L -dūnum in PINn (e.g., Lugdūnum, Lyons); perh also to the dun-, tun-, of Hit tunak(k)essar, holy place in a temple.

2. OE tūn has two cpds extant in E: tūnscepe, orig the inhabitants of a tūn, whence township, and tūnesmann, a single inhabitant, whence townsman.

towser. See TEASE (heading; cf para 3).

toxic, whence toxicity and, anl, toxin, var toxine (Chem suffix -in, -ine); toxicant, toxication; cf the element toxi-, toxō-, where, in para 2, find toxicology, toxiphobia, toxophilite (-phily); intoxicant (adj, hence n), intoxicative (adj and v), intoxication (whence, anl, intoxicative).

1. Toxic, adj hence n, derives—perh via OF-F toxique—from ML toxicus, adj, from L toxicum, a poison, trin of Gr toxikon (pharmakon), lit arrow-poison, from toxikos, adj of toxon, a bow (weapon), an arrow, from Scythian takhsha-*, a bow (Hofmann): ? akin to Sumerian tukul, a weapon.

2. L toxicum, a poison, has the LL derivative toxicāre, to smear with poison, presp toxicans, o/s toxicant-, whence E toxicant, poisonous, and pp toxicātus, whence ML toxicātiō, a poisoning, o/s toxicātiōn-, whence E toxication.

3. LL toxicāre acquires, in ML, the prefix-cpd intoxicāre (int in-), to poison, hence to drug, with presp intoxicans, o/s intoxicant-, whence E intoxicant, causing drunkenness, and pp intoxicātus, whence the late ME adj and v intoxicate, poisoned, drugged, to poison or drug, whence, in EE, the modern sense. ML intoxicāre becomes late MF-F intoxiquer, whence, anl (after ML toxicātiō), the late MF-F intoxicacion, adopted by EE, orig a poisoning, then (C17) in modern senses.

toxicology. See the element toxi-, para 2.

toxophilite, toxophily. See the element toxi-, tox-, para 2.

toy. See the 3rd TOW, para 5.

trabal, trabeated, trabecular. See TAVERN, para 3.

trace (n and v), tracery, traces. See TRACT, para 2.

trachea, tracheotomy, trachyte. See the element tracheo-.

track, n (whence tracklayer, trackless, trackway) and v (whence tracker and tracking); 'to track' or tow—cf trek (n, v) and trigger.

1. 'To track', or follow the traces of, derives from the n track, a mark left by a moving person or animal: MF trac, trace of a quadruped: prob of OGmc origin and akin to DRAW (f.a.e.).

2. E track, a trace, a path, has influenced the form of E track, to draw (e.g., a ship) along, which derives from MD trecken, D trekken, to draw (along), whence 'to trek' (occ treck); the derivative D n trek is adopted by E.

3. MD trecken has derivative agent-instrument trecker, var treker (D trekker): whence EE tricker, E trigger.

tract, tractability, tractable, tractate, a treatise (whence tract, a religious pamphlet, whence tractarian), tractator, tractile, traction, tractor, tractrix; trait—cf trace, n and v (whence traceable, tracer, tracery)—cf traces (in harness) and retrace; trail (v, hence n), whence trailer and trailing—cf trawl, v (hence n), whence trawler and trawling; train, n and v (whence trained band, now trainband—trainer—pa, vn training)—cf entrain; treat (v, hence n), treatable, treatise, treatment, treaty; maltreat, whence maltreatment.—Prefix-cpds in -tract, -traction, -tractive, -tractor, and in such F derivatives as -trait, -tray, -treat: abstract (adj, n, v), abstraction (whence, anl, abstractive); attract, attraction, attractive; contract (n, v), contractile, contractility, contraction, contractor, contractual, contracture cf contractation; detract, detraction, deductive, detractor, detractory; distract (adj, v), distraction (whence, anl, distractive); extract (n, v), extraction, extractive, extractor—cf estreat, n, hence v; intractable, intractile—cf entreat, whence entreatment and entreaty; protract (whence protractile and protractor) and protraction—cf portrait (whence portraitist), portraiture, portray (whence portrayal); retract, retraction, retractile, retraction (whence, anl, retractive), retractor—cf retreat (n, hence v), whence, anl, retreative; subtract, subtraction (whence, anl, subtractive).

1. All these words are either simples or prefix-cpds of either L trahere, to draw (along), pp tractus, or of its freq-int tractāre, to draw violently or long or effortfully, hence, prob from the tracing of furrows, to work, to work hard at, hence to handle (a person) or treat (a subject), pp tractātus. L trahere is o.o.o.: but prob akin to DRAW.

Simples from L trahere

2. The pp tractus has, directly and indirectly, a number of derivatives. The derivative n tractus (gen -ūs), the action of drawing (along), hence a continuous march, a drawn stroke, hence a delimitation by marches or by strokes, hence the area delimited, a region, district, quarter: whence E tract of land. But L tractus also becomes OF-F trait, an act of drawing (various senses), a stroke in the delineation of character, hence a personal characteristic, adopted by E. The OF-MF pl traiz or trais becomes ME trays, pl, whence E traces in harness, whence the b/f sing trace. But a trace or path, whence, via the pl, a track, comes into ME from MF-EF trace, var trac, itself from OF-MF tracier (EF-F tracrer), whence ME tracen, E 'to trace': and OF-MF tracier derives, via VL tractiāre*, from the L n tractus. Derivative MF retracier, EF-F retracer, produces 'to retrace'.

3. From the r trah- (? tragh-*) of trahere comes L tragula, a dragnet, also a kind of sledge, whence VL tragulāre*, to drag or draw along, to tow, whence MF trailer, ME trailen, E 'to trail', orig to drag, whence, prob (by dial var), 'to trawl'.

4. Also from trah-, tragh-, comes VL tragin-āre, to draw or drag along, whence OF-MF trahiner, trahner (F trahner), whence ME traynen, trainen, whence 'to train', with var senses developing as in—and mostly in imitation of—F. The derivative OF-MF trahin, train (F train), and the gradually differentiated OF-MF trahne (F trahne), yield—sometimes by confusion—the E n train. The derivative OF-MF entrainer (EF-F entrainer) leads to E entrain.

5. The L pp tractus has the ML derivative tractiō, the action of drawing, or state of being drawn, along, acc tractiōnem, whence EF-F traction, adopted by E, whence, anl, the SciL tractor (cf the F tracteur), become general, and the anl SciL tractrix (Geom). E tractile=L tractus (pp)+-ile, anl with so many other such adj.

Simples from L tractāre

6. The int-freq tractāre—see para 1—has derivative adj tractābilis, manageable, whence tractabilitās o/s tractābilitāt-, with eng intractabilis:

whence, resp. E tractable, tractability, and intractable, whence, anl, intractability; OF-MF tractable and MF-EF intractable perh intervened.

7. L tractāre has pp tractātus, whence the n tractātus (gen -ūs), a handling, hence a treatise, whence E tractate, whence, with sense rapidly narrowing, the shortened tract or pamphlet; whence, anl, tractarian, whence Tractarian, one of the authors of the famous Tracts for the Times (1833-41). From the pp tractātus comes also tractātor, a masseur, LL a commentator, a homilist, adopted by erudite E.

8. L tractāre becomes OF-MF traitier (MF-F traitier), var treter, whence ME treten, whence 'to treat'; derivative MF-F traitement prob suggested E treatment. Treatable derives, via ME treatable, from OF-F traitable; treatise, ME treitis, from AF treitis, itself either from a lost derivative of OF-MF treter or from OF-MF trāitis (or -iz), well made, from the syn VL tracticius* (cf LL Tracticius, nickname of Heliogabalus, whose corpse was dragged through the streets: Souter), from tractus, pp of trahere; treaty, a treatise, ME treitee, from MF-F traité, a treatise, from the L n tractātus, but treaty, a negotiation, a pact, from MF-F traité, an agreement, from OF-MF traitier.

9. OF-MF traitier, MF-F traitier, has the EF-F cpd maltraiter, whence 'to maltreat'.

Prefix-Compounds from L trahere and tractāre

10. L abstrahere, to remove—abs, for ab, away from—by pulling, has pp abstractus, used also as LL adj 'incorporeal', whence both the adj (hence n) and the v abstract; derivative L abstractiō, a removal, LL an abduction, acc abstractiōnem, becomes MF-F abstraction, adopted by E; and derivative L abstractor is also adopted, with mdfn abstracter.

11. L attrahere, to draw ad or towards, has pp attractus, whence 'to attract'; the LL derivatives attractiō (acc attractiōnem) and attractivus (ML -ivus) become MF-F attraction, adopted by E, and MF-F attractif, f -ive, whence E attractive.

12. L contrahere, to draw con- or together, has pp contractus, whence—cf the syn F contracter—'to contract' or reduce the volume of; 'to contract' or enter into an agreement with (someone) or about or for (something) derives from the syn MF-F contracter, itself from L contractus (gen -ūs), from the pp. A contract or agreement likewise comes from L n contractus—via MF contract (EF-F contrat). The L pp contractus has derivative contractiō, acc contractiōnem, whence MF-F contraction, adopted by E; the learned F derivative contractile, whence contractilité—whence E contractile and contractility; the LL derivative LL contractor, one who undertakes an obligation, is adopted by E, and L contractūra becomes EF-F contracture, adopted by E. Contractual adapts EF-F contractuel, formed from the L n contractus, an agreement. With contraction, cf contraction, from contractiōnem, o/s of LL contractiō, a handling, from contractiōnem, pp of tractāre, var of tractāre, to enter into contact with: con-, with + tractāre, to handle.

13. L dētrahere, to draw or pull dē- or down, to take away, to take away from, has pp dētractus, whence 'to detract'; derivative L dētractiō (acc dētractiōnem), LL a slandering, and L dētractor yield OF-EF detractiō and MF detracteur (EF-F dé-), whence E detractiō and—prob via AF detractour—E detractor; derivative LL dētractōrius accounts for detractory, and MF detractif (anl from detractiō) for detractive.

14. L distrahere, to draw or pull dis- or apart, hence fig, has pp distractus, whence the E adj (obsol) and v distract; derivative L distractiō, acc distractiōnem, yields MF-F distractiō, adopted by E.

15. L extrahere, to draw or pull ex or out, has pp extractus, whence the adj (hence n) and v extract; derivative LL extractiō, acc extractiōnem, yields OF-MF estration, MF-F extraction, adopted by E, whence—perh aided by EF-F extractif—extractive and, again anl, extractor.

16. L extrahere has the VL var extragere*, whence OF-MF estraire (whence, by reshaping, the late MF-F estraire), with pp estrait, whence the MF n estraite, whence E estreat.

17. Whereas E intractile=L in-, not + tractile, intreat is the anglicized var of 'to entreat', which derives, through ME entreten, to treat, to request rather than to beg, from MF entraiter; en-, L in-, used int + traiter: ult suggested by L intrahere. Hence, anl, entreatment (archaic) and entreaty (var in-).

18. L prōtrahere, to draw or pull prō, forward or forth, has pp prōtractus, whence 'to protract'; derivative LL prōtractiō, o/s prōtractiōnem, yields protraction.

19. L prōtrahere becomes, by metathesis of prō-, OF-EF portraire, var pourtraire, to design or draw, whence ME portralen and pourtraien, whence 'to portray' and the obsol 'to pourtray'; derivative OF-F portrait and late OF-EF portraiture are adopted by E.

20. L retrahere, to draw or pull re- or back, to take back, has pp retractus, whence 'to retract' in its orig lit sense; 'to retract' or withdraw (an accusation), however, derives from MF-F retracter, itself from L tractāre, to handle (tractāre) again, hence, in LL, to reconsider, hence to withdraw an accusation. Whereas E retraction derives, like EF-F rétraction, from L retractiō (o/s retractiōnem), from the pp retractus, E retraction derives from MF-F retractation, from L retractatiōnem, acc of retractiō, from retractiōnem, pp of tractāre; and whereas E retractile is prob adopted from F (an erudite formation: from the L pp retractus), E retractor adopts the sense of SciL retractor and the form of LL retractor, one who takes away.

21. L retrahere becomes OF-MF retraire, pp retrait, var retret, both used also as n, with doublet retraite, whence the E n retreat, an act of retiring, a place whither to retire (whence the religious sense); hence 'to retreat'.

22. L subtrahere, to draw or pull sub-, from under, has pp subtractus, whence 'to subtract'; derivative LL subtractiō (o/s subtractiōn-), a withdrawal, esp in arithmetic, yields subtraction; cf the Math subtrahend, from LL subtrahendus, that is to be subtracted.

tractability, tractable. See prec, para 6.

tractarian—Tractarian. See TRACT, para 7.

tractate, tractor. See TRACT, para 7.

tractile, traction, tractor, tractrix. See TRACT, para 5.

trade, trader, tradesman; -union, -wind. See TREAD, para 3.

tradition, traditional (whence traditionalism and traditionalist and, anl, traditionaly); traditor—cf traitor, whence traitorous—treason, whence treasonable and treasonous—extradite, extradition; betray, whence betrayal and betrayer.

1. Behind this sense-various group stands L trādere, to hand over, to hand on, to deliver, hence to betray: trā-, a c/f of trans, beyond, hence, by weakening, across+-dere, a c/f of dare, orig to place, hence to place in the hands of, to give: cf DATA (DATE).

2. L trādere has pp trāditus, whence both trāditiō and trāditor. The former, acc trāditiōnem, yields MF-F tradition, adopted by E, with derivative traditional perh owing something to ML trāditiōnalis (cf the F traditionnel); MF-F tradition occurs in Voltaire's extradition, a handing-over (L trāditiō) from (ex) one country to another: adopted by E, it yields, by b/f, 'to extradite'. The latter, trāditor, a hander-over, a traitor, is adopted by Eccl historians; and from trāditor comes VL trāditor*, whence OF-EF traitre, acc traitor (or -ur), whence ME traitour, whence E traitor.

3. L trāditiōnem, acc of trāditiō, a handing-over, becomes OF-MF traiison (or -un), whence ME traisoun, treisun, tresun, whence E treason.

4. L trādere becomes OF-MF trair (EF-F trahir), whence ME traien, EE 'to tray'; 'to betray' derives from ME betraien (int be-+traien).

traditor. See prec, para 2, s.f.

traduce, traduction. See DUKE, para 6, s.f.

traffic: F trafic: It traffico, from trafficare, to trade; 'to traffic' comes from late MF-F trafiquer (It trafficare). The It v is o.o.o.: ? from ML trāvehere, L trāuehere, var of transuehere, to carry across (from country to country), via some It dial mdfn, including the common alternation of v-f.

tragedian, tragedy, tragic, tragicomedy. See ODE, para 11.

tragopan. See ODE, para 11.

trail, trailer. See TRACT, para 2 and heading.

train, trainer, training. See TRACT, para 4 and heading.

train oil is taut for earlier train, var of trayne, var of trane: MLG trān—cf MHG trān, a drop of, e.g., oil, OHG trahan; MHG trān had pl trēne, whence, by b/f, the late MHG trēne, whence G Träne, a tear: perh by metathesis trah-* from OGmc tahr-*, as in OHG zahar, MHG aher, G

Zahre, a tear, akin to Go tagr, ON tar, hence to E TEAR of the eye. (Walshe.)

With MLG trān, cf MD trane, traen, D traan, a tear, and D traan, train oil—oil from (usu the right) whale.

trait. See TRACT, para 2.

traitor, whence traitorous. See TRADITION, para 2, s.f.

traject (n and v), trajectile, trajectory, trajectory (adj, hence n).

L trālicere, often contr to trāicere, to throw across, represents trā-, a c/f of trans, across+-icere, -icere, c/f of iacere, ML jacere, to throw (f.a.c.: JET). The pp trāiectus, ML trāiectus, yields the E v and n traject, whence, anl, trajectile, adj, hence n; derivative ML trāiectōrius (prob already in LL) yields E trajectory, perh imm from EF-F trajectoire, and derivative L trāiectiō, o/s trāiectiōn-, ML trāiectiōn-, yields E trajectory.

tram. See TERM, para 4.

trammel. See THREE, para 12.

tramontane. See MINATORY, para 8.

tramp, v, hence n; trample, v, hence n; trap (n and v), snare, whence trapper and trapping—cf entrap; trap, a kind of rock; trip, v (whence tripper), hence n.

1. 'To tramp' or walk heavily, hence to travel on foot, derives from ME trampen: cf MLG trampen and Go -trimpan and, without m, the MLG and MD-D trappen, to stamp, to tread: ult cf TREAD.

2. ME trampen has freq trampelen, whence 'to trample': cf the syn MHG-G trampeln, akin to MHG-G treppe, a staircase.

3. 'To trap' or snare, ME trappen, derives from OE -traeppan, -treppan, itself from OE traeppe, treppe, a snare, whence ME trappe, E trap: cf MD trap, trappe, and OHG trapo: cf also, both phon and sem, TREAD, a trap being that which is unwittingly trodden upon. Cf OF-F trappe (from Frankish trappa*), whence MF entraper or entraper, whence 'to entrap'.

4. The Geol trap, a dark igneous rock, esp basalt, derives from Sw trapp, which has cognates in Da, G, D: such rock occurs in masses rising much as steps do.

5. To trip or move quickly and lightly, ME trippen, var trepen, comes from OF triper (or tripper), var treper, of Gmc origin: cf the syn MD trippen, D trippelen, G trippeln, and OE treppan, to tread: words that, phon and sem, represent 'thinnings' of those noted in para 1. The senses 'to (cause to) stumble' and 'to make an excursion for pleasure' (now rare, but the imm source of 'a trip' or short journey), follow easily from the orig sense.

trample. See prec, para 2.

trance. See TRANSIENT, para 2.

tranquil, tranquillity, tranquillize. See QUIET, para 9. transaction, transaction (whence transactional). The latter derives, prob via MF-F from L transactiōn-, o/s of transactiō, formed from transactus, pp of transigere, to drive across: trans, across+-igere, c/f of agere, to drive (cf ACT and AGENT). Also from pp transactus comes 'to transact'.

transalpine: L transalpinus, across the Alps: cf ALPINE.

transatlantic: trans, across + Atlantic: cf ATLAS. transcend, transcendence, transcendent(al). See ASCEND, final para.

transcribe, transcript, transcription. See SCRIBE, para 22.

transcurrent. See COURSE, para 10, s.f.

transect, transection. See the 2nd SAW, para 14.

transept. See SEPTUM, s.f.

transfer (v, hence n), whence transferable; transferent, whence, anl, transferece. Transferent derives from L transferent-, o/s of transferens, presp of transferre, to bear or carry across (trans, across + ferre, to bear: f.a.e. FERTILE, whence, perh via F, 'to transfer').

transfiguration, transfigure. See FIGURE, para 8.

transfix, transfixion. See FIX, para 3, s.f. transform, transformation. See FORM, para 8.

transfuse, transfusion. See the 2nd FOUND, para 15.

transgress, transgression, transgressive, transgressor. See GRADE, para 18.

transient (whence transience and transiency), transire, transit, transition (whence transitional), transitive, transitory; trance, n hence v, whence the int entrance; trounce.

1. L transire, to go across, hence over,—whence the E Customs n transire, papers of clearance and entry,—merely prefixes trans, across, to ire, to go (f.a.e.: ISSUE). The presp transiens, o/s transeunt-, VL transient-*, becomes the E adj transient; from the pp transitus derive L transitiō, acc transitiōnem, EF-F transition, adopted by E—LL transitiuus, ML -ivus, EF-F transitif, f transitive, E transitive—LL transitōrius, MF-F transitoire, E transitory—L transitus, n (gen -ūs), passage (a passing), It transito, EF-F transit, adopted by E.

2. L transire becomes OF-F transir, OF-EF to pass from life to death, whence the OF-F n transe, OF-MF death, late MF-F excessive fear, hence a swoon, ME traunce or trance, the latter extant, with naturally divergent senses.

3. Orig 'to terrify', trounce app derives from latish ME traunce, v from the ME n traunce.

translate, translation, translator. See the 1st TOLL, para 6, s.f. transliterate, transliteration. See LETTER, para 9. translucent, whence translucence and translucency, represents L translucēt-, o/s of translucens, presp of translucēre, to shine across, hence through: trans, across + lucēre, to shine (cf the 3rd LIGHT, f.a.e.).

transmarine: L transmarinus: trans, across, beyond + marinus, adj of māre, the sea: cf the n MERE.

transmigrant, transmigrate, transmigration. See MIGRANT, para 6.

transmissible, transmission, transmit. See MIS- sION, para 23.

transmogrify (whence transmogrification) is a jocose blend of transmigrate, for the form, and of transmute, for the sense.

transmutable, transmutation, transmute. See MUTABLE, para 8.

transom, trestle. The former prob eases L trans-trum, a cross-bar; trans, across + suffix -strum; from the LL dim transtellum comes VL trans-tillum*, var trāstillum*, whence OF-MF trestle (EF-F tréteau): whence E trestle, a bar or beam leg-supported.

transparence, transparency, transparent. The 3rd, adopted from MF-F, derives from ML transparent-, o/s of transparens, presp of transparēre, to show or appear (L parēre) through (trans, across, beyond). Derivative ML transparentia yields MF-F transparence, adopted by E, which modifies it to transparency.—Cf the v PEER.

transpicuous. See SPECTACLE, para 18.

transpiration, transpire. See SPIRIT, para 14.

transplant, transplantation. See the 2nd PLANT, para 5.

transpontine. See PONS, para 7.

transport, transportation. See the 3rd PORT, final para.

transpose, transposition. See POSE, para 23.

transship=transship, to ship trans or over the sea.

transsert. See SERIES, para 16.

transubstantiate, transubstantiation. See STAND, para 35.

transudation, transude. See SWEAT, para 4.

Transvaal. See VALE, para 1.

transvection. See VIA, para 12.

transversal, transverse, transversion, transvert. See VERSE, para 15.

trap (1), snare, and (2), a kind of rock: see TRAMP, paras 3 and 4.

trap (3). Cf TRAPS, but see DRAB, para 3, s.f. trapeze, trapezium, trapezius, trapezoid. See FOOT, para 26.

trapper. See TRAMP, para 3.

trappings. See DRAB, para 3.

traps, personal belongings. See DRAB, para 3, s.f.

trash, refuse, rubbish, whence trashy: Scan: cf ON tros, fallen twigs and leaves, rubbish, Nor dial tras, twigs, and trask, rubbish, but also cf OE trās, fallen branches, twigs, leaves. (Holthausen.)

trass comes, perh via G Trass, from D tras (o.o.o.).

trauma, traumatic. See the element traumato-.

travail (1), n and v (labour); travel, v (whence traveller and travelling), hence n.

'To travel', orig to labour, is id with 'to travail', ME travellen, earlier travailen: OF-MF traveillier, travaillier (EF-F travailler): VL tripaliāre*, to torture with the (VL) tripālium, a three(tri)-staked instrument of torture (cf LL trepalium), from L tripalis, three-staked, from L pālus, a stake: f.a.e., the n PALE.—From the OF v derives the OF-F n travail, adopted by ME. Cf:

travail (2), a mechanical device—a frame—for confining and taming cattle and horses; travois, var travoy.

The Can F travois, var travoy, a primitive, two-poled, horse- or dog-drawn vehicle, is a mfn of F travail, the frame described above, from VL tripallium (as in the 1st TRAVAIL).

trave. See TAVERN, para 4.

travel, traveller, travelling. See the 1st TRAVAIL.

traversary, traverse (adj, n, v). See VERSE, para 15, s.f.

travesty. See VEST, para 3, s.f.

travois, travoy. See the 2nd TRAVAIL.

trawl, trawler. See TRACT, para 3 and heading.

tray: ME tray, earlier treȳ: OE træg, trīg, trieg: akin to TREE (f.a.e.). treacherous, treachery. See TRICK, para 1.

treacle. See FIERCE, para 5.

tread (whence the n), pt trod, pp trodden; treadle, n, hence v; trade (n, hence v), whence trader (cf OFris -tradere), tradesman (trade's man), and such cpds as trade-mark, -name, -union, -wind (blowing, from the east, in a regular trade or course towards the equator); trot, n, v.

1. 'To tread'—walk on or over (hence vi)—comes, via ME treden, from OE tredan: cf OFris treda, OS tredan, OHG tretan, MHG-G treten, and, differently vowelled, Go trudan, ON troda, trodha, OSw trodha, cf MD troden, var traden, but usu treden, as in D and in LG: cf, further off, Gr dromos, a running, a course, Skt dramati, he runs, and dravati, it runs, flows, melts: therefore of DROME and TRAMP.

2. From or akin to OE tredan is the n -tredd, a treading, a tread, as in wintredd, a place where grapes are trodden out, hence a wine-press. This OE n has dim tredel, whence ME tredil, tredyl, E treadle.

3. Akin to tread, v and n, is trade, app adopted, in ME, from the MD-MLG trade, a course, a track, a path: cf OS trada and OHG trata—and the OGmc vv in para 1.

4. Akin to—indeed, prob a freq-int of—OHG tretan is OHG trottōn, to tread (esp to tread often), whence both MHG-G trotten, to trot, and the syn OF-MF trotter, MF-F trotter, whence, in turn, ME trotten, E 'to trot'; then trot is adopted from OF-F. A trotter, agent of 'to trot', perh owes something to EF-F trotteur (from trotter).

treadle. See prec, para 2.

treadmill and treadwheel=tread, v+the nn mill and wheel.

treason, treasonable, treasonous. See TRADITION, para 3.

treasure, treasurer, treasury. See THESIS, para 5.

treat, treatable, treatise, treatment, treaty. See TRACT, para 8.

treble: ME, from OF-MF, treble, a popular form of triple: L tripulus: cf E triple at PLY, para 24.

tree.—Sep: TAR—TRAY—TRIG, adj—TRIM—TROUGH—TRUE (TRUTH)—TRUG.—dryad, dryas—hamadryad; sep DURABLE; sep LARCH.

1. Tree: ME tree, earlier tre, earliest treo: OE trēow (var trēow), a tree, hence wood: cf OFris trē, OS treo or trio, Go triu, ON trē; OIr daur (? for dari*), gen darach, EIr dair, Ir darach, darog, Ga darach, Cor dār, pl deri (dery), deru, derow, W dār, pl deri, derw. Br derō, all meaning an oak or oak-timber; Lith dervà, pine-wood; Alb dru, a tree, an oak; Gr doru, a wooden beam or shaft or spear, and drus, a tree, the tree—i.e., the oak; Skt ddru-, dru-, an oak, drumá-, a tree: IE r, der-, esp in extn dereu- (cf the Gr doru): a tree, esp the oak.

2. Gr drus, a tree, has the derivative druas (suffix -as), a wood nymph, form-adopted and sense-adapted by Bot. Gr druas, pl druades, becomes L dryas, pl dryades, acc sing dryadem, whence MF-F dryade, whence E dryad; the Gr cpd Hamadruas, usu in pl Hamadruades, special wood nymphs with lives depending upon (connoted by Gr hama, along with, together with) the trees to which they are attached, becomes L Hamadryas, acc Hamadryadem, whence late MF-F hamadryade, whence E hamadryad.

trefoil: C15–16 trefeuil (F trêfte): VL trifolium*: L trifolium, the three-leaved (plant), the clover.

trek. See TRACK, para 2.

trellis: OF-early MF treliz (early MF tresliz; MF-F treillis), a woven fabric, orig an adj: VL trilicium*: L trilicis, gen of trilēx, three-threaded; as early as C13, not only was the OF-MF word form- and esp sense-influenced by OF-F treille, a vine-arbour (L trichila), but it took the senses 'lattice' and 'trellis'. (B & W.)

trema. See THROW, para 12.

tremble (v, hence n), whence trembler and trembling; (delirium) tremens, tremendous, tremolant, tremolo, tremor, tremulant, tremulate, tremulous; turmoil, v (now rare), whence the n.

1. All these words derive from L tremere, to tremble, hence to tremble before, be afraid of, whence both tremendus, that is to be feared, whence E tremendous, and tremulus, trembling, esp in fear, whence E tremulous, and tremor, a trembling, both lit and fig, adopted by E (cf the OF-MF tremor, MF tremour, EF-F trémour).—L tremere is app an -m extn of that r tre- which prob occurs in L trepidus, alarmed, perturbed, s trepid-, r prob trep-; cf the tres- of Skt trāsati, he trembles, and Gr tressai, to tremble. This tre- seems to be a metathesis of the IE r ter-*, to tremble: cf Skt taralás, palpitant. (E & M.)

2. From L tremulus come both It tremolo, adopted as a Mus term, and ML tremulāre, with pp tremulātus, whence 'to tremulate', whence, anl, tremulation, and with presp tremulans, o/s tremulant-, whence both E tremulant and It tremolante, whence E tremolant.

3. L tremere has presp tremens, occurring, for E, in the adopted phrasal n delirium tremens, trembling delirium.

4. Perh from L tremere comes turmoil, which, o.o.o., could well be a f/e alteration (after turn and moil) of MF-EF tremouille, the hopper of a mill, as Webster proposes, but is more prob from a lost MF tremouiller, an -ouiller derivative from L tremere.

tremendous. See prec, para 1.

tremolo, tremolant, tremor, tremulant, tremulate, tremulous. See TREMBLE, para 2.

trench (n and v), trenchant (whence trenchancy), trencher; entrench, entrenchment, and retrench, retrenchment; trinket; truncate (adj and v), truncation.

1. The base is supplied by L truncus, (of a tree) lopped of branches, hence mutilated: o.o.o.: perh (E & M) a nasalized phon and sem var of trux (o/s truc-), ferocious, cruel.

2. Truncus has derivative truncāre, to lop off branches, to shorten or reduce by cutting, to mutilate, pp truncātus, whence both E truncate, adj and v, and LL truncātiō, a lopping, mutilation, o/s truncātiōn-, whence E truncation.

3. L truncāre becomes OF-MF trenchier (MF-F trancher), to cut, whence 'to trench', with 'dig a trench' senses perh from the n trench, which derives from MF trenche (later tranche), from trenchier. OF-MF trenchier has derivative agent MF trencheoir (F tranchoir) or trencheor, whence E trencher, orig a knife, hence a board, a platter, on which to carve meat; and the OF-MF presp trenchant (F tranchant) explains the E adj trenchant.

4. Whereas 'to entrench', prop to cut into, whence anl entrenchment, represents en, in, into+ to trench, 'to retrench', prop to cut back (re-), comes from OF-MF retrenchier, var -er (cf F retrancher), whence the OF-MF retrenchement (later retranchement), whence, in part, E retrenchment, formed in part from the E v.

5. OF-MF trenchier has the MF-EF derivative trenchet (MF-F var tranchet), a (shoemaker's) knife, which, passing through ONF trenquet, becomes ME trenket, with prob derivative sense 'a toy knife worn by medieval women as an ornament', whence E trinket, a small ornament. (EW.)

trencher, whence trencherman. See prec, para 3.

trend, v, hence n; trundle, trindle, trundle.

1. 'To trend' or skirt (obs), to turn in a certain direction, derives from ME trenden, from OE trendan, to roll, to turn about (vi): cf OE trendel, a circle, OFris trind or trund, round, circular, MHG trendel, a ball, MLG trendel, a disk.

2. From the r of the OGmc words derives OF-EF trondeler, to roll, which has influenced the passage of the syn trendle (obs) and trindle (now dial) from OE trendel; 'to trundle', a phon var of those two E vv, perh owes its form partly to the n trundle, a small wheel, a hoop, a round tub, etc., phon var of trendle (OE trendel). (EW.)

trepan. See THROW, para 13.

tre pang: Mal tēripani.

trephine. See THROW, para 14.

trepid, trepidant (whence trepidancy), trepidation; intrepid, intrepidity.

1. L trepidus, restless, pawing the ground, app has s trepid-, r trep-, extn of tre-, metathesis of IE ter-*, to tremble: cf TREMBLE.

2. Trepidus yields E trepid, whence, anl, trepidity; derivative L trepidāre, to paw and stamp the ground, to be restless, to tremble, has presp trepidans, o/s trepidant-, E trepidant (cf the F trepidant), and pp trepidātus, whence 'to trepidate' or feel anxious; derivative L trepidātiō, acc trepidātiōnem, becomes MF-F trepidation, E trepidation.

3. The L neg intrepidus becomes late MF-F intrepide, whence, anl, the EF-F intrepidité: whence E intrepid and intrepidity.

trespass. See PACE, para 5.

tress, n and v: OF-MF trece (EF-F tresse) and OF-MF trecer (EF-F tresser): It treccia and trecciare: o.o.o.: perh from L tricae (pl), trifles, as in E extricate and intricate.

trestle. See TRANSOM.

trews. See TROUSERS.

tre. See THREE, para 10.

tri-, connoting 'three' or 'thrice' or 'by, or in, threes'. Cf THREE.

triad, triadic. See THREE, para 11.

trial. See TRY.

triangle, triangular, triangulation. See THREE, para 11.

Trias, Triassic. See THREE, para 11.

tribade, tribadism. See THROW, para 10.

tribal, tribe. See TRIBUTE, para 2.

tribasic. See THREE, para 11.

tribrach. See THREE, para 11.

tribulation. See THROW, para 5. tribunal, tribune. See TRIBUTE, para 3.

tributary. See para 4 of:

tribute (n and v), tributary; tribune, tribunal; tribe, tribal.—Cpds: attribute (n, v), attribution, attributive, attributor; contribute, contribution, contributor, contributory (occ -ary); distribute (whence distributary), distribution, distributive, distributor; retribute, retribution (whence, anl, retributive), retributor.

1. This group derives from L tribus (gen -ūs), a division of the Roman people, a tribe, LL one of the twelve Jewish tribes: o.o.o.o.: perh from a division into three (L tri-) tribes. But, more prob, of C origin: cf OIr and OBr treb, OC treba*, a dwelling, a habitation, and W trew, a village. (Malvezin¹.)

2. L tribus, becomes MF-F tribu, whence, prob, the E tribe, whence, anl, tribal.

3. L tribus has derivative tribūnus, orig an adj 'of the tribe(s)', hence the magistrate of the tribe, hence a local-governmental official: MF-F tribun: E tribune. The Arch tribune is adopted from MF-F, which takes it from It tribuna, itself from L tribūnāl. L tribūnus has adj tribūnālis, with neu tribūnāle used as n, usu in shortened form tribūnal, 'place where the tribunes sit', hence 'a raised seat, a platform': OF-F tribunal, adopted by E.

4. L tribus has the derivative v tribuere, to divide (esp a tax) among the tribes, hence to allot, to distribute or share, to grant, hence to bestow, to attribute. The pp tribūtus has neu tribūtum, used as n, unless tribūtum be the neu of an adj tribūtus, concerning the tribes, hence a tax paid by the tribes: whence, prob via MF-F tribut, the E tribute. L tribūtum has adj tribūtārius, hence, in LL, the n tribūtārius, a tribe, a people, that pays tribute: whence, prob via OF-F tributaire, the E adj and n tributary, not used in the Geog sense until c1830.

5. L tribuere has four cpds relevant to E, the first being attribuere, to bestow ad or upon, pp attribūtus, whence 'to attribute'; the neu attribūtum used as n, yields MF-F attribut, whence E attribute; derivatives L attribūtō (acc attribūtōnem) and LL attribūtor become MF-F attribution, adopted by E, and E attributor; attributive derives from EF-F attributif, f -ive, itself formed anl from MF-F attribution.

6. L contribuere, to pay, hence to grant or give, con- or in common with others, has pp contribūtus, whence 'to contribute'. Derivative LL contribūtō (acc contribūtōnem) and LL contribūtārius, jointly taxed, yield MF-F contribution, adopted by E, and E contributory, superseded by contributory; contributor derives from AF contributour, itself formed anl from MF contribution.

7. L distribuere, to allot dis- or collectively, has pp distribūtus, whence 'to distribute'. Derivative L distribūtō (acc distribūtōnem), LL distribūtus (ML -ivus), LL distribūtor yield MF-F distribution, MF-F distributif, MF-F distributeur, whence E distribution, distributive, distributor.

8. L retribuere, to grant or give in return, to pay back, has pp retribūtus, whence the obsol 'to retribute'. Derivative L retribūtō (acc retribūtōnem), a paying back, LL recompense, punishment for sin, and LL retribūtor become MF-F retribution, adopted by E, and E retributor.

trice, in a: late ME-EE at a trice, at or with one tug or pull: from 'to trice' or pull suddenly (obs), to haul up: ME tricen, trycen, trisen: MD trisen, triesen (D trijsen), to hoist, from trīse, trījs, trījsse, a windlass, a pulley: cf MLG trisse, a pulley, a rope: o.o.o.

triceps. See THREE, para 11.

trichiasis; trichina, whence trichinosis (suffix -osis) and trichinosis (unless imm from Gr trikhinos); trichite, whence trichitic; trichoma; cf the element -tricha, tricho-, where, e.g., trichology.

1. The 1st is a SciL derivative of Gr trikhiasis, which tacks the Med suffix -iasis (cf E iatic) to trikho-, a c/f based on trikhos, gen of thrix, hair: cf Ir gairb-driuch, a bristle, and perh Mx friogan, a bristle: IE etymon, drigu*, a hair, a bristle (Hofmann).

2. Derivative Gr trikhinos, hairy, has suggested the SciL trichina, a small, slender, hair-like worm.

3. From the Gr c/f trikh(o)- comes the Bot, Geol, Zoo trichite (suffix -ite), a small hair-like, hence needle-like, formation, and the Bot and Zoo trichoma (suffix -oma).

trichord. See THREE, para 11.

trichotomy. See THREE, para 11.

trick, v (whence trickster), hence n (whence trickery and tricky), with pl tricks, whence trickys; treacherous, treachery.

1. Whereas treacherous derives from OF-MF trecheros (-ous), treachery derives, via ME, from OF-MF trecherie (MF-F tricherie), deceit; both of these old F words, from OF-MF trechier (MF trichier, later tricher), to cheat: o.o.o.: ? from a dial derivative of a VL form (? trectiāre* for tractiāre*) of L tractāre, to handle.

2. MF trichier (late MF-F tricher) becomes ONF trikier, whence the ONF n trike, trique, whence E trick; the E v app derives partly from the E n and partly from the OF-ONF v.

trickle. See STRIKE, para 7. trickster, tricksy, tricky. See TRICK (heading).

tricolor. See THREE, para 11.

tricycle. See CYCLE, para 1.

trident. See TOOTH, para 11.

triennial. See ANNUAL, para 3.

trier. See TRY (heading).

trifid. See THREE, para 11.

trifle, n, v (whence trifler and trifling). See THIGH, para 8.

Trifolium. See THREE, para 11.

trig, adj. See TRUE, para 8.

trigger. See TRACK, para 3.

trigraph. See THREE, para 11.

trigonometry, whence trigonometric(al). See the element trigono-.

trilby, a soft felt hat, and sl trilbies, feet: from a kind of hat worn by the chief male characters, and from heroine Trilby's shapely feet, in George du Maurier's novel of artistic-bohemian Paris: Trilby, 1894, illustrated with his own line-drawings. The name Trilby is artificial, but, since she sang divinely, it perh puns on F triller (to trill) and, because she sang 'instinctively' and only under hypnosis, perh, though still less likely, bébé (baby): triller + bébé.

trilingual. See THREE, para 11.

trill (1), Mus v, hence n: It trillare: echoic.

trill (2), to whirl or twirl (obs), to trickle (obsol). See the 3rd DRILL.

trillion. See THREE, para 11.

trilogy. See LEGEND, para 32.

trim, v (hence n, whence adj), whence trimmer and trimming: ME trimen, var trumen: OE tryman, trymian, to render strong, to set in order, from OE trum, strong, firm: cf TRUE and TREE.

trimester. See the element -mester.

trimeter. See THREE, para 11.

trimorphous. See THREE, para 11.

trindle. See TREND, para 2.

trine. See THREE, para 9.

Trinitarian, Trinity. See THREE, para 8.

trinket. See TRENCH, para 5.

trinomial. See THREE, para 11, and cf BINOMIAL.

trio; triolet. See THREE, para 10.

trip. See TRAMP, para 5.

tripartite. See PART, para 4.

tripe: MF-F tripe (cf Sp tripa): 'perh borrowed, via one of the south-European languages, from Ar therb, the fold of a piece of cloth' (B & W). triphthong. See THREE, para 11.

triplane. See THREE, para 11.

triple, triplet, triplez, triplicate. See PLY, para 24.

tripod, tripos. See FOOT, para 27.

tripper, tripping. See trip at TRAMP, para 5 (and heading).

triptych. See THREE, para 11.

trireme. See THREE, para 11.

trisyllabic, trisyllable. See SYLLABLE, para 3.

trite. See THROW, para 7.

Triton among the minnows: L Triton: Gr Tritōn, son of Poseidon, the God of the Sea: perh of C origin: cf OIr triath (gen trethan), the sea: OC etymon Triaton*. (Hofmann.)

tritone. See THREE, para 11.

triturate, trituration, triturator. See THROW, para 6.

triumph (n, v), triumphal, triumphant; trump (in cards), n, hence v; ruff, a card game.

1. 'To triumph' derives from MF triumpher (later trionpher), from L triumphāre, itself from L triumphus, whence OF-MF trumphe (later trionphe), whence the E n triumph; the adj triumphal is adopted from OF-MF, which derives it from L triumphālis (from triumphus). L triumphus, OL trimpus, app comes—perh via Etruscan—from Gr thriambos, a Bacchic procession. (E & M.) Gr thriambos is perh (Hofmann) a mdfn of triambos*, a triple-time, as music or as march-step. Triumphant derives from MF triumphant (later trionphant), prop the presp of triumpher.

2. From E triumph comes, by slovening, trump, one of a suit of cards rating higher than any card in any other suit: prob sense-influenced by late MF-EF trionphe, name of a card game, hence, in F, a trump card, and perh form-influenced by trumpāre*, the VL shape of triumphāre.

3. App a jocos mdfn of the card-game trionphe is EF ronfle, eased to roffle, whence E ruff, the predecessor of whist: cf the syn C16-17 It ronfa, from trionfo. (EW.)

triumvir, triumvirate. See the element -vir and of THREE and VIRILE.

trivet, a three-legged support: OE trefet: triped-, o/s of LL tripēs, a tripod, from L tripēs, three-footed: cf tripod, see FOOT.

trivia, trivial, triviality; trivium. See VIA, para 15, s.f.

Troad, Troadic. See TROJAN, para 1.

trochaic, trochee; trochanter; troche, whence trochal; trochilic, trochillic, trochilus; trochlea, whence trochlear; trochoid; ? troco; truck, a (small, strong) vehicular wheel, hence a hand-conveyance, hence an open, railroad goods-wagon or (AE) a strong, motor-driven wagon; truckle (a small wheel), truckle bed, 'to truckle'.—Cf the element -troch.

1. Despite their superficial variety, all these words spring, by an entirely natural phon and sem development, from Gr trōkhós, a wheel, itself from trekhein, to run (hence to revolve): with trōkhós, a wheel, cf Gr trōkhos, a running, a course, and trōkhís, a runner, a messenger, and OC drogon*, a wheel (OIr droch): IE r, dregh-, var drekh-, to run. (Hofmann.)

2. Direct from Gr trōkhós, a wheel, come E troche, a (circular) medicinal tablet, and E trochoid (suffix -oid), wheel-shaped, hence as n; Gr trōkhos, a running, has the adj trokhaíos, whence, elliptical for trokhaíos pous, 'running foot' in versification, the n trokhaíos, whence L trochaeus, whence, perh via EF-F trochée, the E trochee. The Gr n trokhaíos acquires its own adj: trokhaiikos, contr to trokhaikos, whence L trochalcus, whence (F trochalque and) E trochaic.

3. From Gr trekhein, to run, but prob after trōkhos, a running, comes Gr trokhanter, a runner, whence the SciL (An and Zoo) trochanter.

4. Also from Gr trekhein comes Gr trokhileia, later trokhilia, perh orig 'a little something that runs, hence rolls or turns', hence a block-and-tackle equipment, a pulley-sheaf or a windlass-roller, whence the E adj trochilic and n trochilics. Cf the Gr trokhilos (likewise from trekhein), an Egyptian, or a spur-winged, plover, hence, fancifully, an Arch term, but also a syn of trokhileia: whence L trochilus, adopted by E, both in Zoo and in Arch.

5. Gr trokhileia, later trokhilia, becomes, by contr, L trochlea, whence the An trochlea, a pulley-like structure, whence the adj trochlear; with the form of L trochlea, cf that of LL trocleatim, by means of a pulley (Souter).

6. The game of troco, a predecessor of billiards, app derives—? after Gr trōkhós—either from Sp truco or from It trucco, both slightly resembling billiards.

7. Gr trōkhós, a wheel, becomes L trochus, a metal hoop, whence perh the E truck, a wheel, a wheeled conveyance (as in heading), whence 'to truck' or convey in one; truck has dim truckle (perh, however, from L trochlea, as in para 5), a small wheel, whence truckle bed, a small wheeled bed that, orig, could be pushed under a large bed, as a young pupil's under a master's—whence 'to truckle' or sleep in a truckle bed (obs), whence to act subserviently to another person. (EW.)

trochanter. See prec, para 3.

troche. See TROCHAIC, para 2.

trochilic, trochillic, trochilus. See TROCHAIC, para 4.

trochlea, trochlear. See TROCHAIC, para 5.

trochoid. See TROCHAIC, para 2.

troco. See TROCHAIC, para 6.

troglydite, troglydytic. See the element troglo-Akin to:

trogon is SciL for Gr trōgōn, presp of trōgein, to gnaw: IE r, trog-, var of treg-, to gnaw: perh cf the (?) metathetic L tergere, to rub away. (Hofmann.) Cf TROUT.

Troic, Troilus. See para 1 of:

Trojan, adj, hence n; Troad, whence Troadic; Troic; Troilus (butterfly); Troy—? troy (weight).

1. All these words, except perh the last, derive from Gr Trōs or Trōos, the founder of Troy. The Gr adj Trōikos becomes L Trōicus, whence E Troic; the region Trōas (capital, Troy) has gen Trōados, whence, via L, the E Troad; Gr Trōilos, lit 'descendant of Trōs' (Priam's son), becomes L Trōilus, adopted by E (as in Shakespeare's Troilus and Cressida), whence, fancifully, the Troilus—now usu troilus—butterfly.

2. The city of founder Trōs was named Troia (var Troiē), dissyllabic, or Trota, trisyllabic, whence L Troia, ML Troja, whence E Troy, with derivative L adj Troianus, ML Trojanus, whence E Trojan, the phrase '(work or fight) like a Trojan' commemorating the courage and tenacity of the defenders of Troy against the Greeks.

3. App influenced by L Troia, Troy—OF-MF Troye, MF-F Troie—was the F city of Troyes (hardly deriving from its L name Augustobona), where, during the Middle Ages, the great fairs established, for all Europe, the weight-standard Troyes, whence E Troy, whence troy (weight).

troll (1), n; trull. The troll, fabled in OGmc Myth to inhabit caves and hills, derives from ON troll (cf the Da troid, an elf), a giant, a demon, whence, perh, the MHG trolle, G Trulle, a strumpet, a slut, whence, prob, the E trull, a strumpet (obsol).

troll (2), v (hence n)—trolley, var trolly—trolley, n, hence v.

1. Troll, vt, to turn or revolve (obs), to trundle or roll (whence the fishing sense), hence to circulate (e.g., drinks), hence to sing the successive parts of a drinking song, with corresp vi senses: ME trollen (vi), to roll, to wander: OF-EF troller, in OF-MF a vt, to walk about, hence, in late MF-EF, to run here and there (whence later EF-F trôler, to drag about, but also to ramble): MHG (? also OHG) trollen, to run with short steps (G to toddle, to loll): prob (Walshe) akin—though without the IE int prefix s—to G Strolch, a vagabond.

2. App from troll, (vi, vt) to roll or trundle, comes trolley or trolly, perh assisted by a lost EF-F trollée*, trolée*—cf the EF trollerie, (of dogs) an aimless ranging.

3. Also from troll, to ramble, to stroll, comes trollop, a slattern (obsol)—hence a loose woman, a prostitute. The suffix -op was perh suggested by the -ope of the doubly syn EF-F salope, obscurely formed from MF-F sale, dirty.

trolley. See prec, para 2.

trollop. See the 2nd TROLL, para 3.

trolly. See the 2nd TROLL, para 2.

trombone. See the 2nd TRUMP, para 3.

trona. See NITER, para 5.

troop, trooper. See TAVERN, para 6.

trope—cf the element -trope (-tropical, tropo-, etc.); tropic, adj (now often in extn tropical, whence subtropical), hence n, now usu in pl; tropism; trophy; entropy; ? turpitude; prob cf the sep TROUBADOUR group.

1. Trope, lit a turning, a turn, esp of language, hence a figure of speech, is adopted from EF-F, which takes it from Grammarians' L tropus (occ tropos), trin of Gr tropos, a turn(ing), akin—with the normal n -o- and v -e- alternation—to Gr trepein (s and r trep-), to turn: cf the Doric and Ionic Gr var trapein, Skt trāpatē, he is ashamed (lit, he turns away), trapá, shame, and the Hit teripp-, to plough (lit to turn the soil): IE r terp-* (Hit teripp- a vocalized mdfn ?), to turn. (Hofmann.)

2. From E trope, a turning, derives the Bio tropism (-ism); and Gr tropos, a trope, has LGrd cpd tropologia, a figurative way of speaking or writing, whence, via LL, the E tropology.

3. Gr tropos has adj tropikos, turning, whence, via tropikos kuklos (a turning circle), the n tropikos, the solstice whether vernal or autumnal: whence resp the E adj (via L tropicus) and the E n tropic—cf EF-F tropique.

4. Gr tropos has the var or doublet tropē, with special sense 'a turning about the enemy, a routing of the enemy, a victory': whence the adj tropaïos, with neu tropaion used as n (monument to victory), whence L tropaeum, with incorrect LL varr trophæum, tropheum, whence late MF-F trophée, whence E trophy.

5. Of the -tropy prefix-cpd derivatives, entropy forms a good example: a Sci blend of E energy + Gr tropē, a turning, hence a change.

Questionable

6. E turpitude, adopted from MF-F, comes from L turpitūdinem, acc of turpitūdō, vileness, from turpis, shameful, s and r turp-: orig applied to physical defect, turpis is o.o.o., unless it be akin to Gr trepein: turp- for terp-*, metathesis of trep-: ? prop 'twisted', hence 'malformed'.

trophic; atrophy, n, hence v. The adj trophic, relating to nourishment, derives from Gr trophikos, the adj of trophē, a nourishing, nourishment, akin to trepein, to nourish, to nurse: IE r drebh-*, (?) to flow. For trophology, see the element -trophia.

2. Gr trophē, nourishment, has neg (a-) atrophia, adopted by LL, whence EF-F atrophie, whence E atrophy.

trophy. See TROPE, para 4. tropic, tropical. See TROPE, para 3.

tropology. See TROPE, para 2.

trot. See TREAD, para 4.

troth. See TRUE, para 6.

trotters, a pig's feet: pl of trotter, agent and instr of 'to trot', q.v. at TREAD.

troubadour, trovatore, trovare; (treasure-)trove; trover;—contrive, whence contrivance and contriver; retrieve, v (hence n), whence retrieval (n suffix -al) and agent retriever.

1. Both the It trovatore and the EF-F troubadour come from OProv trobador, a poet-musician, a lyric poet, from OProv trobar, to compose a song, hence a poem: VL tropāre*—attested by LL attropāre, to compare, and contropāre, to apply metaphorically—which, orig meaning 'to compose an air, hence a poem', came to mean 'to invent, to discover' and hence 'to find' (as also OProv trobar). From VL tropāre* app derive also OF-MF trover (MF-F trouver), which, orig syn with OProv trobar, soon came to mean 'to find'; derivative OF-MF trovere, EF-F trouverè, is adopted by E for a specifically F troubadour. MF trover, to find, was, by AF, used as n, whence, with sense-change, the legal trover; and the pp trouvè becomes E trove, a thing found or discovered, obs except in treasure-trove, itself orig a legal term.

2. VL tropāre* prob derives from L tropus, a figure of rhetoric, a figure of speech (cf TROPE, para 1), as the LL cpds attropäre and contropäre have led B & W, and others, to propose.

3. OF-MF trover (EF-F trouver) has two prefix-cpds affecting E:

OF-MF controver (EF-F controver), to imagine, to invent—the con- is vaguely int, and the cpd was perh suggested by LL contropäre—has such forms as 'il contrueve' and 'ils contruevent', with varr in -treuv-, which help to explain the passing of the derivative ME controven into contrueven, later contreven, later contreve, whence, perh influenced by OF-MF trouaille (EF-F trouaille), a lucky find, the EE-E 'to contrive', whence EE-E contrivance.

OF-MF retrover (EF-F retrouver), to find re- or again, to recover, with such forms as 'il retreuve', var retreuve, whence late ME retreve, whence 'to retrieve'.

trouble, troublesome, troublous. See TURBID, para 3.

trough: ME trough, earlier trog: OE trog or troh, with cognates in the other OGmc languages, as, e.g., ON trog and OHG-MHG troc (G Trog): f.a.c., TREE.

trounce. See TRANSIENT, para 3.

troupe, trouper. See TAVERN, para 6.

trousers, rare sing trouser: anl with drawer(s), but from archaic trouse, Ga var trews: Ga and Ir triubhas: perh from MF trebus, LL tubraci (var tibraci); perh of Gmc origin and meaning 'thigh breeches' (EW).

trousseau. See TRUSS, para 2.

trout: OE trūht: LL tracta, tractus, phon and sem varr of LL trocta, (prob) a shark: Gr trōktēs, a sharp-toothed marine fish: Gr trōgein, to gnaw: f.a.c., TROGON.

trouvère and trovatore. See TROUBADOUR, para 1.

trove; trover. See TROUBADOUR, para 1.

trow. See TRUE, para 7.

trowel. See TWIRL, para 2.

Troy; troy (weight). See TROJAN, para 3.

truant, orig a vagrant (whence truancy), whence v (obsol) and adj: OF-MF truant, a vagabond, var of truand (extant): Gaul trugant-*: cf OIr tróg, Ir truag, miserable, poor, with the importantly relevant dim trógán—Ga truagh, miserable, and truaghan, a poor, miserable creature, a vagabond—W trū (for trug*), trūan, miserable, poor and distressed—Br truant—Cor trū, trūan, trōc (var trōr): C etymon, trug*, poor, miserable, wretched, distressed. (Malvezin.)

truce. See TRUE, para 3.

trucidation. See TRUCULENT, para 2.

truck (1), a conveyance. See TROCHAIC, para 7.

truck (2), to barter, to exchange, and n. The E n truck, exchange, barter, hence commercial, whence social, intercourse, derives from EF troque, EF-F troc, itself from MF-F troquer, whence E 'to truck' or exchange, to barter: o.o.o., but prob, as Malvezin has proposed, from C troc* (var of trac*, to run), to come and go, to exchange goods, attested by numerous extant C synonyms and approximations.

truckle, n and v; truckle bed. See TROCHAIC, para 7.

truculent, truculency or truculence; trucidation.

1. Truculence derives from L truculentia, from L truculentus (cf the LL var truculens, o/s truculent- ferocious, cruel, whence, via EF-F, the E truculent and truculentus derives, by extn, from L truc-, o/s of trux, ferocious, cruel, prob akin to Ir trū (gen troich), fated to die, with cognates in Skt and Hit, and perh akin to L truncus, mutilated (E & M).

2. Also from trux, o/s truc-, comes trucidāre, to slay ferociously or cruelly, pp trucidātus, whence trucidātō, (ferocious) slaughter, whence the rare E trucidation.

trudge. See TRUSS, para 3.

true, adj (whence truism and 'to true'), truly, truth (whence truthful)—cf untrue, untruth (whence untruthful); truce, whence trucial; trust, n (whence trustful and trusty, adj hence n, and trustworthy) and v (whence trustee)—cf distrust (v, hence n) and entrust; tryst, n, hence v; troth, n, hence v, and betroth, whence pa betrothed and betrothal; trow, v; trig, adj, hence v.

Indo-European

1. The adj true, ME trew, comes from OE trēowe, loyal, trusty, akin to and perh deriving from OE trēow, loyalty, fidelity, and perh—even prob—related to OE trēow, trēo, E TREE: ? 'as firm and as straight as a tree': phon and sem of OFris triōwe, triūwe, (both forms) adj and n, OS triuwi, adj, and truw, n, OHG gi-triuwi, late MHG triuwe, G truu, adj, Go triggws, adj, triggwa, n, MD truw, truw, trauwe, trou, trouwe, D trouw (all adj and n), and ON trū, n, tryggr, adj; OP drawis, belief, faith; W derw, true, OIr derb, certain.

Germanic

2. OE trēowe, faithful, has derivatives trēowlice, whence truly, and trēowith (triewith), whence ME treowthe, treuthe, trouthe, later truthe, finally truth, as still. The OE neg adj untrēowe and the corresp n untrēowth become E untrue and untruth.

3. The OE n trēow, fidelity, loyalty, becomes ME trew, fidelity, hence a pledge of fidelity, pl trewes, whence, by b/f, E truce.

4. Akin to the OE trēow, fidelity, and OE trēow, faithful, and ON trū, faith, is ON traust, (a feeling of) security, akin to which is ME trost, trust, E trust; 'to trust' comes from ME trusten, trosten, varr tresten, tristen, app from ON treysta (vr), to trust, from or akin to ON traust. The E 'to trust' has prefix-cpds distrust (dis-, apart, connoting negation) and entrust (en-, in, into, hence to).

5. E tryst, an appointment to meet, an appointed meeting, was orig (ME triste, tryste, tristre), a station to which game was driven: OF-MF triste (var tristre): like ML trista, prob from Scan. (EW.)

6. E troth, ME trowthe, comes from OE trēowth

(as in para 2) and is therefore a doublet of truth: troth is a pledging of, a pledged, fidelity.

7. E trow, to believe (obs), hence to suppose (archaic), comes, via ME trowen, from OE trēowan, var -ian, lit to have trēow or faith in, hence to believe: cf the syn OFris trīūwa.

8. Trig, now dial, is basically 'trusty, loyal', hence 'neat' or 'trim': ME trigg: ON trygg, loyal (cf para 1).

truffle. See THIGH, para 7.

truism. See TRUE (heading).

trull. See the 1st TROLL.

truly. See TRUE, para 2.

trump (1), in cards. See TRIUMPH, para 2.

trump (2), a trumpet; trumpet, n, hence v, whence trumpeter; trombone; trunk, proboscis;—drum, n, hence v (whence drummer and drumming).

1. Trump, the Mus instrument, derives, via ME trump, earlier trompe, from OF-F trompe, of Gmc origin: cf OHG trumpa, var of trumba, and ON trumba: ehoic.

2. OF-F trompe has the MF-F dim trompette, whence E trumpet.

3. Also of Gmc origin is It tromba, with aug trombone, adopted by E.

4. OF-F trompe, trumpet, acquires, in F, the sense 'an elephant's proboscis', by shape-resemblance, whence, by confusion with trunk of a tree, the E 'elephant's trunk'.

5. Prob from OHG trumba and prob via MD-D trommel, MD tromp(e), D trom, MHG trumbel (G Trommel), comes the E drum.

truncate, truncation. See TRENCH, para 1.

truncheon. See the 1st TRUNK, para 2.

trundle. See TREND, para 2.

trunk (1) of tree, whence a leather or cloth chest or box: OF-F tronc: L truncus, trunk of tree or of the human body, akin to and perh deriving from the adj truncus, lopped (of a branch): cf truncate at TRENCH, para 1.

2. L truncus has the VL derivative trunciō, acc trunciōnem, whence OF-F tronçon, with OF-MF var tronchon, whence ME tronchoun, the shaft of a broken ('lopped') spear, whence E truncheon, with divergent senses.

trunk (2), elephant's. See the 1st TRUMP, para 4.

truncheon: MF-F trognon, app from tronc: cf the 1st TRUNK.

truss; trudge; trousseau. The n truss, ME trusse, derives from MF-F trousse (OF torse), from MF-F trousser, var trusser: metathesis of OF torser: o.o.o., but perh from VL torciāre*, from VL torca*, a bundle, a torch: f.a.e., TORT. MF trusser becomes ME trussen, whence 'to truss', orig to pack into a bundle.

2. A trousseau is adopted from F: dim of MF-F trousse.

3. Orig to pack (one's clothes), hence to pack off, to be off, to depart, trudge perh derives from MF trusser: cf the passage of 'to forge' from 'to force'. (EW.)

trust, trustful, trustworthy, trusty. See TRUE, para 4 and heading.

truth, truthful. See TRUE, para 2 and heading.

try (v, hence n), whence the agent trier and the pa, vn trying; trial; trysail (try, n+sail)—used instead of another sail. Trial, adopted from AF, derives from OF-F trier, to sift, hence to pick out, to select: cf the syn OProv triar: o.o.o.: perh (despite B & W) from VL trītāre*, to grind (corn): cf THROW, para 7. OF-F trier becomes ME trien, to pick out, to select, whence 'to try', orig as in ME, with naturally developing senses—several from MF-F.

trypano- words. See the element trypan(o)-.

trysail. See TRY (heading).

tryst. See TRUE, para 5.

Tsar. See CAESAR, para 4.

tsetse comes, via Afrikaans, from the Bantu languages—cf esp Sesuto ntsintsi, a fly: prob ehoic.

tub (n, hence v), whence the adj tubby: ME tubbe, var tobbe: MD tubbe, var tobbe (as still): cf MLG tubbe, prob related to OHG zwibar, zubar, MHG-G zuber: kinship with L tubus, a tube, seems likely (Walshe): therefore cf NEXT.

tuba, tubage, tubal, tubate; tube, tubular, tubulate (adj, v), tubulation, tubule, tubulous, tubulus; cf the element tubi- (tubo-; tubuli-, tubulo-).

1. L tuba, a straight trumpet, is akin to and prob derived from L tubus (o.o.o.), a tube, a pipe; whereas the former is form-adopted, sense-adapted by E (cf LL 'sonorous eloquence': Souter), the latter becomes late MF-F tube, adopted by E; and partly from L tuba, partly from E tube, come tubage (collective suffix -age), tubal (adj suffix -al), tubate (as if from L tubātus*).

2. L tuba and tubus have dim tubula and dim tubulus; only the latter has affected E, and this it does in:

tubule, with derivative anl adj tubular (cf the F tubulaire) and tubulous; tubulate, from L tubulātus (from tubulus); tubulation, from L tubulatiōn-, o/s of tubulātiō, from tubulātus.

tubby. See TUB.

tube. See TUBA, para 1.

tuber. See THIGH, para 4.

tubercle. See THIGH, para 5.

tubercular, tuberculin, tuberculosis, tuberculous. See THIGH, para 5.

tuberose, tuberos. See THIGH, para 4.

tubular, tubulate, tubulation, tubulous, tubulus. See TUBA, para 2.

tuck (1), to draw up in a fold, hence n tuck and tucker. See the 3rd TOW, para 3.

tuck (2), to strike, to sound; hence n. See TOUCH, para 4.

tucket, a fanfare. See TOUCH, para 4.

Tudor, n, hence adj: an English dynasty (1485–1603) sprung from Owen Tudor, who, a Welshman, married Henry V's widow, Catherine: prob a W form of Theodore, L Theodorus, G Theodōros, lit 'God's gift'.

Tuesday. See DIANA, para 3, s.f.

tufa; tuff. The latter represents late MF-F tuf, the former an irreg E reshaping: from It tufa, a soft, sandy stone, the volcanic detritus of the Neapolitan region: L tofus, varr tophus and tufus: o.o.o. Derivative L tōfaceus, -ius, becomes It tufaceo and E tufaceous.

tuft, whence tufty. See the 1st TIP, para 10.

tug. See the 3rd row, para 2.

tuition, whence, anl, tuitive; tutelage, tutelary; tutor (n, hence v), tutorial (adj, hence n);—intuent, intuit, intuition, intuitive.

1. Tuition is adopted from MF-F (sense 'protection'), which derives it from L tuitiōnem, acc of tuitiō, a guarding, a protecting, from tuitus, var of tūtus, pp of tūeri, to guard, hence to look at, observe: o.o.o., but perh akin to certain Skt (and allied) words meaning 'strong' or 'much'.

2. From tūt-, s of the pp tūtus, comes the agent tūtor, a protector, (in law) a guardian, adopted by E, with scholastic sense deriving from the legal; the derivative adj tūtōrius leads to E tutorial.

3. Also from tūt- comes LL tūtēlāris, whence E tutelar, largely superseded by tutelary, which derives rather from EF-F tutélaire; EF tutelage, adopted by E, irreg attaches the suffix -age to L tūtēla, protection, defence.

4. L tūeri has the prefix-cpd intūeri, to look in- or upon, with presp intuens, o/s intuent-, whence the E adj intuent, and with pp intuitus, whence 'to intuit'—unless a b/f from E intuition. On the L pp intuitus are formed both LL intuitiō, acc intuitiōnem, whence late MF-F intuition, adopted by E, and ML intuitivus, whence late MF-F intuitif, f -ive, whence E intuitive.

tulip; turban. Tulip comes from ED tulipa (D tulp): EF tulipan (F tulipe): coll Tu tülbend (läle), the white tulip, a poetical sense-development from tulbend, a turban, ref both the shape (primarily) and the colour of the turban.

2. Coll Tu tülbend is a var of Tu dülbend, a turban, from Per dülbend, a sash, hence a sash worn as a turban, hence a turban; and coll Tu tülbend becomes late MF-EF tolliban, contr in EF tulban, with EF var—retained by F—turban (r for l), duly adopted by E: yet another example of the numerous Oriental words that have come into E via F.

tumble, v (whence tumbler), hence n; tumbrel, var tumbril.

1. 'To tumble' derives from ME tumbelen, freq of tumben (var tomben, influenced by F): OE tumbian, to do a cartwheel, also to dance vigorously: cf ON tumba, OF-MF tumber, MF-F tomber, to fall, and OF-MF tumer, to gambol, to dance, MD tumen, freq tumelen (D tumelen): prob echoic (cf RUMBLE).—Cf TOMBOLA.

2. From MF-F tomber, to fall, derives MF-EF tomberel (EF-F tombereau): late ME tomberel, tombrel: EE-E tumbrel, var tumbril.

tumefaction, tumefaction; tumescence, tumescence; tumid, tumidity; tumor, tumorous, tumour. See THIGH, para 9.

tump-line, now usu tumpline: tump + line: tump, of Alg origin—cf esp Massachusetts tämpän, a pack-strap worn across the forehead. (Mathews.)

tumular, tumulous. See THIGH, para 10.

tumulit, tumultuary, tumultuous. See THIGH, para 11.

tumulus. See THIGH, para 10.

tun. See the 1st TON, para 1.

tuna: Sp: Taino (Caribbean) tuna.

tundra, adopted from Ru, is a Lapp word, orig the cpd tun-tur, lit 'marsh-plain' (EW).

tune, n (whence tuneful and tuneless)—hence v (whence tunable, tuner, tuning): ME tune, tun, var of ME ton, tone: cf TONE. Hence 'to attune' for adtune*, to bring into harmony (L ad, towards); whence attunement.

tungsten: a Sw cpd—tung, heavy+sten, a stone: a metallic element as heavy as gold.

tunic, tunicate. The latter derives from L tunicātus, clothed with a tunic: as L togātus, from L toga, so L tunicātus from L tunica. L tunica, which becomes OF-F tuniqué, whence E tunic, is id with Gr khitōn: and both are of Sem origin, the intermediaries being prob the Phoenicians and perh—later—the Etruscans: cf H kethōnet, a tunic, and Ar kattān, linen: ? orig 'linen (garment)'. The Eg ketn (? from Gr) and shenfit suggest that this is a Medit word. The derivative dim tuniculus explains E tunicle.

tunnel. See the 1st TUN, para 3.

tunny is an E dim formation (tun+euphonic n+dim -y) from MF-F thon (pron ton; rapidly, almost tun): OProv ton: coll L thunnus, L thynnus: Gr thunnos: o.o.o.: of Aegean origin, as also is H tannin. (Hofmann.)

tup, a ram, hence 'to tup' or copulate with, but also to butt, hence to beat: ME tupe or tupe: o.o.o.: ? ult akin to the IE r tud-*, to knock, to strike, as in Skt tuddāti, he knocks, and enlarged in Gr tuptein (p for d), to strike, and nasalized in L tundere, to strike: tud-, extn of basic tu- or teu-*, to knock.

Tupi, a Tupian Indian or his language, belonging to the valley of the Amazon, hence the adj Tupian: a native Tupi word.

tuque. See TOQUE.

turban. See TULIP, para 2.

turbary. See TURF, para 2.

turbid, whence turbidity; turbulence, turbulent—cf trouble (whence troublesome), troubulous; turbine (whence turbinal), tourbillon, turbo; turbit.—Prefix-cpds: conturbation; disturb, disturbance, disturber; perturb, perturbable (and imperturbable), perturbation; full cpd, masturbate, masturbation, masturbator.

1. As the obs E turb, a crowd, indicates, the imm originating word is L turba, agitation, disorder (of a crowd), hence a crowd either in motion or in disorder, hence a crowd, esp of the populace: prob from Gr turbē, confusion, disorder, tumult: IE tur-, var tuer-, to turn, to whirl, to be in a state of agitation or disturbance (Hofmann).

2. L turba has several derivatives and intimate cognates relevant to E; such as:

turbidus, (of water) cloudy and troubled, hence confused: E turbid; turbulentus (suffix -ulentus), OF-F turbulent, adopted by E, with turbulence either adopted from EF-F or coming direct from LL turbulentia; turbare, to render cloudy and troubled, to confuse, presp turbans, o/s turbant-, and pp turbātus, whence both turbātiō, o/s turbātiōn-, and agent turbātor, all occurring in E prefix-cpds (see para 5) but, as simples, no longer in current E; turbō (gen turbinis, o/s turbin-), any object animated with a rapid, circular movement, e.g. a whirlwind, a waterspout, a cyclone, but also a spinning top, the revolution of a star, etc.: adopted by Zoo, it also figures in ordinary E in the form turbine, adopted from F (from L turbinem, acc of turbō); turbinate (cf the EF-F turbine) comes from L turbinātus (from turbin-)—turbit, a fancy pigeon, prob from L turbo, a top+n suffix -it—tourbillon, anglicized var of tourbillon, adopted from F (dating from C12 torbeillon).

3. VL blends—? confuses—L turbidus and turbulentus to produce turbulus*, whence turbulāre* (cf the syn LL turbidāre, to render cloudy, to confuse), whence OF trubler, OF-F troubler, whence ME trublen, E 'to trouble'; the E n trouble is adopted from MF-F trouble, var truble, from the v; the adj troubulous comes from MF troubleus, from the n.

4. L turbāre, to render (water or sky) cloudy, to agitate confusedly, to confuse, has one full cpd affecting E: masturbāri (occ -āre), perh (E & M) a f/e adaptation of Gr mastropeuein, to seduce as a pandar does (app a cpd derivative of Homeric maimoi, I desire ardently, pursue amorously+trop-, from trepein, to turn), after L mas, male, a male (? VL male element). Whereas masturbator is adopted from LL masturbātor, from the pp masturbātus, whence 'to masturbate', masturbation is adopted from EF-F, which derives it from LL masturbātiōnem, acc of masturbātiō, itself from the L pp.

5. L turbāre has the foll prefix-cpds affecting E: conturbāre (con- used int), to disturb, perturb, very much, pp conturbātus, whence conturbātiō, o/s conturbātiōn-, whence E conturbation (perh influenced by EF); disturbāre, to confuse by disruption (connoted by dis-, apart), whence OF-EF destorber, EF disturber, whence ME destourben, -turben, whence, influenced by EF disturber, 'to disturb'; the derivative OF-EF destorbance and OF-MF destorbeor become E disturbance and disturber (of, e.g., the peace); perturbāre, to confuse thoroughly, pp perturbātus, whence 'to perturbate', virtually displaced by 'to perturb', ME perturben, -turben, from MF pertourber, MF-EF perturber (from L perturbāre); derivative LL perturbātor and L perturbātiō, acc berturbātiōnem, become, in turn, MF-F perturpateur, perturbation, and E perturbator, perturbation.

turbinate; turbine. See prec, para 2.

turbit; turbo. See TURBID, para 2.

turbot. See THORN, para 3.

turbulence, turbulent. See TURBID, para 2.

turd. See TORT, para 5.

tureen. See TERRA, para 3 (at terrīnus).

turf, n (hence v), whence turfy; turbary.

1. Coming right down from OE turf, the word is akin to OFris and OLG turf, OHG zurba, turf, G Torf, MD torf, MD-D turf, peat, ON torf, torfa, turf, peat, and ult to Skt darbhās, a tuft of grass.

2. Also of OGmc origin is OF-F tourbe, peat, imm from Frankish turba*; derivative MF turbière, MF-F tourbière, MF var turberie, tourberie, a peat bog, have, along with ML turbāria (from ML turba, peat, from OGmc), led to E turbary, the right to dig turf or peat, a place where one digs it.

turgescence, turgescent, turgid, turgidity, turgor. See THIGH, para 12.

Turk; Turkey, turkey; Turkestan; Turki, Turkic, Turkish (adj, hence n); Turkoman or Turcoman; turquoise.

1. A Turk derives from MF-F turc, which comes either from Tu(-Ar)-Per Turk, Tourk, or from ML Turcus, b/f from Turci (pl), itself from Byz Gr Tourkoi (pl), an adaptation of Ch T'u-küe; the Tu-Per Turk, Tourk, comes—prob via Byz Gr Tourkoi—from the Ch. In Tu, turk means 'strength': ? therefore 'The Strong (People)'.
2. MF-F Turc has derivative (la) Turquie, whence E Turkey, whence Turkey cock, whence turkey cock, whence turkey: the bird came into Europe from Africa, but by way of Turkey.

3. MF Turc had MF adj turqueis, turquois (turcois), whence la pierre turquoise (-queise, etc.), whence the MF-F turquoise (MF var -queise), adopted by E: either because this precious stone was first found in Asia Minor or because it reached Europe through Turkey.

4. Per Turk has adj Turki, used derivatively as n and adopted by E, which from it forms, anl, the adj (hence n) Turkic; E Turkish, however, comes from MF turqueis, adj of Turc. Turcoman derives from Per Turkmān, like (-man) a (Per) Turk. Turkestan, var -istan, app=Per Turki, adj (-i) of Turk+-stān, a country, as in Per Hindūstān, India.

turmeric. See TERRA, para 3.

turmoil. See TREMBLE, para 4.

turn, v (whence turner: cf OF-MF iorneur, MF-F tourneur), hence n; numerous cpds, all easily explicable by the 2nd element—note esp turncoat, -key, -pike (either pike, a sharp point, or the weapon), -sole (treated in para 2), -stile; turnip;—return, n and v; attorn, attorney, attornment.—tour (n, hence v, whence touring), whence tourist; tournament—tourney—touriquet; contour; detour n, hence v.

Indo-European

1. 'To turn'—basically 'to move circularly' (vt, hence also vi)—comes from ME turnen, var turnen, from OE turnian, var of tyrnan, with ME interception of OF-MF torner, MF turner, MF-F tourner: both OE and OF from L tornāre, to fashion in a lathe, to round off, hence to turn: from L tornus, a lathe: G tornos, a turner's (cf LL tornātor) or a carpenter's tool for rounding off this or that object, hence a circuit, hence a circle: ? a nasal mdfn of IE n tor-, corresp to IE v ter-, to rub, e.g. to shape by rubbing away. (Boisacq.)

Full Compounds

2. Not imm recognizable are the two full cpds turnip and turnsole. The former, EE-E (obs) turnep, EE turnepe, seems to blend the n turn (ref its round shape) + ME-EE nepe, a turnip, OE nāep, L nāpus: o.o.o.—prob (E & M) Medit. The latter anglicizes MF-F tournesol, from It turnasole (or Sp tornasol): It tornare, Sp tornar, to turn + It sole, Sp sol, the sun: the flower, otherwise named heliotrope (a sem doublet), turns to the sun.

Prefix-Compounds

3. The most obvious prefix-cpd is 'to return', ME returnen, var retournen, earlier retornen, from OF-MF retorner, MF retourner (cf the C9 L-Gallic returnar): re-, back + torner, turner (as in para 1), to turn. The n return derives from ME retorn, prob from MF retorne (from retorner).

4. Less easy is the legal v attorn: OF-MF atorner, var atourner, aturner, to arrange, to dispose or distribute: a (F ā), L ad, to + torner, tourner, turner: cf the ML attornāre, attornāre. Atorner has pp atorné, which, used as n, becomes the ME atorne, aturne, EE atorneye, aturneye, E attorney.

5. Contour, adopted from EF-F, derives—anl with tour, a turn—from It contorno, itself from It contornare, VL contornāre*: L con-, together, collectively + L tornāre (as in para 1).

6. Detour comes from EF-F détour (MF detour), which derives—anl with tour, a turn—from OF-MF detorner, MF detourner (EF-F dé-): de-, away from + torner, tourner.

French-derived Simple

7. L tornus (as in para 1) became OF torn, which very soon eased to tor, which, influenced by MF-F tourner, became tour, which, in EF, acquired the further sense 'a voyage, a trip': and this sense and that form passed, late in C17, into E; the orig F sense ('a turn') is conserved in tour de force. EF-F tour, a voyage, was adopted by E: whence 'to tour': whence tourist.

8. OF-MF torner (MF-F tourner) has the derivative—a mdfn—torneier, tornoier, MF tournoier, whence ME turnaien, E 'to tourney'; whereas the derivative OF-MF n tornei, torno (MF-F tournoi) yields ME torneie, tourneie, turnay, whence E tourney, the derivative OF-MF torneiment, tornoieiment, yields ME turnement, turnement, whence E tournament, orig syn with the n tourney, a jousting, hence certain other competitive, knock-out sports and games.

9. E tourniquet, a device to stop bleeding, is adopted from EF-F, and is often treated as a derivative of MF-F tourner, but prob that EF-F word derives from MF tourniquet, a coat of arms, from MF turniquet, a sort of tunic, var of turniquel, a derivative of MF turnicle, a f/e alteration (after MF turner, tourner) of unicle, from L unicula, dim of unica, a tunic. (B & W.)

turner. See prec (heading).

turnip. See TURN, para 2.

turnpike. See TURN (heading).

turnsole. See TURN, para 2.

turnspit. See the 1st SPIT (heading).

terpentine; terpene, terpineol, terpinol; terebinth, terebinthine.

1. Turpentine is a p-for-b derivative—via EF terpentin—of late ME-EE terbentyne (-tine): MF turbentine, MF-OF terbentine, from L terebenthinus (whence, directly, E terebinthine), adj of terebinthus (whence, prob via MF terebinthe, F térébinthe, the E terebinth), the turpentine tree: Gr terebinthos, the tree, cf terebinthinē (rhētinē), terebinthine resin, i.e. turpentine. The Gr terebinthos was orig terminthos, o.o.o., but prob pre-Gr; in short, Aegean (Hofmann).

2. The EE terpentin has been used by Chem to form terpene (Chem suffix -ene), with var terpine or terpin, whence, in turn, the Chem terpineol and terpinol (-ol, var of -ole, from L oleum, oil).

turpitude. See TROPE, para 6.

turquoise. See TURK, para 3.

turret. See TOWER, para 1.

turtle (1), whence the taut turtledove. Turtle, a turtledove, comes from OE turtla (f), turtla (m): a dissimilation of L turtur, echoic of the bird's cooing—cf 'coo like a turtledove'.

turtle (2). See TORTOISE.

Tuscan, Tuscany. See TOWER, para 3.

tush, a tusk. See TOOTH, para 2.

tushery, an archaically literary style: tush! + collective suffix -ery.

tusk. See TOOTH, para 2.

tussah, var tusseh, loosely tusser, whence the anglicized tussore. The tussah, a silkworm producing a brownish silk, hence the silk itself, derives from the syn Hi tasar: from Skt tasara, perh an easing of the var trasara, a shuttle.

tussle. See TEASE, para 4.

tussock is an -ock (dim suffix) derivative of a Scan word attested by Da tusse, Sw tuss, a wad, a ball of wool, and Sw dial tuss, a handful, a wisp, of hay.

tussore. See TUSSAH.

tutelage, tutelary. See TUITION, para 3.

tutor, tutorial. See TUITION, para 2.

tutti frutti, adopted from It, is lit 'all fruits': cf E total and fruit.

tuxedo: Tuxedo: Tuxedo jacket, for a man's evening wear: Tuxedo Park, a fashionable resort and club near Tuxedo Lake, New York State: Lenape (of the Delaware group of the Algonquian languages) p'tuksit, a wolf, lit 'he has a round foot', used as the name of a sub-tribe of Algonquian Indians. (P²; Mathews; Webster.)

twaddle is a thickening of the syn twattle, an echoic v, hence n, prob with -attle as in tattle.

twain. See TWO, para 1.

twang, v, hence n: echoic.

twattle. See TWADDLE.

twæk. See TWITCH, para 2.

tweed. See twill at TWO, para 6.

tweedledum and tweedledee. See TWIDDLE, para 1.

tweezers is an instr-agent formed in -er from twees, tweese, apetic for etweese, pl of EE etwee: EF-F étui, OF-MF estui, a (small) case: from OF-EF estui, estoir, to put into a case, to enclose: o.o.o. twelfth, twelve. See TWO, para 2. twentieth, twenty. See TWO, para 3. twibil(l). See TWO, para 4.

twice. See TWO, para 5.

twiddle (v, hence n), whence twiddler and pa, vn twiddling; tweedle—cf tweedledum and tweedledee.

1. 'To tweedle' is a dial var of twiddle: and prob from the pa-vn tweedling, (something) insignificant or trifling, comes tweedledum and tweedledee, two things virtually identical or, at the least, alike, the phrase being coined by the C18 E satirist John Byrom.

2. 'To twiddle,' to twirl, to touch lightly and fussily, is app echoic and of Scan origin; perh cf TWITCH.

twifold. See TWO, para 4.

twig (1), a small branch, a shoot, comes from OE twig, var twigge, akin to OHG zwīg, MHG zwīc, G Zweig, MD twijch, D twijg: orig '(something) forked' or divided in two: cf Skt dvikās, double, and therefore ult two.

twig (2), to understand, to detect: coll: either Ga tuíg or, less prob, the syn Ir tuigim (OIr tuiccim, tuccim), I understand.

twilight. See TWO, para 4.

twill. See TWO, para 6.

twinn. See TWO, para 7.

twine. See TWO, para 8.

twinge. See THONG, para 2.

twinkle (v, hence n), whence twinkler and pa, vn twinkling: ME twinklen: OE twincian, freq of OE twincian* (twincan*) as attested by ME twinken, to wink or to blink: cf MHG zwinken, G zwickern, to wink, to twinkle: app a picturesque or imitative word.

twirl; trowel. 'To twirl'—whence the n twirl, whence the adj twirly—has app been sense-influenced by whirl but seems to come from or, at the least, be akin to OE thwirl, a flail, a stirrer (as for a churn), intimately related to OE thweran, to twirl: cf Nor dial turla, to twirl, and OHG dwiril, MHG zwirl, G Quirl, a whisk, and ON thvara, to twirl; perh cf, further off, the L trua and the Gr torunē, a ladle, a stirring-spoon (Walshe), and the L dim trulla, a small ladle or stirring-spoon, hence also a trowel.

2. L trulla, trowel, has the LL var truella, whence OF-MF (N dial) trouele, troele (MF truele, MF-F truelle): ME trowelle, trouell, trowylle, truel: E trowel, n, hence v.

twist, twister, twisting, twisty. See TWO, para 9.

twit. See VIDE, para 10.

twitch, v (whence twitcher, twichet, twitching), hence n; twæk, v (whence tweaker and tweaking), hence n.

1. 'To twitch' derives from ME twicchen, akin to OE twiccian and MHG-G zwicken, to pinch; cf also LG twikken, to twak.

2. ME twicchen has var twikken, whence 'to tweak'.

twitter, v (whence twitterer and pa, vn twittering), hence n: ME twiteren: echoic—cf OHG zwizzirōn, MHG zwitzern, G zwitchern—and Sw kvittra, Da kvidre. (Walshe.)

twixt and betwixt. See para 10 of:

two (adj, hence n), whence twofold, -handed, -pence (coll tuppence), -some; twain; twelfth, twelve (adj, hence n); twentieth, twenty (adj, hence n); twibill, twifold, twilight; twice; tweed and twill; sep twig; twinn, n hence adj and v (whence twinning); twine, twist, v (hence n), whence twister and pa, vn twisting; twixt and betwixt.—Cf the DUAL (L duo) group, and such words as DOUBLE, DOUBT, DOZEN, all sep treated.

1. Two, ME two, var twa, f and neu, and twei, twein (earlier tweien), m—the imm source of E twain. The ME forms derive from OE twā (f and neu), twēgen (m), tū (neu): cf OFris twā (f, neu) and twēne (m)—OS twā (f), twēne (m), twē (neu)—OHG-MHG zwō (f), zwēne (m), zwei (neu)—G zwei (all genders)—Go twai, twōs, twu—MD two, twee, twene, tween, twa, D twoe—ON tveir, tvaer, tvau (tv- pron thus), with modern Scan cognates; between these t- forms and the d- forms of L, Gr, Skt, the C forms (in d-) perh form a link; the IE etymon perh veered between duwo* and dwi*. Cf the DUO group.

2. Twelve, ME twelve, earlier twelf, comes from OE twelf: cf OFris twelēf, twelif, twelf, twelf—OS twelif—Go twalif—OHG-MHG zwelif, G zwölf—ON tōlf: lit, (10+) 2 leave, i.e. left over: for the formation, cf Lith dyf-lika—and E ELEVEN. Twelfth, ME twelfste, earlier twelfte, comes from OE twelfsta (from twelf): cf OFris twelesta, twilifta, tol(e)fta.

3. Twenty, ME twenty, earlier twenti, comes from OE twēntig or twentig: cf OFris tweintich or twintich—OS twēntig—OHG zweinzug, MHG zweinzec, zwēnzec, G zwanzig; the Go twai tigjus, two tens, gives the clue to the formation of all these OGmc words, -ty denoting (as in thirty, forty, etc.) 'tens' or perh rather 'times ten'. Twentieth, ME twentithe, comes from OE twentigotha: cf OFris twintig(o)sta, var twintigesta.

4. OE twā, tū, has the c/f twi-, preserved intact by ME and E: cf OFris twi-, ON tvi-, Skt dvi-. Tw-occurs in OE-E twibill (bill or bil, a cutting instrument) and twifold (OE twifeald), superseded by twofold, and twilight, ME twilight (ME twi- + light, OE lēoht)—cf G Zwielicht.

5. Twice, ME twies, tacks the adv-origin gen ending -s to ME twie, twice, from OE twigea, twiga, twiwa, extn of the c/f twi-: with the OE forms, cf OFris twia and OS twio.

6. The fabric twill, ME twile, comes from OE twili, another extn of twi-: cf the G Zwilling: sem, it is 'the two-thread (fabric)'—cf drill, 'the three-thread (fabric)'. The Sc form of twill is tweel, whence, by f/e association with the Tweed River of a manufacturing region of Scotland, the E tweed.

7. The E-ME adj-hence-n twin derives from OE twinn, two, a pair of numbers intimately related: cf OFris twine, Go twaihnaï, ON tvinnr, tvennr, pron twin, twen; cf also OSw twínlíng and OHG zwinling, MHG zwinelinc, G Zwilling, twin, and Lith dvyñù, twins. (Walshe.)

8. 'To twine' or twist together, ME twynen, perhaps comes rather from ON tvinna than from the OE n twín, whence E twine; lit a double or twisted thread, OE twín is related to ON tvinni and MHG-G zwirn (cf OHG zwirnēn, to twine).

9. 'To twist,' ME twisten, comes from OE -twist (whence, in part, the E n twist), occurring in cpds, and meaning lit 'made of two strands', esp of two strands twined together: cf OE twist, a branch, and ON tvistra, to separate, and OFris twist, MHG-G zwist, a dissension, and Skt dvésti, he hates. (Walshe.)

10. The prep 'twixt shortens betwixt, ME betwixt but usu betwix or bitwix, from OE betweox, orig a scribal var of betweohs, an -s extn of betweoh, var betwih: be-, bi-, by +tweoh, -twih, from OE twā, tweġen, tū, two (as in para 1).

tycoon, orig written also taikun: Jap taikun, a great lord, from Ch taikun, a great prince.

tye. See tie at the 3rd Tow, para 4.

tyke, a country bumpkin, a rural lout, not pej in 'Yorkshire tyke', now rarely tike: ME-EE tike, tyke, a dog, esp a mongrel: ON tīk, a bitch. The 'rustic or bumpkin' sense, however, as OED points out, is perh of C origin—cf OW taiawc, Cor tioc, tyoc, tyac, a husbandman, a rustic.

tymp, in mining, is a b/f from tympan, a door-panel: and tympan is adopted from EF-F tympan (EF tympane) as an Arch term, but occurring in OF as 'kettledrum': L tympanum a (square) door-panel, a kettledrum: syn Gr tumpanon, s tumpan-, r tump-, a nasal var of the r tup- (s tupt-) of tuptein, to beat, to strike: cf TYPE. L tympanum has been adopted by E, esp—apart from Arch and Zoo—in the sense 'ear-drum', which prob comes from C17-20 F tympan (occ Sci tympanum); hence the adj tympanic. But tympany, inflation (lit and fig), derives from ML tympanias, from Gr tumpanias, distention, inflation, from tumpanon, whence also Gr tumpanitēs, a dropsical distention of the abdomen, whence LL tympanitēs, whence MedE tympanites, with adj tympanitic, from LL tympaniticus (from the LL n).

2. Gr tumpanon becomes ByzGr tumpanon, whence OF timbene*, whence, by contr, timbue*, whence OF-F timbre, orig a kettledrum, hence a church-bell that one strikes with a hammer, hence a table-bell, hence, in C17, the Mus sense, duly adopted by ME-E. (B & W.)

3. ME timbre, kettledrum, acquires the dim (-el) timbrel, a small kettledrum or hand-drum, a tambourine.

type, a mark or impression caused by beating or striking, hence a symbol, hence either the general character or a particular form, an example, a model, a particular sort, order, class, in, e.g. Bio or Chem, with the printing deriving from the orig sense; whence the adj typal and 'to type' (with var senses corresp to those of the n).

2. The genesis of E type is this: late MF-F type: LL typus (occ tipus), a fig rather than lit 'pattern, type, prototype, model, symbol' (Souter), a recurring pattern in maladies: syn LGr tupos: Gr tupos, a mark, an impression, caused by a blow or sharp stroke: from tup-, the r of tuptein (s tupt-), to beat or strike: cf Skt tupati, he strikes or knocks, and OSL tūpūtati, to trample, to stamp on.

3. E type has certain self-explanatory cpds, e.g. typesetting and typewriter, the latter suggesting typist (type+agential -ist). Rather from LL typus, however, comes typify (c/f typi+-fy, to make). Typical derives from ML typicālis, an -ālis extn of LL typicus, symbolical, characteristic, from syn LGr tupikos, from Gr tupikos, impressional, from Gr tupos in its orig, i.e. lit, sense. The Gr c/f tupo- becomes F and E typo-: see the element -type, where, e.g., archetype and typology.

An IE Variant

4. But IE tup-, to beat or strike, has the var stup-, with the IE prefix s-, orig an int: cf Skt prastumpati, he knocks (pra-, a prefix: stump-, a nasal mdfn); but also cf such L words as stupēre and stuprum, treated forthwith.

5. L stupēre, to be knocked stupid or insensible, to remain so, has s and r stup-, extn of IE stu-*. The foll L derivatives affect E:

stupendus, (that is) to be feared, astounding, whence E stupendous; stupidus, whence—perh via EF-F stupidē—E stupid, the derivative L stupiditās, acc stupiditātem, yielding EF-F stupidité and E stupidity; stupor, adopted by E (cf MF-F stupeur); cpd stupefacere, to render (facere, to make) stupid, whence EF-F stupefier, whence 'to stupefy', the presp stupefaciens, o/s stupefacient-, yielding stupefacient, adj hence n, and the pp stupefactus yielding LL stupefactiō, acc stupefactiōnem, whence EF-F stupefaction, whence E stupefaction.

6. The cognate L stuprum, shame, dishonour, hence dishonour resulting from debauch or rape (adopted as a Law term), represents r stup-+ extn -r-+um (neu n); the derivative n stuprāre has pp stuprātus, which yields 'to stuprate', whence, anl, stupration.

A Germanic Cognate

7. Akin to Gr tuptein, to beat or strike, is Gr stupos, a tree-stump: related thereto are the ON syn doublets stüfr (f for p) and stubbr or stubbi

(b for p): related to ON stubb, stubby, is OE stubb, stybb, whence—cf MD stubbe, stobbe—E stub, a tree-stump, with naturally derivative senses, ending (?) in cigarette stub, cheque-book stubs, etc.; whence 'to stub' and stubby.

8. Prob from OE stubb, stybb, comes ME stoburn or stiborn, whence E stubborn, whence stubbornness.

typhoid, adj, hence n; typhus. The former=typhus + -oid: (a) typhus-like (disease). The latter is a SciL phon and sem adaptation of Gr tuphos, vapour, smoke, fumes, hence, Med, a stupor caused by fever: cf Skt dhūmās, vapour, smoke: therefore cf FUME.

typhoon: Cantonese tai-fung, a great wind: f/e influenced by EE tuphon, tuphan, tufon, from Ar tūfān, from Gr tuphōn, a hurricane, from Tuphōn, God of Winds, akin to Gr tuphos, q.v. at TYPHOID.

typhus. See TYPHOID.

typical, typify, typist. See TYPE, para 3.

typography—whence, anl, typographer (cf EF-F typographe) and typographic (cf EF-F typographique), with extn typographical—derives from EF-F typographie, itself from late ML typographia: L typo-, from Gr tupo-, c/f of tupos, q.v. at TYPE, para 2 + ML graphia, from Gr -graphieia (cf graph at GRAMMAR).

typtology. See the element typto-.

tyrannic, usu in extn tyrannical; tyrannicide; tyrannize; tyrannous (-ous substituted for the -ic of tyrannic); tyranny; tyrant.

1. These words come into E via OF-F and L from Gr turannos, a lord, a master, a prince, a king, esp an absolute master or ruler, a despot, and its Gr derivatives; turannos itself is prob a native of either the Aegean or Asia Minor (? Phrygia or Lydia); cf Etruscan Turan, the Ruler, a by-name of Venus. If, however, the r be tur-, not turan-, the word is perh related to Skt tūrva, he subjugates or conquers: cf, I think, the tar of Hit tarhh-, to 'be powerful; control, conquer' (Sturtevant)—note esp tarruhhanzi, they are powerful, they conquer.

2. Gr turannos (τύραννος) becomes L tyrannus, OF-MF tiran (EF-F tyran), with faulty var tirant, later tyrant, by f/e association with -ant, the presp of vv in -er: ME tirant, tyran: E tyrant. Gr turannos has the foll derivatives relevant to E:

turrannikos, L tyrannicus, MF-F tyrannique and, perh independently, E tyrannic; turrannizein, LL tyrannizāre, MF-F tyranniser, E 'to tyrannize'; turrannia (abstract suffix -ia), LL tyrannia, MF tirannie (EF-F tyrannie), ME tirannye, E tyranny;

L tyrannicida, the agent, and tyrannicidium, the deed, has 2nd element in -cid-, a c/f of caedere, to slay: whence E tyrannicide, perh suggested by late MF-F tyrannicide (deed).

tyre. See the 1st TIRE.

Tyrian, elliptical for Tyrian blue or Tyrian purple (also called Tyrian dye), derives from L Tyrius, adj of Tyros; trlnn of Gr Turios, adj, and Turos, the ancient Phoenician city of Tyre. Gr Turos is an IE reshaping of Sem Sūr*: cf H Zōr and Ar Es Sūr, 'The Rock', from its partly insular situation.

tyro. See TIRO.

tyro- words, e.g., tyromancy: see the element tyro-.

Tyrrhenian. See TOWER, para 2.

Tzar. See Czar at CAESAR.

U

uberous, uberty. See UDDER, para 2.

ublety, ubiquitousarian, ubiquitary, ubiquitous, ubiquity.

1. These words derive from L ubi, where, akin to Ve kú, IE kū*: cf the extn Ve káva-, kva-, Skt kúha, Hit kuwapi, kuwapit, OSI küde: cf L ibi, there, for ibi exhibits both the locative -i and the medial b. The u- of ubi is app that of unde, whence, umquam, ever, and also of qui, who, quis, who?: an IE indication of the relative. (E & M.)

2. From L ubi, Sci and Phil L has coined ubletas, whereness, whence ublety.

3. L ubi has derivative ubique, everywhere; the L -que connotes 'ever' or 'any': cf quisque, whosoever. From L ubique derives the learned, orig Phil and Theo, EF-F ubiquité, whence ubiquity, whence, anl, both ubiquitary (perh imm from Bossuet's ubiquitaire) and ubiquitous; from ubiquitary come the adj ubiquitarian and the Theol n Ubiquitarian.

udder, whence udderless; uberous, uberty; exuberance, exuberant, exuberate.

1. Udder, ME udder, earlier uder, OE üder, is akin to OFris üder, var jäder (iäder), OHG ütar, ütiro, MHG iuter, G Euter, MD uder, later uyer, D uier, ON iügr (jügr), Sw jufver—Lith üdröju—L über (for üder*)—Gr outhar (gen outhatos)—Skt údhār (gen údhnas)—IE r, udh-, var oudh-, mdfn ëudh-*. (Hofmann; Walshe.)

2. L über, udder, has adj überösus, whence uberous, and n übertās (o/s übertāt-), whence uberty, and v überäre, to be fruitful, LL to fertilize.

3. L überäre has prefix-cpd exüberäre, to be very (connoted by int ex-) fruitful, hence to be abundant, with presp exüberans, acc exüberantem, whence late MF-F exubérant, whence E exuberant; derivative L exuberantia becomes EF-F exubérance, whence E exuberance. From the L pp exüberātus come both 'to exuberate' and the LL exüberātiō, o/s exüberātiōn-, an overflow, hence excess, whence exuberation.

urometer. See the element udo-.

ug, ugly (whence ugliness). The now dial ug, to feel, to cause to feel, disgust, ME uggen, comes from ON ugga, to fear. Akin to ON ugga is ON uggr, (a) fear, whence uggligr, causing fear, dreadful, whence ME uglike, later ugly, retained by E, orig 'dreadul, terrible'. The ON ugga, to fear, and uggr, fear, dread, are o.o.o.: prob cf Cor hager (-or) and uthek, ugly, ferocious threatening.

uhlan, a firearm-bearing lancer: G Uhlan, Ulan: Pol ulan, soldier in Tatar costume: via Tu: Tatar ulan, a youth.

Ugrian, Ugric. See OGRE, para 2.

ukase: Ru ukaz, lit a command, hence an edict: cf Ru ukasati, to publish, ? lit, to give out (Skt ud).

ukulele, adopted from Hawaiian, is, in that language, orig and prop a flea: Hawaiian uku, an insect+lele, to fly or leap: 'from the movement of the fingers' (Webster). With lele, cf the syn Tahitian rere (r for l).

ulcer, ulcerate, ulceration (whence, anl, ulcerative, ulcerous).

Ulcer comes from the MF-F ulcère, from L ulcer-, o/s of ulcus, a live wound, an ulcer, hence fig: akin to Gr helkos, a wound, an ulcer, Skt ársas-, haemorrhoids: IE r, perh elk-*, a (running) wound.

2. L ulcus, o/s ulcer-, has adj ulcerösus, whence late MF-F ulcèreux, f -euse, and, perh independently, E ulcerous; ulcus also has derivative v ulceräre, with pp ulcerätus, whence both 'to ulcerate' and L ulcerātiō, acc ulcerätionem, whence MF-F ulcération, whence E ulceration.

ulctic; ulitis. The former learnedly adds the adj suffix -etic, the latter—a SciL word—tacks -itis, connoting 'disease', to SciL (? also VL-ML) ülum*, trln of Gr oulon, gum of mouth. Cf the element ulo-.

ullage: MF eullage (EF-F ouillage), from MF auouillier, later -er (EF-F ouiller): OF-MF aoeuillier (var aoillier), to fill a cask up to the oeil or 'eye' or bung: OF a (F à), L ad, to+OF-MF ueil, OF-F oeil, eye, L oculus+euphonic -l+OF-MF inf -ier (F -er).

ulna, whence, anl, the E adj ulnar, and the SciL n ulnare: adopted from L ulna, the forearm: cf Gr ölénz, elbow, OIr uilenn, an angle, OHG elina, MHG elene, G Elle, an ell: cf ELL.

ulster, a long, loose overcoat: Ulster, that Ir province in which, at Belfast, the fabric was orig made: via AF and slightly earlier AL, from ON Ulfastir, var of Ulaztir or Ulahstir (OED): app of C origin: cf OIr Ulaidh (gen Uladh), men of Ulster+OIr rër, land, represented also in Ga, W, Cor (L terra).

ulterior; ultima (cf ultima Thule), ultimate (whence ultimacy), ultimatum, ultimo; penultimate; ultra (whence ultraism), as in ultra vires—ultra-crepidarian—ultramarine—ultramontane (see MINATORY, para 8)—ultramundane—and the straight-forward cpd ultra-violet; ultroneous;—outrage (n, v), outrageous.

1. Ultra, in E an adv and a prep, hence an adj (whence n), is L ultrā, adv, hence prep: for ulterā*, the abl (used as adv) of ulter*, f ultera*, neu ulterum*, adj 'situated beyond': OL and archaic L prep uls (? for ulsi*), beyond: for the final s, cf that of L cis, on this side of, uls and cis being complementaries; uls is akin to L alius, other, hence also to L ille, that (adj), that one. (E & M.)

2. Corresp to the adv and prep ultrā is the adv ultrō, whence the adj ultrōneus, going beyond (the demanded), hence voluntary or spontaneous, whence E ultroneous.

3. L ultrā, beyond, occurs in Law L ultrā vīrēs, beyond the force or strength (pl of ML vīs, L uis, strength), hence beyond legal power, i.e. exceeding one's authority. Ūltrā occurs in the foll E full cpds:

ultracrepidarian (adj, hence n), a jocularly erudite formation, in -arian (L -ārius), from the L ultra crepidām, beyond one's sandal, ref the L proverb Ne sutor ultra crepidam iudicaret, Let not the cobbler judge (in matters) above his sandal, Let the cobbler stick to his last; ultramarine, n, Sp ultramarino, n, elliptical for azul (azure) ultramarino, from ultramar, a country beyond the sea (mar, L mare), the pigment ultramarine having orig been made from crushed lapis lazuli, brought from beyond the sea;

ultramontane: see MINATORY, para 8;

ultramundane: L ultrāmundānus, situated or operating beyond the world—ultrā+mundānus, mundane.

4. L ulter*, situated beyond, has comp ulterior, situated further off, whence, as also the EF-F ultérieur, the E ulterior. It also has the sup ultimus, f ultima, neu ultimum, the most distant, with m and neu abl ultimō, as in ultimō mensē, in the last month, whence commercial E ult(imo); the f ultima—used in Phon for the final syllable of a word—occurs in L ultima Thule, the land furthest north so far as the ancient Romans knew (perh Mainland in the Shetlands), hence any far-distant, vaguely-known country, or a very remote goal—L Thulē, Thylē, Gr Thulē, Thoulē.

5. L ultimus has derivative LL ultimāre, to come to an end, pp ultimātus, whence the E adj, hence n, ultimate; the neu ultimātum was, by diplomats, employed—cf the formation, use, sense of imperātum—as n, 'the final notification or warning', hence its general currency.

6. L ultimus has the cpd paenultimus, the last but one, lit 'almost (paene) the last', whence paenultima, elliptical for p. syllaba, last syllable but one; whence, after E ultimate, the E penultimate.

7. L ultrā becomes OF-MF ultra (MF-EF oultre, EF-F oultre), whence OF-MF ultrage, MF oultrage, later outrage, orig excess, hence intemperance, hence disgraceful excess or intemperance, adopted by E, whence 'to outrage', perh suggested by EF-F outrager; derivative OF-MF ultrageus, MF oultrageus, EF-F outrageux, f outrageuse, accounts for E outrageous.

ultima and ultima Thule. See prec, para 4.

ultimacy, ultimate, ultimatum. See ULTERIOR, para 5.

ultra. See ULTERIOR, para 1 (and heading).

ultracrepidarian, ultramarine. See ULTERIOR, para 3.

ultramontane. See MINATORY, para 8.

ultramundane. See ULTERIOR, para 3, s. f.

ultra vires. See ULTERIOR, para 3.

ultroneous. See ULTERIOR, para 2.

ululant; ululate, ululation.—howl (v, hence n), whence 'howler' and howling, pa and vn; howlet.

1. L ululāre, s ulul-, a redup of IE ul-, var hul-, to howl (beasts or men): echoic: cf Gr hulān (s and r hul-), to bark, Lith ulōti and redup ulūlōti, to utter the cry ulo-, Skt ūlūkas, an owl.

2. L ululāre has presp ululans, o/s ululant-, whence the E adj ululant, and pp ululātus, whence both 'to ululate' and LL ululātō, o/s ululātōn-, whence ululation.

3. Akin to the words noted in para 1 are OHG hwilōn, to rejoice (howl with joy), MHG hiuweln, hiulen, to howl, G heulen, to howl, OHG hūwila, owl, MD ulen, hulen, later huylen, D huilen, to howl; perh imm from, but prob merely akin to, the MD words is ME houlen, whence 'to howl'.

4. Howlet, a small or young owl (owlet), is not a var of owlet (q.v. at OWL), but app a derivative from EF-F huloite, the common wood-owl, but in dial a howlet: and EF-F hulotte perh comes from MHG hiulen, hiuweln, to howl, but prob (B & W) comes from MF-F huler, to howl, itself from L ululāre.

Ulysses. See ODIUM, para 9.

umbel, umbellate, umbelliferous, umbellule. See UMBRA, para 5.

umber (1); Umbria, whence Umbrian, adj, hence n.

1. The brown-earth pigment umber derives from F ombre, elliptical for terre d'ombre, from It terra d'ombra, app a f/e corruption of terra d'Umbria, with It ombra (L umbra) intervening, earth of Umbria: cf, sem, sienna, from It terra di Siena, earth of Siena.

2. It-from-L Umbria derives, with 'region' suffix -ia, from L Umbri, an ancient people of central Italy: by shortening from Gr Ombrioi (o.o.o.).

umber (2), shadow, graying. See UMBRA, para 3.

umbilical, umbilicus. See OMPHALIC.

umbles. See LOIN, para 4.

umbo (whence umbonal). See OMPHALIC.

umbra, whence umbral (cf LL umbrālis, retired, private: Souter); umbrage, umbrageous—umbra-tile; umbrella; umber, shade—cf umbrette; umbri-ferous; umrose, umbrous; umbel, umbellate, umbelliferous.—Cpds: adumbrant, adumbrate, adumbration (whence, anl, adumbrative and adumbratory); inumbrate, inumbration; obumbrant, obumbrate (adj and v), obumbration; penumbra, whence, anl, penumbral and penumbrous; sombre, AE somber—cf sombbrero.

1. Behind all these words there looms L umbra, a shadow, shade or a shade, hence various fig uses (e.g., ghost): o.o.o.: but (E & M) cf Skt andhās, Av andō, blind, Ve andhas, obscurity; for the suffix, cf the -bra of L tenebra*, sing of L tenebrae, obscurity, shadows. L umbra is adopted by E and invested with several Sci and tech meanings.

2. L umbra has four adj that affect E:

umbrātilis, whence E umbratile; umbrōsus, whence umbose and umbrous (cf the OF-MF ombreux); umbrāticus, whence perh the OF-F ombrage, shade, shadow, more prob deriving, by suffix -age, from OF-F ombre (L umbra); OF-F ombre had the OF-MF var umbre, whence OF-MF umbrage (var of ombrage), whence late ME-E umbrage; the modern sense of umbrage arose as early as in C14 F. Derivative MF-EF umbrageux, f -euse, yields E umbrageous; umbrifer, shade-bringing, whence umbriferous.

3. OF-MF umbre has become E umber, esp in the sense 'a grayling' (fish)—already in L umbra. From the OF-MF form, SciL has coined umbretta, whence umbrette, an African wading bird.

4. L umbra has dim umbella, a sunshade, with LL f/e var (after umbra) umbrella, whence—via the It ombrello or its EF-F derivative ombrelle—the E umbrella.

5. The L dim umbella yields the Bot umbel—perh via EF-F ombelle. From L umbella, SciL has coined both umbellātus, whence umbellate, and—after L umbrifer—umbellifer, whence, anl, umbelliferous.

6. L umbra has further affected E by its cpds, of which the first is the painters' adumbrāre, to sketch (lit, to shadow ad or towards), hence, fig, to foreshadow. Whereas the presp adumbrans, o/s adumbrant-, leads to the E adj-hence-n adumbrant, the pp adumbrātus leads both to 'to adumbrate' and to L adumbrātiō, o/s adunbrātiōn-, whence E adumbration.

7. L inumbrāre, to shade in, hence to shade, has pp inumbrātus, whence both 'to inumbate' and the LL inumbrātiō, o/s inumbrātiōn-, whence inumbation.

8. L obumbrāre, to overshadow ('over' connoted by L ob-), has presp obumbrans, o/s obumbrant-, whence the Sci adj obumbrant, overshadowing, hence overhanging, as certain feathers overhang; the pp obumbrātus yields the E adj and v obumbrate and the LL n obumbrātiō, o/s obumbrātiōn-, whence obumbration.

9. From L paene, almost, and umbra, a shadow, EF-F has formed pénombre, whence, anl, the E penumbra.

10. LL subumbrāre, to overshadow (lit), to put lit into the shade, yields Sp sombrar, to produce shade, whence the n sombra, shade, whence prob—by a course not yet charted—the late MF-F sombre, shaded, hence, in EF-F, the modern sense, whence E sombre, AE somber. From Sp sombra, shade, comes the instr sombbrero (suffix -ero), a broad-brimmed hat, whence, via ASP, the A and E word.

umbrage, umbrageous. See prec, para 2.

umbratile. See UMBRA, para 2.

umbrella. See UMBRA, para 4.

umbrette. See UMBRA, para 3.

Umbrian. See the 1st UMBER, para 2.

umbose, umbrous. See UMBRA, para 2.

umlaut. See LOUD, para 3.

umpire. See PAIR, para 8.

un- (1), not, comes straight down from OE un-, akin to OFris, OS, OHG-G, Go un-; to Gr and Skt an- (or a-); to L in-; C an-, with such varr as Ga chan, Cor nan, OIr nicon. Hence un- is akin also to L non, ne, not, E no, not, etc.

In this dictionary, only a few 'un-' words are included; those, for some particular reason. Most of the 'neg un-' words are imm deducible from the r word that follows the neg.

un- (2), forming, when it precedes a v, a v that expresses the contrary or a reversal (as in unbend) and, when it precedes a n, a v that expresses a privation of, a release from, or a removal of whatever the n element denotes or connotes (as in unman and unyoke): ME un-: OE un- or on-, unaccented forms of and-, against: cf OFris and Go and-, OFris var end- or enda-, OS ande or endi-, OHG anti or enti, G ent-, C and-, ande-, L ante, Gr and Skt anti. Therefore cf the prefixes ante and anti, which express two aspects of the one basic idea.

Only a few of the 'un-', reversal or privation' vv are treated sep in the foll pages; those few, for some good reason.

Una. See ONE, para 2.

unable anglicizes L inhabilis.

unanimity, unanimous. See ANIMAL, para 6, and cf ONE, para 6.

unaware. See WARY (heading).

unbelief, unbelievable. The latter is merely the neg of believable (from believe, q.v. at LEAVE, n); the former was perh suggested by OE ungelēafa.

unbind: OE unbindan.

uncanny: un-, not + canny (cf ken, q.v. at CAN, v).

uncertain, uncertainty. See CERTAIN, para 4.

unchristian: cf OE uncristen.

uncia, uncial. See ONE, para 5.

uncle, 'nunks' and 'nunky'; avuncular.

1. Both nunks and nunky are coll derivatives of the now dial nucle, itself from 'an uncle', and 'mine uncle', 'thine uncle': and E-ME uncle comes from OF-MF uncle (MF-F oncle): L aunclus, contr of auunculus, a maternal uncle: auus, an ancestor, esp a grandfather + dim -unculus. L auus is akin to Arm haw, grandfather, OE ēam, uncle, OHG-MHG ōheim, maternal uncle, G Ohm, uncle, MD ohem, ome, MD-D oom, uncle, Cor ounter, maternal uncle: IE r, au-, aw-, ancestor, esp grandfather.

2. L auunculus, becomes ML avunculus, whence, anl, the E adj avuncular (cf F avunculaire.)

unco, adv from adj, is a Sc reduction of ME-E uncouth, OE uncūth, unknown.

unconsciousable, unconscious(ncss). See CONSCIENCE (heading).

uncouth (cf UNCO). See the v CAN, para 3.

unction, unctuosity, unctuous; unguent, unguentarium, unguentary; ointment; anoint, whence anointment.

1. Uction derives from L unctiōn-, o/s of unctiō, an oiling, a being oiled, in LL with the sign of the Cross, unctuosus from ML unctuōsus, mfn of LL unctōsus, oily, and unctuosity from MF unctuosité (later onctuosité) from ML unctuōsitätē, acc of unctuōsītās (from unctuōsus). All three are, in L, formed from L unct-, s of unctus, pp of unguere, to apply a perfumed oil to, to oil, LL to anoint with the sign of the Cross. L unguere has s ungu-, r ung-, perh a nasalization of an IE agh-* or akh-*, oil or grease, to oil or to grease; cf Skt anākti, he anoints.

2. L unguere has derivative unguen, superseded by the extrn unguentum, whence E unguent (cf MF-F onguent), a lubricant, a salve, an ointment; the derivative L adj unguentārius yields unguentary, and the subsidiary unguentārium, prop the neu of the adj, is retained by erudite E.

3. L unguentum becomes VL unguimentum*, whence OF-EF oignement, unguent, an anointing, whence ME oinement, whence the reshaped E ointment.

4. L unguere has the cpd inunguere, to oil into, hence to smear on, to anoint, whence OF-MF enoindre, with pp enoint, f enointe, whence late ME-E 'to anoint'.

unda, undine, ondine; undulant, undulate, undulation (whence, anl, undulative, undulatory);—inundant, inundate, inundation (whence, anl, inundatory);—abound, abundance, abundant; redound, redundance, redundant; superabound, superabundance, superabundant; surround (v, hence n), whence the pa surrounding and the vn surroundings.

1. L unda, water in motion, a wave, is akin to Skt undāti, the waters spread or stretch out (sing undāti); und- is a var of IE ud-*, water, as in Skt udnās and, aspirated, Gr hūdōr (gen hūdatos); ult akin to WATER.

2. L unda has the SciL derivative undina, either coined by Paracelsus or popularized by him: hence G Undine, whence the E undine; adopted also is the EF-F ondine, prob from Paracelsus.

3. L unda has the VL dim undula, whence the adj undulātus, wavy, whence the E adj, hence v, undulate; whence also the learned EF-F ondulation, which prob suggested E undulation, as F ondulatoire perh suggested undulatory.

4. L unda itself acquires the v undāre, (of the sea) to be agitated, hence to flow or move in waves, with pp undātus and presp undans, o/s undant-. Undāre has the foll cpds affecting E:

abundāre (ab- used int), to overflow, hence to abound, presp abundans, o/s abundant-, with derivative abundantia; whence OF-MF abundant (MF-F abondant) and OF-MF abundance (later abondance), both adopted by ME-E; 'to abound' comes from ME abounden, MF-F abonder, OF-MF abunder, from L abundāre; inundāre, to flow (over) into, presp inundans, o/s inundant-, E adj inundant, and pp inundātus, whence both 'to inundate' and L inundātiō, acc inundātiōnem, whence MF inundacion, MF-EF inundation (later inondation), adopted by E; redundāre (re- vaguely int), to overflow, hence to be very or too abundant, whence OF-MF redunder, MF-F redonder, whence 'to rebound' with senses developing as in EF-F; the L presp redundans, o/s redundant-, and its derivative n redundantia, yield E redundant and redundance, with the MF derivatives perh intervening;

LL superabundāre, to overflow, hence to be in excess, whence—cf MF superabonder—'to superabound', after abound; the LL presp superabundans (o/s superabundant-), used as adj, and its LL derivative superabundantia yield superabundant and superabundance;

LL superundāre, to overflow, becomes OF-MF surunder, suronder, surounder, whence 'to surround', with the current sense arising early in C17 by f/e association with round.

undeniable. See NEGATE, para 3, s.f.

under, with numerous cpds, mostly obvious—note esp underclothes (whence the coll undies), undergo (cf OE undergān, to undermine), underlay (OE underlecgan), underlie (OE underlicgan), underneath (see NETHER, para 2), sep understand, undertone (under, hence subdued), underworld (world under the earth), underwrite (OE underwritan, to sign, sense-influenced by L subscribere, to subscribe).

Under, prep and adv (whence adj), descends from OE under, prep and adv, akin to OFris under, OS undar, under, OHG untar, MHG-G unter, Go undar, MD under- (in cpds), MD-D onder: Gmc etymon, under*; IE etymon, andhēr*, ondhēr*, undhēr*, prob indhēr*. (Walshe.)

undergo, pt underwent, pp undergone. See prec (heading).

underlay; underlie. See UNDER (heading).

underling; late OE underling; cf the 2nd suffix -ling.

underneath. See NETHER, para 2.

understand, pt and pp understood: ME understanden: OE understandan, to understand, lit and orig 'to stand under': f.a.e., STAND. The derivative n understanding is id in OE.

undertaker of funerals: late EE-E agent of undertake, to take upon oneself, whence, late ME-E, the vn undertaking: f.a.e., TAKE.

undertone. See UNDER (heading).

underwrite, whence underwriter. See UNDER (heading, s.f.).

undies. See UNDER (heading).

undine. See UNDA, para 2.

undo, undoing, undone. See DO, para 1.

undulant, undulate, undulation, undulatory. See UNDA, para 3.

uneven: OE unefen, unefn: f.a.e., EVEN.

unfair, orig unseemly or unlovely, comes from OE unfa ger: f.a.e., FAIR.

unfald: OE unfealdan: f.a.e., FOLD.

ungainly. See GAINLY.

unguent, unguentarium, unguentary. See UNCTION, para 2.

unguis, unguia, unguilate. See NAIL, para 2.

unholy: OE unhālig: f.a.e., HOLY.

unicity. See ONE, para 3.

unicorn. See HORN, para 5, and cf ONE, para 6.

uniform (adj, n), uniformity. See FORM, para 9, and cf ONE, para 6.

unify, whence, anl, unification, derives—perh via late MF-F unifier—from LL ūnificāre: L unus (cf ONE) + -ficāre, c/f of facere, to make.

unilateral, one-sided: like F unilatéral, either from SciL unilateralis or from L ūnt-, c/f of ūnus, 1+E lateral (q.v.). unintelligent, unintelligible. See LEGEND, para 11, s.f.

union. See ONE, para 3.

unique. See ONE, para 3.

unison, unisonous. The latter comes from LL ūnisonus, having only one sound, monotonous: whence the MF-F n unison, whence E unison; in unison was prob suggested by EF-F à l'unisson (lit and fig).

unit. See ONE, para 3, s.f.

unite, unity. See ONE, para 3, s.f.

univalent. See the element uni-.

universal, universality, universe; university. See ONE, para 7.

univocal. See VOCABLE, para 9, s.f.

unjust=un-, not+just, q.v. at JURY, para 5.

unkind, rather cruel, has sense-developed from OE uncynde, unnatural (not what one would expect from a member of one's family): cf KIN.

unless: C15–16 onlesse, onles, also onlesse (onles) that, lit 'in less' and 'in less (case) that': C16–17 unlesse (C16 onwards: unless): cf ON and LESS.

unlikely, unlikelyhood, unlikely. See LIKE, para 4.

unlock: cf the syn OE unlūcan.

unman; unmanly. See MAN, para 3.

unmeet: OE unmāete, not meet: for the adj meet, cf mete, to measure, q.v. at MEASURE.

unreal, unreality. See the 1st REAL, para 1.

unstable. See STABLE, para 1, s.f.

until. See the 3rd TILL, para 2.

unto (ME-E): that un-, as far as, which we see also in until (q.v. at the 3rd TILL, para 2): cf the syn OS unto, OHG unzi, and the OS conj und, until.

untrue, untruth (whence untruthful). See TRUE, para 2, s.f. unwieldy. See VALUE, para 2—and heading.

unwisdom, unwise, unwisely: OE unwisdōm, OE unwis, OE unwislice: f.a.e., VIDE (esp para 8).

unwitting, adj, derives from the presp unwitting, not knowing: OE unwitende; unwitty from OE unwittig, devoid of understanding: both of the OE words have cognates in the other OGmc languages: f.a.e., VIDE.

unwonted. See VENERABLE, heading; cf para 11.

unwritten: OE unwritten: cf WRITE.

anyoke: OE ungeocian: cf yoke, q.v. at JOIN, para 20.

up, upper (hence n, esp in pl); upmost, uppermost; 'uppity' and uppish; upon; upward, upwards;—numerous cpds, easily deducible from the r word, but note esp upbraid—upholster, upholsterer, upholstery—upland(s)—uplift—upright—uproar, whence uproarious—upset—upshot—upstart—uptake.

1. Up, adv, hence prep, later also adj, derives from OE up, var upp, cf OE uppe, on high: akin to OFris up, var op, MD uppe, up- (in cpds), oppe, MD-D op, OS uppa, upp, up, OHG-MHG ūf, G auf, Go iuþ, ON up, uppi (with modern Scan cognates)—and E OVER—and perh Hit up-, (of the sun) to rise.

2. Up used as adj has comp upper, whence uppermost; upmost=‘the most up’ (adj). Also from up, adj, come uppish (adj suffix -ish) and AE (coll and dial) uppity and E dial uppity, tetchy.

3. Adv (and adv) and prep cpds of up are the prep upon, ME upon, var uppon, i.e. up on, and the adv, whence adj, upward, OE upweard, whence OE upwardes (gen, used as adv), whence upwards.

4. The adv up occurs in many nn and v, the foll being perh the best worth recording:

upbraid, q.v. at BRAID, para 2; upholsterer, a taut-agential extn of late ME-EE upholster, an easing of upholdster (suffix -ster), mdfn of ME-EE upholder, in ME a tradesman (who holds up or exhibits his goods); from the n upholster derive, by b/f, the v upholster and, by adding suffix -y, the n upholstery; upright, whence uprightly and uprightness: see REX, para 3, s.f.; uproar: either from MD uproer (MD-D oproer) or from MLG uprōr (cf G Aufruhr): the Gmc up, etc. + the Gmc forms of ‘to roar’; upshot, orig (C16-early C17), the final shot in an archery contest: up, adv + shot, n, q.v. at the v shoot.

upas: elliptical for Mal pohon upas (cf the E var bohun upas), tree of poison.

upbraid. See BRAID, para 2.

upholster, upholsterer, upholstery. See UP, para 4.

upon. See UP, para 3.

upper, uppers. See UP (heading).

uppish, 'uppity'. See UP, para 2. upright. See REX, para 3, s.f.

uproar. See UP, para 4.

upshot. See UP, para 4, s.f.

upward, upwards. See UP, para 3.

Urals, Ural-Altai—cf Altai; uralite.

The Min uralite tacks the Min n-suffix -ite to Ural Mountains (commonly called the Urals), where it was discovered: and whereas Ural is prob a native Ru word, Altai (whence Altai) is perh Mongol—? the Mongol alta, var altan, gold. (Enci It.)

Urania, Uranus; uranite, uranium (whence, anl, uranic and diuranate: di-, Gr dis, twice + uranium + Chem n-suffix -ate); cf the clement urano-, where see uranology and uranoscopy;—Varuna.

1. Urania, the Muse of Astronomy, is the L trin of Gr Oourania, from ourania, the f of ouranios, the adj of ouranos, the heavens, the sky, personified as Oouranos, the Lord of Heaven, the husband of Gaia (Earth) and the father of the Titans, whence LL Uranus, whence the planet Uranus discovered by Herschel in 1781. In 1789 the G chemist Klaproth discovered an element he named Uran, in honour of Herschel; from the F form urane the F chemist Péligot named, in 1841, the element he, in turn, discovered—uranium (Chem element suffix -ium), adopted by E. Derivative from G Uran is G Uranit, whence the F uranite, adopted by E. (B & W.)

2. App cognate with Gr Oouranos, the god of the sky, is Skt Váruṇas, in Hinduism the guardian—after having been the creator—of cosmic order, whence E Varuna.

3. Gr ouranos, the heavens (heaven), the sky, is the Attic form, the Lesbian being oranos, orranos, and the Doric and Boeotian ōranos. Whereas Boisacq supports Kretschmer in proposing an IE etymon oworanos*, prob earlier oworwanos* and worwanos*, Hofmann proposes worsanos* and suggests that, as 'the moistener' or 'the drencher', hence 'the fertilizer', ouranos, the sky, is perh akin to ouron, urine (cf URINE). But are Gr ouranos, s and r ouran-, and prob Skt Váruṇas, s and r Varuṇ- (? orig Uarun-*), perh rather akin to Hit wara-, to burn (vi), which has such forms as the presp waranza and the imp warānu, var uranu, with an IE basic idea 'the burner, the giver of heat'?

urazin. See URINE, para 5.

urban, urbane, urbanity (whence, anl, urbanize, whence urbanization); conurbation; suburb, suburban (whence suburbanite).

1. Conurbation, an aggregation of urban communities about a great city (e.g., London), is a bureaucratic invention: con-, together + urb(an) + -ation.

2. Suburban derives from late MF-F suburbain, from L suburbānus, the adj of suburbium, but formed after L urbānus (see next para). L suburbium = sub-, under, hence towards or up against, very near + urbi-, c/f (from the s and r urb-) of urbs, a city + n-suffix -um. L suburbium becomes MF (and prob EF) suburbe, whence E suburb.

3. Urban comes, perh via MF-F urbain, f urbaine, from L urbānus, adj of urbs; already in L, urbānus meant, derivatively, 'civilized, polished, refined, witty', a sense it retained, along with 'of a, or the, city', in MF-F urbain, whence E urbane, orig (C16) a mere var of urban, then (C17) in the 'civilized' sense: cf the phon and sem differentiation of human and humane. L urbānus has derivative urbānitās, whence MF-F urbanité, whence E urbanity.

4. L urbs (gen urbis) is o.o.o.: Webster proposes kinship with L uerber (ML verber: cf VERVAIN), a rod; a city having orig been an aggregation of persons living within a palisaded enclosure. Very tentatively I suggest that the L r urb- is a contr of uerb-*, extn of uer- (ML ver-), the r of L uertere, to turn, pp uersus, a city being that point to which the inhabitants of the entire neighbourhood naturally turn in order to do business or to get news. If, however, the L r urb- be an extn of ur-*, then L urbs is prob akin to Hit uru, town, city.

urceolar, urceolate, urceole, urceolus, urceus. See URN, para 2.

urchin. See HEARSE, para 4, s.f.

Urdu. See HORDE.

ure, obs n and v; inure, whence, anl, inurement.

The now only hist n ure (whence the v), use or custom, came into ME from OF-MF ueuvre, euvre, work (F oeuvre)—from L opera: f.a.e., OPERA. ME-E ure has the late ME-E derivative cpd inure, to accustom, to habituate, hence, in E, to harden: cf the LL inoperāri, to 'work (in), to produce, manifest' (Souter).

urea, ureal. See URINE, para 4.

ureter. See URINE, para 6.

urethra. See URINE, para 5.

urethra, urethral. See URINE, para 6.

uretic. See URINE, para 6.

urge, urgency, urgent. See WREAK, para 6.

uric. See URINE, para 4.

urinal; urinary; urinate. See para 3 and (for urinate) para 2 of:

urine; urinal, urinary, urinate (whence urination—cf the obs F urination—and urinative), urinous; urea, whence ureal; ureter; urethra; urethra, whence urethral; uretic; uric; urazin(e);—diuretic, whence, anl, diuresis; enuresis, enuretic.

1. E-ME urine is adopted from OF-F urine, a reshaping of OF-EF orine, from VL aurina*, a f/e alteration—from the colour of L aurum, gold—of L ūrīna, whence OF-F urine: and L ūrīna is ult akin to Gr ouron, urine, and ourein, to urinate, ouria, a waterfowl, themselves (r our-) akin to Skt vār, vāri, water, varṣam, rain, varṣati, it rains—Tokh A wār, water—OE waer, ON ver, the sea, ON ūr, fine rain, a drizzle—Lith jūreis, jūrios (pl), the sea, OP wurs, a pond—and such C words as Mlr fāraim, I pour (Ir, I gush, etc.), W gweren, dampness, and perh Cor dour, dowr, dūr, dōr, water, urine. The IE r is app wer-*, to water, to besprinkle; but 'water' (n) was prob the primary sense. (E & M, Boisacq, Hofmann, Holthausen.)

2. This basic sense appears in L ūrīnāri, to plunge into water, to dive, pp ūrīnātus, whence, but with sense from ūrīna, the E 'to urinate'.

3. L ūrīna has two L adj: LL ūrīnālis, of or for urine, whence the ML n ūrinal, a place for urinating, whence OF-MF orinal, whence the reshaped EF-F urinal, adopted by E; and Scil ūrīnōsus, whence E urinous, which might, however, derive from EF-F urineux (urine + -eux). The adj urinary derives from EF-F urinaire (urine + -aire).

4. Whereas uric derives from F urique (urine + adj suffix -ique), urea (the solid part of urine) derives from F urée (urine + f n-suffix -ée), coined, late in C18, by the F chemist Fourcroy.

5. From urée, F forms uréthane (-éthane from éter, ether), whence E urethan; from G Urin, G forms Urazin (-azin from Hydrazin, E hydrazine), whence E urazine or urazin.

6. From ouron, Gr forms ourētēr (agential-instr suffix -ētēr), the duct carrying urine from kidney to bladder: whence SciL, hence SciE, ureter; cf that other Gr derivative ourēthra, the duct or canal carrying off urine from the bladder, whence LL ūrēthra, adopted by SciE. Gr ouron, moreover, has adj ourētikos, whence LL ūrēticus, whence E uretic.

7. Gr ourein has two prefix-cpds affecting E: diourein (dia, through, used int), to pass water, whence the adj diourētikos, LL diūrēticus, E diuretic, whence, anl, diuresis; and the syn enourein (en, in, used int), whence—after diuretic and diuresis—E enuretic and enuresis.

urinology. See the element urini-. f.a.e., URINE.

urn (n, hence v, esp in the int form urnum), urnal, urceolar, urceolate, urceole, urceolus, urceolus.

1. Urnal derives from L urnālis, the adj of urna, an urn, akin to L urceus, a two-handled vase or pot, which, like L orca, a big-bellied vase or pot, a tun, is akin to Gr hurkhē, Aeolic Gr urkhē, an earthenware jar: perh all three are of common Medit origin. L urna becomes EF-F and ME urne, E urn.

2. L urceus is preserved by Classical erudition. The dim urceolus, a little vase, pot, jar, is retained, with slightly modified senses, by Bot and Zoo, the truly E form being urceole (cf F urcéole: Bot); the L adj of urceolus is urceolāris, whence E urceolar, whence prob, by anl, the erudite adj urceolate, shaped like a small urn.

uro- words, all Sci: see the two elements uro-.

ursine. See the element ursi-.

Urtica, urticant, urticaria (whence urticarial and urticarious), urticate, urtication, urticose.

The Bot Urtica, the genus of nettles, represents L urtica, a nettle: o.o.o.; associated by L f/e with ūrere (s and r ur-), to burn, from the 'burning' sensation caused by nettle-stings. The derivative ML urticāre, to sting as with nettles, has presp urticans, o/s urticant-, whence the E adj urticant, and pp urticātus, whence the adj and v urticate, whence, anl, urtication. Derivative SciL urticosus yields urticose; also from L urtica derives, as if from an adj urticārius, SciL urticāria, an inflammatory disease.

us; our, ours; nosism and nostrum.

1. E-ME us comes from OE ūs, us, to us: cf OFris, OS ūs, Go and OHG-G uns, MD us (var uus), MD-D ons, ON oss; cf also L nōs, we, us—Gr hēmās (pl), us, and nō, Homeric nōi (dual), we two, us two—Skt nas, us, nāu, our two, Hit anzās us, to us (anzel, our).

2. Very closely akin to OE ūs is OE īre, our: cf Go unsar, G unser, and, without n, the OFris ūse, OS ūsa, ūse. Ours, possessive pronoun, ME ures, was orig the gen of ME ure, OE īre, ours, and therefore doubly a possessive.

3. From L nōs, we, us, comes E nosism (suffix -ism); from L nōstrum, the neu sing of nōster, our, itself from nōs, comes the E nostrum, 'our medicine', hence an infallible, a quack, medicine.

usage; usance. See para 5 of:

use, n (whence useful and useless) and v (whence usable and the pa used); usage; usance; usitate, usitation, usitative; usual (adj, hence n), whence usualism and usually; usurer, usurious, usury; for both usucapient, usucapion, usucapt, and usufruct, usufructuary (adj, n), see the element usu-;—utensil; utile, utility (whence utilitarian, adj hence n—cf humanity, humanitarian), utilize, utilization; inutile, inutility.—Prefix-cpds: abuse (n, v), abusive, and disabuse—disuse (v, hence n), disutility (anl from utility)—misuse, v, hence n;—usurp, usurpation, usurpatory.

1. All these words stand firmly upon L ūtī (s and r ūt-), to use, make use of, hence to have relationships with; the pp ūsus is prob for ūsus*. The OL forms are oetī, to use, oetile, useful, oesus, pp. The word has a very long history, but only in the Italic languages, e.g. Oscan (ūttiuuf, acc pl: L ūsūs) and Pelignian oisa (f sing of the pp: L ūsā). Perh Medit: ? oet-, var oit-.

2. L ūtī has adj ūtilis, whence OF-F utile, adopted by E; derivative ūtilitās, acc ūtilitātem, yields OF-F utilité, whence utility; from F utile comes F utiliser, whence utilisation, whence E utilize, utilization. The L negg inutilis, inutilitās, yield OF-F inutile, MF-F inutilité, whence E inutile, inutility.

3. Also from the s ūt- comes ūtēnsilis, usable, whence the neu pl, used as n, ūtēnsilia, implements, whence, by b/f, the MF utensile, whence (after user) the late MF-F ustensile, whence E utensil.

4. The pp ūsus generates VL ūsāre, to use, whence OF-F user, ME usen, E 'to use'; the E n use comes from OF-MF us, use (itself from L ūsus, gen ūsūs, from the pp), adopted by ME, the longer form prevailing. OF-F user has derivatives OF-F (obs) usable and MF-EF usance, both adopted by E; with the F neg inusable contrast the E unusable.

5. Whereas both B & W and Dauzat derive OF-F, hence ME-E, usage from OF us (use), both OED and Webster derive OF-F, hence ME-E, usage from ML ūsaticum, prop the neu of the ML (? from VL) adj ūsaticus.

6. From the L pp ūsus comes the LL freq ūsitāre, to use often, with pp ūsitātus, whence both the rare 'to usitate' and LL ūsitātīō, o/s ūsitātīōn-, whence E usitation, whence, anl, the Gram adj usitative.

7. The L n ūsus (gen ūsūs) has LL adj ūsūālis, whence MF usual (MF-F usuel), adopted by latish ME.

8. The L pp ūsus has derivative n ūsūra, use, esp, in Law, usury, whence OF-F usure, whence—prob influenced by ML ūsūria (mdfn pf L ūsūra)—the ME usurie, É usury, whence usurious; E-ME usurer adapts MF usureor, MF-F usurier.

9. The foll L and F-imitative-of-L prefix-cpds have affected E:

L abūti, to consume by use, hence to use up, hence to turn away from (ab) its proper use, with pp abūsus, whence MF-F abuser, whence 'to abuse'; the derivative L n abūsus (gen -ūs) becomes MF-F abus, whence the E n abuse; that L n has the LL derivative adj abūstiūs, misused, whence MF-F abusif, f abusive, whence E abusive;

EF-F désabuser (dés-+abuser) yields 'to dis-abuse';

MF-EF desuser (des-, L dis-+user) yields 'to disuse', whence disuse, n; but disutility merely prefixes dis- to utility;

MF mesuser, EF-F mésuser, has at least suggested 'to misuse', whence the n misuse; misusage owes something to the EF mésusage (from mésuser).

10. L ūtī or, rather, its pp ūsus, has a full cpd not imm recognizable: ūsūpāre, to take possession of by use, esp by use and custom—explained thus by E & M: 'A law term, which was perh employed at first, of one who took a woman (rapere) without benefit of legal rites of marriage. . . . It was then applied to every sort of object in the sense "to appropriate to oneself, take possession or cognizance of" and then in that of "to usurp" '; in short, they imply, for they do not exhibit, nor even state, the catena: ūsū rapere* becomes ūsūrapere*, whence, by contr, ūsūrpere*, whence ūsūpāre. From L ūsūpāre derives MF-F usurper, whence 'to usurp'. Derivative L ūsūpātiō, acc ūsūpātiōnem, explains MF-F usurpation, adopted by E; LL ūsūpātor, a usurper, suggested the LL ūsūpātōrius, whence E usurpatory.

usher. See ORAL, para 5.

usitate, usitation, usitative. See USE, para 6.

usquebaugh. See WHISKEY.

usual. See USE, para 7.

usucapion; usufruct. See the element usu-.

usurer, usurious. See USE, para 8.

usurp (whence usurper), usurpation (whence, anl, usurpative), usurpatory. See USE, para 10.

usury. See USE, para 8.

utensil. See USE, para 3.

uterus. See HYSTERIA, para 1, s.f. The adj uterine derives from late MF-F utérin, f utérine, from LL uterīnus, adj of uterus.

utile, utilitarian, utility, utilize. See USE, para 2 and, for the 2nd, the heading.

utmost. See OUT, para 3.

Utopia, whence Utopian (adj, hence n), originates in Sir Thomas More's Utopia, 1516; Utopia, an imaginary paradisaic island: SciL, as if from LGr Outopia*: ou, not+topos, a place+-ia, suffix connoting 'region'.

utricle. See the element utri-.

utter (1), adj. See OUT, para 3. Cf:

utter (2), v: ME uttren, outren, lit 'to put out or forth' (cf the sl 'to get off one's chest'): ME adv utter (uttere), outside+inf suffix -en: OE ūtter, ūtor, comp of ūt, out: f.a.e., OUT. Hence utterance.

uttermost: UTTER, adj+MOST.

uvula (whence, anl, uvular), uvulitis. The third tacks -itis, denoting 'disease', to ML ūvula, LL ūuula (Galen and Hippocrates), the uvula, orig a little grape: dim of L ūua (ML ūva), a grape: perh cf Lith ūga, a berry, OSl vin-jaga, a grape, and Gr oā, Ionic oē, oīē, a service-tree, and oōn, its fruit: ? cf E YEW.

uxorial is an occ var (-ial for -ious) of uxorious, from L uxōrius, relating to a wife or, for the man, to marriage, adj of uxor, a wife: cf Oscan usurs (corresp to L uxōrēs, wives) and Pelignian usur (corresp to L uxor): o.o.o.: perh for iuxor*, i.e. iugsor*—cf -iux, for iugs*, in coniux, wife: f.a.e., JOIN.

V

vacancy, vacant, vacate, vacation (whence vacational and vacationist); vacuate, vacation—cf evacuant, evacuate, evacuation (whence, anl, evacuator, whence, anl, evacuee); vacuity, vacuolar, vacuole, vacuous; vacuum;—void, adj (hence n) and v (whence voidable), voidance, voider; avoid, whence avoidable and avoidance; devoid, adj and v.—vain, vanity; vanish (whence pa, vn vanishing) and evanish, evanesce; vaunt, v, hence n; inane (adj, hence n), inanition, inanity.—wane, n and v; want, n and v—cf wanton, adj, hence n and v.—vast, adj (whence vastly and vastness), vastitude, vastity, vastly—vastate, vastation, cf devastate, devastation (whence, anl, devastative), devastator, devastavit—waste, adj, n (whence wasteful), v (whence wastage and the pa, vn wasting), waster, wastrel.

1. Here we have three L words, uacāre, to be empty, hence vacant or unoccupied, uānus, empty, emptied (of what was there), hence hollow, without substance, hence vain, and uastus, ravaged, desolated (also ravaging, desolating, devastating), hence uncultivated, desert, hence—deserts tending to be very large—vast, immense: all with IE cognates, esp in Gmc; the Gr cognates, remote in form, have scarcely influenced E; the C cognates, phon close, are likewise unproductive for E.

2. It is wrong to say, with E & M, that the only common denominator is u-, for prob there is ua-* and perh there is uas-, with extnn uasc-, as in L uascus, empty, hence trifling—uasn-*, as in L uānus, for uasnus*—and uast-*, as in L uastus. The difficulty presented by L uacāre is perh explicable by postulating that word to be a worn-down form of uascāre*, from or akin to uascus, empty, from uasc-, extn of uas-, IE r for 'empty'. (E & M, by the way, postulate the scribal var was-* for uascus, uastus, uānus.) Unexpected confirmation occurs in Hit: wakkar-, r wak-, to be lacking. The foll C words—not quite certainly of L origin—appear to support an IE trinity of extnn, either from ua-* or prob from the more precise uas-*.

Cor guāg, gwāg, gwāk, vacant, empty, vain (as n, a vacuum), with gu- (gw-) corresp to w-, a frequent IE alternation, and with -g or -k for -c;

Mīr fāen, weak, Ga faōin, idle, trifling, silly, and Mx feayn, empty;

Oīr fās, fāas, Ga fās, empty, vacant, and Mx faasagh (adj), waste, desert—and Cor guastia, to waste; corresp to the uas- of L.

Other IE cognates will be cited in the foll paras.

Vacancy

3. L uacāre, to be empty, hence unoccupied, has presp uacans, o/s uacant-, ML vacant-, OF-F vacant (from the ML acc vacantem), adopted by E; the L neu pl adj uacantia becomes the ML f sing n vacantia, whence E vacancy. The pp uacātus, ML v-, yields 'to vacate'; derivative L uacātīō, ML vacātīō, acc vacātīōnem, becomes MF vacation, a holiday (but the other F senses come from MF-F vaguer, from ML vacāre)—adopted by E.

4. L uacāre has derivative adj uacuus, ML vacuus, whence E vacuous; the ML neu vacuum, used as n, is adopted by E; the derivative n uacuitās, ML v-, becomes E vacuity—perh imm from MF-F vacuité (from the ML acc uacuitātem); adopted from F is vacuole, derived, as a dim, from F vacuum, and adapted as E vacuolar is the F adj vacolaire.

5. L uacuus has the LL derivative v uacuāre, ML vacuāre, to rid (somebody) of (something), to annul, with pp uacuātus and derivative n uacuātīō, an emptying, whence, via the ML v-, the E 'to vacuate' and vacuation, both obsol. The LL cpd ēuacuāre, ML ēvacuāre, to empty, has presp ēuacuans (o/s -uant-) and pp ēuacuātus, whence ēuacuātīō, an emptying; whence, resp, the E adj, hence n, evacuant—'to evacuate'—evacuation, prob imm from MF-F ēvacuation (ML acc ēvacuātīōnem). The irreg evacuee derives, anl, from 'to evacuate'.

6. L uacuāre has the OL var uocūāre, whence the freq uocitāre, to empty often, used as int, to empty completely, whence the spoken (VL) adj uocitius, ML vocitius*, whence OF-MF vuit, f vuide, with dial var voit, f voide, whence ME void or voide, the former prevailing into E. OF-MF vuit, vuide, has the OF-MF derivative v vuidier, vuidier, with dial var voidier, voider, whence 'to void'; the OF-MF derivatives vuideor, vuissance, dial voideor, voidance, become E voider (partly from the E v) and voidance.

7. OF-MF vuid(i)er, dial void(i)er, has the OF-MF cpd esvuid(i)er (es- being L ex-, out of), dial esvoid(i)er, a vaguely int 'to make empty': whence ME avoiden, whence 'to avoid'.

8. OF-MF vuid(i)er, void(i)er, has another cpd: desvuid(i)er, desvoid(i)er, to empty out (connoted by des- for de, down from), whence the now obs 'to devoid', whence imm the E adj devoid, prompted no doubt by the OF-MF pp desvoid(i)er used as adj.

Vanity

9. L uānus, empty or emptied, hence without substance, hence vain, has IE cognates not hitherto mentioned, e.g. Skt ūnās (Av īna-), defective, incomplete (lacking in something), Gr eunis (ἐβνις), deprived, Arm unain, unayn, empty, Go wans and ON vannr, defective, ME wan- (as in E wanton), ON vanta, to lack.

10. L uānus becomes OF-F vain (OF-MF var vein): ME vaine (vein): E vain. The phrase in vain derives from OF-F en vain (cf It in vano), from ML in vānum, LL in uānum, imitative of Gr eis kenon; LL affords the synn in uāne and in uānō. Vanity comes from OF-F vanité, from ML vanitātem, acc of vānitās, L uānitās, from uānus.

11. L uānus has derivative uānescere, to disappear, with int ēuānescere, whence VL exvanire*, OF-MF esvanir (var esvanuir: EF-F évanouir), whence (from, e.g., the presp esvanissant) 'to vanish' and, by aphesis, ME vanissen, vanisshen (or -ysshēn), 'to vanish'. L ēuānescere (ē-, out of), ML ēvānescere, yields 'to evanesce'; its presp ēuānescens, o/s ēuānescent-, yields the E adj evanescent, whence, anl, evanescence.

12. L uānus has another derivative v: the LL uānitāre*, to be vain (attested by LL uānitantes, vain or foolish people: pl of presp used as n: Souter): whence OF-F vanier, orig to be vain or boastful, whence E 'to vaunt', whence the n vaunt.

13. Closely related to L uānus is L inānis, which was perh, orig, an int of uānus: int in-+uānus*: inuānus*, whence inānis, empty. L inānis yields E inane; its derivative inānitās, E inanity; its LL derivative inānitīō, acc inānitīōnem, MF-F inānitīōn, adopted by E.

14. Akin to ON vannr, Go wans, defective (para 9 above), are OHG wan-, wana-, (in cpds) lacking in, and OE wanian (wonian), to be lacking, to be diminished: the latter becomes ME wanien, E 'to wane', the intimately cognate OE n wana becoming the ME-E n wane; the former occurs in ME wantowen, ME wantoun, ME-E wanton, the ME -tōwen representing OE tōgen, pp of tēōn, to draw or pull, hence to train, bring up, educate, the lit sense being 'deficient in training, hence in discipline'.

15. ON vannr, defective, lacking, has neu vant, whence, partly, the E n want, itself partly from 'to want', which derives from ME wanten, from ON vanta, to lack, intimately akin to and prob derived from ON vant.

Vastness

16. L uastus, ML vastus, ravaged or desolated, hence uncultivated, hence desert, hence very extensive, immense, yields (late MF-F vaste and) E vast; Shakespeare's adj vasty is either vast, adj, with extn -y, or, more prob, vast, n+adj suffix -y. The L derivative nn uastitās, o/s uastitāt-, ML vastitāt-, and uastitūdō, ML vastitūdō, yield E vastity (obsol) and vastitude.

17. L uastus has derivative v uastāre, to render desolate, to lay waste, pp uastātus, ML vastātus, whence both 'to vastate' and L uastātīō, o/s uastātīōn-, ML vastātīōn-, whence E vastation. Much commoner in E is the prefix-cpd devastate, with subsidiaries devastation and devastator: ML dēvastātus, L dēuastātus, pp of dēvastāre (dē- used int), to lay utterly waste—ML dēvastātīōn-, o/s of dēvastātīō, LL dēuastātīō (from the pp)—ML dēvastātor, LL dēuastātor (from the pp). The legal n devastavit derives from the ML form of L dēuastavit, he has laid waste.

18. Akin to L uastus are OHG wuostī, MHG wüeste, G wüst, OFris wost, OS wostī, OE wēste, which, esp the last, have strongly influenced the passage of the E adj waste, ME wast, from ONF wast, itself a var (w- for gu-) of OF-MF guast, var gast, which comes from ML vastus, L uastus. The E n waste, ME waste, var wast, derives from the ONF n waste, wast, var of OF-MF guast, gast, prop the adj used as n; cf the syn OE wēsten, OFris wēstene (var wōstene), OS wōstunna, OHG wuostī, MHG wüeste, G Wiiste. The E v 'to waste' (orig, to lay waste), ME wasten, derives from ONF waster, var of OF-MF guaster, gaster (F gāter, to spoil), itself from ML vastāre, L uastāre, to lay waste. The agent waster comes from AF wastour, from the ONF v waster. Wastrel comes from 'to waste', with suffix -rel perh suggested by scoundrel; the sense 'good-for-nothing person', orig dial, is modern (c1840), the orig sense being 'waste land' (Cornwall: EE); hence 'a rejected imperfect article of manufacture' (late C18). Dates: O.E.D.

vaccenic, vaccinate (whence, anl, vaccination, vaccinator, vaccinatory), vaccine (whence vaccinal); vaquero, whence—f/e influenced by buck, a dashing fellow—the A, hence also Can, buckaroo.

1. The south-western AE vaquero, cowboy, herdsman, is adopted from Sp, which derives it, by agential -ero, from Sp vaca, a cow, from the syn ML vacca, L uacca.

2. L uacca, a cow, is akin to Skt vaśā (vasā), a heifer that has calved for the first time. Uacca has adj uaccīnus, f -īna, neu īnum, whence the E adj vaccine (cf the F vaccin), of, for, from a cow or cows; hence the E n vaccine (cf F vaccin); the Chem adj vaccenic is a mdfn of the adj vaccine. The E n vaccine generates, anl, the v 'to vaccinate'—cf the F vacciner, from the n vaccin.

vacillant, vacillate (whence the pa vacillating and the agent vacillator), vacillation (whence, anl, vacillatory).—variable (whence invariable, unless from MF-F invariable), variability (and invariability), variance, variant (cf the derivative Math invariance, invariant), variate, variation (whence, anl, variative and variator), variety (whence varietal), variorum, various, vary (whence pa varied, pa varying—with negg unvaried, unvarying); variegate, whence variegation; variola (whence, anl, the adj variolar) and variolate (adj, hence v, whence variolation), variole, variolite (whence variolitic); vair and miniver.—varica (whence varical), varicate (whence the Med varication), varicose (whence varicosity), varicosis, varix (Sci pl varices).—varus

(adj and n)—cf vara; divaricate, adj and v (whence, prob after the pre- subsidiaries, divarication and divaricator); prevaricate, prevarication, prevaricator, prevaricatory.

General

1. We are dealing with the E resultants of four L words: uacillāre, to waver (lit and fig), to totter; uarius, (esp of human and animal skin) speckled, spotted, hence diverse; uarix (o/s uaric-), a swollen vein, esp in the leg; and uārus, knock-kneed, (of the legs) crooked, bent apart, hence—prob influenced by uarius—turned crookedly, hence diverse. E & M treat these four words as having each a distinct origin; but that the 2nd, 3rd, 4th are inter-related seems at least possible; the relationship of the 1st to the others presents app the greatest difficulty. Sem, the relationship between 'to waver' and 'crooked' is scarcely abstruse; phon, the relationship between uacillāre and uāricāre (from uāricus, extn of uārus), to stand with legs apart, to cause (one's steps) to straddle, hence, fig, to stray, to wander from one's path, is perh this: uāricāre becomes uālicāre* (l for r), whence, by metathesis, uācilāre*, whence, by expressive gemination, L uācillāre. That uacillāre is recorded earlier than uāricāre is not necessarily preclusive, for uacillāre is prob not earlier than uāricus, certainly not earlier than uārus. Nevertheless, uacillāre could well be an imitative word, independent of the others.

2. L uarius, uarix, uārus have, or app have, in common the r uar-, which connotes, or app connotes, the basic meaning 'deviating, or a deviation, from the normal or usual': uarius, deviating from a clear hue, hence spotted; uarix, a deviation from a normal vein, hence a dilated vein—? elliptical for uēna uarix*; uārus, deviating from the straight, hence crooked. (This idea could also be postulated for uacillāre.) The r uar- is perh worn down from an IE kuar-* (contr kar-), crooked, bent, curved; that is, uārus perh represents kuārus*. If that be so, then these L uar- (uār-) words are perh akin, either to the Skt kakras, a wheel, or to E QUEER.

Particular

3. L uacillāre, to waver (lit, hence fig), has presp uacillans, o/s uacillant-, ML v-, whence the E adj vacillant; pp uacillātus yields both 'to vacillate' and L uacillātiō, o/s uacillātiōn-, whence EF-F and, perh independently, E vacillation.

4. L uarius, ML varius, spotted, speckled, hence diverse, yields E various; the L derivative n uarietas, acc uarietātem, yields OF-F variété, whence E variety. The L derivative v uariāre has the foll parts and subsidiaries affecting E:

LL uariābills, MF-F variable, adopted by E; MF-F variabilité becomes E variability, and EF-F invariabilité becomes invariability; presp uarians, o/s uariant-, and derivative uariantia, OF-MF variant, variance, whence—unless direct from the ML forms—the E words:

uariāre itself becomes EF-F varier, whence ML varien, whence 'to vary'; pp uariātus, whence 'to variate'; derivative uariātiō, acc uariātiōnem, MF-F variation, adopted by E; uariēgāre (uari-, c/f of uarius+egāre, c/f of agere, to drive, hence to make or do), to make diverse—in short, a syn of uariāre—has pp uariēgātus, whence 'to variegate';

LL uariola, a pustule, ML variola, smallpox, is in form, a dim of uarius—perh the f of an ad uariolus*; adopted, along with MF-F variole, by Sci; derivative LL uariolātus, having pustules yields the Med adj variolate; the adj variolous derives from ML variolōsus from ML variola; uariorum, m and neu pl of uarius, whence, via the scholiasts' phrase cum notis uariorum, with notes of (i.e., by) various persons, the European n and adj variorum.

5. L uarius, various, variegated, ML varius becomes OF-MF voir, used also as OF-F for a grey, or greyish, squirrel-fur, hence a term in H. adopted by E. Derivative MF menu vair (menu little, from L minūtus, lit 'diminished'), such fur as part of a costume, becomes E miniver.

6. L uarix (gen uaricis) and its LL derivative syn uarica, a dilated vein, are both adopted by Med E. The L adj uaricōsus (uaric-, o/s of uarix+ad suffix -ōsus) yields E varicose (cf the EF-F variqueux). The Med adj varicate, var varicated, and the Med n varicosis, merely tack adj -ate and n ('dis-ease') -osis to varic-, o/s of ML uarix, L uarix.

7. L uārus, knock-kneed, hence (of legs) crooked passes into Med E as both adj and, derivatively, n. L uārus has f uāra, used as n 'a forked stick supporting a net', whence Sp and Port vara, a staff, a stick, a wand, hence a measure of length, hence (square vara) of area.

8. L uārus has extn uāricus, whence LL uāricāre to straddle, (later) to stray or wander, with two cpds relevant to E:

diuāricāre (di- for dis-, apart), to stretch apart; pp diuāricātus, ML divāricātus, whence 'to divaricate', with derivatives formed after those of—praeuāricāri, to pass in front (prae-), or over, by straddling, to walk crookedly, hence, in the law-courts, (of an advocate) to enter into collusion with the adversary, hence, in LL, to transgress, pp praeuāricātus, whence 'to prevaricate', with senses gradually weakening; derivatives praeuāricātiō (o/s -cātiōn-), praeuāricātor, LL praeuāricātorius, yield OF-F prévarication, E prevarication—MF-F prévaricateur, E prevaricator—E prevaricatory.

vacuate, vacuation. See VACANT, para 5.

vacuity, vacuole, vacuous, vacuum. See VACANT, para 4.

vade and vade-mecum; vadose; 'vamoose' and 'mosey'.—Prefix-cpds of L uādere, pp uāsus: e evade, evasion, evasive; invade (whence invader), invasion, invasive; pervade, pervasion (whence, anl, pervasive).—Gmc cognates: wade, whence agent-instr wader(s) and pa, vn wading; waddle, v, hence n.

1. L uādere (ML vādere), to go, to advance, yields 'to vade' or go away; the imp uade, ML vade, occurs in vade-mecum, L uade-mecum, Go with (cum) me!, a handbook. Akin to L uādere is L uādum, a ford, i.e. a place where one can advance across a river, a shallow, with adj uādōsus, ML vādōsus, whence the Geol vadose. The IE r is app wad-*, to go (forward), hence to ford a river, with Gmc cognates (cf paras 7 and 8 below).

2. L uādere has three prefix-cpds that affect E: ēuādere, to go ē- or out of, to escape; inuādere, to go in- or into, to attack (esp a country); peruādere, to go per- or throughout, to penetrate.

3. L ēuādere, ML ēvādere, becomes MF-F évader, whence 'to evade'; derivative from the pp ēuāsus is LL ēuāsīō, ML ēvāsīō, acc ēvāsīōnem, whence MF-F évasion, whence F évasif, f évasive: whence E evasion and evasive.

4. L inuādere, ML invādere, yields 'to invade'; LL inuāsīō (from the L pp inuāsus), ML invāsīō, acc invāsīōnem, yields OF-F invasion, whence F invasif, f invasive: whence E invasion, invasive.

5. L peruādere, ML pervādere, and its pp-derivative the LL peruāsīō, ML pervāsīō, o/s pervāsīōn-, yield 'to pervade' and pervasion.

6. L uādere, ML vādere, in addition to supplying je vais, tu vas, il va, supplies Sp vamos, let us go, whence the south-western, then general, A sl, then coll, vamoose, occ vamose, to decamp, whence, by shortening, the sl 'to mosey'.

Germanic Cognates

7. Akin to L uādere and uādum, with its LL derivative uādāre, to ford (a river), is OE wadan, to go, to advance, esp across a river—ME waden—E 'to wade': cf OFris wada, OHG watan, MHG-G waten, MD-D waden, ON vatha (with modern Scan cognates); cf OHG wat, a ford.

8. 'To wade' has freq 'to waddle' (wade+ euphonic or here a merely formative d+freq -le): cf MHG wadelen and the syn echoic G development watscheln. (Walshe.)

vae victis. See WOE, para 1.

vagabond (adj, hence n), vagabondage; vagary, whence vagarious (whence, anl, vagarity); vagrant (adj and n), whence vagrancy; vague (whence vagueness), vagus (nerve).—Cpds: divagate, divagation; vagation; extravagance, extravagant, extravaganza, extravagate—cf stravage; pervagate, pervagation.

1. L uagus, ML vagus, wandering, errant, going as whim or chance suggests, is o.o.o.: perh of the nasalized Skt vāṅgatī, he limps, and OHG wanchan, MHG-G wanken, to waver, and, without n, the syn ON vakka—therefore cf WINK.

2. L uagus, ML vagus—cf its dim uagulus, ML v-, whence E vagulous—becomes OF-F vague, wandering, vagabond, EF-F indeterminate, imprecise: whence E vague (L sense obs). ML vagus survives in MedE for 'the vagus nerve' (cranial).

3. L uagus has the foll simple derivatives affecting E:

uagābundus (adj), wandering about, from uagāri, to stroll or wander about (from uagus)+ adj suffix -bundus: whence MF-F vagabond, adopted by E, as is the F derivative vagabondage; uagāri, ML v-, becomes It vagare, whence the EE-Ē n (and EE v) vagary;

L vagāri has presp vagans, whence MF-F vagant, which has influenced the passage, into E, of EF-MF wacrant (waucrant), presp of OF-MF wacrer (waucrer), var of walcrer, of Gmc origin (cf WALK); OF-MF wacrant app becomes E vagrant.

4. L uagāri, ML vagāri, has the foll prefix-cpds relevant to E:

diuagāri (di- for dis-, apart), to wander about, to stray from the right path, pp diuagātus, ML divagātus, whence 'to divagate'; derivative LL diuagātiō, ML divagātiō, acc divagātiōnem, yields EF-F divagation, adopted by E; ēuagāri, to wander ē-, out, forth, has pp ēuagātus, whence LL ēuagātiō, a digression, acc ēuagātiōnem, ML -v-, whence EF-F évagation, whence E évagation;

ML extravagāri, to wander outside (extra-) the bounds, presp extravagans, o/s extravagant-, whence MF-F, hence E, extravagant; derivative EF-F extravagance is likewise adopted; extravaganza comes from It; the It var stravaganza affords a clue to the origin of the Sc, and Northern E dial, 'to stravage', imm, by apheresis, from EF-F extravaguer; peruagāri, to wander per-, all through, to wander extensively, pp peruagātus, ML pervagātus, whence 'to pervagate'; derivative LL peruagātiō, o/s peruagātiōn-, ML pervagātiōn-, yields pervagation.

vagary. See prec, para 3.

vagina. See VANILLA.

vagrancy, vagrant. See VAGABOND, para 3.

vague, whence vagueness. See VAGABOND, para 2.

vagulous, vagus. See VAGABOND, para 2.

vail, to lower or doff. See VALE, valley, para 2.—

vail, aphetic for avail. See VALUE, para 12.

vain; in vain. See VACANT, para 10.

vair. See VACILLANT, para 5.

valance; valenciennes. See VALUE, para 4.

valbellite. See para 1, s.f., of:

vale, valley; Transvaal and valbellite; avale—cf vail, to doff, and avalanche; vaudeville.

1. Vale derives from OF-F val: ML vallis, vallēs, L uallis, -ēs, r ual-: perh akin to L uoluere (s uolu-, r uol-), to roll. OF-F val has OF-F derivative vallée, ME valeie, later vale (dyssyllabic): E valley. Whereas Transvaal=L trans, across+D vaal, a valley, valbellite=It Val Bello ('beautiful valley')+Min -ite, Val Bello being in Piedmont, Italy.

2. OF-F val has the derivative a val, (down) to (the) valley, hence downwards, whence OF-F avaler, to lower, whence the obsol 'to avale', whence, by apheresis, 'to vail' or to lower, to doff.

3. Prob influenced by OF-F aval, downwards, is EF-F avalanche, adopted by E: Swiss avalantse, earlier lavantse: OProv lavanca, ? from VL: LL labina, from labi, to slide.

4. F Vau (for val) de Vire, a district in Calvados, France, becomes MF vaudevire, a topical song of the region, whence EF-F vaudeville (after ville, city), with developing senses: adopted by E.

valediction, valedictory. See VALUE, para 21.

valence, valency, valent, valentine. See VALUE, para 3.

valerian, whence, anl, valeric. See VALUE, para 5.

valelet. See STAND, para 39.

valeitudinarian. See VALUE, para 6.

Valhalla. See VALKYRIE.

valiance, valiancy, valliant. See VALUE, para 7.

valid, validate, validation, validity. See VALUE, para 8.

valise: EF-F valise: It valigia: prob ML valisia: perh Ar walitha: o.o.o. (B & W.)

Valkyrie—Valhalla: ON valhöll, hall (höll, a kingly hall: cf E hall) of the slain—ON valkyrja, Valkyria, chooser (from kjösa, to choose: cf choose) of the slain: ON val-, c/f of valr, the slain, akin to OE wael, OHG-MHG wal, battlefield, defeat, and OE wól, a plague, OHG wuol, slaughter, defeat. (Walshe.)

valley. See VALE, para 1.

valor (AE) of valour; valorize; valorous. See VALUE, para 9.

valse. See VOLUBLE, para 9.

valuable; valuate, valuation. See heading (valuable) and para 10 of:

value, n (whence valueless), and v, whence valuable (adj, hence n) and valuer; valance and valenciennes; valence, valency, valent, valentine; valerian, valeric; valeitudinarian; valiance, valiancy, valliant; valid, validate, validation, validity; valor (AE), valour, valorous, valorization, valorize; Gmc cognates: wield, v (whence wielder) and obs n (whence wieldy, whence unwieldy); sep HERALD.—Full cpds and prefix cpds in val-, -val, and -valesc-, and -vail: ambivalence, ambivalent; avail; convalesce, convalescence, convalescent; countervail; devaluate, devaluation, devalue; equivalence, equivalent (adj, hence n); evaluate, evaluation; invalid (adj, n), invalidate, invalidation, invalidism; invaluable; prevail (whence the pa prevailing), prevalence, prevalent; revalence, revalence; revalidate, whence revalidation; revalorize, whence revalorization;—Vale!; valediction, valedictory.

Indo-European

1. L ualère, to be strong, hence well, has s and r ual-, from an IE r wal-, varr wel- and wol-*: cf OHG waltan, MHG-G walten (s walt-: t for d), OFris walda, OS and Go waldan, ON valda, to govern, (vi) to have power—Tokh A wäl, Tokh B walo, a (great) chief, a prince—OP waldnikans (acc pl), kings—several other OSI and SI forms, perh from OGmc—OIr flaith, dominion (exercised power), sovereignty, a chief, a prince, Ga flath, chief, prince, Cor gallos or -us, power, and gulād, region, country (cf the syn W gwłād), OC etymon (power, he who exercises it) vlatos*, r vlat-.

Germanic

2. Akin to OFris walda, OS and Go waldan, OHG waltan, as above, is the syn OE wealdan, caus wieldan, whence ME welden, have power over, E 'to wield'; akin to the OE v is the OE n weald, gewæld, gewield, whence the long obs E n wield.

Latin—and French—Simples

3. L ualère, ML valère, r ual-, val-, have presp ualens, valens, o/s ualent-, valent-, whence the É adj valent, now only in Chem and in cpds; derivative LL ualentia, ML v-, power, competence, yields Chem and Phys valence (perh imm from F) and valency.

4. From L ualens, o/s ualent-, derives the PN Ualentia, ML Valentia, MF-F Valence, whence—because this drapery was first made there—the E valance. The derivative L PN Ualentius (imm from Ualens), ML V-, has dim Ualentiniānus, whence, from a late C7 Merovingian treasurer bearing a Gmc name thus latinized, the ML Valentiniana urbs (city) whence OF-F Valenciennes, whence F, hence E, valenciennes, lace made there. The PN Ualens, ML Valens, has another relevant derivative: Ualentinus, ML V-, whence F Valentin and E Valentine. From the F 'St Valentin' comes EF-F valentin, var valentine, the latter form being adopted by E: on St Valentine's Day (February 14) girls chose a sweetheart (valentin); hence a missive (valentine) sent to one; the custom travelled to England.

5. App from L ualère, ML v-, comes ML valeriāna, elliptical for herba valeriāna, prob because some medieval physician Valerius discovered the Med virtues of the herb. Hence the Chem adj valerianic, now usu contr to valeric.

6. L ualère, s ual-, has derivative ualētūdō, good health, then good or ill health, finally bad health, with o/s ualētūdin-, whence the adj ualētūdinārius (also used as n), whence the MF-F valētudinnaire, whence E valeitudinarian, largely displaced by valeitudinarian (-ian substituted for -y).

7. L ualère, ML valère, becomes OF-F valoir, with presp valant, varr vaillant, vaillant, used also as adj: whence ME-E valiant. Derivative OF-MF valiance (varr vailance, vaillance) was adopted by ME, with the var valiancy naturally and anl resulting.

8. L ualère has derivative adj ualidus, ML validus, whence EF-F valide, whence E valid; derivative LL ualiditās, ML v-, acc ualiditātem, yields EF-F validité, whence E validity; and derivative LL ualidāre, to strengthen, has pp ualidātus, whence both 'to validate' and ML ualidatiō, acc ualidatiōnem, whence EF-F validation, adopted by E.

9. L ualère has derivative n ualor, whence OF valor, -ur, -our, the last being adopted by ME and retained by E; AE has reshaped the E word. Derivative ML valorōsus becomes OF-F valeureux, f valeureuse, whence E valorous. The erudite F valorisation becomes E valorization, whence, by b/f, 'to valorize'.

10. OF-F valoir has pp valu, f value, whence, prob elliptical for chose (thing) value, the OF-F n value, whence ME valu, valeu, ME-E value, whence 'to value'—prob assisted by OF-F valuer, much as valuable has prob been assisted by MF-F valuabile. OF-F valuer has the MF-EF derivative valuation, whence prob the E word: cf evaluation in para 17.

Latin—and French—Compounds

11. Prob suggested by equivalent (see para 16) is ambivalent (ambi-, c/f of L ambō, both), whence, anl, ambivalence.

12. 'To avail,' whence the n, derives from ME availen: prob via AF, from OF-MF a (F à, L ad), to + valoir. Hence available.

13. 'To convalesce' derives from L convalescere, to begin to grow strong (after illness): con- used int + ualescere, inch of ualēre; the L presp convalescens, o/s convalescent-, becomes MF-F convalescent, adopted by E; derivative LL convalescentia becomes MF-F convalescence, likewise adopted.

14. 'To countervail' derives from MF-EF contrevailoir: OF-F contre, L contra, against + valoir.

15. 'To devalue,' whence devaluation, and 'to devalue', are formed anl with the E words in para 17.

16. Equivalence and equivalent come from MF-F équivalence and équivalent, themselves from ML aequivalentia and aequivalentem, acc of aequivalens, presp of aequivalēre, to have equal power, hence value: aequi-, c/f of aequus, equal + valēre, L ualēre.

17. 'To evaluate' derives, by b/f, from evaluation, from MF-F évaluation, formed anl from MF-F évaluer, from OF-F valuer.

18. L validus has neg invalidus, ML invalidus, whence the EF-F invalide and the E invalid (adj); the differentiated E n invalid—whence invalidism—owes its pron to the F adj (hence n). The late MF-F v invalider, to render not-valid, has derivative EF-F invalidation, adopted by E, which therefrom, by b/f, derives 'to invalidate'. Invaluable = in-, not + valuable.

19. 'To prevail' derives from late MF-F prévaloir, from ML praevalēre (L ualēre), to gain power, esp superior power: prae-, in front. The presp praevalens, o/s praevalent-, ML -valent-, yields the E adj prevalent; the LL derivative praevalentia, superior power, yields E prevalence, which perh owes something to EF prévalence.

20. Revalence derives from revalescens, from ML revalescens-, o/s of revalescens, presp of revalescere, L reualescere, to begin to grow strong again. Revalidate and revalorize merely prefix re-, again, anew, to validate and valorize (see para 9).

21. From L Ualē, ML Valē, Be strong, Be well, used in saying goodbye, comes L ualedicere, to say goodbye; from the pp ualedictus, comes, after E diction, the E valediction, whence, anl, valedictory.

valval, valvate, valve, valvular. The 1st derives from the 3rd; the 3rd is adopted from EF-F, which derives it from modern L valva, itself from L ualua, the leaf of a folding door, akin to L uolvere, ML volvere, to roll. L ualua has dim ualuula, ML valvula, whence E valvular, and v ualuāre, pp ualuātus, whence the E adj valvate: f.a.e., VOLUBLE.

vambrace. See the 1st VAN, para 4.

vamoose. See SHADE, para 6.

vamp (1), of shoe. See the 1st VAN, para 4.

vamp (2). See:

vampire (whence vampiric and vampirism). Vampire, a blood-sucking ghost or reanimated person, hence a blackmailer, a femme fatale (whence the sl vamp, n, hence v), derives from F vampire: G Vampir: Serbian vampir, nasalized mdfn of a Sl word occurring elsewhere as, e.g., Bulg vapir (var pepir), Pol, Cz, Ukrainian upior (upyr), uper; cf also, but with b for p, the dial Tu uber, a witch.

van (1), the front of, e.g., an army, the vanguard; vantage and advantage (v, hence n), advantageous; vamp (of a shoe) and vambrace; advance (n, v), advancement; En avant! and avant-garde.

1. This van is short for vanguard, an easing of vanguard, aphetic for avant-guard: OF-F avant-garde: avant (LL abante: L ab + ante), before + garde (cf GUARD). F en avant, to(wards) the front is known in E.

2. OF-F avant has derivative (-age) OF-F avantage, adopted by ME, whence—cf next para—both E advantage and, by apheresis, vantage; derivative MF-F avantager and late MF-F avantageux (f -geuse) yield 'to advantage' and advantageous.

3. LL abante, from in front of, has derivative VL abantiare*, to put in front, whence OF-F avancer (whence the MF-F n avance, perh prompting the E n), whence ME avancen, whence—with intrusive -d-, as if from L ad, towards—'to advance'; derivative OF-F avancement becomes E advancement.

4. OF-F avant has derivative cpds MF avantpié (F avant-pied), lit 'fore-foot', and MF avanbras (F avant-bras), lit 'fore-arm': whence ME vampe, E vamp, orig a sock, and E vambrace.

van (2), a vehicle. See CARAVAN, s.f.

van (3), a winnowing fan. See the 1st WIND, para 8.

vanadic derives, anl, from the Chem element vanadium, SciL (suffix -ium) alteration of ON Vanadis, the goddess Freya: ? 'The Guardian (Goddess)'.

Vandal, vandal, vandalism. The 3rd derives from F vandalisme, from Voltaire's vandale, whence E vandal: from OF-F Vandale, one of the Vandals, a Gmc tribe that, at the beginning of C5 A.D., ravaged Gaul and Spain (B & W): ML Vandali, L Uandali, L var Uandili, of Gmc origin (o.o.o.).

vandyke. See DIG, s.f.

vane; paravane. The latter combines para-, against + vane, a weathercock: ME vane, a dial var (v for f) of ME fane, weathercock, lit a banner: OE fana, a banner: cf OFris and Go fana, OHG fano, ON fani: cf, with p for f. the L pannus, a rag, a cloth: cf PAN.

vanguard. See the 1st VAN, para 1.

vanilla is a SciL reshaping of Sp vainilla, a little sheath, dim of vaina, a sheath, a pod: ML vāgina, L uāgina, a sheath, whence the Med sense: o.o.o.

vanish. See VACANT, para 11.

vanity. See VACANT, para 10.

vanquish. See VICTOR, para 1.

vantage. See the 1st VAN, para 2.

vapid (whence vapidity): ML vapidus, L uapidus: from L uappa, wine that has lost its 'life' and savour: o.o.o., but perh akin to L uapor (see next).

2. Perh related to L uapidus, insipid, is L fatuus, foolish, whence E fatuous, with derivative L fatuitās, acc fatuitātem, yielding, via MF-F fatuité, the E fatuity. The otherwise o.o.o. L fatuus could result from L uapidus becoming VL fapidus*, then fatidus*, then, by contr, fatidus*, then, by easing, fatuus.

3. L fatuus, foolish, has the LL derivative infatuāre, pp infatuātus, whence infatuātūō, o/s infatuātōn-, whence resp 'to infatuate' and, perh via EF-F, infatuation.

vapor (AE) or vapour; vaporization, vaporize; vaporose, vaporous; evaporate, evaporation (whence anl, evaporator).

1. Vapor is a L-reshaping of ME-E vapour, adopted from MF vapor, varr vapor, vapeur (extant): ML vapor: L uapor: OL uapos (o/s uapor-): prob akin to Gr kapnos, smoke, vapour, kapuein, to exhale, and to OSI kypēti, to boil, and Lith kvāpas, smoke, vapour, kvēpia, a vapour that is spreading, kvepėti, emit an odour. Hofmann derives Gr kapnos from PGr kwapnos*, with IE r kwap-, var of kwap-, (vi) to scatter, to stray.

2. Derivative L uaporōsus, ML v-, becomes MF-F vapoureux, f -euse, and, perh independently, E vaporous; E vaporose comes straight from ML.

3. From MF-F vapeur, but after the ML vapor, F derives vaporiser, whence vaporisation: hence E 'to vaporize' and vaporization.

4. L uapor has derivative v uaporāre, with prefix-cpd ēuaporāre, ML ēvaporāre, pp ēvaporātus, whence 'to evaporate'; derivative L ēuaporātō and LL ēuaporātīus, ML forms in ēvap-, yield MF-F ēvaporation, whence E evaporation, and E evaporative.

vaquero. See VACCENIC, para 1.

vara. See VACILLATE, para 7.

varec or varech. See WREAK, para 4.

variability, variable; variance, variant; variate, variation. See VACILLANT, para 4.

varicose, varicosis. See VACILLANT, para 6.

variegate, variegation. See VACILLANT, para 4.

variety. See VACILLANT, para 4.

variola, variolate, varirole, variolous. See VACILLANT, para 4.

variorum. See VACILLANT, para 4.

various. See VACILLANT, para 4.

varix. See VACILLANT, para 6.

varlet. See STAND, para 39.

varnish. 'To varnish,' ME varneschen, earlier vernysshen, derives from OF-F vernisser (cf the slightly later vernir) from OF verniz, OF-F verniz, whence, via ME vernisch, the E n varnish: (prob via It vernice), from ML veronix, veronice, an odoriferous resin: LGr verenikē, prob from Gr Berenikē (a city in Cyrenaica, North Africa), whence perh the first varnishes were exported to Greece and Italy; some kind of resin served as the earliest varnish. (Dauzat; Prati.)

Varuna. See URANIA, para 2.

varus. See VACILLANT, para 7.

vary. See VACILLANT, para 4, s.f.

vascular. See para 2 of:

vase; vasculum, vascular, vasculose, vasculous; cf the element vasi- (vaso-); extravasate, extravasation; vessel.

1. 'To extravasate,' whence extravasation, is formed anl from SciF extravaser, itself formed anl after OF-F transvaser (L trans, across + ML vas + inf -er) with base resting on ML vās, L uās.

2. L uās, a recipient, more tall than wide, for liquids, has var uāsum: o.o.o. L uās, ML vās, becomes EF-F vase, adopted by E. The L dim uāsculum, adopted by learned E, has suggested the F adj vasculaire and vasculeux, f -euse: whence E vascular and vasculous, the var vasculose implying VL uāsculōsus*, ML v-*.

3. L uās has another dim: uāscellum, with pl uāscella, apprehended by VL as f sing: VL uāscella, ML vāscella, yields OF-MF vessele, vesselle (F vaiselle), with var vessel adopted by ME; the sense 'ship' derives from the fact that an empty vase made of light material will float,—a sense that arose in F as early as C12.

vaseline: proprietary name Vaseline, formed irresponsibly (as so many trade-names are formed): G Wasser (pron v-) + Gr elaion, olive-oil + Chem suffix -ine.

vassal, vassalage. See STAND, para 39.

vast, vastitude, vastitity, vastness, vasty. See VACANT, para 16 and, for vastness, the heading.

vat, a large tub or cistern, is a south-western dial var (v for f) of ME-(obsol)E fat: OE faet: cf OS fat, OHG faz, MHG vaz, G Fass, D vat, ON fat, themselves akin to OE fatian, OFris fatia, OHG fazzōn, MHG vazzen, G fassen, to contain: vat therefore, is simply 'container'. (Walshe.)

vatic. See the element vati- and, f.a.e., WEDNESDAY, para 3.

Vatican: F Vaticano: It Vaticano: ML Vaticānus: L Uaticānus, elliptical for Uaticānus mons (or perh collis), the Vatican hill. From the Pope's palace having long been situated here, comes the sense 'the (seat of) papal government and power'. L Uaticānus is o.o.o.—but perh orig from a temple or shrine affected to the use of uātēs or soothsayers and prophets (cf the element vati-).

vaticinate. See the element vati-.

vaudeville. See VALE, para 4.

vault (1), arched roof. See VOLUBLE, para 3.

vault (2), to leap, hence a leap. See VOLUBLE, para 3.

vaunt. See VACANT, para 12.

vavisor (-our). See STAND, para 39.

veal. See WETHER, para 3.

vection. See VIA, para 10.

vectis. See VEX, para 2.

vector. See WAY, para 10.

Veda, Vedanta. See VIDE, para 5.

vedette. See VIGOR, para 5, s.f.

veer and (of ships) wear; environ, v (whence environment, whence environmental), and environs, n.

1. 'To wear' or cause (a ship) to go about, is a f/e corruption of 'to veer' (vt, vi): OF-F virer: VL virāre, uirāre: app an alteration—perh after LL gyrāre, to turn (anything) around—of L uibrāre, to shake, brandish. (B & W.)

2. OF-F virer has the OF-EF derivative viron, a circle, a round, the country around, whence OF-F environ (en, in), around (prep; then, in C16, adv), whence MF-EF à l'environ, in the neighbourhood or vicinity, whence, in C17, the pl n environs, adopted by E. Also from the OF prep environ comes the OF-F v environner, whence 'to environ'; the late MF-EF environnement prob suggested the rare EE environment, but the C19–20 use of the word app derives rather from 'to environ'.

vegetable; vegetal; vegetarian; vegetate, vegetation; vegete. See VIGOR, para 2.

vehemence, vehement. See VIA, para 11.

vehicle, vehicular. See VIA, para 11.

veil, n and v, with neg unveil—hence pa, vn (un)veiling; velar (adj, hence, in Phon, n)—velarium—velation—velum; reveal, revelation (Revelation), revelatory.—voile—wick (of lamp).

1. 'To veil' comes from ME veilen, from the ME n veile, whence the E n veil: and ME veile is adopted from ONF veile, which, like OF-F voile, derives from ML-VL vēla, f sing, from L uēla, pl of uēlum, a sail, but also (a piece of) drapery, an awning: IE etymon, wegslom*, from weg-*, to weave. (E & M.)

2. L uēlum has adj uēlāris, of a sail or drapery, ML v-, whence E velar, and v uēlāre, to cover with a drapery or an awning, pp uēlātus, ML v-, whence both the E adj velate and the LL n uēlātio, ML v-, o/s vēlātiōn-, whence E velation, a veiling. L uēlum has extn uēlārium, ML v-, a covering drapery, adopted by Sci.

3. L uēlāre has prefix-cpd reuēlāre, to pull back the curtain, or covering, from, hence to disclose: whence OF-MF reveler (EF-F ré-), whence 'to reveal'. Derivative LL reuēlātiō (from the pp reuēlātus), an uncovering, hence of a secret, acc reuēlātiōnem, ML revē-, becomes OF-MF revelation (EF-F ré-), adopted by E. The misuse Revelations is a f/e pl of (The) Revelation (of St John): LL Reuēlātiō: cf sem the Gr-derived syn Apocalypse. Also from L reuēlār-, the s of the pp, comes the LL adj reuēlātiōrius, (of dreams) revealing, whence the E revelatory.

4. VL uēla, vēla, drapery, OF-F voile, orig a sail, drapery, acquires, in F, the sense 'a thin dress-material'—and, in that sense, has been adopted by E.

5. Akin to L uēlum are OHG wichili, a thing rolled, or wound up, and wiocha, G Wieche, dial G wicke, wick, MD wicke, wieche, wieke, D wiek, lamp-wick, roll of lint: and akin to these is OE wēoce, wēoc, a wick, ME weke, later wike, finally wicke, whence E wick.

vein, n, hence v; venation; venous (whence Med intravenous—L intra, within); venule.

Vein, ME-from-OF-F veine, derives from ML vēna, L uēna, any conduit, esp a vein or, usu in pl, a 'vein' in marble, wood, etc.: o.o.o.: perh akin to VIA. Derivatives uēnōsus and dim uēnula yield E venous (var venose) and venule; venation is a learned formation: ML vēna+-ation, anl with all such nn formed as if from a pp.

velar, velate, velation. See VEIL, para 2.

veld, veldt; veldschoen. See FIELD, para 3.

velleity. See VOLITION, para 5.

vellicate, vellication (whence, anl, vellicative);—lanugo; svelte.—avulse, avulsion; convulsant (adj, hence n), convulse, convulsion, convulsory, convulsive; divulse, divulsion (whence, anl, divulsive); evulse, evulsion; revulsant, (obsol) revulse, revulsion, revulsive.

1. Vellication derives from ML vellicātiōn-, o/s of vellicātiō, L uel-, from uellicātus—whence 'to vellicate', to (cause to) twitch—the pp of uellicāre, a freq of uellere, to tug violently, to pluck (e.g., hairs): r uel-: perh from an IE r wel-*: cf Arm gelmn, a fleece (plucked by hand before shears were invented), which answers to the syn L uellus: perh cf also L lāna, wool, whence lānūgō, thick down, whence SciE lanugo; there are also prob cognates in Gr and Go—if that be so, cf WOOL. Certainly cf VELVET.

2. Prob related is svelte, adopted from EF-F, which thus adapts It svelto, adj use of the pp of svellere, to pluck out, hence to lengthen, to set free: app from L ēuellere, ML ēvellere, to pluck out. (Prati.) Cf para 6 below.

3. L uellere has certain prefix-cpds relevant to E; they are all formed with the pp uulsus, ML uulsus, s uuls-.

4. L auellere, to pluck or tear a- or away from, off, has pp auulsus, ML avulsus, whence 'to avulse'; derivative auulsiō, o/s auulsiōn-, ML avulsiōn-, yields avulsion.

5. L conuellere (con-used int), to pluck violently, to shake, has pp conuulsus, ML convulsus, whence both 'to convulse' and EF-F convulser, presp convulsant, adopted by E as an adj; derivative conuulsiō, acc conuulsiōnem (ML -vul-), becomes EF-F convulsion, adopted by E; EF-F convulsion has derivatives EF-F convulsif and F convulsionnaire (adj and n), whence E convulsive and convulsory.

6. L duellere, to pluck apart, and ēuellere, to pluck out, pp di- and ē-uulsus, derivatives di- and ē-uulsiō, ML o/s in -uulsiōn-, yield divulse, evulse, and divulsion, evulsion.

7. L reuellere, to pluck or pull back or away, has pp reuulsus, whence reuulsiō, acc reuulsiōnem: whence 'to revulse' and EF-F révulsion, with anl adj révulsif: whence E revulsion and revulsive, both with Med and general senses.

vellum. See WETHER, para 3.

velocity (cf the element veloci-, e.g. for velocipede): MF-F vélocité: ML velocitātem, acc of velocitās, L uēlocitās, from uēlox, rapid, agile: perh of L uēles, a lightly armed foot-soldier: o.o.o.: perh akin to the r of vegetable, q.v. at VIGOR.

velours. See VELVET, para 2.

velum, as used by Sci: cf VEIL, para 1.

velure. See VELVET, para 2.

velutinous. See para 2, s.f., of:

velvet, whence velvety (cf the F velouté) and velveteen (-een vaguely dim: cf sateen and satín); velours and velure; velutinous.—villose, villosity, villous—and villus.—Cf the sep WOOL.

1. Perhakin to L uellus, a fleece—see VELLICATE, para 1—is L uillus, a tuft of hair, pl uilli, hairs, down: otherwise, uillus is o.o.o. The ML form uillus has been adopted by An and Zoo; the adj uillōsus, ML v-, covered with soft hairs or down, yields villose and villous (cf the F villex), whence, anl, villosity (cf F villosité).

2. ML villōsus becomes OProv velos, adj used as n, whence OF-EF velous, whence EF-F velours, which E both adopts and, as velure, adapts. OF-EF velous acquires a late MF-F adj velouté, velvety, whence that 'smooth' sauce known as velouté; the corresp OProv adj velut has app influenced It velluto, velvet, whence, ult, the E adj velutinous.

3. L uillus has the LL-VL adj uillūtus, whence OF-F velu, whence the AF n veluet (dim -et), whence, -u- being misapprehended as -v-, the ME-E velvet.

venal, venality; vend, vendible, vendition, vendor.

1. Venal, capable of being sold or bought, and venality, willingness to be sold or bought, derive from OF-F vénal and EF-F vénalité: ML vēnālis and vēnālītātem, acc of vēnālītās: L uēnālis and its derivative LL uēnalitās: L uēnus* or uēnum*, attested by the acc uēnum, a sale: cf Skt vasnām, a price, and Gr ōnē (for wōnē*), a purchase, the price of purchase: IE r, wes-, varr was- (as in Hit was-, to buy) and wos-* (as in Gr).

2. From the L uēnum dare, to put up for sale, comes uēnundare, whence uendere, to sell, whence, via OF-F vendre, 'to vend'. The L derivatives uendibilis, uenditiō (o/s uenditiōn-), uenditor, yield E vendible, vendition, vendor (adopted from AF: var of OF-MF vendeor, EF-F vendeur, from vendre).

venatic. See VENERABLE, para 5.

venation. See VEIN.

vend. See VENAL, para 2.

vendetta. See DICT, para 22.

vendible, vendition, vendor. See VENAL, para 2.

vener, n and v, comes from G furnier and furnieren, varr in four-: OF-F fournir, to furnish—cf FURNISH.

veneriferous, venenific. See para 6 of:

venerable (venerability), venerate, veneration, venerative; venereal, venery (both senses), Venus; venial (whence veniality); venison—cf venatic; venom, venomous—veneniferous, venenific.—Gmc cognates: win (v, hence n), whence winner, winning, pa and vn (often in pl), pa, pt, won—winsome; ween, whence pa, vn, weening, esp in over-weening; wont (adj, n, v), whence pa wonted (neg unwonted)—cf wean; wish, v (hence n, whence wishful), pa, vn wishing—cf wistful.

1. Venerable comes from OF-F vénétable (orig accentless): ML venerābilis, L uenerābilis, from uenerāri (early, also -āre), to address (to a god) request or supplication for a favour or a forgiveness, hence to pay the utmost respect to; derivative LL uenerabilitās yields venerability. From the pp uenerātus and its derivatives L uenerātiō, LL uenerātiuus, L uenerātor, come, via the ML forms in v-, 'to venerate'—ueneration, prob imm from OF-MF ueneration (EF-F véne-)—venerative—generator.

2. L uenerāre, -āri, perh basically 'to express a (strong) wish or desire to', has s uener-, an extn of the uen- we see in L uenia and L Uenus (ML Venus): this uen-, app meaning 'to desire, to love', occurs, with varr wan-, win-, won-, wun-, in such words as Skt vānchati, he desires, Ve vānas-, loving, esp in cpds, e.g., gīr-vānas, hymn-loving (adj)—OHG wunskan, G wünschen, to desire, to wish, OHG wunna, great joy—E wish and win. Perh cf also Hit wen-, to desire (a woman) violently, 'sleep' with her, violate her—the precise meanings are obscure.

Latin Cognates

3. L Uenus, ML Venus, orig a goddess of beauty, later identified with Gr Aphrodite, goddess of physical love (opp Psyche, goddess of spiritual love), becomes in the European languages the goddess of both physical beauty and physical love—cf the G Venusberg (Venus's Mountain). Uenus is a personification of uenus, at once physical love, the act of love, the person loved, and such qualities as arouse love, esp charm, grace, seductiveness. The adj of uenus is uenustus, whence the obsol E venust, charming, graceful, seductive; that of Uenus is uenericus (-ius), pertaining to Venus—cf the LL ueneria (neu pl n, from the neu pl adj), sexual intercourse—whence the obs E uenerous, sexual intercourse—whence the obs E uenerous, love-making, represents Venus+-ery. (For venery, hunting, see para 5, s.f.)

4. The r uen- occurs in L uenia, favour or forgiveness accorded by the gods, hence, in LL and usu in pl, God's forgiveness or pardon to men; the derivative LL adj ueniālis, ML v-, pardonable, yields MF venial (soon becoming véniel), adopted by E.

5. The r uen- occurs also in uēnāri, to hunt (game), prob orig to desire and to pursue (cf win, para 8 below): perh this v with the long vowel ē represents an int or a freq, or a freq-int, of a v, with short vowel ĕ and with r uen-, attested by uenerāri (cf para 1): cf Skt vanōti, Av vanaiti, he gains, overcomes. On the pp uēnātus are formed the LL adj uēnāticus, uēnātorius, whence the now rare E venatic, venatory, and the n uēnātiō, hunting, that which is hunted, that which is obtained by hunting, ML acc venātiōnem, whence OF-MF venaison (later venaison), adopted by ME, with varr veneson and venison, the latter surviving—with sense gradually restricted. The agent uēnātor, ML venātor, a hunter, becomes OF-F veneur, whence, anl, the MF-F vénerie, hunting, the chase, whence the syn E venery.

6. Akin to L Uenus is L uenēnum (s uenēn-, r uen-), a love-philtre, hence any philtre, hence a poison, whence uenēnifer (-fer, -bearing) and uenēnificus (-ficus, making): E veneniferous and venenific. L uenēnum, poison, has the VL mdfn uenimen*, venimen*, whence OF-MF venim (EF-F venin, adopted by Biochem): ME venim: E venom; venomous derives from ME venimous, from OF-F venimeux, from OF-MF venim.

Germanic Cognates

7. Logically, it is preferable to begin with 'to wish': ME wischen, var of wuschen: OE wyscan: cf OHG wunskan, G wünschen, to wish, and OE wusc, OHG wunsc, MHG-G wunsch, (without the digamma) ON ōskr, Skt vāñchā, a wish: all originating in 'desire' and tending to weaken to 'wish'. From the derivative wishful comes, by f/e association with the interj whist, wistful.

8. Then one may consider 'to win', to endeavour desirously, to struggle, hence to contend, hence, vt, to obtain by strenuous endeavour, hence by contest or battle: ME winnen: OE winnan, to strive, struggle, fight: cf OFris winna, OS and OHG winnan, to strive, to toil, OHG gewinnan (ge- is int), MHG gewinnen, to gain by effort, G to gain or win, ON vinna, to toil, to gain by toil, to gain—cf Go winnan, to torment oneself, and Skt vanōti, he conquers. Here, the OGmc win-* is app a thinning of the wun- attested by OHG wunskan, to desire. (Walshe.)

9. OGmc wun- recurs in OE wynsum, E winsome (suffix -sum, E -some): cf OHG wunnisam, causing joy or pleasure, and Go unwunands, not agreeable, sad.

10. 'To ween,' to expect, to hope (obs senses), to think, to suppose, derives from ME wenen, OE wēnan: cf OFris wēna, OS wānian, Go wēnjan, G wānnen (from the n), MD wenen, waenen, wanen, ON vāna, and such corresp nn as OE wēn, OFris wēn, OS wān, Go wāns, ON vān, expectation, hope, OHG wān, hope, MHG wān, belief, G Wahn, illusion, delusion. The OGmc wēn- is app phon differentiated from OGmc wun- to reinforce a sem differentiation (either a weakening or merely another aspect).

11. Yet another aspect and another phon differentiation occur in the adj wont, accustomed, whence both the n wont, custom, and the v wont, to be accustomed, (vt) to accustom: ME wunt, a contr of woned, pp of wonen, for wonien, varr of wunen, wunien, to be accustomed, to dwell, from OE wunian, to dwell, hence to remain, hence to be accustomed, but prob influenced by the intimately related ME adj wone, accustomed, from OE gewun, usu gewuna: cf OFris wunia, wonia, OS wunōn, OHG wonēn, MHG wonen, G wohnen, MD-D wonen, to dwell, ON una, to dwell, to be content. Cf the prob related OE wynn, OHG wunna, wūnni, G Wonne, OS wunnia, OIr fonn, joy, Cor wonys, to dwell, and vaner, a custom. As Walshe remarks, the basic meaning of the OGmc words for 'to dwell' is prob 'to rejoice somewhere'.

12. Related to the OE adj gewun(a), accustomed (and to wunian, to dwell, hence to be accustomed), is the vowel-thinned, sense-narrowed OE wenian, to accustom a child, or a young quadruped, to do without its mother's milk: ME wenen: E 'to wean': cf the syn OE āwenian, G entwöhnen (a specialization of 'sich entwöhnen', to disaccustom oneself), and certain OGmc words formed in wen- and meaning 'to accustom'.

Conclusion

13. Starting from IE wen-, to desire, take pleasure, love, we have ranged, phon, through wan- (Skt, Gmc, C) and wēn-* (Hit, L, Gmc), and win-* (Gmc) and won-* (Gmc, C), to wun-* (Gmc), and, sem, from 'to desire' to the strengthened 'to poison (with a love-philtre)—and 'to pursue', whether in love or in the chase—to obtain, esp by purposive desire', and to the weakened 'to wish'—'to hope, suppose, think'—'to take pleasure in being somewhere', 'to dwell'—'to become accustomed, to accustom'. In short, four IE languages or language-groups—Hit (prob), Skt, C, Gmc—have run a complete phon and a nearly completely sem gamut. (If the denasalized Lith výti, to hunt, be truly akin, as E & M assume, we must add Sl.) venereal. See prec, para 3.

venery, love-making; hunting, the chase. See VENERABLE, para 3, s.f., and 5, s.f.

Venetian, Venice. The former (adj, hence n) derives—perh via MF-F venitien—from ML Venētiānus, the adj of ML Venētia, the city and region (LL-L Uenētia: -ia connoting 'district' or 'region') inhabited by an ancient tribe or people named the Uenēti (ML V-), a name that, like the people, was prob of Illyrian origin. ML Venētia became It Venezia and F Vénice, whence E Venice. The highly civilized medieval and modern Venetians have furnished many European languages with the names of social and domestic amenities (balls, blinds, glass, windows, etc.) and of artists' colours (blue, green, white, etc.).

venge, vengeable, vengeance, vengeful, venger, vengeress. See DICT, para 21.

venial. See VENERABLE, para 4.

Venice. See VENETIAN.

venin. See VENERABLE, para 6.

venison. See VENERABLE, para 5.

venom, venomous. See VENERABLE, para 6.

venous. See VEIN.

vent (1), a (small) opening, for the escape or discharge of air, gas, fluid, hence 'to vent': orig a f/e var (after OF-F vent, wind) of fent, earlier fente, adopted from MF-F fente, orig the f of obs sent, pp of OF-F fendre, L findere, to split: cf FISSURE.

vent (2), in hunting. See the 1st WIND, para 5.

ventilate, ventilation, ventilator. See the 1st WIND, para 6.

ventose, ventosity. See the 1st WIND, para 7.

ventral, ventricle (whence, anl, ventricular); ventriloquism, ventriloquist, ventriloquy.

Ventral derives from ML ventrālis, L ventrālis, adj of uenter (o/s uentr-), the belly: prob akin to L uterus, the womb, with ending -er reminiscent of that of Gr gastēr, belly, stomach. The dim uentriculus, ML v-, orig 'little belly', hence 'stomach', means also 'ventricle': whence E ventricle. The LL cpd uentriloquus (prop an adj), one speaking from the stomach, becomes EF-F ventriloque, whence, with taut agential -ist, the E ventriloquist, whence anl ventriloquism, largely superseding ventriloquy (F ventriloquie, from ventriloque).—Cf VESICA.

venture, venturer, venturesome, venturous. See para 5 of:

venue, adopted from OF-F, was orig the f of venu, pp of venir, ML venire, L uenire, to come, ult akin to COME itself. The IE r is app gwen-, var gwem-, perh extn of gwe-, var gwa-, occ with worn-down forms (the -w lost): cf such diversities as OE cuman, Go qīman, to come—Gr bainō (s bain-), I come—Skt gāmati, he comes, Ve jaḡama, I have come—Tokh B kekamu (pp), come. (E & M.) But Hit w-, to come, wenzi, they come, suggests an ult r we- and an ult kinship with VIA, q.v. at para 16.

2. Apart from venue and venire (in legal phrases), the L uenire—presp ueniens, o/s uenient- (derivative nn in -tia), and supine uentum, pp -uentus, whence nn in -uentiō and -uentus (gen -ūs)—affects E only in cpds; but in a vast number of cpds, all reflecting the ML forms in v-, whether the -vene of, e.g., convene, or the -venant (F) or -uenient (L) of, e.g., covenant and revenient, or convenient, or the -vent, vent-, of, e.g., advent and venture, or several L or F derivatives or cognates or varr of those basic forms. Unless one takes these cpds in the alphabetical order of their L (or ML) originals, the most appalling confusion is likely to ensue.

3. L aduenire, ML advenire, to come towards or to, to arrive, hence (of events) to happen, yields 'to advene'; the presp aduentens, o/s aduenient-, E adj adventient, whence advenience; pp aduentus, whence both the n aduentus, E advent, whence Advent, whence Adventism and Adventist, and the adj aduentitius (prop -ficius), E adventitious; adventive app derives from EF-F adventif.

4. Also from the L pp aduentus, ML adventus, comes VL aduentūra*; ML adventūra, whence OF-F aventure, with derivatives OF-F aventurer and OF-MF aventuros (EF-F aventureux): whence, resp, ME aventure, E adventure—ME aventuren, E 'to adventure', whence adventurer—ME aventurosus, E adventurous—the -d- reintroduced from L.

5. ME aventure becomes, by apheresis, venture, whence both venturesome and 'to venture,' whence venturer; ME aventurosus likewise becomes venturous.

6. Avenue, however, is adopted from OF-F, which derives it from avenu, pp of avenir, the

OF-MF form of EF-F advenir, ML advenire: app it was orig the path or road by which one arrived at a great house.

7. L anteuenire, to come before, presp anteueniens, o/s -uenient-, accounts for the E adj antevenient.

8. L circumuenire, to come around, to encompass, hence to forestall or baffle, has pp circumuentus; whence 'to circumvent'; derivative LL circumuentiō, o/s -uentiōn-, explains circumvention.

9. L conuenire, to come together, to assemble, hence to agree together, becomes OF-F convenir, whence 'to convene'. The L presp conueniens, o/s conuenient-, yields convenient; derivative L conuenientia, agreement or harmony, appositeness or fitness, yields convenience. But the OF-F convenir affords us several doublets: convenance, convenant (convenable).

10. On the L pp conuentus are formed conuentiō (acc conuentiōnem) and conuentus (gen -ūs): whence, via MF-F, convention, with conventional deriving—perh via late MF-F conventionnel—from derivative LL conventionālis; and, from the ML sense 'nunnery', the E convent, with conventional deriving via MF conventual, EF-F conventuel, from ML conventuālis. Conventicle derives from L conuenticulum, dim of the L n conuentus.

11. OF-F convenir has the contr OF-F var covenir, presp covenant, which, used as MF n, is adopted by E; hence 'to covenant', whence covenanter.

12. LL contrauenire, to come against, hence contrary to, yields MF-F contrevenir and, prob independently, 'to contravene'; contravention, however, is app adopted from the MF-F word, formed as if from ML contraventiō*, acc contraventiōnem.

13. L ēuenire, to come, hence issue, from, hence to result, has pp ēuentus, whence the n ēuentus (gen -ūs), a result, a happening, whence late MF-EF évent, whence E event, whence eventful; eventual owes something to F éventuel (from L ēuentus).

14. L inconueniens (from conueniens, as in para 9), o/s inconuenient-, becomes MF-F inconvéntient, whence E inconvenient; derivative LL inconuentia (disagreement) becomes MF-EF inconvéntience, whence E inconvenience.

15. L interuenire, to come between, and its LL derivative interuentiō (acc interuentiōnem), mediation, pass, through MF-F intervenir and intervention, into 'to intervene' and intervention.

16. L inuenire, to come upon, hence to meet with, hence to find, to discover, has pp inuentus, whence inuentiō (acc inuentiōnem), inuentor, LL inuentārium, ML inuentōrium: whence E invention, inventor, inventory, all perh via the late MF-F corresp words. Inventive prob derives from late MF-F inventif; 'to invent'—cf EF-F inventer—comes from the L pp inuentus.

17. L obuenire, to come up against, hence to befall, has pp obuentus, whence LL obuentiō (o/s obuentiōn-), revenue, whence the sense-changed E obvention.

18. L. paruenire, to come through, hence to succeed, yields OF-F parvenir, pp parvenu, used in F as n, adopted by E; 'one who has "won through"' soon became a pej term.

19. L. praeuenire, to come in front or before, LL to anticipate, to prejudice, to overcome, yields the now rare 'to prevene'. On its pp praeuenius—whence 'to prevent'—are formed LL praeuentiō (acc praeuentiōnem) and LL praeuentor, whence prevention (via MF-F) and preventor; preventive (cf F préventif) is formed anl from prevention. The rare prevenient, whence provenience, derives from ML praeuenient-, o/s of the presp: cf the EF-F prévenant.

20. L. prouenire, to come forward or forth, hence to come to light, hence (LL) to succeed, has presp proueniens, o/s prouenient-, whence E provenient, whence provenience, a source, an origin. The MF-F derivative provenir has subsidiary F provenance, adopted by E.

21. L. reuenire, to come back or again, to return, becomes OF-F revenir, presp revenant, used, in F, as n 'ghost', adopted by E; the pp revenu has a derivative n, the MF revenue and EF-F revenu, whence E revenue.

22. L. subuenire, to come under, hence to the help of, has pp subuentus, whence LL subuentiō, acc subuentiōnem, MF-F subvention, adopted by E. Derivative MF-F souvenir, to remember—hence n, duly adopted by E—was adumbrated in LL-ML.

23. L. superuenire, to come over, hence upon, accounts for 'to supervene'; presp superueniens, o/s -uenient-, for the adj superuenient.

Venus; vennst. See VENERABLE, para 3.

veracious, veracity; verdict (see DICT, para 11, s.f.); veridic (see DICT, para 11); verifiable, verification, verificative (whence, anl, verificatory), verify; verisimilitude (see DICT, para 11); verism; veritable, verity; very, adj (whence verily), hence adv (cf, sem, true and truly).—aver, averment.

1. Veracious comes from ML vērāc(is), L uērāc(is), gen of uērāx, truthful, an extn of uērus, true, veritable; veracity, like F véracité, from ML vērācitas, from vērāx. L uērus, s and r uēr-, derives from IE wēr-*, true: cf OFris wēr, OHG-MHG wār, G wahr, Go wārs, true, and Go tuz-wērjan, to doubt—OIr fír, G fiol, W and Br gwir, Cor guir, wyr, Mx feer, OC etymon, wēros*, true—Sl věra, belief—Pahlavi vāvar, authentic.

2. The foll L derivatives of uērus concern E:

uērītās, acc uērītātem, OF veritet, MF verite, EF-F vérité, E verity; derivative OF-MF veritable (EF-F vé-) is adopted by E; ML verificāre, MF verifier, EF-F vé-, E 'to verify'; derivatives late MF-F vérifiable, MF verification (EF-F vé-) and EF-F vérificatif yield E verifiable, verification, verificative.

3. Learnedly from ML vērus comes the F vérisme, E verism. From L uērus comes VL uēraius*, later vēraius*, whence OF-early MF verai (later vrai): whence ME verai, varr veray, verray: E very, true, now only literary and archaic, as in 'very God'.

4. ML vērus became OF-MF voir, whence OF-MF averer (OF-EF var averir), F avérer, whence 'to aver', with averment perh suggested by MF-EF averement (from the v).

veranda, verandah: the shorter form influenced by Port varanda: Hi barāṇḍā or Bengali bārāṇḍā, a portico, and Hi barāṇḍā, a veranda: Per barāṇḍa, portico.

verb, verbal (whence verbalism, -ist, -ize: cf EF-F verbaliser), verbatim (adv, hence adj), verbiage, verbile, verbose, verbosity, verby (from verb); verve—adverb, adverbial; proverb, proverbial.—Gmc: word, n, v (whence wordage, vn wording, wordless), wordy;—byword.—Gr: sep RHETOR, RHETORIC, RHETORICAL.

1. Wordy derives from OE wordig (suffix -ig), the adj of OE word, which has come straight down to E: and OE word is akin to OS and OFris word, OFris varr werd and wird, MD waert, waerd, woort, wort, word, D woord, Go waürd—and to OP wirds, a word, Lith vařdas, a name—as well as to L uerbum. OE word has cpd biword (bi, by), whence byword.

2. L uerbum, ML verbum, a word, LL the divine Logos (the active Word of God), becomes F verbe, Theo in OF, a word in MF-EF, and a verb from C12 onwards, whence E verb: and L uerbum app derives from IE werdh-, a word, from IE wer-, to speak, a word being, primarily, that which is spoken: cf Gr eirō (for weirō*), I say, and esp erēō (Attic erō), I shall say, for werēō*, werō, akin to—prob the origin of—Gr rhētōr (for wrhētōr*), a speaker, esp an orator, and rhēma (for wrhēma*), a word, and Skt vratam, a vow, and prob OSi rota, a sworn oath. Word is perh, as one might expect of so fundamental a concept, Medit: ? cf Eg cheht, something spoken, a word.—For the Gr-derived rhetor, rhetoric, rhetorical, rhetorician, see the sep entry at RHETOR.

3. L uerbum has LL adj uerbālis, ML verbālis, whence MF-F verbal, adopted by E. In ML, verbum acquires the derivative adv verbatim, word by word (cf the formation of ML seriātīm, in a series), adopted by E.

4. The L adj of L uerbum is uerbōsus, whence LL uerbōsitās, acc uerbōsitātem: E verbose (cf MF-F verbeux, f verbeuse) and EF-F verbosité, E verbosity. The erudite E verbile (L uerbum+adj -ile) is formed anl with tactile and audile.

5. L uerbōsus has LL derivative uerbosāre, to talk for the sake of talking (Souter): this LL v perh prompted the formation, from OF-F verbe, of the late MF-EF verbiere, verbeier, verboier, to gossip, whence late EF-F verbiage, the use of needless or foolish words, adopted by E.

6. L uerbum, word, has pl uerba, VL-ML verba, whence the f sing verba*, whence OF-F verve, fantasy, hence (C17) a marked aptitude for or ability in, hence a lively imagination, mental or artistic 'dash': adopted by E.

7. L uerbum has two Gram prefix-cpds: aduerbium, LL adj aduerbiālis; prouerbum, LL adj prouerbiālis: OF averbe, late MF-F adverbe, E adverb, the adj direct from ML adverbiālis; OF-F proverbe, EF-F proverbial, E proverb and proverbial. verbatim. See prec, para 3.

verbena. See VERVAIN, para 1; VERBENATE: ib, para 2.

verberate, verberation. See VERVAIN, para 2.

verbiage. See VERB, para 5.

verbile. See VERB, para 4, s.f.

verbose, verbosity. See VERB, para 4.

verdant (whence verdancy), verderer, verdigris, verditer, verdoy, verdure (whence verdurous); verjuice (see JUICE, s.f.); vireo; virescent (whence virescence); virid, viridescent (whence viridescence), viridian, viridine, viridity; vert.

1. The base is L uirēre, ML virēre, (of plants) to be green: o.o.o. It has the derivative inches uirescere, to begin to become green, presp uirescens, o/s uirescent-, ML v-, whence the E adj virescent. On uir-, the s and r of uirēre, is formed uireō, a small bird with olive-green feathers (cf F verdet), whence E vireo.

2. Uirēre, r uir-, has derivative adj uiridus, ML v-, whence the E adj virid, now often in extn viridian—cf the Chem viridine (or -in): ML viridus + Chem -ine or -in. Derivative L uiriditas yields viridity. Derivative LL uiridescere, to begin to grow green, has presp uiridescens, o/s uiridescent-, ML v-, whence the E adj viridescent.

3. L uiridis is, in VL, contr to viridis*, whence OF-F vert (f verte), used also as n, whence the F forestry term vert, every growing thing that is green-leaved, esp—in hunting—coverts. In OF-MF, the f adj verte has var verde, whence OF-EF verdure (EF-F verdeur), adopted by E, whence, on the r verd-, the E verdant, presumably suggested by OF-EF verdoiant (EF-F verdoyant), presp of OF-EF verdoier (EF-F -oyer), from verde; the pp verdoié, verdoyé, becomes Her verdoy, (of a border) charged with greenery. MF-F verdiér (verde+agential -ier) becomes the E verder, whence, taut, verderer (-or).

4. The F-derived cpds are:

verdigris, ME verdegrees, earlier verdegrece, earliest vertgrece, MF verdegris (later vert-de-gris), a f/e alteration—after gris, grey—of MF vert-de-Grice, lit, although one doesn't know precisely why, 'green of Greece'; verdiér, F vert-de-terre, lit 'green of earth' (cf TERRA); verjuice—see JUICE, s.f.

verdict. See DICT, para 11, s.f. verdigris. See VERDANT, para 4.

verditer. See VERDANT, para 4.

verdure, verdurous. See VERDANT, para 3.

verge (1), a rod, a staff; verger.—whisk, n, hence v.

1. E-ME verge is adopted from OF-F, which takes it from ML virga (L uirga), a supple branch or twig, hence a wand, rod, staff: o.o.o.: perh akin to ON visk—cf OHG wisc, MHG-G wisch—whence prob the ME wisk, E whisk, whence 'to whisk', whence whisker, usu in pl whiskers, whence the pa whiskered; perh the OGmc wisk* was orig a quick, light, sweeping or brushing stroke made with a leafy twig.

2. Whereas ME verge, a rod, has derivative verger (? from AF), lit a rod-bearer, L uirga has derivatives uirgātus, provided with rods, whence ML virgāta, the land contained by a virga terrae or rod of land (cf, sem, the E rod), whence E virgate, and dim uirgula, ML virgula, whence EF-F virgule, a comma—from its shape.

3. The King's marshal of the household, in medieval England, carried a verge or staff of office: hence, the area comprised by a circle with radius of 12 miles from the King's court, wherever he might be, and within which the King's peace obtained, was within the verge: hence verge, a boundary, a limit, a margin, an edge, esp in on the verge; hence 'to verge' or be on the verge or border, to be on the point of.

verge (2), a boundary or limit, to border (on). See prec, para 3.

verge (3), to lean towards, to incline, vergent (whence vergence, -cy); converge, convergent (whence convergence)—diverge, divergence (var divergency), divergent.—Cf the sep WRENCH.

1. Vergent derives from ML vergent-, o/s vergens, L uergens, presp of uergere, to incline, lean towards, vi and vt: o.o.o.: perh cf Skt varjati, he bends or inclines. L uergere, ML vergere, yields syn 'to verge'.

2. LL conuergere, to meet together, ML conv-, gives us 'to converge'; the presp conuergens, ML conuergens, o/s conuergent-, E convergent (id in EF-F).

3. L diuergere (di- for dis-, apart, to one side) yields 'to diverge'; its presp diuergens, o/s diuergent-, ML diuergent-, the adj diuergent, whence—cf late EF-F divergence—the n divergence.

vergence, vergency, vergent. See prec, para 1.

verger. See the 1st VERGE, para 2.

verdic. See DICT, para 11.

verifiable, verification, verificative, verify. See VERACIOUS, para 2.

verily. See VERACIOUS (heading).

verisimilitude. See the element veri-.

verism. See VERACIOUS, para 3.

veritable, verity. See VERACIOUS, para 2.

verjuice. See JUICE, s.f.

vermeil and vermilion; Vermes (whence vermian, worm-like) and vermis—vermicelli—vermicular—vermiculate, vermiculation, vermicule, vermiculose—vermiform; varment (-int) and vermin, verminate, vermination, verminous.—worm n, hence v), whence worm-eaten, wormer, wormy; wormwood—cf vermouth, occ vermuth.

1. Vermeil, n, hence adj, is adopted from OF-F vermeil, adj, hence n; ML vermiculus, LL uermiculus, adj from LL n, the colour scarlet, earlier the cochineal insect, in L a little worm, dim of L uermis, a worm. The OF-F derivative vermillon, the cochineal insect, hence the colour, is anglicized as vermilion.

2. L uermis, a worm, has s and r uerm-: cf OS and OHG-MHG-G wurin, Go waurms, OE wyrm or wurm, and, without digamma, the ON ormr (modern Scan orm); cf also the Gr rhomos (or wromos*), a wood-worm, and, further off, the IE r from which kermes and crimson are derived.

3. L uermiculus, ML v-, becomes E vermicule; EF-F vermiculaire (ML vermiculus+adj -aire) becomes E vermicular. The foll L derivatives of uermiculus have, in their ML (v-) forms, affected E: uermiculāri, to be full of worms, to be worm-eaten, pp uermiculātus, used as adj for a 'wormy' mosaic floor, whence the E adj and v vermiculate; derivative L uermiculātiō, a being, or the result of being, worm-eaten, o/s uermiculātiōn-, whence vermiculation;

LL uermiculōsus, wormy, E vermiculose and vermiculous;

VL vermicellus*, a little worm, It vermicello, pl vermicelli, used for a corded paste smaller than spaghetti; adopted by E.

4. L uermis has c/f uermi-, ML vermi-: for cpds, cf, in general, the element vermi-, but note esp vermiform, from EF-F vermiforme: c/f vermi-+-forme, as in multiforme. (B & W.) The ML sing vermis and pl vermes are employed by Sci.

5. L uermis, r uerm-, has the doublet vermen, o/s vermin-, whence both the adj uerminōsus, ML v-, whence, in part, E verminous, and the v uermināri, to have worms, pp uerminātus, whence the E adj and v verminate; the derivative L uerminātiō, the disease 'worms', o/s uerminātiōn-, yields vermination.

6. This L o/s uermin-, ML vermin-, has app influenced the formation of OF-F vermine from OF-MF verm (later ver), itself from ML vermis, L uermis; the OF-EF var vermin was adopted by E, and the derivative OF-F vermineux has contributed towards E verminous. The sense-change from 'worm' to 'small, noxious animal' arises from disgust; in this, too, the E word imitates the F word.

Germanic

7. OE wyrm, wurm, becomes ME wirm (werm), wurm, finally worm, retained by E. Wormwood derives—after worm—from OE wermōd: cf OHG werimuota, MHG wermuot, G Wermut, whence F vermout. The OGmc words app combine wer, man + mut, courage (E mood), 'perh because used as an aphrodisiac'; but the false division werm- led to a very potent f/e association with wurm, wyrm. (Walshe.)

vermicelli. See prec, para 3, s.f.

vermicular, vermiculate, vermiculation, vermicule. See VERMEIL, para 3.

vermicide; vermiform; vermigerous. See the element vermi- and, for the 2nd, VERMEIL, para 4.

vermillion. See VERMEIL, para 1, s.f.

vermin. See VERMEIL, para 6.—verminous: ib, paras 5 and 6.

vermouth, Gallic vermout and hybrid vermuth. See VERMEIL, para 7. vernacular (adj, hence n): ML vernācula, f, and vernāculus, m, born in one's master's house, L uer-; from uerna, a slave born there: o.o.o.—? Etruscan.

vernal comes, like OF-F vernal, from ML vernālis, L uernālis, extn of uernus, of the Spring, from uēr (ML vēr), the Spring: cf the syn ON vār, Gr éar (for wéar*), and perh OSi vesna, Skt vasantás: IE etymon, uesr* (wesr)—perh cf OIr errech, Ga éarrach. (Hofmann.)

verruca, verrucose. See WART, s.f.

versant, versate. See para 12 of VERSE.

versatile, versatility; versation. See para 12, s.f., of:

verse, n—cf vers libre, and versicle, versification, versify (whence versifier); verse, v—cf versable, versant, versate, versatile (and versatility), versation, versative—versed; version, versus; vert, to turn, and coll n; vertebra (whence, anl, vertebral), vertebrate (adj, hence n; whence, anl, vertebration)—with neg invertebrate (in-, not); vertex (pl vertices), vertical, verticil, verticity; vertible; vertiginous, vertigo; vortex (pl vortices), vorticoso—cf vortical and vorticity, anl after vertical, verticity.—Cpds of -versant, -versate, -versation—of -verse, -version, -versity, -versor—and of -vert (v, hence n), -vertible, -vertor, etc., with the L prefixes (or their R derivatives): a-, ad-, ante-, con-, contra-, di-, ē-, extro-, in-, intra- (intro-), ob-, per-, pro-, re-, retro-, sub-, tra- or -trans-.—For animadvert, see sep ANIMADVERSION; for universe (university, etc.), see ONE, para 7; for tergiversate (tergiversation), see the element tergi-; for divorce, see that entry.—Gmc cognates: -ward, -wards, as in backward, forward, toward, etc., and worth, to become, and weird, destiny, whence the adj.—Sl cognate: verst.—Cf the sep VERVAIN.

Indo-European

1. The IE r is wert-* (L and Sl), to turn, with varr wart-* (Skt) and wort-* (the e-o alternation is commoner in Gr than in L); in Gmc, the final t tends to become th, dh, d, the OGmc r being werth-*. Besides L uert-, ML vert-, note such forms as Skt vārtate, he turns; OL uortere, to turn; Lith vēsti, to return (something), and OB vrūtēti, to turn; Go wairtha, I become. But the IE wert-*, uert-, is an extn of IE wer-, uer-, to turn: cf VERVAIN, para 5, s.f.

Germanic

2. Akin to Go wairthan, to become, are OHG werdan, MHG-G werden, OS werthan, OFris wertha, ON vertha—and OE weorthan, ME wurthen, worthen, E worth, obs except in such archaic phrases as 'Woe worth the day', lit 'Woe become to the day', hence 'Woe betide the day' or, e.g., the man.

3. Closely related to those Gmc words are OHG -wert-, -wart-, G -wärts, OS -werd-, -ward-, OFris -ward-, Go -wairths, ON -verthr—and OE -weard and, with the orig gen ending -es, -weardes, whence E -ward and -wards. These endings connote a turning, a being turned, in the direction denoted by the prec element (back-, down-, for- and fro-, in-, to-, up-, etc.), hence a tendency in that direction. The forms in -wards are primarily and still usu advv; those in -ward primarily adj, but often, esp in AE, used as advv. Of the numerous cpds, perh the best worth noting are:

backward (ME-E) and backwards (EE-E): cf BACK; downward (ME-E) and downwards (EE-E): aphetic for obs adownward (OE adūnweard): cf DOWN; forward (OE-E) and forwards (late ME-E): cf FORE, forward(s); froward (ME-E adj, long archaic): fro, as in to and fro: cf FROM; homeward(s): see HOME;

inward (OE-E) and inwards (EE-E); from adj inward comes the late ME-E adv inwardly; cf IN;

rearward, adj and adv (EE-E), and rearwards (not before C19); cf REAR; toward (OE-E adj and prep) and towards (OE-E adv): cf TO; upward (OE-E) and upwards (OE-E): cf UP; way ward (ME-E): cf WAY.

4. Akin to OE weorþan, to become, and to its other OgmC shapes, is OE wyrd, fate, destiny, fortune (esp if ill): ME werde or wirde: E weird. Cf the OFris werd, werde, death, and OS wurth and OHG wurt, fate, destiny.—Hence the archaizing adj weird (sisters), concerned with fate, hence magical, hence merely very strange.—The n is obsol, except in Sc dree one's weird, to endure (OE drēogan) one's fate.

Slavic

5. Akin to the IE words noted in para 1 is Ru verst, whence G Werst, F verste, E verst, approx a kilometre: Ru versta, a verst, orig a line or row (hence age of life)—cf Ru vrūsta, age of life, and L uersus, ML versus, a furrow, lit a turning.

Latin: Simples

6. L uertere, to turn, s and r uert-, ML vert- yields 'to vert' or turn, bend, in a given direction. The presp uertens, o/s uertent-, and gerundive uertendus occur only in E cpds: the pp uersus, ML versus, s vers-, and its derivatives, incl the int uersāre, ML v-, occur in both simples and cpds.

7. From the L inf s uert- derive four L nn well represented in E: uertebra and uertex and its var uortex and uertigo. Uertebra, ML v-, an articulation or joint, esp of the spinal column, is adopted by An and Zoo. Derivative uertēbrātus, provided with vertebrae, gives us vertebrate, whence the neg invertebrate: cf F invertébré.

8. L uertex, ML v-, a whirl, e.g. a whirlpool, hence, app from a supposed whirling centre, the pole of the heavens, hence a summit (e.g. the crown of the head), the top or crest: adopted by Astr, Math, An, Zoo, with the ML pl vertices. The derivative LL uerticālis yields EF-F and, prob independently, E vertical; its dim uerticillus yields verticil; the SciL verticitās (uertic-, o/s of uertex + -itās), E verticity. Very closely related to L uertex, in its senses 'a whirl, a whirlpool', is L uertigō, ML v-, a whirlpool, but also dizziness: adopted by E; the L o/s is uertigin-. Derivative L uertiginōsus, ML v-, becomes EF-F vertigineux and, perh independently, E vertiginous.

9. L uertex has the (orig, and long, syn) var uortex, ML v-, adopted by E in the sense ('heart of) a whirlpool', hence any whirling centre, with the ML pl vortices. From the o/s uortic-, ML v-, come L uorticōsus, whence E vorticose—and F vorticelle, whence E vorticele—and E vorticism.

10. The pp uersus, ML versus, has derivative n uersus (gen -ūs), a turning (active and passive), hence a furrow and, anl, a line of writing, hence, in poetry, a verse: whence OF-F vers, orig a stanza, and OE fers, ME fers and, under F influence, vers, whence E verse. Derivative L uersiculus, whence—cf EF versicula—the E versicle. Both F vers libre, free verse, and the MF-F dim verset (vers + -et) have been adopted by E. The L cpd uersificāre (-ficāre, c/f of facere, to make) and its derivative uersificātiō, o/s uersificātiōn-, yield MF-F versifier and EF-F versification, whence ME versifier, E 'to versify', and versification.—Note that 'to verse' or familiarize comes from EF verser, from L versāri; esp the EF-F versé, E versed (pa).

11. L uersus (gen -ūs) has the ML mdfn versio, acc *versio*nem, whence EF-F version, a (manner of) translating, a translation, adopted by E. From the L pp uersus, ML versus, comes the SciL versor. The L pp uersus, ML v-, is also used as adv, hence prep, 'turned towards, facing, hence opposed', whence the E prep versus—cf the syn OF-F vers; cf E verso (opp recto), deriving from L uerso, the abl of the pp.

12. From the L pp uersus is formed the L int uersāre, vt, with passive uersāri employed to mean 'to be turned often', hence to be situated, to dwell, hence to be engaged in or occupied with, with pp uersātus meaning 'familiar with, versed in'. The presp uersans, o/s uersant-, ML versant-, yields the E adj versant, (mentally) engaged, skilled (in)—cf conversant, in para 13 below; the pp uersātus yields the rare 'to versate'. From uersātus, pp of uersāre, are formed:

uersātilis, capable of being turned, whence, perh, via EF-F, the E versatile, whence—cf F versatilité—versatility; uersātiō, a turning or a being turned, o/s uersātiōn-, E versation, whence, anl, versative.

Latin: Prefix-Compounds

13. L uersāri, to be situated or occupied, has cpd conuersāri, ML conv-, to associate with, whence OF-F converser, whence 'to converse'. Derivatives ML conversābilis—L presp conuersans o/s conuersant- (ML conversant-)—(from pp conuersātus) LL conuersātiō, a mode of life, esp conversation, ML acc conversātiōnem, these yield E conversable, conversant, conversation (adopted from OF-F), whence conversational and, anl, conversative. From the ML o/s conversātiōn- comes It conversazione, adopted, in its latest sense, by E.

14. L uertere, to turn, has numerous prefix-cpds, which follow so regular a pattern that, except for F interventions, the L originals can be tersely listed thus, with ML v instead of L u: -uertere; gerundive -uertendus; adj -uertibilis, with derivative n in -uertibilitās; presp -uertens, o/s uertent-, derivative n (usu LL) -uertentia; pp -uersus, with derivative nn in -us (gen -ūs) and in -iō, o/s -iōn-, and in -itās, and derivative adj in -uersarius and -uersibilis. The religious and ethical senses come mostly from LL-ML.

15. With that general pattern in mind, one has only to exhibit the L prefix-cpds and their meanings, and then note the principal E derivatives, with an indication of F intervention.

advertere, to turn ad or to, towards: advert, advertent, advertence (imm from F), neg inadvertence from ML inadvertentia; adversary (as in L, adj hence n; via MF-F adversaire), adverse, adversity (MF-F adversité);—advertise (whence advertiser), advertisement, re-shapings of F forms in av-, MF also adv-, and orig 'notice, notify (notification)'; antevertere, to turn ante, before, in front: antevert, anteversion; avertere, to turn a-, away: avert; averse, aversion (cf EF-F); controvertere, to turn against, to turn in the opposite direction: controvert; controversial, controversion, controversy; convertere, to turn con-, thoroughly: convert (OF-F convertir), hence n (cf pervert); converse, adj, v (OF-F converser), hence n; conversion (OF-F), whence, anl, conversive; divertere, to turn di- for dis-, aside: divert (MF-F divertir); divers, diverse, from OF-F divers, f diverse; diversion (MF-F); divertisement (late MF-F divertissement); ēvertere, to turn out, hence over, to overthrow: evert, eversion; anl E extravert, extrovert, extroversion: L extrō, outside (adv)+uertere; in Psy and Psychi, opp introvert, introversion, themselves formed anl: L intrō, within;

invertere, to turn in, to turn opposite: invert (cf EF-F invertir); inversion (as also in EF-F); obvertere, to turn ob, towards or against: obvert; obverse (adj, hence n); obversion; pervertere, to turn per- or thoroughly, hence to cause to turn out badly: pervert (OF-F pervertir), v hence n; perverse (OF-F pervers, f perverse) and perversion (as also in EF-F) and perversity (OF-F perversité); prōvertere, to turn forward, pp prōversus, whence the contr prōrsus, eased to prōsus, which, used as adj, occurs in prōsa oratiō, speech going straight ahead without turns (versūs), whence the syn prōsa, whence MF-F prose, adopted by E; derivative LL prōsātus leads to late MF-F prosaïque, whence E prosaic; anl E retrovert, retroversion: L retrō, backwards; revertere, to turn back (vi, vt): revert (OF-EF revertir); reverse (OF-F revers, f reverse), whence n; the v 'to reverse', however, app derives from OF-EF reverser, from LL reversāre, to turn around, cf uersāre, the active of uersāri (para 13); reversal, from 'to reverse'; reversible (EF-F réversible); reversion (MF-F), whence reversionary; subvertere, to turn, hence overturn, from under, hence from the foundations: subvert (MF-F subvertir); subversion (OF-F), whence, anl, the F subversif, f -ive, whence E subversive.

transvertere, to turn beyond: transvert (obs); transversal (late MF-F), transverse (adj hence n); transversion; anl with prec is 'to traverse', which, however, comes imm from OF-F traverser: VL-LL trāversāre, LL transuersāre, to cross (cf para 13); the E n traverse is adopted from OF-F (from VL trāversā*, prop the f of trāversus*, for L transversus): cf transverse.

verset. See prec, para 10.

versicle. See VERSE, para 10.

versification, versify. See VERSE, para 10.

version. See VERSE, para 11.

verso. See VERSE, para 11.

verst. See VERSE, para 5.

versus, against. See VERSE, para 11.

vert, greenery. See VERDANT, para 3.

vert, to turn or bend. See VERSE, para 6.

vertebra, vertebrate. See VERSE, para 7.

vertex, vertical, verticil. See VERSE, para 8.

vertiginous, vertigo. See VERSE, para 8, s.f.

vertu. See VIRILE, para 3, s.f.

vervain and verbena—cf verbenate; verberate, verberation—reverberant, reverberate, reverberation.—rhabdite—cf the element rhabdo-; rhamnus; rhombus.—warp, n and v (whence pa warped and pa, vn warping). These words form a sister constellation of the VERSE group.

1. Vervain derives from OF-F verveine, VL vervāna*, L uerbēna (ML verbēna), whence E verbena: and L uerbēna, s uerbēn-, r uerb-, is intimately linked with L uerbera (pl), blows or lashes with a whip, s uerber-, r uerb-: with both, cf Lith vīr̃bas, a young branch, a rod or staff, OSi vr̃ba, a willow (Serb ṽba), and, further off, the Gr rhabdos, a wand, a rod, rhap̃is, a wand, a staff, and, nasalized, rhamnos, a (prickly) shrub, and rhombos, a spinning top (cf rhembein, to whirl around, to turn). Also related is the warp group—see para 5 below.

2. L uerbēna has derivative uerbēnātus, crowned with boughs: whence 'to verbenate'. Cf 'to verberate': ML uerberātus, L uerberātus, pp of uerberāre, to flog, hence to strike, maltreat, from uerbera. Derivative L uerberātiō, o/s uerberatiōn-, yields verberation.

3. L uerberāre has prefix-cpd reuerberāre, to strike in return, to repel, presp reuerberans, o/s reuerberant-, ML rev-, whence E reverberant, and pp reuerberātus, whence both 'to reverberate', now mostly of sound, and LL reuerberātiō, acc reuerberātiōnem, whence MF-F réverberation, whence E reverberation.

4. From Gr rhabdos come the element rhabdo- q.v., and Zoo rhabdite; from Gr rhamnos, the LL rhamnus, adopted by Bot; from Gr rhombos, the LL rhombus, adopted by Geom, and anglicized as *rhom*b, and sense-adapted, by Chem.

5. Akin to those Gr and esp those L words are these Gmc words for 'to throw or cast': Go wairpan; OHG werpsan, eased to werfan, whence MHG-G werfen; OS werpan, MD weorpen, worpen, waerpen, warpen, MD-D werpen; ON verpa—and OE weorpan, ME werpen, warpen, E 'to warp', to throw or expel (both obs), hence to twist violently or out of shape. Closely akin to OE weorpan is OE wearp, (in weaving) a warp, E warp, with later senses influenced by the v. The OGmc vv derive from an OGmc r werp-, perh (Walshe) from werkw-, corresp to IE r wergw-: ? rather from OGmc werbh-, extn of IE werb-, uerb-, a form that returns us to the L r uerb-. The ult IE r, therefore, is app uer-, to turn, to bend: cf VERSE, para 1.

verve. See VERB, para 6.

very. See VERACIOUS, para 3.

vesica, vesical, vesicant, vesicatory, vesicle, vesicula; element vesico-.

The L uēsīca, ML vēsīca, a bladder, is prob related to L uenter, ML venter, the belly, q.v. at VENTRAL: cf Skt vastās, a bladder. Both ML vēsīca and its dim vēsīcula have been adopted by An, Med, Zoo, the latter more common in the form vesicle (perh imm from EF-F véscule, whence certainly E vesicule); derivative LL uēsīcālis becomes EF-F véscālis, whence E vesical, and derivative LL uēsīcāre, to form bladders, hence blisters, has presp uēsīcans, o/s uēsīcant-, and pp uēsīcātus, whence, via the ML forms in v- and then via EF-F, the E vesicant and vesicatory.

vesper (vespers), vesperal. See WEST, para 3.

vespine (and vespal). See WEAVE, para 10.

vessel. See VASE, para 3.

vest, n and v (whence pa vested and vestee); vestiary; ? vestibule, whence, anl, vestibular; vestiture; vestment; vestry; vesture, n hence v.—Prefix-cpds: devest; divest, whence, anl, divestitive, divestiture, divestment; invest (whence investment, investor, and, anl, investitive), investiture; revest—cf revet, revestment; transvest, transvestite—cf travesty.—Gmc: wear (v, hence n), whence wearable, wearer, pa and vn wearing, pt wore and pp worn.

1. 'To vest' or clothe, dress, comes, via OF-MF vestir (F vêtir), from ML vestīre, L uestīre, itself from uestis, a garment, whence, via It vesta and F veste, the E vest, orig any garment (esp a robe), with modern senses narrowing and also diverging and, as between one European language and another, even contradicting. For IE cognates, see paras 4 and esp 5.

2. L uestis (ML vestis) has the foll simple derivatives relevant to E:

uestiārium, wardrobe, a robing-room: OF-F vestiaire: E vestiary and, through the OF-MF var vestiarie, the ME vestrye, E vestry; uestimentum, a garment, OF-MF vestment (F vêtement), E vestment;

ML vestītūra, E vestiture and, via OF-MF vesteüre, vesture (F vêture), E vesture; perh L uestibulum (? uesti-, c/f of uestis+-bulum, as in stibulum), a forecourt, entrance hall (between outer door and hall proper): but prob o.o.o., the orig sense having nothing to do with clothes.

3. The relevant L prefix-cpds, with others imitating them, are:

dēuestīre and dial var disuestīre: OF-MF desvestir, MF devester: E 'to devest', now only legal ('to deprive');

ML disvestīre, divestīre, influencing E 'to devest to become divest; inuestīre, to put clothes on, to surround (a sense retained by E—imm from late MF-EF): whence It investire, E 'to invest' money; the orig L sense recurs in ML investītūra, an enrobing, whence E investiture; reuestīre (re- vaguely int), to clothe in an honorific fashion: OF-MF revestir (F revêtir): E 'to revest'; derivative MF revestment (sense as in v) becomes EF-F revêtement in military sense, whence E revestment; 'to revet' from military EF-F revêtir; trans, across+uestīre, to clothe, yield 'to transvest' or wear the clothes of the opp sex, whence a transvestite (-ite=L -ita=Gr -itēs, agential); they yield also It travestire, to disguise, whence EF-F travestir, with pp travestit, whence the E adj travesty (obs), whence 'a travesty,' whence, in turn, 'to travesty'; the connotation of absurdity is already present in the F v.

4. Akin to L uestīre, to clothe, is Go wasjan, to clothe, and, phon more distant, the syn ON verja, OHG werēn, werien, (prob) OFris weria, and OE werian, ME werien, later weren, E 'to wear', the sense 'to impair' deriving from much-worn, becoming worn-away, clothes.

5. The -s- of L uestīre and uestis, and of Go wasjan, to wear, wasti, clothing, garment, is seen also in Skt vāste, he dons, he wears, clothes, vāstram, clothing, and in Hit wass-, wēss-, to put on or wear (clothes), to clothe, to cover, and Tokh B yāssītar, he is clothed, wasttsī, clothing; cf also Cor gwesca (or -ga), to clothe, Br gwish, a garment, and Doric Gr westra, late Gr gestra, a garment, Gr hennunai (for wesnunai*), to clothe. The IE r, then, is wes-*, to clothe.

vestal, virginal, derives from vestal virgin: ML Vestālis (virgō): L Uestālis (uirgō), adj of Uesta, goddess of the hearth: perh of Gr Hestia, goddess of hearth and home, and, if that be correct, then prob Skt vāsati, he dwells: ? also Go was, I was, and Ir feiss, a sojourn, Cor vēth, a dwelling place. But the entire subject is vexed and obscure.

vestiary. See VEST, para 2.

vestibule. See VEST, para 2, s.f.

vestige, whence vestigial; investigable, investigate, investigation (whence, anl, investigative), investigator (whence, anl, investigatory).

1. Vestige, late MF-F vestige, comes from ML vestigium, L uestigium, a footprint, hence a trace in general: from uestigare, to follow the footprints of, to track, hence to go in search of: o.o.o.: perh cf Hit aus-, to see for oneself, to observe.

2. L uestigare has cpd inuestigare (in- used int), to carefully look into, s inuestig-, whence LL inuestigabilis, traceable, whence E investigable. The pp inuestigatus yields both 'to investigate' and L inuestigatio, acc inuestigatiōnem, MF-F investigation, adopted by E, and L inuestigator, whence—perh via late MF-F investigateur—the E investigator.

vestiture; vestment. See VEST, para 2.

vestry. See VEST, para 2.

vesture. See VEST, para 2.

vet. See WETHER (heading).

vetch. See the 1st PERIWINKLE, para 3.

veteran. See WETHER, para 4.

veterinarian, veterinary. See WETHER, para 5.

veto: ML vetō, L uetō, I forbid (uetāre, s and r uet-): o.o.o.: perh (E & M) of C origin—cf OW guetid, he says, and W gwed (obs), a saying or utterance, and dy-wedaf, I say: sem, the link offers no serious difficulty, for if one says, e.g., that another must do something, one implicitly forbids him to do something else (usu the contrary).

vetust. See WETHER, para 3.

vex, vexation (whence, anl, vexatious). L uexāre (ML vexāre), to agitate, hence to torment, to harass, is prob akin to—indeed, it may be a freq, or a freq-int, of—uehere, to transport, whether on horse or by a vehicle or on a ship: f.a.e., VIA. ML vexāre becomes MF-F vexer, whence 'to vex'; on the L pp uexātus is formed L uexātiō, ML vexātiō, acc vexātiōnem, MF-F vexation, adopted by E.

2. App more closely related to uexāre (? for uexāre*, s uex-, r uex-) than to uehere is L uectis (s uect-, ? r uex-), a lever, a pole or bar, whence the obstetrical tech E vectis.

via, Via Dolorosa, via media, viable, viability; viaduct; viaticum; viator, whence viatorial; voyage (n, v), voyager and voyageur.—vehemence, vehement—vehicle, vehicular—vection, vector (whence vectorial).—Prefix-cpds of L uia, ML via, away: convey (whence conveyer (-or) and conveyance)—convoiy; deviate, deviation (whence, anl, deviative), deviator (whence, anl, deviatory), devious; envoy; invoice; obviate, obviation, obvious; pervious and impervious; previous; renvoy; trivia, trivial, triviality, trivium.—Prefix-cpds of L uehere, ML uehere, to transport: advection, advectitious, advehent; convection (whence, by b/f 'to convec't' and, imm, convectional and, anl, convec'tive and convector)—convex (adj, hence n and v), convexity; evection; invection—invective (adj and n)—inveigh; provect, provection; revehent; transvection, whence, anl, transvectant.

Gmc cognates: wag (v, hence n), waggery, waggish—cf waggle (v, hence n); waggon or wagon (mostly AE), whence wag(g)onage, wag(g)oner, wag(g)onette (dim -ette)—cf wagon-lit; wain, whence wainwright (wright, a builder).—way, wayfare (whence wayfarer, wayfaring), waylay, way- ward—cf ways and means.—away—always.—weigh (whence weigher and pa, vn weighing) and weight, n (whence weighty), hence v; wey.

Cf the sep VEX and perh the sep VEIN.

Germanic

1. 'To waggle' is the freq of 'to wag', to swing from side to side, ME waggen, akin to OE wagian, to move, to wag, and therefore also to OHG wegan, int bewēgan, MHG bewēgen, G bewegen, MD wegen, var weggen, D bewegen, MHG wacken (int of wagen, related to bewēgen), Go wagian, to move, ON vagga, a cradle, and OE wegan, to move, to transport, therefore to L uehere, to convey: see 'Indo-European' below.—The n wag, in sense 'joker', perh comes imm from the obs wag-halter, a rogue, a humorous fellow; hence waggery and waggish.

2. A waggon or wagon derives from MD-D wagen, MD var waghen: cf OHG wagan, MHG-G wagen, and Crimean Go waghen. Very closely related to OHG wagan are OS wagan, ON vagn and OE waegen, varr waegn and wāen; OE wāen becomes ME-E wain, now mainly rural and always horse-drawn—for the form, cf esp OFris wain, wein. See 'Indo-European' for the pre-Gmc cognates.

3. The F wagon-lit or sleeping-car on a railway train, adopted by several European languages, represents F-from-E wagon + lit, a bed (cf LIE, to be recumbent).

4. Way, ME way, earlier wey, derives from OE weg: cf OFris wei, contr wī, OS weg, OHG weg, MHG wec, G Weg, Go wigs, ON vegr, and cf OE wegan, OHG wēgan, L uehere, etc., as well as the L uia: see 'Indo-European'.

5. The foll full cpds of way are either very old or etym notable:

'to wayfare', a b/f from ME weifarende, OE wegfarende, wayfaring (adj), var wegfērende: from weg + farende, presp of faran, to go (cf FARE);

'to waylay': after way and lay, but imitative of MLG-MHG wegelagen, to lie waiting (for someone) on the way or road, to ambush, from wege-lage, an ambush; wayward: ME weiward, aphetic for aweiward, turned away: cf para 3 of VERSE.

6. Note also away, ME away, awei, OE aweg, worn-down form of anweg (onweg), on (the) way, i.e. on one's way, esp in departure, and always, late ME-EE alwayes, C14 alleweyes, C13 alles weis, gen of alle wei, every way, hence every time, on every occasion. (OED.)

7. OE wegan (cf paras 1 and 4 above), to move, to bear or carry, hence to weigh, becomes ME weghen, varr weyen and wieien, whence E 'to weigh': cf OFris wega, MHG wegen (G wiegen: akin to OHG wegan, to move, to carry), MD-D wegen, ON vega, to move, carry, weigh: cf the L, Skt, other cognates adduced in 'Indo-European'.

8. Intimately related to OE wegan, to weigh, is OE gewiht, abr wiht, ME wight, var weght, E weight: cf ON vaest, a weighing-device, a weight: cf OFris wicht, MHG gewiht, G Gewicht, MD wechte, wecht, wichte, MD-D wicht, D gewicht. The late ME-E weighty was perh prompted by the syn MD wichtich, MHG wihtec (sold by weight), OFris wichtich.

9. The Ir, Sc, E, mostly rural, weight called the wey derives from ME weye, OE wāēge, wāēg, and is likewise intimately related to OE wegan, to weigh. Wey is a doublet of the (except in dial) obs n weigh.

Latin: uehere, ML vehere, to carry, transport

10. With OE (and OHG) wegan, to move, to transport, cf L uehere (for weghere*), to carry or bear, whether on a horse or in a vehicle or on (in) a ship, i.e. to transport, itself akin also to Skt vāhātī, he transports in car or carriage: cf also 'Indo-European'. L uehere, ML vehere, has presp uehens, o/s uehent- (occurring in several learned E adjj), and pp uectus (IE weghtos*), ML vectus, s uect-, whence the abstract n uectiō and agent uector, with ML forms in v-. ML vectiō, o/s uectiōn-, becomes E vection; ML vector is adopted by E—cf the F vecteur.

11. From uehere perh derives uehemēns, hot-tempered, furious, violent, acc uehementem, ML v-, whence OF-MF vehement (EF-F véhé-), whence E vehement; derivative L uehementia yields late MF-F véhémence, whence E vehement; from uehere certainly derives uehiculum, whence EF-F véhicule, whence E vehicle, with vehicular coming from derivative LL uehicularis.

12. L uehere has the foll prefix-cpds affecting E: aduehere, to carry to, presp aduehens, o/s aduehent-, whence the E adj aduehent, to which reuehent (from L reuehere, to carry back) is complementary, and pp aduectus, whence both aduectiō, o/s aduectiōn-, whence advection, and aduecticius, whence advectitious; conuehere, to bring together, pp conuectus, whence LL conuectiō, o/s conuectiōn-, whence E vection; derivative L conueexus and its own derivative conuexitās, acc conuexitātem, yield MF-F convexe and late MF-F convexité, whence E convex and convexity; ēuehere, to carry out or forth, pp ēuectus, whence ēuectiō, o/s ēuectiōn-, whence E eviction; inuehere, to carry into, hence against, hence, esp as inuehi, to attack with words, yields 'to inveigh'; from the pp inuectus come both the LL adj invectius, whence the E adj invective, the E n being adopted from MF-F invective, itself from LL inuectiua (orātiō), violent speech, and the L n inuectiō, o/s inuectiōn-, whence E invection; prōuehere, to carry forward, pp prōuectus, whence both the E adj (obs) and v provect, and the LL prōuectiō, o/s prōuectiōn-, E provection; reuehere—see aduehere above;

transuehere, to carry across or over, pp transuectus, whence transuectiō, o/s uectiōn-, E transvection.

Latin uia, ML via, way

13. L uia (OL ueha, from IE weghya*), a way (other than a mere path), a road, a street, hence a route (a way habitually travelled), also a march, a journey, hence also a way of life, even a method, is of Italic origin—cognate with the words noted in 'Indo-European'. Hence E via, by way of, from uiā, abl of uia. L phrases common to most European languages are LL Uia (ML Via) Dolorosa, the Christians' name for that road by which, in Jerusalem, Christ went from judgement-hall to Golgotha; and uia (ML via) mediā, a, or the middle, way.

14. L uia has the foll simple derivatives relevant to E:

LL uiabilis, (of a road) passable, whence E viable (not from F vie, life, as sometimes stated); viability was perh suggested by F viabilité, a learned formation from ML uiabilis;

(E viaduct, anl with E aqueduct, from L aquae ductus, lit 'a water-conduit');

L uiāticus, of the way or journey, whence E viatic; the L neu uiaticum is used as n, money or provisions for journey, and is adopted by E, now mostly in Eccl sense (already in LL); from the LL later and secondary sense 'a journey' comes OF veiage, MF veage, viage, voiage, EF-F voyage, whence ME veage, viage, E voyage, 'to voyage' coming from MF-F voyager, with Can voyageur and E voyager coming from MF-F voyageur (from voyager).

15. L uia, ML via, exhibits the foll prefix-cpds relevant to E.

VL conuiāre*, conviāre, to travel with, whence OF-MF conveier, to accompany, to escort, later OF-MF-EF convoier, EF-F convoyer: whence E 'to convey' and E 'to convoy', with the E n deriving from OF-F convoi (from the v);

L dēuius (from dē uiā, down from the way, hence off the highroad), whence E devious; derivative LL dēuiāre, to turn off into another road, pp dēuidtus, whence both 'to deviate' and LL dēuiatiō, acc dēuiatiōnem, ML dēvi-, whence late MF-F déviation, whence E deviation, and ML dēviātor, whence E deviator;

VL inuiāre*, inviāre, to begin a journey or undertake one, hence to set on a journey, hence to send: OF-EF envoier, EF-F envoyer, pp envoyé, hence n (one who has been sent), whence E envoy, an emissary; derivative OF-F envoi (MF-EF envoy), something sent, esp a literary 'postscript', yields E envoi, anglicized as envoy; from F envois (pl of envoi), goods sent or forwarded, comes—prob via commercial F lettre d'envoi, letter of advice, and app via EE invoys, pl of invoiy, an early form of envoy—the E invoice;

L obuius (ML obv-), placed or coming in the way (ob uiam), yields E obvious; derivative LL obuiāre, to meet or encounter, hence to remedy, pp obuiātus, whence 'to obviate', and subsidiary LL obuiatiō, an encountering, o/s obuiatiōn-, whence E obviation;

L perulus, with a way through, hence penetrable, yields E pervious, the neg impervious deriving from L imperuius;

L praeuius, in the way before, leading the way, E previous;

(renvoy, MF-F renvoi, early var renvoy—from OF-F renvoier, renvoyer: re-, back + envoier, envoyer; cf envoy above;)

L trivius, divided into, or shared by, three ways, whence the n trivium, a three-roaded or -streeted crossways, hence ML trivium, the three liberal arts (cf quadrivium): hence also L trivialis, of, esp characteristic of, a cross-roads, hence common to all, banal: whence EF-F trivial, adopted by E, with triviality deriving from EF-F trivialité; the L neu pl trivia, ML trivia, is adopted by learned E for 'trifles'.

Indo-European

16. Most of the notable IE cognates have been adduced in paras 1, 2, 4, 7, 8, 10, 13, but the foil should also be noted: Go wigs, a road; Lith veže, a wheel-rut, and OSi vesti, to move, to go; Pamphylian Gr wekheto, let him transport, and Gr wokhos*, hence okhos, a chariot; OIr fén, cf wain in para 2. The OGmc r is app wagh-*; the IE r, wegh-, to go in, to transport by, a vehicle, a special application of IE wegh-, to move, set moving. This wegh-* is, I surmise, itself an extn of an ult we-, to move (vi), to walk, to go, hence to go away, to come to. This would mean that the wen- of L uenire, to come, is also an extn of IE we-, (of human being or any other animal) to move from one place or point to another; this, again, implies that, as wen- is the 'to come' extn, so the ir-, it-, of L ire, to go, supine itum, represents wir-, wit-, an extn in -r- or -t- of wī-*, wī-, with vowel differentiated in order to mark the differentiated sense 'to go away'. The Hit we-, s wen-, q.v. at VENUE, is relevant.

viability, viable. See prec, para 14.

Via Dolorosa. See VIA, para 13.

viaduct. See VIA, para 14.

vial. See PHIAL, para 2.

via media. See VIA, para 13.

viand. See VIVA, para 4.

viatic, viaticum. See VIA, para 14.

vibraculum. See VIBRATE, para 1.

vibrancy, vibrant. See para 1 of:

vibrate (whence vibrator), vibratile, vibration, vibrato, vibratory; vibraculum; vibrant, whence vibrancy; Vibrio (whence, anl, vibrioid), vibriion; vibrissa;—waif; waive, waiver; wave, v, hence n (whence wavy)—cf waver, whence wavering; wife, wifehood, wifely, wive; woman, whence—after the wife derivatives—womanish, womanize, womanhood, womanly;—wipe (v, hence n), whence wiper;—vipér (whence viperous), viperine; weever and wivern.—whip (n, v), whence whipcord, whiplash—and other cpds, esp whippoorwill; whence also whipper (note whippersnapper) and whipping—note whippet;—guipure.

Latin

1. L uibrāre, vt and vi, ML vibrāre, to shake rapidly, to brandish, to dart, has presp uibrans, o/s uibrant-, whence the E adj vibrant, and pp uibrātus, whence 'to vibrate'. Derivative LL uibrātō, acc uibrātōnem, o/s uibrātōn-, yields EF-F and perh independently E vibration; F and E vibratile has been formed anl, as also F vibratoire, E vibratory; vibrator comes straight from 'to vibrate'. L uibrāre, ML v-, becomes It vibrare, pp vibrato, used elliptically for movimento vibrato and adopted by Music everywhere. From the L s uibr-, L has formed uibrissa, usu in pl (-ae), those stiff hairs which grow in the nostrils, adopted by An and Zoo; SciL, vibraculum and Vibrio; learned F, vibriion, adopted by SciE.

2. Perh akin to L uibrāre (? for uiberāre*) is L uipera, ML vipera, a viper, f/e derived by the ancient Romans from uiupera*: uui- (ML vīvi-), c/f of uuius (ML vīvus), alive—+ a c/f of parere, to produce young, but nowadays usu associated with uibrāre. The L adj uiperinus becomes EF-F vipérin and, perh independently, E viperine; the L n becomes MF vipere (occ contr to vipre; EF-F vipère), whence, rather than direct from ML vipera, the E viper.

3. ML vipera becomes OF-F guivre, with ONF var wivre, whence E weever, a fish with venomous spines; ONF wivre also yields AF wivre, whence ME wivere, whence E wivern, a fabulous creature, the n perh suggested by that of EF-F vipérin—cf the excrescent -n of bittern. (EW.) Var: wyvern.

Germanic

4. The n whip, ME whippe or wippe, prob derives from ME whippen, wippen, whence, of course, 'to whip': and the ME v is akin to MD-D wippen, to brandish (cf MD wippe, wip, a whip)—to MHG wipfen, wippen, G wippen, to rock, and MHG wīfen, to twist—and to L uibrāre as well as to wipe (next para). 'To whip' has such derivative senses as 'to move smartly or nimbly' (vt and vi), whence that swift and lively dog the whippet. Note also both whippersnapper, one who snaps at the whip, presumption implying insignificance, and that nocturnal Am bird the whippoorwill from its call 'Whip poor Will!'

5. Closely related to the v whip is the v wipe, ME wipen, OE wipian: phon cf Go weipan and MD wipen, to wreathe, and MHG wifēn, to cause to swing, to twist or wind. Cf also guipure, a heavy, large-patterned silk, adopted from MF-F, which derives it (suffix -ure) from MF-F guiper, to cover with silk: Frankish wipān*, (in weaving) to envelop in silk—akin to MHG wifēn, Go weipan.

6. With wipe and guipure, cf 'to waive': ME waiven or weiven, to set aside, discard, abandon: AF waiver, welver, weyver, adopted (or slightly adapted) from ONF, which, characteristically, exhibits w- where OF exhibits gu-: OF gaiver, var guever: prob of Scan, certainly of Gmc, origin: cf ON veifa, to vibrate, OE wāēfan, to envelop or wrap up, and next para. The legal n waiver derives from AF weyver used as n.

7. Intimately related to ON -veifa, to vibrate, is ON veif, anything that is vibrating or flapping or waving: and from ON veif or its group derives, prob, the MF guaif, gaif, an abandoned or unclaimed animal, an estray, the adj g(u)aif being derivative; OE guaif becomes ONF waif, whence AF, whence ME-E, waif, orig a legal term. (EW derives MF gaif from L uacuus, empty, and OF gaiver from L uacāre, to empty; but a Scan origin seems, on all counts, the most likely.)

8. More intimately related to ON -veifa, to vibrate, is the syn ON -vāfa, itself akin to OE wāfan, to wave (vi), esp with the hands, ME waven, E 'to wave', whence the n wave, a billow. ME waven acquires—? anl with ON vāfra, to be restless, to hover about (cf OE waefre, restless)—the freq waveren, whence 'to waver': cf MHG-G wabern, to be in agitated motion (Walshe).

9. Thus we come, primarily to wife and secondarily to woman. Wife derives, via ME wif, a wife, a woman, from OE wif, orig a woman, hence also a wife: cf OFris (and OS) wif, OHG wib, MHG wip, G Weib, MD wief, wif, wiif, MD-D wijf, and ON vif, all orig and predominantly a woman. OE wif has the foll derivatives extant in E: wifshād, E wifehood; wifian, to take as wife, E 'to wive' (obsol), influenced by wives, pl of wife; wifitic, E wifely—cf MD wifelic; and housewife (ME husewif, contr huswif, whence hussy)—cf HOUSE. Sem, the Gmc word for a woman app means either 'the vibrator' (IE) or 'the veiled one' (OGmc)—cf ON vifinn, veiled (adj), akin to ON veifa, to vibrate, to wave (as a veil does in the wind); the former notion is the more basic and, hist, the more prob.

10. OE wif, woman, wife, has the important cpd wifmann (orig m), lit a 'woman, hence female, human being', the generic OE mann, E man, as opp the particular mann, man, male human being: OE var, the eased wimmann: ME wifmon and wimman (cf the pron of E women), then wumman (cf the pron of E woman) or womman, finally woman: E woman.

Indo-European

11. L uibrāre has s uibr-, but r uib-, from a syn IE weib-; and weib- is a var of weip-*, to tremble, to vibrate, attested by L uipera, also the Skt vépatē, he is agitated, he trembles. (Perh E gimp and wimple represent nasalizations.)

viburnum: ML form of L uīburnum, the wayfaring tree: perh not entirely f/e is the derivation L uia, a way or road + L laburnum.

vicar (whence vicarage), vicarial, vicariate, vicarious; vice-, as in vice versa and viceroi; vicissitude, whence, anl, vicissitudinous; viscount, viscountess, viscounty.—Prob week, whence week-end (whence week-ender) and weekly; perh weak (weaken, etc.).

1. All the vic- (and vis-) words derive from ML vicis, abl vice, L uicis, abl uice; L uicis was orig the gen of L uix* (acc uicem) or perh rather of L uicis*, LL uices—cf LL prima, secunda, tertia, etc., uices, the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, etc., time, and LL multis uicibus, many times, as well as LL uices agens (acc uices agentem), a deputy, and the LL pl uices, public offices. (Souter.) L uix* (for vics*) or uicis* has r uic-, prob akin to Gr eikein, weikein*, OS wikan, OFris wika (wiāka), to yield, OHG wehsal, MHG wehsel, G Wechsel, a change, ON vixl, an exchange: therefore prob to E week and weak (as below) and their OE forms and OGmc cognates, which are supported by, e.g., Lett wikt, to bend, and Skt vijātē, véjatē, he (it) rebounds or goes loose or trembles. (Hofmann; Walshe.)

Latin

2. The L abl uice occurs in uice uersa, ML vice versa, lit 'the occasion having been turned, i.e. changed', reciprocally, conversely, and in such cpds as vice-chancellor (from MF-F), -consul (from EF-F), -president, vicereine (adopted from F) and viceroi (from EF-F vice-roī); for vicegerent, see GERUND, para 2, s.f.

3. On the s and r uic-, L forms the adj uicārius, ML v-, whence E vicarious; used as n, L uicārius, a deputy (LL, a bishop's deputy), becomes OF-F vicaire, whence ME vicair, later viker, vicar, the last being retained by E. OF-F vicaire forms the EF-F adj vicarial, adopted by E, and the late MF-F n vicariat (perh rather from the ML n vicāriātus, gen -ūs), whence E vicariate.

4. Also from the L s uic- comes L uicissitūdō, whence MF-F vicissitude, adopted by E.

5. But from the abl uice (cf para 2 above) comes—cf LL uicedominus, administrator of a royal domain (Souter)—the ML viccomes, a count, whence—after F comte and its OF forms—OF vezcuntes, promptly reshaped to vizcomte, viscomte, later vicomte: hence ME vicounte, reshaped, after OF-MF vis-, to E viscount (s silent); the derivative OF viscomtesse, later vicomtesse, and MF viscomté, later vicomté, yield E viscountess and viscounty (s silent in both).

Germanic

6. Very prob akin to OHG wehsal (cf para 1 above) are OHG wehha, a week, var wohha ('o from e by influence of w: cf wohl': Walshe), MHG-G woche, OS wica, OFris wike, MD weec, weeck, wek, weke, D week, Go wikō, ON vika (cf Sw veck)—and OE wucu or wice or, videntimally, wicu, whence ME wike, later weke, whence E week: a week represents a turn-about, a change marked by the rest-day (Christian Sunday, Jewish Sabbath)—an artificial, man-ordained change or succession, opp the lunar month and the solar year.

7. Walshe, Webster and others relate—the 1st confidently, the 2nd tentatively—OHG wehsal, G Wechsel, and OHG wehha (G Woche), to OHG wichan, MHG wīchen, G weichen, OFris wika, OS wican, to yield or give way, fall back, ON vikia (vikja)—also to OHG weih, MHG-G weich, OE wāc, weak, and esp to the syn ON veikr, whence imm the ME weik, whence E weak, whence 'to weaken', whence the pa, vn weakening—weakling (-ling)—weakly—weakness, etc.

8. All three words app go back to an IE weik-* (ult wei-), to bend, weaken, change, with var weig- (as in Skt vijāṭē), as Hofmann proposes.

vice (1), vicious, viciousity; vitiabile, vitiate (obs adj, v), vitiation, vitiator; vituperable, vituperate, vituperation, vituperative.

1. Vice, moral failing or fault, is adopted from OF-F vice, from ML vicium, L uitium, with s uiti- and r uit-, perh from an IE wi-*, whence, e.g., Sl vina (cf Lett vaina), a fault. Derivative L uitiōsus, ML vicīōsus, yields OF-MF vicious (F vicieux, f vicieuse), adopted by E. L uitiōsus has derivative uitiōsitās, whence E viciousity (obsol).

2. Also from L uitium derives L uitiāre, to render faulty, to corrupt, whence LL uitiābilis, whence E vitiabile; the pp uitiātus yields 'to vitiate' (cf MF-F vicier), and its derivatives L uitiātio, o/s uitiātion-, and uitiātor, become E vitiation and vitiator.

3. L uitium acquires the cpd uituperāre, to find fault with, or faults in, hence to blame, to slander; the 2nd element (-perāre) is o.o.o.—but could it derive, irreg, from parere, to bring forth?

4. Uituperāre has derivative uituperābilis, whence E vituperable; from the pp uituperātus comes 'to vituperate'; from derivative L uituperātiō, o/s uituperātiōn-, E vituperation; from LL uituperātius, scornful, ML vituperātivus, E vituperative.

vice (2). See VISE.

vice-, as in vice-chancellor, -gerent, -roy, etc. See VICAR, para 2.

vicinage, vicinal, vicinity; vill, villa, village (whence villager)—ville, -ville; villein, ville(i)nage—cf villain, villainous, villainy.—wick, a village—cf viking.

1. L uīcus (s and r, uīc-), a cluster of houses, a city quarter, a city, but also a village, is akin to Skt veḍās (veśās), a house, viś-, a settlement, OSi vist, a village, Go weihis, village, and to Gr oikos (for woikos*), a house (cf E economy). The IE r is weik-, the social unit—a family in its home.

2. L uīcus has adj uīcinus, of the same city quarter or of the same village, hence neighbouring, whence the rare E vicine; uīcinus has derivative uīcinitās, neighbourhood (whether particular or generic), whence E vicinity; vicinage, however, comes into ME from MF visenage (EF-F voisinage), from VL vicinātus* (gen -ūs), itself from L uīcinus.

3. Akin to L uīcus is L uilla, a farmstead, a country house, hence, in LL, a village: whence the It, hence the E, villa, a country property, hence a country (thence a seaside) house. From LL uilla, ML v-, a village, comes OF-F ville, in medieval times a (large) village, a small township, whence the hist E vill. OF-F ville, a large town, a city, occurs in modern E and A PINn. L uilla has the adj uillāticus, of a rural domain (rare E villatic), whence ML villāgium, an assemblage of farms belonging to a (great) country house, MF-F village, adopted by ME-E.

4. L uilla, a country house, LL uilla, a village attached thereto, possesses its own LL adj, uillānus, used also as n, whence OF-F vilain, a peasant, whence AF vilein, whence E vilain, a free peasant, preserved as a feudal term, of which villain, orig syn with AF vilein, is a doublet, taken straight from MF, the pej sense of EF-F passing likewise into E. OF-F vilain has derivatives OF-MF vilenage, villénage, the latter adopted by E, with var villeinage—OF-MF vileneus, whence, influenced by vilain, the E villainous—and OF vilanie, MF-F vilenie, orig a feudal term, rendered pej by f/e association with OF-F vil, cheap, hence vulgar, despicable, whence ME vilenie, vilanie, whence E villainy.

5. Akin to Go weihis, a village (para 1 above), are the syn OFris wik and esp OE wīc, whence E wick, extant only in PINn, some being prob influenced by ON vik, a creek, a small bay, whence the syn E wick. Prob from ON vik is ON vikingr, ? 'an -ingr or man of the creeks and small bays' (cf OE wicing): the Norse vikings of C8–10 raided the coastline of Europe by landing in any suitable vik and thence plundering the neighbourhood.

vicious. See the 1st VICE, para 1. vicissitude. See VICAR, para 4.

victim, whence victimize, whence victimization.—wile, whence wily—cf guile, n (whence guileful) and v (archaic), whence 'to beguile', whence beguilement and beguiler.—witch, n and v (pa witching), witchcraft, witchery (witch, n + suffix -ery); bewitch (int be- + witch, v), pa bewitching.

1. Victim, late MF-F victime, ML victima, L uictima, a sacrificial victim, is akin to Go weihis, consecrated, holy, and weihan, to consecrate, OHG wihēn, MHG wihen, G weihen, to consecrate, and OHG wih, MHG wich, holy. L uictima, suffix -ima (cf L sacrima from sacr-, o/s of sacer, consecrated), has s, app uict- and r, app uic-: IE r, ? weik-*, ? to sacrifice.

2. Prob akin to L uictima is OE wicca (m), wicce (f), whence ME wicche, E witch; derivative OE wiccian, to be a witch, to practise the craft, leads us to 'to witch' and to OE wiccecraft, witchcraft. Cf MG wicken, syn with OE wiccian.

3. Akin to OE wicca, wicce, s wic-, is OE wigle, witchcraft, sorcery, whence OF-MF guile, ONF var wile*, whence late OE wil, ME wile, retained by E, with gradually weakening sense; and OF-MF guile, var guille, becomes ME gile, guile, the latter retained by E; derivative MF guiler yields 'to guile'. Perh, however, the OF-MF n comes rather from OHG, or OFris, wigila.

victor, Victoria (victoria), Victorian (whence Victoriana), victorine, victorious; victor ludorum—see ludicrous, para 2; victress; vincent (Vincent), vincible and invincible (whence, anl, invincibility), Invictus.—Other L prefix-cpds: convict (adj, n, v), conviction, convictive—and convince, whence conviction and, anl, convincible; evict, eviction—and evince, whence evincible.—R derivative: vanquish.—Gmc cognate: wight, brave.

1. The archaic wight, brave, ME wight, earlier viht, derives from ON vīgt, neu of vīgr, fighting-fit, akin to ON vīg, war, a battle, and to the L uic- of victor, ML victor; vanquish, ME venquishen, venquissen, derives from the vainquiss- (vanquiss-) parts of OF-MF vainquir, var of OF-MF veintre (EF-F vaincre), from ML vincere, L uincere, to overcome in battle.

2. L uincere, s uinc-, has presp uincens, o/s uincen-, whence the rare adj vincent and the PN Vincent; derivative uincibilis (uinc-+suffix -ibilis) yields vincible, and the neg inuincibilis yields, via MF-F, invincible. On the pp uictus, neg inuictus (used in mottoes and in W. E. Henley's title), are formed uictor, ML v-, adopted by E, and L uictoria, ML v-, OF-MF victorie (later victoire), adopted by ME, whence E victory; derivative L uictoriōsus becomes OF-MF victoriosus, MF-F victorieux (f victorieuse), whence E victorious. L uictoria, ML v-, was adopted as a PN, and Queen Victoria is commemorated in the carriage known as a victoria (E use from F). The dim F Victorine leads to victorine, a long-ended fur tippet—perh imm from a famous modiste or from a furrier's trade-name for the article.

3. L uictor has f uictrix, which has suggested E victress, formed—cf actor, actress—to complement victor.

4. L uincere nasalizes the L s and r uic-, from an IE wig-, var wik-, to fight: cf OIr fichim, I fight; OE wigan, Go weihan, to fight, OFris and OS wigand, OHG wigant, OE wigend, a warrior.

5. L uincere has two prefix-cpds relevant, in their ML v- shapes, to E:

conuincere, to convince, to prove, to refute, whence 'to convince'; pp conuictus yields both the adj, hence n, and the v convict; derivative LL conuictiō, o/s conuictiōn-, E (and F) conviction, and LL conuictiuus, E convictive; ēuincere (ē- used int), to overcome completely, to succeed in proving, LL to claim for oneself, yields 'to evince', orig as in L; pp ēuictus yields 'to evict', and from the derivative LL ēuictiō, acc ēuictiōnem, comes MF-F éuiction, whence E eviction.

victual, victualler, victuals. See VIVA, para 4.

vicuña, a SAM ruminant, is adopted from Sp, which thus adapts Quechuan huik' uña; the var vigonia derives from F vigogne, EF vicugne, from the Sp word.

vide, See!—cf vide infra and supra, see herein (esp below) and see above; videlicet (contr viz.); view, n, hence v; visa (n, hence v) and visé—visage (n, hence v), cf envisage—vis-à-vis—visibility, visible, and invisibility, invisible—visile—vision (n, hence v, with int envision), visionary (adj, hence n)—visit (n, v), visitant, visitation, visitatorial, visitor—visor, var visor—vista—visual, whence visual-ity and visualize, whence visualization.—Veda, Vedanta.—Prefix-cpds of L uidēre, ML uidēre, and of the pp uisus, ML uisus, incl the R, esp F, interventions and formations; and of the L int uisāre, ML v-, with its freq uisāre, ML v-: advice, advise (whence advisable)—cf aviso; evidence (n, hence v), evident, evidential; invidious and envious, envy (n, v); interview, n, hence v, whence interviewer; prewise, prevision (n, hence v); provide, providence, provident (with negg improvidence, improvident)—providore, provedore—provision (n, hence v), whence provisional—proviso, prudence, prudent; purvey, purveyance, purveyor—cf purview; review, n, hence v, whence reviewal and reviewer—cf revue; revis (v, whence revisal and the n revise and reviser), revision (whence revisionism, revisionist); revisit; supervise, supervision, supervisor; survey (v, whence n and pa, vn surveying), surveyor.—For clairvoyance, clairvoyant, see CLEAR.—Gmc cognates: wit—n (whence witless) and v-witty, whence wittiness; twit; wise, adj, n, v—cf wiseacre, wise-crack, wisenheimer—wisdom; wizard, whence wizardry; guidance, guide; for righteous, see REX, para 2; for the Gr cognates, see the sep HISTORY and IDEA; for C, DRUID.

Latin

1. The direction vidēre is the imp sing of ML vidēre, L uidēre, s uid-, to see; videlicet=vidēre licet, it is permissible to see, hence namely, contr viz.

2. The presp is uidens, o/s uiden-; the pp uisus, s uis-, and on this s are formed E visile, anl with audile and tactile; L uisibilis, whence OF-F visible, adopted by E, the derivative LL uisibilitās, acc uisibilitātem, yielding EF-F visibilité, whence E visibility, the negg inuuisibilis, LL inuuisibilitās, acc -itātem, yielding MF-F invisible, adopted by E, and EF-F invisibilité, whence E invisibility; L uisiō, acc uisiōnem, becomes OF-F vision, adopted by E, the F derivative visionnaire leading to E visionary; the n uisus (gen -ūs), whence both LL uisuālis, (EF-F uisual and) E visual, and OF-MF vis, a face, whence OF-F visage, adopted by E, the derivative EF-F envisager, to confront, yielding 'to envisage', and MF visiere (EF-F visière), AF viser, adopted by ME, whence E visor, occ vizor, and late MF-F vis-à-vis (adv), face to face, adopted by E, and—neu pl of pp uisus—L uisa, things seen, hence an endorsement, adopted by EF-F, with var visé, both F forms being in turn adopted by E.

3. L uidēre becomes OF-MF veoir (late MF-F voir), pp veü (F vu), f veüe used as n, F vue, whence E view, whence 'to view'; it also becomes It vedere, with pp veduto and visto, f vista, which, used as n, is adopted by E.

4. L uidēre, pp uisus, has int uisere, vt and vi, to seek to see, go to see, visit, examine, whence E 'to wise'; uisere has freq uisitāre, to go often to see, to see often, with presp uisitans, o/s uisitant-, whence E visitant, and with pp uisitātus, whence LL uisitātiō, acc uisitātiōnem, and LL uisitātor: whence OF-F uisitor, OF-F visitation, and, imm from visiter, MF-F visiteur: whence 'to visit', visitation, AF visitour, E visitor, with visitatorial suggested by LL uisitātor.

Sanskrit

5. With L uidēre, ML uidēre (s vid-), to see, cf

Skt veda, I know (? orig. I see), from—or intimately related to—which is Skt veda, knowledge, (esp) sacred knowledge, hence a book containing it, whence E Veda, a collection of early Skt sacred works; derivative Skt Vedānta = Veda + anta, end.

Germanic

6. Akin to both the Skt and the L words cited above are the Gmc wit and wise, with, of course, their cognates. The n wit, descending unchanged from OE, is akin to OFris witt, OS giwitt, (ge- prefix), OHG wizzē, MHG witze, knowledge, wisdom, G Witz, (good) sense, (modern-sensed) wit, Go witi, ON vit (cf Da vid and Sw vett)—cf Skt vidyā, knowledge. Derivative OE wittig, var wittig, becomes E witty, orig wise, with sem change accompanying that of the n.

7. OE wit prob derives from OE witan, to know, wāt, (I) know, ME wot, whence the archaic wot—ME witen—E 'to wit', obs except in 'to wit', namely: cf OFris wita, OS witan, OHG wizzan, MHG wizzen, G wissen, Go wait, I know (lit, I have seen), pres perfect inf witan, MD weiten, wieten, wetten, MD-D weten, ON vita.

8. Akin to OE wit and witan is OE wis, knowledgeable, esp if very much so, hence sagacious, ME wis, ? wus, wise, E wise: cf OFris and OS wis, shrewd, discerning, OHG wīsi, MHG wīse, knowledgeable, learned, experienced, G weise, sagacious, Go unweis, unwise—cf OFris unwiss, OE unwīs, E unwise; cf also MD wies, wis, wise, wiis, MD-D wijs, and ON vīss. Derivative OE wisdōm (cf the id OFris) becomes wisdom; derivative ME wisard (? cf MF guischart) becomes wizard, orig a very shrewd (int-ard), a wise, man, hence esp in magic, whence the adj (debased in World War II).

9. Intimately related to OE wis, knowledgeable, is the OE n wīse, knowledge, hence a knowing how to do, thence a manner of doing, things, E wise, obsl except in such phrases as in any, in no, wise, in any, no, way or manner; also intimately related is the OE v wisian, to render knowledgeable or shrewd, hence to guide or advise, E 'to wise', obs except in dial, the A sl 'wise up' deriving from the adj, as do wisecrack, a wittily funny remark (crack, a witticism), and A sl wisenheimer (occ contr to wiseheimer), ref the G PN ending -heimer, esp in Guggenheimer. Wisecracker, however, comes from MD wijssegger, a soothsayer (cf MD wijsseggen, to say true), from OHG wissago, f/e for wizago, a prophet (cf OE witega)—cf OHG wizagōn, with f/e var wissagōn. Note that both OE wise and OE wisian have numerous OGmc cognates.

10. For righteous ('right-wise'), see REX, para 2. 'To twit' is aphetic for ME atwīten, from OE aetwītan, to reproach (aet- being E at), the orig sense being to take cognizance of. The even less imm recognizable 'to guide' (whence guidance) derives from MF-F guider, itself from the source of the E n guide: MF-F guide, from OProv (? and It) guida, app from the OProv v guidar, itself from Frankish witan*, to show the direction to, clearly akin to OHG wisēn (MHG wisen, G weisen), to show, point out, therefore to OE wisian (as in para 9).

Indo-European

11. Besides the Skt, L, OGmc words, already noted, there exist Gr idein, for widein*, to see, oida, for woida*, (I have seen, hence) I know, OSI vědē, I know, OP waidimai, we know, OIr ro-fess, it is known, W gwidd (g-widd), knowledge. (For the Gr cognates, see the sep HISTORY and IDEA.) The IE r is weid-*, to see (truly), therefore to know. (E & M.)

Latin Prefix-Compounds

12. L prefix-cpds are of uisitāre (cf para 4)—uisere (ib)—uidēre. Uisitāre has only one, and that at the F stage: revisit (re, again + visiter), whence 'to revisit'.

13. Uisere has two that affect E:

VL aduīsāre* (for aduīsere), to give one's opinion to, whence MF-F *avis*er (perh, however, a F cpd of viser, from L uisāre), whence ME avisen, whence (after L ad) the reshaped E 'to advise', whence adviser, with advisement reshaping the MF-EF avisement (from *avis*er); but VL aduīsāre* derives from VL aduīsūm*, a view, hence an opinion, from L uīsum, prop the neu sing of uīsus, seen (cf para 2), whence MF-F avis, adopted by ME, whence the reshaped E advice,—but MF-F avis derives rather from OF-MF Ce m'est avis, from OF Ce m'est a vis, lit 'this, to me, is for (an) opinion', itself from OF Ce m'est vis, as B & W propose, the vis being OF-MF vis, from L uīsus (gen -ūs), prop 'sight, vision', hence 'appearanc, aspect', hence 'face'. Cf F, hence E, aviso, a dispatch boat, adopted from Sp, where it is elliptical for barca de aviso, a vessel of—i.e., employed in carrying—(letters of) advice.

L reūsere, to go again (re-) to see, ML revisere, whence MF-EF reviser (EF-F ré-), whence 'to revise'; derivative L reūsio, acc reūsionem, becomes MF-EF revision (EF-F ré-), adopted by E, with E reviser perh indebted to EF-F reviser.

14. L uidēre, ML v-, has, in the prefix-cpds, presp -uidens, o/s -uident-, ML -vident-, derivative n -uidentia, ML -videntia, app a derivative n -uisus, ML -uisus, derivative n -uisiō, ML -visiō, acc -visionem. Add F -voir, c/f of voir, to see, and -vue, c/f of vue, vision, sight, hence a sight, and you can easily follow the genesis of the foll L prefix-cpds, notes being added, where necessary, for R interventions:

L ēuidēs, acc ēuidentem, and ēuidentia, as if from ēuidēre* but, in the fact, Ciceronian trans of Gr Phil terms: MF evident, evidence, EF-F é-: E evident, evidence;

OF-F entrevoir, to see imperfectly (connoted by entre, L inter, between), pp entreveü, later entreveu, whence the late MF-F entrevue, whence the reshaped E interview;

L inuidēre, to see intensively, hence to envy, whence inuidia and its adj inuidiōsus, the latter affording E invidious, the former, via VL inveia* the OF-F envie, E envy; derivative OF-F envier, whence late MF-F enviable, and MF envieus, later envieux (f envieuse), yield E 'to envy'—enviable—envious;

L praevidēre, to foresee, pp praevisus, whence both 'to previse' and LL praevisiō, o/s praevisiōn-, E prevision;

L prōvidēre, to foresee, hence to provide for or against, whence 'to provide'; presp prōvidens, o/s prōvident-, E provident, and its LL derivative prōvidentia, OF-F providence, adopted by E, whence, anl, providential; providore is f/e for provedor, from Sp proveedor (from proveer, L prōvidēre); the L pp prōvisus, ML prōvisus, abl prōvisio, (it) having been provided, gives us proviso; L prōvisio (from pp prōvisus), acc prōvisiōnem, becomes MF-F provision, adopted by E;

L prūdēns has, via prōdens*, the derivative adj prūdēns, foreseeing, acc prūdēntem, whence OF-F prudent, adopted by E; derivative L prudentia becomes MF-F, whence E, prudence; E prudentia=L prudentia+E adj suffix -al; the L neg imprūdēns, imprudentia, yield MF-F, whence E, imprudent, imprudence;—these words, therefore, are doublets of providence, provident, providential, improvident, etc;

L prōvidēre, ML prōv-, becomes OF-MF porveoir (later pourvoir), var porveier (ils porveient, they foresee or provide), ME porveien, purveien, E 'to purvey'; the derivative MF porveance and porveor, varr in pour-, yield, via ME, the E purveyance and purveyor; from the OF-MF pp porveū, MF pourveū (EF-F pourvu), comes the E n purview;

L reuidēre, to see again, ML rev-, becomes OF-MF reveoir (MF-F revoir), pp reueū, whence MF reueū, EF-F revue, whence the E nn review and, with sense arising in C19 F, revue;

L superuidēre, to see over (super), to oversee, pp superuisus, whence both 'to supervise' and ML supervisor, adopted by E, whence, anl, supervision; suggested by ML supervidēre, but formed from sor, later sur, over+veoir, later voir, to see, is OF-MF sorveeir, sorveoir, MF surveeir, surveoir, whence 'to survey'; derivative MF surveor, surveoyr, yields, via AF surveiour, the E surveyor.

videlicet. See prec, para 1.

vidual, viduate, viduous. See WIDOW, para 2.

vie, presp and vn vyng; envy, to vie; invitation, invitatory (adj, n), invite (pa inviting).

1. 'To vie' derives from ME vien, short for envien, whence the archaic envy, to strive; and ME envien derives from OF-EF envier, to challenge (in gambling), itself from ML invitāre, to invite, L inuitāre, o.o.o., perh related to L inuitus, unwilling, itself o.o.o. (? from an adj uitus*—cf Skt vītās, agreeable, pleasant: E & M).

2. L inuitāre, ML inv-, becomes MF-F inviter, whence 'to invite'. On the pp inuitātus are formed inuitātō, acc inuitātōnem, and the LL adj inuitātōrius, whence the ML n invitātorium: whence MF-F invitation, adopted by E, and the E adj and n invitatory.

vielle. See FIDDLE, para 3.

Vienna, like its G name Wien, comes from ML Vindobona, L Uindobona, o.o.o.: perh of C origin—? either 'White (uind) City' or 'Vindo's City'. Some of the derivatives—e.g., Vienna bread—are apposite; others—e.g., Vienna steak—merely fanciful.

view, whence viewy (cf the F voyant). See VIDE, para 3.

vigil, vigilance, vigilant, vigilante, vigilate, vigilation. See VIGOR, para 5.

vigneron, vignette. See VINE, para 3.

vigonia. See VICUÑA.

vigor (AE) or vigour—vigoroso and vigorous; invigorant and invigorate, whence, anl, invigoration, invigorative, invigorator—whence reinvigorate, reinvigoration—cf revigorate, revigoration.—vigil, vigilance, vigilant, vigilante, vigilate, vigilation—cf vedette; invigilate, whence, anl, invigilation and invigator; pervigilate, pervigilation, pervigilium; reveille; surveillance, surveillant.—vegete, vegetable (adj and n), vegetal, vegetant, vegetarian, vegetate, vegetation, vegetative.—Gmc cognates: waft, v (hence n), whence waftage; wait (n, v), waiter (whence, anl, waitress)—cf await; wake (v, whence waking; hence n, whence wakeful)—waken (whence pa, vn wakening), cf awake (adj, v), awaken (whence pa, vn awakening); watch, v (whence watcher and pa, vn watching) and n (whence watchdog, watchful, watchkeeper, watchless, watchmaker, watchman, watchtower, watchword).—blvouac, n, hence v.

Indo-European

1. In order to provide a vantage-point from which to inspect the seemingly disparate senses, the less contradictory forms, of the words and ideas listed or implied above, it is well to remember that there does exist a well-attested IE r weg-, from which all the forms have, or at the least could have, derived or diverged, and that the basic idea 'good health' implying 'vigour', or perh 'vigour' implying 'good health', is borne out with a quite astonishing uniformity. This r weg-, with var wēg-* and with the 'thinning' wig-*, is confirmed by the foll representative, but not exhaustive, list: Skt vāgas, vājas, strength, vigour, and vājāyati, he incited (? orig 'invigorated'); L uegēre (s and r ueg-), to impart strength (occ also movement) or 'life' to, to excite, and L uigēre (s and r uig-), to be strong or vigorous, to be in good health—a clear example of 'thinned' sense marked by 'thinned' sound; the L adj uigil, in excellent health, wide-awake—here we begin to perceive the relationship of the L to the Gmc words; OHG wahhēn, MHG-G wachen (s and r wach-, ? for wagh-*), OE wacian (r wac-), to be awake, to watch—cf OHG wecchēn, MHG-G wecken, OE weccean, to waken (vt), both with r wecch-, ? for wegh-*.

Latin: uegēre

2. L uegēre, ML v-, to animate or enliven, to invigorate, to arouse, s ueg-, has pp uegetus, used as adj 'lively, vigorous', whence E vegete. L uegetus has derivative uegetāre, to animate, in LL to be animated, esp (of plants) to grow, pp uegetātus, whence 'to vegetate'; derivative LL adj uegetābilis, refreshing, vivifying, becomes the EF adj, hence also n, végétāble, whence the E adj and n vegetable; derivative ML uegetātiō, acc uegetātiōnem, and ML uegetātivus yield EF-F végétation and MF-F végétatif, f -ive, whence E vegetation and vegetative. The E adj vegetant comes from ML uegetant-, o/s of uegetans, LL u-, presp of LL uegetāre, (vi) to grow. From ML uegefāre comes the ML adj uegetālis, whence EF-F végétal, whence E vegetal; EF-F végétal has derivative végétarien, whence végétarianisme: whence E vegetarian, vegetarianism.

Latin: uigēre

3. L uigēre, to be in good health or vigorous, has derivative uigor, ML vigor, whence OF-MF vigor, MF var vigour (EF-F vigueur), whence ME vigor, vigour, the latter becoming E, and the former, AE; derivative ML vigorōsus suggested OF-EF vigorous (EF-F vigoureux), adopted by E, and certainly produced It vigoroso, adopted by Mus.

4. L uigor engenders LL uigorāre, to be strong, which perh prompted the EF envigorer (en, L in+OF-EF vigor+inf -er), whence, anl, the E 'to invigorate', whence, anl, invigorant and invigoration; cf ML revigorāre (re-+vigorāre, L u-), to recharge with health or vigour, pp revigorātus, whence 'to revigorate', whence revigoration.

Latin: uigil

5. L uigil, ML vigil, wide-awake, alert, has var uigilis, neu pl uigilia, whence the f sing uigilia, a period of wakefulness, a keeping watch, whence OF vigilie, MF-F vigile, E vigil. Derivative uigilāre, to remain awake, to keep watch, has presp uigilans, o/s uigilant-, whence uigilantia, and pp uigilātus, whence LL uigilātiō, o/s uigilātiōn-: late MF-F vigilant, vigilance, both adopted by E; 'to vigilate' and vigilation. ML vigilāre becomes Sp velar, whence the n vela, a watching, a keeping guard, hence a guard or sentinel, with dim veleta, whence, by f/e influence of It vedere, to see, the It military vedetta, whence EF-F vedette, adopted by E, orig as a military and then also as a naval term.

6. Uigilāre has three prefix-cpds affecting E: zuigilāre (z- used int) becomes VL-ML exvigilāre*, whence OF-MF esveillier (MF-EF esveiller, EF-F éveiller), to awaken, to rouse, whence (re-, again) MF resveillier, MF-EF resveiller, EF-F réveiller, vr se r., whence Reveillez-vous, Wake up!, whence E reveille (contrast F réveil); inuigilāre, to keep watch in- or over, pp inuigilātus, whence 'to invigilate'; peruigilāre (per- used int), to keep long and faithful watch, pp peruigilātus, whence the literary 'to pervigilate'; derivative peruigilium survives esp in the title Pervigilium Veneris, an exquisite anonymous LL poem lovingly translated by Arthur Quiller-Couch.

From ML vigilāre comes OF-F veiller, to watch, whence the EF-F surveiller, to watch sur- (L super) or over, presp surveillant used as adj, hence also as n, whence EF-F surveillance, supervision, both adopted by E.

Germanic: waft

7. 'To waft' is very much a subsidiary of watch (para 10), for it derives, in C16 and by b/f, from the late ME-EE wafter, a convoy of ships, itself app from MD-D (and MLG-LG) wachter, prob from a late MD-ED var wahter*, from late MD-ED wahten (the h heavily aspirated), a var of MD-D (and MLG-LG) wachten, to watch, to guard.

Germanic wait

8. 'To wait,' ME waiten, comes from waitier, the ONF form of OF-MF gaitier (gwaitier; EF-F guetter), to watch, from Frankish wāhtōn: cf OHG wahhēn, to be wide-awake, to watch, and, in general, the vv adduced in the next two paras. From ME waiten comes ME waitere, E waiter, orig a watchman: cf ONF waitiere. The E n wait, orig a watchman, a guard, comes from ME waite, adopted from ONF waite, orig a watching, a being on guard, itself either from the syn OHG wahia or from the ONF v.

Germanic wake

9. 'To wake', orig to watch, to keep vigil, derives from ME waken—pt wok, whence E woke, and pp waken, whence E woken (now less common than waked)—OE wacan (vi), to wake, prob influenced by the cognate ME wakien—pt and pp waked—from OE wacian, var of OE waecan, to be awake, to watch: cf OFris wakia, OS wakōn, OHG wahhēn, MHG-G wachen, Go wakan, ON vaka. 'To wake' is a doublet of 'to watch'.

Germanic watch

10. 'To watch,' ME wacchen, OE waecan, wacian, is intimately related to OE wacan: therefore of the prec para. Very closely akin to OE waecan, if not, indeed, derived therefrom, is the OE n waecce, ME wacche, E watch, orig a being awake, a vigil, a guarding, hence a sentinel, hence also a division of the night, hence any allotted division of time, hence that which measures division of time, esp a small chronometer.

Germanic await and awake, awaken

11. Whereas ONF waitier has prefix-cpd awaitier, to wait (a, F à, L ad) for, whence ME awaiten, whence 'to await', OE wacian has prefix-cpd āwacian (pt āwacode, E awoke), whence 'to awake'; and OE waecan has caus āwacnan (pt āwōc, E awoke), whence 'to awaken'; the latter OE v has influenced the passage of the former. The adj awake is a worn-down form of awaken, obs pp of awake. Also relevant to 'to wake' and G wachen, is bivouac, adopted from F, where it occurs earliest as biwacht: Swiss bīwaecht, corresp to G Beiwacht, var of Beiwache, a watching, or a guarding, bei-, near to: orig a supplementary night-guard by the entire force.

viking. See VICINAGE, para 5.

vile, whence vileness; revile, whence revilement; for villy and vilipend, see the element villi-.

'To revile' comes from OF-MF reviler, to cheapen, to despise (re-, used int+vil+-er): and OF-F vil, whence E vile, comes from ML vilis, L uilis, cheap, hence very, hence too, cheap, hence of little moral value, hence base, evil: o.o.o.

vill; villa; village. See VICINAGE, para 3.

villain, villainous, villainy. See VICINAGE, para 4. Cf:

villanelle, adopted from EF-F, derives from It villanella, a village song (or dance), from villano, of a village: cf VILLAIN.

villatic. See VICINAGE, para 3.

ville. See VICINAGE, para 3.

villein, villeinage. See VICINAGE, para 4.

villose, villosity, villous, villus. See VELVET, para 1.

vim. See VIS, para 1.

vinaceous, vinage. See VINE, para 5.

vinaigrette, vinaigrous. See VINE, para 5.

vinal. See VINE, para 5.

vinasse. See VINE, para 5.

vincent, Vincent. See VICTOR, para 2.

vinculum. See the 1st PERIWINKLE, para 2.

vindemial, vindemiate. See VINE, para 7.

vindicate, vindication, vindicative, vindicator. See DICT, para 20.

vindictive. See DICT, para 20.

vine (whence viny), vinery, vineyard; vineal, vineatic; vinic; vino; vinose, vinosity, vinous; vinolent, vinaceous, vinage, vinasse; vinaigre, vinaigrette, vinaigrous; vinegar; vigne, vigneron, vignette; vintage; vintner.—wine (n, hence v), whence winy; wineberry and whinberry; winer and winery.—oenin, oenology; cf the element oeno-.

Indo-European

1. All these words are from either L or Gr, but neither the L nor the Gr sources are of IE origin: the IE words and their Sem and Ham cognates come, or app come, from Medit, not the IE from Sem or Ham, nor vice versa. The Medit base is attested, in IE, by Gr oinos, for woinos*, wine, and oinē for woinē*, vine, by the corresp L uinum and uinea, by the Alb vēne, by the Arm gini, and by Etruscan vinu; in Sem by H jajin and, in part, by Abyssinian wain; in Ham, by—in part—Abyssinian wain, and perh by Eg kam, wine, and hemi, a kind of wine. The initial-consonant varr w (u) and v, g and j, h and k, are regular enough; the final-consonant var from n to m (Eg only) is expectable; the vowel-range—oi, i, ai, ē, ē, ā—is narrower than might have been postulated.—The C words (f in Ir and Ga, gu- or gw- in Br, Cor, W) are irrelevant, for, like the Gmc, they derive from L. Whereas Hofmann proposes origin in Asia Minor or in Caucasia, Webster prefers the Aegean, and Boisacq hesitates between the Aegean and Caucasia (cf Georgian qvino); the EnciIt suggests Armenia, but an Armenia perh deriving it from the Orient; Walshe says 'prob of Caucasian origin'.

Greek

2. Gr oinos, for woinos*, wine, and oinē, for woinē*, vine, have not entered everyday E; they produce such erudite or such Sci terms as oenology, (cf the element -logy, q.v. at -loger), wine-lore, and Chem oenin (suffix -in), and oinomancy, divination (cf the element -mancy) by means of wine, esp its colour. But Gr (w)oinos and (w)oinē are important for their parallelism to L uinum and uinea.

Latin: uinea, the vine

3. L uinea (ML vinea), prop the f of uineus, rare adj of uinum, becomes OF-MF vine, adopted by E; but OF-MF vine promptly acquires the var vigne, whence both MF-F vigneron, wine-grower, adopted by E, and MF-F vignette, orig an ornament in the form of vine-leaves and twigs and tendrils, likewise adopted by E.

4. L uinea has two adj, uineālis and uineāticus, whence E vineal and vineatic; and E vine two extant derivatives, winery and vineyard, f/e for wineyard (OE wīngeard).

Latin: uinum, wine

5. L uinum becomes OF-F vin, as in vin ordinaire and vin rosé. Uinum has—besides uineus—the adj uīnāceus, uīnālis, uīnolentus (wine-loving, drunken), uīnōsus: whence E vinaceous, vinal, vinolent, vinose and, prob via OF-F vineus (f-euse), vinous; derivative LL uīnōsitās, o/s uīnōsitāt-, yields vinosity (cf F vinosité). F vin has the simple derivatives vinage and vinasse, both adopted by E, and the cpd vinaigre, dim vinaigrette (adopted by E), whence both E vinaigrous and E vinegar (cf EAGER, para 2); for such cpds as viniculture and vinology, see the element vin-. E vinic=ML vinum+adj suffix -ic.

6. Two notable E words remain: vintage and vintner. The latter is a contr of ME vintner, mdfn of viniter, from MF-EF vinetier (vinotier), ML vinētārius or -ōrius, a vintner, itself perh suggested either by L uīnētum, a vineyard, or by L uīnior, a wine-grower.

7. Vintner has f/e intervened in the formation of E vintage from ME vinage, var of vendage, for vendange: EF-F vendange, MF-EF vendenge: ML vindēmia: L uīndēmia, a season's 'harvest' from the grape-vines: uinum+dēmere, to take off or from (cf the -deem of redeem) +suffix -ia. Uīndēmia has LL adj uīndēmialis, whence E vindemial, and uīndēmīāre, pp uīndēmīātus, whence 'to vindemiate', both E words being rare and literary.

English wine from Latin uinum

8. L uinum becomes—cf F vin in para 5—OE wīn, ME wīn, E wine: cf Go wein, OHG(-MHG)-OS-OFris wīn, ON vin. From wine come winery (cf para 4)—winer, orig a vintner—winebibber— and wineberry, f/e alteration of OE wīnberige, a grape, whence, direct, the obs winberry, whence, by f/e equation of wīn to WHIN, the current whinberry.

vineal, vineatic. See prec, para 4.

vinegar. See EAGER, para 2, and cf VINE, para 5.

viney; vineyard. See VINE, para 4.

vinolent; vinose, vinosity, vinous. See VINE, para 5.

vintage. See VINE, para 7.

vintner. See VINE, para 6.

viol, viola. See FIDDLE, para 3.

violaceous. See IODINE, para 2. violate, violation, violator. See VIS, para 2. violence, violent. See VIS, para 3.

violet. See IODINE, para 2.

violin, violinist; violoncello, violoncellist. See FIDDLE, paras 3 and 4.

viper, viperine. See VIBRATE, para 2.

virago. See VIRILE, para 2.

viro. See VERDANT, para 1, s.f. virescent. See VERDANT, para 1.

virgate. See the 1st VERGE, para 2.

virgin (n, hence adj), virginal, the name Virginia, virginity, Virgo; devirginate, whence, anl, devirgination.

1. E & M have declared that, like the syn Gr parthenos, L uirgō (ML virgō), a human female not yet 'known' by a man, is o.o.o. Perh uirgō is a contr of uirigō*, itself a contr of uirīgō*: uirī-, c/f of uir, a man + ig-, c/f of eg-, r of egēre, to lack + nom ending -ō: a girl or a woman that has lacked a man. (Again ex castris ignorantiae: Could parthenos be an 'easing' of parsthenos*, contr of parasthenos*, with n-suffix -os substituted for adj-suffix -ēs, parasthenēs* (cf asthenēs, weak: a-, not, without) meaning 'short of (complete) strength': para, beside, just missing + sthenos, strength, prowess: a human female lacking that fulfilment, that better health and strength, which ensue upon marriage?) Webster, however, suggests that uirgō is akin to L uirga, a supple and flexible branch: 'the supple one'?

2. L uirgō, whence the zodiacal Virgo, has acc uirginem (o/s uirgin-), ML v-, whence OF virgine, OF-MF virgine (MF virge, late MF-F vierge), ME virgine, E virgin. The derivative adj uirginālis becomes OF-F virginalis, adopted by E, and the derivative n uirginitās, acc uirginitatem, becomes OF-F virginité, whence E virginity; the derivative PN Uirginius has f Uirginia, adopted by E, whence, after 'the Virgin Queen', the E province, then A state, of Virginia.

3. From the o/s uirgin-, ML virgin-, ML formed dēvirgināre, to deflower, pp dēvirginātus, whence 'to devirginate'.

virgule. See the 1st VERGE, para 2.

virial. See VIS, para 1.

virid, viridian, viridine. See VERDANT, para 2.

virile, virility; virago.—virtual, virtue, virtuosity, virtuous, virtuous.—Gmc: obs wer; werewolf.

1. Virile and virility derive from late MF-F viril, virilité: ML virilis, virilitās: L uirilis, whence uirilitās, acc uirilitātem: L uir, a man (opp woman): akin to Skt vīras, Lith vīras; Go wair, OFris, OS, OHG, OE wer, with OE var were, as in werewolf, lit 'man-wolf', whence E werewolf (cf WOLF); ON verr; OIr fer, W gwr, OC etymon viros*. The IE r alternates between wir-* and wīr-*. Perh ult akin to L uīs, strength, pl uīres.

2. Irreg from L uir comes L uirāgō, a woman as strong and brave as a man: whence late MF-F virago (pej), adopted by E.

3. Formed from L uir is uirtus, much as iuventus, youth, from iuuenis, young; orig '(male) strength', it soon comes to mean both 'courage' and 'moral worth' (in women, narrowed to 'chastity'): OF-F vertu, adopted by ME: hence, reshaped after L, the E virtue. Derivative ML virtuālis yields EF-F virtuel and E virtual, and derivative LL uirtuōsus becomes OF-MF vertuos, with var vertuosus (cf EF-F vertueux, f -ueuse)—ME vertuous—reshaped E virtuous. The It derivative virtuoso (imm from virtū), used as n, acquires sense 'man of exceptional merit or talent' and, as such, is adopted by E (cf EF-F virtuose); F vertu occurs in objets de vertu, adopted by E, and It virtù in the collective E syn virtu; F virtuosité (imm from F virtuose) becomes E virtuosity.

virose, virosis. See VIRULENCE, para 1. virtual, virtue, virtuosity, virtuoso, virtuous. See VIRILE, para 3.

virulence, virulent; virose, virosis; viruliferous—cf virific.—ooze, whence oozy; contrast ooze, sap, juice, whence 'to ooze' or percolate.—weasel, whence the adj weaselly and the phrase (Theodore Roosevelt's) weasel words, from a weasel's sucking out the contents of an egg.

1. L uīrus, ML virus, the sap or juice of plants, slime, whence, from poisonous plants, poison: adopted by F and E, which add several nuances. L uīrus is akin to Skt viṣa, Av viša- or viša-, and, phon more remote, Mlr fī; cf also paras 2 and 3. There are two derivative L adj: uirulentus, whence LL uirulentia, and uīrōsus, whence, resp, late MF-F virulent, EF-F virulence, both adopted by E, and E virose, which has perh prompted SciL virosis. Whereas E virific=ML uiris+formative -i-+fic, making, viruliferous=E virulent+formative -i-+ferous, bringing, hence causing.

2. Prob akin to L uīrus are ON veisa, slime, and OE wāse, slimy mud, whence ME wose, whence E ooze. Ooze, mire, has app been influenced by ooze, sap or juice, from OE wōs, akin to the syn MLG wōs and Lett vasa. In both E words, there has been a wearing-down, comparable to that of Gr íos (for wīśōs*).

3. Perh akin to L uīrus and esp to the uīrus-related Skt viṣra, musty-smelling, is OE wesole, wesle, ME wesele, E weasel, certainly akin to OHG wisala, MHG wisele, G Wiesel, MD wesele, wesel, wessel, D wezel, and ON visla—perh cf OHG wisa, MHG wise, G Wiese, a meadow, ON veisa, a puddle, OE wās, mire, dampness. (Walshe.)

4. The IE r is prob wēs-*.

vis, as in vis comica; vim; virial.—violable (neg inviolable), violate, violation, violator.—violence, violent.

1. Vim, energy, is adopted from the acc of ML vīs, L uis, strength, esp as exercised against someone, hence violence; the ML vīs occurs in vis comica, the comic spirit. The L pl is uirēs, with s uir-, whence G Virial, the E virial of Phys. L uis is akin to the approx syn Homeric Gr is, for wis*, and Skt váyas. The IE r is wi-*, strength, vigour.

2. The IE r wi-*, L uir-, occurs in L uiolāre, to force, to do violence to, hence esp to rape (a woman). Derivative uiolābilis and its LL neg inuiolābilis yield E violable and inviolable, with inviolability deriving from LL inuiolābilitās. From the pp uiolātus come E 'to violate' and the archaic adj violatē (neg inviolatē), and also L uiolātio (acc uiolātionem) and L uiolātor, whence MF-F violation, adopted by E, and MF-F violateur, whence—unless straight from L—the E violator.

3. Also from the L r ui- comes L uiolentus (adj suffix -olentus), whence uiolentia: thence, via MF-F, the E violent and violence.

visa. See VIDE, para 2, s.f.

visage. See VIDE, para 2.

vis-à-vis. See VIDE, para 2.

viscera, visceral, viscerous; cf the element viscero-; eviscerate, evisceration.

1. L uisculus (o/s uiscer-), usu in pl uiscera, entrails, ML v-, adopted by E: and L uisculus is prob related to the syn ML visstilia, and also to Skt veṣka, a noose, ON visp, a wisp, and therefore to E whisk, with 'basic idea: to turn, wind' (Webster).

2. Derivative LL uiscerālis yields visceral, with mfn viscerosus—perh suggested by LL uiscerous.

3. Derivative ēuiscerāre, to disembowel, has pp ēuiscerātus, whence both 'to eviscerate' and LL ēuiscerātiō, o/s ēuiscerātiōn-, whence evisceration.

viscid (whence viscidly), viscose, viscosity, viscous, Viscum (whence Chem viscin, suffix -in).

1. L uiscum, mistletoe (Bot Viscum), hence the birdlime extracted from its berries, is akin to Gr ixos (for wixos*), glue, and perh to OHG wihselā, G Weichsel, OSl višnja, a cherry. (Hofmann.)

2. L uiscum, s uiscc-, has LL adj uiscidus and uiscōsus, whence ML viscōsitas; whence E viscid and E viscose and, perh through MF-F visqueux, f -ueuse, E viscous; ML viscōsitiās, acc viscōsitiātem, becomes MF-F viscosité, whence E viscosity.

viscount, viscountess, viscounty. See the 1st COUNT, para 3, and cf VICAR, para 5.

viscous. See VISCID, para 2.

vise, often vice, a screw (obs), hence a firm-holding tool, a clamp, whence 'to vise or vice': ME vis, vice (or vyce), a spiral stair: OF-F vis, OF-MF var viz, a spiral stair, a screw: ML vitīs, L ultis, a vine-tendrīl (VL a screw), a vine, perh akin to uiēre, to braid, to interweave; cf the element vitē-, where, e.g., viticulture, grape-growing.

visé. See VIDE, para 2, s.f.

visibility, visible. See VIDE, para 2.

Visigoth. See GOOTH, para 2.

visile. See VIDE, para 2.

vision, visionary. See VIDE, para 2.

visit, visitant, visitation, visitatorial, visitor. See VIDE, para 4.

visor. See VIDE, para 2.

vista. See VIDE, para 3.

visual, visualize. See VIDE, para 2.

vita; vital, vitality, vitalize; vitamin (-ine). See VIVA, para 3. vitellin (or -ine), vitellus. See WETHER, para 2.

vitiable, vitiate, vitiation, vitiosity. See the 1st VICE, para 1.

vitrage, vitrail, vitrain, vitreous (whence, anl, vitrosity and, with -eal for -eous, vitreal), vitrescent (vitreous+escent), vitric (whence vitrics), vitrine; vitriol (whence the v vitriolate) vitriolic; cf the element vitri-, var vitro-—woad .

1. L uitrum (ML vitrum), glass—orig defectively transparent and of a greenish hue—hence, from that greenish-glassy hue, the plant woad: app not a native Italic word, but borrowed, and adapted, from OGMc: cf OFris wēd, OHG-MHG weīt, G Waid, Go wizdila, OE wād, this last becoming ME wod, E woad (var wad or wade); prob also (Walshe) Gr isātis, for wisdtis*. The IE r is perh wid-*.

2. L uitrum has adj uitreus, whence E vitreous; vitric, however, represents ML vitrum+adj suffix -ic. L uitrum, ML v-, has the further relevant derivative vitriolum (vitri-, c/f+dim -olum), so named from the glassy sheen of this sulphate: whence MF-F vitriol, adopted by E, the F adj vitriolique accounting for E vitriolic.

3. L uitrum, ML vitrum, becomes MF-F vitre, with the foll derivatives adopted by E: EF-F vitrage, EF-F vitrail (late MF vitral), EF-F vitrine (1836 in sense 'glass showcase'). B & W. vitular, vituline. See WETHER, para 2.

vituperable, vituperate, vituperation, vituperative. See the 1st VICE, paras 3 and 4.

viva, viva!, viva-voce, qui-vive, vive le roi!, viveur, bon-vivant, modus vivendi; vivacious, vivacity; vivarium; vidid, whence vidiveness.—For the full cpds vivification, vivify—viviparous—vivisection, see the element vivi-—vital, vitality, vitalize.—victual(s) and viant.—L prefix-cpds: convivial, convivium; reditivus; revival, revive; sempervivum; survival, survive, survivor—Gmc cognates: quick (adj, hence adv and n), whence quicken and quickness; quicky; quicksand and quicksilver;—quitch grass—whitlow.—C: whiskey, q.v. at AQUA, para 6.—Gr cognates: zodiac, zodiacal; Zoe, zoic, zoism, zooid, zoon—zoology, whence zoological (note zoological gardens, whence, by abbr and by ellipsis, zoo) and, anl, zoologist and zoologize; zoophyte, zoospore, and, anl, many other cpds—cf the element zoo-. Sep BION.

Latin: Simplex

1. L uiuus, ML vivus, alive, comes from uiuere, ML vivere, to be alive, to live, s uiu-: for the IE cognates, see para 14. The words and phrases adopted from L or from a R derivative include: viva! (Long) live . . .!: It: ML vivat, Let him live, from ML vivere; cf vive le roi!, (Long) live the king (L rex): F; viva-voce, an oral examination, coll shortened to viva, is L uiva uoce, lit 'with live voice', i.e. by word of mouth; modus vivendi, a way of life: ML: L modus uiuendi, a way, or mode, of living; viveur, lit 'one who lives', esp 'one who lives well' (materialistic), syn with bon-vivant, '(a) good-living' (man): F; qui-vive, on the, on the alert: from the late MF-F n qui-vive, itself from Qui vive (subj), Who lives? Who goes there?

2. Those simple L derivatives of uivere (s uiu-, ML viv-), to live, which concern E, include:

uiuax, ML vivax, full of life, lively, whence LL uiuacitās, ML vivacitās (acc vivacitātem): whence It vivace, adopted by Mus, and E vivacious (perh imm from a VL-ML vivācius*); late MF-F vivacitē, whence E vivacity; uiuīdus, ML vividus, animated, very lively, hence brilliant, whence E vivid; uiuārius, pertaining to living creatures, whence uiuārium, ML vivārium, a fish-pond or -preserve, whence E vivarium, further anglicized as vivary.

3. L uiuere, s uiu-, has r uī- (ML vi-), present also in uīta (s uī-, r uī-), life, the opp of death, hence also, either a means or a way of life: cf erudite E vita, a biography, from ML vita. The derivative L adj uītālis and its own derivative uītālitās yield MF-F vital, adopted by E, and EF-F vitalité, whence E vitality; derivative F vitaliser and vitalisme account for 'to vitalize' and vitalism.

4. L uiuere has gerundive uiuendus, neu pl uiuenda, whence VL viuanda, taken as sing n: whence OF-F viande, orig 'food', hence, from C15, 'flesh as food', whence E viand, esp in pl for 'provisions, fare'. Victual, now usu pl, is reshaped (but with the mute-c pron retained), perh imm after EF-F victuailles and certainly, ult, after L, from ME vitaille, adopted from MF (the OF-early MF form is viuaille): ML victuālia, LL uīctuālia, orig the neu pl of LL adj uīctuālis, itself from L uīctus (gen -ūs), a means of living, a diet, from uī-, the r of uiuere. 'To victual' derives partly from the E n and partly from the OF-EF aviailier and its derivative, the late MF-F ravitailler, which has prompted 'to revictual'. Victualier derives partly from 'to victual' and partly from MF vitaillier (EF-F victuailleur).

Latin Compounds

5. For the full cpds vivification (vivify)—viviparous—vivisection, see the element vivi-.

6. The foll L prefix-cpds have affected E: conuiuia, a fellow-banqueter, whence L conuiuium, a banquet, whence LL conuiuīdālis, whence E convivial, whence conviviality;

L rediuiuus, ML redivivus, living re- or again, hence revived, adopted by literary E;

L reuiuere, to 'live again, ML revivere: OF-F revivre, whence, after ML vivus, the E 'to revive';

LL reuiuificāre, to bring to life again (re-+ uiuificāre), pp reuiuificātus, whence LL reuiuificatiō, o/s -ficatiōn-: whence 'to revivify' and revivification;

L semperuiuus, ML -vīvus, whence L semperuiuum, LL semperuiua, ML semperviva, whence E sempervive, the everlasting (plant, flower), displaced by Bot (SciL) Sempervivium;

L superuiuere, ML -vivere, to live on, go on living, whence OF-F survivre (OF-MF var sor-), whence 'to survive', whence both survival and survivor; the obsol survivance is adopted from EF-F.

Germanic

7. Akin to L uiuus (perh for gūiuus*, ? ult for guiguus* or gwiguus*), is OE cwic, cwic, alive, living ('the quick and the dead'), ME cwic, later quic, latest quick, E quick: cf OFris and OS quik, OHG queck. OE cwic has derivative cwician, to restore to, or to endow with, life, whence 'to quick', superseded by ME-E 'to quicken'.

8. Intimately related to and prob derived from OE cwic, alive, is OE cwice, whence quitch, so named from its 'persistence' in living; couch grass is a f/e mdfn of quitch grass, which does somewhat resemble a thick, springy mat.

9. The derivative quick, sensitive flesh, esp under a finger- or a toe-nail, perh helps to explain the mysterious whitlow, a painful inflammation of the last phalanx of a toe or finger, for app it derives from dial whickflaw, for dial quickflaw, a flaw, esp an inflammation, at or very near the quick: cf ON kvika (from the adj kvikr), the quick. The element whick- becomes white, as in the dial var whiteflaw, then whit-, as in the var whitflaw, by f/e: in a fully developed whitlow, the surface is white.

Greek

10. Akin to L uiuus is Gr bios, life, mode or life, prob for biuos* (IE guiuos*): cf para 14. For the simple bion and for the cpds biography and biology, see the sep entries.

11. Akin to Gr bios and L uiuere are Gr zēn, to live, and—with the normal 'e in vv, o in nn' alternation—zōos, alive, living, neu zōon, perh adopted by Zoo as zoon, which, however, is more prob an adaptation of Gr zōion, a living creature, itself prob from zōos; cf Gr zōē, life, whence the PN Zoe and the n zoism; zooid, prompted by Gr zōieidēs, like (-eidēs) a zōion or animal. Note both that the zē- of zēn answers to IE gui-* (cf para 14) and that bios has extn biotōs, life, whence the adj biotikos, whence E biotic, whence anti-biotic, adj hence n.

12. Gr zōion has c/f zōo-, contr zō-; whence E zoo-, as in zoology, the science (cf -logy at element -loger) of animal life—zoophyte, ult from Gr zōophuton (cf the element -phyte, a plant)—zoospore (cf SPORE and the element -spora).

13. From Gr zōion derives the dim zōidion (LL zōdion), with adj zōidiakos, as in zōidiakos kuklos, an animal circle, hence the elliptical n zōidiakos, whence, partly by contr, the L zōdiacus (Cicero), whence MF-F zodiaque, whence E zodiac; derivative late MF-F zodiacal is adopted by E.

Indo-European

14. Besides L uīuus and uīta, OE cwic, Gr bios and zēn, the foll IE cognates are to be noted: Go qius, gen qiwis—W byw, OIr bīu, bīo—OSl žive and Lith gyvas—Skt živās, all 'alive, living', with connotation 'lively'. There are corresp vv—cf Skt jīvati, OSl živetū, OP giwa, he lives, Arm keam, I live, and OSl žiti, Hit hwes, to live (hwiszi, he lives, and hwesas, hwesas, hwisas, alive, esp—of meat—raw).

15. The IE r is app gwei-* or guī-*, to live, with extn in -o and -u; the gu-* is occ represented as gw-*; of OE cwic, the IE original would perh be gwig-*.

vivacious, vivacity. See prec, para 2.

vivarium, vivary. See VIVA, para 2.

vivid. See VIVA, para 2.

vivification, vivify; viviparous; vivisection; viviseptulture. See the element vivi-.

vixen. See FOX, para 2.

viz. See VIDE, para 1.

vizier or vizir: late MF-F vizir, Tu vezīr, vizīr: Per vizīr: OPer vūchira: cf Ar wazīr, lit a porter, from wazara, to carry a burden, itself from Per.

vizor. See VIDE, para 2.

vocable, vocabulary, vocabulum; vocal, vocalism, vocalist, vocality, vocalize (whence vocalization); vocation (whence vocational), vocative (adj, hence n); vociferant, vociferate, vociferation, vociferous; vocule; voice (n, hence v), whence voiceless; vouch, voucher, vouchsafe; vowel; vox humana and vox populi—cf voix céleste.—Gr: epic, epos.—L cpds, incl R derivatives: advocacy, advocate (n, v), advocation, advocatory; adwoson; avocation, whence, anl, avocative; avouch, whence avouchment; avow, whence avowal; convocant, convocate, convocation—convoke; equivocal, equivocate, equivocation, equivoque; evocable, evocation, evocative, evocatory—evoke; invocable, invocation—invoke; plurivocal; provocable, provocation, provocative—provoke; revocable (and irrevocable), revocation—revoke; semivocal; univocal.

European

1. Behind all these words stands L uōx (ML vōx), o/s uōc-: cf Skt vāk, Av vāxš (acc vācem), the voice, and vācas, a word—Tokh A wak, B wek, voice—Mir fūaimm, a noise (Ga fūaim), OC etymon vokmen*, and syn Cor guith or gyc (gyk)—OP wackis, a war-cry—Homeric opon (acc), Attic ēpos (nom), a word, for wopon* and wepos*—OHG giwahe, fame: for vv, cf Skt vakti, He vivakti (vi- redup), he speaks, vavdca, he has spoken, Skt vocā-, he spoke—OHG wackitwei, to entice (speak fair words to)—OHG gi-wahannēn (gi- int), MHG gewāhenen (pt gewuoc), G erwāhnen. The OGMc r is wah-; the IE, wek- alternating with wok-*, the voice, to speak. (E & M; Hofmann; Walshe.) Perh cf also the Hit wek-, to ask, wekun, I asked.

Greek

2. Gr epos, speech, a word, hence a story (in verse), a song (esp of war or adventure), is adopted by E for epic, whether general or particular the derivative adj epikos becomes L epicus, whence both EF-F épique and, prob independently, E epic, adj, hence also n.

Latin: Simplex

3. L uōx, the voice, hence uōces, sounds made by the voice, esp words, hence also in sing, has the ML form vōx, as in vōx Dei, the voice of God, and vōx populi, that of the people, as well as in the organ-stops vōx angelica (F voix céleste) and vōx humana.

4. L uōx, ML vōx, acc vōcem, yields OF voiz, MF vois (EF-F voix, reshaped after L): ME vois or voys, later voice: E voice, whence 'to voice'; whence voiceful and voiceless.

5. On the L o/s uōc- (ML vōc-) are formed the foll L simples relevant to E:

uōcālis, endowed with voice or speech, whence (EF-F and) E vocal, with extn vocalic, of or like the vowel sounds; derivative LL uōcālītās, euphony, gives us vocality; derivative F vocaliser (prob after It vocalizzare) and its own derivative vocalisation lead to E 'to vocalize' and vocalization, and derivative F vocaliste to E vocalist; uōcālis littera, a fully voiced letter, is used elliptically as n uōcālis, whence MF voiel (EF-F voyelle), whence E vowel; uōcula, a feeble voice-sound, whence Phon vocele; and esp the v uōcāre, to name (apply a sound to), to address, to call, hence also to invoke, with presp uocans, o/s uocant, whence E -vocant in cpds, and pp uocātus (ML v-), whence 'to vocate', rare outside cpds; on the pp s uocāt- are formed uocātiō, a calling, a summons, acc uocātiōnem (ML v-), the adj uocātius and uocātōrius, and the LL agent uocātor: whence, resp, OF-F vocation, adopted by E—E vocatīve (prob imm from MF-F vocatīf)—E -vocatory—E -vocator.

6. Also from L uōcāre derives uocābulum, a manner, or a means, of summoning, hence a name, hence a noun (opp uerbum, ML verbum): MF-F vocable, adopted by E for a word (esp in its phon aspect). The derivative ML adj vocabulārius has neu vocabulārium, a receptacle (implied by -ārium) of words, hence an orderly assemblage of words: late MF-F vocabulaire: E vocabulary.

7. On L uōci-, cf of uōx, is—perh as if for uōciferre—formed uōciferāri (LL -āre), to cry out: presp uōciferans, o/s uōciferant-, E vociferant; pp uōciferātus, whence both 'to vociferate' and L uōciferātiō, acc uōciferātiōnem, MF-F vociferation, E. vociferation; vociferous, anl from F vocifère.

Romance: Simplex

8. L uōcāre becomes OF-MF vochier, MF voucher, whence 'to vouch'—partly aphetic for 'to avouch', which came into ME from MF avochier.

later avoucher, from ML advocāre (LL aduocāre): cf para 10.

Latin: Full Compounds

9. L uōcālis has cpd semiūocālis, whence E semivocal; and L uōc-, o/s of uōx, has three cpd adj in -ūcus:

LL aequiūocus, of id sound (or form), but not of id meaning, whence not only MF-EF adj, EF-F n, équivoque, whence E equivoque, occ anglicized as equivoke, both slightly obsol, but also, after E vocal, E equivocal; derivative LL aequiūocāre, to be equal in name, but not in meaning, to, pp aequiūocātus, whence both 'to equivocate' and LL aequiūocātiō, o/s -uocātiōn-, whence E equivocation;

ML pluriūocus, of more than two meanings, whence, anl, E plurivocal; LL uniūocus, of only one name or meaning, whence, anl, E univocal, opp equivocal.

Latin: Prefix-Compounds

10. The foll L prefix-cpds, either of uocāre or of its pp uocātus, have affected E:

aduocātus, he who assists a man summoned ad, to, justice, OF-EF advocat (EF-F avocat), E advocate; derivative ML advocātia yields—prob via MF—the E advocacy; derivative L aduocātiō, o/s aduocātiōn-, yields advocation, and from the ML acc advocātiōnem derives OF-MF avoaison, avoelson, whence ME avoueisoun, avoweisoun, whence E adwoson, a legal term; LL aduocātor perh suggested, anl, the E advocatory; aduocāre becomes OF-F avouer, orig to recognize as one's overlord, hence as valid, hence (late MF-F) to acknowledge (a fault), whence ME avowen, E 'to avow'; uocāre, to call away, pp uocātus, whence uocātiō, o/s uocātiōn-, whence E avocation, orig a subsidiary occupation; conuocāre, to call together, pp conuocātus, whence both conuocātiō and LL conuocātor: MF-F convoquer, E 'to convoke'—MF-F convocation, adopted by E—E convocator; the E n convocant derives from ML convocant-, o/s of convocans, L convocans, presp of conuocāre; ēuocāre, to call ē-, out, to summon forth, becomes MF-F ēvoquer, whence 'to evoke', and derivative F évocable, E evocable; derivative LL ēuocātiō, o/s ēuocātiōn-, becomes E evocation, whence, anl, evocative; LL ēuocātor becomes evocator, perh imm suggested by F évocatour; inuocāre, to call in-, upon, EF-F invoquer, E 'to invoke', whence, anl, invocable; derivative (from pp inuocātus) inuocātiō, ML acc invocātiōnem, OF-F invocation, adopted by E; prōuocāre, to call prō- or forth, OF-F provoquer, E 'to provoke'; LL prōuocābilis, E provocable; derivative (from pp prōuocātus) prōuocātiō, ML acc prōuocātiōnem, MF-F provocation, adopted by E, and LL prōuocātivus, ML prōvocātivus, E provocative; reuocāre, to call re- or back, MF-F révoquer, E

'to revoke'; derivative reuocābilis, neg irreuocābilis, late MF-F révocable, irrévocable, E revocable, irrevocable; (from pp reuocātus) reuocātiō, ML acc revocātiōnem, MF-F revocation, E revocation, and LL reuocatōrius, E revocatory.

vocabulary. See prec, para 6.

vocal, vocalist, vocality, vocalize. See VOCABLE, para 5.

vocation, vocative (Gram n, already in LL). See VOCABLE, par 5, s.f.

vociferant, vociferate, vociferation, vociferous. See VOCABLE, para 7.

vocule. See VOCABLE, para 5.

vodka. See WATER, para 5.

vogue, adopted from late MF-F, derives from MF-F voguer, to row (a boat): cf, sem, the coll 'be in the swim': either from OProv vogar or from It vogare, both of the one origin, but that origin, o.o.o.—unless OGmc; perh an -o- mdfn of OHG wēgan (var bewēgan), MHG bewēgen, G bewēgen, to cause to move (cf VIA).

voice, voiceless. See VOCABLE, para 4.

void, voidance, voider. See VACANT, para 6.

voile. See VEIL, paras 1 and 4.

voix céleste. See VOCABLE, para 3.

vol, volador, vologe, volant, volar, volatile, volatility, volatilize, vol-au-vent, vole, volery, volet, volitant, volitation, volitional; volley (n, hence v); volplane, q.v. at PLANE, para 3, s.f.

1. The Her term vol, adopted from OF-F, is lit 'flight'; it derives from OF-F voler, to fly, from ML volāre, L uolāre: o.o.o.: perh (E & M) akin to Skt garuḍās (adj), flying (cf L uolucer).

2. OF-F vol, flight, occurs also in the F-hence-E cookery term vol-au-vent, so named—'flight in the wind'—because it is so light. From voler come:

volant, presp used as adj, hence also as n; both adj and n, adopted by E; the EF-F card-game term, vole, a 'grand slam'—a full flight; late OF-F volée, a flight, hence that of a ball, whence E volley;

MF-F volerie, a flying, and MF-F volière, a (large) birdcage, whence—phon from the former, sem from the latter—E volery;

MF-F volet, a 'flying' veil (women's), hence an art term, both adopted by E.

3. Irreg from ML volāre, to fly, comes the adj volar, of, in, for, by flight—not to be confused with volar, of, on, for (etc.) sole of foot or palm of hand, from ML vola, L uola, sole, palm.

4. ML volāre becomes Sp volar, whence Sp volador, applied, in AE, to several species of flying fish.

5. L uolāre has the foll L derivatives affecting E: uolāticus, flying, hence flighty, whence OF-F vologe, flighty, partly adopted by E; uolātilis, MF-EF volatil, E volatile; derivative EF-F volatilité, EF-F volatiliser, its F derivative volatilisation, become E volatility, 'to volatilize', volatilization.

6. uolāre has the freq, used also as int, uolītāre to flit about, to flutter, presp uolītans, o/s uolītant-

ML v-, whence E volitant, and pp uolītātus, ML v- whence both 'to volitate' and LL uolītātīō, a fl tering (esp of leaves), o/s uolītātīōn-, ML v-, whence E volitation—cf the OF-F v voleter. From ML volītāre SciL has formed volitores, birds that fly, whence the E adj volitorial.

volatility, volatile. See prec, para 5, s.f. volcanic, volcano; Vulcan, Vulcanian, vulcanite, vulcanize.

Volcanic comes from F volcanique, itself influenced by the var vo- of the F and It n in its passage from It volcanico, the adj of vulcano, var volcano, from It Vulcano, Volcano, from ML Vulcānus, Volcānus, L Uu-, whence E Vulcan, that god who, in L, has adj Uulcānius, ML Vu-, whence E Vulcanian; E Vulcan has derivatives vulcanite and vulcanize, whence vulcanization. L Uulcānus or Uolcānus app derives, phon, from Cretan Welkhanos and owes its sense 'the god of (destructive) fire' to the Etruscans, who perch brought the Cretan name to Italy and there changed it.

vole (1), the mouse-like rodent, is elliptical for dial volemouse, of Scan origin: cf Nor dial voll, a field, from the syn ON völlr, itself akin to E wold, a forest (obs), hence a low wooded hill (obso), hence an upland plain, even one that lacks a wood: ME wold, wāld, woodland, a weald, from OE weald, a wood, a forest, wooded high land, whence the E doublet weald. OE weald is akin to OFris and OS wald, OHG-MHG walt, G Wald, a forest: o.o.o.: perh (Walshe) cf WILD.

vole (2), in card-games. See VOL, para 2.

volency, volent. See VOLITION, para 2.

voley; volet. See VOL, para 2.

volitant, volitate, volitation. See VOL, para 6.

volition, whence volitional and, anl, both volittent and volitive; voluntary (adj, hence n), whence, direct, voluntaryism and, anl, voluntarism—involuntary; voluntative; volunteer, adj and n (whence v); volence, volency, and volent, esp in benevolence, benevolent, and malevolence, malevolent; voluptuary, voluptuous; velleity;—nolle (prosequi), noli me tangere, nolition.—Gmc cognates: will, n, whence willful (cf FULL), now usu willful; will, v, (1) to wish strongly, to enjoin, whence the pa, vn willing, and (2), auxiliary; willy-nilly; wilt (2 person sing); won't; would and would-be;—William, whence the flower-name sweet william—Will and will-o'-the-wisp—Willy: cf Bill, Billy, billy; gullebot;—well, adv, hence adj—welcome—welfare and farewell; weal, wealth, and commonweal, commonwealth;—wale, n (a choice) and v (to choose).—Cf the sep GALA (where also GALLANT).

1. L uelle (ML v-), to wish, to wish strongly, is prob for uolle* for uolere*, s and r uol- (ML vol-): cf L uolō, I wish, OL uolt (L uult), he wishes: akin to Lith pa-velt, OSl velēti, to command, Go wili, he wishes (cf will below), and prob—with r for l—the Ve vurita, may he wish, and Skt vāram, a wish; also to Gr elpomai, I hope, elpis, a hope, both for welp-, an extn of wel-. The IE r is prob wel-, with varr wal-, wil-, wol-, wul-*, to wish, to wish strongly, hence to hope, to command. For the e-o mutation, cf OHG wellen, MHG wellen, later wollen, G wollen, to wish; for the a var, cf wale below.

Latin

2. L uelle has presp uolens, used also as adj 'well-wishing, favourable', o/s uolent-, ML v- whence E volent; derivative LL uolentia yields volence*, volency. The L adj uolens has cpds beneuolens, whence benevolentia, and maleuolens, whence malevolentia: MF-EF benevolence, adopted by E; E benevolentia: E malevolence, malevolent.

3. The L uol-, ML vol-, of uolō and uolens, occurs in the foll simple derivatives relevant to E:

ML volitiō, acc volitiōnem, EF-F volition, adopted by E;

L uoluntās, ML v-, orig goodwill, hence strong wish, intention, hence, in Phil, will (a wish that lasts, and gets things done), whence the adj uoluntārius, whence—cf MF-F volontaire—the E voluntary; the LL neg inuoluntārius gives us involuntary (cf MF-F involontaire); from the MF-F volontaire (also n already in EF) in its MF-EF var voluntaire comes the E adj and n volunteer.

4. Akin to L uolō and uolens is L uolup, neu of uolupis*, agreeable (that which one wishes for oneself or for another), app a vocalization of uolpis*, s uolp-: cf the welp- of PGR welpis*, a hope. Hence L uoluptās (-tās perh for -itās), pleasure as opp pain, hence a physical, esp sexual, pleasure, with adj uoluptuārius (for orig uoluptārius) also as n, and uoluptuōsus, whence, via the ML forms in v-, the E n voluptuary and MF-F voluptueux, f -ueuse, E voluptuous.

5. Straight from L uelle or rather from ML uelle comes the ML uelleitās (in Phil): EF-F velléité, E velleity.

6. L uelle has neg nolle, to not wish, to be unwilling, prob as a b/f from and contr of ne, not+uolō, I wish; nōli (imp) and nolle and nōlō, I do not wish, occur in such legal phrases as noli me tangere, Do not touch me, nolle prosequi (to be unwilling to prosecute) and nolo contendere (I do not wish to assert innocence). As opp volition, arises nolition—coined by F and adopted by E.

Germanic

7. The E n will, a wish, a firm intention, the power of choosing, hence 'a last will and testament', derives, via ME will, varr wille, wile, from OE willa (var will): cf OFris willa, Go wilja, OS willio, OHG willo, MHG-G wille, MD wille, MD-D wil, ON vili (with modern Scan cognates): all very intimately related to the OE and other OGmc vv mentioned in the next two paras.

8. Corresp exactly to will, n, is 'to will' or wish for, hence to desire, to command, to determine to do, to influence by one's will, and finally to bequeath by will: archaic 'thou willest' and 'God willeth'; pt and pp willed: OE willian: cf OFris willa (wella), Go wiljan, ON vilja.

9. Closely related to OE willian is OE willan (pt wolde), ME willen (pt wolde), E will, without inf or imp (pt would); now only auxiliary, except perh in the jocosse 'What wilt thou' and the Prayer Book 'Wilt thou take this man—or this woman—to be . . . ?' Cf OSI voliti, to wish. The coll adj would-be, as in 'a would-be gentleman', derives from 'one who would be'—wishes to be—something; the contr won't (cf sha'n't) derives from woll not, woll being an obs form of will; willy-nilly is 'will he—won't he' (perh after L volens volens, unwilling (or) willing), nilly deriving from the obs nill, to be not willing, to refuse, from OE nyllan: ne, not+willan.

10. From OHG willo, will, firm intention (cf para 7), comes the PN Willehelm (var Willi-), lit 'Helmet of Strong Purpose' (G Wilhelm), whence ONF Willame, var -aume, E William, shortened to Will, whence folklore Will o' the wisp, whence will-o'-the-wisp; the pet-form Bill has dim Billy, whence, by personification of the object, billy, a policeman's truncheon.

11. The OF-F name corresp to ONF Willa(u)me is Guillaume, which has dim Guillemot, whence, by personification, the EF-F bird guillemot, adopted by E.

12. Akin to OE willa, strong wish (cf para 7), is ON val, a choice, whence ME wale, whence walen, E wale and 'to wale', both obs except in dial; with ON val, cf the syn OHG wale, MHG wal, G Wahl.

13. Also akin to OE willa is OE wel, ME wel, late ME well, E well, adv, whence—via such phrases as 'to feel well'—the adj well: OE wel is akin to OFris wel, wal, wol, OS wela, wala, wola, OHG wela, wola, MHG wol, G wohl, MD wael, wail, wal, wale, wole, wele, weel, MD-D wel, Go waila, ON wel; basic meaning, 'according to one's will or wish' (Webster).

14. OE willa has c/f wil-, as in wilcuma, a comer (or guest) after one's own wish or will, whence the ME adj wilcume, later welcume, finally welcome, extant in E, whence the n welcome, hospitable greeting or treatment; 'to welcome' derives from OE wilcumian (from wilcuma).

15. The adv wel occurs in welfare, from ME wel fare, a well-faring (fare, to go, OE faran); cf the parting good-wish Fare well!, Travel safely, whence the n, farewell.

16. Akin to OE wel is the OE n weala, contr wela, whence ME wele, E weal (cf OS welo), wealth (obs), prosperity (obsol), the state (influenced by commonweal); ME wele has derivative welthe, whence E wealth, with derivative adj wealthy.

17. E weal acquires, late in ME, the cpd common weal, later commonweal, general or public welfare; E wealth acquires, in EE, the cpd commonwealth, general welfare (obs), the body politic, the state, hence a group of states united for the common weal.

volitorial. See VOL, para 6, s.f.

volley. See VOL, para 2.

volplane. See PLANE, para 3, s.f.

volt (1), in horsemanship. Cf VAULT (leap), q.v. at VOLUBLE, para 3.

volt (2), in El, whence voltage; voltaic. The 3rd represents Voltaic, adj of Alessandro Volta (1745–1827), who devised a machine to measure el currents: whence E volt. The PN Volta is akin to vault, leap.

Voltaire, whence Voltairean or Voltairean: François-Marie Arouet de Voltaire (1694–1778), who himself, as a young man, added the 'de Voltaire' from Voltaire, his mother's small country-estate.

volte-face. See para 3 of:

voluble, volubility; volume, voluminous; volute, whence volutation; volute (adj and n), volution; voiva and vuiva; volve (obs), volvelle, volvent, Volvox, volvulus; sep valve; volt (leap), volte-face—cf vault, a or to leap, and vault, an arched structure.—L prefix-cpds: advolution; circumvolute, circumvolution—circumvolve; convolute, convolution—convolve, convolvulus; devolution, devolve; evolve, evolution (whence evolutionary, evolutionist, etc.); interval; involute—involute, involution—involve, whence involvement; revolt (n, v), whence the pa revolting—revolvable—revolute (adj), revolution (whence revolutionist), revolutionary—revolve, whence revolver and pa revolving; supervolute.—Gr cognates: elytron; helix, helical.—Gmc cognates: wale, a stripe—cf weal, wheal; walk (v, hence n), whence walker and pa, vn walking; wall (n, hence v)—cf interval; wallow, v, hence n; waltz; well of water, and 'to well'—cf weld, v (hence n), whence welder and welding; welt, n and dial v—welter, v, hence n (whence welterweight); whelk, a marine snail; willow, whence willow—cf willy, a large basket.

Indo-European

1. The key to all the L derivatives, and a cognate of the Gr and Gmc words, is L uoluere (ML volvere), s and r uolu-, to roll or cause to roll, hence to turn over in one's mind; the presp is uoluens, o/s uoluent- (ML volvent-), and the pp uolūtus (ML volūtus), whence the n uolūtū, o/s uolūtōn- (ML volūtōn-). The r uolu- represents an IE wolw-, a var of welw-, to roll, occurring without -w- in certain IE words. The principal cognates of L uoluere are perh Gr helix (for welix*), spiral, elutron, an envelope (container, case), eluein (for weluein*), to roll, and eiluein (for weluein*), to enfold or enwrap—OSI valiti, to roll—Skt vālate, he turns (round)—EIr fillim, I turn, Ga fill, to fold or plait, Cor vaylé, to wrap, OC velvo-*, to roll or fold—OHG wellan, to roll, and wallan, to bubble well, MHG-G wallen, and syn OFris walla, OS and OE wallan (cf E well below), Go afwalwjan, to roll out, ON vella, to boil, and the Gmc causatives noted in para 10 below.

Latin: Simplex

2. L uoluere, to roll, whence the obs 'to volve', has the foll simple derivatives affecting E: uolūbilis (ML v-), rolling, turning rapidly, hence rapid, whence uolūbilitās, mobility, also facility of speech, o/s uolūbilitāt- (ML v-): hence E voluble and late MF-F volubilité, whence E volubility; uoluens (presp), ML o/s volvent-, E adj volvent; uolūmen, a roll, a fold, esp a roll or fold of writing, hence a book: MF-F volume, adopted by E; derivative LL uolūminōsus, having many coils or folds, whence (F volumineux and) E voluminous; the senses 'compass, capacity, amplitude' arise in late MF and are taken over by E, with the adj following suit; uolūta (from the pp), a spiral conformation, a scroll-like form: It voluta: EF-F volute, adopted by E; the E adj volute derives from the ML pp volūtus;

LL uolūtīō, a rolling, a twisting, ML an arch or a vault, o/s uolūtiōn-, whence E volutiōn; uolūtāre, to roll often (a freq, hence also an int, of uoluere), pp uolūtātus, whence 'to volute' or roll about, wallow; derivative uolūtātīō, o/s -atiōn-, yields E volutatiōn; uolua (ML volva), var uulua (ML vulva), a covering or wrapping, an integument, hence womb and, in Physio sense, vulva; volva is adopted by Bot (a membranous sac), vulva by Physio and Med (external genital organs of the female): cf Skt ulva, var ulba, womb, vulva;

ML volvella (in form, a dim of volva), var volvellum, whence E volvelle, a device known also as a lunary;

SciL Volvox (Bio) = ML volv(ere) + L suffix -ox;

L uoluola, var uoluulus (in form, a dim), is another name for the conuoluulus, ML convolvulus, the bindweed, adopted by Bot, hence by ordinary E; uoluulus, ML volvulus, is form-adopted, sense-adapted, by Med.

3. L uoluere, VL-ML volvere, has the VL derivative volvita*, whence the ML contr volita, a turn, hence a turn in the air: It volta: EF-F volte, E volt, a tech in riding; cf It volta-faccia, a turn-face, a turning back to front, hence any complete reversal: EF-F volte-face, adopted by E. Also from It volta, a leap, EF-F volte, comes the E n vault, a leap, esp upon or over something; It volta, a leap, has derivative voltare, to leap, whence late MF-F volter, whence 'to vault'. VL volvita*, ML volta, a turn, acquires the further sense 'an arched structure, esp as forming a roof or a ceiling', whence OF-MF volte, var vaulte, MF voüte, vaüte, ME voute, vawte, whence, with l restored either from OF-MF or from ML, the E vault; derivative MF volüter, vaüter, var vaulter, yields ME vouten, vauten, whence, after the n, E 'to vault' or form, or cover with, a vault.

Latin: Prefix-Compounds

4. Of the numerous L prefix-cpds of uoluere, ML volvere, the foll have entered into E:

aduoluere, to roll ad or towards, pp aduolūtus, ML advolūtus, whence, anl, the E advolutiōn, a rolling towards;

circuoluere, to roll circum, around or about, whence 'to circumvolve'; from the pp circumu- lūtus derives the E adj circumvolute, whence, anl, circumvolutiōn; conuoluere, ML convolvere, to roll or wrap thoroughly (int con-), to enwrap, whence 'to convolve'; from the pp conuolūtus, ML -volūtus, derive the adj and v convolute, whence, anl, convolutiōn for the cognate convolvulus, see para 2 (above) s.f.;

dēuoluere, ML dēvolvere, to roll dē- or down whence 'to devolve', orig vt, whence the modern sense, to be handed over, to fall to, as an obligation; pp dēuolūtus yields both the rare adj (and obs v) devolute and the LL n dēuolūtio, corruption ML as in the E derivative devolutiōn; ēuoluere, ML ēvolvere, to roll ē- or out, forth to unroll, whence 'to evolve'; the pp ēuolūtus, ML ēvolūtus, becomes the Geom n, Bot adj, evolute derivative ēuolūtīō, ML o/s ēvolūtiōn-, yields EF-F ēvolutiōn, whence E evolutiōn; inuoluere, ML involvere, to envelop, roll up wrap up, whence 'to involve'; pp inuolūtus, ML involūtus, yields both the tech adj, Geom n involute and the L inuolūtīō, ML o/s involūtiōn- whence E involutiōn; from L inuoluere derives L inuolucrum, a wrapping, a wrapper, an envelope or covering, whence EF-F involucure, adopted by E; reuoluere, ML revolvere, to roll back, hence to turn around, whence late MF-EF revolver, whence —though perh imm from ML—'to revolve'; pp reuolūtus, ML rev-, yields both the E adj revolute and the LL n reuolūtīō, ML acc revolūtiōnem, OF-MF revolution (EF-F ré-), whence E revolutiōn; derivative F révolutionnaire (1789) becomes E revolutionary, adj hence n; as it were blending L uolubilis (see para 2 above) and reuoluere is L reuolūbilis, whence E revolvable, revolvable; from the It derivative rivoltare, to turn back (vt), comes late MF-F révolter, whence EF-F révolte: whence 'to revolt' and 'a revolt'; superuoluere, ML -olvere, to roll super or over, pp superuolūtus, ML -volūtus, accounts for the E Bot adj supervolute.

Greek

5. For helix, see HELICAL. The Zoo elytron is a SciL coinage from Gr elutron, an envelope or case, from eluein, to roll around (cf para 1); anl from E elytron derives the E adj elytroid.

Germanic

6. Some of the OGmc cognates of L uoluere, to roll, have been noted in para 1. It is, therefore, convenient to list the Gmc E cognates in alphabetical order. Wale, a long or longish mark resulting from lash of whip or blow of rod, hence a ridge, ME wale, derives from OE walu, akin to Go walus, a rod or staff (cf OFris walu-bera, a staff-bearer), ON völr, a stick with a circular section, and L uallus, a stake (cf uallum, a palisade): IE base, either waslo-* or walso-* (E & M), a stake, a staff, a rod. E wal is merely a var of E wale; syn E wheel is, in turn, a var of wal, a wale, by f/e confusion with wheel (ME whele), a pustule, itself related to whelk (para 15 below).

7. 'To walk,' ME walken and walkien (pt walkede), to walk, OE wealcan and wealcian, to roll, hence to turn or revolve, is akin to various OGmc vv (esp ON valka) meaning 'to full (cloth)' or 'to beat, to work (felt, etc.) by beating' or simply 'to roll'; perh also to L ualgus, bow-legged, and certainly to L uoluere, to roll, and Skt vālgati, he skips. As Walshe has suggested, the ME sense 'to walk' has perh derived from the OE senses—from the idea 'to walk with a rolling motion' (as a sailor does).

8. Wall, OE weall, comes from L uallum, a palisaded defensive structure, hence gradually a more solid defence, prob from uallus, a stake (cf para 6 above). The derivative L interuallum, ML intervallum, a space between (inter) ramparts, hence a separating space (finally of time): MF-F intervalle: E interval.

9. 'To wallow,' ME walwen, OE wealwian, to roll oneself about in, e.g., mud or mire, as a pig does, is very closely akin to OE wielwan (vt), to roll, itself akin to Go -walwjan, to roll: cf para 1 above.

10. 'To waltz'—cf the F valse—derives from G walzen, MHG walzen, OHG walzan, to roll (vi), which has caus wälzen, to roll (vt), MHG welzen, OHG walzēn (cf Go us-waltjan, to roll about); G walzen, to roll (vi), has derivative (Austrian) walzer, the action of rolling, hence of turning around, hence a dance, whence—prob via F valse (1800)—the E n waltz; E waltzer is prob indebted to F valseur (1801).

11. A well of water, ME welle, OE wella, wiella (wylla), and 'to well' or issue, to spring, to flow, as water does, syn ME wellen, OE (vt, i.e. caus) *wellan(waellan), wyllan, wiellan, are very closely akin to OE weallan (vi), to well, to bubble forth, to boil: cf also OFris walla, OS wallan, OHG wallan, MHG-G wallen, Go waljan, to well up, to undulate, and ON wella, to boil; and OE wiell, a well, OFris walla, a well, a spring of water, and OHG wella, MHG-G welle, a wave, ON vell, a bubbling; and several Sl and Skt words for 'a wave', as well as, ult, L uoluere, Gr eluein (for weluein*), to roll: cf para 1.

12. 'To well' has pp welled, whence, by b/f, 'to weld', orig by a process of heating metal to a fluid or, at the least, to a plastic state.

13. The dial 'to welt' or roll or turn, esp to overturn (vi, vt), comes from ME welten, from ON velta, to roll (vi); app from ME welten comes the ME n welte, whence E welt, a ridge, a raised stripe, etc.

14. With ME welten, to roll, hence to turn, cf ME weltren, vi, to roll or tumble about, to wallow; ME weltren app derives imm from MD welieren, akin to MLG weltern, waltern; cf the syn ME walteren. The ending -eren or -ern denotes a freq: here of ME walten, OE wealtan, OHG walzan (vi), walzēn (vt), ON velta: cf paras 9 and 10 above.

15. A whelk or large marine snail, ME welke or wilke, OE weoloc or wioloc, is akin to MD-D welc or wilc, MD wulc, D wulk, and also to Go -walwjan, to roll—'named from its spiral shell' (Webster). The -h- has been f/e added by confusion with E whelk, a pustule, ME whelke, OE hwylca (from hwelian, to suppurate): cf para 6, s.f., above.

16. Willow (tree), ME wilowe, vocalization of ME wilwe, from OE welig, is akin to MD wilge (D wilg), willige (or -ege), willich, wulge—Gr helikē (for welikē*), a willow, and the adj helix, spiral, twisted, and therefore to L uoluere, to roll, hence to turn.

17. Very closely akin to OE welig, willow, is OE wilige, a large wicker-basket, made orig of willow twigs: hence the now dial willy.

volume, voluminous. See prec, para 2.

voluntary, volunteer. See VOLITION, para 3.

voluptuary, voluptuous. See VOLITION, para 4.

volute, volution. See VOLUBLE, para 2.

volva. See VOLUBLE, para 2.

volvelle. See VOLUBLE, para 2.

volvent. See VOLUBLE, para 2.

Volvox. See VOLUBLE, para 2.

volvulus. See VOLUBLE, para 2.

vomer. See WEDGE, para 3. vomica. See para 1 of:

vomit (n, v), vomitive, vomitory (adj, hence n); emesis, emetic, emetine.

1. L uomere, ML v-, to discharge (pus), vomit, has s uom-, whence L uomica, a vomit, an abscess, adopted by Med, and pp uomitus, whence 'to vomit'; the E n vomit derives from the L n uomitus (gen -ūs), from the s of the pp, whence also the adj uomitōrius, whence vomitōry, adj, hence n; vomitive derives from F vomitif (f -ive), itself an -itif formation from OF-F vomir (VL vomire* for L uomere).

2. L uomere, s and r uom-, is akin to the syn Gr emein (for wemein*), whence the n emesis and the anl adj emetikos, whence the Med emesis and L emeticus, E emetic (adj, hence n).

3. With L uomere and Gr emein, wemein*, cf the syn Lith vėmti and Skt vāmiti, vamati, he vomits, and vāmtās, vomited (pp); cf also the ON vaema, vāma, sea-sickness. The IE r is app wem-*, to vomit.

voodoo and hoodoo. The latter is an AE var of the former, which comes from Creole F voudou, from the Gulf of Guinea Negro word vodu, occurring both in Jeji (Dahomey) and in Ewe (Togoland and Dahomey) and meaning 'a good, or a bad, spirit or demon', hence 'a fetish'. (Mathews.)

voracious, voracity; devour; -vorous (from ML -vorus, L -uorus), as in carnivorous, flesh-eating (cf CARNAL)—herbivorous, grass-eating (cf HERB)—insectivorous (cf section)—omnivorous (cf the element omni-); sep GORGE.

1. L uorāre, to eat greedily, has s and r uor- (ML vor-), whence the adj uorāx, o/s uorāc-, whence—cf EF-F vorace—the E voracious; derivative L uorācītās, ML acc vorācītatem, yields MF-F voracitē, whence E voracity.

2. L uorāre has the int dēuorāre, to eat or swallow greedily and completely, whence OF-MF devourer, whence 'to devour'.

3. L uorāre, r uor-, is akin to Gr bora, food, and -boros, corresp to L -urus and Skt garas; cf Skt girāti, he swallows, Arm kerl, I eat, and ker, meat, food, and Lith gėrti, to swallow. The IE r is app gwer-*, to swallow.

vortex, vorticoso. See VERSE, para 9.

votal, votary (whence, anl, votaress), vote (n, hence v, whence voter), votive; vow (n, v); devote, devotion—cf devout.—woo (whence wooable and the pa, vn wooing), wooner.

1. L uouēre, ML uovēre, to make a vow, to vow, has s and r uow-, with var uō- in the pp uōtus, whence the n uōtum, whence E vote, orig a vow, hence a prayer or an ardent wish (all obs), whence the modern sense; hence, anl, votal, the L adj being uōstius, ML uōstius, whence—perh via MF-F votif, f votive—the E votive; the E adj and n votary derives imm from E vote but as if from ML vōtārius*. Note that E votal was perh influenced by ML vōtālis; 'to vote', imm from the n, was perh influenced by LL uōtāre, ML vōtāre.

2. L uouēre is prob akin to Ve vāghāt-, making a vow (presp), hence a supplicant, and perh akin to Gr eukhomai (for weukhomai*, r weukh-*), I pray, and eukhē (for weukhē*), a vow; the IE r, therefore, is perh wogh-* or wogwh-*.

3. Whereas 'to vow' comes from OF-F vouer, itself either from OF-MF vou (EF-F voeu), from ML vōtum, L uōtium, as above, or perh from ML vōtāre, LL uōtāre, the n vow comes from that OF-MF n vou.

4. Prob akin to L-LL uouēre is OE wōgian, ME wowen, E 'to woo', to court, esp if for marriage; derivative OE wōgere leads, anl, to wooner.

5. L uouēre has int dēuouēre, ML dēuovēre, to vow firmly or without reservation, hence to consecrate, with pp dēuōtus, ML dēuōtus, whence both E 'to devote' and L dēuōtiō, ML acc dēuōtiōnem, whence OF-MF devotion (EF-F dé), adopted by E; ML dēuōtus yields OF-MF devot (EF-F devot), with OF-MF var devout, adopted by E. The Christian senses of devotion and, of course, devout had arisen as early as in LL, whence pp dēuōtus became also an adj.

vouch, voucher. See VOCABLE, para 8 (and heading).

vouchsafe=vouch (cf VOCABLE, para 8), guarantee, (to be) safe (cf SAFE).

vow. See VOTAL, para 3.

vowel. See VOCABLE, para 5.

vox angelica, — Dei, — humana, — populi. See VOCABLE, para 3.

voyage, voyager, voyageur. See VIA, para 14.

Vulcan, vulcanite, vulcanize. See VOLCANIC.

vulgar, vulgarism, vulgarity, vulgarize; Vulgate, vulgus; divulgation, divulge; promulgate, promulgation, promulge.

1. L uulgus, ML vulgus, the common people, OL uolgus, is o.o.o., but perh, as Webster proposes, akin to Skt vargas, a (large) body of men, Br gwalc'h, satiety (an over-sufficiency), W gwala, sufficiency (cf the syn Cor gwalgh). The adj is uolgāris, uulgāris, ML vulgāris, whence both E vulgar (cf MF-F vulgaire) and LL uolgāritās, uulgāritās, the multitude, hence the multitude's behaviour, ML acc vulgāritātem, whence late MF-F vulgaritē, whence E vulgarity. The formations EF-F vulgariser (prob from ML vulgarizāre) and F vulgarisme become E 'to vulgarize' (whence vulgarization: cf F vulgarisation) and vulgarism. Derivative L uulgāre, uulgāre, ML vulgāre, has pp uolgātus (uul-), ML volgatus (vul-), whence the LL adj uulgātus, in general circulation, esp in uulgāta editio, the Septuagint, or L trans thereof, whence ML Vulgāta, St Jerome's L trans of the Bible as a whole: E 'the Vulgate'.

2. L uolgus, uulgus, ML vulgus, has two cpds affecting E:

dīuulgāre, dīuulgāre, ML dīuulgāre, to make widely (dī=dīs-) known to the people, pp dīuulgātus (ML divulgātus), whence the LL dīuulgātīō, ML acc dīuulgātīōnem: whence 'to divulge' and, perh via EF-F, divulgation; prōuulgāre, prōuulgāre, whence the altered prōmulgāre, to declare publicly, by open proclamation (prō, forth, connotes 'out in the open'), whence 'to promulge' (cf the MF-F promulguer); the L pp prōmulgātus yields 'to promulgate'; the from-the-pp derivatives LL prōmulgātīō, acc prōmulgātīōnem, and LL prōmulgātor, become MF-F promulgation, adopted by E, and promulgator.

vuln; vulnerable (whence, anl, vulnerability) and invulnerable (whence invulnerability); vulnerary; vulnific.—vulture, vulturine.

1. The Her vuln derives from ML vulnerāre, to wound, LL uulnerāre, var of uolnerāre, itself from L uolnus, uulnus, a wound (whether physical or, derivatively, psychological). The s is uoln-, uuln-; the r, uol-, uul-: cf the syn Gr oulē (? for wolna*)—Hit walh-, walhanna-, to strike, to attack, walhūn, I strike or attack, walhanzi, they attack—OP ūlini (? for wālini), to fight against—W gweli, Br gouli, Cor guli, goly, a wound, OIr fuil, blood, fuill, bloody wounds, Ga fuil and Mx fuill, blood: perh cf uellere (r uel-), to tear or rend, and prob cf OS wolian, to defeat, OHG wuol, a defeat, ON valr, those who have died on the battlefield. If the relationship of L uolnus to L uellere be valid, the IE r is prob wel-*, to tear or rend, as Hofmann has proposed.

2. L uolnerāre, uul-, has derivative LL uolnerābilis, neg inuolnerābilis, ML vulnerābilis and invulnerābilis, E vulnerable, invulnerable (cf EF-F vulnerāre, F vulnerābilité, and late MF-F invulnerāre, F invulnerābilité); the adj uolnerārius, uul-, ML vul-, whence—cf EF-F vulnerāre—E vulnerary; the LL adj uolnerōsus, ML vul-, E vulnerose. L uolnus, uulnus, ML vulnus, c/f uulni-, vulni-, has the cpd adj uolnificus, uulnificus, VL vulnificus, wound-causing, E vulnific.

3. Perh akin to uolnus, uulnus, a wound, and prob akin to L uellere, to tear or rend, is, with r uol-, uul-, and s uolt-, uult-, the L uoltur, var uultur, ML voltur, vultur, acc volturem, vulturem, that bird of prey which rends its victims: OF-early MF voltor, MF voltour, late MF voutour (EF-F vautour): ME-E vulture. Derivative vulturinus (uul-), ML vulturinus, yields vulturine.

Vulpes is the ML vulpēs, L uulpēs, var of uolpēs, a fox; the derivative L adj uulpīnus, uulpīnus, ML vulpīnus, yields E vulpine. The E coinage vulpicide=ML vulpi-, c/f of vulpēs+-cida, a slayer, or -cidium, a slaying.

With L uolpēs, uulpēs, perh (E & M) cf Lith vilpišys, a wild cat. But Lith vilpišys is perh related to Lith vilkas, a wolf, which is very prob related to OE wulf (E wolf, q.v.): tentatively I suggest that both L uulpēs and E wolf derive, ult, from an IE wulkw-* denoting any carnivorous, swift, sly or treacherous quadruped resembling either a wolf or a fox or a large wild cat; the obscurity of L lupus, a wolf—by common consent, although less easily, equated to E wolf—tends to support this suggestion.

vulture, vulturine. See VULN, para 3.

vuiva (whence vulvitis: suffix -itis). See VOLUBLE, para 2.

vying. See VIE (heading).

W

w perch owes its existence to the initial L-LL u before a vowel, as in uacāre (to be empty), pron wacāre; L-LL uu-, as in uulnus, becomes VL-ML vulnus; late ML adopts w- for AL words latinized from OE and ME. The OE w is adopted from the Runic alphabet; w-, moreover, is well attested by the equivalent digamma of PGr and in Hittite. But the not yet fully disentangled relationships of u-v-w hardly belong here; see, e.g., David Diringer, The Alphabet, revised ed., 1949.

wabble. See WOBBLE.

wad, n, hence v, whence wadding: Fouate (1674), a kind of cotton growing around an Oriental fruit and coming from Alexandria, to Marseilles, hence a soft plug: o.o.o., say B & W; prob (Webster) from Ar hujātus, anything that surrounds. The tree came into Egypt from Syria.

waddle. See VADE, para 8.

wade (1), n. A var of WOAD.

wade (2), v. See VADE, para 7.

wadge. See WEDGE, para 2.

wadi: Ar wādī: ? ult akin to WATER.

wafer. See WEAVE, para 4.

waffle. See WEAVE, para 5.

waft, waftage. See VIGOR, para 7.

wag (n, v). See VIA, para 1.

wage, wager, wages. See the 2nd GAGE, para 3. waggery, waggish. See VIA (heading).

waggle. See VIA, para 1.

waggon, wagon. See VIA, para 2.

wagon-lit. See VIA, para 3. wagtail: constantly wags (VIA, para 1) its tail (cf TAILOR).

waif. See VIBRATE, para 7.

wail. See WOE, para 2.

wain. See VIA, para 2.

wainscot shows the f/e influence of E wain but comes from MLG wagenschot, var wagenscot, itself app wagen, waggon+schot, a board (cf 'to shoot a door-bolt), the orig sense of the cpd being lost. (EW.)

waist, waistcoat. See the 2nd WAX, para 2.

wait (n, v), waiter. See VIGOR, para 8.

waive, waiver. See VIBRATE, para 6.

wake (1), a wet open space in an extent of ice (now only dial), hence a passage cut through ice (obs) and the track a ship leaves in water: ult from ON vök, syn with earliest E meaning, itself very closely akin to ON vökr, damp, rather wet: ult cf HUMOR.

wake (2), to be (alertly) awake, hence n. See VIGOR, para 9.

wale (1), a choice, to choose. See VOLITION, para 12.

wale (2), a stripe. See VOLUBLE, para 6.

Wales. See FLANDERS, para 5.

walk, walker, walking. See VOLUBLE, para 7.

wall. See VOLUBLE, para 8.

wallaby. See KANGAROO.

Wallachian. See FLANDERS, para 4.

wallah, a servant, a worker, hence coll a fellow, is the Hind suffix -vālā, connoting 'doer': sem, cf L -ārius in nn.

wallaroo. See KANGAROO.

wallet; wattle.

Wallet, orig a pack, a knapsack, comes from ME walet: o.o.o., unless a metathesis of ME watel, a bag, itself perch id with wattle, (a framework of) plaited twigs, esp as used in fences, hence, in Aus, the wattle tree: OE watel, watol, watul (o.o.o.), whence app, though far from certainly, the wattles of a bird or a reptile.

wall-eyed—whence, by b/f, wall-eye—comes, by f/e, from ME wawileyid: ON vagleigr: vagl, a beam, esp in the eye+eygr, -eyed, from auga, an eye.

Walloon. See FLANDERS, para 4.

wallop. See GALLOP.

wallow. See VOLUBLE, para 9.

walnut. See FLANDERS, para 7.

walrus. See HORSE, para 1.

waltz (n, v), waltzer. See VOLUBLE, para 10.

wamble, to feel nausea: ME wamblen: of Scan origin; app a freq from ON vāma, nausea: cf VOMIT. Hence dial and coll 'the wambles' and wambly.

wame. See WOMB.

wampum, a string of shell-beads worn ornamentally or pledged ceremonially or used as money: Alg wampompeag, wampumpeage, white wampum: wab, white+umpe, a string+-ag, a suffix denoting the pl. AE wampum was very early shortened, by the settlers in NA, from wampum peag, the Alg single word being apprehended as two words. (Mathews.)

wan, E-ME, pale, colourless, derives from OE wan or wann (predominant form), var won or wonn, lead-coloured, lurid, greyly dark: o.o.o.: perch (EW) akin to OE wan, deficient—cf wane, want, at paras 14 and 15 of VACANT.

wand. See the 2nd WIND, para 3.

wander, wanderer, wanderlust. See the 2nd WIND, para 4.

wane. See VACANT, para 14.

wangle is app a nasalization of waggle, q.v. at VIA, para 1.

want. See VACANT, para 15. Hence wanting.

wanton. See the 3rd TOW, para 6; cf VACANT, para 14.

wapentake, a regional division, hence its law-court, hence the bailiff: OE wāpēntac: ON wāp-natac, a taking of weapons, hence a touching of weapons in assent.

wapiti, a large NA deer, comes from Shawnee (an Alg language) wapiti, lit 'white rump', to distinguish it from the much darker moose: cf Cree wāpitiu, wāpitayoo, it is pale. (Mathews.)

war (n, hence v), whence warfare (lit a fare or going to war) and warlike; warrior.—'C'est la guerre'; guerrilla, guerrillero.

1. Warrior, ME werriour or werraïour, derives from ONF werreïor (corresp to OF-MF guerrëor, MF-EF guerroïeor: EF-F guerrier), from ONF werreier, werier (cf OF-F guerroyer, early -oier), to make war, from ONF werre, war (cf OF-F guerre): OHG werra, confusion, a quarrel, strife, akin to OHG werran, MHG werren, verwerren, G verwirren, to confuse: perh akin to E WORSE. (Walshe.) E war comes from late OE-ME, from ONF, werre.

2. OF-F guerre, war, is known to many Britons and Americans from the phrase 'C'est la guerre', It's the war (1914–1918)—cf E 'There's a war on' (1939–1945), to excuse any and every lapse or inefficiency or deficiency.

3. Corresp to OF-F guerre is Sp guerra (from OHG werra), whence guerrilla, lit 'little war'; one who fights in a guerrilla (loosely guerilla) band is, in Sp, a guerrillero, but, in E and AE, a guerrilla, whence, by f/e, the orig underworld gorilla (perh, however, from the huge ape, f/e influenced by the individual guerrilla).

warble, warbler. See WHARF, para 2.

-ward. See VERSE, para 3.

ward (n, v), warden (whence wardency and obsol wardenry), warder (whence, anl, wardress), wardrobe, wardroom; wraith; award (n, v) and reward (n, v); Edward (whence Edwardian), pet-forms Ned (whence neddy) and Ted, whence Teddy, whence Teddy boy—cf Teddy bear.—guard (n, v), guardant or gardant, guardian (whence guardianship), guardroom (guard, n + room), guardsman (a guard's man); rearguard and safeguard; regard, n (whence regardful and regardless, adj hence adv), regardant (whence regardance, -ancy)—and disregard (v, hence n, whence disregardful), itself merely the prefix dis- + 'to regard'.

1. Ward and guard are doublets, as, largely, are their derivatives: whereas the w- forms represent OGmc and ONF (from OGmc) origins and intermediaries, the g- forms represent OF-MF (from OGmc) origins; guardian, guarder, guardroom, correspond to warden, warder, wardroom.

2. Etym, the key-word is ward, whether the n, from OE weard (f), a watching or guarding, a body of men keeping watch or guard, or the v, from ME wardien, OE weardian, to keep, esp to keep safe, to protect: both have numerous OGmc, incl ON, syn cognates—perh cf esp the OFris v wardia and the OHG waria, n: cf also G wahren, to preserve, Go wars, cautious, and perh Gr ouros (? for wouros*), a watchman, and Skt varūta, a protector: IE r, wer-*, to keep, keep safe, guard, protect. Perh cf WARN, WARREN, WARY.—The 'to parry' sense follows naturally from the basic senses.

3. Warden comes from ME wardein, adopted from ONF; the ONF var wardien 'answers' MF-F gardien, OF gardenc. Warder comes from AF wardere, var wardour, prob from ONF and corresp to OF-MF gardeor (EF-F gardeur).

4. Whereas wardroom (1801: OED) merely combines ward, a keeping or guarding, with room, wardrobe derives from ME warderobe, adopted from ONF and corresp to MF-F garde-robe, lit (a place for) the keeping of robes or garments in general.

5. Akin to OE weard (m), one who watches or guards, is the syn ON vörthr, whence, in C16, the Sc warth, whence, by metathesis, the Sc wraith, a guardian angel, hence a person's ghost seen—as a warning, a means of protection—shortly or imm before his death, hence any apparition: introduced into England by Burns and Scott.

6. OE weardian, ME wardien, E 'to ward', has two prefix-cpds: award and reward. 'To award' derives from AF awarder, from ONF eswarder, corresp to OF-MF esgarder—es-, L ex-, out of, used int + ONF warder (OF-F garder); 'an award', ME from AF award, from ONF esward, esward, corresp to OF-MF esgard, esgart (EF-F égard), and derived from or intimately related to the ONF v.

7. 'To reward,' ME rewarden, to reward, orig to regard, comes from ONF rewarder, to regard, corresp to OF-MF reguarder, MF-F regarder: OF-F from L re-, back, again + ONF warder. The ME-E n reward is adopted from ONF reward, corresp to OF-MF reguard, MF-F regard.

8. OE weard (m), a watchman, a guard, occurs in the PN Eadweard, derived from Eadward, whence Edward: '(the) property-defender': ead, property. The adj Edwardian is applied esp to the reign of King Edward VII: 1901–1910. During that reign, smart young men tended to wear 'stove-pipe' trousers. And when there arose, c1950, a cult of Edwardiana, the gangs of young toughs and hooligans aped their dress, esp the trousers, and came to be known as Teddy boys. (For Teddy bear, from Theodore, see THEISM.)

The g- Words

9. Corresp to ward, n, is EF-F garde, OF-MF garde (from guarder), orig the action of guarding, hence E guard; 'to guard' comes from OF-MF guarder (EF-F garder): of OGmc origin—cf the syn OHG wariēn, MHG-G warien, and the related ON vartha. OF guardenc (guarder + OGmc suffix -enc, Gmc -ing), gardenc, MF gardien (EF-F gardien), yields E guardian. The Her guardant, var gardant, is prop the OF-MF presp of guarder, later garder.

10. For rearguard, see REAR; for safeguard (a safe guard or guarding), cf its prompter the MF-F sauvegarde, a safe guarding or keeping—cf SAFE. Hence 'to safeguard'—cf F sauvegarder.

11. 'A regard' is adopted from OF-F, from OF-MF reguarder, MF-F regarder (whence, via AF, the E adj regardant—prop the F presp), lit re-, back, again (hence continually or even continuously)+guarder, later garder: perh orig 'to keep (someone) in view', whether for his safety or for one's own, whence the idea of solicitude, hence of respect and affection.

wardrobe; wardrobe. See WARD, para 3; cf ROBE, para 2, s.f.

-wards. See VERSE, para 3.

ware (1), adj. See WARY.

ware (2), n, (collectively) articles for sale: ME ware: OE waru: cf OFris ware, were, MHG-G ware, MD were, waer, ware, D waar, ON vara, with modern Scan cognates: perh ult akin, as 'property which is carefully guarded' (Walsbe) to ward, and prob akin to MHG ware, a (watchful) attention.—Hence warehouse.

ware (3), v, to take careful heed (vt, of), now dial, except in the imp ('Ware fences!'): OE warian, be on one's guard, (vt) to warn, guard, ward off: cf the syn or approx syn OFris waria, OS warōn, OHG biwarōn, ON vara. Cf ware, adj, q.v. at WARY.

warfare. See WAR (hegling).

warlock: ME warloghe, a deceiver (esp the Devil): OE wærloga: OE wær, a covenant+ -loga, a liar, akin to—prob deriving from—OE lēogan, to tell lies.

warm, adj (hence n) and v (whence warmer and warming); warmth (warm, adj+abstract suffix -th).—Cf the sep therm and the element -therm, thermo-, as well as the sep FURNACE.

'To warm' derives from OE wearmian, itself from the OE adj wearm, whence the E adj warm: and OE wearm is akin to OFris, OS, OHG-MHG-G, MD-D warm (MD varr: werm, waerm, warne), ON varmr. With OE wearman, cf Go warmjan; with the OGmc adj, cf Skt gharmās, a glowing heat, L formus, warm, Gr thermos. The OGmc r is app warm-* for (ghwarm-); the IE r, ghwarm-, varr ghwarm-* and esp ghworm-*, warm.

warn, warning (n), warnish, warnison—warison; warrantdice, warrantise—warrant (n; hence v, whence warrantable—neg unwarrantable), warrantor, warranty;—weir.—Cognates in gu- and g-: garment (n, hence v); garnish (v, hence n, hence, also, garnishment); garniture; garret, garrison (n, hence v); guarantee (n, hence v), guarantor, guaranty.—Perh of the sep WARREN.

1. 'A warning' derives from OE warning (vocalized as warenung), with var wearnung, vn from OE wearnian, contr warnian (vocalized warenian), whence warnien, later warnen, whence

'to warn': and OE wearnian, warnian, is very closely related to OE wearn, a hindrance or obstacle, (? hence) a denial or a refusal, and related also to OFris warna, werna, OS warnian, wernien, ON varna, to refuse, and OHG warnōn, MHG-G warnen, to warn—therefore prob, further off, MHG warn, to observe, G wahren, to preserve, ON vara, to warn, and therefore perh ult the I WARD. But the interrelationships of all these words are still imprecise.

2. From the common OGmc warnōn*, app in form warnjan*, with related sense 'to supply, to provide or provide with, to prepare (e.g., by warning)', comes ONF warnir, whence, from the pres *warniss-*forms, both warnish, to provision (obs), to warn (now only Sc), and warnison (obs), provision, a garrison. Cf warison, property, a reward (both obs), and the giving of an alarm (military and archaic): adopted from ONF, from ONF warir, to defend, to heal, corresp to OF guarir, MF garir (EF-F guérir), orig to defend, whence, almost imm, to heal or cure, whence, via the ONF pres forms in wariss-, the obs 'to warish'. ONF warir comes from the OGmc war-, of which warn- is an extn.

3. ONF warir has presp warrant, whence—perh aided by OHG werēnto, a defender, a defence, a protection, orig the presp of werēn, to defend, to guarantee (cf OFris wera, wara, OS werian, MHG wern, G wehren, Go warjan)—ME warrant, soon also warrant, a defender, a safeguard (both obs), hence an authorization, a certificate, an official, or a legal, certificate, a guarantee. ONF warrant has derivative v warrantir (cf OF-F garantir), whence ME waranten (or -enten), soon also warranten, whence 'to warrant', whence both warrantable and warrantor. Also from ONF warrant comes ONF warrantie (cf OF guarantie, MF-F garantie), whence late ME war(r)antie, EE-E warranty. ONF warrantir has derivative warrantise (cf OF guarantise, MF garantise), adopted by ME, but now archaic except in the Sc var warrantdice.

4. Akin to OFris wera, OS werian, is the syn OE werian, to defend or protect, hence to check or hinder others: and OE werian has derivative or very close cognate wer, a weir or a dam (cf OFris were, OHG werl, G Wehr, a defence, a dam, and ON ver): ME wer: E weir.

Cognates in gu-, g-

5. Corresp to ONF-from-OGmc w- is OF-MF gu-, MF-F g-, as implied in paras 2-4 above, and as attested in numerous other doublets (esp ward—guard). Corresp to ONF warnir is OF-MF guarnir, MF-F garnir, orig to supply (with), to provide, hence to prepare, hence to furnish, hence to adorn, with pres forms in garniss-, whence ME garnissen, soon also garnishen, whence 'to garnish'. OF-MF guarnir, MF-F garnir has the foll derivatives either adapted or even adopted by E:

OF-MF guarnement, MF-F garnement, protector, protection, hence clothing, garments, a garment, whence ME garnement, a garment, whence, by contr, late ME-E garment;

MF garneture, late MF-F garniture, a furnishing, a garnishing, adopted by E;

MF-F garrison, a means of defence, hence, in C17, a body of troops defending a castle or a city, whence ME garnisoun, which f/e influenced the imm source of E garrison—i.e., ME garisoun, equipment, provisions, protection, occ a deliverance, itself from OF-MF garison (var guarison: cf EF-F guérison), from garir, guarir, as in para 2 above.

6. Closely linked with E garrison, and with weir, is E garret: ME garette, earlier garite, a watchtower or a look-out, adopted from syn MF garite (EF-F guérite), also a shelter, a (place of) refuge, prob from OProv garida, from the same source as MF-F garir, OF-MF guarir, as in para 2 above.

7. Corresp to warrant, warrantor, warranty (para 3 above) are guarantee, guarantor, guaranty; it is guaranty which forms the new base, for it comes from OF-MF guarantie (MF-F garantie), from OF-MF guarantir (MF-F garantir), from OF-MF guarant (MF-F garant): cf para 3. From guaranty derive—and with warrantor—guarantor, and—and with such words as advisee, assignee, donee, grantee, lessee, and prompted by the active guarantor, donor, lessor, etc.—the n guarantee, orig the agent, hence also the act, hence, again, the deed of security.

warnish, warnison. See prec, para 2.

warp. See VERVAIN, para 5.

warrant, warrantable, warrantor, warranty. See WARN, para 3.

warren, warrener.

The latter, imm from the former, owes something to ONF warenier (cf the MF garennier); warren, orig a game-preserve (now a rabbits' breeding place), an area reserved by the feudal lord for hunting or fishing, ME wareyne, comes from ONF warenne, corresp to MF-F garenne, a doublet of MF varenne, waste land, but also a game-preserve: varenne app from ML warenna, a game-preserve (CC11-15), itself either from ONF warir, to defend, keep safe (cf WARN, para 2), as B & W suggest, or of C origin, as suggested by 'Webster', where Mlr farr, a post, is not very satisfactorily adduced; clearly there has been confusion—but precisely when and how, and of exactly what with what?

warrior. See WAR, para 1.

wart (whence warty and warthog): ME wart, var wert: OE wearie: cf OFris warte, MHG-G warze, ON varia—and perh the syn ML verrūca, L uerrūca, orig an eminence, and, if that relationship be genuine, then also Skt várṣman-, Lith viršūs, a summit, and OSl vrǫxu (adv), on high. ML verrūca has been adopted by Med, with adj verrucose, from ML verrucōsus (L uerrucōsus).

wary, whence wariness—cf ware, adj; aware, whence awareness, whence the neg unaware, whence at unawares (archaic) and unawareness; beware.

1. Wary derives from the dissyllabic ME ware, var of war, from OE waer, var of gewaer (ge- is int); the archaic adj ware derives from ME war.

OE waer, gewaer, is akin to OHG giwar, MHG gewar, G gewahr, Go wars, ON varr (cf Da var); to OHG wara, attention, esp in OHG (and OS) wara neman, MHG war nemen, to take note, pay heed, G wahrnehmen, to perceive, and wahren, to preserve—and therefore prob ult to WARREN, WARN, and perh WARD.

2. OE gewaer becomes ME iwar, whence E aware; and E ware, wary, naturally occurs in 'Be ware!', whence, by b/f, beware, to be on one's guard, to be cautious.

was derives from OE waes, were from OE wāere, resp the 1st and 3rd person, and the 2nd person, singular; were in the pl derives from OE wāeron, they were: and all three OE forms derive from OE wesan to be: these are completely normal strong past tenses.

2. OE wesan is akin to OFris wesa, OS wesan, OHG wesan (pt was), MHG wesen (whence the G n Wesen, being, existence), Go wisan (pt was), MD weisen, usu wesen, D wezen, to be: cf also, with v- for w-: Skt vāsati, he remains or dwells (lit, continues to be), and ML Vesta, LL-L Uesta, the ancient It goddess of *dwelling*s, and Mx va, (I) was, and ve, (it) was; moreover, with b for v: Cor bās, usu bōs, to be. The IE r is prob wes-*, to dwell, for, among the Gmc languages, not only in E does this v serve as the pt or impf of 'to be'.

3. Cf WASSAIL.

wash (v, hence n), whence washer, washing, washy (whence redup wishy-washy), as well as such self-explanatory cpds as washboard, -house, washer-woman.

'To wash' comes from ME waschen: OE waescan (var wascan): cf OHG wascan, MHG-G waschen, MD wassen, late MD-D wasschen, late ON and Sw vaska. 'Prob Gmc waskan-* for wat-skan-* (cf Wasser). Cf OIr uisce (for udskio-*) "water"' (Walshe): if that kinship be valid, as prob it is—'to wash' is 'to apply water to'—then cf WATER.

Washington, the capital of the US, and the 1st President, prob derives from Washington in County Durham, England: early forms Wassingtona, Wassinton: app 'the village (tūn) of Wassa's people'. (Ekwall.) Hence the Bot Washingtonia.

washy. See WASH (heading).

wasp, waspish. See WEAVE, para 9.

wastage, waste, wasteful, waster, wastrel. See VACANT, para 18 and heading.

wassail, a carousing, from the spiced liquor accompanying Wassail!, an expression of festive benevolence: ME Waes haeil!, Be well!: ON Ves heill! (whence OE wes hāl!). Cf WAS and HAIL, to greet or salute.

wast, thou, you were: cf WAS.

watch (n, v), watcher, watchful, watching, watchman, watchword. See VIGOR, para 10 and heading.

water (n, v), whence pa, vn watering and waterish (-ish, adj); waterless and watery; very numerous cpds, mostly self-explanatory—perh note esp waterbuck (anglicizing D waterbok)—waterchat (SA bird—cf CHAT, light conversation)—watercourse and watercress—waterfall (cf the OE waetergefeall)—waterfowl—waterlily, waterline—waterlogged, from waterlog, to render as heavy or unmanageable as a log (esp a log saturated with water) by letting water in—waterman, a boatman—watermark—watermelon—waterproof (proof against water)—watersnake—waterspout—watertight (cf waterproof)—waterway (OE waeterweg)—waterwork (defence against water), whence waterworks.—wet (n, v), whence pa, vn wetting and wetness.—winter (n, hence v), wintry.—vodka.—Cf the sep WASH and WHISK(E)Y—UNDA, UNDU-LATE—OTTER and HYDRA (and HYDRANT)—DROPSY.

1. 'To water' derives from OE waeterian, itself from OE waeter, whence ME waeter, weter, finally water, retained by E: and OE waeter is akin to OFris water, weter, OS watar, Go watō, OHG wazzar, MHG wazzar, G Wasser, MD wetere, watere, waire, MD-D water—and Hit wātar, wetār, dat weteni, witeni; cf, with v:- OS voda; with u:- Skt udán (gen udnás) and L unda, the -n-infix occurring also in ON vatn and Lith vandū; with h:- Gr hudōr, gen hudaiois. There are also cognates in Alb, Arm, C (e.g., OIr uisce), Phrygian (perh), Umbrian. Cf wet, in para 3.

2. OE waeter has adj waeterig, whence watery, and waeterlēas, whence waterless.

3. Akin to OE waeter, water, is OE wāet, wet, whence wāetan, E 'to wet'; partly from OE wāet and partly from ME wette, wete, pp used as adj (varr wett, hence wet), comes the E adj wet. The OE adj wāet is akin to OFris wet and ON vāthr, vātr.

4. Akin to OE waeter and wāet, but with the occ IE -n- infix, is OE-ME-E winter, whence OE wintrig, E wintry, and 'to winter' (cf MD winteren): cf OFris winter, OS wintar, OHG wintar, MHG-G winter, MD wenter, MD-D winter, Go wintrus, and, without -n-, the ON vetr: 'the rainy or wet season' (Webster); perh 'the white season' (cf OIr find, white), because, in the OGmc period, 'time was measured by nights and winters' (Walshe).

5. OS! and Ru voda, water (cf para 1), has derivative vodka, in form a dim and in sense 'little water', so named, prob, because it is a distillation.

6. The IE r is app wed-*, water, itself prob, ult, Medit—cf Ar oued, a river, and Eg hua, water, the latter suggesting kinship with L aqua, which (if for waqua*) is not impossibly related to E water. The Medit r is perh wa-*.

Waterloo, meet one's, to be defeated, as Napoleon Bonaparte was, in 1815, by Wellington near Waterloo, a town situated nine miles from Brussels: perh '(The) Place of Water (Meadows)', loo corresp to OF-MF leu (EF-F lieu), L locus, a place.

watt comes from that Sc inventor James Watt (1736–1819) who discovered the steam engine. Hence wattage, electrical power expressed in these units.

wattle. See WALLET.

wave (n, v), wavy. See VIBRATE, para 8.

waver, v. See VIBRATE, para 8.

wax (1), beeswax, etc., whence the adj waxy, and the cpd waxwork(s): OE wear: cf OFris wax, OS wahs, OHG-MHG wahs, G Wachs, MD wasch, wass (occ wasse), MD-D was, ON vax (Sw vax, Da vox), Lith vāškas, OS! voskū.

wax (2), to grow, whether in size or in numbers, in strength (or intensity) or in prosperity; waist; sep EKE, v, and sep AUGMENT.

1. 'To wax' comes from OE weaxan: cf OFris waxa, OS wahsan, OHG wahsan, MHG wahsen, G wachsen, Go wahsjan, MD wasschen, MD-D wassen, ON vaxa-and, further off, L auxī, I caused to grow (pt of augēre), Gr auxein (perh for awxein*), extn auxanein, to increase (vt), Skt vahšanam, growth, and (a redup) vavakṣa, he has grown, Lith dūskšias, high, lit (full-)grown. The IE r is perh weg-, var wag-, to grow (vi and vt).

2. Waist, whence waistcoat (a coat not descending below the waist), comes from ME wast, the waist, orig stature, from ME waxen, to increase in size (OE weaxan): cf OHG wahst, Go wahstus, ON vōxtr, stature, orig growth. The waist is so named because here the body begins, whether up or down, to grow thicker.

waxen. See the 1st WAX.

way. See VIA, para 4.

wayfare—waylay—wayward. See VIA, para 5.

waygoose, a printers' annual picnic or other entertainment, is an extn of waygoose (late C17–19, then mostly dial): usu said to be o.o.o., but prob (EW) a f/e mdfn of wakegoose, a goose served at a wake.

we, OE wē, is akin to OS wē, OFris (and OS) wī, MD and LG wi, MD wie, wii, late MD-D wij, Go weis, OHG-MHG-G wir, OHG var wer, ON vēr (but Da and Sw vi), OS! vē (we two), Tokh was—and, away back, Skt vayām and Hit wēs, wēs.

weak, weaken, weakly, weakness. See VICAR, para 7.

weal (1), a long mark left by lash of whip or stroke of cane or rod. See VOLUBLE, para 16.

weal (2), prosperity. See VOLITION, para 16. Cf WEALTH.

weald. See the 1st VOLE, s.f.

wealth, wealthy. See VOLITION, para 16.

wean. See VENERABLE, para 12.

weapon (n, hence v), whence weaponry (collective suffix -ery, -ry): ME wepen: OE wāepēn: cf OFris wāpen, wēpen, wēpern, OS wāpan, Go wēpna (pl), ON vāpn, and, with f for p, OHG waffan, MHG wafen, G Waffe, but cf MHG wāpen, G Wappen, a coat-of-arms, and its source, the MD wāpen (var wāpene), D wapen, coat-of-arms, weapon. Walshe suggests—not asserts—kinship with Gr hoplon (? for woplon*), a weapon.

wear (1), of clothes. See VEST, para 4.

wear (2), of a ship. See VEER, para 1.

weary, weariness.

The latter derives from OE wēriġness, from OE wēriġ, whence ME weri, whence, perh after wear, the E weary; and OE wēriġ is akin to the syn OS wōriġ, OHG wuorag, and also to ON ōrr, bewildered, OE wōrian, to wander, ON ōrar (? for wōrar*), attacks of insanity, and Gr hōrakian, to feel faint, to faint: IE r, wōr-*, dizziness. OE wērig has derivative v wērigian, whence ME werien, E 'to weary'.

weasel. See VIRULENCE, para 3.

weather (n, hence v), whence weatherbeaten, weathercock, a vane orig shaped like a cock; wither, whence the pa, vn withering.

1. Weather derives from ME-from-OE weder, akin to OFris weder, OS wedar, OHG wetar, MHG weter, G Wetter, MD-D weder, MD wedere, widdere, widder, ON vethr, OSi vedro, good weather, vetrū, (the state of the) air, esp wind, Lith vētra, bad weather, esp a storm; cf the corresp collectives or intt (connoted by ge-, gi-): OE geweder, weather, temperature (of the air), and OHG giwitiiri, MHG gewitere, bad weather, G Gewitter, a thunderstorm; and perh wind. The ult IE r is perh we-, with extn wedh-, as here, and wen-*, as in WIND (1).

2. OE weder has derivative v wederian, to be (some sort of) weather, ME wederen, E 'to weather'; the OE vn wederung finally becomes E weathering.

3. ME wederen has the var wideren, whence—prob after weather—E 'to wither': cf G verwittern, to be weatherworn, hence to deteriorate, esp to decay, and G verwettert, weather-beaten.

weathering, n. See prec, para 2.

weave (whence weaver—whence weaverbird—and weaving), pt wove, pp woven (hence adj—cf the cpd adj interwoven); web, n (whence webby) and v (whence webbing)—cf webster; weft and woof; wafer and waffle, a battercake—contrast waffle, to flap; gauffer (gaufre) or goffer, cf gopher; —wasp, whence the adj waspish, waspy—cf vespal, vespiary, vespine.

1. 'To weave'—whence weave, a woven fabric or a pattern of weaving—derives from ME weven, from OE wefan (pt waef, ME wof; pp wefen, gewefen, ME wofyn, -woven): cf OHG wewan, MHG-G weben, MD-D wewen, ON wefa, wefja—and OFris weber, a weaver; cf also Gr huphaincin, to weave, huphē, huphos, a web, webbing, and Skt ubhndāti, he weaves together, and ūṛṇa-vābhis, a spider, prob, lit, a wool-weaver. The IE r is webh-*, to plait, to weave.

2. Akin to OE wefan are OE webbian, whence 'to web', and the OE n webb, ME-E web: cf the syn MD webbe, D web, OHG weppi, G gewebe, ON wefr—and prob OHG waba, MHG-G wabe, a honeycomb, which looks almost as if the framework has been woven. From OE webbian comes OE webbestre, a female—later, any—weaver, E webster (archaic), whence Webster.

3. Akin to—? from—OE wefan, to weave, is OE westa or west, the threads crossing the warp, whence E west: corresp to ON veptr. Cf woof, the threads that, in a woven fabric, cross the warp: f/e (after 'to weave') from ME oof: OE ōwef, lit a weaving on (ō- for on)—i.e., on the warp.

4. Akin prob to the OGmc words for 'to weave' and certainly to OHG waba, MHG-G wabe, honeycomb, is the ONF waufre (corresp to OF-F gaufre), a thin, crisp biscuit or small cake, app imm from Frankish wafel*: whence ME wafre, whence—prob influenced by MD wafer—E wafer.

5. Perh imm from Frankish wafel* comes MD-D wafel, MD-ED var waffel: whence E waffle, a battercake, not to be confused with the dial and coll waffle, to flutter, a freq of dial waff, to wave, akin to wave, q.v. at VIBRATE.

6. OF-F gaufre, a wafer, has, like its EF-F dim gaufrette, been adopted by culinary E.

7. OF-F gaufre, meaning also a honeycomb, has derivative EF-F v gaufre, to work a honeycomb effect into such fabrics as velvet or cloth: whence E 'to gauffer', now rare for the more thoroughly anglicized 'to goffer', whence 'a goffer', occ short for 'goffering iron'.

8. From OF-F gaufre, a honeycomb, and prob influenced by E 'to goffer', comes that NA rodent the gopher, addicted to 'honeycombing' the ground where it lives. But AE gopher, a hard-shelled land tortoise, shortens megopher (the earliest spelling), in which -gopher is prob f/e, for the accepted form is magofer, app of Amerind origin. (Mathews.)

The Wasp

9. A notable weaver is the wasp: ME waspe: OE waesp, a metathesis of the basic waeps (cf the dial and nursery wops), var waefs: cf OHG wafsa, wefsa, MHG wefse, late MHG-G wespe, MD wespe, D wesp; cf also OP wobse, OSi vosa (Ru osa), Lith vapsa. In short, the OGmc and OSi forms are, sem, closely related and phon, app and prob, related to the ancient words for 'to weave'; cf also the L uespa, ML vespa, a wasp, forms that have app influenced one or two of the Gmc and Sl words: cf, further (gu- for w-), the OBr guohi (acc pl), wood-wasps, hornets, and Cor gūhien (or gūhÿen), a wasp. By adducing the syn Av vanzaka-, Baluchi gwalz, E & M render an IE wops-, varr waps- and weps-*, virtually certain.

10. From ML vespa, learned E has formed the learned adj vespal and vespine; vespiary, a wasps' nest or colony, blends ML vespa + apiary, a nest or colony of bees.

weazen, weazened. See WIZEN.

web (n, v), webbing, webby, webster, Webster. See WEAVE, para 2.

wed, wedding. See the 2nd GAGE, para 4.

wedge (n, hence v)—wadge or wodge; wig, seed-cake or currant bun.—vomer.

1. A wedge, ME wegge, OE wegc, is akin to ON weggr, a wedge, and OHG weggi, wecki, MHG wecke, a wedge-shaped pastry, G Weck, a bread-roll, MD wegghe, wegge, wigge, a wedge, a wedge-shaped pastry. From MD (and MLG) wigge, in latter sense, D wig, comes the E, now only dial, wig or wigg, a kind of cake or bun.

2. App a dial var of wedge is wadge or wodge, a bulky object, (coll) a bundle of papers, etc.; hence the adj wadgy or wodgy.

3. Akin to the OGmc words adduced in para 1 are OHG waganso, a ploughshare, and OP wagnis, a colter (knife forward of the ploughshare): and all of these words are ult akin to L uōmis, var uōmer, ML vōmer, a ploughshare, a term adopted by An and Zoo: perh cf also the syn Gr hunnis (hunnē) and Hesiod's ophnis. The IE r is perh wegh-*, to sting or prick (Hofmann).

wedlock. See the 2nd GAGE, para 4, s.f.

Wednesday; Woden and Odin, occ Othin; wood, adj, and odinite.

1. Wednesday comes from ME wednesdai, slovenly for earlier wodnesdai, itself from OE wōdnes daeg, Woden's day—sem, a trans of LL diēs Mercurii (Mercury's day—the corresp day of the old Roman week): cf D woensdag, MD woensdach, earlier wudensdach, MLG wōdensdach, ON ōthinsdagr (Othinn's day): cf DAY and, for the 1st element Woden, principal divinity of the OGmc peoples, the OE Wōden, OS Wōdan, OHG Wuotan, G Wotan, ON Óthinn.

2. ON Óthinn becomes E Othin, usu—from the alternative trln Odhinn—Odin, whence Geol odin-ite, topo from Odin, familiar form of Odenwald (Odin's wood) in Germany.

3. The ON Óthinn is perh analysable as 'friendly, i.e. gracious, god' or, less prob, 'friend of the gods', but he was primarily a storm-god; Óth- would seem to be a *w-*less (or perh unaspirated) form of Wōd- (Wōt, Wuot-). OHG Wuotan, G Wotan, E Woden, OE Wōden, however, is related to OHG wuot, Go wōds, OE wōd, archaic E wood, mad, ON ōthr, possessed, inspired, divinely mad, and OHG-MHG wuot, G Wut, madness, to which, moreover, the syn ON ōēthi is related. The relationship of ON ōēthi and Óthinn to ON ōthr, poetry, OE wōd, song, merely accords with the ancient and modern conception of poetry as the literary expression of a divine madness: cf the related L uātēs (uātis), ML vātēs (vātis), a prophet, an inspired singer, a poet.

wee and coll weeny (whence—after teeny for tiny—the coll redup teeny-weeny).

The ad wee, very small, comes, by a sort of b/f, from the ME we or wei, a little bit; we or wei is prob the wey (a measure of weight) mentioned at VIA, para 9. Weeny imitates teeny.

weed (1), a garment, usu in pl: ME wede, OE wāede, var wāed: cf OFris wēde or wēd, OS wādi, OHG-MHG wāt, a garment, ON vāth, texture, Skt otave, to weave, Lith audžiu, I weave. The OGmc r is app wāeth-; the IE r, wēdh-.

weed (2), a rank grass or undergrowth (hence 'to wæd'), whence weedy: ME weed, earlier weod: OE wōd: cf OS wiod and the vv 'to weed', OS wiodōn and MD-D wieden: o.o.o.

week, weekly. See VICAR, para 6.

ween. See VENERABLE, para 10.

weep, whence weeper, weeping, coll weepy (adj, hence n), pt and pp wept: ME wepen: OE wēpan (pt wēop): cf OFris wēpa, OS wōpian, OHG wuoffan, wuoffen, MHG wuofen, OLG wōpian (pt wēop), Go wōpjan, ON ōēpa (pt ōēpta), to lament, and the nn OE and OS wōp, OHG wuof, ON ōp; cf, further off, OSl vabiti, to summon (orig with a loud cry), to decoy. The OGmc r is prob wōp-*; the IE r, either wōb-* or wāb-, varr uōb-, uāb-* (Walshe.)

weeping willow: from its straight-drooping branches.

weever. See VIBRATE, para 3.

weft. See WEAVE, para 3.

weigh, weight, weighty. See VIA, paras 7 and 8.

weir. See WARN, para 4.

weird, fate, whence the adj. See DRUDGE, para 2, and cf WORTH, to become, q.v. at VERSE, para 2; cf also VERSE, para 4.

weka, N.Z. bird: Maori: akin to Tongan veka, Samoan ve'a, names for birds neither id nor yet widely dissimilar: prob from a similarity of note or cry.

welcome. See VOLITION, para 14.

weld, welder, welding. See VOLUBLE, para 12.

welfare. See VOLITION, para 15.

welkin. See the 2nd WILT.

well (1), adv, hence adj. See VOLITION, para 13.

well (2), n (of water). See VOLUBLE, para 11.

well (3), v, to issue as water does. See VOLUBLE, para 11.

wellington (boot). See BLUCHER.

Welsh; to welsh. See FLANDERS, paras 5 and 6.

welt. See VOLUBLE, para 13.

welter. See VOLUBLE, para 14.

Weltpolitik, Weltschmerz. See WORLD, para 2.

wen (tumour, cyst): OE wenn: cf D wen, MLG wene, dial G wenne: o.o.o.: ? akin to WOUND.

wench, n, hence v, whence wencher and wenching; winch (n, hence v)—cf wince; wink (v, hence n)—cf lapwing.

1. Wench, late ME wenche, a child (either sex), a girl, is short for ME wenchel, child, girl, from OE wencel, var wincel, a child: cf winch, wink, as below, and perh ON vākr, a child.

2. A winch, ME wynch, OE wince, a reel, a winch, is akin to wince, to shrink, ME wincen, var winchen (occ wenchen), which comes, prob via AF, from an ONF w- form of OF-MF guencer (or -ier), guenchr (or -ier), to totter, vacillate, be evasive, from OHG wanchan, MHG-G wanken, to waver, to totter—cf the syn ON vakka.

3. Closely related to winch and wince is 'to wink', ME winken, OE wincian: cf OHG winchan, MHG winken, to beckon, to wink, G winken, MD winken, MD-D wenken, to beckon, to signal; cf also Lith vengti, to avoid, and perh, ult, L uagāri, to wander (cf, phon, ON vakka).

4. With OE wincian, cf OE hlāpewince, lit a 'leap-beckoning' (cf LEAP), whence ME leepwynke, later lapwynke, whence, f/e (after wing), E lapwing a bird that, by its app wounded flight, lures enemies away from its young.

Wend, Wendic or Wendish. See the 2nd WIND para 6.

wend, pt wended, went. See the 2nd WIND, para 5 wept. See WEEP.

were, v. See WAS, para 1. werewolf. See VIRILE, para 1.

wergild. See YIELD, para 2.

Wesleyan, whence Wesleyanism, derives from west, adj, adv, n; hence the Sc adj wester, whence, in part, wester, to move to the west, whence the vn westering; westerly (adj, hence n), western, adj (hence n), whence the nn westerner, westernism, and the v westernize; Westminster, westward (adv, hence adj), whence westwardly.—vesper (Vesper), vesperal (adj, hence n), vesperian (from vesper)—cf vespers, Vespertilio, vespertine; Hesper, Hesperia, Hesperian, Hesperides (whence, by b/f, Hesperid and, anl, the adj Hesperidean or -ian), hesperidium, Hesperis, Hesperus.

John Wesley (1703–91), the founder of Methodism (occ Wesleyanism): 'he of Wesley', an easing of Westley, the western glade or meadow, OE lēah. (Ekwall.)

1. The n and adj west derive from the OE-E adv west, akin to OFris west (n), OHG westan, MHG westen, (both) from the west, G Westen, the west; MD weest, west (as D), adj and n; ON vestr (cf Da and Sw vest), adj and n. Cf also L uesper (ML v-), Gr hespera, OSl večerŭ, Lith vokaras, evening—the meaning also of the C words OIr fescor, Ga feasgar, Mx fastyr, and W ucher, Cor gorthuher, garthuher, both with var -uer. The west is the region, the place, the line, the direction of the setting sun; the basic idea is 'evening', with that of 'west' naturally ensuing; and the IE r is wes-, with extn wesp-, as in Gr (h- for w-) and L, and west-*, as in Gmc.

2. OE west, from or to or in the west (orig the region of the sun as it sets), has derivative adj westerne, E western; to it the adj westerly—although prop an adj -ly extn of the ME-E adj wester—perh owes something. OE west has the derivative extn (perh orig a cpd) westward (adv), towards the west: cf the G westwärts. Westminster is simply the vicinity of the minster in the west of Tudor (and earlier) and Jacobean London, when the City (in the east) and Parliament (in the west) were connected by Whitehall; the building of the Abbey began c1250 on a site already venerable. Westminster, moreover, has become syn with 'the seat of government in Great Britain': cf Washington.

Latin

3. Corresp to OGmc west- is L uesp-, as in the adj uesper, of the evening, used also as n, the evening, the Evening Star (Uesper), hence the west, and, in its ML form vesper, adopted by E, now mostly in the pl vespers, evensong, a sense current already in Eccl LL. The LL uesperālis and L uesperīnus, of the evening, become E vesperal and vespertine; with L uesperīnus, cf L uesperiliō, a bat (issuing at dusk): whence Zoo Vespertilio, whence the adj vespertilian—cf the syn LL uesperitioneus.

Greek

4. Corresp to L uesper is Gr hesperos, adj and n, (of) the evening, whence hesperos (astēr), the Evening Star, whence L Hesperus, adopted by E, which occ shortens it to Hesper. The f hesperā is used for both 'evening' and, derivatively, the west, with its own adj hesperios (whence L hesperius, whence, in part, E Hesperian), f hesperis, which, used as n, accounts for L hesperis, the damewort, Bot E Hesperis. Gr hesperā has derivative Hesperides (adopted by L, then by E), the nymphs guarding the golden apples bestowed by Gaea upon Hera and that garden, situated at the extreme west of the known world, in which they grew, hence the Fortunate Isles; hence, from the colour, the Bot hesperidium.

Westminster. See prec, para 2.

wet. See WATER, para 3.

wether—veal—vellum; vitellin(e), vitellus—vitular, vituline.—veteran (adj, hence n); veterinary, whence vet (n, hence v); veterate (obs)—inveterate, whence inveteracy (for inveteratecy*), vetust.—etesian.

1. Wether, a castrated ram, ME OE wether, is akin to OS wethar, withar, OHG widar, MHG wider, G Widder, MD-D weder, ON vetth, a ram, Go witrus, a lamb, a sheep. Cf also L uitulus, a calf, Doric Gr etelon, Aeolic Gr etalon, a yearling, Skt vatsās, a calf, a yearling, and such varying forms and senses as OIr feis, Cor guis, guiz, gwis, Br guéz, guiz, a sow, and Mx oasht, a wether. In OGmc, the basic sense is app 'a one-year old male sheep'; in L and Skt 'a one-year old (male) calf'; in both, 'a yearling': and the sem and phon connexion with 'age' is manifested by: L uetus, uetustus, old—Alb vjet, Gr etos (Doric wetos), Skt vatsarās, a year—OLith vetušas, OSl vetŭchŭ, old—Hit wet- or wett-, varr wit(t)- and wid-, a year, as in wettanza, a year, wettantatar or widandanne, a period of a year, and wetti, in a year. Note also the link supplied by L ueternus, old, and L ueternius, (of a domestic quadruped) old enough, fit, to carry burdens, hence relating to a domestic quadruped, esp if a beast of burden. The IE r is therefore wet-* (uet-*), a year.

Latin

2. L uitulus, ML vitulus, a calf, has adj uitulinus, whence E vituline, var vitular (ML vitulus+suffix -ar); the dim uitellus, a little calf, hence the yolk of an egg, is, in its ML form, adopted by Sci: whence the Sci n vitellin and adj vitelline (perh imm from the L adj uitellinus).

3. ML vitellus becomes OF-MF veel (EF-F veau), vel, adopted by ME, later vele, E veal; from OF-MF veel, vel, derives MF veeslin, later veelin, EF-F velin, orig calf-gut, later calf-skin, treated like parchment, whence E vellum.

4. L uetus, old, has the syn extn uetustus, ML v-, whence the literary uetust, ancient, antique.

5. L uetus has gen ueteris, o/s ueter-, whence the extn ueterānus, old, aged, LL (orig of a soldier) much-experienced, also, as n, a retired official: whence the E adj and—perh imm from EF-F vétéran—n.

6. Also on L ueter-, o/s of uetus, old, is formed the adj ueterīnus, (of beasts) old enough to carry a burden, hence relating to a beast of burden, whence ueterinae, beasts of burden, whence the adj ueter-nārius, whence ueterināria ars, whence elliptical LL ueterināria, the veterinary art; L ueterinārius becomes EF-F vétérinaire, whence—unless direct from L—the E veterinary; from veterinary surgeon derives the coll vet.

7. Also from L ueter-, o/s of uetus, derives ueterascere, to (begin to) grow old, whence the adj ueterātus, aged, long-established, whence the obs E veterate. Int L inueterātus: E inveterate.

Greek

8. Gr etos, a year, has adj etēsios, returning each year, whence etēsiai (for e. anemot), annual winds, L etēsiae, EF etesies, EF-F étésiens, whence E etesians, whence, by b/f, the adj etesian.

wey, a weight. See VIA, para 9.

whack, v, hence n; thwack, v, hence n; (now dial) thack, v, hence n.

The 1st and the 2nd are int varr of the 3rd, which derives from OE thaccian, to pat, pat firmly: app echoic. For the echoic element -ack, cf clack, crack, smack, etc.

whale, n, hence v; narwhal; for walrus, cf HORSE, para 1.

1. Whale, ME whal, derives from OE hwael: cf OS hwal, OHG-MHG wal, OHG walvisc, MHG walvisch, G Walfisch, MD wal, wael, both also with -visch attached, ON hvalr—and prob MHG-G wels, the shad—and perh L squalus, a dogfish—OP kalis, a shad—Skt chāla-, a freshwater fish, kara-, a (large) fish. (The OIr hualr, a large fish, perh comes from ON.)

2. ON hvalr has cpd nāhvalr (app for nārhvalr*: nār, a corpse, the allusion being to its 'deathly' or whitish colour), whence modern Scan narhval, whence E narwhal or narwal.

whang. See THONG, para 3.

whap (v, hence n), var whop; weak var wap; to strike: echoic. Hence whopper and whopping.

wharf, whence wharfage, whence wharfager, whence—after passenger—wharfinger; warble, v (whence warbler and warbling), hence n (whence warbly); whirl (v, hence n), whence whirligig, a whirly toy (esp a top or a top-like toy)—whirlpool—suggested by the syn ON hvirfilvindr—whirlwind; whorl (n, hence v), whence whorly.—Cf the sep CARPUS (and the element carpo-).

1. Wharf, ME wharf, wharfe, wherf, hwerf, comes from OE hwerf, hwearf, a turning, a turn, hence a busy place, e.g. a river-bank, a sea-shore, hence a wharf: cf MD warf, waerf, MD-MLG-D werf, Sw varf, and the foll OGmc vv: OE hweorfan, to turn, turn about, be active, and syn OHG hwerfan, hwerban, MHG hwerben (G, to solicit), and Go hwaiban, to wander, ON hverfa, to turn: perh also Gr karpos, the wrist, the swivel or turning-point of the hand, for kwarpos*, and Skt śārpam, śārpam, a winnowing-fan: IE r, kwerp-, var kwerb-, to keep turning, to be active: ? orig from the IE r wer-*, to turn.

2. 'To warble,' ME werbelen, derives from ONF werbler (corresp to OF-MF guerbler), of Gmc origin—cf OHG wirbil, MHG wirbel, lit that which goes round and round.

3. 'To whirl,' ME whirlen, derives from ON hvirfla, a freq of hverfa: cf G wirbeln—from the MHG n wirbel (OHG wirbil, a weakened var of hwirbil)—and MD-D wervelen, MD var worvelen. The E n whirl, although imm from the v, does owe something to the OE hwierfel, itself akin to OFris hwarvel.

4. Whorl, occ (mostly dial) var wharl, comes from ME wharle, whorlwyl, varr wharwyl, whorwyl (-wil), a spindle-whorl or flywheel: cf the syn MD-ED worvel (D wervel), which perh supplies the imm origin—certainly not supplied by the syn OE hweorfa.

what, whatever, whatnot. See WHO, para 1 and heading.

wheal. See VOLUBLE, para 15.

wheat, wheatear, wheaten. See WHITE, paras 5 and 6.

wheedle, whence wheedler and pa, vn wheedling: o.o.o.: perh from OE wāedlian, to beg (be a beggar), be in want, from wāedl, want, poverty, akin to OHG wāialī, poverty, and wādalon, to be a vagrant; rather (with EW) from the G wedeln, (of a dog) to wag the tail, whence anwedeln, to wag the tail on, to fawn on, to wheedle. G wedeln comes from MHG wadelen, from OHG wadal, wedil (cf G Wedel), a fan, a tail.

wheel (n, hence adj and v), whence wheeler and pa, vn wheeling, and such self-explanatory cpds as wheelbarrow (for the 2nd element, cf the v BEAR) and wheelwright (for the 2nd element, cf WORK).—Cf the sep POLE (Geog) and the element tele-.

Wheel, ME wheel, derives from earlier ME hweol, from OE hwēol, app a contr of OE hweowol (var hweogul): cf the syn OFris hwēl, MD wiele, wyel, MD-D wiel, MLG wēl, ON hvēl, var hjö, Ga cuibhle, OSl kolo, Gr kuklos, Skt cakrās—and also L colere, to bestir oneself, be busy, to live in, to cultivate—Skt cārati, he moves (vi)—Gr pelomai-, I move (vi), and polos, an axis, and telos, an end (to which one moves). The IE r is prob kwel-*, to move around (vi).

wheuple and wheetle. See WHINE, para 3, s.f.

wheeze, wheezy. See QUERY, para 1.

whelk (1), marine snail, (2) pustule. See voluble, para 15.

whelm—whence overwhelm, whence the pa overwhelming—derives from ME hwelmen, to turn upside down: app a f/e blend of OE helmian, to cover (cf E helm, helmet), and OE -hwelfan in āhwelfan, to cover over, hence to overcome completely, -hwelfan being related to OHG -welfan, MHG welben (G wölben), to (over)arch, and ON hwelfa, to overturn, and, distantly, the Gr kolpos, bosom.

whelp, n, hence v; Guelph.

Whelp derives from OE hwelp, a puppy, young dog, akin to OS hwelp, MD-D welp, MD welpe, wolpe, wulpe, OHG hwelf, OHG-MHG welf, ON hvelpr: all perh from the corresp OGmc vv for 'to howl'—e.g., OE hwelan.

2. OHG-MHG welf becomes the ML family-name Guelphus, whence—prob via It Guelfo—the E Guelph.

when, whence, whenever. See WHO, para 2.

where, whereas, whereat, whereby, wherefore, wherefrom, wherein, whereof, whereon, whereto, whereupon, wherever, wherewith, wherewithal. See WHO, para 2.

wherry, o.o.o., is perh akin to the naut wear, q.v. at VEER, para 1.

whet, to sharpen, derives from OE hwettan, whence OE hwetstān, whence whetstone: and OE hwettan is akin to OHG hwezzen (wezzēn), MHG-G wetzen, MD-D wetten, ON hvetja, to sharpen, and Go ga-hwatjan, to incite (ga- is int): all prob from the corresp OGmc adj, as, e.g., OHG hwaz, OS hwat, OE hwaet.

whether. See WHO, para 2.

whetstone. See WHET.

wey: ME whey, earlier hwey: OE hwāzīg, hwāæg, hwæg: cf MD weye, wey, D wei, MLG hoie, whey, and Go hwatho, foam—and perh, as a link between the prec and the foll terms, OS kvasū, leaven, Skt kvathati, it seethes—Prakrit chāsī, buttermilk, L cāseus, cheese; therefore cf CHEESE.

which, whichever. See WHO, para 2. whicker, to neigh, is echoic: cf WHINNY, q.v. at WHINE.

whidah bird exemplifies erudite f/e: prob widow bird (black, with long tail feathers resembling a widow's veil), it was altered to conform with an erroneous belief that it should be Whydah bird after Whydah, now Ouidah, in Dahomey.

whiff, n and v, is echoic: cf ME weffe, steam, vapour, a whiff. 'To whiff' has freq whiffle.

Whig, approx a Liberal, shortens Whiggamore, a C18 opponent of the Sc Conservatives: earlier Whiggamaire, app one who whigs—drives or urges on—a mare or horse. 'To whig' is prob echoic.

while, whence whiles (-s, orig the gen ending, indicates an adv), whence, in turn, whilst; whilom; awhile (a- for an, E on+the article a understood+the n while).

The conj while is short for (the) while that or (the) while as, with for understood before the phrase; 'You do that while I do this'='You do that for, i.e. during, the time that I do this'; and whilom derives from OE hwilum, lit '(for the) times', hwilum being the dat pl of hwil, a space of time, an occasion, whence the E n while, as in 'every once in a while'; cf OFris hwile, OS hwil, OHG hwīla, MHG wīle, G Weile, a space of time, cf ON hwīla, a breathing-space, a rest: also, further off, cf L quies, a rest, quiet, and tranquillus, restful, and, with &- for ich-, and r for l, Skt čīrās, lasting. Therefore cf QUIET.

'To while away' the time blends, prob by f/e, while, a time, and wile, to beguile.

whim, whence whimsy (pl whims+adj -y), whence whimsical, seems to be of Scan origin, prob traceable, ult, to ON hvima, to let one's eyes wander.

whimbrel, a curlew, and whimper (v, hence n), are extn of the echoic whim*, a whining.

whimsical, whimsy. See WHIM.

whin, with cognates in modern Scan, is app related to ON hvein, a marshy field, attested in PINn.

whinberry. See VINE, para 8, s.f.

whinchat, a chattering bird that frequents whin, is, in dial, a furze- or gorse-chat.

whine (v, hence n); whinny, whence Houyhnhnm (pron whinnim); hinny, n and v; whisper, v, hence n; whistle (n and v), whistler (OE hwistlere); wheep and wheetle; cf the sep WHICKER.

1. 'To whine,' ME whinen, derives from OE hwīnan, to utter a whiz sound—cf the syn ON hvīna; and whinny is a shortening of whine—cf Swift's Houyhnhnms, a noble race of horses, in Gulliver's Travels.

2. 'To whinny' is clearly related to L hinnire, to whinny, to neigh; hinnire has f/e influenced L hinnus, a hybrid of stallion and ass, prop innus* from Gr innos, a mule, thought to be of Caucasian origin.

3. Akin to whine and whinny are 'to whisper', OE hwisprian, and 'to whistle', OE hwistlian (to hiss): both of the OE vv have OGmc, incl ON, cognates: all, obviously, are ult echoic. Cf the purely echoic, mostly dial wheep (esp of a curlew) and wheetle.

whinny. See prec, para 1.

whip, whippersnapper, whippet, whippoorwill. See VIBRATE, para 4.

whir. See SWIRL, para 3.

whirl. See SWIRL, para 2; cf WHARF, para 3.

whirligig. See GIG, s.f.—cf WHARF (heading).

whirlwind. See WHARF (heading).

whisk, n, v; whisker(s). See the 1st VERGE, para 1.

whiskey (Irish) or whisky (Scotch). See AQUA, para 6.

whisper. See WHINE, para 3.

whist, adj and n; whist! See HUSH, para 2.

whistle, whistler. See WHINE, para 3—and heading.

whit; wight.—Cf the sep AUGHT and NAUGHT (NOUGHT).

Whit, esp in not a whit, stands for wit: ME wiht: OE wiht, a thing, a creature; and wight (archaic), a creature, a man, comes from the ME var wight. OE wiht is akin to OS wiht, OHG-MHG wiht, G Wicht, MD wecht, creature, thing, MD-D wicht, a child, Go waihts, thing, ON vittr, creature, thing—and OS veſtīl, a thing.

white (adj, whence whitish and whity; hence adv, n, v), whiten, whiteness; whiting; numerous cpds, mostly explicable by the 2nd element—but note esp Whitsunday, Whitsuntide.—wheat (whence wheaty), wheat, wheaten.—edelweiss.

1. White, ME whit, OE hwīt, is akin to OFris hwīt (var hwitt), OS hwīt, OHG hwīz, later wīz, MHG wīz, G weiss, G weiss, G hweits, MD witte, MD-D wit, ON hvitr; cf also Skt śvētās and such Sl forms as OS svētū, light (n), the dawn, svitati, to become bright, to dawn, Lith šveisti, to cause to be light or bright, and svīdus, white-gleaming. The IE r is app kweid-, with var kweid-, gleaming, white.

2. OE hwīt has the derivative hwītness, whence whiteness, and ME whit the derivative whitenen (perh influenced by ON hvítina), whence 'to whiten'. Akin to white, but imm deriving from MD wijting—itself MD wijt (var of wit) + suffix -ing—is the fish whiting.

3. OE hwīt has the notable virtual cpd hwīta sunnandaeg, lit 'white Sunday'—prob from the white vestments worn at, e.g., baptism; hence Whitsunday; whence, anl and f/e by a false division of the prec, the ME virtual cpd white sune tide, whence Whitsuntide.

4. Akin to OE hwīt, white, is OE hwāete, ME wheite, E wheat, with its whitish grain and esp its white flour: cf OFris hwēte, OS hwēti, OHG hweizi, MHG weize, G Weizen, Go hwaiteis, MD weet, weite, weiten, MD-D weit, ON hveiti.

5. That white-rumped small bird we call the wheat ear app contains a double f/e alteration: prob it represents white-ear, with white becoming wheat and with ear influenced by the ear of cereals and the ear of hearing, and also with ear representing er*, a false sing of ME ers, rump (cf ARSE), apprehended as a pl.

6. OE hwāet, wheat, has adj hwāeten, whence wheaten.

7. G weiss occurs in the G cpd Edelweiss, lit 'a white nobleman', fanciful name for an Alpine plant and its white bloom—the Swiss floral emblem; adopted by numerous European languages, incl E.

whither. See WHO, para 2, s.f.

whiting. See WHITE, para 2, s.f.

whitlow. See VIVA, para 9.

Whitsunday, Whitsuntide. See WHITE, para 3.

whittle, thwittle, thwaite; doit.

1. Whittle, to cut, or pare, away with a knife, derives from whittle, a (large) knife, e.g. a butcher's: ME thwitel, whence the now dial 'to thwittle': from OE thwītan, to cut (cf the dial thwite, to cut, to carve): akin to ON thveita, to hew.

2. Akin to ON thveita is ON thveit, a piece of land (as it were, cut out from its vicinity): whence E thwaite, woodland with the trees cut down, also a meadow.

3. Also very intimately related to ON thveita, to hew, is ON thveiti, var thveit, lit a 'cut-out' piece of metal, a small copper coin, whence prob the MD deyt, deuyt, duit (as still), doyt, the last adopted by E and altered to doit, esp in not worth a doit, not worth a farthing.

whiz or whizz (v, hence n)—whence whizzer and whizzing and such cpds as whizz-bang and whizzig (gig, a whirling toy)—is obviously ehoic.

who, acc whom and gen whose, whence whoever, whomever, whosoever; what, whence whatever and whatnot; when (whence whenever), whence; where (hence wherever), with cpds in -as, -at, -for, -fore (adv, hence n), -in, -of, -on, -through, -to, -upon, -with (with extn -withal, now used as n); whether;

which (hence whichever); whither; why;—sep how.—Also sep: kickshaw; qualify, quality, etc., treated at QUALE—QUANTITY, etc., at QUANTIC—QUORUM—QUOTE (QUOTA, QUOTIENT).

1. All these E wh- words derive from OE hw-; all the other corresp Gmc words in w- likewise derive from OGmc hw-: and OGmc hw- answers to IE kw-, predominantly vocalized kwi-, with varr kwa-, kwe-, esp kwo-. Cf the L qui, f quae, neu quod, the relative 'who-which', and the corresp interrogative quis, f quae (OL qua), quid, 'who?—which?—what?'; but cognates are afforded also by C, Sl, Gr, Skt, Hit, Tokh, Arm, not only for these primary relative and interrogative pronouns, but also for the subsidiary 'when'—'whence'—'where'—'whether'—'whither'—'why'. The basic pronoun is the interrogative; the relative follows naturally from it; and the relative-interrogative is perh an expressive extn of IE i-*, be, that one. Medit? Perh cf Eg aut (? for waut* for kwaut*), who, which, and ausu (? for wausu* for kwausu*), what?

2. In the following summary, only the ME and OE forms and the phon closest Gmc cognates are noted:

who, ME who, var wha, OE hwā (cf OFris hwā); whom, ME whom, var wham, OE (dat) hwām, hwāem; whose, ME whos, var whas, OE hwaes;—

what, OE hwaet (neu of hwā); cf OFris hwet and OS hwat;—

which, ME which, var whilk, OE hwilc (hwylc), var hwelc; cf OS hwilik, OFris hwelik or hwelk, OHG hwelih, Go hwileiks;—

when (adv, hence conj), ME when or whan, var whenne or whanne, OE hwaenne, hwanne, occ hwonne—cf OS hwan, OFris hwan or hwen, OHG hwanne, Go hwan; whence, ME whens, whennes (adv -s is prop the gen), var whenne, whanene, OE hwanan, hwanon (or -one), occ hwonan, from the OE forms for 'when'—cf the OS hwanan and the OFris hwana, hwona;—

where, ME wher or whar, OE hwāer—cf OFris hwēr, OS hwār, Go hwar, ON hvar;—

whether, orig 'which (of two)', ME id, OE hwether or hwaether—cf OFris hwedder, hweder, OS hwethar, OHG hwedar;—

whither, ME whider, OE hwider—cf Go hwadrē (and hwathrō, whence);—

why, ME why and whi, corresp to OE hwȳ and hwī, prop the instr of hwā, neu hwaet: cf ON hv and Go hwē, the latter germane also to OE hū, ME hu, hou, finally—as in E—how (q.v. sep).

whole, whence wholly—cf whole cloth (out of), wholemeal, wholesale, wholesome; hail, v, and hale, adj; heal (whence healer and pa, vn healing)—health, whence healthful, healthless (obsol), healthy (whence healthiness).

1. The n whole derives from the adj whole, ME hole (hoole), var hale, OE hāl, sound (complete), healthy: cf OFris hēl, OS hēl, OHG-MHG-G heil, Go hails, MD hiel, MD-D heel, ON heill, syn OSI cēlū, OP kailūstiskan, health, Gr koilu, the beautiful (prop, neu adj). The OGMc etym is hailaz*; the IE, koilos*; the IE r, kail-, koil-.

2. From whole cloth, a (large) uncut piece of cloth, derives (of a story, a lie) 'made out of whole cloth'—a sheer fabrication; whole meal=meal (grain coarsely ground) of entire-wheat; wholesale, goods sold in large quantities, hence the corresp adj, whence the sense 'both extensive and indiscriminating or indiscriminate'. Wholesome is much older; it derives from ME holsum, itself perh from ON heilsamr—cf MD heilsam, D heilzaam, G heilsam.

3. From ON heill, sound, healthy, comes ME heil, hail, used in greeting (cf wassail), whence ME heilen, hailen, to greet, whence 'to hail' or greet. With Hail!, cf G Heil! and Go Hails!: for 'Be hail' or well, 'Long Life!' But from E hāl, sound, healthy, comes ME hal, later hale, retained by E.

4. Akin to OE hāl, healthy, is OE hāelan, ME haelen, helen, E 'to heal': cf the syn OFris hēla and OS hēlian, and OHG heilen, to become, also to make, well, MHG-G heilen, to cure, Go hailjan, MD heilen, hielen, helen, MD-D heelen.

5. OE hāl, well, has derivative hāelth (abstract suffix -th)—ME helthe—E health.

whom. See WHO, para 2.

whoop (v, hence n), whence whooping cough and AE whoopee! (whence the sl 'to make whoopee'): ME whopen, whoupen, loose varr of hopen, houpen: OF-MF hoper, houper, huper: from the echoic interj hop, houp, hup—cf F hoop-la!, whence the carnival game hoopla.

whop, whopper, whopping. See WHAP.

whore, whoredom, whorish. See CHARITABLE, para 2.

whorl. See WHARF, para 4. whortleberry. See at BLACKBERRY.

whose. See WHO, para 2.

why. See WHO, para 2, s.f.

wick (1), of lamp. See VEIL, para 5.

wick (2), a village, a small bay. See VICINAGE, para 5.

wicked (whence wickedness): ME wicked: f/e formed from ME wicke, wicked, from ME wiken, from OE wīcan, to be weak, to give way, and therefore cf E weak, q.v. at VICAR, para 7. Cf:

wicker (whence wickerwork—cf WORK): ME wyker, wekir, osier: cf the dial Sw vikker, willow, and ON vikja, OE wīcan, to be weak, to be pliable, to bend easily: therefore cf prec and prob:

wicket, a small gate, a small door set in a large one, hence the wicket (orig of two stumps) in cricket, whence wicket-keeper: ME wiket, adopted from ONF: corresp to OF-F guichet, orig also a nook, a small hiding-place: perh a dim (-et) from ON vik, nook (cf ON vikja, to turn).

wickiup. See WIGWAM.

wide, adv, derives from OE wide, itself from the OE adj wid, whence the E adj wide, whence both widen and width—cf breadth from broad, length from long, etc. The OE wid is akin to OFris (and OS) wid, MD wide, wijdde, wijt, D wijd, OHG-

MHG wīt, G weit, ON wīthr (cf Da and Sw vit)—and perh Skt vids, straight, prob to Skt vi, asunder. Cf WITH.

widgeon, occ wigeon, a species of duck, app comes from an (ONF and) AF var of F vigeon (obs varr vingeon, gingeon): ML vipiōnem, acc of vipiō, a small crane: phon cf pigeon from L pipiō, acc pipiōnem: both vipiō and pipiō are echoic of the cries, notes, calls.

widow (n, hence v), whence widower—cf widow's mite (Mark, xii, 42); vidual, viduate (adj and n), viduity, viduous; sep DIVIDE, DIVISION; sep DEVICE and DEVISE; sep INDIVIDUAL.

1. Widow, ME widewe (contr widwe), OE widuwe, weoduwe, wuduwe, is akin to OFris widwe (occ wide), OS widuwa, MD wedewe (-wi), weduwi, MD-D weduwe, OHG wituwa, MHG witewe, G Witwe, Go widuwō: cf Skt vidhāva, OP widdewū, OSi vidova, vūdova, ML vidua, L uidua, prop the f of the adj uiduus, bereft, widowed; cf also Gr ēitheos (int ē-+withewos*, corresp to L uiduus), unmarried, hence an unmarried young man, and, with f for u (v), the OIr feab—for the -b, perh cf early modern HG Wittib, var of Witwe. With OHG wituwa, G Witwe, prob cf OHG weiso, MHG weise, G Waise, an orphan, and perh OHG wisan, to avoid; and with Skt vidhāvā, a widow, cf Skt vidhyati, he bores through, divides or separates by boring or piercing, and the nasalized Skt vindhātē, (it) becomes empty. The IE r, therefore, is widh-*, to sunder, part, separate.

2. From L uiduus, ML viduus, and its derivative uiduītās, comes E viduous and E viduity; from the LL extn uiduālis, ML v-, comes E vidual; from the derivative L v uiduāre, pp uiduātus, comes the adj viduate, and from the derivative LL n uiduātus (gen -ūs), widowhood, comes the Eccl viduate or order of widows.

width. See WIDE.

wield. See VALUE, para 2.

wienerwurst. See WURST, para 2.

wife, wifehood, wifely. See VIBRATE, para 9.

wig (1), a cake, a bun. See WEDGE, para 1, s.f.

wig (2), of hair. See periwig at PETER, para 12.

wiggle is a thinning of waggle, q.v. at VIA, para 1.

wight (1), adj. See VICTOR, para 1.

wight (2), n. See WHIT.

wigwam and wickiup, the anglicized form of wikiup: the 'Red Indian' hut, resp of the Great Lakes (and points East) and of the arid W and SW USA: the Amerind r is wik-, var wig-, app 'to dwell': wigwam is lit 'their dwelling', and wikiup 'a dwelling': cf Menominee wikiop, Sauk (or Sac) kickapoo, Fox wikiyap, wikiyapi; Ojibway wigwam, Lenape wikwam, Abnaki wigouam, wigwam. (Webster; Mathews.)

wild (adj, hence adv and—cf MD wilde—n)—whence the n wilding (-ling), a person, animal, thing, that belongs to); wildebeest and wild-goose chase (occ race); wilderness—cf 'to wilder' and its derivative 'to bewilder' (int be-), whence bewildering and bewilderment.

1. Wild, untamed, uncultivated, hence savage, ME wild, earlier wilde, OE wilde, is related to OFris wilde, OS wildi, MD welde, welt, wilt, wilde, MD-D wild, OHG wildi, MHG wilde, G wild, Go wiltheis, ON vilr (but Da and Sw wild), W gwyllt (as n, wilderness), Cor gwyls, guyls, and perh Ga allaidh, OIr allaid: prob akin to G Wald, a forest—cf, sem, the origin of SAVAGE.

2. The wild cpds are mostly self-explanatory, but note esp the adj wildcat (mine, well, etc.) from 'the wild cat'—wild-goose chase (or race), a pursuit as futile as that after a wild goose—wildebeest, adopted from SAfr, lit 'wild beast', in fact a gnu.

3. OE wilde has derivative wildor, wilder, a wild beast, whence OE-ME wilderne, wild, savage, deserted, ME wilderne, wilderness, whence—with abstract suffix -ness substituted for -ne—wilderness: cf MD wildernesse, wildernesse, wildernisse, D wildernis. Note that OE wilder, wildor, wild beast, is a contr of OE wildeor, itself an easing of OE wild-dēor, wild beast, OE dēor being both generic and particular.

4. 'To wilder' (EE-E) or lead astray—virtually superseded by its int, bewilder—derives either by b/f from wilderness or, more prob, from MD verwilder, freq of verwildern, akin to G wildern, Da forvilde, ON villa, to lead astray, to perplex (utterly), or, less prob, from ME wilderne, a wilderness.

wildebeest. See prec, para 2.

wilder, v. See WILD, para 4.

wilderness. See WILD, para 3.

wile. See VICTIM, para 3.

wilful. See VOLITION, heading and para 7.

will (1), n. See VOLITION, para 7.

will (2), full v. See VOLITION, para 8.

will (3), auxiliary v. See VOLITION, para 9.

William. See VOLITION, para 10.

will-o'-the-wisp. See VOLITION, para 10.

willow, whence willowy. See VOLUBLE, para 16.

willy, a basket. See VOLUBLE, para 17.

willy-nilly. See VOLITION, para 9.

wilt (thou). See VOLITION, para 9.

wilt, to droop, to become flaccid, whence n: dial var welt: EE welk: ME welken: MD welken, to wither (D verwelken): cf OHG-MHG welc, G welk, (orig) damp, (soon) faded; cf also OB vлага, dampness, therefore OHG wolkan, MHG wolken, G Wolke, a cloud, therefore cf OE wolcen, a cloud, ME wolcne, weolcne, welcne, welkne, welkene, a cloud, the sky, E welkin, the sky, loosely the atmosphere.

wily. See VICTIM, para 3.

wimble. See GIMLET.

wimple; gimp, gumpe.

1. Wimple, a woman's head-, neck-, chin-covering of silk or linen: ME—from-OE wimpel: cf OFris wimpel, OHG wimpal, MHG-G wimpel, MD wimpel, wempel, wumpel, ON wimpill (Da, Sw wimpel): o.o.o.: but app a dim of OGmc wimp*.

2. Frankish wimpil* becomes OF gumpe, whence MF-F gumpe, a chemisette: whence E gimp, a narrow piece of ornamental fabric, used for trimming of dresses or for upholstery.

wim. See VENERABLE, para 8.

wince. See WENCH, para 2.

winch. See WENCH, para 2.

wind (1), n; windy; window; wing (n, hence v); winnow.—van; fan (n, hence v).—vent (in hunting); ventail; ventilate, ventilation, ventilator; ventose, ventosity.—cf the sep AIR, ASTHMA—and WEATHER.

1. Wind, fast-moving air, OE wind, is akin to OFris (and OS) wind, OHG-MHG wint, G Wind, Go winds, MD went, wint, D wind, ON vindr, wind—to W gwynt, Cor guenz, guins, gwens, gwins, wind, and Br guenteréz, a winnowing-van—to L uentus, ML ventus, Tokh A wānt, Tokh B yente—perh Hit huwantes, winds—and to the n-less Skt vāta, wind, vāti, it blows, Gr aētēs (? for waētēs*), a very strong wind, OHG wājan, MHG waejen, G wehen, Go wātan, OE wāwan, OFris wāia, (of the wind) to blow. The IE r is app wē-, nasal extn wen-, to blow.

Germanic

2. OE wind has derivative adj windig, E windy; and ON vindr has the cpd vindauga, an eye (cf EYE) of the wind, i.e. an opening for the air to enter, whence ME windoge, later windowe, E window. Such cpds as windflower (after Gr anemonē, from anemos, wind), -gauge, -hover (the kestrel), -jammer, -mill, -pipe, -rose, -row, are self-explanatory.

3. OE wind has derivative v windwian, to blow (chaff) away (from grain) by means of air-currents: whence ME windewen, later winewen, whence 'to winnow'.

4. Akin to the OGmc words for 'to blow' added in para 1, is the syn D waaien, which means also 'to fly'; akin also is ON vāengr (cf Da, Sw vinge), a wing, whence ME wenge, later winge, E wing.

Latin and French

5. L uentus (gen uenti), ML ventus, wind, becomes OF-F vent, whence OF-F venter, to blow, MF-F to track by scent: whence the syn E 'to vent', used also as n, both obs except as hunting techh. OF-F vent has OF-F derivative ventail (suffix -ail), the air-admitting lower half of a helmet, adopted by E, now only hist.

6. L uentus has—perh suggested by the dim uentulus, a slight wind—the derivative v uentilāre, ML v-, to expose to the air, hence also to winnow, with pp uentilātus, whence uentilātō and uentilātor (winnowing-van): E 'to ventilate'—ventilation (perh imm from MF-F)—ventilator.

7. L uentus has adj uentōsus, windy, whence uentōsitas, windiness, LL flatulence: E ventose, ventosity.

8. Perh akin to L uentus is L uannus, ML v-, a winnowing-van or -fan: whence both OF-F van, adopted by E, and OE fann (f for ML v-), a basket—or a capacious shovel—for tossing grain into the air and thus throwing out the chaff (obs), whence—cf the EF-F éventail (from MF-F éventer, prefix-cpd of venter)—the hand-manipulated fan, whence the birds named fantail, having a fan-shaped tail.

wind (2), to turn repeatedly (pt, pp wound), hence wind, a winding-device; windas (obs) and windlass.—wand; wander, whence wanderer and pa, vn wandering—cf wanderlust.—wend (and Wend, whence Wendic, Wendish), pt went—now serving as pt of 'to go', hence the need for the modern pt wended.

1. 'To wind' comes from ME winden, from OE windan: cf OFris winda, OS windan, OHG wintan, MHG-G winden, Go -windan, MD wenden, wijnden, MD-D winden, ON winda: cf also the OGmc words in the ensuing paras.

2. With the obs windas, ME wyndas, from ON windáss, lit a winding-pole (áss), cf Ice windiláss, whence E windlass.

3. Akin to ON winda, to wind, is ON vöndr, a slender, supple stick cut from a tree: ME wond, later wand, retained by E: cf Go wandus.

4. Akin to OE windan, to wind, is—? influenced by wand—OE wandrian, (vi) to move about aimlessly: ME wandrien, later wandren, whence 'to wander': cf MD wanderen, var of wandelen, and MHG-G wandern, to wander—and OHG wantalôn, MHG-G wandeln, to change (vi), G to wander, itself akin to G winden: 'to wander' is 'to take a winding course'. G wandern, to wander, has cpd wanderlust, a longing (cf E lust) to wander, adopted by E.

5. With OHG wantalôn, MHG-G wandeln, to change (vi), cf OHG wentên, MHG-G wenden, to turn (vt)—the caus of OHG wintan, MHG-G winden, and the syn OFris wenda, OS wendian, Go wandjan, ON wenda (Sw vända), and esp OE wendan (vi), to turn, to go, ME wenden, E 'to wend'. Note that went first occurs c1200 and was orig also a pp.

6. Perh from MHG-G wenden, to turn, comes G Wende, E Wend, the name of a Slavic people in East Germany: remnants or 'pockets' of an early medieval migration that was repelled.

windflower, windhover. See the 1st WIND, para 2.

windlass. See the 2nd WIND, para 2.

window. See the 1st WIND, para 2.

windy. See the 1st WIND, para 2.

wine, wine-bibber, winer, winery. See VINE, para 8.

wing. See the 1st WIND, para 4.

wink. See WENCH, para 3.

winkle (shell-fish). See the 2nd PERIWINKLE, s.f.

winnow. See the 1st WIND, para 3.

winsome. See VENERABLE, para 9.

winter, wintry. See WATER, para 4.

wipe. See VIBRATE, para 5.

wire, whence wireless (adj), hence n—short for wireless telegraphy, wiring (vn), wiry; withe and withy; gyve; ferrule.

1. Wire, ME wyre, earlier wir, OE wir, is related to OHG wiara, fine gold work, MLG wire, wire, ON -vïrr (wire) in vïravirki, wirework or filigree, L uiriae (pl), LL uiria (sing), armlet, bracelet—said by Pliny, to be of C origin—cf OIr and Ga fiar, twisted, crooked, W gwyro, to slant, be crooked, OC veiro-, (to be) oblique or crooked—an origin perh more prob than that in L uiëre (ML v-), to plait, but cf para 3, s.f.

2. Akin to OE wir is OE withthe, ME wyth or withe, E withe, a flexible thin branch, or long twig, used for binding. From ME withe, in sense 'band' or 'halter', perh derives, by AF mdfn (gu-, g-, for v-, w-), the ME give, E gyve, mostly in pl.

3. Very closely akin to OE withthe is OE withig (? for withthig, orig the adj, connoted by -ig, of withthe), a willow-twig, a willow tree (obsol), hence ME withi, E withy: cf ON vith, vithja, a slender, flexible twig, and vithir, a willow—OHG wida, MHG wide, G Weide, a willow—perh also cf Gr eitea, itea (for witea), willow, Lith žilvytis, a grey willow, vytis, willow-twig, OSl vyti, to plait, L uītis, a vine, a vine-tendril, and uiëre, to plait.

4. L uiriae, LL uiria, armlet or bracelet, has dim L uiriolae, LL uiriola, ML virola, a small bracelet, whence OF virol, MF-F virole, whence late ME verelle, EE verrel(I), verril(I), EE ferrel or ferril, E ferrule: the f- forms are f/e, as if the word derived from a dim of L ferrum, iron.

Wisconsin State derives from W. river, itself lit '(the) place, hence region, of the beaver's or muskrat's hole' (Ojibway Wishkonsing).

wisdom. See VIDE, para 8.

wise (1), adj. See VIDE, para 8.

wise (2), n. See VIDE, para 9.

wiseacre. See VIDE, para 9, s.f.

wisecrack. See VIDE, para 9.

wisenheimer. See VIDE, para 9.

wish, wishful. See VENERABLE, para 7.

wishy-washy. See WASH (heading).

wisp (n, hence v), whence wispy: ME wisp, of Scan origin, ult the ON visk: therefore cf E whisk, q.v. at the 1st VERGE, para 1.

Wistaria (wistaria), erroneously Wisteria (wisteria), is named after the A scientist Caspar Wistar (1761–1818).

wistful. See VENERABLE, para 7, s.f.

wit, n. See VIDE, para 6.

wit, v. See VIDE, para 7.

witch, witchcraft, witchery, witching. See VICTIM, para 2—and the heading.

witch hazel. See WYCH.

witenagemot or witenagemote is the meeting (OE gemōt: cf E moot at MEET) of the witan or royal, or national, council in AS times (OE witan, pl of wita, a councillor or counsellor, lit a wise man: cf wit and wise at VIDE, paras 8 and 9).

with, whence withal (for with-all)—withdraw, withdrawal, withdrawn, qq.v. at DRAW, para 2—withhold (to hold against, hence back)—within (ME withinne, earlier withinnen, OE withinnan: cf IN)—without (ME withoute, earlier withouten, OE withūtan: cf OUT)—withstand (OE withstandan, to stand with, i.e. against); withernam and withershins, Sc widdershins; withers.—Cf the element iso- and the sep GUERDON.

1. With, ME with, (along) with, against, OE with, against, over against, opposite, hence, positionally, very close to, hence with, is akin to OFris with, withe, OS with, ON vith, against, and the intimately—almost inseparably—related extn: OE wither, OFris wither, OS withar, OHG widar, MHG-G wider, Go withra, MD-D weder, against, and notably Skt vitāram, further (the comp of vi-, apart), and Av vithra, separate. If, as seems prob, the IE r be *wi-, private, particular, withdrawn, separate, then Gr idios (if for widios*), private, is cognate—therefore cf idiom, idiot, etc.

2. OE wither, against, has two cpds worth particularization: withernam, a seizure (nām, from niman, to take—cf OHG neman, G nehmen) against, i.e. as a reprisal, a term in early E Law; and withershins, contrariwise, from OE withersynes, backwards, with E dial and Sc f/e var widdershins, OE withersynes, var -sines, with 2nd element (adv -s) coming from ON sinni, a way or direction (cf SEND).

3. OE wither, against, is used also as n 'opposition', ME wither, resistance, whence a horse's withers (ridge between the shoulder-blades): lit 'the parts taking the strain—resisting the pull—in pulling a load'.

withal. See prec (heading).

withdraw, withdrawal, withdrawn. See DRAW, para 2.

withe. See WIRE, para 2.

wither. See WEATHER, para 3.

withernam. See WITH, para 2.

withers. See WITH, para 3. withhold; within; without; withstand. See WITH (heading).

withy. See WIRE, para 3.

wittiss; wittling: wit, n (see VIDE, para 6) + suffix -less; wit, n + dim suffix -ling.

witness (n, hence v): OE witness, gewitness (ge-, prop int, is here merely formative), knowledge (-ness, abstract suffix, tacked on to wit, n, q.v. at VIDE, para 6), esp testimony, hence one who testifies.

witticism, witty. See VIDE, para 6, s.f.

wive, to marry (a woman); wives, pl n. See VIBRATE, para 9.

wivern. See VIBRATE, para 3.

wizard. See VIDE, para 8, s.f.

wizen, to shrivel, var weazen, now usu in pa wizened (occ weazened): ME wisenen: OE wisnian (var weosnian): cf ON visna, to wither, OHG wesanōn, to become dry, Lith vysti, ML viescere, L u-, to fade or wither. The IE r is app wes-*, to fade or wither.

woad. See VITRAGE, para 1.

wobble (occ written wabble), v, hence n, whence also the adj wobbly: echoic or, at the least, 'pictur-esque': cf the syn LG wabbeln and esp MHG wabeln, var of MHG-G wabern, to be in agitated motion; cf (f for b) the ON vafra. (Walshe.)

Woden. See WEDNESDAY, para 3.

wodge. See WEDGE, para 2.

woe (whence woeful) and woebegone (ME wo begon, encompassed—pp begon, from OE begān, bigān, to go bi- or about, around); wail (v, hence n—whence the obsol wailful); vae victis!

1. Woe, grief, derives from ME wo or woo, var of wa, itself from the OE interj wā: cf OFris (and OS) wē, OHG-MHG wē (gen wēwes), Go wai, ON vei (with modern Scan varr), all orig interj: cf ML vae, L uae, esp in uae uictis, ML vae victis (woe to the vanquished: dat pl of pp uictus, conquered)—Gr oi and its cpds ouai, ah woe, and oimoi, woe (is to) me, parallel to L oiei—Skt uvē—and, in C, OIr fé and Cor gew, gu, and, in cpds, go-. But such a word is, in its interj origin, world-wide, and the derivative n is prob at least Medit in its range: cf Eg ah, woe.

2. Akin to OE wā is ON vāla, vāēla, whence ME wailen, weilen, E 'to wail'—lit, to 'cry woe!'

wold. See the 1st VOLE.

wolf (n, hence v), whence wolfish; wolverine; wolfram, wolframite.—lupus, lupin, lupine; lobo; cf the element lup-.

1. Wolf, ME-OE wulf, is akin to OS wulf, OFris wolf, Go wulfs, OHG-MHG-G wolf, ON úlfr (for wulfr*), the OGmc etymon being wulfaz* for wulhwaz*. The IE etymon is wulqos* (Walshe): cf L lupus (? for wulpus*, itself for wulqus*)—Gr lukos—Lith vilkas—Skt vrkas (virkas*)—and cognates in OSI, Alb, Arm. Perh 'the tearer or render' and therefore akin to IE wel-*, to tear, as in L uellere (Hofmann). Perh cf VULPINE.

2. Irreg from E wolf comes E wolverine, var -ene: this A carnivore has many wolfish features and qualities. Wolframite comes from G Wolframit, an extn of Wolfram, adopted (wolfram) by E—in Chem, tungsten, and in Min, wolframite. G Wolfram is a f/e substitution of the PN Wolfram ('Wolf Raven')—OHG hraban, MHG raben) for early modern HG wolfram, lit 'wolf-turnip': the metal is 'found in turnip-like lumps' (Walshe).

3. L lupus, a wolf, acquires in ML the Med sense 'ulcer', whence the modern Med lupus; the derivative L adj lupinus becomes E lupine; the E n lupine (plant and its flower), var lupin, comes, via MF-F lupin, from L lupinus used as n, lit 'wolf-pea, -pease'.

4. L lupus becomes Sp lobo, whence the timber-wolf of the south-western United States—where Sp influence is so strong.

wolfram, wolframite. See prec, para 2. wolverene, usu wolverine. See WOLF, para 2.

woman, womanhood, womanish, womanize, womanly. See VIBRATE, para 10 and heading.

womb and wame. The latter is an E dial, and a Sc, var of the former: and the former derives from ME wombe, wambe, from OE wamb, occ womb: cf OFris wamme, womme, OS and Go wamba, OHG wamba, MHG wambe, MHG-G wamme, ON vömb, words tending to mean, primarily, 'belly' or 'paunch'; perh (Walshe) cf also W gumbelanc, womb; if so, perh cf the OC r gamb-*, to curve, as in OIr camb, camm, Ga cam, curving, bent, W cam, crooked, Cor camma, gamma, to curve.

won: pt, pp of wín.

wonder (n and v), wonderful, wonderment (from the v), wonderwork, wondrous (adj and adv).

'To wonder' derives from OE wundrian, to be affected with astonishment, from the OE n wundor, whence ME wunder, later wonder, retained by E. OE wundor is akin to OFris wunder, OS wundar, OHG wuntar, MHG-G wunder, MD wunder, MD-D wonder, ON undr: o.o.o.: perh (Walshe) akin to OHG wunna, MHG wunne, G Wonne, joy, delight. OE wundor has the derivatives wundorfull, E wonderful, and wundorweorc, E wonderwork; and ME wonder has gen wonders, used as adj and adv, whence, f/e as if a contr of wonderous*, the adj and adv wondrous.

wont, adj, n, v. See VENERABLE, para 11.

won't, will not. See VOLITION, para 9.

wonted, accustomed. See VENERABLE, para 11.

woo. See VOTAL, para 4.

wood (1), adj 'mad'. See WEDNESDAY, para 3.

wood (2), n, a large, dense growth of trees, hence the material 'wood': ME wode, wude: OE wudu, wiodu, widu, the last being app the basic form—cf OS widu, OHG witu, ON vihr (Sw, Da ved), a wood, timber, vitha, timber, and, in C, OIr fid, a tree, Ga and Ir fiadh, a wood, timber, OW guid, a tree, W gwŷdd, Br guida, Cor gwydh, guit, trees, shrubs, the OC etymon being widus*, the r wid*-. The IE r is prob wid*-, valid (in modern times, at least) only for Europe.

2. OE wudu, wiodu, widu has derivatives and cpds:

OE wudubind, whence E woodbind, with var—orig dial—woodbine (cf BINE);

OE wuducoc, E woodcock;

OE wuduland, E woodland;

OE wudurofe (2nd element, o.o.o.), E woodruff;

OE wudig, E woody—cf the coll AE woody, coined after folksy.

3. EE-E wood has derivative adj wooden and very numerous cpds, mostly self-explanatory. Note, however, esp:

woodchuck, a woodpecker, from chuck, to tap; woodchuck, a ground hog: perh a f/e alteration of some northern Alg word for the wejack, an A and Can bird called also a pekan or a fisher; or cf wejack itself. Cf, phon, the Cree otchek (and Chippewa otchig), the wejack or pekan or fisher, and, sem, the prob transference by white traders of an Amerind name for a bird to a marmot. (Mathews.)

woocer, wooling. See VOTAL, para 4.

woof. See WEAVE, para 3.

wool (whence woolly, adj, hence n)—woollen, AE woolen; Woolsack.—flannel, n, hence adj and v.—Cf the sep VELVET, where also VELOURS.

1. Wool(Den derives from ME wollen, OE wullen (cf MD wullen, MD-D wollen), from OE wull, whence ME wulle, wolle, E wool: cf OFris wulle, wolle, OHG wolla, MHG-G wolle, Go wulla, MD wulle, wolle, MD-D wol, ON ull—Lith vilna, OB vlena—Skt úrṇā—L lāna (cf vellus, a fleece), Gr lénos, Doric lānos—MÍr and Ga olann, Mx ollan, W gwłān, Cor gulān, glān, Br gulān, OC vlana* (MacLennan): cf VELVET.

2. 'The Woolsack' or office of Lord Chancellor derives from the divan-shaped sack of wool upon which he sits in the House of Lords.

3. The W gwłān, wool, has derivative gwlanen, flannel, whence, with f for gw- and with suffix -el for suffix -en, the E word flannel itself.

Woolsack, the. See prec, para 2.

word, wordy. See VERB, para 1.

wore: pt of wear.

work (n and v), whence workable, worker, pa and vn working, workless, workshop (cf SHOP); cpds from OE: workaday, workday, workhouse, workman (whence workmanship).—wrought and wright.—Cf the sep ENERGY, ERG, ORGAN, and such sep cpds as BULWARK and SURGEON.

1. 'To work', ME werken, wurchen, derives from OE wyrcan, wyrcean, wircan: cf the n in next para: cf also OFris werka, werkia, -wirka, -wirkia, wirza, O Swerkon, wirkian, OHG wurchēn, MHG würken, MHG-G wirken, Go waürkjan, MD warken, wirken, wierken, weerken, MD-D werken, ON verka, yrkja (yrkja).

2. The n work, ME work, werk, weork or weorc, derives from OE worc, werc, weorc, akin to OFris (and OS) werk, OHG werah, werc, MHG werch, werc, G Werk, MD warc, weorc, werc, D werk, Go gawaurki, ON verkr: cf also Gr ergon (for wergon*, dial var wargon*), whence the sep ENERGY and ERG, and Gr organon, something used in working, whence the sep ORGAN, and Av vareza-, activity (lit 'works'), and verzeyei, he is active (lit 'works'). The IE r is werg-, to work, var worg-: cf, with g- for w-, the Arm gorc, work. (Hofmann.)

3. OE worc, werc, weorc, or their ME forms, have the foll notable cpds extant in E:

ME werkeday, whence E workaday, characteristic of work, hence, occ, humdrum; cf

OE worcdaeg, E workday (opp Sunday);

OE weorchūs, E workhouse;

OE weorcman, E workman.

4. The OE v wyrcan (or -ean), wircan, has pt worhte, with metathetic var wrohte (cf OFris -wrocht), and pp geworht: whence the E pt and pp wrought, the pp being used also as adj, usu implying 'well or finely, delicately, worked or made'. Very closely related to those OE words and forms is OE wyrhta, with metathetic var wryhta, a worker, esp a skilled worker, esp in wood, whence the E wright: cf OFris wrichta and OHG wurhto, a hired workman. E wright is now obsol, except in such cpds as cartwright, millwright, playwright, shipwright, wainwright, wheelwright.

workaday and workday, workhouse; workman. See prec, para 3.

world, worldly (whence worldliness and the negg unworldly, unworldliness); Weltpolitik, Weltschmerz.—Cf the sep OLD and the sep WEREWOLF.

1. Worldly comes, through ME worldlich, from OE woroldlic, the adj (-lic, -like) of world, contr of weorold, whence, through ME weoreld, weorld, werld or world, the E world: and OE weorold, worold, is related to OFris warld, OHG weralt, MHG werelt, werlt, MHG-G welt, OS werold, MD warelt, werelt, werlt, welt, D wereld, ON veröld: the wer, man, that occurs in werewolf+ the OGmc forms of old, e.g. OHG-MHG-G alt, Go altheis, OE ald, cf Go alds, age: lit, therefore, '(the) man-old' or 'man-age', i.e. mankind's age, the age of the earth inhabited by mankind.

2. The G Welt occurs in such cpds as Welt-politik, world policy, international politics, esp Germany's pre-1939 imperialism, and Weltschmerz, world-pain, a romantic pessimism about the world's present and future state.

worm, wormer, wormy. See VERMEIL, paras 2 and esp 7—cf the heading.

worn: pp of 'to wear'.

worry. See WRENCH, para 6.

worse, adv and adj (whence the obs v 'to worse', whence worsement—anl with betterment—and worsen); worst, adj, hence also adv, n, v (anl with obs 'to worse').

1. Worse and worst are the comp and the sup of an adj lacking a positive: they serve as comp and sup to BAD. The adv worse derives from OE wyrs, wiers (cognates in the other OGmc languages), very intimately related to the adj: OE wyrsa, wiersa, ME wurse, werse, late ME-E worse: cf OS wirsa, OHG wirsiro, Go wairsiza—and, app with -sr- become -rr-—OFris werra, var wirra, and ON verri.

2. With E 'to worsen', cf OHG wirsōn, to corrupt, and OFris wersia, to differ, demur, be in opposition: perh, therefore, these words are related to WAR.

3. Worst, ME wurst, werst, later worst, derives from OE wurresta, wyrst, wersia, akin to OFris wersta, OHG wirsisto, ON verstr: all corresp to the compms adduced in para 1.

worship, worshipful. See the 1st WORTH, para 4.

worst. See WORSE, para 3.

worsted was orig a fine woollen fabric made at Worsted (now Worstead) in Norfolk, England: lit, the place (stead) of the worth or enclosure (Ekwall).

wort. See RADICAL, para 10.

worth (1), adj and n, worthful, worthless, worthy, adj (whence worthiness), hence n; worship (n, hence v), whence worshipful; sep STALWART.

1. The n worth, value, ME worth, wurth, comes from OE weorth, wurth, wyrthu: cf OFris (and OS) werth, OHG werd, MHG-G wert, Go wairth, MD wert, weert, waert, waerd, D waard, ON verth; cf also W gwerth, price, perh Cor vry, value, and Av averetā-, possession.

2. Derivatives of the n include worthful, OE weorthfull—worthless, OE weorthlēas—worthy, ME worthi or wurthi (from the ME n), akin to OFris werthich.

3. The adj worth, valuable, desirable, worthy (all obs), hence, meriting, as in 'worth consideration', (having property, etc.) equal in value to, as in 'He's worth a million', pregnant or elliptical constructions, derives from ME worth, wurth, werth, approx corresp to OE weorth, wurth, wierthe, akin to OFris (and OS) werth, Go wairths, OHG werd, G wert or werth, ON verthr—and almost inextricably associated with the nn cited in para 1. The IE r is perh wert*, worth, value, price, itself perh an extn of that IE wer-*, to turn, which lies behind the v worth.

4. The OE adj and the OE n weorth prob combine to form the 1st element of the OE n weorthscipe (suffix -scipe, state, condition, quality, etc.): ME wurthscipe, later wurscipe, worscipe: E worship. From the ME n comes the ME v wurthscipen, later wurscipen, worscipen, whence 'to worship'; from the ME v comes ME worschipere, whence worshipper.

worth (2), v, to become. See VERSE, para 2.

worthless. See the 1st WORTH, para 2.

worthy. See the 1st WORTH, para 2.

would. See VOLITION, para 9.

wound (n and v), whence woundless and the archaic woundy, adj, hence adv; zounds!; sep WEN.

1. 'To wound' derives from OE wundian (cf OFris wundia), itself from the n wund—whence ME wunde, later wounde, E wound: cf OFris wunde, OS wunda, OHG wunta, MHG-G wunde, MD wunde, MD-D wonde, D wond, ON und; cf also the corresp adj for 'wounded' or '(very) sore'—OE (and OS) wund, OHG-MHG wunt, G wund, Go wunds, ON und.

2. With the archaic woundy, lit 'producing, or characterized by, wounds', hence 'excessive', whence 'excessively', cf sem the archaic plaguy, a pej int adj, hence adv—esp as L plāga means a severe blow, hence a wound, LL a plague.

3. From wound, n, comes the oath God's wounds!, whence, via 's wounds!, the contr zounds!

wove, pt and occ as tech adj; woven, pp of WEAVE.

wowser, a person censorious of minor vices or even of such entertainments as Sunday sports or the music-hall: Aus coll, so widely used as now to rank as familiar SE: o.o.o.: perh an 'easing'—after booser, boozier, drunkard, public-house—of wower*, one who barks—cries wow!—at anything he condemns, from a dog's wow-wow, or bow-wow. The dog's wow(-wow) explains the A sl wow, a success.

wrack. See WREAK, paras 3 and 4.

wraith. See WARD, para 5.

wrangle, wrangler. See WRENCH, para 4.

wrap (v, hence n), whence wrappage (cf package)—wrapper—pa, vn wrapping.—rhapsodic (and its extn rhapsodical)—rhapsodist and rhapsodize, both anl from rhapsody.

1. 'To wrap'—ME wrappen—is app of imm Scan origin: cf Lith verpti, to spin, varpste, a spool, a spindle, Lett verpata, a parting (e.g., of the hair), and Gr rhaptein, to sew together.

2. Gr rhaptein has s rhap-, r rhap-, and is perh akin to Skt vāras-, cunning; the IE r is app wrep-* (var werp-*), to spin. (Hofmann.) Akin to Gr rhaptein (pt errapsa) is Gr rhapsōidos, a weaver of songs (cf ODE): whence EF-F rapsode, whence the reshaped learned E rhapsode. Gr rhapsōidos has two derivatives relevant to E:

rhapsōidia, a rhapsode's (recitation of a) song or part of an epic, whence EF-F rapsodie, E rhapsody; rhapsōidikos, whence E rhapsodic.

wrasse: Cor wräch, gueräch, gurāgh, orig a hag—cf the syn W gwrach.

wrath, whence wrathful and the A coll wrathy; wroth (deeply angry).

1. Wrath, violent or resentful anger, ME wrathe, earlier wraththe, earliest wraeththe, OE wrāēththu or wrāēththo, derives from the OE adj wrāth, whence ME wrath, later wroth, E wroth. The basic sense of OE wrāth is 'crooked', lit, hence fig, whence 'bad, cruel': cf OE wriþan, to twist, to bind or bind up, OFris (and OS) wrēth, evil, cunning, OHG reid, twisted, MD wret, wreat, wrede, D wreed, cruel, ON reithr, angry, evil.

2. OE wriþan, to twist, bind (up)—pt wrāth—becomes ME wriþen, E 'to wriþe', to twist into coils, now usu vi, esp to twist and turn, esp in torment or shame: cf OHG rīdan, ON rītha, to twist about, to wind, to roll (up); cf also the syn Lith reisti.

3. Intimately related to OE wriþan is OE wriþa, something twisted, hence plaited or intertwined: ME wrethe: E wreath. Partly from ME wrethe and partly from ME wrethen, var wriþen, pp of wriþen, to writhe (OE wriþan), com E 'to wreathe'.

4. Also akin to OE wriþan, to twist, is OE wriþian, (vi) to turn, to turn as one moves or goes, whence ME wriþen, E 'to wry' or twist (vi, vt), now archaic. Partly direct from 'to wry', and partly as an 'easing' of its pp wried, comes the adj wry. With OE wriþian, cf OFris wriþia, to bend or stoop, MLG wriþ, twisted, bent, hence cranky, MD wriþen, wriþigen, to wind, to twist—and perh Gr rhōikos, bent, crooked.—Hence awry: a-, on (+the) + wry, on the oblique, hence oblique.

5. Yet another cognate of OE wriþan, to twist, is OE wrāēstan, to twist violently—esp away, to wrench: ME wresten, E 'to wrest', whence the n wrest: cf ON reista, to wrest. Note the sep WRIST.

6. OE wrāēstan has the presumed freq wrāēstlian*, whence ME wrastlen, wrestlen, E dial 'to wrastle' (A dial wrastle) and E 'to wrestle', whence 'a wrestle'; the OE wrāēstlian* has agent wrāēstlere, whence E wrestler.

wray and bewray. The archaic wray, to denounce, to betray, derives from OE wrēgan, to accuse: cf OFris wrōgia (and wrēia), OS wrōgian, OHG ruogēn (G rugen, to censure), Go wrōhjan, to accuse, and Go wrōhs, an accusation, and ON roegja, to accuse. From OE wrēgan derives the ME int bewreyen, bewraien, E 'to bewray' or accuse, malign, hence to expose, to reveal.

wreak (v and n), whence wreaker (ME wrēkere), wreakful and wreakless, all archaic; wreck (n, hence v—whence wreckage, wrecker and wrecking)—cf wrack (n, hence v); varec; wretch, wretched (whence wretchedness).—urge (v, hence n), urgent (whence urgency).

1. 'To wreak', to drive out, to banish (both obs), to avenge, to punish, to inflict, ME wreken, OE wrecan, is akin to OFris wreka, OS wrekan (wrecan) OHG rechan, OLG wrecan, Go wrikan, ON reka—also to Lith vargti, to suffer hardship or distress, and L urgēre, to press close or hard, hence to pursue, and perh Skt wrājati, (vi) he presses forward. The IE r is perh wrēg-, metathetic var wērg-, with short e var of each form: to press, to urge, to drive.

2. Akin to OE wrecan is OE wrek, wrec, something driven ashore from the sea, a wreck, whence, in fact, wreck: cf the syn ON rek, intimately related to reka, to drive.

3. Akin to OE wrek, wrec, is OE wraec, that which is driven, whence E wrack, a wreck, a ruin, archaic except in wrack and ruin, now usu spelt rack and ruin; the EE-E wrack has perh been influenced by MD wrac, wracke (MLG wrak), a shipwreck, and wrac, wraec (MLG wrak), broken, damaged, unsound.

4. With E wrack in its derivative sense 'seaweed' (perh from its resemblance to wreckage), cf varec, seaweed, adopted from MF-F varec (OF varec) or varech, orig 'wreckage', 'seaweed' occurring in Norman F as early as C14; itself from OE wraec. (B & W.)

5. OE wrecan, to drive out, to punish, has derivative wraecca, wrecca, ME wrecche, E wretch, a fugitive or an exile (obs), hence a (very) miserable person, hence an unfortunate, hence a contemptible person: cf OHG rechio, MHG recke, a banished warrior (whence G Recke, a warrior, a hero), and OS wrekkio, an outlaw—cf also the OHG adj wreh, exiled. E wretch has derivative adj wretched (pp -ed used adj).

6. L urgēre, to press hard, to pursue, yields 'to urge'; its presp urgens, LL-ML also adj, acc urgentem, yields MF-F urgent, adopted by E; urgency—for urgency*—is perh slightly indebted to the EF-F derivative urgence.

wreath and wreathe. See WRATH, para 3.

wreck, whence shipwreck. See WREACK, para 2.

wren: ME wrenne: OE wrenna, wraenna (with metathetic varr werna, waerna): cf OHG wrendo (dim var rendilo) and ON rindill: o.o.o.

wrench, n and v; wring; wrangle, whence wrangler; wrinkle (n, hence v); wrong, adj (hence adv), n (whence the v, and wrongful); worry.

1. A wrench, in ME 'deceit', OE wrenc, deceit, lit a twisting, is akin to MHG ranc, a rapid twisting, G Rank, deceit, G Ranke, a tendril, and esp to OHG renkēn, MHG-G renken, to wrench, the caus of ringen, wringen, to wring, id with OHG ringen, MHG-G ringen, to wrestle or strive. Cf OE wrencan, to twist, hence to deceive, ME wrenchen, to twist or wrench, E 'to wrench'.

2. Cf, therefore, 'to wring' (pt, pp wrung): ME wringen, OE wringan: cf, besides the OGmc vv in para 1, MD wrengen, wringen, MD-D wringen.

3. Thus we arrive at wrong: the adj and n wrong are retained from the ME adj and n wrong, var of the ME adj and n wrang, themselves from the OE n wrang; the ME adj wrang has been influenced—perh suggested—by the ON adj rangr, twisted, awry, wrong: cf MD wranc, wrange, D wrang, bitter, and therefore the sep rancid. The ME n wrang has adj wrangwis, whence the now mainly Sc wrongous.

4. Also cognate with 'to wring' is 'to wrangle', ME wrangelen, clearly a freq of ME wrangen*, to contend, to strive: cf the syn MLG wrangen and the OGmc vv in para 1. From the basic sense 'to dispute' comes the University of Cambridge wrangler.

5. Yet another cognate of 'to wring' is 'a wrinkle', OE wrincl: cf the syn ED wrinckel and the MD wrinckelen, to wrinkle; the OHG runzala, MHG runzele, G Runzel, dimm of the syn OHG runza, MHG runke, and the n-less ON hrukka, perh represent a distinct r.

6. Prob akin to 'to wring' is 'to worry' (whence the n worry, whence the adj worrisome): ME worowen, earlier wirien: OE wyrgan: cf OHG wurgēn, MHG-G würgen, to throttle or choke, with MHG var erwergen, (vi) to choke; cf also Lith veržiū, I bind tightly.

wrest. See WRATH, para 5.

wrestle, wrestler. See WRATH, para 6.

wretch, wretched. See WREAK, para 5.

wrick: var of the 2nd RICK.

wriggle. See the 2nd RICK, s.f.

wright. See WORK, para 4.

wring. See WRENCH, para 2.

wrinkle. See WRENCH, para 5.

wrist, whence the dim wristlet and the adj wristy; cf the sep WREST, q.v. at WRATH, para 5.

Wrist, id in ME (var wriste) and in OE, is akin to OFris wrist, ankle, MHG riste, G Rist, ankle, MD wrist, wrist, ankle, ON rist, wrist, ankle (cf Da wrist, instep): the point, or bodily part, at which the hand or the foot twists: therefore cf wrest and *writh*e, qq.v. at WRATH.

writ, n. See para 2 of WRITE.

writ, pt and pp. See heading and para 1 of:

write, pt wrote (archaic writ), pp written (archaic writ); writer; writing, n.

1. 'To write' comes, via ME writen, from OE writan (var writian), pt wrāt, pp writen, orig to scratch, carve, incise, hence to scratch or incise runes or symbols, hence letters on wood, bark, etc., hence to write as we know writing: cf OFris writa, OS writan (orig. to tear), ON rita, writa, to write, writ, a letter, Go writs, a stroke or a dash, hence a letter; cf also MD riten, D rijten, OHG wriān or riān, MHG rīzen, G reissen, to tear or rend: sem, cf GRAMMAR and GRAPH: IE r, perh wreid-*, to tear or scratch, hence to write.

2. OE writan has derivative writere, E writer, and vn writing, E writing, and the intimate, prob derivative, cognate OE-ME-E n writ, a writing, hence a legal (orig. written) document: cf ON writ or rit.

writhe. See WRATH, para 2.

writing, n. See WRITE, para 2.

wrong, whence wrongful; wrongous. See WRENCH, para 3.

wrote. See WRITE, para 1.

wroth. See WRATH, para 1.

wrought. See WORK, para 4.

wry. See WRATH, para 4.—Hence the bird wryneck.

wurst, a sausage, is mostly AE: adopted from OHG-MHG-G wurst, MLG var worst: perh akin to G wirr, MHG wirre. confused, and OHG wirren, MHG verwirren, G verwirren, to confuse, therefore perh to worse.

2. In AE, wurst occurs esp in liverwurst, from G Liberwurst, a liver-sausage, and wienerwurst G W-, a Vienna sausage.

wych, as in wych-elm and wych-hazel, is an EE-E var (? a purposive differentiation) of witch, ME wiche or wyche, OE wice or wic: o.o.o.: but perh (OED) from OGmc wik-*, to bend, to be pliable, as in OE wican (E weaken), OFris wika, OS wican, OHG wīchan, to give way: cf LG wieke, a wych-elm.

Wyandot or -otte, an orig A breed of domestic fowls, derives from the Wyandot(te) tribe of 'Red Indians': Huron Wendat, app 'Islanders' or 'Peninsula-Dwellers' (Mathews).

Wyoming (whence Wyomingite) comes from the Lenape—ult an Alg language—PIN M'chetuwó mink, lit 'upon the great plain' (Webster)—or, according to another trans, 'large plains'.

wyvern. See VIBRATE, para 3, s.f.

X

X, an unknown quantity, orig stood, as an abbr of xci, for Ar shei, a thing, anything, something, hence, in Medieval Math, the unknown.—As 'Christ', X represents the Gr capital letter khi (kh: X), initial of Khristos, whence L Christus, E Christ.

xanthic, xanthous. See HARE, para 3. Such Chem terms as xanthin(e) and xanthone, and the element xantho-, likewise derive from Gr xanthos, yellow.

xenia (Bot), xenogamy, xenomania, xenophobia (hatred of foreigners). See the element -xene. Xenophobe, hater of foreigners, is prob adapted from F xénophobe.

xerophagy, xerophilous, xerophyte. See the element xero-.

xiphias, a swordfish (obsol), and Xiphias, a genus of fishes, also the constellation Dorado: L-from-Gr xiphias, a swordfish, a comet shaped like a sword: from Gr xiphos, a sword: o.o.o.: ? Medit—cf Aram sajefa, Ar saifun, Eg sefēt, a sword (Boisacq). The derivative Gr adj xiphoeidēs, sword-shaped, yields xiphoid.

xylan (Chem suffix -an)—xylem (adopted from G)—xyloid, wood-like, all derive from post-Classical L xylon, trln of Gr xulon (s- and r xul-), wood. Cf the element xylo-.

For xylophone, cf that element.

Y

yacht (n, hence v—whence yachting), whence yachtsman; yegg.

1. Yacht anglicizes D jacht, MD jacht, jaecht, jachte, var jaget, cf MD jachtschip or jahtschip, a ship built for pursuing pirates, from jacht (etc.), pursuit, the chase, from MD-D jagen, to pursue, to hunt: cf the syn OFris jagia, OHG jagōn, MHG-G jagen, and ON iaga (jaga), to drive—perh (Walshe) akin to Skt yahúś, restless.

2. The orig underworld term yegg, an itinerant safe-breaker, is said—app f/e—to derive from one John Yegg, safe-breaker; prob, however, it derives from G jäger, a hunter, from jagen.

yahoo, E a degraded man or youth, a vicious hooligan, AE a lout, a poor white, common-nouns Yahoo, one of Swift's Yahoos, creatures having the form and all the vices, none of the virtues, of man: perh (Webster) 'after the Cariban tribe the Yahos, or Yaos, on the coast near the borderland of Brazil and French Guiana', but more prob the 'name of a degraded E African tribe often mentioned by early travellers' (EW); perh from the contemptuous call yah-hoo!, extn of yah!, expressive of disgust, contempt, derision; possibly an erudite Swiftian pun on Gr iaúō (laúō), I sleep or rest or lodge, and therefore sem equivalent to 'The Dopes'.

Yahveh or -weh, whence Yahvism (or -wism), Yahvist (or -wist)—whence, in turn, Yahvistic (or -wistic); varr in Jah-; Jehovah, whence Jehovist, whence Jehovistic.

Yahweh or -veh is a modern, and prob the correct, trln of the H name occurring in The Bible as Jehovah; Jahveh (-weh), a half-way form. The predominant H form is Yēhōwāh, the vowel points (diacritics) being adopted from adōnāi, 'my Lord'. The H r HVH seems to imply H hayah (or hawah), to be: Yahveh (Yahweh) would then be 'The Eternal'.

yak, a large ox of central Asia, esp of Tibet, anglicizes the Tibetan gyak.

yam: perh via F iame: certainly from Port inhame, a yam: Senegal (part of the Guinea region of W Africa) nyami, to eat.

yammer, to lament (obsolet), hence to chatter (coll and dial): OE geōmrian (occ geōmerian), to sigh, groan, mourn, lament, bewail, imm from OE geōmor, sorrowful: indebted also to MD jamer, MD-D jammer, distress, misery—cf OHG jāmar, MHG jāmer, G Jammer, sorrow, and OS jāmar, yank, n and v: a sharp blow or pull, to pull or tug sharply: o.o.o.: ? akin to the now only dial yerk, var of JERK.

OFris jōmerlik, sorrowful: OGmc r, perh jaēmur-; IE r, jēmur-: cf Gr hēmeros, gentle. (Walshe.)

Yankee, prop a native or a citizen of the New England states of the U.S.A., hence loosely a British coll for any American: both of the theories—an Amerind corruption (orig Yengees, b/f Yengee) of English, and a corruption of F Anglais, an Englishman—are very prob f/e fancies: the most likely explanation is that Yankee represents D Janke, dim of D Jan, John, as applied by the New York (orig New Amsterdam) Dutch to the English settlers in Connecticut. (Webster strongly, Mathews less strongly, DAE lukewarmly, support the Janke origin.)

yap, dial var yaup, is echoic.

yard (1), an enclosure, esp a small one in front of or behind a building, esp a house or a castle: ME yard, earlier yerd: OE geard: cf OFris garda, a garden, OS gardo, garden, but gard, a yard, MD gaerde, garde, gaert, gairde, gerde, geerde, a yard, a court, OHG garto, MHG garte, G Garten, garden, OHG gart, an enclosure, Go garda, a stable, a sheepfold, and gards, a house, ON garthr (whence E garth), yard, court; cf also OIr gort, a field—L hortus, a garden, Gr khortos, an enclosure. The OGmc etymon would be garthaz*; the IE, ghortos*. (Walshe.)

Cf the sep COURT and GARDEN.

yard (2), a measure, whence yardage, yardarm (retaining the orig sense) and yardstick: ME yerde: OE gierd, gyrd, gerd, a stick, a rod, hence a measure, esp that of three feet: cf MD gaerde, gaert, gerd, geerde, MD-D garde, rod, the measure, OHG gerto, MHG-G gerte, a rod, a staff, OS gerde, rod, the measure: cf also OHG gart, ON gaddr, Go gazds, a goad—cf, therefore, the E GAD, a goad; prob cf L hasta, a spear, a comparison supported by the Go gazds.

With yard in its archaic sense 'penis', cf the F verge.

yare (now dial), adj and adv: ME yare, adj, adv: OE gearu, gearo, ready, made ready, complete, and geare, gearwe, completely, perfectly: with numerous OGmc cognates: app int ga-, ge-+ aro*, ready (cf OS aru, ON ōrr, ready)—note esp the Gr arariskō, I fit together. (Walshe.)

yarn (n, hence v); hernia; cf the sep CORD.

Yarn, spun flax, wool, cotton, etc., hence any spun filament, esp as used in rope-making, hence —cf 'He spins a good yarn'—the orig coll, now familiar SE, usu fictional story of adventure, arising from the sailors' and deep-sea fishers' practice of reminiscing and story-telling while they are sedentarily engaged, e.g. in yarn-twisting: OE gearn: cf OHG-MHG-G garn, MD gaern, garn, MD-D garen, ON garn: orig 'thread made from gut'—cf ON garner (pl), entrails, Lith žarnà, gut, entrails, L hernia, a rupture, and hira, an intestine, and haru- in haruspex (lit 'inspector of entrails'), Gr khordē, an intestine, Skt hira, a vein: OGmc r, garna-; IE r, ghar-, occ gher-* (+formative -no-), an intestine.

yarrow: ME yarowe, earlier yarwe: OE gearwe: cf MD garwe, gerwe, D gerw, OHG garawa, garwa, G Garbe, yarrow.

yaw, naut v (hence n), to go off course, steer wildly: o.o.o.: perh ult akin to ON jaga, to move to and fro, itself o.o.o.

yawl. See the 2nd JOLLY.

yawn (v, hence n).—hiatus; dehiscence, dehiscent (whence dehiscence).

1. 'To yawn': ME gānien, var gōnien: OE gānian: intervention by ME yonen, var yenen, from OE geonian, ginian, (in cpds) -ginan, to be wide-open, to yawn: cf OHG ginēn, MHG ginen, genen, G gähnen, ON gina, to yawn. The OHG gin- is an extn of gi-* or gi-, a var of IE gh-, to be wide-open, to yawn: cf OB zjati, Lith žioti, Gr khainein, L hiāre, to be gaping, to yawn.

2. L hiāre, pp hiātus, has derivative n hiātus (gen -ūs), a mouth-opening, a gap, adopted—? via EF-F—by E.

3. L hiāre has inch hiscere (vi), to open, (os person) to open one's mouth, with int dēhiscere, whence 'to dehiscence'; from the presp dēhiscens, o/s dēhiscens-, comes the adj dehiscens.

yawp. See YELP.

ye. See YOU, para 1.

yea—cf yea and nay; yes, whence yes-man.

1. Yea, archaic for yes, comes, through ME ye or ya, from OE gēa, gē (pron approx as yea is): cf OFris gē, ye, dzē, OS jā, OHG jā, MHG jā, ja, G ja, Go ja (cf jai, indeed), MD jae, MD-D ja, ON jā—Lith, ja, je—Cor ia, ya, Br ia, W ie: OGmc jā*; IE, perh (Walshe) je*—cf Gr ē (ἦ), indeed.

2. The adj yea-and-nay, vacillating, derives from vacillant yea and nay: cf the modern 'Yes—and no'.

3. Yes, ME yes or yis, derives from OE gēse (var gise), contr of gēase, an 'easing' of gēa swā, yea, (it is) so: cf so. A 'yes-man' is one who says yes to—agrees with—everything said to him: cf the OHG jā-herre (Walshe).

year, yearling, yearly. See HORA, para 4.

yearn (whence the pa, vn yearning), yearnful; eucharist; sep EXHORT.

1. 'To yearn,' ME yernen, OE giernan, gyrnan, geornian, is intimately related to OE georn, eager, (very) desirous: cf OHG gerno, MHG gerne, G gern, adv, and OHG gern, adj, OS gern, adj, and gernean, (-ian), to desire, Go fafhu-gairns, avaricious (lit 'property-eager'), MD gaerne, gerne, D gaerne, adv, ON gjarn, adj, and girna, to desire; cf also perh L hortāri, to urge, and certainly OIr gor, glad, Ir togairim, I desire, Ga togarrach, desirable, Gr khairain (for khariain*), to rejoice, and Skt hāryati, (he) is fond of—forms corresp to OHG giri, G Gier, greed, and OHG ger, desirous. The IE r, therefore, is gher-*, var ghar-, to desire, and the E v exemplifies an extn in -u.

2. Gr khairain, to be glad, has derivative kharizesthai, to show favour to, whence, with the adv eu, well, the cpd adj eukharistos, grateful, whence eukharistia, a thanks-giving, whence, via Eccl LGr, the LL eucharistia, the holy sacrament, whence OF-F eucharistie, whence E Eucharist; the adj eucharistic comes from EF-F eucharistique, ML eucharisticus, Eccl LGr eukharistikos (adj of the corresp n).

yeast, whence yeasty; sep ECZEMA.

Yeast, ME yeest, yest, OE gist, gyst, is akin to MD gest, MD-D gist, yeast, MHG gist, gis, G Gischt, yeast, foam, OHG jesan, MHG jesen, (vi) to ferment, ON jöstr, jastr, yeast—and to Gr zestos, boiled, and Skt yāsati, it boils or seethes. The IE r is app jes-* (yes-), to seethe.

yegg. See YACHT, para 2.

yell (v, hence n); gale—cf NIGHTINGALE, q.v. at NIGHT; celandine; stannel.

1. 'To yell', ME yellen, OE giellan, varr gillan and gyllan, is related to OHG gellan, MHG-G gellen, MD gellen, D gillen.

2. Also cognate—and imm relevant to gale—are OS (and OHG) galan, ON gala, OE galan, to sing, which last yields the obs 'to gale' or sing and the -gale of nightingale ('night singer') and prob gale, a stiff breeze. Clearly the origin is echoic: IE ghel-*, to cry out.

3. This IE r occurs also in Gr khelidōn, the swallow, whence, by folklore, the Gr plant-name khelidonia (prop the f of the derivative adj khelidonios), L chelidonia (sc herba), MF celidoine (EF-F chélidoine), ME celidoine, whence—with intrusive -n- perh after such words as almandine (obs) or amandine, and olivine—the E celandine.

4. With OE nihtegale, the nightingale, cf OE stāngella, lit 'stone-yeller' (crying from the rocks), whence E stonegall; the OE var stāngilla becomes, by attrition and negligence, the now mostly dial stannel, the kestrel.

5. Cf YELP.

yellow. See GOLD, para 1.

yelp (v, hence n), whence yelper: ME yelpen, to boast (noisily): OE gylpan, varr gilpan and gylpan, to boast, to exult: cf OHG gelpf, gelf, arrogant, MHG gel(p)f, arrogance, ON gjälpa, to yelp (hence, prob, the EE-E sense), whence, in part, 'to yawp or yawp'. The OGmc r gelp-, IE ghel-, is merely an extn of IE ghel-*, q.v. at YELL, para 2, s.f.

yen, Japan's monetary unit, is, in Jap, a mdfn of Ch yüan, a circle, a round (object), hence a coin. Oddly enough, the sl yen, an intense craving, also comes from Ch: Pekinese yen, opium (lit, smoke).

yeoman, whence yeomanry (-ry for -ery, collective suffix): ME yoman, yuman, yeman, yiman: o.o.o.: but prob worn-down forms of ME yongman, yungman, etc., an attendant or servant (app, orig youthful): cf YOUNG and MAN. (OED.) ÉW aptly cfs the sem development of the phon cognate G Junker. Webster, however, suggests that the ME forms tend to exhibit both a phon and a sem relationship to OFris gāman, a villager, lit 'man of the gā or rural district'—cf OS gō, Go gawi, OHG gawi or gewi, MHG gou, G Gau, and perh Alb gavar, a region (Walshe).

yerk. See JERK; cf YANK.

yes. See YEA, para 3.

yester, adj—as in yestereve, the contr yestreen, yesteryear—is a b/f from the yester of yesterday and yesternight: OE geostran daeg (ME yisterdai) and OE gystran niht. OE geostran daeg is taut for geostran, varr geostra, giestran, gystran (and metathetic gyrstan), yesterday: cf OHG gestarōn, gesteron, MHG gesteren, G gestern, MD gister, gistere, MD-D gisteren, the sense 'tomorrow' occurring in Go, OHG, ON; cf also L heri (for hesi*), yesterday, and its derivative adj hesternus (cf hodiernus, adj of hodie, today), whence, with another suffix, the E hesternal—Gr khthes—Skt hyás—Alb dje. The IE r is perh ghjes-* or gthjes*, with var ghes-*, yesterday.

yet, orig an adv 'hitherto' or 'still' ('Is there yet time?'), hence a conj: ME yet, yete, yit: OE gīt or gýt, giet, gieta or gēta: cf OFris jēta (iēta), ēta, īta: ? akin, ult, to Go ju, now, hence to L iam (ML jam), henceforth, soon.

yew; uvula, whence, anl, the adj uvular.

1. A yew, ME ew or ewe, OE ēow, īow, īw, is akin to OHG īga, iwa, MHG iwe, G Eibe, OS īch, and to such C forms as W yw, Cor hivin, hiuin, Br ivin, and Mīr eo, Oīr ibar, Ga tubhar; with the Br and Cor forms, cf OSī iva, the willow, and Gaul ivos, yew, whence OF-F if; the ON īr, yew, exhibits a var. If, as Hofmann proposes, the IE etymon be oiua* (oiwa*), then cf Gr oā, Ionic Gr oē, LGr oiē, the service (or sorb) tree, with fruit known as 'sorb apple'.

2. Prob akin to Gr oiē, oā, is L ūua, ML ūva, a grape, hence a berry, LL (Med) uvula, with LL (Med) dim ūuula, ML ūvula, whence the MedE uvula, whence uvulitis (suffix -itis).

Yiddish. See JEW, para 5.

yield, v, hence, imm in its modern sense, the n (cf OE gield, from the OE v)—whence yelder and pa, vn yielding; gild or guild; geld, a Crown tax; gelt.

1. 'To yield' comes, via ME yelden, yilden, from OE geldan, var gieldan, to offer (in money), to pay or pay back, to give, cf OFris jelda, OS geldan, MHG gelien, to be worth, to compensate, G gelten, to count as, Go us-gildan, to recompense or requite, MD gilden, MD-D gelden, to cost, ON gjalda, gialda, to pay, esp to pay up. The OGmc r is perh geldh-; the IE r, perh gelt-. (Walshe.)

2. Intimately related to OE geldan, gieldan, to pay, is OE gield, gild, geld, a payment, hence a tribute, a tax, whence E geld, a Crown tax; cf OE-E wergild, the value set on the life of a wer or human being.

3. Intimately related to OE gield, geld, gild, derivatively a company self-supporting by subscriptions, is the syn ON gildi, whence ME gilde, whence E gild or guild.

4. Also akin to OE gield, geld, is OHG-MHG gelt, payment, interest, G Geld, money: the old form, the modern sense, characterize the now jocular and obsol E gelt, money.

yip, v (hence n), is both echoic and a 'thinning' of YAP.

yodel. See JUBILANCE, para 2.

yoga, yogi. See JOIN, para 5.

yoghourt, yoghurt, yogurt: Tu yoghurt, via Bulgarian jugurt. F yaourt comes from the Bulg var jaurt.

yoke. See JOIN, para 20.

yokel. See JOIN, para 20, s.f.

yolk. See GOLD, para 2.

Yom Kippur, the Jewish 'Day of Atonement', is the syn H yōm kippūr.

yon (adj, hence adv), yond (adv, hence adj), yonder (adv, hence adj); beyond.

1. E-ME adj yon derives from the rare OE geon, that (person or thing over there), yonder: cf OFris jen, jena, OHG jenēr, MHG-G jener, Go jains; cf also ON enn, inn, OSī onū, Lith ans, Hit eni, enin; and perh Gr hon (ōv), the acc of the relative pronoun 'who' (and therefore Skt yas), hence also L is, that one, he. The group geon-jen-jenēr-enn—etc., prob exhibits an -n extn of IE ei-, that (adj), that one.

2. Very closely akin to the OE adj geon is the OE geond, both prep 'through, throughout' and adv 'over there, yonder': whence ME yeond, later yond, retained by E. Cf OFris jonda (prep), near, and Go jaind, thither.

3. OE geond has the int begeondan, adv 'further off, yonder' and prep 'besides': ME biyeonde, later bijonde: E beyond.

4. The ME adv yond (as in para 2), over there, has the approx syn ME-E extn yonder, adv (indicated by -er, corresp to an earlier -re), 'at that point, or in that (visible) place, over there at some distance': cf Go jaindre, MD gender, gonder, gunder, MD-D ginder, MLG ginder, (over) there.

yore, of. See HORA, para 4.

York, whence Yorkish and Yorkist; New York; Yorkshire, whence Yorkshire pudding, a traditional delicacy of Yorkshire; 'yorker'.

1. Yorkshire derives from late OE-ME Eoforwicscir, the shire of Eoforwic (York), the OE-ME alteration—f/e after OE eofor, a boar—of ML Eboracum (var Eburacum—cf Domesday Book's EuRuic): a trin of LGr Ebōrakon (Ptolemy), York: perh from the Gaul PN Eburos, itself prob a personification of Gaul eburos, a yew tree (cf YEW): hence 'Region of Yew Trees'. (Ekwall.)

2. New York was named—in honour of the Duke of York, King Charles II's brother—by the British troops capturing the place in 1664 from the Dutch, who had called it New Amsterdam. The Dukes of York take the name from the city of York, ME York, earlier Yeork, from Eoforwic.

3. Prob from Yorkshire comes the puzzling yorker of cricket: that is, if it was the Yorkshire County Cricket Club's players who first specialized in bowling in this particular way (a ball that lands at that point of the batting crease at which the batsman holds his bat to the ground, tech the block-hole); ? influenced by yerker, dial var of jerker, that which jerks (the batsman out).

you, your, yours; ye.

1. You, orig pl only, comes from ME you, earlier eou, earliest eow, acc and dat, the ME nom being ye (the now archaic E ye)—from OE gē (occ ge): ME eow represents OE ēow, acc and dat of gē. The OE acc-dat ēow has many cognates in OGmc (and elsewhere), but we need cite only the cognates, or at least some of the cognates, of the OE nom gē (ge): OFris gī (occ i), OS gī or ge, OHG-MHG ir, G *ih*r, ON ēr, MD gi, ge, D gij; cf Alb ju, Go jus, Lith jūs, Gr hūmeis (Dor hūmes), Skt yūyām (yūfām), a y- var of vas—therefore cf also L uōs (ML vōs) and OB vy. The IE r is app iu-* (ju-*), prob pron yoo. (Hofmann; Walshe.)

2. OE gē, ye, has gen ēower, of you, whence ME eower, later eowr, finally your, orig pronoun, then adj: cf OFris iuwer, OHG iuwēr, MHG iuwer, G euer, OS iuwar, Go izwar, ON ythuarr. It is from the pronoun your, of you, that yours derives, the possessive -s being orig a taut usage.

young, youngster; younker. See JUVENILE, paras 4 and 5.

your and yours. See YOU, para 2.

youth, youthful. See JUVENILE, para 4.

yowl. See JUBILANCE, para 3.

ypsiliform. See the element ypsili-.

ytterbium: Ytterby (in Sweden)+Chem -ium: cf the element yttri-.

yucca and its SciL derivative yucca come from Sp yuca, itself adopted from Taino (an extinct WI language), var iucca.

Yuga (occ Yug). See JOIN, para 6.

Jugoslav, orig Jugo-Slav, sets before Slav the Serbo-Croat element jugo-, c/f of jug, the south, the south wind, itself from the syn OSI jugū (o.o.o.): the Jugoslavs are lit 'the southern Slavs' (Serbs, Croats, Slovenes).

Yule, Christmas Day, whence Yuletide, Christmas-tide, comes from ME yol, OE gēol, var geohhol: cf ON jōl, OSw jūl (pl), Sw jul, Christmas, and ON ýler, ýlir, Go jiuleis, esp OE gēola, iūla, giuli, gyle (Bede), all meaning 'the Yule month', December: o.o.o. (see esp Feist), most of the theories postulating either '(the time of) the year's change' or 'season of play and rejoicing'. Very tentatively indeed I suggest that OE gēol derives from an OE gēul*, metathetic cognate of L gelū (n), cold (cf E gelid, q.v. at COLD): that, in short, OE gēola, December, is, in the Northern Hemisphere, a month notoriously cold, with gēol, Yule, falling in what is usu its coldest period; 'the cold month' and 'the festival—the most important day—of the cold season'.

Z

zaffer or zaffre. See SAFFRON, para 2.

zany. See JOHN, para 1.

Zarathustra. See ZOROASTER.

zareba, occ zareeba: Ar zariba, zaribah, a cattle-pen or sheepfold, perh orig one improvised with thorn-bushes, hence a camp, prob orig an improvised camp: cf the much less vocalized Ar zarb, a sheepfold (OED): Ar r zrb.

Zea (Bot), whence zea (Pharm): L zea, a kind of grain: Gr zēa, earlier zeid, earliest zeiai, wheat, barley: cf Skt yávas, grain (and Lith javai, pl), Per jav, barley, Cor yees, ys, yz, is, iz, *ey*s (etc.), barley, and prob Elr and Ga eórna, barley. The IE r is perh ieu-ia* (yeu-ya); but the word could well be Medit—cf Eg su-t, grain, wheat, *bu*t, barley (? also *be*t-t, barley, wheat, millet).

zeal, zealot (whence zealotic and zealotry), zealous; jealous, jealousy—cf jalouse, jealousie.

1. Zeal derives—perh via MF zel, late MF-EF zele, EF-F zèle—from LL zēlus, fervour, zeal, trln of Gr zēlos (Dor c zālos), zeal, spirit of emulation, hence jealousy: o.o.o.: perh cf Gr zēmia, punishment: i.e., -l and -m extn of an IE r dia-, dja-, za-*, to strive.

2. Gr zēlos has derivative zēloō, I am emulous for, whence the agent zēlōtēs, an emulous person, LL zēlōtēs, E zealot; and LL zēlus has the ML derivative adj zēlōsus, whence E zealous.

3. ML zēlōsus becomes OF-MF gelos, gelous, jelos, jelous (late MF-F jaloux, f jalouse): ME gelus, jealous, the latter surviving; derivative OF-MF gelosie, gelousie, jelosie, jealousie, yields E jealousy.

4. OF-MF gelo(u)s, jelo(u)s, has the MF derivative v jelo(u)ser, whence late MF-F jalouser, to be jealous or suspicious about, to suspect, whence E—now mostly E dial and Sc—‘to jalouse’. The OF-MF jealousie becomes late MF-F jalousie, jealousy, used—C17 onwards, and at first jokingly—of a such a trellis or shutter or blind as permits one to see without being seen, a sense prob borrowed from the cognate It gelosia, itself used thus as early as the late C15 (Prati). ‘Trellis’ jealousie has been adopted by E.

zebra (whence zebraic, zebrine, zebroid): Port zebra, f, and zebro, m, this Afr cross between horse and ass, from C16 onward: Sp and Port zebro, f zebra, the wild ass, until C16, when the wild ass disappeared from the Iberian peninsula: zebro perh from the wind-god Zephyrus, because of the swiftness of zebras (B & W); but prob—via Por and Sp—from Amharic (official Abyssinian) zebrā, the zebra (Webster). The hybrids zebrinny and zebrula or zebrule perh blend zebra with hinny (q.v. at WHINNY) and mule.

zebu, from F zébu, supposed by Buffon to be of Afr origin, is app a blend of—perh rather a mere confusion between—Tibetan mdzopo, a zebu, and Tibetan zeu or zeba, a zebu’s hump.

zeitgeist: G Zeitgeist, lit ‘time-spirit’, Zeit, time, being akin to E tide and time, and -geist to E ghost.

Zend-Avesta is lit the Avesta, the sacred Zoroastrian books, and their interpretation (Per zend, from Pahlavi zand); Avesta is the Per shape of Pahlavi apastāk, that which is postulated, that which has been established, hence a fundamental text or a book.

zenith, whence zenithal (unless from EF-F zénithal): ME cenith (senyith) or cenit: MF cenith, cenit (F zénith): from the medieval scribes’ false reading senit for Ar samt, zenith, esp in samt ar-rās, way or road or path (above) the head, as opp the nadir: Ar samt, lit ‘road or route’, derives from L sēmita, path, itself o.o.o.—unless, as some hold, it be a cpd of sē, aside+ mita*, from meāre (r me-), to go, to pass.

2. Ar samt in the form as-samt, the way (as- for al, the, by assimilation), becomes, via its pl as-sumūt, EF-F azimut, whence E azimuth.

zenocentric, zenography. See the element zeno-.

zeolite. See the element zeo-.

zephyr comes, perh via EF-F zéphyr, from L zephyrus, trln of Gr zephuros, the west wind, hence a gentle breeze or a soft wind; the personified sylvan god Zephuros, L Zephyrus, is a literary E adoption—with or without the capital. Gr zephuros is o.o.o.: but prob (Hofmann) it is akin to Gr zophos, the dark, esp the dark side, i.e. the west; or perh it is simply echoic.

zero. See CIPHER.

zest, orig a piece of lemon-peel added for piquancy (whence zestful), derives from EF zest (later, as still, zeste): o.o.o.: but perh an alteration of the syn earlier EF zec (o.o.o.)—either, as B & W propose, after EF-F baste, ‘Enough!’ (It basta, it is enough) or, as Dauzat prefers and B & W mention, after the echoic zest, ‘Nonsense!’, as in ‘être entre le zist et le zest’, to be neither one thing nor the other. At a wild guess, I submit the possibility that zest comes from It gusto, lemon-peel added for piquancy, or from some other European derivative (cf late ME gusto, E gust, OF gost, MF gust, goust, Sp gusto) of L gustus (see GUST)—via a dial var.

zeugma. See JOIN, para 7.

Zeus. See DIANA, para 3. zibeline. See SABLE.

zibet or zibeth. See CIVET.

zigzag (n, hence adj and v): EF-F zigzag: G Zickzack, orig the adv zickzack, in such a line or fashion: echoic, perh with elements G Zacke, a jagged or serrated edge, and Zicke, as in Zicke machen, to dodge about.

zinc comes, like F zinc, from G Zink, zinc: early modern HG zincken: 'prob id with [G] Zinke [, Zinken, a spike], because when melted it forms spikes' (Walshe). G-MHG zinke, OHG zinko, a spike, is perh akin to G Zahn, MHG zant, OHG zand, a tooth (f.a.e., TOOTH).

zinnia was thus named by Linnaeus in honour of that brilliant G anatomist J. G. Zinn (1727–59), who, a professor at Göttingen, was also something of a botanist.

Zion, whence Zionism and, anl, Zionist: H Tsiyōn, orig the Jebusite fortified place situated on the eastern hill: o.o.o.

zip, n, hence v (whence zipper), is neatly echoic.

zircon, whence zirconium; (Min) jargon, occ spelt jargon.

Zircon, adopted from F, is an irreg early C19 mdfn of the syn F—whence E—jargon, yellow diamond, itself either (via Sp and Port) from Ar zarqūn, thi s gem, from Per zarqūn, golden-hued, or from It giargone, itself either of that Ar-Per origin or (Dauzat) less prob akin to OF-MF jagonce, jargonce, from L hyacinthus in its 'precious stone' sense.

zither. See GUITAR.

zodiac, zodiacal. See VIVA, para 13.

Zoe, zoism. See VIVA, para 11.

zombi, now usu zombie, 'a dead body . . . made to walk and act and move as if it were alive' (W. B. Seabrook), hence, coll, a person only half alive: Kongo (a Bu language) zumbi, a fetish (python as deity).

zone and zonal, whence, anl, the adj zorary and zonate.

Zonal comes from the LL zōnalis, adj of L zōna, trln of Gr zōnē, a girdle, a belt, hence anything resembling one, esp a zone of the earth's sphere; L zōna becomes OF-F zone, adopted by E. Gr zōnē is intimately related to Gr zōnūnai (r zōn-), to gird, pp zōstos, s zōst-, r zōs-: IE r, prob zōs-* (djōs-) or iōs- (yōs-), to gird, attested by the Av pp yāsta-, girded, by Alb, by OSI and Lith.

zoo, orig coll, is short for 'zoological garden(s)'; zoological (cf F zoologique) derives—as, anl, does zoologist—from zoology (cf the later F zoologie), formed as if from SciL zoologia, but strictly a cpd of the elements zoo-, life+-logy, science. The c/f zoo- derives from Gr zōion, an animal, SciE zoon: cf Gr zōē, life: f.a.e., VIVA.

2. Most of the zoo- cpds are explained by the 2nd element; note esp zoophyte, coined by Rabelais in 1546; cf the element -phyte.

zoid. See VIVA, para 11.

zoom, v hence n, is echoic of the noise made by aircraft.

zoon. See ZOO, para 1.

zoophyte. See ZOO, para 2.

zoril, a S Afr polecat, represents F zorille (from Sp), zorilla and zorillo the Sp zorilla, f, and zorillo, m, dimm of zorra, vixen, and zorro, fox. In some parts of CA and SA, zorro denotes a grey fox, zorillo a skunk. Occurring also in Port, zorra (-o) is o.o.o.

Zoroaster, whence Zoroastrian, whence, in turn, Zoroastrianism; Zarathustra.

Zoroaster derives, prob via F Zoroastre (cf It Zoroastro), from L Zoroastres, from Gr Zōroastrēs: an approximation to the correct Zarathushtra (Zarathūstra), whence Nietzsche's Also sprach Zarathustra. Thus spake Zarathustra, published in 1883–84 and, incidentally, popularizing the form Zarathustra. The Av Zarathūstra is lit 'he whose camels are old—he of the old camels'; Av uštra, a camel+Av zarant- (Skt járant-), old. (Enci It.)

zorillo and zorro. See ZORIL.

Zouave, adopted from F (1831), designates an infantry corps raised in Algeria and consisting, orig, of Algerians, and derives from Zouaoua, a gallicized form of Ar Zwāwā, corresp to the native Berber name for this Kabyle tribe, one of the Berber group: Igawāwen. (Enci It.)

zounds! See WOUND, para 3.

Zulu (n, hence adj), whence, app from the Zulu's colourful headdress, the artificial fly called zulu: Zulu (Bu-speaking) Zulu, the Zulu nation: from the eponymous chieftain aZulu.

zwieback, (AE) a kind of rusk: G Zwieback, '(something) twice-baked': zwie-, twice, from OHG-G zwei, 2+-back, from MHG-G backen, to bake (cf BAKE): cf biscuit, '(something) twice-cooked'.

zygoma (whence, anl, zygomatic), zygon, zygosis, zygote.

See JOIN, para 8; cf the element zygo-. The 1st perh comes inm from EF-F zygoma, and its adj perh from EFF zygomatique.

zymase; zyme (whence zymic and zymoid); cf the element -zyme; cf the element zymo-, where, e.g., zymology; zymosis, zymotic; zymurgy.

Zymase derives, with Chem suffix -ase, from zyme, a ferment, Gr zūmē, ferment, leaven: cf Gr zuthos, barley-beer, and Gr zōmos, broth: IE r, perh ieu-* or yeu-, (in cookery) to mix—cf Skt yāúti, he mixes, and several C words for 'broth' (cf JUICE).

Gr zūmē has derivatives zūmōsis, fermentation, whence the SciL zymosis, and zūmoun, to ferment, whence the adj zūmōtikos, causing fermentation, whence E zymotic and F zymotique.

Zymurgy, the chemistry of fermentation, esp in brewing, is lit 'a ferment-working' (-urgy, Gr -urgia, -work: cf E erg).

COMMENTARY

am (p. 14). Professor John W. Clark, of the University of Minnesota, writes: 'You might reconsider your association of are and art with am and is. You agree with the OED, Wyld, Sievers, but disagree with Holthausen and Prokosch (A Comparative Germanic Grammar, p. 221), who, I cannot help feeling, have the best of it; their opponents would seem necessarily to assume the r to be Vernerian, or at least a case of rhotacism of some kind, and I don't see how it can be.'

boy (p. 56). In Medium Ævum, October 1940 (IX, 121-54), 'The Etymology and Meaning of Boy' and again in 1943 (XII, 71-76), 'Middle English and Middle Dutch Boye'—Dr E. J. Dobson has scrupulously and lengthily surveyed the problem, yet arrived at no firm solution.

burden (2), on p. 64. In Anglia, 1956, Professor H. M. Flasdieck writes instructively and eruditely upon Elizabethan faburden (F faux-bourdon) and E burden, as well as upon a number of related words.

capital (p. 78, l. 4). The noun capital mentioned is the monetary capital; the EF-F n capital prob stands for EF-F 'fond capital'. As elliptical for 'capital city', it was app prompted by late EF-F capitale, for EF-F 'ville capitale'; as elliptical for 'capital letter', by F capitale, for F 'lettre capitale'. But ME-E capital, the 'head' or top part of a column, derives from OF-MF capitel (cf the OF-MF chapitel, var of OF-F chapiteau): LL capitellum (cf L capitulum)—dim of L caput, head.

cart (p. 81) comes, more prob, from the syn ON kartr.

cotton (p. 123). The OF-F coton perhaps derives rather from It cotone, itself from the Ar word: Sp cotón is printed cotton, the word for cotton being algodón, with the Ar article al retained.

dream (p. 166). For a closely argued and philologically buttressed treatment, see Professor Simeon Potter's 'On the Etymology of Dream' in Archivum Linguisticum, Vol. IV, pp. 148-54, published in 1952.

elephant (p. 179). For a more comprehensive treatment, see 'Elephantine' in my book, A Charm of Words, 1960.

feud (2), on p. 209. In The Review of English Studies, 1956, Dr E. J. Dobson derives the word from an early northern ME fae-hude, 'foehood' or enmity. If that etymology be correct, as well it may, then cf FOE (p. 244) and the suffix -hood at -head.

filch (p. 212). In Modern Language Notes, 1955, Professor Kemp Malone proposes derivation from OE gefylce (ge-fylce), a large body of people, an army, an army division or troop, and traces a possible semantic development.

flamenco (p. 218)—treated at FLANDERS, para 3 (p. 218). But Professor Dr Don Francisco Sánchez-Castañer, of the University of Valencia, holds that the Sp word flamenco is, in fact, two homonyms with disparate—almost contrasted—meanings: (1) from Gmc Vlaming, Fleming, with the secondary meaning: stout, strong, fair-haired, ruddy-cheeked (as the Spanish King's Flemish guardsmen); (2) from Ar fellah mengo, Moorish troubadours, predecessors of the Catalan and Provençal troubadours, hence Gipsy musicians, singers and dancers, esp of Sevilla and Andalusia, hence romantic, dreaming, languid, sentimental. For a general discussion, which, however, implicatively disagrees with Sánchez-Castañer's twofold etymology, see J. Corominas, Diccionario Crítico Etimológico de la Lengua Castellana (vol. II, 1954) at heading 'Flamenco'.

ginger (p. 254). In his book, Etymology: with Especial Reference to English, 1958 (and therefore much too late for me to be able to consult it), Professor Ross brilliantly summarizes the evidence. That book contains a section of 'Selected English etymologies' meriting the attention of even the most erudite, and including notably ale, cross, jade (horse), last, snow, walrus, yolk, yule.

haggis, treated at hack (2), para 4, s.f., on p. 274. In Romance Philology, 1958, Professor C. H. Livingston, article 'Etymology of English "haggis"', derives it from ONF haguier, to chop or hash. (Admittedly the derivation from ON höggva presents certain difficulties.)

keelson (p. 327). In Notes and Queries, 1955, Mr D. B. Sands in his article 'A New Approach to the Etymology of English "Keelson"' points out that Continental cognates pretty clearly indicate a compound of keel and swine and suggests the sort of symbolism involved.

macabre (p. 370). In Studia Philologica et Litteraria in Honorem H. Spitzer, 1959, Professor H. Sperber deals with the semantic difficulty and suggests that the author of some early dance of death felt that it would be an excellent idea to revitalize the stereotyped character of the preacher by identifying him with the 'notorious' Judas Maccabaeus.

market (p. 382). In The Modern Language Review, April 1952 (XLVIII, No. 2, pp. 152-4), Professor Norman Davis discusses 'the route by which the word market, which obviously goes back ultimately to Latin mercatus, came into the language'. He suggests that market 'came into English from a Germanic language rather than from French'—esp OHG and OS—and adduces some convincing evidence.

mayonnaise (p. 388). In her Madame de Pompadour, 1957, Miss Nancy Mitford suggests that the name celebrated the capture of Fort St Philippe at Mahon by the Maréchal de Richelieu. There being no butter or cream on the island, the Marshal's chef devised a sauce made only of eggs and oil—and honorifically called it sauce Mahonnaise.

Pall Mall (p. 466—but treated at MALL, para 1, on p. 374). In Anglia, 1954, Professor H. M. Fladiseck's article 'Pall Mall' occupied an entire issue and dealt with certain associated words.

physic, para 6 (p. 493). But J. H. Randall, Aristotle, New York, 1960, points out, at p. 108, that the name metaphysics did not, after all, originate with Aristotle, who usually called it 'first philosophy'. The lectures or notebooks were first assembled, 250 years later, by Andronikos of Rhodes, who called them Ta Meta ta Phusika, 'the Writings that come after those on Physics'—in the Andronikos edition. (With thanks to David A. Kuhn).

plow (p. 504) has, by Professor Simeon Potter in 'On the Etymology of Plough' in Nadbitkaz Prac Filologicnych (tom xviii cz. 2), Warsaw, 1964, been shown to be, not of Germanic but of Celtic origin: Gaulish plo-*, as in Pliny's pluamorati. Professor Potter convincingly suggests that the plough was invented by the Rhaetian Gauls (cf Walshe's guess) and says that the word passed to the Germans, hence to the Scandinavians, finally to the English.

pyramid (p. 538) was conclusively shown by Professor Doctor Karl Lang in his article 'Die Etymologie des Wortes Pyramide' in Anthropos, XVIII-XIX (1923-1924), pp. 551-3, to be an Egyptian word: pi, the masculine article + mr, a pyramid.

rack (7)—on p. 546—has, by Klas Bernhard Johannes Karlgren in Philology and Ancient China, 1926, been derived, not from Ar, but from other and earlier sources; it exists, as arakke, in Ainu, 'a language that entered the Japanese islands in pre-historic times'. Dr Karlgren summarizes thus: 'In the stem arak-, rak-, we have a Central and North Asiatic word which already in pre-Christian times reached all the races of the extreme Orient, was incorporated in Chinese, and conquered the whole world via Arabian'.

racket (1), in its underworld sense, may have (as Dr Nicola Cerri, Jr, proposes) been influenced by It ricatto, blackmail, kidnapping, or even derived from it and then f/e reshaped after racket, din.

rash (2)—a rash on the skin—and rasher (both on p. 551). Professor C. H. Livingston—'Old French essüier, ressüier in English' (Romance Philology, 1957-58, Vol. XI, pp. 254-67)—derives dial rash, adj and v ('dry'), from ressüier, a compound form of OF essüier, and from dial rash, v, he derives rasher, from which, in turn, he derives the obsolete rash, to cut or slash.

skein—travel—trawl—troll—and reel. See Professor C. H. Livingston's important monograph, Skein-Winding Reels (University of Michigan, 1957): dealing mainly with French terms, yet valuable for these five English words.

these and those (treated at THE, paras 2 and 3 on pp. 709-10). John W. Clark writes: 'I suspect, strongly, that NE [i.e., Modern English] those is not a reflex (with e added in accordance with modern spelling conventions) of ME thos, OE thās, with the mysteriously transferred meaning from pl of this to pl of that, but rather a reflex of ME tho, OE thā, plus an -se from these, which in turn I should take to be an ME pl formation from the masc sing n thes (OE thēs)—plus the levelled and generalized ME pl ending (adj) -e. This displaced, I take it, thas, thos, in the sense of the pl of this, and they have no reflex in NE at all. Those would, according to this view, be formed analogically from these, with a misapprehension of the composition of these as the-se rather than as thes-e. Otherwise OE thās seems to have undergone a most puzzling—and unlikely—change from the sense of L illi to the sense of L hi.'

vain, treated—on p. 757—at VACANCY, para 9. See 'Aspects of Emptiness' in A Charm of Words, where, admittedly, I deal with only the L members of the group. Nevertheless, I think that, despite the difference in quantity of the r vowels, L uānus is ult akin to the synonymous Gr kenos, touched on at CENOTAPH and, in ELEMENTS, at the 2nd CENO-.

water (p. 797). See esp my article in A Charm of Words. The distribution of the word is even wider than I had thought; for instance, it occurs, in a clearly recognizable form, in several North American Indian languages or, at least, dialects. I hope that some day I shall be able to write a monograph on this word.

yule (p. 817). For the theoretical IE origins, see esp Alan S. C. Ross, Etymology, pp. 163-4.

A LIST OF PREFIXES

WEBSTER'S definition is clear and serviceable: 'One or more letters or syllables combined or united with the beginning of a word to modify its signification, as pre- in prefix, con- in conjure. Prefixes are abstract and have merely formative function, as in unnecessary, foreordain, postpone.'

Strictly, a prefix should consist of either a preposition or an adverb. The original preposition or adverb is often hardly recognizable, except by the student of language.

The following list omits the false prefixes of science, e.g. ab(s)- for 'absolute' and ac- for 'alicyclic': they are not prefixes at all; they are abbreviations. A word that exists, in its own right, as an entry in the Dictionary—for example, after through—is either ignored or referred to its place in the Dictionary. On the other hand, such prefixes as (English) a-, be-, for-, (English) mis-, un-, are included in this list predominantly Greek and Latin and Latin-derived French.

For the few abbreviations employed, see Abbreviations. Whereas a cross-reference to an italicized word (e.g., 'cor-. See co-') applies to that word as recorded in this list, a cross-reference to a word in small capitals (e.g., 'mis- (1): cf MINUS') or 'mis-(1): cf minus at MINOR') sends you to an entry in the Dictionary.

a- (1). The pre-consonantal form of Gr an-, without (noun), not (adjective, adverb). This 'privative alpha', as it is sometimes called, is akin to Skt an-, a-, L in-, Germanic un- (not). Occurring in, e.g., anarchy, lawlessness (*an-*archy)—the hybrid amoral, lacking morals (*a-*moral)—agnostic, not knowing (*a-*gnostic)—and anhydrous, waterless (*an-*hydrous, h- being an exception to the rule 'a- before consonants').

a- (2). The Gr a-, with (cf Skt sa-), together, as in acolyte and Adelphi.

a- (3). A variant of L ab-, from, away, away from, separated or departed from; akin to Indo-Iranian apa-, Gr ap(o)-, Go ap- and E of and off. Examples: avert (*a-*vert), to turn away, ward off—abrupt, broken off or away (L abruptus=*ab-*ruptus)—abhorrent (*ab-*horrent), shuddering away from, (hence) causing someone to shudder away. Cf also abs- and av- and, in advance, even adv-.

a- (4). A variant or, rather, a reduced form of L ad-, to, towards, akin to Celtic ad- and Go at. The form ad- occurs in, e.g., advent, from ML adventus (L adventus); the reduced form, in ascend, L ascendere, to climb to, aspect, etc., and also in words adopted from French, as avenue, or derived from French, as achieve. The prefix ad- normally experiences assimilation before b, c, f, g, l, n, p, r, s: see ab-, ac-, af-, ag-, al-, an-, ap-, ar-, as-, at-.

a- (5). A reduced form of OE an, having the basic sense 'in contact with esp something beneath' and being akin to OGmc an(a), Gr ana, Av ana (See ON.) Examples, showing the nuances 'on', 'in', 'at': ashore, on (the) shore; afire, on fire nowadays; aloud; He is a-dying, he who so recently was a-laughing, though a-begging. Cf ac-(2).

a- (6). A much-reduced form of OE of, off (hence) from—cf, therefore, OF and OFP—as in adown, from OE of dūne, off the hill, and anew, on new (cf of late, recently).

a- (7). A development, through ME i-, from OE ge-, together, (hence) strongly, (hence) completely; as in aware, ME iwar, OE gewaer. Cf therefore, ge- and i-, variant of y-.

a- (8). This short-a prefix has been 'thinned' from OE ā-, akin to Go ur- (G er-) or us-, with basic meaning 'out' but now vaguely intensive (cf 'an out-and-out liar'), as in dial abear, to endure arise, to rise out of, e.g., bed, and ago, from agon pp of ME agon, from OE āgan, to pass away, lit 'to go (gān) out (ā-)': cf to 'pass away' and 'to pass out' (faint). Cf or- (1).

a- (9), with variants ad- and as-. Vague in meaning, it appears usually to connote 'to' and therefore to approximate to (3), L ad, and therefore to be akin to the Fr à: cf Spenser's addoom, to 'deem' or adjudicate (a, to + euphonic -d + doom), and the archaic amate (a + mate, to checkmate, overcome)—from OF amater or amatir (a, i.e. à + mater), to subdue, dishearten.

Then there are several minor varieties, e.g.: a- (10). A reduction of at, as in ado, to do, from ME at do, Northern for to do. See ADO.

a- (11). A violent reduction of OE and-, against (cf Gr anti, as well as anti- below), as in 'along the coast'.

a- (12). The interjection ah, as in alas, from OF alas (F hélas), where a- represents L ah.

a- (13). An at first careless rendering of L ē-, as in amend, ME amenden, OF amender, from L ēmendāre. Cf e-.

a- (14). In the mysterious avast (to cease), occurring only as naut term, e.g. 'Avast heaving' or 'Avast there!', the a- may be that of (12).

a- (15). The Ar al, the, as in apricot, F abricot (Ar al-burqūq).

a- (16). For af-, as in afraid for affrayed. See af- (2).

a- (17). For the indefinite article a, as in apace (formerly a-pace) for a pace and as in apiece (formerly often a-piece) for a piece.

ab- (1) is an assimilated c/f of ad- before b, as in abbreviate, from abbreviātus, ML pp of L abbreviāre for ad-breuiāre.

ab- (2), abs-. See a- (3), variant of L ab, from, away from. The form abs-, which occurs in abstain, from L abstinēre (abs- + stinēre, combining-form of tenēre, to hold), is to ab- what Gr ἀπ (aps) is to ἀπό (apo).

ac- (1) is the form taken by ad- before c, as in L accidere, to befall, presp accidens, o/s accident-, whence E accident, and before q, as in L acquirere, whence 'to acquire'.

ac- (2), as in acknowledge, comes from ME a-, from OE on. A variation, therefore, of a- (5).

ac- (3), as in accused, pp of 'to accuse', ME acursien. The ME a- here = OE ā-, lit 'out' but mostly an intensive. Cf a- (8).

ad- L ad, to, towards: see a- (4).

ad(v) = a(v), where a = ab-, from, away—cf a- (3) above. Only in ADVANCE, where a(b) has been confused with ad-.

af- (1). The form taken by ad- before f, as in L affirmāre, whence 'to affirm'. In affair, af- stands for F a- (OF a, F à, to) from L ad-.

af- (2), as in affright, derives from ME a-, OE ā-: cf a- (16).

af- (3), as in afford, derives from ME a- (aforth), for i- or y-, from OE ge- (geforthian). Cf, therefore, a- (7) and y-.

af- (4), as in affray, comes from OF ef-, from L ex, out of: cf ef-.

ag-. For ad- before g, as in L aggressus, whence 'to aggress'. Cf:

al- (1). For ad- before l, as in L allegātiō, o/s allegātiōn-, whence E allegation. The change may happen at a later stage, as in allegiance, where al- represents the ME a- (from L ad-) of allegeance (a + OF ligeance).

al- (2), in nn from Ar (often through Sp), is etymologically the Ar al, the, as in alchemy and algebra. See esp 'Articled Nouns' in P⁴.

al- (3), as in alligator, is the Sp el, the, alligator being 'Hobson-Jobson' for Sp el lagarto, the lizard.

al- (4), as in almighty, is simply all: almighty for all-mighty (all-powerful).

am- (1), Gr. As in ambrosia, adopted from Gr, this am- is a softening of privative an-, q.v. at a- (1), ambrosia (food of the Olympian gods) combining and deriving from an-, not + brotos, mortal.

am- (2), L. As in amputate, this am- is a shortened form, existing already in L, of ambi-.

am- (3), L via F. In ambush, ME enbuschen or enbuschen, from OF embussier or embuschier, am- represents F en, in(to), from L in, in(to) + a stem we see in BUSH.

ama-: see hama-.

ambi—before a vowel, amb- (perhaps cf AM-BASSADOR)—comes direct from L amb(i)-, around, about, as in 'ambition' (L ambitiō, lit 'a going (itiō, o/s itiōn-) about') and 'ambidextrous', from ML ambidexter, right-handed on both sides. Ambi is akin to Gr amphi: and as amphi derives from amphō, both, so ambi derives from ambo, both. For ambo- and ampho-, see Elements. Cf:

amphi—before a vowel, amph-—comes direct from Greek amphi, on both sides, (hence) around, as in 'amphibious' and 'amphanthium'. Cf prec.

an- (1). See a- (1).

an- (2). See ana-.

an- (3). The form taken by ad- before n-, as in L annotāre, pp annotātus, whence 'to annotate'.

an- (4) is a rare variant, directly of am- (2), q.v., and therefore indirectly of ambi-.

an- (5), as in anoint, represents F en-, in(to), from L in- (prep in, in, into): cf en- (1).

an- (6), in answer, is short for OE and-, against, akin to anti-.

an- (7), as in ancestor, descends from L ante, before (L antecessor, one who goes before).

an- (8), in anent, anon, derives from ME an-, from the OE prep on: OE onefen, lit 'on even' (on an even with); ME anan, lit 'in one' (moment).

an- (9), in another, is simply the article (a), an: an other.

ana-; before vowels, an-. From an(a)-, c/f of Gr ana, on, up, upwards, above, back, backwards, again, throughout, (hence) very much, excessively; Gr ana is akin to E on; IE ano*, on high. Examples: 'anachronism', from Gr anakhronismos, and anagoge, from Gr anagōgē, a leading (agōgē) up.

[anci-. See ANCIENT and cf ante-.]

ann- (1), in anneal, derives from ME an- for OE on: cf, therefore, an- (8).

ann- (2), in annoy, derives from ME an-, AF an- (OF an), from L in, in. See ANNOY itself and cf an- (5).

ant-. See anti-.

ante-, which remains ante- before a vowel, is the L ante, before (preposition and adverb). Examples: ante-Christian, ante-room. In anticipate, ante- becomes anti-, by confusion with anti- below.

anth-, in anthem (q.v. in Dict), is a rare variant of:

anti-—before a vowel, often ant—represents Gr ant(i)-, c/f of anti, against, whether physically or morally, as in Gr antarktikos, whence E 'ant-arctic', and 'anti-Darwinism'. The Gr anti is akin to L ante, before (whether in space or in time) and Skt anti, opposite (adv): that which is physically before or in front of something is over against it, hence against it.

ap- (1). See apo-.

ap- (2). The form taken by L ad, to, towards, before p, as in L appendere, whence, via French, 'to append', to hang (something) to. In appal(l), ap=F a-, derived from F a=L ad.

ap- (3). In aperient, is perhaps a variant of L ab, q.v. at a- (3).

ap- (4). Like Fitz in Fitzgibbon and Mac in Macbeth, ap- signifies 'son of'. From OW map (W mab), son, itself akin to Scots and Irish Mac. Functionally, therefore, a compound-forming element, yet hardly to be included in Elements.

aph-. See:

apo-; aph- before aspirated vowel; before ordinary vowel, ap-; meaning 'from, away, away from; off, off from', as in Gr apokrupha, L hence E apocrypha, '(things) hidden away'—cf cryptic from Gr kruphtikos—or apostle, Gr apostolos, a person sent apo or away—or apogoge, from Gr apagōgē (ap+agōgē, a leading)—or apheresis, L aphaeresis, Gr aphairesis, compounded of apo, away+hairein, to take. Akin to L ab, OHG aba, Skt āpa, OPer apa, E off.

ar- (1). L ad- before r, as in 'to arrive', ultimately from L ad riuam, to come to the shore, and as in arrogate. In arraign, ar-=OF a-, c/f of a=L ad.

ar- (2). In artichoke represents the Ar article al, the; via It articiocco.

[arch-, arche-, archi-. Being neither prepositional nor adverbial, these intimately interconnected 'prefixes' are strictly compound-formers and are therefore treated in their right place: Elements.]

as- (1) is merely ad- before s, as in L ascribere (for adscribere), whence 'to ascribe', or in L assistere, whence 'to assist'. Cf at- (1).

as- (2). In astonish, astound, derives from ME as-, from OF es-, from L ex-: cf ex- (1).

as- (3). In assagai, is the Ar article al, the.

at- (1)=ad- before t, as in L attentāre, whence, through French, 'to attempt'. See ATTEMPT. at- (2). In atone (q.v. in Dict), is simply the E prep at.

av- occurs, e.g., in avaunt (cf avant), where F av=L ab, from, away.

avant-, meaning 'before', occurs only in such a gallicism as avant-garde; it represents L ab ante, from in front.

ba-, in balance (OF balance), represents L bi-, from bis, twice. Cf, therefore, bi- (1).

be-, akin to OFris be or bī, OHG bī, Goth bi, by, near (cf, therefore, by- and by), but also to Gr amphi, about, around, occurs only in verbs, mostly transitive, falling into two notable groups, the intensive (from verbs only) and the causative (usu from adjectives) or approximately causative, and into such others as privative and denominative. See the following nine entries.

be- (1). Intensive, connoting 'about, around, over', as in bedeck. Cf:

be- (2). Intensive, connoting 'on both or all sides, all around, all over', as in beclasp, becloud, bedim.

be- (3). Intensive, connoting 'thoroughly' or 'repeatedly' or 'violently', as in bedrowse (render thoroughly drowsy), bechase (to chase repeatedly), belabour (to beat violently).

be- (4). Intensive, connoting 'overmuch, excessively', as in befringe, belaud, bediamond; bediamond, like berobe, suggests ostentation.

be- (5). Causative (from adjectives or from nouns), as in becalm and bedunce.

be- (6). Approximately causative or predominantly causative, with connotation 'to affect with, treat or provide with, cover with' (and analogous nuances); always deriving from nouns and often exemplified in (mostly past) participial adjectives rather than in 'straight' verbs. Thus: befrock(ed), befurbelowed, bemusk, beplumed. Frequently jocose or ironic or sarcastic.

be- (7). Privative, connoting removal or departure and deriving either from verbs or from nouns, thus: bereave, beglide, behead.

be- (8). Denominative (from nouns, occasionally from adjectives), to name, call, style, as in belady, bewhore, belord, berogue; bestupid, befunny.

be- (9). Transitives (from verbs), connoting a prepositional relationship between verb and object, the preposition understood being usually against, at, by, for, on, over, to, with, as in beshout (shout against, at, but also for), beshine (shine on, upon), besigh (sigh for or over), becross (decorate with a cross, make the sign of the cross over), bemire (cover with mire), betide (happen to).

bene-. The L adv bene, well, used as a c/f, as in benediction and benvolence. Contrast male-.

bi- (1), indicating either 'two' or 'twice' (or 'doubly'), comes from Latin and should therefore be compared with bin- and bis-. The L bi-, bin-, bis- are akin to E twi- (q.v. below), Gr di-, Skt dvi-, themselves consequently related intimately to E two, L duo, Gr duo (Homeric duō). Exx: bipedal, having two feet; bipinnate, twice pinnate; connotative of combination: biracial; lasting two, occurring every two, e.g. years, as biennial, bimonthly, (ambiguously) twice in, as biweekly, appearing twice a week, and therefore confusable with biweekly, appearing every two weeks. (To this 'twice (in)' bi, semi- is preferable.) Connoting 'consisting of two parts', as bicycle, or 'divide into two', as bisect; anatomically: bi-auricular, having two auricles—or pertaining to them; chemically: bi-carbonate, bisulphate.

'Bi- and di- are [in chemistry] sometimes interchangeable, but di- is now usually preferred in most senses' (Webster).

bi- (2), in bishop, derives from OE bi-, for Gr epi-: cf epi- below.

bin-, divided into, or consisting of, two parts as in binoculars, comes from L bīni, two by two, itself from bis, twice: cf terni from ter, thrice.

bis-, twice, as in bisaxillary, biscuit, twice cooked, and bissextile, is used, notably in Anatomy and Medicine, where a vowel or c or s follows. The L bis derives from duis, itself from the stem of duo, two. Cf bi- (1).

by-, as in bystander, has the basic sense of the preposition and its derivatives, by adv and by adj: 'near'. The derivative sense 'beyond' occurs in by-pass. See BY and cf BYE.

cat-. See:

cata-; before an unaspirated vowel, cat-; before an aspirated vowel, hence before h, kath-; and cato-, variant of cata-. These come from Greek: cata- from kata-, c/f of prep kata, 'down', hence adv 'downwards'; kat-; kath-; katō, a distinct form of adv kata. In combination, the principal senses are: down, downwards; hence, according to—but also, against, contrary to; back, back again; and often as a mere intensive. In English it is sometimes difficult to assess the value of the prefix: witness, e.g., catalogue. The variants kat(a)-, kath-, as in katabatic, katharsis, are, in English, to be discouraged: what's wrong with catabatic and catharsis? Examples that do reveal the sense of the preposition or the adverb include catachresis, (something that is) contrary to usage—cataclastic, broken down, thoroughly broken—catholic—catocathartic, a remedial purgative.

cato-. See prec.

circu-, as in circuitous, is a rare 'weakening' of: circum- is the c/f of the adv circum (originally the acc of L circus), meaning 'round about', hence 'around', as in 'To *circum*navigate the globe', but used also with nouns (*circum*gyration) and esp with adjectives (*circum*central, *circum*moral, circum-Saturnian). For ulterior etymology, see CIRCUS.

cis- represents the L prep cis, on this side of, (hence) on the near side of, as in cis-Alpine. Occ transferred to time, as in cis-Augustan. Perhaps akin to OS sī, Lith šis, and Hit kās, hither, kēz, on this side.

citra- represents the L adv and prep citrā, on this side (of), as in citramontane. Strictly, L citrā is the f abl of the adj citer, hither. The stem is ci- (ki-), answering to PGr ki-* (or ky-*): cf also Go hi-. For both cis and citra, see esp E & M.

co-, with, together, jointly. The form taken by com- (c/f of cum) before a vowel and often before h (cohabit) and w (co-worker).

coi-, in coil (q.v. in Dict), is for col-, q.v. at cum-.

col-, with, etc. See cum-: col- is an assimilated form of com- before l.

com-, with, etc. See cum-, of which it constitutes the basic c/f in v cpds. Cf co- and:

con-, with, etc. The form taken by com- before any consonant except b, h, l, m, p, r, w, and often (as in connect) before n. See cum.

contra-. The L adv and prep contrā, against, over against, facing, (adv) on the contrary. Contrā=con (see cum)+-trā, adv suffix, occurring already in Skt ātra, here, and tātra, there. In E cpds, contra signifies 'against' or 'contrary, in opposition', as in contradict, contradistinction. Cf the adj contrary and the adv counter, and also contro- (q.v. below).

contre-, seen only in such gallicisms as contre-danse and contretemps, is simply the F form of L contra-.

contro-. The L adv contrō, doublet of contrā; as in *contro*versy.

cor-. As in corrupt, cor- is an assimilated form of com- before r. Therefore see cum.

cou-, as in couch and cousin, stands for com-, q.v. at cum. (Skeat.)

coun-, in council (and counsel), in count and countenance, stands for com-, q.v. at cum-. (Skeat.)

counter- is the c/f of the E adv counter, from F contre (adv), from the L prep contrā, against. Exx: counterfeit, countermand, counterpane, counterpoise, countersign.

cu-, as in custom, stands for com- or con-, qq.v. at:

cum, as in cum laude, (on diplomas) with praise, i.e. honourably, 'caravan-cum-house' and Chorlton-cum-Hardy, represents the L prep cum, with, along with.

As a preverb (prefix serving to build cpds), it has two main forms: com- (or con-) and co-; and, as assimilated forms of com-, the varieties col- and cor-. See, above, co-, com-, con-. The nasal (m or n) is not essential: cf L cohors, gen cohortis, o/s cohort-, E cohort, and Celtic co- alongside com-, con-; cf also OS kū alongside Vedic kām. Prob IE r: co-* or ko-, with variant ca-* or ka-.

In cpds co-, com-, etc., connote, usu, 'together', often '(in) reunion', occ 'very'.

cur-, in 'to curry (a horse)', comes, via OF cor-, from L com-, q.v. at cum.

de- (1). The L prep dē, from, down from, away from; (hence) coming from, originating in, as a result of; sometimes merely intensive. There are kindred forms in the early Italic dialects Oscan and Umbrian, and also in Celtic. Exx: depend, descend; delegate; (intensively) denude, derelict; (reversal, deprivation) declassify, decapitate.

de- (2). When, however, E de- represents the OF des-, it comes from L dis- (see below): as perhaps in destroy and certainly in defeat. Cf deluge, adopted from OF-MF, from L diluvium, where dī- stands for dis-: cf di- (2).

de- (3), in devil (OE dēofol, -ful, LL diabolus, Gr diabolos), represents dia-.

dea-, in deacon, like de- in devil, comes from Gr dia-, q.v. below.

demi-. The F demi, half, a half, c/f demi-, comes as adj from the L adj dīmidius, half, itself a com- pound of dī- (i.e. dis-) + adj medius, middle, and as n from L dīmidium (cf MEDIUM). Lit in demicanton, demigroat, demilune; 'curtailed' in demirobe; 'inferior' or 'informal' in demilustre, demitoilet. (Examples from Webster.)

des-, A Romance—usu F, occ Sp—shape of L dis-, as in descant and despatch. Cf esp dis-. (2) Chemistry uses it, for de- (free from, deprive of), before vowels, as in desoxymorphine.

[dh- is not a true prefix. Its use serves to indicate a Hindi, occ Marathi, word, usu of Skt origin; as in dharma, dhobi, dhow.]

di- (1). Short for dia-, q.v.; before vowels, as in diactic.

di- (2). For L dī-, for dis- (q.v.), connoting separation or reversal; as in didromy and diminish.

di- (3). For Gr dis, twice (see 2nd dis-), as in dilemma, diploma, the Gr coin distater.

di- (4). For L dē-, as in distil: cf de- (1).

dia- represents the Gr prep dia, through, throughout, as in diachronic; occ an intensive; often, from the idea of (e.g., cutting) 'through', in nuances 'asunder'—'apart'—'across', as in diapositive. Before a vowel, often di-, as in diactic. This prefix 'seems to be a transformation of IE dis* (L dis-, OHG zir, Alb iŝ-) "in two, separately" (di[s]ǵa*, after meta, etc.), cf diaskhizō, L discindo. "I cut in two, split" (Boisacq).

di-. See dis- (1).

dir-. See:

dis- is the L dis-, apart, asunder, in two. In Mod E, dis- is the only form, as in disassociate, but in words coming entirely from Latin, the following variations are noticeable: occ dir- before vowels, dis- being very much commoner; dif- before f, as in differ; di- before b, d, g, l, m, n, r, v, occ j, as in direct, direction (lit, a tearing asunder, hence away). The general meaning is 'separation', as in dismiss; hence, deprivation, reversal, negation, as in disable, disqualify. For the etymology cf dia-.

(2) Gr dis, twice, doubly, double, as in diapason, disdiazon. Rare.

do-, in dozen, and dou-, in double, come, through F, from L duo, two. Cf:

du- may be called the c/f of L duo, two, and occurs, e.g., in duel, duet, duplex. See DUO and cf dual (L duālis: du- + alis). Cf the prec entry.

dys- is the L form of Gr dus-, badly, ill (adv), severely, akin to Skt dus-; dus- seems, indeed, to have been the IE stem; cf also Go tuz-, OHG zur-, OIr du- or do-, OE to-, ON tor-, and the Skt variant dur-. Exx: dyslogia, difficulty in expressing ideas in speech; dysphemistic—the opp of euphemistic; dysphoria, a general malaise.

e- (1), as in eject, emit, erupt. See ex-. In words from F from L (e.g., eloign) e- derives from OF es- for L ex-.

e- (2), in enough, derives from ME t-, from OE ge- (genōh): cf, therefore (i- at) y- near end of this list.

e- (3), in escalade, escarpment, escutcheon, especial, espouse, espy, esquire, estate, and in a few less familiar words, has been adopted from F, which prefixes it to words in sc-, sp-, sq-, st- ('impure s', as some call it) because of the difficulty in pronouncing those four combinations. (Skeat.) This purely phonetic addition occurs also in It.

é-, in such gallicisms as élite and émigré, is F e, from OF es, from L ex-. Cf e- (1).

ec-, out (of), represents the Gr ek, as in ecbatic, the adj of ecbasis (Gr ekbasis), a going out, (hence) a digression, and as in ecstasy (Gr ekstasis). Cf ex- (1).

ecto- or, before a vowel, ect- comes from ekto-, c/f of the Gr adv and prep ektos, outside, externally, as in ectoplasm. Ektos, outside, is to ek, out of, as entos, within, is to en, in: cf, therefore, ek- and ex- (1).

ef- is the form taken by L ē or ex before f, as in effect, from L effectus, itself from efficere.

eis- comes straight from Gr eis, into, and occurs only in words adopted or slightly adapted from Greek, as elsegesis, from Gr eisēgēsis: eis + (n from) hēgeisthai, to lead.

ei- (1) is an assimilated form, already in Gr, of en- (see the 2nd en-), as in ellipse.

ei- (2), in elixir (q.v. in Dict) and elemi (a kind of resin), is the Ar al, the. Cf al- (2).

em- (1) is the form taken by 1st en- (from L in, in, into) before b, as in embellish—before m, as in emmarvel—and before p, as in employ: all from F words; all, therefore, from the F prefix en- (for L in-).

em- (2). But em- occ represents Gr en (in), which itself, in certain combinations (before m, p, ph), becomes em-, as in emmetros, proportional, proportioned (en + metron, a measure), whence the cpd emmetropia, and as in emphasis. Cf the 2nd form of en-.

emb- in at least one word (embassy) seems to vary amb-, variant of ambi-, q.v.

en- (1) represents F en, in, into, from L in, in, into, in words coming from French or formed on the analogy of such borrowings from French, as in enchant, enchase, engulf, engloom. The force of en- is often merely intensive.

en- (2). But cf em- (2) above, for en- may also represent Gr en, in, as in encaustic, endemic, energy, enthusiasm: in short, this en occurs only in words taken from Greek or in words formed on the analogy of such E words.

en- (3), in enemy, derives, through F, from L in-, not. Cf the 1st en- and the 2nd in-.

endo-; before a vowel, usu end-. Adopted from Gr, where it constitutes the c/f of the adv and prep endon, (on the) inside; endon = en, in + a loc suffix. Exx: endogamy, inbreeding, and endogenous, produced or originating from within. Cf ento-.

enter- (1). The E shape of F entre-, c/f of the prep entre (L inter), between, among—occurring in F entrechat, entremets—from L inter; as in entertain (F entretenir) and enterprise (F entreprise). Cf inter-.

enter- (2) is merely the prevocalic form of entero-, q.v. at enter(o)- in Elements.

ento-; before a vowel, usu ent-. Within, (hence) inner. Adopted from Greek, where ent(o)- constitutes the c/f of the adv entos (cf L intus), inside, within, the opp of ektos (q.v. at ecto-); entos=en, in +-tos, suffix indicating origin. Exx: entogastric, entozoic.

entre- is the F original of 1st enter-, q.v., and therefore comes from L inter, between, among.

ep-. See epi-.

eph-. See epi-.

epi-; before an ordinary vowel, ep-; before an aspirated vowel, eph-. The Gr prep epi means 'on, upon, onto', hence 'towards, to', and is akin to Skt api, near to, beside, beyond, and Lith apie, about, around, near, at. Exx: epact, from Gr epaktos (ep+aktos, from agein, to lead or bring); ephemeral, adj of ephemera, from Gr ephēmeros (epi becoming eph before hēmera, a day); epigram, from Gr epigramma (epi+gramma, something written).

es- is the form taken by ex- in a few E words of Romance origin, esp It and F; e.g., escambio, escape, escheat, escort, estreat.

eso-, within, (hence) internal; hence, in Organic Chem, directly attached, direct attachment, to a ring, as in esoneural. Opp exo-, q.v. Adapted from the Gr adv esō, which, as the Ionic variant eisō shows, is intimately related to eis, q.v. at eis-.

eu-, well, comes straight from Gr eu, well, itself orig the neu of the adj eus, good, strong, valiant, answering to IE esus* (esu+s), root es*, akin to E is: esu-s*, existent*, alive*, hence valiant' (Boisacq). Exx: eugenic, eupeptic, euphemism, eutropic. Cf:

ev-. The form assumed by Gr eu in ML, as in Evadne, evangel, the exhilarated outcry evoe, Evonymus. Cf eu-.

ex- (1); ef- before f, as in effusion; e- before b (ebriety)—d (educer)—g (egestion)—and l (elapse)—m (emerge)—n (enarration)—r (erace)—and v (evade). In F words, it often occurs as es- (escape), aphectically s- (scape), or as é- (élan). L ex corresponds to Gr ek or, before an aspirated vowel, ex; and is akin to OS iz-, Lett iz, Lith is, OIr ess-, Gaulish eks-. The IE etymon was presumably eks*, with variant egs* or egz*.

In E words, the principal denotations and connotations are these: out, out of, as in exhale; out from, off from, off, from, as in exeunt; coming out of, and ascending, as in effluent and extol, and even in exalt; beyond, as in exceed; away from, as in expatriate; (derivatively) separated from, lacking, without, as in exanimate; in inchoative vv, change of state, as in effervesce; completion, as in effect and exhaust; an intensive (cf intensive de-), as in excruciate; adopted from a LL usage, ex+n connotes a person out of a rank, position, office held formerly, as in ex-king, ex-president.

ex- (2), in excise (q.v. in Dict), prob comes from L ad-, to.

ex- (3). See: .

exo-; before a vowel, usu ex-. The Gr exō represents the prep exō, out of, outside, a derivative from ex, out of, from: see ex- (1), 1st para Its general English meaning is 'out of' or 'external', as in exoneural; in Chem it often connotes 'outward'.

[extero- appears more fittingly in the Compound-Forming Elements list.]

extra- represents the L adv and prep extrā, on the outside (opp intus)—outside of (opp intrā), beyond—hence, without, except, except for. Exx: extravert, one who lives externally; extracostal, outside of the ribs; extramundane, beyond the (physical) world; extraordinary, beyond the ordinary, (hence) most unusual. The connotation 'beyond' leads to the idea of intensification, as in extra-special, very special indeed.

Etymologically extrā is the f abl of the adj exter, (placed) on the outside—cf citrā; exter clearly derives from ex (see 1st ex-).

Cf stra-.

extro-, as in extrovert, variant of extravert, has been formed from extra- on the analogy, and as the opp, of intro-, q.v. The L extrō occurs only in L extorsum.

for- (1) is akin not only to prep for (q.v. for etymology) but also to such OGMc prefixes as ON for-, OHG fir-, Go fra-. Although no longer used to form words, it survives in forfend, to prohibit or avert; forget, forgo, to omit or fail to get, to go without; forswear, to reject, or renounce, formally; fordo, to slay; forspent, utterly spent (exhausted); forlorn, utterly lost. The connotations there implied are 'prohibition, destruction; failure, omission; thoroughly'; certain obsolete words exhibit one or two additional connotations or functions.

for- (2), in forfeit (q.v. in Dict), comes from F for-, from L foris, out of doors, itself from foris, door, with cognates in Skt, OSI, OHG.

for- (3), in forever, forasmuch, is obviously the prep for (q.v. in Dict): cf for ever and for as much as.

for- (4), in forward and in the slovenly forebear for forebear (ancestor), is identical, in origin and sense, with:

fore- (1), as in foregoing (preceding, earlier) and forebears (ancestors). For etymology, see FORE.

fore- (2), in (to) forebear for (to) forebear, is slovenly for for- (1).

forth-, only in forthcoming and forthwith, has come straight down from OE. (Skeat.) See the adv FORTH in the Dictionary.

fro-, in froward, comes from ON frā, from. See adv fro at FROM in Dict.

gain-, in gainsay and dial gainstand, to withstand, and archaic gainbuy, to redeem, derives from OE gēan: see AGAINST in Dict.

ger-, like ker-, is an echoic prefix occurring only in sl and coll words. It may, in its weaker form, ge-, owe something to the G prefix ge-, esp where it appears in Yiddish. Both ger- and ge- are occ interchangeable with ker- and ke- resp, as in ger- or ker-doing (or -doink), an AF exclamation apropos, and indicative, of a crash.

hama-, as in hamacrat (of, by, for government based on mutual action), comes from the Gr adv hama, together. Occ, loosely, ama-, as in the photographic amacrat.

hemi-, half-, as in hemisphere, merely adapts Gr hēmi-, akin to L sēmi- (q.v.), OHG sāmi-, OE sām-. The IE stem may therefore have been either hsēm-* or hsām-. Cf the formation of Gr huper-, q.v. at hyper-. Cf also me- below.

hyp-. See hypo-.

hyper-, over, above, beyond, beyond the ordinary or normal, transcending, excessively, as in hyperbole and hypercritical, represents Gr huper-, c/f of the prep huper, over or above, beyond or exceeding. As Gr hēmi- is akin to L semi-, so is huper akin to L super: the IE stem may therefore have been hsuper-*, the s dropping out in Gr, the h in L. Cf OHG ubir and Skt upāri and see hypo-.

hyph-. See:

hypo-; before an unaspirated vowel, often hyp-; before an aspirated vowel, hyph-. The E meanings 'below, beneath, less than the ordinary or the normal'—the opp, therefore, of hyper—correspond to those of Gr hupo-, c/f of the prep hupo, below, beneath. Hupo is akin to OPer (and Av) upa, towards, and also to L sub, under: as huper to super, so hupo to sub (? orig sup). The IE hupo-* or hsupo-*, whence Gr hupo, prob forms the origin of huper. Exx: hypocrite, hypodermic, hypothesis; hypallage, hyparterial; hyphen.

i-. See y-. (2) See the 2nd in-.

il- is the form taken by in-, not, before l, as in illegal, and also by in-, in, into, as in illumine. Cf im- and esp in-.

im-=in-, not, before m, as in immense, and before p, as in improper; before b, as in imbue; (2), not, before m, as in imminent; and before p, as in impend.

in- (1), in, within, into, towards, comes either from the E prep and adv in, as in inborn, income, inside, or from L in (same senses), as in indebted, invade. Except in such softening as immesh, inpark, the E in- remains in-, but the L in- experiences these changes: il- before l, as above; im- before b, m, p, as above; ir- before r, as under. In the L derivatives, in- (il-, im-, ir-) has often a merely intensive force, as in imprison. Cf em- and 1st en-.

in- (2). Again from L, where it forms an inseparable prefix with no originating adv or prep, this in-, akin to the synonymous E prefix un-, means 'not' and experiences, in L, the same assimilations as we have noticed in in- (1), with an additional one—before gn it becomes i, as in ignobilis, whence ignoble, and in ignōrāre, whence E ignore. Exx: inadvertent, incapable, illicit, immature, improper, irregular.

ind- or, before a vowel, ind-, as in indigenous and indigent (ind-+-igent), represents PL indu, within, cognate with Gr endon, within. (Skeat.) Cf endo-above.

infra-, below or beneath in position, situation, series, status, as in infracostal, infracuman, (hence) inferior, as in infratatural, but also (as in infrateritorial) within, represents the L adv and prep infrā, beneath, lower, physically and morally—opp suprā—and akin to L inferus, with cognates in Skt.

intel-. See:

inter-, between, among, as in interfere, interlace; (hence) mutual or reciprocal, as in intercourse; (occ) at intervals, as in intermittent; rarely privative, as in interdict: comes from the L prep inter, between or among. Inter- appears in the assimilated form intel- in intellect, intelligent, etc. The L prep consists of basic in, in, and the loc suffix -ter: cf subter (from sub, under) and Skt antar, between, and:

intra-, within, situated within, as in intramural, intravenous, (hence) into, as in intrasusception, intravert, comes from the L prep intrā, within, on the inside of, within the limits of (opp extrā): and intrā derives from in, very much as extrā derives from ex, -trā being a loc suffix with Skt cognates. Cf:

intro-, to or towards a place within, inwards, is, in effect, the L adv intrō, on the inside, in the interior; intrō, adv (only in LL does it derivatively become a prep), answers to intrā, prep. Exx: introduce, introvert, introsusception. Cf also:

intus-, on the inside, (but predominantly) to the inside, within, into, comes from the L adv intus, from within, (but mostly) on or to the inside; intus answers to Gr entos (en, in, into+-tos), with a suffix—L -tus, Gr -tos, Skt -tas—that, like -trā, is fundamentally a loc suffix. Rare in English, it is exemplified by intususception (cf intra- and introsusception).

ir-, as in irruption and irrational, is the assimilated form of in- (q.v.) before r: both of in-, in(to), and of in-, not.

iss-, occurring only in issue (issuance, issuant, etc.), derives from OF iss-, from L ex-: cf, therefore, e.

juxta-, situated or put beside or very close to, as in juxtaposition, comes from the ML adv and prep juxta, i.e. L and LL iuxta, which, meaning 'so as to touch; very close, very close to', derives from iugum (ML jugum), a yoke, and is therefore akin to iungere (ML jugere), to join or unite. For further etymology, cf YOKE.

k- is an intensive prefix in, e.g., knut—or k-nut, for often the k is pronounced almost as a separate syllable—a very smart, usu young, man about town, as in the popular Edwardian song, 'Gilbert, the filbert, Colonel of the Knuts'. Perhaps cf ker-below.

kata-, as in katabasis, a going down, is the Gr form of cata-, q.v.

ker- or, in weaker, less usu form, ke-. An echoic prefix, connoting the impact or sound of a heavy blow, falling, collision, etc., as in kerflop, kerwallop. Cf ger- (q.v.), with which it is occ interchangeable. The prefix ke(r)- prob preceded ge(r)-, for it seems to be intimately related to the echoic kr- of such words as crash, crump, crush, and also, more obscurely, to the khr- of, e.g., Christmas, which, as an exclamation, tends to become, often does become, Ker-ristmas / Perhaps cf k- above and the ter- of the jocularly emphatic terwenty, twenty.

l- (1), in lone, is simply a c/f of the adj ALL.

l- (2), in limbeck and lute, is the Ar al, the. Cf al- (2).

l- (3), in loriot (the golden oriole), is the F article l', the: loriot represents F l'oriot.

la- represents the It f singular la, the, in the E-from-It lavorita; the Sp f sing la, the, in E lariat, from Sp la reata; the F f sing la, the, in AE lavalier, AE and E laval(i)ere, from F lavallière, from La Vallière, Louis XIV's favourite. See esp 'Articled Nouns' in P⁴.

M-, in the Bantu languages, indicates 'a person, esp a member of a tribe', as in M-Swahili; pl, Wa-, as in Wa-Swahili, the Swahili tribesmen.

mal-, male-, represent, the former the F mal (from L), the latter the L male, badly, ill (adv), the adv of malus, bad, with cognates in Gr and Skt. Exx: malapert (OF mal apert); malcontent, straight from F; malpractice; maltrait; — malefactor, straight from L; malediction (from the o/s of L maledictiō); malevolent (o/s of ML malevolens, L maleuolens, lit 'ill-wishing').

me-, in megrin, stands for hemi- (half-), q.v.; megrin, ME migrum or mygrene, from OF mi-graine, from LL hēmīcrania, from Gr hēmīcrania.

meta-; met- before an unaspirated vowel; meth- before an aspirated vowel. The predominant senses, in both Gr and E words, are 'along with; after', which branch off into 'in succession to, posterity, after', as in metachronism and method; 'change' (something that happens afterwards) or 'transfer, trans-', as in metamorphosis and metempsychosis; 'beyond', as in metaphysics—hence 'higher', as in metapsychosis. The Gr meta is akin to Go mith, OHG mit or miti, OE mid, ON meth, with; to the med(i)- of L medius, in the middle; and to IE medh(i)-* (root me-*), in the middle—cf Gr mesos (from IE medhios*), in the middle.

meth-. See prec.

mis- (1), from L minus, less, but through OF mes- (F més- or mé-): as in mischance, ME meschance, OF meschance, and mischief, ME meschef, OF meschief. Connotation: bad, badly—ill (adj and adv)—wrong, wrongly.

mis- (2), from OE mis-, akin to ON mis-, Go missa-, OHG missa- or missi-; orig, pp from the stem present in OE mithan, Go maidjan, OHG midan, to change, perhaps with emphasis on 'change for the worse'. Exx: misbehave, mislead, misspend, and misdeed, misgiving. It becomes merely negative in mislike, merely intensive in misdoubt.

Usage has long—indeed, since c1650—tended to confuse mis- (1) and mis- (2). The confusion is entirely natural, for psychologically and semantically the fundamental ideas of 'less' and 'change, change for the worse' are very closely akin, one to the other. Mislike orig signified 'to be displeasing to', as in 'It mislikes me much' (OE mislician), but the predominant sense has, since 1900 at the latest, been 'to dislike', as in 'I mislike that man'.

n- (1)=ne, not, as in never, not ever, from OE nāēfre, consisting of OE ne, not+OE āēfre, ever. As an active prefix, n- (and ne-) ceased to exist soon after ME became EE. The OE-ME ne is akin to L ne, not, which we see in neuter (ne+uter) and nefarious and null.

n- (2), as in newt and nickname, is the -n of the E article an, the: an ewt, an ekename resp become a newt, a nickname. See 'Articled Nouns' in P⁴.

ne-. See n- (1). In L c/ff, ne- before o and l often took the stronger form neg-, prob developed from nec-, c/f of nec, an emphatic form of the adv ne: negō, I deny (cf E negation); negōtium (neg-+ōtium), whence, ult, E negotiate; neglegere (variant neglegere), whence, ult, neglect.

neg-. See prec.

non-, not, merely makes a c/f of the L adv non, not, which derived from PL noenum, i.e. neoenum, not one (thing), oenum being the PL form of L ūnum. Occ non- merges with a noun, as in non-conformist and nonsense; usu it precedes an adj, as in non-Christian and non-religious. Non-, it is clear, is less emphatic than in- or un-; usu, so far from denoting an opposite, it merely connotes a negation.

o' is a shortening of of or on, as in Shakespeare's 'turning o' the tide'; therefore cf a- (5) and a- (6).

o- (2) represents L ob- (q.v.), as in omit (L omittere).

ob-, towards or facing, as in obverse—against, as in object—upon, over, as in obfuscate, but also down, as in oblige—completely, thoroughly, (very) much, as in obdurate; in modern scientific and technical words, reversely, as in obovate.

The following assimilations are common: ob- before c becomes oc-, as in occur; before f, becomes of-, as in offend and offer; before g, becomes og-, as in the obsolete ogganition, a snarl, from L oggannire (ob+gannire), to snarl at; before p, becomes op-, as in opponent.

L ob is akin to Gr epi, upon, towards (cf epi-above).

oc-. See ob-, 2nd para.

of- (1). See ob-, 2nd para.

of- (2), in offal, does duty for off-: offal=off-fall: but offfal(l) would have been phonetically absurd. (Skeat.)

off-, as in offset, is the adv off, q.v. in Dict. Cf prec.

og-. See ob-, 2nd para.

on-, as in oncoming, is the adv and prep on, q.v. in Dict.

op-. See ob-, 2nd para.

opiso-: from Gr opisō, backwards, as in opisometer, an instrument for the measurement of curves. Cf:

opisth(o)-: Gr opisth(o)-, c/f of opisthen, at the back (cf opiso-), as in opisthognathous (cf -gnatha), having jaws that retreat; opisthograph; opisthosomal (cf -some).

opsi-: Gr opsi-, c/f of adv opse, late, too late; prob IE s and r, op-*, var of the ap- of Gr apo, (away) from—cf L abs and ab. Exx: opsigamy, late marriage, from Gr opsigamia (cf -gam).

or- (1), in ordeal and ort(s), has a prefix that, occurring in OE as or-, OFris as or-, MD as oor-, G as ur- or er-, Go as us-, has basic meaning 'out' and is therefore akin to a- (8), q.v.

or- (2), in orlop, contracts D over(loop), over.
os-, in ostensible, which consists of os- + tensible, is either a worn-down or merely a phonetically convenient form of obs-, a variant of ob-, q.v.

out-. See adv out in the Dict. Cf also ut-, utt-, near end of this list.

outr-, in outrage, represents F outré (as in outramer, beyond the sea, (hence) foreign lands), from L ultrā, beyond: see ultra-.

over-. See over in the Dict.

pa-, in palsy, shortens para- (1), q.v.: ME palesie, earlier parlesie (or -sey): OF paralysis, LL paralysis, Gr paraluisis.

palin-, as in palindrome, palingenesis, palinode, but palim- in palimpsest, means 'back again': Gr palin, back, again; app from an IE stem that means 'to turn'. (Boisacq.)

par- (1), as in parboil, pardie!, is Fr par-, thoroughly (as also in parget), by: i.e., the F prep par, by, thoroughly, from L per: see per- below.

par- (2). In parget, F par- may rather derive, via OF por-, from L prō-, forward(s).

par- (3). See para- (3).

par- (4). See:

para-; before a vowel, par-. The basic sense of Gr para is 'beside' or 'alongside', hence 'aside from' or 'beyond', hence (?) 'amiss': and these recur in E words, e.g. paragraph, paraphrase, parody, with the additional nuances 'abnormal' (to the side of, but at some distance), as in paranoia, and 'closely resembling', as in paraselene, a mock moon, and paratyphoid.

The Gr para is akin to L por-, as in portendere (E portend)—an alternation of prō-; para, therefore, is akin also to L prae. There are several early IE cognates. Cf pro- below.

para- (2). In parachute, parapet, parasol, paraconnotes 'defence against'. Although these words come imm from French, the prefix para- here represents para!, the imperative of It parare, to defend (itself from L parāre, to prepare).

para- (3), in paradise; shortened to par- in parvis; is Av pairi, around, akin to Gr peri: cf, therefore, peri-.

pel- is the assimilated form of per- (q.v.) before l, as in pellucid.

pene- or, before a vowel, pen-, signifying 'almost', stands for the L adv paene, almost, of obscure ulterior origin, as in peneplain (or -plane) and peninsula (pen+insula, island). The L word is app of non-Italic origin.

per-, through, (hence) by means of, and, in combination, throughout, hence thoroughly, hence as an intensive, represents L per-, c/f of the L prep per, through, hence, in combination, thoroughly, with assimilation pel- before l. The L per is akin to the Gr prep peri, around, round about, (hence) concerning, and to Skt pari: see peri- below. Exx: perambulate, perception, persecute, pervert, perturb.

In French, L per becomes par, by, and, in combination, thoroughly: the former occurs in the oath pardie!, the latter in parboil. But in E words, F par may become per, as in perchance—and, by analogy, perhaps.

Cf pel-. There is a variant pil-, seen in PILGRIM.

peri-, adopted from Gr peri-, comes from the adv and prep peri, all round, round about, (hence) concerning, and, in combination, occ a mere intensive: as in perimeter, periphery, periscope, pericranium, period. The Gr word is akin to Skt pāri, adv (all round) and prep (around), OPer pariy, Alb per, L per, also OHG fir- or far-, OS firi-, OE fyr-. Boisacq postulates an IE r per*, 'expressing the execution of a movement forward or of an effort directed to a precise end'. That IE stem per* has, in combination, a shortened form pr- as in Gr pro- or prō-, and L prō-, forward, to the fore.

pil-. See per-, at end.

po-, in position, positive, is aphetic for L apo*, close kin to ap*, the PL form of ab—cf a- (3) and apo-.

pol-. See:

por- (1), as in portend, represents L por- (as in portendere), an allied form of L prō-, q.v. at the 2nd pro-. 'It appears as pol- in pollute' and perhaps as pos- in possess. (Skeat.)

por- (2). In E words from F, por-, like pur- (q.v. below), represents an early form of pour-, the F reshaping of the 2nd pro-. Example: portrait.

pos-. See por- (1), at end.

post-, after (in time), as in postdate, postpone, post-Shakespearean, after (in place, position, point, etc.), as in postfrontal, behind the forehead, and, in medicine, occurring as a result of, as in post(-)neuralgic, comes from the L post, after, behind (prep, adv, prefix)—opp ante, before; and L post is akin to Skt pasca, Av pāskat, OPers pasā, after, and to TokhB post, OSi pozde. The IE r appears to be pos*, with variant pas*.

pour-, as in the gallicisms pourboire, pourparler, pourpoint, poursuivant, is a c/f of the F prep pour, for, OF por, VL por, L prō: see the 2nd pro-.

pr-, in prison and prize, is ult identical with L pre-, which=prae-. (Skeat.) See:

prae-, surviving in legal terms (e.g., praemunire) and in Roman-historical terms (praenomen, praetor, etc.); otherwise pre-, as in preamble, prefect, pre-text; sometimes through F pré-; ML pre- or prae-; L prae-, in c/f often pre-, from the L prep and adv prae, PL prai, before, akin to prō, q.v. at 2nd pro-: cf Oscan prai, Umbrian pre, and, with varying shades of meaning, OP prei, OSI prī. Cf also:

praeter-, only in 'Roman' survivals and in archaistic spellings; elsewhere preter-, as in preterit(e), pretermit, preternatural: L praeter, in front of, (hence) beyond, (hence) not counting, except. Praeter was orig either a comp of prae or a prae- derivative analogous to subter from sub, or inter from in.

pre-. See prae-.

preter-. See praeter-.

pri-, as in prior and prime, private and deprive, occurs only in words coming from L and is a variant of or, at the least, closely akin to prae- (pre-) and L pro.

pro- (1). The Gr pro- or prō-, before, whether in space or in time, comes from IE pro* or prō, to the fore or front: cf Skt prā-, Av fra- or frā-, OPer fra-, L pro- or prō-, OSI pro- or pra-, OHG fir-. Exx: problem, proboscis, proscenium; prologue; in SciE, primitive or rudimentary, as in progamete.

pro- (2). The L pro-, forward, forth, is akin to and was much influenced by Gr pro or prō, before. The basic sense of the L adv and prep pro, forward, in front (of), occurs in such words as proceed, progress, project.

These basic senses of L prō imply that somebody or something is behind one, therefore shielded or sheltered or protected by one: thus have arisen the nuances 'in defence of, for the sake of, in behalf of' and so forth, as in procure and prolocutor and, with the accentuated nuance 'in favour of', in such modern terms as pro-American, pro-British, pro-Joyce.

The basic senses of L prō also imply 'in the place of, instead of: hence, substituted for', as in pro-consul.

For etymology, cf 1st pro-. For variations showing F influence, see por-, pour-, pur-.

pro- (3) is, in provost, an odd deviation from prae-, pre-. (Skeat.)

prod-, in prodelision (lit a 'forward', i.e. 'before', elision), = 2nd pro-, q.v. Cf L prodesse (prod + esse).

pros-, as in proselyte and prosody, connotes 'towards', hence 'concerning'; in prosenchyma, 'near'; in prosencephalon, 'fore'. A Gr preverb, it comes from pros, a Gr adv (at the side; besides) and prep (towards, beside, near to). The dial variant proti helps us to see the kinship of pros to Skt prāti, towards, and OSI protivū, face to face with, and Lett preti, 'over against'. The IE etymon is presumably proti*, against, over against, facing, perhaps having an ult form prati*. Cf the compound-forming element prot(o)-, and also:

proso- is a c/f deriving from Gr prosō, forwards, onwards—an extension of pros; c/f Gr exō from ex. The E prefix occurs only in Sci and tech words, with the general meanings 'in front', as in proso-branchia, prosodetic, prosopyle—'passing to, or into, another', as in prosodemic—'developing progressively' or 'progressive development', as in prosoplasia.

pu-, in puny; puls- in pulsne; these two prefixes represent F forms of L postea, afterwards, F puisne meaning 'later-born'.

pur-, as in purchase (OF porchacier), to pursue—hence to seek—and obtain, hence to obtain by seeking with a price (to purchase, as we now understand purchase), in purfle (OF porfiler), in purloin, purport (and purpose), pursue-, purvey, purview: this pur- comes from OF pur, variant por (EF-F pour), ML por, L pro: cf the 2nd pro-.

r-, in rally (F rallier), = re-, q.v.; it would be better to say that, in F, re-allier became rallier.

re-, back (to an original place or state), backwards, or merely connoting '(to hold oneself) back from advancing or from doing something definite', as in return or revert—recline—(third nuance) refrain. Re- comes, sometimes via F re- or ré-, from L re-, answering to no recorded adv or prep and akin to nothing more remote, whether in space or in time, than the syn Umbrian re-.

A spatial deviation—a very natural deviation—is that constituted by the connotation of 'such a movement in a contrary direction as destroys what has been done' (E & M), as in recluse, renounce, resign, reveal.

Deriving from the sense 'back in space or in time or in state' is that of 'again', as in recant, rejoin, renew, repeat.

The L variant red- may have been the orig form, but in Classical L appears only before a vowel, as in redarguere (E redargue), redimere (E redeem), redire (whence reditiō, whence the obs redition), redundāre (E redound).

rear-, as in rearguard, derives from AF rere-. See rere-.

red-, as in redaction and redeem. See re-, last para.

rere-, in rerebrace, rerecount, reredos, reressupper, rereward, is an AF form that more usu became rear-. Rere- existed in OF as a variant of riere, from L rētrō.

retro-, backwards, (hence, in E) back, comes from the L adv retrō, formed from re-, back, as intrō from in or as extrō from ex. Exx: retrograde, retrospect; (An) 'situated behind', as in retro-nasal, behind the nose.

rip-, as in rip-roaring, rip-roarious, rip-smorting, is an intensive in humorous, usu sl, words: cf ripping, very good. Clearly echoic in origin. Cf ker-.

s- (1), in spend, spite, stain, is a lopped form of L dis- (see 1st dis-); it occurs mostly in words that, like spite, splay, sport, stain, have come from or through F.

s- (2), in sample, derives from OF es-, from L ex-. Cf ex-.

s- (3), in sure, represents, ult, the L priv sē-. Therefore cf se- (1).

s- (4), in sombre; ult represents L sub-, q.v. below.

s- (5), an IE int, occ intrusive, and occurring esp in Gr but also in Gmc. Mentioned frequently in the Dict.

sans-, which is, in effect, the F prep sans, without, from L sine (cf sine- below), occurs only in such gallicisms as sans-culotte (and -culottism) and sans-gêne, casual behaviour, sans-serif and Sans Souci, Frederick the Great's palace at Potsdam.

satis-, as in satisfy and satispassion (a suffering that is theologically acceptable), = L satis, enough, akin to Go saths, Ir sathech, sated, OP satuinei, thou satest, Ionic Gr asaō, I sate. The IE r is prob sat-*.

sē- (1) or, before a vowel, sed-. This L prefix indicates separation, parting, privation, and it derives from a PL prep, meaning 'without'—superseceded by sine (cf sine- below). Sē-, sed- perhaps forms the origin of the L conj sed, but; certainly it is akin to Umbrian sei, to Arm k'ec, detached or separated, and Sl sveni, outside (prep). Exx: secede, to move away; secern, secret, secrete; secure, free from cura or anxiety; sedition (a going aside or away); seduce (to lead aside, hence astray); select (lit, to gather aside); separate (lit, to make ready—on the side, at a distance); obs sepose, to set aside or apart; and perhaps sober.

se- (2), in semester, is L sex, 6.

semi-, adopted from L sēmi-, half-, akin to Gr hēmi-, half (see hemi- above) and more obviously Skt sāmi, and OE sām-. Exx: semi-acid, semi-detached, semi-Gothic, semi-liquid; in AE, such words are written solid.

sin- is the form taken by L sēmi- in L sinciput, (lit) half a head, sense-adapted by An, with adj sincipital.

sine-, as notably in only one word, sinecure, from ML sine cūra, without cure—i.e., without cure (care) of souls. The L prep sine, without, occurs in several L phrases, e.g. sine qua non. Cf sans-.

so- (1), in sober (sobriety), is L sō-, variation of privative sē-: cf, therefore, se- above.

so- (2), in sojourn, comes, via OF, from L sub- (VL subdiurnāre*): cf sub- below.

sopr-, as in soprano, is short for It sopra-, from L sūprā- (q.v.).

sover-, in sovereign, comes from OF, where sover- derives from L super: cf super- below.

su-. See sub-, at end of 3rd para.

sub-, predominantly 'under' or, derivatively, 'less than, inferior to', is, in effect, the L sub, predominantly 'under' (opp super), hence 'in the vicinity of, or within reach of', hence 'very soon after'; nor is the connotation 'inferior (to)' absent in certain L words.

L sub is akin to Gr hupo, Skt ūpa, under, Arm hup, near, and to synn or near-synn in OGmc and OC. The s- may represent a much-worn-down form of ex, for the basic sense was app 'from under' or 'from under up to'. (See esp E & M, OED, Webster.)

Whereas all modern E words not of L origin—

E words after (say) the late C18—are coined with prefix sub-, words coming direct, or as if direct, from L preserve the L assimilations: suc- before c, as in succeed; suf- before f, as in suffer; sug- before g, as in suggest; sup- before p, as in supply; before m, sub- usu becomes sum-, as in summon, and before r, sub- usu becomes sur-, as in surreptitious; moreover, 'before c, p, and t it sometimes takes the form sub- by the dropping of b from a collateral form, subs-' (Webster)—cf abs (beside ab). Exx include susceptible, suspire, sustain. In sudden and suspect, the prefix has been worn down to su-.

The chief senses of E sub- words are:

'under', as in submarine, subterranean; 'down', as in submerge; 'in an inferior degree or state'—'somewhat' or 'slightly'—'subnormally' or 'almost' as in subacid; 'next lower than'—'subordinate or inferior to', as in sublieutenant (cf subaltern) and sub-species; 'repetition' or 'division', as in sub-classify, subdivision, sub-science; 'immediately after', as in subapostolic.

Note also the following specialties:

An, Bot, Zoo: 'situated under', as in subcutaneous;

Chem: 'with only small quantities or proportion of the constituent named', as in suboxide;

Geo, Geol: 'near (the base of); bordering or verging upon', as in subalpine, subarctic;

Med: 'less than usually', as in subacute.

subter-, below or beneath, as in subterfuge, subter(-)surface, (hence) less than, as in subter(-)human, is the L adv and prep subter, under, beneath; as inter from in, so subter from sub (see sub-), of which it was orig the comp.

suc-. See sub-, 3rd para.

suf-. See sub-, 3rd para.

sug-. See sub-, 3rd para.

sum-. See sub-, 3rd para.

sup-. See sub-, 3rd para.

super- derives from the L adv, prep, preverb super, which, akin to Gr huper (q.v.), is opp sub, under, but also very intimately related to it: cf the 2nd para of sub- and note E & M's verdict, 'The sub, super group is manifestly related to Skt ūpa and ūpari, Go uf and ufar, etc.' The predominant senses of L super are 'on, above, over (the top of)', hence 'beyond, more than'. Exx: (physical situation) superintend, supersoil (opp subsoil), superstructure; (degree, class) supernatural, superman; (excess) super-refined, perhaps supererogation; (later) superannuate. The orig sense tends to be obscured in such words as supercilious, superficies, superfluous, superlative, supersede, superstition, supervene. In certain words that reach us via F, super- has become sur-, as in surcharge, surface, surfeit, survive.

supra-, above, higher than, (in An) on the dorsal side of, represents the L adv and prep suprā, orig the f abl superā (hence suprā) of an adj super*, supērus, (in physical position) superior. Suprā has the same meanings as the L adv and prep super (q.v. at super- above) and is opp infrā (q.v. at infra-). For the form, cf L infrā and intrā; for the anterior etymology, cf sub (q.v. at sub-). English exx: supracaudal (above the tail), supranasal, supranormal, supravital.

sur- (1). See sub-, 3rd para.

sur- (2). See super-, last sentence.

sus-. See sub-, 3rd para.

sy-, as in system and systole, is a shortened form of E syn-, as the Gr orig su- is of sun-.

syl-. The assimilated form taken by syn- before l, as in syllable, syllapsis, sylogism. Cf:

sym-. The assimilated form of syn- before b, m, p, as in symbiosis, symmetry, sympathy.

syn-: syl- before l, sym- before b, m, p. In E words, it means '(along or together) with', whether spatially or temporally, as in synagogue and synthesis; occ there is a connotation of association or concurrence, as in synergism, synonym, syntax. Syn- represents the L form of Gr sun-, the c/f of the prep sun, (along) with, in space or in time, i.e. together or simultaneously. The Gr sun was orig xun. Existing in PGr xun (with variant xu), it has no 'assured cognates outside Greek', as Boisacq remarks; he does, however, compare OSI sū, with, and, reservedly, Lit sū, with. And is not xun or sun akin to L cum, with? The IE root accounting for xun, sun, cum would prob be either ksun*, perh with variant ksum*, or kum*, perh with variant kun*; the ks-, k- forms being alternatives.

t- (1), in tautology, represents to, neu s of the Gr definite article 'the'. (Skeat.)

t- (2), in tawdry, is the final letter of saint; (Sain)t Awdry has become tawdry. (Skeat.)

t- (3), in twit, is aphetic for ME at-, from OE aet-: OE aetwitan yields twit. (Skeat.)

ter-, thrice or threefold, as in tercentenary, is merely the L adv ter, thrice. Cf tri- below and see THREE.

through-, in thoroughfare, is simply a variant of prep THROUGH; in thorough-going, of the adj through.

to- (1), an intensive, connoting 'asunder, (all) to pieces', as in all to-brake (Judges, ix, 53) and to-break, or 'away', as in to-go, or 'completely, entirely, (or no more than) severely', as in to-beat, occurs only in a few archaic and dial words. It derives from OE to-, asunder, and is therefore akin to OFris to-, te-, ti- and OS te- or ti-, OHG zar- or zer-, Go dis-, L dis-; notably cf two.

to- (2), in today, tomorrow, tonight, derives from OE tō-, c/f of the prep to, q.v. in Dict.

tra-; tran-. See:

trans-; before a word beginning in s, it usu drops the s, as in transcend, transcribe and transude, to 'sweat' through (F trassuder; -suder from L sudāre); in a few other words, trans- softens to tra- (L trā-), as in tradition, traduce, trajectory, the obs tration (a metaphor), the obs tralucent (displaced by translucent), the v and n traverse (cf the adj transverse).

The chief senses of trans- in E words are: '(over) across', hence 'beyond', 'on the other side of'; as in transalpine; transmit and transfer, where the connotation of 'exchange' occurs; translate.

The L trans is akin to W tra, beyond, and perhaps to Skt tirāh, Av tarō, across, beyond, Skt tārati, he crosses, traverses, and to the second part of L intrāre; almost certainly to OE thurh, through (cf, therefore, THROUGH).

tre- (1), in treason, is a shape taken in ME (and continued in EE-E) by OF-from-L tra-, q.v. at trans-.

tre- (2), in treble, represents L tri-, thrice (cf tri- below), akin to tres, three. With treble cf triple.

tres- is a form occ taken in OF by trans; as in the E trespass.

tri-, having or divided into three parts, occurring thrice or in three ways, as in tricycle, trifarious (cf multifarious), trigonometry, tripod, trisect, triennial. It comes either from L tri- or from Gr tri-, often through F tri-, and is therefore akin to E THREE, L tres, three, Skt tris, thrice.

tris-: Gr tris-, c/f of tris, thrice, from treis, three. Ex: Trisagion, the hymn known as 'The Thrice Holy' (Gr hagios, holy). The rare var triakis, from Gr triakis, thrice, occurs in Geom terms.

twi-, 'two-' or 'twice', 'double' or 'doubly'—as in twibill, twi-faced, twilight, has descended from OE twi-, akin to OFris and OLG twi-, OHG zwi-, ON twi-, and to Skt dvi-: cf, therefore, (twice at) TWO.

u-. See UTOPIA.

ultra-, beyond, as in ultramarine, ultramundane—on the other side (ultramontane)—transcending (ultramicroscopic)—hence, beyond the usual or the normal, i.e. excessively, as in ultramodern, is, in effect, the L prefix ultra-, from the adv and prep ultrā, beyond, on the other side (of), further than—opp citrā. Now, ultrā was orig the f abl of an adj ultra*, being or lying beyond (cf citer, q.v. at citra- above); itself from the PL prep uls, beyond, opp cis (see cis- above).

um-, in umpire (for numpire), derives from F non, not (cf non-). Therefore cf n- (2).

umbe-, archaic for 'about' or 'around', as in umbeicast and umbethink, comes from OE ymb (influenced by ON umb), akin to OFris umb or umbe, OHG and OS umbi (Mod um) and L ambi, on both sides (of): cf ambi-, q.v.

umu-. In Bantu, it indicates 'human being'. Cf M- above.

un- (1), before adj and adv, occ before nn, means 'not', as in unable, unruly, uncomfortably, unbelief, and is usu neutral (merely 'not') rather than 'contrary', as in unmoral opp immoral. It occurs more often with stems of Gmc origin than with those of Gr or L origin.

This un- descends unchanged from the OE un-, which is akin to OFris, OHG (and G), OS un-, ON ū- or ō-—to OIr an- (or in-), Ga, W, Cor, Br an-; to L in-; to Gr an- (before vowels); to Skt an- (or a-). Cf, therefore, a- (1) and in- (2) above.

un- (2), before a v and occ before a pa therefrom, connotes 'reversal' or 'the contrary', as in unbend, untie, undone; often it goes with nn to form vv connoting either the deprivation of the thing designated by the n, as in unman and unyoke, or the removal of someone, something, from the thing designated by the n, as in unearth; sometimes un- merely intensifies, as in unloose.

This un-, ME un-, descends from OE un- or on-, akin to the and- of, e.g., andswerian (EE-E answer), lit 'to swear against'—to Go and—and to Gr anti, against: cf, therefore, anti- above.

un- (3), in until and unto. Until is 'a substituted form of unto' (Skeat): and unto=undto, where -to is the prep to and und- is akin to, prob adopted from, OFris und, unto, akin to OS und, unto.

un- (4). See uni- in the Elements list.

ut-, in utmost, answers to the adv out, q.v. in the Dict.

utter- (1), in utmost, answers to outer, q.v. at out in Dict.

utter (2), in utterance, is a distortion of the outr- (cf outr- above) shortened to outr- in F outrance, which, though a gallicism, occurs in E.

v-, in van (of an army) and vanguard, stands ult for L ab-, q.v. at a- (3).

ve-, as prob in vestibule and perh in vestige, resp from (L uestibulum) ML vestibulum and from (L uestigium) ML vestigium, means—perh it only appears to mean—apart (from); ue-, ML ve-, might therefore be akin to se-, q.v. above.

Wa-. See M-.

wan-, no longer an active prefix, occurs notably in wanton and in such archaisms as wanchance, wangrace, wanhope, and in such Scotticisms as wanhap, wanrest, wanruly, wanthrif, wanworth. This privative, connoting 'lack of, lacking', or 'deficiency of, deficient in', comes from OE wan- (variant won-), akin to OHG wan- or wana-, ON vanr, Skt ūna, lacking, and Go wans, Gr eunis (stem eun-), bereaved: cf, therefore, wane.

wel-, in welcome and welfare, is merely the survival of the OE form of the adv well.

[wh- is not a prefix: where it does not stand for the mod form of OE hw-, as in who for OE hwā, it commonly indicates an echoic word, as whack, wham, whang, whap or whop.]

with-, as in withdraw and withhold, bearing the sense 'back' or 'away', and as in withstand (and withstay) and withsay, sense 'against', is merely a c/f of the prep with, q.v.

y- or l-, from ME y- or i-, from OE ge-, akin to Go ga- and OHG gi- or ga-, has either a vague, yet strong, associative connotation, as in y-fere, in company, together, y-lome, continually, or a perfective connotation, as in y-clept, y-dought (thriving), y-wrought, and other pp archaisms of Edmund Spenser and his disciples; cf the intensive connotation of y-leave (OE gelāefan), to leave utterly, to abandon.

za-, 'very': Aeolic Gr form of dia- used intensively; in E, it occurs only in Zoo, e.g. in Zalambdodonta: za-, very + lambda, as Λ , capital of Gr λ + -odonta, pl of -odon, tooth: insectivores having molars with V crowns—V being, roughly, Λ upside down.

ADDENDUM

tele- (or, before a vowel, tel-) as in telegraph, telepathy, telescope, television (all recorded on p. 699), means 'operating at or from a distance', represents Gr tēle- or tēl-, from the adv tēle, far off, far away, from afar, and is akin to Gr telos, end: see, therefore, the element telo-.

A LIST OF SUFFIXES

SUFFIXES that, like -craft (handicraft) and -fold (manifold), are in fact ordinary words forming what were originally compounds and are therefore proper words (craft, fold) have been omitted. But such borderline cases as -dom (cf DOOM) are noted here: their inclusion is demanded by common sense.

For the sake of convenience the two most important connective elements -i- and -o-, as in curv-i-form and the-o-logy, are included.

-a (1), disguised interjection of extremely vague expletive or intensive force, as in Shakespeare's 'A merry heart goes all the day, Your sad tires in a mile-a' (Webster). Cf the -o in all-aliv(e)o: see -o, disguised interjection.

-a (2), illiterate for of, as in 'A coupla days' or 'kinda cute', mostly American, and as in cuppa, elliptical for 'cup of tea', orig Australian.

-a (3), a jocular convention for representing, often quite inaccurately, the speech of an uneducated Italian speaking English. Such an Italian does tend to say 'You likea drinka?'

-a (4), indicating the adoption of a L f singular n, as in Minerva and formula, or of a Gr f sing n, as in Ida (Mount) and idea.

-a (5), indicating a R f sing, as in stanza (It) and sierra (Sp).

-a (6), in f personal names, as Anna, Augusta, Clara, Rosa, Tessa.

-a (7), in names of continents, as Africa, America, Asia, Australia, Antarctica. Cf -ia below.

-a (8), in pl nn of Gr and L origin, whether from a neu n or from a neu adj used as a n: as in Gr automata and phenomena; or in L impedimenta or realia (in L an adj used as a n).

-a (9), in L m nn, connoting agent and corresp to Gr -ēs, as in Agricola.

-ability. See -bility.

-able. See 1st -ble.

-ac, adj—hence in nn. Sometimes direct from Gr -akos, more often via L -acus, occ via F -aque (usu from L); quite often the L adj has merely been formed anl with Gr. Exx: demoniac, from LL daemoniacus; elegiac, from LL elegiacus, from Gr elegeiakos; hypochondriac, F hypochondriaque, ML hypochondriacus, Gr hupokhondriakos; iliac, (? via F iliaque) from L iliacus; maniac, from ML maniacus; Syriac, L Syriakos, Gr Suriakos.

It is, however, permissible and philologically more sensible to regard all such words as words bearing suffix -iac, not -ac, for the stems are respectively demon- (LL daemon-), eleg-, hypo- chond(r)- (Gr hupokhond(r)-), il-, man-, Syr- (Gr Sur-): it is the combining-forms, not the stems, which end in i, thus demoni- (LL daemoni-), elegi- (Gr elegei-), hypochondri- (Gr hupokhondri-), ili-, mani-, Syri-. With maniac, orig an adj only, cf manic, adj only, which derives from Gr manikos. (There is no such Gr word as maniakos until we reach modern times.)

Note that, as with -ic (q.v. below), the suffix -al is often added, as in demoniacal, hypochondriacal, maniacal.

-acal is simply -ac with -al (q.v.) added, as in maniacal, demoniacal, hypochondriacal, for all of which the shorter form has, since the late C19, been the more usual.

-ace, from L nouns in -atiō, -ātium, -ācea, -ācem (acc of -āx), -ācia; often through OF -ais or -aise or -ace, occ -asse. Exx: furnace, from OF fofnais(e), L fofnāx; menace, adopted from OF, from L minācia; palace, OF palais, L palātium; pinnacle, F pinasse or pinace, It pinaccia (suffix -accia), VL pinācea*; populace, adopted from F, from It popolaccio (suffix -accio); preface, adopted from OF, from L praefātiō; space, OF espace, L spātium; terrace, adopted from OF, from VL terrācea*.

-acea, as in Crustacea (cf crustacean at -acean below), is the neupl of L -āceus; it occurs in names of Zoo orders and classes. Therefore cf the prec entry. Cf also -ace and:

-aceae, as in Rosaceae (cf rosaceous), is the pl of L -āceus; it means 'of the (e.g. rose) kind' or 'of the nature of' (e.g., the rose). Cf prec.

-acean, as in crustacean and rosacean, is the adj answering to nn in -ācea, -āceae resp. Therefore it should be related to -an, and to -n for -an. Cf:

-aceous is the predominant E 'answer' to L -āceus, connoting either 'belonging to' or 'of the nature of', hence 'resembling'; as in cretaceous, farinaceous, herbaceous, rosaceous, saponaceous. Cf prec.

-acious answers to L -āx, gen -ācis, as in tendx gen tenācis, o/s tenāc-. In E, -ious (q.v. below) has been added to the o/s; thus fallacious, sagacious, tenacious, veracious, etc. Cf:

-acity indicates quality, as in tenacity and veracity, and derives, usu via F -acité, from L -ācītās or rather, if via F, from the acc -ācītātem, as most philologists hold, although possibly from the o/s -ācītāt-: perh F ténacit   and certainly v  racit  : L ten  c  t  s, o/s ten  c  t  t-, acc ten  c  t  tem, and ML ver  c  t  s, ver  c  t  t-, ver  c  t  tem. Therefore -acity is the n suffix corresponding to the adj suffix -acious.

-acle, n; -acular, adj; -aculum, n—this L form or, rather, original being often retained in E, though usu with a specialized sense, alongside the E derivative form -acle; the adj, usu answering to no such adj in L, have been formed on the analogy of such words as regular and, later, molecular (cf -ular below). The resemblance of L -aculum to the L dim -ulum is superficial and accidental. Exx:

receptacle, from L recept  culum (also in E); no adj.

spectacle, adopted from OF, from L spectaculum; adj spectacular.

spiracle, from L spir  culum (also in E); adj spiracular.

tentacle, from ML tent  culum (also in E); adj tentacular.

All the L nouns, it will be noticed, derive from the inf s of first-conjugational vv: recept(  re)—spect(  re)—spir(  re)—tent(  re). The suffix therefore connotes either 'that which does' (whatever the action or process of the v may be), as in receptacle and tentacle, or 'that which receives' (the action or process), as in spectacle and spiracle.

-acy has been so neatly summarized by Webster that it were fatuous to refrain from the flattery of quotation: '... denoting quality, state, office, etc. It is derived from various sources, esp from Latin -acia (cf -acious, -y), as in efficacy; or after Latin -atia corresponding to nouns in -atus (cf French -atie...), as in primacy; or from Greek -ateia, as in piracy; or after analogous English nouns, and even adjectives, in -ate, as in accuracy, privacy.' Cf -cy.

-ad (1), adv, signifies 'towards, in the direction of', as in dorsad, towards the back (L dorsum), and ventrad, towards the ventral (or belly, L acc uentrem, ML ventrem) side, and represents the L prep ad, towards: cf L ad dorsum, ad uentrem.

-ad (2), n, derives from Gr -ad- (gen -ados, from nom -as), often through L -ad- (gen -adis, nom -as), and bears at least three different meanings:

(a) An aggregate of (so many) parts, as in monad, LL monas, o/s monad- (gen monadis), Gr monas, gen monados, from monos, alone (cf mono- in Combining Elements list), and in myriad, via LL myrias, o/s myriad- (gen myriadis), from Gr myrias, o/s myriad-, gen muriados; also in, e.g., chiliad, decad (better known in the F form decade), dyad, hebdomad, pentad, tetrad, triad. In Chem, -ad indicates valence, as in monad, pentad, etc.

(b) A f patronymic, as in dryad, a nymph born of and intimately associated with a tree, from L dryad-, o/s of dryas, from Gr druas, o/s druad- and in naiad, a nymph born of and associated with water, L naiad-, o/s of naias, adopted from Gr. In Bot, -ad indicates the member of a group, as in cycad (from Gr kukas).

(c) In epic or burlesque epic poems, it refers to the titular subject, as in Iliad, the story of Iliion (Troy), and Columbiad (Columbia, the U.S.A.) or analogously to the titular 'hero', as in Adoniad (Adonis) and Dunziad (the generic dunce). Cf, therefore, the -id of Aeneid and Thebaid.

-ad (3). See the 2nd -ade, para (b).

-ada, as in armada (see ARMS, para 5), comes from Sp; f, it corresponds to m -ado.

-ade (1). See the 2nd -ad, para (a).

-ade (2) comes from F -ade, itself either from Prov or Sp or Port -ada or from It -ata, both -ada and -ata deriving from LL -  ta. The three chief significations are:

(a) Act, action, as in cannonade, from F canonade, from It cannonata, itself an -ata formation from It (from L) canna, a cane or reed.

(b) Result, consequence, product of an action, hence a thing made by a certain process. Occ spelt -ad. Exx: arcade, F from Prov arcada, from VL arca*, arch; orangeade, on analogy of lemonade (F limonade); ballad, OF balade, Prov balada from balar, from LL ball  re, to dance; salad, OF salade, Prov salada from salar, to salt, from L sal, salt.

(c) A person, a group, engaging in an activity, as in cavalcade, adopted from F, which adapted it from It cavalcata (L caballus, a nag).

-ado, in words adopted or adapted from Sp or rarely from Port, corresponds to F -ade (q.v. at the 2nd -ade) and derives from L -  tus (n): bastinado, from Sp bastonada; bravado, for Sp bravada; desperado, adopted from Old Sp; renegado (superseded by its derivative renegade), adopted from Sp; tornado, adopted from Sp.

-ae is a L fpl, preserved only in erudite words, esp in Sci: for instance, formulae and algae.

-age either derives from, or is formed anl with other words derived from, OF-F -age, itself usu straight from, but occ anl with other F nn from, LL -aticum, which would seem to be a cpd suffix: -at-+icum, n from neu of adj -icus (cf -ic below). The chief senses of the numerous words in -age, of which more than a few are hybrids, may, provided that we do not insist on the distinctions, be summarized thus:

(a) Collective or quasi-collective, as in luggage and baggage; foliage and herbage and pasturage; mileage and acreage; cordage and plumage; average and assemblage; tonnage; cellarage (passive; 'charge' sense belongs to (f) below); peerage.

(b) Place of action or abode, as in passage and anchorage; parsonage, orphanage, hermitage. Cf:

(c) Agent: hostage and savage.

(d) Act or process: marriage; carnage, outrage, pillage, plunderage, ravage; pilgrimage (linking with (a) above), passage (in its active sense); salvage, tillage.

(e) Result of action or process: cleavage, stoppage; wastage; breakage and damage; shrinkage; message and voyage; heritage and mortgage; ensilage and vintage; mirage and visage; badinage and persiflage and language; coinage and advantage.

(f) Cost of action, fee or charge for a specific service: cartage, carriage, freightage, portorage; poundage and postage; brokerage and demurrage; pilotage; towage and wharfage; scutage and tallage.

(g) Miscellaneously abstract, esp in nn adopted or adapted from F: courage and umbrage; bondage, vassalage, pupilage; espionage and brigandage; dotage and homage; verbiage. Several of these might go into groups (d) and (e).

-ago occurs only in a very few words adopted from L—e.g., lumbago, plantago, plumbago, virago—and it bears, often in L and occ in E, an unfavourable connotation; but L -āgō sometimes appears to connote 'a kind of' or 'a species of', as in the 2nd and 3rd examples.

-al is a Gr fpl, usu found in E in the L transliteration -ae: cf hetairai, usu in the L form hetaerae, courtesans.

-ails. See -als.

-ain is the Gallic shape of L -ānus (cf -an below), orig adj, hence often n, as in certain; captain (ME capitain, OF capitaine); chieftain; villain.

-air, -aire, as in corsair, doctrinaire, millionaire, derives from F -aire, itself from L -ārius, denoting either an agent or, at the least, a person. Cf -ar, -ary, -eer, below.

-al, adj, comes from L -ālis, belonging or appropriate to, resembling, the n implied in the adj. The E adj comes either directly from L or through F -al (occ -el); also it may occur in native formations anl with other adj in -al. Direct: normal, L normālis, and regal, L regālis; from F, as in mural, F murāl, L murālis, in royal, adopted from F, from L regālis, and as in mutual, F mutuel, but L mutuus; native formation: oral, spoken, from or-, o/s of L ōs (gen oris), the mouth. This suffix is often added to adj in -ic, usu with a slight consequent change of sense, as in politic—political.

-al, n (1). A suffix occurring in nn orig adj, as oval, n from adj from F oval (f ovale) from ov-, stem of ML ovum, L ouum, egg.

-al, n (2). This -al, which serves to form nn of action from vv, comes either from intermediary F -aille (occ -al) or direct from the L -ālia, being the neupl of adj -ālis (cf, therefore, -al, adj) but often used as a pl n—a pl n that occ became apprehended as a f sing. Exx: acquittal, perh from E 'to acquit' but perh from OF aquital (cf F acquitter); arrival, AF arrivaille—cf OF arival, bank of stream (therefore see ARRIVE); battle, ME batail, OF bataille, L battālia.

-al, n (3), as in portal, adopted from OF (cf F portail) from ML portāle, strictly neu adj (of portālis*) from porta, gate. Here, then, the L adj used as n is sing, not pl; contrast -al, n (2).

-al, n (4), in several animal-names, e.g. caracal and jackal, is of Tu origin; in caracal certainly, in jackal perh, it means 'ear'. In serval, from Port, it represents L -ālis: cf, therefore, -al, adj.

-alia comes straight from L, where it represents a neupl, usu of an adj in -ālis; thus regalia, from L regālis, and the Phil realia, realities (lit, real things), from ML reālis, from rēs (s rē-), a thing.

-ality is a cpd suffix: -al, adj+-ity, n (q.v. below). It comes either through F -alité or direct from L -alītās, o/s -alītāt-; occ it occurs first in E—but anl with other -ity words.

-als, var -ails, is simply the pl of -al, n (2). Exx: entrails, OF entrailles, LL intrālia; virtuals, ME vitaille, OF vitaille, ML vičiūālis (LL uictualia), on which the modern spelling has been refashioned—cf vitals, pl of vital adj used as n, from OF vital, from ML vitālis, L uitālis.

-ama: Gr -ama, occ via L: conn, '(a thing) heard or seen or whatever else the implied v denotes'. Thus, acroama, via L from Gr akroama (s akro-), from akroasthai (s akro-), to hear; cyclorama, panorama, etc., the 2nd element being horama, a thing seen—hor-+ama. The corresponding adj suffix is -atic, from Gr -atikos; as in acroamatic, from Gr akroamatikos.

-an (1), adj—hence an, n—derives from L -ānus, either directly or through F -ain, occ its variant -en; or it is analogously formed first in E. The predominant sense is 'belonging to', hence often 'characteristic of'. Exx: human, OF humain, L humānus; silvan, late OF silvain, from ML silva (L silua), a forest. In Zoo, -an frequently serves as the sing of pl group-names in -a, -ae, etc., as Crustacea (n), pl Crustacea. Cf -ana below.

-an (2), n. In Chem it indicates certain substances, e.g. pentosan and tolan. This -an derives from -an (1), q.v.

-ana, as in Americana, pieces of information about America, or Meredithiana (with connective -i), gossip about Meredith, is simply the L npl, used as n, of adj -ānus. Hence ana used independently, as in 'The ana concerning Whitman are almost as numerous as the ana of Dr Johnson (Johnsoniana)'. The L orig of both -ana and ana rests in such a phrase as ML dicta Vergiliāna, the sayings of Vergilius (Virgil). Cf ANA.

-ance, -ancy; -ence, -ency. Note, first, that the comparatively modern -ancy, -ency (formed perh anl with -cy, q.v. below) indicate state or condition, quality or degree, as the originals do in L; secondly, that mod E formations in -ance and -ence, e.g. continuance, forbearance, riddance, and emergence, connote action or an act, a process, function, as do such adoptions (e.g., assistance, parlance) from OF as have been formed from the F presp in -ant but anl with the next group; thirdly, that this next group consists of OF nn deriving from L nn in -antia (VL, occ ML, -ancia), -entia (VL-ML -encia), abstracts built upon the L presp c/ff -ant- and -ent-, E exx being elegance and endurance; fourthly, that the OF and F action-nn and process-nn in -ance (as at 'secondly' above) may represent either L -antia or L -entia, but that in some E words in -ance deriving from OF -ance from L

-entia, the L e has been restored, with the result that we find such inconsistencies as 'resistance', OF resistence (Mod résistance), LL resistentia, but 'subsistence', LL subsistentia; 'attendance', OF atendance, from OF attendre, from L attendere, but 'superintendence', ML superintendentia.

Most of these words are ult of L origin or have been formed as if from L; most -ence words are imm of F origin or, at the least, formation.

Cf -ant and -ent.

-and (1); -end (1). Most nn that, of more than one syllable, end in -and, -end, derive from the L gerundives in -and-, -end-, i.e. from one of the nom sing forms: -andus, -anda, -andum, or -endus, -enda, -endum, resp m, f, neu; or from one of the pl forms: -andi, -andae, -anda, or -endi, -endae, -enda: resp m, f, neu. Exx:

deodand, ML deodandum (neu sing), lit something dandum, to be given, Deo, to God; multiplicand, L (numerus) multiplicandus (m sing), (number) to be multiplied; dividend, (via EF-F dividende from) ML dividendum, L diuidendum (neu sing), lit something to be divided; reverend, ML reverendus, L reuerendus (m sing), to be revered, hence used as n.

Less regular are:

lavender, from ML lavanda, L lauanda (f sing)—this intrusive r occurs also in provender; viand(s), ML vivenda, L uiuenda (neupl).

Cf -andum (-endum) below.

-and (2); -end (2); often shortened to -nd. In errand, fiend, friend, husband, wind, and a few other native words, -(a)nd and -(e)nde and -inde represent the old suffix of the presp, -and being Scots and N, -ende being Midland, -inde Southern, and are to be compared with L -ant(em) and -ent(em). Errand, for example, derives from OE ǣrende, lit 'a sending', a message; and fiend from OE fēond, orig presp of fēon, to hate. See also -nd.

-and (3). See -ant, n.

-andum, -endum. The L neu sing form adopted by E and comparable to -and (1), -end (1) above. Thus: memorandum, pl memoranda, and notandum, pl notanda; addendum, pl addenda, and corrigendum, pl corrigenda.

-ane (1), adj, as in mundane (via F, from L mundānus), is a rare variant of -an, 1 (q.v. above); it therefore means 'belonging to, (hence) characteristic of'. In humane we have a doublet of human, a doublet arising perh because the latter reaches E through OF-F humain, the former direct from L humānus, but perh because, in early Mod E, such words were written indifferently -an or -ane.

-ane (2), n, is a Chem suffix, as in octane. (Contrast the rare Med adj octan, occurring on the eighth day.) This -ane, arbitrarily formed, parallels Chem -ene, -ine, -one.

-ane (3), n, is a variant of, and regarded as less correct than, -an (2), n, q.v. above.

-aneity. See next, s.f.

-aneous, in contemporaneous, instantaneous, momentaneous, simultaneous, answers to a little-used L adj suffix -āneus, as in contemporāneus and LL mōmentāneus (stems contempor-, moment-) whence the E words; simultaneous imitates momentaneous, as app instantaneous also does. The F form is -ané, as in instantané, momentané, simultané. The rare abstract-n suffix -aneity, as in instantaneity, may have been influenced by the F -anéité, as in instantanéité; cf -eity below.

-ant (1) and -ent, adj, answer to -ance and -ence, qq.v. at -ance above; nn in -ant, -ent, either derive straight from adj or have been formed anl with other adj in -ant, -ent.—Cf the adj and nn in -ient, -ience.

Whereas E -ent must come either direct from -ent, the c/f of the L presp -ens (whether 2nd or 3rd conjugation), as in regent, or through F -ent, or have been formed anl with L -ent, the E -ant comes, whether through F or direct, from L -ant, as in clamant (direct) or claimant (via F), or has been formed anl with L -ant-, c/f of presp -ans (1st conjunction)—or, in the ME period, from OF -ant representing not L -ant but L ent, for, in OF, -ant stood for either L -ant- or L -ent-. In CC16-17, F restored the -e- where the L had -ent-. Hence such confusions as pendant, pendent—ascendant, ascendent—assistant but persistent. The practice of reserving -ant for nn, -ent for adj, is modern.

The nn in -ant (or -ent) connote agency or instrumentality, as in defendant, inhabitant, supplier, errant; agent, regent, student, torrent.

-ant (2), n through OF-F from L from Gr, as in adamant, elephant, sycophant, derives from the Gr o/s: thus, adamant, OF adamant, L adamant- (nom adamas, gen adamantis), Gr adamant- (nom adamas, gen adamantos); elephant, via OF from Gr elephant- (nom elephas, gen elephantos); sycophant, L sycophanta, Gr sukophantēs (o/s sukophant-); cf gigantic and giant, from Gr gigas, o/s gigant-.

-ar (1), adj, as in consular and regular, connotes 'belonging to or characteristic of' and comes either direct from L -āris (cf -ālis, exemplified at -al, adj) or through ME -er from OF -er or -ier. Exx: consular, from L consulāris (consul+-āris); insular, from L insulāris (insul(a)+(-ā)ris); popular, from L populāris (popul(us)+-āris); regular, ME reguler, OF reguler, L regulāris.

-ar (2), adj, now only in dial words, comp -er, as in hear for higher. (Webster.)

-ar (3), n, a rare variant of agential -er or -or, qq.v, occurs in such words as beggar (cf 'a noted question-begger'), from ME begger or beggar, from MF-F begard (perhaps cf -ard); liar, ME liere; pedlar (and peddler), ME pedlere.

-ar (4), n, as in bursar and justiciar, derives from L -ārius (m) or -ārium (neu), either direct as in bursar, from ML bursārius, from bursa, a purse, or in justiciar, ML justiciārius, from L iustitia, justice, or through F -ier, usu via VL -erius for L -ārius, as in mortar, from ME mortier (from OE mortere from L mortārium) influenced by OF mortier, or in Templar, ME templere, OF templier, ML templarius, or in vicar, ME viker or vicair, from OF vicaire, from ML vicarius (L uicarius).

Cf -ary for the corresponding adj; cf also agential -er.

-ard, -art, as in braggart, coward, drunkard, is, except in Proper Names, unfavourable, connoting either excess or discredit or both. It comes from OF or MF (occ EF), which took it from OHG or MHG -hart, akin to the E adj HARD, q.v. Exx: braggart, EF bragard (cf BRAG)—coward, OF coward—drunkard, from E adj drunk+-ard—dullard, similarly formed—Leonard, adopted from OF, from G Leonhard (lion-hard, i.e. lion-brave)—niggard from ME nig, a niggard, with depreciatory -ard for good measure—Richard, from OF (of OHG origin)—slugard, consisting of slug, n+euphonic -g+-ard.

In Spaniard (cf Lombard and Savoyard) the -ard was prob depreciatory at first, as indeed it may have been in such bird-names as bustard, canard, haggard, mallard. In such thing-names as billiards, mustard, petard, placard, poniard, standard, tankard, the etym sense 'hard' survives; perh also in the mod blizzard.

-aria, a ScIL plural suffix adopted from L -aria, neupl of adj in -arius, is used in Bot and Zoo for 'group' names, as e.g. in Utricularia and Madreporaria.

-arian, adj, answers to nn ending in -aria or in -ary: Thus: madreporarian and dromedarian; cf such analogous formations as utilitarian, consisting of utilit(y)+-arian, and agrarian, from L agrarius (agr-, c/f of ager, a field+-arius). It is a compound of ari-, for -ari(a) or -ary, +adj -an.

-arian, n, either comes from L -ariānus or has been formed analogously with such derivatives: and, as -ariānus combines -ari- and -ānus, so the analogously formed E words attach -arian to the E stem. Exx: antiquarian, n from adj antiquarian, itself either from antiquary (L antiquarius) by adding -an to antiquari- (for antiquary) or, although prompted by antiquary, from s antiqu+-arian; grammarian, OF gramarien (later grammairien) from gramaire; librarian, formed similarly (cf the L librarius, adj henc n: therefore librarian prob=librari+an); latitudinarian, combining latitudin- (c/f of L latitūdō)+-arian; in octogenarian, -arian supersedes the -arius (properly yielding -ary, as in the obs octogenary); vegetarian combines the veget- of 'vegetables' with -arian.

-arious, as in gregarious and precarious, either answers directly to the L adj suffix -arius, as I tend to believe, or compounds the -ari- of (L -arius and) E -arian, E -ary, with E -ous; cf -ary (adj), q.v. below; although E -ary answers to F -aire or to its L orig -arius, E -arious certainly does not answer to F -aire: but that modification could work in either direction. Exx: gregarious, from L gregarius, greg- (o/s of grex, a herd or flock)+-arius; precarious, L precarius, prec- (o/s of prex, prayer)+-arius. But in bifarious and multifarious, -furious is an indivisible element, q.v. in the list of compound-forming elements; and in nefarious, nefar- is an o/s—of different origin.

-arity answers to adj -ar, as in insularity—insular, regularity—regular, vulgarity—vulgar, and is therefore a cpd suffix, -ar, adj+-ity, abstract n, corresponding to though seldom formed from L -arītāt-, o/s of -arītās, consisting of -ar(i)+-itās. Exx: insularity=insular (insul+-ar)+-ity; regularity=F régularité, formed, analogously with other F nn in -arité, from L regulāris; vulgarity, from vulgāritāt-, o/s of ML vulgāritās, L uulgāritās (uulg+-ar(i)+-itās). Cf -ari- in the entries at -arian and -arious, and likewise the important -ity below.

-arium, as in aquarium, honorarium, vivarium, indicates either '(a thing) belonging to or, at the least, connected with' or 'a place for' the n or v implied by the s of the word; it occurs in words adopted or, at most, adapted from L. Thus: honorarium, elliptical already in L for honorarium donum, therefore strictly the neus of the adj honorarius, the true E derivative being honorary; vivarium, ML form of the neus of uiuarius, concerned with living, or belonging to living creatures—cf aquarium, properly the neus of aquarius, watery. Cf, therefore, the next entry and also -orium.

-arius occurs only in words adopted from L, as Aquarius, that constellation which is represented by a man emptying a vase of aqua or water. Cf -aria, -arian, -arious, -arium above.

-art. See -ard.

-ary (1), adj, is a variant of -ar (1), for it derives, or has been formed and with derivations, from L -aris and therefore indicates 'belonging to, or characteristic of', as in exemplary, from L exemplāris, consisting of exempl(um)+-aris, and in military, from F militaire, from L militāris, consisting of milit-, o/s of miles, a soldier+-aris.

-ary (2), adj, from L -arius (m) or -aria (f) or -arium (neu), either direct, as in mercenary from mercenarius, or via OF -ier (as in pannier) or Mod F -aire (as in sedentary). General sense: as for -ary (1). Cf:

-ary (3), n, connotes 'person belonging to, or working at or in', as actuary, from L actuarius, and notary, from L notarius, or (cf -arium) 'thing belonging to, esp a place for', as in vocabulary, from ML vocabulārium, a place for vocables. Cf, therefore -ary (2).

-as indicates a Greek Proper Name or Proper adj, often adopted or adapted by L, as in Gr Aineias, L Aeneas, and Gr and L Illias (orig an adj). The o/s is -ad-, as in Iliad-, the gen being Gr Iliados, L Iliadis. The Gr suffix -as would therefore seem to connote family or racial descent: cf Gr -is, o/s -id-.

-asia, as in euthanasia (eu+than+-asia), is a Gr suffix, which has, in Med, been made equivalent to -asis, q.v. below. It has an occ variant—'Englishing'—-asy, as in the rare euthanasasy. The answering adj form, though rare, is -asian, as in euthanasian.

-asian. See prec, s.f.

-asis, as in metasomasis, is, according to the angle from which one regards it, either a Med suffix or a Med c/f: strictly, it is a suffix, for it constitutes an extension of the important -sis, q.v. below, and is therefore also to be compared to -iasis, q.v. It was orig Gr, but in mod terms it is a SciL formation.

-asm, as in chasm, enthusiasm, orgasm, phantasm, pleonasm, sarcasm, spasm, comes from Gr -asma (preserved in miasma and obsol phantasma) or -asmos, occ via L -asma, -asmus and F -asme. It occurs chiefly in abstract words, yet it at least appears to connote a greater activity than does the parallel and more widely used -ism, q.v. below. Exx: chasm, L chasma, Gr khasma (a 'materialization' of khaos, chaos); enthusiasm, LL enthūsiasmus, Gr enthousiasmus; orgasm, F orgasme, Gr orgasmos—cf orgiasmos, whence the rare orgiasm; phantasm, ME fantasme, adopted from MF, from L phantasma, adopted from Gr, cf phantasy (and phantom) at FANCY; pleonasm, LL pleonasmus, Gr pleonasmus; sarcasm, (perh via F sarcasme, from) LL sarcasmos, Gr sarkasmos; spasm, MF-F spasme, ML spasma, L spasmus, Gr spasmos. Adj either in -ic, as chasmic, miasmic, orgasmic, or -astic, as in orgiastic, from the Gr adj corresponding to the Gr n.

-asma. See prec.

-ass, -asse, are 'disguises' of L -ācea, the f of adj suffix -āceus (cf -aceous above), thus: cuirass, F cuirasse (a leather breastplate), It corazza, VL coracea*, adj become n, from L coriāceus, (made) of leather; crevasse, adopted from F, from OF crevace, which could, just possibly, come from VL crepacea*, but rather comes from OF crever, to break, both deriving, the former obscurely, the latter clearly, from L crepāre, my own proposal being, however, that the effective origin lies either in LL creptāra, or in ML crepātura, a crevice.

-ast, as in scholiast, derives from Gr -astēs and is equivalent to -ist, q.v. below. Exx: enthusiast, Gr enthousiastēs, and scholiast, ML scholiasta, from late Gr skholiastēs, from skholion, a marginal note. Cf -asm and -astic.

-aster in E connotes inferiority (criticaster, poetaster) or even worthlessness (oleaster), senses derivative from those denoting smallness or a partial, or a slight, resemblance. Exx: oleaster, wild olive (tree), from L oleaster, olive (tree); poetaster, Mod L formation = poet + -aster.

-astic, adj, is a cpd suffix, usu answering to -ast; it consists of -ast + -ic, q.v.; its predecessors are L -asticus, occ via F -astique, and Gr -astikos. Exx: scholastic, L scholasticus, Gr skholastikos; paraphrastic, ML paraphrasticus, Gr paraphrastikos; encomiastic, Gr enkōmiastikos.

-asy. See -asia.

-at (1), n, as in diplomat, from F diplomate, and as in quadrat (cf quadrante), from L quadrātus, squared, are rare variants of -ate (1), q.v.

-at (2), n from L v, as in habitat, from L habitat, he or it dwells. Cf the subj parallel -eat below.

-ata. See -ato.

-ate (1), adj, whether pa or, derivatively, 'straight' adj, either derives from, or has been formed by analogy with adj formed from, the L -ātus (rarely from the f -āta), the pp suffix of 1st-conj vv (inf -āre). Exx: desolate, L dēsolātus, pp of dēsolāre; emasculate, now only literary for 'emasculated', from L ēmasculātus, pp of ēmasculāre. An ex of adj formed from n—such words occur mostly in Bot and Zoo—is chordate, from L chorda, cord.

-ate (2), n from the L n-suffix -ātus (4th declension; gen in -ātūs), denoting either office (or function) or occ a person holding that office or serving in that function. Exx: episcopate, LL episcopātus (gen -atūs); magistrate, L magistrātus (gen -atūs); tribunate, (perhaps via F tribunatus from) L tribunātus (gen -atūs).

-ate (3), n from L -ātus, 1st-conj pp, as in legate, via OF legat from L legātus, pp of legāre.

-ate (4), n from L -ātum, neu of pp -ātus, is a Chem suffix, as in nitrate from nitr(ic acid) sulphate from sulph(uric acid), and also alcoholate from alcohol, methylate from methyl on the analogy of alcoholate.

-ate (5), v, as in concentrate and venerate, is formed by converting the L pp -ātus to -ate: cf the 1st -ate above. Thus fascinate comes from L fascinātus, pp of fascināre, and venerate from I uenerāri. There are also many anl formations, as e.g., concentrate, from prefix con-+L centr(um centre)+-ate, and incapacitate, from in-, not+capacit(y)+-ate.

-atic is a cpd suffix (-at+-ic, q.v.) of Gr origin in -atikos or, when not from Gr, of L origin in -aticus; occ via the F -atique. Exx: asthmatic consisting of asthm(a)+(a)tic, from L asthmaticus from Gr asthmatikos; Adriatic, L Adriaticus lymphatic, L lymphaticus. General sense: of the nature of.

-atile is another cpd suffix (-at+-ile, q.v.), as in versatile (vers+-at+-ile), perhaps via I versatilis, certainly from ML versātilis, L uersātilis. General sense: able, or tending, to (e.g., turn).

-atim is a L adv suffix, added to the o/s of a n, as in seriatim; it connotes either 'in' or esp 'in the manner of'. Cf verbatim (L uerbatim, from uerbum a word), app formed after seriatim.

-ation is yet another cpd suffix (-at+-ion, q.v.) as in consideration. It derives from L -ātiōn-, c/ of -ātiō, either direct, as (prob) in reconciliation reconciliātiōn-, c/f of reconciliātiō, or through I -ation (for the acc -atiōnem), as (perh) in reconciliation, adopted from OF reconciliation, itself from reconciliātiōnem, acc of reconciliātiō. In general sense, -ation corresponds to the verbal n in -in- (osculation=kissing).

It will be noted that many, prob most, of these nn in -ation answer to a v in -ate, as relation—relate; a special class is that of -isation or -ization answering to vv in -ize: see the separate entries at (1) -isation, -ization, and (2) -ise, -ize.

The principal senses indicated by -ation may be summarily arranged thus:

- (1) abstractness (state or condition, quality or degree): as in estimation, the quality of being esteemed, and occupation, the condition of being occupied; occ with an implication of process or continuance or manner, as in alteration, a nuance linked very closely with:
- (2) action, as in continuation and visitation;
- (3) result of an action, product of a process, as in proclamation and discoloration.

-atious is an adj answering to—though it occurs much less often than—-ation, as in flirtatious—flirtation and vexatious—vexation. Like the other -at- suffixes, it is or can be regarded as a cpd (-at-+-ious); in one aspect, -atious represents an extension of -ious, q.v. Cf:

-ative (1), with connotation 'tending to (whatever the v denotes)', comes from ML -ātivus, from L -ātius, either direct or through F -atif, f -ative, or anl with such adj. Exx: amative, either am-, s of amāre, to love+-ative, or amāt-, s of amātus, pp of amāre+-ive, q.v.; creative, a similar formation; demonstrative, F démonstratif, ML demonstrātivus (L -tius); productive, ML productīvus, perh via F productif. Occ it is attached to native words, as in talkative.

-ative (2), 'having the quality, or being of the state or condition, of' (the noun implied), answers to nn in -ity, the -y being discarded; thus quantitative, qualitative derive from quantity, quality. This sense was prompted by -ative (1), which, in a sense, it imitates.

-ato, m, and -ata, f, represents It pp adj; thus appassionata as in the so-called Sonata Appassionata, and appassionato, a musical direction ('impassioned'), derive from It appassionare (s passion-), to render passionate.

-ator, an extended form of agential -or, answers to L vv in -āre, as in anator (am-, s of amāre, to love+-ator). Some authorities, however, regard amator and all other such formations as consisting of the pp s (e.g., amāt-)+agential -or. Cf:

-atorius, -atory, may likewise be regarded as -at-(belonging to the pps)+-orius, -ory, qq.v. below, or as -atōrius, -atory, attached to the simple inf s, as in the rare amatorious, the usu amatory, from L amatōrius. In a few words, the formation would appear to be agent -ator+adj -y, as perh in clamatory, from L clamatōrius. (In short, suffixes are far more complex and complicated than prefixes.) Cf:

-ature is either a cpd suffix (-at-+-ure, q.v.) or a mere ghost of one, the true suffix being -ure, as below. Exx: armature, L armātūra, from armāre (s arm-), pp armātus (pps armāt-); creature, adopted from OF, which took it from LL creatūra, from creāre (s cre-), pp creātus (pp s creāt-). Here, I think, the true suffix is -ure, q.v.

-bility, n; -ble, adj. The latter, short for -bile, has n -bility (-bile become -bili-+ty; or -bil- (for -bile)+ity). They derive, sometimes via F -ble, -bilité, from L -bilis, m and f, -bile, neu, and -bilitāt-, c/f of -bilitās, or, for F words, -bilitātem, acc; many adj and nn have been formed analogously. The nn are abstract, their originating adj are qualitative. Exx: horrible, adopted from OF, from L horribilis, from horrēre, to tremble or shiver with cold or dread—obsol horribility, OF horribilité, as though from L horribilitās* and perh influenced by ML horriditās; vulnerable, ML vulnerābilis, LL uulnerābilis, hence vulnerability; able, OF (h)able, L habilis—rare hability, OF habilité, L habilitātem, acc of habilitās, lit 'ability to hold'.

Although -ability, -able are by far the commonest forms and although they tend, in new formations, to oust the others, there do exist certain variations, either deriving from or formed anl upon the orig L suffixes. Exx of all forms:

-ability, -able: arability, from arable, from L arābilis, neu arābile; rectifiable (whence rectifiability), from 'to rectify'; receivable (whence receivability), from 'to receive', but prob influenced by F recevable; get-at-ability, from get-at-able, from 'to get at'. This group is swollen by all derivatives from F -able, which tends to embrace L -ēbilis and -ibilis as well as -ābilis.

-ebility, -eble, very rare and fast being displaced by -ibility, -ible: delebility, from deleble (now usu delibility, from delible), from L dēlēbilis, neu dēlēbile, from dēlēre, to wipe out; disguised in feeble, OF feble, fleble, L flebilis, from flēre, to weep;

-ibility, -ible: perceptibility, from LL perceptibilitās, from LL perceptibilis, -ibile, from percipere, to perceive;

-ubility, -uble: solubility, from soluble, adopted from MF-F, from LL solūbilis, neu solūbile, from soluere, to loosen, (hence) to dissolve.

-ble (1). See prec.

-ble (2). A variant of -ple, q.v. Of F origin, this -ble, denoting 'fold' (as in manifold), occurs in double, adopted from OF double, from L duplus, and treble, through OF from L tripplus.

-bond. See:

-bund, -bond d; -cund. Whereas -bund derives from L -bundus, f -bunda, and -bond from the same but through F -bond, f -bonde, -cund derives from L -cundus, f -cunda. The general connotation is 'tending to' (do whatever the v denotes). Exx: facund, perh via OF facond, certainly from L facundus, (lit) tending to fāri or speak, (hence) eloquent; jocund, OF jocond, ML jocundus, L iucundus, from iuiāre, to help; moribund, L mori-bundus, from morī, to die; pudibund, bashful, L pudibundus, from pudēre, to be bashful, to feel ashamed; rubicund, (perh v F rubicond) from L rubicundus, from rubēre, to be red; vagabond, adopted from OF vagabond, ML vagabundus, L uagabundus, from ML vagāri, L uagāri, to wander. Cf -und (as in rotund), q.v. below.

-by, in place-names, e.g. Rugby, descends from OE by, a dwelling-place, esp a farmhouse, (hence ? a village (cf Danish and Swedish by, a village, a town): and OE by either comes from, or at the least is intimately akin to, ON byr, a farm, a village (cf E byre), from ON buá, to dwell.

-c. See -ic.

-cade is not a true suffix, for it has merely been borrowed from cavalcade—and perh been influenced by the -ade of parade—to form such monstrosities as motorcade, an automobile procession.

[-caster. See the list of learned compound-forming elements. The same remark holds good for -cester and -chester.]

-ce, adv, as in once, twice, thrice, and in hence, thence, whence, represents the OE gen suffix -es, as in dayes, by day—cf the mod dial 'of a night', at night, and 'of a morning', in the morning.

-cel, as in Her lioncel, a small lion, is an OF dim suffix; cf the -el of OF lionnel, lit a lion, whence Lionel, and more pertinently the It dim -cello, as in monticello, from L -cellus, as in LL monticellus, a small mountain: cf also L -ellus (and L -ulus), of which L -cellus, F and E -cel, would seem to be extensions.

-ch (1), adj, is 'a syncopated form of -ish, as in French, Scotch' (Webster). See, therefore, -ish, adj.

-ch (2), n: ME -che: OE -ce. Exx: birch and church. Its connotation is 'of or belonging to'. It may also answer to G -che, as in larch, and to Sp -cha, as in cinch.

-ch (3), v, as in reach, search, teach, occurs in transitive vv and seems to connote a purposive effort, a striving.

-chre, as in sepluchre. Var of -cre, q.v.

[-city answers to adj -cious. But these are not true suffixes, for the -c- belongs to an o/s ending in -c-: cf ferocity (adj ferocious), from L ferōcītās, itself from the adj ferōx, o/s ferōc-. Cf -ious and -ity.]

-cle (1), dim n. Most words in -cle have passed through F; the originating L form is -culus (m), -cula (f), -culum (neu), qq.v. at -cule. Exx: article, via MF-F, from L articulus, dim of artus, a joint; clavicle, F clavicule, ML clavicula, dim from L clavis, a key; corpuscle, like corpuscule, from L corpusculum; cuticle, L cuticula; particle, L particula. Perhaps a cpd suffix: -(i)c+le.

-cle (2), n. In a few -cle nn, the force of -cle can only with difficulty be described as diminutive. They are words ending in -acle, from L -āculum, and deriving, not, as in -cle (1), from nn, but from vv. Exx: miracle, via OF, from L mirāculum, from mirāri, to wonder or wonder at (s mir-); oracle, via OF, from L orāculum, from orāre (s or-), to speak, esp to pray; receptacle, L receptāculum, from receptāre (s recept-); spectacle, via OF, from L spectāculum, from spectāre (s spect-), to look at. The connotation, clearly, is 'object at which the action of the implied verb is directed'. Perhaps a cpd suffix: -ac+le. Cf prec.

-cose. See -icose.

[-craft. See CRAFT.]

-cre or -chre, as in fulcre, lucre, (? massacre, sepulchre, derives from L -crum, thus: fulcre, Englishing of L fulcrum; lucre, L lucrum; massacre adopted from F of doubtful origin but with suff on analogy of other F nn in -cre; sepulchre, M sepulchre (adopted from OF), from L sepulcrum or, rather, its var sepulchrum. The L nn deriv from vv—or, at the least, from the ss of vv; -cr- therefore connotes action—lifting, gain, killing, burying, etc.

-cula, -culum, -culus; -cule. The last is the often after F, form of L -cula, f, -culum, neu, -culus, m, dim suffix, with pl -culae, f, or -culi, neu, or -culi, m. Exx: animalcule, L animalculum (also in E), dim of animal; auricula, adopted from L f dim of auris (s aur-), ear; homuncule (L homuncle), from L homunculus (also in E), dim of homo, man; minuscule, adopted from F, from L minusculus, rather small, dim of minor, n minus (s min-), lesser. See also -ula.

-cund. See -bund.

-cy represents Gr -keia or -kia, -teia or -tia, whether direct or via VL-ML -ca or L -tia then via F -tie; the L word may have been formed analogously with other L words, the F with other F words, the E with other E words. It indicates state or condition or quality—cf, therefore, the native -hood and -ship—and its connotation is therefore of abstractness. 'A special use of the suffixes [-cy, -sy] is to denote rank and office: curacy, episcopacy, magistracy, papacy, cornetcy, ensigncy; minstrelsy. Some of the above have also a collective sense; legacy has a concrete meaning (Sweet). Exx: bankrupt=bankrupt+-cy; infancy from L infantia; secrecy=secret+-cy. The L and Gr forms appear best in such cpd suffixes as -aristocracy (MF aristocracie, L aristocratia, C aristokratia) and -ancy (constancy, L constantia) and chiromancy—cf, in the Elements list, -mancy from Gr maneteia) and -ency (clemency, L clementia). Cf esp -ce, but also -acy, -ancy, -ency above. parallel var is -sy, q.v. below.

-d (1), adj of Gmc origin, with vaguely concrete connotation. Exx: bald, ME balled, cf Da baelde, cold, OE cald or ceald, cf OS kald and ON kald; dead, OE dead; loud, OE hlūd, cf OS hlūd; will OE wilde, cf OFris wilde, OS and OHG wildi.

-d (2) or -de, in nn. 'Nouns formed with this suffix usually denote the result of some action, and can generally be traced to some verbal stem. Nesfield, who instances blood, OE blōd—cf bleed, OE blēdan; brand, ON brandr—cf ON brenna, burn; bread, OE brēad—cf OE brēowan, EE brew, v; deed, OE dāed—cf OE dōn, EE-E do; flood, glede, need, seed, shard or sherd, spee, thread, suds—words that prove his contention.

-der (1). Of Gmc origin, it indicates 'result of (implied v), with an abstract connotation, as murder, OE morthor, akin to myrthian (s myrth) to murder. Cf -ter (4).

-der (2): Gmc: 'instrument'. Ex: bladder, O blāddre.

[-dle. See -le, n, and -le, v.]

-dom, OE -dōm (cf G -tum), is of the same root as DOOM, q.v. It indicates office or dignity or jurisdiction, hence region; exx: earldom, kingdom, heathendom: such words being derived from nn. When -dom is suffixed to adj, it connotes state or condition, as in freedom and wisdom. A modern connotation, that of collectivity (cf heathendom), occurs in, e.g., officialdom.

-e (1). In most words, -e is a mute final, doing duty either for such Gr suffixes as -a and -ē and -os or for such L suffixes as -a and -us; exx: tome, tone, trope, type. When pronounced (ee), as in epitome and hyperbole, it stands for the Gr η (ē).

-e (2). In adj adopted from F, it normally represents the f sing, as in petite; that is, whenever the F adj has not the sole form -e, as in drôle, anglicized as droll, and in svelte.

-e (3). In words adopted from It, it usu represents the pl of f adj and nn in -a.

-é, as in employé, habitué, outré, protégé, roué, soigné, occurs only in words adopted from F; all the nn except roué have f counterparts in -ée, q.v.

[-ea] is the pl of Gr words in -eon or of L words in -eum. Strictly, the -e either belongs to the s or is a connective; the same is true of -eae, the suffix being -ae.]

-ean, often through F -éen, means the same as -an or -ane and 'is a lengthened form of L -aeus, -eus, the lengthened -aeus occurring in L itself in some words' (Sweet). Exx: cerulean, L caeruleus; European, F Européen, L europaeus, Gr eurōpaios; herculean, L herculeus; Mediterranean (cf mediterrane), L mediterrāneus.

-eat, as in caveat, exeat, and -iat, as in fiat, indicates a 3rd person sing of the pres subj of L vv.

-ed (1), in adj, as 'foliated', 'pig-headed', derives analogously from -ed (2); whereas such words as foliated come from vv, those of the calyxed and pig-headed types come from nn whether simple or cpd. The connotation is 'possessed of' (a calyx, a pig-head—i.e., an obstinate one). Cf -t.

-ed (2), in pp, as in 'He had hastened', derives from OE -ede or -ode or -ade. Cf -t.

-ed (3), in pt, as in 'He hastened', derives from OE -ed or -od or -ad.

-ee, as in assignee, grantee, lessee, derives either from or as if from -é, the m suffix of the F pp. Occurring mostly in legal terms, it forms the correlative of the agential -or (as in assignor, lessor, etc.); it connotes the person to or for whom something is done. Cf -ey, below, and:

-ée is the f pp of F vv, as in divorcée (a divorced woman) and Pierre Loti's Les Désenchantées. This form undoubtedly reinforced the influence of F -é (as in divorcé, a divorced man) in the genesis of the prec suffix. The F -é comes from L -ātus, m; -ée from L -āta, f.

-eel, as in genteel, is a var of -ile (1), q.v.

-een (1), in birdeen, colleen, girleen, squireen, is an Anglo-Ir dim prob akin to L -inus, f -ina, of vaguely dim conn in Classical L and LL, but definitely dim in mod formations (e.g., Angelina)—cf. -ina, q.v. The Ir dim is -in, pron -een, as in cailín, whence colleen.

-een (2), in sateen, occ written satine (pron sateen), from satin, and in velveteen, from velvet, connotes inferiority, sateen being a cotton fabric with a satin-like surface, and velveteen being velvet made entirely from cotton. The general conn, therefore, is 'inferior dim', not, as in (1), 'dear dim'; nevertheless, -een (2) prob derives from -een (1).

-eer (1), n, like -ar and -er and esp like -ier, usu comes from VL -erius (L -ārius), through OF -ier; on all other occasions, -eer nn have been formed analogously. Exx: gazetteer, orig a newspaper editor, from F gazettier; muleteer, from F muletier; pamphleteer=pamphlet+-eer; pioneer, EE pioner, from F pionnier; privateer=privat(e)+(e)er; volunteer EF voluntaire (Mod volontaire).

-eer (2), v, as in domineer, represents the F 1st-conj inf suffix -er (dominer); volunteer, v, derives, however, from the n.

-eet (1), adj of L origin, as in discreet, is a rare var of -ete, q.v. below.

-eet (2), adj of Gmc origin. Exx: fleet, prob from ON; sweet, OE swēte. Cf -t (2), adj of Gmc origin.

-el represents the gen sing of the L 5th declension, as in 'Fidei Defensor', the Defender of the Faith. But it may also represent the dat sing of the same declension, as in the latinism fideicommissum, lit '(a thing) committed—i.e., entrusted—to faith'.

-eign, as in foreign, 'disguises' -an or esp -ain: ME foreine or forene, OF forain (f foraine), LL forānus (for+-ānus), from the L adv -foras (var of foris), out of doors.

-ein, -eine, merely vary the chem suffixes -in-, -ine, qq.v.: -eine is usu reserved for bases, -ein for non-bases. (Webster.)

-eity, as in homogeneity, is an extension of -ity, q.v. The -e- is that which occurs also in -eous.

-el (1), adj, as in cruel, usu answers to L -elis (var of -ilis, q.v. at -il and -ile)—as in L crudēlis, which, through OF cruel, yields E cruel, cf the obs fidel or fidell or fidele, faithful, via F fidèle, from L fidēlis. Occ, however, as in scrannel, it is formed on the analogy of OE -el: cf -le, adj (q.v.)

-el (2), n, is dim, as in chapel, OF chapele, LL cappella, f dim from L cappa, and in citadel, F citadelle, it cittadella, dim of cittade, a city. It comes, often via OF-F and occ via It, from the L dim -ellus (m) or -ella (f) or -ellum. But in a few words, e.g. navel, runnel, it appears to be a native dim. Cf -le (and -l) and -elle.

-el, (3), n, as in cautel, quarrel and sequel, represents the L suffix -ēla: thus, cautel, OF cautele, L cautēla, from cauēre, to be wary; quarrel, OF querēle, L querēla, from querī, to complain; sequel, F séquelle, L sequēla, from sequi, to follow. This suffix, quite distinct from -el (2), seems merely to indicate '(n of) action corresponding to v'. Cf -ele.

-el (4), n. In hovel, of unknown origin, the suffix

-el is likewise of unknown conn. But, as Skeat has proposed, hovel is perh the dim of OE hof, a house, and -el therefore identical with -el (2).

-el (5), v, as in drivel and snivel, is a var of -le, v (q.v. below) in its freq conn: ME -elen, OE -lian.

-ela, as in cautela and sequela, is an adoption from L: cf -el (3) above.

-ele, as in clientele, represents OF -ele (F -èle), from L -ēla: cf prec and -el (3).

-ella is an adoption of, or a formation anl with, L -ella, f dim suffix, answering to m -ellus (and neu -ellum). Exx: Cinderella (cinder+-ella; suggested by F Cendrillon); Libella, old Sci name for a dragonfly; umbrella, adapted from It ombrella. Cf:

-elle is an adoption of F -elle, f dim corresponding to L -ella; as in bagatelle. Cf prec and:

-elli, pl of L -ellus, It -ello, m dim suffix, as in vermicelli, pl of It vermicello, lit a small worm.

-ello. It m dim suffix, as in niello and violoncello. In the latter, as in vermicelli (see prec), the -c- is itself a suffix, presumably dim.

-ellum is the L neu dim answering to the m dim -ellus. Both -ellum and -ellus occur in only a few latinisms, e.g. flagellum. Cf the prec four entries and -el (2).

-ellus. See prec.

-em, as in diadem, emblem, system, theorem, represents the Gr -ēma, n suffix for a formation from a v, often through L -ēma and OF-MF -eme or F -ème; the Gr n connotes result from the action of the v, as in diadēma, from diadēin, to bind round. Cf -m (3), -ma, -me (2) and -eme.

-ema, as in enema, represents Gr -ema (short e), app a var of Gr -ēma. Cf prec and:

-eme (adj in -emic), as in phoneme and, imitatively, in morpheme, represents Gr -ēma and therefore forms a var of -em.

-en (1), adj of L origin, as in alien, adopted from OF, itself from L aliēnus; mizzen, F misaine, It mezzana (elliptical for mezzana vela), f of mezzano, middle, from LL mediānus, and in sullen, ME solein, via OF from VL solānus*, solitary, from solus, alone. A variant of -an (1), q.v.—from L -ānus or -ēnus.

-en (2), adj of OE origin and connoting 'made, or consisting, of', as in ashen, golden, leaden, oaken, oaten, wheaten, wooden, thus: ashen, whether relating to the ash tree or to ashes; golden, ME golden—cf OE gylden; leaden, OE lēaden; oaken = oak + -en; oaten = oat + -en; wheaten, OE hwāeten; wooden = wood + -en. The OE -en is akin to Go -eins, L -inus, Gr -inos: cf, therefore, -in, -ine, adj; cf also:

-en (3), n, is to be compared very closely with prec. 'The similarity of meaning between material nouns and adjectives has in some cases led to the conversion of adjectives in -en into nouns, as in linen=OE linen "flaxen" from lin "flax", and the tree names aspen=OE aespe, linden=OE lind fem.': Sweet.

-en (4), n. In pl, as ashen, brethren, children, eyen, hosen, oxen: cf the -ne of kine and the -n of shoon. Thus brethren derives from ME bretheren ME -en derives from OE -an.

-en (5), n dim, as in chicken, OE cicen, and maiden, OE maegden (cf OE maegth for the stem), derives from OE -en; with maegden, cf G mädchen.

-eu (6), n in f suffixes, as in vixen, dial for fixen OE fyxen, f of OE fox: cf the obs wylfen, f of OE wulf, wolf, with its MHG syn wulfinne (suffix -inne).

-en (7), agential n, as in haven, OE haefen (O -ene)—cf ON höfn—and as in token, OE tācen—cf OFris tēken, OS tēkan, OHG zeihhan; lit the have-er or holder and the show-er or indicator. Cf, therefore, agential -n and -on. But agential -e sometimes originates in L: e.g., citizen, influenced by denizen (ult from L dē intus, from within), and scrivener, with superfluous -er.

-en (8), as in burden (OE byrthen), has a passive conn: lit, that which is borne—cf bairn, that which is born, and also, for the suffix, loan, that which is lent. Cf the corresponding -n, n, and esp the pp -en, q.v. at -en (11) below.

-en (9). In heaven—cf the shortened -n of main strength (OE maegen—cf OHG magan) and thane (Mod E thane)—the suffix -en is of vague connotation; the OE heofon is akin to OS hevan. This Mod E -en, therefore, is akin to PG -an* or -or*.

-en (10), v, as in frighten, lengthen, shorten, strengthen, weaken, usu from adj but also, as in frighten, from nn; its conn is 'to render' whatever the adj indicates or 'to induce' (in someone or something) whatever state or condition or quality the n denotes. Exx: frighten=fright, n+-en; lengthen=length+-en; shorten=short, adj+-en; strengthen=strength+-en; weaken=weak, adj+-en. This suffix hardly antedates 1500—in written records; it has been formed on the analogy of O v in -nian, of which the initial -n- has been lost and the -i- discarded, to accord with ME v in -en. But it might be argued that E -en owes something to Scan v in -na.

-en (11), the pp ending of most strong vv, as in broken, OE brocen; drunken, OE druncen; fallen, OE feallen; ridden, ME iriden, later riden. The O -en has a cognate in Skt -na. From these pp form derive the answering pp adj, as in 'the drunken fellow'. Cf -en (8) above.

-ence, -ency. See -ance, -ancy above.

-end. See -and.

-endum. See -andum.

-ene, as in benzene and toluene, is a Chem suffix indicating a hydrocarbon; cf the -ane of octane. Prob suggested by the L adj suffix -ēnus, the G -ēnos, connoting nature or quality. Hence the commercial use of -ene to denote almost any kind of substance.

-engro, connoting 'man' or 'fellow', as in Lavengro (lit Man of Words), represents the Romany cpd suffix -engero, which=-en, denoting a pl+-kera, an adj suffix+-o, a common n-suffix.

-ent, adj and n. See -ant (1) above.

-eny. See -iny below.

-eous, as in aqueous, igneous, vitreous, deriv from L -eus, composed of or resembling the implied n, thus: aqueous, from L aqueus*, assumed on the analogy of other L adj in -eus; igneous, L igneus, from ignis, fire; vitreous, from ML vitreus, L uitreus, glassy, from uitrum, glass. Cf -ous. (In righteous we see the -wise of ME rightwise discarded for -(e)ous; in gorgeous we see OF gorgias, which = stem gorg- + connective -i- + -as, adj and n suffix, becoming gorg- + -e- for -i- + -ous.)

-er (1), adj of comp degree, as in faster, slower, better, finer (i.e. fin(e) + -er), derives from OE -ra, as in better, OE betera: cf ON betri, OHG bezziro, Go batiza, L melior, Gr beltiōn, and perh Skt bhadra (good).

The -er of comp advv derives from OE -or, akin to OHG and OS -ōr and Go -ōs, -ōz. The adv better, deriving from OE bet, has been influenced by analogy: cf the L melius and the Gr beltion. (See esp O.E.D.)

-er (2), adj, as in eager, AE meager (E meagre), derives from L -er; an -re spelling indicates passage via F. Thus: eager, ME egre, OF aigre, L ācer; meager or meagre, ME megre, OF megre or maigre, L macer—cf the eccl maigre. This -er, very common in L and having conn 'quality', has occ been taken direct by E from L, as in dexter and sinister—contrast F dextre and sinistre.

-er (3), adv. For some advv, see -er (1), second para. For the -er of ever, hence of never, see -re (2), the adv -re of here and there.

-er (4), n, agential (orig m) or instrumental straight from v, as in murderer from murder and player from play; where the v ends in -e, as in hate, poke, that -e is dropped, as in hater, poker. Although most of the exx are modern, this -er derives from OE -ere, which, like Go -areis and OHG -ari (G -er), came orig from L -ārius (m) or -ārium (neu). Cf:

-er (5), n denoting 'person or thing connected with', as in carpenter, garner, grocer, comes—usu via AF -er, OF -ier—from L -ārius (m) or -ārium (neu), from another n. Exx: carpenter, ONF carpentier (cf the surnames Carpentier, Carpentier), LL carpentārius, from carpentum; garner, a granary from OF gernier, metathesis of grenier, from L grānārium, from grānum; grocer, ME grosser, OF grossier, ML grossārius, from grossus. Cf prec.

-er (6), n, links very closely with prec. This group consists of nn from E nn, thus hatter from hat, philologer from philolog(y), purser from purse, and the general conn is 'one concerned with'. Both -er (5) and -er (6) are neutral, whereas -er (4) is active. Note the variants bowyer, lawyer, sawyer, and collier, glazier, haulier.

-er (7), agent of L origin (via OF-F) in -ātor, which represents the predominant L agential suffix -or attached to the pp s. Exx: commander, OF comandeor (F commandeur), analogously from comander, from a VL var of commendāre; compiler, OF compileor, L compilātor, from compilāre, to gather together; diviner, OF divineor, ML divinātor, LL diuinātor, from diuināre, to foresee; interpreter, OF interpreteur, LL interpretātor, from interpretāri.

-er (8), n, denoting 'a resident in, a native of', as in Londoner, Northerner, foreigner and villager; deriving from n or adj, this -er may be compared to the -er of G Engländer, Englishman.

-er (9), n, person or thing attaining to a certain size, height, weight, strength, etc.: as in sixty-pounder, six-footer, half-miler, Forty-Niner. Perh cf prec and prob cf:

-er (10), n, a person, an object, an action connected with or related to the idea implicit in the stem. Exx: back-hander, facer, header, newcomer, old-timer. With -er (4) and, less, (5)–(10) of the agential -or below.

-er (11). Alternative for -or, as in carburetter.

-er (12), n, denoting or, at the vaguest, connoting 'action or process of' whatever the v indicates, as in dinner and supper and, exemplifying certain legal terms, demurrer and waiver; all of which derive from, or are adoptions of, OF-MF or AF pres-infns, thus: demurrer, OF demorer; dinner, ME diner, OF disner; disclaimer, AF desclamer; supper, ME soper or super, adopted from OF; waiver, AF weywer.

-er (13), n. The suffix in udder, from OE ūder (akin to OHG ūtar, L ūber, Gr outhar, Skt ūdhar), has a meaning difficult to determine. It is perh the same as that in finger, OE finger, akin to OHG fingar, ON fingr; hammer, OE hamer or hamor, akin to ON hamarr; hunger, OE hungor, akin to OFris hunger, OHG hungar, ON hungr; silver, OE seolfor, akin to OFris selover, ON silfr; summer, OF sumor or sumer, akin to OFris sumur, OHG sumar, ON sumar.

-er (14), n, as in counter, via OF from ML computatōrium—dormer, OF dorneor, L dormitōrium—laver, via OF from ML lavatōrium, LL lauatōrium—manger, via OF from VL manduca-tōria*, from L manducāre, obviously comes from the L suffix -ōrium or its occ var -ōria, with conn 'a place' for the action denoted by the v stem (to calculate—sleep—wash—eat). Cf, therefore, -ory below.

-er (15), in freq vv, as batter (?) and clatter and patter and shatter—quaver and quiver and shiver—flitter and glitter—mutter, sputter, stutter. The origin, therefore, is vaguely echoic; all the stems are echoic.

-er (16). See -re (4).

-er (17), v, in sever, corresponds approximately to L -āre, 1st-conj pres-inf suffix; and in batter, ult from L, to L -ere (batuere, LL battere)—cf render, OF rendre, VL rendere* (after prendere), from reddere.

-erel is a dim, often pej. Exx: cockerel = cock + -erel; ? doggerel, ME dogerel; dotterel, app from obs dote, a stupid fellow, 'to dote' in its obs sense 'to act foolishly'; gangrel, a vagabond, app = Scots gang, to go + (e)rel; hoggerel, a hogget, app = hog, an unshorn sheep not more than a year old + euphonic g + -erel; ? mackerel, MF maquerel—but here the dim suffix is very prob -el, for the

-er- is almost certainly part of the stem; mongrel is app for mongerel=dial mong, to mix+-erel; pickerel, a young pike, for pikerel, i.e. pik(e)+(-e)rel. But -rel may fairly be said to exist in its own right, alongside -erel. Cf -rel below.

-erion, as in criterion, is a cpd: -er+-ion, or rather Gr -ēr+connective -i-+on; -ēr is agential or instrumental, -on corresponds to L -um. The L shape of Gr -ērion is -ērīum.

-erly, adj, connoting 'direction whence', is a mod suffix, thus: easterly=east, adv+-erly; the same process applies to northerly, southerly, westerly. Prob -erly is a cpd: an adj -er, connoting direction+adj -ly.

-ern (1), adj, connotes direction and derives from OE -erne, as in eastern (OE ēasterne) and western (OE westerne), northern (OE northerne) and southern (OE sūtherne). Cf prec.

-ern (2), n, as in cavern, cistern, lantern, tavern, answers to L -erna and, derivatively, F -erne. Thus: cavern, OF caverne, ML caverna, L cauerna, from cauus (s cau-), hollow; cistern, ME cisterne, adopted from OF, from L cisterna, from cista, a box or chest; lantern, OF lanterne, L lanterna (s lant-), from Gr lampiēr (s lamp-), a light; tavern, ME taverne, adopted from OF, from L taberna for taberna, from trabes or trabis, a beam (timber). L -erna seems to be of Etruscan origin.

-ero, a Sp agential and instrumental suffix, corresponding to -ier, q.v. Exx: bolero, a very lively Sp dance, from Sp bola, a ball+-ero; sombrero, Sp sombra, shade, shadow+-ero; torero, Sp toro, a bull+-ero; vaquero, a cowboy, for vachero, from vaca, a cow+-ero.

-ery (1): ME -erie: OF-MF -erie, app from -ier (q.v. below) or -er, themselves from L -ārius, with abstract -ie (? L -ia) added; -ery often becomes -ry, as in chivalry, from OF chevalerie or chivalerie. In Mod E 'this suffix is mainly used in derivatives from nouns, and occasionally from adjectives, expressing (a) actions or qualities, as in bigotry, devilry, drudgery, pedantry, velvetry, pleasantry; (b) condition, as in outlawry, slavery; (c) occupation, trade, art, etc., as in casuistry, palmistry, chemistry, heraldry; (d) the place of actions, occupations etc., as in nunnery, nursery, vestry . . .; (e) the result or product of action etc., as in poetry, tapestry; (f) collectivity, as in infantry . . ., peasantry, yeomanry', as Sweet has so concisely determined.

-ery (2), as in mystery: L -ērīum, Gr -ērion. Conn: 'state of' (the person indicated by the stem).

-es (1), adv, in whiles (s whil-: cf whilom), is a survival of OE -es, suffix of gen sing of nn; cf -wards in relation to -ward.

-es (2), n. Suffix indicating the plural of nn ending in s or sh or f(e) or in y preceded by a cons. Exx: irises, blushes, leaves, knives, ladies.

-es (3), n. Adopted from L, as in the latinism aciēs, keenness of sight.

-es (4), n, in riches=ME richesse, adopted from OF-F and, as a doublet, preserved in E. See also -esse.

-es (5), v. Indicates 3rd person sing, pres Indicative, as in 'he blushes'—'he qualifies'. Cf, therefore, -s, v.

-esce, v; -escence, n, with var -escency; -escent, adj; -escible, adj: resp from L -ēscere, pres inf of inch vv; -ēscēntia, abstract n from such a v, =-ēscēt-, o/s of presp+abstract suffix -ia; =-ēscēt-, o/s of presp+abstract suffix -ia; (cf -ible at -ble above) type of adj for inch vv. Exx: effervesce, ML effervesce, L effervēscere; effervescence, -ncy=efferv-+-escence, -escency; effervescence, ML effervēscēt-, o/s of ML pres p effervēscens; effervescible=efferv-+-escible.

-ese (1), adj and derivative n: L -ensis, m and f (neu -ense), often via OF -eis; but, in most E words (e.g., Chinese, Japanese, Maltese), by analogy. Belonging to, originating in, native to a country, hence a native of or a resident in or the language of a country. Hence, n only, a style peculiar to a certain person, as Carlylese, or class, as journalese.

-ese (2), n. Chem -ese is an alteration of chem -ase, q.v.

-esis, as in energesis, xergesis, denotes action—or a process of action; it derives from Gr -ēsis, often through L -ēsis, or from Gr -esis (cf -etic).

-esque: adopted from F, which adapted it from It -esco, f -esca, L -iscus, f -isca, perh of Gmc origin; many E words have been formed by analogy. Exx: arabesque, orig an adj from It arabesco; picturesque, F pittoresque, It pittoresco; statuesque=statue+-esque. A doublet of -ish, adj.

-ess (1), as in poetess, shepherdess, and as in actress and songstress, indicates the f of the main n: in many E words, by analogy; occ, however, from OF -esse, from LL -issa from Gr -issa or from a word formed anl at the L or esp only the F stage. Exx: authoress=author+-ess, shepherdess=shepherd+-ess; actress=act(o)r+-ess, rather than deriving from F actrice—cf seamstress, which=seamst(e)r+-ess, and songstress, which=*songs(t)e*r+-ess; countess, OF contesse (EF-F comtesse).

-ess (2), orig adj, but in ModE only n—m not f. Exx: burgess, ME burgeis, adopted from OF, from burc or burg, fort, fortified place, fortified city, from LL burgus, of Gmc origin, although OF burgeis may represent a LL adj burgensis*; marquess, MF marquis, OF markis, from ML markensis, from marca, frontier or march.

-ess (3). See:

-esse, as in largesse, AE largess, and as in noblesse oblige, has been adopted from OF. The OF largesse derives from VL largitia*; OF -esse therefore=VL or LL or even L -itia, abstract-n suffix. Cf duress, from L dūrītia, and fortress, from OF forteresse.

-est (1), adj and adv, denoting the superlative degree: OE -est or -ost, akin to ON -(a)str, Go -isis or -osts, Gr -istos, Skt -istha. Exx: sweetest; earliest; soonest; best, OE best, short for betst, itself short for betest.

-est (2), n—as in earnest, ME ernes, OF erres, and, clearly of different origin, in harvest, OE haerfest, akin to OHG herbist—is worth noting only because these words may, in their EE-E forms, reflect the influence of (1).

-est (3), v. Archaic suffix of the 2nd person singular, as in 'thou livest'; in mod usage, mostly -st, as in canst, didst, mayst. It comes down from OE -est.

-et (1), adj, as in dulcet, a refashioning, after L dulcis, of doucet, F dim of doux, f douce, from L dulcis, sweet; and as in russet, F rousset, dim of roux, f rousse. In short, a gallicism.

-et (2) occurs in E nn from F dim nn in -et, as in billet-doux; crotchet (ME crochet, adopted from the OF dim of croc, a hook); fillet, OF filet, dim of fil, a thread; fleuret, floret, both from F—cf floweret (flower+-et). The originating F word sometimes ends, not in the m -et but in the f -ette (cf -ette below), as in islet from OF islette, dim of isle (ModF île); sometimes ModE has reshaped -ette gallicisms into -et false-gallicisms, as, e.g., in octet for octette, quintet for quintette, sextet for sextette.

-et (3): a rare var of -th (1), q.v. below. Ex: thicket, OE thiccet, prob from thicce, thick.

-ete (1), adj, as in complete, discrete: of same origin as (3) below.

-ete (2), n, as in gamete, L gameta (var gametis), (a grecism for:) wife, Gr gametē, wife (cf gametēs, husband), from gamein (s gam-), to marry. The F form is -ête. Conn: 'agent', corresponding to the implied v.

-ete (3), v, as in deplete and secrete, derives from -ētus, the pp suffix of L vv in -ēre. Cf, in short, the much commoner vv in -ate, q.v. above.

-eth (1), adj, as in twentieth. See numerical -th (the 1st -th).

-eth (2), v, as in dieth, doeth (doth), knoweth, singeth, thinketh: archaic: from the OE suffix -eth or -ath or, shortened, -th.

-etic, adj, corresponds to -esis, n, as in genesis, adj genetic. It comes, often through L -ēticus, from Gr -ētikos, as in pathetic (cf F pathétique), LL pathēticus, Gr pathētikos, from pathētos, undergoing, or subject to, suffering, from pathein, to suffer. It may be argued that the true suffix is -ic and that -et- belongs to stems ending in -et; but those stems are subsidiary or derivative, as in gen(esis, -etic) and in path(etic). Cf:

-etin, in Chem, is a cpd suffix: -et(um)+chem -in. Thus quercetin corresponds to quercin.

-etion, as in completion, is simply the form taken by derivatives from the L 2nd conj, as compared with -ation from the 1st conj. A cpd. Base: -ion, q.v.

-etive corresponds, for the L 2nd conj (pres inf -ēre), to the -ative, q.v., deriving from the L 1st conj (-āre). Ex: completive, ML complētīvus, L -iūus.

-etta is the It 'answer' to F -ette, as -etto is the It 'answer' to F -et. It occurs in, e.g., burletta, dim of burla, jest, mockery, and operetta, dim of Mus opera.

-ette, n, is the f counterpart of the m -et (2) above. In E words, esp those formed by analogy, the dim force is often lost, as in etiquette. Exx: cigarette, lit a little cigar, adopted from F; serviette, form-adopted but sense-adapted from F, which derives it from servir, v used as n; undergraduate, -ette being substituted for -ate.

-etto—cf -etta above—occurs only in a few italianisms, e.g. falsetto, dim of falso, and stiletto, dim of stilo, a dagger.

-etum, as in arboretum, a plantation, pinetum, a pine grove, rosetum, a rosery, denotes 'plantation, grove, clump'; all three words come straight from L, as does the less-used quercetum, a plantation of oak-trees. The L basic words are resp arbor, pinus (s pin), rosa (s ros-), quercus (s querc-). The basic sense of L -ētum seems to be: 'group, collection' (of plants, esp shrubs and trees) or even 'collectivity' (of plants).

-ety displaces -ity in certain nn derived from L adj and adv having stem in -i; e.g. ebriety, from ēbriētās, from ēbrius; dubiety, from dubietās from dubius; propriety, from proprietās from proprius; satiety, from satiētās from satis. The Romans avoided the ending -iitas.

-eur (1), as in grandeur and hauteur, both gallicisms, is the F form of L -or, abstract suffix, connoting state or quality. But F liqueur answers to L liquor, where -or connotes agency or materiality.

-eur (2), agential: adopted from F -eur, itself from L -or. Exx: amateur, L amātor; connoisseur, OF conoisseur, from conoistre, to know, from L cognōscere; littérateur (accent usu omitted), LL litterātor.

-ey (1), adj, as in clayey and skyey—that is, for nn ending in -y—takes the place of -y, adj, q.v. below.

-ey (2), n, as in attorney, from OF atorné, has been described as the weak form of -ee (lessee, patentee, refugee), q.v. above. (Sweet.) Ex: journey, OF journee, a day's duration. The OF-F -ée and OF-F -é may derive from L -āta, f, or -ātus, m.

-ey (3), n, as in Turkey, is a variant of -y, n (q.v. below), as it occurs in names of countries; it comes, usu via ME and OF -ie, from L -ia. Turkey=ME Turkie, from OF, from Turc, a Turk.

-ey (4), n dim, a rare var of -y (9), q.v. Exx: donkey, monkey.

-ey (5), n: OE -ig. Ex: honey, OE hunig, akin to OS honeg and OHG honag. A suffix of obscure meaning.

-ezza. An It abstract-n suffix.

[-fare. See Dict at FARE.]

[-fex; -fic. See Compound-forming Elements— at fac-.]

[-fold. See Dict at FOLD.]

[-ful. See Dict at FULL.]

[-fy. See Elements at fac-.]

-gle (1), in nn, is, I think, only an app suffix. In such words as beagle, bugle, eagle, shingle, the -g- would appear to belong to the stem.

-gle (2), v., is an extension of echoic (and freq) -le, q.v.; as in straggle, wriggle.
-go hardly occurs outside of -ago and -igo, qq.v.

[-ham, in place-names: see Dict at HOME.]

-head, as in godhead and maidenhead, is now rare for the var -hood, as in boyhood, childhood, girlhood, knighthood, manhood, womanhood, from nn, and in hardihood, from adj, the conn being 'state, quality; rank'. Webster notes the resultant secondary senses, 'concrete instance'—as in falsehood, and (from the nuance 'rank') 'collectivity', as in brotherhood and sisterhood. Whereas -head originates in OE -hed, -hood originates in OE -hōd or -hād, from the since-disappeared independent words hōd or hād (var hed), state, condition, quality, (?) hence rank, order. Exx: brotherhood=brother+-hood; childhood, from OE cildhād; falsehood=false+-hood; girlhood=girl+-hood; godhead, from ME godhed; hardihood=hardy+-hood; knighthood, from OE cnihthād, collective youth; maidenhead app=var of maidenhood, from OE maegdenhād; manhood=man+-hood; sisterhood=sister+-hood; womanhood=woman+-hood. OE -hād, -hed, or their orig independents, have cognates in OS hēd and OHG heit (whence the very common G suffix -heit) and, with different meanings, Go haidus, manner, and ON heithir, honour; prob also Skt ketu, brightness (cf citra, bright); and perh E NOT. For the native history of this suffix, see esp Sweet's English Grammar, I, 461-2.

-hood. See prec.

-i (1), adj, Iraki, of Irak, hence a native of Irak; Punjabi, of the Punjab, hence a native of the Punjab—Hindi Panjābī, from Panjāb. An Indo-Iranian adj suffix.

-i (2), n, indicates the pl of L 2nd-dec nn in -us, as in radii from radius; cf foci, pl of focus. But also of L 2nd-dec nn in -er, as pueri from puer, a boy, and agri from ager, a field.

-i (3), n, occurs also in the pl of It nn in -o, as banditti for It pl banditi, from bandito, and stiletti from stiletto, or in -e, as in dilettanti from dilettante.

-i-, connective, has been adopted from L, where it occurs in true cpds, as ML omnivorus (omn+-i+-vorus), whence E omnivorous, and in cpds with second element a terminal, as aurifer (aur+-i+-fer), whence E auriferous. Its basic conn, where it does not merely signify 'and' or 'connected with', is 'of' or 'for' or 'like'. As -o is the specifically Gr connective, so -i- is the characteristically L connective.

Sometimes a thematic -i-, i.e. an -i- belonging to the stem, resembles a connective -i-; occ it is difficult to distinguish them, esp in words derived from L nn in -ius or -ium or -ia. Thus fluvial comes from ML fluvialis, L fluvialis, from L fluis (ML fluvius), which has s fluvi- (ML fluvi-); the adj suffix is therefore -ālis, E -al. In clavichord, ML clavichordium the first element is clav- (L clau-), the -i- is connective, the second element is -chordium, from chorda, because L clavis, ML clavis, has s clav-, ML clav-, not clavi-, clavi-. Whereas fluvius is declined fluvi-um, -i, -o, pl -i, -os, -orum, -is, with s obviously fluvi-, clavis is declined clau-em, -is, -i, -e, pl -es, -ium, -ibus, with s obviously clav-.

-ia, in words adopted from L, represents either a f sing, of abstract conn, or a neu pl of nn in -ium, of concrete or objective conn; in words from Gr, whether direct or via L, -ia likewise represents either a f sing, abstract, of nn in -ia or a neu pl, concrete, of nn in -ion. Strictly the -a is identical with -a (4) above, for the -i- is the connective listed above as -i-. There are also many mod words, not deriving from either Gr or L, but formed anl with Gr or L sing nn in -ia or with Gr or L neu pl nn in -ia.

Exx: (countries) Mauretania, L Mauretania or Mauritania, from Mauri, the Moors, from Gr Mauroi—Media, L Media, Gr Mēdia—Rhodesia=(Cecil) Rhodes+-ia; (diseases) neuralgia, a Mod L coinage—aphasia, revived by Med from Gr aphasia; (Chem) morphia, a Med coinage from Morpheus; (miscellaneous from Gr or L) magnesia, phantasmagoria, sepia, and, pl, bacteria (Gr memorabilia (L), Bacchanalia and other Classical festivals; (generic sing names of plants) dahlia, wistaria; (Zoo pl names, from or on L, of orders, etc.) Reptilia.

-iac. See -ac, 2nd para.

-ial+a thematic or a connective -i+-al, adj, q.v. above; cf L -iālis, m and f, and -iāle, neu. Exx: fluvial=fluvi- (L fluvi-)+-al, adj (L -ālis), with thematic -i-; clavial=clav- (L clav-)+-i+-al, where, clearly, the -i- is connective. In short, -ial is a cpd suffix.

-ian, adj—hence n; when n without originating adj, the n has been formed anl with other -ian nn. This suffix usu comes either direct from L -iānus (f -iāna, neu -iānum) or through F -ien, f -ienne; occ it comes from F adj or nn formed anl; in ModE formations it is mostly analogous with other E words. In many words from L or F, and indeed in the few L words deriving from Gr -ianos, where, by the way, the n may precede the adj, the -i- is connective, as it is in most ModE words. A cpd suffix: cf -ial above.

Exx: Christian (adj, very early, from n): L christiānus, n and adj; Gr khristianos, n, from Khristos, the Christ, where, the s being khrist-, the -i- must be connective; barbarian, adj and n: F barbarien, on L barbariānus*, s barbar-; Kantian, adj and n=Kant+-ian (-i- connective +-an). Sweet has remarked that its conn is the same as that of -an and that it is 'especially frequent in adjectives and nouns expressing occupation, rank, etc.: historian, librarian, musician, physician, tragedian; patrician, plebeian'.

-iana (1) represents the L f sing or neu pl of, or corresponding to, adj and nn in -iānus; 'from use of -ana after stems ending in i' (Webster).

-iana (2). See -ana.

-iat. See -eat above.

-ible. See (-ble at) -bility above.

-ic (1), adj, general conn 'of', hence 'belonging to', whence also 'for' and 'with', hence 'connected with'; hence, further, 'characteristic of, like' or 'characterized by'.

Now, -ic adj may be native words, formed anl with other E adj in -ic; the ME form, if there be one, may be -ike, but is more prob -yke; and -yke or -ike or EE -ick can derive either from F -ique or from L -icus (the usu origin of F -ique), whether directly or via F, or from Gr -ikos (often the origin of L -icus), whether directly or, as usu, via L -icus (and perh F -ique). Although generically the L suffix -icus owes much to Gr -ikos, an -icus adj need not come from an -ikos adj; it freq derives from a L n, and that n need not be of Gr origin. This suffix, whether -ikos or -icus or -ique or -ick or -ic, is so common at every historical and linguistic stage that, at all stages after the Gr (and perhaps there too), it was virtually autonomous.

Exx: angelic=angelick, angelyke: F angélique: L angelicus: Gr angelikos (ἀγγελικός), from angelos (s angel-), ἄγγελος, an angel; bucolic, L bucolicus, Gr boukolikos; puvic, F pudivce, L puvicus; volcanic, F volcanique, It vulcanico, an -ico, i.e. It, reshaping of ML vulcānius, L vulcānius, Vulcanian; vitriolic, F vitriolique; Byronic=Byron+ic, prob after Miltonic.

Whereas OED and Webster regard -ic (-ique, -icus, -ikos) as a genuine suffix, app consisting in L of -ic+us and in Gr of -ik+os, Skeat asserts that the i is thematic and that the true suffix is -c (L -cus, Gr -kos); his examples, civic and logic, are particularly unfortunate, for, of L ciuis (ML civis), the s is ciu- (ML civ-) and of Gr logikos the s is log-, as it is of logos.

-ic (2), n. Simply the -ic adj, as prec, used as a n, as in classic and magic. The n may have been one as early as in Gr, although even that Gr n began as an adj, as in music; sometimes it is a L adj become L n and then taken over by E, as in public, (prob via F) from L pūblicus. Cf -ics below.

-ical, adj, is a cpd of -ic, adj + -al, adj, both as above. In general, it is an elaboration of -ic; never an intensification of -al. Where the two forms -ic and -ical co-exist and there is no need to differentiate, the longer form dies out, e.g. generical has given way to generic. But where there is a need to differentiate, either the two forms are retained, with one form acquiring a different nuance, or, if there is only one form, the other form (whether -ic or -ical) is created. Where a word in -ic or -ics is used solely as a n, the corresponding adj is -ical: thus, music—musical, politics—political. The distinction between politic and political, ethic and ethical, comic and comical, and so forth, is a matter of usage, not merely of suffixes.

-ice (1), n: ME -ice or -ise: OF -ice or -ise: LL -icius (etc.): L -itius, f -itia, neu -itium, but esp -itia, for that suffix occurs freq in abstract nn, and, not much less, -itium, connoting 'act or period of' whatever the adj or v indicates. Exx:

justice, OF justice (or -ise), ML jūstitia, L iūstitia, from iustus (s iüst-, ML jūst-), just, equitable, fair-minded; novice, adopted from OF, from ML novicius or novitius, L nouicius, -itius, from nouus, new; service, through OF from ML servitium, L servitium, from seruire, to serve.

-ice (2), v: from OF -iser, from L -icāre, as in AE 'to practice'.

-icel, as in radicel (cf F radicelle), a dim of radix, a root, is a cpd: -ic+el, dim suffix. Cf -icle and -icule below.

-ician, conn 'an exponent of, an expert in' (a field indicated by the n), as in magician, musician: F icien, a cpd of -ic, q.v. + F -ien, q.v. at -ian above. Among mod formations, devised anl, are such horrors as mortician (mort-, o/s of L mors, death + the -ician of physician) and beautician (beaut(y) + the -ician of magician).

-icism, strictly a cpd (-ic, as above + -ism, as below), derives from Gr -ikismos, often via L -icismus; in some E words, -icism is added, not as the cpd it is, but as a simple suffix, with conn 'an example of the basic idea' implied by the s. Exx: Atticism, from Gr attikismos; witticism=wit + euphonic t + -icism, prob after criticism. Cf:

-icist, as in publicist (F publiciste, G Publizist), has been modelled upon Gr agential nn in -ikistēs, itself a cpd—ik-, which becomes -ic, and -istēs, which becomes -ist. Cf simplicist: simp(ism)+icist.

-icity: F icité: L -icitāt-, o/s of the cpd suffix -icitās (-ic+itās, q.v. at -ity below), with conn 'abstractness', esp 'quality of' (the adj involved). Exx: felicity, OF félicité (F félicité), L fēlicitās, o/s fēlicitāt-, from fēlix, happy; rapacity, L rapācitās, o/s rapācitāt-, from rapāx, addicted to seizing.

-icle derives from L -icula, f of the dim suffix -iculus, and is clearly a cpd of -ic, q.v. above, and -ula, f of the dim -ulus, q.v. at -ule below; cf also -le. Exx: particle, L particula, dim of pars (o/s part-), a part; radicle, L rādicula, dim of rādex, a root. Cf -icel and -icule.

-icon occurs in a few grecisms, such as onomasticon, through ML from Gr onomastikon, elliptical for o. biblion, a book concerned with names (onoma, a name), and Ranulphus Higden's Polycronycon or Polychronicon, and the obs chronicon, a chronicle. Clearly -icon=Gr -ikon, neu of -ikos: -ik+on, neu n suffix.

-icose, as in bellicose (L bellicōsus, either an extension of bellicus, of war, itself from bellum, war, or direct from bellum), would appear to be a cpd: -ic-, q.v. above + -ose, q.v. below.

-ics, indicating, as in ethics, metaphysics, politics, a science or a system and connoting 'matters concerned with' the n implied in the s, imitates Gr -ika (L -ica); neu pl of the adj -ikos, as in ta ēthika, τὰ ἠθικά, (lit) the ethical matters, hence ethics; the sing, predominant—in, e.g., logic, magic, music—until c1590, has, e.g. in ethic and metaphysic, been revived in late C19–20, prob after F and, less, G practice: cf F l'éthique (f) and la métaphysique and G Ethik (f) and Metaphysik (f). Sweet has, of mathematics (Gr ta mathēmatika), well said that it is an imitation of the Gr usage, 'aided by the English habit of making adjectives into nouns by adding the plur -s, as in greens, news and the vulgar rheumatics=rheumatism'.

See -ic (1) and (2) above.

-icular. The adj answering to:

-icule derives from the cpd L suffix -iculus (m), -icula (f), -iculum (neu): -ic, q.v. above+-ulus (-a, -um), q.v. below at -ule; it is, therefore, an extended dim. Exx: reticule, F réticule, L réticulum (itself adopted by E as a term in An and Bot and Zoo), dim of réte, a net: monticule, adopted from F, from LL monticulus, a little mons (o/s mont-) or mountain.

-iculum occurs in a few Sci and tech words. See prec, and cf -icular.

-id (1), adj, as in acid, candid, liquid, morbid, placid, rabid, solid, splendid, turbid, vapid, derives, sometimes via F -ide, from L -idus, f -ida, neu -idum; several of these words—esp acid, liquid and solid—are used derivatively as nn. Thus: acid, perh via F acide, from L acidus, from acēre, to be sour; candid, perh via F candide, from L candidus, from candēre, to be snow-white; rabid, L rabidus, from rabere, to rave.

-id (2), n. See prec.

-id (3), n. Prob suggested by acid in -id (1): -id in Chem=chem -ide, q.v. below.

-id (4), n, occurs in words from Gr -is, gen -idos, often via L -is, gen -idis (occ existing independently of Gr) and then via F -ide (which may come from L only or, indeed, be formed and in F itself); a few E words exist autonomously—i.e., as inf. formation. Exx: chrysalid, via L from Gr khrusalis, gen khrusalidos; pyramid, L pyramis, gen pyramidis, from Gr puramis, gen puramidos. In Bot it denotes 'member of' (a family denoted by the s), as in amaryllid (Gr Amarullis, gen -idos); therefore cf:

-id (5), n, either derives from and is used for -ida, q.v. below, as in acarid, or denotes a member of a Zoo family (idae, q.v. below), as in clupeid, one of the Clupeidae or herrings. Cf both -id (4) and esp:

-id (6), n, patronymic, as in Nereid (via L from Gr Nēreis, gen Nēreidos), daughter of Nēreus, derives from L -is, gen -idis, nom pl -ides, from Gr -is, gen -idos, nom pl -ides. E uses it esp in Astr—e.g., Leonid, one of the shooting stars associated with the constellation Leo (L leō, gen leōnis)—and in the names of epic or mock-epic poems, e.g. Aeneid, from the o/s Aenēid-of L Aenēis, Virgil's epic about Aeneas. Cf -ad (2, c) and -id (4) and (5) and also -idae and:

-ida is a Mod L suffix, prompted by -id (6) and, in Zoo, indicating groups, classes, orders, as in Arachnida, from Gr arakhnē, a spider, via LL arachne, and Scorpionida, from L scorpiō (o/s scorpiōn-), a scorpion. The adj and derivative n are formed in -idan.

-idae, used in patronymic group-names, e.g.

Seleucidae (from Seleucus Nicator), represents the pl of L -ides, indicating 'descendant of', from G -ides: cf, therefore, -id (5). The adj is formed in -idan, e.g. Seleucidan. In Zoo it denotes a family of animals and there it takes the place of the gen suffix in the name of the most important or best known genus, thus: Equidae, from equi, the gen sing of equus, a horse.

-idan, adj. See -ida and -idae.

-ide, in Chem, indicates a cpd, as in chlorid (from chlorine). All such nn have been formed and with oxide.

-idin, -idine, are chem cpd suffixes, consisting of chem -id (for -ide)+chem -in or -ine: cf, therefore -ide and -ine, n.

-idinous, adj of nn in -ido: L -idinōsus, adj from -idō, n: general conn 'emotional state or condition'. Best ex: libidinous, perh via libidineuse, f of L libidineux, from L libidinōsus, formed by attaching the common adj suffix -ōsus (conn 'of the quality implied by the n') to libidin-, o/s of libidō, pleasure esp sexual pleasure, desire, lust, itself formed by attaching to lib-, the s of the impersonal v libet, it pleases, the rare suffix -idō, with vague conn 'n o' (emotional) state or condition'.

-idity, abstract n, attaches -ity, q.v., to -id, adj, q.v. at -id (1). Thus: timidity, from L timiditas (r tim-)—gen timiditātis—from the adj timidus.

-ie, formerly a spelling of -y, n, as in beautie is, in ModE, restricted to use as a dim, notably in pet-names and other endearments, thus: birdie from bird; dearie, from dear (n); Johnnie, though still often Johnny, from John. Cf -y (6).

-ience, -iency, n; -ient, adj. Cpd of connective sometimes of thematic -i-, q.v.+-ence, -ency, qq.v. at -ance, and -ent, q.v. at -ant (1).

-ier (1): F -ier: L -ārius or, occ, the VL -erius. See -eer (1). Exx: cavalier, adopted from F, from It cavaliere from LL caballārius, from caballus, a horse; chevalier, adopted from OF, from caballārius; grenadier, adopted from F, from F grenade from ML (pomum) grānātum, a much-grained, i.e. seeded, apple.

-ier (2), n suffix occurring in words of ME origin of various sources, general conn 'doer':

(a) from OF-MF -ier, as in cottier, OF cotier from cote, a cote, as in dovecote, sheepcote;

(b) as in collier: see -er (6);

(c) i for final y of a v+agential -er: see -er (4). Ex: carrier.

-ies occurs only in a few nn adopted from L, a aciēs, acuity of vision (with stem ac- as in L āce and E acerate), and as rabiēs, madness. Its general conn is 'an example of the adj implied'.

-iff, adj hence n, as esp in cattiff, derives from ONF or OF -if, itself from ML -ivus (captivus from L -ivus). Ex: plaintiff (adj become n), OI plaintif (adj). Cf -ive below.

[-ify. See Elements at fac-.]

-ige, as in Félibrige, the brotherhood of Félibre or Provençal writers, seems to come from L -igium, an objective n-suffix. (Félibre, from Pro Felibre, prob from ML felibris, a nursling.)

-iginous, adj of L nn in -igō, which has conn 'physical weakness or deterioration'; the adj is based upon -igin-, the o/s of -igō; the n itself is built upon the pres inf s of vv in -ere. Exx: impetiginous, ML impetiginōsus, adj of L impetigō, from impetere, to assail; vertiginous, ML vertiginōsus (L uert-), from ML uertigō (L uertigō), from L uertere, ML vertere, to turn.

-ikin is an extended form of -kin, q.v. Ex: manikin, prob from D manneken, but reshaped thus: man+connective -i+kin.

-il (1), adj. See -ile (1), adj.

-il (2), n=chem -ile, q.v.

-ile (1), adj; -il, adj. The former comes usu direct from L -ilis, neu -ile; the latter through F -il, F -ile, or OF -ile. General conn: 'tending to' do or be whatever the implied v or n denotes. Thus: fragile, (perh via F) from L fragilis, from frangere, to break, but frail via OF fraille; mobile, L mobilis, neu mōbile; fossil, F fossile; civil, F civil, ML civilis, L ciuilis; gentile, L gentilis.

-ile (2), n; -il: chem suffixes. The -ile nn are formed as—some of them, on—nitrile, nitr+-ile adj used as n; -il is a var, as in nitril, anisil.

-ility, abstract n, is a cpd of -il(e), adj+-ity, q.v. below. Exx: civility, OF civilité, ML civilitās, o/s civilitāt- (L ciuilitāt-); fragility, L fragilitē, L fragilitās, o/s fragilitāt-.

-im, as in cherubim (sing cherub, H kerūbh) and seraphim (H šerāphim), is a n suffix indicating the pl and belonging to H; the var -in (cherubin, seraphin) is incorrect.

-in (1). See prec.

-in (2), as in cousin, dolphin, goblin, vermin, and (things) bulletin, resin, represents adj (see the var -ine) become n and derives, often through F -in, f -ine, always ult from L -inus, f -ina, L -inum. Exx: bulletin, adopted from F, from It bulletino, dim of bulia, taken over from L; cousin, OF cousin, earlier cosin, ML cosinus, L consobrinus; goblin, F gobelin, ML gobelinus, perh Gr kobalos; resin, F résine, L rēsina, Gr rhētīnē; vermin, OF vermin(e), perh from ML vermen, o/s vermin-, rather than from ML vermis (L uermis).

-in (3): -inem, acc of L nn in -ō. Exx: margin, ME marginē, L marginem (o/s margin-), acc of margō; origin, F origine, L originem; virgin, OF virgine, L uirginem. (Nesfield.)

-in (4). In Pharm, -in occurs in 'names of remedial preparations, often corresponding to adjectives in -ic, as in antipyrin' (Webster): a usage closely akin to that of chem -in, q.v. at -ine, chem n.

-ina (1), f suffix in L (? on archetypal fēmina), reappearing in It and Sp and in mod imitations, esp in Proper Names; when it is a queen's or other royal name, the influence of regina is perceptible. Exx: Wilhelmina and Sp Guillelmina; czarina, tsarina. It corresponds to m -inus, q.v. esp at -ine (2). Cf -ine (4) and:

-ina (2), neupl suffix of L adj -inus. Zoo uses it, with animalia understood, in names of orders and sub-orders, thus: Acarina, from Mod L Acarus, from Gr akari, a cheese mite. Cf:

-inae, fpl suffix of L adj -inus. Zoo uses it, with bēstiae (beasts) understood, in names of sub-families, thus: Felinae, from fel-, s of Felidae, the cat family, a Mod L term coined from L fēlis, a cat. Cf -ina (2).

-ine (1), adj of—or imitative of—Gr origin: Gr -inos, often via L -inus: conn 'made of, of the nature of, like' (e.g., a material specified by the n implied). Exx: adamantine, L adamantinus, Gr adamantinos, from adamanti-, o/s of adamas; amethystine, L amethystinus, Gr amethystinos; ivorine, OF ivorin, f ivorine (Mod ivoirin, -e); opaline, from opal, after amethystine, crystalline, etc. Cf:

-ine (2), adj, of L origin -īnus, f -īna, neu -īnum—often via F -in, f -ine: conn 'of' or 'belonging to', hence 'like'. Thus: canine, L caninus, from canis (s can-), a dog; feminine, OF feminin, f feminine (Mod F fēminin, -e), L fēmininus, from fēmina, a woman. Etym, this suffix is identical with -ine (1); it belongs, however, to indigenous L words, not to learned L words of Gr origin.

-ine (3), abstract n, as in discipline and medicine; L -ina, usu via F -ine. Thus: discipline, adopted from OF, from L disciplina, from discipulus, a learner; medicine, adopted from OF (cf Mod F médecine), L medicina, from medicus, a physician; rapine, (perh through F rapine) from L rapīna, from rapere, to seize.

-ine (4), n: a f suffix, usu from F -ine, but answering to L -ina (see -ina (1) above). Exx: heroine, (perh via F hérotine) from L hēroina, from Gr hērōinē, the f of hērōs; landgravine, prob either from D landgravin or from G Landgräfin, the f of Landgraf, but perh adopted from F landgravine; Albertine, adopted from F; Caroline, adopted from F, prob from It Carolina, ? dim of Carola, f of ML Carolus.

-ine (5), n. In Chem, -ine or -in denotes, as in chlorine, an element or, as in arsine, a cpd. In Organic Chem, it is (a) a var of -yne, q.v.; (b) a basic cpd, as quinine. Organic bases: -ine; neutral substances: -in, as in gelatin (but also gelatine, cf F gélatine, from L gelāta). In Chem, -inis gradually displacing -ine. In Min, -ine (now rare)=-ite, q.v. (Based upon Webster.)

-ineae, fpl of L -ineus (roughly 'of the nature of', hence 'like'), occurs in Bot names of tribes or sub-families; Webster adduces Abietineae, from L abiēs (o/s abiet-), a fir tree.

-ing (1), adj, derives from -ing, suffix of the presp: 'Birds that are habitually singing become known as "singing birds"'. This -ing derives, by confusion with the vbl n suffix -inge (later -ing), from -inde, a late form of OE -ende; naturally enough, presp -ing ended by becoming identical in form with vbl n -ing. The OE -ende is akin to Go -and- and to L -ant-, -ent- (o/ss of -ans, -ens), and, far back, to Skt -ant-; cf also the Gr -ont- (o/s of -ōn). Cf:

-ing (2), vbl n: ME -ing: OE -ing, but also -ung, akin to D -ing and G -ung: deriving, therefore, from vv but later, analogously, from nn, adv, etc.: gen conn, 'action abstractly regarded' (action, not act). 'A shouting was heard, a killing was suspected.' The association is often merely causal, actively in 'The making of a bed isn't as simple as it sounds', passively in 'the writing on the wall'—or collective, as in 'There's not enough material for bedding'. Cf -ings below.

-ing (3), in nn denoting 'a belonging to, (hence) a descent from', esp, therefore, in patronymics, as atheling, OE aetheling, a noble, from aethelo, nobility or high lineage, and in dimm, as wilding, an uncultivated plant, and shilling, OE scilling, identical with the OHG and OS forms. Here, prob, are to be included such fish-names as herring and whiting.

-ing (4), n, in place-names, sometimes=ing, a meadow (ON eng), but sometimes a patronymic, as in Reading. But, as Ekwall has shown, geog and topo -ing is very obscure indeed; app he thinks the patronymic conn to be preponderant. In the cpd suffixes -ingham and -ington, -ing is almost certainly patronymic, as in Buckingham and Wellington.

-ings, n, is the pl of vbl n -ing (see 2nd -ing above), with conn 'something casually associated with the act, often esp in the pl; as, sweepings, earnings, etc.' (Webster.)

? -iny; -eny: as in ignominy, larceny, resp from Ignominie, L ignōminia, disgrace, and, via F, from L latrōcinium. These are Nesfield's suffixes; I'd say that ignōminia=ig (=in, not)+nōmin-, o/s of nōmen, name+abstract -ia, and that the suffix in larceny is -eny for -ciny, as in the obs syn latrociny, latrōcinium being latrō, a thief+-cinium.

-ion, abstract n: either from F -ion, which derives from—or has been formed and with—L -iōn-, part of the o/s of abstract nn in -iō. The conn is either 'action' or 'process' (or a result thereof) or 'state' or 'condition' or 'a thing so conditioned'. Exx: action, through MF from L actiō, o/s actiōn-, from act-, s of actus, pp of agere, to do; condition, OF condicion, L conditiōn- (better condiciōn-), o/s of conditiō, better condiciō; dominion, adopted from OF, from dominiōn-, o/s of ML dominiō, from L dominium (as in condominium); solution, OF solucion, L solutiōn-, o/s of solutiō, from soluere, to loosen.

Cf -ation, -etion above, and -ition, -ution below: these are simply extensions of -ion. Cf also the merely apparent suffixes -sion, -tion, qq.v. at the former.

-ior=the L comp adj suffix -ior, sometimes via the F derivative -ieur. Thus: exterior, adopted from L, the comp of exterus, outward, and interior, adopted from L; inferior, adopted from L, as, through OF, was superior. Cf -er (1), the E cognate, and -or, a L var.

-ious, conn 'of the nature of', in E adds -ous (q.v. below) to thematic i and, in L, adds -iōsus to thematic i, as in invidious, ML invidiōsus, L inuidiōsus, from invidia. Adj in -ious often answer to nn in -ion, as ambitious, L ambitiōsus, perh via F ambitieux, f of ambitieux.

-ique (1), adj, is the F form of the suffix -ic (see -ic (1) above), for which, in EE, it often occurs: it survives in antique, adopted from F, from L antiquus. Note also oblique and unique. Cf:

-ique (2), n, as in critique (a criticism), adopted from F, which probably took it from Gr (hē) kritikē (tekhne), (the) critical (art); as in physique, adopted from F, from L physica, from Gr phusikē (f adj used as n); and as in technique, adopted from F, which derived la technique from the adj technique, from Gr tekhnikos: this -ique corresponds to -ic, n (q.v. at -ic (2) above). Cf also -ics.

-is (1), adj: a Scots and N dial form of -ish, connoting 'like'.

-is (2), n, occurs, as a recognizable suffix, only in words adopted or, at most, slightly adapted from Gr or L -is, as in Artemis and bot Arabis. In Proper Names, -is connotes 'descent'; in plant- and animal-life names, 'origin in, (hence) of the nature of'.

-isation. See -ization below.

-ise (1), n, is a survival of ME -ise, var of -ice, q.v. above. Ex: franchise, adopted from OF-F, from franchir, to free. Such modern words as expertise come straight from F.

-ise (2), v: a var of -ize, q.v.

-ish (1), adj: OE -isc, akin to OHG -isc, Go -isks, ON -iskr, Gr -iskos; cf It -esco and ML -iscus (as in Franciscus, Frankish), app of Gmc origin, but akin to Gr -iskos. General conn: 'of'—'belonging to', hence 'resembling'. Formed from: (1) National or tribal names, as in English, OE Englisc, from Engle, the Angles; Frankish, of the Franks, hence, as n, their language. (2) From Common Nouns, as in boyish (boy+ish), childish (OE cildisc), selfish (self+ish), womanish (woman+ish); such adj as childish, womanish and esp selfish have contributed to the unfavourable tinge so often attaching to adj -ish. (3) From adj, and tending to mean 'somewhat', as coldish and warmish, tallish and shortish, and esp in colour-adj, as bluish, greenish, whitish. These link with such adj from nn as bookish and feverish, with their conn 'verging upon' or 'tending to resemble'.

-ish (2), n. From the adj, esp in languages, as English, Gaulish, Swedish, Turkish; or from the v, as in polish. But in several words it represents L -ix (gen -icis), as in radish, It radice, L radix (o/s radic-).

-ish (3), v: ME -issen or -isshen, OF-F -iss-, occurring in the presp, the ind pres pl, the pres subj; -iss- app derives from or is modelled upon VL -isc-, pres inf -iscere, in (at least orig) inch vv—cf -esce (L -escere) above. Exx: finish, OF fenir, or, as very soon, finir, or rather from such forms as finissant, finisse, finissent, finissons, finessez, (perhaps via VL finiscere*) from L finire; flourish, ME florisschen or flurisschen, OF florir or flurir, from VL florire* for L florere; cf abolish, establish, nourish, perish, polish, punish. Hence, anl, in certain vv of E origin, as in famine from famine.

-isk, n: Gr -iskos, usu via L -iscus; basic conn: 'little'. Exx: asterisk, (lit) a little star, L asteriscus, Gr asteriskos, dim of astēr, a star; basilisk, L basiliscus, Gr basiliskos, (lit) a little king, transferred to a kind of serpent, from basileus (s basil-), a king; disc, L discus, Gr diskos; obelisk, L obeliskos, Gr obeliskos, from obelos, a pillar. In tamarisk, from LL tamariscus, the ulterior origin is unknown. As perh in discus, the -isk need not always be dim; the form is Gr, the very few L potentials being prob anl.

-ism = Gr -ismos, often via L -ismus or F -isme—or both; its conn is abstract; in general, it answers to vv in -ize and esp to agents in -ist, with their adj in -istic. Its principal manifestations are these: whereas, formed from vv, it indicates action, as in baptism, OF baptisme, LL from Gr baptismos, from baptizein, to baptize, formed from nn it indicates the manner of action, as in despotism, or the conduct to be expected of the person implied, as in heroism or Micawberism. Very common too is the conn 'state, condition' (or the fact of being such-and-such), as in hypnotism or barbarism. Flowing from the general 'action' and 'state' connotations is that of 'doctrine' or 'mental or moral practice or habit', as in materialism, or 'adherence to' (a doctrine, a theory), as in Catholicism. Hence, 'characteristic, esp a peculiarity', as in Britishism. In Med it denotes an abnormal state or condition, consequent upon excess in (the thing denoted by the n implied), as in alcoholism.

The adj is usu -istic; the agential n, -ist. Cf F -isme, -istique, -iste.

(Based upon Webster.)

-ison: an OF equivalent (varr -isoun, -aisun, etc.) to F -aison, usu -ation (cf -ation above), from L -ātiōnem, acc of nn in -ātiō. Ex: comparison, OF comparisun, L comparātiōnem, acc of comparātiō, a comparing.

-issimus occurs only in nn taken direct from the m sup of L adj, as Simplicissimus.

-ist. (Cf -ast.) It comes from Gr -istēs, often through L -ista and occ through F -iste as well; an astonishing number of such words have been coined at the F stage. Answering to abstract n -ism and having adj -istic, -ist ult derives, I suspect, from Gr histanai, to stand, but it is usu associated with -ize, Gr -izein. Conn: one who does or practises, hence one who operates on or plays, and one who professes or, at the least, adheres to a doctrine or a theory. Exx: theorist, app theor(y)+-ist; atheist, F athéiste.

-istan. See -stan below.

-istic: F -istique, L -isticus, Gr -istikos: but an -istic adj may have been coined at any of these four stages. The Gr -istikos corresponds to agent -ist or abstract -ism, hence to v -ize; itself it=-ist+-ikos, therefore cf both -ist and esp -ic, adj. Conn: of, of the nature of, belonging to. Exx: characteristic, Gr kharaktēristikos; idealistic=ideal+-istic; sophistic, L sophisticus, Gr sophistikos.

-istical merely=-istic+-al, adj (q.v.).

-it (1), adj, derives from L -itus, pp suffix of 3rd-conj vv, as in preterit, adopted from MF, from L praeteritus, from praeterire, to go by, pass beyond. Such adj tend to become nn, as in preterit.

-it (2), n. See prec. But usu it represents the -itus indicating the 4th dec, as in obit, adopted from OF, from L obitus (gen obitūs); but it may also represent L -itum, consisting of thematic -it-+ neu -um, as in cubit, from L cubitus. In such words as adit, the -it is the suffix of the 3rd person of the pres ind of L 3rd-conj vv. Then, too, it may descend from L -ita or Gr -itēs, as in hermit, OF (h)ermite, L erēmīta, Gr erēmītēs, and Jesuit, ML Jesuita, from Jesus. Cf -ite, n.

-it (3), v, as in permit, derives from the latter part of the s of a L v (permi-t-ere)—so with admit, commit, demit, intermit, pretermit, remit, submit, transmit.

-ita is a Sp f dim, adopted in a few Hispanicisms, as Margarita and margarita. Cf -ito.

-ite (1), adj, as in exquisite and polite, stands for L -itus (f -ita, neu -itum), pp suffix. Exx: exquisite, L exquisitus, pp of exquirere, to seek out—cf requisite; favo(u)rite, OF favorit, from It favorito, from favorire, to favour, from L fauēre (ML favere); polite, L politus, pp of polire.

-ite (2), n: Gr -itēs, f -itis, often through L -ita and F -ite. Such words can, anl, be formed at any level. Conn: one who, or that which, is of a country or a material origin indicated by the implied basic n. Exx: Canaanite=Canaan+-ite; Jacobite, ML Jacobita; lyddite, from Lydd. But sometimes it has the same origin as (1) above, as in granite, It granito, adj become n.; and this is common in Min and—e.g., ammonite—in Pal; also in Zoo, for a part of the body, as in somite (sōm-, the s of Gr sōma, body+-ite).

-ite (3), n. In Chem it is an arbitrary var of -ate.

-ite (4), v, as in expedite, usu derives from L -itus, pp of vv in -ēre or in -ire. Exx: expedite, from L expeditus, from expedire; unite, from unitus, from unire.

-itic: Gr -itikos, often through L -iticus and F -itique. Conn: of, of the nature of, (hence) resembling or characterized by. It corresponds to nn in -ite, as sybarite and Sybaritic: L Sybarita, Gr Subarītēs, and L Sybariticus, Gr Subarītikos; and also to nn in -itis, as arthritis and arthritic (Gr arthritikos, via L arthriticus and F arthritique).

-ition. (Cf -ation, esp, but also -etion and -ution.) This suffix derives from L -itiōnis, the o/s (gen -itiōnis) of abstract nn in -itiō, themselves from vv with pp in -itus. It is therefore a cpd. Exx: abolition, adopted from F, from aboliōn-, o/s of aboliō, from abolere; condition, OF condicion, L conditiō (inferior for condiciō), o/s condiciōn-. The basic conn is that of action viewed abstractly. Cf:

-itious, as in fictitious, connotes 'of, of the nature of; characterized by'. It derives from L -icius, formed either from a n or from a pp. Exx: adventitious, ML adventicius, L aduenticius, from the n aduentus; fictitious, L ficicius, from fictiō—cf facticious.

-itis, designating a disease, esp if inflammatory, of the part designated by the n forming the base of the word, as in arthritis, adopted, via L, from Gr: an -itis of an arthron or joint; orig, -itis was the f sing of the adj suffix -itēs, the n understood being the f nosos, disease; arthritis, therefore, is (hē) arthritōs (nosos), the disease of the joints. Hence, ritually, with conn 'mania', as in electionitis.

-itish is a cpd: ite, adj and n+-ish adj; it answers to nn in -ite (see the 2nd -ite). Ex: Moabitish: Moabite (i.e., Moab+-ite) itself derives from LL Moabites, from Gr Mōabitēs, from the Heb adj Mō'ābī. Clearly, then, -itish may be related to -itic, L -iticus, Gr -itikos: cf the var Moabitic.

-itive, strictly, is only app a suffix: the -it- is thematic, as in punitive, ML punitivus, built upon the pp punitus (s punit-); at best it is a cpd. If, however, one admits -ative, -etive, -utive, one must admit -itive. (I regard all these forms as thematic extensions of -ive.)

-ito is a Sp dim (m), both of adj and of nn: adopted in such words as bonito (adj—and perh the n), from bueno (L bonus), good—mosquito, from mosca, a fly (L musca)—negrito, from negro, black (L niger). Cf -ita.

-itol is a chem cpd suffix: chem -ite+chem -ol: as in mannitol. (Webster.) Strictly, -ol (oil) is an element.

-itous=L -itōsus, often via F -iteux, f -iteuse. Of this cpd, only -ous is truly a suffix, for -it- belongs to the s of the n in -ity. Conn: of, of the nature of, characterized by. Exx: calamitous, F calamiteux, f -euse, L calamitōsus, from calamitās; necessitous either=necessit(y)+-ous or derives from F necessiteuse, f of necessiteux—cf ML necestuōsus.

-itude from L -itūdō forms abstract nouns from adjectives: beatitude, fortitude, lassitude, solicitude. In multitude it has developed a concrete meaning' (Sweet). The adj is -itudinous, as in multitudinous, which=multitud(e)+-inous, or even multitudin- (o/s of L multitūdō)+-ous. Strictly the -it- is thematic both in beatitude, fortitude, and in multitudinous, etc. The n suffix, therefore, is properly -ude, the adj suffix either -inous or -ous.

-iture, as in garniture, adopted from F, from garnir, to garnish, and as in the rare nouriture, from F nourriture, from nourrir, to nourish, appears to be a cpd of -it-+-ure, for the F nn are either based upon or formed on the analogy of L nn -itūra, where -it- derives from a pp in -itus. See, therefore, -ure.

-ity represents L -itās, often via F -ité. In L, the -i- is usu thematic, only occ connective: the true suffix, therefore, is -ty, q.v. Formed from adj, nn in -ity are abstract, connoting 'nature or condition or state, quality or degree'. Exx: calamity, F calamité, L calamitāt-, o/s of calamitās; ubiquity, which=L ubiqu(e), everywhere+-ity—cf F ubiquité.

-ium is the L form (neu n of 2nd dec) corresponding to and often derived from Gr -ion. Sci usu prefers the L to the Gr form. Ex: geranium, adopted from L, which thus adapted Gr geranion.

Hence the use of -ium to indicate the chem elements, as helium, from Gr hēlios, the sun.

-ius, as in radius, occurs only in nn adopted from L; since the -i- is thematic, the true suffix is -i- q.v.

-ive, adj—hence often n: ML -ivus, f -iva, n -ivum, L -ivus, etc.: often via F -ive, f of Primary conn: having the nature or quality of thing (implied by a v); hence, secondary conn tending to the action indicated (by a v). Ex: active, (perh via F actif, -ive) from ML activus (L actīvus), from act-, the s of the pp actus agere, to drive, do actively, practise; conclusive ML conclusivus, LL conclusivus, from concludere adj become n: abrasive, prob abras(ion)+-ive.

-ivious, as in oblivious, is only app a suffix, for the -iv- (L -iu-) is thematic, the suffix being -iv- q.v.—The same stricture applies to -ivity, as declivity, though not to the -ivity of activity, where it is a cpd suffix, answering to the -ivitās of M activitās.

-ivity. See prec.

-ix, which has been adopted from L (itself deriving from or analogous with Gr -ix), occurs only in a very few learned words. Exx: calix, radix, spadix.

-ization, abstract n, is a cpd of iz-, as in iz- q.v., and -ation; var: -isation—cf civilization.

-ize; var -ise: Gr -izein, LL (hence It) -izare, F -iser: the last stage accounts for the former, very frequent, now rapidly diminishing, forms advertise (advertise, devise, surprise). In a vt, the conn is either 'to subject (someone, -thing) to something' as in baptize, or 'render (someone, -thing) like or conformable with', as in sterilize, the s indicating, in both classes, the direction taken or attempted; hence, in Chem, to treat something in a specific manner, as in oxidize. In a vi, the conn is 'to act in a certain way; to practise or profess something' (indicated by the s), as in boanize. Exx: advertise, perh a back-formation from advertisement; botanize, perh botan(y)+-ize but prob from botaniser; catechize, LL catechizāre, Gr katechizēin; cauterize, LL cauterizāre, Gr kautēriazein; solecize, Gr soloikizein. Except in vv from Propriety, Adj and Nn, Gr -izein has always an intensive force, often with a freq conn. Some -izein v derive from a simple v, as we see in catechize. Basically, therefore, -izein is a cpd: intensive (orig echoic) -iz-+ordinary inf -ein.

-ized, pp adj from -ize, as in civilized.

-izing (1), presp adj from -ize, as in 'a cauterizing agent'.

-izing (2), vn from -ize, as in 'His greatest weakness lies in his habit of philosophizing instead of acting'.

-k (1), adj, as in quick, slack, slick, and as in weak, derives from OE -c, which occurs in not a single native ModE adj. In the first three examples the suffix is perh -ck rather than -k.

-k (2), n, occurs mainly in words formed from adj or vv—and from OE -c or ME -c. Esq a dim as in stirk, a young bullock: OE stirc or styric, dim of stēor, a steer.

-k (3), v. Many native vv in -k are echoic. A few are either freq or intensive or both, as hark (heark, heark-en), lurk, skulk, smirk, stalk, (?) talk, walk. Usu from ME -ken, OE -cian, -ccian, or -cnian, themselves either from OE -can or -cian or -cnian or from ON -ka.

-kin, -kins; F -quin. The dim suffix -kin, the same in ME, derives from MD -kin or -kijn akin to OHG -kīn or -chīn, G -chen. Exx: firkin, late ME ferdekyn, on MD vierdekijn*; lambkin=lamb+-kin; kilderkin, from MD kilderkijn; manikin, from D manneken, represents, in its E form, man+connective -i+-kin. Mannequin also derives from the D word. The -kins form, as in sonnikins, has been influenced by such personal names as Jenkins, Sim(p)kins, Tom(p)kins, Wilkins, which mean 'son of Jenkin, Sim(p)kin, etc.'; the latter are themselves dimm for John, Tom, Will(iam), etc.

-l (1), adj: OE -l, app for -el, as in foul, OE fūl. Cf -el and -le, adjj.

-l (2), n: OE -el. It is either agential or instrumental or, occ, indicative of the result of action. Exx: (agential, etc) awl, OE awel, (lit) that which pierces—fowl, OE fugol, that which flies—hail—pail—sail—tail—stool; (dim) ? girl, ME girle, gerle, gurle—snail, OE snaeg(e)l or snegel, (lit) the little creeper. Cf -le, n.

-l (3), v: usu freq, though occ merely continuative. Many such vv are also echoic. (Cf -le, much commoner and with a wider conn.) Exx: drawl, app from draw; ? hurl, ME hurlen; kneel, OE cnēowlian, prob from cnēow, the knee; mewl, akin to mew; snarl, from obs syn snar; wail, ME wailen or weilen, from ON vāēla or vāla; whirl, ME whirlen, from ON.

-le (1), adj. When part of -able, -eble, -ible, -uble, qq.v., it usu=L -ilis. Cf:

-le (2), adj, as in humble and gentle, derives from L -ilis through F -le, as in humble, adopted from OF, from L humilis, or through F -il, f -ille, as in gentle, OF gentil, L gentilis. Conn: of (the nature of) the nn indicated by the s. Cf -el (1).

-le (3), adj. More important than (2) is the native group of adjj from ME -el (or -il) or OE -ol, 'indicating a tendency to the action expressed by the verb from which the adjective is derived, as in brickle [ME brekil, brokel, from OE brecan, to break], brittle [ME britel, from OE brēotan, to break], fickle [ME fikel, OE ficol]: Webster.

-le (4), n: OE -el, dim, sometimes corresponding to L -illa or -illus. Exx: axle, ME axel, akin to L axilla, dim of axis; freckle, app frek- (s of ME freken from ON freknuo)+-le; ? icicle; kettle, ult from L catillus, dim of catinus, a deep vessel.

-le (5), n: OE -el, agent or instrument. Exx: beadle, OE bydel; girdle, OE gyrdel, akin to—if not indeed derived from—gyrdan, to encircle.

-le (6), n. Echoic nn in -le usu derive from the vv. Cf:

-le (7), n. Of various L, through F, origins, as in the exx: battle, OF bataille, L battālia, from battuere, to strike; bottle, ME botel, OF bouteille, LL buticula; cattle, ONF catel, L capitāle; couple, adopted from OF from L copula; mantle, through OF from L mantellum, of obscure origin, but prob dim; pestle, OF pestel, L pistillum (or -illus), another dim; trestle, from L of -illum suffix.

-le (8), v: orig, always either freq or dim, and often echoic, as in crumble and crumple—joggle and jostle—sparkle and twinkle. Usu of Gmc origin; occ F, with E -le added, as in gobble (gob+euphonic b+-le), from F gober, to swallow. Cf:

-le (9), v: causal: a special application of prec. Exx: startle and stifle.

-ledge, in knowledge, is obscure. ME exhibits such various forms as -lage, -lege, -leche; nor does the word precede ME. I suggest that ME knowledge=knowage, where -age is collective (see -age (a) above) and that the intrusive -l- has arisen by false analogy with the -lege of such words as privilege and sacrilege. Sweet derives the n knowledge from the v knowledge, as others have done; he also explains -ledge as deriving from -laecan, as in genēalaecan, to approach, and -laecan as deriving from lāc, gift, (earlier) action in general.

-lent, adj, as in corpulent: L -lentus (f -lenta, neu -lentum) or -lent-, o/s of -lens; conn: 'showing a tendency towards' something indicated by a n; or towards action denoted by a v. Exx: corpulent, via F from L corpulentus, from corpus, the body; esculent, L esculentus, from ēasca, food; opulent, either L opulentus or, its originator, opulent-, o/s of opulens, from ops, riches; pestilent, L pestilent-, o/s of pestilens, from pestis, a grave epidemic disease.

[-less. See Elements.]

-let, adj: a cpd, formed from F -el (L -ellus, -ella, -ellum) and F -et, both dim: see -el, n, and -et, n, above. Purely and basically dim in, e.g., bracelet, orig an OF -et dim of bracel, (lit) a little arm, from L brachiāle, and ringlet, which=ring+-let, -let derivatively denotes 'something worn on or around' (the n designated by the s), as in armlet, which=arm+-let, and partly in bracelet.

[-like, adj. and adv. See Elements. The true suffix is -ly, adj and adv, qq.v.]

-ling (1), adj, derives either, as in darkling, from -ling, adv, or, as in darling, from -ling, n.

-ling (2); -lings, adv. The latter, occurring only in adv, arises in the gen of an OE n (cf the adv of a day); it forms a var of -ling, adv, which, deriving from OE -ling, is 'prob akin to Lith -link, linkti, to bend, incline' (Webster). The basic conn is 'direction', as in the Scots and E dial backlin(g)s, but the derivative conn 'state, condition' (? hence) 'manner', predominates, although, even here, 'direction' is felt. Exx: darkling, in the dark (? orig, towards the dark, into the dark); grovel(l)ing or grovel(l)ings, prostrately, app from an old adv groof, approximately syn, itself from ON.

-ling (3), n: OE -ling, akin to OHG -ling and Go -liggs: conn, 'A person or other living creature belonging to or possessing the qualities of' whatever is indicated by the s, as in darling, OE dēorling, (lit) a dear one, and worldling, world+-ling; hence, dim—often a pej dim—as in gosling, ME gos, a goose+-ling, and princeling, prince+-ling. Cf -long below.—Skeat regards OE -ling, at least in its use, as a cpd of dim -el and of -ing (3)—a suffix he postulates to be orig dim.

-lings. See -ling (2).

-lock, in wedlock: ME -lok, OE -lāc, with conn 'action', as in the OE rēaflāc, robbery, from rēafian (s rēaf-), to plunder.

-long, adv: conn 'direction': very closely akin to 2nd -ling, q.v. Exx: sidelong (side+-long), perh a var of sideling (side+adv -ling), sideways; headlong, ME hedling.

-ly (1), adj. ME -lich: OE -lic, usu -lic, from lic, body (as in lich gate: see LIKE in Dict): conn, 'resembling'—hence 'characteristic of'. Exx: fatherly, OE faederlic, father-like; manly=man+-ly. Attached to nn of time, it means '(happening) every', as in nightly, OE nihtlic.

-ly (2), adv: ME -liche=OE -lice or -lice; or, very commonly, anl. Conn: 'in the manner of' the adj or rarely the n forming the base. Exx: badly=bad+-ly; quickly, OE cwiculice; slowly, OE slāwlice; (from n) partly=part+-ly. By far the most frequent of E adv suffixes.

-m (1). See -asm and -ism, also -em, -im, -om, -um.

-m (2). In doom (OE dōm), -m app connotes 'result of the v' (deem); it is akin to the -m of Gr themis (s them-), law; in foam (OE fām), to that of L spūma, s spūm-; in haulm (OE healm), to that of L culmus (s culm-), a stalk, and Gr kalamos (s kalam-), a reed, and kalamē, a stalk. 'The A.S. [i.e., OE] suffix is -m, answering to Goth -ma, L -ma-s, Gr -μο-σ [mo-s] (-μη[-mē]): Skeat, who, to haulm, compares also Ru soloma, straw. The basic conn is app 'a (striking) manifestation of' whatever the s denotes; this conn is also present, I think, in bream, dream, scream, stream—in gleam—and in beam, ream, seam, team, even though these words lack cognates in L and Gr and even though the -m is, in several, thematic; several are akin to Skt words. The influence of this -m suffix may have affected also cream, from Gr khrisma. Cf -me (2) below.

-m (3) is a 'shortened' var of -me and is to be related to -ma, for it comes from the Gr suffix -ma. Exx: axiom, phlegm, problem. See ma-.

-m (4): L -men, through F -me. Exx: charm, OF charme, L carmen, song, perhaps from and almost certainly akin to canere, to sing; realm, OF realme, VL regālimen*, L regālis, akin to regere, to rule. Whereas carmen is a singing, regālimen* is a ruling—hence, a region, a country, ruled: the conn would therefore seem to be 'result or product of' the implied v. Cf the L -me below.

-ma, as in aroma, asthma, diploma, dogma, drama, enema, enigma, panorama, stigma, comes straight from Gr; these words, in fact, have been adopted from Gr. Anglicized forms occur either as -m (see prec) or as -me (2), q.v. below, or a -em, q.v. above. App -ma connotes 'the product or the result, of' (the implied v).

[-man. See MAN in Dict. In WOMAN it is perh less obviously 'man'.]

-mans, occurring only in the language of the underworld, appears at its most obvious in darkmans, darkness, the dark, and lightmans, the (full) light of day. It corresponds to the -ment of F adv and, of Skt origin, is therefore a form taken by the IE s of L mens, E MIND.

[-mas. See Elements and cf (the religious) MASS.]

-mat. See:

-mate, as in climate, and -mat-, as in climatic, dramatic, emblematic, prismatic, etc., represents IE mn-to, seen esp in Gr -ma-to. 'The suffix -to [-to] is added to oblique cases of sbs [substantives=nouns] ending in -μα [ma] . . . This suffix -μα [-mato] answers to L -mentum' (Skeat): cf, therefore, -mans above and the L mens, E MIND.

-me (1), adj, as in extreme, prime, supreme derives from the L sup -mus: extrēmus, prīmus suprēmus.

-me (2), n, from Gr -ma (cf, however, anagram) occ via L -ma and occ also via F -me or -mme. Usually the conn is 'result or product of' the implied v. Exx: gram(me), F gramme, LL gramma, Gr gramma; clime, L clīma, Gr klima, from klinein, to slope; programmme, F programme, LL programma, Gr programma, from propaghein; scheme, LL schēma, Gr skhēma, akin to—perh from—skhein, to have, hold, check.

-me (3), n, from L -men, occ via F -me. Exx: crime, adopted from OF, from L crīmen, from cernere, to decide in a court of law; legume, F légume, L legūmen, prob from legere, to gather; volumme, adopted from OF, from ML volumen, L uolūmen, from uoluere, to roll. The conn, evidently, is 'the result or product of' the v implied.

-me (4), n, as in dime, adopted from OF, from L decima (pars), the tenth part, and in prime, the first hour of the day, OE prim, L prīma (hora), represents L -ma, f of the adj suffix -mus. Cf (1).

-me (5), as in name, OE nama (akin to L nōmen and Gr onoma), is a rare suffix, akin to, yet distinct from, -me (3). Cf also -ma and -men.

-meal, as in piecemeal, has conn 'the portion taken at one time'. Formerly used more freely (as in the obsol inchmeal) in the formation of quantitative advv, it derives, through ME -mele, from OE -maelum, orig the dat pl of mael, a measure—the orig form of MEAL. Strictly, therefore, -meal is rather an element than a suffix.

-men is an adoption of the L -men, occurring only and very properly in words taken over bodily from L, as acumen, from acuerē, to sharpen; bitumen; gravamen, the ML form of LL grauāmen, from L grauāre, to burden; omen; regimen, from regere, to guide; specimen, from specere, to look. Conn: result or product of the action implied by the originating v: cf, therefore, -me (3).

-mena and -menon come straight from Gr and are rare and erudite. They represent the neu pl and the neu sing respectively of the presp of the middle, or of the passive, voice of Gr vv. Exx: prolegomena, pl construed as sing and much commoner than the sing prolegomenon, a preliminary discourse or introductory treatise, from prolegomenos, the passive pres of prolekein, to say or state beforehand, the adj being prolegomenary or prolegomenous; hapax legomenon (pl hapax legomena), lit something said only once, hence a word, or occ a form, recorded only once, the Gr being ἀπαξ λεγόμενον; phenomenon, LL phaenomenon, Gr phainomenon, neu presp of phainesthai, to appear or seem, from phainein, to show, the pl being phainomena, Gr phainomena.

-ment (cf -mente) is strictly an element, but, as -mentum, it occurs so often in L that it there became a suffix with the orig meaning (L mens, E mind) darkened or lost; often it comes into E through OF or F -ment. This n suffix occurs in nn formed mostly from vv. The L -mentum consists of -men- (cf -men above) and -ium and corresponds to Gr -ma-to-. Its conn is fundamentally 'result or product of' the action of the implied v and may be divided into:

concrete result or product, as in increment, L incrēmentum, from incrēscere, to increase; attachment, F attachement, from attacher, to attach; entanglement, which=entangle+-ment; or a physical means or instrument, as in ornament, OF ornement, L ornāmentum, from ornāre (s orn-), and nutriment, L nūtrimentum, from nūtrire—cf nourishment, OF nourissement (influenced by F nourrir), from OF norrir, from L nūtrire; action: as in abridgement, OF abregement, from abregier, from ML abbreviāre, L abbreviāre; government, OF gouvernement, from OF gouverner, from L gubernāre; statement=state (v)+-ment; state, quality, condition: amazement=(to) amaze +-ment; (hence) manner, as in arrangement, adopted from F, from the v arranger.

-menta. See -mentum.

-mental, adj, answers to -ment and -mentum. In E words, the formation is usu: the -ment n+-al, adj suffix, as in excremental and incremental. Instrumental comes direct from F, where it=F instrument+F -al. Cf:

-mentality (cf -ity and -ty), as in instrumentality, derives from prec and answers to -ment.

-mente occurs only in Mus and as an Italicism; e.g., rapidamente, adv of rapido, and subitamente, from subito. It -mente=F -ment, a suffix denoting manner: cf -ment above. The adv force arises from the fact that the It -mente derives from L -mente, (lit) with a mind, (hence) with or in an attitude of mind, (hence) in a manner indicated by the adj forming the s; as in the mus appassionatamente, with a mind, hence with a heart, impassioned; cf -mans above.

-mentum (cf prec) is the L source of -ment, q.v., and is preserved, occ alongside an E form, in a few erudite, esp if Med, terms. Exx: argumentum (ad hominem), pl argumenta (esp in Logic); excrēmentum, usu the pl excrēmenta. The L -mentum comes from -mento, a cpd of the IE suffixes -men (cf -men above)+-to; cf Gr -mato (-ma+-to), as at -mate above.

-mme, as in programme and in (other) F words, e.g. telegramme, is merely the F form of E -me (2); cf -m (3).

-mo, as in the Americanism sixteenmo for E sextodecimo (cf duodecimo), is a bookbinding suffix, indicating 'the number of leaves made by folding a sheet of paper' (Webster); theoretically it can apply only to decimo (10), practically to duodecimo (12), upwards, and it represents the abl of L ordinals (m in -imus).

[-monger. See Elements.]

-monious, adj, from -mony, n, the latter, often via F -monie or -moine, from L -mōnia or -mōnius, the former sometimes deriving from L adj in -mōniōsus, occ via F -monieux or the f -monieuse. The L n-suffix denotes a resultant, whether concrete or abstract. Exx: acrimony, (perh via F acrimonie, from) L ācrimōnia, from ācer, sharp, the adj acrimonious passing through F from ML ācrimōniōsus; alimony, L alimōnia, from alere, to nourish; matrimony, OF matrimoine, L matrimōnium, from māter, mother.

[-most. See Elements.]

-mus occurs in a few nn adopted from L, as Decimus and primus. In L, of course, it is an adj suffix.

-n (1), adj, as in leathern and silvern, is short for the -en of e.g. golden. See -en (2). Cf:

-n (2), adj, as in fain, derives from OE -en, akin to OS -an and ON -inn.

-n (3), in the pp of certain strong vv, mostly used as adj and also as nn, as blown, flown, known, sown: cf -en (11), q.v.

-n (4), adv, as in then and when (and basically in hence, thence, whence), derives from OE -nne, perh, as Nesfield suggests, akin to the acc m, as in OE hwone, acc m of hwa, who. But a comparison with the n in OE siththan, Scots syne, since; with that of G dann, then, wann, when, and numerous other Gmc forms in -n or -n- for 'then' and 'when'; with that of L nunc, now, dein, deinde, then, quando, when?, with that of Gr nun, now, epan, epen, after that; with forms in Sl and esp in Skt: such a comparison leads us to suppose that -n or -n- is an IE formative element indicative of time expressed in adv.

-n (5), n, as in thegn (thane), OE thegen or thegn, is of OE (and Common Gmc) origin and only the vaguest meaning; in this particular word, it perh=-en (7), the agential -en, as also in main, that which can: cf rain, that which dampens or wets—sun, that which shines (?)—thorn, that which pierces—wain, that which carries (Nesfield). Sweet notes that it interchanges with -en and (native) -on.

-n (6), v, is short for -en (10), q.v.—the -en of lengthen and shorten—and derives from OE -an or usu -ian or ME -en. Exx: fawn, OE fagnian or fahnian; drown, ME drunen or drounen; learn, OE leornian; own, OE agnian; turn, OE turnian or tyrnan; win, OE winnan.

-nce, -ncy. See -ance, -ancy, an entry including -ence, -ency and, of course, -ience, -iency.

-nd, n, is 'short' for -and (Northern), -ende (Midland), -inde (Southern), varr of the old presp suffix of vv. See -and (2) above. Of the predominant Midland -end (or -nd), Sweet remarks that "-end" is the noun-form of the present participle ending -ende, and forms nouns denoting agents from verbs, such as hæland "healer" . . . It became extinct in ME, its place being supplied by the ending -ere. But it still survives disguised in friend = OE frēond, literally "lover", and fiend = OE fēond "enemy", literally "hater".

-ness: OE -ness or -nes, or -nis, or -nys(s), akin to OHG -nissa (G -nis or -niss, OS -nissi, Go -inassus (cf the OHG var -nassi); orig the -n (occ -in) was thematic and therefore did not belong to the suffix proper. Fundamentally abstract and indicative of state or condition, quality or degree, as in greatness, goodness, illness, it yet forms a few nn (as wilderness and witness) that clearly retain the idea of abstractness. Orig it went only with native, but fairly soon it came to be added to, adj of L derivation also, for which, nevertheless, -ity is still preferred, as in spirituality for spiritualness. Exx: goodness, OE gōðnes; illness = ill + -ness; witness, OE witnes or gewitnes—cf OE gelicnes, whence likeness; jocosely in 'the whyness of life'. (Webster.)

-o (1) occurs in words adopted from the L abl of 2nd-declension nn in -us or -um, as in quarto and octavo (for in quarto, in octavo; cf folio for in folio)—in loco parentis—pro bono publico.

-o (2) occurs in nn or, occ, adj adopted or slightly adapted from It or Port or Sp. It and Sp -o mostly derives from, or has been formed as if from, L 2nd-declension -us or -um. Exx: cameo, It cammeo; cargo, Sp word; casino, dim of It casa, a house; flamingo, adopted from Port, itself from Sp flamenco; fresco, It; gusto, It; Sp junta, whence É junto; manifesto, It; mulatto, Port and Sp; negro, Sp; oratorio, It; scenario, It; seraglio, from It serraglio; studio, It; torso, It; virtuoso, It; volcano, It.

-o (3), as in 'All aliveo', very closely resembles the disguised interjection noted at -a (1) above, q.v.

-o (4) might be described as 'the slangy or, at best, coll -o', as in AIr boyo, one of 'the boys', and as in several Aus slang terms, e.g. afto, afternoon, and goodo, good.

-o-, connective, occ represents the L abl -o, rarely a L adv ending in o; exx: dorso-, as in dorso-caudal—proximo-, as in proximo(-)lingual—retro-, as in retroflex; undoubtedly, even here, the use of -o- with words of L origin has been influenced by the heavily preponderant Gr -o-. (The true L connective is -i-, q.v. above.)

The connective -o- is essentially and notably Gr. In Gr cpds, this -o- is usu 'the stem vowel' of the 1st element. In, e.g., logos, word, discourse, thought, the s is log-, the s vowel is -o, as we see from logo-s, logo-n, logo-i, etc.: hence, logography, log-o-metric. Occ o—so powerful in its connective influence—takes the place of another o vowel; and sometimes it is added, for euphony, to a s ending in a consonant. When the 2nd element begins with a vowel, connective o is usually omitted, as in aristarchy (aristo + -archy), from Gr aristarkhia, where the 2nd element is arkhia. When used with adj, it constitutes an adv modification, as in dolichocephalic, or it expresses mutuality, as in 'Anglo-French relations' and 'the Franco-Prussian War'. Very often -o- connotes (rather than denotes) some prep relationship, as in osteopathy, pathology, Russophobia.

-ock, dim of OE origin. Exx: bullock, OE bulluc, a young bull; buttock = butt, n + -ock; ? cassock, by analogy with other E nn in -ock (F casaque, It casacca, prob on s (cas-) of LL casubla); ? haddock, ME had(d)ok, perh from F hadot (s had-); hillock = hill + -ock; ? hummock, perh = hump + -ock, the p being assimilated to m; ? paddock, a deviation from the now Scots, and E dial, parrock, OE pearruc or -oc; paddock, a frog, a toad, ME paddok, dim of padde, a toad; tussock, perh from Swed dial tuss, a handful of hay. The -ock of shamrock derives from the cognate Ir suffix -og: Ir seamróg (cf Ga seamrag) is a dim of seamur.

-ode is either adj, conn 'like', or—more usu—n, conn 'a thing that resembles' (the n implied by the s), as in cladode (cf clad(o)- in Elements) and geode, a nodule of stone. In Bot and Zoo, the pl -odes indicates a generic name, as Acanthodes. The sing -ode derives from Gr -ōdēs, neu -ōdes: connective -o + -eidēs, like, from eidōs, a form. Cf -oid and -oidea below, and also:

-ody: Gr -ōdia, from -ōdēs (as in prec); -ōdia is therefore a cpd, the 2nd suffix being -ia, q.v. In Bot it signifies 'a becoming like, (hence) a metamorphosis into', as in petalody, suggested by Gr petalōdēs, leaf-like.

-oic, used in Chem for naming acids and related cpds, as in naphthoic, derives from benzoic. (Webster.)

-oid, adj—hence often n: Gr -oidēs, which = connective -o + -eidēs, q.v. at -ode above: occ through L -oides and then F -oide. Exx: adenoid, Gr adenoidēs, glandular; haemorrhoid, m—adj haemorrhoidal; spheroid, n, from L sphaeroidēs, (lit) ball-like, (hence) spherical, Gr sphairoeidēs, from sphaira, a sphere—adj spheroidal. The adj suffix -oidal = -oid + adj -al, q.v. See also -oidea.

-oidal. See prec.

-oidea, SciL suffix, based on -oid. This Zoo suffix designates a class or, in Ent, a superfamily. 'Nouns denoting individual members are formed in -oid, derivative adjectives in -oidean' (Webster);

-oidean=-oid+-ean. Ex: Muscoidea, from L musca, a fly.

-oidean. See prec.

-oideus, denoting muscles, as rhomboideus, is a SciL suffix=-oid+L -eus, q.v. at -eous above. (Webster.)

-oin, in Chem terms, e.g. acetoin, derives from benzoin.

[-ol and -ole, so common in Chem, are Elements.]

[-ology. See Elements.]

-om (1), adv, as in seldom, derives from OE -um, suffix of the dat pl. Exx: seldom, OE seldum, but also seldan and selden—cf OFris sielden, OHG seltan; whilom, OE hwilum, (lit) at times, akin to OHG hwilom.

-om (2), n, as in bosom, bottom, fathom, corresponds to -m (2) q.v. above. 'The o of this final -om was formerly not written; cf A.S. bōsm, botm, faethm. And, in fact, the final -m is here vocalic' (Skeat). With OE bōsm cf OFris bōsm and OHG buosam; with OE botm, OHG bodam and OS bodom; with OE faethm, OHG fadam or fadum. Ult, all three are akin to vv; indeed, they seem to denote the result of the action of the implied v.

-oma, n; -omatous, derivative adj. The n -oma has been either adopted or, at the lowest, formed anl with the Gr -ōma, o/s -ōmat- (e.g., gen -ōmatos). In Med, -oma indicates a morbid affection of the part designated by the basic n, as in sarcoma, from Gr sarkōma, from sarx, flesh, o/s sark-; the adj sarcomatous=sark+-omatous. Cf:

-ome, in Bot, indicates a group, a mass, a stem, and merely anglicizes Gr -ōma, q.v. in prec. All these words owe much to the exemplar rhizome. Exx: caulome=caul- (q.v. in Elements)+-ome; rhizome, Gr rhizōma, the mass of a tree's roots, a stem, (hence) a clan, a race.

-on (1), of Gr origin, represents either -ōn, whether n or presp m, as in archon, via L archon from Gr arkhōn—dragon, adopted from F, from Gr drakōn—horizon, via L horizon, from Gr horizōn—phaeton, via L from Gr Phaithōn, or -on, neu n or, occ, neu adj, as in automaton, from the neu s of Gr automatos, self-acting, and criterion, from Gr kritērion. In Phys it designates an ult particle, as in proton, from Gr prōton, neu of prōtos, first; in Chem, an inert gas, as in argon, adopted from Gr argon, neu of argos, sluggish.

-on (2), of L origin: -ōnem, acc of nn in -ō, o/s -ōn-. Exx: capon, OE capūn, from L capōnem, acc of capō; carbon, via F carbone, from carbōnem, acc of L carbō; glutton, via OF from glutōnem, acc of L glūtō or glūtō; sermon, via OF from sermōnem, acc of L sermō. 'The conn seems to be 'result or product of' the implied or kindred v.

-on (3), of L origin: -ōnus, m, or -ōna, f, or -ōnum, neu. Exx: matron, via OF matrone, from L mātrōna, which=matr-, o/s of mater, mother+-ōna; patron, via OF, from L patrōnus, which=patr-, o/s of pater, father+-ōnus. Clearly, -ōnus, -ōna are here aug (big father, big mother): here, therefore, we have the origin of -on, (4)–(6).

-on (4), of It origin (-one), is aug; occ it passes through F -on. Exx: gabion, adopted from F, from It gabbione, a large cage, from gabbia, cage, L cauea, ML cavea; medallion, via F médailion, from It medaglione, aug of medaglia; million, early It millione, aug of mille, 1000; squadron, It squadrone. Cf prec and -one (2) and:

-on (5), of Sp origin (-on), is likewise aug; it is closely akin to It -one, q.v. in prec. Ex: galleon, Sp galeón, from galea, adopted from ML. Cf prec.

-on (6), of independent F origin (-on), an aug that is akin to -on (3)–(5), qq.v. Exx: caparison, F caparaçon, from Prov caparassoun, from capa, a cape (for wearing); flagon, OF flacon, lit a large flask.

-on (7), from F -ain (L -ānus, denoting either 'agent' or, at vaguest, 'person': cf -an (1) above). Ex (sole ex ?): sexton, a doublet of sacristan, from OF secrestein, ML sacristānus.

-on (8), a suffix of native origin, in words of Gmc stock; a var of agential -en, q.v. at -en (7). Ex: wag(g)on, either from OE waegen (or waegn) or from MD waghen.

-one (1), of Gr origin (-ōn). Exx: cyclone, either from Gr kuklōn, (presp) moving in circles, or irregularly from kuklos, a circle, perh from the gen pl kuklōn; ozone, from Gr ozōn, presp of ozein, to smell.

-one (2): Gr -ōnē; conn 'female descendant'. It occurs in Chem, e.g. acetone.

-one (3): It -one, aug suffix. Exx: trombone, It trombone, aug of tromba, a trumpet; violone, It violone, aug of viola, a viol. Cf -on (3)–(6), esp -on (4); also -oon (1).

-ont, n: Gr -ont-, o/s of presp -ōn. Prototype: schizont, a Zoo cell, from skhizōnt-, o/s of skhizōn, presp of skhizein, to cleave (cf schism in Dict). Ex, likewise in Zoo: sporont, analogously from spor(e) +-ont. Cf the -ont- in horizontal.

-oon (1), aug: It -one (prob L -ōna, f of -ōnus; see 3rd -on) or Sp -ón; via through F -on. For this aug, cf -on (3)–(6). Exx: balloon, prob through F ballon and certainly from It ballone, aug of balla, a ball; bassoon, via F basson, from It bassone, aug of basso, low, deep; cartoon, F carton, It cartone, from carta, paper; musketoon, F mousqueton, It moschetone, from moschetto, a kind of hawk.

-oon (2), non-augmentative: It -one or Sp -ón; occ via F -on; rarely from independent F. Exx: buffoon, F buffon, It buffone, from buffare, to play tricks, make jests; dragoon, F dragon, L dracōnem, acc of dracō—cf dragon; macaroon, F macaron, It maccherone; maroon, F marron, Sp cimarrón; poltrone, F poltron, It poltrone, from poltro, bed; quadroon, Sp cuarterón. Conn: one who notably does or notably is. Analogous formation: spittoon, which=spit+euphonic t+-oon.

-or (1), adj, in major and minor, is a var of -ior as in inferior and superior. Adopted from L. See -ior.

-or (2), abstract n, either adopted from L -or or passing through OF-MF -or or -our or -ur; or, of course, formed analogously at either the F or the E stage. At the ME level, the form is -or or -our or -ur. Exx: error, L from errāre (s err-), to wander; pallor, L from pallēre, to be pale. Words that have passed through OF -our or -ur tend, in E, to be spelt -our; AE prefers the L -or. Exx: fervour, OF fervour or fervor, ML fervor, L fervor, from ML fervēre, L feruēre, and honour, ME honor, honour, onur, OF honor, honur, onur, enour, L honor.

-or (3), agential n, either adopted from L -or, often via OF-MF -or, -ur, -our, or F -eur, or deriving ult from L -ātor but imm from OF -ēor or -ēur (F -eur). Exx: actor, L from act-, pp s of agere, to drive, ply, do; creditor, F créditeur, L crēditor, from crēdere (s crēd-), to believe; donor; OF donōr, L donātor, from donāre (s don-), to give. An agent may become an instrument, as in ejector, which = eject + -or; there are many such analogous agents and instruments; e.g., sailor. Strictly -or goes with words of L origin, -er (see -er (4) above) with words of Gmc origin; but bachelor comes from OF bachelor, -er being OF var agential suffix. The correlative is -ee, q.v., as in lessor—lessee.

-or (4), n, from OF-F -oir or OF-MF -our or -eor. Exx: manor, OF manoir, from manoir, to stay, dwell, from L manēre; mirror, OF mirour, mireor, from VL miratōrium*, from L mirāri, to gaze at; parlor, British E parlour, OF parleor, ML parlatōrium, a place for talking. The conn is 'a thing for, a place for'.

-ora: either Gr -ορα, -ora, or Gr -ωρα, -ōra. Exx: agora, Gr agora, an assembly (hence, place of assembly), from agein (s ag-), to lead or drive—cf AGENT; plethora, LL plethora, Gr plēthōra, from plēthein (s plēth-), to be, to become, full. Conn: 'result of the action or process' of the v concerned.

-ore. Exx: commandore, earlier commandore, F commandeur, from commander; stedevore, Sp estivador, a packer, from estivar, from L stipāre. Conn: agent. Cf, therefore, -or (3).

-orions is a cpd adj suffix, formed of the ōri- of L ōrius (see -ory, adj) + -ous, q.v. Exx: ensorious, L ensōrius, from ensor; gubernatorious, LL gubernatōrius, from L gubernator; notorious, ML notōrius, from L notus, (well) known; victorious, ML victōriōsus, L uictōriōsus. Sometimes, as we see, the origin seems to be simply L -ōrius via OF -orios.

-orium, n suffix, with conn 'something belonging to', esp 'a place for' or 'a thing used for'. Adopted from L, it was, there, orig the neu of adj in -ōrius. Exx: auditorium, L from auditōrius (for hearing), from audire (s aud-), to hear; crematorium, Mod L, by analogy—cf ML laboratōrium. Cf -arium above and the 2nd -ory below.

-ory (1), adj: L -ōrius, f -ōria, neu -ōrium; occ through ONF -ori, f -orie, or OF -oir, f -oire. Conn: belonging to, (hence) serving for, used for: cf prec. Exx: auditory, L auditōrius, pp s audit- (from audire, to hear) + -ōrius; sensory, from the LL n sensorium, itself from an unrecorded adj sensorius, from sens-, the pp s of sentire, to feel. Cf

-ory (2), n: L -ōrium, occ through ONF -orie or F -oire. Merely the E shape of -orium, q.v. above.

Exx: conservatory, ML conservatōrium, from ML conservāre, L conseruāre; consistory, ONF consistorie, L consistōrium, a place for sitting together (consistere); offertory, LL offertōrium.

-os, n: Gr -os, n and adj, or ōs: corresponding to L -us, n and adj. Exx: Dolichos, a bot genus, from Gr dolikhos, long or narrow; Helios, the Gr sun-god Hēlios; rhinoceros, through L from Gr rhinokerōs. (Webster.)

-ose (1), adj: from L -ōsus and therefore a 'doublet' of -ous, q.v. Conn: intimately, esp if excessively, associated with the implied n. Exx: morose, L morōsus, from mor-, the o/s of mos, custom, habit (of life); verbose, ML verbōsus, L uerbōsus, from uerbum, a word. (Cf -ous.) The corresponding nn have -osity, from—or in the analogy of words from—L nn in -ōsitāt-, o/s of -ōsitās, as verbosity, ML verbōsitās, LL uerbōsitās; porosity, perh via F porosité, certainly from ML porōsitās.

-ose (2), n. This chem suffix has been borrowed from F, which based it on F glucose, itself from Gr gleukos, sweet wine. Exx: albumose, cellulose, fructose.

-osis: Gr -ōsis, often via L -osis: conn, 'condition' or 'state', esp if excessive or diseased, hence 'process', hence 'physiological formation or increase'. Exx: hypnosis, SciL, perh prompted by L hypnoticus; narcosis, SciL from Gr narkōsis; varicosis = varic(ose) + -osis. The adj is -otic, as below.

-osity. See -ose (1), last sentence.

-ot (1): Gr -ōtēs, often through L -ōta. Exx: pilot and zealot (Gr zēlōtēs), where the conn is 'doer, user'. Usu, however, -ot is a mere var of -ote (q.v.), 'native or inhabitant of'.

-ot (2): occurring in words adopted or adapted from F, where -ot is a dim, as it is in words adapted from It (-otta). Exx: ballot, It ballotta, a little ball, from balla, a ball; parrot, F Perrot, dim of Pierre—cf Pierrot, another dim of Pierre.

-ote: Gr -ōtēs, often through L -ōta and occ through F -ot: conn 'native or inhabitant of', as in Cypriote, now usu Cypriot, F Cypriot, post-Class Gr Kupriōtēs. Gr -ōtēs is app a cpd of -ot + 'agent' or 'inhabitant' -ēs.

-otic: adj suffix, of Gr origin (-ōtikos), answering to nn in -ōsis, q.v. above. Ex: narcotic, imm from either F narcoitque or ML narcoticus, from Gr narkōtikos (s nark-), from narkoun (s nark-), to numb or stupefy; neurotic, neur(osis) + -otic, from neuron, a nerve.

-our. See -or (2), the abstract -or. In late ME and also in EE, the agential instrumental -or was also spelt -our, which, indeed, predominated during that period, owing to the influence of OF-MF -our in such nn. Very rarely -our represents the L -(ā)tōrium, as in parlour, OF parleor for parleoir, from ML parlatōrium, a place for talking.

-ous: L -ōsus, f -ōsa, neu -ōsum: often via OF -ous or -os, -us or -eus, occ via Mod F -eux, f -euse. (Cf -ose above.) Sometimes -ous represents Gr -os, usu via L -ōsus. Conn: (richly) possessing, of the nature of, like (the n implied). Exx: gracious, OF gracious, L grātiōsus, from grātia; joyous, OF joyous, ML gaudiōsus, from gaudia; polygamous, Gr polugamos, in a state of polygamy. Cf also -eous.

-ow (1), adj: OE -u or -we. Exx: callow, ME calewe or calu, OE calu; mellow, ME melwe, OE melu, meal (flour); yellow, ME yelow, yelwe, OE geolu. Conn: of the nature or quality of. Cf -w (1).

-ow (2), n: OE -we or -wa. Exx: barrow, ME barow, barewe, from OE beran, to bear—therefore, lit, the bearer or carrier; meadow, OE māēdwe, nom māēd—? that which is mown; shadow, ME shadowe or shadewe, from an oblique form of OE sceadu—? that which shades. Cf -w (2).

-ple, as in duple, triple, quadruple, simple: either from L -plex, as seen from the naturalized words duplex, triplex, complex, or from the cognate -plus, as seen from duple. Exx: duple, L duplus; quadruple, F quadruple, L quadruplus; quintuple, F quintuple, LL quintuplex; sextuple, from L sex, six, by analogy with quadruple; simple, OF simple, L simplex; triple, perh via F triple, certainly from L triplex. The conn is 'fold', as in manifold, which is syn with multiple (F multiple, L multiplex). See, therefore, -plex in the Elements list.

-quin. See -kin.

-r (1), adj, as in fair, ME fayer or faiger, OE faeger—cf ON fagr and OHG fagar. It derives from OE -er. Cf -er (2), non-comp adj.

-r (2), n, as in lair: OE -or or -er: conn, either 'instrument' or 'action' or 'result of action': cf, therefore, agential -er, q.v. at -er (4) above. Exx: lair, ME leir, OE leger (cf OHG legar), act of lying, a place for lying; stair, ME steir or steyer, OE stāeger; both of which clearly derive from vv—OE licgan, to lie (down), and OE stīgan, to ascend.

-ra, as in Hydra (s Hyd-, which=Gr Hud-). Hydra, the monster living in the marshy lake of Lerna, is, through L Hydra, the Gr Hudra, from hudōr (s hud-), water; -ra is a f suffix, the m suffix being -ro. Cf the -ra of L lutra, an otter, and the corresponding Skt -rās and Zend -ra.

-re (1), adj. See -er (2), the adj suffix of eager and AE meager.

-re (2), n, adv: OE -re or -r: predominant conn, 'time'—hence 'place (in time, hence in space)'. Exx: ever, ME ever or, earlier, aefre, OE āefre—hence never, OE nāefre; here, ME her, OE hēr, a form common in the Old Gmc languages; there, ME ther or thar, OE thāēr, thār, thēr, cf Go and ON thar; where, ME wher or whar, OE hwāēr, cf Go hwar and OHG hwār.

-re (3), n. A rare var of agential-instrumental -er. Ex: squire, aphetic for esquire, OF esquier or escuier, L scūtārius (s scut-), a shield-bearer, from scūtum, a shield: here, -re ult=-ārius.

-re (4), n, as in calibre: F -re. Exx: calibre (AE caliber), F calibre, il calibre; fibre (AE fiber), F fibre, L fibra. The conn is very vague, although it does seem to connote 'a concrete result, or a concrete form, of some action or process'.

-red (1): ME -rede: OE -rāeden, from rāeden, rule, stipulation, direction, condition, state. Same conn as -head, q.v. Exx: hatred, ME hatred, earlier hatreden, with -reden=OE -rāeden; kindred, which consists of kin+intrusive d+-red, from ME kinrede or kynrede, earlier kynreden or kunreden.

-red (2), in hundred, OE hundred, which=hund, 100+-red, akin to OFris rethe, Go rathjo, a number, a reckoning, hence ult to REASON.

-rel, dim: a reduced form of -erel, q.v. above. See esp OED at -rel.

-ress. See -tress.

-ric or archaic -rick. Sole (?) ex: bishopric, OE bisceoprice, where -rice=rīce, dominion, kingdom; rice is akin to L regnum. Strictly, a c/f, an Element.

-rix. See -trix.

-ry. A reduced form of -ery (1), q.v. above. Exx: chivalry, jewelry (cf jewellery), revelry, rivalry, yeomanry (an analogous formation).

-s (1), adv: short for -es (1) above, i.e. for OE -es, gen of neu and strong m nn. Exx: always, which=all+way+adv -s; besides, an -s var (cf ME besides) of adv beside; days, by day, during the day, as in 'He lay awake nights and moped days'; efisoons, ME efisones, a var of efisone; needs, necessarily, OE nēdes; unawares, an analogous var of adv unaware.

-s (2), n, is very common in words adopted from Gr and L, where -s is the most freq suffix for the nom case: notably in Gr words ending in -as, -is, and esp -os, and in L words ending in -as, es, -is and esp -us. Exx: Greek, Lycidas (Gr Lukidas), aphesis (Gr aphēsis), pathos; Latin, adamus, animus, etc. See also the separate Gr and L endings.

-s (3), n. The usual pl of native nn, as boy—boys: ME -s, -es, from OE -as.

-s (4), v. The usual suffix for the 3rd person sing of the pres ind, as 'He hits'. From MSc -s, -es, a Northern form supplanting Midland -eth. Cf -es (5) above.

-se (1), adj, as in diverse and sparse: L -tus, pp, changed into -sus in certain combb, esp in predominantly adj forms or in adjj presumably pps at first. Exx: dense, F dense, L densus; diverse, OF divers, ML diversus, pp of ML divertere, L diuertere, to turn in various directions; sparse, L sparsus, pp of spargere, to strew or scatter. (Sweet.)

-se (2), adv. A var of adv -es, q.v. at -es (1) above; cf prec. Ex: else, OE elles, gen of a lost adj elle, 'other', akin to OHG elles, otherwise.

-se (3), n: Gr -sis. Exx: apocalypse, LL apocalypsis, Gr apokalupsis; base, F base, L basis, Gr basis; phase, Gr phasis. Conn: result of a v. Cf -sis.

-se (4), v: OE -sian. Ex: cleanse, OE clāēnsian, from clāēne, clean; glimpse, earlier glimse, cf MHG glimpsen and E gleam and glim. A var is presented by bless, ME bletsen, OE bletsian or bledsian or bloedsian, from OE blād, blood, 'the original meaning being "to sprinkle (the altar) with blood"' (Sweet). Clearly -se is a freq suffix.

-sh (1), adj, as in fresh and rash, is perh a var of the dim -ish (see 1st -ish). Exx: fresh, OE fersc, influenced by fresche, the f of OF fres or freis; rash, MLG rasch. But in Welsh—cf Irish, Turkish—the suffix -sh, so far from being dim, merely connotes 'characteristic of, belonging to' (esp the country or the people designated by the n): Welsh, OE waelisc or welisc, from wealth, a stranger, a foreigner. Cf also -ch (1): the -ch of French and Scotch.

-sh (2), n. In dish, -sh=Gr -skos, via L -scus. a var of Gr -sk, q.v. below.

-sh (3), v. Except for vv in -ish, q.v. at -ish (3) above, -sh tends to be ehoic, as in clash, dash, flash, gash, smash, splash—swish—splosh—gush.

-ship: ME -schipe: OE -scipe, akin to OFris -skipe, OHG -scaf, G -schaft. Orig with adj, as in hardship, but now only with nn, mostly with nn designating persons. The chief senses of -ship are (1) state, condition, quality, as in hardship (hard+-ship), friendship (OE frēondscipe), kinship (kin+-ship); (2) something exhibiting or involving a state or a quality, as in fellowship (fellow+-ship) and township (OE tūnscipe); (3) a dignity, an office, a profession, as in lordship (OE hlāfordscipe), clerkship (clerk+-ship); (4) one entitled to the rank denoted by the basic n, as in 'His Lordship'; (5) a special ability, esp a skill or an art, as in statesmanship, seamanship, batsmanship. As those exx show, the fundamental conn is 'a shaping (to an end), a creating': -ship, OE -scipe, is akin to OE sclēppan, to shape, to create: cf, therefore, SHAPE.

-sion. See -tion. Note the co-existence of torsion, distortion.

-sis: Gr -sis, often through L -sis; conn: 'state, condition', esp as the result of a clearly discernible v. Exx: analysis, ML analysis, Gr analusis, from analuein, to unloose, (hence) to resolve into its elements; catalysis, Gr katalusis. But mostly in the extended forms -asis, -esis, -osis, qq.v.

-sk (1), Gr. But the true suffix is -isk, q.v. above.

-sk (2), Scan. Conn: 'self', such vv being orig reflexive. Exx: bask, from ON bathask, to bathe oneself, from batha, to bathe; busk, ME busken, from ON būask, to prepare oneself, from būa, to prepare. Ult -sk is a reduction of ON sik, self, akin to Go sik, OHG sih, L se.

-some (1), adj, as in winsome: OE -sum, akin to OHG (and G) -sam, ON -samr, OE -sams: ult id with SAME, Lit 'like' or 'same as', it connotes possession, to a marked degree, of the quality denoted by the base of the adj: that base is usu n, sometimes v. Exx: awesome=awe, n+-some; fearsome=fear, n or v+-some; loathsome=loath, n+-some, the late ME form being lothsom; winsome, OE wynsum (wynn, joy+-sum)—cf OHG wunnisam.

-some (2), n: OE sum, q.v. at SOME: conn 'in all' or '(working or playing) together'. Exx: twosome, threesome, foursome, all mod words.

-ss. See -se (3).

-st (1), adj and adv=sup -est. See -est (1) above.

-st (2), n: OE -st: cf -est (2). Conn: 'an instance of the vn, e.g. trusting' or 'the vn, e.g. trusting regarded as an entity'; app it derives orig from the corresponding v. Exx: blast, OE blāest, akin to ? from—blawan, to blow; grist, OE grist, from grindan; to grind; mist, OE mist—cf late M miselen, to drizzle; trust, either from ON traust or from OE trauwan, to trust; tryst, doublet trust.

-st (3), prep, as amidst. Exx: amidst, ME amiddes from OE on middan, in the middle. 'The s is a adverbial genitive ending [see -s (1) above]; the t excrement, as in whilst' (Webster); amongst, ME amongist, amonges; whilst, by analogy with amidst, amongst, from while—an explanation fitting the adv, the conj, the prep whilst.

-ster; -stress. Orig f, but later m or common. -ster derives from OE -estre or -istre, akin to M -ster. In songster and seamster and spinster, it is the change from f to m or common has caused seamster to become seamstress and the f of songster to become songstress; -stress is a double suffix (and, strictly, a double f)=-ster+-ess (q.v. above), -steress becoming -stress. The conn 'agent', esp one who works at the activity, occupation, profession, trade, skill denoted by the base of the word, usu a n but sometimes a v and occ as in youngster, an adj. In the mod period, -ster is occ depreciatory, as in rhymester: a usage influenced by -aster (as in poetaster), q.v. above. Exx: roadster=road+-ster; seamster (OE sēam-estre), later sempster, both now m; seamstress, sempstress=the former+-ess; songster, OE sangestere; songstress=songster+-ess, songsteress becoming songstress; spinster, ME spinster (spinn- v+-ster), akin to MD spinster; Webster, surname from webster, a weaver (orig f), OE webbestre, youngster=young+-ster.

-stress. See prec.

-sy (1), as in minstrelsy, is a rare var of -cy (as in fallacy), q.v. above, from VL-ML -cia or L -tia or from Gr -keia (-kia) or -teia (-tia).

-sy (2), as in ecstasy: Gr -sis. Thus: ecstasy of occ extasy, MF extasie, LL ecstasis, Gr ekstasis from existanai, to derange; palsy, ME palesie from parlesie (or -sy), OF paralyisie, Gr paralusis. Cf therefore, -sis above.

-t (1), adj of L origin in -tus, f -ta, neu -tum: from the pp of L vv. Exx: abrupt, L abruptus, pp of abrumper, to break off; content, via OF from L contentus, pp of continere, to hold together; extinct, L extinctus, pp of extinguere, to put out (e.g. a fire). Cf, therefore, the adj in -ate, -ete, -ite, -ute qq.v. separately.

-t (2), adj of Gmc origin, as in right: OE -riht. Exx: bright, ME briht, OE bryht, app for the more usu beorht, with cognates in the old Gmc languages: right, ME right, earlier riht, OE riht, with old Gmc cognates; slight, ME slight, sleht, with old Gmc cognates. Very old Gmc adj of quality, and of independent origin.

-t (3), n of Gr origin: occ via L. Sometimes from Gr -tē (-τη), via L -ta, as in crypt, L crypta, Gr kruptē, from pp kruptos, hidden, and cist, L cista, Gr kistē; rarely from Gr -ta, as in diet, OF diet, L diaeta, Gr diaita, more often from the Gr agential -tēs (-της), as in poet, OF poëte, L poëta, Gr poiētēs, and prophet, OF prophete, L prophēta, Gr prophētēs.

-t (4), n of L origin, as in act. Exx: act, L actus, a doing, and actum, a thing done, from agere, to ply, to do; fact, L factum, a deed, from facere, to make or to do. Such words ult represent the L pp in -tus: cf: -t (1): therefore they derive from pp adj. As in counterfeit (imm from F), the t is strictly thematic.

-t (5), n, as in drought, is a var of -th, with an abstract conn (= -ness, q.v.). Exx: drought (with var drouth), ME droght, earlier drougth, OE drūgath, from drugian, to dry; height (rare var highth), ME heigte, heighth, OE hiehtu, hēahthu—cf hēah, high; sleight, ME sleight, sleighte, sleght, from ON slægth. Perh also night, ME niht, OE niht, usu neah, with many IĒ cognates: Gmc, Celtic, Slavic, L (noct-, o/s of nox), Gr (nukt-, o/s of nux), Skt nakta, nakti.

-t (6), n of action, derived from v. Exx: fight, ME fight, earlier feht, OE feoht, from feohtan, to fight; flight, ME fliht or flucht, akin to OE flēon, to flee; fright, ME frigt or freght, OE fyhto, app for var fyrhto, prob from fyrhtian, to frighten; gift, ME gift, app from ON gift, akin to OE gifan, giefan; thrift, ME thrift, adopted from ON, from thrifast, to thrive.

-t (7), n: var of -est (2) and -st (2), qq.v. above: of OE origin. Exx: rust, OE rūst (prob also rust), akin to obs rud, red, from OE rudu; wrist, OE wrist, akin to wriþan, to twist.

-t (8), preterite of certain weak (i.e., regular) vv, as alternative of -ed: see -ed (3) above. Exx: burnt for burned, stript for stripped.

-t (9), pp—hence pp adj—for, and usu deriving from, -ed. Ex: bought (ME boht), dwelt, spent.

-te (1), adj and derivative n. See -ate, -ete, -ite, -ute, all of L origin. Cf also -t (1) and (4).

-te (2), n: Gr origin in -tēs (-της), an agential suffix. Ex: apostate, OF apostate, L apostata, Gr apostatēs. Cf -t (3), s.f.

[-teen. See Elements.]

-ter (1), n of Gr origin. Ex: presbyter, LL presbyter, Gr presbuteros, where the suffix -teros indicates the m comp of adj (cf proteros, former); -ter is a very ancient comp suffix in IE.

[-ter (2), n of Gr origin in -tron, often through L -trum and occ through F -tre. Also in form -tre, predominantly E, -ter being mostly AE. Exx: diameter, OF diametre, L diameterus, Gr diameteros; meter and metre, OF metre (F mètre), L metrum, Gr metron; scepter or sceptre, OF sceptre, L sceptrum, Gr skēptron. The conn is: agent or instrument. But this is only an app suffix, for the t of -ter is thematic, as it also is in -ter words deriving from L -trum independently of Gr -tron, as in filter, F filtre, ML filtrum.]

-ter (3): Gmc; conn: ? 'agent'. Exx: daughter,

OE dohtor or dohter; sister, perh ON systir, akin to OE sweostor (or -er).

-ter (4), n of Gmc origin; conn 'result of' (implied v), with an abstract tinge. Exx: laughter, OE hleahtor, akin to hleghan, to laugh; slaughter, ME slauhter, from ON slātr, akin to OE slēan. Virtually the same OE or other Gmc suffixes as in (3). In murder and slaughter, the d/t is prob thematic; in laughter, prob not.

-teria. Arbitrary from cafeteria, as in AE radio-teria.

-tery, as in artery, cemetery, mystery: of Gr origin. Exx: artery, L artēria, Gr artēria; cautery, L cautērium; cemetery, LL coemetērium, Gr koimētērion; mystery, L mystērion, Gr mustērion; phylactery, LL phylactērium, Gr phulaktērion; psaltery, OF psalterie, LL psaltērium, Gr psaltērion. Gr -ēria, -ērion, hence L -ēria, -ērion, denotes a result of the action of a v (always discernible). But the t of -tery might fairly be adjudged thematic: see, therefore, -ery (2).

-th (1), ordinal adj: after a vowel, -eth; OE -(o)tha. Exx: fourth—cf OE fēorþa, from fēower, 4; fifth, OE fīfta; twentieth, OE twentigoþa.

-th (2), n abstract from adj or v: imm Gmc, ult of ancient IE stock. Exx: birth, ME from or akin to ON byrth (var of burthr), akin to Go (ga)baurths and to the OE v beran; health, OE hæleth, from hāl, hale; truth, OE trēowth—cf trēowe, faithful. Skeat equates -th to Gmc -thi and IE -ti, very common, esp in L.

-th (3), v: a var of -eth (2), q.v.—the suffix of the press ind, 3rd person sing, as in doth and hath.

-ther (1), adj and pronoun, as in either and other. Exx: either, ME aither, OE ægþer; other; OE ōther; pronoun whether, OE hwether, hwaether. The Gmc suffix alternates between -ther and -thar, and -der and -dar; and -er occurs in L, as in uter, and in Gr, as in poteros.

-ther (2), adv, as in hither: OE -der: conn, 'towards'. Exx: hither, OE hider; thither, OE thider; whither, OE hwider. All three with several IE cognates, esp Gmc. Cf the 2nd -re.

-ther (3), n: Gmc: concrete. Exx: heather, ME hudder or hathir, perh ON heithr; leather, OE lether, akin to ON lethr, OHG ledar.

-ther (4): Gmc: agent or instrument. Exx: brother, OE brōther, akin to OS brothar, ON brōthir, OHG bruodar, Skt brātar-; father, OE faeder, akin to OS fadar, ON fathir—also to L pater, Gr patēr; mother, OE mōdor, akin to OS mōdar, ON mōthir—also to L māter, Gr mētēr, Skt matr;—lather, OE lēathor; weather (? 'that which withers', v.t.), OE weder, akin to OS wedar, OHG wetar; wether, OE wether, with many cognates, Gmc and other. The OE forms of the suffix are, therefore, -thor, -dor, -der.

-tic, adj. See -atic, -etic, itic, -otic, -utic.

-tion, a cpd abstract-n suffix, deriving from L -tiōn-, o/s of nn in -tiō, often via OF -cion or F -tion; formed from vv; and denoting action, hence both the corresponding abstraction and the concrete result or a concrete instance. Commoner than the var -sion (as in tension) and much commoner than the var -xion (connexion, reflexion). Ex: caution, adopted from OF, from cautiōnem (o/s cautiōn-), the acc of cautiō, from cauēre (s cau-), to be on guard. The answering adj form is -tious, as in cautious, from L cautus.—Cf -ion. Prop, the -t- is thematic and belongs to the s of the L pp.

-tious. See prec.

[to, in hereto, thereto, and into, onto, is the prep to.]

[ton, in place-names, e.g. Boston, is identical with TOWN. See Elements.]

-tor (1), as in polyhistor (Gr poluistōr, erudite), a person of many-sided learning, represents Gr -tōr, akin to -tēr, of general agential conn. Thus, polyhistor, 'a much-knower', πολυστορω=πολύ, much+στορω, one who knows.

-tor (2). Cf -ator and see -or (3).

-tre, no f Gr origin -tron, often via L -trum (or from some L n formed analogously) and occ via F -tre (whether from the Gr or the L suffix). See the 2nd -ter.

-tress, f agential suffix answering to m -ter or -tor, where the -t- is thematic; strictly, the suffix is -ress, not -tress, and this -ress is clearly short, at least in principle, for -eress or -oress, as we see from actor, actress—hunter, huntress—seamster, seamstress.

-trice, in e.g. executrice, is obs for -trix, q.v., sometimes via It or F -trice: cf It esecutrice, F exécitrice. It survives, however, for It (occ via F) -trice in e.g. cantatrice.

-trix, as in aviatrix, executrix, testatrix, is a f agential, corresponding to m -tor: L -trix, as in bellatrix, a female warrior (m bellator). Clearly a cpd, prob short for -torix; the true f 'answer' to L -or is L -rix.

-tude, n; -tudinous, adj. See -itude.

-ty (1), abstract n of L origin in -tās, o/s -tāt- (gen -tātis), often via OF -te or tē, or F -té. (Cf, therefore, -ity.) Exx: beauty, OF beaute or beute, VL bellitās* (acc bellitātem*), from bellus, pretty; liberty, OF liberté, L libertās, o/s libertāt-, from liber, free; vanity, OF vanité, ML vānitās, o/s vānitāt-, from ML vānus (L uānus), empty.

-ty (2): OE -tig, akin to OFris -tich, ON -tigr, Go -tigus, G -zig: in numerals, denoting 'tens', as twenty, two tens, OE twēntig, OFris twintich; thirty, by metathesis from OE thrittig.

[-ual, as in gradual (ML graduālis, from gradus, a step) and punctual (ML punctuālis, from punctus, a point), is only an app suffix, for the u is thematic. See -al, adj.]

-ubility, n; -uble, adj. See -bility.

-ude, n; -udinous, adj. See -itude.

-ula, f; -ulum, neu; -ulus, m; pl, resp -ulae, -ula, -uli. These are L forms of dim nn, and the anglicized -ule often comes through F. The E adj corresponding to all forms is -ular, occ through F -ulaire, from L -ulāris, m and f, and -ulāre, neu; -ular, however, sometimes derives from such L nn in -ulus, -ula, -ulum as are not, at first sight, dim o/s, rarely, are not dim at all.

Exx: cellule, analogously from cell—ad cellular; homuncule, L homunculus, pl homunculi (both adopted by SciE), dim of homo, a man; molecule, F molécule, analogously from L mōlecula, mass—adj, molecular, analogously from moleculæ regula, adopted by Arch from the L for a ruler (for measuring), the f dim, as regulus, a petty ruler; the m dim, of rex, a king, a ruler—adj, regulus; L regulāris, from regula; secular, L saeculāris, from saeculum, a generation, a race, (hence the races of) the world, saeculum being prob dim in neu -ulum from saec- for ? ser-, the s of serere to sow (seeds). Cf -cule.

-ulae. See prec.

-ular, adj. See -ula.

-ulent, adj: L -ulentus, often via F -ulent: conn 'rich in' or 'having many or much'. Exx: corpulent, adopted from F, from L corpulentus, from corp- (s corp-), body; fraudulent, via OF, from L fraudulentus, from fraud-, o/s of fraus, trickery.

-uli. See -ula.

-ulose: L -ulōsus, a cpd of -ul(us)+-ōsus, occ via F -uleux, f -uleuse: conn, 'rich in' or 'characterized by' (cf, therefore, -ulent). Exx: cellulose, an analogical formation, consisting of cell+-ulose; fabulose (a rare var of fabulous), L fabulōsus; granulose, likewise analogous. Cf:

-ulous: (a) L -ulōsus, occ via F -uleux, f -uleuse: conn as prec. Ex: fabulous, L fabulōsus, from fabula, a fable, itself from fāri, to say.

(b) L -ulus: conn, 'tending to' (do what the implied v denotes). Ex: L credulus, from credere (s crēd-), to believe.

-ulum, -ulus. See -ula.

-um: L -um, neu n of 2nd dec: conn, 'concrete object' or 'physical aspect of one'. The E words come either directly or imitatively from L. Exx: forum, adopted from L; medium, L n from adj medius, middle; platinum, SciL from earlier platina.

-und (1), adj: L -undus. conn, 'of the nature of' (the n implied). Exx: jocund, via OF from ML jocundus, LL iocundus, from L iūcundus, pleasant, but influenced by iocus, a joke: rotund, L rotundus, from rota, a wheel.

-und (2), n. In gerund, -und=L -undium (LL gerundium, n from gerere, to bear).

-uous: sometimes L -uus (connective -u-+adj -us) and sometimes L -uōsus (connective -u-+-ōsus), occ via OF -uoux or F -ueux, f -ueuse: conn, 'of the nature of' or 'belonging to' or, if from a v, 'tending to'. Exx: ambiguous, L ambiguus, from ambigere, to wander about; fatuous, L fatuus; impetuous, F impétueuse, f of impétueux, from L impetuōsus, from the n impetus.

-ure (1), n. L -ūra—often via F -ure—app from the implied v, with consequent conn 'act or process, or being', as in censure, adopted from F, from L ensūra, from ensēre, to value, (hence) to tax; culture, F culture, L cultūra, from colere, to cultivate; 'result' of the v's action, as in picture, L pictūra, from pict-, pp s of pingere, to paint; 'personal state or condition, rank or office', as in judicature, F judicature, ML jūdicatūra, from ML jūdicāre, L iūdicāre, to (ad)judge; 'instrument or means of action', as in ligature, F ligature, LL ligatūra; from ligāre, to tie or bind. (Webster.)

-ure (2), n: OF n in -ir, occ from OF inf in -ir; rarely an OF n in -or: abstract conn. Exx: leisure, ME leiser(e), OF leisir (F loisir), from L licere, to be permissible; pleasure, ME plesure, earlier plesir, OF plesir, orig an inf from L placēre, to please; treasure, ME tresor(u)r, OF tresor, L thesaurus.

-uret, -uretum: chem suffixes, the former (earlier -ure) from the latter; -uretum is strictly L for the -ure we find in F sulfure (from L sulphur, of obscure origin) and also in carbure and phosphure.

-urient, as in esurient: L -urient-, o/s of presp -uriens, characteristic of desiderative vv: conn, therefore, 'desirous' (of doing what the implied v denotes). Exx: esurient, L esurient-, o/s of esuriens, presp of esurire, to desire to eat, from edere, to eat; parturient, L parturient-, o/s of parturiens, presp of parturire, to desire to bring forth, from parere, to bring forth (e.g., children).

-urn: L -urnus: conn, 'of the nature or quality of; resembling'. Exx: nocturn (adj), L nocturnus, of night, from noct-, o/s of nox, night; taciturn, perh via F taciturne, from L taciturnus, from tacitus, pp of tacere, to be silent.

-urous, as in the rare pleasurous and in adventurous, OF aventuros, is merely -ous added to nn in -ure, esp -ure (2).]

-ury, in usury, is a 'disguise' of -ure (1): OF usure, L ūsūra (r us-), from ūsus, pp of ūti, to use: cf ML ūsūra.

-us: L -us (2nd declension m, or 3rd declension neu)—or imitative thereof; conn, 'concrete' (whether animate or inanimate). The L -us occ derives from Gr -os (see -os above). Exx: acanthus, adopted from L, itself from Gr akanthos; genus, pl genera, both adopted from L; focus, from L; radius, pl radii, from L; syllabus, a SciL misreading of Cicero's sittybas (acc pl).

-ute, as in absolute and destitute: adj from L -ūtus, pp of certain 3rd-conj vv: cf, therefore, the adj suffixes -ate, -ete, -ite. Exx: absolute, L absolutus, pp of absoluere, to set free; destitute, L dēstitūtus, pp of dēstituere, to forsake; minute (adj), L minūtus, pp of minuere, to lessen. Cf:

-utive, adj (hence n): ML -ūtivus (L -ūtivus): conn, 'achieving' what the implied v denotes. Exx: diminutive, F diminutive, f of diminutif, ML dīmīnūtīvus, LL dīmīnūtīvus, pp of dīmīnuere, (vt) to diminish; obs solutive, ML solūtīvus. Strictly, an -ivus, ML -ivus, addition to pps in -ūtus; analogously in E, an -ive addition to adj in -ute (q.v.): therefore cf -ative, -etive, -itive.

-w (1), adj: OE -w or -we, of vague conn. Exx: few, OE feawe; raw, OE hrāw or hrēaw; slow, OE slāw. Cf -ow (1), q.v.

-w (2), n: OE -w or -wa or -we or -wu, of vague conn. Exx: claw, OE clawu (or clēa); dew, OE dēaw; snow, OE snāw; stow (a place, as in Stowmarket), OE stōw; straw, OE strāwe. The OE suffix has close kin in the old Gmc languages. Cf -ow (2).

-ward, -wards. See WARD in the Dict. The OE -weard, from an obs adj connected with weorþan=L uertere, ML vertere, to turn, 'forms adjectives from nouns, adjectives, and adverbs: hāmweard [E homeward] . . . inneweard [inward] from hām "home" . . . inne "within" (Sweet).

[-wart, as in stalwart. See WORTH, adj, in Dict.]
[-wise, adv, as in likewise, derives from the n wise, way, manner; thus, likewise comes from in like wise, nowise from in no wise. See WISE, n, in Dict.]

-x (1). See -trix.

-x (2), as in calyx, climax, helix, thorax: Gr ξ (x), n suffix with conn 'concrete object'. Exx: calyx, L calyx, Gr kalux; climax, L climax, Gr klimax (s klim-), a staircase, from klinein (s klin-); helix, L from Gr helix; thorax, L thorax, Gr thōrax.

-x (3), of L origin: calix, a chalice, adopted from L calix, a cup; vortex, adopted from ML, where, meaning 'whirlpool', it is a var of vertex, L uertex, from uertere, to turn. The conn is 'concrete'.

-xion is, in origin and meaning, similar to -tion, q.v. Exx: connexion, L connexiōn-, o/s of connexiō, (lit) a binding together; reflexion (var of reflection), OF reflexion, from reflexiōnem (o/s reflexiōn-), acc of reflexiō. Strictly, the -x is thematic.

-y (1), adj, perh of ML origin in -ivus, prob via AF -if: conn 'tending to', usu 'achieving'. Exx: ? jolly; ? massy; testy, AF testif; ? tetchy. The connexion with L -ivus, ML -ivus is extremely doubtful; and AF -if applies in only a few exx.

-y (2), adj: OE -ig, akin to OHG -ig or ig, occ -ag, ON -igr, and ult to Skt -ka: conn, 'of'—'full of'—'having'—'characterized by'—the implied n, as in icy, OE isig, from is, ice, and in stony, OE stānig, from stān; 'tending to' do what the implied v denotes, as in sleepy, OE slāēpig, from slāēpan, to sleep: a mod development—'rather' the adj implied, as in chilly, which=chill, cold (adj)+-y; a mod coll development—'rather like' or 'suggesting' the n implied, as in bumpy (bump, n+-y). The prob similar monosyllabic adj in -y, e.g. dry, sly, spry, are ult of Gmc origin: OE dryge—ON slaegr—? Sw.

-y (3), n of Gr origin in -ia or -eia, often via L -ia and then occ via OF or F -ie: abstract conn. (Anl formations have arisen at the L—the F—the E stage.) Exx: poesy, OF poësie, L poësis, Gr poësis, poiësis, from poiein, to make; story, OF estoire, L historia, Gr historia, from histōr, an erudite person.

-y (4), n occurring in 1st element of cpds of Gr origin (adj in -us, neu -u). Exx: barytone, It baritono, Gr barutonos, deep-toned, from barus, heavy; pachyderm, Gr pachydermos, thick-skinned, from pakhus, thick.

-y (5), n of L origin in -ium, occ through OF-F -ie: conn, 'result of action'. Exx: augury, OF augurie, L augurium, from augurāri (s augur-), to augur; colloquy, L colloquium, from colloqui, to speak together; perjury, OF parjurie, ML perurium, L per iurium, from periūrāre, to swear (a person) over.

-y (6), n of L origin in -ia, often via AF or OF or F -ie: conn, 'result of action'. Ex: injury, AF injurie, ML injūria, L iniūria, abstract n from iniūrius, unjust; and such country names as Germany (Germania) and Italy (Italia).

-y (7), n, ult of L origin in -āta, -ātus or -ātum, whether n or a pp base or the f and m and neu of the pp of vv in -āre, but imm from OF or F -é, m (L m and neu), and ée, f (L f), and issuing in E, either as n, e.g. army, F armée, L armāta, f of armātus, pp of armāre, to arm, and treaty, OF traité or traitie, from L tractātus (gen -ūs), from tractāre, to handle; or as heraldic adj, as in bendy, OF bandé (F bandé).

-y (8), n of L origin in -iēs. Exx: effigy, (perh via F effigie, from) L effigiēs, from effingere, to fashion, shape, form; progeny, OF progenie, L prōgeniēs, from prōgignere, to bring forth (children). Conn is clearly 'result of the implied v's action or process'.

-y (9), n dim of Gmc, esp D, origin; perh suggested by baby. Exx: doggy or doggie, lit a small dog, hence a pet-name address to a dog; kitty, a small cat, a kitten. Cf -ie.

-y (10), n of Gmc origin: OE -e, place of action. Exx: smith, OE smiththe, cf ON smithja; cf stithy, ON stethi, an anvil.

-y (11), n of Gmc origin: OE -ig, conn, 'concrete object'. Exx: body, OE bodig; ivy, OE ifig.

-y (12), v: ME -ien or OE -ian, inf suffix. Exx: bury, ME berien, OE byrgan; ferry, ME ferien, OE ferian;

-y (13), v: ONF -ier or OF -(e)er, influenced in ME by -ien (cf prec). Ex: carry, ONF carier, from car, a car; curry (a horse), ME curraien or curreien, from OF correer.

-yer: agential -ier, q.v. at -ier (2). It occurs after a w or a vowel. Exx: bowyer=bow+-yer; lawyer=law+-yer; sawyer=saw+-yer. In short, these are mod formations. See also agential -er and cf the var -eer.

[-yl, F -yle, occurring in chem terms, is strictly an element: see Elements.]

-yne. An arbitrary var of chem -ine, q.v. at -ine (5), in the special sense: 'acetylene hydrocarbon'.

-ys: Gr -us, through LL -ys. Only in a few erudite words, as drys, an oak, a germander, from Gr δρῦς.

-ysm: Gr -usmos, usu through LL -ysmus and occ through F -ysme: app a var of Gr -ismos, L -ismus, E -ism (q.v.). Exx: cataclysm, F cataclysmie; L cataclysmus, Gr kataklysmos, from katakluzein, to inundate; paroxysm, F paroxysme, Gr paroxusmos, from paroxunein, to sharpen. Adjj add -ic, q.v.

-yte. A var of geological, mineralogical, petrographical -ite: see ite (2).

-ze (1), n, with derivative adj -zy; such -ze nms as are echoic, usu come from vv, themselves echoic; the n corresponds either to F -se, as in breeze, n (adj breezy), F brise, and prize, OF prise, or to OE -s, as in furze, OE fyrz.

-ze (2), v: echoic. Exx: sneeze, OE snēosan; wheeze, of echoic Gmc origin. Adjj n -y.

-ze (3), v: non-echoic, from OE -san. Ex: freeze, OE frēosan. Cf (to) prize, from F priser.

N.B. Strictly, the -z- of (1)–(3) is thematic.

ELEMENTS

IN Science and Technology and in the other specialist vocabularies of scholarship and learning, many elements occur in words so little used in everyday speech and writing, and a few elements have become so much changed or have been so thoroughly incorporated, that the ordinary person does not know or does not recognize them. The elements themselves or the words they form, or go towards forming, are nevertheless important, even though the words cannot appear in the body of a well-planned, rigorously selective etymological dictionary of English.

Yet, with their help, an averagely intelligent person can ascertain, at least approximately, the meaning of a vast number of erudite terms. What, for instance, can the average person make of such a group as acroasphyxia, acroblast, acrocarpous, acrocephaly, acrochordon, acrocyt and not less than forty other acro-compounds, especially when he would hardly find them in a short general dictionary? He knows one word in the group: acrobat: but he has forgotten its etymology, even if he ever knew it, and probably doesn't think of relating it to acrophobia and the Acropolis. But with the help of the ensuing list of elements, he will be able to deduce the meaning of most of the terms in a group predominantly erudite.

English elements are, in the main, excluded. One doesn't need to be either scholarly or particularly intelligent to realize that the fold of twofold, manifold, is in origin the same word as a fold in gown or ground, or that the wel of welcome is identical with the well of well-behaved, or to recognize the like of suchlike for what it is. I have, however, made an exception of (say) the -ty of twenty, thirty, etc.

Strictly, an element consists of an adjective or a noun or a verb. A preposition or an adverb derived from a preposition does not form an element: it forms either a prefix, and is then to be found in the list of prefixes, or occasionally a suffix, and is then to be found in the list of suffixes; if, like to in thereto, it is manifestly an independent word, it will appear in its right place in the Dictionary proper.

'See (a word in italics)' means: See the italicized word at its alphabetical place in this list. 'See Dict at (a word in SMALL CAPITALS)' or 'See (THAT WORD)' means: Consult the Dictionary at that word. If the reference is obvious, 'See Dict' suffices. The same holds good for 'Cf . . .'

Some elements occur in only one position—the first or the second; or, if the word (e.g. trinitrotoluene) consists of more than two elements, the first or the last. Many occur, although occasionally in different forms, in either the first or the second or last, or indeed medially. If in doubt, consult Prefixes. The two most important connective vowels are -i- and especially -o-. If the element following either the first or the medial element begins with a vowel, the -i- or the -o- is usually omitted, although numerous scientific and technical words flout this euphonious tendency.

abdomino-, 'of, in, for the abdomen': abdomin- (o/s of L abdomen) + connective -o-. Cf ABDOMEN.

aberro-: for aberration, as in aberrometer and aberrroscope, instruments used in Optics. Cf ERR.

abio-: a cpd c/f, as in abiogenesis: prefix a-, not + bio-, life. Cf BIO-.

aborti-, as in aborticide (cf -cide) and abortifacient (cf -facient): from L abortus, an abortion.

abro-. A var of habro-, as in Abrocoma (cf -coma).

abyss-, '(in) the depths of the sea', as in abyssopelagic (cf archipelago): abyss-, s of L abyssus, from Gr abussos, abyss + the connective -o-.

ac-, 'a point' (Gr akē, s and r ak-), occurs in acantho-, aceto-, acido-, acou(-o)-, acro-, qq.v. below, and also, as r, in such words as acerb, acies, acrid, acuity and acute. This r is general IE ak-.

acantho- or, before a vowel, acanth-, 'thorn(y), spine, spiny': acanth(o)-, L acanth(o)-, adapted from akanth(o)-, c/f of Gr akanthos, L and E acanthus, a prickly herb: lit 'spiny flower' (cf the ac- of ACME, and anth(o)- below). Ex: acanthology, the science of spines; acanthopod, spiny-footed (cf -pod below). Adj: acanthoid (suffix -oid).

acar-, acaro-, 'an or the itch; mites'—as in acaricide (cf -cide) and acarophobia, a morbid fear of the itch; acaro- attaches the connective -o- to acar-, adaptation of akar-, s of Gr akari, a mite: o.o.o.: ? something not cut off or away, i.e. indivisible—cf ATOM. Adj: acaroid (cf suffix -oid).

accelero-: for accelerate or acceleration, as in accelerograph and accelerometer.

-ace, 'a summit having (x) faces', as in tesseract, a tetrahedral summit: cf tessara- below: -ace = Gr akē, a point, s ak-, as in acerb, acme, etc. Cf ac- above and aceto- below.

acephalo-, 'headless': Gr akephalos, consisting of privative a- (prefix) + an adj form of kephalē, the head: Ex: acephalocyst. Adj: acephalous.

aceto- or, before a vowel, acet-: from L acētum (s acēt-), acid, a derivative of the IE ak-, a point, hence sharpness: cf ac- and -ace above and esp ACID. Ex: acetolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse below); acetometer; acetic. Cf:

achill(o)-: for Achilles (tendon), as in achillodynia (cf -odynia).

acido-, a c/f of ACID. Ex: acidophile—cf -phile below. Do not confuse with the acido- of acidology, the science, a knowledge, of surgical appliances: this acido- adapts akido, c/f of Gr akis, o/s akid-, a splinter, skin to akē, a point, q.v. at -ace above and acro- below.

acini-: from L acinus, a grape or grape-stone, o.o.o. Ex: aciniform. Adj: acinose (L acinōsus).

acou-, short form, and acouo-, long form, conn 'hearing': from Gr akouein (s akou-) to hear. Ex: acoumeter, an instrument for measuring the acuteness of hearing. Also -acousia, -acousis, 'degree or quality of hearing': Gr akousis, ability to hear: ex, dysacousia or -acousis, defective hearing. Cf ACOUSTIC.

acro-; before a vowel, acr-: Gr akros, at the furthest point, esp vertically, from akē, a point. Ex: ACROBAT; acrocarpous, bearing fruit (cf -carpous at carpo- below) at the top; acrodrome, running (cf -drome below) to a point; acrophobia, a dread of heights; Acropolis, the high-set citadel (cf -polis) of Athens; acrostic (cf -stich below).

-actine; actinio-, actino- or, before a vowel, actin-: resp 'rayed' (adj)—c/f of Actinia, a genus of sea anemones, formed of actin- + suffix -ia—'ray(s), radiated structure': cf actinium, a radioactive element (actin- + chem suffix -ium). These c/f come from Gr aktis, a ray, gen aktinos, o/s aktin-, akin to Skt aktus, light, (basically) radiance. Ex: pentactine (cf penta- below), 5-rayed; actinochrome (cf chromo-); actinodrome (cf -drome), actinometer, actinospere, actinosome, actinotherapy.

acu-: from L acus, a needle, as in acuclosure. Cf: acuti-, acuto-: from L acūtus, sharp-(pointed): cf ACUTE. Ex: acutifoliate, acutograve.

-adelpgia; adelpho-: 'brotherhood', as in Philadelphía (cf phil-); 'brother', as in adelpholite (cf -lite): from Gr adelphos, a brother, (lit) of one womb. (See esp Boisacq.)

-aden; adeno- or, before a vowel, aden-: resp 'type of gland' and 'gland' or 'glandular': Gr adēn, a gland, gen adenos, o/s aden-, akin to L inguen. Ex: thyraden (cf thyroid and, below, thyro-); adenoneural (cf neuro-): cf adenoid, Gr adenoeidēs, like, of the form of, a gland. Cf -oid in Suffixes.

adipo- or, before a vowel, adip-: 'fat(s)' or 'fatty tissue': L adeps, fat (n), gen adipis, o/s adip-, akin to—indeed, perh from—Gr aleipha, fat. Ex: adipometer. Cf the adj adipose (from SciL adiposus) and its derivative n adiposity.

adreno-: for adrenal; as in Biochem adrenotropic.

adversi-: from ML adversus (L aduersus), opposite, as in adversifoliate (cf -foliate). Cf adverse; f.a.e., VERSE.

aegi-; aego- or, before a vowel, aeg-: 'goat' or 'goat-like': Gr aix, a goat, gen aigos, o/s aig-; perh cf Skt ajā, female, and ajās, male goat; cf Arm aic, she-goat. Ex: Aigipan, (the goat-like) Pan; Aegopodium, a 'goat-footed' herb.

aeluro- or, before a vowel, aelur-: 'cat' or 'cat-like': Gr ailouros (s ailour-), a cat, perh lit 'tail-wagger'. Ex: aelurophobia, a dread of cats.

-aemia. See haema-.

aeoli-, aeolo-: from L Aeolus, god of winds. Ex: aeolipile (or -pyle), a primitive ancient steam-engine: Aeoli, of Aeolus, pila, a ball, or Gr pulē, a doorway, in its ML form pylum or esp pilum; aeolomelodicon, a wind instrument.

aequi-. An obs form of equi-, equal.

aero- or aëro- or, before a vowel, aer- or aër-:

'air' or 'aerial'; hence, 'gas' (or 'gases') or 'gaseous': Gr aero-, c/f of aēr, air, gen aeros, akin to Gr, hence L, aura and to Lith oras, air; cf AIR. Exx: aerobatics, which=aero-+the -batics of acrobatics; aeromarine; aeronaut, lit 'sailor of the air'; airplane; aerostat. The L form aeri- occurs in, e.g., aerify, to aerate.

aesthesi-; aesthesio-. See asthesi-, esthesio-.

aetheo-: from Gr aēthēs, unusual (a- not + ēthos, custom); as in Bot aetheogamous (cf -gam). Cf ETHIC.

aethio-; aetho-; aethrio-: resp from Gr aithios*, bright; Gr aithos, light, fire (whence aithios*); Gr aithrios, light, clear: all akin to aithēin (s aith-), to burn. Exx: Bot Aethionema (cf -nema); aethogen (cf -gen); aethrioscope (cf -scope).

aetio-. See etio-.

aët(o)-; -aëtus or -aetus: from Gr aetos (s aet-), an eagle. Exx: Aëtosaurus; Circaëtus.

-aeval. See -eval.

Afro-, occ Afr-: 'African' or, as in Afro-Asiatic, 'African and': from L Afer, African (adj). Cf AFRICA.

agamo- or, before a vowel, agam-: 'asexual': from agamus, Gr agamos, unmarried: a cpd c/f: a-, not + gamo- (see -gam). Ex: agamogenesis.

agarici-: from L agaricum, a fungus, from Gr agarikon, whence E agaric. Ex: agariciform, mushroom-shaped.

agath(o): Gr agatho-, c/f of agathos, good, perh akin to Go gōths, OHG guot, Mod G gut, E good: if the a- is merely formative, the division of the Gr word is a- + gath- + -os. Exx: agathod(a)emon, one's good angel (or genius), Gr agathodaimōn (cf DEMON); agathology, the doctrine (cf -logy at -loger) of good.

agati-: for agate, as in agatiferous, (of rocks) agate-producing, lit -bearing (-ferous at -fer).

aglaio-: from Gr aglaos, bright; as in Bot Aglaonema (cf -nema) and aglaozonia (zōnē, a girdle).

agnoio-: from Gr agnoia, ignorance: cf AGNOSTIC. Ex: agnoiology, doctrine of ignorance.

-agogue; -agogy: 'leading' (adj) or 'leader', hence 'guiding, inducing'; the corresponding vn: Gr agōgos, (adj) leading, guiding; Gr agōgia, leading (n): from agein, to lead, to guide: cf ACT. Ex: pedagogue, L paedagōgus, Gr paidagōgos, child-guiding (adj), hence a teacher—cf paedo-; pedagogy, via late MF-F pédagogie, from Gr paidagōgia.

-agonist, adj -agonistic: from Gr agōnistēs (adj agōnistikos), one who contends for a prize in the games, hence of an actor; from agōn, a contest, from agein, to drive, lead, celebrate: cf AGONY. Exx: protagonist (cf proto-), Gr prōtagōnistēs, the first, hence most important, actor in a Gr drama, hence any notable leader or spokesman; deuteragonist (cf deutero-), the second actor, Gr deuteragōnistēs; tritagonist—see trito-.

agora-, as in agoraphobia (cf -phobia): Gr agora, a place of assembly (s agor-), hence a market-place, from ageirein (s ageir-), to assemble (e.g., the people): f.a.e., ACT.

-agra: Gr -agra, denoting gout, hence (loosely) an access of pain; from agra, a seizing, a hunting. Exx: melagra and podagra (cf -pod).

agri-, L c/f, and agro-, Gr c/f: L ager, a field, gen agri, s agr-, akin to Gr agros, a field: 'of or pertaining to a field, hence of, in, by, for agriculture'. Exx: agriculture, L agricultūra, cultivation of a field; agronomy, field-crop production, from Gr agronomos, rural (cf -nomy). Cf:

agri-: 'savage' (adj and n): c/f of Gr agrios, (lit) of the field, (hence) uncultivated, (hence) wild, savage, itself from agros, a field—cf prec. Ex: agriology, a study—esp of the customs—of uncivilized peoples.

agro-. See agri-.

aitho-: from Gr aithos, burnt (dark) brown—cf aetho-. Ex: aithochroi (cf -chroia), peoples coloured a reddish brown.

aitio-. See etio-.

akro-. An old spelling of acro-.

albi-; alb(o)- or, before a vowel, alb-: 'white': L albus, q.v. at ALB. Exx: albiflorous, white-flowered; alocracy, government (cf -cracy) by white men. Cf:

albumini-; albumin(o)-; occ shortened to albumo-; 'albumen' or 'albumin': L albūmen, white of egg, from albus, white (cf prec) + suffix -men (q.v. in Suffixes); L albūmen has o/s albūmīn-. Exx: albuminimeter (cf -meter); albuminoscope (cf -scope) and albumoscope.

alco-: for alcohol, as in alcohol(-atin) and alcoholinometer (cf vino-).—Also alcoholo-, as in alcoholomania.

aldo-: for aldehyde, as in aldomin and aldohexose. alectoro-; alectryo-: from Gr alektōr, var alektruōn, a cock (bird). Exx: Alectorpodes (-podes, pl of -pous, c/f of pous, a foot); alectryomachy, cock-fighting, a cock fight (-machy).

aletho-: 'true': Gr alētho-, c/f of alēthēs, true, which consists of privative a- (Prefixes) + lēth-, derived from lanthanō, I forgot: cf LETHE. Exx: alethoscope, an instrument that, for viewing pictures, has a lens that makes objects seem natural; alethiology, the science of truth, esp of evidence, from the derivative abstract n, alētheia, truth.

aleuro-: 'flour': Gr aleuro-, c/f of aleuron, flour. Exx: aleuromancy, divination (cf -mancy) by flour; aleurometer, an instrument for assessing the quality of flour.

alex-: 'counteracting' or 'counteraction; antidote': adopted from Gr, where it is a c/f of alexēin (s alex-), to ward off: cf Skt rākṣati, he protects. Exx: alexipharmic, adj and n, 'serving as an antidote to poison', from Gr alexipharmakos (cf PHARMACIST); alexipyretic, a febrifuge; cf alexin (chem suffix -in), a defensive or protective substance.

alg-, short for algo-; -algia (obs -algy), -algic; algio-: 'pain': Gr algos, pain. Both -algia and alg(o)- come direct from Gr; algio- derives from -algia; adj -algic=alg-+-ic, q.v. in Suffixes. IE r: alēg-*, which becomes Gr alg-; cognates in L. Exx: neuralgia, nerve-pain—cf neuri-, neuro- below; neuralgic; algiomuscular; algogenic, pain-producing (cf -genic at -gen); algometry, the measurement of pain.

all-: 'wing': L ala, armpit, shoulder, (predominantly) wing, akin to axis and therefore possessing numerous IE cognates. (The adj is alar, L alāris.) Exx: aliferous, aligerous, winged—cf -ferous at -fer, and -gerous at -ger; aliform, wing-shaped; alinasal (cf NOSE); aliped, wing-footed, as the bat; alitrunk (cf TRUNK).

-alia: 'a realm (of animal life)': Gr halia, an assembly. Ex: Bassalia, the abyssal zone, from L bassus, deep.

alieni-: L aliēni, c/f of aliēnus, belonging to another (cf ALIEN). Ex: alienigenate, L aliēnigenus, foreign by birth.

allago-: from Gr allagē, a change, an exchange, from allassein, to (ex)change. Exx: allagophyllous (cf -phyllous at -phyll), alternate-leaved. Cf the rare syn allasso-, as in allassotonic.

allant(o)-, a very learned c/f occurring only in Chem and An, in ref to allantoic, the adj of allantois, an organ in embryos: Gr allas, a sausage, o/s allant-.

allasso-. See allago-.

alलो-: Gr allēlo-, c/f of allēlōn, one another, from allos (cf allo-); in E 'reciprocal(ly)'. Ex: Bio allelomorph (cf -morph).

all(o)-: 'difference, differentiation' or 'extraneousness' or 'reversal': adoption of Gr all(o)-, c/f of allos, other, (hence) different, akin to L alius; IE s al-. Exx: allochromatic, accidentally pigmented; allomorph (cf -morph); allopathy, opp homeopathy—cf -pathy at path(o)-; allotropy (cf -tropic).

alni-: from L alnus, an alder tree: s aln-, extrn of IE r al-*. Ex: alniresinol.

alpha-. See Dict at ALPHABET.

alphito-: from Gr alphiton, barley meal: cf Alb el'p, barley. Ex: alphitomancy, divination (-mancy) thereby; alphitomorphous (cf -morph).

alpi-: from L Alpes, the Alps: cf ALPINE. Ex: alpigene (cf -gene at -gen), growing on mountains.

alterni-, 'alternate(ly)': from L alternus, alternate. Ex: alternipetalous. Cf ALTER and:

altero-: from L alter, another (cf alter ego, one's other I or self); as in alterocentric, opp egocentric.

alti-, 'high': adopted from L alti-, c/f of altus, high, orig the pp of alere, to nourish, cf OE alan, ON ala. Exx: altigraph; altiloquent (cf eloquent); altimeter; altisonant.—Also alto-, as in altocumulus (clouds).

alumi-; alumin(o)-: the former, 'alum' or 'alumin(i)um'; the latter, 'alumin(i)um' only. See ALUMIN(I)UM. Exx: aluminiferous, containing either alum or alumin(i)um; aluminiform, having the form of an alum; aluminothermy, a heating (cf -therm) process in metallurgy. The shorter form alumo- is rare.

alveoli-; alveol(o)-: An and Zoo 'alveolus' or 'alveolus and' or the adj 'alveolar' (alveol-+adj suffix -ar): ML alveolus (s alveol-), L alveolus, a small cavity, dim of alveus, a cavity, akin to alvus, ML alvus, belly, itself akin to Gr aulos, a flute. Exx: alveoliform; alveolectomy; alveololabial—lingual, -nasal.

[amb(i)- (1), 'about' or 'around'. See Prefixes.]

ambi- (2), 'both': a c/f adopted from L, from the pronoun ambō, both. Exx: AMBIDEXTROUS, ambivalent, ambivert (midway between extrovert and introvert). Cf amph(i)-, ampho-.

ambly(o)-: 'dull' or 'dulled'; hence 'obtuse (-angled)': Gr ambly-, c/f of amblyus, blunt, dull for amlus*, from amalos, weak, soft, akin to malakos, soft, weak. Exx: amblyopia, weak sight (cf -opia at -ope); amblyoscope, a remedial instrument for weak sight.

ambo- (1): 'both', as in ambosexual and amboceptor. Cf ambi- (2).

ambo- (2): in ref to Gr ambōn, an edge, a rim, hence a pulpit: as in Ambocoelia. (Very rare; as also is ambo- for Med ambos, G Amboss.) ambulo-, as in ambulomancy, divination (-mancy) by walking, comes from L ambulāre, to walk. Cf AMBLE.

amenti-: from L amentum, a catkin (or, in Bot, ament): o.o.o. Exx: amentiferous (cf -ferous at -fer), catkin-bearing.

amet(o)-: from Gr ametros (privative a-+metron, a measure), irregular. Exx: ametrometer, an instrument for determining ametropia (cf -opia at -ope), irregular refraction of the eyes. F.a.e., MEASURE.

amid(o)-: c/f of the chem cpd amide (ammonia+the chem suffix -ide). Ex: amidophosphoric. Cf:

-amin(e); amino-: c/ff of the chem cpd amine (ammonia+the chem suffix -ine). Ex: aminophenol. Cf prec.

ammino-: for ammine (ammonia+chem -ine).

amm(o)-: 'sand': Gr amm(o)-, from amos, sand, a var of amathos, ? for samathos* (cf SAND). Ex: ammophilous, (of plants) sand-loving.

ammoni(o)-; ammon(o)-: c/ff, the former of ammonia or ammonium; the latter of ammonia only.

ammoniti-: for ammonite, a fossil shell, as in ammonitiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

amni-: L amni-, c/f of amnis, a stream; app of C origin. Ex: amnicolous (cf -colous).

amnio-: '(of) the amnion', a Gr word for a caul: akin to Gr amē, a pail. Ex: amniomancy (cf -mancy).

amoebi-; amoebo-: 'amoeba' (SciL, from Gr amoibē, a change). Exx: amoebicide—cf -cide at -cidal; amoebiform; amoebocyte, cf -cyte.

ampel(o)-: Gr ampel(o)-, c/f of ampelos, a vine (app pre-Gr), as in ampelotherapy, the grape cure.

amph(i)-, ampho-: 'both': from Gr amphō, both, amph(i)- being a c/f already in Gr: cf ambi- (2). Exx: amphanthium (cf antho-); amphitheatre, amphiphilic.

amplexl-: from L amplexus, an encircling (hence, an embrace), prop a cpd of am(bi)-+plectere, to twine, enlase; as in amplexicaul, (of a leaf) clasping a stem (cf cauli-).

amygdal(o)-: '(of) the tonsil(s)': L amygdala, an almond, hence a tonsil: a word prob from Asia Minor. Ex: amygdalectomy, cf -ectomy at -tome.

amyl-; amyl(o)-: '(of) starch': L amylum, better amilum, from Gr amulon. Exx: amyliferous, cf -ferous at -fer; amyloextrin, amylogenesis, amyolysis, and other chem terms.

amyo-, as in amyotrophy: cpd of privative a- + myo-.

analytico-: for analytic (and).

anarcho-: either for anarchy, as in anarcho-syndicalism, or for anarchic, as in anarcho-individualist(ic).

anatomico-: 'anatomic' or 'anatomic and', as in anatomicobiological: L anatomicus. See ANATOMY.

anctylo-: from Gr ankulos, curved, akin to E (Geom) ANGLE. Ex: Ancylokeras (Gr keras, horn). Also anctylo-, q.v.

andr(o)-; -andria, -androus, -andry: 'mankind' or 'man the male': base, andr-, the o/s of Gr anēr, gen andros, a man, cf Arm air. The bot n-comb -andria corresponds to the adj -androus, as does the general -andry, from Gr -andria. The comb andro-, before a vowel, andr- is an adoption from Gr. Exx: androcentric, with the male predominant; androgynous, Gr androgynos, (lit) man-woman-ish, of both sexes; androphagous, man-eating, cf -phaga; polyandria or polyandry, Gr poluandria, itself from poluandros, several-husbanded, whence polyandrous.

anem(o)-: 'wind', occ 'current of air' or even 'inhalation': Gr anem(o)-, from anemos, wind, akin to L animus and Skt anilas, breath, wind, of echoic origin. Exx: anemometer, an instrument measuring wind-force; but anemophilous. Cf anemone, Gr anemōnē, derivative from anemos.

angelo- c/f, adopted from Gr, of ANGEL. Exx: angelocracy, angelology.

angi(o)-: '(of) a seed or blood or lymph vessel', as in angiocarpous (cf -carpous at carpo-)—angiology—angioneurosis—angiectomy (cf -tome): Gr c/f angio-, from angeion, a vessel, perh akin to L angulus. Cf -angium (from angeion), denoting 'type of vessel', as in gonangium (cf the 2nd -gon).

Anglo-: 'English' or 'English and': LL Angli, the English. Cf ENGLISH. Ex: Anglo-French.

angui-, 'snake' or 'snake-like': L anguis, a snake, s angu-, with cognates, none very close, in many other IE languages. Exx: anguiform; anguiped, L anguiped-, o/s of anguipes, snake-footed. The L dim anguilla, an eel, has c/f anguilli-, as in anguilliform.

angulato-; anguli-, angulo-: resp 'angulate(ly)' or 'angulate and', and 'angle': from L angulātus, angled, itself from angulus, an angle, whence, obviously, anguli- and angulo-: see ANGLE. Exx: angulometer, anguliferous, angulatosinuuous.

angusti-; 'narrow': L angustus (s angust-), narrow: cf ANGUISH. Exx: angustifoliolate, narrow-leaved; angustisellate, (lit) narrow-saddled (L sella, a saddle).

anhydr(o)-: 'deficiency of water': Gr anudros, waterless, which = an- (for privative a-) + hudōr, water + adj suffix -os. Ex: anhydremia (cf -emia).

anlido-, for anilide; anllino-, for aniline; anilo-, for anil. Only in Chem.

anis(o)-: 'unequal' or 'dissimilar': adopted from Gr anis(o)-, from anisos, unequal, which consists of an- (antevocalic form of privative prefix a-) + isos, equal: cf iso-. Exx: anisogamous (cf -gamous at -gam); anisogeny; anisometric; anisotropic.

ankyl(o)-: 'bent, crooked' or 'crookedness': Gr ankulos, curved (see ANGLE). Exx: ankylenteron (cf -enteron at entero-); ankylosaurus (cf -saurus at -saur). Also anctylo-, q.v.

anni-: L anni-: see ANNIVERSARY.

[ano- (1): 'upper': Gr anō, up, upward. Strictly a prefix. Ex: anocarpous, cf -carpous at carpo-.]

ano- (2): 'anus' or 'anal' (or 'anal and'): L ānus (s ān-), a ring, hence the fundament, akin to OIr āne or āinne, ring. Ex: anoscopy, cf -scopy at -scope.

anom(al)o-: 'irregular': from Gr anōmalos (s anōmal-), uneven, irregular, anomalous; anomalous itself = L anomalous, from Gr anōmalos, which consists of an-, not (var of privative a-) + homalos, even, an extension of homos, same; anomaly = L anomalia, from Gr anōmalia, itself from anōmalos. Exx: anomaloflorous, having irregular flowers; anomaloscope (cf -scope), an instrument that tests faulty colour-vision.

anom(o)-: from Gr anomos, lawless (a-, not + nomos, law); in E, 'irregular' or 'abnormal', as in anomophyllous (cf -phyllous at -phyll).

anopl(o)-: 'unarmed' or 'unprotected' (in Zoo): Gr anoplos, unarmed (an-, not + hoplon, a weapon). Ex: anoplocephalic, unprotected, or unarmed, of head.

antenni-, as in antenniferous (-ferous, q.v. at -fer) and antenniform: c/f of antenna, an insect's or crustacean's feeler, sense-adapted from L antenna, a sail-yard; antenna (pl antennae), better antemna, is of obscure, app non-L, origin, but perh a conflation of ante-tangentia*, fore-touchers, apprehended as sing: cf the etym of ANTLERS. E antenna yields the adj antennial (-al) and antennary (-ary).

anter(o)-: 'in front' or 'anterior' (before, in place—hence in time) or 'anterior and' or 'from front to': as if from L anterus*, imagined positive of comp anterior (from ante, before: cf ante- in Prefixes). Exx: anterocclusion; anterodorsal, anterospinal; anteroventral. Mostly in An terms.

anth- before a vowel, otherwise antho-; -anthea and -anthemum; -anthera, -antherous, -anthery; -anthes; -anthon; -anthus. The base is Gr anthos (s anth-), a flower, and anth(o)- denotes 'flower' or 'flowery, flowerlike': cf Skt āndhas, a herb. Exx: anthobiology; anthology, (lit) a flower-gathering—Gr anthologia, from anthologos, (adj) flower-gathering, -logos deriving from legein, to gather. Through L comes -anthus, n, as in polyanthus, SciL from Gr poluanthos, rich in flowers; adj -anthon, deriving from the Gr adj -anthos, is exemplified in monanthos, bearing a single bloom—cf mon(o)-. Gr anthos (n) yields also the element -anthēs or, in E, -anthes, as Zephyranthes (a genus name). The derivative Gr anthēros, flowery, accounts for the adj -antherous and the n -anthera and, answering to -antherous, the n -anthery. The element -anthemum, as in chrysanthemum (Gr khruisanthemon, the golden flower), is a SciL form of Gr -anthemon; and -anthera derives, through L, from Gr -anthēma, lit a flowering, hence an eruptive skin-disease, as in exanthema, Gr exanthēma, from exanthein, to come out in flower.

anthrac(o)-: 'coal' or 'carbuncle': Gr anthrak(o)-, c/f of anthrax (o/s anthrak-), coal, (hence) a carbuncle. Cf ANTHRACITE. Exx: anthraciferous, where anthraci- is a var ('of coal'); anthracomancy, divination (-mancy) by live coals. The chem anthr(a)- is an arbitrary element.

anthrop(o)-: 'man; human being': Gr anthrōp(o)-, c/f of anthrōpos, (generic) man, s anthrōp-, akin to anēr, o/s andr- (see andro- above). Exx: anthropogenesis or -geny; anthropology, anthropologist, etc; anthroposophy (cf PHILOSOPHY). The element -anthropy, as in misanthropy (cf miso-), answers to Gr -anthrōpia, as in misanthrōpia; cf MIS-ANTHROPE.

-anthus. See anth-.

antr(o)-: 'cavern' or, esp in Med, 'cavity': L antrum, from Gr antron (s antr-), prob akin either to Gr anemos, wind (cavern=blow-hole) or to L ancra, a depression. Ex: antroscope (cf SCOPE). Adj: antral.

aort(o)-: c/f of aorta, a SciL reshaping of Gr aortē, from airein (s air-), to heave or lift. Exx: aortolith, a calculus (cf -lith at litho-) in the aorta; aortotomy (cf -tomy at -tome). The adj aortic has c/f aortico-, 'aortic and'.

aperto-: from L apertus, open(ed), but used for E aperture, as in apertometer.

aphan(o)-: from Gr aphanēs (a-; not + -phanēs, visible: cf -phane and PHENOMENON); as in aphanophyre (cf -phyre). There is a var apheno-, as in aphenoscope (cf -scope).

-aphia: a SciL c/f, from Gr haphē, touch or a touching, from haptēin (s hapt-), to touch, akin to Skt yabh-. Ex: oxyaphia, acuteness (cf oxy-) of touch.

aphidi-: for aphid (a plant-sucking insect), as in aphidivorous (cf -vorous at -vora). Aphid derives from Aphid-, o/s of SciL Aphis, a genus of plant lice, perh (Webster) from Gr apheidēs, lavish.

aphno-: from Gr aphnos, wealth, as in aphnology, the doctrine or science (cf -logy at -loger) of wealth.

aphoto-: from Gr aphōs (gen aphōtos), lightless (a-, not + -phōs, light), as in aphototropic (adj), avoiding light by turning away from it (cf -tropic at -tropol). Cf PHOTOGRAPH.

aphr(o)-: Gr, from aphros, foam, with possible Skt cognates. Exx: Aphrodite, The Foam-Born (cf -ite in Suffixes); aphrolite (cf -lite).

api-: c/f of L apis (s ap-), a bee, perh akin to BEE itself. Exx: apiculture, bee-keeping, and apiphobia, a dread of bees. Apiary=L apiarium.

apico-: c/f of L (hence E) apex, summit, o/s apic-: cf APFX. Ex: apicectomy, the excision (cf -ectomy at -tome) thereof.

aplano-: c/f from Gr aplanēs, fixed (esp of stars), which consists of privative a-+planos, errant (cf Nor flana, to wander here and there: Hofmann). Exx: aplanobacter (cf -bacter) and aplanospore (cf -spore).

aplo-: A var of haplo-, as in aplobasalt.

appendic(o)-: for Med appendix, as in appendicostomy.

-apsis: c/f of Gr hapsis, union, fusion, as in mitapsis (cf mito-), from haptēin, to touch. Cf -aphia.

aqueo-; aqui-, aquo-: resp 'of water' and 'presence or action of, or resemblance to, water': aqueo-, from L aqueus, adj; aqui- and aquo-, from L aqua (s aqu-), water, akin to Go ahwa; cf AQUA. Exx: aqueoglacial; aquiform; aquo-, only in chem terms, e.g., aquocellulitis (cf cellule at CELL and, in Suffixes, -itis).

Arabo-: 'Arabian—or Arabic and' c/f of ARAB, but based upon L Arabus.

arachn(o)-: c/f of Gr arakhnē, a spider, akin to L arāneus, whence the c/ff arane-, araneo-; perh 'the web creature', hence 'web-maker', from Gr arkus, a net. Ex: arachnology, the science of spiders.—cf the Zoo Arachnida, a class including spiders.

arbori-: 'of a tree, of trees': L arbor (gen arboris), a tree, adj arboreus, whence E arboreal (cf -al, adj, in Suffixes). Exx: arboriculture and arboricole, (adj), tree-dwelling.

-arch, -archic, -archy.—arch-; archae(o)- or mod arche(o)-; arche-; archi-. Resp (1) 'ruler'—(2) 'of rule or a ruler'—(3) 'rule' (government); (4) 'first in time or rank', hence 'chief, principal' and 'primitive'—(5) 'ancient, primitive'—(6) 'in the beginning, primary'—(7) 'chief' or 'primitive, original'. The Gr originals, with E exx, are these: (1) -arkhēs or -arkhos, ruler, occ via LL -archa- as in MONARCH; (2) -arkhikos, of a ruler—as in monarchic; (3) -arkhia, rule, occ via LL -archia- as in monarchy.—(4) arkh-, short for arkhi-, from the s of arkhein, to be first, cf -arkhos or -arkhēs, as in (1), and of arkhē, a beginning or origin—exx, archbishop and anl archduke, archpiece; (5) arkhai(o), from arkhaios, ancient or primitive, from arkhē—as in arch(aeology); (6) arkhē, beginning, origin—as in archetype; (7) arkhi-, occ via LL archi-, strictly the complete form of (4)—as in archiepiscopal and architect.

Note that (1), -arch, has a Bot var, as in pentarch, having five strands, from Gr arkhē, a beginning.

That all seven (eight) forms have a common origin is clear from the fact that 'the first in time' tends to be 'the first in rank or importance' and that it also tends to be 'primitive'.

arco-: 'rectal': from Gr arkhos, rectum, of obscure origin—perhaps the ar- is akin to the ar- of E arse, the or- of syn Gr orros, the or- of L ōr-, o/s of ōs, mouth. Only in med terms.

arci-, arco-: '(of) a bow', hence '(of) an arc': from L arcus, a bow; cf OE earh, arrow. Exx: arciform, arcograph (-graph), arcosolium, an arched cell in a Roman catacomb.

-arctia: SciL element from L arctāre (s arct-), to press together; as in aortarctia—cf aort(o)- above.

arcto-: Gr arkt(o)-, c/f of arktos, a bear, as in Arcturus (Gr ouros, a guard), or the North, as in Arctogaea (Gr gaia, land). Cf ARCTIC.

areni-: '(of) sand': L arēna or harēna, sand, o.o.o. Ex: arenicolous, dwelling—or burrowing—in sand.

areo- (1): 'Mars' or, in Astr, 'Martian': Gr Arēs (gen Areos), the god of war. Exx: areography, Areopagus (the hill of Ares or Mars).

areo- (2): Gr araios, thin, (hence) rare, o.o.o. Ex: areometer.

areto-: c/f from Gr aretē, virtue, akin to areiōn, better, and aristos, best. Exx: the obs aretology, ethics; the rare aretalics, the science of virtue.

-arge. See argyro-.

argenti-, argent(o): resp 'silver' and 'containing silver and': L argentum (s argent-); cf the poetical argent (n and adj), silver. Exx: argentiferous; argentometry (-metry, q.v. at -meter). Cf the next and argyro-.

argillaceo-, c/f of argillaceous, clayey (L argillaceus, s argill-); argillo-, c/f of argillous (L argillōsus) and denoting 'containing clay and'. The basic L word is argilla (clay), adopted from Gr, which forms it from argos, white, akin to L argentum, silver, and to:

argyr(o)-, adopted from Gr argur(o)-, the c/f of arguros, silver, from argos, white. Only in SciL words. The end c/f -arge has the same origin, as in litharge (cf -lith at -lice). Cf argenti-.

arist(o)-, adopted from Gr: c/f of aristos, best, akin to areiōn, better; of very ancient IE descent, with cognates in Skt and OPer. Ex: aristocracy (-crat, -cratic, qq.v. at -crat).

Do not confuse with the rare aristology, the art and science of dining—from Gr ariston, breakfast or lunch.

arithmetico-, c/f of L arithmeticus or of E arithmetical; -arithm, c/f from—arithm(o)-, c/f of —Gr arithmos, number, itself from IE r ar-*. Exx: logarithm—cf logarithmo-; arithmomania, obsession with—esp the counting of—numbers; arithmometer, a calculating machine. Cf ARITHMETIC.

armi-; 'of or in or by weapons': L c/f of arma, weapons (cf ARMY). Exx: armigerous, bearing, or entitled to bear (cf -ger), heraldic arms; armipotent, potent in weapons, mighty in battle.

arsenico, c/f of arsenic, as in arsenicophagy, arsenic-eating (habit); arsen(o)-, another c/f of arsenic, as in arsenotherapy. Cf ARSENIC.

arteri(o)-, adopted from the Gr c/f of artēria, artery: 'artery' or 'arterial (and)'. Ex: arteriosclerosis, hardening (cf sclero-) of the arteries. Cf ARTERY.

arthr(o)-, adopted from Gr c/f of arthron, a joint—cf Gr artios, complete, L artūs, joints, all of ancient IE origin. Ex: arthrology, the science of (the body's) joints; cf arthritis, direct from Gr, with adj arthritic (Gr arthritikos). Cf ARTIO-.

arti- (1), as in artifact: c/f of L ars, art, o/s art- (see ART).

arti- (2), as in artiphyllous (cf -phyllous at -phyll): cf L artūs, joints. Cf ARTHO-.

artio-: c/f of Gr artios, even (s art-): IE ar-*, to join. Ex: artiodactyl, (an) even-toed (mammal).

arto-: adopted from the Gr c/f of artos, bread: o.o.o. Ex: artophagy, the practice or habit of eating bread.

arundi-: L arundi-, c/f of arundō, a reed; as in arundiferous, reed-bearing.

arvi-: from ML arvum, L aruum, cultivated land, a (cultivated) field, from arāre (s ar-), to plough. Exx: arvicoline (or -colous, q.v.), field-dwelling; arviculture, the growing of field crops.

Aryo-: c/f of Aryan, from Skt ārya, noble (cf Gr aristos, best): denotes 'Aryan and', as in Aryo-Indian.

aryteno-: c/f of aryenoid, lit 'ladle-shaped', Gr arutainoeidēs, from arutaina, a ladle.

asci- or asco-; ascidi(o)-: resp 'bag, bladder' and '(of or like a) bladder-shaped plant organ': SciL ascus (s asc-) from Gr askos (s ask-), a wine-skin, bag, bladder; SciL ascidium, from Gr askidion, dim of askos. Exx: asciferous or ascigerous, bearing asci (fungus sacs); ascogenous; ascidiferous, ascidiform. Gr askos is o.o.o.; perh akin to sakkos (L saccus), from Sem saq.

ascidi(o)-. See prec.

asperi-, as in asperifolious, rough-leaved: from L asper, rough. Cf ASPERITY.

aspid(o)-; -aspis: 'shield' or 'shield-like': borrowed from Gr, where they are c/ff of aspis, a shield, o/s aspid-, perh from spidos, wide. Exx: aspidomancy (cf -mancy) and Odontaspis, a name-type found only in a few erudite terms.

Assyrio-, Assyro-: c/ff of L Assyria and Assyrius, from resp Gr Assuria or Assuriē (gē, land) and Gr Assurios, adj from Assurioi, the Assyrians. Exx: Assyriology and Assyro-Babylonian.

-aster; aster(o)-; astri- or astr(o)-: resp 'star'; 'star'; 'of the stars; astral': resp Gr astēr, a star; Gr aster-, astero-, from astēr; from L astrum (Gr astron); Gr astr-, astro-, from Gr astron, a star, var of astēr: for all, cf STAR. Exx: such Bot, Bio and Zoo names as clypeaster, disaster; (Pal) Asterolepis; astriferous, star-bearing; ASTRONOMY, astrophysics.

-asthenia; asthen(o)-: 'debility'; '(of) debility': Gr astheneia, debility, from asthenēs, weak, whence astheno-. Lit, asthenēs=privative a-, not + sthenos, strong. Exx: neurasthenia, nerve-weakness (cf neuro-); asthenology, the scientific study (cf -logy at -loger) of debility, and asthenosphere, a 'zone of weakness' far below the earth's surface.

astragal(o)-: 'relation to or connexion with the astragalus', a tarsal bone: L astragalus, from Gr astragalos, a vertebra, akin to Gr ostrakon, a hard shell. Exx: astragalotibial; astragalomancy, divination (-mancy) by small bones—or by dice.

astri-, astro-. See -aster.

ataxo-: for ataxia (Gr, 'lack of arrangement, disorder'), as in ataxo-phenia, imperfect speech: privative a+ + taxis, akin to taxis, arrangement—cf TAX.

atel(o)-: 'defect of development or structure' (esp in An and Med): from Gr atelēs, imperfect, a-, not + telos, end, purpose (cf tele-). Ex: atelocephalous (cf cephalo-).

athero-, as in Bot Atherosperma (cf -sperm), comes from Gr athēr (gen atheros), a beard of corn; in Med, it = atheroma, itself ult of same origin.

athro-: from Gr athroos (adj), collected, as in athrogenic (cf -genic at -gen).

Atlanto-, Atlo-; atloido-. Whereas Atlanto- denotes either 'Atlantal (of Atlas) and' or 'Atlantic (and)', Atlo- denotes only 'Atlantal and'; Atloido denotes 'Atlantal and'. The base is Atlas, the mountain (see ATLAS), whence Atlo-; from the c/f Atlant- comes Atlanto-. Exx: Atlanto-Mediterranean, Atlantosaurus (cf -saur), atloido-occipital (atlas in its derivative An sense).

atmid(o)-: from atmid-, o/s of Gr atmis, smoke or vapour, akin to atmos, q.v. in next entry. Ex: atmidometer, an atmometer or evaporation-measurer.

atm(o)-, adopted from Gr, atm(o)- being the c/f of atmos, vapour—cf ATMOSPHERE. Ex: atmograph, atmology.

atomi- or atomo-; atomico-: 'atoms'; 'atomic': from atomic, from ATOM. Exx: atomiferous, atom-bearing (cf -ferous at -fer); atomology.

atra-. See atro-.

atrio-: 'atrium' or, in An, 'atrial and': from L ātrium, the principal room in an Ancient Roman house; hence a term in An and Zoo; ātrium, either Etruscan or from L āter (see atro-). Ex: atriopore (cf PORE).

atro-: 'black and': from L āter, black, o/s ātr-, app orig 'blackened by fire'—cf Av atars, fire. Ex: atrosanguineous, black-blooded (cf SANGUINE). The var atra- occurs in atrabiliar, F atrabillaire, from L ātra bilis, black bile.

-atrophia: 'a (specified) type of atrophy': SciL formation from Gr atrophia, lack of food (privative a- + -trophia, q.v.). Ex: splenatrophia (cf SPLEEN).

au-. See avi-.

audio-: 'hearing' or 'of hearing; audible': a Sci c/f from L audire (s aud-), to hear, perhaps suggested by audiō, I hear; audi- also occurs; cf AUDIBLE. Exx: audiogram, audiometer; audiphone.

aulac(o): Gr aulak(o)-, c/f of aulax, var of alox, a furrow. Ex: aulacocarpous (cf -carpous at carpo-).

aulo-: 'a tubular object or structure': Gr aulo-, c/f of aulos (s aul-), a flute—cf L aulu(u)s, flute, and Lit aulys, a beanstalk. Ex: aulophyte (cf -phyte).

aureo-; aur(i)-, auro-: 'golden'; 'gold' or 'of gold': L aureus, golden, from L aurum or LGr auron, gold, s aur-, var of IE aus-, as in OP ausis and Tokh A vās, gold. Exx: Aureobasidium (cf basidio-); auriferous, gold-bearing; auophobia. Cf AUREATE.

auri- (1). See prec.

auri- (2): 'the ear' or, in An and Physio, 'aural and': L auris, the ear, s aur-, an extension of IE au-, itself with a var ou-. Exx: auriform, aurinasal. The adj is aural. Cf:

auriculo-: 'auricular and': L auricula, auricle (external ear; a chamber of the heart), lit the d of auris, ear. Ex: auriculocranial.

auro- (1). See aureo-.

auro- (2); 'wind': Gr aura, wind, akin to āēr, air. Ex: aurophore (cf -phora).

Austro-: 'Austria and', as in Austro-Hungary. But also, as in Austro-Malayan, 'Australian and'. Cf AUSTRIA and:

austro-: 'the south wind', as in austromancy (-mancy), or 'south (and)', as in Austro-Asiatic. South-Asiatic: from L auster, the south wind: AUSTRALIA. Cf prec.

auth-. See:

aut(o)-; auth- or authi-, only before aspirated words: 'of or by or for or in oneself': Gr aut(o), aut(h)-, c/f of autos, self or, as adj, same, per-akin to Gr au (av). Exx: autocrat(ic); autodidact, self-taught person; cf DIDACTIC; AUTOGRAPH; AUTOMATON; AUTOMOBILE; authigenic (Gr authi-gēnēs, born on the spot).

Hence, short for automobile, as in autocar.

automat(o)-: adopted from Gr: c/f of automatos, self-acting: cf AUTOMATIC. Ex: automatograph.

-auxe; auxo-: 'enlargement of a part' (specified 'concerned with or due to increase or growth': Cf auxē, increase; Gr c/f auxo-, from auxein (s aux- to increase, cf IE aug-* or aug-* and L augēre (s aug-), to increase. Exx: enterauxe (cf entero-auxograph, auxotonic).

aveno-: from ML avēna, L auēna, oats (cf avoine)—cf OSI ovīsū and OP wise; prob non-IE. Ex: avenolith (cf -lith at -lite).

avi-: 'bird': ML avis, L avis (s au-), a bird, akin to Vedic vēs. Exx: avicolous (cf -colous), aviculturist. The s au- yields also auspice, whence auspicious: auspice, L auspicium, from auspex, a bird-inspector i.e. an augur, from avis + specere or spicere, to see.

axi-; axio-; ax(o)-; axono-: L c/f axi-, from axis (s ax-), axle, axis; mod c/f; Gr ax(o)-, from axōn (s ax-), axis; axon-, o/s of axōn + connective a- all denote 'axis'. L axis is intimately akin to G axōn. See AXIS. Exx: axilemma; axiolite; axostyle; axonometry.

axino-: from Gr axinē, an axe, as in axinomancy (cf -mancy).

axio- (1). See axi-.

axio- (2), as in axiology, the science of values. Gr axios, of like value, worthy—cf AXIOM.

axo-, axono-. See axi-.

az(o)-: chem c/f of azote, nitrogen, 'so named by Lavoisier because it is incapable of supporting life' (Webster). It occurs only in chem terms. Another c/f of azote is azoi(o)-, similarly restricted: cf azoxy-, which = az- + oxy-.

azygo-: c/f of azygous, odd (not one of a pair) lit 'unyoked'—Gr a-, not + zug(on), a yoke—cf YOKE. Ex: azygospore.

bacci-: 'berry': L bacca or bāca, a berry; a word either of Medit stock or akin to the wine-god Bacchus, from Gr βάγχος, imperfectly apprehended. Exx: bacciferous, from L bac(c)ifer; bacciform; baccivorosus (cf -vora).

bacilli-; bacill(o)-: '(of) a bacillus', SciL from LL bacillus, var of L bacillum, dim of baculum, a staff or a stick, akin to Gr baktron, a form indicating that the IE s is bak-*. Exx: bacilliform, bacilligenic; bacillophobia. Cf baculi- and:

-bacter; bacteri(o)-: 'a bacterial organism'; 'bacteria' or 'bacterial': bacteria is the pl of bacterium, SciL for Gr baktērion, dim of baktron, a staff, akin to L baculum (cf baculi-): bacteria are tiny rod-shaped organisms. Exx: nitrobacter (cf nitro-); bactericide (cf -cide at -idal); bacteriology, the science of bacteria; bacterioscopy (cf -scopy at -scope). Cf prec.

baculi-: 'rod' or 'staff', as in baculiform, or 'cane' or 'reed', as in baculiferous: L baculum, rod, staff. Cf bacilli- and -bacter.

balaeni-, balaeno-: 'whale': L balaena, from Gr phallaina, itself prob akin to phallos (L phallus); IE s bhel-*, to swell.

balani-, balan(o)-: 'acorn' and, in Med, 'gland': balani-, from L balanus, acorn; balano- from its Gr original, balanos (s balan-), akin to L glans. Exx: balaniferous; balanophore (cf -phore).

balneo-: irreg from L balneum, a bath, app for the var balineum, itself from Gr balaneion, neu n from adj balaneios* (s balan-), wet, dripping—cf Skt galanas, dripping (drop by drop). Ex: balneology, the science of (therapeutic) bathing.

balsami-: for balsam, as in balsamiferous, balsam-producing (cf -ferous at -fer).

-bar, adj -baric; bari-, bar(o)-, bary-: 'weight'; 'heavy': Gr baros, weight, and barus (s bar-), heavy, themselves akin to L gravis (ML gravis) and Go kaurus. The truly Gr c/f is bar(o)-; bary- is LL, and bari- a var thereof. Exx: isobar (cf iso-), from baros; centrobaric; baritone, barytone, It baritono, Gr barutonos, from barus; barograph, barometer (barometrical), baroscope, all from the n baros.

basi-, baso-: 'the base' or 'forming a base'; (An) 'relating to the basion'—basi- only; 'walking' (n): L basis, from Gr basis, from baínō, I go or walk: see BASE, n. Exx: basicranial (cf cranio-); basipetal (-petal); basophobia, a dread of walking. Cf:

basidio-: 'basidial' (of a basidium, a fungus form): c/f of basidium, SciL dim from Gr basis, base. Ex: basidiospore. Cf prec.

-bat (n); -batic (adj): Gr -batos, -walking (adj); -bat+suffix -ic. Cf ACROBAT.

batho-; bathy-: 'depth'; 'the ocean depths' or, in An and Med, 'the body's inner parts': c/f from Gr bathos, depth (whence the E bathos); c/f from Gr bathus, deep, prob akin to Gr bēssa, Doric bassa, a glen. Exx: bathophobia, a dread of depths—opp acrophobia, q.v. at acro-; bathysphere.

bato- (1): from Gr batos, a bramble (o.o.o.); as in Batodendron (Gr dendron, a tree).

bato- (2): from Gr batos, passable, from bainein, to walk, to step, to go. Prob in batophobia (cf -phobia at -phobe), a dread of passing close to high buildings.

bato- (3): from Gr batos, a skate or a ray (fish); as in Batiocrinus (cf -crinus).

batrach(o)-: adapted from Gr batrakh(o)-, c/f of batrakhos, a frog, of echoic origin. Ex: batrachophagous, frog-eating (cf -phaga).

-bdella; bdell(o)-: 'leech': Gr bdella, a leech, akin to bdallein, to milk, to suck: 'the sucker'. Ex: bdellotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

Belgo-: for Belgium and Belgian. Ex: Belgophile (cf -phil).

belli-: 'war': c/f of L bellum, war, o.o.o. Exx: belliferous, bringing war; belligerent, waging war, hence n; bellipotent, powerful (cf POTENT) in war, all three words having L forebears: cf the adj bellicose (L bellicōsus, from bellicus, of war) and the war goddess Bellona.

belo-; belono-: resp from Gr belos (s bel-), an arrow, and from its extension (? dim) belonē (? bel-+formative element -on-+ē, f sing), a needle. Exx: belomancy, divination (-mancy) with arrows; belonosphaerite (cf -sphaera; Min suffix -ite).

[bene-: 'well': the L adv bene. See Prefixes.]

benz(o)-: a chem c/f of benzene. Ex: benzoperoxide.

-bet. See ALPHABET.

beta, only in Chem: Gr bēta, the letter b. Exx: beta-glucose, beta ray.

betaino- for Chem betaine, itself=L bēta, beet+chem -ine. Ex: betainogen.

bi- or, before vowels, bin-: 'two', hence 'twice' (cf prefix bi-): L bi-, for dwi-*, from duo, two, akin to E two. Exx: bicycle, (a device with) two wheels (cf cyclo-); bifurcate (cf FORK); bilateral.

-bia, pl, and -bia, f sing, -bium, neu s, -bius, m sing; adj -bious; bi(o)-: 'life', 'living organisms': Gr bios (Gr c/f bio-), s bi-: see BIOGRAPHY. Exx: aerobia, pl of aerobium, an aerobe—an organism that can live only where oxygen is present; Zenobia (cf zeno-); AMPHIBIOUS (Gr amphibios); BIOGRAPHY, BIOLOGY. Cf -by.

Biblico-: c/f of Biblic(al). See BIBLE. Cf:

biblio-: Gr biblio-, c/f of biblion, a book: cf BIBLE. Exx: bibliography (cf -graphy at -graph), bibliolatory (cf -latory at -later), bibliomania (cf -mania at -measure), bibliophile (cf -phil).

micro-: 'one billionth', as in microfarad: anl with micro-.

bill-: 'bile' or, in Biochemistry, 'derived from bile': L bilis (s bil-), cf E BILE. Ex: biliverdin, a green pigment found in bile.

bin-. See bi-.

bio-; -bious. See -bia.

[bi-, twice. See Prefixes.]

bismuto-, bismutho-: chem c/f of bismuth, G Bismuth.

-blast; -blastic; -blasty;—blast(o)-: 'a formative cell'; 'formative, germinating'; 'germinal formation';—'a budding; budding', '(of) the early embryo': all four relative to Bio: Gr blastos, a sprout or shoot; E adj in -ic, used only as a 2nd element; Gr c/f -blastia; Gr c/f blast(o)-. Exx:

odontoblast (cf odonto-); epiblastic (epi- in Prefixes); heteroblasty (hetero-); blastoderm (-derm), blastospore (cf -spora).

blenni-; blenn(o)-: 'of mucus'; 'presence of, or connected with, mucus: Gr blenna, cf OIr blinn, slaver, pus. Exx: blenniform; blennogenous.

blephar(o)-; -blepharon: 'eyelid'; '(specified) disease of the eyelid': blephar(o)-, direct from the Gr c/f of blepharon, an eyelid, akin to—? from—blepein (s blep-), to glance or see. Exx: blepharotomy; varicoblepharon.

-bola, -bole, -bolic, -bolism, -bolist; bolo-: generically, '(a) stroke, stroking': resp LL -bola; Gr -bolē; Gr -bolikos; Gr -bolismos; Gr -bolistēs; c/f of Gr bolē, (lit) a throw(ing) or cast(ing), (hence) a stroke, from ballein (s bal-), to throw or cast. Exx: geometrical parabola, (perh via LL parabola) from Gr parabolē, (lit) a cast to the side; ME parabole, a parable; parabolic, LL parabolicus, LGr parabolikos; bolograph, bolometer.

boni-, c/f of L bonus, good, as in boniform, partaking of, or resembling, good; Boniface. Cf BOON.

bor(o)-: a chem c/f of boron, itself from borax (via F from Ar from Per būrah). Ex: borocarbide.

botan(o)-, a c/f adopted from Gr, from botanē, a plant: see BOTANY. Ex botanophile.

bothri(o)-; bothr(o)-: 'sucker', as on a tapeworm, c/f of bothrium, from Gr bothrion, dim of bothros, 'trench' or 'trough'—perh akin to Gr bathus, deep—whence the c/f bothro-, as in bothroderon.

botry(o)-: 'cluster of grapes': perh via L botru(u)s; certainly from Gr botrus, c/f botru(o)-, o.o.o. Ex: botryogen (-gen), botryolite (-lite).

botull-, as in botuliform, sausage-shaped: L botulus, prob of Oscan origin: cf botulism, (lit) sausage-poisoning.

bovi-, a c/f adopted from ML bōv-, L bōu-, o/s of bōs, an ox, akin to Gr boós or bous—cf BOVINE. With denotation 'cattle', it occurs in, e.g., boviculture, boviform. The c/f bovo-, as in bovovaccine, answers to the adj bovine.

-brach; brachisto-; brachy-: 'short'; 'shortest'; 'short': brachisto-, as in brachistocephalic, (lit) shortest-headed, represents Gr brachistos, sup of brachus, short, whence both the end-element -brach, as in amphibrach, a trisyllabic metric foot (˘ ˘ ˘) that is short at both ends, and the front element brachy-, as in brachycephalic, short-headed, and brachypterous, short-winged (-pterous at -ptera). Gr brachus, s brakh-, is akin to L breuis, s breu-, and also to Gr brakhiōn, forearm, arm; therefore cf:

brachi(o)-: 'the arm' and, in An, 'connexion with the arm; of the arm and': L brachium or bracchium, from Gr brakhiōn, forearm or arm. Exx: Brachio-pod (cf -pod), one of the molluscs, lit 'arm-footed'; Brachiosaurus, a huge dinosaur with forelegs longer than its hind legs. Cf prec.

brady- represents Gr bradu-, c/f of bradus (s brad-), slow, sluggish, perh akin to L gurdus, heavy, stupid. Exx: bradycardia (-cardia), sluggish (action of the) heart; bradycrotic, slow-pulsed (-crotic).

-branch; -branchia, adj -branchiate; branchi branchi(o)-: 'a branchiate creature', as in cirri-branch (cirri-); 'gills', as in podobranchia (pod-, q.v. at -pod); 'gills', as in branchicolous, 'living (-colous) parasitically upon gills'; 'relation to, connexion with gills', as in branchiocardiac and branchiosaur. The L branchia transliterates Gr brankhia, gills, pl of brankhion (βράγχιον), a fit cognate with brankhos (βράγχος), windpipe, throat—therefore cf bronchi-.

brevi-, adopted from ML brevi (L brevi-), c/f of brevis (L breuis), short, brief: cf BRIEF. Exx: breviloquence, ML breviloquentia, a brief manner of speaking; breviped (-ped), short-legged; brevipennate, short-winged.

Brito-: 'British': from Briton—cf BRITAIN. Ex Brito-Icelandic.

brom(o)-; Gr bromo-, brom-, c/ff of bromos (s brom-), var brōmos, a stink: in Chem, 'bromine', blend of F brome, bromine+E chlorine. Ex bromomania.

bronchi-; branchi(o)-; brunch(o)-: 'a bronchus or the bronchi', c/f from Gr brankhos, windpipe 'bronchial', c/f of branchium, the sing of branchia the bronchial tubes; 'bronchial' or 'bronchial and adapted from Gr brankho-, brankh-, c/ff of brankhos (whence bronchus, a subdivision of the windpipe). Exx: bronchology, ? wheezy speech; brankhiospasm; brankhotomy (-tomy, q.v. at -tome) bronte-, bront(o)-: 'thunder': Gr brontē, c/f bronto-, bront-, akin to Etrusco-Latin frontesia (Hofmann); orig echoic (?). Exx brontephobia, val of brontophobia, dread of thunder.

broto-, as in broto-crystal: from Gr brōtos, gnawed, to be eaten, prob the pp of bibrōskein (brōsk-), to eat up.

bry(o)-: adapted from Gr bru(o)-, c/f of bruos (s bru-), moss, app akin to bruein, to gush forth. Ex: bryology, the science of mosses.

bu-, as in bucentaur (cf CENTAUR), Bucephalus (the 'ox-headed' horse of Alexander the Great); Buceros (cf -ceros): Gr bou-, c/f of bous, ox: cf BOVINE.

bucco-: 'of the cheek and': L bucca, cheek, perh of C origin (r buc-*, to swell). Ex: buccolingual, of cheeks and tongue.

bulbi-, bulbo-: 'bulb' and 'of (or like) a bulb and' the former, regularly from L bulbus, the latter a SciL c/f from bulbus, itself a derivative of Gr bolbos. Exx: bulbiferous, bulbifrom; bulbospinal.

-bulia: 'a (specified) state of the will', Gr boulē s boul- (Hofmann compares ballein, to cast). Ex hyperbulia, excessive (cf hyper- in Prefixes) desire for action.

bulli-: from L bulia, a bubble, akin—sem, at the least—to L bulbus (cf bulbi-). Ex: bulliform, puckered.

buno-: from Gr bounos, mound, hill, akin to boubōn, (a swelling in) the groin. Ex: bunodon, (adj, hence n), having tubercles on the molar teeth, pl Bunodonta.

Burmo-, for 'Burma' or 'Burmese and', as in Burmo-Chinese.

bursi-, as in bursiform, purse-shaped: from L bursa, a purse: cf PURSE.

but-; butyr(o)-: the former, only in Chem, e.g. butane, butene, butyl, and pragmatically short for butyro-, the c/f of butyric, of or from butter: see BUTTER for L būtyrum, Gr bouturon.

-by-: perh via L -bium, from Gr -bion, as in cenoby, usu coenoby, perh via LL coenobium, a convent, from Gr koinobion, community life. See -bia.

byssi-, byss-: from L byssus, fine flax, (hence) fine linen, from Gr bussos, with cognates in Ham and Sem. Exx: byssiferous (cf -ferous at -fer) and byssogenous (cf -genous at gen), both with E sense 'tuft'.

-cace; cach-; cac(o)-: adaptation of the Gr c/f -kakē, for kakē, badness—in E, vitiated condition, as in arthrocace (cf arthro-); cach- (Gr kakh-), the aspirated form of cac- (Gr kak-), the prevocalic shortening of caco- (Gr kako-), from kakos, bad, perh from kakkē, human excrement, cf L cadere (s cac-), to cack or defecate; kakkē and cadēre are nursery words. Exx: cachexia, from Gr kakhexia (cf hexi-); cacophony, dissonance, discord.

acti-: for cactus, as in cactiform, cactus-like.

cadmi-, cadm(o)-: for cadmium (cf the Chem suffix -ium), a ductile metal, from cadmia, itself from Gr kadmēia, from the Gr myth character Kadmos (=Cadmus). Exx: cadmiferous (cf -ferous at -fer); cadmopone (after 'lithopone').

caduci-: (lit) 'falling', (hence) 'deciduous': L cadūcus, falling (adj), failing, from cadere (s cad-), to fall; see CADENCE. Ex: caducicorn (cf -corn), having deciduous antlers.

caeci-; caec(o)-, mod ceco-: 'of the caecum' (the blind gut); 'the caecum' (adj caecal) or 'caecal and': base, L caecus (s caec-, ModE cec-), blind, akin to OIr caech and Go haihs, one-eyed; caecum is n from the neu of the adj. Exx: caeciform, shaped like the caecum; caecotomy; cecograph.

cael(o)-. See coel(i)-.

caen(o)-. See ceno-.

Caesaro-; caesaro-: for Caesarian; from CAESAR. Exx: Caesarotomy (cf -tomy at -tome); caesaropapism or -papacy, the exercise, by secular rulers, of power over the Papacy.

cain(o)-. See ceno-.

calami-, calam(o)-: 'a reed' or 'reeds': resp L calamus and, origin of the L word, Gr kalamos, a reed. Exx: calamiferous, Calamospermae (cf -sperm).

calathi-: from L calathus, from Gr kalathos, a basket narrow at the base, (perh) a cup, as in calathiform, cup-shaped; cf Skt kathina-, a saucepan.

calcaneo-: In An and Zoo, 'of the calcaneum (a bone) and': LL calcāneum, the heel, from calx, o/s calc-, the heel. Ex: calcaneotibial. Cf calcari-.

calcareo-; calci-; calcio-; calc(o)-: resp 'calcareous'; 'lime' or 'calcium'; 'presence of calcium';

'lime' or chalk: resp L calcārius, of or with lime, calcareous; L calx, gen calcis, o/s calc-, lime; c/f of calcium; (calco-) irreg from L calx, calc-, lime, akin to and perh from Gr khalix, a pebble, limestone, of ancient IE stock. Exx: calcareo-sulphurous; calciferous, calcimeter; calcography, art of drawing with chalks. Calcium is a SciL formation from calx, lime.

calcari-: 'spur' (of cock bird): L calcar, a cock's spur, from calc- o/s of calx heel (cf calcaneo-). Ex: calcariferous.

calcei-: 'shoe, slipper': L calceus, shoe, from calx, o/s calc-, heel. Ex: calceiform, (in Bot) slipper-shaped. Cf calcaneo- and calcari-.

calci-; calcio-; calco-. See calcareo-.

calculi-: 'pebble': L calculus, either a dim or a reduplication of calx lime(stone). Ex: calculiform, pebble-shaped.

cal(e)-; cali-; calori-: 'warm': from L calēre (s cal-), to be warm; calidus, warm; calor, warmth, heat; words with an IE s kal*. Exx: calefactory, adj (L calefactōrius) and n (ML calefactōrium), and calelectricity; caliduct; calorigenic, calorimeter.

calli- (1). See prec.

calli- (2). See calli-.

calli- (3): irreg for calidi- (L calidus, very warm), as in caliduct.

calici-: 'cup', hence 'bell': L calix (o/s calic-), a cup, a goblet, akin to Gr kalux, a flower's calyx, which is cup-shaped. Ex: caliciform, bell-shaped. Cf calyci-.

calio-: from Gr kalia (s kal-: cf calypto-), a hut, a nest. Ex: caliology, a study—the science—of birds' nests.

calli-, occ callo-; calo-: resp Gr kalli-, c/f of kallos, beauty, as in calligraphy (Gr kalligraphia), callipygous (Gr kallipugos); as in Callorhynchus, 'fair-snouted' (fish); Gr kalo-, c/f of kalos, beautiful, as in calotype. The c/f cali-, as in calisthenics (callisthenics), is a var of calli-. With Gr kalos and kallos, cf Skt kalyas, healthy.

calori-. See cale-.

caly-. A shortened—and rare—var (as in calyphyomy) of:

calyci-; calyc(o)-: 'calyx': calyci-, from L calyc-, o/s of calyx; calyc- or, before a vowel, calyc-, from Gr kaluko-, kaluk-, from kalux (o/s kaluk-), calyx of flower. Exx: calyciflorous; Calycophora (cf -phora). Cf calici-.

calypt(o)-: 'covered': Gr kaluptos, covered, hidden, as in calyptoblastic. Cf calyptri-, calypstro-, c/f of Gr kaluptra, a covering, as in calyptriform and calyptragen. Gr kaluptein, to hide, has s kalupt-, an extension of IE kal-* or kel-*, to cover, shelter, hide, as in L celāre, to hide, and E cell.

cambi-, cambio-: c/f of the SciL sense-adaptation (in Bot) of LL campium, exchange—cf ML campiāre, to exchange; a word of app C origin: r camb-*, to turn. Ex: cambiform, campigenetic.

Cambro-: c/f of Cambrian, adj of ML Cambria, Wales, from W Cymra, itself prob from Cymry, the Welsh (people), pl of Cymro: cf CYMRIC. Ex: Cambro-Briton.

camelo-. See camelopard at CAMEL.

-campa; campo-: from Gr kampē, a caterpillar. Only in Zoo techh.

campani-, campano-: c/ff of LL campāna, a bell, of echoic origin. Exx: campaniform, bell-shaped, and campanology, science (cf -logy at -loger) of bells, art of ringing bells.

camph(o)-, camphor(o)-: c/ff of camphor (perh via MF camphore): ML camphora; Ar kāfūr, Mal kāpūr. Exx: camphocarboxylic; camphoroyl (cf -yl).

campi-: c/f of L campus, a field—cf campto- and esp CAMP. Ex: campimeter, a term in Psy.

campo-. See -campa.

campto- (in Bot and Zoo): Gr kamptos, flexible, akin to kamptein, to bend or curve, and kampē, a bend (in a river); akin also to cambio- and perh to L campus, a field (cf prec entry). Ex: camptodrome, (Bot adj) having a bent course (cf -drome). Cf:

campyl(o)-: Gr kampulo-, kampul-, from kampulos, curved; akin to campto-, cambio-, prob campi-. Exx: campylodrome, campylotropous (cf -tropic).

canali-, 'canal': from L canālis, a canal or a channel: cf CANAL. Ex: canaliform, canal-like.

canceri-, cancro-; cancri-: the first two, c/ff of E CANCER; the third, of L cancer, a crab. Exx: cancerigenic (-genic at -gen)—cancerophobia; cancriform, cancrivorius. Cf carcino-.

cannabi-: for L cannabis, hemp, as in cannabinol (cf -ol).

canth(o)-: c/f of SciL canthus, eye-corner, from Gr kanthos, prob of C origin, with IE s kanth-*: cf campto-. Ex: canthotomy (-tomy at -tome).

capilli-: c/f of L capillus, hair, perh related to caput (head), o/s capit-, and to pilus, a hair. Exx: capilliculture, capilliform. Cf the adj capillary (L capillāris).

capno-: c/f of Gr kapnos, smoke, of ancient IE stock. Ex: capnomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by smoke.

capri-, adopted from L, c/f of caper, o/s capr-, a goat, perh of C origin; cf 'to caper'. Exx: Capricorn, the Goat-Horned; capripede, goat-footed. Cf:

capro-: chem c/f of caproic, ult of same origin as prec.

capsuli-, capsulo-: c/ff of capsule (L capsula, a small box: cf CASE, a box). Exx: capsuliferous, capsulotomy.

carb(o)-: c/f of E CARBON; loosely for carbonic. Ex: carbohydrate. But carboni- represents the c/f of L carbō, o/s carbōn-; as in carboniferous and carbonimeter.

carbوني-. See prec.

carbuo-: for carburet; as in carburometer.

carcin(o)-, adopted from Gr karkino-, karkin-, c/ff of karkinos, a crab, (hence) cancer—akin to Skt karkaṣas and also L cancer; cf canceri- above. Exx: (crab) carcinology; (cancer) carcinosarcoma (cf sarco- below).

-cardia, -cardium; cardia-, cardi(o)-: resp a (specified) kind of heart-trouble or oddity, as in stenocardia (cf steno-), or, in Zoo, animals having a specified kind of heart, as in Isocardia (iso-), from Gr kardia, the heart—a membrane connected with the heart, as in endocardium (endo-), from the C c/f -kardion, from kardia—cardia- and cardi(o)- cardiac (of or belonging to the heart), as cardiatomy, cardiology, cardi(o)- deriving from the Gr c/ff kardio-, kardi-, from kardia. F.a. HEART.

cardo-: c/f of Gr kardos (s kard-), a thistle, as cardophagous, thistle-eating. Cf:

carico-: c/f of L carex, o/s caric-, sedge; the car- may be akin to the car- of L cardu(u)s, C kardos, thistle. Ex: carcology.

carini-: for L carina, a ship's keel; esp in An, Bot, Zoo; e.g., cariniform, keel-shaped Cf CAREEN.

-caris, in generic names of crustacea, represent the Gr karis, a shrimp, a prawn, perh from karis the head.

carni-: c/f of L carō, flesh, gen carnis, o/s carn- cf CARNAL. Exx: carniferous, carniform, E formations; carnivore, via F from ML carnivorus (whence E carnivorous), L carniuorus—cf DEVOUR.

-carp, -carpous, -carpus, -carpy; carp(o)-: resp 'fruit'—'having (specified) fruit' or 'having (s many) fruits'—a Latinized form of karpos, in Bot generic names—a (named) manner of fruiting: 'fruit-': Gr karpo-, karp-, c/ff of karpos, fruit (cf karp-), akin to L carpere (s carp-), to gather, and Gr keirein (s keir-), to cut, to gather, to harvest the IE s ker-* or kar-* means 'to cut, to gather (fruit)'; fundamentally, therefore, karpos means 'that which is cut or plucked or gathered'. Exx: endocarp (endo-), schizocarp (schizo-)—oligocarpous, bearing few (oligo-) fruits, and monocarpous, single-fruited—syncarpy (cf syn- in Prefixes), 'collective' fruiting; carpogam (-gam), carpogenous carpology, carpophagous (fruit-eating), carpospor (cf -spore at -spora).

carpho-: from Gr karphos, a (rice) straw. Exx: carpholite (-lite) and Carphophis (-ophis).

carpo- (1). See -carp-.

carpo- (2) or, before a vowel, carp-: in An, 'the carpus', or 'carpal' (of the carpus) or 'carpal and' Gr karpo-, karp-, c/ff of karpos, the carpus o/wrist, with fewer IE cognates than has karpos fruit; IE s kerp-* (or kerb-) or karp- (or karb-*) to turn, to be mobile. Ex: carpopedal (cf ped- foot).

-carpous; -carpy. See carp-.

carto-; charto-: 'map' or 'chart' or both: L carta or charta, from Gr khartēs, exit a sheet of papyrus; hence of paper: cf CARD. Exx: cartography, -er, -y and cartomancy; chartology (cartography or art of map-drawing) and chartometer.

cary(o)- or kary(o)-: Gr karu(o)-, c/f of karuon nut or kernel, via L caryon (s cary-): in Bio, nucleus of a cell, perh akin to Gr kara, the head, or to the IE s kar-*, to be hard. Exx: caryopsis (cf -opsis); karyochrome, karyoplasm, karyosome.

case(o)-: c/f of casein (milk protein), itself consisting of case-, the s of L cāseus, cheese, and chem -in (see Suffixes). Ex: caseolysis (-lysis, q.v. at -lyse).

castano-: from Gr kastanos, chestnut tree: cf CHESTNUT. Ex: Castanopsis (cf -opsis at -opsis).

-caster, -cester, -chester; castra-: 'fortified place, esp fortified town': L castra, a camp: cf CASTLE. The first three occur only in place-names, -chester being the most, -caster the least anglicized. Exx: Doncaster, Worcester, Manchester; castrametation, camp-measuring, hence camp-making, the 2nd element deriving from L metari, to measure off (a camp-site): cf -meter.

cathodo-: for cathode, as in cathodograph (cf -graph).

Catholici-: for Catholic.

catoptro-: from Gr katoptron, a mirror (kat- for prefix kata-, see cata- + the Gr root for 'to see'—cf OPTIC). Ex: catoptromancy, divination (-mancy) with a mirror.

caudi-; caud(o)-: 'of the tail'; 'caudal (of the tail)' or 'caudal and': L cauda (s caud-), the tail, o.o.o. Exx: caudiform; caudodorsal.

cauli-, as in caulicolous, cauliflory, cauliflorous (but not cauliflower), cauliform, and caulo-, as in caulomer, caulotaxy: the former from L caulis, a stalk, itself akin to, perh from, Gr kaulos, whence caul(o)-; with cognates in OC and OSI.

causi-: L causi-, c/f of causa, a law-case: cf CAUSE. Ex: causidical, of, for, by pleading (dicere, to say) a case.

cav -; cavo-: c/f of ML cavus (L cauus), hollow—see CAVE. Exx: cavicorn, hollow-horned, and cavo-relievo, for It cavo-rilievo, hollow relief. Cf caverni-, from ML caverna, a cavern, from cavus (L cauus), as in cavernicolous (cf -colous), cave-dwelling.

cecidio-, cecido-, as in cecidiology, cecidogenous: c/f of Gr kēkis, gail-nut, o/s kēkid-, perh akin to kēkis, a gushing forth.

ceco-: c/f of L caecus, blind (see caeci- above), as in cecograph, a device that helps the blind to write.

-cele. See -coele.

celi(o)-. See coeli(o)- celli-: c/f of E CELL. Exx: celliferous, celliform, cellifugal, cellipetal. Cf:

cello-: c/f of cellulose (see CELL). Ex: cellobiose.

Cf:
celluli-; cellul(o)-: 'cell' or 'cellulle'; 'cellular and' or '(nerve) cell': c/f of cellule (see CELL). Exx: celluliferous; cellulofibrous.

celo-. See coel-.

celti-, as in celtiform, shaped like a celt: from LL celtis, a chisel—perh cf Mlr celtair, a spear.

Celt(o)-, as in Celto-Iberian and Celtomaniac, Celtophil: c/f of Celt or Celtic. See CELT.

cemento-: c/f of cementum (of a tooth: cf CEMENT). Ex: cementoblast.

-cene; ceno-: 'recent, new': Gr kainos (s gain-), fresh, new, cf Skt kalmās, young; prob IE s, ken-. Exx: Eocene, Miocene, geol periods; cenogenesis, Cenozoic.

ceno- (1). See prec.

ceno- (2): from Gr kenos (s ken-), empty: perh ult akin to L uānus (E VAIN). Ex: cenotaph, an empty tomb, via EF-F cénotaphe from L cenotaphium, itself from Gr kenotaphion (cf the -taph of epitaph).

ceno- (3). A rare var of coen(o)-, as in cenoby.

-cenosis: (Med) 'discharge', (Surg) 'removal': Gr kenōsis, an emptying (cf -osis in Suffixes). Ex: lithocenosis (litho-). Cf the 2nd ceno-.

centauro-, as in centauiromachy, a fight in which centaurs participate: from Gr Kentauros, a Centaur (a Thessalian half-man, half-horse), perh 'he who spurs horses' (Boisacq, 'Conjectural')—cf Gr kentron, a spur.

centi-; before a vowel, cent-. L c/f of centum (s cent-), a hundred; cf Skt sata-. Either 'a hundred', as centigrade, centenary (LL centenārium: cf -enary), centipede, or, on the F pattern, 'a hundredth part', as in centigram, centimetre.

centri-, centr(o)-; -centric; resp 'centre', c/f of L centrum (s centr-); 'centre', c/f kentro- of Gr kentron (s kentr-); 'centering on', 'tending towards, or turning round, a centre', from ML -centricus. L centrum comes straight from Gr kentron; see CENTER. Exx: centrifugal (-fugal) and centripetal (-petal); centrobaric (cf -bar) and centrosphere.

cephal(o)-; -cephalic or -cephalous; -cephalus, -cephaly: cephal(o)- adapts Gr kephalo-, kephal-, c/f of kephalē, the head; IE s khebh-* or ghebh-*: cf Macedonian Gr kebalē and Go gibla, top, summit. Exx: cephalograph (cf -graph) and cephalomancy (cf -mancy); brachycephalic or brachycephalous, short-headed (cf brachy-)—cf the Gr brakhukephalos; Bucephalus (cf bu-), Gr Boukephalos; brachycephaly, -cephaly being prompted by Gr kephalē.

-cera, -ceras, -cerous; cerat(o)-, occ kerat(o)-, shortened form, keras: resp Zoo 'horn', as in Rhopalocera (cf rhopalo-); Bot and Zoo genera, as Tinoceras (cf tino-); corresponding E adj; Gr kerat(o)-, c/f of keras, horn, o/s kerat-, as in ceratoglossal; keralite, hornstone. Gr keras has r ker-; cf IE r ker-* or kar-, and L cornu (E CORN).

cerauno-: Gr keruano-, c/f of kerauos (s kerau-), thunderbolt, ult echoic. Exx: ceraunograph, ceraunomancy, ceraunoscapy.

-cercal; -cercy; cerc(o)-: resp '-tailed'; 'a (specified type of) tail formation'; 'tail'; cerc(o)- = Gr kerko-, kerk-, c/f of kerkos (s kerk-), a tail: o.o.o. Exx: homocercal (Gr homo-); heterocercy (hetero-); cercopithecus, Gr kerkopithēkos, a (long-) tailed monkey.

cerebelli-, as in cerebellifugal (cf -fugal), and cerebello-, as in cerebellocorix: c/f of L cerebellum, dim of cerebrum, brain. Cf:

cerebri; cerebr(o)-: 'the brain'; 'the brain' or 'of the brain (and)': L cerebrum, the brain, s cerebr-: cf CEREBRAL. Exx: cerebriform, cerebriifugal; cerebriology, cerebrosppinal.

ceri-; cer(o)-: c/f of L cēra (s cēr-), wax, as in cerigerous, wax-bearing; (cero-) adapted from kēr(o)-, c/f of Gr kēros, wax (s kēr-), akin to—perh the origin of—the L word. Exx: cerography, Gr kērographia, writing or designing upon wax; ceroplastics, Gr kēroplastikē (tekhnē), lit the wax-modelling art. Cf:

cerio-, as in Ceratomyces (cf -myces), a genus of fungi: from Gr kērion, a honeycomb. Cf prec.

-ceros: Gr -kerōs, c/f of keras, horn (of animal), akin to L cornu (cf -corn). Exx: RHINOCEROS; Stephanoceros (cf stephano-).

certi-. See certify at CERTAIN.

ceruleo-: from L caeruleus, sky-blue, akin to L caelum, the sky; as in ceruleolactite.

cerumini-: for cerumen, ear-wax, from L cēra, wax. Ex: ceruminiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

-cerus, as in Tetracerus (cf tetra-, four): from Gr -kerōs, horned, from keras, horn: cf -cera.

cervi-, as in cervicorn, horned (i.e., antlered) like a stag or ML cervus, L ceruus (r cer-), perh 'the horned (animal)'—cf L cornu, horn.

cervici-, more often cervic(o)-: 'of the neck (and)' ML cervix, o/s cervic- (L cervic-), the neck, prob (lit) 'the head-binding (part)'. Exx: cervicispinal, cervicofacial.

-cester. See -caster.

cet(o)-: Gr kēto-, c/f of kētos (s ket-), a cetacean (itself=the derivative L cēt(us)+-acean, q.v. in Suffixes) or whale; Gr kētos is o.o.o. Ex: cetology. The var ceti-, as in ceticide (cf -cide, killer or a killing), comes from the L cētus.

chada-: from chad-, aorist s of Gr chandanein (s chandan-), to grasp, hold, contain; IE r, ghend-*, to grasp, c/f L prehendere (pre-+hend-+-ere). Ex: chadacryst (cf -cryst), a crystal enclosed within a crystal.

chaen(o)-: from Gr khainein (s khain-), to gape; IE r, ghan-, an extension of gha- or ghai-* or ghe-* or ghei-*. Exx: Bot Chaenactis (Gr aktis, a ray: cf -actine) and Chaenolobus (Gr lobos, a lobe: cf LOBE).

-chaeta, -chaetes, -chaetus (adj of all three: -chaetous); chaeti-; chaet(o)- or cheto-: 'spine' or 'bristle': first three, Gr -khaitēs (-χαιτης), -haired; chaeti-, c/f of SciL chaeta, from khaitē; chaet(o)-, c/f of Gr khaitē, (lock of) hair, mane, IE ghaita*—cf Av gaēsa, lock of hair. Exx: Zoo Spirochaeta (cf spiro-); Connochaetes (Gr konnos, a beard); chaetiferous; chaetophorous, bristle-bearing (cf -phora).

chalazi, chalazo-: c/f of Gr khalaza, hail-stone, hence a pimple, IE r gheled-*. Mostly in Bot and Embryology, as chalazogam (cf -gam).

chalced(o)-: for chalcadony, from L chalcēdonius (adj as n), prob from Gr Khalkēdōn, Chalcedon, a town in Asia Minor. Ex: chalcadonyx.

-chalcite; chalco- or chalko-: Gr chalkos, copper, c/f chalko-; IE r ghel(e)gh-*. Exx: leucochalcite, which = leuco-+chalc-+Min-ite (Suffixes): chalcolithic (cf -lith), chalcotript, a rubber (Gr triptēs) of monumental brasses; chalkography.

Chaldaeo-: from L Chaldaeus, a Chaldean.

chalico-: from Gr khalix (gen khalikos), a pebble—akin to L calx, chalkstone. Ex: chalicothere (cf -there).

chalko-. See -chalcite.

chamae- or chame-: 'low': Gr khamai (s kham-), on the ground, akin to L humī, with many IE cognates, the IE root being prob ghem-*: cf HOMO. Exx: chamae-, in Bot and Zoo; chameleon. L chamaeleon, Gr khamailēōn, the earth-lion (cf LION).

chancrī-: for chancre, as in chancriform. Cf CANCER.

charto-. See carto-.

chasmō-: from Gr khasma, an opening, a gap (cf CHASM). Exx: the Bot chasmogamy (cf -gam), and chasmophyte (cf -phyte).

chavi-, chavic-: only in Chem, e.g. chavicol (cf -ol, oil): from Chavica (betel), ? named after a botanist.

-cheiria or -chiria; cheir(o)- or chir(o)-: 'type of hand-formation'; '(the) hand': Gr kheir, c/f kheiro-; IE r gher*, to grasp, cf Tokh A tsar. Exx: macrochiria, long-handedness; ch(e)irography, handwriting; ch(e)irology and ch(e)iromancy, palmistry; chiropractic, manipulation (of joints, esp of spine)—cf -practic.

cheilo-. See chilo- at -chilia.

chel(i-); chel(o)-: c/f of Gr khēlē (s khēl-), a claw: IE ghā-* or ghei-*—cf CLAW. Exx: chelicera (cf -cera), cheliferosus, cheliform; chelophore (cf -phora), Chelura (cf -ura).

chelid(o)-: c/f from Gr khelidon, the swallow, IE r khel-* or ghel-*. Ex: Chelidosaurus (cf -saur).

chelo- (1). See cheli-.

chelo- (2); chel(y)-: Gr khelus, a tortoise, cf the syn OSl žely; IE r, prob ghelea-, an extension of ghel-. Exx: Chelodina (Gr deinos, terrible), a genus of Aus fresh-water turtles; Chelydra, genus of common turtles, from Gr kheludros, a tortoise; orig an amphibious serpent: Gr -udros, end c/f of hudōr, water—cf -hydrous.

chemi-; chemico-; chem(o)-, with var chemio-: c/f of resp chemical-chemic, denoting 'relation to chemistry'—chemical, denoting 'relation to chemical action'. See CHEMICAL. Exx: chemiatry (cf -iatry at -iatric), chemigraphy; chemicocautery; chemokinesis, chemotherapy; chemiotropic.

chen(o)-: adaptation of Gr khēno-, khēn-, c/f of khēn (gen khēnos, s khēn-), a goose, with cognates in Skt and other IE languages. Ex: chenopod, lit 'goose-footed'.

cherso-: Gr kherso-, c/f of khersos, land, as in khersonēsos, a peninsula, whence, via L, the E chersonese (cf -nese, island).

-chester. See -caster.

cheto-. See chaeto- at -chaeta.

chiasmo-; chiasto-: resp from Gr khasma, two lines crossed as in Gr χ (khi), whence the ModL chiasmus—khasma deriving from khiazēin, itself from khi; and from khiastos, marked with a khī (χ), the pp of khiazēin. Exx: Chiasmodon (cf -odon) and chistolite (cf -lite).

chili-, chilia-: 'a thousand': Gr khilioi, 1,000: IE gheslio-*, cf L mille. Exx: chiliarch, leader (cf -arch) of 1,000 men; chiliahedron, a 1,000-faceted polyhedron (cf -hedron).

-chilia; -chilus; chil(o)- or cheil(o)-: 1st, 'lip' formation'; the others, 'lip': Gr kheilo-, khil-, c/f of kheilos, s kheil-: cf GILL (fish's). Ex: chilotomy.

chin(o)-: c/f of SciL chinium, quinine, as in chinoxin, chinol.

Chino-: c/f of China or of Chinese (and). Ex: Chino-Japanese. Cf sino-.

chio-; chion(o)-: c/f from Gr khiōn, snow, o/s khion-, akin to Gr kheima, L hiems, winter. Exx: chiolite (cf -lite): Chionodoxa, (lit) the glory of the snow—a genus of lilies.

-chiria; chir(o)-: See -cheiria.

-chirurgia: from Gr kheirurgia (lit, hand-work), surgery: cf SURGERY. Ex: pneumochirurgia (cf pneumo-).

chitino-: c/f of chitinous; chito-, c/f of chitin, a Biochem term, derived from Gr khitōn, coat of shell (hence of mail, etc.).

chlamyd(o)-: Gr khlamud(o)-, c/f of khlamus, o/s klamud-, a mantle. Ex: chlamydospore (cf -spora). A secondary c/f appears in chlamyphore, as if from a Gr c/f khlamu-.

chlo-: from Gr khloē, verdure (cf the next). Ex: chloanthite (cf -anth).

chlor o-: c/f of Gr khlōros, light-green, s khlōr-; cf the IE r ghlor(r)-* or khlō(r)-*: a word with numerous cognates. In Chem, this c/f denotes the presence of chlorine, as in chloroform, the 2nd element representing formyl; in Med, chloroma or chlorosis. Next to chloroform, the most notable cpd is perh chlorophyll(l), the light-green colouring matter of plants (-phyll). Cf prec.

-choanite, adj -choanitic; choano-: c/f of Gr khoanē, a funnel, s khoan-, akin to Skt hōman-, libation, and esp to Gr kheō (s khe-), I pour out. Exx: Holochoanites, pl (cf holo-); cloiochoanitic (cf cloio-); choanocyte (-cyte), choanosome (cf -soma).

-choerus: SciL from Gr khoiros (s khoir-), a pig—cf Gr dial khurra, a sow, and perh L sūs (gen suis, sueris*), pig, sow. Ex: Hydrochoerus (cf hydro-), a Zoo genus.

chole-, chol(o)-; -cholia, -choly: c/f (chole-) of Gr kholē and (cholo-) of its var kholos, bile or gall, the Gr c/f being khole- or khol-; Gr -kholia; its anglicism -choly. The Gr word is akin to L fel, E gall; IE r is prob ghel-*, yellow (cf YELLOW itself). Exx: cholecyst; cholochrome; melancholy, from melancholia, itself adopted from Gr (cf melano-). The c/f chole- has a compound: choledoch(o)-, c/f of Gr kholedokhos, bile-containing. Semantically cf -chondri-.

choledoch(o)-. See prec, s.f.

cholero-: for cholera, as in cholophobia. Cf CHOLER.

chondri-, chondri(o)-, chondr(o)-; -chondria, -chondry: chondri- is a var of chondro- and a short form of chondrio-; chondrio- is the c/f of Gr khondrion, dim of khondros, (lit) grit or grain, (hence) cartilage, whence obviously chondro-, itself a Gr c/f; -chondry merely anglicizes -chondria, from Gr -khondria, an abstract c/f from khondros. Exx: chondrigen, chondriome; chondriosome; chondrocostal, chondrophore; hypochondry, -dria, through L from Gr hupokhondria, orig the neu pl of hupokhondrios, adj formed of hupo (cf hypo-), under + khondros, cartilage, the derivative adj being hupokhondriakos, whence, via ML and EF-F, the E hypochondriac, adj hence n.

-chord, -chordal; chord(o)-: 'string' or 'stringed instrument', from Gr -khordon (neu of adj -khordos), as in clavichord (cf the 2nd clavi-); 'relating to the notochord' (q.v. at noto-), as in epichordal; chord(o)- = Gr c/f khordo-, khord-, from khordē (whence ult -khordon), and denotes either 'the vocal cords', as in chordotonal, or 'the notochord', as in chordotomy. The Gr khordē derives from IE gher-*, to fasten. Cf chorio-.

-chore: 'a plant distributed by (a specified) agency', as in zoochore: from Gr khōrein (s khōr-), to spread. Adj: -chorous.

chore-: c/f of Gr khoreia, a dance, as in choreography, now usu choreography, (the art of) stage, esp ballet, dancing. Cf CHORUS, the 2nd choro-, and:

chorei-: c/f of chorea, St Vitus's dance: c/f of Gr khoreia, a dance.

choreo-. See chore-.

chori-. See next. (Also see chori- in Prefixes.)

chori(o)-: c/f of chorion, a membrane, from Gr khorion. IE r, prob gher*, to grasp, contain, envelop. Ex: choriocarcinoma. Cf -chord.

chorist(o)-: c/f from Gr khōristos, separated, pp of khōrizein, to separate, divide, from khōris, separately. Ex: choristoblastoma.

chor(o)- (1): Gr khōro-, khōr-, c/f of khōros, a place (s khōr-). Exx: chorography, Gr khōrographia; chorology.

choro- (2): c/f from Gr khoros, (a) dance, s khor-, perh by reduction from khortos, grass, feeding place, enclosure, court: cf COURT. Ex: choromania. Cf:

chorto-: Gr khorto-, from khortos, grass—cf COURT. Ex: chortosterol.

chreo-; -chresis, -chrestic; chresto-: resp c/f of Gr khreios, useful, as in chreotechnics; Gr khreōsis, use, as in catachresis, misuse (cata- in Prefixes); adj from Gr khrestos, useful, as in catachrestic; c/f of khrestos, as in chrestomathy, Gr khrestomatheia (cf -math); all these Gr words derive from khresthai (s khre-), to use, with many IE cognates.

Christi-; Christo-: c/f of L Christus; c/f of Gr Khristos, the Christ. Exx: Christicide (cf -cide); Christocentric. See CHRISTIAN.

I: -chroia, -chroic, -chroid, -chroōus, -chromasia, -chrome, -chromia, -chromy; II: chromat(o)-, chromi-, chromidio-, chrom(o)-. The origins are separately these: I: Gr khroia, colour, E -chroia denoting discoloration, as in cacochroia (cf caco-), with adj -chroic, -chroid, -chroōus, as in erythrochroic (cf erythro-), xanthochroid (xantho-), isochroous (iso-); -chromasia, 'condition of pigmentation', a cpd of Gr khroma, colour + suffix -asia; -chromia (chrom- + -ia), anglicized as -chromy, comes from khroma, whence also -chrome and chrome (cf the adj chromatic, via L from Gr khromatikos); II: chromat(o)-, from Gr khromato-khromat-, c/f of khroma, colour, o/s khromat-, denotes 'colour' or 'pigment(ation)', as in chromatophore; chromi-, c/f of chromium (a SciL formation from chrome); chromidio-, c/f of chromidium; chrom(o)-, c/f from Gr khrōma, denotes 'colour' or 'pigment' or 'pigmentation', as in chromogen (-gen), chromolithograph, chromometer, chromophore (of -phora), chromosome (cf -soma).

The Gr khrōma, s khrōm-, has few and only very ancient parallels; khrōm- appears to be an -m extension of IE khrō-* or ghrō-*.

-chromis: a Zoo c/f, in fish names: from Gr khromis, some kind of marine fish.

chromo-; -chromy. See -chroia.

-chrone; -chronous; chron(o)-: resp Math c/f from Gr khronos; general adj from -khronos; chron(o)-, adaptation of Gr khrono-, khron-, c/f of khronos, time, s khron-; cf CHRONIC. Exx: synchronize, synchronous; chronology, chronometer. See CHRONIC.

chrys(o)-: Gr khruso-, khrus-, c/f of khrusos (s khrus-), gold—cf CHRYSALIS. Exx: chrysanthemum (cf anth-), Gr khrusanthemon, and chrysolite, chrysopraxe.

chrysto-, as in Geol chrystocene (cf -crene): app for crystal.

-chylla; chyll-, chyl(o)-: 'condition of the chyle'; chylli-, a var of chyl(o)- from Gr khulo-, khul-, from khulos (s khul-), (lit) juice, (hence) chyle—a modification of lymph; khulos derives from kheein (s khe-), to pour, akin to JUICE. Exx: hypochyllia; chylliferous; chylocyst. Cf:

-chyme; chymi-: end c/f of E chyme (Physio); ordinary c/f of chyme, ult from Gr khumos, juice, from kheein, to pour: cf prec. Ex: chymiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

ciconi-: from L cicōnia, a stork, perh a redup of canere (s can-), to sing. Ex: ciconiform, stork-like.

[-cid-: c/f of L cadere, to fall, as in accident, deciduous, incident. Cf CADENCE.]

-cidal; -cide: L -cida+-al, adj; (-cide) L -cida, -slayer, and -cidium, a slaying, from cadere, to slay, kill. With the s caed-, basically 'to cut (down)', e.g. trees, perh cf Skt khidāti, he tears. Exx: homicidal, adj of HOMICIDE, man-slayer, now usu a man-slaying; and bactericidal, bactericide, and insecticidal, insecticide; matricide, parricide (for patricide).

-cili; cili- or cilii-; cili(o)-: c/f of L cilium, eyelid s cil-: cf F cil, eyelash—cf Gr kalia, a hut, a nest, and the root of L celāre (s cel-), to hide. Exx: palpocil; ciliform or ciliiform; cillectomy; ciliotomy.

cimi-, cimici-, c/f of L cmex (s cim-), o/s cimic-, a (bed) bug, o.o.o. Exx: cimicide, cimicifugin.

cincho- (Chem only): for cinchonine (a Chem -ine derivative of cinchona (see P⁸ and P⁴)). Ex: cincholoipon (Gr to loipon, the remainder: cf the 2nd lipo-). The related cinchono- stands for cinchona, as in cinchonology, the pharmaceuticals of cinchona.

cine- (1); cinemato-, cinemo-; cinet(o)-. The base is cin- or kin-, the latter being the s of Gr kinain, to move; other relevant Gr forms are kinēma, a moving, a motion (s kinēm-), with o/s kinēmat-; kinēsis, motion; kinētos (adj), moving. The derivatives in cin- were orig kin-, which is still preferred in a few, esp if non-cinematic, terms: kinesi-. Exx: cin camera, with cine- deriving from CINEMA, itself from cinematograph; cineplasty, s kin-; cinemograph: cinetographic, -scopic, see kin-. cine- (2): ML cine-, from L cinis (gen cineris) ashes: cf incinerator. Ex: cinfection, a turning into ashes—cf FACTION.

cinque-: F cinq, or It cinque, five, from L quinque. Exx: It cinquecento, the 16th century; cinque for cing occurs in cinquefoil, cinquepace, cinquepoint, Cinque Ports; cf cinquain, adopted from F (cinquain, as in quatrain).

cion(o)-: adapted from Gr kiono-, kion-, c/f of kiōn, column, uvula, s kion-: cf Arm siun, column, pillar. Exx: cionectomy, cionotomy.

cirrho-. A var of cirro- in:

cirri-; cirro-: c/f from L cirrus, curl, ringle; hence cirrus cloud and, in Zoo, a small, flexible appendage or 'arm': o.o.o. Exx: cirriiform, cirriiform, cirriped; cirro-cumulus and -stratus.

cirro- (1). See prec.

cirro- (2): adapted from Gr kirrho-, c/f of kirrhos, tawny, as in cirrolite.

cirs(o)-: Gr kirso-, kirs-, c/f of kirsos (s kirs-) a dilated or varicose vein, perh akin to kissos (s kis- or kiss-), ivy, from which it may, by the resemblance of ivy stems to large varicose veins have derived. Ex: cirsotomy.

cisto-: Gr kisto-, c/f of kistē, a box: cf cysto- and -cyst. Ex: cistophorus, a coin bearing (cf -phora) the mystic cyst.

cti-: from L citus (s cit-: cf excite), swift, as in citigrade, applied to spiders that 'walk quickly': i.e. run: cf -grade.

-citri-; citro-: c/f of L citrus, citron tree (cf CITRON); c/f of citron, its fruit. Exx: citri-culture, citrometer.

clad(o)-; -cladous: 'sprout, slip'; 'having branches of a specified type': Gr klados (s klad-), sprout: cf GLADIATOR. Exx: cladanthous (cf antho-); cladophyll (cf -phyll); acanthocladous (acantho-).

-clase; -clasia; -clast, -clastic: resp c/f of Gr klasis, a fracture; SciL c/f of the same; (-clast) c/f from Gr -klastēs, -breaker, hence the adj -clastic, from Gr klastos, broken: all, therefore, from Gr klān, to break, klāō, I break (s kla-)—cf the not entirely accidental kinship of E clash. Exx: clinoclase (cf climo-), hemoclasia (cf hemo-); ICONOCLAST, idol-breaker; and, in Surg, cranioclast (an instrument).

classi-. See classify at CLASS. The derivative classico- (L classicus: cf CLASSIC) means either 'the classics', as in classicolatry (-latry, worship: see -later), or 'classical and', as in classico-mathematical.

clathr-: L clathri, lattices, from Gr klēthra: cf clathrate, latticed.

clastro-: from L claustrum, an enclosure, cf claustra, bars, locks, etc., from claudere, to close, shut, confine, pp clausus. Ex: claustrophobia, a dread (cf -phobia at -phobe) of being in an enclosed space, esp a building or a room. Cf CLOISTER.

clavi- (1): ML clāva (L clāua), a club, perch ult of same origin as (2). Ex: claviform, club-shaped, and Claviceps, lit the club-headed.

clavi- (2): ML clāvis (L clāuis), a key; s, as in (1), clāu-; akin to claudere, to shut: cf CLOSE. Ex: clavichord, ML clavicordium, a keyboard instrument.

claviculo-: c/f of ML clāvicula, dim of clāvis (see prec): used in ref to the clavicle and meaning 'clavicular and', as in claviculo-humeral. (Webster.)

cleid(o)-; cleist(o)-; -cleisis or -clisis: Gr kleido-, kleid-, c/f of kleis (o/s kleid-), a key, and, in E, denoting either 'key', as in cleidomaney, or 'the clavicle', as in cleidotomy, or 'of the clavicle and', as in cleidocranial; (cleisto-) from Gr kleistos, closed, as in cleistogamy (cf -gam); (-cl(e)isis) from Gr kleisis, closure, as in enterocleisis (entero- in Prefixes). Both Gr kleistos and Gr kleisis come from Gr kleiēn, to close or shut (s klei-), akin to L claudere; kleiēn and kleis (s klei-) are intimately akin.

-clema: from Gr klēma (s klēm-), a twig, prob from klaō, I break (s kla-), it denotes 'branched thus or thus'. Cf clematitis, Gr klēmatis.

clepto-. See klepto-.

clerico-: c/f of clerical, prob via LL clēricus: denoting 'clerical (and)', as in clerico-historical. Cf CLERIC.

clero-: adaptation of Gr klēro-, c/f of klēros (s klēr-), a lot, as in cleromancy (divination by the casting of lots), hence an inheritance, as in cleronomy (cf -nomy at nomo-).

climato-, c/f of climate; climo-, a shortened c/f (climate+connective -o-): L climāt-, o/s of clīma, itself from Gr klīma (s klīm-), o/s klīmat-, from klīnein (s klīn-), to incline, to slope. Exx: climatography, climatology; climograph.

-clinic or -clinous, 'tending, inclined, leaning (towards)': the former from Gr klīnikos, from klīnē, bed, from klīnein, to lean; the latter by influence of suffix -ous. Ex: matroclinic or -clinous, cf matri-. Cf:

clin(o)-: Gr klīno-, klīn-, c/f of klīnē, a bed or a couch, as in Clinopodium (cf FEW), or of klīnein (s klīn-), to incline—whence, of course, klīnē; the place where one reclines—as in clinograph, clinometer; occ with sense 'to decline' (v.i.), as in clinology. Cf INCLINE and LEAN (v).

-clinous. See -clinic.

cloio-: from Gr kloios, a collar, prob akin to kleiēn (s klei-), to shut or close, to confine. Ex: cloiochoanitic.

clonico-: for 'clonic (and)', as in clonicotonic; clonic, irregularly convulsive, is the adj of Med clonus, a SciL term for Gr klonos (s klon-), a movement both confused and violent, perch akin to kellein (s kell-), to drive on, and kelēs, a swift-sailing vessel, a riding-horse.

clon(o)-: from Gr klōn, a branch, prob akin to klados, a twig. Ex: clonothrix (cf -thrix, hair), a genus of bacteria.

clup(e)-: from L clupea, a small river-fish. Ex: the Chem clupanodonica—2nd element, from Gr anōdōn, toothless (cf -odon).

clypei-, clypeo-: c/f of L clypeus (s clyp-, perh for clup-), a shield, of obscure origin (Etruscan?). Ex: clypeiform, shaped like a shield; clypeofrontal. -cnema, -cnemia, -cnemus; adj -cnemic: from Gr knēmē, the lower leg, the shinbone: cf the OIR cnaim, a bone. Ex: platycnemic (cf platy-).

cnid(o)-: c/f of Zoo cnida, itself SciL for Gr knidē, (sea) nettle. Exx: cnidoblast (cf -blast) and cnidophore (cf -phora).

coagulo-: for coagulate, as in coagulometer, instrument for measuring coagulation.

cobalti-, cobalto-: c/f of cobalt; the former = cobalt+connective -i-, the latter cobalt+connective -o-. Cobalt adapts G Kobalt, modified from Kobold, a goblin, MHG kobolt, app akin to G koben, a hut, OE cofa, a room; -olt, -old may represent walt, wald, power (cf WIELD), and MHG kobolt may therefore represent OHG kobwalto*: kobolt, -old, would mean 'house spirit', 'the metal being so called by miners, because it was troublesome' (Webster). Exx: cobaltrinitrite, cobaltocyanic.

cobri-, as in cobriform: for cobra.

-coccal, -coccic, etc., derive from Gr kokkos, grain, seed, pip; -coccal, -ic, -oid, adj answering to -coccus, end-element of coccus, as in streptococcus (cf strepto-); cocci(o)-, coccido-, c/f of coccidium (s coccid-), a SciL dim of kokkos, as in Coccidioides, Coccidiomorpha, coccidology. Exx of coc(o)-: coccobacillus, coccolith, coccosphere.

SciL coccus has a SciL dim: cocculus, with c/f cocculi-, as in cocculiferous.

coccygeo-; coccyg(o)-: c/f of coccygeal (adj of coccyx) and denoting 'coccygeal and', as in coccygeol-anal; c/f of coccyx, Gr kokkux (o/s kokkug-), the coccyx, or end of the spine in man; cognates in Skt. Exx: coccygectomy, coccygotomy, coccygomorphic.

cochlei-; cochli(o)-, cochlo-: c/f of cochlea, adopted from L, adapted from Gr kokhlias, a snail, from kokhlos, a 'spiralled' shellfish, akin to konkhē, a mussel; cochlio- and cochlo-, c/f of kokhlos. Exx: Cochliodontidae (cf odont(o)-+suffix -idea); Cochlospermum. Cf cochleari-, from L cochleāre, a spoon for snail-eating, hence any spoon; as in cochlearifoliate, having spoon-shaped leaves.

Cf COCKLE and CONCH.

cocto-: from L coctus, cooked, pp of coquere; cf COOK. Ex: cocto(-)precipitin.

-coele, occ -cele; -coelus; 'cavity, ventricle'; 'a (specified) type of cavity', c/f of coelia, (in An) a cavity, from Gr koilia, a bodily cavity (s koi-): therefore cf CBLL), adj coeliac or celiac. Exx: neurocoele (cf neuro-); heterocoelus (cf hetero-). Cf next three.

coeli- or caeli-; coelo- or caelo-: c/f of L coelum, better caelum, the sky, s cael-, o.o.o., perh cf Gr koilos, hollow. Exx: Coelicolist, heaven-worshipper, and coeligenous (cf -genous at -gen); caelometer, an Astr instrument.

coeli(o)-: adaptation of Gr koilio-, koili-, c/f of koilia, belly (cf prec). Exx: coelialgia (cf -algia at alg-) and coeliotomy (cf -tomy at -tome). A mod var is celi-, as in celialgia. Cf:

coel(o)-: from Gr koilo-, koil-, c/f of koilos, hollow: cf prec. Ex: coeloblastic (cf -blastic at -blast).

coelomo-: c/f of An coelom or -ome, as in coelomopore (cf PORE).

-coelus. See -coele.

coen(o)-: from Gr koino-, koin-, c/f of koinos, common, shared in common, s koin-, akin to L cum, earlier com, with. Exx: coenobium (anglicized as cenoby), from Gr koinobion, community life (bio-), hence a term in Bio and Bot; coenocyte (-cyte); coenotype.

col-. See 1st colo-.

-cole. See -colous.

cole(o)-: from Gr koleo-, kole-, c/f of koleos, a sheath, s kole-, akin to L culleus, a leather bag, s culle-, both perh from a word of general Medit stock (E & M). Exx: Coleoptera, a Zoo order of insects, from Gr koleopteros, sheath-winged (cf -ptera); coleorhiza (cf -rhiza).

coll- (1). See the 1st colo-. Cf:

coll- (2): c/f of coli, a bacterial species (from the An colan). Ex: collibacterin.

col- (3): from L colum, a strainer (cf E colander); as in coliform (cf -form).

-coline. See -colous.

-coll, as in glycocoll (cf glyco- at glu-); colla-, as in collagen; coll(o)-, as in colloblast (-blast), collotype: c/f of Gr kolla (s koll-), glue. Coll(o)- serves also, e.g. in collochemistry, as the c/f of colloid, itself=coll-, for Gr koll(a), glue+-oid, 'like', q.v. in Suffixes. Cf colloidio-.

coll-i-: from L collum, s col(l)-, the neck; basic sense, either 'that which is aloft' or 'that which turns' (see E & M). Ex: colliform, neck-shaped.

colloidio-: c/f of colloidion, from Gr kollōdēs, glue-like, from kolla, glue. Ex: colloidotype. Cf:

colloido-: for colloid, of glue, or (n) a glue-like substance: cf -coll. Ex: colloido-chemical.

col(o)- (1): 'the colon' or 'of the colon and': c/f of L colon, from Gr kolon, the An colon—cf AN COLON. Exx: colectomy, colotomy (cf -ectomy and -tomy at -tome); colopuncture. Cf colono-.

col- (2): c/f from Gr kōlon, limb, s kōl-. Ex: colometry, measurement (cf -metry at -meter) of verses or manuscripts by cola—cf literary COLON.

colon(o)-: c/f of the An colon—cf colo- (1). Ex: colonoscopy (cf -scopy at -scope).

colori-: c/f of L color, hence of AE color, E colour—see COLOR. Exx: colorific (-fic) and colorimeter (-meter).

-colous and -coline and -cole: 'living or growing in': all from L -cola, adj and esp n—'inhabiting', 'inhabitant': cf COLONY and CULTURE. Exx: saxicolous, -coline, -cole, rock-inhabiting; arenicolous, sand-inhabiting; agricole (cf agri-), a farmer—agricolous, agricultural.

colp(o)-; -colpos: the former, c/f adapted from Gr kolpo-, kolp-, c/f of kolpos, the womb, s kolp- which is perh the IE s also. Exx: colposcopy, aerocolpos.

colubri-: from L coluber, f colubra, a serpent as in colubriform, snaky.

columbo-: c/f of columbium, a chem element columelli-; columni-: the former, from columella, a small column, the dim of columna, a column, whence columni-. Exx: columelliform and columniferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

-coma; come- and comi-: c/f (only in Bot and Zoo) of Gr komē (s kom-), hair; (comi-) c/f of its L derivative coma (s com-); see COMET. Exx: Abrocoma, rodents with soft, fine hair (cf habro-); comephorous (cf -phorous at -phora), bearing—i.e. having—hair. Comiferous (-ferous, q.v. at -fer).

comburi-: from L combūre (s combūr-), to burn up, burn entirely (com-, with+intrusive b (as in ambūre) + ūrere, to burn): cf COMBUSTION. Exx: comburimeter and comburivorous (cf -vorous at -vora).

cometo-: for comet, as in cometology, the lore and science of comets.

comi- (1). See coma.

comi- (2). See next.

comico-: 'comic': c/f from L comicus—see COMEDY. Ex: comico-tragic. Occ shortened to comi-, as in comitragedy.

commi-: from Gr kommi, gum: cf GUM. Ex: Commiphora (cf -phora), a genus of balsam-yielding trees.

comparo-: for compare, as in comparograph, a device for fingerprint-comparison.

compresso-: for compression, as in compressometer, a compression-measurer.

concavo-: for concave, as in concavo-convex.

condyl(o)-: c/f from Gr kondulos (s kondul-), a knuckle, hence (?) a knob, with cognates in Skt. Ex: the Zoo Condylo-poda (cf -pod, foot).

-cone; coni-; conico-; con(o)-: 1st, from Gr konos; coni-=L cōni-, c/f of cōnus, a cone; (conico-) 'conical and' or 'conically', cf the Gr c/f -kōnikos, kōnikos being 'cone-shaped', the adj of kōnos (whence the L word), a cone; (cono-), 'a cone', Gr kōno-kōn-, c/f of kōnos. See CONE. Exx: longicone; conifer (cf -fer), coniform; conico-elongate; conoplain.

conl-. See prec and next.

conidi(o)-; coni(o)-: c/f of conidium (SciL from Gr konis, dust), an asexual spore; c/f, meaning 'dust', adapted from Gr konio-, kon-, from konis, perh a vocalization of knis* and therefore deriving, ult, from an IE s knid-* (Hofmann); cf L cinis, ashes, and Skt kiknasas, ground grain. The c/f -conite, 'type of dust', is an -ite (q.v. in Suffixes) modification of Gr konis.

Exx: conidiferous (-ferous, q.v. at -fer) and conidiophore (cf -phora); conichalcite (cf -chalcite) and Coniophora (-phora); xanthoconite (cf xantho-). The rare var kon(i)o- occurs in koniology, the science of (atmospheric) dust.

conjugato-: from ML conjugātus (L coniugātus), yoked together (cf YOKE), hence 'conjugate (and)' or 'conjugately', as in conjugato-pinnate (cf -pinnate).

cono-. See coni-.

conoido-, 'as or like a conoid' or cone-shaped solid. Ex: conoidospherical.

convexo-: from convex, as in convexo-concave.

-copate, -cope: from Gr koptein, to cut, s kopt-, an extension of kop-, cf OF coper, EF-F couper, to cut, IE kap-, kep-, kop-, kup-. Exx: apocope, Gr apokopē, a cutting off; apocopate, Mod L apocopātus, pp of apocopāre, to cut off, a reshaping of Gr apokoptein; syncope, LL syncope or -copa, Gr sunkopē, a cutting up; syncopate, ppa and v, from L syncopātus, pp of syncopāre, a reshaping of Gr sunkoptein. Cf copro-.

cope(o)-: from Gr kōpē (s kōp-), an oar, akin to Gr kaptein, to grasp, and L capere, to grasp, take. Exx: Copeognatha (-gnatha), Copepoda (cf -pod).

copr(o)-: Gr kopro-, c/f of kopros, dung, s kopr-, app an extension of kop-*, to cut (cf -copate): which is sem probable; cf the different sem origin of turd (L tord-ere). Cf also, however, Skt sākri, dung-heap, with a likely IE r kok-* or kak-* (L caedre).

Exx: copraemia or -emia (cf -haemia); coprolalia (cf -lalia), disgusting speech; coprolite (-lite), fossil dung; coprology, a study of faeces, (hence) disgusting literature, adj coprological—cf coprophilia, love of filth; coprophagy, the habit, esp among insects and birds, of dung-eating, adj coprophagous (cf -phaga).

cor-. See coro-.

coraco-: c/f of coracoid, (lit) resembling a crow's beak, as in coracopectoral (cf pectori-); from Gr korax, a raven—obviously echoic. Cf -corax, raven, crow, in such generic names as Phalacrocorax (cormorants).

coralli-: 'coral': L corallum, from Gr korallion (see CORAL). Ex: coralliform.

-corax. See coraco-.

cordi-: from cord-, o/s of L cor (gen cordis), heart: see -cardia and, ult, HEART. Exx: cordidcole, heart-worshipper; CORDIFORM.

cordyl(o)-: Gr kordulē, a club, kordul- being an extension of kord-, from IE r kerad-, a modification of ker-, to whirl (Hofmann). Ex: Cordylanthus (cf antho-).

core-. See coro- and cf:

-coria: 'a (specified) condition of the pupil' (of the eye): Gr -koria, c/f of korē, pupil, from korē, a girl, via the derivative sense 'little image', from 'doll', from 'girl'; korē-koros is akin to L credere, to create. Ex: isocoria (cf iso-). Cf coro- below.

-coris, occurring only in Bot generic names: Gr koris, an insect, a bug.

cormo-: c/f of Bot and Zoo cormus, from Gr kormos, a (tree-)trunk, from keirō, I cut.

-corn; corneo-; corni-, cornu-: resp 'horn'; 'horny and'; 'horn': L -cornis, as in unicornis, (the) one-horned (beast); L corneus, horny; L cornū, (animal's) horn. Exx: longicorn, long-horned; corneocalcareous; corniferous, corniform; cornucopia, horn of plenty (cf COPIOUS); cornulite (horn-shaped stone). Cf corn (on one's foot) and HORN itself.

cor(o)-; core-: 'pupil' (of eye): see -coria. Exx: corotomy; coreplasty.

coroni-; corono-: 'of a crown', as in coroniform; 'coronal', as in coronofacial: both from L corōna, itself from Gr korōnē, a crown—see CROWN itself.

corpori-, as in corporify (cf -fy): from L corpus, body, gen corporis.

cortici-; cortico-: 'bark' or 'of bark'; in An, 'cortex' or 'cortical and': L cortex, o/s cortic-, s cort-, an extension of kor- (cf Sl kora, bark), akin to IE ker*, to cut. Exx: corticiferous, corticiform; corticospinal.

corvi-, as in corviform, like a crow: from ML corvus, L coruus, a raven.

cory-. See corypho-.

corymbi-: 'a flat-topped cluster of flowers', as in L corymbus, from Gr korumbos, and in the E corymbiform. Basic sense: 'head'. Cf corypha.

-corynus, only in Zoo generic names (entomology): Gr korunē, a club: cf cordylo-.

coryph(o)-; cory-, a shortened form: 'head' or 'summit' or 'point': Gr koruphē, akin to korumbos, q.v. at corymbi-. Exx: Coryphodon (cf -odon), coryphyll (cf -phyll). Cf L and E coryphaeus, Gr koruphaios, EF-F coryphée, E coryphee, chorus-leader, ballet-leader.

coscino-: from Gr koskinon, a sieve; as in coscinomancy, divination (cf -mancy) with a sieve.

cosmeto-; cosmico-; cosm(o)-: resp 'cosmetics', from Gr kosmētos, well-ordered; c/f of cosmic, and denoting 'cosmical', from kosmikos, of the cosmos or world; 'world', Gr kosmo-, c/f of kosmos, order, (hence) the world, see COSMOS. Exx: cosmetology, the art and science of cosmetics; cosmico-natural; cosmocrazy (cf -crazy)—cosmogony (cf -gonia)—cosmology—cosmopolis, a world city (cf -polis), cosmopolite (Gr kosmopolitēs), a citizen of the world, with adj cosmopolitan.

-costal and -costate; costi- and costo-: resp 'of the ribs', as in intercostal; 'having ribs', as in quadricostate (four-ribbed); 'rib(s)' or 'of the ribs', as in costiform and costotomy, costo-abdominal: all from L costa, a rib, s cost-, prob akin to OSI hosti, a bone, L os, Skt āsthi; k- would therefore be a prefix (E & M).

-cotyl-, -cotylous, -cotyly; cotyli- and cotylo-: resp c/f of Bot and Embryological cotyledon, with adj -cotylous and with 'condition' n -cotyly; c/f from Gr kotulē; c/f of cotyloid, cup-shaped: the common sense-origin is Gr kotulēdōn, a cup-shaped hollow; the form-origin, via L cotyla, is Gr kotulē, a cup, whence, obviously, kotulēdōn; the r kot- renders attractive the occ-proposed kinship with the Gr kot- words for 'head'. Exx: dicotyl, dicotylous, dicotyly; Cotylophora (cf -phora).

coulo-: for coulomb (Phys), as in coulometer.

cox(o)-: c/f of L coxa, hip; IE s kaks-* or koks-*, an articulation or joint: cf Ir coss, foot, and Skt kakṣa: perh akin to AXIS. Exx: coxalgia (cf -algia, as in neuralgia); coxo-femoral.

-cracy, -crat, -cratic, crato-: resp abstract n—agent n—adj of either—c/f=‘power-’ (not from a Gr c/f): Gr -kratia (cf the abstract suffix -ia)—via F -crate, from Gr -kratēs—Gr -kratikos, often via L -craticus, occ via F -cratique: the etym base is Gr kratos, strength, might, power, hence esp political power: IE r krat-* or kret-*, with numerous IE derivatives. Exx: ARISTOCRACY (etc.); DEMOCRAT; plutocracy, Gr ploutokratia, rule by wealth (Gr ploutos)—whence, by b/f, plutocrat, with adj plutocratic; cratometer, a (physical) power-measurer.

-crania, -cranial; cranio-: resp Gr -krania, c/f of kranion, the skull, r kran-, perh for karan-* or keran-*, cf Gr kara, head; c/f of cranial, adj of E from ML cranium; adapted from Gr kranio-, c/f of kranion. Exx: amphicrania, brachycranial, craniometry (head-measurement).

-crase, -crasis, -crasy: 1st two, from Gr krasis, a mixing; -crasy, either from Gr -krasia, c/f of krasis (from kerannumi, I mix: cf Skt srīṇāti, he mixes), or from krasis itself. Exx: idocrase (cf ido-); idiosyncrasy, Gr idiosunkrasis, ‘a private mixing or mixture’, with adj idiosyncratic; syncrasy, a blending, Gr sunkrasis (sun, with).

craspedo-: from Gr kraspedon, a border, perh a cpd of kras-* for the kran- of kranion, skull (apprehended as ‘head’)+pedon, ground, as Hofmann proposes. Ex: craspedodromous (cf -dromous at -drome), running to border, (in Bot) running to the margin.

crassi-, as in crassilingual, thick-tongued: from L crassus, thick, fat: cf CRASS.

-crat, -cratic; crato-. See -cracy.

cremmo-, as in cremnophobia, dread of precipices and high cliffs: from Gr kremnos, a cliff. Akin to: cremo-, as in Bot cremocarp (cf -carp): from Gr kremannunai (s kreman-; r krem-), to hang, the origin also of prec.

-crenate: for Bot crenate, ‘having the margin cut into rounded scallops’, from L crena, a notch.

-crene, as in Hippocrene, chrystocrene: Gr -krēnē, end c/f of krēnē, a fountain. Cf creno- (Gr krēno-), as in crenology, the science of (mineral) springs.

creo-: from Gr kreas, flesh, gen kreōs, akin to Skt kravīś-. Ex: creophagy, adj creophagous, flesh-eating. Cf:

creos(o)-: c/f of creosote, as in creosol, which=creos(o)-ol, oil. The 2nd element comes from Gr sōzein (s sōz-), to preserve; for the 1st, see prec.

-crete, as in calcrete, a type of limestone, represents the -crete of CONCRETE (n).

Creto-: c/f of Cretan.

cribri-: ‘a sieve’: L cribrum (s cribr-, ? for criber-). Ex: cribriform.

crico-: ‘the cricoid cartilage’ or, in adj, ‘cricoid and’: Gr krikos (s krik-), a ring: a var of kikros and therefore akin to CIRCLE. Exx: cricotomy; cricothyroid.

crimino-: ‘crime’ or ‘of crime’: crimin-, o/s of L crimen, (an accusation of) crime—see CRIME and cf the adj criminal. Exx: criminogenesis, the origin of crime; criminology, the (scientific) study of crime.

crini-: ‘hair’: L crinis (s crīn-), akin to crista, (bird’s crest). Exx: criniculture, crinigerous (cf criniger, long-haired).

-crinus: a ScIL c/f of crinoid, itself from Gr krinoeidēs, lily-like, from krinon (s krīn-), a lily. Ex: Actinocrinus.

crio-: ‘a ram’ (animal): Gr krios, lit ‘the horned’—cf keraios, horned. Exx: crioboly, ram-sacrifice (cf -bole at -bola); criophore; criosphinx.

cristi-: ‘(bird’s) crest’: L crista, a cock’s comb—cf crinis, q.v. at crini-. Ex: cristiform.

crierio-, as in crieriology, the logic of criteria for criterion.

critho-, as in crithomancy, divination (-mancy) with barley cakes: from Gr krithai (pl), barley. Homeric kri: IE r, prob kri-.

critico-: from L criticus (see CRITIC) and denoting either ‘critic’, criticophobia, a dread of critics or ‘critical and’, as in critico-philosophical.

croceo-: Chem c/f of croceous, saffron-coloured from L croceus, adj of crocus, saffron, from Gr krokos, of Sem origin—cf H karkom, saffron. Ex: croceo-cobaltic. Cf the 2nd croco-.

croco- (1). See CROCODILE.

croco- (2): from Gr krokos, saffron: see croceo-. Ex: crocosmia (cf -osma).

cro-: (via F cro-) from G krumm, crooked, akin to OHG kramph, crooked, and, one may suspect, Gr kampulos; IE r, perh kam-, with var kram-. Ex: crocornia, F crocorne, G Krummhorn (lit ‘crooked horn’), a reed stop in an organ.

crotali-; -crotic: ‘of a Crotalus or rattlesnake’ as in crotaliform; in, e.g., dicrotic, ‘pulse-beat’ of a specified kind: ScIL crotalus, from Gr krotalon, a rattle; krotalon derives from krotos (whence -crotic), the beat, marked by hands and feet, of dancing, s krot-, IE s kret-*.

croto-: Gr krotōn, a tick, whence Croton (ad crotonic), a genus of herbs and shrubs with seeds that resemble ticks. Ex: Crotophaga (cf -phaga).

croouno-: ‘(mineral-water) spring’: Gr krounos, a spring, a stream—cf krēnē, a spring, as in Hippocrene. Ex: crounotherapy.

cruci-: ‘a cross’ or ‘of a cross’: L and E c/f of L crux, o/s cruc-: see CROSS. Exx: crucifix, L crucifixus—for the 2nd element, see FIX; cruciferous (cf -ferous at -fer); cruciform.

cruro-: ‘(of) the thigh’: irreg from L crūr-, o/s of crūs, thigh, (usu) leg, whence the E adj crural. Ex: crurotarsal.

crymo-: from Gr krumos, frost, s krum- (cf E rime). Ex: crymotherapy. Cf:

cry(o)-: Gr kruo-, c/f of kruos, icy-cold, s kru-, perh cf the cru- of L crusta. Exx: cryogen (cf -gen), a refrigerant; cryoscope. Cf -cryst.

crypt(o)-: Gr kruptos, covered or hidden, (hence) secret, pp of kruptein, to hide, s krupt-: cf E CRYPT, CRYPTIC. Exx: cryptogam (-gam), cryptogram, cryptology, cryptoscopy.

-cryst; crystalli-, crystall(o)-: c/f of CRYSTAL; c/ff, prompted either by L crystallum or usu by its Gr original krystallos, ice, (hence) crystal: cf, therefore, crymo- and cryo-. Exx: phenocryst; crystalliferous; crystallogenic, crystallography.

A secondary c/f is crysto-, which = crystal + the -o- of crystallo-. Ex: crystallograph.

cten(o)-: Gr kteno-, c/f of kten-, o/s of kteis, a comb, akin to L pecten, gen pectinis. Ex: ctenocyst, ctenodactyl.

cteto-: from Gr ktētos, acquirable, adj use of the pp of ktaomai (s kta-), I procure for myself, cf Skt kṣáyati, he possesses or controls. Ex: ctetology, the Bio of acquired characteristics.

-ctonus: Gr -ktonos, -slayer, from ktinein (s ktin-), to slay. Mostly in Ent, e.g. dendroctonus (cf dendro-), a bark beetle.

cubi-; cubo-: 'cube', from L cubus, as in cubiform; 'cube' or 'cubital (and)', from Gr kubos, a cube, a cubical die, s kub- (see CUBE), as in cubomancy, divination (-mancy) with dice.

cubito-: 'cubital (and)', of the forearm, as in cubitodigital: L cubitus, forearm, elbow, from Gr kubiton, elbow.

cubo-. See cubi-.

cuculi-: from the obviously echoic L cuculus (cf CUCKOO). Ex: cuculiform.

cucumi-: from L cucumis, a cucumber. Ex: cucumiform.

culici-: from culic-, o/s of L culex, a gnat, a mosquito, s cul-; cf the (?) insect-suffix in címex, a (bed) bug, and pulex, a flea (E & M); cf also the rhyming resemblance of cul- to pul-. Exx: culiciform, culicifugal (cf -fugal, as in centrifugal).

culmi-: L culmus, a stalk, a stem, s culm-, akin to the kāl(a)m- of Gr kalamos, a reed, and E haulm. Ex: culmicolous, stalk-living.

culti-, rare, in two different senses: in cultigen it = cultivate or cultivation; in cultirostral it = L culter, the c(o)ulter of a plow.

cuma-, as in cumaphyte (cf -phyte): from Gr kuma, a wave, perh akin to L cumulus.

[-cumb-, as in recumbent, lying back: L cumbere, an extension of cubāre, to lie down, be lying down.]

cumo-: for cumic (from cumin: Gr kuminon, of Sem origin). Only in Chem.

cumuli-; cumulo-: 'heap or mass', esp a cumulus cloud; 'of a cumulus': L cumulus, a heap, which, otherwise difficult to explain, might be a blend of culmen + tumulus. Exx: cumuliform; cumulo-cirrus.

cuncti-, as in cunctipotent, all-powerful: from L cunctus, whole, entire, pl cuncti, all, perh, as the ancients said, co-iuncti, joined together.

cunei-, cuneo-: c/ff of L cuneus, a wedge, s cune- with the r cun-. Exx: cuneiform, wedge-shaped; cuneo-cuboid.

cupri-, cupr(o)-: c/ff of L cuprum, copper: see COPPER. Exx: cupriferous, copper-bearing; cupromanganesic, a copper alloy with manganese.

cupuli-, as in cupuliform: c/f of L cūpula, a little cup, dim of cūpa, a tub, (LL) a cup; s, therefore, cup-, cf. CUP.

[-cur. See CURRENT and cf occur, recur.] curie-, as in curiescopy (cf -scopy at -scope) and curietherapy, implies 'radioactive': from Mme Marie Curie (1867-1934).

curio-, 'literal, directly pictorial': from Gr kurios, lordly, authoritative, proper, from kuros, power, might; akin to Skt śdras, strong, powerful. Ex: curiologic(al), from Gr kuriologikos, speaking properly or literally.

curvi-; curvo-: c/f of ML curvus (L curuus), curved, as in curviform; c/f of E CURVE, as in curvometer, which = curv(e) + -o- + -meter.

[-cuss, as in the obs incuss and in concuss: see CONCUSS.]

cuti-, cuto-: L cuti-, c/f of cutis, skin, s cut-; cuto-, irreg; IE ku-*. Exx: cuticolo(u)r, skin-coloured, and cutocellulose.

-cyan, adj and n -cyanic; cyan(o)-: 'a bluish colouring-matter', as in leucocyan (cf leuco-); 'dark-blue', as in cyanide (Chem suffix -ide) and cyanogen (-gen): Gr kuano-, c/f of kuanos (s kuan-), lapis-lazuli, hence the colour dark-blue: o.o.o.

cyathi-; cyath(o)-: 'cup', as in cyathiform, from L cyathus; 'cup-shaped', as in cyatholith, cyathozoid, from the Gr original kuathos (s kuath-), akin to kuain, to be big with child; IE r ku-* or keu-*.

cycadi- and cycad(o)-: from Gr kukas (gen kukados), incorrect for koikas, acc pl of koix, a doum palm; cf E Cycas, a genus of tropical palm-like trees. Ex: Cycadophyta (cf -phyta).

cycl(o)-: basically 'circle' or 'circular', the context usu clarifying: often via the LL derivative cyclus: Gr kuklo-, kukl-, c/f of kuklos, a circle, hence also a cycle; the word is app a reduplication: see CIRCLE. Exx: cyclograph, cyclomania, cyclorama, cyclotron. The answering adj is -cyclic, as in hexacyclic (cf hexa-).

cyclono-: c/f of CYCLONE. Ex: cyclonology.

cylindri-; cylindr(o)-: '(of) a cylinder', as in cylindriform; 'cylindrical' or 'cylindrical and', as in cylindrocephalic, with a cylinder-shaped head. Cylindro- = Gr kulindro-, c/f of kulindros: see CYLINDER.

cymato-, rarely kymato-: from kumat-, o/s of Gr kuma (see cymi-). Ex: kymatology, now usu cymatology. Cf cymi-.

cymbi-; cymbo-: c/f of L cymba, a boat, from Gr kumbē, whence the c/f cymbo-. Exx: cymbiform, boat-shaped; cymbocephaly.

cymi-; cymo-: c/f of cyme, an inflorescence; from Gr kumo-, c/f of kuma, a wave, a sprout, from kuain, to be pregnant, cf cyatho-. Exx: cymiferous; cymograph, cymometer, cymoscope. The gen kuamatos yields cymato-, as in cymatology, the science of waves.

cymo- (1). See cymi-.

cymo- (2): c/f of cymene, from Gr kuminon, whence E cumin; kuminon, s kumin-, is of Sem origin—cf H kammōn. Ex: cymogene (-gene, q.v. at -gen).

cyn(o)-: Gr kuno-, kun-, c/f of kuōn, o/s kun- (gen kunos), a dog: cf L canis, s can-, and see cyph(o)-: from Gr kuphos (s kuph-), bent, stooping, hump-backed, IE r kubh-*. Ex: cyphonautes, a Zoo term, but lit 'the hunchback sailor'.

CYNIC. Exx: cynocephalous, dog-headed; cynophobia; CYNOSURE.

Cypri-; Cypro-: the former SciL from Gr; the latter from Gr Kupro-, c/f of Kupris, Venus. Exx: Cypripedium, lady's-slipper, (lit) Venus's little foot (Gr podion); Cypro-Phoenician.

cyprin(o)-: c/f from Gr kuprinos, a carp: prob cf prec. Ex: Cyprinodontidae, which=cyprin(o)+-odont+suffix -idae, pl of -ida.

Cypro-. See Cypri-.

cypselo-: from Gr kupselos, a swift, akin to kuphos, bent forward. Ex: Cypselomorphae (cf -morph).

cyrt(o)-: Gr kurto-, c/f of kurtos, bent, curved, as in cyrtometer; kurtos is akin to Gr korōnē, anything curved, esp a CROWN.

-cyst, -cystis; cysti-, cyst(o)-: 'pouch, cyst', as in macrocyt (cf macro-); 'bladder' or 'cyst', in generic names, as Macrocyctis; 'bladder, cyst', as in cystiform; (cysto-) 'connexion with, or likeness to, a bladder or a cyst', as in cystocyte (cf -cyte), cystophore (cf -phora), cystoscope. From Gr kustis, a bladder, akin to kistē, a box, cf cisto-.

-cyte, a cell; cytio-, cell, as in cytioderm (cf -derm); cyt(o)-, likeness to, or connexion with, a cell or cells, Gr kuto-, c/f of kutos (s kut-), a hollow vessel—as in cytochrome (cf -chroma) and cytology, the science of Zoo cells.

Czecho-: for Czech, as in Czechoslovakia.

Daco-: for Dacia or Dacian, as in Daco-Roman.

dacry(o)-: 'in relation to, connected with, tears or the tear-ducts': Gr dakruo-, c/f of dakru or dakruon, a tear, akin to L lacrima, Go tagr; IE dakr-*. Exx: dacryocyst, the tear sac, hence the secondary dacrycyst(o)-.

1. dactyllo-; 2. dactyl(o)-; 3. -dactylous, Gr -daktulos, -fingered, hence digitated; 1, Gr daktulio-, from daktulios, finger-ring, from daktulos, finger; 2, Gr daktulo-, daktul-, c/f of daktulos, whence, by the way, E dactyl, the metrical foot (—) of the pointing finger; ulterior etymology obscure. Exx: dactylioglyph (cf -glyph), dactyliography, dactyliomancy; dactylogram, a fingerprint—dactylography—dactyloscopy.

dad(o)-: from dāid-, o/s of Gr dāis, a torch. Exx: Dadoxylon (cf xylo-, wood) and daduchus, a orch-bearer (ekhein, s ekh-, to have, to hold).

daemon(o)-. See demono-.

damni-: LL damni-, c/f of L damnum, damage, a fine (cf damages). Ex: damnify. Cf DAMN.

Dano-: 'Danish (and)', as in Dano-Norwegian: Dane, b/f from Da Daner, Danes—LL Danni, ? cf dannus, headman of a village, app a Gaulish word (E & M).

Danto-: for Dante, as in Dantology, Dante lore, the study of Dante.

dapi-: from L daps (gen dapis), a feast, perh akin to Gr deipnon, dinner. Ex: dapifer (cf -fer), a steward or a butler.

dasi-, a SciL irregularity for dasy-, Gr dasu- c/f of dasus, dense, (? hence) shaggy, rough, s daskin to L densus, E DENSE. Exx: Dasiphora (cf -phora); dasy-meter, a meter for gaseous density dasyure, a thick-tailed animal, cf -ure.

dativo-: 'in or for the dative': ML dativus (L dativus), suitable for giving; cf DATE (chronological). Ex: dativo-gerundial.

dec(a)-: 'ten', Gr deka, 10, as in decatalogue decathlon; hence, in the metric system, 'ten times' as in decalitre (-liter). Gr deka is akin to L decem. Skt dāsa, ult E TEN. Cf deci-, decu- and:

decem-: 'ten': adopted from L (cf prec). Ex: decemfoliate, ten-leaved. Cf:

deci-: 'a tenth of': F déci-, from L decimus, tenth: cf DECIMAL.

declino-, as in declinometer (for measuring declinations: cf DECLINE): from L dēclināre, to decline.

decre-: for decrement; as in decrementer.

-dectes, only in Zoo generic names: from Gr dēktēs, a biter, from dēdek-, the s of an imperfect v; IE r: dek-*.

decu-: L c/f of decem, 10, as in decuplus, whence the E decuple, tenfold; cf decury (L decuria), a section or group of ten persons, and decuman (L decumānus), every tenth, as in 'a decuman wave' (Webster). Cf deca-, decem-, deci-.

deflecto-: for deflect; as in deflectometer.

dehydr(o)-: for dehydrated or dehydrogenated. In Chem only.

dei-; deo-: 'of a god'; 'to God': L deus, a god, and Deus, God, cf DEISM. Exx: deicide, deific, deiparous; deodand, something to be given to God, hence forfeit to the Crown.

deino-. See dino-.

deipno-: Gr deipno-, c/f of deipnon, dinner. Exx: deipnophobia, a dread of dinner or of (formal) meals; deipnosophist, a wise or skilful table-talker, from Gr deipnosophistēs—cf SOPHIST.

deka-: var, now rare, of deca-.

deliri-: for delirium, as in delirifacient, delirium-causing, -causer.

delo-: Gr dēlo-, c/f of dēlos, evident or visible, s dēl-. Exx: delomorphous, definite in form (cf -morph).

-delphis; delphin-, delpho-: c/ff of Gr delphis, a dolphin, gen delphinos, o/s delphin-. Exx: Delphinapterus, -apterus being SciL for Gr apteros, wingless (cf -ptera); delphocurarine, delpho- being an abbr form of delphinio-, from delphinion, larkspur, from delphis, a dolphin, the larkspur being 'so named from the shape of the nectary' (Webster).

delta-, delto-: c/ff of DELTA; as in deltahedron.

-dema-: from Gr demas, body. Only in Zoo.

demi-: 'a half', adj 'half': OF-F demi, VL dīmedius, for L dīmidius, which=dī- (for dis)+medius, middle. Exx: demicannon, demilune, demisong, demiwolf.

dem(o)-: Gr dēmo-, dēm-, c/f of dēmos, a township, (hence) populace, s dēm-: cf DEMOCRACY. Exx: demagogue (cf -agogue); democrat (-crat at -cracy); demography, the statistical study of populations—cf demotics, sociology.

demon(o)-: from Gr daimōn, o/s daimon-, via LL daemon-: cf DEMON. EXX: demonolatry (cf -latry at -later), demonology. Occ daemon(o)-, as in daemonology. The var demoni- is rare and stands for E demon.

dendr(o)-; -dendron: Gr dendro-, dendr-, c/f of dendron, a tree, s dendr-. EXX: dendrology, tree-lore; Liriodendron.

1, dentato-; 2 denti-, 3 dento-; 4 dentino-; 5 -dent, -toothed: 1, from L dentātus, toothed; 2, 3, 5, L dent-, o/s of dens, a tooth, gen dentis; 4, c/f of dentine, the 'ivory' of a tooth: cf DENTAL. EXX: dentatoserrate; dentifrice (L fricāre, to rub)—dentosurgical; dentinoblast (-blast); soricident, having teeth like those of a shrew.

deo-. See dei-.

deonto-: from deont-, o/s of Gr (to) deon (gen deontos), necessity—cf dei, it is necessary. Ex: deontology, the ethics of duty.

1 -derm, 2 -derma, 3 -dermatous, 4 -dermia, 5 -dermis, 6 -dermy;—7, dermat(o)-; 8, derm(o)-: 1, anglicized form of 2, Gr derma, skin, hide; 3, dermat(o)+suffix -ous; 4, Gr c/f -dermia (cf Med -ia), denoting type or condition of skin; 5, Gr -dermis, denoting layer of skin; 6, E shape of 4; 7, Gr dermato-, dermat-, c/f of derma, o/s dermat- (gen dermatos); 8, Gr dermo-, derm-, a shortened c/f of derma. Gr derma has s derm-; IE r der-*, there being many IE cognates. Cf the 2nd dero-.

EXX: ectoderm (cf the prefix ecto-, external); leucoderma (cf leuco-), scleroderma (cf sclero-); sclerodermatous; leucodermia, pachydermia; epidermis (cf prefix epi-), taxidermy (taxi-); dermatography, dermatology; dermographic, dermophobe, a person habitually fearful of even minor skin injuries.

der(o)- (1): c/f from Gr derē, the neck, s der-, IE s app guer-*. Ex: derodidymus, a two-necked monster.

dero- (2): Gr deros, skin, a var of derma: cf derm. Ex: Derotremata, a tailed amphibian that retains gill-slits (Gr trema, o/s tremat-, a hole or slit).

deserti-: for desert, as in deserticolous, desert-inhabiting (cf -colous).

desiodo-: Chem 'removal of iodine': de- blended with dis-, prefacing iodo-. Ex: desiodothyroxine (thyroxine = thyr-+ox-+-ine).

desmidi(o)-; desm(o)-, occ desma-: the alga desmid, from Gr desmidion, dim of desmis (o/s desmid-), a var of desmos, a bond, a ligature, whence the Gr c/f desmo-, adopted by E, and the irreg desma-. Desmos, s desm-, from deō, I bind, s de-, IE r de-*, to bind. EXX: desmidiology; desmogen, Desmognathae, desmoplasm, desmopathy; desmachyme (cf -chyme). Cf desmoid, of a ligament.

deuter(o)-, occ abbr deut(o)-: Gr deutero-, deuter-, c/f of deuteros, second, (hence) secondary, perh from duō, s du-, two; for the suffix, cf proteros, from pro, forwards. EXX: deuterogamy, second marriage—Deuteronomy, 'the second law' (cf -nomy at -nome)—deuteroscopy; deutobromide, deutonymph.—Cf deuterio-, for deuterium, hydrogen of atomic weight 2.

dexo-; dextro-: '(on) the right hand; dextral': Gr dexios, as in dexiotropism (dexio+trop(e)+-ism); dextro-, L dexter, o/s dextr-, as in dextrocardial, dextro-rotatory, dextroversion. Cf DEXTROUS.

diabol(o)-: from Gr diabolos, devil: for ult etym, see DEVIL itself. Ex: diabology.

diadocho-: from Gr diadochos, adj and n, succeeding, successor, from diadekhomai (s diadekhh-), I take over (from another). Ex: diadochokinesia (cf kinesia at kinesi-).

diago-: from Gr diagein, to transmit (prefix dia+agein, q.v. at ACT). Ex: diagometer (cf -meter).

dialecto-: for dialect, as in dialectology, a study of dialect(s). diamido-; diamino-: for diamide and diamine. Only in Chem.

diaphano-: from Gr diaphanēs, transparent; as in diaphanoscopy (cf -scopy at -scope).

diazo-: Chem cpd of prefix di-+element azo-; as in diazobenzene.

dibenzo-, 'presence of two benzene rings'; dibromo-, 'presence of two bromine atoms': only in Chem. Cf benzo- and bromo-. (Webster.)

dicaeo-: Gr dikaio-, c/f of dikaios, just, from dikē, justice. Ex: dicaeology (Gr dikaiologia), defence by justification.

dichlor(o)-, 'presence of two chlorine atoms': cf prefix di- and element chloro-.

dich(o)-: Gr dikho-, dikh-, c/f of dikha, in two, (hence) asunder, akin to duō, two. EXX: dichoptic, dichotomy (-tomy, q.v. at -tome).

dichroo-: from Gr dikhroos, two-coloured. Occ shortened to dichro-. Ex: dichro(o)scope.

dicrano-: from Gr dikranos, two-headed: cf -crania.

dicty(o)-; rarely diktyo- or dikyton-: Gr diktuo-, c/f of diktuon, a net—'that which is cast', akin to dikein (s dik-), to cast. EXX: dictyogen, dictyosome, dictyostele; var diktyon-, in diktyonite (Min suffix -ite).

didym(o)-; -didymus: Gr didumo-, c/f of didumos (whence -didymus), twin, perh a reduplication of du-, the s of duō, two. EXX: didymolite (cf -lite); gastrodidymus (cf gastro- at -gaster).

dieto-: c/f of diet, as in dietoherapy. Cf DIET.

diffusio-: for diffusion, as in diffusimeter.

digi-: c/f of digitalis. Ex: digitoxin.

digitato-: c/f of digitate, 'fingered'. Cf:

digiti-; digito-: c/f of L digitus, finger or toe, as in digitigrade, walking (mostly) on the toes; (digito-) c/f of E digit, as in digitoplantar.

dihalo-; diketo-; diodo-: 'presence of two halogen atoms; two ketone groups; two iodine atoms'. (Webster.)

diktyo-. See dictyo-.

dilato-: for dilatation or dilate; as in dilatometer.

dimethyl-; dinaphtha- or dinaphth(o)-: 'presence of two methyl groups; two naphthalene rings'. (Webster.)

dinitro-, only in Chem: 'the presence of two nitro groups', as in dinitrotoluene.

din(o)-: from Gr deinos, terrible: applied to extinct creatures, e.g. Dinornis (Gr ornis, bird)—dinosaur (cf SAURIAN)—Dinotherium (Gr thēr, wild beast).

diocio-: for Bio diocious, as in diocciopolygamous.

diol-: di-, two + -ol, oil; -dione; di-, two + Chem suffix -one.

diphthero-: c/f of diphtheria.

diphy-: from Gr diphuēs, of double nature or form, (hence) twofold, as in diphygenic (cf -genic at -gen); for the 2nd element, cf PHYSIC.

dipl(o)-: Gr diplo-, dipl-, c/f of diploos, twofold (cf L duplex). Exx: diplocardiac, diplogenesis, DIPLOMA, Diplozoon.

dips(o)-: from Gr dipsos, var of dipsa (δίψα), thirst. Ex: dipsomania, Dipsosaurus.

diptero-: c/f of dipteros (Gr dipteros, two-winged), as in dipteroacar.

disci- and disc(o)-: 'disk' or 'disk-like': the former, as in disciform, from L discus; the latter, as in discomycete, from its original, the Gr diskos, a quoit, a disk. The end c/f -discus occurs in Zoo. Cf DISK.

disso-, ditto-: from Gr dissos, Attic dittos, double, doubled, ult akin to duō, two. Exx: dissogeny (-geny, q.v. at -gen); dittology, a double reading—a term of textual criticism.

dist(o)-: c/f of distal, remote from the point of attachment. Ex: distocclusion.

disulpho-, only in Chem. di-, two + sulpho-. Cf dithi(o)-: di-, two + thio-.

ditto-. See disso-.

diversi-: from ML diversus (L diuersus), different, diverse. Ex: diversicolo(u)red.

docimo-: from Gr dokimē, a test, intimately akin to dokeuein (s dokeu-; r, ? dok-), to observe closely. Ex: docimology, a treatise on, a study of, assaying.

doco-: from Gr dokos (s dok-), a beam; as in the Zoo Docoglossa (cf -glossa).

dodec(a)-: from Gr dōdeka, twelve (duō, 2 + dēka, 10). Ex: dodecahedron (cf -hedron).

dolich(o)-: Gr dolikko-, dolikh-, c/f of dolikhos, long, long and narrow, akin to Skt dirghás, Hit daluga-; IE r delegh-, cf dlonghos, as in L longus. (Hofmann.) Exx: dolichocephalic, long-headed, and dolichofacial, long-faced.

dolio-: from L dolium, a large jar. (E & M for a precarious etym.) Ex: dolioform, barrel-shaped.

-dolops, only in Ent generic names: from Gr dolops, one who, that which, lies in ambush, for dolos, wile, guile, treachery.

dolori-: from L dolor, pain, grief, from dolēre, to be pained or grieved—cf DOLOROUS. Exx: dolorific, pain-causing; dolorifuge, pain-banisher.

domi-: from L domus, a house: cf DOMESTIC. Ex: domify (cf -fy).

dora-; 'hide', hence (as in doraphobia) 'fur':

from Gr dora (s dor-), hide (skin), from derō (der-), I flay or skin (an animal).

dorsi-; orso-: the back, of or on the back; dorsi- is the true L c/f of dorsum, app a contraction of the adv dēorsum, itself for dēuorsum, neu dēuorsus, pp of dēuortere, ancient form of dēuortere (dē, down from + uertere, to turn); orso- analogous with the very numerous Gr c/f in -o. Exx: dorsispinal, dorsiventral; dorsocaudal, dorsoventral.

dory-: from Gr doru, a shaft, a spear, akin to Skt dāru, timber, and Hit taru-, tree, timber; IE r, dor-*, tree. Ex: doryphorus, (image, statue, of a spear-bearer, Gr doruphoros).

dosi-; doso-, occ dosio-: c/f of LL dosis, a dose (doso-) c/f of E DOSE. Exx: dosimetry, the measurement of doses; dosology, occ dosiology, the science of doses.

dothi-, dothien-, dothio-: c/f of Gr dothiēn, var dothiōn, an abscess or a boil, s dothi-. Ex: dothieneritis.

-dox, -doxy; doxo-: -dox, 'of (a specified opinion)'; -doxy, 'opinion'—'a body of opinion'; doxo-, 'opinion': the rest from the 1st, from Gr -doxos, holding an opinion: from Gr doxa, opinion; doxa=dok-s-a, cf dokein (s dok-), to think, esp to suppose. Exx: orthodox, paradox, orthodoxy; doxographer and, embodying the praise' sense of doxa, doxology.

draco-; dracont(o)-: the former, L dracō, from Gr drakōn, gen drakontos, whence dracont(o)-: see DRAGON. Exx: Bot Dracocephalum (Gr kephalē, head); dracontiasis (cf -iasis).

dramatico-: for 'dramatic and', as in dramaticomusical.

drapeto-, adopted from the Gr c/f of drapetēs, runaway, akin to dramein, to run (cf -drome). Ex: drapetomania.

drepani-: from Gr drepanon, a sickle, from drepein (s drepe-), to gather. Ex: drepaniform, sickle-shaped.

-drome, adj -dromous; drom(o)-: resp Gr dromos, a running, a course; Gr -dromos (adj), running; Gr drom(o)-, c/f of dromos, a course, e.g. a race-course: from dramein (s dram-), to run: dram- var drom-, is an extension of the basic IE r dra-*. Exx: hippodrome, (lit) a horse-race course, and aerodrome (cf aero-); prodromus, running forward; dromomania. Cf dromedary, orig a particularly speedy camel: LL dromedarius (camēlus), from L dromas, a dromedary, from Gr dromas (adj), running, genitive dromados, from dramein, to run; cf Skt dramati, he runs.

droso-: from Gr drosos (s dros-), dew. Exx: drosograph, a self-registering drosometer, a dew-measuring instrument.

drupi-: for E drupe (L drup(p)a, Gr druppa, an over-ripe olive); as in drupiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

-drymium: SciL, from Gr drumos, a coppice: denoting a (specified) type of coppice. Cf:

dry(o)-: Gr druo-, dru-, c/f of drus (gen druos), the oak (lit, 'the tree': cf TREE). Only in Bot; e.g., Dryophyllum, Dryopteris.

-duct: for duct; as in aqueduct.

dulci-: from L dulcis, sweet, perh akin to Gr glukos (cf glyco- at glu-). Exx: dulcifluor (cf -fluence); dulcigenic (-genic at -gen).

duo-: L duo or, incorrectly, for E dyo-, the Gr duō, two. Exx: duoliteral, duologue.

duodecim-: L duodecim (duo+decem), twelve. Ex: duodecimfid (cf -fid).

duoden(o)-: from duodenum (adopted from ML duodēnum, so named from its length of 12 fingers' breadth; from L duodēni, twelve apiece): denoting 'relation to, or connexion with, the duodenum'. Ex: duodenotomy (cf -tomy at -tome) and the adj duodenal.

duplo-: a Chem suffix, which means 'doubling': L duplus, double.

duro-: from L dūrus, hard; as in durometer (cf -meter).

dy-: Gr du-, from duō, two; as in dyphone (cf dyophone at dyo-); also short for dyo-, as in dyaster (cf -aster). Cf TWO.

-dymus: 'a (specified) kind of mingled monstrosity', the corresponding 'condition' nn taking the form -dymia: SciL end-elements, from the Gr end-element -dumos, a fold, ? akin to enduma (base, -duma), a garment.

dyn(a)-: a very E c/f from Gr duna-, the base of dunamis, power—see next entry. Exx: dynagraph, dynameter, dynamotor.

dynami-, dynamo-; -dynamia, -dynamous: the first is rare, the true c/f being dynamo-, from Gr dunamis, power; -dynamia is SciL for dunamis, s dunam-, base prob dun-; -dynamous, having power = Gr -dunamos. Exx: dynamogenesis, dynamometer. Cf:

-dyne: c/f of dyne, a unit of force, adopted from F, which adapted it from dun-, the base of Gr dunamis, power: cf DYNAMIC. Ex: heterodyne.

dy(o)-: from Gr duō, two; as in dyophone (cf -phone).

{dys-. See Prefixes.}

dysmorpho-: from Gr dusmorphos, misshapen; as in dysmorphophobia, a dread of being misshapen.

-dytes, occ -dyta: from Gr duōtēs, a diver, from duō, I dive. A Zoo, esp an Orn, generic name, as in Pelodytes.

eccentro-: from Gr ekkentros, off from centre: mechanically eccentric: for etym, see CENTRE. Ex: eccentrometer (cf -meter).

ecclesiastico-; ecclesi(o)-: c/f of ECCLESIASTIC, via L ecclēsiasticus; c/f of L ecclēsia (Gr ekklēsia), the church, as in ecclesiarch (cf -arch) and ecclesiology.

eccrino-: from Gr ekkrinein (prefix ek-, out+krinein, to separate: cf CRITIC), as in eccrinology, the physiology of secretions (and excretions).

echin(o)-: Gr ekhth(o)-, c/f of ekhinos, hedgehog (cf echinus, sea urchin), s ekhin-, base ekh-, IE r gher-* or kher-*. Exx: echinocactus, a very spiny cactus; echinochrome (cf -chrome at -chrola); echinology. Dim: echinult-, as in echinuliform.

echo-: for E echo; as in echolalia (cf -lalia).

-eclexis: 'sexual selection' (Bio): Gr eklexis, selection, lit 'a choosing out'. Ex: amphecllexis.

eco-, oeco-, oiko-: the E, the L, the Gr form of Gr oiko-, c/f of oikos, house, (hence) household management: denoting 'habitat or environment; domestic relations': for ult etym, see ECONOMY. Exx: ecology, economic, ecophobia (a dread of home). Cf -oeca.

-ectasia, -ectasis: c/ff of Med ectasia, ectasis, dilatation: Gr ektasis: ek, out, cf Prefix ec-, and -tasis, a stretching, from teinein to stretch; cf TEND. Ex: neurectasis.

-ectome, -ectomy. See -tome, last para.

{ect(o)-. See Prefixes.}

ectro-: 'congenital lack or absence': from Gr ektrōsis, miscarriage, ek, out+trōsis, a wound, an injury or damage, from trōein (s trō-), to wound, injure, damage. Exx: ectrogeny (cf -geny at -gen) and ectromelus, a limbless monster (cf -melus at -melia).

ede(o)-: from Gr aidola, genitals, lit 'the modest parts': neupl of aidoios, bashful, from aidomal (s aid-), I am ashamed. Exx: edeology, edeotomy.

edri(o)-: c/f of Gr hedrion, a little seat, dim of Gr hedra, a seat: cf -hedral. Ex: Edriophthalma.

effluvio-: from ML effluvium (L effluuium), a flowing out. Ex: effluviography (cf -graphy at -graph).

effusio-: for effusion, as in Phys effusimeter.

egil(o)-: from Gr aigilos, a herb that goats enjoy, from aig-, o/s of aix (gen aigos), a goat. Ex: egilops (Gr aigilōps: ōps, eye), an ulcer in the corner of the eye. Cf:

ego- (1): from Gr aigo-, c/f of aix (gen aigos), a goat: cf prec. Ex: Med egophony (cf -phony at -phone), 'bleating voice'.

ego- (2), as in egocentric, egomania: see EGO.

Egypto-: Gr Aigupto-, c/f of Aiguptos, Egypt. Ex: Egypto-Greek.

eid(o)-: 'image' or 'figure': Gr eido-, c/f of eidos (s eid-), form (cf suffix -oid). Exx: eidograph, eidoptometry (eid+opto+-metry), kaleidoscope (kal- for cal(o)+eido+-scope). Cf eidolo-, from Gr eidolon, image, dim of eidos; as in eidology, the science of mental imagery; cf IDOL.

eikono-: from Gr eikon-, c/f of eikōn, image, s eik-, perh for IE weik-*. Exx: eikonology. See the more general icon(o).

eka-, only in Chem, as ekaboron, eka-iodine: Skt eka, one.

elaeo-; elai(o)-: elaeo-, L form of Gr elaio-, c/f of elaion, oil, esp olive oil, r el-: cf the ol- of L oleum. Exx: elaeblast, elaioplast, elaïosome. Cf eleo-.

elaph(o)-: from Gr elaphos (s elaph-), a stag. Exx: Elaphoglossum (cf -glossa) and elaphure (cf -ure, tail).

elasm(o)-: from Gr elasmos, a metal plate: cf ELASTIC. Exx: elasmobranche (cf -branch), elasmosaur.

- elasto-, as in elastometer: for elasticity.
- elatro-: from Gr elatēr, one who, that which, drives, from elaunein, to drive; cf ELASTIC. Ex: elatometer, an instrument for measuring gas-pressures.
- electro-: Gr ēlektrō-, c/f of ēlektron, amber; cf ELECTRIC. Exx: electroballistics, electrochemical, electrograph, electromotive.
- eleo-: a mod var of elaeo-, q.v. above. Ex: eleoblast.
- eleuther(o)-: Gr eleuthro-, c/f of eleutheros, free, perh an extension of leutheros* (cf L liber, free), IE leudheros*, base leud-. Exx: eleutheropetalous, eleutheromania.
- ellipso-: for ellipse, as in ellipsograph.
- elo-: from Gr helos, a marsh; perh for selos*—cf Skt sāras-, a pool. Ex: Pal Elotherium (cf -therium at -there).
- elytr(o)-: Gr elutro-, elutr-, c/f of elutron, a sheath, from eluein (s elu-), to roll or wind round, perh orig weluein, akin to L uoluere (ML volvere). Exx: elytriform, elytrotomy. The var elytri- comes from SciL elytrum, as in elytriferous (cf -ferous at -fer).
- ematoma: from hematoma, a swelling that contains blood (cf haemo-). Only in Med.
- embio-: from the Gr adj embios, in life (cf -bia). Ex: Embtiocidae (tokos, offspring; suffix -idae).
- emblemato-, as in emblematology: from Gr emblēma, gen emblēmatos: cf EMBLEM and:
- embol(o)-: Gr embolo-, embol-, c/f of embolos, a wedge, from emballēin, to throw or cast in: cf EMBLEM. Exx: embolomerosus (cf -merous at -mer). The subsidiary emboli-, as in emboliform, comes from embolus (L, from Gr embolos), foreign matter in the blood.
- embry(o)-: Gr embruo-, embru-, c/f of embruon, fetus, lit 'something swelling within': en, in+neu of presp bruōn, from bruein, to swell. Exx: embryogenesis, embryology, embryoscope.
- emet(o)-: from Gr emetos, a vomiting, cf EMETIC, ult akin to VOMIT itself. Ex: emetology.
- emia. See haem-.
- empid(o)-: from Gr empis (gen empidos), a mosquito. Ex: Zoo Empidonax (anax, a king), a genus of flycatchers.
- empyo-: from Gr empuos, suppurating (cf PUS). Only in Med.
- empyro-, as in empyromancy, divination (-mancy) by fire: from Gr empuros, in fire: cf pyro-.
- enali(o)-: from Gr enalios, of the sea (en, in+hals, the sea, cf halo-). Ex: Enalornis (ornis, a bird) and enaliosaur (cf -saur).
- enantio-: adopted from Gr, the c/f of enantios, opposite (en+anti+adj suffix -os). Exx: enantiomorph, enantiothy, enantiotropy.
- enary. See ennial.
- encephal(o)-; -encephalia (condition of brain); -encephalus (type of brain disease): from Gr enkephalos, the brain, and from two SciL derivatives of SciL encephalon (for Gr enkephalos): enkephalos combines en, in+kephalē, the head (cf cephalo-).
- Exx: encephalograph, an X-ray photograph of the brain; encephalotomy; sclerencephalia (cf sclero-).
- encho-: from Gr enkhos (s enkḥ-), a spear (ἔγχος); as in Enchodus (cf -odus at -odon).
- enchyma, -enchysis: from the -enchyma of parenchyma, a Bot tissue; Gr enkhusis, a pouring-in, as in dermenchysis (cf -derm); enkhusis=en, in+khusis, a pouring, from khēein (s khe-), to pour.
- engy-: from Gr engus (ἔγγυς), near; as in engyscope, a reflecting microscope.
- enigmato-: from Gr ainigmat-, o/s of ainigma, an enigma. Ex: enigmatography. Cf ENIGMA.
- enne(a)-: Gr ennea, nine—cf NINE. Exx: enneagon, enneastyle (cf -style).
- ennial, adj of -ennium, L c/f of annus, a year, as in Mod L millennium, a thousand years; -enary, as in centenary, answers to L -enārium (centenārium, a hundred years). Exx: biennial, triennial.
- enstato-: for Min enstatite (from Gr enstatēs, an adversary). Ex: enstatolite (cf -lite).
- enter(o)-: Gr entero-, enter-, c/f of enteron, an intestine, lit 'an inner part'. Exx: enterocyst, enterotomy. Cf the prefix ento- and the derivative enteritis.
- entom(o)-: from Gr entomon, insect, strictly the neu of the adj entomos, cut in two—en, in+the n root of temnein, to cut: 'so called because nearly cut in two' (Webster). Exx: entomology, the science (cf -logy at -loger) of insects; entomophagous, insectivorous or insect-eating (cf -phaga); entomotomy, the dissection (-tomy, q.v. at -tome) of insects.
- entozoo-: for Zoo entozoa (SciL: prefix ento-+-zoa); as in entozoology.
- eo-: 'connected, or connexion, with a very early period of time': Gr ēō-, c/f of ēōs, dawn, hence the dawn of time; cf IE auōs*. Exx: Eocene (-cene), eolith (-lith), eosaurus (-saur). Cf:
- eosino-: c/f of eosin (from ēōs, dawn—rosy dawn): as in eosinophile. Cf prec.
- epairo-: from Gr ēpeiros, the mainland (cf the Epirus of Greece), prob akin to OE ofer, bank, shore. Ex: Geol epiurogeny (cf -geny at -gen).
- ephemero-, as in Zoo ephemeromorph (cf -morph): from Gr ephēmeros—cf EPHEMERAL.
- epidemi(o)-: either from EF-F epidémie or from the obsol E epidemy (itself from F), an epidemic: cf EPIDEMIC. Ex: epidemiology, the medical treatment of epidemics.
- epidermo-: c/f of epidermis (prefix epi-+-dermis, q.v. at -derm). Ex: epidermolysis (cf -lysis).
- epididymo-: c/f of epididymis (Gr epididumis). Med only.
- epiplo-: from Gr epiploon (in An: the great omentum). Ex: epiplopexy (cf -pexy).
- episcopi-; episcopo-: from L episcopus and (episcopo-) Gr episkopos, an overseer (later, a bishop): cf BISHOP. Exx: episcopicide, the slaying of a bishop; episcopolatry, bishop-worship.
- episio-: from Gr episeion, region of the pubes. Med only.
- epistemo-: from Gr epistēmē, knowledge (epi-, upon+histēmi, I place), 'a placing of oneself in the position required for'—hence 'comprehension': cf. sem, understanding. Ex: epistemology, the philosophy (cf -logy at -loger) of knowledge.

epistolo-: from Gr epistolē, a letter—cf EPISTLE. Ex: epistolography, letter-writing.

epitheli(o)-: c/f of epithelium, a SciL term: Gr epi, upon+thēlē, nipple. Ex: Epitheliolytic (cf -lysis).

epizootio-: for epizootic, common to many quadrupeds at one time (cf epidemic for mankind). Ex: epizootiology.

-ēpy, as in cacoēpy, (a) bad pronunciation, and orthoēpy, (a) good pronunciation: from Gr epos (s ep-), a word, akin to Skt vācas-, speech, a word.

equi-: L aequi-, c/f of aequus, equal—cf EQUAL. Exx: equiangular, equidistant, equilateral, equilibrium, equilateral, equinox, equipoise, equivalent.

er-: from Gr ēr, the spring; as in Eranthis (cf -anthis at -anth, flower).

erem(o)-: Gr erēmo-, erēm-, c/f of erēmos, lonely—cf HERMIT. Ex: eremology, the science of deserts.

-ergate, ergat(o)-; erg(o)-; -ergy: resp Gr ergatēs (s erg-), a worker; from ergatēs; ergon (s erg-), work; Gr -ergia, end-c/f of ergon, prob for wergon*—hence akin to WORK. Exx: ergatocracy, government by the manual workers; ergolatry, an idolatrous devotion to work; ergophobia, dread of work; synergy (cf prefix syn-, with, together).

erico-: from L erica or ericē, a heath, from Gr erikē or erikē; as in ericophyte (-phyte).

erio-: Gr erio-, c/f of erion, wool, akin to L ariēs, a ram. Exx: erimeter, eriphyllous.

ero-, eroto-: resp from Gr erōs, physical love, and Gr erōto-, its c/f, based upon the o/s erōt-: from eramai, I love, s er-: cf EROTIC. Exx: erogenous; erotomania (Gr erōtomania), erotopathy.

-erpeton: from Gr herpeton, a creeping thing: cf herpeto-.

eruci-: from L ērūca, a caterpillar; as in erucivorous (cf -vorous at -vora).

erysipelo-: for erisypelas, from Gr erisypelas, akin to Gr eruthros, red, and pellis, L pellis, skin, hide. Ex: Erysipelothrix (cf -thrix, hair).

erythro- (1): Gr eruthro-, eruthr-, c/f of eruthros, red, akin to L ruber and RED. Ex: erythrocyte (-cyte), a red blood-corpuscle; erythrogenic; erythrophobia, a fear of the colour red.

erythro- (2): short for erythrocyto-, the c/f of erythrocyte (see prec), as in erythroblast.

eschato-: from Gr eschatos, the further, the ultimate, akin to ex, out of. Ex: eschatology, the doctrine or philosophy of ultimates (e.g., death): cf -logy at -loger.

esophag(o)-: from esophagus, the mod spelling of SciL oesophagus, Gr oisophagos (cf -phaga). Ex: esophagotomy.

esteri-: c/f of the Chem cpd ester. Ex: esteriferous.

-estes: Gr -estēs, -eater, from esthien, to eat: only in Orn terms.

-esthes: from Gr esthēs, clothing, dress: mostly in Ent.

esthesio-, mod form of aesthesio-: from Gr aisthēsis, sensation, active sense-perception: cf ESTHETIC. Exx: esthesiogen, esthesiology.

estheto-: from Gr aisthētos, perceived, or perceptible, by the senses. Ex: esthetology. See prec.

estivo-: from ML aestivus (L aestivus), of the summer ('estival': L aestiuālis), from aestas, summer. Ex: estivo-autumnal.

estra-, estri-, estro-: from L oestrus, from Gr oistros (s oistr-, r oist-), a gadfly, hence a sting, hence fury, frenzy. Exx: estradiol; estriol (cf 2nd -ol); estrogen (cf -gen).

eteo-. See etymo-.

etheri-, ethero-: c/f of ETHER, as in etheriform. ethico-: 'of ethics and': Gr ēthiko-, c/f of ēthikos: cf ETHICAL. Ex: ethicopolitical.

ethmo-: Gr ēthmo-, c/f of ēthmos, a sieve, r ēth-, from ēthein (s ēth-), to filter, with many IE cognates. Exx, with meaning 'ethmoid' (Gr ēthmoeidēs, sieve-like), referring to the nasal capsule: ethmofrontal, ethmonasal, (with lit sense 'sieve') ethmolith.

ethn(o)-: from Gr ethnos, race, nation, prob akin to ethos, ēthos, custom, with s ethn- an extension of eth-, the s of ethos. Exx: ethno-botany, ethnocentric, ethnogeny, ethnography, ethnology, ethnzoology.

etio-, the E form of L aetio-, transliteration of Gr aítio-, c/f of aítia, cause, s aít-. Exx: aetiogenic, now usu etiogenic; aitiotropic, now usu etiotropic; etiology, via LL from Gr aítiologia, the science (cf -logy at -loger) of causes.

Etrusco-: from L Etruscus, Etruscan, the adj of Etruria; as in Etruscology.

etymo-: Gr etumo-, c/f of etumos, true, akin to eteos, true, both akin to etazein, to establish with proof: cf ETYMOLOGY. Ex: etymography (cf -graphy at -graph), historically precise spelling. Cf the rare eteo- (as in Eteocretan, of the original Cretans): from eteos.

eucho-: from Gr eukhē, a vow, a prayer, s eukh- (eukhomai, I pray). Ex: euchologion, anglicized as euchology, from LGr eukhologion, a prayer book—cf -logy at -loger.

eutdio-: from Gr eutdia, fine, clear weather, from eutdios, (of air or weather) fine and clear: eu, well (adv)+ the r of DIANA. Ex: eutdiometer, an instrument formerly used for determining the purity of the air, now for gases.

Eur(o)-, short for EUROPE(o)-, the mod form of Europae(o)-, c/f of European, via L Europaeus; Europa-, however, =Europe. Exx: Eurasia, Eurasian; Europeo-American; Europocentric.

eury-: Gr euru-, c/f of eurus, broad, wide, s eur-, akin to Skt uru (urús), s ur-. Exx: eurycephalic, broad-headed; eurygnathic, wide-jawed; eurypygous (or -pygal), broad-rumped. Cf:

-euryysis: Surg c/f, 'a dilatatory operation on a specified part', from eurunein, to widen, to stretch. Ex: colpeuryysis (cf colpo-). Cf prec.

euthy-: Gr euthu-, c/f of euthus (s euth-), straight, as in euthycomic (or -comous), straight-haired. Perh euthus=eu, well+a lost pp thus*, placed, from tithēmi, I place—cf the future thēsō, s thēs-.

-eval, mod form of -aeval, as in medieval, formerly mediaeval: ML aevālis, L aeuālis, adj of aeuum, ML aeuum, age, life. Cf AGE.

excito-, as in excitoglandular, excitomuscular, denotes 'stimulating' and derives from excit-, the s of L excitāre, to excite.

exoto-: from Gr exōtikos, from without, foreign (cf EXOTIC), or from E exotic. Ex: exotospore.

extenso-, as in extensometer, an instrument for measuring extension, derives from L extensus, extended. Cf EXTEND.

externo-, as in externomedian, derives from L externus, external.

extero-: from L exter, external, exterior, from ex, outside of, out from. Ex: exteroceptive (cf receptive).

fabi-, as in fabiform, bean-shaped: from L faba (cf F fève), a bean—cf OP babo.

-facient: 'making or causing': L facient-, o/s of presp faciens, from facere, to make: see -fic. Ex: sonnifacient, sleep-causing, cf somni-. Cf the fac- of facsimile ('Do the like!') and factotum ('Do everything!').

facio-: 'facial (and)': from L faciēs (s faci-), face: cf FACE. Ex: faciologial.

-fact, as in artifact, = L factus, made, pp of facere, to make. (Cf -facient, -faction, -fact, -fic.)

-faction; -factive; -factory: from L -factiō (gen -factiōnis), from factiō, a making, from facere, to make; -factive, cf F factive, the f of factif, -making; -factory (adj), from LL and ML -factōrius, -making. See SATISFACTION and -facient, -fact, -fect.

fagi-, fago-: from L fāgus, beech (tree): cf Gr phagos.

falci-: from falc-, the o/s of L falx (gen falcis), a sickle, perh from Ligurian. Ex: falciform.

fall(o)-: a short-cutting c/f for Fallopian tube (the oviduct in all mammals). Exx: fallectomy, fallotomy.

falsi-, L falsi-, c/f of falsus; cf FALSE. Exx: falsidical, false-speaking, L falsidicus (dicere, to say); falsify, q.v. at FALSE.

farado-: c/f of faradē (ex physicist Faraday), as in farado(-)muscular.

-fariou-: L -fārius (adj), -fold, an 'adjective back-formed from bifāriam [in two parts; on both sides] and serving to form a whole series of multiplicative adjectives or adverbs: bi-, tri-, quadri-, multi-fārius, and [adverbs in] -āriam. The Latin word bifāriam recalls the Sanskrit type: dvi-dhā, "double" (E & M). Exx: bifarious, trifarious, multifarious, omnifarious.

fascio-: an An c/f of fascia (condensed connective tissue), as in fasciotomy.

fati-: L fāti-, c/f of fātum, fate: see FATE. Exx: fatidic(al), prophetic, lit 'fate-telling', from L fātidicus; fatiferous; fatioquent.

faun(o)-: for fauna, as in faunology.

favi-: from ML favus, L fauus (s fau-), hone comb, perh, as E & M suggest, akin to fauēre (M favēre), to favour, s fau-. Ex: faviform.

febri-: L febri-, c/f of febris, fever (cf FEVER). Exx: febricide, a fever-'killer'; febrific, fever-producing; febrifuge, an antidote (cf -fuge) to fever.

feca-: for fecal (faecal), as in fecalith.

-fect, as in confect, infect, refect, derives from -fectus, pp of vv in -ficere, cpds of facere, to make; nn in -fection, adj in -fective. Cf -facient, -faction; and:

-feit: a gallicized form of the prec, as in counterfeit.

feli-: from L fēlis (s fēl-), a cat; the L afēlinus, E feline, yields the c/f felino-, as in felinophobia, a dread of cats.

felici-, as in felicitify, to render happy: from fēlix (gen fēlicis), happy. Cf FELICITY.

felino-. See feli-.

felso-: from G Fels, a rock. Ex: felsophy (-phy).

femino-: from L fēmina, woman: cf FEMALE. Exx: feminology, feminophobe (woman-hater).

femoro-: from femor-, o/s of L femur (o.o.o.). thigh: 'femoral (and)'. Ex: femorocaudal. Adj femoral, from LL femorālis.

-fer, -ference, -ferent, -ferous: L -fer, main agential; L -ferentia, itself from L ferent- (whence E -ferent), o/s of ferens, presp of ferre, to bear; carry; -ferous = L -fer + E -ous (Suffixes): hence 'producer (of)'—'production (of)'—'producing (adj)'—'productive (of)'. Exx: conifer, cone-bearer, whence coniferous; -ferent, mostly in derivatives from cpd vv, as in deferent, different, effluent; cruciferous, cross-bearing. Cf the cognate E bear, to carry.

fermento-: for ferment(ation), as in fermentology.

-ferous. See -fer.

ferri-, ferro-: L ferri-, Mod E ferro-, c/f of L ferrum, iron, s fer(r)-, o.o.o.; adj, ferrou (general) and ferric (Chem). Exx: ferricyanide, ferriferous; ferro-alloy, ferro(-)cyanide, ferromagnetic. The E ferrous suggested SciL ferrosus whence the o/f ferroso-.

ferroso-. See prec.

festi-, festo-: from L festā, a festival: cf FEAST. Exx: festilogy or festology, a treatise on festivals.

feti-, now rarely foeti-; feto-, now rarely foeto-: c/f of L fētus, inferior form foetus, a birth, the embryo, the young, hence, in E, denoting 'the young in the womb': the L n fētus is akin to L fētus, filled with young, fructified. Exx: fetiferous, bearing young; fetography.

-fex, as in artifex, pontifex, spinifex, = 'maker' (of objects requiring art or skill—of bridges—of spines or thorns): a n, adopted from L and answering to the E adj -fic (or -ficial).

fibrilli-; fibrino-; fibri-, fibr(o)-; fibroso-: c/f of fibril, from SciL fibrilla, dim of fibra, whence the c/f fibri- (L form) and fibro- (Gr form) and whence also the biochemical term fibrin, whence the c/f fibrino-; fibroso- comes from SciL fibrosus, fibrous.

Cf FIBER (FIBRE). EXX: fibrilliform, fibriform, fibrucartilage; fibrinocellular.

1, -fic; 2, -fical and 3, -ficial; 4 -ficate, 5 -fication, 6 -ficate, 7 -ficator, 8 -ficator; 9, -fice; 10, -fice; 11, -ficient and 12, -ficient; 13, -ficiary. Basically -fic- is the c/f of fac-, the s of facere, to make; it occurs only in cpd vv and in their derivatives or cognates: cf -facient, -fact, -fect, and therefore FACT.

1, -fic: (occ via F -fique) from L -ficus, 'making' (adj), as in beneficus, somnificus, E benefic, somnific; always after either connective or thematic -i-, cf malefic, morbific.

2, -fical, as in pontifical: L -ficialis, as in pontificalis -fic, adj -alis.

3, -ficial, as in pontifical, var of pontifical, and beneficial, from L beneficialis, -ficialis being a var of -fical. Cf (9), -fice.

4, -ficate, as in certificate (ML certificatus, pp of certificare, to make certain), represents L -ficator, pp of LL and ML cpd vv in -ficare. The var -ficiate indicates direct derivation from nn in -ficium; as in maleficiate, from ML maleficiatus, bewitched.

5, -fication, as in certification: (occ via F -fication) from -ficiation- (acc -ficiationem), o/s of -ficiatio, from vv in -ficare, LL and ML var of -ficere.

6, -ficate, 'tending to make'—as in certificative, represents -ficate (as in (4) above)+ suffix -ive.

7, -ficator, 'maker': as in certificator: LL and ML -ficator. Cf:

8, -ficator, 'serving to make': as in certificatory (ML certificatorius): LL, ML -ficiatorius.

9, -fice, as in benefice (L beneficium) and obs malefice (L maleficium), derives, usu via OF -fice, from L -ficium, more objective than -ficiatio (see (5) above). Cf the next four paragraphs.

10, -fice, as in beneficence, maleficence, derives, occ via OF -fice, from L -ficiencia, as beneficentia, maleficiencia. Cf:

11, -ficient, as in beneficient and maleficient, derives from L -ficiens, o/s of -ficiens, presp of cpd vv in -ficere. Cf prec and:

12, -ficient, as in deficient, represents -ficiens, o/s of -ficiens, presp of several vv in -ficere, as in deficere, to be lacking. The corresponding abstract n ends in E -ficiencia, now usu -ficiency, and derives from L -ficiencia, as LL deficientia. Cf (9)-(11) above.

13, -ficiary (the n comes straight from the adj): L -ficiarius, as in beneficiarius, whence the adj beneficiary.

Cf -fier and -fy.

fict-: from L ficus, a fig: cf FIG. EX: ficiform, (shaped) like a fig.

-ficial, -ficiary, -ficiens. See -fic.

-fid: 'divided into (e.g. seven) parts'; in Bot, 'lobed' or 'cleft': L -fidus, a c/f deriving from the s of findere, to split, of which only the present tenses are nasalized; Skt and the Gmc languages possess cognates. EXX: bifid (L bifidus), trifid (L trifidus), septemfid, etc; pinnatifid (pinnati-).

fide-, fidel-: resp the abl and the dat of L fidēs, faith. EXX: fideicommissary; fidejussio (iubere, to order).

-fier, the agent corresponding to vv in -fy, F -fier, L -ficare, itself from adj -ficus, itself from -ficere, the cpd-v form of facere, to make: see -fic above and FACT in the Dict. EXX: justifier; justify, OF justifier, ML iustificare, LL iustificare, to make just or right.

-filar; filari-. See the 2nd fili-.

fili- (1): 'son' (L filius) or 'daughter' (L filia): rare except in filicide (cf -cide). The more usual c/f of filius is filio-, q.v.

fili- (2): 'thread'; from L filum, a thread, s fil-, perh akin to hilum. EXX: filiferous, filiform, filigrane (and filigree), filipendulous.

The E adj from L filum is filar (cf the adj suffix -ar), with c/f -filar, as in interfilar (prefix inter-); and Bot and Med exhibit a derivative Filaria, a genus of thread-like worms, with c/f filari-, as in filarioidal (cf -oidal), deadly to Filaria.

filic-: L filic-, o/s of filix, fern, prob akin to filum, thread. Ex filiciform (cf -form).

filio-: from L filius, son: cf FILIAL. EXX: filonymic (cf -onym), filopietistic. Cf fili- (1).

fimbri-, fimbrio-: from L fimbria, a fringe, whence also fimbriated, fringed. EXX: Fimbriostylus, a genus of sedges; fimbriodentate.

fimi-: from L firmus (s firm-), dung, perhaps a thinned form of L fumus, smoke, from the exhalations of fresh dung. Ex: fimicolous (cf -colous), applied to beetles inhabiting dung.

fini-: from L finis, end: cf FINAL. Ex: finific (n from adj), a limiting element; finifugal (cf -fugal), tending to avoid decisions, escapist.

Finno-: c/f of Finn or Finnish. Esp in Finno-Ugric.

-fique: the F form of L -ficus and therefore parallel to -fic, q.v.

fissl-: 'cleft' or 'divided': from L fissus, pp of findere, to split: cf FISSURE. EXX: fissl-costate, fissiparous (cf -parous).

fistull-, as in fistuliform, fistular (L fistularis), lit 'of a fistula', orig a pipe, perh akin to ON blistra, to blow, to pipe.

flabelli-: 'fan-shaped': from L flagellum, a fan, dim of flabrum, a breath of wind, from flāre, to blow (flō, I blow), clearly echoic—cf BLOW (v). EXX: flabellifoliate, flabelliform.

flagelli-: from L flagellum, a whip, dim of flagrum, a (large) whip: for the formation, cf flagellum from flabrum. Ex: flagelliform.

flammi-: from L flamma, a flame, prob echoic. EXX: flammiferous (L flammifer), flammivomous (ML flammivomus, L -uomus), flame-vomiting.

[-flate, as in deflate, inflate, insufflate: see INFLATE.]

flavi-; flavo-: from ML flavus, L flāvus (s flāv-), yellow. EXX: flavicomous, yellow-haired; flavopurpurin.

[-flect, -flection or flexion; -flex, adj and n: as a cpd, only in genusflect, L genusflecture, to bend the knee (see genu-), and its derivatives. The vv go back to L flectere (s flect-), to bend; the n -flection, a mod spelling, and -flexion to LL -flectiō, gen -flectiōnis; the n -flex to L flexus (gen flexūs), the adj -flex to L flexus, pp of flectere. See FLEX.]

floci-, app only in flocipend, from L floci pendere, lit 'to weigh as a FLOCK of wool', hence to rate as of small account.

flori-; -floral, -florous: from flōr-, o/s of L flōs (gen flōris), flower—cf FLOWER. EXX: floriculture; florigraphy (the 'language' of flowers); floriscope; florisugent, flower-sucking;—thalamifloral (cf thalami-); uniflorous, multiflorous.

-fluence, -fluent, -fluous, -flux. EXX: influence, refluent, mellifluous, efflux, all from L fluere, to flow. See FLOW and cf fluo-. The c/f fluidi-, in fluidify, to render liquid, comes from E FLUID.

fluo-: from L fluor, a flowing, but indicating its derivative fluorine (cf Chem suffix -ine). EXX: fluoboric, fluophosphate. Cf prec and:

fluoro-: c/f of fluorine or fluorescence. EXX: fluorobenzene, fluoroscope. Cf -fluence and fluo-.

fluvi-, fluvio-: from ML fluvius, L fluvius, a river, from fluere, to flow: cf FLOW. EXX: fluvicoline (cf -coline at -colous); fluvioglacial, fluviograph, fluviology, fluviomarine, fluvioterrestrial. Cf FLOW and:

[-flux, as in efflux, influx, reflux, from L fluere, to flow. See FLOW.]

foci, foco-: c/f of FOCUS (n), q.v. EXX: focimeter, focometer.

foli-, folio-; -foliate, -folious: c/f of L folium (s fol-), a leaf, whence the E folio; -foliate, c/f of E foliate; (-folious) L foliōsus, -leaved, leafy. EXX: folicolous, foliferous; foliobranch. The subsidiary foliolo- comes from SciL foliolum, dim of folium.

foramini-: from foramin-, o/s of L forāmen (r for-), from forāre (s for-), to pierce or bore); the adopted E foramen=a small opening or aperture or orifice. Ex: foraminiferous, having foramina.

forci-, irregular form; forcipi-, regular: from forcip-, o/s of L forceps, forceps, pincers, perh akin to L formus, hot. EXX: forcipressure, for forcipipressure; forcipiform, shaped like forceps. Prob cf:

forcici-, as in forciform, shaped like scissors: L forfex (gen forficis), shears.

-form, adj: '-shaped': (occ via F -forme, from) L -formis, c/f of forma, form, shape: see FORM. Like -fer(ous) and -fic (etc), -form occurs very often indeed. EXX: multiform, uniform; oviform (cf ovi-), egg-shaped.

-form, n: c/f of formyl, as in iodoform. Cf formo-.

formi-, irregular for formici-, regular E c/f from L formica (var furmica), an ant, prob akin to syn Gr murmēx. EXX: formicide, an ant-killer; formicivorous, ant-eating. Cf:

form(o)-: a Chem c/f for either formic or formyl, both, by the way, from L formica, an ant (see prec). Ex: formaldehyde.

forti-. See FORTIFY.

fossi-, as in fossiform, like a fossa (An cavity), L fossa, a ditch. Cf:

fossili-: c/f of FOSSIL. EXX: fossiliferous, fossilifovei-, as in foveiform, like a ML fovea (fovea) or small pit, prob from fodere, to dig (out) to hollow.

fracto-: 'ragged cloud-mass': from L fractus broken—cf FRACTION. Ex: fracto-nimbus. Cf fracti-; in ZOO.

-frage, n; -fragous, adj: as in saxifrage, L saxifraga, lit 'rock-breaker', and saxifragous, L saxifragus (cf saxi-).

Franco-: ML c/f of Francus, a Frank—cf FRANK. It denotes 'French (and)', as in 'the Franco-German War'.

fratri-: L frātri, c/f of frāter, brother, o/s frātr-; cf FRATERNAL. EX: fratricide.

frigo-, irregular E, and frigori-, regular L c/f of frigor (n), cold; cf FRIGID. EXX: frigotherapy, frigorific (L frigorificus); frigorimeter (cf -meter).

frondi-: from frond-, o/s of L frons (gen frondis), a leafy branch, foliage: cf FROND. EXX: frondiform, frondiferous and frondigerous; frondivorous.

fronti-, fronto-: from front-, o/s of L frons (gen frontis), forehead: cf FRONT. EXX: frontispiece (ML frontispicium); frontonasal, frontopontine.

fructi-: L fructi-, c/f of fructus, fruit: see FRUIT. EXX: fructiculture, fructify, fructivorous. Cf:

frugi-: from frūg-, o/s of L frūx (gen frūgis), fruit, akin to fructus (see prec); indeed, both fructus and frūx derive from L frui (s fru-), to have the use of, hence to enjoy. EXX: frugiferous, frugivorous.

fuci-: from L fucus (s suc-), rock lichen, seaweed, from Gr phukos (s phuk-), a loan-word from Sem. EXX: fuiciphagous and its syn, fucivorous. The irreg fuco- represents either E fucus or E fuco.

-fugal, adj; -fuge, n: the former derives, in E, from the latter; the latter from F -fuge, a c/f from L fugāre (s fug-), to put to flight: cf FUGITIVE. EXX: centrifugal; febrifuge, from EF-F febrifuge, LL febrifug(i)a, and vermifuge, adopted from F, adj febrifugal, vermifugal.

fulci-, as in fulciform, like a prop: from L fulcīre (s fulc-), to prop.

fumar(o)-, as in fumaryl (Chem suffix -yl): for fumaric (acid), from L fūmus—see next.

fumi-: L fūmī-, c/f of fūmus (s fūm-), smoke: cf FUME. EXX: fumiduct, fumiferous.

fundi-, as in sundiform, sling- or loop-shaped: from L funda, a sling.

fungi-, fungo-: c/f of E fungus, adopted from L, perh from Gr sphongos, a sponge. EXX: fungiform, fungivorous; fungology. The SciL dim fungillus has c/f fungilli-, as in fungilliform.

fun(i)-: from L funis (s fūn-), a rope: o.o.o. EXX: funambulist, a rope-walker, cf L ambulāre (s ambul-), to walk, and agential suffix -ist; funipendulous.

furci-; L furci-, c/f of furca, a fork: cf FORK. EXX: furciferous from L furcifer; furciform.

furo-, 'relation to furan', itself=L*furfur*, bran+ Chem suffix -an or -ane. Ex: furoidazole.

fusco-: from L fuscus, tawny, dark-coloured (s fusc-: cf E subfusc, dim), akin to L furuus (ML furvus), sombre, dark and to OE dosk, ModE dusk. Exx: fusco-ferruginous, fusco-hyaline.

fusi-: from L fusus (s fūs-), a spindle; as in fusiform—cf the adj fusoid (suffix -oid).

-fy: see -fier. Exx: amplify, F amplifier, L amplificāre; rectify, F rectifier, LL rectificāre. Also used with non-L words, as in dandify, from dandy, and in uglify, from ugly. Cf -fic.

-galactia; galact(o)-: a Med c/f, galakt-, o/s of Gr gala (s gal-), milk+Med -ia; Gr galakto-, c/f of the same: cf GALAXY. Exx: cacogalactia, a bad (caco-) milk-secretion; galactocoele (-cele), galactometer, galactophore (cf -phora), galactopoesis (formation—cf POET—of milk), galactoscope.

galei-, as in galeiform, shaped like a helmet: L galea, a helmet. Cf galeo-.

galeno-: from L galena, lead ore, lead dross, perh from Gr galēnē, a type of lead ore. Ex: galenobismutite; cf the adj galenoid.

galeo-: from Gr galeē (γαλέη), a weasel, whence perh L galea, a helmet: cf Skt giris, girikā, a mouse. Exx: Galeopithecus, Galeorchis, Galeorhinus.

galli- (1); gallo-: c/ff of L galla (s gal-), gall, gall-nut. Exx: gallicolous (cf -colous), inhabiting galls or excrescences; gallification;—galloflavine, gallotannate.

galli- (2), as in Galliformes, fowls, including the domestic fowl: L gallus, a cock, perh lit 'the Gaulish (bird)'. Exx: Gallus, Gaul. Cf:

galli- (3): c/ff of gallium, a metallic element, from L Gallia, Gaul. Cf:

Gallo-: 'Gaulish (and)' or, predominantly, 'French (and)': from L Gallus, a Gaul. Exx: Gallo-Roman; Gallo-Britain, Gallomania.

gallo-: c/f of gallic (acid): see galli- (1).

galvano-: 'galvanic' or 'galvanism', from Galvani, discoverer of dynamic element. Exx: galvanograph, galvanotherapy.

1 -gam, 2 -gamae, 3 -gamist, 4 -gamous, 5 -gamy; 6 -gamete, 7 -gameto-; 8 gamo-: 6, 7 come from Gr gametēs, husband, or gametē, wife, themselves from gamein (s gam-), to marry, intimately akin to gamos (s gam-), marriage, whence all the other c/ff, and akin to gambros (gamb-, extension of gam-), son-in-law, brother-in-law, fiancé. Exx: cryptogam; -gamae, pl n answering to adj -gamous, as in monogamous; bigamist; monogamy;—game-togenesis; gamogenesis. See MONOGAMY.

gamma-, as in gammacism, difficulty in pronouncing the gutturals (e.g., g and k), in gamma function, in g. moth, in g. ray, is the Gr letter γ, gamma, corresponding to the E hard g. The letter is of Sem origin.

gamo-; -gamous, -gamy. See -gam.

gangli-, ganglio-: the former, short for the latter; Gr ganglio- (γάγγλιο-), c/f of ganglion, an excrescence, swelling, tumour; hence, in Med, a nerve centre, as in gangliocyte, gangliiform, ganglio-neural.

gano-: from Gr ganos (s gan-), brightness; gan- appears to be an extension of the IE r ga*, bright, brightness. Exx: Ganocephala, Ganodonta, ganophyllite; ganomalite (cf -lite) comes from the Gr derivative n, ganōma, brightness.

gasi-, gaso-: c/ff of gas. Exx: gasify; gasogenic, gasterometer.

-gaster, -gastria, -gastric; gaster(o)-; gastri-, gastr-(o)-: all from Gr gastēr (s gast-), belly, gen gastros, hence o/s gastr-: akin to Gr gemein (s gem-), to be full (of), and gemos, the intestines contained by the belly. Exx: peptogaster (cf pepto-); Microgastria (micro-); pneumogastric (pneumo-); gasteralgia (-algia) and gasteropod (-pod); gastriloquist, a ventriiloquist; gastro-centrous, gastronomy, gastroiomy (cf -tome).

ge-, as in geode. See geo-.

gelati-, short form of gelatini- or gelatino-, c/ff of gelatin (cf JELLY). Exx: gelatification; gelatinigerous, gelatinotype.

gelo-; geloto-: the former from the nom, the latter from the o/s of Gr gelōs, gen gelōtos, laughter, s gel-, from gelaō (s gel-), I laugh, IE s gel-* (cf Ärm calr, laughter). Exx: gelogenic, gelotometer, gelototherapy.

gemini-: L gemini, twins, from geminus, double (orig, one of twins), of IE s gem-, cf Skt yamās, matched, twin. Ex: geminiflorous, flowering in pairs.

gemmi-; loosely gemmo-: from L gemma, a precious stone, orig a bud, the transition arising from the shapes and colours of buds: see GEM. Exx: gemmiferous, gemmiform, gemmiparous, where 'bud' determines the sense; gemmology, the science of precious stones.

1, -gen or 2, its occ var, -gene; 3, -genesia or 4, -genesis; 5, -genetic; 6, -genic; 7, -genin; 8, -genous; 9, -geny;—10, gen(o)-. The pattern of the E words has been determined both by -gen, from F -gène, from Gr -genēs, born, (hence) of a certain kind, and by gen- (short for geno-), from Gr genos (s gen-), race, kind, sex: see GENERAL. Exx: (1, 2) oxygen, Eugene (cf eugenics); (3, 4) paragenesia or paragenesis, the formation of minerals in contact (side by side: cf para- in Prefixes); 5, c/f of genetic, as in pangenetic; 6, (syn of -genetic and -genous)—c/f of genic, the adj corresponding to nn in -gen and -geny, as in acrogenic; 7, -gen+chem -in, denoting a substance formed from another, as in digitonin; 8, adj answering to nn in -gen and -geny, and referring, like -gen, either to a substance producing or yielding or to a substance produced or yielded by, as in alkaligenous (active) and neurogenous (passive); 9, from Gr -geneia, denoting origin, creation—in cosmogeny, it is syn with -genesis, and in biogeny, ontogeny, etc, it denotes (science of) the origin or production of something specified; 10, see above—exx, genoblast (cf -blast) and genotype.

genio-: Gr geneio-, c/f of geneion, chin, from genus, jaw: cf CHIN. Exx: genioplasty; genioglossal. Cf genyo- and -gnatha.

genito-: 'genital' or 'genital and': F génito-, a shortening of ML genitivo-* (L genitiuo-*), from gignere, to beget. Ex: genito(-)crural.

-genous. See -gen.

genu-: L genū, c/f of genū (s gen-), knee, akin to Gr gonu (s gon-) and Skt jānu (s jan-) and, less obviously, Go kniu, E KNEE. Ex: genusflect, to bend the knee, from ML genusflectere, whence genusflexiō, o/s genusflexiōn-, whence E genusflexion. Cf -gon (1).

-geny. See -gen.

genyo-: c/f of Gr genus (s gen-), the under jaw. Ex: genyoplasty. Cf genio-.

ge(o)-: L geō, c/f of gaia, esp in var gē, the earth. Exx: geocentric, geode (cf 1st -ode), geodesy (Gr geōdaisia; 2nd element, from daiein, s dal-, to divide), GEOGRAPHY, GEOLOGY, GEOMETRY, George, geotropy. See the ge- complex.

gephyr(o)-: from Gr gephura, a bridge, as in gephyrocercal (cf -cercal). Gr γέφυρα (Boeotian βέφυρα, Cretan δέφυρα) app consists of a prefix γφ-, ge-, of vague origin (perh akin to Gmc ge-, q.v. in Prefixes), and φυρά*, phura, s phur-, for φορά, phora, from pherein (s pher-), to bear or carry—cf the fer- of L fero, I bear. Contrast and cf:

-ger; -gerence and -gerent; -gerous: resp 'bearer', as in armiger (adopted from L), arms-bearer; 'bearing, carrying' (n), as in belligerence—'bearing' (adj), as in belligerent, L belligerant-, o/s of belligerans, presp of belligerāre, from belliger, war-waging, from bellum, war + gerere, to wage, (orig) to bear or carry, presp gerens, o/s gerent-; -gerous, as in armigerous, answers either to L gerus or to L -ger + E -ous. Gerere, of ancient L stock, has no irrefutable IE cognates: see JEST.

gerato-, as in geratology, a study of decadence: from gerat-, o/s of Gr geras (gen geratos), old age. Cf gero-.

geri-. See gero-.

Germano-: for Germany, as in Germanocentric, or for German, as in Germanophile and Germanophobia.

germi-: c/f of E GERM. Exx: germicide (-cide), germifuge (cf -fugal), germiparity (L parere, to produce young).

ger(o)- or geri-; 2, geront(o)-: from Gr geras or gēras (s ger-), old age, as in geriatrics (cf -iatric), medicine as applied to the old, and gerocomy (Gr gerokomia, 2nd element from komein, s kom-, to take care of), medical science as affecting the old; 2, geront-, o/s of Gr gerōn (gen gerontos), an old man—cf Skt jārant-, old—as in gerontocracy, rule by the old, and gerontology, the scientific study of (the phenomena of) old age. Cf gerato-.

-gerous. See -ger.

-geton: Gr geitōn, a neighbour: s geit-, o.o.o. Ex: Zyzzogeton, q.v. at zyzzo-.

-geusia: a Med c/f, denoting 'condition of the sense of taste' and deriving from Gr geusis, taste, akin to geumai (s geu-), I taste, akin to Skt jōsati, he tastes. Ex: cacogeusia (cf caco-, bad).

giganti- and giganto-: resp from gigant-, o/s of L gigas (gen gigantis), a giant, and from giganto-, c/f of the archetypal Gr gigas, gen gigantos: see GIGANT. Exx: giganticide (cf -cide) and gigantology, gigantomachy (a battle between giants).

gingiv(o)-: 'the gums' or 'gingival—of the gum' from ML gingiva, L gingīva, a gum (of the mouth)—? a redup of gena, the cheek. Ex: gingivolabia.

ginglymo-, with shortening gingly-, as in ginglym form: from SciL ginglymus, from Gr ginglym (γίγγλυμος), a hinge-like join—? a redup of glu-*, to bend. Ex: ginglymostoma (cf -stoma).

glaci-; glacio-: resp from L glaciēs (s glaci-), ice, as in glacification, and from E glacier, as in glaciology, glaciometer, glacionatant.

glandi-; glandul-: L glandi-, c/f of glans, o gland-, acorn; c/f of E glandule, from L glandula, dim of glans. Cf GLAND. Exx: glandiferous, from glandifer; glanduliform.

glauco-: Gr glauko-, c/f of glaukos, silver, silvery or bluish grey, grey: perh IE s glaw-* extension k- (or ko-) + -os, adj suffix. Exx: glaucochroite (cf -chroia) and glaucophane (cf -phane).

gleno-, as in glenohumeral, of the glenoid cavity and the humerus: from Gr glēnē, socket of a joint, akin to glēnos, brilliant object; IE r, gle-* gel-*.

-glia: from Gr glia, glue, cf gluco- below: in L denoting 'fine glue-like tissue', as in neuroglia (neuro-). Cf also -gloea.

gliri-, as in Zoo glitriform: from L glis (gen gliris), a dormouse, perh akin to Skt giris, a mouse.

globi-; globo-: from E globe or L globulus (globo-) from L globus (s glob-), a round body or object: see GLOBE. Exx: globiferous; globo-cunulus, globosphaerite. The L dim globulus (whence globule) yields the c/f globuli-, as in globulimeter.

-gloea; gloeo- or Grecized gloio-: c/f of SciL gloea, from Gr glōia, glue. Exx: zoogloea; gloeosporiose, Gloiopeltis.

glomero-; glomerulo-: from glomer-, the inf s of L glomerāre (r glom-), to aggregate, to compact (glomerulo-) from glomerule, a small compact or convoluted mass, from SciL glomerulus, dim of L glomus, a ball, akin to glomerāre: cf CONGLOMERATION. Exx: Geol glomeroporphyritic and Med glomerulonephritis.

glori-. See glorify at GLORY.

-glossa, -glossia, -glot; gloss(o)-; glotti-; glotto- all, except glotti- (from glottis, Gr glōttis, itself from glōtta), ult from Gr glōssa or glōtta, tongue, akin to Gr glōkhis (γλωχίς), a projecting point; IE r glō-, extension glōkh-: see GLOSS. Exx: Eriglossa; (Gr -glōssia) baryglossia; polyglot, q.v. at poly-; (glosso-, mostly Med) glossograph, glossology, glossotomy; glottiscope; glottogenic, concerning the genesis of language, glottology.

gluc(o)- (1) or glyc(o)-; glycer(o)-: resp the c/f of Gr glukus, sweet, ? from IE dlukos* (cf L dulcis s dulc-), as in glucofrangulin and glycogen; and the c/f of glyceric or glycerol, as in glycerogel, glycerophosphoric. Cf:

gluco- (2): c/f of glucose: only in Chem. Glucose comes from Gr gleukos, sweet wine, intimately akin to glukos, q.v. in prec.

glumi-: for Bot glume, a chaffy bract, from L glūma, a husk. Ex: glumiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

gluteo-: from SciL gluteus, a certain back muscle, from Gr gloutos, rump, s glout-, with several IE cognates. Ex: gluteo-femoral.

glycero-; glyco-. See glyco- (1).

gly(o)-, only in Chem: for glycol, as in glyoxal.

-glyph; glypho-;—glypt(o)-: resp Gr gluphē, a carving, as in triglyph (Gr triglyphos), from gluphein (s gluph-), to carve, (hence) to engrave—whence glypho-, as in glyphography; (glypto-) Gr gluptos, carven, pp of gluphein—as in glyptology. Of gluphein the IE r seems to be gleubh-*, to cut, whittle, chip.

-gnatha, pl -gnathae; -gnathia, -gnathism; -gnathus, pl -gnathi; adj -gnathic, -gnathous;—gnath(o)-: all from Gr gnathos (s gnath-), jaw, perh akin to L nāsus, nose, prob akin to Skt hānus, jaw, and certainly to Gr genus, lower jaw: cf genio- above. Whereas -gnatha, -gnathae occur in Zoo class-names and -gnathus, -gnathi in Zoo generic names and -gnathia and -gnathism denote jaw-conditions, gnath(o)- is a general Sci c/f, with general adj -gnathous, answering to Gr -gnathos (-jawed), and with Sci adj -gnathic (gnath-+adj suffix -ic). Exx: Desmogonathae (cf desmo-); brachygnathia or -gnathism (brachy-); eurygnathous (-eury-) and prognathous (prefix pro-, forward); gnathometer, gnathopod (-pod).

gnomo-; -gnomy: Gr gnōmo-, as in gnōmologia, whence gnomology: gnōmē, a judgement, hence a maxim or an aphorism+-logia, c/f of logos, a discourse; (-gnomy), from Gr -gnōmia (from gnōmē), art or science of judging, as in physiognomy. Cf:

gnomono-: for gnomon, from Gr gnōmōn, one who knows, a sundial's pointer or index: cf prec and next. Ex: gnomonology.

-gnosis, -gnosis, -gnostic, -gnosy; gnosio-; -gnosia=-gnosis (Gr gnōsis), as also does -gnosy, anglicized form of Gr -gnōsia; -gnostic, adj of -gnosis, comes from Gr gnōstikos; gnosio-, c/f of gnōsis, γνώσις, which derives from gignōskein (gi-gnōsk-ein), to know. (Cf prec two entries.) See AGNOSTIC.

Exx: barognosis (cf baro-) and diagnosis and prognosis; diagnostic; nephelognosy (nephelo-); gnostiology, the theory of knowledge.

gompfo-: from Gr gomphos (s gomph-), bolt or nail, IE gombh-*. Exx: Gomphocarpus, gomphodent.

-gon (1), gonio-; gon-, gony(o)-: resp Gr -gōnon, c/f of gōnia, angle (s gōn-); Gr gōnio-, c/f of gōnia, angle, akin to gonu (s gon-), knee, whence gon- and gony(o)-; cognate are Skt jānu, L genu, Go kniu, E KNEE. Exx: pentagon; goniocraniometry, measurement of head-angles (cf cranio- and -meter); gonalgia, gonarthrits; gonyalgia, gonyocele (cf -cele).

-gon (2), 2, -gone; 3, gona-; 4, goneo-; 5, gonidio-; 6, -gonidium; 7, gonimo-; 8, -gonium; 9, gon(o)-; 10, -gony: -gon, Bio var of -gone, = gonium, a Sci L c/f derived from Gr -gonos, (adj) begetting or producing, and denoting 'mother cell or structure'; -gone, hence -gon and -gonium, derives from Gr gonē (s gon-), offspring; gona-, as in gonapod, is a c/f of gonad, a sexual gland; goneo- derives from Gr goneus, a begetter, as in goneoclinic, 'favouring' one parent; gonidio-, c/f of gonidium (itself used as an end-element), an asexual reproductive cell; gonimo-, from Gr gonimos (itself from gonē, offspring), reproductive, as in gonimoblast (cf -blast); gon(o)- comes from Gr gono- or gon-, c/f of gonos or gonē, procreation, hence offspring, as in gonoblast, gonococcus, gonophore, gonosome, gonotome; -gony, via L, from Gr -gonia, from gignesthai, to be born. See KIN. Additional exx: archegonium; gonaduct; goneopoiesis; androgonium; cosmogony, theogony.

gona-; -gone; goneo-; -gonidium; -gonimo-. See prec.

gonio-. See the 1st -gon.

-gonium, -gony. See the 2nd -gon.

-gono. See the 2nd -gon.

gonyo-. See the 1st -gon.

Gotl-, as in Geol Gotiglacial: for Gotland, which = southern Sweden. Got=Goth.

-grad, as in Petrograd (Leningrad), Stalingrad, represents 'city' of the person named. Grad is common Slavonic for 'town' or 'city'.

-grade; gradlo- or grado-: all from L gradus (s grad-), a step, stepping, walking, from gradi, to step, to walk; the first coming via F -grade, 'pertaining to (manner of) walking', as in plantigrade, walking on the soles (and touching with heels). Gradio-, as in gradiometer, merely varies grado-, as in gradometer.

Graeco-. See Greco-.

-gram (1) or -gramme: c/f of gram (unit of weight), as in centigram, kilogram; -gramme is the F form.

-gram (2); gramo-: from Gr -gramma or occ, as in tetragram, -grammon, c/f of gramma, a letter of the alphabet, from the root of graphein, to write (cf -graph and grapho-). See GRAMMAR. Exx: anagram, telegram; gramophone.

gramini-, gramino-: c/f of the former truly L, of grāmen (gen grāminis), grass, o.o.o., but perh from an IE s meaning 'to eat', as E & M suggest, or from an IE r for 'to grow' and therefore akin to grow and green. Exx: graminivorous (cf -vora); graminology, the science of grasses.

-gramme. See the 1st -gram.

gramo-. See the 2nd -gram.

grandi-: c/f of L grandis (s grand-), grand, o.o.o. Exx: grandiloquent (cf ELOQUENCE) and grandisonant or -sonous.

grani-, the true L c/f, or grano-, by analogy with other -o- c/f; granuli- and granulo-: resp from grānum (s grān-), a grain, and from its LL dim grānulum: see GRAIN. Exx: graniform, granolite (cf -lite); granuliferous (cf -fer), granulocyte (cf -cyte).

Cf:

graniti-: c/f of granite, q.v. at GRAIN. Ex: granitifera.

granuli-, granulo-. See grani-.

-graph, -grapher, -graphia, -graphic, -graphy; graphl-, grapho-. For the IE r and cognates, see GRAMMAR. The effective origin of the c/f lies in Gr graphein (s graph-), to write. In detail: -graph, cf F -graphie, derives from Gr -graphos, occ via L

-graphus; the agential (-er) n answering to -graphy, the Anglicized form (cf F -graphie) of -graphia, itself adopted from Gr -graphia, '-writing', as in biographer, biography; -graphic, cf graphic at GRAMMAR; graphi-, as in graphiology, is irregular for grapho-, itself from Gr graphḗ, writing, as in graphology, graphomania, graphometry (F graphométrie), graphoscope, graphospasm (writer's cramp), graphostatic. Cf:

grapto-: c/f from Gr graptos, written, engraved, pp of graphein, to write (see prec and cf GRAPHIC). Exx: graptolite (-lite) and graptomancy (-mancy).

grati-. See GRATIFY.

gravi-, c/f from ML gravis (L gravis), heavy, q.v. at GRAVE, adj; and gravito-, c/f of E gravity. Exx: gravific (-fic at fac-), gravimeter; gravitometer.

Greco-, the mod form of Graeco-, from L Graecus, a Greek, (adj) Greek—see GREEK. Exx: Graeco-Roman (art), Greco-Roman (wrestling).

greffo-, in greffotome (cf -tome), a knife used in skin-grafting: F greffe, a grafting: cf 'to GRAFT (plants)'.
[-gress, as in aggress, congress, digress, egress, progress, regress, transgress: the nn from L -gressus (gen -gressūs), a going; the vv from L -gressus, gone, the pp of gradi, to step, to go: cf GRADE.]

grossi-: for gross, as in grossify, to render—or to become—gross.

gryllo-: for Gr grullos (s grul-), via L gryllus, a cricket: prob echoic; cf IE r gru-*, to grunt or grumble. Ex: Grylloidalpa (L talpa—cf F taupe—a mole), a genus of crickets.

guani- or guano-: for guano (birds' dung, rich in phosphates: adopted from Sp, from Quechuan huanu, dung), whence guanine, whence guanidine, which has c/f guanido-. Exx: guaniferous (cf -fer); guanophore (cf -phora).

gummi-: for gum (q.v. in Dict); as in gummiferous, gum-bearing.

gumo-, as in gunocracy: a var of gyno-, q.v. at -gyn.

gutti- (1): c/f from L gutta, a drop (cf GUTTER), as in guttiform, drop-shaped.

gutti- (2): c/f of GUTTA-PERCHA as in guttiferous, gum-yielding.

gutturo-: c/f from L guttur, throat (cf GUTTURAL), as in gutturo-nasal.

gymn(o)-: Gr gymn(o)-, c/f of gymnos (s gymn-), uncovered, naked: Cf gymnasium at NAKED. Exx: gymnanthous (cf anth-); gymnoblasic (cf -blast), gymnocarpous (cf -carp), gymnosophist (cf SOPHIST), gymnosore (-spora).

-gyn (or -gyne), -gynous; -gynist;—gynae-, mod gyne-; gynaeo-, mod gyneo-; gyn(o)-; gynaeo-, mod gyneco-; gynandro-. The element -gyn denotes, as in hexagyn, a plant having six pistils, the n corresponding to the adj -gynous, from Gr -gunos (woman; (adj) female), from gunē, a woman, s gun-; -gynist=gyn- (for gyno-) + agential -ist, as in misogynist, woman-hater; gynae-, mod gyne-, represents the L form of Gr gunē, woman; gynaeo-, mod gyneo-, latinizes gunaio-, c/f of Gr gunaios, of or for (a) woman, and likewise gyneco- modernizes gynaeo-, L for gunaiko-, c/f of Gr gunaikos, womanish, female; gyn(o)-, Gr gun(o)- c/f of gunē, woman; gynandro-=gyn-+andro-, q.v. For cognates, cf QUEAN.

Exx: androgyn, androgynous, hermaphroditic (L androgynus, from Gr androgynos); gynephobia, a dread of women; gynecocracy (Gr gunaikokratia), petticoat government; gyneolatri, woman-worship; gynocracy, gynogenesis, gynophore; gynandro-morphism (Zoo), gynandrosporous (Bot).

gypsi-, gypso- (1): c/f of gypsum (hydrated calcium sulphate), adopted from L, from Gr gypsos (chalk), of Sem origin. Exx: gypsiferous, gypsum-bearing, and gypsography, (the art of engraving on gypsum).

gypso- (2): for gypsy, gipsy, as in gypsology. Occ gypsi-, as in physiologist.

gyro-: Gr gyro-, c/f of gyros, a circle, a circular motion, latinized as gyrus: cf GYRATE. Exx: gyrometer, gyromancy, gyroscope.

habro-: from Gr habros (s habr-), graceful, delicate, dainty, tender, as in Habronema (c -nema): perh of Sem origin.

hadr(o)-: Gr c/f of hadros, abundant, thick, ripe, perh akin to Skt sāndras, thick, and prob akin to Gr hadēn, enough. Exx: hadromycosis (cf myco-) and Hadrosaurus, a heavy dinosaur.

haema- or hema-, haem(o)- or hem(o)-, haemat(o)- or hemat(o)-; -haemia or -hemia, or -aemia or -emia. The -ae- spellings represent L, the -e- forms represent general ModE, forms of Gr -ai-, the Gr c/f being haim(o)- and haimat(o)-; haema- or hema- is irregular, being neither Gr nor even L; in E, haema- and haem(o)- and haemat(o)- are retained for most of the strictly Sci references. The origin is Gr haima (gen haimatos), blood: o.o.o.

Exx: haematherm (or hema-), a warm-blooded animal, cf -therm; Haemanthus (-anth); haemoglobin, a Biochem term, cf GLOBE; haemophilia (or hemo-), a tendency (cf -philia at -phil) to profuse bleeding or haemorrhage, EF-F hémorrhagie, L haemorrhagia, Gr haimorrhagia, -rrhagia deriving from rhēgnunai, to break or burst; haemorrhoid, usu in pl, from MF-F hémorroïdes, L haemorrhoidae, Gr haimorrhoides (sc phlebes, veins) tend; ing to discharge (cf Gr rhein, to flow) blood-haematothermal, warm-blooded; septicaemia or septicemia, a morbid blood-condition—from Gr septikos, rotting, septic, and Gr -aimia, end-c/f of haima, blood (gen haimatos).

hagi(o)-: Gr hagio-, c/f of hagios, holy, sacred, perh akin to Skt yāyati, he sacrifices, and yājyas, venerable. Exx: hagiarchy (cf -arch); hagiocracy (cf -cracy); hagiography and hagiology, a writing about, hence a book of, saints; hagiolatri, saint-worship (cf idolatri); hagiophobia, a dread of holy persons or things; hagioscope, a church squint.

hali- or halo-: both adopted from Gr: c/f of hals (gen halos; s hal-); m, salt—cf L sal—f, the sea: cf halmē, sea-water, and several Gmc and Sl cognates. Exx: halibios, sea-life, and haliplankton; halogen, any chlorine element (cf -gen); halomancy, divination (-mancy) by means of salt; halophilous, growing in salt water; halophyte, a plant (cf -phyte) flourishing in salt water, or growing naturally in salt-impregnated soil.

halio-. A var of the prec, as in haliography, a description (cf -graph) of the sea.

halo-. See hali-.

hamamelid(o)-: from Gr hamamēlis (gen -mēlidōs), either a medlar or a service tree: hama-, together + mēlon, a fruit. Ex: Hamamelidanthemum.

hamartio-: from Gr hamartia, failure, esp sin, akin to hamartanein, to fail, to sin. Ex: hamartiology, the theology of sin.

hami-, as in hamiform, resembling a hook, and hamirostrate, hook-beaked: from L hāmus, a hook, akin to the syn OHG hamo.

Hamito-: c/f of Hamite, as in Hamito-Negro, or of Hamitic, as in Hamito-Semitic. Hamite (whence Hamitic) = descendant, E -ite, L -ita, Gr -itēs, of Ham, L Cham, Gr Kham. Cf Khem, Egypt, and Ammon. Ham is perh 'the dark-skinned one'.

hapl(o)-: Gr hapl(o)-, c/f of haploos, single—lit, of one (heis, one) fold, contrast Gr diploos, of two folds; cf, therefore, E ply, n. Exx: (Bot) haplocaul-escens, having a simple axis (cf -cauli- above); haplogy, the (unconscious) running of two syllables into one; haploscope, a simple form of stereoscope. Cf the adj haploid, single in appearance, as if from Gr haploeidēs*, single-like (suffix -oid).

hapt(o)-: from Gr haptēin (s hapt-), to fasten, akin to hapē, a fastening: IE r, prob iabh-*; cf Vedic āpa, he has reached. Ex: haptometer, an instrument recording acuteness of touch.

harmoni-, harmono-: from Gr harmonia, proportion, concord, HARMONY. Exx: harmoniphon (cf -phon); harmonograph. Cf:

harmono-: from Gr harmos, a joint (cf prec), s harm-, app akin to L armentum, a herd of e.g. cattle: IE r, ar-*. Ex: Min harmotome (cf -tome).

harpsi-. See harpisichord at CHORD.

hastato-: from L hastātus, spear-shaped, from hasta, a spear, perh akin to E gad, a spike. Ex: hastalo-sagittate, of or like a spear and an arrow. Cf the rare hasti-, ML c/f of hasta, as in hastiludium (L ludus, play, a sport), E hastilude, spear-play.

haumno-: for Hain haunite, itself from the F mineralogist Mauy. Ex: haumnophyre (cf -phyre).

hebe-: from Gr hebe (ἠβή), youth, puberty—cf Hebe, the Goddess of Youth: of IE stock, with Sl cognates. In Med, hebe- denotes either puberty, as in hebephrenia, or the pubes, as in hebetomy; in Bot, pubescent, downy, as in hebeanthous, bearing downy flowers.

hecato-, hecatom-, hecaton-: Gr hekatōn, 100—cf HUNDRED. Exx: hecatophyllous, 100-leaved; hecatomb, Gr hekatombē (2nd element, from bous, ox)—hecatomped, (adj) measuring 100 feet; hecatonstylon, a 100-columned building. Cf:

hect(o)-: Fr hect(o)-, from Gr hekatōn, 100—cf HUNDRED. Exx: hectare, hectolitre, hectowatt.

hederi-: L hederi-, c/f of hedera (o.o.o.), ivy; as in hederigerent, ivy-bearing, cf L hederiger (cf -ger). hedono-. See hedy-.

-hedral, adj answering to n -hedron, from Gr -edron, c/f of hedra, a seat, a base (cf syn hedranon), akin to syn hedos (s hed-), for primitive sedos*, akin to Skt sādas-, seat; IE r sed-, var sad-. Exx: octahedral, octahedron, an 8-faced solid; polyhedral, polyhedron (cf poly-).

hedy-: Gr hēdu-, c/f of hēdus (s hēd-), sweet, (hence) pleasant, whence hēdonē (s hēdon-, c/f hēdono-), pleasure, whence hēdonikos, pleasurable (s hēdon-+adj -ikos). Exx: hedyphane, hēdysarum; hedonology. Gr hēdus is akin to L suāvis (E suave) and E SWEET.

helc(o)-: from Gr helkos (s helk-), a festering wound, an ulcer, akin to L ulcus (s ulc-), gen ulceris, and to Skt ārśas-, haemorrhoids. Ex: helcology, the Med science of ulcers.

heli-; helic(o)-: heli-, c/f of Gr helissein, to roll; helic(o)-, from Gr heliik(o)-, c/f of helix (gen hēlikos), a roll, a spiral, a helix, akin to helissein, prob for welissein*, r wel-* or uel-*, q.v. in L uoluere, to turn. Exx: Heliamphora, a pitcher plant; helicograph, helicogyre, helicometry, helicopter (F hēlicoptère, 2nd element Gr peron, a wing: its propellers revolve on a vertical axis).

heli- (2). See helio-.

helic(o)-. See the 1st heli-.

heli(o)-; -helion: Gr hēli(o)-, c/f of hēlios, the sun, akin to W haul, sun, Olr sūl, eye, Lith sāule, L sol, sun, E SUN; IE r, sāuel-*. (Hofmann.) Exx: helianthus, sunflower—cf helichrysum (L term for the marigold), a yellow-flowering plant; heliocentric; heliogram, heliograph; heliotherapy; heliotrope (Gr hēliotropion (via L heliotropium and F héliotrope), a plant turning (tropein, s trope-, see TROPIC) to the sun.

The element -helion occurs in the Astr terms aphelion and parhelion (Gr parēlion).

Helleno-, 'a Hellenic'—'Hellenic and': Gr Hēllēno-, c/f of Hēllēn, a Hellen, a Greek—cf Hellas, Greece. Exx: Hellenocentric; Helleno-Italic.

helminth(o)-: Gr helminth(o)-, c/f from helminthos, the gen of helmins, a worm, with ult r hel- for uel-* (wel-*), to turn: helmins or helmis is therefore 'the turner' (Even a worm . . .). Exx: helminthagogue, a vermifuge or worm-dispeller; helminthology, worm-lore.

helo- (1): Gr helo-, c/f of helos (s hel-), a marsh; perh for selos*, akin to Skt sāras-, sea. Ex: heliobious, (adj) marsh-living (cf -bia).

helo- (2): Gr hēlo-, c/f of hēlos, a nail, perh akin to L uallus, a stake, a paling. Ex: helotomy, cutting of corns.

bema-, hemato-. See haema-.

hem(er)o-: from Gr hēmer(o)-, c/f of hēmera, a day; most of the non-Attic forms are of the ēmar or amer pattern, ? from an IE amar* or amer* or amor*. Exx: hemerobious, living for only a day; hemerology (Gr hēmerologion), a calendar.

hemi-, half: Gr hēmi-, half, akin to L sēmi-, OHG sāmi-, Skt sāmi-. Exx: hemicycle, via L and F, from Gr hēmikuklon; hemiplegia, paralysis (cf -plegia) of a lateral half of the body; hemisphere, via MF-F from Gr hemisphairion; hemistich, half a poetic verse-line, Gr hēmistikhion. With Gr hēmi, cf L sēmi and Skt sā mi.

hemo-. See haema-.

hen-. See heno-.

hendec(a)-: Gr hendeka-, c/f of hendeka, 11 (hen, 1+deka, 10). Exx: hendecagon (cf -gon), a polygon of 11 angles, therefore sides; hendecasyllabic, 11-syllabled, from hendecasyllable (Gr hendekasyllabos, 11-syllabled).

heno-: Gr heno-, c/f of heis (neu hen), one, gen henos. Exx: henotheism, belief in one god; cf hendiadys, LL word formed from Gr hen dia duoin, lit 'one by two'.

heorto-: Gr heorto-, c/f of heortē, a feast, a religious festival, perh with IE r *uer-, to turn. Ex: heortology, the history and system of the liturgical year.

hepatico-: c/f of hepatic: see next.

hepat(o)-: from Gr hēpat(o)-, c/f of hēpar (gen hēpatos), the liver, with cognates in Sl, L, Skt. Exx: (1) 'the liver', as in hepatectomy (cf -ectomy at -tome), hepatopancreas, and hepatology; (2) 'hepatic (L hēpaticus, Gr hēpatikos) and', as in hepatocolic.

hept(a)-: Gr hept(a)-, c/f of hepta, seven, akin to L septem, Skt saptā, E SEVEN. Exx: heptagon, a 7-angled, -sided, polygon; Heptameron, a collection of stories, covering 7 days (cf hemero-); heptometer, a verse-line of 7 feet; heptarchy, (a) government by 7 persons.

Heracleo-, 'of Herakles (Hercules)', as in Heracleopolite (cf cosmopolite), a citizen of Heracleopolis—cf -polis—in Middle Egypt.

herbi-: L herbi-, c/f of herbā, (a) grass, a herb: cf HERB. Exx: herbiferous, herb-bearing, L herbifer (cf -fer); herbivorous, grass- and herb-eating (cf -vora).

herco-: from Gr herkos (s herk-), a fence, (secondarily) a barrier, perh akin to L sarcina, a bundle. Ex: Bot hercogamy (cf -gamy at -gam).

heredi-, heredo-: from L hērēs (gen hērēdis), an heir: cf HEIR. Exx: heredipety (L petere, s pet-, to seek), legacy-seeking; heredo(-)tuberculosis.

heresi(o)-: an Englishing of Gr hairesi-, c/f of hairesis, heresy, from hairein (s hair-), to seize, to take: cf HERESY. Exx: heresiarch, L haeresiarcha, Gr hairesiarkhēs, a heresy-leader; heresiography and heresiology.

hermo-, Hermo-: Gr hermo—Hermo-, c/f of Hermēs, the god Hermes. Exx: hermodactyl, lit 'Hermes's finger'; hermoglyphic, a statuary, from the Gr adj hermoglyphikos (cf -glyph).

hernio-: as in herniology; c/f from hernia, L word akin to YARN.

herol-; hero-; heroo-: heroi-, c/f of heroic—denoting 'heroic and', as in heroicomic; as in Herophile, Gr hēro-, c/f of Hērō; heroo-, Gr hērōo-, c/f of hērōs, a hero, as in heroögon (cf the 2nd -gon): cf HERO.

1, herpeti-; 2, herpeto-: 1, c/f from Gr herpēs

(gen herpētōs), the skin disease herpes, and of the cognate herpeton, a reptile; herpeto-, true Gr c/f herpeton. The common origin lies in Gr herpein herp-: cf L serp-, as in serpere, to glide (creep), to creep: cf SERPENT. Exx: herpetiform herpeslike and (2) reptilian; herpetology, herpetophobia.

hesper(o)-: from Gr hesperos, western—Hesperus, the Evening Star: cf VESPERS. E Hesperornis (Gr ornis, a bird: cf -ornis).

hetaero-: from Gr hetaira, (a female companion hence) a superior mistress, a concubine; of ancient IE stock. Exx: hetaerocracy, a government by mistresses; hetaerolite, a specific mineral, found in companionship with another.

heter(o)-: Gr hetero-, c/f of heteros, other—strictly a comp ('the other of two')—akin to C heis, neu hen, one, and E SIMPLE. Exx: heteraxis HETERDOX (Gr heterodoxos), heterodyne (cf -dyme), heterogamous (cf -gam) heterogeneous (ML heterogeneus, Gr heterogenēs: Gr genos, race, kind) and heterogeneity (ML heterogeneitās), heterogony (-gony at 2nd -gon), heterology (lack of correspondence), heteromorphic (cf -morph), heteronomy (-nome), heteronym (cf -onym at onom-), heterophyllous (cf -phyll), heterosexual, heterotrophic (-trophia).

hex(a)-: Gr hex(a)-, c/f of hex, 6—cf L sex, and see SIX. Exx: hexagon, hexagram, hexameter (Gr hexametros (stikhos), a verse-line of 6 feet) hexapod (Gr hexapodos, gen of hexapous, 6-footed) hexarchy (a group of 6 states).

hexico-: from hexikos, gen of Gr hexis, habit with the s hex-, cf ekh-, the s of ekhein, to have or possess: semantically cf behaviour, q.v. at BEHAVIOUR. Ex: hexicology, ecology, bionomics.

Hiberno-: as in Hibernology, the study of Irish history, and as in Hiberno-Celtic, (adj and n) Irish-Celtic: from Hibernia (whence Hibernian, ad and n), the L name for Ireland. Hibernia is perh re-shaping of Ptolemy's Ἰουερνία, Ionernia, itsse 0.0.0.

hidro- (1): from Gr hidrōs, sweat (akin to hūdō water: cf the 2nd hydro-). Exx: hidromancy, divination (-mancy) by sweat; hidropoietic, sweat-causing (-poietic).

hidro- (2). See hydro- (2).

hieraco-: from Gr hierax (gen hierakos), a hawk (? lit 'the swift one'); as in hieracosphinx (cf SPHINX), a hawk-headed sphinx.

hieratico-: for hieratic, sacerdotal, priestly, via LL hieraticus from Gr hieratikos, an elaboration of hieros, sacred, holy; cf hiero- and hieratic. Ex: hieratico-domestic.

-hieric: from Gr hieron, the sacrum (os sacrum the lowest bone of the spine), as in brachyhieric (cf -brach) and platyhieric (cf platy-). A special application of the Gr hieros, holy, therefore cf:

hier(o)-: Gr hiero-, c/f of hieros, holy, sacred cf HIERARCHY. Exx: hierocracy, government by ecclesiastics; hieroglyphic (adj, hence n), via LL hieroglyphicus, from Gr hieroglyphikos, pertaining to sacred writing; hierology; hieromancy; hieroa- phant, Gr hierophantēs, a priest, lit 'one who shows sacred things'.

hilaro-: from L hilaris (-rus), cheerful: cf HILARIOUS. Ex: hilaro-tragedy, tragicomedy.

hili-: for Bot hilum, pl hila, sense-adapted from L hilum (s hil-), a trifle, prob orig a var of filum (s il-), a thread: IE r phil-* perh yields both fil- and hilf and also pil-, as in pilus (s pil-), hair, so closely res-embling threads. Ex: hiliferous (cf -ferous at -fer), hilum (or hila)-bearing.

himanto-: Gr himanto-, c/f of himas (gen himantos), a thong; perh, obscurely, from an IE r si-* or sei-*, to bind: cf Skt syāti or sināti, he binds. Ex: Himantopus, a genus of waders (birds), from Gr himantopus, pous being a foot.

hipp(o)-: Gr hipp(o)-, c/f of hippos, a horse, akin to L equus. Exx: hipparch, a commander of cavalry; hippodrome, a horse(-race) course; HIPPO-POTAMUS. Cf:

-hippus: a SciL end-element, esp in Palaeontology, from Gr hippos, q.v. in prec.

hirco-: from L hircus (s hirc-, r hir-*), a he-goat, perh akin to Samnite L hirpus, a wolf. Ex: hirco-cervus (F hirco-cerf), adopted from ML; a fabulous creature, half-goat, half stag (cf cervi-).

hirmo-: MGr (heirmo-, c/f of MGr (heirmos (Gr heirmos), a series, from eirein (s eir-), to fasten together, to join, cf SERIES, as in Eccl hirmologion, a book of hirmoi or hymns with fixed melody and rhythm.

hirsuto-: from L hirsūtus, whence hirsute; prob akin to horrere, to bristle. Ex: hirsuto-rufous, red-haired.

hirudini-: from hirūdin-, o/s of L hirūdō, a leech, s hirūd-, r prob hir-* (-ūdō—cf the E suffix -ude—being a suffix, cf testudo, a tortoise). Ex: hirudini-culture, the rearing of leeches.

Hispano-, 'Spanish and' or 'Spain': from L Hispānus, Spanish, a b/f from Hispāni, the Spaniards: cf SPANISH. Exx: Hispano-American, Hispanophile.

histi(o)-, hist(o)-: histio-, from Gr hision, sail, web, itself from Gr histos (cf histo-), loom, web, akin to L stāmen, q.v. at STAMEN. In the derivative sense, Med 'tissue', histo- has virtually displaced histio-. Exx: histiology, now histology, the science (cf -logy at -loger) of animal tissue; histolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse); histozoic (cf -zoic at zo-).

historico-, 'historic and'; historio-, 'history': c/f, resp of historic, and adopted from Gr historio-, c/f of historia: see HISTORY. Exx: historico-ethical; historiographer (via F and L, from Gr historiographos), historiometry, a statistical treatment of history.

histrío-: L histriō (gen histrionis; LL adj histrionicus, whence E histrionic), an actor; of Etruscan origin. Exx: Zoo Histriobdella (cf -bdella), a genus of invertebrates; Histriomastix, ML histrimastix, scourge of actors, cf -mastix at mastigo-.

Hittito-, often shortened to Hitto-: for Hittite (H Hittim, Hittites, s Hitt-), n and adj. Ex: Hittitology or Hittology, the study or science of Hittite language or history.

hodo-: Gr hodo-, c/f of hodos (δόδος), path, way—cf the 2nd odo-. Exx: Math hodograph and Nav hodometrical.

holc(o)-: from Gr holkos (s holk-), a furrow, cf the syn L sulcus (s sulc-, r sul-). Exx: holcodont (cf -odont), with teeth set furrow-wise; Holconoti (cf the 1st noto-), an order of fishes.

hol(o)-: Gr hol(o)-, c/f of holos, entire, whole, from olwos*, itself from IE soluos*—cf Skt sárvas, intact, entire, and L saluus (ML salvus), safe, and E SAFE. Exx: holarctic, referring to all the arctic regions; holocaust, a burnt offering (sacrifice), via OF-F and L from Gr holokauston, neu of holokaustos, burnt (cf CAUSTIC) whole; holograph, a document (cf -graph), esp a letter, written entirely by its signatory; holomorphic (cf -morphic); holotype. The r hol-+suffix -ism=holism, a philosophy emphasizing wholes, with adj holistic (suffix -istic).

homal(o)-, adopted from Gr, c/f of homalos, even, smooth, a derivative of homos: cf homeo- and homo-. Exx: homalognatous, lit 'even-kneed'; Homalonus.

homeo-, mod for homoeo-, which, orig, was L for the now rare homoio-, the Gr c/f of homoios, like, similar, akin to and prob derived from homos, q.v. at homo-. Exx: hom(o)opathy, cure of disease (cf -pathy at -path) by 'resemblances'; hom(o)otypic or -ical; homoeomery, the likeness of the ultimate substances—cf -mery at -mer; homoiothermic (cf -therm); homoiousia, for homoia ousia, similar being or essence, hence essential likeness.

homi-; homini-; 'man': from L homō (man), s hom-; gen hominis, o/s homin-, whence the c/f homini-. See HOMO for cognates, etc. Exx: homicide, agent, from L homicida; the crime from L homicidium (cf -cide at -cidal); hominiform, man-shaped, in human form, and hominivorous, man-eating.

homo-; before a vowel, hom-: Gr hom(o)-, c/f of homos (s hom-), the same, one and the same—common or joint—like, whence both homoios, similar (see homeo-) and homalos, even, smooth (see homalo-): akin to E SAME. Exx: homodromous (cf -drome); homogamy, interbreeding; homogeneous, ML homogeneous, Gr homogenēs, of the same race or kind, and homogeny, Gr homogeneia; homograph; homologous, Gr homologos, assentient, lit 'of the same speech or thought', and n homologue from EF-F adj homologue, from Gr homologos (or ML homologus); homonym, EF-F homonymy, L adj homonymus, Gr homōnumos, of the same name; homophone; homorganic; homotype.

homoeo-; homoio-. See homeo-.

honori-. See honorific at HONOR.

hopl(o)-: Gr hopl(o)-, c/f of hoplon, a weapon, of uncertain kinship. In E words it denotes either 'arms' (or 'arms and armour') or 'heavily armed'. Exx: Hoplocephalus; hoplomachy, a (mock) battle under arms.

horismo-: from Gr horismos, a marking-out with boundaries, a delimitation, from horos, a boundary, cf the 2nd horo-. Ex: Zoo horismology.

horizo-: for HORIZON, as in horizometer.

hormo-: from Gr hormos (s horm-), a chain, prob akin to heirmos, q.v. at hirmo-. Ex: Bot hormogon(e) or hormogonium (goneia, generation—cf the 2nd -gon).

hormono-: c/f of hormone (Gr hormōn, presp of hormein, to excite), as in hormonology.

horo- (1): Gr hōro-, c/f of hōra, hour—see HOUR. Exx: horography; horologe, a timepiece, via OF and L from Gr hōrologion; horology; horoscope (cf -scope).

horo- (2): Gr horo-, c/f of horos, a boundary, a limit, a term, app from PGr woroos*, a furrow—cf the L urvus (ML urvus), a furrow, hence the circuit of a town. Ex: horograph (Math). Cf horismo-.

horri-: c/f of L horrēre (s horr-), to bristle (of hairs), hence to shiver, shudder, to feel fear: cf HEARSE. Exx: horrific, L horrificus; horripilant, horripilation.

horti-: L horti-, from hortus, a garden, esp in horticulture, L horti cultura, lit 'a garden's cultivation'; cf Gr khortos, an enclosure, and E COURT and YARD.

hosio-: LGr hosio-, c/f of hosios, holy, akin to SOOTH. Ex: hosiomartyr, LGr-MGr hosiomartur.

humani-, 'human': from L humānus; as in humaniform, anthropomorphic, and in humanify, to render human, to incarnate. Cf HUMAN.

humero-, 'humeral and': c/f of E from L humerus (better umerus), the shoulder, akin to Go ams, Gr ōmos, Skt amśa. Ex: humero-dorsal. Humerus, the bone of the upper arm, explains—via humorous—'the funny bone'.

huml- (1): c/f, perh prompted by the loc humi, on the ground—from L humus, earth, soil: cf HUMAN. Exx: humbicubation (cubāre, to lie down); humifuse, spread (L fusus, pp of fundere, to spread) over the ground; humify, to convert (lit 'make': cf -fy) into humus.

huml- (2); humidl-: 'humid, moist, damp': resp from L humēre (s hum-), to be damp, and from its derivative humidus, damp, or from its E shape humid. Exx: humify, from LL humificāre, to render moist; humidify, from humid.

humori-, humoro-: for humo(ur), as in humorific (cf -fic) and humorology.

hungri-: for hunger, as in hungrify, to make (someone) hungry.

hy-. See hyo-.

hyaen(o)-: from L hyaena, a hyena: cf HYENA. Exx: Hyaenarctos, a Pal bear of the Arctic; Hyaenodon (cf -odon), another Pal creature. The var hyeni- (for hyena) occurs in hyeniform.

hyalin(o): c/f of E hyaline (see next).

hyal(o)-, 'glass or glassy': Gr hual(o)-, c/f of hualos, any transparent stone, (later) glass, whence the adj hualeos or hualinos (whence E hyaline), of glass, and hualois, hualōdēs, glass-like; IE s, prob sualo-*. Exx: hyalescent (cf the suffix -escent); hyalogen (-gen); hyalograph; hyalophane; hyaloplasm; hyalotype. Cf prec.

hyb(o)-: from Gr hubos (s hub-), hump-backed, perh akin to Lith subinė (? r sub-), hinder part. Exx: Hybanthus (cf -anthus at -anth, flower)—

'referring to the dorsa swelling' (Webster); M Hybodus, extinct sharks with 'hump-backed' teeth (cf -odus at -odon).

hydat-. See hydato-.

hydati-; hydatidi-: from hudatis (s hudat-), watery vesicle; (hydatidi-) from its o/s hudatid-, the gen being hudatidos: from hudōr (gen hudatos): water: cf next entry and the 2nd hydro-. Ex: hydatiform, hydatigenous; hydatidiform.

hydat(o)-: Gr hudat(o)-, c/f of hudōr (gen hudatos), water: cf prec and the 2nd hydro-. Ex: hydathode, a waterpore, from hudat(o)- + Gr hōdē, way—cf cathode; hydatogenesis, hydatomorphia.

hydno-: from Gr hudnōn (s hudn-, r hud-), an edible fungus (? truffle), perh akin to hudōr, water. Ex: Bot Hydnocarpus (cf -carp).

hydr-. See hydro-.

hydrazi-, hydrazo-; hydrazino-: c/f, resp hydr-azi-; hydr- + azo-; (hydrazino-) of hydrazine. On in Chem.

hydri-: from L Hydra, Gr Hudra (itself from hudōr, water). Ex: hydriform.

hydrio-: from Gr hudria, a water (hudōr) jar, a urn. Ex: Hydriotaphia, Sir Thomas Browne's Urn Burial (cf epitaph).

hydro- (1). Incorrect for the 1st hidro-.

hydro- (2); before vowel, hydr-: Gr hudr(o)-, c/f of hudōr, water: for origin and cognates, see WATER. The context will determine whether hydr(o)- means 'water' (or 'of water') or, derivatively, 'hydrophyte' (in Bot) or 'hydrogen' (in Chem) or 'presence of (excessive or morbid) water' (in Med) or 'a hydrous compound' (in Min) or 'hydroid' (in Zoo). Exx: HYDRAULIC; hydrocarbon; hydrocephalus; hydrochloric; HYDROGEN; hydromancy; hydropathic; hydroplane; HYDROPHOBIA; hydrosphere; hydrostatic; hydrosulphate and -sulphide; Hydrozoa.

-hydrous: adj end-element, corresponding to hydro-, esp in orig sense 'water'. Ex: anhydrous, waterless (Gr anudros).

hyeni-. See hyaeno-.

hyet(o)-: Gr huet(o)-, c/f of huetos (s huet-), rain, akin to hudōr, water. Exx: hyetography, hyetology; hyetometer, a rain-gauge.

hygei-, hygi-, rarely hyge-: from Gr hugieia, health: cf HYGIENE. Exx: hygeiolatry, excessive care of one's health; hygiology, rarely hygeology, the science of hygiene.

hygr(o)-: Gr hugr(o)-, c/f of hugros, moisture, wet(ness), akin to hudōr, water: in E, denoting 'humidity'. Exx: hygrology, hygrometer, hygrophanous, hygrophobia (cf HYDROPHOBIA), hygroscopic, hygrostatics.

hyl(o)-: Gr hul(o)-, c/f of hulē, wood, (hence) material, matter, akin to Gr xulon (cf -xylon at xylo-). Exx: hylogeny, hylomorphism, hylotheism, hylozoism.

hymeni-, hymenio-: c/ff of SciL hymenium (from Gr humēn: see next), as used in Bot. Exx: hymenicolar, hymeniferous; hymeniophore.

hymen(o)-: Gr humen(o)-, c/f of humēn, membrane, hence, in Physio, the hymen: see HYMEN Exx: hymenogeny (cf -geny at -gen); hymenophore (cf -phora); Hymenoptera, Gr hymenopteros, membrane-winged; hymenotomy (cf TOME).

hymn(o)-: Gr hymn(o)-, c/f of hymnos, a hymn: cf HYMN. Exx: hymnody (cf the 3rd -ode); hymnology.

hypo- (1): Gr huo-, c/f of hus (s hu-), a wild pig, a sow, gen huos, akin to Av hu-, a boar, Tokh Bsuwo, a sow, L sūs, E sow (n). Ex: Hyoscyamus, with the 2nd element=Gr kuamos, a bean.

hypo- (2); before vowel, hy-: Gr hu(o)-, c/f of Gr Y, upsilon (u). Hence, by shape-resemblance (the bone named hyoid, 'U-like', is shaped like the capital U), it denotes, in E cpds, 'connected, or connexion, with the hyoid bone or arch' or 'hyoid and'. Exx: hyoglossal; hyomental (L mentum, the chin); hyostylic.

hypo-: from Gr huphē, web, tissue, akin to WEB. Ex: hypodrome (adj), running through the leaf-tissues—cf -drome.

hypn(o)-: Gr hupno-, hupn-, c/f of hupnos, sleep, akin to L sonnus (cf INSOMNIA); IE s, supnos* (r sup-*+extension or modification -n-+-os). Exx: hypnagogic, sleep-inducing; HYPNOSIS, adj HYPNOTIC.

hyps(i)-; hypo-: resp Gr hups(i)-, c/f of hupsi, on high, aloft, elevated, and Gr hupsō-, c/f of hupsos, height, s hups-, akin to the adv and prep huper, over: cf OVER. Exx: hypsicephalic, having a lofty skull; hypsodont, having high-crowned teeth; hypsography, (description of) topographic relief; hypsometer; hypsophobia, a dread of high places—cf the syn acrophobia.

hyrac(o)-: from hurak-, o/s of Gr hurax, a shrewmouse, akin to the syn L sorex (F souris). Exx: Hyracodon (cf -odon) and Hyracotherium (cf -therium at -there).

hysteri-: c/f of hysteria, as in hysteriform; cf: hyster(o)- (1), '(connexion with) the womb'—'hysteria'—'hysterical and': from Gr hysterā, the womb, perh akin to the syn L uterus and to Skt udāram, belly, a hollow. Exx: hysterocele (-cele); hystero-epilepsy; hysterogenic (cf next entry); hysterology, the (medical) science of the womb; hysteroscope.

hystero- (2): c/f of Gr husteros, later, akin to Skt uttāras, the higher. Ex: hysterogen(ic), produced later.

hystrico-: from hustrik-, c/f of Gr hustrix (gen hustrikos), a porcupine. Ex: Hystricomorpha (cf -morpha at -morph), a division of rodents.

iamato-: from iamat-, o/s of Gr iama (gen iamatos), medicine: cf -iatric. Ex: iamatology (cf -logy at -loger), the therapeutics of remedies.

iambo-: Gr iambo-, c/f of iambos, an iambus. Ex: iambographer, Gr iambographos, a writer (cf -grapher at -graph) of iambic verse.

-iasis: Gr -iasis, a process, perh from eimi, I go, but influenced by Gr iāsis, a cure; hence, in Med, a morbid process or condition, as in elephantiasis (adopted from Gr), the enormous enlargement of a limb, surfaced with skin hard, rough, fissured like an elephant's hide; hopychondriasis, the pathological aspect of HYPOCHONDRIA; satyriasis (Gr saturiasis: cf SATYR), constant and excessive sexual desire in the male.

-iatric, adj, whence the n -iatrics; -iatrix, agent; -iatria or -iatry, generic and abstract n;—iatr(o)-: resp Gr iatricos (from iatros), curative, tending to heal, of healing; s iatr-+agential -ist (Suffixes); Gr iatreia (whence the SciL -iatrīa), medical treatment, a healing or curing;—Gr iatro-, c/f of iatros, a physician. The Gr iatros, whence iatreia, derives from iasthai (s iasth-), to heal—a modification of iainein (s iain-) to (re)animate, to warm (again), to refresh, from PGr isanīō, IE isnio*, I set moving: cf Skt iṣanyāti, he sets moving, he excites, and iṣanat, be set moving, be excited. IE r, prob is-* or eis-, to stir (v.t.). (Boisacq.)

Exx: psychiatric(al)—cf PSYCHE; pediatrics, the medical care and treatment of children—cf PEDA-GOGUE; psychiatrist; nestiatrīa (cf nesti-); psychiatry, from SciL psychiatria;—iatrochemistry, iatrology, iatrophysics.

Ibero-: from L Iberus, Iberian, an Iberian, b/f from Hiberes or Iberes, the Iberians (Gr Ibēres): denotes 'Iberian (and)', as in Ibero-Celtic.

ichneumoni-, as in ichneumoniform, resembling an ichneumon fly, and ichneumono-, as in ichneumonology: from Gr ikhneumōn, 'the tracker' (see next), a mongoose, a weasel.

ichno-: Gr ikhno-, c/f of ikhnos, a trace or track, a footprint, a footstep: s ikhn-, extension of r ikh-, IE r ik(h)-* or igh-* or eih-*, to go. Exx: ichnology, the study or knowledge (cf -logy at loger) of fossil footprints; ichnomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by footprints.

ichthy(o)-: from Gr ikhthus, gen ikhthuos, akin to Lith žuvis; prob IE r, khtu-*. Exx: ichthyography and ichthyology, a description (cf -graph), the study (-logy), of fishes; ichthyolatry, fish-worship; ichthyophagous (cf -phaga), fish-eating; ichthyosaurus, an extinct fish-like SAURIAN. The end-element is -ichthys, as in Nemichthys (cf -nema).

-icide. As -i- is a mere connective, see -cide at -cidal.

icon(o)-: Gr eikon(o)-, c/f of eikōn (gen eikonos; r eik-), an image, app from a PGr eik-, to seem (cf Homeric eike, it seemed good), for weik-*, as several Sl parallels indicate. Exx: iconoclast (cf -clast at -clase), from MGr eikonoklastēs, an image-breaker, hence a revolutionary, with adj iconoclastic and abstract n iconoclasm; iconography (Gr eikonographia, via ML); iconolatry, image-worship (cf the element -later); iconometer, a Mod Phys, Mod Surveying, Mod Photographic coinage, lit 'image-measurer'.

icosa-; icos(i)-: Gr eikosa-, eikos(i)-, c/f of eikosi, 20, app for weikosi*—cf L uiginti (ML viginti) and Skt vimśatis. Exx: icosahedron (Gr eikosaedron: cf -hedron at -hedral), a 20-sided polyhedron; icositetrahedron, a 24-sided polyhedron.

ictero-: from Gr ikteros, whence SciL icterus, jaundice, o.o.o. Exx: icterogenetic or -genic, (adj) jaundice-producing; icteroh(a)ematuria (ictero-+haemat-+-uria). Cf:

-ictis: from Gr iktis, the yellow-breasted marten: Cf prec. Ex: Zoo Gallictis, a grison (SAM mammal). idea- See:

ideo-: F idéo-, from Gr idea, idea: cf IDEA. Ex: ideogeny, (science of) the origin (cf -geny at -gen) of ideas; ideogram, a pictorial symbol in writing with adj ideographic; ideology, F idéologie; ideophone, an idea-conveying sound. In ideagenous, idea-producing (cf -genous at -gen), we have the E IDEA.

idio- Gr idio-, c/f of idios, one's own, private, proper, peculiar: cf IDIOM. Ex: idiocracy (Gr idokrasia), now usu idiosyncrasy (Gr idiosunkrasia: idio-+sunkrasia, a mixing together); idiograph, a mark—hence a signature—peculiar to one person; idiopathy; idioplasm; idiotermous, where the Biochem and Med sense 'warm-blooded' occurs.

ido- F ido-, from Gr eidos, form. Ex: idocrase (cf -crase), vesuvianite. Cf the next.—In Chem, however, ido-, as in idosaccharic, is short for idonic(acid), itself=L idem, the same+*gulon*ic.

idolo- Gr eidōl(o)-, c/f of eidōlon, an image, an idol (cf IDOL), from eidos, form, shape. Ex: idoloclast, an iconoclast (cf icono-); idolomania.

-idrosis: Gr -idrōsis, end-c/f of hidrōs, sweat (cf the 1st hidro-). Ex: chromidrosis, (secretion of) morbidly coloured perspiration.

-ific, -ify. The initial i being merely connective, see -fic and -fy.

igneo-; igni-: resp from L igneus, of fire, fiery, and from its origin, ignis, fire: cf IGNITE. Ex: igneo(-)aqueous; igniferous, igniform, ignipotent (having power over, or mastery of, fire).

ile(o)-, ill(o)-, 'iliac and': resp c/f of ileum and c/f of ilium, varr of L ile, the groin, the flank (of the body), itself refashioned from the pl ilia, perhaps—despite the sense—akin to Gr ilia; IE s, ? il-*. Ex: ileocolic (of the ileum and the colon); iliocaudal, iliolumbar.

illumino-, as in illuminometer, stands for illumination.

ilmeno-, in Min ilmenorutile=ilmenite.

imido-: c/f of imide, a Chem cpd, as in imidogen. Cf:

imino-: c/f of imine, another Chem cpd, as in iminohydrin.

immuno-: for immune, as in immunology, the science of medical immunity.

impari-, 'unequal': from L impar (in-, not+par, equal), unequal, (of numbers) odd. Ex: imparidigitate; imparisyllabic.

impedo-: for impedance, as in impedometer.

inclino-: for incline, as in inclinometer.

incud(o)-: from incūd-, the o/s of L incūs (gen incūdīs), an anvil, applied, in An and Zoo, to bone-structure. Ex: incudectomy, excision of the incus.

indi-, indico-; Ind(o)-: indi-, short for indico-, c/f from L indicum, indigo, a product of India; Ind(o)-, Gr c/f of the adj Indos, Indian (East-Indian): cf INDIA. Ex: indi-, in names of pigments; indicolite (indico-+-lite); Indo-Chinese.

indolo-, in Chem only: for indole (indigo+-ol).

inducto-, as in inductoscope: for induction.

industro-: for industrial, as in industro-chemical. inequi-: from L in-, not+equi-, equal. Ex: equipotential. (The L negative is iniquus, inequus or inaequus.)

infanti-: LL infanti-, c/f of L infans (pl infantes): cf INFANT. Ex: infanticide, LL infanti-dium, child-murder (cf -cide at -cidal).

infero-, 'on the under side', as in inferobranchial (cf -branch), or 'below and', as in inferofrontal (Scil c/f from L inferus, lower). (Webster).

infinito-: for infinite; as in infinito-absolute.

inguin(o)-: from L inguen, the groin, gen inguinis for 'groin', as in inguinodynia (cf -odynia, pain) and for 'inguinal (L inguinālis) and', as in inguinocrural.

ino-: from Gr is (gen inos), muscle, akin to L musculus, ML vīs, force, strength. Ex: inogenous.

insecti-, insecto-: from L insectum, an insect: SECTION. Ex: insecticide (cf -cidal) and insectivorous, insect-eating; insectology, entomology.

inspiro-, as in inspirometer: for inspire, to inhale. integri-, integro-: c/f of and from L integer, untouched, intact—cf TACT. Ex: integrifolium, integrifferential.

intermedio-: from L intermedius, set in the middle: cf INTERMEDIARY. Ex: intermedio(-)lateral.

interno-: from L internus, internal: cf INTER. Ex: internobasal. intestini-, intestino-: the former, from L intestinum, an intestine, the latter from E intestinal and='intestinal and'. Ex: intestinform; intestines, intestines.

io- (1): Gr io-, c/f of ion, a violet, app from PGr wion*—cf the L *uio*la (ML viola). Ex: iolite (cf -lite).

io- (2); iodo-: resp c/f of iodine and c/f of Sc iodum (iodine), as in iodoform.

iono-: c/f of ion (an electrified particle: Gr ionē neu of iōn, presp of ienai, to go)—as in ionogen. Cf ionto-, as in iontophoresis, from the o/s iont- of iōn.
ipsi-, as in ipsilateral, on or affecting the same side (of the body): from L ipse, (he) himself, hence, in cpds, the same.

irano-: for 'Iranian and', as in Irano-Arabic.

iri-: for iris, as in iriscope.

iridico-, c/f of iridic; iridio- (as in iridium, platinum), c/f of the metallic element iridium. irid(o)-, c/f of Gr iris (gen iridos), a rainbow, hence the iris of the eye, as in iridophore and iridotomy. Cf IRIS.

irrito-: for irritate or irritation, as in the nervous state known to Physio as irritomotility (from motile, excessively mobile).

is-. See iso-.

isallo-=is(o)+allo-, qq.v., as in isallotherm (cf -therm).

isat(o)-: from Gr isatis, woad, perh for PGr wisatis*, akin to L uitrum, woad—cf WOAD; used as a c/f of E isatin, as in isatogen.

ischi(o)-: Gr iskhi(o)-, c/f of iskhion, hip, iskhi-, where, in the light of Skt sákthi, the thigh bone, i- is app prosthetic. Ex: ischialgia, ischio-caudal, ischiovertebral.

isch(o)-, 'suppression—stoppage—lack': Gr iskh(o)-, c/f from iskhein (s iskh-), to check or restrain, a freq of ekhein (s ekh-), to have, to hold. Exx: ischury (cf -uria), retention of urine; ischocholia, deficiency in the bile (cf chole-).

ischy(o)-: from Gr iskhus (gen iskhuos), strength, prob akin to ekhein (s ekh-), to have, to hold (cf prec). Ex: Ischyodus (cf -odus at -odon).

isidi-: c/f of isidium (from Isis), as in isidiferous or -phorous.

is(o)-: Gr iso-, c/f of isos (s is-), equal, prob from PGr wisos* and akin to Skt visu-, equally. Exx: isagon (Gr isogōnios); isandrous (cf andro-); isobar (cf -bar); isochronal or -chronous; isomeric, isomericus (cf -mer); isomorphic (cf -morph); isosceles, lit 'equal-legged', Gr isoskelēs (skelos, leg); isotherm (cf THERM); isotope (Gr topos, a place).

istio-: irreg from Gr histon, a sail (cf histio-); as in Istiophorus (cf -phorus at -phora), the genus of sailfishes and marlins.

Ital(o)-, 'Italian and': from L Italia, Italian—cf ITALIAN. Ex: Italo-Greek, Italomania.

itho-; ithy-: both (the former irreg, the latter = Gr ithu-) from Gr ithus, straight, perh akin to Skt sādhus, even, upright; as in Zoo ithomiinae (2nd element, ? Gr ōmos, the shoulder) and in ithyphallic.

ja-. See jateo-.

jaculi-: from ML jaculum, L iaculum, a dart, from iacere, to throw. Ex: jaculiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

jani-, Jani-: as in janiceps, a monster with two fused heads (L caput, head), opposite-facing, and Janiform, two-faced, as was ML Jānus, L Iānus, the spirit or quasi-god of iānuae or gates and doors—cf JANITOR.

Japano-: c/f of Japan, as in Japanology, Japanophile, Japanophobe.

jasp-; jasp-: the former from E jasper, the latter from Gr iasp(o)-, c/f of iaspis (Sem in origin), whence, via L iaspis, ML jaspis, and OF jaspe, jaspre, and ME jaspe and jaspre, the Mod E word. Exx: jaspilite (cf -lite) and jasponyx (Gr iasponyx: cf -onyx at -onycha).

jateo-, occ jato-: from Gr iatēs (usu iatēr), a physician, cf -iatric. Exx: Jateorhiza, a genus of woody vines, and jat(e)orhizine, an alkaloid derivative—cf -rhiza, -root.

There is a shortened form: ja-, as in Jatropa (adj jatrophic), an Am genus of herbs yielding medicinal oils: cf -trophia, from Gr trophē, nourishment.

[-ject, as in abject, conjecture, dejected, eject, inject, object, project, reject, subject, trajectory: ML -jectus, L -iectus, pp of -icere, the c/f of iacere, ML jacere, to throw or cast.]

jejun(o)-: c/f of 'the jejunum' or middle division of the small intestine, from ML jējūnus, L iējūnus, empty or dry, whence the E adj jejune, akin to iējentiāre, to break one's fast. Ex: jejunotomy.

Jesuito-: for Jesuit, as in Jesuitocracy, rule by Jesuits. (Cf JESUS.)

joco-, as in joco-serious, stands for E jocose.

jolli-. See jollification at JOLLY.

jovi-, 'the planet Jupiter': from ML Jovis, L Iovis, the gen of Jupiter: cf JOVE. Ex: Astr jovilabe, cf -labe.

Judaeo-, mod Judeo-: from Gr Ioudaios, Judaean, and ML Judaei, the Jews. Denoting either 'the Jews' (or 'Judaism'), as in Jud(a)eophile, or 'Jewish and', as in Jud(a)eo-Arab. Cf JEW. Occ, the irreg Judo-, as in Judophobia, a dread of (the) Jews—loosely, anti-Semitism.

Jugo- or Yugo-: Serbo-Croatian jugo-, c/f of jug, the south wind, from OSI jugū. Ex: Jugoslavia, from Jugoslav (cf Slav at SLAVE).

junci-, as in junciform, rush-like: from ML juncus, L iuncus, a rush (plant), perh akin to iungere, to join.

juris-: ML jūris (L iūris), gen of jūs (L iūs), law—cf JUST. Exx: jurisconsult, L iūrisconsultus, a man skilled in the law (cf CONSULT); jurisdiction, L iūrisdictiōn-, o/s of iūrisdictiō (cf DICATION); jurisprudence, L iūrisprudentia (cf PRUDENCE).

justi-. See justify at JUST.

kak(o)-. A rare var of caco-, bad; as in kakidrosis, which = kak(o) + Gr hidr(ōs), sweat + suffix -osis. Cf:

kakisto-: from Gr kakistos, worst, sup of kakos (cf prec). Ex: kakistocracy (cf -cracy), rule, control, government, by the worst people.

kali-, as in kaliform, kaligenous (cf -genous at gen): kali (Ar qili), short for ALKALI.

kal(o)-. See calo- at calli-. Ex: kaleidoscope (adj -scopic), which = kal(o) + Gr eido(s), form + -scope.

karyo-. See caryo-. Ex: karyogenesis (cf GENESIS).

katharo-: from Gr katharos, pure, akin to katharsis, E catharsis, purification, from kathairein, to cleanse: kath-, q.v. at prefix cata- + hairein, to take (away). Ex: katharometer (cf -meter), used in determining the composition of a gas.

kel-. A rare frontal form, answering to -cele. Ex: kelectomy (cf -ectomy at -tome).

ken(o)-. See the 2nd ceno-.

kentro-: from Gr kentron, a point—cf centri-. Ex: kentrolite (cf -lite).

kera-, kerato. See -cera.

kerauno-. See cerau-no-. Ex: keraunograph.

kero-: from Gr kēros (s kēr-), wax, akin to L cēra. Exx: kerogen (cf -gen) and kerosene (cf the Chem suffix -ene).

keto-: c/f of ketone (G Keton, aphetic for F acétone: cf ACID + Chem suffix -one). Ex: keto-genesis.

kilo-: adopted from F, from Gr khilioi, 1000, akin to L mille. Exx: kilocycle, kilogram(me), kilometre (or -meter), kilowatt.

kinesi-; 2, -kinesia; 3, -kinesis; 4, -kinetic; 5, kineto-; 6, kin(o)-: resp Gr kinēsi-, c/f of kinēsis, movement; 2, Gr -kinēsia, end-element from kinēsis; 3, Gr kinēsis; 4, -kinetic, c/f of kinetic, from Gr kinētikos, of or by movement; 5, from Gr kinētos, moving (lit, moved), kinētos being the pp of kinēin, s kin-, to move; 6, kino- derives from kinēin.

The s kin- is an extension of ki-, s of kiein, to go;

IE r, ki* or qi*, cf the -ci- of L accītus, a summons, cf acciēre, to summon (ad+cīre or ciēre). (Hofmann.)

Exx: kinesimeter, a movement-measuring instrument; hyperkinesia or -kinesis, an unduly or abnormally increased movement (of the muscles); chemokinesis, an activity, increased by a chemical agent, of free-moving organisms, with adj chemokinetic; kinetogenic, tending to originate, or in fact originating, movement—cf kinetogenesis, dynamic(al) evolution; kinology, kinoplasm (cf -plasm), kinospore (cf -spora).

Cf the entry at cine-.

-klept; klepto-: Gr kleptēs, a thief; Gr klepto-, c/f of kleptēs, denoting, in E, either 'thief' or usu 'theft': either deriving from or intimately akin to klepein (s klept-), to steal, akin to L clepere, to steal, and Go hlifan and E lift. Exx: biblioklept, a book-thief; kleptomania, a mania for, and kleptophobia, a dread of, theft.

kono-. See coni(o)- at conidio-.

-kont, denoting in Bot 'flagellum' (a cell's whip-like process): Gr kontos (s kont-), a pole or staff, from or akin to kenteō (s kent-), I prick; cognates in Celtic and elsewhere; IE r, kent-*, to prick.

krato-. A var, now rare, of crato-, q.v. at -crat.

krit(o)-: from Gr kritēs, a discernor, critic, judge: cf CRITIC. Ex: kriarchy (cf -archy), the Judges' government of Israel.

kryo-. A var of cryo-.

krypto-. A rare var of crypto-.

kymo-. See, at cymi-, the now much-preferred cymo-.

kypho-. See cypho-.

kyto-. Now rare for -cyto, q.v. at -cyte.

-labe, 'implement or instrument': Gr labon, 'anything that handles', c/f of labon, neu of labōn, presp of lambanein, to grasp, to take: lamb- (nasalized lab-) + -an-, extension or modification + -ein, inf suffix: IE r, lab(h)-*. Ex: astrolabe, (lit) a star-grasper—it determines the positions of stars (cf astro- at -aster); hence jovilabe, q.v. at jovi-. Cf labido-.

labe-: L labe-, c/f of labāre, to totter, freq(?) of lābī, to slip, to fall. Ex: labefy, to weaken (v.t.), from L labefacere, pp labefactus, whence the rare adj labefact, weakened, and the rare v labefact, to labefy. Cf LAPSE.

labid(o)-: from labid-, o/s of Gr labis (gen labidos), a pair of forceps (cf -labe). Exx: labidophorous (cf -phorous at -phora), bearing—hence, possessing—organs resembling forceps; Labidura (cf -ura), a genus of earwigs.

labio-: from L labium, usu in pl; akin to L labra, lips, and to E LIP. It denotes either 'lips', as in labiograph and labiomancy (lip-reading), labioplasty, or 'labial (ML labiālis, of the lip or lips) and', as in labiodental, labionasal, labiovelar.

labro-: from Gr labros, fierce, perh akin to lab-, the aorist s of lambanein: cf -labe; as in Labrosaurus, a ferocious dinosaur.

labyrinthi-, labyrintho-: the former from L labyrinthus, the latter from its source, the G laburinthos: cf LABYRINTH.

lacerti-, as in lacertiform: from L lacerta, a lizard: cf LIZARD.

lachn(o)-: from Gr lakhnē (or lakhnos), soft fine hair, down. Exx: Bot Lachnanthes (cf -anth flower); Zoo Lachnosterna (cf sterno-).

lachrymi-, lachrymo-: from L lacrima, earlier lacruma for dacruma, akin to Hellenistic G dakruma, with cognates in several IE languages IE r, dakru-*. The spelling lachryma is faulty, but at one time common, as in Lachryma Christi, from ML. Exx: lachrymiform, tear-shaped; lachrymogenic (-genic, q.v. at -gen), lachrymonasal. Cf lachrymatory (suffix -atory) and lachrymose (L lacrimōsus).

lacini-, as in laciniform: from L lacinia, a lappet app akin to L lacer, torn, lacerated.

laco-: from Gr lakkos, a pond or a tank: cf LAKE. Ex: Lacosomatidae, which = laco- + somat(o), q.v. at -soma + suffix -idae.

lacti-; lact(o)-: LL lacti-, c/f of L lac (gen lactis), milk, akin to Gr galata, gen galaktos, cf GALAXY; lacto-, by analogy with other -o- c/ff. Exx: lactiferous, milk-yielding, and lactific, milk-producing; lactoscope, lactovegetarian.

laemo-. See the 1st lemo-.

laeo-, '(to) the left': from Gr laios (s lai-), left on the left, akin to L laeuus (ML laevus). Ex: laeotropic, sinistral.

laevo-. See levo-.

-lagnia, only in Med and Psy: from Gr lagneia, coition, lust, from lagnos, lustful, akin to Gr lagaros, relaxed, languorous, and L languēre, to be languorous, emotionally relaxed. Ex: osmolagnia (cf osmo- at -osma).

lag(o)-: Gr lag(o)-, c/f of lagōs, a hare, lit 'the slack-eared'—cf lagaros, slack, flabby, and ous, ear. Exx: lagophthalmos (or -mus), inability of eye(s) to fully close—'from the notion that a hare sleeps with his eyes open' (Webster); lagopodous, hare-footed (cf -pod); lagostoma, hare-lip (cf -stoma).

laimo-. See the 1st lemo-.

-lalia; lalo-: both adopted from Gr: from Gr lalia, talk, chatter, prattle, and lalos, babbling, prattle, akin to L lallāre, to prattle, and deriving, ult, from exclamatory la-la—cf lullaby at LULL. Exx: Eulalia, (she of the) fair speech; in Med, denoting a (specified kind of) speech-disorder, as in bradylalia, excessively slow or sluggish (cf brady-) speech; laloneurosis, a speech-neurosis; lalloplegia, loss (-plegia)—through paralysis—of the power to speak.

lamelli-, 'lamellate' (consisting of thin layers, sheets, leaves, plates): from L lamella, dim of lamina, sheet, leaf—cf next. Exx: lamellicorn, a beetle with plated antennae; lamelliferous; lamelliform.

lamin(i)-: from L lāmīna, sheet or thin layer (usu of metal), hence a flake, a plate; perh akin to ON lamar, a hinge. Exx: laminiferous, laminiform, laminipantar (-plantar). Cf prec.

lampadé-: Gr lampadē-, c/f of lampas (gen lampados), a torch: cf next. Ex: lampadephore (Gr lampadēphoros), torch-bearer (cf -phora).

lampr(o)-: Gr lampr(o)-, c/f of lampros, shining, bright, clear—cf LAMP. Exx: lamprophony, clear ringing speech; lamprophyre (-phyre), basalt containing bright flakes. Cf prec.

lanci-: for lance; as in lanciform, lance-shaped.

lani-; lan(o)-: L lani-, E lano- on Gr model: c/f of L lāna, wool, akin to Doric Gr lanos, Attic lēnos—to Av varna- (Skt ūrṇā)—and to OSi vlūna. Exx: laniferous, from L lānifer, and lanific, from L lānificus; lanoceric (cf ceri-) and lanolin (lan-+-ol-+Chem suffix -in, -ine). Cf delaine, from F de laine, of wool.

lanthan(o)-; lantho-: from Gr lanthanein (s lanthan-, r lanth-, IE r lat-*), to lie hidden: cf LATENT. Ex: Lanthanotus; lanthopine.

lapar(o)-, 'the flank, (loosely) the abdominal wall' (Med and Surg): from Gr lapara, the flank (a hollow part of the body), akin to Gr lapathos, a hollow, a cavity. Exx: laparoscopy, laparotomy and laparectomy.

lapidi-: from lapid-, o/s of L lapis (gen lapidis), a stone; lapis is o.o.o. Exx: lapidicolous, living (cf -colous) under stones; lapidiferous, from L lapidifer, stone-bearing; lapidific (cf -fic). Cf dilapidate.

lapilli-, as in lapilliform: from L lapillus, dim of lapis—cf prec.

largi-, as in largifical, generous (cf -fical at -fic): L largi-, c/f of largus, abundant: cf LARGE.

laryng(o)-: adopted from Gr, c/f of larunx (gen larungos), the larynx, orig echoic. Exx: laryngograph, laryngology, laryngoscope.

-later; -latría or -latry; -latrous: resp Gr -latrēs, worship, via L -latría and then, for E -latry, via F -latríe; latr-+E adj suffix -ous. Exx: bibliolater, bibliolatry, bibliolatrous, cf biblio-; idolater, idolatry, idolatrous, cf IDOL.

lateri-, latero-: c/ff, the latter in Sci only, of L latus (gen lateris), side, perh akin to L lātus, wide, broad. Exx: latericumbent, lying on one's or its side; laterifloral, having lateral flowers; laterigrade, sideways-running, as do crabs and certain spiders; -latero-abdominal, lateroposition, laterotorsion.

lati-: L lāt-, c/f of lātus, wide, broad: cf LATITUDE. Exx: laticlave (LL lāticlāvus, ML -clāvus), a broad stripe; laticostate, broad-ribbed; lātifundium (L), a large country estate.

latici-: from L latex, a fluid, gen laticis, perh akin to Gr latax. Ex: laticiferous, bearing latex in its Bot sense.

-latrous; -latry. See -later.

lauri-, 'laurel'; laur(o)-, 'lauric acid' (derived from laurel berries): from L laurus (s laur-), laurel: cf LAUREL. Ex: laurotetanine (cf TETANUS).

laxi-, 'loose', hence 'scattered', as in laxiflorous: from L laxus, loose—cf LAX.

lecan(o)-: from Gr lekanē (later, lak-), akin to syn L lanx (gen lancis): IE r, perh lek-*, to bend or bow, to curve or be curved. Ex: lecanomancy, divination (-mancy) by basin-water, and lecanoscopy, a fixed gazing at basin-water.

lechri(o)-: from Gr lekhrios, oblique; IE r *(e)lek-. Ex: Lechriodonta, a genus of salamanders with teeth (cf -odon) set obliquely.

-lecithal; lecith(o)-: c/f of lecithal, having a yolk; and of lecithin, which=lecith(al)+the Chem suffix -in; lecithal comes from Gr lekithos, a yolk—app a term imported into Gr. Exx: homolecithal, having a uniformly (cf homo-) distributed yolk; lecithoprotein.

leco-: from Gr lekos, a dish, akin to L lanx, a plate. Ex: lecotropal (cf -tropical), shaped like a horseshoe.

lecto-, as in lectotype: from Gr lektos, chosen, pp of legein, to pick, to select: cf the -lect in collect, elect, select, and the c/ff -lege (2) and -lexia.

-lege (1), as in privilege, comes from L lex, a law, gen legis, o/s leg-; cf LEGAL.

-lege (2), as in florilege and sacrilege, comes from L legere (s leg-), to gather—cf LEGEND for cognates. Thus, florilegium or (cf F florilège) florilege, from L florilegus, (lit) flower-culling, (hence) an anthology, the L term being, indeed, prompted by Gr anthologia; and sacrilege, adopted from OF, from L sacrilegium, from sacrilegus, a gatherer—hence, a stealer—of sacred things.

legi-, lego-: from L lēx (gen lēgis), law: cf LEGAL. Exx: legific (cf -fic), law-making; lego-literary.

leio-, occ lio-: from Gr leios (s lei-), smooth, IE s lei-*, smooth. Exx: leiodermatous, smooth-skinned (cf -derm); Leiotrichi, the smooth-haired peoples (cf -trichia).

-lemma; lemmo-: c/ff from Gr lemma, rind, husk, app for lep+-ma, n-suffix: IE r lep-*, to remove the rind or husk from, occurs in Gr lepein (s lep-), to peel, to husk. Exx: as 'sheath' in An axilemma (cf axi-); as 'neurilemma' (outer sheath of a nerve-fibre) in lemmocyte (cf -cyte). Cf lepido-.

lemo- (1); earlier laemo-, L form; earliest, laimo-, Gr form: Gr laimo-, c/f of laimos, the gullet (esophagus), s laim-, perh an extension of IE r lei-*. Ex: laemo(-)paralysis.

lemo- (2). A var of loimo-, q.v.

lemuri-, as in lemuriform, lemur-like: cf LEMUR.

lenti-: L lēni-, c/f lēnis, soft, mild, s lēn-, cf LENIENT. Exx: lenify, to soften; in Pharm it denotes 'lenitive'.

lenti-: from L lens (gen lentis), a lentil; hence, in E, it denotes either 'lentil', as in lentiform, or derivatively 'lens' (cf LENS), as in lentigerous.

leon-, leont(o)-: c/ff of Gr leōn (gen leontos), a lion—cf LION. Exx: Leontotis, a SciL term from leōn+ous (gen ōtos), ear; leontiasis, leprosy rendering the face leonine in appearance and size—cf -iasis above; leontocephalous, lion-headed.

lepid(o)-: Gr lepid(o)-, c/f of lepis, a scale, gen lepidos; IE r, lep-, to peel or husk: cf -lemma. Exx: lepidolite, a scaly mica (cf -lite); Lepidoptera (cf -ptera), butterflies and moths, usu scaly-winged—hence lepidopterology. Cf:

lepo-: from Gr lepos, a rind or husk or scale: cf prec and -lemma. Exx: lepyocyte (-cyte)—lepospondylous (Gr spondulos, a vertebra)—lepothrix (cf -thrix).

lepori- from lepor-, the o/s of L lepus, a hare. Ex: leporiform.

lepr(o)-: c/f of Gr lepra, leprosy—cf LEPER. Ex: leprology.

-lepsia, -leptis, -lepsy; -lept; -leptic; -leptia is the SciL (from Gr -lepsia), -leptis a Grecized form (the Gr being -lēpsis), -lepsy (via F -leptie) the E form, denoting 'a seizure'; -lept, n from Gr pa-lēptos; -leptic, adj, = -lept + suffix -ic. From or akin to Gr lambanein (cf -labe). Exx: cataleptis (prefix cata-), now catalepsy, from Gr katalēptis—catalept, from Gr katalēptos, seized—cataleptic, LL catalēpticus, Gr katalēptikos; nympholeptia, nympholepsy = nympho- + -lepsy—nympholept, n from Gr nympholēptos, caught or seized by nymphs—hence, nympholeptic.

lept(o)-: Gr lept(o)-, c/f of leptos in senses 'small, weak, delicate, thin, fine': s lept-, perh an extension or modification of IE lep-*: ? cf L lepidus, graceful; but cf lepo-. Exx: leptocephalus, one who has an exceptionally narrow skull (cf cephalo-); leptodermous, thin-skinned (-derm); leptometer, used in oil-testing; leptotene (-tene).

-less stands midway between suffix and element. Here the less it represents is the adj LESS: OE -lēas, from independent lēas, akin to E LOSE. Exx: from nn, childless, witless—countless: from vv, ceaseless, dauntless, tireless.

-lestes; lesto-: from Gr leistēs, a robber, akin to leia, booty, L lucrum, profit, and Skt lōtram, booty. Exx: Zoo, Pal Caenolestes (cf caeno- at ceno-), a genus of carnivorous marsupials; lestobiosis (lesto- + bi(o)- + suffix -osis), emphasizing theft of food.

lethi-, as in lethiferous (L lēthifer, for lētifer), death-bringing: from L lētum, death: o.o.o.

letho-: Gr lētho-, c/f of lēthē, forgetfulness—cf LETHE. In E cpds it denotes 'forgetting', as in lethologica, a strong tendency to forget words.

Letto-, 'Lettish and': for Leti, as in Letto-Slavic.

leuc(o)-: Gr leuk(o)-, c/f of leukos, white, s leuk-, akin to L lūc-, o/s of lūx, light, and s of lūcet, it is light: cf LUCID. Exx: leucanthus, white-flowered (cf -anth); leucocyte (-cyte), a white blood-corpuscle; leucophanite (cf -phane), a mineral having glass-like crystals; leucorrh(o)ea.

leur(o)-: from Gr leuros, smooth, s leur-. Only in Zoo generic names.

levo-, mod form of laevo-: from ML laevus, L laeus, akin to Gr laios (cf laeo-), situated on the left. Denoting 'on or to the left' (in Chem, 'levorotatory'), it occurs in, e.g., l(a)evoduction—l(a)evo-rotation (adj, -rotatory), rotation to the left (anti-clockwise); l(a)evoversion.

-lexia; lexi-: from Gr lexis, speech, from legein, to speak (s leg-). The former occurs only in Med and Psy, as in bradylexia; the latter in e.g. lexigraphy, the art of defining words, and lexiphanic (cf -phane), bombastic. Cf:

lexico-: Gr lexiko-, c/f of lexikon, a vocabulary, elliptical for lexikon biblion, a word-book; lexikon, is the neu of lexikos, the adj of lexis—therefore cf prec.

libero-; liberti-: c/f of liberating, adj, and of liberty; cf LIBERAL. Exx: libero-motor, adj liberticide.

libo-: irreg for libano-, from Gr libanos, a frankincense tree. Ex: Libocedrus (Gr kedros cedar).

libri-: from L liber (gen libri), a book, (orig inner bark, hence bast. Ex: libriform. Cf LIBEL).

libro-: from L liber (gen liberi), free. Ex: libero-plast (cf -plast at -plasm).

Libyo-: from Libya, itself from Gr Libuē, i denotes 'Libyan and'. Ex: Libyo-Phoenician.

licheni, lichn(o)-: c/f of lichen, as in lichenivorous, lichen-eating, and lichenology.

lichno-: from Gr likhnos, greedy, akin to Skt lēdhi, to lick, and nasalized L lingere; IE r, ligh-* or lig-*. Ex: Zoo Lichnophora (cf -phora).

lien(o)-: from L liēn, the spleen, akin (? by psilosis) to L splēn, from Gr splēn: cf SPLEEN. Ex: lienogastric, of the spleen and stomach.

ligni, lign(o)-: from L lignum, wood, s, lign- modification of lig-, from IE leg-, to gather: cf LEGEND. Exx: ligniferous, lignivorous; lignography, wood-engraving.

liguli, 'ligulate' (strap-shaped): c/f of ligule, a strap, L ligula, ? confused with lingula, a little lingua or tongue, e.g. of leather. Ex: liguliflorous.

-like (cf -less) stands midway between element and suffix: ult of the same origin as the adj LIKE. Cf -ful (here treated as a suffix) for FULL.

lili-: c/f of LILY; cf the lili- of L liliētum, a lily-garden. Ex: liliform.

limaci-: from L limāx (gen limācis), a slug. Ex: limaciform. Perh cf:

limbi-: from L limbus, hem or border: cf LIMBO. Ex: limbiferous.

limi- (1); limo-: L limi-, c/f of limus, mud, s lim-, IE r lei-* (cf Gr leimōn, a wet field, a water meadow); limo-, app from Gr limo- for leimo- from leimōn. Exx: limicolous (cf -colous), living in mud, and limivorous, mud-eating; Bot Limodorum, Gr l(e)imodoron, 'gift of the water meadow'.

limi- (2), loose for limito-, LL limito-, limi-, c/f of L limes, as in limitrophe, adopted from F, from LL limitrophus, from regular limitotrophus, a hybrid of L limes, a boundary, gen limitis (cf LIMIT) and Gr -trophos, from trephein, to nourish.

limn(i)-, loose for limn(o)-: Gr limn(o)-, c/f of limnē, pool, marshy lake, marsh—perh cf limi- (1). Exx: limnobiology, the science of freshwater life; limnimeter, better limnometer, an instrument measuring lake-levels; limnology; limnophilous.

limo-. See the 1st limi-.

linei-, lineo-, 'line'—as in lineiform, lineograph, and 'linear and'—as in lineocircular: from L linea, line: cf LINE.

lingul-; linguli-; linguo-: c/f from L lingua, the tongue; (linguli-) c/f from lingula, its dim; (linguo-) irreg E c/f of lingua, used to denote either 'the tongue' or 'lingual and' or 'lingually': cf LINGUAL. Exx: linguipotence, mastery of languages; linguliform; linguopalatal.

lino- (1): c/f of E line, as in linometer and linotype.

lino- (2): c/f from L linum (s lin-: cf LINEN), lax, as in Linanthus (cf -anth, -flower) and linoleum. lio-. See leio-.

lipar(o)-: Gr lipar(o)-, c/f of liparos, oily, fatty, from lipos, fat, s lip-, perh from an IE r leip-*, to smear. Ex: liparocela. Cf:

lip(o)- (1): Gr lip(o)-, c/f of lipos, fat: see prec. Ex: lipocardiac, lipogenetic.

lipo- (2): Gr lipo-, c/f of leipesthai (s leip-), to be lacking, cf leipein, to leave, abandon, to fail (v.t.); aorist s, -lip-; IE r, perh leik-* or lik-*, nasalized in L linquere (s linq-). Ex: lipogram, a writing, a word, not possessing a certain letter, cf lipography, writing or word from which a letter or a syllable has been unwittingly omitted; lipotype, a plant, an animal, of a type always absent from a region; lipoxenus (in Bot), host-deserting (cf xeno-).

lipsano-: from Gr leipsanon, a relic (something left behind: cf the 2nd lipo-). Ex: lipsanographer, lipsanotheca (cf -theca).

lique-; liqui-: c/f from L liquere, to be liquid, as in liquefy (cf -fy); (liqui- rare and irregular, as in liquiform, for E liquid or L liquidus: cf LIQUID. The rare liquido- merely represents E liquid, as in liquidogenous, liquid-forming).

lirelli-: from lirella, a SciL dim from L lira, a furrow—cf DELIRIUM. Ex: Bot lirelliform. lirio-: from Gr leirion, a lily: cf LILY. Ex: Liriodendron (cf dendra).

liro-: from Gr leiros (s leir-), pale: IE r, perh lei-*. Ex: the Min liroconite (cf conio- at conidio-).

liss(o)-: from Gr lissos, smooth, cf syn lispos, lisphos: IE r, ? lis-*. Ex: Bio Lisencephala (liss- + Gr enkephalos, the brain); lissotrichous, straight-haired (cf tricho-).

-lite, n, and its adj -litic; -lith, n, and adj -lithic; lith(o)-: F -lite, from -lithē, from Gr lithos, a stone, whence, occ via F -lithe, the E -lith, whence (prompted by Gr lithikos, stony) -lithic; lith(o)-, adopted from Gr; IE s, prob lith-*. Ex: dendrolite, a fossil plant (cf dendro-); monolith (mono-), monolithic; litharge, via OF from L lithargyrus, from Gr lithargyros (Gr argyros, silver); lithogenesis; lithography, the art of writing or designing on stone; lithology; lithophagous (cf -phaga); lithotomy; lithotype.

lithio-: for lithium (from lithos): see prec.

litho-. See -lite.

liti-: SciL c/f from Gr litos, smooth, plain, straightforward, akin to Gr leios, smooth, even, L leuis; IE r, lei-*. Ex: Zoo Litiopa (Gr opē, an opening). Also lito-, from litos; as in Pal Litopterna (Gr pterna, heel).

-litic. See -lite.

lito-. See liti-.

litul-: from L lituus, a curved staff, and for Math lituus. Ex: lituiform.

liturgio-: for E liturgy or LL liturgia; esp liturgiology.

-lobate(d), lobato-; lobi-, lobo-, -lobus: c/f of lobate, having or resembling lobes; (lobi-) c/f of SciL lobus (whence obviously -lobus), from Gr lobos, whence lobo-: cf LOBE. Ex: equilobate; lobato-digitate; lobiped; lobotomy; Gonolobus.

lochio-: c/f of lochia (Med), from Gr lokhia, n from neu pl of lokhios, of or in childbirth: akin to LIE, to be prostrate. Ex: lochiorrh(o)ea.

loco-: from L locus, a place, cf LOCAL. Ex: locodescriptive; locomotive, (something) that moves from place to place.

-log. An Am var of -logue, q.v. at -loger.

logarithmo-: c/f of logarithm (cf arithmetical), lit 'an account', hence 'an indicator'—of number. Cf:

1, -loger; 2, -logia; 3, -logian; 4, -logic(al); 5, -logist; 6, -logue; 7, -logy; 8, log(o)-: 1, L -logus (or -logia) + agential suffix -er, as in chronologer (cf chrono- at -chrone) and philologer; 2, L -logia, from or after Gr -logia, from legein, to speak (cf LOGIC), as in apologia; 3, E suffix -an added to L or Gr -logia, as in philologia and theologia; 4, Gr -logikos (often via L -logicus), the adj corresponding to -logia (but itself paralleling Gr logikos), as in astrological, geologic(al), philological, theological; 5, -log(y) + agential suffix -ist, as in geologist and philologist; 6, via F from L -logus or direct from Gr -logos, as in dialogue, but now esp as in travelogue; 7, F -logie, from or after L -logia, itself from or after Gr -logia—cf (2) above—as in astrology, geology, philology, theology, although in, e.g., martyrology (ML martyrologium), the origin is L -logium, from or after Gr -logion, as in seismologion, whence, ult, seismology; 8, logo-, or, before a vowel, log-: Gr log(o)-, c/f of logos, word, speech or a discourse, thought, from legein, to say, as in logodaedaly (Gr logodaidalia), verbal trick, 'jeu de mots'—logogriph, a riddle (Gr griphos, fishing-net, hence—through difficulty of freeing oneself from one—a riddle)—logorrh(o)ea, a flow of words—logotype.

loimo-: Gr loimo-, c/f of loimos (s loim-), a plague, hence (in E) a pestilence, prob akin to Gr limos, hunger. Ex: loimology.

lonch(o)-: Gr lonkh(o)-, c/f of lonkhē, a lance ('the long [weapon]'). Ex: Lonchocarpus. Cf:

longi-; longo-: resp L longi-, c/f of longus, long, and longo-, app only in LL Longobardi. Ex: longicorn (L cornu, horn), long-horned, or -antenna'd; longiloquence, long-windedness; longirostrine, long-jawed (cf rostri-). Cf LONG.

lophi(o)- and loph(o)-; -lophus: Gr lophi(o)-, c/f of lophion, a small crest, the dim of lophos (a crest), whence loph(o)- and -lophus. Ex: Lophimys (Gr mus, mouse); lophodont, having teeth (cf -odon) with ridges ('crests') on grinding surfaces; lophophore (cf -phora); Conolophus (cf cono- at -cone).

lopo-: from Gr lopos, husk, shell (cf LEPO-, q.v.). Ex: lopolith, a stone with a basin-shaped base.

-loquence; -loquent; -loquy: L -loquentia; -loquent, the c/f of presp loquens, speaking; -loquium: all from loqui (s loq-), to speak. See esp ELOQUENCE. Ex: grandiloquence (cf grandi-), -loquent; SOLILOQUY.

loti-; loto-: the former from L lotius, the latter from its source, the Gr lōtos, from H lōt. Ex:

lotiform and Lotophagi, the Lotos-eaters (cf -phaga).

lox(o)-: Gr lox(o)-, c/f of loxos, oblique, perh answering to an IE s loks-*, extension of r lok-; prob cf Gr lekhrios, crooked. Exx: loxocosm (cf COSMIC); loxodromic (cf -drome); loxotomy (in Surg).

lubri-, as in the rare lubrify (F lubrifier), cf -fy: from L lubricus, slippery, lecherous. Cf LUBRICITY.

luci-: L lūci-, c/f of lūx (gen lucis), light: cf LUCID, Exx: Lucifer, the light-bringer, cf lucifer, light-making; lucifugous, light-fleeing or -avoiding; lucimeter.

lucri-: L lucri-, c/f of lucrum, monetary gain—cf LUCRE. Ex: lucrific, profitable.

lucti-: L lucti-, c/f of luctus, sorrow: cf LUGUBRIOUS. Ex: luctiferous, sorrow-bringing (cf -ferus at fer).

ludi-: L ludi-, c/f of ludus, sport, a game: cf -lude, in allude, delude, etc. Ex: ludification, from L ludificatio.

ludicro-: c/f of ludicrous, as in ludicro-pathetic.

lumb(o)-, 'the loin' or 'of the loin and': from L lumbus (s lumb-), the loins. Exx: lumbo-abdominal, lumbodynia (cf -odnyia).

lumbri(-), as in lumbri(-)form, worm-like: from L lumbicus, an earthworm.

lumini-, lumino-: the former the true, the latter an analogous c/f of L lūmen, light, s lūm-, cf L lūx and E LUMINOUS. Exx: luminiferous, yielding (cf -fer) or producing light; luminologist, a student of luminescence.

luni-: from L lūna, the moon: cf LUNACY. Exx: luniform, moon-shaped; 'lunar and': lunisolar, lunital.

lupi-: from L lupus, a wolf, hence the skin-disease lupus; akin to Gr lukos (cf lyco-). Exx: lupicide, lupiform.

luteo-: from L luteus, brownish or orange-yellow, prob akin to lūridus (cf LURID). Exx: (Bot) luteo-fulvous, orange-tawny; (Chem) luteo-cobaltic, a yellow cobaltic (salt).

lychno-: Gr lukhno-, c/f of lukhnos, a lamp, lukhn- being an extension of lukh-*, akin to Gr leukos (s leuk-), shining, bright: cf LUCID. Exx: lychnomancy (Gr lukhnomanti(e)ia); lychnoscope, a side window placed low down.

lyco-: before a vowel, lyc-: Gr luk(o)-, c/f of lukos (s luk-), a wolf, akin to L lupus (s lup-: cf lupi- above); IE luk(u)os*, var ulqhos* (cf the E WOLF). Exx: lycanthropy (Gr lukanthrōpia), in witchcraft the assumption of a wolf's form and characteristics, but in Med that kind of insanity in which the person (cf anthropo-) thinks he is a wolf; lycopod, a wolf's-foot (-pod) or club moss.

lygo-: from Gr lugos, a willow twig. Ex: Lygosoma (cf -soma), a slender lizard.

lymphangi(o)-: c/f of lymphangial, of the lymphatic vessels (lymph-+angi(o), q.v. above). Ex: lymphangiectomy (cf -tomy at -tome). Cf:

lymphato-; lymph(o)-: resp the c/f of lymphatic, as in lymphatolysis, and the c/f of lymph, from L lymphā, from Gr numphē (cf NYMPH), as in lymphagogue (-agogue), a substance increasing the flow of lymph, and lymphology, the study or science of the lymphatic system.

ly(o)-: from Gr luein (s lu-), to loose or free, to dissolve: cf, therefore, -lyse. Exx: lyncecephalous, adj of Zoo Lyencephala (Gr enkephalos, the brain: en, in+kephalē, the head); lyophile and lyophobic, in Colloid Chem. Cf -lyse.

lypo-: from Gr lupē, grief, with cognates in Ru, Lith, Skt, and prob IE r leup-* or lup-*. Ex: lypothymia (cf -thymia).

lyri-: c/f of lyre, as in lyriform: cf LYRIC, of which the c/f is lyrico-.

1, -lyse or 2, -lyze; 3, -lysis; 4, -lyst; 5, -lyte; 6, -lytic;—7, lys(i)-: 1, from F -lyser (from L); 2, from L -lizāre, from Gr -lisis, from luisis, a loosing, freeing, dissolving, from luein (s lu-), to free, IE r lu-*; 3, L -lysis, Gr -luisis; 4, F -lyste (from -lyse, for L -lysis); 5, either from Gr -lutēs, denoting 'agent' (a looser, freer, dissolver) as in litholyte, or from Gr -lutos, denoting '(something) freed, dissolved', as in electrolyte; 6, L -lyticus, Gr -lutikos, from lutikos, tending to loose, to free, to dissolve;—7, L lys(i)- or its Gr original, lus(i)-, c/f of luisis (SciL lysis).

Exx: analyse or -lyze, F analyser (from analyse, analysis); analysis, ML analysis, Gr analusis, from analuein, to unloose (prefix ana+ luein, to loose); analyst (F analyse) and, by analogy, catalyst; catalyte; analytic, ML analyticus, Gr analutikos, and catalytic; lysigenic or -genous (cf -genic, -genous at -gen) and lysimeter.

Cf LOSE.

lyso-: for Biochem lysin, as in lysogenesis. Cf prec.

lyso-: from Gr lussa (Attic lutta, whence L lytta, adopted by SciE), madness, whence E lyssa, rabies, whence lyssophobia, a morbid fear of hydrophobia. The Gr lussa may derive from an IE r leu-* or lu-*, to be agitated (Boisacq).

lyxo-: c/f of lyxose (anagram of xylose), an artificial sugar.

-lyze. See -lyse.

machairo-: from Gr makhaira, dagger, cutlass, akin to Gr makhomai (s makh-), I fight; perh akin to Sp, hence E, machete; IE r, prob magh-*. Ex: Pal Machairodus (cf -odus at -odon, -tooth).

-machia, -macy; macho-: resp the L and the E (occ via F -machie) form of Gr -makhia, c/f of makhē, a battle (whence the c/f macho-), hence also contest or warfare; cf makhomai (s makh-), I fight; perh akin to Gr megas (s meg-) and L magnus, great, cf Skt majmán (s maj-), greatness. Exx: logomachy (Gr logomakhia), a battle (or war) of words (cf -loger); tauromachy (Gr tauromakhia), a bullfight, or bullfighting, cf tauro-; machopolyp, a defensive zooid.

machino-: for machine, as in machinofacture, an article made by machine—opp manufacture.

macho-. See -machia.

macr(o)-: Gr makr(o)-, c/f of makros (s makr-), long in space or in time, akin to L macer (s mac-), lean, and Hit makhanza (s mak-), lean. Exx: (Bot, Zoo) 'elongated', as in macrocarpous (cf -carpous at -carp) and macrosepalous, with very long sepals; (An, Med) 'excessive development (of)', as in macrocephalous, having an unusually large head; (mostly in Bio) 'larger-sized unit (within a specified type)', as in macrocyte (cf -cyte).

maculi-, maculo-: from L macula, a spot, a small stain or discoloration. Cf IMMACULATE. Exx: maculiferous, spotted; maculo(-)cerebral.

madre-, as in madrepore (cf -pore), whence the subsidiary c/f madrepori-: It madre, mother, from L māter (cf mātri-), as in It madrepora, F madrépore, E madrepore.

magico-, 'magical and': for magic, as in magico-religious.

magiro-: from Gr mageiros (s mageir-), a cook; prob basic idea, 'to knead'; as in magirology = magirics (Gr ta mageirika, cooks' matters), the art of cooking.

magna-. See magni-.

magn(e)-. See magneto-.

magneso-: for magnesium, as in magnesioferrite. magneto-: c/f of magnetic and denoting 'magnetic force', as in magnetometer, or 'magnetic', as in magneto-electric, or 'magneto-electric', as in magneto(-)telephone. Cf MAGNET. Less common is Faraday's magn(e)-, as in magnecrystalline and magnelectric.

magn(i)-; (?) only in cinematics, magna-; (?) only in Min, magno-: L magn(i)-, c/f of magnus, great: cf MAGNITUDE. Exx: magnanimous, L magnanimus, lit 'of a great animus or mind'; magnification, magnificent; magniloquence (L magniloquentia), grandiloquence;—magnascope;—magnochromite.

maha-, as in Mahabharata ('The Great Story')—Mahadeva ('the great god')—maharaja ('the great ruler or king'), f maharani—mahatma ('the great soul', hence 'the great-soul'd', 'the wise')—Mahavamsa ('The Great Chronicle')—Mahayana ('the great vehicle'), the theistic form of Buddhism: Skt mahā, great, akin to L magnus.

makro-. A rare var of macro-.

mal-, evilly: F mal: cf male-.

-malacia; malac(o)-: from Gr malakia, softness, from malakos, soft, whence Gr malak(o)-, whence E malac(o)-, which, however, occ derives from Gr malakia (neupl), molluscs; IE s, malak-* or melak-, perh an extension of IE r mel-; ? cf L mollis, soft. Exx: osteomalacia, a bone-softening disease, cf osteo-; malacodermous, soft-skinned (cf -derm); malacology, the science of molluscs.

malario-: for malaria, as in malariology.

Malayo-, 'Malayan and': c/f from Malay.

male-, evil(ly): L male, evilly: cf malign at MALICE.

mallei-, malleo-: c/ff of L malleus, a mallet, a hammer, perh 'a popular adaptation of Gr μάλκις' (E & M), apple-tree, but prob rather a native Italic word. Exx: malleiform; malleo-incudal.

mallo- (1): from Gr mallon, more, the comp of mala, very, akin to L multus, n multum, much.

Ex: malloseismic, more (than is customary) subject to earthquakes—cf -seismic.

mallo- (2): from Gr mallos, a flock of wool, perh akin to Lith mėlas, cloth. Ex: mallophagous, wool-eating (cf -phaga).

mal(o)-: Chem c/f of malic (acid).

mamm(i)-, 'breast', and mammilli-, 'nipple': resp L mamma and mam(m)illa: cf MAMMA. Exx: mammalgia (cf -algia), mammiferous, mammiform; mammilliform.

mammono-: for mammon, as in mammonolatry.

-mancy, abstract n; -mancer, agential n; -mantic, adj; manto-: often via OF -mancie, from LL -mantia, itself from Gr -manteia, c/f of manteia, divination; (-mancer) either -manc(y)+ agential -er, or from OF -manceur; (-mantic) prob suggested by LL -manticus or its orig, the Gr mantikos, prophetic; (manto-), from Gr mantis, a prophet. Exx: chiromancy, -mancer, -mantic; necromancy, via OF-F and L from Gr nekromanteia, divination by communication with the dead—necromancer, from OF nigromanceur—necromantic, perh from LL necromanticus; mantology, divination, prophecy. Cf MANIA and MIND.

mandel(o)-: Chem c/f of mandelic (from G Mandel, an almond).

mandibulo-, 'mandibular and': from LL mandibula, the mandible, from mandere, to chew; mand- is perh echoic. Ex: mandibulo-suspensorial.

mandri-, as in mandriarch, head (cf -arch) of a monkish order: from Gr mandra, a monastery, akin to Skt mandurā, a stable.

1 -mane, 2 -mania, 3 -maniac; 4 manic-: 1, F -mane, as in Anglomanie, the E form being -maniac, adj used derivatively as n, as in Anglomanic; 2, 'madness'—hence 'a craze (for)', from Gr -mania, c/f of mania, madness; 3, c/f of maniac, like F maniaque from LL maniacus, from L mania, from Gr; manic-, esp in manic-depressive, comes from Gr manikos, the adj of mania, which is akin to MIND. Ex: erotomania, from Gr erōtomania.

mangani-, mangano-: c/ff of manganese, as in manganiferous, mangano-calcite; mangano-, also a Chem c/f of manganous. Akin to MAGNESIA.

mani- (1): via F mani- (influenced by next) from Gr mono-, c/f of monos, sole, single, alone, as in manichord, clavichord (orig one-stringed), via F manichordion, manicorde, via LL monochordon, from Gr monokhordon.

mani- (2): L mani-, c/f of manus, the hand: cf MANUAL. Exx: manicure (cf CURE) and maniform, hand-shaped; cf MANIFEST.

mani- (3): for many, as in manifold, maniform.

-mania, -maniac; -manic. See -mane.

manni- (1): for manna, as in manniferous; (2) for man, as in mannify (cf -fy).

manno-: c/f of mannose (mannitol+-ose), as in mannoheptose.

mano-: Gr mano-, c/f of manos (s man-), thin, rare, rarefied; applied esp to gases. Exx: manograph and manometer. Akin to mono-.

-mantic; manto-. See manto-.

manu-: L manu-, c/f of manus, the hand: cf mani- (2). Exx: manucaption, from ML manu captiō (gen -captiōnis), a taking by the hand; manuduction (cf DUCT); MANUFACTURE; manumit (cf MISSION).

margariti-, margarito-; margaro-: c/ff (the first, L) of L margarita, a pearl; margaro-, from Gr margaros, a pearl oyster, or margaron, a pearl (cf MARGARINE). Exx: margaritiferosus, pearl-bearing; margaritomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by pearls.

margini-, as in marginirostral (cf -rostral), and margino-, as in marginoplasty (cf -plasia): for margin.

mar-: L mar-, c/f of mare (s mar-), the sea: cf MARINE. Exx: maricolous (cf -colous), living in the sea; marigraph, a tide-gauge. The c/f marin(o)-, from L marinus, of the sea, is rare; ex, marinorama (cf -orama).

Mar-: c/f of LL Maria (esp the Virgin Mary), as in Mariolatry, worship (cf -later) of the Virgin Mary, and Mariology (cf Christology).

marin(o)-. See mar-.

mariti-, as in mariticide, a murder, by wife, of husband, or such a murderess: from L maritus, a husband: cf MARRY.

martyro-: ML martyro-, c/f of LL martyr (see MARTYR). Ex: martyrology, from ML martyrologium.

-mas: c/f of Mass in its sense 'feast day', as in Candlemas, Christmas, Martinmas, Michaelmas.

masculo-, 'masculine' or 'masculine and': from L masculus, male: cf MASCULINE. Ex: masculo-feminine.

-mastia; mast(o)-: c/ff of Gr mastos, the (usu female) breast, prob akin to madan (s mad-), μαδᾶν, to be damp, to flow, IE s mad*. Exx: ('mammary condition') macromastia; ('the, esp female, breast') mastology—('mastoid and') masto-occipital.

mastig(o)-; -mastix: Gr mastig(o)- and -mastix, c/ff of mastix (gen mastigos), a whip; IE r, prob mas-*. Exx: Mastigophora (cf -phora); mastigure (cf -ure, Gr oura, tail); Homeromastix (Gr Ὁμηρομάστιξ), a critic scourging Homer, and such analogous terms as Satiromastix.

masto-. See -mastia.

materno-, as in maternology: for maternity.

-math. See -mathy, s.f.

mathematico-: c/f of mathematic(al); denoting 'mathematical and', as in mathematico-philosophical.

-mathy: Gr -mathela, -learning, from mathein, to learn: cf MATHEMATIC. Exx: chrestomathy (Gr κρηστομαθεια, perh via F chrestomathie), cf chresto- at chreo-; polymathy (cf poly-), vast and various learning. Note also -math, learner, hence student, scholar, as in polymath (cf -poly), an extremely erudite person, from Gr polumathēs.

matr-; rarely matro-: L mātri-, c/f of māter (gen mātris, o/s mātr-), mother; matro-, by Gr influence: cf MOTHER. Exx: matriarch=matr-+the -arch (cf -arch above) of E patriarch; matricide (cf -cide at -cida); matrilineal; -matroclinous (or -clonic), being more like mother than father—cf INCLINE; matronymic, cf patronymic.

mavro-: from L Gr mauros, black, very dark (cf MOOR). Exx: (? Mavrogordato), mavrodaphne (Gr daphnē, laurel)—a Mod Gr wine.

maxilli-, maxillo-: from L maxilla, (lower) jawbone, perh orig a dim of mala, (upper) jawbone. Exx: maxilliform, maxillo(-)labial.

Mayo-: for Mayan, as in Mayologist.

maz(o)- (1): from Gr mazos, a breast, akin to mastos, q.v. at -mastia above. Exx: mazolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse) and mazopathy.

mazo- (2). Gr mazo-, c/f of maza, a barley cake (prob 'something kneaded'), but, in Med, denoting 'placenta'. Ex: mazopathy (cf -path).

meato-: a Surg c/f of L meātus, a passage, from meāre (s me-), to go. Exx: meatoscope, meatotomy.

mechanico-; mechano-: the former, for mechanical); the latter, from Gr mēkhano-, from mēkhanē, a machine: cf MECHANIC. Exx: 'mechanics', as in mechanology; 'mechanism', as in mechanomorphism; 'mechanical means', as in mechanolatry and mechanotherapy.

mec(o)-: Gr mēko-, c/f of Gr mēkos, length, akin to makros, long (q.v. at macro-). Ex: mecometer, mekometer, a length-measuring instrument.

mecono-: from Gr mēkonion, opium, from mēkōn, poppy, s mēk-, prob an exoticism. Ex: MECONOLOGY.

medi-. See medio-.

mediastino-: from An mediastinum, from ML mediastīnus, medial, from L medius, middle. Ex: mediastino-pericarditis.

medico-: from L medicus, medical. Exx: 'medical', as in medicopsychology; 'medical and', as in medico(-)legal.

medi(o)-: from L medius, middle, akin to MIDDLE: E senses, 'medially'—'intermediately'—'in the middle'. Exx: Mediterranean; medio-perforate; medio-palatal; medio-silicic.

Medo-: Gr Mēdo-, c/f of Mēdos, a Mede, Median: ('Median and') Medo-Persian.

medulli-: from L (and An and Bot) medulla, narrow, pith, perh a var of Italic merulla*, influenced by medius, middle. Ex: medulli-spinal.

medusi-: for the Zoo medusa, a jellyfish, from L Medūsa, Gr Medousa, orig the f presp of medein (s med-), to rule over. Ex: medusiform.

meg(a)-; megal(o)-; -megaly: Gr meg(a)-; Gr megal(o)-; SciL *-megal*ia, from Gr megalē, f of megas, great, gen megalou: cf MUCH and MICKLE. Exx: megascope, megalith, megaphone, megapod, megatherium; megalomania, megalosaur; gastro-megaly, an abnormal enlargement of the belly.

meio-: from Gr meiōn, neu meion, lesser, smaller; IE s mei-*, to diminish (L minuere: cf MINUS). Exx: meiobar (cf -bar), meiophyll (cf -phyll).

meizo-: from Gr meizōn, neu meizon, greater, comp of megas (q.v. at mega-). Ex: meizoseismic.

meko-. See meco-.

mel- (1). See mela-.

mel- (2): from Gr mēla, cheeks, from mēlon, apple (L mālum). Ex: meloncus (cf -oncus). Also melo-, as in meloplasty, the plastic restoration of a cheek.

mel- (3): from Gr melos, a limb; IE s, mel-*. Exx: melagra (cf -agra) and melalgia (cf -algia at alg-).

mel(a)-; -melane; melano-, Melano-: resp from Gr melas, black; either from the neu melan or from the o/s melan- thereof; from the Gr c/f melan(o)-; and from E Melanesian. The adj melas, f melaina, is prob for melanos*: cf Skt malinás. The IE r is app mel-* or perhaps mal-, with varr mol- and mul-*. Exx: melaconite (mela-+kon-, from konis, dust+the Min suffix -ite)—melagranite—Melanesian (cf -nese); sideromelane (cf 1st sidero-); melanophore (cf -phora)—melanopathy (SciL melanopathia)—melanoscope—melanotrichous (cf -trichia), dark-haired; Melano-Papuan. Cf MELANCHOLY.

melassi-: from melasses, var of molasses; e.g., melassigenic (cf -genic at -gen).

meli-, melli-, melitto-: meli-, from Gr meli, honey; melli-, L melli-, c/f of mel (gen mellis), honey, akin to and perh derived from the Gr word, with IE r mel-*; melitto- comes from Gr melitta, var melissa, a honey-bee, itself clearly derivative from meli, honey. Exx: Melianthus (cf anth-)—meliceris, Gr melikēris (from kēros, wax)—melilite, a mineral coloured honey-yellow—melilot, Gr melilōtos (cf LOTUS), a kind of clover—meli-phagous, honey-eating; melliferous (cf -fer)—mellifluous, LL mellifluus—mellivorous, honey-eating; mellitology, such entomology as treats of bees.

-melia, a condition of the limbs; -melus, a monster thus affected: c/ff from Gr melos, a limb; IE r, mel-* or mal-*. Exx: schistomelia (cf schisto-, cleft) and anisomelus (aniso-, unequal).

melitto-; melli-. See meli-.

melo- (1). See the 2nd mel-.

melo- (2): Gr melo-, c/f of melos, song, a sense derivative from melos, limb: cf, therefore, -melia. Exx: MELODRAMA, MELODY, melograph (F melographe: cf -graph), melomania, melophone (a sort of concertina).

-melus. See -melia.

membrani-, 'membrane'—as in membraniferous; membrano-, 'membrane'—as in membranology; or 'membranous and'—as in membrano-nervous. Membrane comes from L membrāna, skin covering the membra or limbs: cf MEMBER.

meni-: from Gr mēnē, the moon: cf MOON. Ex: menisperm. Cf the 1st meno- and:

-menia: a SciL c/f from Gr mēniāia (neup), menses, as in catamenia and xeromenia. Cf prec.

mening(o)-: Gr mēning(o)-, c/f of mēnix, gen mēningos, membrane, app akin to Gr mēros, thigh. Med uses mening(o) to denote 'meninges' (the membranes enveloping the brain), as in meningitis and meningo-cephalitis, and 'meningeal and', as in meningo(-)cortical.

menisci-; menisco-: c/ff from SciL meniscus, from Gr mēniskos, a (small) crescent, dim of mēnē, the moon: cf meni- and -menia and MOON. Exx: menisciform, crescent-shaped; Meniscotheridae (Gr thērion, a wild beast: cf therio-), prehistoric beasts, 'in allusion to the crescents of the molars' (Webster).

meno- (1): Gr mēno-, c/f of mēn, month, akin to mēnē, moon: cf MOON. Exx: menology and meno-pause (menstrual period: cf PAUSE). Cf meni-.

meno- (2): from Gr menein (s men-), to remain, akin to L manēre (s man-): cf MANOR. Exx: menognathous (cf -gnatha) and Menorhyncha (Gr rhunkhos, snout).

menth(o)-: c/f of menthol. Only in Chem.

menti- (1): from L mens (gen mentis), mind: cf MIND. Ex: menticultural and mentiferous, telepathic.

menti- (2); mento-: from L mentum (s ment-), the chin, app composed of IE men-*, to jut out (or up: cf L mons) + extension t + -um, neu-n suffix (E & M). Exx: mentigerous; having a chin; mentolabial, of chin and lips.

mer- (1): c/f of E mere, the sea, akin to L mare: Ex: mermaid.

mer- (2) and -mer. See the 1st mero-.

mercapto-: for Chem mercaptan (ML mercurium captans).

mercuri-, 'mercuric', and mercur(o)-, 'mercury': both from E MERCURY. Only in Chem.

merdi-: from L merda, excrement, dung, perh (? by psilosis) akin to Lith smirdeit, OSI smrudeti, to stink. Ex: merdivorous, the L syn of Gr coprophagous.

meri-. See the 1st mero-.

-meric, adj, and -merism, n of condition: from isomeric. Exx: polymeric, polymerism.

-meris. See:

meristo-: from Gr meristos, divided, from meris, a part or share—therefore cf the 1st mero-. Ex: Bot meristogenous (cf -genous at -gen).

mermith(o)-, 'mermithized' (infested with slender parasitic worms): from mermith-, the o/s of Gr mermis (gen mermithos), a cord, a stout thread. Ex: mermithogyne (cf -gyn).

mer(o)-; 2, meri-; 3, -mer; 4, -mere; 5, -meric (cf -meric above); 6, -meris; 7, -merous; 8, -mery: Gr meros (s mer-), a fraction, a part, a share—cf MERIT; 2, from the var meris, part, share; 3, deriving from Gr -merēs, c/f of meros, and, in E, denoting 'member of a class', as in Chem isomer; 4, from meros, and corresponding in Bot and Zoo to Chem -mer; 5, the adj of -mer and -mere (cf -meric, separate entry above); 6, from meris, used in Bot and Zoo generic names; 7, Gr -merēs (from meros: cf sense 3), 'partite', but denoting, in E, 'of so many or suchlike parts'; 8, n answering to (7) and deriving from Gr -merēia.

Exx: merogenesis, meroplankton; mericarp; isomer, metamer, polymer; arthromere; isomeric, polymeric; Piptomeris; hexamerous, homomerous; isomery.

mero- (2): Gr mēro-, c/f of mēros (s mēr-), thigh; akin to L membrum, a limb; IE r, perh mesro-*. Ex: mero-algia. Cf:

-merus, only in Ent generic names: answers to prec.

meryc(o)-; -meryx: from Gr mērux (gen merukos), a ruminating animal, prob of echoic origin. Exx: Merychippus (Gr hippos, a horse) and Merycopotamus (Gr potamos, river: cf hippopotamus); -meryx in Pal generic names.

mes-. See meso-.

mesati-: from Gr mesatos, midmost, from mesos, middle (cf meso-), as in mesaticephalic. Cf:

mesio-, 'of the mesion or meson' (in dentistry): from mesion, from meson, neu of mesos, middle. Ex: mesiolingual. Cf:

mes(o)-: Gr mes(o)-, c/f of mesos, middle, akin to L medius and E MIDDLE. Exx: ('intermediate; in the middle') mesentery (ML mesenterium, Gr mesenterion: cf entero-)—Mesopotamia, the land (Geog suffix -ia) intermediate between the rivers (cf potamo-)—mesobar—mesocephalic—mesotherm; ('intermediate in type') mesolite; special senses in An and Chem.

-mester, adj -mestral or -mestrial: semester, G Semester, a period or term of six months, from L sēmentris (sē- for sex, 6+ -mestris, from mensis, a month), six-monthly, adj semestral, -mestrial (suffixes -al, -ial); trimester, F trimestre, from L trimestris (tri-, 3), three-monthly, with adj trimestrial or trimestral (-ial, -al). Cf MENSES.

metalli-; metall(o): L metalli-, c/f of metallum; Gr metall(o)-, c/f of metallon (whence the L word), metal (cf METAL). Exx: metalliferous; metallography, metallurgy (SciL metallurgia, from Gr metallourgos, metal-worker—cf -ergy at -ergate).

meteor(o)-: c/f of E METEOR, q.v. Exx: meteorography, meteorology, meteoscope.

-meter. See -metre.

meth(o)-: c/f of methyl from methylene, F méthylène, 'wood spirit': Gr methu, wine+Gr hulē, wood+Chem suffix -ene, as in methoxyl.

methodo-: from Gr methodos, esp in methodology (cf -logy at -loger). Cf METHOD.

metopo-: from Gr metōpon, the forehead—met(a), after+ōps (pl ōpes or ōpa), metōpon being the part after, hence imm above, the eyes. Exx: metopomancy, divination (-mancy) with forehead or the entire face; metoscopy (cf -scopy at -scope), character-reading from the lines of the forehead.

-metra; -metrium: both from Gr mētra, the womb: denoting 'condition of' and 'part of' the womb. Exx: hydrometra, dropsy of the womb; myometrium, muscular part of womb. Cf the 3rd metro-.

-metre or 2, -meter; 3, metr(o)-; 4, -metry: E and Am c/f of metre, meter, the length-measure; 2 only, c/f of the meter of e.g. gas meter; 3, from Gr metron, a measure—cf METER; 4, from Gr -metria (from metron) and denoting 'art of measuring'.

Exx: kilometre or -meter; gasometer; metrology, metronome; GEOMETRY.

-metrium. See -metra.

metro- (1). See -metre.

metro- (2): Gr mētro-, c/f of mētēr, mother, akin to L māter and E MOTHER. Ex: METROPOLIS. Cf:

metro- (3): Gr mētr(o)-, c/f of mētra, womb, akin to mētēr, mother. Ex: metroscope.

-metry. See -metre.

mezzo-: It mezzo, middle, from L medius (cf medio-). Exx: mezzograph; mezzorilievo; mezzosoprano; mezzotint (It mezzotinto).

mi-. See mio-.

miasmato- and miasmo-: the latter, from E miasma; the former from miasmat-, the o/s of Gr miasma, defilement: cf MIASMA. Exx: miasmatology, miasmology.

micr(o)-: Gr mikr(o)-, c/f of mikros, small, a Attic and Ionic var of smikros; IE r, smik-* or smeik* or smēk-*. In E the element denotes primarily 'small', as in microcosm (LL microcosmus, from Gr mikros kosmos, 'the little world', i.e. man) and micrology; hence 'the enlargement of small objects', as in MICROSCOPE—cf microphone; and many special Sci nuances. Further exx: microbarograph; microfilm (used in cinemas); microphysics; and several hundred others.

milio-: from SciL Miliola, dim of L milium (s mili-), millet: cf MILLET. Ex: miliolite (cf -lite).

mille-; milli-: L mille-; from L mille, a thousand: cf MILE. Exx: millepede (cf centipede); millimetre (-meter)—milligram(me)—millimicron.

mimeo-; mim(o)-: the former is rare (notably occurring in 'to mimeograph') for the latter, which comes from Gr mim(o)-, c/f of mimos, a mimic, a MIME (q.v.). Exx: mimodrama, mimography, mimotype (in Zoo). The end c/f -mimus occurs esp in Ent generic names.

mini-: from L minor, lesser, smaller: cf MINOR. Exx: minibus, a small, light bus; minify (cf -fy, to make or render). In minicamera, however, mini- is short for miniature; and in minimetric, for minim.

mi(o)-: from Gr meio-, c/f of meiōn, lesser, smaller: cf prec. Exx: miargyrite (mi-+argyrite, argentite); Miocene (cf -cene), succeeding to the Eocene (geol period).

misc-: from L miscēre (s misc-: cf MIX), to mingle. Ex: miscegenation (L genus, animal stock, human race, cf -gen), interbreeding—esp of one colour with another.

-mise, -miss, -mit, as in promise—dismiss—omit: from missum, the supine—missus, the pp—mittere, the inf of L mittō, I send: cf MISSION. Ex: manumit.

miseri-: from L miserēri, to feel pity; esp in misericord, via F from L misericordia (cf cordi-).

mis(o)-: Gr mis(o)-, c/f of misos (s mis-), hatred, and misein (a mis-), to hate. Exx: misandry, hatred of men; misanthropy, hatred of mankind; misogamy, hatred of marriage; misogyny, hatred of women; misology, hatred of argument; misosophy, hatred of wisdom. Cf MISANTHROPY.

-miss; mit. See -mise.

mit(o)-: Gr mit(o)-, c/f of mitos, a thread, s mit-; perh cf Hit mits, thread, string. Exx: mitogenetic, mitosome (cf -soma).

-mixis; mixo-: resp Gr mixis, a mingling (hence, in E, 'mixed'), and its Gr c/f mixo-: cf MIX. Exx: apomixis, (in Bio) asexual reproduction; mixobarbaric, semi-barbaric (Gr mixobarbaros), mixotrophic. Cf:

mixtl-: from L mixtus, mingled, mixed: cf MIX. Ex: mixtilineal.

mnemi-, mnemo-: -mnnesia (adj -mnnesiac), -mnnesia

(adj -mnetic): first two, c/f from mnēmē, memory, ult akin to MIND; for E amnesia; from Gr mnēsis, a remembering. Exx: Mnemiopsis (cf -ops); mnemotechny, the art of remembering, (hence) mnemonics; cryptomesia; hypermnesis.

-mobile, as in AUTOMOBILI; from the E adj mobile.

modi-. See MODIFY.

mogi-: Gr mogi-, c/f of mogis, with difficulty, akin to—prob from—mogos, labour, difficulty, akin to Lith smagus, Lett smags, heavy; IE r, prob *smog-. Ex: mogitocia (q.v. at -tocia).

molari-: from L molāris, a millstone, from mola, a mill. Ex: molarimeter. But in molariform, shaped like a molar, it stands for molar (tooth).

moll-, as in mollify: L moll-, c/f of mollis, soft; IE r, perh *mel-.

mollusc-: for SciL mollusca, a mollusc, as in molluscivorous.

molybd(o)-: Gr molubd(o)-, c/f of molubdos, lead (metal), ? of Iberian origin. Ex: molybdomenite, selenite: molybdo-+men- (Gr mēnē, moon)+Min suffix -ite.

momio-, as in momiology, the love and science of mummies: from F momie, a mummy: cf MUMMY.

mon-. See MONO-monadi-, monado-: c/f of monad, as in monadiferous, monadology. Cf mono-.

monarchico-, for E monarchic; monarcho-, from Gr monarkhia, monarchy, as in monarchomachic, opposed to monarchy, cf -machia.

-monas, 'unit' in Zoo generic names: LL monas, gen monadis, from Gr monas (gen monados), s mon-, from monos (s mon-), alone: cf MONASTERY.

Mongolo-, 'Mongolian and': for Mongol: e.g., Mongolo-Tatar.

monill-: from L monīle, a necklace: cf OIr muinel, neck, and Skt mānyā, nape of neck. Ex: moniliform.

monimo-: from Gr monimos, a stable, either from or akin to menēin (L manēre), to remain. Ex: monimostylic (Gr stulos, a pillar).

mon(o)-: Gr mon(o)-, c/f of monos (s mon-), alone: cf MONASTERY. E nuances range from 'alone' to 'only' or 'only one', esp 'of or for or by only one'. Exx: monocellular; monochromatic and monochrome; monocrat (cf -crat); monocyclic; monodrama, acted by one person; monody (via LL monōdia from Gr monōidia, from monōidos, singing alone): an ode sung by one voice in a tragedy, hence a dirge; MONOGAMY; monogenesis; MONOGRAM; MONOGRAPH; monolith (cf -lith at -lite); MONOLOGUE; monomania; monomorphic (cf -morph); monophonous; MONOPOLY; MONOSYLLABLE; MONOTONY; monotype; monovalent.

monstri-: L mōnstri-, c/f of mōnstrum, a divine omen (or warning) of disaster, hence a monster. Exx: monstricide (cf -cidal)—monstriferous, producing or tending to produce monsters—monstrify (cf -fy).

monti-: L monti-, c/f of mons (gen montis), a MOUNTAIN. Exx: monticoline, mountain-haunting (cf -colous) and montiform.

morbi-: from L morbus (s morb-), disease: cf MORBID. Ex: morbiferous, disease-carrying or -producing; moribific, disease-causing. The ML dim morbilli, measles, explains the c/f morbilli-, as in morbilliform, (of a disease) resembling measles.

mor(i)-: either from L morus or from its source, perh rather its cognate, the Gr moron (s mor-), mulberry, of common Medit origin. Ex: moriform, mulberry-shaped.

moro-: Gr mōro-, c/f of mōros, stupid, foolish, akin to Skt mūras, stupid. Exx: morology (Gr mōrologia, foolish talk), nonsense, sophomore, and morosoph (Gr mōrosophos), an erudite fool. Cf moron, from Gr mōron, the neu of mōros: 'silly thing'.

-morph; 2, -morpha, pl -morphae; 3, -morphic; 4, -morphism; 5, -morphosis, adj -morphotic; 6, -morphous; 7, -morphy;—8, morph(o)-; cf morphino-, morphio- (next entry): -morph, from Gr inorphē, form, denotes 'one distinguished by a (named) form', with corresponding adj in -morphic or -morphous; 2, SciL, from Gr morphē, with adj -morphic; 3, -ic adj from morphē, with abstract nn ('state, condition') in -morphism or -morphy; 5, from Gr morphōsis, a forming or shaping, the E c/f denoting 'development'; the adj -morphotic was suggested by Gr morphōtikos, fit for forming, able to form; 6, Gr adj -morphos, from morphē, the E c/f denoting 'of a particular form'; 7, see (3) and cf abstract-n suffix -y; and, of course, Gr morpho-, true c/f of morphē. The IE r was prob morgh-* (perh mergh*): cf L forma, s form-, which, if in fact related to Gr morphē (s morph-), was clearly a transposition.

Exx: holomorph (in Math—cf holo-); in Zoo, Cetomorpha (cf ceto-) and Alectomorphae; anthropomorphic (anthropo-), anthropomorphism; heteromorphosis (hetero-); amorphous, formless, shapeless, from Gr amorphos, the a- being a privative prefix; amorphy, rare for amorphism; morphology (cf -logy at -loger), the study of forms—morphometry (cf -metry at -metre)—morphoplasm (-plasm).

morphino-; morphio-: c/f of morphine; c/f of morphia: two words deriving from Morpheus, the Shaper (morph+Gr -eus, agent), the God of Dreams. Exx: morphinomania, morphiomania.

-morphite, as in pyromorphite, adds Min suffix -ite to -morph.

morpho-; -morphosis, -morphous; -morphy. See -morph.

morti-. See MORTIFY.

Mosa-, as in Pal Mosasauros (cf -sauros): from L Mosa, the river Meuse.

moschi-, as in moschiferous, musk-producing: ML moschus: cf MUSK.

moti-, moto-; - motive: c/f from L mōtus (gen motūs), motion; c/f for motion—or for motor; c/f of adj, hence n, motive. See MOTION. Exx: motific; motograph, motophone; automotive, locomotive.

muci-, muc(o)-; mucoso-: from L mūcus, slime, mucus; (mucoso-) from the L adj mūcōsus, slimy, mucous. Exx: mucific, mucivorous; mucofibrous; mucosogranular. L mūcus (s mūc-) is akin to Gr muxa (? muk-s-a); IE r, prob muk-* or mug-*. The subsidiary mucono-, as in mucinogen (cf -gen), stands for Biochem mucin (Chem suffix -in), itself from mucus.

mucroni-: from L mūcrō, a sharp point, gen mūcrōnis, o/s mūcrōn-, perh akin to Gr amussō (? for amuksō), I tear. Exx: mucroniferous, sharp-pointed, and mucroniform.

multi-: L multi-, c/f of the adj multus, much, multi, many: cf MULTITUDE. Exx: multangular, many-angled; multifarious, lit 'speaking [L fāri, to speak] in many ways', of many kinds; multiform; multilateral, many-sided; multimillionaire; MULTIPPLY, multiplicity; multipotent; multisonous.

mummi-: for mummy (preserved corpse), as in mummiform and mummify. Cf momi-.

mundi- (1): from L mundus (s mund-), the world, perh akin to MOVE: cf MUNDANE. Ex: mundivagant, world-wandering.

mundi- (2): LL mundi-, c/f of L mundus, clean. Ex: mundificant, from mundificans (gen -ficantis), presp of mundificāre, to make clean.

muri- (1): from L mūrus (s mūr-), a wall: cf MURAL. Ex: muriform, like a wall made of bricks.

muri- (2): from L mūs, a mouse, gen mūris, s mūr-; IE r, app mur-*. Ex: muriform, mouse-like.

muscari-, as in muscariform, brush-shaped: from L muscārium, a fly-whisk, ex musca: see next.

musci- (1): from L musca, a fly, as in muscicide and musciform. The IE r would seem to be mu-*.

musci- (2); musco-: from L muscus, moss: cf MOSS. Exx: muscicole, living (cf -colous) in moss; muscology.

muscul(o)-: from musculus, a muscle: cf MUSCLE. Exx: musculo-cutaneous and musculo-spiral.

museo-: for museum, as in museology, the systematic collecting (Gr legein, to gather) and assemblage of objects for a museum.

musico-: for music, as in musicologist, or for musical (and), as in musico-poetic.

Muso-: from L Mūsa (cf MUSE). Ex: Zoo Musophagi.

muta-, muto-; -mute: from L mūtāre (s mūt-), to change (v.t.): cf MUTABLE. Exx: muta-rotation, mutoscope; commute, permute.

my-. See myo-.

-mya: from Gr mus, muscle, gen muos. Only in Conchology. Cf myo-.

1 -myces; 2 -mycete, -mycetes; 3 mycet(o)-; 4 myc(o)-; 5 -mycosis. 1, from Gr mukēs, fungus; 2, -mycetes (whence the sing mycete), from Gr mukētes, pl of mukēs; 3, from mukētos, gen of mukēs; 4, for muko-, from mukēs; 5, for mycosis, infestation of a bodily part by fungi.

Exx: Actinomyces; Schizomycetes; Mycetophagous; -mycology, mycoplasm.

-myelia, myelino-, -myelitis, myel(o)-: resp from Gr -muelos, c/f of muelos, marrow; from E myelin (Gr muel(os)+Chem suffix -in); for E myelitis, inflammation of the spinal cord; from Gr muel(o)-, c/f of Gr muelos, itself akin to mus (gen muos), muscle. Exx: micromyelia, myelinogenesis, osteomyelitis; myelalgia, myelopathy.

-myia; myi(o)-: from Gr muia, a fly, c/f muio- akin to L musca. Ex: Myiarchus.

myl(o)-: Gr mul(o)-, c/f of mulē, a mill or a millstone, ult akin to MILL, denotes, in E, 'molar' as in mylohyoid.

my(o)-: Gr mu(o)-, c/f of mus (gen muos; s mu-) a mouse, hence a muscle. Exx: 'mouse', as in Myomorpha and myomancy; usu 'muscle', as in myocardium, muscular portion of heart-wall—myodynamics—myogen—myograph—myology—myophore—myothermic. Cf:

myom(o)-: for myoma (my-+suffix -oma), as in myomatomy.

myri(a)-; myri(o)-: resp Gr mūrias, a literal myriad (10,000), and the Gr c/f mūri(o)-, vaguely yet decidedly very numerous—countless. Cf MYRIAD. Exx: myriagram(me), myrialitre, myriametre; myriorama, myrioscope.

myringo-: for myringa, the tympanic membrane (ML myringa, LL mēninga, Gr mēninx: cf meningo- above), as in myringotomy.

myrio-. See myria-.

myristici-, as in myristicivorous, (of birds) feeding on nutmegs—SciL Myristica, from Gr muristikos, good as a salve (murizein, to anoint).

myrmeco-, myrmo-, -myrmex: Gr murmēko-, c/f of murmēx (whence -myrmex), ant, gen murmēkos, akin to Skt vamrās and L formica. Exx: myrmecology, ant-lore, and myrmecophagous, ant-eating. The var myrmo- comes from the Gr var murmox; ex, myrmothereine, feeding on ants—cf Gr thēran, to hunt.

myro-: Gr muro-, c/f of muron, a sweet juice oozing from a plant, (hence) an unguent, app akin (with IE prefix s-) to Gr smuris, emery-powder, hence to E SMEAR. Exx: obs myropolist (Gr myropolēs), a perfumier; Myrothamnus (a shrub, Gr thamnos).

myrrho-, as in myrrhophore (cf -phora), simply stands for myrrh.

myrti-: from L myrtus (Gr murtos): cf MYRTLE. Exx: myrtiform, myrtol (cf -ol- below).

-mys: from Gr mus, a mouse, as in Cynomys (cf cyno-).

mys(o)-: from Gr mosos, a soiling or staining, defilement, akin to Gr mudos, mildew. Ex: mysophobia, a dread of dirt.

myst-; mysteri(o)-; mystico-: from, resp, Gr mustēs (s must-), an initiate of the religious mysteries; Gr mustērion, a religious mystery; Gr mustikos, of, by or for a religious mystery or a sacred rite. Cf MYSTERY. Exx: mystagogue, an initiator into, or an interpreter of, mysteries—Gr mustagōgos, cf -agogue; mysteriosophy (Gr sophia, wisdom); mystico-religious. In mystify, mysti- app represents mystic.

mythico-; mytho-: c/f of E mythic, as in mythico-historical; via LL mýtho-, from Gr muitho-, as in mythogenesis, MYTHOLOGY, mytho-poetic. In mythify, mythi- represents myth.

mytilli-; mytilo-: the former from L mytilus, a sea mussel, from Gr mutilos, whence mytilo-. Exx: mytiliform, resembling a mussel; mytilotoxine, poisonous matter available in mussels.

myxa-: from Gr muxa, slime, mucus: cf muci- and MUCUS. Only in Zoo generic names. Cf:

myx(o)-: Gr mux(o)-, c/f of muxa, slime, mucus: cf muci-. Exx: 'mucous gland'—myxadenitis; 'mucous tissue'—myxocyte (cf -cyte); 'myxoma (a jelly-like tumour) combined with another (duly specified)'—myxomycetes (cf -mycetes), myxor-rhoea.

-myza, pl, and -myzon, sing; myzo-: Zoo c/f, from Gr muzein (s muz-), to suck; (myzo-) Bot c/f, of same origin. Exx: Myzostoma (cf -stoma).

naemor-: a SciL c/f from nemoris, gen of L nemus, a grove: cf the 2nd nemo-. Ex: Zoo Naemoredus, a genus of goat, 2nd element L haedus, a goat.

nann(o)-, loosely; correctly nan(o)-: Gr nan(o)-, c/f of nanos, a dwarf, perh orig a nursery word. Exx: nannander, (in Bot) a dwarf male; nannoplankton, the smallest plankton;—nanocephalic; nanomelus, a short-limbed (cf -melia) monstrosity.

nao-: from Gr naos, a temple, akin to naiō (s nai-), I dwell. Ex: naology, a study of sacred buildings.

naphth(o)-: c/f for E naphtha, itself adopted from Gr; Gr νάφθα is akin to Per naft and Av napta, moist, IE r prob nehb-*. Ex: naphtho(-)quinone.

napi-: from L nāpus (s nāp-), a turnip—prob a Medit word. Ex: napiform, (in Bot: of roots) turnip-shaped.

narco-: from Gr narkē, numbness, torpor, stupor: cf NARCOTIC. Exx: narcohypnia, numbness imm after sleep (cf hypno-); narcolepsy (cf -lepsia). Cf:

narcotico-, 'narcotic and': from E narcotic: cf prec. Ex: narcotico-somniferous.

nari-: from L nāris, nostril, akin to nāsus, nose: cf next. Ex: nariform, nostril-shaped.

nasi-, naso-; nasuti-: c/f from L nāsus, nose—cf nari- and E NOSE; c/f from L nāsūtus, '(long-) nosed'. Exx: nasilabial, of nose and lips; nasology; nasutiform, nose-like.

-nastic, adj, and -nasty, n, only in Plant Physiology: from Gr nastos, close-pressed, from nassein (s nass-), to press close, to squeeze, prob of echoic origin. Exx: thermonastic, thermonasty (cf thermo-). nasuti-. See nasi-.

nati- (1): from L nates, the buttocks, akin to Gr nōton, the back (cf noto-): as in natiform, buttock-shaped.

nati- (2): from L nātus (gen nātūs, s nāt-), birth, from nāsci, to be born, nātus, born. Ex: nati-mortality, rate of still births.

natro-: c/f of E natron: cf NITRE. Ex: natrolite (cf -lite).

natur-: a rare c/f from L nātūra: cf NATURE. Ex: naturopathy, treatment by 'natural' methods.

nau-; nauti-: Gr nau-, c/f of naus, ship; (the rare nauti-) from derivative Gr nautēs, via L nauta, a sailor: cf E NAVAL. Exx: naufragous, causing or caused by shipwreck (L naufragus, on analogy of Gr ναυαγία); naupathia, sea-sickness; nauscopy, the seeing (cf -scope) of very distant ships;—nautiform, resembling a ship. Cf:

nav(i)-: from ML nāvis, L nāuis (s nāu-: cf prec), a ship. Exx: navarch, L nāuarchus, an admiral; naviform; navigerous, capable of bearing or floating ships. In navicert, navi- stands for naval (certificate) ne-. See neo-.

nebuli-: from L nebula, mist, a cloud: see NEBULA. Ex: nebuliferous, having cloud-like spots.

necr(o)-: Gr nekr(o)-, c/f of nekros, a corpse: cf NOXIOUS. Exx: neurology (cf -logy at -logē), a register or roll of the dead; necromancy, divination by communication with the dead, from Gr nekromanteia (cf -mancy), via L and F; necropolis, city (-polis) of the dead, i.e. a cemetery; necrotomy (cf -tomy at -tome), dissection of corpses.

-nectae; nect(o)-: resp a SciL pl c/f from Gr nekētēs, a swimmer, with corresponding adj -nectous (prompted by Gr nekτος), and a Sci c/f from Gr nekτος (adj), swimming, from neō, I swim, akin to L nō, I swim. Exx: Physonectae, physonectous, in Zoo; in Zoo: nectocalyx, a swimming bell—nectopod, a limb for swimming—Necturus (cf -ure), a large-tailed salamander.

nectari-, nectaro-: c/f resp of L nectar and of the derivative E nectar: cf NECTAR. Exx: nectariferous and nectarivorous, nectar-secreting and -eating; nectaro-, only in Bot.

negro-: for Negro, as negrophobia, a morbid fear of Negroes.

-nema; nema-, nemato-, nemo-: c/ff from Gr nēma, a thread, a Gr word with many IE cognates. Exx: Scytonema (cf scyto-); Nemalion (SciL; Gr λεῶν, a lion); (nemato-: Gr nēmat-, o/s of nēma) nematocyst (cf -cyst) and nematology; Nemopanthus (nemo-+Gr pous, foot+-anthus for Gr anthos, a flower).

nemo- (1). See prec.

nemo- (2): from Gr nemos (s nem-), a wood, wooded pasture, glade, akin to syn L nemus (gen nemoris). Ex: nemophily, a love of woods and glades.

ne(o)-: Gr ne(o)-, c/f of neos, new, recent, akin to L novus (ML novus): cf NEW. Exx: 'new' or 'recent'—neo-Attic, neologism, new-word-ism; 'a new and different form or period' of a faith, religious or philosophical, or a language—Neo-Catholic, Neo-Darwinism; 'neozoic'—neolithic; in Bot and Zoo, 'recent' or 'extant'—neobotany; in Bio, 'an immature, or a recently developed, form or part'—neofetus and neomorph (-morph); 'the New World'—Nearctic. (Based on Webster.)

nepheli-; nephel(o)-: the former, loose for Gr nephel(o)-, c/f of nephelē, a cloud, akin to L nebula and nubes. Exx: nepheligenous; nephelometer (nuance: 'cloudiness') and nepheloscope. Cf:

nepho-: Gr nepho-, c/f of nephos, a cloud, cf nephelē in prec; nephograph, a camera for cloud-effects; nephology, the meteorology of clouds.

nephr(o)-; secondarily, -nephritis and -nephrosis: Gr nephr(o)-, c/f of nephrōs (s nephr-), kidney, as in the Gr derivative (hence LL and Med E) nephritis (cf Med suffix -itis) and the SciL derivative nephrosus (cf suffix -osis); of IE stock, the r being perh negh(u)r-*. Exx: gastronephritis (cf gastro-); nephralgia, kidney trouble—nephrocyte (-cyte)—nephrolith—nephrology—nephropathy—nephrotomy—nephrotoxic.

Neptuni-: for Neptune (L Neptūnus), as in Neptunicentric.

nerēidi-; nerēo-: both for the Zoo Nereid, from Gr Nēreis (gen Nēreidos), a daughter of Nereus, a sea god, akin to naein (s na-), to flow. Exx: nerēidiform and Bot Nereocystis (cf -cyst).

nertero-: from Gr nerteros, lower, and pl nerteroi, those of the Classic underworld, the dead, perh for enerteroi—cf eneroi, those below. Ex: nerterology, the lore concerning the dead.

nervi-; nervo-: E c/f of ML nervus, L neruus, tendon, muscle, (hence) nerve, akin to Gr neuron (cf neuro- below). Exx: nerviduct, nervimotor; nervomuscular, nervosanguineous.

-nese; -nesia (adj -nesian); -nesus; -neso-: -nese is the E form of L -nēsus from Gr -nēsos, c/f—as is nēso- (whence neso-)—of nēsos, island, hence, in some cpds, region; -nesia (cf the Geog suffix -ia) is a SciL derivative from Gr nēsos (s nēs-), perh from an IE r meaning 'to swim': ? ('the) land that swims in the sea'. Exx: Peloponnesese, usu Peloponnesus, from Gr Peloponnēsos (the land of Pelops) and Chersonese (Gr Khersonēsos); Indonesia, adj Indonesian, and Micronesia and Polynesia; Nesonetta, a flightless duck (Gr nētta) of the Auckland Islands.

nest(i)-: from Gr nēstis, (a) fasting, from ne-, not+edein, to eat. Exx: nestiatricia (cf -iatric)=nestitherapy, a fasting cure.

-neura, 2 -neural, 3 -neure, 4 -neuria, 5 -neuric; 6 -neuri, 7 neur(o)-: 1, the pl of Gr neuron, nerve, denoting, in E, Zoo class-names, as Schizoneura (cf schizo-); 2, c/f of E adj neural, of, for, by a nerve or the nerves, as in cardioneural (cf cardio- at -cardia: heart); 3, -neure ('nerve cell'), from Gr neuron, as in axoneure (cf axo-: axis); 4, SciL term 'state of the nervous system'—from Gr neur(on)+Med suffix -ia, as in dysneuria (prefix dys-: bad); 5, 'having (thus many) neurons' or nerve cells, neur-+adj suffix -ic, as in polyneuric (poly-); 6, SciL c/f from Gr neuron, as in neurilemma (cf -lemma); 7, Gr neur(o), c/f of neuron, denoting in E 'nerve' or 'nervous tissue' or 'nervous system', as in neuralgia (cf -algia, pain)—neurasthenia (adj neurasthenic), 2nd element Gr asthenia, weakness—neurocardiac—neurology—neurophagia—neuropathology—neuropsychosis—neurotomy—neurovaccine.

neutro-: c/f for E neutral, as in neuroceptor and neutrophile.

nidi-, true L c/f, and nido-, analogous c/f, from L nīdus (IE r nī-*), a nest. Exx: nidicolous, reared (cf -colous) in the nest—nidificate, to build nest(s), L nīdificāre, pp nīdificātus—nidifugous, tending to flee the nest; nidology, bird's-nest lore.

nigri-: LL nigri-, c/f of L niger (gen nigri), black:

cf NEGRO. Ex: nigrify, LL nigrificāre, to make or render black.

nimbi-: L nimbi-, c/f of nimbus (s nimb-), rain-storm, rain-cloud, cloud, mist: cf NIMBUS. Exx: nimbiferous, rain-bearing, (hence) rain-producing; nimbification, a rain-making, (hence) the forming of clouds.

nitramino-: for nitramine (nitr(o)-+amine). Only in Chem. Cf:

nitrate-: c/f for nitrate; only in Chem.

nitri-; nitr(o)-: resp from L nitrum, and from its original, the Gr nitron (c/f nitro-), nitre: see NITRE. Exx: nitrification, nitriferous; nitrobacteria, NITROGEN, nitroglycerin(e). Cf:

nitriilo-: c/f for NITRILE; in Chem only.

nitrito-: c/f for NITRITE; in Chem only.

nitro-. See nitri-.

nitroso-: from L nitrosus, nitrous. Ex: nitrosochloride. Cf nitri-.

nivi-: from L nix, snow, ML gen nivis (L niuis): akin to the syn Homeric niphās (s niph-) and W nyf; all—cf Ir snigid, it snows—are akin to SNOW. Ex: nivicolous (cf -colous), living either in or amid snow; cf niveous (ML niveus, L niueus), snowy, and nivosity, degree or state of snow (from ML nivōsus, L niuōsus, snowy).

noct-: from L nocēre (s noc-), to harm or hurt: cf NOXIOUS. Ex: nociperception, (in Med) perception of painful stimuli.

noct(i)-, nocto-: the true L c/f and an analogous c/f of L nox (gen noctis), night; akin to NIGHT. Exx: noctambulant, sleep-walking, adj and n; noctiluca (adopted from L), a shiner by night, i.e. phosphorus, a luminous marine organism; noctivagant, noctivagous (ML noctivāgus, L -uāgus), night-wandering;—noc ograph, noctovision.

nodit-: from L nōdus (s nōd-), a knot, akin ult to E NET (n). Exx: nodicorn, having knot-like antennae (cf -corn); nodiferous, node-producing; nodiflorous, flowering at the nodes or stem-joints.

noema-: Gr noēma, the understanding, from noein, to think, know by thinking, cf nous, mind. Exx: noematachograph, noematachometer: noema+tacho- (from Gr iakhos, swiftness)+-graph, -meter. Cf noo-.

-nomen; nomen-: L -nōmen, nomen-, c/f of nōmen, a name, akin to NAME. Exx: L agnōmen (ad, to+nōmen), an additional cognomen; L cognōmen (co-, with+nōmen), family name; L praenōmen (prae, before+nōmēn), equivalent to a Christian name;—nomenclature (L nōmenclatūra), a naming-system, akin to nōmenclātor (L), a caller (L calāre, to call) or recounter of names.

nom(o)-; -nomy: Gr nomo-, c/f of nómos (νόμος), usage, law, occ of nomós (νομός), a district—in effect, the same word, both (s nom-) deriving from nemein (s nem-), to divide—cf NOMAD; -nomy, Gr -nomia, from nomos, law. Exx: nomarch (cf -arch), the chief magistrate of a mod Gr district; nomocracy (cf -cracy), government by law; nomography, the art of law-drafting; nomology, the science of law; nomothetic(al), legislative; -nomy, 'a system of laws' or 'a field of knowledge', as in ASTRONOMY and bionomy.

-nomy. See nomo-.

-non(a)-: from L nōnus (s nōn-), ninth; mostly in Chem, e.g. nonacosane and nonadecane, and, less, in Math, e.g. nonagon, a 9-sided figure.

noo-: Gr noo-, from Gr nōos, Attic nous, the mind—cf noema-. Exx: noology, the science of intuitive reason; nooscopic (cf -scope), of or for or by an inspection of the mind.

normo-: c/f for normal (q.v. at NORM.) nos(o)-; -nosus: resp Gr nos(o)-, c/f of nosos, disease, and (-nosus) a Latinizing of nosos, s nos-, of obscure origin. Exx: nosography, a description—hence, a classification—of diseases; nosology, the description, hence the treatment of disease; nosomania, a suffering from an imaginary disease;—myonosis.

nost(o)-: from Gr nostos, a return to one's home, from neomai, I go or come, I return, app for PGr nesomai*, from an IE r nes-, to go, or come, esp home. Exx: nostalgia (whence nostalgic), pain for a return home, homesickness, cf -algia; nostology, in Bio the study of the senile stages of organisms.

nostr(i)-: L nostr(i), gen sing of noster, our. Ex: nostrificate (cf -ficatē at -fic), to accept as (equal to) one's own (esp, degrees).

-nosus. See nos-.

notho-: Gr notho-, c/f of nothos, illegitimate, spurious, whence, via L nothus, the rare adj nothous. Ex: Nothofagus, a 'spurious' beech (L agus); Nothosaurus (cf -saur).

noti-. See notify at NOTE.

notio-: from L notius, southern, from Gr notios, damp, rainy, southern, from notos, south wind. Ex: Zoo Notiosorex (cf sorici-).

not(o)-; -notus: from Gr nōt(o)-, c/f of nōton, the back, akin to L nates, the buttocks; (-notus) from the L notus, from the Gr var nōtos, the back. Exx: notochord; nototribe, back-touching (from Gr tribein, to rub); Camponotus (from Gr kampē, a bending). Contrast:

noto- (2): from Gr notos, the south wind, the south. Exx: Notogaea, a Biogeographical realm in the Southern Hemisphere; Notornis, a New Zealand flightless bird—'a bird of the South'; Notoryctes, a marsupial mole—'a digger (Gr oruktēs) of the South'.

-notus. See the 1st noto-.

novem-, noven-: from ML nōvem (L nōvem), nine: cf NOVEMBER. Exx: novemcostate (cf -costal), nine-ribbed, and novemfid, cut into nine segments; novendial (ML nōvendialis, L nōven-), lasting nine days (L diēs, a day), and novennial (ML nōvennis, L nōv-), coming every ninth year (cf -ennial).

novi-, nov(o)-: from ML novus (L novus), new—cf NEW. Exx: novilunar, of or at the new moon (cf lunar, of the L lūna or moon); Novanglian, (a person) of New England, and Novo-Zelanian, of or in or for or by New Zealand.

nubi-: L nūbi-, c/f of nūbes (s nūb-), a cloud, prob akin to nebula. Exx: nubiferous and nubi- genous, cloud-producing, and nubiform, cloud-shaped.

nuchi(i)-: from ML nucha (cf MF-F nuque), the nape, from Ar nukha', spinal marrow. Ex: nuchalgia (cf -algia).

nuci-: L nuci-, c/f of nux (gen nucis), a nut: akin to NUT. Exx: nuciculture, nut-growing; nucivorous, nut-eating. Cf:

nuclei-, nucle(o)-: c/ff for E nucleus, as in nucleiform and nucleofugal, tending to flee the nucleus. Cf:

nucleolo-: cf for (L and E) nucleolus, as in Bio nucleolocentrosome: nucleolo-+centro-+-some, q.v. at -soma.

nudi-: L nūdi-, c/f of nūdus (s nūd-), naked: cf NUDE. Exx: nudicaudate, hairlessly tailed, and nudiflorous, having bare-surfaced flowers.

nugi-: L nūgi-, c/f of nūgae, trifles, whence LL nūgacitas (gen -citātis), triviality, E nugacity, and, via nūgāri, to trifle, L nūgātōrius, trifling, -Enugatory. Exx: nugify (cf -fy) and nugilogue (cf logue at -loger).

nulli-: L nūlli-, c/f of nūllus, null, non-existent (ne, not+ūllus, any). Exx: nullifidian, a sceptic (cf fide-); nullify (LL nūllificāre, to render null); in Bot, nulliflex and nullipore.

numero-: from L numerus, number, as in numerology, the (pseudo) science of numbers. Cf NUMBER.

numismato-: for numismatic, of or relating to coins, itself via F from L numisma, a coin, from Gr nomisma, the current coin(age), from nomos, law (cf the 1st nomo-). Ex: numismatology, now usu numismatics (cf ethics from adj ethic).

nummi-: from L nummus, a coin, perh from Gr nomimos, lawful (from nomos—cf nomo-), but perh rather a conflation of L numerus, number. Ex: nummiform, coin-shaped.

nutri-: from L nūtrīre (s nūtr-), to nourish; as in nutrify (cf -fy).

nycteri-; -nycteris: from Gr nukteris, a bat, from nukt-, o/s of nux, night. It occurs only in Zoo generic names. Cf:

nyct(i)-, nyct(o)-: from Gr nukt(i)-, nukt(o)-, c/ff of nux (gen nuktos), night, akin to L nox (cf nocti- above) and E NIGHT. Exx: nyctalopia (adopted from LL), from L nyctalops, from Gr nuktalōps, a person suffering from either night- or day-blindness, but perh a direct adaptation of LGr nuktalōpia (nukt-+al(aos), blind+opia, vision, from ōps, eye); nyctitropism, the tendency of e.g. clover leaflets to assume special nocturnal positions; nyctophobia (cf -phobe).

-nym. See -onym.

nympho-: from Gr nympho-, c/f of nymphē, a nymph: cf NYMPH. Exx: nympholepsy, a being ecstatically enchanted by a nymph; nymphomania, an habitual excess of eroticism in a woman.

-nyxis: from Gr nuxis, a pricking or a stabbing, from nussein, Attic nuttein, to prod or prick or stab. In Surg it denotes a puncture, as in scleronyxis (cf sclero-).

oari(o)-: from Gr diarion, a small egg, from ōion, an egg; syn with ovario-, q.v. Exx: oarialgia and oariotomy.

objecti-. See objectify at OBJECT.

obtus-: from L obtusus, obtuse, lit blunted, from obtundere, to blunt. Ex: obtusipennate, blunt-feathered. Cf contusion.

occipito-: for E occiput, adopted from L occiput (ob, towards+caput, the head—cf CAPITAL), gen occipitis, o/s occipit-, whence the ML adj occipitalis, whence occipital: 'occipital and', as in occipitofrontal.

occluso-: from L occlusus, closed (from claudere, to shut, close). Ex: occlusometer. Cf CLOSE.

oceano-: c/f for OCEAN. Exx: oceanography (cf -graphy at -graph), the geography of the ocean.

ocelli-: from L ocellus, a little eye, hence an eye-like spot; dim of oculus, q.v. at oculi-. Exx: ocelliferous, ocelliform. Cf EYE.

ochlo-: Gr okhlo-, c/f of okhlos, a crowd, a mob, the populace; basic idea perh 'a stirring, a moving'—? cf WAGGON. Exx: ochlocracy, via F ochlocratie from Gr okhlokratia, mob-rule (cf -cracy); ochlophobia, a morbid fear of crowds.

ochro-: Gr okhro-, c/f of okhros, pale-yellow, the n being okhra, whence ochre. Ex: ochrolite (cf lite, stone).

oct(a)-, oct(o)-, octu-: 1st, 2nd, from Gr okta-, okt(ō)-, c/f of oktō, eight; octo- occ from derivative L octo; octu-, L octu-, c/f of octo; cf EIGHT. Exx: octachord, an eight-stringed instrument, from Gr oktakhordos, having eight strings; octagon, via L from Gr oktagōnos, eight-cornered; octahedron, Gr oktaedron, from oktaedros, eight-sided; octameter, n from LL adj octameter, from Gr oktametros, having eight (metrical) feet; octangular, from L octangulus, eight-cornered; octarchy (cf -archy, rule, at -arch), a state ruled by, or government by, eight persons; OCTOPUS; octuplication, LL octuplicatio (gen -plicationis).

oculi-, ocul(o)-: from L oculus, an eye: cf EYE. Exx: oculiform, eye-shaped; oculomotor (adj), eyeball-moving; oculo-nasal, of the eye and nose.

ocy-: Gr ōku-, c/f of ōkus, swift, akin to L ocior, swifter, and Skt ācūs, swift. Exx: the Zoo Ocydromus, Ocy-pode, Ocroë, all from Gr originals.

-od; -odic-: c/f of od (adj odic), Reisenbach's supposed natural force or power, arbitrarily named, yet perhaps from Gr hodos, the way: cf the 2nd -ode. Exx: crystallo-d, magnetod, pantod; adj in -odic.

-ode (1), 'thing that resembles' as in geode (cf geo-); pl -odes, esp for generic names in Bot and Zoo, as in Acanthodes (cf acantho-). From Gr -ōdēs (pl -ōdēs), c/f formed from connective -o- and -eidēs, like, similar, from eidōs, form. Cf -ody, from Gr -ōdia, a resembling, hence a transformation into, as in petalody.

-ode (2), as in cathode (cf prefix cata-) and electrode: from Gr hodos, path or way: cf and see the 2nd odo-.

-ode (3) or obs -ody; adj -odic; agent -odist: first two, from Gr -ōidia, c/f of ōidē, a song; -odic, from Gr -ōidikos; -odist=od(e)+suffix -ist. Exx:

palinode, obs -ody, Gr palinōidia (παλινωδία), a singing-again or -back, a recantation; palinodic, Gr palinōidikos. Cf ODE.

-odic. See -od and -ode (3).

odio-: from L odor, smell, but shape-influenced by L odium. Ex: odimeter, for the detection of odorous vapours.

odo- (1), 'tooth': irregular c/f from Gr odōn, tooth, and occurring only in such Zoo techh as Odobenus and Odocoileus. Cf -odon.

odo- (2), 'way': from Gr hodo-, c/f of hodos (ὁδός), 'path, road, route, way', s hod-, app akin to the ced- of L cedere, to go; IE s, perh khed-* or khod-*. Ex: odograph, an instrument measuring either distance or, for a walker, length and pace of stride—cf odometer. Cf hodo-.

odo- (3): irreg from E odo(u)r, as in odophone. Cf odori-.

1 -odon; 2 -odont, 3 -odonta, 4 -odontes, 5 -odontia, 6 -odontology; 7 -odus;—8 odont(o)-: 1, Gr -odōn, c/f of odōn (gen odontos), a tooth, with E denotation 'toothed', as in mastodont (cf masto- at -mastia), 'so called from the conical [lit, breast-shaped] projections upon its molar teeth' (Webster); 2, from odont-, o/s of odōn, with pl -odonta, occodontes, as in lophodont (cf lopho-) and Bunodontia (cf buno-); 5 (-odontia) 'form or condition or treatment of teeth', from odont-, o/s of odōn+Med suffix -ia, as in macrodontia (cf macro-); 6 (-odontology) 'type of formation of the teeth', from odont-+y (n suffix), as in selenodonty (cf seleno- from Gr selēnē, the moon); 7 (-odus), Gr -odous, c/f of odous (better odōn), tooth, with E denotation 'toothed', as in Chiasmus, from Gr khiasma, two lines set crosswise; 8 (odonto-), Gr o/s odont-+connective -o- (usu omitted before a vowel), as in odontology, tooth-lore, and odontotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

odori-; odoro-: the former=L odori-, c/f of odor, odour; the latter, by Gr influence, from L odor: cf ODOR. Exx: odoriferous, smell-yielding, now usu sweet-scented, perfumed, from L odorifer (cf -fer); odorometer.

-ody. See the 1st and 3rd -ode.

-odyne; -odynia: resp from Gr odunē, pain, as is adj anodyne, L anodynus, Gr anodunos, free from—hence, assuaging—pain; and from Gr -odunia, c/f of odunē (s odun-), perh from IE r ed-*, to eat (into); hence, in E, morbid pain, as in neurodynia (cf neuro- at -neura). Adj in -odynic, as in anodynic, neurodynic.

-oeca, -oecia; oeco-: first two, from Gr oikos, a house, the former in Zoo, the latter in Bot; oeco-, a now rare var of eco-, q.v. Exx: Bioeca; Monoecia; oecodomie (Gr oikodomikos, skilled in building), architectural, and oecumenic (Gr oikomenikos, adj of oikoumenē (gē): the inhabited world), worldwide, general—cf ECONOMIC.

oede-, oedi-: from Gr oidein (s oid-), to swell. Only in Zoo; exx, Oedemeridae and Oedicnemus. The var oedo-, as in Oedogonium, occurs only in Bot.

oen(o)-: the L form of Gr oin(o)-, c/f of oinos, wine, akin to L uinum, ML vinum: cf WINE. Exx: oenocyte (cf -cyte)—oenology, a study (-logy) of wines—oenomancy, divination (-mancy) by wine—oenophilist, a wine-lover—oenopoetic, concerned with wine-making (cf POET). The subsidiary oenanth(o)-, occurring in Chem, derives from Gr oinanthē (oinē, vine+anthē, bloom).

oesophag(o)-. See esophago-.

oestr(i)-: from L oestrus, Gr oistros, a gadfly, (hence) fury, frenzy: cf IRE. Ex: oestriasis (cf -iasis).

oidio-: from SciL oldium, fungus, lit a dim from Gr ōion (cf L ouum, ML ovum), an egg. Ex: oldiomycosis (cf -mycosis at -myces).

oiko-: a now very rare var of eco-, q.v. Ex: oikology, ecology; also, household management.

oino-: a now rare var of oeno-, q.v. Exx: oinology, oinomancy.

-ol (1), as in cresol and glycerol, derives from alcohol and represents either 'alcohol' or 'phenol'.

-ol (2), as in benzol, is a var of -ole, and derives from L oleum, olive oil (from olea, an olive or an olive tree)—cf OIL.

-ole. See prec.

ole-. Short, before a vowel, for oleo-, q.v. in:

olei-; oleo-: resp from L oleum and from L oleo-, c/f of oleum, olive—hence, any—oil: cf the 2nd -ol. Exx: oleiferous, oil-producing; oleograph, oleometer, oleoresin, oleothorax. In Chem, oleo- is the c/f for oleic and olein, as in oleomargarine.

olfacto-: for olfactory, of, by, for the sense of smell, from L olfacere, to smell, from odefacere, to cause to smell. Exx: olfactology, olfactometer.

-olic; -olid(e): in Chem terms only.

olig(o)-: Gr olig(o)-, c/f of oligos, small, and the pl oligoi, the few, s olig-, akin to Gr loigos (s loig-), ruin, death. Exx: oligarchy, rule by the few; oligodontous, scant-toothed; oligophrenia, feeble-mindedness.

olivi-: ML olivi-, L olīvi-, c/f of oliva, olīva, olive(-tree): cf OLIVE. Ex: oliviferous, ML olivifer, L olīuifer, olive-bearing, hence -producing.

[-ology is not an element: it represents the dominant Gr, hence the predominant E, connective -o-+-logy, q.v. at -loger. But the frequency of its occurrence accounts for the individual ology of 'the ologies and isms'.]

olpidi-: irreg from Gr olpis (gen olpidos), a leather flask. Ex: Bot Olpidiaster.

ombri-; ombro-: the former, anl with the L connective -i-, the latter true to Gr ombro-, c/f of ombros, a shower, rain, akin to Skt āmbhas, water, and perh to L imber, a (heavy) shower, rain. Exx: ombrifuge (cf -fuge), a protection from rain; ombrograph, ombrometer, forms of rain-gauge; ombrophilous and -phobous, (in Bot) capable—incapable—of withstanding much rain.

oment(o)-: for L and E (in An) omentum, a kind of caul, prob from root of L induere, to cover, and exuere, to pull off, to shed. Ex: omentotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

omma-, ommato-: from Gr omma, the eye, gen ommatos, onnh (Hofmann) for opma*: cf -ope.

Exx: Ommastrephes, lit 'the eye-turners'; ommatophore (cf -phore at -phora).

omni-: L omni-, c/f of omnis, neu omne, all (quantity), and omnes, neu omnia (number): cf OMNIBUS. Exx: omnifarious, of all shapes or sizes, L omnifārius (cf -fārius); omnipotence, unlimited power (cf POTENT) in everything, from LL omnipotentia, from L omnipotens (gen -potentis), whence omnipotent; omnipresent, ML omnipraesens (gen -praesentis: cf PRESENT); omniscience, all-knowledge, ML omniscientia; omnivorous (cf -vora), all-devouring, anything-eating, from ML omnivorus, L omniūorus.

om(o)- (1): Gr ōmo-, c/f of ōmos, the shoulder, akin to L humerus, cf humero-. Exx: omodynia, pain (cf -odyne) in the shoulder; omoplate, the scapula or shoulder-blade, from Gr ōmoplastē, a platē being a FLAT surface.

omo- (2): Gr ōmo-, c/f of ōmos, raw, akin to syn Skt amas, OIr om; IE s, prob ōmo-, alternating with ōmo- and having var āma-; r, om-, am-. Ex: omphagous, habitually eating (cf -phagous at -phaga) raw flesh, Gr ōmophagos.

omphal(o)-; -omphalus: Gr omphal(o)-, c/f of omphalos (s omphal-), the navel—indeed, see NAVEL; omphalus, the SciL form of Gr omphalos. Exx: omphaloskepsis, (a) navel-gazing—a practice of the omphalopsychites (cf psycho-) or Hesychasts (from Gr hēsukhos, calm, still, still and calm) or contemplatives.

oncho-, as in onchocerciasis (oncho+cerc- for Gr kerk(os), a tail+-iasis), is a var of:

onco- (1): from Gr onkos, weight, (a) mass, bulk, largeness, as in oncometer, but in Mod Gr and E Med a tumour, as in oncology and oncotomy. The Gr ὄγκος, onkos, seems to be an altered metathesis of the enenk- of ἐνεγκεῖν, enenkein (an aorist inf), to carry; the IE s was perh enek-* to reach, (but also) to carry, as Boisacq proposes. Cf the derivative SciL -oncus, a tumour in a (specified) part, as in nephroncus (cf neph-, for nephro-, 'kidney-').

onco- (2): from Gr onkos (ὄγκος), a hook or a barb, s onk-, akin to the unc- of L uncus, hooked, hence, n, a hook, and to Gr ankōn (ἀγκών), angle or hook of the arm, i.e. the elbow. Ex: Oncorhynchus (cf -rhynchus at rhyncho-, 'snout').

-oncus. See the 1st onco-, at end.

ondo-: from OF-F onde (L unda), a wave: cf undi-. Exx: ondometer, ondoscope.

oneir(o)-; occ, rather loosely, onir(o)-: Gr oneir(o)-, c/f of oneiros (s oneir-), a dream; cf the syn Aeolic onoiros and Cretan anairos—and Arm anurj; IE r, onar-* or oner-* or onir-* or onor-, with varr anar-, aner-, etc. Exx: oneirocritic(al), Gr oneirokritikos, skilled in—or relating to—the interpretation of dreams; oneiromancy, divination (-mancy) by dream.

onisci-: from SciL Oniscus, a genus of wood lice, from the syn Gr oniskos, orig 'the little ass', dim of onos, ass.

-onium: Chem c/f for ammonium, as in sulphonium.

ono- (1): Gr ono-, c/f of onos, an ass, akin to L asinus, akin to Sumerian anšu, anše: cf ASS. Exx: Onobrychis, Gr onobrukhis, lit 'ass-fodder', from brukhein, to eat greedily; onocentaur, Gr onokentauros; onolatry, ass-worship. Cf onisco-.

ono- (2): a faulty c/f from Gr onoma, a name: cf next. Ex: onomancy (cf -mancy), divination by names.

onomato-: Gr onomato-, c/f of onoma, a name, gen onomatos, o/s onomat-; akin to L nōmen, E NAME. Exx: onomatology, terminology; onomatomania, a senseless repetition of certain words or phrases; onomatopoeia, lit 'name-making', the LL form of Gr onomatopoiia, 2nd element from poiain, to make (cf POET). Cf -onym.

onto-: either from Gr ont-, o/s of -ōn (gen ontos), existing, being, or from Gr 'ta onta', the existents, the things that are, the realities, reality, onta being the neupl of ōn, existing. Exx: ontogeny (cf -geny at -gen); ontography; ontology, the philosophy (cf -logy at -loger) of reality, from Eccl L ontologia (cf -logia).

1 -onycha, 2 -onychus, 3 -onychia, 4 -onychus, 5 -onyx; 6 onycho- (1)-(3), pl of (4), -onychus, SciL from Gr -onukhos, from onux (whence 5, -onyx), nail or claw, or rather from its o/s onukh- (gen onukhos), cf NAIL; 6, onycho-, from Gr onukh(o)-, c/f of onux, gen onukhos. Exx: scleronychia (cf sclero-); acronymx; onychopathy, onychophagy (nail-eating, i.e. -biting).

-onym, -onyma, -onymic, -onymous, -onymy: -onyma comes from the f sing or the neupl of Gr -ōnumos (adj), 'named'; -onym, name, comes from Gr -ōnumon, c/f of onuma, var of onoma (cf onomato- above), a name; -onymic, from LL -onymicus, from Gr -ōnumikos, from onuma—in E, adj and derivative n; -onymous, adj, from Gr -ōnumos, from onuma; -onymy, (occ via F -onymie) from Gr -ōnumia. Cf L nōmen and E NAME.

Exx: pseudonym, F pseudonyme, from Gr pseudōnumos (adj), bearing a false name (cf pseudo-), whence directly the adj pseudonymous; Anonyma, fanciful female name, and anonyma, the innominate artery, but also, as pl, anonymous works; patronymic, n from adj, LL patrōnymicus, Gr patrōnumikos, from patēr, father, and onuma; anonymous, Gr anōnumos, nameless (privative a-); synonymy, LL synōnymia, Gr sunēnumia, from sunōnumos, named together, whence LL synōnymus, whence synonymous—cf synonym, like F synonyme from LL synōnyma, pl of synōnymum, L attempt at Gr sunōnumon, orig the neu s of sunōnumos synonymous.

-onyx. See -onycha.

ō-; ōphor(o)- and ōthec(o)-: resp Gr ō-, c/f of ōion, an egg, akin to L ōuum (ML ōvum); from SciL ōphoron, an ovary, ōd-+the neu of Gr -phoros, bearing, from pherein, to bear; from SciL ōitheca, an egg-case, ōd-+L thēca, from Gr thēkē, a case (container). Exx: ōcyst, -cyte, -gamete, -gonium, -lite, -logy, -mancy, -meter, -phyte, -plasm, -spore; ōphoromania, insanity caused by disease of ovaries.

opaci-: from L opācus—cf OPAQUE. Ex: opacify (cf -fy).

1 -ope, 2 -opia, 3 -opic, 4 -opis, 5 -ops, 6 -opy: 1, from Gr -ōps, c/f of ōps, eye; 2, from L -opia, from Gr -ōpia, from ōps, gen ōpos, -opy being, occ via F -opie, the E shape; 3, from or anl with Gr -ōpikos, occ via L -opicus and F -opique; 4, Gr -ōpis, -eyed, like (4) from ōp-, the o/s of ōps whence the -ops of Cyclops and many Sci terms.

Exx: myope, a short-sighted person, adopted from EF-F, from LL myops, from Gr muōps (gen muōpos), i.e. mu-, s of muein, to close+-ops; myopia, SciL, and myopy, from F myopie; Cyclopic, of or like a Cyclops, from Gr kuklōpikos, adj of Gr kuklōps, L and E Cyclops, (the) round-eyed (one), from kuklos (c/f kukl(o)-), a circle+-ōps.

opera-, as in operameter (an instrument for counting rotations): L opera, pl of opus (gen operis), work; but in operalogue it = E opera.

operculi-: for E, from L, operculum, a cover or lid, (hence, in Zoo) a lid-like part or process; from operire, to cover. Ex: operculiferous.

ophi(o)-; -ophis: Gr ophi(o)-, c/f of ophis (whence -ophis), a serpent, s oph-, akin to L anguis (cf angul-above); IE etymon oghis* or eghis*, r ogh-* or egh-*. Exx: Ophioglossum or adder's-tongue (Bot), ophiolatry or serpent-worship, ophiolite or serpentine, ophiomorphic, Ophisaurus; Hydrophis. The Gr dim ophidion, a little snake, yields the c/f ophidio-, as in ophidiophobia, a dread of snakes.

ophthalm(o)-: Gr ophthalm(o)-, c/f of ophthalmos, eye, app akin to ōps (q.v. at -ope) and opsis, sight (q.v. at -opsia). Exx: ophthalmology, the science of the eyes; ophthalmoscope, an instrument for looking (cf -scope) inside the eye. For end-c/ff we have -ophthalma, as in Edriophthalma (from Gr hedra, a seat: cf -hedral), and, ? loosely, -ophthalmia, as in Podophthalmia (cf -pod), both being neupl forms; -ophthalmia, Gr -ophthalmia (f sing), for ophthalmia, inflammation of the eye, as in circsophthalmia (cf cirso-); -ophthalmus, a SciL c/f, as in megalophthalmus (cf megalo- at mega-).

-opia, -opic. See -ope.

opio-: for L opium or adopted E OPIUM, as in opiomania. Cf opo-.

-opis. See -ope.

opo-: Gr opo-, c/f of opos (s op-), juice, perh of non-IE origin. Ex: opobalsam(um), L opobalsamum, Gr opobalsamon (opo-+balsamon, balsam); opopanax, adopted from Gr, 2nd element panax, pl panakes, some sort of herb, from panakēs, all-curing; opotherapy.

oppositi-: from L oppositus, (placed or situated) opposite, cf OPPOSITE. Ex: oppositiflorous.

-ops. See -ope.

-opsia, Gr and derivative L form, and -opsy, its E shape; -opsis; -opsio-: resp Gr -opsia; Gr -opsis; (opsio-) from Gr opsis, sight, whence obviously -opsis and almost as obviously -opsia; opsis is akin to Homeric osse, the two eyes, and both to ōps, eye (cf -ope above): cf OPTIC. Exx: anopsia, blindness (cf prefix an-, not); Amblyopsis, a blindfish (cf ambly-); opsiometer, an optometer for measuring sight).

opsoni-, opsono-: c/f for opsonin, a blood-serum constituent, from Gr opsōnein, to purchase victuals. Exx: opsoniferous and opsonotherapy.

1 opti-, 2 optico-, 3 opto-; 4 -optic, 5 -opticon: -3 are all c/f of the E adj optic, but 1 and 3 denote 'vision' or 'the eye' and 2 denotes 'optic and'; 4, another c/f of optic, denotes 'of the eye, optic'; 5 stands for stereopticon (cf stereo-), a highly developed magic lantern; for all, cf OPTIC. Exx: optigraph, an instrument that copies (cf graph) landscapes; optico(-)chemical; 'vision', as in optology and optometer, and '(of the eye)', as in optotype; magneto-optic and synoptic, Gr sunoptikos, from sunopsis, a general view; panopticon.

or-: F or-, irreg for L auri, of gold: cf the 1st ori-. Ex: orpiment, yellow arsenic, adopted from OF, from L auripigmentum, pigment of gold.

-orama: from Gr horama, a sight or view or spectacle, from horan, to see. Exx: cyclorama (cf cyclo-); diorama (prefix di- for dia-, through); panorama, an all-inclusive view, cf pan-.

orbi-: from L orbis: cf ORB. Ex: orbific (cf -fic), world-creating.

orbito-: a Med c/f from L orbita, orbit, esp the orbit of the eye: cf orbit at ORB. Exx: ('the orbit') orbitotomy (cf -tomy at -tome); ('of the orbit and') orbitonasal.

-orcheso-: from Gr orkhēsis, (art of) dancing: cf ORCHESTRA. Ex: orchesography, a treatise on dancing.

orchid(o)-; orchid(o)-: c/f from orkhidos* (via L orchidis), an imaginary gen of orkhis, and c/f for ORCHID; (orchio-) c/f from Gr orkhis, gen orkhios, testicle (see ORCHID). Exx: ('testicle') orchidotomy; ('orchid') orchidomania; orchiotomy; Cf the Med -orchism, denoting a (specified) testicular condition or form, as in cryptorchism (cf crypto-), and:

orcho-: Gr orkho-, a c/f of orkhis, testicle, as in orkhotomia, whence E orchotomy. Cf prec.

ore(o)-; Gr ore(o)-: c/f of oros (gen oreos), a mountain: cf the An oro-. Ex: oreortyx, a mountain quail (Gr ortux, a quail).

-orexia: Med L, from Gr orexis (s orex-), appetite, strong desire, akin to oregin (s oreg-), to stretch; IE r, reg-* or rek-*. Ex: parexia, perverted appetite (cf prefix para-).

organi-; organo-: c/f for E organ, as in organific; Gr organo-, c/f of organon, an organ: see ORGAN. Ex: organogen (cf -gen)—organography—organology.

ori- (1), 'boundary' or 'limit': either from Gr horos (ἕρος) or from its prob cognate, L ōra, edge, seashore; both words are o.o.o. Ex: oriconic, oricyclic. Cf the 3rd oro-.

ori- (2), 'mountain' or 'of the mountain(s)': Gr orei- or ori-, c/f of oros, a mountain: cf the 1st oro-. Exx: orichalch, an ancient precious substance, yellow-hued, via L from Gr oreikhalkos (cf chalco-); organ, an aromatic mint, perh via F, from L origanum, from Gr or(e)iganon, prob from oros+ganos (cf gano-), brightness, bright beauty, beauty.

ori- (3), 'mouth' or 'of the mouth': L ōri-, c/f of ōs (gen ōris), mouth: cf ORAL. Exx: orifacial and orifice (L ōrificiūm, (lit) a mouth-making); oriform, orinasal.

ori- (4), 'gold' or 'of gold' (golden): via OF ori- or orie-, from L aure- or aurea(-), ult from aurum (s aur-). Exx: oriflamme, adopted from F, from OF orieflambe, from L aurea flamma (golden flame), by folk-etymology for labari flamma (LL labarum, from LGr labaron, imperial standard); oriole, from OF oriol, L aureolus, rather golden, from aureus, golden, from aurum.

orismo-: from Gr horismos, a delimitation (cf the 1st ori-), a definition, as in orismology, the defining of technical terms.

-ornis, -ornithes; ornis-; ornithi-, rare var of ornitho- (before vowel, ornith-): resp from Gr ornis (s orn-), a bird, whence ornis-, pl ornithes, whence -ornithes; Gr ornith(o)-, c/f of ornis, o/s ornith-, akin to OHG arn, eagle, pl erni-, and Hit haras, gen haranas, eagle; IE r, perh ar-, varr er- and or-*, with extensions in -n. Exx: Dinornis, a prehistoric bird (cf dino-, terrible), pl Dinornithes; orniscope, for ornis-scopy, ornithomancy; ornithivorous, bird-eating; ornithobiography—ornithology (cf -logy at -logia) bird-lore, whence ornithologist—ornithomancy, Gr ornithomanteia, divination (cf -mancy) by birds—ornithophilous, (of plants) bird-loving—ornithoscopy, Gr ornithoskopia, ornithomancy—ornithotomy, dissection of birds.

oro- (1), 'mountain' or 'of the mountain(s)': Gr oro, c/f of oros, mountain; IE s, prob or-, with var er-, an elevation. Exx: orocratic (cf -cratic at -cracy); orogeny, mountain-making (n), cf -geny at -gen; orography and orology; orometer.

oro- (2), 'whey', hence 'serum': from Gr oros (s or-), whey, akin to L serum (see SERUM). Ex: orotherapy. Cf orrh-.

oro- (3), 'mouth' or 'of the mouth': from ōr-, o/s of L ōs (gen ōris), mouth—cf the 3rd ori-. Exx: orolingual; oropharynx; orotund, lit 'round-mouthed', hence 'clear and loud', from Horace's ore rotundo, with round mouth.

orrh-: Gr orrh-, c/f of orrhos, serum, akin to Gr oros, whey—cf the 2nd oro-. Ex: orrhology, the science (-logy) of serums.

orth(o)-: Gr orth(o)-, c/f of orthos, straight, s orth-, akin to Skt ūrdvās, high, and perh to L arduus, steep. Exx: orthobiosis, right living; ORTHODOX; orthoëpy, correct pronunciation (Gr epos, a word); orthography, correct spelling (lit, correct writing); orthop(a)edics, the prevention—or the correction—of deformity, esp in children (pais, a child, gen paidos: cf the 1st ped-); orthoptic, of, for, by correct vision; orthoscope; orthotectic (cf -tect).

orycto-: from Gr oruktos, dug (up), quarried, from orukhein (s orukh-), earlier orussein, to dig; IE r, prob *(e)reu(k)-, the e- being perh a prefix. Ex: oryctology, either palaeontology or mineralogy.

oryzi-, oryz(o)-: from L oryza, from Gr oruzu, rice: cf RICE. Exx: oryzivorous, rice-eating, and Oryzorictes, 'rice-diggers' (cf orycto-), small moles of Madagascar.

osche(o)-: from Gr oskheon, the scrotum. Ex: oscheolith.

oscillo-: from L ōscillāre, to swing or oscillate: cf OSCILLATE. Exx: oscillogram, oscillograph; oscillometer, oscilloscope.

Osco-: for Oscan, as in Osco-Umbrian (languages).

osculi-, as in osculiferous (cf -fer): from L ōsculum, a little mouth, hence, in Zoo, an orifice in a sponge or a tapeworm's sucker; dim of ōs, mouth.

1 -osma;—2 osma-, 3 osmio-, 4 osm(o)-: 1, 'smelling' (n), as in Coprosma, from Gr -osmos, an end-c/f of osmē, a smell; 2, rare (osmazome, 2nd element being Gr zōmos, juice, broth); 3, for SciL osmium; 4, Gr osmo-, c/f of osmē, a smell, as in Osmanthus, osmology, but in Chem a c/f for osmious, the adj of osmium. Gr osmē is akin to Gr ōdmē, dust, smoke, and to L odor, osmē being for odsmē*; IE r, od-.

osmo- (1). See prec.

osmo- (2): c/f for E osmosis, itself=osmo-, from ōsmos, an impulse (from ōthein, to push or impel) + suffix -osis. Ex: osmometer.

-osmosis, with its adj -osmotic: c/f of osmosis (see prec). Ex: chemosmosis, chemical action through a membrane.

-osphresia; osphresio-: Med c/ff from Gr osphrēsis, sense of smell (cf -osma), with adj -osphretic (Gr osphrētikos), as in oxyosphresia, oxyosphretic; osphresiology.

osphy(o)-: from Gr osphus, the hip or loin, gen osphuos. Ex: osphyalgia (cf -algia, pain).

osse-; ossi-: resp from L osseus, osseous or bony, from os (gen ossis), a bone, and L ossi-, c/f of os, akin to Gr osteon (cf osteo-) and Skt asthi; IE r, prob ast-, with var ost-. Exx: osse(-)neurotic, of bone and nerve; ossiferous, bone-producing; ossification, from 'to ossify', itself perh from F ossifier, to convert or be turned into bone.

ost-, short for osteo-, as also is oste-; -osteon, -osteus, -ostosis: Gr oste(o)-, c/f of osteon, a bone, akin to L os (gen ossis), var ossum—cf prec; (-osteus) from Gr -osteos, -boned, from osteon, whence -osteon; for ostosis, bone-formation (osteon + suffix -osis). Exx: ostalgia or ostealgia; osteology, the science of bones; osteometry, bone-measurement; osteopathy, treatment of bone-diseases (cf -pathy at -path); ostephone; osteotomy; -otosteon, a bone in the ear; Gasterosteus; sarcostosis, ossification of muscle (cf sarco-).

-ostraca; ostraco-: Gr ostraka, pl of ostrakon, a tile, a shell, and denoting, in E -ostraca, crustaceans' orders, divisions, etc., as in Arthrostraca (cf arthro-), with adj -ostracan or -ostracous; Gr ostrako-, c/f of ostrakon, as in ostracology, conchology. Cf OSTRACIZE.

ostrei-, ostre(o)-: the former from L ostreum, var ostrea, oyster, and the latter from its Gr original, ostreon, pl ostrea, akin to ostrakon (see prec). Exx: ostreiculture, oyster-culture, and ostreophagous, oyster-eating (cf -phaga).

-otic; ot(o)-: c/f of the adj otic (Gr ōtikos), of the ear; Gr ōt(o)-, c/f of ous (gen ōtos), the ear, akin to Av and OSI uši, the two ears, and OSI ucho, OIr áu, ō, L auris, an ear; with the -r- form, cf OHG ōra, ōri-, and ON eyra—therefore E EAR; IE etymon, app ous* or aus*. Exx: binotic, or for both ears: otolith (cf -lite), a 'stone' in the ear of vertebrates, and otology, science of the ear. The Gr dim ōtíon has c/f otio-, as in Otiorthynchidae. Cf:

otico-: from Gr ōtikos, of the ous (gen ōtos) or ear: cf prec. Ex: oticonidia (Gr dinē, a whirling), vertigo arising from ear trouble. Cf otio-.

otid-: from Gr ōtis (gen ōtidos), a bastard. Ex: Otidiphaps (Gr phaps, a wild pigeon).

otio-, as in the Zoo Otiorthynchidea (cf rhyngo-): from Gr ōtíon, a little ear, dim of ous: cf -otic.

oto-. See -otic.

ovali-: for oval, as in ovaliform.

ovari(o)-, ovato-; ovi-, ov(o)-: resp c/f of SciL ovarium, an ovary, as in ovariotomy (cf -tomy at -tome); from ML ovātus (L ovātus), ovate (egg-shaped), as in ovatoconical; ML ōvi- (L ōvi-), c/f of ML ōvum (L ōvum), an egg—cf OVAL—as in oviduct, a duct for the passage of eggs, and oviparous, producing young from eggs, from ML ōviparus (L ōvi-), cf -parous at -para; (ovo-) by Gr example (see oo-) from ML ōvum, L ōvum, as in ovology, the embryology of eggs. The subsidiary ovuli-, as in ovuliferous, stands for ovule, F dim of ML ovum.

ox- (1): short for oxalo-. Ex: oxamide.

ox- (2): 'presence of oxygen', as in oxazole, and therefore the pre-vocalic form of the syn oxa-, as in oxadiazole.

oxa-. See prec.

oxalato-: for oxalate. Cf:

oxal(o)-: for OXALIC.

oxidi-, oxido-: like the prec five terms, in Chem only: 'oxide' or 'oxidation', as in oxidimetry (cf -metry at -meter) and oxido(-)reduction.

oxo-, 'presence of oxygen': from the 2nd oxy-, as in oxozone.

oxy- (1): Gr oxu-, c/f of oxus, sharp, keen, (hence) acid, as in oxymoron, something sharply foolish (cf the E moron), hence the figure of speech in toilsome idleness or busy holiday: cf OXYGEN.

oxy- (2): 'presence of oxygen', as in oxyacetylene.

ozo-; ozoni-; ozono-: the 2nd and 3rd, for ozone, as in ozoniferous and ozonometry; the 1st, from Gr ozo-, c/f from ozein (s oz-), to smell, and denoting 'bad' smell', as in ozocerite. The r oz- is akin to the r od- of L odor.

pachno-, as in Min pachnolie (-lite, -stone): from Gr pakhnē, hoar frost, akin to pagos, ice; IE r, pag-*. Cf pago-.

pachy-: Gr pakhu-, c/f of pakhus, thick, s pakh-, akin to Skt bahús, much (or great), many, and the nasalized Hit pankus, widespread, great. (Hofmann.) Exx: pachyderm, from F pachyderme, and pachydermos, both from Gr pakhudermos, thick-skinned (cf -derm); also SciL Pachydermata and its adj pachydermatous.

paci-, c/f of L pāx (gen pācis), peace. Notably, only in PACIFIC, pacify, etc.

-paedes: from Gr paides, children, from pais, a child. Only in Zoo.

paedo-. A now rare and typically L var of the 1st pedo-. Cf paido-.

pagano-: from LL pāgānus, a pagan: cf PAGAN. Ex: pagano-Christian.

pagio-: from Gr pagios, firm, app akin to pagos, ice; cf pachno-. Ex: Zoo Pagiopoda (cf -pod). Cf the next two.

pagō-, as in pagoscope, an instrument for determining, immediately, whether the dew-point is below freezing: from Gr pagos, frost, a freezing, hence a fixation, s pag-; IE s, pāg- or pag-. Cf:

-pagus: a SciL, esp Med, c/f from Gr pagos, a being fixed, a fixing or fixation: cf prec. Ex: thoracopagus, 'a twin monster united at the thorax' (Webster).

paido-. A now very rare, typically Gr, var of the 1st pedo-. Cf paedo-.

palai(o)-, Gr form; palae(o)-, L form; pale(o)-, predominant Am and increasingly common E form: Gr palai(o)-, whence L palae(o)-, c/f of Gr palaiois, whence L palaeus, ancient, (very) old; prob akin to Skt caramās, last, extreme, and W pell, distant, pellaf, outermost, and Cor pell, Br pél, far, distantly. Exx: palaiotype; Palaeomastodon, Palaeornis (cf -ornis); paleobotany, paleolithic, belonging to the Stone Age (cf -lith at -lite); paleology, a study of (prehistoric) antiquities; pal(ae)ontology, the science (-logy) of ancient (palaeo-) things (onto-), i.e. periods; Pal(aeozoic (cf -zoic at zo-).

palato-, either 'the palate', as in palatogram (cf the 2nd -gram) and palatometer, or, in adj, 'of the palate and', as in palatoglossal, of the palate and tongue (cf -glossa).

pale(o)-. See palai(o)-.

palī-, palim-, palin-: Gr palī-, palim-, palin-, c/f of palin (Pontic Gr pali), backwards, in opposition, again, s pal-; IE r, prob pal-, with varr pel- and, ? less frequent, pol-*. Exx: palikinesia, palilalia, both indicating a quite pathological repetition, the former of movement, the latter of speech: palilogy, from LL palilogia, from Gr palilogia, rhetorical, esp if emphatic, repetition of a word; -palimpsest, a parchment or tablet written on, several times, with first writing erased, from L palimpsestus, Gr palimpsestos, again scratched or scraped or rubbed, 2nd element being the pp of Gr psēn, to rub (away); -palindrome, a word reading the same, either way, from Gr palindromos, (adj) running back (cf -drome); palingenesis; palinode, LL palinōdia, Gr palinōidia, a song or an ode, that retracts something already sung, hence a recantation—cf ODE.

palladio- and pallado-: in Chem, c/f for palladium, a rare metallic element.

pallidi-: from L pallidus, pale (cf PALE, adj), as in pallidiflorous, pale-flowered.

pallio-: c/f for Met pallium, a mantle or cloud (L pallium, a cloak), as in palliostratus, and for An pallium, the cerebral cortex, as in palliocardiac.

pallo-, as in pallograph and pallometric, comes from the Gr pallein (s pal-), to shake or quake or quiver. Cf palamo-.

palmati-: from L palmātus, hand-shaped, as in palmati(-)lobate; from L palma, the palm of the hand, hence, prob by folk-etymology, a palm-tree, as in palmiform, shaped like the palm of the hand, and palmiped, broad-footed. See PALM.

palamo-: from Gr palmos, (a) pulsation, prob akin to PULSE (a regular beat, esp of the heart); IE r, prob pel-, with extension pelm-. Exx: palmoscopy, observation (cf -scope) of the heart-beat; via the SciL palmus: palmospasmus. Cf pallo-.

palpi-, rarely palpo-: L palpus, the (soft) palm of the hand, hence SciL palpus, a feeler: cf PALPITATE. Exx: palpifer (Zoo), palpiform; palpocil (cf -cil), a hairlike feeler.

paludi-: L palūdi-, c/f of palūs (gen palūdis), a marsh, as in paludicole, a creature living in a marsh or the marshes, and paludiferous, marsh-producing. L palūs is prob akin to Gr plados, dampness, app by metathesis, and to Skt palva am, a pond, a marsh.

pam- is the form taken, before p, by pan-; as in pampharmacon and the obs pamphagous, omnivorous.

pampini-, pampino-: c/ff from L pampinus, a tendril, app from Medit stock. Exx: pampiniform, pampinocele (-cele).

pan-, before p, usu pam-, q.v.: Gr pan-, c/f of pan, neus of pas (gen panios), every, all (quantitative sing; distributive pl, pantes, neu panta); IE r, prob kuān-*, o/s kuānt-; cf the Cretan and Thessalian panesa and the Hit pankus.

Exx: panacea, a cure-all, Gr panakeia, from panakēs, all-healing, 2nd element from akeisthai, to heal; pancreas (cf next entry), via SciL from Gr pankreas, (lit) all flesh, with adj pancreatic; pandemic, LL pandēmus, Gr pandēmos (or -dēmios), of, by, for all the people, from dēmos (cf demo-), the people; pandemonium, from Mod L Pandemonium, 'the place, abode of' all the demons (Gr daimōn, a spirit, a demon); Pandora, 'All the Gifts'—Gr dōra, pl of dōron, a gift; panegyric, n from adj, from EF-F panēgyrique, L panēgyricus, Gr panēgurikos, adj of panēguris, a gathering of the people, from aguris, an assembly, var of agora, from agein, s ag-, to lead—cf L agere, to drive; panoply, full (suit of) armour, Gr panoplia, from hopla, armour, the pl of hoplon, an implement; panoptic, Gr panoptēs, all-regarding, i.e. containing everything in one view—cf OPTIC; panorama=pan + -orama (q.v.), lit an all-inclusive view; pan-sophy, universal wisdom, from Gr pan-sophos, all-wise—cf SOPHIST; pantechnicon, a bazaar for all kinds of artistic work, hence a storehouse, hence an all-holding furniture van; pantheism, God in everything and everywhere (cf theo-); pantheon, via L from Gr pantheon, the place for all the gods, orig the neu of pantheios, of all the gods, from theos, a god; PANTOMIME. Cf panto-.

pancreat(o)-: from pancreat-, the o/s of Gr pankreas (kreas, flesh); as in pancreatalgia, pancreatotomy. The subsidiary pancreatico-, as in pancreaticosplenic, stands for 'pancreatic (and)'. Cf pan-.

panduri-, as in panduriform: from LL pandura, a pandura, a bandore.

pani-: from L pānis (s pān-), bread: cf PANTRY. Ex: panivorous (cf -vorous at -vora). panta-. Incorrect for panto-. Ex: pantagraph.

panto-: Gr panto-, c/f of pas, neu pan, gen pantos: cf pan-. Exx: pantalgia (cf -algia), pantiscocracy (panto-+iso+cracy), pantograph, an instrument for copying (cf -graph) maps or plans on any agreed scale; PANTOMIME; pantomnesia (cf -mnesia at mnemi-), a memory retaining something of everything ever known.

papi-. See papo-.

papilli-, papillo-: c/ff of L papilla, nipple of the breast. Exx: papilliform, nipple-shaped; papillo-sarcoma.

papo-; rarely papi-: from L papa, in its ML sense 'the Pope, or a pope'. Ex: papolatry, pope-worship; papicolist, a papist. (Cf PAPA.)

pappi-: c/f of Bot pappus, a sense adapted from that ('an old man') of L pappus, from Gr pappos—cf PAPA. Ex: pappiferous.

papuli-, papulo-: c/ff for papule, from L papula, a pimple, akin to L papilla (see papilli-). Exx: papuliferous and papulopustule.

papyro-: from L papyrus, from Gr papuros—see PAPER. Ex: papyrology, the study of papyri.

-para, n; -parous, adj: L -parus, f -para, -bearing (young), (hence) producing, from parere (s par-), to give birth to: cf PARENT. Exx: floriparous, LL flōriparus, flower-producing; oviparous (cf ovi-) and viviparous (cf vivi-);—L prīmipara, a woman bearing her first baby, adopted by Med.

paraleli-; parallel(o)-: resp for parallel, as in paralelinervate, and from Gr parallēlo-, c/f of parallēlos, parallel (see PARALLEL), as in parallelogram, via F and L from Gr parallēlogrammon, the 2nd element deriving from grammē, a line.

paramio-: irreg from Gr paroimia, a proverb (par(a)-, prefix+oimē, a saying). Cf paroemio-.

parasiti-; parasito-: the former for L parasitus; the latter for PARASITE; as in parasiticide (cf -cidal) and parasitology, the study of parasites.

parci-: L parci-, c/f of parcus, sparing, niggardly, from parcere, to spare. Exx: parcidentate, (in Zoo) possessed of few teeth—cf DENTAL; parciloquy, niggardliness of speech, L parciloquium—cf -loquy.

parel(a)-: from Gr pareia, cheek: '(the part) by the ear' (cf L auris, ear). Ex: Pal Pareiasauria.

parenti-: from L parens (gen parentis), a parent, from parere, to bear (a child). Ex: parenticide.

pari-: from L pār (gen paris), equal: see par-. Mostly in Bot and Zoo, as in paridigitate, equal-toed.

parieto-: in An, for parietal (n from adj), itself from LL parietālis, adj of pariēs, a wall. Ex: parietofrontal.

paroemio-: from Gr paroimia, a proverb: c paramio-. Ex: paroemiology, the study of proverbs -parous. See -para.

parri-, in parricide, stands for patri, c/f of L pater, father. Cf patri-.

parsono-: for parson, as in parsonolatry (cf -latry) at -later).

partheno-: Gr partheno-, c/f of parthenos, a maiden: denoting 'virgin' or 'asexual', as in parthenogenesis, virgin birth, but mostly in Zoc and Bot; parthenology, the medical study of virginity. The Parthenon (Gr Parthenōn) is dedicated to Athena, the virgin goddess.

parti-, as in parti-coloured, and its anglicized form party-, as in party-wall, represents the F parti, divided (from partir, to divide, ult from L pars, a PART), hence, occ, dividing. In participate, however, parti- is the L c/f.

parturi-, as in parturifacient (cf -facient), derives from L parturire, to desire to give birth, whence LL parturitio (gen -ionis), whence E parturition, childbirth.

parvi-: ML parvi- (L parui-), c/f of ML parvus (L paruus), little, small, akin to pauci, few. Ex: parvisflowered, small-flowered.

pasi-: from Gr pasi (dat pl of pas, q.v. at pan-), for all persons or things. Ex: pasigraphy, a universal language.

passeri-: from L passer, a sparrow, as in passeriform, like a sparrow.

passi-, as in Bot Passiflora and Passiflorales (cf flori-): from L passio, suffering, the Passion.

passiono-: for E passion; as in passionometer.

passo-, in passometer, an instrument (cf -meter) for recording a person's steps, represents L passus (gen passūs), a step—akin to PACE.

pasto-: from Gr pastos, a shrine, perh akin to passō, I sprinkle. Ex: pastophor(us), 'shrine-bearer' (cf -phora), an inferior priest.

patelli-, patello-: from L patella, a small pan (dim of patina, a pan or dish), esp the knee-pan. Exx: patelliform, patello(-)femoral.

-path, 2 -pathia, 3 -pathic, 4 -pathy; 5 path(o)-: resp Gr -pathēs, one suffering from, as in neuropath (cf neuro- at -neura), a nervous case, and psychopath (cf psycho-), one mentally and spiritually ill, hence, occ, one skilled in a special treatment, as in psychopath-, from pathos, a suffering; 2, the L (from Gr) -pathia, anglicized as -pathy, with corresponding adj -pathic, often after Gr -pathikos, from pathikos, the adj of pathos (akin to pathein, to suffer: see PATHOS), 2-4 being exemplified by psychopathia and psychopathy, adj psychopathic, and telepathy, telepathic, cf tele-; 5, Gr path(o)-, c/f of pathos, (a) suffering, as in pathology, the science (-logy) of disease(s), via F pathologie from Mod L pathologia.

patr(i)-; patro-: resp L patri-, c/f of pater (gen patris), and Gr patro-, c/f of patēr (gen patros), father: cf FATHER. Exx: patricide, an E form of parricide, q.v. at parr-; patrimony; Patrippasian, from LL Patrippassiani;—patrology, the teachings of the Church Fathers; patronymic (adj, hence n), L patrōnymicus, Gr patrōnymikos, 2nd element onuma, onoma, a name (cf onomato-).

But patri- may represent Gr patri-, c/f of patria (from patēr), lineage, as in patriarchy, Gr patriarkhia, and patriarch, OF-F patriarche, LL patriarcha, Gr patriarkhēs, -arkhēs deriving from arkhos, a chief (cf -arch). Cf:

patrio:- c/f of L patria, one's own country, from pater, father. Ex: patriolatry, worship (cf -latry at -later) of one's country. Cf patri- and, f.a.e., FATHER.

pauci:- L pauci-, c/f of pauci, few (sing paucus is rare), s pau-; cf paul(Dus), little. Ex: paucifolious, having few leaves, and pauciloquy, a little-speaking, i.e. brevity of speech, from Plautus's pauciloquium (cf -loquy at -loquence). Cf the derivative paucity, fewness, from L paucitās (gen paucitātis): pau+ extension -c+-itas (E suffix -ity). Cf:

paulo:- from Gr paula, a rest, akin to (? from) paunomai (s pau-), I pause: cf PAUSE. Ex: Bot paucospora (cf -spora).

pauro-, as in Zoo paurometabolism and Pauro-poda, comes from Gr pauros, small, pau+ extension r+-os; akin to L paucus and parvus, qq.v. at parvi- and pauci-.

pectinato-, from L pectinātus (combed), pp of pectināre, to comb, but in E denoting 'comb-shaped'; and pectini-, c/f of pecten (whence pectināre), gen pectinis, akin to pectere (s pect-), to comb, to card (wool), akin to—prob from—Gr pekein (s perk-), to comb. Exx: pectinotopinnate (cf pennati-); pectiniferous, pectiniform.

pecto:- from Gr pēktos, compacted, from pēgnunai, to render stiff, as in pectolith (cf -lite); or for the adj (pectic) of the derivative pectin (Chem suffix -in), as in pectocellulose, where pecto- derives from a secondary sense of pēktos: 'coagulated' or 'curdled'.

pectori:- from L pectus (gen pectoris), the breast, external chest, perch akin to L pexus, woolly (the matted chests of some males). Ex: pectoriloquy (from F pectoriloquie—for 2nd element, cf -loquy at -loquence), 'distinct sound of a patient's voice heard in auscultation' (Webster). The adj pectoral, of the breast or chest (hence, n, something—pectorale—worn there), comes from L pectorālis (n, pectorāle): pector-, o/s=adj suffix -alis.

-ped. A var of -pede, as in biped.

ped-. Prevocalic pedo-; occ prevocalic pedi-.

pedati:- from L pedātus, having feet or a foot, from pēs (gen pedis), a foot. Ex: pedatiform, (in Bot) with ribs arranged like toes. Cf:

-pede: from ped-, o/s of L pēs (gen pedis), a foot, often via F -pède. Exx: centipede and millipede; velocipede. See:

pedi- (1) or, before vowel, ped:- L pedi-, c/f of pēs, a foot, gen pedis, o/s ped-, akin to E FOOT. Exx: pedicure (L cūra, care); pedigerous, possessing (cf -ger) feet; PEDIGREE; pedomancy, divination (-mancy) by the soles of the feet; pedometer (F pedomètre). Cf -pede.

pedi- (2). See pedio-.

pediculi:- a var of the 1st pediculo-. Ex: pediculicide, anything that kills lice.

pediculo- (1): from L pediculus, a louse, as in pediculophobia, a dread of being lousy.

pediculo- (2): from L pediculus, dim of pēs (gen pedis), a foot; denoting in An and Bot a slender stalk. Ex: pediculofrontal.

pedio- or, before a vowel, pedi:- Gr pedio-, c/f of pedion, a plain, the sole of the foot, as in pedialgia, pain in the sole of the foot; Zoo Pedioecetes, the sharp-tailed grouse, lit 'plains-dwellers' (Gr oiketēs, a dweller); pedionomite, a plains-dweller, from Gr pedionomos+n suffix -ite; Gr pedion is akin to Gr pedon (ground), q.v. at the 2nd pedo-.

pedo- (1); before a vowel, ped:- 'child': Gr paid(o)-, c/f of pais, a child a boy, gen paidos, o/s paid-, often via L paed(o)-; akin to L puer, a boy, and E FOAL. Exx: pedagogue (see PEDANT); pediatric, of, by, for child-care (cf -iatric); pedodontia, the care of children's teeth (cf -odon); pedology (or paed-), the study of children; pedomorphism; pedotrophy, Gr paidotrophia, child-nourishment (hence, the proper rearing of children) —cf -trophia.

pedo- (2): 'ground': from Gr pedon (s ped-), ground, akin to Skt padam and Hit pedan (dative pedi), a place; IE pedom*, s ped-. Exx: pedograph, an instrument for recording ground covered on a journey; pedology, the science of soils.

pedo- (3): 'foot': a non-L c/f from pēs (o/s ped-), a foot: cf the 1st pedi-. Exx: pedometer, which records steps taken, hence the approximate distance walked: pedomotive, moved by foot-power.

pegmato:- c/f for pegmatite, (two varieties of) granite, itself from Gr pēgma (gen pēgmatos), something fastened (together), 'in allusion to the quartz and feldspar in graphic granite' (Webster). Ex: pegmatophyre (cf -phyre). Cf -pexy.

pego:- from Gr pēgē, a fountain; IE s, prob pag-* or peg-*. Ex: pegomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by springs.

peira:- Gr peira, a trial or attempt, akin to peirō, I try. Ex: peiramer.

pelag(o)- (and -pelago): Gr pelag(o)-, c/f of pelagos, the sea; IE r, prob pelag-* or plag-*. Exx: archipelago, lit 'chief sea'; in Zoo, Pelagothuria.

pelargo:- from Gr pelargos, a stork, perch lit '(the bird) with grey-and-white plumage' (Gr argos, white). The derivative Pelargonium, a variety of geranium, has adj pelargonic, with c/f pelargono-.

pelecy:- from Gr pelekus, a hatchet. Ex: Zoo Pelecypoda (cf -pod).

-pellic: Med c/f, 'having a (specified) type of pelvis': from Gr pella, a (wooden) bowl. Ex: platypellic (cf platy-, flat).

pelmato;- pelmous: both from Gr pelma, the sole of the foot, the former from the o/s pelmat-, IE r perch pel*-, 'high'. Exx: pelmatogram, a recorded footprint; nomopelmous (in Zoo; cf nomo-).

pel(o)-: Gr pēl(o)-, c/f of pēlos (s pēl-), mud or clay, prob akin to L palūs, a marsh. Ex: Pelodytes, a genus of frogs ('mud divers': cf -dytes).

pelti-, pelto-: from L pelta (Gr peltē), a buckler, a small shield, as in peltigerous, shield-bearing; peltogaster (cf -gaster). The L adj peltātus, provided or protected with a shield, yields E peltate, with c/f peltati-, peltato-, as in peltatodigitate.

pelvi-, occ extended to pelvio-: ML pelvi- (L pelui-), c/f of ML pelvis (L peluis), akin to Skt pālūvi, some kind of vessel. Exx: pelvimeter; pelvotomy (cf -tome). Cf:

pepyco-: from peluk-, o/s of Gr pelux, a wooden bowl, (hence) the pelvis (cf prec); IE r, prob pel-*. Ex: pepycology, the (Med) science of the pelvis.

pen-. See pente-, five.

pencilli-, as in penciliform: for pencil.

penetro-, 'radiant energy': for 'to penetrate', as in penetrometer.

penia-: from Gr penia (s pen-), dearth, poverty, akin to penomai (s pen-), I work painfully, and ponos (s pon-), fatigue, physical or moral suffering; IE r, prob pen-, var pon-. Hence, in E, deficiency, as in thrombopenia (cf thrombo-).

penicilli-: for L penicillus, a pencil: cf PENICILLIN. Ex: penicilliform, pencil-shaped. Cf pencilli-.

pennati-. A var of pinnati-, as in pennatisect.

penni-, irreg penno-; -pennine: L penni-, c/f of penna (s pon-): cf PEN for writing), a feather; (-pennine) a var of E pennate, feather-shaped. Exx: pennipotent, strong on the wing; pennoplume; longipennine, long-feathered.

peno-: from L poena, or Gr poinē, punishment: cf PAIN. Ex: penology, the study (-logy) of punishment, esp of criminals.

penta- or, before a vowel, pent- or, before an aspirated vowel, penth-; occ in shorter form, pen-: Gr pent(a)-, penth-, c/f of pente, five, akin to L quinque and E FIVE. Exx: pendecagon; pentagon, LL pentagōnum, Gr pentagōnon—cf -gon; pentagram, Gr pentagrammon, from pentagrammos, five-lined; pentameter, adopted from L: from Gr pentametros, five-measured, i.e. -footed; pentarchy, government by five—Gr pentarkhia; Pentateuch, the first five books (Gr teukhos, a tool, a book) of The Old Testament; penthemimer, LL penthemimeris (or -es), Gr penthēmimerēs, 2nd element hēmimerēs, halved.

-pepsia, adj -peptic: Gr -pepsia, a type of digestion, from pepsis, digestion, whence, through G, pepsin (Chem suffix -in); -peptic (and independent peptic), from Gr peptikos, from pepsis; akin to peptein, to cook, akin to Skt paktás, cooked, and L coquere, to cook; IE r, prob pek(u)-*; assimilated in L, thus: queq-, var quoq-. (Hofmann.) Exx: dyspepsia, adopted from L, from Gr duspepsia (Gr dus, badly: cf prefix dys-)—adj dyspeptic; eupepsia, adopted from Gr (cf the prefix eu-, well)—adj, eupeptic, Gr eupept(ōs) + suffix -ic; cf autopepsia, -peptic.

-pepsinia; pepsino-: from and for pepsin. Cf prec and:

pepto-, pepton-: from and for peptone (from G pepton, a thing cooked), as in peptogenic, easily digestible, and peptom(aemia). Cf -pepsia.

perci-: from L perca, a perch (fish), as in perciform, perch-like.

percno-: from Gr perknos, dusky; IE r, either perk-* or prek-*. Ex: Bot percnosome (cf -soma).

perco-: from L perca, a perch: cf perci- and PERCH (fish). Ex: Zoo Percomorphi (cf -morph).

perelo-: irreg from Gr peraioun, to transport as in pereiopod (cf -pod).

perenni-: for perennial, as in Zoo perenni-branchiate (cf -branch).

pericardi(o)-: a Med and Surg c/f for pericardium, '(the thing) about the heart', as in pericardiotomy. Cf -cardia.

peridi-, as in peridiform: for peridium, outer envelope, from Gr pēridion, dim of pēra, a wallet.

perineo-: Med c/f for the An perineum (prefix peri- + inaō, I evacuate); as in perineocele (cf -cele).

periodo-: for period, as in periodology, a study, the science, of periodicity.

periosteo-: for periosteum, LL periosteon, from Gr adj periosteos, around the bones. Ex: periosteotomy. Cf osteo-.

peripher(o)-, as in peripheroneural: for peripheral, the adj of periphery, the line bounding a surface, esp a circle, (prob via EF-F périphérie) from LL periphēria, from Gr periphēreia, itself = prefix peri-, around + phēreia, a carrying, from pherein (s pher-), to carry, akin to L ferre (s fer-), to carry.

perisso-: from Gr perissos, (of numbers) odd. Exx: perissodactyl; perissology, an excess of words, Gr perissologia.

peritone(o)-: from, and for, peritoneum (a tech of An and Zoo), as in peritonealgia and peritoneoscepe.

perli-: via F from ML perla: cf PEARL. Ex: perligenous, pearl-producing.

permea-, as in permeameter: for 'to permeate'.

Permo-, as in Geol Permo(-)carboniferous: for 'Permian (and)'.

pero- (1): Gr pēro-, c/f of pēros (s pēr-), maimed, akin to Gr pērna, evil, misfortune, injury. Only in Med and Zoo; e.g., peromelous, maimed of limb (cf -melia).

pero- (2): from Gr pēra (o.o.o.), a pouch or wallet. Only in Zoo—e.g., Perognathus.

peroneo- and perono-: for peroneus, a muscle of the lower leg, SciL name from Gr peronē, (pin, hence) fibula, whence perono-. Exx: peroneotarsal and Peronospora (cf -spora).

personi-: as in personify, q.v. at PERSON.

perspecto-, as in perspectograph: from L perspectus, pp of perspicere, to look through: cf PERSPECTIVE.

pesti-; pesto-: L pesti-, c/f of pestitis, a plague; and (pesto-) a c/f analogous with Gr c/f: cf PEST. Exx: pestiferous, L pestifer(us), plague-bearing, and pestifugous, plague-dispelling (L fugāre, to cause to flee); pestology, the science (-logy) of (chiefly insect) pests.

-petal, esp in centripetal, seeking the centre; Mod L -petus, seeking, from petere, to seek.

petal-, from L petalum; petal(o)-, Gr petal(o)-, c/f of petalon (s petal-), a leaf, cf PETAL; adj petalous, from ScIL -petalus. Exx: petaliferous, petalomania, platypetalous (flat-petalled: cf platy-).

petri-, petro-: the former from L petra, a rock; the latter from Gr petra, rock, or petros, stone. Exx: petricolous, living (cf -colous) in a rock or among the rocks; petrogenesis, the genesis or origin of rocks; petrography, description of rocks, and petrology, the entire science of rocks; PETROLEUM.

petroli-: for petroleum, as in petrolific (cf -fic). -pexy, E; -pexia, ScIL; -pexis, Grecized: from Gr pēxis, a fastening, from pēgnunai, to fasten. Cf pegmato-.

pezo-, as in pezograph, comes from Gr peza, a foot; in Pezaphaps, from Gr pezos, on foot, akin to L pēs, gen pedis: cf the 1st pedi-.

phac(o)-: Gr phak(o)-, c/f of phakos (s phak-), a lentil, hence a wart, a lens, etc., akin to L faba, a bean; from the E adj phacoid comes the c/f phacoido-. Exx: phacolith (cf -lith at -lite), phacometer (for measuring the refraction of lenses); phacoidoscope.

phaen(o)-, now rarely phaino-: Gr phain(o)-, c/f from phainein (s phain-), to show, whence, incidentally, the E phantasy (FANCY) and phantom. Exx: phaenantherosus (cf -antherous at anth-) and, also in Bot, phaenogam. For mod form, see esp PHENOMENON.

phaeo-: from Gr phaios, dun-coloured, dusky; with Baltic cognates. Occ in Bot, e.g., phaeophyll (cf -phyll).

-phaga, 2 -phage, 3 -phagous, 4 -phagus, 5 -phagy; 6 phago-: resp a ScIL pl, 'eaters of (a specified sort) of food'—cf 4; 2, a F-type derivative of L -phagus (see 4) and denoting 'an eater of (something specified)', hence, in Bio, 'a cell destructive of'; 3, from or on the Gr adj -phagos, -eating; 4, -phagus, L n from Gr adj -phagos, -eating, as in sarcophagus (see next para); 5 -phagy, E form of L -phagia, from Gr -phagia, c/f from phagein (s phag-), to eat, akin to Skt bhājati, he shares (out), apportions, and bhāgas, one who apportions, and to several terms in Zend and Old Persian (cf baksheesh); 6, Gr phago-, c/f from phagein.

Exx: Entomophaga, insect-eaters, with adj entomophagous, insectivorous; ostreophage, an oyster-eater; anthropophagous, man-eating; sarcophagus (cf sarco-), L word from Gr sarkophagos, orig an adj, 'flesh-eating', then, via lithos sarkophagos, a flesh-eating stone, i.e. a tomb, a n—cf the E adj sarcophagous, flesh-eating, straight from the Gr adj; anthropophagy (Gr anthrōpophagia), with typical 'addiction' n anthropophagism; phagocyte, a cell (cf -cyte) that destroys bacteria, etc., and phagomania, insatiable hunger as a symptom or aspect of insanity.

phagocyto-: for phagocyte, as in phagocytolytic (cf -lyse). See prec.

phaino-. See phaeno-.

phalacro-: from Gr phalakros, bald; as in Phalacrocorax (korax, a crow: cf coraco-).

phalaen(o)-: from Gr phalaina, a moth. Ex: Bot Phalainopsis (opsis, appearance).

-phalangia; phalangi-: 'a condition (cf suffix -ia) of the phalanges' (digital bones of hand or foot), as in brachyphalangia (cf brachy-); c/f of phalanx, pl phalanges, as in phalangigrade, (of a quadruped) walking (cf -grade) on the phalanges. The An and Zoo sense of phalanx existed already in the Gr φάλαγξ, phalanx, better known to most of us as the typical Ancient Gr line of battle—a close-set formation of ranks and files: the fingers and toes of most vertebrates are close-set, this being the basic idea also of phalanger (phalang-, o/s+ agental suffix -er).

phall(o)-: Gr phall(o)-, c/f of phallos (whence L phallus), the penis; IE r, prob bhal-* or bhel-*. Only in An and Med.

-phane, 2 -phanous, 3 -phant, 4 -phany; 5 phaner(o)-, 6 phantasmo-, 7 phanto-, loosely phanta-: all ult from Gr phainein, (v.t.) to show, (v.i.) to appear—see FANCY: 1, Gr -phanes, neus of -phanēs, -appearing, hence 'a substance appearing like'; 2, perh from ML -phanus=Gr -phanēs, -appearing; 3, LL -phanta, earlier -phantes, from Gr -phantēs, one who shows; 4, from LL -phania, from Gr -phaneia, c/f from phainein, to show; 5, Gr phaner(o)-, c/f of phaneros, visible, (hence) manifest; 6, E c/f for E phantasm (Gr phantasma), the phan- of 4-6 representing a var of the phain- in phainein, which, in certain tenses, has phan-; 7, phanto-, from Gr phantos, visible.

Exx: cellophane, adj of trade-name Cellophane; diaphanous, ML diaphanus, Gr diaphanēs, showing through, from diaphainein, to show through (prefix dia-); hierophant, LL hierophanta (earlier -phantes), Gr hierophantēs, one who shows holy things, a priest; Epiphany, via OF from LL epiphanta, Gr epiphaneia, from epiphainein, to manifest (cf prefix epi-); phanerogenic, of straightforward or obvious origin, and phaneroscope; phantasmology; phantoscope, loosely phantoscope.

pharmaco-: Gr pharmako-, c/f of pharmakon, a drug, a medicine, prob from a PGr pharma*. Exx: pharmacology, the science of medicines; pharmacopoeia, Gr pharmakopoita, the making (from poiein, to make) of medicines, hence a standard list and description of medicines; cf pharmacy (whence pharmacist), via MF and ML from Gr pharmakeia, the use of drugs, and pharmaceutic (EF-F pharmaceutique), now usu pharmaceutical, from LL pharmaceuticus, from Gr pharmakeutikos, from pharmakeuein, to use or administer medicine(s).

pharo- (1): from Gr pharos, a lighthouse, from the isle of Pharos in Egyptian harbour of Alexandria, the locality of a very famous lighthouse. Ex: pharology, the lore and science of lighthouses.

pharo- (2): from Gr pharos, a mantle; IE r, perh bher-*. Ex: Zoo Pharomacrus (cf macro-).

pharyng(o)-: Gr pharung(o)-, c/f of pharunx (gen pharungos), the pharynx, akin to the syn L frūmen (? from frug(s)men*). Ex: pharyngology and pharyngoscope.

phascol(o)-: loosely phasco-: from Gr phaskōlos, a pouch. Exx: Phascogale (Gr gale, a weasel), a small rat-like marsupial; Phascolarctos (Gr arktos, a bear), the 'native bear' or koala of Australia; Phascolomys (Gr mus, a mouse), a wombat.

phase-: for Phaseolus, a Bot genus (beans), as in phaseolunatin; from L phasēlus (Gr phasēlos), perh akin to L fabā.

-phasia. See -phemia.

phaso-, as in Chem phasotropy: for phase.

phell(o)-: Gr phell(o)-, c/f of phellos, cork; IE r, prob bhel-, to swell. Exx: phelloderm (cf -derm); phellogen (-gen).

-phemia; -phemism, adj -phemistic; -phasia: resp Gr -phēmīa, c/f of phēmē, speech, akin to phēmi, I say, akin to the syn IE bhumi*; Gr -phēmismos; Gr -phasia, from phanai, to speak. Exx: dysphemia, dysphemism, dysphemistic, opp euphemia, euphemism (Gr euphēmismos), euphemistic; dysphasia (prefix dys-) and tachyphasia, very rapid (cf tachy-) speech.

-phen, -phene; phen(o)-: for phene, benzene; (pheno-) for phenyl. Only in Chem.

phenakisto-: from Gr phenakistēs, a deceiver, an elaboration of phenax, gen phenakos; as in phenakistoscope.

-phene. See -phen.

phenio-. See phoenico-.

pheno- (1). See -phen.

pheno- (2). A var of phaeno-, as esp in PHENOMENON, but also via F phéno-, as in phenocryst (F phénocryste).

pheno- (3). Short for phenomēno-, as in Bio phenology for Phil phenomenology.

phéo-. A var of phaeo-.

-pher, either from or on Gr -pheros (whence certainly -pherous) or from its source, pherein (s pher-), to bear or carry, corresponds to (E from) L -fer. Exx: Christopher, from LGr Khristophoros, (adj) Christ-bearing; chronopher, a time-carrying (hence, -signalling) instrument; sceptropherous.

-phil or -phile, 2 -phila, pl -philae, 3 -philia and 4 -phily, 5 -philous, 6 -philism, 7 -philist, 8 -philus; 9 phil(o)-: all, ult, from Gr philos, loving, fond, akin to philein, to love, be fond of or addicted to, s and r phil-. IE r prob either phil-* or bhil-*, to be fond of: resp Gr -philos, (adj) -loving, or Gr philēs, -lover; 2 and 8, -phila and -philae, both pl, and -philus, sing, from Gr -philos, but as if via L -phila, neupl, -philae, fpl, and -philus, m sing; 3, 4, E -phily, perh influenced by F -philie, for SciL, from Gr, -philia; 5 (-philous), from Gr -philos; 6, 7, (-philism) the suffixes -ism attached to phil(e, -ia, -ous), and -ist attached to -phil(ism); 9 (philo-) Gr phil(o)-, c/f of philos, loving, fond or well-disposed.

Exx: Americanophil, Anglophil(e), bibliophile (cf biblio-); Anthophila, esp bees, and Spermophilus, a genus of seed-lovers; spasmophilia, alcohol-philia, and toxophily, the (study and) love of archery—cf toxō-; dendrophilous, tree-loving—cf dendro-; xenophilism, an addiction to foreigners (xenoi); zoophilist, an animal lover;—PHILANTHROPY and PHILOLOGY and PHILOSOPHY.

philosophico-: for philosophic; denoting 'philosophical and'.

phleb(o)-: Gr phleb(o)-, c/f of phleps (φλέψ) a vein; IE r, perh bhel-*, to swell. Exx: phlebology, the An, and Med, knowledge of the veins; phlebitis, inflammation of vein—cf the suffix -itis; phlebotomy (cf -tome).

phlo-: from Gr phloos (s phlo-), bark of tree, as in phlobaphene: phlo-+Gr baph(e), a dyeing+Chem -ene. Cf:

phloeo-: from Gr phloios, bark (of trees), akin to phlein, phluēin, to flow; basic idea, the juice in bark. Ex: phloophagous, bark-eating.

phlogo-: Gr phlogo-, c/f of phlox (gen phlogos), fire, from phlegein, to burn, perh from IE bhel-*, to swell. Exx: Med phlogogenetic, causing inflammation; phlogopite, a flame-coloured mica (Min suffix -ite)—from Gr phlogōpos, fire-like (ōps, a face, gen ōpos).

phlor(o)-: for phlorizin and phloroglucinol: only in Chem.

-phlysis, as in emphlysis, comes from Gr phlysis, an eruption.

-phobe, 2 -phobia, 3 -phobiac, 4 -phobic, 5 -phobous; 6 phob(o)-: all, ult, from Gr phobos (s phob-), fear, flight, akin to phebesthai (s phēb-), to flee; IE r, perh phēb-, but prob bheg- (Hofmann).

Exx: 1, from Gr -phobos, -fearing, (hence) excessively fearing, as in Anglophobe; 2, Gr -phobia (whence the SciL, hence the E, n phobia), like 1 from phobos, as in hydrophobia (cf the 2nd hydro-), adopted from L, from Gr hudrophobia; 3 (-phobiac)=phobi(a)+suffix -ac, on analogy of maniac; 4 (-phobic), from Gr -phobikos, as in hudrophobikos, whence, via L hydrophobicus, the E hydrophobic; 5 (-phobous), Gr -phobos, -fearing, as in heliophobous (cf helio-), sun-fearing; 6, Gr phob(o)-, c/f of phobos, fear, as in phobophobia, an excessive fear of being afraid or of one's own fears.

phoc(o)-: from Gr phōkē, a seal, as in Phocodontia (cf -odontia at -odon).

phoenic(o)- or phenico-: the former, a L shape (occ shortened, via F phéni-, to pheni-) of Gr phoiniko-, c/f of phoinix, purple-red, akin to phoinios, blood-red. Exx: Phoenicopterus (cf -ptera), genus of flamingos; phoenicurous, red-tailed, from Gr phoinikourous, the redstart or redtail (Gr oura, tail).

pholid(o)-: Gr pholid(o)-, c/f of pholis, a scale, perh akin to phellos (cork), q.v. at phello-. Ex: pholidolite, a kind of silica (cf -lite).

-phon or -phone, -phonia or, more often -phony; phon(o)-: resp Gr -phōnon, c/f from phōnē, a sound or a voice; Gr -phōnia, from phōnē; Gr phōm(o)-, c/f of phōnē: f.a.e., PHONETIC. Exx: -phone for musical instruments: sousaphone Sousa) and xylophone (xylo-); -phone, for sound-transmitting instruments: dictaphone (dictate) and GRAMOPHONE ('written sound') and TELEPHONE ('speech from afar');—-phonia, -phony, for type of sound: acrophony (acro-) and baryphony (bary-), dysphonia (Gr dusphōnia), difficulty in pronouncing, and euphony (Gr euphōnia), ease in pronouncing, (but primarily) pleasing sound;—-phonogram, phonograph, phonology, phonophore (cf next).

-phora, 2 -phore, 3 -phoresis, 4 -phoria, 5 -phorus, 6 -phorus; 7 phor(o)-: all from Gr phor-, the s of the nn deriving from pherein (s pher-, akin to the fer of syn L ferre), to carry, IE s, bher-*, resp SciL from Gr -phoros, -bearing; 2, Gr -phoros, neu phoron, -bearing; 3, Gr phorēsis, a being borne; 4, Gr -phoria, a bearing; 5, Gr phoros-, -bearing; 6, Gr -phoros, bearing, (used as n) a bearer; 7, Gr phoro-, c/f of phora, motion, (esp) rapid motion.

Exx: (mostly in Bot and Zoo, with adj -phoran) Cladophora (cf clado-); 2, semaphore, a sign-bearer, a signal-conveyer (cf sema-); 3, pathophoresis (cf patho- at -path); 4 (with adj -phoric), heterophoria (cf hetero-); 5, phosphorous and 6, phosphorus, L from Gr phōsphoros, a light-bringer (cf phos-); 7, phorometer, phoronomy, phoroscope. phos-; photo-: from Gr phōs, light, and phōt(o)-, c/f of phōs, gen phōtos, IE r prob bhos-* (cf Skt bhās-, light) or bhot-*. Exx: phosgene (cf -gene at -gen) and phosphorus (cf prec); photogenic (cf -genic at -gen), generating light, (but also) appearing to advantage in a photograph; PHOTOGRAPH and photometer.

phosphato-: c/f of phosphate.

phospho-: A shortened c/f of phosphorus. Cf:

phosphor(o)-: c/f of phosphorus and of phosphoric and of phosphorescence.

phot(o)-. See phos-. It also stands for photoelectric, as in photo-emission.

phragmo-: from Gr phragma or phragmos (s phrag-), a fence, perh akin to L farctre (s farc-), to stuff. Ex: phragmocone (cf CONE).

phraseo-: Mod Gr phraseo-, from Gr phrasis, speech; in E, denoting 'phrase': cf PHRASE. Exx: phraseogram and phraseology (q.v. at PHRASE). Cf:

-phrasia; -phrasis: Med c/f from Gr phrasis (see prec), denoting 'a (disordered) way of speech', as in bradyphrasia (cf brady-); Gr -phrasis, as in paraphrasis, and periphrasis, adopted, via L, from Gr.

-phrasy: ML or LL -phrasia, from Gr, from phrēn, heart or mind; as in euphrasy, from euphrainein (eu, well+phrain- for phrēn+inf suffix -ein), to delight. Cf -phrenia.

phreato-: for phreatic, of or for or like a well, from Gr phreat-, o/s of phrear, a well. Ex: phreatophyte (cf -phyte).

-phrenia, adj -phrenic; phrenico-; phren(o)-: resp SciL c/f from Gr phrēn, the mind, the heart—cf the independent adj phrenic, F phrénique; (phrenico-) c/f of E phrenic; Gr phren(o)-, c/f of phrēn: cf FRENZY. Exx: bradyphrenia (cf -brady-), adj bradyphrenic; phrenicotomy, cutting of a phrenic nerve; phrenocardia (cf -cardia) and phrenology, the study (cf -logy at -loger) of a person's heart and mind by his 'bumps'—cf the F phrénologie.

phryu(o)-: from Gr phrunē, a toad; only in Zoo, as in Phrynosoma (cf -soma); 'the brown creature'—cf BROWN.

phthal(o)-: c/f for phthalic (Chem).

phthio-: for phthisis; a shortened form of the next.

phthisio-: for and from phthisis (adopted from Gr, from phthiein, s phthi-, to waste away)—as in phthisiology, the science of pulmonary consumption.

phthongo-: from Gr phthongos, voice, akin to phōnē, sound. Ex: phthongometer.

phyco-: from Gr phukos (whence L fucus), seaweed, as in phycolgy, the science of algae or seaweed. Bot has -phyceae, denoting a class or an order of seaweed (algae), with adj -phyceous.

phygo-: from Gr phugein or pheugein, to avoid, s phug-, pheug-, cf L fugere (s fug-) and E FUGITIVE. Ex: phygogalactic, tending to check the secretion of milk.

phyl-. See phylo-.

phylaco-; phylacto-: from Gr phulax (gen phulakos), a guard, akin to phulassein (to guard), whence phylacto-. Exx: phylacobiosis and phylactocarp, techh of Zoo.

-phyll, 2 -phyllous, 3 -phyllum, 4 -phyllly; 5 phyll(o)-, occ 6 phyllli-: all from Gr phullon (s phull-), a leaf, akin to L folium, a leaf, and E BLOOM: resp Gr phullon, via L phyllum (whence 3); 2, Gr -phullos, -leaved; 4, Gr -phullia—via L -phyllia—from phullon; 5, Gr phull(o)-, c/f of phullon; 6, a latinized var.

Exx: chlorophyll (cf chloro-), the green colouring-matter of plants, esp of their leaves; heterophyllous, having leaves of more than one shape, cf hetero-; Chrysophyllum (cf chryso-, of gold); sclerophyllly (cf sclero-); phyllophorous, leaf-bearing or -producing (cf -phorous at -phora) and phyllotaxonomy (Gr taxis, arrangement); phylliform, leaf-shaped.

phyl(o)-; -phyly: Gr phul(o)-, c/f of phulon, a tribe, a racial stock, a race (IE r, bhul-*, with numerous descendants)—in E, denotes also SciL phylum, one of the primary divisions of animal and vegetable life; (-phyly) from the var phulē, a clan. Exx: phylogeny; phylogeny, the genesis (cf -geny at gen) and evolution of a phylum;—organophily (cf organo-).

-phyma, as in arthrophyma, inflamed swelling of a joint (arthro-) or of joints, represents L phyma, from Gr phuma (cf PHYSIC); the o/s phumat- yields the c/f phymat(o)-, as in phymatorhysin (Gr rhusis, a flowing, cf rheo-).

-pyre: F -pyre, from porphyre, porphyry; adj -pyric. Ex: leucopyre (leuco-).

physa-; physallo-: Gr physa, a bellows, and its derivative phusallis, a bladder; of echoic origin. Exx: physagogue, a flatulence-leader, hence -dispeller; physalite (cf -lite); Physallospora (cf -spora). Cf physo-.

physico-; physi(o)-; occ an independent physi-: from Gr phusikos, natural, physical, from phusis, nature, whence, via the Gr c/f phusio-, the E physi(o)-; independent physi- comes from phusis: cf PHYSIC. Exx: physico(-)mental; physianthropy; physiognomy, art of reading (cf -gnomy at gnomo-) the nature, or character, from physical, esp facial, traits, hence the face itself; physiography, physical geography; PHYSIOLOGY; physitheism, the attribution of corporeality to the gods or to God.

physo-: Gr phuso-, c/f of phusa, a bellows (cf phusa-): denoting, in Med, the presence of gas, as in physocèle (cf -cèle), and, in Bot and Zoo, an air bladder, as in physostomous (cf -stomous at -stoma).

-phyte and 2, -phytum and 3, 4, pl -phytes and -phyta; 5, -phytic; 6, phyti- and 7, phyt(o)-: 2, the Latinized form of E -phyte, from Gr phuton, from phuton, a plant; 4, -phyta=Gr -phuta, neupl, and 3 a Latinized and fpl; 5, -phytic=Gr phutikos, of plants, vegetative; 6, a Latinized var of the Gr phuto- (via L phyto-), from phuton, akin to phuein (s phu-), to produce, and phumai (s phu-), to be born or produced; IE r, prob bh-*. (The element -phytia occurs only in Biochem.)

Exx: zoophyte (Gr zōophuton), an 'animal (Gr zōion) plant', formerly a plant that somehow resembles an animal, now an animal that resembles a plant; 2, 3, 4 occur in names of classifications in Bot and Zoo; sporophytic (cf -spora); phytiform, plant-like; phytography, descriptive botany; phytophagous, plant-eating (cf herbivorous).

pi-. See pio-.

pia(r)-; piaro-: the former, as in piarh(æ)mia (cf -haemia at haema-), represents the Gr n piar, fat; the latter, as in piaropus (cf -pus at -pod), the Gr adj piaros, fat, akin to the syn piōn, itself akin to the equivalent Skt pivan-. Cf pio-.

picl-: from L picus, a woodpecker—prob echoic. Ex: piciform, like a woodpecker.

-picin(e); picr(o)-: the former (only in Chem) from—the latter=pikr(o)-, the Gr c/f of—Gr pikros, bitter; IE r, perh pik-* or peik-*. Exx: picrolite (cf -lite), picrotoxin.

picto-: from L picus (painted), the pp of pingere, to paint: cf PICTURE. Ex: pictograph, a picture—writing, an idea indicated by picture.

piezo-, 'pressure': from Gr piezein (s piez-), to press, akin to Skt pīḍa, pressure, and various other IE words. Exx: piezo(-)chemistry; piezometer, a pressure-register.

pigmento-: for pigment, as in pigmentophage (cf -phaga).

pil(e)-, pileo-: from L pileus, a fur cap, akin to pilus, hair. Exx: pileiform, cap-shaped, and pileo-rhiza (Gr rhiza, a root). Cf the 2nd pilo-.

pili-; pilo- (1): from L pilus, hair, akin to Gr pilos, felt. Exx: piliferous, hair-bearing or producing, and piliform, hairlike; pilocystic (cf -cyst). The s pil- occurs also in, e.g., 'depilatory', a hair-remover, and 'horriplation' (see horri-).

pilo- (1). See prec.

pilo- (2): Gr pilo-, c/f of pilos, felt (the fabric), akin to L pilus, hair, IE s pil-*. Ex: Pilocarpus (cf -carpus at -carp).

pilo- (3): from Gr pilos (s pil-), a ball, akin to the syn L pila and E FILL. Ex: Pilobolus, a genus of fungi that forcibly expel their ripe spore cases or sacs, the 2nd element being from Gr bolos, throwing (cf -bola).

pina-, in names of dyes: from Gr pinax (s pin-), plank, a tablet, a picture, akin to Skt pinākam, stick, a club, OSI pīnī, a tree-trunk; from the G o/s pinak- comes the c/f pinak(o)-, occurring in L as pinako- or pinaco-; the Gr dim pinakion yields the rare E c/f pinakio-. Exx: pinachrome, in photography (cf -chrome at -chromia); pinacocyte (-cyte) pinakothēke—cf the G Pinakothek—from G pinakothēkē, a thēkē (cf -theca) or repository, e.g. a gallery, of pictures; pinakiolite (cf -lite).

pingue-, pingui-: L pingue-, pingui-, c/f of the adj pinguis, fat. Exx: pinguefaction, from pinguefy to render fat, from L pinguefacere; pinguitiescent (of hair) greasily shining, the 2nd element being nitescent-, o/s of nitescens, presp of L nitescere, to glitter, freq of nitēre, to shine.

pini-: L pīni-, c/f of pīnus: see PINE. Ex: pinivorous, pine-eating (cf -vora).

-pinnate; pinnati- and pinnato-; pinni-: resp an end c/f of pinnate, feathered, feather-like; and c/f of L pinnātus, feathered, from pinna, a feather whence the L, hence E, c/f pinni-, feather, (hence also) fin; akin to FIN. Exx: digitato-pinnate; pinnatiped, feather-footed, and pinnatodentate; pinniform.

pino-: Gr pinno-, c/f of Gr, hence L, pinna, a bivalve, as in Pinnotheres, SciL from Gr pinnotēres bivalve-guarders, from tērein (s tēr-, to guard).

pi(o)-: from the Gr n piōn, fat, of the same r pi- as the syn piar, perh akin to L pinguis. Ex: pioscope a lactoscope or cream-determiner.

piperi-, pipero(n)-, only in Chem: from L piper—cf PEPPER.

pipto-: from Gr piptein, to fall. Only in Bot and Pharm.

piri-, piro-: from L pirum—cf PEAR. Ex: piroplasma (cf -plasm).

pisci-: L pisci-, c/f of piscis, a fish: cf FISH. Exx: pisciculture, fish-breeding and rearing; pisciform, fish-shaped or -like; piscivorous, fish-eating.

pisi-: from L pisum, a pea: cf PEA. Ex: pisiform, pea-shaped.

pistilli-: from Sci L pistillum, a pistil, akin to PESTLE. Ex: pistilliferous.

pistio- or pisto-: from Gr pistis, faith, akin to L fides. Exx: pistiology, the doctrine of (religious) faith; pistology, the theology of faith.

pithano-: Gr pithano-, c/f of pithanos, persuasive (s pithan-, r pith-), akin to peithō, I persuade. Ex: pithanology, rhetorical persuasiveness.

pithec(o)-; -pithecus: c/ff, the latter Latinized, from Gr pithēkos, an ape; IE r b(h)iah-*, with basic idea 'half', an ape being a half-man. Exx: Pithecanthropus, ape man; pithecological, concerning the study of apes; Sivapithecus.

pitto-, as in pitto-spore, a plant of the genus

Pittosporum (cf -spora): from Gr pitta, pitch (viscous)—cf PITCH, n.

pityo-, as in pityocampa, from Gr pitukampē, the larva (Gr kampē, a caterpillar) of a moth that frequents pine trees (Gr pitus, a pine tree, gen pituos).

pityro-: Gr pitur(o), c/f of pituron, bran. Exx: pityriasis, Gr pituriasis (cf -iasis), and Bot Pityrogramma.

plac(o)-: Gr plak(o), c/f of plax (gen plakos, s plak-), a tablet, a plate; IE s, plak-*. Exx: placoderm (cf -derm) and placoplast (cf -plast at -plasm).

Gr plax has derivative plakous, a flat cake, acc plakounta, whence the L placenta, a cake, whence its An, Med, Zoo special senses, with c/f placenti-, as in placentiferous or placentigerous, placenta-bearing: cf -fer and -ger.

plag(o)-: Gr plagi(o), c/f of plagios, oblique, on the slant, akin to pelagos, the open sea, and L plānus. Exx: plagiocephalism (cf cephalo-); plagioclase (G Plagioklas; cf -clase); plagiograph.

plani-: L plāni-, c/f of plānus, evel, plane: cf PLAIN. Exx: planigraph, planimeter (F planimètre), planiscope. Cf plano- (2).

planet(o)-: for planet, as in planetology.

-plania: Gr -plania, c/f of planē, a wandering (course), akin to plax, q.v. at plagio-. Ex: uropiania. Cf:

plan(o)- (1): Gr plan(o), c/f of planos, roaming, wandering (cf prec), as in planoblast (cf -blast) and planogamete (cf -gam).

plano- (2): irreg from L plānus, level, plane: cf plani-. Exx: ('flatly') planorotund; ('flat, or plane, and') planoconvex.

planti- (1): from L planta—cf PLANT. Ex: plantivorous, (of insects, worms) plant-eating (cf -vora).

planti- (2): from L planta, sole of foot, either from the IE s plat-*, as in Gr platus, level, flat, with an -n- infix (cf L iungere—iugum), or, by 'telescoping', from the (pars) plānata, levelled, (hence) flat, of the foot. Ex: plantigrade (cf -grade), walking on the soles.

planto-: for planter, as in plantocracy, rule by planters.

-plasia or -plasy; 3 -plasis; 4 -plasm or -plasma, with adj -plasmic; 7 -plasmia; 8 -plast; 9 -plastic; 10 -plasty; 11 plasmato-, 12 plasm(o)-: all ult from or intimately akin to Gr plassein (s plass-), to form or mould, cf E PLASTER: resp, 1, SciL, Englished as -plasy, from 3, Gr -plasis, c/f of plasis, a forming or moulding, from plassein; 4 is the E form (cf F plasmie) of LL from Gr -plasma, c/f of plasma, anything formed, anything moulded; (7) a SciL c/f from E, from LL, from Gr plasma; 8 (-plast), from the Gr adj c/f -plastos, -formed, orig the pp of plassein; 9 (-plastic) from Gr plastikos (whence, via L plasticus, the adj plastic), formable, fit for moulding, plastic; 10 (-plasty), Gr -plastia, a moulding, prob from plastos, moulded;—11, plasmato-, Gr plasmato-, c/f of plasma, o/s plasmāt-; 12, plasm(o)-, from E plasm.

Exx: macroplasia (cf macro-); heteroplasia (hetero-); paraplasia (prefix para-); mythoplasm, protoplasm(a); protoplasmic; oligoplasma (oligo-); gypsoplast (gypso-); bioplastic (bio-); osteoplasty (cf osteo-); plasmatoparous (cf -parous at -para); plasmolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse).

platalei-: from L platalea, the spoonbill, perh akin to platy-. Ex: plataleiform, spoon-billed.

platini-, platin(o)-; platinoso-, platos(o)-: the first two are c/f of E platinum (cf PLATE), as in platiniferous (cf -ferous at -fer); platoso- is short for platinoso-, c/f of platinous.

plat(y)-: Gr plat(u), c/f of platus (s plat-), broad (or wide), flat: cf PLATE. Exx: platycephalous, having a flat-crowned head; PLATYPUS.

plazo-: from Gr plazein (s plaz-), to bewilder. Ex: plazolite (cf -lite).

plebi-: L plēbi-, c/f of plēbs (gen plēbis), the people—exclusive of the noble families: cf PLEBEIAN. Exx: plebicular, -colous (cf -colous), courting the favour of the common people, from L plēbicola, one who does this; plebiscite, prob via F plēbiscite, certainly from L plēbiscitum, a decision of the people, the 2nd element (scitum, a decree) deriving from sciscere, freq of scīre, to know—cf SCIENCE.

plec(o)-; plecto(o)-: via SciL from Gr plekein (s plek-), to twist or twine; (plecto-) from Gr plektos (twisted), pp of plekein; IE s, prob plek-*. Exx: Plectotus, a genus of long-eared bats—from Gr ous, ear, gen ōtos (cf the element -otic); Plectognathi, an order of fishes, lit 'the twisted-jaws' (Gr gnathos, jaw, cf -gnatha).

-plegia or -plegy; plego-, occ plega-: Gr -plēgia (Englished as -plegy), c/f of plēgē, a stroke, whence the E c/f plego-, with irregular var plega-; akin to Gr plēssein (Attic plēttein), to strike; IE r, prob plag-* or plak-, varr pleg- or plek-*. Exx: hemiplegia (or -plegy), partial (cf hemi-, half) paralysis; Med plegaphonia; plegometer, an instrument measuring the force of blows.

pleio-, pleo-, pilo-: from Gr pleiōn, Homeric pleōn, more, neu pleion, pleon, akin to L plūres, more (persons); IE r, prob plei-* or plē-. Exx: Pleiocene, occ Pliocene (cf -cene); pleomorphism (Gr morphē, form: cf -morph). Cf:

pleisto-: from Gr pleistos, most (cf prec), as in Pleistocene, the most recent (cf -cene). Geol epoch next below the present.

plemyra-: from Gr plēmura, the high tide, prob akin to plērēs, full. Ex: plemyrometer. Cf:

pleni-: L plēni-, c/f of plēnus, full, akin to plēre, to fill (s plē-). Exx: plenilune, full moon (L plēnilūnium); plenipotent, from plēnipotent-, o/s of L plēnipotens, fully powerful (L potens—cf POTENT), whence ML plēnipotentīarius (cf the E suffix -ary from L -arius), whence the E plenipotentiary. Cf plero-.

pleo-. See pleio-.

plero-: from Gr plēro-, c/f of plērēs (s plēr-), full, as in plerocercoid (cf cerco- at -cercal)—pleromorph (cf -morph)—plerophory (Gr plērōphoria), cf -phoria at -phora. Cf pleni-.

pleisi(o)-: Gr plēsi(o)-, c/f of the adj plēsios, close, near, akin to—perh from—pelas, (prep) near; IE r, prob pel-*. Exx: pleisiomorphous (cf -morphous at -morph) and Plesiosaurus (cf -saur).

plessi-; plexi-: from Gr plēssein (s plēss-, app echoic), to strike, as in plessigraph, a form of pleximeter; plexi-, from Gr plēxis, a stroke, from plēssein.

plethysmo-: from Gr plēthusmos, an enlargement, akin to pimplēmi, I fill. Ex: Physio plethysmograph.

-pleura; pleuri-, pleuro-: all from Gr pleura, a rib, the side, with pleuro- a genuine Gr c/f: cf FLEURISY. Exx: endopleura (prefix endo-); pleuriseptate (cf -septate); pleurocarpous (cf -carp). The adj is -pleurous.

-plex and plexi- (2); -plicate and plicato-: L -plex, -fold, from plicāre (s plic-), to fold; (plexi-) from L plexus, a twining, from plectere (s plect-), to twine; last two, from L plicātus, pp of plicāre, to fold. Cf FLY.

Exx: multiplex and plexiform; duplicate and plicato-contorted.

plexi- (1). See plessi-.

plexi- (2). See -plex.

-plexia, a var of -plegia, q.v.: from Gr -plēxia, from plēxis, a stroke.

-plicate; plicato-: both from plicate, folded. Exx: triplicate; plicatolobate (cf -lobate). Cf -plex and: plic-: from ML plica, a fold, from L plicāre (s plic-), to fold: cf prec. Ex: pliciform (cf -form).

plinthi-: for plinth (Gr plinthos, a brick, a plinth), as in plinthiform.

pilo-. See pleio-.

-ploid= Gr -ploos, folded+ suffix -oid. Ex: polyloid, manifold.

plu-: from L plūs, more; in E, denotes 'more than', as in pluperfect. Cf pluri-.

plumbi-, plumbo-: from L plumbum (s plumb-), lead (Min): cf PLUMB. Exx: plumbiferous, lead-producing (cf -ferous at -fer); plumbo-solvent.

plumi-: L plūmi-, cf of L plūma, a feather: cf PLUME. Ex: plumiped(e), feather-footed. The L dim plūmula yields c/f plumuli-, as in plumuliform.

pluri-: L plūri-, deriving from plūs, more, gen plūris, and, in E, denoting 'several' or even 'many': cf PLURAL. Exx: pluri-axial, plurilateral, pluri-valent. The shortened plur- occurs in pluennial, (a plant) lasting for some years (cf -ennial).

pluto(o): Gr plout(o)-, c/f of ploutos, wealth. Exx: PLUTOCRACY; plutology, the economic study of wealth, and plutonomy, political economy.

plutono-: for E plutonic, igneous.

pluvio-: from ML pluvia (L pluvia), rain, from the adj pluvius, rainy, itself from pluere (s plu-), to rain. Exx: pluviometer, a rain-gauge, and pluviograph, a self-registering rain-gauge.

-ply (cf -plex and PLY, n): see MULTIPLY.

-pnea or -pnoea; 3 pneo-; 4 pneum(a)-, 5 pneumato-; 6 pneumo-; 7 pneumon(o)-; 8 -pneusta: resp Gr -pnoia (L -pnoea, E -pnea), c/f of pnoē, a breathing, akin to pneō, I breathe—see PNEUMATIC;

3, from pneō (s pne-), I breathe; 4, from Gr pneuma, air, wind; 5, Gr pneumat(o)-, c/f of pneuma, gen pneumatōs; 6, from Gr pneumōn, lung ('the breather'); 7, from Gr pneumōn, gen pneumonōs; 8, from Gr -pneustos, breathed, pp of pneō.

Exx: bromopn(o)ea, bad breath—cf dyspn(o)ea, difficult breathing; pneometer; pneumarthrosis=pneum(a)+arthr(o)-+suffix -osis; pneumatograph, pneumatology, pneumatophore (cf -phora); pneumococcus (cf cocci-); pneumonography, X-ray photography of the lungs; (a Zoo division breathing in a specified way; adj -pneustal) Pharynopneusta.

pocilli-, as in pocilliform, cup-shaped: from L pocillum, a small cup, dim of poculum (akin to pōtus, 'who has drunk'), whence poculi-, as in poculiform.

-pod or -pode; 2 -podal; 3 -poda; 4 -podia; 5 -podium; 6 -podous, 7 -pus; 8 pod(o)-: all ult from Gr pous, a foot, gen podos (s pod-), akin to L pēs (gen pedis, s ped-), a foot: resp Gr -podos, neu -podon, end c/f of pous; 2, adj of (1)—cf suffix -al-; 3, Gr -poda, end c/f of pous; 4, Gr -podia, end c/f of (-pod+Med -ia) of pous; 5, L -podium, from Gr -podion, c/f of podion, dim ('a small foot') of pous; 6, Gr -podos, -footed, from pous—podous answering to nn in -poda; 7, ScIL -pus, from Gr -pous, -footed, from pous; 8, Gr pod(o)-, c/f of pous.

Exx: hexapodus, a six-footed animal, Gr hexapous—gen hexapodos; ANTIPODES; 2, antipodal; 3, Decapoda (cf deca-), ten-footed crustaceans; 4, platypodia, flat (cf platy-) -footedness; 5, mesopodium, middle (meso-) portion of foot or of foot-like part; 6, hexapodus, six footed, cf hexa-; 7, OCTOPUS and PLATYPUS; 9, podology, the science of the (human) feet—in Bot, a stalk, as in Podocarpus (cf -carp), and in Zoo, a stalk or peduncle, as in Podophthalmia, the stalk-eyed crustaceans, cf ophthalmo-.

poē-: Gr poē-, c/f of poa, grass. Ex: poëphagous, grass-eating.

poecil(o)-, occ poikilo-: Gr poikil(o)-, c/f of poikilos, variegated, various, from a PGR poikos*, s poik-*; IE r, peik-, cf L pingere and esp E PAINT. Exx: poecilonomy (cf -onym), 'the use of several names for one thing' (Webster); poikilothermic (cf -therm), having a variable bodily temperature.

-poeia, 2 -poësis or -poiesis, 3 -poietic; 4 poietico-; 5 poeto-: all ult from Gr poiein (s poi-), to make (see POET): resp from Gr -poia, a making, from poiein; 2, Gr -poïësis, terminal c/f of poïësis (poësis), a thing being made, poetry, from poiein; 3, from Gr -poiētikos, c/f of poiētikos, adj answering to poïësis; 4, for E poetic, aided by Gr poiētikos; 5, Gr poiëto-, c/f of poiētēs (a poet).

Exx: onomatopoeia, adopted from LL, from Gr onomatopoiia (cf onomato-); onomatopoësis, from Gr onomatopoiësis, and hematopoiesis, blood-formation; hematopoietic and cosmopoietic, from Gr kosmopoiētikos, world-making; poetico-philosophic; poetomachy, a 'war' between poets (cf -machia).

-pogon; pogon(o)-: from Gr pōgōn (gen pōgonos), a beard. Exx: Calopogon (cf calo- at calli-); pogo- iasis (cf -iasis) and pogonology, the study of, a treatise on, beards.

-poiesis; -poietic. See -poeia.

poikilo-. See poecilo-.

-pointic=point, n+adj suffix -ic, as in three-pointic.

polari-, 'polar': from ML polāris, adj of L polus: cf POLE. (of earth). Exx: polarimeter, in Optics, where also polariscope.

-pole, -polis; -polite, whence -politian: from Gr polis, a city (cf POLICE). Exx: metropole, archaic for metropolis, but denoting also a metropolitan see—from metropolis, via LL from Gr mētropolis, (lit) mother city, hence a country's chief city; metropolit, LL mētopolitā, Gr mētropolitēs, from mētropolis; metropolitan, adj (hence n), LL mētopolitānus, from mētopolitā. Cf cosmopolite, Gr kosmopolitēs, a citizen of the cosmos or world, hence the adj cosmopolitan; cosmopolis, after metropolis. Cf politico-.

polemo-, as in polemoscope, lit 'a war glass': from Gr polemos, war: cf POLEMIC.

poli(o)-: Gr poli(o)-, c/f of polios (s poli-), grey, akin to FALLOW, pale. In E, polio- used denotes relation to the grey matter of the brain—or of the spinal cord', as in poliencephalitis (for encephalitis, a disease of the brain, cf encephalo-); poliomyelitis (abbr polio), inflammation of the spinal cord's grey matter—cf -myelitis at -myelia.

-polis, -politian, -polite. See -pole.

politico-: from Gr politikos, civic, political. Exx: 'politics'—politicomania; 'political': politico-commercial.

pollin(i)-: from L pollen, gen pollinis: cf POLLEN. Exx: polliniferous, pollen-producing (cf -ferous at -fer); pollinivorous, pollen-eating (-vorous at -vore). Loosely polleni-.

polto-: from Gr poltos, porridge, akin to palē, fine meal. Ex: poltophagous, porridge-eating; poltophagic, given to eating food until it resembles porridge: cf -phaga.

poly-: via LL poly-, from Gr polu-, c/f of polus (neu polu), much, polloi, many: akin to E FULL. In E it denotes 'many' (not 'much'), with such variations as 'plurality' and 'diversity'. Exx: polyandry, q.v. at andro-; polyanthus, lit 'the many-flowered' (cf anth-); polychromatic, -chrome (Gr polu-khrōmos), many-coloured; polygamous (cf -gam), having several marriages, hence several wives or husbands, Gr polugamos, whence polugamia, whence E polygamy; polyglot (n from adj), Gr poluglōttos, many-tongued (cf -glossa); polygon (cf the 1st gon-); polygraph, Gr polugraphos (adj), writing much; polyhedron (cf -hedral); polymath, q.v. at -mathy; polymorphous, having many forms or characteristics (cf -morph); Polynesia, SciL from F Polynésie, 'the many-islanded' (cf -nesia at -nese); polyp, F polype, L polypus, Gr polupous, many-footed, hence (now obs in E) an octopus; polyphonic, from Gr poluphōnos, having many sounds; polysemant (adj) and polysemia, (having) a multiplicity of meanings—Gr polusēmanios and SciL, with the 2nd element from sēmeia, pl of Gr sēm- eion, a sign or signification, from sēma, a sign (cf SEMANTIC); polysyllabic, ML polysyllabus, Gr polusullabos, from sullabē, a SYLLABLE; polytechnic, F polytechnique, Gr polutekhnos, from tekhnē, an art, a craft; polytheism, F polythéisme, from Gr polutheoos, of many gods (cf theo-); polytrophic, Gr polutrophos, nutritious (sense obs in E); polyvalent, many-valued, cf -valent.

polypi-: for polypus, a polyp, as in polypiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

-pomatos, 'hinged': from Gr pōma (gen pōmatos), a lid; IE r pō-*, to protect (Boisacq). Ex: arthropomatos (cf arthro-), applied to molluscs having hinged shells.

pomi-, pomo-: the latter ('fruit'), influenced by Gr; the former ('apple' or 'fruit'), L pōmi-, c/f of pōmum, (a) fruit, esp the apple. Exx: pomiculture, fruit-growing, and pomiferous (L pōmifer), apple-bearing; pomology, fruit-growing considered scientifically; cf the Bot pome, from OF-MF pome (EF-F pomme), apple, from VL poma*, from L pōmum.

pondero-: from ponder-, o/s of L pondus, weight: cf PONDER. Ex: ponderomotive.

ponero-: from Gr ponēros, wicked, akin to ponos, fatigue, suffering, pain. Ex: ponerology, the theological treatment of evil.

ponti-, ponto-: from L pons (gen pontis), a bridge: pontify, via F from ML pontificāre, from L pontifex (q.v. at PONTIFF); pontocerebellar, (in An) of the pons and the cerebellum.

popo-, Popo-: for 'a pope, the Pope, popes': as in popolatry and popomastix (cf -mastix).

populi-: from L populus, the people: cf PEOPLE. Ex: populicide, a massacre of the people.

-pora, -pore; pori-, poro-: all from Gr poros (s por-), an opening, a PORE: resp, SciL pl, used in Zoo generic names, as Millepora; (-pore) from Gr poros, as in blastopore (cf -blast); (pori-) from L porus, from Gr poros, as in poriform; (poro-) from Gr poros, as in Bot porogamy and poroscope.

porn(o)-: from Gr pornē, a prostitute. Exx: pornocracy (cf -cracy), rule by licentious women; pornography (whence the adj pornographic), a description of prostitution, hence of licentiousness in general, cf pornographer (cf -grapher at -graph), from Gr pornographos, a writer on prostitution, hence a licentious writer.

poro-. See -pora.

porphy(o)-: Gr porphuro-, c/f of porphura (n), purple, and of porphuros (adj), purple: akin to PURPLE. Exx: porphyroblast (cf -blast); porphyrogene, royal-born, b/f from porphyrogenite, itself, via ML, from LGr porphyrogennētos, begotten in, hence born to, the purple; porphyrophore (cf -phora). The rock porphyry comes from Gr porphura (n) and porphuros, as above, via ML porphyreus and then It porfiro and finally OF porfire (Mod F porphyre).

poso-: from Gr posos, how much, how great, akin to L quot, how many (cf QUOTA). Ex: posology, (Med) dosology, (Math) the doctrine and science (cf -logy at -loger) of pure quantity (and quantities).

postero-: from L posterus, placed behind, hinder; denoting either 'at the back' or 'posterior and': cf POSTERIOR. Ex: postero(-)lateral. Cf postremo-.

posth-, short for postho-; posthe-; posthio-: from Gr posthē, penis, prepuce; posthia, prepuce; posthion, little or small penis. Rare outside Med.

postremo-, as in postremogeniture, ultimogeniture: from L postrēmus, last. Cf postero-.

potam(o)-; -potamia, -potamus: Gr potamo-, c/f of potamos, a river, akin to Gr petomai, I fly, and piptō, I fall down, and Skt patati, he falls or flies, and E FEATHER. Exx: HIPPOPOTAMUS; Mesopotamia, q.v. at meso-; Potamogeton, a genus of aquatic herbs, adapted from L potamogeton, pondweed, from Gr potamogetiōn—geitōn, a neighbour; potamology, river-lore; potamophilous, river-loving.

potassi-, potassio-: c/ff of E potassium.

potentio-, as in El potentiometer: for potential.

poticho-: app only in potichomania (victim: -manist), 'the craze for . . . imitating painted porcelain ware by coating the inside of glass vessels' (Webster), from F potichomanie, from potiche, a porcelain vase (from pot)+-manie, mania.

-practic. See -praxia.

praseo-; praso-: the former, from Gr prasios (s prasi-), leek-coloured (leek-green), from prason (s pras-), a leek, whence the c/f praso-; prason is akin to the syn L porrum, both—independently—of Medit stock. Exx: praseolite (-lite) and prasophagous, n prasophagy, leek-eating, cf phaga.

prat(i)-: from L prātum, a meadow, perh (r for l) akin to Gr platus, flat. Ex: pratincole, lit a meadow-inhabiter (incola).

1 -praxia, 2 -praxis; 3 adj -practic: 1, 'performance of movement(s)', Gr -praxia, a c/f from praxis, a doing, action, from prassein, to do, perform, practise; 2, Gr -praxis, from praxis; 3, from Gr praktikos, fit for doing, effective—cf practical at PRACTICE. The forward c/ff are praxino- (from the o/s praxin-), as in praxinoscope, and praxio-, as in praxiology.

Exx: echopraxis, an as-it-were echoic repetition of others' actions; chiropraxis or chiropractic (n from adj), a manual adjustment of the (esp spinal) joints; chiropractic, adj.

presby-, presbyo-: Gr presbu-, c/f of presbus, old, (hence) an old man, akin to Skt purás, in front of, before (place; hence, time): cf PRESBYTERIAN. Exx: presbyophrenia, senile dementia (cf -phrenia) and presbyopia (cf -opia at -ope), defective vision caused by old age, whence presbyopic.

pressi-: from L pressus, pressed, pp of premere (s prem-). Ex: Zoo Pressirostres.

presti-. See PRESTIDIGITATION.

pri-. See prio-.

primi-; primo-: L primi-, c/f of primus, first; LL and ML primo-, from primus. Cf PRIME. Exx: primigential (L primigeni(us)+suffix -al), first generated, hence primal or primary; Med primi- gravidu, pregnant for the first time, from ML gravidus (L grauidus), from ML gravis, L grauis heavy; primogenitor (an ancestor), adopted from ML—cf primogeniture, ML primogenitūra, from L genitūra, a begetting, from gignere, to beget primordial, LL primordiālis, adj of L primordium the beginning, from ordiri, to begin a web (cf exordium), to begin.

pri(o)-; -prion; prion(o)-: all from Gr prion (gen prionos), a saw for cutting, akin to prōō (s pri-), saw or saw through, itself akin to peirō (s peir-) I pierce; IE r, perh peir-* or per-*, to penetrate. Exx: Zoo adj prionot, small-mandibled (pri- for prio- for priono-+odont-, o/s of Gr odōn, a tooth) -prion, only in generic names in Ichthyology prionodont, having a serrate row of teeth; Prionops a genus of birds, 'saw-face' (Gr ōps, face). Cf:

priso-: from Gr prisis, a sawing (cf prec), as in prismeter. Cf:

prist(o)-: from Gr pristis, (?) a sawfish. Ex: Pa Pristodus (cf -odus at -odon). Cf pris-.

privi-; -privic: ML privi-, L priui-, from prīuus private, as in PRIVILEGE; (-privic) from ML privus L prīuus, in its secondary sense 'deprived (of) deficient (in)', as in calciprivic, deficient in calcium Cf PRIVATE.

proboscidi-, occ shortened to probosci-: From L proboscis (gen proboscidis), from Gr proboskis, (gen proboskidos), elephant's trunk, snout; pro- forwards+boskein (s bosk-), to pasture (v.t.): orig 'a means of providing food' (Boisacq). Ex: probosci(di)form.

proct(o)-: Gr prōkt(o)-, c/f of prōktos, anus; in E, denotes 'rectum'. Ex: proctology, the medical science of anus and rectum. The end c/f -proctous is the adj corresponding to Zoo classes -procta, -proctus, and 'condition' n -proctia.

proli-: L prōli-, c/f of prōles (s prōl-), offspring. Exx: proliferate, perh from proliferation, itself suggested by proliferous (cf -ferous at -fer), reproducing freely; PROLIFIC.

prono-: from L prōnus, leaning prō or forward. Ex: pronograde, walking as human beings do, with the body slightly forward of horizontal.

prophetic-: from Gr prophētikos, prophetic, as in prophetic-Messianic.

propion(o)-: for propionic (proto-+ Gr piōn, fat+ suffix -ic). Only in Chem.

prosi-, in prosi. See PROSE.

prosop(o)-: Gr prosōp(o)-, c/f of prosōpon, face, lit, (the part) at the side of or towards the eyes, ōps, an eye, pl ōpes, ōpa. Exx: prosopography, description (-graphy, Gr -graphia: cf -graph) of the face; prosopopeia, the rhetorical figure of an absent person speaking or of a dead person alive and present, from Gr prosōpopoia, where prosōpon, face, is by extension a person—cf -poeia, -making.

The adj is -prosopous, from Gr -prosōpos, -faced, as in megaprosopous, large-faced, with corresp nn ('condition') in -prosopia.

prost(at)(o)-: for prosthes.

prosth(o)-: for prosthesis in, e.g., Surg.

protei-: for Proteus; as in proteiform, protean.
prote(o)-: from Gr prōteion, neu of prōteios, primary. In Chem and Biochem, it denotes either 'protein' or 'proteid', as in proteolysis (cf -lysis at lyse); or, in Zoo, 'protean'.

proter(o)-: from Gr proteros, earlier, former from pro, forward). Exx: proteranthous (cf anthous at anth-), flowering before it has leaves; Proterozoic (cf -zoic at zo-). Cf the next two.

protisto-: from Gr prōtistos, first; as in protistology, the biology of the Protista.

prot(o)-: Gr prōt(o)-, c/f of prōtos, first (in time, status, type), a sup adj (cf prec) formed from pro, forward. Exx: protocol, via F and ML from Gr prōtokollon, the first leaf glued (kolla, glue: cf -coll) to papyrus rolls and having on it a description of the contents, hence, ult (in E), a set of official, e.g. diplomatic, formulas; protoplasm, G Protoplasma, lit the first form or mould (cf -plasm); prototype, via F and Mod L from Gr prōtotupon, orig the neu of prōtōtipos, primitive, of the earliest tipos or type; Protozoa (cf -zoa at zo-).

proximo-: from L proximus, nearest; cf PROXIMATE. Ex: proximo(-)lingual.

pruni-: from L prunum, a plum; cf PRUNE. Ex: pruniferous, plum-bearing (cf -fer).

Prussi-: for Prussian, as in Prussify, now usu Prussianize.

psalm(o)-: from Gr psalmos, a psalm: cf PSALM. Exx: psalmody, via LL from Gr psalmōidia, a psalm-singing, hence a collection of psalms, cf ODE; psalmograph, a psalm-writer, via LL from Gr psalmographos.

psamm(o)-: Gr psamm(o)-, c/f of psammos, s psam(m)-, sand, and perh akin to SAND itself. Exx: Psammophis, lit 'sand snake' (cf -ophis at ophio-); psammophyte (cf -phyte), a plant living in sand.

pseph(o)-: from Gr psēphos (ψῆφος), a pebble, perh akin to prec. Exx: psophomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by pebbles; Psephurus (cf -ure: Gr oura, tail).

pseud(o)-: Gr pseud(o)-, c/f of pseudēs, false, influenced by pseudos, falsehood; s pseud-, perh akin to Arm sut, false. Exx: pseudaphia (Gr haphē, touch) or pseudesthesia, defective or imaginary (sense of) feeling; pseudepigraphous, falsely signed or wrongly attributed, from Gr pseudepigraphos (cf epigraph), whence also pseudepigrapha, writings incorrectly attributed to Biblical characters; pseudomorph (cf -morph); pseudonym and pseudonymous, both (the n, via F) from Gr pseudōnumos, using a false onuma or name.

psil(o)-: Gr psilo-, c/f of psilos, bare, (hence) mere, s psil-; IE r prob bhes-* or bhis-*. Exx: psilology, mere or empty talk, and psilosophy, empty or superficial philosophy.

The neu psilon occurs in the Gr letter-names epsilon (ἒψιλόν, bare, written simply) and upsilon (ὕψιλόν or ἰδὺψιλόν, the bare v (u) written simply).

psittac(i)-: from L psittacus, from Gr psittakos, a parrot, perh—whatever its linguistic origin—echoic. Exx: Psittaciformes, birds that are parrot-like (FORM); psittacosis, parrot disease (cf suffix -osis).

psomo-, as in psomophagy (cf -phaga), eating without properly chewing: from Gr psōmos, a morsel, app, like the next, from or akin to psō, I scratch, reduce to dust.

psoro-: from Gr psōros, an itching, as in psorosperm (cf -sperm), or from the syn psōra, as in Psorophora (cf -phora); the derivative Gr psōriasis, E Med psoriasis, yields c/f psoriasi-, as in psoriasiform. Cf prec.

-psyche; psych(o)-: the former from Gr psukhē, the latter from Gr psukh(o)-, c/f of psukhē (ψυχή), the breath of life, the soul: see PSYCHE. In E cpds, it denotes 'mental life', as in PSYCHIATRY and PSYCHOLOGY; a (formless) spirit, a ghost, as in psychogram (cf the 2nd -gram); 'psychology, or its methods', as in psycho-analysis (ANALYSIS) and psychotherapy (THERAPY); 'psychic (i.e., of the soul or spirit) and', as in psychosomatic, of, by, for mind and body (cf -soma). Cf:

psychro-: from Gr psukhros, cold, which (psukh- + infix -r- + -os, adj suffix) is clearly akin to psukhē (s psukh-), soul, (lit) breath: cf prec. Exx: psychrometer; psychrophobia, a dread of cold or of anything cold.

-ptene; pteno-: from Gr ptēnos, winged, volatile, whence the c/f ptēno-, whence E pteno-, -winged, -feathered; akin to Gr pteron, a wing (see next). Exx: only in Zoo, esp Orn, as, e.g., eloptene and Ptenoglossa.

1 -ptera, 2 -pterus, 3 -pteros, 4 -pterus, 5 -pteryx; 6 pterido-, 7 pter(o)-, 8 pterygo-, 9 pterylo-: all ult from Gr pteron (pl ptera), a feather, (hence, collectively) a wing, akin to Skt patra, feather, wing, (from the 'ribbing') leaf—to Hittite pettar or pittar, a wing—to L penna—and to E FEATHER: resp. Gr -ptera (from ptera, feathers, wings), denoting, in Zoo, 'creatures with so many, or such, wings or winglike parts', as in Hemiptera, an order of insects; 2, Gr -pterus, from pterus, a fern—pter(is) from pter(on), in Bot genus, e.g. Ornithopteris (ornitho-); 3, Gr -pteros, -winged, from pteron—denoting, in Bot and Zoo, 'with so many, or such, wings, etc.', e.g. trichopterous (tricho-), of the Trichoptera or caddis flies; 4, 'wing', SciL from Gr pteron, as in Zoo Trachypterus (cf trachy-, rough); 5, Sci L -pteryx, from Gr -pteryx, c/f of pteryx (s pter-), a wing, a fin—cf pter(on)—denoting, in Bot, Pal, Zoo, '-winged' or '-finned', as in Dipteryx; in Ich, usu -pterygii, from Gr pterugion (dim of pteron), as in Pleuropterygii (pleuro-); 6, Gr pterido-, c/f of pterus (gen pteridos), a fern, as in pteridology, the science of ferns; 7, Gr pter(o)-, c/f of pteron, feather, wing, as in pterocarpous, bearing winged fruit—pterodactyl, an extinct flying reptile (Gr daktulos, finger, toe), also known as a pterosaur (cf -saur); 8, Gr pterygo-, c/f of pteryx, (wing,) fin, gen pterygos—esp in An and Zoo, e.g. pterygo(-)palatal; pterylo-, for SciL pteryla, as if a dim from Gr pteron, as in pterylography. Cf:

-ptile; ptil(o)-; -ptilus; from Gr ptilon, a (soft) feather, down (of birds), akin to pteron, a feather, a wing (see prec); Gr ptil(o)-, c/f of ptilon; Gr -ptilos-, feathered, from ptilon. Exx: teleoptile (cf teleo-), a mature feather; ptilopaedes, birds with young (Gr pais, pl paides, children) that, hatching, are down-covered; heptoptilus (cf lepto-).

ptocho-, 'indigent, (n) the poor': from Gr ptōkhos, one who cringes (ptōssein, to shrink, to cringe), hence a beggar; perh akin to Gr piptein, to fall; IE r, perh pta--, s pet--, to fly, to fall. Ex: ptochocracy, 'If wishes were horses . . .'. Cf:

-ptomā-, -ptosis: from Gr ptōma-, a falling; Gr -ptōsis, c/f of ptōsis, a falling, akin to ptōssein, to cringe (see prec); both denoting, in E, a prolapse (falling forward). Exx: archoptoma; gastroptosis (cf gastro-).

ptyal(o)-: from Gr ptualon (s ptual-), spittle, akin to ptuein, to spit, and perh to E SPIT; e.g., ptyalogenic, tending to produce spittle. Cf -ptysis.

ptych(o)-: from Gr ptukhē (s ptukh-) or from the o/s of ptux* (gen ptukhos), a fold, a layer, perh akin to Gr epi (IE epi* or pti*), upon. Ex: Ptychosperma (cf -sperm).

-ptysis: (Gr ptysis, a spitting, from ptuein, to spit—cf ptyalo-). Ex: plasmoptysis (cf -plasm).

pubi-, pubio-, pubo-: c/ff (2nd and 3rd, irregular) from L pūbes, the pubic hair: cf PUBERTY. Exx: pubigerous, pubic-hairy (cf -gerous at -ger); pubiotomy (cf -tomy at -tome); ('pubic and') pubo(-)vesical.

pulchri-, as in pulchrfy, to render (cf -fy), beautiful: from the o.o.o. L pulcher, f pulchra beautiful, whence pulchritūdō, beauty, whence E pulchritude (adj -udinous).

puli- (? for pulicī-): from L pulex (gen pulicis), a flea; pulex is perh akin to E FLEA—cf the Gr phulla. Ex: pulicide (cf -cide at -cidal).

pulmo-, pulmonl-: c/ff from L pulmō (gen pulmōnis), a lung; the o/s pulmōn- suggests a metathesis of the syn Gr pleumōn (gen pleumonos). Exx: pulmogastric, of lungs and belly; Pulmonifera, a SciL neu pl (cf -fer) for 'snails having a pulmonary sac instead of a gill'. Shortened form occurs in the blend trade-name Pulmotor.

pulpe-, pulpi-, pulpo-: the 1st, from L pulpa, pith or pulp of fruit (cf PULP); the other two, from E pulp. Exx: pulpefaction (cf -faction); pulpify (cf -fy); pulpotomy (cf -tomy at -tome), a cutting into the pulp of a tooth.

pulsi-, pulso-: for E PULSE (of heart), as in, pulsific, pulsometer.

pulvilli-, pulvini-: from ML pulvillus (L puluillus), a little cushion, the dim of ML pulvinus (L puluinus) a cushion. Exx: pulvilliform, pulviniform.

pumicī-: for E pumice, from L pūmex, gen pūmicis, whence also, via OF-F ponce (from doublet pomex*), the E ponce, a fine powder: akin to E FOAM.

punctato-, puncti-, puncto-: resp for punctate; the 2nd and 3rd, both, the latter irregularly, from L punctum, q.v. at POINT. Exx: punctato(-)striate; punctiform, resembling a point; punctographic, of or by the raised points of Braille.

pupi-: for pupa (in Zoo), as in pupiferous (-ferous at -fer) and pupiform. Cf PUPPET.

puri- (1): L pūri-, c/f of pūrus, pure: cf PURE where see purify.

puri- (2): from L pūr-, o/s of pūs, q.v. at PUS. Ex: Med puriform, pus-like. Cf:

puro-: irregularly from L pūr-, o/s of pūs (see prec). Ex: puro(-)lymph.

purpureo-; purpuri-, purpuro-: from L purpureus (adj) purple, from purpura, (n) purple, whence purpuri- and purpuro-: cf PURPLE. Exx: purpureocobaltic; purpuriferous, purpuriform; purpurogenous, occasioning a purple colour.

-pus. See -pod.

pusill(i)-: LL pusilli-, c/f of L pusillus, rather or very little, akin to pūsus, a boy (cf the more usual puer). Notably in LL pusillanimis (hence E pusillanimous, little-couraged), whence pusillanimitās, E pusillanimity: cf animus at ANIMAL.

pustuli-, as in pustuliform: for L pustula, whence E pustule: akin to Gr phusa, bellows.

putre-, putri-: the former, from L putrēre, to be rotten (cf PUTRID); the latter, from L putris, rotten, itself from putēre, to be rotten, to stink. Exx: putrescent, causing putrefaction, both from putrefacere, to cause to go rotten; putriform, of putrid appearance.

py-. See pyo-.

pyncnidio-; pyncnio-: for pyncnidium and for pyncnum, both in Bot. Cf:

pyncn(o)-: Gr pykn(o)-, c/f of pyknos, compact or dense, r puk-, IE r puk-*. Ex: pyncnometer, an instrument for measuring the density of liquids. Occ pykn(o)-, as in pyknaom.

pyel(o)-: from Gr pyelos, a vat, a trough, hence in E Med the pelvis; s pyel-, perh from pyuel-*—cf Gr plumein (s plum-), to wash. Ex: pyeloscopy, inspection (cf -scope) of the pelvis.

-pygal, -pygian, -pygous, in Zoo: -pyge, -pygia, -pygus, pyg(o)-: the last = Gr pyg(o)-, c/f of pygē (s pyg-), the rump, whence all the other forms, whether adj, as in the first three, or n, as in the second three; IE r, app pu-*. Exx: (pygal); callipygian, pygous, from Gr kallipygos, fair-buttocked (Callipygian Venus); Megalopyge (cf megalo-), of American moths; pygalgia, pain in the rump—Pygopus, an Australian snake-like lizard, devoid of fore, and having only rudimentary hind limbs (cf -pus, foot, at -pod).

pykno-. See pyncno-.

pyl(e)-: Gr pylē-, c/f of pylē, a city gate, s pyl-, perh akin to Skt gopuram. (Hofmann.) Exx: pylethrombosis (cf thrombo-); (terminal -pyle) micropyle (micro-). Cf pylor(o)-: from Gr pylēros, (lit) gate-keeper, hence the lower orifice of the stomach: cf prec; 2nd element, from horan, to see. Ex: pyloroscopy.

py(o)-: Gr py(o)-, c/f of puon, pus (cf, therefore, the 2nd puri-), akin to L putēre, to be rotten, to stink—cf PUTRID. Exx: pyemia, blood-poisoning; pyorrh(o)ea (cf -rrhoea, a flowing), a discharge of pus, esp from or at the sockets of one's teeth.

-pyra. See pyro-.

pyramido-: for pyramid, as in pyramido-tenuate. pyren(o)-: Gr purēn(o)-, c/f of purēn (gen purēnos), a fruit-stone, with c/f adj purēnos, whence E -pyrenous. Exx: pyrenocarp (cf -carp); tetrapyrenous, four-stoned (cf tetra-).

pyreto-: Gr pureto-, c/f of puretos, fever, from pūr, fire, cf pyro-. Ex: pyretology, the medical treatment of fevers.

pyrgo-: Gr purgo-, c/f of purgos, a tower, perh akin to G Berg, a mountain. Ex: pyrgocephalic, with a skull high of vertex.

pyri-: from ML pyrum, for L pirum (s pir-), a PEAR. Ex: pyriform, pear-shaped. Cf piri-.

pyr(o)-; pyriti-; -pyra-: Gr pur(o)-, c/f of pūr (gen purōs), fire (cf FIRE); from Gr purītēs, of fire, hence a pyrite; (-pyra) from Gr pur. Exx: traumatopyra (cf traumato-); pyritology; pyro-, in nn, 'fire' or 'heat', as in pyromancy, divination (-mancy) by fire, via OF and ML from Gr pyromanteia; pyromania (hence -maniac), a morbid impulse to incendiarism, cf pyrophobia, a morbid dread of fire; pyrometer, a thermometer for heats beyond the range of mercury; pyrophorous (cf -phorous at -phora); pyrotechnics, from adj pyrotechnic(al), of, for, by fireworks;—in adj. 'pyrogenous', producing—or produced by—heat (cf the Gr pyrogenēs, born of fire), as in pyromagnetic; in Chem, 'derivative by heat', as in pyro-acid and pyro-arsenic; in Geol and Min, 'caused by fire or heat', as in pyrometamorphism. (Webster.) Cf:

pyrrho-: Gr purrho-, c/f of purrhos, fire-coloured (cf prec), red or tawny. Ex: Pyrrhocoridae, a family of brightly coloured insects—Gr koris, an insect.

pyrro-: An occ var of prec. Ex: pyrroporphyrin.

pytho-: from Gr puthein, to rot; cf putre- and pyo-. Ex: pythogenic, producing—or being produced by—decomposition or by filth.

pyxid(o)-: from puxid-, c/f of puxis, a box (orig of boxwood), prob akin to L buxus, the box tree. Ex: Pyxidanthera (cf -anthera at anth-).

quadr-: prevocalic form of quadri-; quadru-; quadrato-: the third, for E quadrate; the second, L quadri-, c/f of quattuor, akin to syn Gr tetra; quadru-, a var of quadri-. Exx: quadrangular, LL quadrangulāris—cf QUADRANGLE; quadriform, LL quadriformis; quadrilateral, four-sided, from L quadrilater(us) + adj suffix -al, cf LATERAL; quadruplicate, L quadruplicate, divided (from partiri, to divide, share out) into four parts; quadrissyllabic, four-syllabled; quadrivium, adopted from ML, from L quadrivium, a crossroads (ML via, L uia, a way, a road)—cf TRIVIAL; quadrumanous (L manus, a hand); QUADRUPE; quadruple, L quadruplus (-plex, a fold, from plicāre, to fold); quadrato(-)jugal. Cf quarti-.

quali-, as in qualimeter (in Phys): from L qualis, of what sort of nature. Ex: qualify, q.v. at QUALITY. Cf:

quanti-, as in quantimeter and quantivalence: from L quantus, how large, neu quantum, how much. See QUANTITY. Cf prec.

quart(i)-; rarely quarto-: from L quārtus, fourth —the ordinal adj corresp to quattuor, four: cf QUART. Ex: quartiparous, bearing (cf -parous at -para) four children or other offspring; quartocentenary. Cf quadri-.

quasi-: c/f of E from L quasi, as if, as it were, apparently, as in quasihistorical, apparently or ostensibly historical. The L word prob=quam si, as if.

quater-: L quater, four times (from quattuor, four), as in quatercentenary.

quega (only in El): based upon mega-.

querci-: from L quercus, an oak, akin to E FIR. Ex: quercivorous, oak-eating (cf -vorous at -vore).

quin(o)-: for quina, cinchona bark, hence quinine—as in quinology, all the scientific lore of the cinchona tree and its product; also for quinine—as in quinolin(e), which=quin(o)-+ol (L oleum, oil) + Chem suffix -in(e). quinqu(e)-: L quinq(u)e-, c/f of quinq(u)e, five: cf next. Ex: quinquennial (cf -ennial, from L annus, a year), from L quinquennis, influenced by L quinq(u)ennālis.

quint(i)-: L quint(i)-, c/f of quintus (s quint-), fifth—the ordinal of quinque (s quīn-), five: cf prec and see QUINTET. Ex: quintessence (whence quintessential), adopted from F, from ML quinta essentia, the fifth and highest essence, or power, of a physical body or manifestation.

quot-: OL quot-, c/f of the adv quot, how many. Ex: quotennial, annual, from L quotennis, every year, annually, the E word being influenced both by L quotennis, of how many years, how many years old, and by biennial, triennial, etc.; quotidian, prob via OF, from L quotidiānus, (adj) daily, from quotidie, (adv) daily, from the derivative adj quotus, in what number, how many a + dies, day. Cf quali- and quanti-.

rabi-: for E RABIES, q.v. Exx: rabific (cf -fic), causing rabies; rabiform, resembling rabies; rabi-genic (cf -genic at -gen), rabific.

racemi-, racemo-: L racēmi-, as in racemifer, cluster-bearing, whence E racemiferous (cf -ferous at -fer), bearing racemes (in Bot, a raceme is a simple inflorescence), itself from L racēmus (s racēm-), a cluster of grapes or berries: cf RAISIN. But racemo- is a c/f for the E Chem adj racemic, as in racemo(-)carbonic.

rachi-, prevocalic form of rachio-: from Gr rhakhis, the spine, akin to Gr rhakhos, a thorn-bush; IE r, prob oragh-* or oregh-*. Exx: rachialgia, pain (cf -algia) in the spine; rachimeter, rachitomy. Cf RICKETS.)

The end c/f -rachidia is a SciL formation, from the o/s rhakhid-; and rachito- is for E rachitis, as in rachitogenic, tending to produce rickets: and either rachitis or, more prob, its Gr original, rhakhitis (cf suffix -itis), leads to rickets, influenced by (w)rick, a wrench.

Cf rachy-, irreg for rhachy-, from Gr rhakhis, the back or the spine; as in Zoo Rachycentron (Gr kentron, a sharp point), cf CENTER.

radi- (1). See radici-. radi- (2): for E radium, as in radiferous, radium-bearing.

radiato-, as in radiatoporous, is for E radiate (adj). Cf radio-.

radici-: from L rādix (gen rādicis), root: cf RADICAL. EXX: radiciferous, radiciform, radicivorous (root-eating). A shortened form, radi-, occurs in radectomy and radicolous (cf -colous). The L dim rādicula yields the c/f radicul-, as in radiculectomy (cf -ectomy at -tome). radio-: for and from L and E radius, as in radio-symmetrical and radio-ulnar; in Chem and Phys, it denotes either 'radiant energy', as in radio(-)active, or 'radioactive', as in radio(-)chemistry; in Med, 'by means of radium', as in radio(-)surgery; in general, radio- can denote 'radio', as in radio-telegraphy. Cf the 2nd radi-.

ralli-: from Rallus, a Zoo generic name for the various rails (birds), from OF ralle, of echoic origin. Ex: ralliform.

ramenti-: from L rāmentum, a scraping (hence its Bot sense), from rādere, to scrape, to scratch. Ex: ramentiferous, ramenta-bearing.

rami-; ramoso-, cf -ramose; ramuli-: resp ML rāmi-, c/f of L rāmus (s rām-), a branch; from L rāmōsus, branchy; whence E ramose; (-ramose) from ramose, branched, branchy; from rāmulus (dim of rāmus), a small branch. EXX: RAMIFY, ramiferous (cf -ferous at -fer); ramoso(-)pinmate; multiramose, having many branches; ramuliferous.

rani-: from L rāna, a frog—prob echoic. Ex: ranivorous, frog-eating (cf -vora). raphi-; raphidi-: from Gr rhaphis (gen rhaphidos), a needle, from rhaptein, to sew (or stitch) together. EXX: Bot raphides, needle-like crystals (in plant cells); raphidiferous, containing or producing raphides.

rare-, as in rarefy, q.v. at RARE, and rari-, as in rari(-)constant: from L rārus.

rati-: L rati-, c/f of ratus, established by calculation, valid: cf RATE. EXX: ratify, q.v. at RATE; ratihibition, ratification, from LL ratihibitiō (gen -hibitiōnis), the 2nd element coming from L -hibitus, the pp of cpds of habēre, to have, to hold.

reacto-: for reaction, as in reactology, (roughly) psychology.

recipio-, as in recipiomotor, of, by, for the reception of impulses of motion: from L recipere, to receive, prompted by recipiō, I receive.

rect(i)-: LL recti-, c/f of L rectus, ruled straight, (hence) straight, from regere, to direct in a straight line: cf REGENT. EXX: rectangle, via F from LL rectiāngulum, rectāngulum, 2nd element from angulus, an angle; RECTIFY; rectilinear, in a straight line, bounded by straight lines, cf LINE; rectirostral, straight-beaked (cf rostri-). Cf:

recto-: for (the) rectum, ScIL for rectum intestinum, lit 'the straight intestine', where rectum, therefore, is strictly the neu of rectus (see prec). EXX: ('the rectum') rectoscope (cf -scope); ('rectal and') recto-abdominal.

recurvi-, recurvo-: from ML recurvus (L re- curvus), curved back. EXX: recurvirostral, recurvopotent.

reflecto-: for reflection; e.g., reflectometer.

reflexo-: for reflex, as in reflexology.

refracto-: for refraction, as in refractometer.

regi-: L regi-, c/f of rex, a king; cf REGENT. EXX regicide, the slayer, or the slaying (cf -cide at -cidal), of a king; regifuge, the flight (L fuga) of kings.

rego-: irreg from Gr rhegos, a blanket. EX: regolith (cf -lite).

rei-: from L rēs, a thing, a property, gen rei. Ex: reify (rei-+-fy, q.v. at -fier), to convert (the abstract) into the concrete.

religio-, 'religious and': for E religion, as in religio-scientific.

remi-: from L rēmus, an oar, from rāmus, a branch; as in remiform, oar-shaped.

reni-, reno-: c/ff from L rēn (gen rēnis), kidney, whence, via the adj rēnālis, the E adj renal. EXX: reniform and renography; ('renal and') reno(-)gastric.

reptili-: for reptile, as in reptilivorous, reptile-eating.

resilio-: for resilience, as in resiliometer.

resini-, resino-: the former denoting 'resin', the latter 'resinous and'; both from E resin. EXX: resinify (F résinifier: cf -fy at -fier), to convert into, or to become, resin; resino(-)vitreous, resinous and glassy.

respiro-: from L respirāre (s respir-: re+spir-, to breathe), as in respirometer.

resti-: from L restis, a rope: perh cf Skt rājījus, cordage. Ex: restiform, rope-like.

reti-: from L rēte, a net, as in retiform, net-like. Cf retino- and:

reticul(o)-: from L, for E, reticulum (cf RETICULE), a little net, dim of rēte (cf prec): only in Sci terms, e.g. reticulocyte (cf -cyte) and reticulo(-)venose. Cf reticulato-, (adj, adv) like a net, as in reticulato-venose.

-retin; retin(o)-: from Gr rhētīnē, resin, akin to RESIN. EXX: quiniretin (quinine+-retin); retinalite (retina+-lite), a serpentine of resinous lustre, and retinasphalt (cf ASPHALT).

retino-: from ML rētina (of the eye), from L rēte, a net (cf rēti-): cf RETICULE. Ex: retinoscopy, inspection (cf -scope) of the eye.

rhabd(o)-: Gr rhabd(o)-, c/f of rhabdos, a rod, a stick, a wand; IE s, prob, uerb-, an extension of r uer-, to turn. EXX: rhabdolith (-lith, q.v. at -lite); rhabdomancy, divination (-mancy) with wands; rhabdosphere.

rhaco-: from Gr rhakos, a tattered garment; as in Bot Rhacomitrium (Gr mitrion, dim of mītra, a kilt).

Rhaeto-: for Rhaetic, as in Rhaeto-Romanic, the Romance dialects of S.E. Switzerland: L Rhaeticus, adj of Rhaetia, roughly the Tirol and the Grisons.

rhagadi-: for L and Med rhagades, from Gr rhagades, pl of rhagas, a fissure. Cf -rrhage.

-rhage. See -rrhage.

rhanno-: for Rhannose, a crystalline sugar derived from blackthorn berries: from L, from Gr, rhamnos, a prickly shrub. Ex: rhamnohexose.

rhamph(o)-: -rhamphus: from Gr rhamphos, a crooked beak, prob akin to rhabdos, q.v. at rhabdo-; (-rhamphus) SciL c/f from rhamphos. Exx: (Zoo) rhamphoiteca (cf -iteca); Sarcorhamphus (cf sarco-).

-rhapfy. See -rrhapfy.

rhapido-: from rhapid-, o/s of Gr rhapis, a rod, akin to rhabdos, q.v. at rhabdo-. Ex: Rhapido-phyllum (cf -phyllum at -phyll).

rhegma-, as in Bio rhegmotypy; rhegno-, as in Zoo Rhegnopteri (cf -ptera): Gr rhēgma, a fracture, from rhēgnunai, to break loose (whence rhegno-).

rhemato-, as in rhematology, the study of the semantic aspect of speech-elements: from Gr rhēmat-, the o/s of rhēma (whence E rheme), a word, from eirō, I speak: cf RHETORIC.

rheo-: from Gr rheos (s rhe-), a current, akin to rheō (s rhe-), I flow. Mostly in Electricity, e.g. rheostat (Gr statos, static); rheology, the science treating of the flow of matter.

-rheuma. See -rrheuma.

-rhexis. See -rrhexis.

rhigo-: from Gr rhigos, frost, the cold, akin to L frigus. Ex: rhigolene=rhigo-+L oleum, oil+chem suffix -ene.

-rhina and -rhinus; -rhine and -rhinous: all from rhin-, the o/s of rhīs, a nose (see next): the first two occur in Zoo generic names, e.g. Gymnorhina (cf gymno-) and Megarhinus (cf mega-); -rhinous is an ordinary, -rhine (occ -rhinal) a SciE, adj for 'having a (specified) kind or type of nose', as in monorhine or monorhinal (cf mono-), and platyrhine, flat-nosed (platy-).

rhin(o)-: Gr rhin(o)-, c/f of rhīs (gen rhīnos), a nose or snout, lit 'the flow-er or (of liquid) runner'—cf Gr rheō, I flow, and element -rheuma. Exx: Med rhinolith (cf -lith at -lite)—rhinophore (cf -phora)—rhinoscopy (cf -scope)—and esp rhinoceros, L rhinocerōs, Gr rhīnokerōs, 'the horn-nose' (from the horn on its nose): rhino-+terminal c/f of keras, a horn. Rhinocerotie comes, via LL rhīnocerōticus, from Gr rhīnokerōtikos, of or like a rhinoceros.

rhipid(o)-: from Gr rhipis (gen rhipidos), a fan, akin to rhiptein (s rhipi-, base rhip-), to cast or throw. Ex: Rhipidoglossa. Cf:

rhipto-: from Gr rhiptos, thrown out, from rhiptein, to throw (cf prec). Ex: Rhiptoglossa (cf glossa).

-rhiza, -rhizous; rhiz(o)-: resp from Gr rhiza, a root, akin to L rādix and perh to L radius; from Gr -rhizos, -rooted, from rhiza; Gr rhiz(o)-, c/f of rhiza. Exx: hydrorhiza (cf hydro-); oligorhizous (oligo-); rhizogenic, root-producing.

-rhodin; rhod(o)-: from Gr rhodon, a rose, and denoting, in E, a type of red pigment, as in phytorhodin (cy phyto- at -phyte); Gr rhod(o)-, c/f of rhodon (prob of OPer origin), as in rhododendron (cf -dendron), adopted from Gr rhododendron, rose-laurel (lit tree).

rhombi-, rhombo-: the former from L rhombus, the latter being Gr rhomb(o)-, the c/f of rhombos (whence rhombus), a spinning top, (later) a rhombus, with s rhomb-, akin to rhemb-, the s of Gr rhembein, to whirl, to turn around. Exx: rhombiform, rhombic, rhomboid, (shaped) like a rhomb or a rhombus; ('a rhomb') rhombohedron (cf -hedron at -hedral) and ('rhombic and') rhombo(-)quadrate or -quadratic.

rhopal(o)-: Gr rhopal(o)-, c/f of rhopalon, a club (heavy stick), s rhopal-, extension of rhop-, akin to rhap-, s of rhapis, a root. Ex: Rhopalura (cf -ura, from Gr oura, a tail).

rhyaco-: from Gr rhuak-, o/s of rhuax, a stream (cf rheo-) of lava. Ex: rhyacolite (cf -lite). Cf rhyo-.

rhynch(o)-; -rhynchus: Gr rhunkh(o)-, c/f of rhunkhos (whence -rhynchus), a snout, a beak, akin to Gr rhin (orig rhīs, gen rhīnos), a nose, cf rhino-. Exx: rhynchoporous, beaked (cf -phora), cf Rhynchophora, the snout beetles; Harporynchus (1st element, from Gr harpē, a sickle).

rhyn(o)-: irreg from rhino(o)-. Ex: Rhynocheti (Gr okhetos, a channel, a duct).

rhyo-: for rhyolite (cf -lite), a volcanic rock; rhyo-, from Gr rhein, to flow: cf rheo- and rhyaco-. Ex: rhyobasalt.

rhyparo-, rhypo-, as in the synn rhyparography, rhyppography, the -graphy (q.v. at -graph) or printing (literal or literary) of common, or even of sordid, objects; cf Gr rhyparographos (adj), painting foul or sordid objects, from rhyparos, filthy, the adj of rhypos, filth, prob akin to Skt svavas, suppuration.

rhyssi-: from Gr rhusis, a flow(ing); as in rhyssimeter. Cf rheo-, rhyo-, rhyparo-, and:

rhythmo-: LL rhythmo-, from Gr rhuthmo-, c/f of rhuthmos (see RHYTHM). Exx: rhythmometer and rhythmopoia (LL, from Gr rhuthmopoiia—cf -poia, a making).

ricini-, only as ricin-: for Bot Ricinus, L ricinus, the castor-oil plant. Ex: ricinoleic, ricin-+chem oleic, of or from L oleum or oil.

rigidi-, as in rigidify: for rigid.

riml-, as in rimiform, shaped like a crack, a fissure, a narrow furrow: from L rīma, a crack, a crevasse.

ripi-: from L ripa, bank (of a stream), perh akin to Gr eripnē, a slope. Ex: ripicolous (cf -colous), living on the banks of a stream, riparian or riparious (L ripārius).

rizi-: from F riz, rice, as in riziform, like a grain of rice. Cf RICE.

Romani-; Romano-: from L Rōmānus, Roman (of Rōma, Rome): 'Roman', as in Romaniform; 'Roman and', as in Romano-Germanic. Cf the rare Roml-, 'Rome': as in Romipetal, Rome-seeking (cf -petal).

röntgeno-: for Röntgen, as in röntgenotherapy.

rōri-: L rōri-, c/f of rōs (gen rōris), dew, akin to Ve rasā. Ex: roriferous, dew-producing, L rōrifer, cf -ferous at -fer.

roseo-; rosi-, roso-: the 1st, from L roseus, rosy; the 2nd, from its n, rosa, as in Rosicrucian; the 3rd, by Gr analogy, from rosa, as in rosolite (cf -lite). Cf ROSE.

rostri-, rostro-; -rostral: 1st and 2nd from L rostrum, a beak, from rödere, to gnaw; 3rd from LL adj rosträlis. Exx: rostriform, beak-shaped; ('rostral and') rostro-caudate; unguirostral (cf ungui-).

rota-. See roti-.

rotato-: for E rotate, shaped like a (L) rota or wheel: 'rotate and', as in rotato(-)plane. Cf:

roti-, roto-; occ rota-: c/ff from L rota, a wheel—cf ROTARY. Exx: rotameter; rotiferous (cf -ferous at -fer); rotograph, rotogravure. The L dim rotula yields c/f rotuli-, as in rotuliform, shaped like a small wheel or, in An, like a knee-pan. Cf prec and:

rotundi-, rotundo-: from L rotundus, round (like a rota or wheel: cf prec). Exx: rotundifoliate; rotundo-oval.

-rrhachidian; -rrhachis, var -rhachis: the former, for rachidian, of a rachis; the latter, from Gr rhakkhis, the spine (cf rachi-). Only in An and Med.

-rrhage, -rrhagia, -rrhagy; adj -rrhagic: 1st and 3rd, from 2nd, which = Gr -rrhagia, from rhēgnunai, to burst. Exx: h(a)emorrhage, via F and L from Gr haimorrhagia, a bursting-forth of blood (Gr haima: cf haema)—with adj h(a)emorrhagic.

-rrhaphy: Gr -rrhaphia, c/f of rhaphē, a sewing or stitching: cf raphi-. Only in Surg—e.g., laparorrhaphy (cf laparo-).

-rhea. See -RRHOEA.

-rheuma, occ -rheuma, as in acrorrheuma (cf acro-): cf RHEUM.

-rrhexis, occ -rbexis: Gr -rrhēxis, c/f of rhēxis, a fracture, hence, in E Med, a rupture, as in hepatorrhexis (cf hepato-); from rhēgnunai, to burst. Cf -rrhagia.

-rrhinia, occ -rhinia: from rhin-, the o/s of Gr rhīs, the nose: cf rhino-. Ex: ('a certain nasal condition') cacorrhinia (cf caco-).

-rrhiza. Now usu -rhiza, q.v.

-rrhoea; now often -rhea: via L (-rrhoea) from Gr -rrhoia, a flow(-ing), from rhein, to flow: cf rheo-. Exx: diarrhoea, Am diarrhea (cf the prefix dia-, through); gonorrhoea (cf gono); logorrhoea, a ceaseless flow of words (cf logo- at -loger).

rube-, rubi-: L rube-, from rubeus (s rub-), red; L rubi-, from rubēre (s rub-), to be red: cf RED. Exx: rubefaciens, (something) that causes redness, esp of the skin, L rubefaciens-, o/s of rubefaciens, pp of rubefacere, to make rubeus or red (cf -faciens); rubicif, causing (-fic) to be red (rubēre). Cf:

rubri-, rubro-: from L ruber (gen rubri), red—cf prec. Exx: rubrific (cf -fic) and, in An, rubro(-)spinal. Cf:

rufi-, rufo-: from L rufus, red: cf RED. Exx: ruficaudate, red-tailed, and rufo(-)ferruginous. Cf rube- and rubri-.

rumeno-: for E rumen, from L rūmen, the first stomach, the gullet: cf RUMINATE. Ex: rumenotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

runi-: for rune, as in runiform.

rupi-: from L rūpes (s rūp-), a rock, akin to L rumpere (s rump-). to break. Exx: Rupicapra, lit 'the she-goat of the rocks'—the genus of the chamois; rupicolous, living among, or growing on, rocks—cf -colous.

ruri-: L rūri, c/f of rūs (gen rūris), the country: cf RURAL. Exx: ruvidecanal, of or for a rural dean; rurigenous (rurigen-+adj suffix -ous), from L rūrigena, born (cf -gen) in the country.

Russi-; Russo-: for Russian; (Russo-) for Russia or Russians, as in Russolatry, idolatry of Russia and the Russians; or for Russian (and), as in Russo-Japanese (War); Russify (cf -fy).

ruthenio-, rutheno-: for ruthenious, the adj of the rare chem element ruthenium (from ML Ruthenia, Russia).

ruti-, rutid(o)-: from Gr rhūtis (gen rhūtidos), a wrinkle. Exx: rutidosis, from Gr rhūtidosis; Rutiodon (cf -odon).

rynco-, as in ryncosporous, with a beak-like seed or fruit: a rare var of rhyngo-, q.v.

-saccate. See sacco-.

sacchari-; sacchar(o)-: resp from ML saccharum and from its Gr original, sakkhar (gen sakkharos), sakkharon, sugar: cf SACCHARIN(E). Ex: saccharobacillus.

sacci-, sacco-; -saccate: 1st from L saccus, 2nd from its source, the Gr sakkos—both meaning 'bag' and both, in E, usu denoting the Sci 'sac' (cf SACK, bag); 3rd, for E saccate, resembling a pouch or sac. Exx: sacciferous (cf -ferous at -fer); saccoderm (-derm).

sacer-. See SACERDOTAL and cf:

sacri-; sacro-: L sacri-, c/f of sacer (gen sacri), sacred; sacro-, by Gr influence: cf SACRED. Exx: SACRIFICE and SACRILEGE; SACROSANCT and sacro-pictorial.

sacro- (1). See prec.

sacro- (2): for the An sacrum, elliptical for os sacrum, the 'sacred bone' (lowest of the spine)—cf prec. Exx: ('the sacrum') sacrotomy (cf -tomy, a cutting, at -tome); ('sacral—of the sacrum—and') sacro(-)vertebral.

safrano-: for safron, as in safrano pink, or for chem safranine, as in safranophile, susceptible to safranine. Cf SAFFRON.

sagitti-, sagitto-: L sagitti-, c/f of sagitta, an arrow, perh of Etruscan origin; sagitto-, by Gr influence. Exx: sagittiferous, arrow-bearing (or -producing), cf -ferous at -fer; sagittocyst (cf -cyst).

salamandri-: for salamander, as in salamandri-form.

sali-: F sal-, from L sāl (gen salis), salt: cf SALT. Exx: salicylic; saliferous, salt-bearing; salify, from F salifier (cf -fy at -fier).

salicyl(o)-: for salicylic (acid). See prec.

salini-, salino-: for saline (salty), L salinus, from sal, salt: cf prec. Exx: saliniform, like a salt; salinometer, an instrument determining the amount of salt in a solution. Cf:

sal(o)-: for salicylic (acid), as in Salol (-ol, oil); or for salino-, as in salometer.

salpi-: for Zoo Salpa (SciL, from L salpa, a stock-fish, from Gr salpē, as in salpiform; or for the next, as in Bot Salpiglossis (cf -glossa).

salping(o)-; -salpinx: Gr salping(o)-, c/f of salpinx (gen salpingos), a trumpet—whence obviously the end-c/f -salpinx; prob echoic. Exx: ('tube, Eustachian or Fallopiian') salpingo(-)palatine, salpingoscope; hydrosalpinx.

saluti-, as in salutiferous (L salūtifer: cf -fer): from salūs (gen salūtis), health.

salvi-, as in salvific (rendering safe): ML salvi-, LL salui-, c/f of saluus, safe. Cf SALVATION.

samari-, as in samariform: from L samara, elm-seed.

Samo-: Gr Samo-, c/f of Samos, an Aegean island. Exx: Pal Samotherium (cf -there) and Samothracian (Gr Samothrakios).

sancti-; sancto-: L sancti-, c/f of sanctus, holy: cf SAINT; (sancto-) app from LL sanctio(rum), of the saints. Exx: sanctify, (perh via OF) from LL santificāre, to render (cf -fy at -fier) holy; sanctilogy, a history of saints;—sanctology, a catalogue, or a history, of saints.

sandi-, as in sandiferous (cf -fer): for sand.

sangui-; sanguineo-; sanguino-: resp L sangui-, c/f of sanguis (sangu-+extension -u-+n-suffix -is), blood—cf SANGUINE; a Med c/f from L sanguineus, blood-red; (sanguino-) for E sanguine. Exx: sanguiferous, blood-producing; sanguineo(-)vascular; sanguino-choleric.

sani-: LL sāni-, c/f of L sānus, healthy—cf SANE. Ex: ('health') sanipractic (cf -practic at -praxia).

sano-: a Med c/f ('of sanies and') from L saniēs, pus and blood exuding from ulcers, etc.: perh akin to L sanguis, blood. Ex: sano(-)purulent.

sap(o)-; saponi-: from L sāpō (gen sāpōnis, o/s sāpōn-), soap: cf SOAP. Exx: sapo- in Pharmacy; saponi- in, e.g., saponify (F saponifier), to convert into soap, to render (cf -fy at -fier) saponaceous (ML sāpōnāceus) or soapy.

sapori-: from L sapor, taste, as in saporific (cf -fic). Cf SAVO(U)R.

sapr(o)-: Gr sapr(o)-, c/f of sapros (sap-+-r+-os), putrid, rotten, prob akin to Gr sēpia, a cuttlefish, and sēpein (s sēp-), to render putrid. Exx: sapr(a)emia, gangrenic blood (cf haema-); saprogenic; saprophyte (-phyte).

-sarc; sarc(o)-: from Gr sarx (gen sarkos), flesh—cf SARCASM; Gr sark(o)-, c/f of sarx. Exx: ('flesh'—'tissue like flesh') caulosarc (cf cauli-); sarcology, the An of the fleshy parts; sarcophagus, q.v. in the exx at -phaga; Sarcura (-ura, Gr oura, a tail), the thick-tailed rays (fish).

sarruso-, as in sarrusophone (cf sousaphone): from Sarrus, Parisian bandmaster, who devised it in 1856.

Satano-: for and from SATAN, as in Satanology. satyr(o)-: from L satyrus, from Gr satyros, a satyr (cf SATYR); as in satyriasis (cf -iasis), from Gr satyriasis; satyromania.

-saur, 2 -saura, 3 -sauria, 4 -saurian, 5 -saurus; 6 saur(o)-: all ult from Gr saura (f), sauros (m), a lizard, saur- (app, base sau-+extension -r-), prob akin to Gr sauros (? sau-+-l+-os), sauros (? sau-+-k+-r+-os), graceful. 1, the c/f of the E form saur of L saurus (whence, obviously, 5, -saurus), from Gr sauros; 2, from Gr -saura, c/f of saura; 3, c/f of SciL Sauria (saur-+suffix -ia), the lizards and, orig, crocodiles; 4, from saurian (Sauria+adj suffix -an), of or for or like a lizard; 6, Gr saur(o)-, c/f of sauros. The elements -saurid, -sauridae, are cpds: saur+-idae and -id, 'descendant(s)'. Exx: dinosaur (cf dino-), one of the Dinosauria, adj dinosaurian; Brontosaurus (cf bronte-) and Ichthyosaurus (cf ichthyo-); saurognathous (cf -gnathous at -gnatha).

saxi-: L saxi-, c/f of saxum (s sax-), a rock. Exx: saxicolous, rock-inhabiting (cf -colous), growing among rocks; saxifrage (-frage), via OF from L saxifraga (? s herba), the rock-breaking (plant), from saxifragus (adj), rock-breaking (saxifragous).

sax(o)-: from Antoine Joseph Sax (1819–94), the inventor, as in saxhorn, saxophone saxotromba, saxtuba.

scalari-, as in scalariform, ladder-like: from L scālāria, a flight of steps: cf SCALE.

scaleno-, as in scalenoedron (cf -hedral), comes from Gr skalēnos, uneven.

-scaph; scaph(o)-: from Gr skaphē, a trough, a boat (lit, a dug-out), c/f skaph(o)-; akin to skaptein (s skapt-), to dig. Ex: scaphocephalic, having a boat-shaped skull.

scapi-: for scape, a peduncle, a stem, a shaft, from L scapus, a shaft, from Gr skapos, a shaft, a staff: cf SHAFT. Ex: scapigerous (cf -gerous at -ger). Cf:

scapo-: from Gr skapos, a staff (cf prec); as in scapolite (-lite).

scapuli-, scapul(o)-: for scapula, the shoulder-blade, and denoting either 'the scapula' or (o-) 'scapular and'. Exx: scapulimancy (cf -mancy); scapulo(-)vertebral.

scat(o)-: Gr skat(o)-, c/f of skōr, ordure (gen skatos), akin to Skt sairya- and Hit sakkar, dung. Exx: scatology, the study of excrement, hence the study of or an interest in (literary) filth; scatomancy (cf -mancy).

-sceles; scel(o)-: Gr -skelēs, end-c/f of skelos (s skel-), leg, whence the c/f skel(o)-, whence E scel(o)-; IE r, perh skel-*, to bend or bow. Exx: isosceles (triangle), via L from Gr isoskelēs—cf iso-, equal; scelotyrbe, via L from Gr skelēturbē, uncertainty (turbē, disturbance: cf DISTURB) in stepping, spastic paralysis of legs.

scelido-: from Gr skelis (gen skelidos), rib, side, but in E Pal apprehended as leg (Gr skelos: see prec). Ex: Scelidosaurus (cf -saurus at -saur).

scelo-. See -sceles.

sceno-: via L scæno- from Gr skēno-, c/f of skēnē, a stage, a scene thereon: cf SCENE. Ex: scenography, via F and L from Gr skēnographia (cf -graph).

sceptro-: from Gr skēptron, a staff (see SCEPTRE); as in sceptropherous, staff (or stick)-carrying, cf -pherous at -pher.

sceno-: LGr skeuo-, c/f of Gr skeuos, a vessel (container). Exx: sceuophorion, a pyx, lit '(sacred) vessel-bearer'.

schemato-: from Gr skhēma (gen skhēmatos), a shape or form, a figure, cf SCHEME; occ shortened to schema-. Exx: schematograph; schematomancy, divination (-mancy) by a man's shape; schematonics, gestural expression (Gr tonos, tone).

-schesis, -schetic: from Gr skhesis, a checking, hence, in E cpds, suppression, with adj -schetic, from Gr skhetikos, retentive: from ekhein (s ekh-), to have, to hold. Exx: menoschesis, menoschetic (cf meno-).

-schisis, -schist; schisto-; schiz(o)-: 1st from Gr -skhisis, c/f of skhisis, a cleavage (see 2nd); 2nd and 3rd, from Gr skhistos, split, cleft (cloven), divided, pp of skhizein, to split or cleave; Gk skhizo-, c/f of skhizein; cf schism at SHED. Exx: -schist, only in Bio and Bot; ('fissure'—of a specified part) schistocyte (-cyte) and schistoscope; schizogenous (-genous at -gen)—schizognathous, split-nosed—schizophrenic, adj (hence n) from schizophrenia, (the condition of) a split mind (cf -phrenia), 'split personality'.

scia-: Gr skia-, var of skio-, c/f of skia, a shadow; IE s, prob skel-* or ski-*. Exx: scialytic (cf -lytic at -lyse), shadow-dispelling; sciamachy, a battle (-machy) of, or with, shadows—a mock contest; sciapodous, immense-footed, from Gr Skiaopodes, a fabulous people with feet (cf -pod) large enough to be used as sunshades.

The form scio- (Gr skio-) occurs in, e.g., sciomancy, divination (mancy) by consulting the shades of the dead, and sciotheism, a belief in ghosts as influences on the living.

scientl-, see SCIENTIFIC; scientifico-, for 'scientific and', as in scientifico-religious.

scilla-: for L scilla, the squill (bulbous herb): cf SQUILL. Ex: scillitoxin, a poison derived from squill.

scinci-, scinco-: from L scincus, itself from Gr skinkos, a skink (a kind of lizard). Ex: Zoo Scincomorpha (cf -morph).

scintillo-: for L (and E) scintilla, a spark: cf SCINTILLATE. Exx: scintillometer and scintilloscope.

scio-. See scia.

scirrh(o)-; -scirrhus: c/f for SciL scirrhus, an indurated gland or tumour, from L scirros, from Gr skirrhos or skiros (s skir-), hard, or, as n, an indurated tumour, etc. Exx: scirrhogastria (cf -gaster) and mastoscirrhus (masto- at -mastia).

scirto-: from Gr skirtan, to leap; as in Zoo Scirtopoda, an order of rotifers (cf -pod).

sciuro-: from Gr *sktouro*s, a squirrel—cf SQUIRREL. Ex: sciurormorph (cf -morph), a member of the Zoo division Sciuromorpha, beavers, squirrels, etc.

scler(o)-: Gr sklēr(o)-, c/f of sklēros, dry, hard (whence the An sclera, the hard coat of the eyeball), akin to skellein (s skel-)—v.t. and v.i.—to dry; IE r, skel-*. Exx: ('fibrous') scleroderma (cf -derm); ('of the sclera') sclero(-)iritis; cf Med sclerostis (scler-+suffix -ostis), induration, from Gr sklērōsis. The rare scleri- occurs in Bot sclerify (cf -fy).

Subsidiaries are -sclerosis, as in arteriosclerosis, hardening of the arteries, and sclerotico-, for sclerotica (a SciL var of SciL sclera, the hard coat of the eyeball), as in scleroticotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

scobi-, as in scobiform, sawdust-like: from L scobs (gen scobis), sawdust, akin to scabiēs, roughness, (hence) the disease scabies, from scabere (s scab-), to scratch.

scolect-, scolec(o)-; -scolex: 1st, from SciL scolex, from Gr skōlēx, c/f skōlēk(o)-, whence scolec(o)-; 3rd, an E c/f from Gr skōlēx, a worm, s skōl-, perh from IE r skel-*, to bend or curve. Exx: scoleciform, shaped like a tapeworm's head; Med scoleciasis, from Gr skōlēkiasis (cf -iasis); scolekophagous, worm-eating (cf -phaga), from Gr skōlēkophagos. Cf:

scolio-: Gr skolio-, c/f of skolios, bent, crooked (cf prec). Ex: scoliometer.

scolo-: from Gr skolops (gen skolopos), a pointed instrument, var of skalops, prob akin to L scalpere (s scalp-), to scratch. Ex: scolophore (cf -phora).

scombri-, as in scombriform, like a mackerel: from L scomber, gen scombri, from Gr skombros.

-scope, 2 -scopic, 3 -scopus, 4 -scopy: all, ult, from Gr skopein (s skop-), to regard or view (cf SCOPE): resp SciL -scopium, from Gr -skopion, as in hudroskopion, a hydroscope—denoting, in E, a means (usu an instrument) for viewing or inspecting or observing, as in gyroscope, adopted from F (from L gyrus, Gr guros, a circular motion; on analogy of telescope)—kaleidoscope (Gr kalos, beautiful+eidōs, form+connective -o-+scope)—MICROSCOPE—and the prototype, TELESCOPE; 2 (-scopic), adj of nn in -scope and -scopy, as, e.g., stethoscopic (stethoscop(e)+adj -ic; cf sietho-) and telescopic, but also, independently, a c/f derived from Gr skop(ein), to view, and, in E, denoting 'looking in a certain direction', as in basiscopic, looking at or towards the base (cf bas-); 3 (-scopus) SciL (from Gr skopos, a watcher), only in Zoo—e.g., Phylloscopus (cf -phyl); 4 (-scopy), Gr -skopia, a viewing or inspection or observation, as in akroskopía, E acroscopy, whence acroscopic, looking at or towards the crest, and in microscopy, q.v. at MICROSCOPE.

scopi-: from L scōpa, a broom, by b/f from scōpae, a broom, prob akin to L scapus, shaft of a column. Exx: scopiform, scopiped (cf -ped, -foot). Cf scopuli-.

-scopic. See -scope.

scopuli-: from SciL scopula, from L scōpulae, a small broom (cf scopi-). Exx: scopuliform; Scopulipedes, bees 'having a brush of hairs on the hind legs for collecting pollen' (Webster).

-scopus, -scopy. See -scope.

scori-, dross, slag: for E from L scōria, from Gr skōria, from skōr, dung. Exx: scoriform; scorify=scori(a)+-fy, q.v. at -fier.

scorpi-, as in Scorpiurus, from LL, from Gr skorpiouros, lit 'the scorpion-tailed (plant)'—cf ure.

scoto-: Gr skoto-, c/f of skotos, darkness, s skot-, akin to Go skadus, darkness, s skad-; IE r, prob skot-, with var skat-. Exx: scotograph, an instrument for writing without seeing; scotophobia, a dread of darkness.

Scoto-: from LL Scotus, a Scot; denoting 'Scottish (and)', as in Scoto-Norman.

scribbleo-: for scribble, as in scribbleomania.

scroful(o)-: for E scrofula, as in ML—from LL scrofulae, dim (pl) from L scrofa, a breeding sow: 'perh by a fanciful comparison of the glandular swellings to little pigs' (Webster); 'imitation of the Gr χοιράδες' (E & M), khoirades, pl (adj as n), of khoiras (gen khoirados), pig-like, from khoiros, a young pig. Ex: scrofuloderma (cf -derm).

scroti-, scrot(o)-: for scrotum (L, also scrautum), as in scrotiform and scrotocele (cf -cele).

sculpto-: from L sculptus, pp of sculpere, to carve, from scalpere, to scratch. Ex: sculptograph. Cf SCULPTOR.

scutati-; scutelli-; scuti-: the 2nd, from L scutella, a dish, dim of scutum, a shield, whence, obviously, the c/f scutti- (cf SQUIRE); the derivative L scutatus, (lit) shielded, whence E scutate, yields scutati-, syn with scuti-. Exx: scutelliform, dish-shaped; scutiferous, shield-bearing (cf -fer), and scutiped. Cf scyto-.

scyllio-, as in Zoo Scylliorhinidae (rhinē, a kind of shark): from SciL Scyllium, from Gr skulion, a dogfish.

scyphi-, scypho-: for L scyphus, a cup, from Gr skuphos (s skuph-), c/f skupho-, whence the E scypho-; perh akin to skaptein (s skapt-), to dig. Exx: scyphiphorous (cf -phora) and Scyphophori.

Scytho-: from L Scytha, a Scyth; denotes 'Scythian and', as in Scytho-Greek.

scyt(o)-: Gr skut(o)-, c/f of skutos, leather, hence (in E cpds), skin, as in scytodepsic, of, by, for tanning, Gr skutodepsikos, which=skuto-+deps(ein), to knead+adj suffix -ikos (cf E -ic).

sebasto-: from Gr sebastos (s sebast-), august, venerable, from sebein (s seb-), to fear, honour, revere. Exx: Sebastichthys, lit 'sacred fish' (cf ichthyo-); Sebastopol (cf -pole, city).

sebi-, sebo-: resp from L sēbum (s sēb-), tallow, grease, suet, and for derivative Med sebum, fatty matter secreted by certain glands (sebaceous g., from L sēbaceus, adj of sēbum); sēbum akin to L sāpō, E SOAP. Exx: sebific, fat-producing (-fic); seborrh(o)ea, cf -rrhoea.

sec(o)-, as in Zoo secodont (cf -odon), having teeth suitable for cutting; from L secāre (s sec-), to cut. Cf -sect.

secreto-: for E secretion, as in secretomotor.

-sect, -sected: from L sectus, cut (up), divided, pp (for secātus) of secāre, to cut; syn (-sected) from vv in -sect. Exx: multisect, cut into many parts; bisected, divided—by cutting—into two parts. In E, -sect is also the inf of vv derived from L cpds of secāre, as in bisect and vivisect. Cf SECTION.

secundl-: L secundl-, c/f of secundus, second (lit, following): as in secundigravida, (Med L) pregnant for the second time.—The var secundo- occurs in secundogeniture (cf primogeniture at primi-).

securi-: L secūri-, c/f of secūris (s secūr-), an axe or a hatchet, perh akin to secāre (s sec-), to cut. Exx: the Bot Securigera (cf -ger).

-seism, adj -seismic, occ -seismal; seismo-: all from Gr seismos (c/f seismo-), an earthquake, from seiein (s sei-), to shake; IE s, perh sei-*. Exx: tachyseism (cf tachy-, swift-passing), -seismic; seismology, the science of earthquakes; seismometer; seismotherapy, medical treatment by vibratory massage.

selacho-: from Gr selakhos, a fish with cartilages in place of bones; from selas, gleam, light, and therefore akin to selēnē, moon (cf seleno-). Exx: Selachostomi (adj selachostomous), an order of fishes, cf -stoma.

seleni(o)-: for selenium, a (lit 'moonlike') non-metallic element, as in seleniferous, productive of selenium. Cf:

selen(o)-; rarely seleni-: Gr selēn(o)-, c/f of selēnē, the moon, (lit) the glitterer—cf selas, a brilliant light or gleam. Exx: the Bot Selenipedium (cf pedio-); selenocentric, with moon as centre; selenography (cf -graph) and selenology.

selli-: from L sella, a saddle, itself from sedēre, to sit. Ex: selliform, saddle-shaped.

sema-, 2 semant(o)-, 3 semasi(o)-, 4 semato-, 5 -seme, 6 semelo- (rarely semio-), 7 semo-: all, ult, from Gr sēma (s sēm-), a sign; resp, 1 sēma; , perh from Gr sēmanta, neupl of sēmantos, marked, signified, from semainein, to signify, to mean; 3, from Gr sēmastia, signification, an extension of sēma; 4, from the o/s sēmat- of sēma (gen sēmatos); 5, from Gr sēma; 6, from Gr sēmeion, a sign, from sēma, with which it is syn: 7 (rare), from sēma.

Exx: semaphore (see -phora, 2nd para); semantology, semantics—cf semantic, from Gr sēmantikos (adj, from sēmainein), signifying, significant, whence, via the f semantikē, F (la) sémanitique, whence E semantics; semasiology (cf -logy at -loger), semantics; sematology, semantics—cf the Bio adj sematic, vitally significant; megaseme (cf mega-); semelography and semeiology, esp, in Med, of symptoms; semology (rare), semantics; Pal Semionotes.

[semi-. See Prefixes.]

semini-; seminull-: from L sēmen (L ēminis), seed—cf SEMEN; SciL dim, seminula. Exx: seminific; seminuliform.

semio-. See sema-.

Semitico-; Semito-: both for 'Semitic (and)'; the 2nd, also for 'a Semite': cf SEMITE. Ex: Semitico-or Semito-Hamitic.

semno-, as in Zoo Semnopithecus (cf -pithecus): from Gr semnos, revered, holy.

seni-: from L senex (gen senis), old, (n) old man: cf SENIOR. Ex: senicide, (the tribal custom of) exterminating the old men.

sensi-: L sensl-, c/f of sensus, a feeling, a sensation, from sentīre, to feel, to perceive. Ex: sensific (LL sensificus), causing perception or sensation.

sens-: for 'sensory and', as in sensoparalysis. Cf: sensori-: for sensorium (LL); also for 'sensorial and', as in sensorimotor.

-sepalous, as in gamosepalous (cf gamo- at -gam) = SEPAL + adj -ous.

sepi-, as in Bot sepicolous (cf -colous), hedgehaunting, comes from L saepes (gen saepis), a hedge. Cf -septate.

-sepsis, adj -septic: from Gr sēpsis, putrefaction of or in a bodily part, from sēpein (s sēp-), to render putrid, whence also sēptikos, which, via L sēpticus, yields septic, whence -septic. Exx: antiseptic, antiseptic; sarcosepsis, sarcoseptic.

-septate; septato-: for and from septate, having — or divided by — an An or Bot or Phys or Zoo septum, from L septum, for saeptum, a hedge, a fence, an enclosure, from s(a)epire, to hedge (in) or enclose. Exx: bisepiate (prefix bi-) and septato-articulate. Cf the 2nd septo-.

septem-: L septem-, from septem, seven (cf SEVEN). Exx: SEPTEMBER; septemfoliate, seven-leaved. Also septen-, as in septendecimal, of seven-teen (L septendecim). Cf the 3rd septi-.

septi-. See the 1st septo-.

septi- (2). See the 2nd septo-.

septi- (3). A var of septim-, seven, as in septifolious, seven-leaved; septinsular, seven-islanded (cf INSULAR); septivalent.

-septic. See -sepsis.

septico-: for septic, but from L sēpticus, q.v. at -sepsis.

septo- (1) or septi-: from Gr sēptos, putrefied (cf -sepsis); as in septiform and septogerm.

septo- (2) or septi-: for Sc septium (cf -septate), a partition, as in septiferous, septo(-)marginal, septotomy.

sequester(o)-: for Med sequestrum, as in sequestro-tomy (cf -tomy at -tome). Cf SEQUESTRATE.

Serbo-: for SERBIAN, as in Serbo-Croat. Cf Servo-.

seri-; sericeo-; serici-, serico-: 1st, short for 3rd, serici-, from F serici-, from LL sēricum, silk; 2nd, for 'sericeous (and)', itself from LL sēricus, from sēricus, silken, from sēricum; serico-, from Gr sērikos, silken, from Sēres, an East Asian people, manufacturers of silk: cf SILK. Exx: sericulture; sericeo-mentose; sericiculture; Sericocarpus (cf -carp), herbs with silky 'fruit'.

serio-: for serious, as in seriocomic.

sermono-: for sermon, as in sermonology.

ser(o)-: in nn, 'relation to serum'; in adj, 'serous and': cf SERUM. Exx: seralbumin, serogelatinous.

serpenti-: L serpenti-, c/f of serpens (gen serpentis); ex: serpentivorous. Cf:

serpa-, as in serpulite (cf -lite, stone): irreg for serpi-, from L serpes*, var of serpens, a serpent: cf SERPENT.

serrati-; serrato-: for serrate, as in serrati(-)rostral, saw-beaked; (serrato-) from L serrātus, saw-edged (serrate), from serra, a saw—denoting 'serrate and', as in serrato(-)dentate, saw-toothed. Cf:

serri-: SciL and F serri-, from L serra, a saw, prob of echoic origin. Exx: the Zoo Serricornia (cf -corn) and Serrifera, saw-flies and their like; serriform, saw-shaped. Cf prec.

Servo. Until c1919, the usual form of Serbo-.

sesqui-: L sēsqui-, one-and-a-half, from sēmisque*—half, akin to sēmi+que, and. Exx: sesquicentennial, of 150 years, hence n (150th anniversary); sesquipedalian, L sēsquipedālis, of one and a half metrical feet (cf -pede), hence, esp of words or of those who use them, very long.

seti-: L seti-, c/f of sēta (s sēt-), usu saeta, a bristle: o.o.o. Ex: setigerous (cf -ger).

seto-, as in Setophaga, the genus of fly-catching warblers, lit 'moth-eaters' (cf -phaga): Gr sēs (gen sētos), a moth, perh akin to Syrian sāsā, a moth (Hofmann).

setuli-, as in setuliform, of or like a sētula or small bristle; dim of sēta, q.v. at seti-.

sex-; irreg, sexa-; sexi-, an E var of sex-: L sex-, c/f of sex, six. Exx: sexangle, a hexagon, from L sexangulus, six-angled; sex-annulate, six-ringed; sex-digital, six-fingered or -toed; sexennial (adj, hence n), lasting, or happening every, six years, from L sexennium, a six-year period, from sexennis, of or in six years;—sexadecimal;—sexiped (cf -ped), six-footed; sexivalent. Cf sexi-.

sexo-: for sex, as in sexology. Cf sexu-.

sexti-: from L sextus, sixth, from sex, six: an occ var of sex-, six-, as in sextipartition, division into sixths, and sextipolar, having six poles.

sexu-: SciL sexu-, from L sexus, sex; as in sexupara (cf -para).

shapo-: for shape, as in shapometer (to determine the shapes of pebbles).

sial(o)-: Gr sial(o)-, c/f of sialon, saliva. Exx: sialagogue (cf -agogue), a medicine that promotes the flow of saliva; sialology.

sicci-, as in siccimeter (for measuring evaporation): from L siccus, dry. Cf DESICCATE.

Sicilo-; Siculo-: the former for Sicilian, the latter for L Siculus, Sicilian, and both denoting 'Sicilian and', as in Sicilo- (or Siculo-) Norman.

-siderite; sider(o)- (1): c/f for siderite, native ferrous carbonate, orig loadstone, as was L sideritis, from Gr sideritēs or -itis, of iron, from sideros, iron, whence the c/f sider(o)-, whence E sider(o)-. Exx: oligosiderite (cf oligo-); siderography, (the art of) steel engraving; sideroscope; siderurgy (cf -urgy), from Gr siderourgia, (a) working in iron.

sidero- (2): from sider-, o/s of L sīdus (gen sideris), a star. Exx: sideromancy, divination (-mancy) by means of the stars; siderostat (cf -stat), an Astr instrument.

sigillo-: for L sigillum, a seal—cf SEAL. Ex: sigillography, a knowledge and description of seals (sigilla).

sigmo-; sigmoid(o)-: from Gr sigma, the Gr s; for sigmoid (flexure or artery), s-shaped. Exx: Sigmoidontes (sigma+odontes, teeth), a Zoo group of rodents, sigmoidoscope (cf -scope).

signi-, as in signifer (cf -fer), a standard-bearer, and signify, q.v. at SIGN, is the L and E c/f of and from signum, a sign (distinctive mark) or a signal. Cf the E end-c/f -sign in consign and resign, qq.v. at SIGN.

siliceo-; silici-; silico-: 1st, for siliceous, from L siliceus, adj of silex (gen silicis), a flint, whence silici-; silic(o)-, for silicon, which, like silica, is SciL based upon L silic-, the o/s of silex. Exx: siliceocalcareous; silicicolous (cf -colous), growing well in flinty soil; silicofluoride and—'silicic and'—silico-alkaline.

siliqui-, as in siliquiform: for Bot siliqua, adopted from L ('a pod, a husk').

sillo- (1): Gr sillo-, as in sillographos, E sillographer, a writer (cf -grapher at -graph) of satirical poems (Gr silloi, pl of silos).

sillo- (2): F sillo-, from MF-F siller, to go, or pass, through the water, akin to MF-F sillon, a furrow, Ex: sillometer (F sillomètre), a ship's speed-measurer.

Siluro-, 'Silurian and': from L Silūres, an ancient Celtic people of Britain, with adj Silurian, applied esp to a Geol period. Ex: Siluro-Cambrian.

silvi-: from ML silva, L silua, a wood or forest: cf SILVAN. Exx: silviculous (cf -colous), ML silvicola (L silui-), a woods-dweller; silviculture, the growing and care of woods—cf L silvicultrix.

simo-: Gr simo-, c/f of simos (s sim-), snub-nosed, whence the syn L simus, whence simia, an ape, whence the E adj simian (suffix -an). Ex: Simosaurus (cf -saur). simpli-; simpli-: ML simpli-, c/f of L simplex, simple; ML simpli-, c/f based upon the o/s simpli-; cf SIMPLE. Exx: SIMPLIFY; Zoo Simplidentata, rodents having a single pair of upper incisors (cf dentato-).

sin-: from L sinapi or sinapis, mustard, from Hell Gr sinapi (or sinapu), akin to Gr napu; perh cf Skt sarsapa-, itself perh of Mal origin. (Hofmann.) Ex: sinalbin, a glucoside in white-mustard seeds—cf L albus, white.

Sinico; Sino-: 1st, for Sinic, which, like the 2nd, comes from LL Sinae or from its source, Gr Sinai, the Chinese, itself from a Chinese name: cf CHINESE. Exx: Sinologue, a scholar in Chinese (language, art, etc.)—cf F sinologue (cf -logue at -loger)—and Sinology (-logy at -loger); Sinophile (cf -phil). Rarely Sini-, as in Sinify.

sinistr(o)-: L sinistro-, c/f of sinister, on the left hand: cf SINISTER. Exx: sinistro(-)cerebral; Bot sinistrorse, twining leftwards, L sinistrorsus, short for sinistrouersus (ML -versus), turned to the left (side).

Sino-. See Sinico-.

sinu-; sinuato-: from L sinus, a concave or semi-circular fold, a bent or curved surface, e.g. a bay, s sin-, o.o.o.; hence L sinuare, to curve, to bend or curve back, with pp sinuatus; cf SINUOUS. Exx: sinu(-)auricular; sinuato(-)dentate.

siphon-; siphon(o)-: 1st, from E siphon; 2nd, from Gr siphōnō-, c/f of siphōn, a tube or a pipe: cf SIPHON. Exx: siphoniferous (cf -ferous at -fer); Bot siphonogamous (cf -gamous at -gam), fertilizing with a pollen tube, and Zoo Siphonophora (cf -phora).

siri(o)-: from L Sirius, from Gr Seirios, 'the scorcher'. Exx: siriasis (cf -iasis), sunstroke; siriometer (an Astr measure).

sismo-. An occ var of seismo-.

sisto-, 'stopper, checker, retarder', as in Biochem sistomensis: from L sistere, freq of stāre, to stand: cf the -sist of assist, consist, desist, exist, insist, persist, resist, subsist.

-site: from parasite; as in Zoo coenosite (cf coeno-), a free (or, at the least, separable) semi-parasite.

sitio-; sito-: from Gr sition, app a modification of the syn sitos (s sit-), grain, food, with c/f sito-, whence E sito-. Exx: sitiology, sitology, the study of food, dietetics; sitiomania.

Siva-: E Siva, the great Hindu destructive deity. Only in Pal: e.g., Sivatherium (cf -there).

skeleto-: for E skeleton; as in skeletogenous, (adj) bone-developing, and skeletology.

skia-, skio-, as in skiagraph, skialograph. See scia-.

Slavo-, 'the Slavs', as in Slavophobe (cf -phobe); 'Slavic and', as in Slavo-Germanic. Cf the Slavi- of Slavify (cf -fy), to render Slavic. Cf:

slavo-: for slave, as in slavocracy.

smintho-: from Gr sminthos, a mouse, perh of Etruscan origin. Ex: Zoo Sminthurus (Gr oura, tail, cf -urus at -ura).

snob(o)-: (not always jocose) for snob, as in snobocracy (cf -cracy) and snobography.

soboli-: from L soboles (? for sorboles*, from sorbere, s sorb-), a sucker or shoot, as in Bot soboliferous, sucker-producing (cf -ferous at -fer).

societo-, as in societology (society+connective -o-+-logy, q.v. at -loger); socio-, F socio-, from L socius, a companion (s soc-: cf SOCIAL), as in sociocracy (cf -cracy) and SOCIOLOGY.

sodio-: for sodium (adj sodic), itself an -ium derivative from SODA: as in sodiohydric.

solaro-: for solar (latitude, etc.), as in solarometer, an instrument to determine (cf -meter) a ship's position.

solemni-, as in solemnify, q.v. at SOLEMN.

solen(o)-: Gr sōlēn(o)-, c/f of sōlēn, a pipe, a channel, gen sōlēnos. Exx: solenocyte (-cyte), Solenodon (cf -odon), Solenopsis (cf -opsis at opsia); cf the El term solenoid (solen-+suffix -oid), a tubular coil.

solli- (1), 'alone'—'solely': L sōli-, c/f of the adj sōlus, alone: cf SOLE, adj. Exx: soliloquy (whence soliloquist and soliloquize: cf the suffixes -ist, -ize), from LL sōliloquium, a speaking alone—cf -loquy at -loquence, from L loqui, to speak; soliped (cf -ped); solipsism, which=sol(us)+ips(e), self+suffix -ism.

solli- (2), 'sun': L sōli-, c/f of sōl, the sun: cf SOLAR. Exx: solilunar, soliterraneous, solitidal.

solli- (3): from L solum, soil, ground: cf SOIL. Ex: solifluction, the creeping ('flowing': L fluctiō, gen fluctiōnis: cf FLUENT) of wet soil down a slope.

solidi-: for solid. Exx: solidiform, solidify (cf -fy).

solvo-: for Chem solvent, as in solvolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse).

-soma, 2 -somatous, 3 -some, 4 -somia, 5 -somic, 6 -somas; 7 somatico-, 8 somat(o)-, 9 somo-, 10 somous: all, ult, from Gr sōma (s sōm-), the body of human being or of quadruped, perh akin to Gr sōros, a heap, with PGr r sō-, a swelling; IE r, perh su- or tu-*, to swell. Resp: 1, from sōma, the pl somata (Gr sōmata) occurring in Zoo classifications; 2, from Gr -sōmatos (from sōmat-, the o/s of sōma); 3, from sōma, with adj -somic; 5, SciL, from sōma; 6, SciL, from sōma; 7, for E somatic (somat-+-ic); 8, Gr sōmat(o)-, c/f of sōma, gen sōmatos; 9 (= somato-), a very E and somewhat irreg c/f from sōma, with adj -somous, both rare.

Exx: phyllosoma (cf -phyll); Heterosomata, a group of fishes 'so named from their unsymmetrical form' (Webster), cf hetero-; heterosomatous; acrosoma (cf acro-); nanosomia (cf nano-, dwarf-), adj nanosomic; nanosomus, the fetus corresponding to nanosomia (type of body); somatico(-)visceral; ('body') somatology, the comp study of the structure of the human body.

somni-: L somni, c/f of somnus, sleep, akin to the syn Gr hupnos. Exx: somniferous (cf -ferous at -fer), from L somnifer, soporific, and somnific, from L somnificus (cf -fic); somnipathy, hypnotic sleep. The irreg somno- is rare outside of somnopathy, -pathist.

somo-; -somous; -somas. See -soma.

-sonance, -sonant, -sonous; soni-: from L -sonantia, itself from -sonant- (whence E -sonant), the o/s of -sonans, c/f of sonans (gen sonantis), presp of sonāre (s son-), to sound; -sonic, from sonic, of sound (waves); -sonous from L -sonus, adj; soni- from L sonus (s son-), a sound: cf SOUND (n). Exx: dissonance, LL dissonantia, cf prefix dis-; dissonant—opp assonant (whence assonance), via F from L assonant-, o/s of assonans, pp of assondāre, to correspond in sound—from L dissonant-, o/s of dissonans, pp of dissonāre, to differ in sound; clarisonous, L clārisonus, clear-sounding; supersonic (prefix super, above, beyond); soniferous, sound-producing or -carrying (cf -ferous at -fer).

sonori-, sonoro-: from L sonōrus, the adj of sonor, a sound, akin to the syn sonus—cf prec. Exx: sonoriferous; sonorophone.

-soph, 2 -sopher, 3 -sophic, 4 -sophist, 5 -sophy; 6 sophi(o)-, 7 soph(o)-: ult, all from Gr sophos (s soph-), wise, cf sophist: resp, Gr -sophos, end-c/f of sophos, as in gymnosoph, rare for gymnosophist, b/f from L gymnosophistae, Gr gymnosophistai, pl n from gummos, naked+sophistēs, a philosopher, and in morosoph, a foolish wise man (cf sophomore), from Gr mōrosophos, with E derivatives morosophist and morosophy; 2, -sopher, from PHILOSOPHER, where the -er is an unnecessary E agential -er; 3, -sophic, for sophic, of wisdom, intellectual, Gr sophikos; 4—cf 1; 5, -sophy, Gr -sophia, c/f of sophia (s soph-+abstract suffix -ia), wisdom; 6, sophio-, from sophia; 7, from sophos.

Exx: gastrosoph, gastrosopher, a gastronomer (cf gastro-); philosophic; philosophy, q.v. at PHILOSOPHER; sophiology, the study and knowledge of ideas; sophomore (adj -moric), (lit) a wise fool, (hence) a second-year student in American universities.

sorbe-, as in sorbefacient (cf -facient), causing or assisting absorption: from L sorbēre, to absorb.

soredi-: for Bot soredium (SciL, from Gr sōros, a heap); as in sorediform. Cf:

sori-. See soro-.

sorici-: from sōric-, o/s of L sōrex (gen sōricis), a mouse, akin to the syn Gr hurax. In E, denoting 'shrew' (a small rodent, mouse-like in appearance, but mole-like in essentials)—as in soricident (cf -dent at dentato-).

soro-, as in Bot Sorosporium (cf -sporium at -spora); comes from Gr sōros (s sor-), a heap—perh akin to sōma (q.v. at -soma); sōros, via the derivative SciL sorus, pl sori, yields also -sorus, pl -sori, as in Bot soriferous (cf -ferous at -fer), sori-bearing, and wredosorus (L ūrēdō, blight).

sorori-: L sorōri-, c/f of soror (gen sorōris), sister: cf SISTER. Ex: sororicide (cf -cide), a sister-killer, from L sorōricida, and a sister-killing, from LL sorōricidium.

sorti-; L sorti-, c/f of sors (gen sortis), a lot—in divination. Cf SORT. Ex: sortilege, the art of divination, (hence) sortery, via OF from ML sortilegium, n from L adj sortilegus, divinatory. 2nd element from L legere, to gather, to select.

-sorus. See soro-.

soterio-, as in soteriology, the doctrine of salvation: from Gr sōtēria, safety, from sōterios, the adj of sōtēr (s sōt-, extension of sō-), a saviour, akin to sōzein (s sōz-, extension of sō-), to save. JB r, perh sō-*. Cf sozo-.

soussa-, as in sousaphone: for John Philip Sousa (1854–1932), Am bandmaster and composer. Cf saxo-.

soz(o)-: from Gr sōzein (s sōz-), to save: cf soterio-. Ex: sozolic, which=soz(o)+ (phen)ol+adj suffix -ic.

spacio-: an occ, irreg var of spatio-.

spadici-, as in spadicifloral, having flowers on a Bot spadix, a spike with fleshy axis: L, from Gr, spadix, a broken-off palm-branch, with its fruit.

spani-, span(o)-: the former irreg for the latter, from Gr spanos, scarce, perh akin to span, to draw (apart), to separate. Exx: spanipelagic, rarely coming to the surface of the sea (cf pelago-); spanopnoea, very slow breathing (cf -pnoea).

sparasso-: from Gr sparassein, to tear. Ex: Pal Sparassodonta (cf -odon, tooth).

-spasm; spasmato-, spasmo-: 1st, from Gr spasmos, a spasm or convulsion; 2nd, from spasmat-, o/s of Gr spasma (gen spasmastos), a spasm; 3rd, either from Gr spasmos (or E spasm) or from E spasmodic. Cf SPASM. Exx: neurospasm (cf neuro-); spasmatomancy (cf -mancy, divination); spasmo toxin, a poison causing violent convulsions.

-spath, as in blepharospath (cf blepharo-): from Gr spathē, a blade; in E, forceps. Cf spatula-.

spatilo-: from Gr spatilē, excrement, akin to tilan, to have diarrhoea. Ex: spatilomancy, divination (-mancy) with excrement.

spatio-, 'spatial (and)'; from L spatium, space; as in spatio temporal. Cf SPACE.

spatula-, as in spatulamancy (cf -mancy), and spatuli-, as in spatuliform, spatula- or spoon-shaped; from L spatula, a shoulder, an artist's spatula, dim of spatha, from Gr spathē, any broad, flat blade (orig of wood), akin to SPADE.

specio-: for species, as in speciology (cf -logy at -loger). For speci-, cf SPECIFY.

spectro- (1): for E spectrum, as used in Physics—form-adopted, sense-adapted from L spectrum, an appearance, esp a SPECTRE (cf next). Exx: spectrometer, spectroscope.

spectro- (2): for Am specter, E spectre (cf prec); as in spectrophobia, a morbid fear of ghosts.

speedo-, only in speedometer: speed+connective -o-.

speleo-, as in speleology, cave-lore, the science of caves: via L spelaeum from Gr spelaion, a cave.

-sperm, 2 -sperma, pl -spermae; 3 -spermum; adj 4 -spermal or 5 -spermic or 6 -spermous or 7 -spermatous; 8 -spermia or 9 -spermy;—10 sperma-; 11 spermati- or 12 spermatio-; 13 spermat(o)-; 14 spermi-; 15 spermio-; 16 spermo-: ult, all from Gr sperma, semen, (hence) seed: cf SPERM.

Resp: 1, from Gr sperma, mostly Bot and denoting 'seed', as in angiosperm (cf angio-); 2, a SciL var (pl -spermae) of -sperm, as in Lepidosperma (cf lepido-) and Gymnospermae (gymno-); 3, a SciL (neu, instead of f -sperma) var of -sperm, and, like 2, denoting 'plant(s) with a specified spermal feature', as in Anthospermum (cf antho- at -anth); 4 (-spermal) = E sperm+adj -al, as in perispermal 5 (-spermic) = E sperm+adj -ic, as in gymnospermic; 6 (-spermous) from Gr -spermos, from Gr sperma, as in monospermous (cf mono-), one-seeded; 7 (-spermatous) Gr -spermatos, from spermat-, the o/s of sperma, syn with 6, as in monospermatous; 8 (-spermia) a SciL term deriving from Gr sperma; 9, the E shape of -spermia, as in polyspermia and polyspermy (cf poly-), many-seededness;—10 (sperma-) a rare var, as in spermatheca (cf -theca), of sperma-; 11–12 = c/f of spermatium, a male gamete, a SciL derivative, in Bot, from Gr sperma, as in spermatiferous and spermatogenous; 13, spermat(o)-, a true Gr c/f of Gr sperma, gen spermatos, as in spermatogenesis and spermatozoon, pl -zoa (cf zo-); but 14, spermi-, comes from SciL sperma, as in spermiuct and spermigerous (cf -gerous at -ger), and 15, spermio-, blends spermi- and spermo-, as in spermio genesis; 16, sperm(o)-, Gr sperm(o)-, from sperma (cf 13), as in spermology, spermophile, spermophore.

spachelo-: from Gr sphakelos, gangrene; IE r, perh sphak-* or spek-*. Exx: sphaceloderma (cf -derm) and sphacelotoxin.

-sphaera or 2-sphere; 3 -spheric(al);—4 sphaer(o)- or 5 spher(o)-:

1, from Gr sphaira, via L sphaera, whence, via F, the E SPHERE; 2, via L -sphaerium from Gr sphairion, from sphaira; 3 from spheric(al), q.v. at SPHERE; 5, sphero-, is the more E form of 4, sphaero-, via LL sphaero-, from Gr sphair(o)-, c/f of sphaira. Exx: (mostly in Bot and Zoo: -sphaera) Microsphaera (cf micro-); astrosphere (cf astro- at -aster); ATMOSPHERE; cosmosphere (cf cosmo- at cosmeto-); HEMISPHERE; planisphere (cf plani-); stratosphere, from F stratosphère, 1st element from stratum; hemispheric(al), cf hemi-, half; Sphaerocarpus (cf -carp); spherograph (cf -graph).

sphagni-, sphagno-: c/f of SciL Sphagnum, a genus of mosses, from Gr sphagnos, a kind of moss. Exx: sphagnicolous, living (cf -colous) in peat or bog mosses; sphagnology, the science of peat mosses.

Sphenisci-, Sphenisco-, only in Zoo: from SciL Spheniscus, the genus of the jackass penguins: 'from the shortness of the bird's wings' (Webster), Gr sphēnikos meaning 'a little wedge', from sphēn, a wedge. Cf:

sphen(o)-: Gr sphēn(o)-, c/f of sphēn, a wedge, perh akin to Gr spathē, q.v. at spatula-. Exx: sphenography, the writing—hence also the deciphering—of cuneiform (wedge-shaped) characters; in adj, 'wedge-like or -shaped' (sphenoid): sphenolith (cf -lith at -lite) and spheno(-)palatine.

sphere, -spheric(al); sphero-. See -sphaera.

sphincter(o)-: from Gr sphinktēr (σφιγκτήρ), a band, hence a muscular ring (e.g., the sphincter ani), from sphingein, to bind tightly: cf SPHINX. Ex: sphincterotomy (cf -otomy at -tome). Cf:

sphingo-, with rare Latinized var, sphingi-; -sphinx: 1st, from Gr sphingein (s sphing-), to bind tightly, from sphinx (cf SPHINX); 2nd Gr -sphinx (-σφινξ), denoting, in E, a sphinx with a specified kind of head. Exx: sphingiform; sphingometer; criosphinx, a ram-headed sphinx, cf crio-.

sphygmo-: Gr sphugmo-, c/f of sphugmos, pulse (of the heart), akin to sphuzein, (of the heart) to beat; IE r, prob sphug-*. Exx: sphygmograph, an instrument recording heart-beats; sphygmology, a study of the pulse.

sphyra-: Gr sphura, a mallet, as in Sphyrapicus (L picus, a woodpecker), a sap-sucking woodpecker.

spici-; spiculi-, spiculo-: L spici-, c/f of spīca, ear (of grain, esp corn: cf SPIKE, ear); its dim, spīculum, or rather the E derivative, spicule, has c/f spiculi-, spiculo-. Exx: spicilege, an anthology, from L spicilegium, a harvest gleanings (cf the 2nd -lege); spiculiferous (cf -ferous at -fer) and spiculo(-) fibre.

spil(o)-: from Gr spilos (s spil-), a spot, e.g. a stain, perh akin to L squalus, dirty (cf SQUALID). Ex: Spilogale, a skunk: 2nd element, Gr galē, a weasel.

spini-, 2 spino-, 3 spinoso-, 4 spinuli-; 5 spinuloso-; 6 -spinose: 1, L spini-, c/f of spīna, a thorn: cf SPINE; 2, a SciL var of spini-; 3, from L spinōsus, the adj of spīna; 4, from L spinula (a spinule), the dim of spīna; 5, for spinuloso, covered with tiny thorns or spines; 6, for spinose, spiny, full of thorns, from L spinōsus.

Exx: Spinifex, SciL, spini-+-fex (q.v. above).

from facere, to make; spino-muscular; spinoso(-)dentate; spinuliferous, bearing (cf -ferous at -fer) very small spines; spinuloso(-)serrate; bispinose, two-spined.

spiraculi-; spiro-: for L spirāculum, an air-hole, from spirāre (s spir-), to breathe; (spiro-) from spirāre—denoting, in E, 'respiration'. Cf 'to INSPIRE'. EXX: spiraculiform; spirometer, an instrument measuring either the capacity of the lungs or the volume of air expelled.

spiri-: from L spira (s spir-), a coil (of, e.g., rope), from Gr speira: cf SPIRAL, which itself has c/f spirali-, whence spiraliform. Ex: spirivalve, having a spiral shell. Cf:

spirillo-: from spirillum, a SciL dim of spira, a coil (cf prec). Ex: spirillotropism—cf tropism at TROPE. Cf:

spir(o)- (1): from Gr speir(o)-, c/f speira, a coil—cf spiri-. Ex: ('coiled; spiral') Spirochaeta, spiro-chete (cf -chaeta). Adj, -spirous, as in bispirous, two-coiled.

spiro- (2). See spiraculi-.

splanchn(o)-: Gr splanchn(o)-, c/f of splanchnon mostly in pl splanchna (σπλάνχνα), entrails, akin to splēn, spleen. EXX: splanchnolith (cf -lith at -lite); splanchnodynia (cf -odynia at -odyne).

spleni- and splen(o)-; -splenia: from L splēn (gen splēnis), the spleen, and (spleno-) from splen (gen splēnos), the Gr source of L splēn—akin to the syn Skt plihān-, cf also prec; (-splenia) a SciL derivative (suffix -ia, in its Med applications) from Gr splēn. EXX: spleniiform; ('spleen') splenocyte (-cyte) and ('splenic—of the spleen—and') splenotyphoid; hypersplenia (cf the prefix hyper-).

spodo-: Gr spodo-, c/f of spodos, (wood) ashes, s spod-, cf the syn Gr splēdos (s splēd-) and perh even the L splendēre, q.v. at SPLENDID. Ex: spodomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by ashes.

-spondyli, -spondylus; spondyl(o)-: 1st, pl, and 2nd sing, come from L spondylus, itself from Gr spondulos, Attic sphondulos, a vertebra, akin to sphadazein (s sphadaz-, ? an extension of r sphad-*), to quiver, and to Skt spandas, a quivering; IE r, perh sphad-* or sphed-* or sphod-, varr spad-, sped-, spod-, nasalized spand-, etc., or sphand-, etc. EXX: Isospondyli (cf iso-) and Palaeospondylus (palaeo-); spondylopathy and spondylotherapy. Prob from the 'mussel- or oyster-shell' sense of spondulos, pl sponduloi, L spondyli, comes the slang spondulic(k)s, -ix, funds, money, cash: cf the monetary use of cowrie shells.

spongi- or 2, spongo-, cf 3, spongio-; 4, -spongia or 5, -spongiae, with 6, common adj -spongian; 7, -spongium: all, ult, from Gr spongos or spongia, a sponge: cf SPONGE. Resp: 1, from E sponge; 2, from Gr spongos, cf 3, from Gr spongion, dim of spongos; 4 and 5, SciL c/ff from Gr spongia; 6= spongi-+adj -an; 7, SciL from spongia.

EXX: spongiiculture; spongology and spongophore (cf -phore at -phora); spongiocyte (-cyte); Hyalospongia (hyalo-) and Silicispongiae (silici-); hyalospongian; neurospongium (neuro-).

spooko-: humorous for spook, a ghost. Ex: spookology.

-spora, 2 -spore, 3 -sporic, 4 -sporidia, 5 -sporium, 6 -sporous; 7 -spory; 8 spori-, 9 sporidi-, 10 sporo-, 11 sporuli-: all, ult, from Gr spora (s spor-), a sowing, a seed, either derived from or intimately akin to speirein (s speir-), to sow: cf SPORE. Resp: 1, from Gr spora; 2, from E spore; 3, from E spore+adj -ic; 4, from SciL sporidium, dim of SciL spora (from Gr spora); 5, SciL c/f from Gr spora; 6, from Gr -sporos, c/f of spora, or simply for E spore (spore+adj -ous); 7 (-spory), the E var of sporia*, state of seed(s); 8 (spori-), a SciL var of 10 (sporo-), the true Gr c/f of spora; 9 (sporidi-) for sporidium; 10 (sporo-), occurring in many Sci cpds, e.g. sporophore, seed- or spore-bearing (cf -phora); 11 (sporuli-) either from SciL sporula, dim of SciL spora, or for E sporule.

EXX: Diaspora, 'the Dispersion' of Jews after the exile in Babylon, cf the prefix dia-; diaspore (in Min) and macrospore (macro-), microspore (micro-) diasporic; Sarcosporidia (sarco-); Helminthosporium (helmintho-); homosporous (homo-); homospory; sporicide (-cide, q.v. at -cidal); sporidiferous (cf -ferous at -fer); sporocarp (-carp) and sporogenesis and sporosac; sporuliferous.

sporangi-, sporangio-; -sporangiate, adj of -sporangium, occ -sporang: for and from SciL sporangium, in Bio a tiny primitive reproductive body: Gr spor(os), a seed+angeion, a receptacle, ἀγγελος, akin to ἀγκών, ankōn, a bend (of, e.g., the arm). EXX: zoosporange (cf zoo- at zo-) and androsporangium (andro-); leptosporangiate (lepto-), sporangiferous (-ferous, q.v. at -fer); sporangiophore (-phore, q.v. at -phora).

Cf prec.

-spore, -sporic, -sporous, etc. See -SPORA.

spumi-: for spume (cf FOAM); as in plumification (cf -fication at -fic).

squali-, squalo-: for Zoo Squalus, from L squalus, a large marine fish. EXX: squaliform, Squalodon (cf -odon).

squami-, 2 squamo-; 3 squamato-; 4 squamoso-; 5 squamelli-; 6 squamuli-: all, ult, from L squāma, a fish's scale, perh akin to L squalus, filthy—cf SQUALID. Resp: 1, L squāmi-, c/f of squāma; 2, irreg from squāma; 3, for E squamate (LL squā-mātus), scaly; 4, from L squāmosus (whence E squamous), scaly; 5, for SciL squamella (dim of squāma), a tiny scale; 6, for L squāmula, dim of squāma.

EXX: squamiferous (cf -ferous at -fer); squamo(-)cellular; squamato(-)granulose (cf granuli- at grani-); squamoso(-)dentate (cf dentato-); squamelliform; squamuliform.

stachy(o)-: Gr stakh(o)-, c/f of stakhus, ear of corn, akin to STING; IE r, stagh-* or stegh-, nasalized as stengh-, etc. Ex: Stachyurus (cf -urus at -ure).

stacto-: from the Gr adj staktos, oozing drop by drop, from stazein, to drip: cf STAGNATE, stagnos, stalacti-.

stadi- or stadio-: for stadium; as in stadimeter and stadiometer.

stagma-: from Gr stagma (s stag-), a drop, esp of water, akin to L stagnum, a pond; e.g., stigmometer.

stagni-, as in stagnicolous (cf -colous), pond-haunting or -inhabiting: from L stagnum, standing water: cf STAGNANT.

stagono-: from Gr stagōn (gen stagonos), a drop (of water, blood), from stazein (s staz-), to drop or drip. Ex: Stagonospora (cf -spora), imperfect fungi.

stalacti- and stalactiti-; stalagmo-: the 1st, irreg for the 2nd as c/f of stalactite; the 3rd, from Gr stalagmos, a dripping. Exx: stalactitiiform; stalagmometer. Cf stactio- and stagma-.

stamin(i)-: from stāmin-, o/s of L stāmen (gen stāminis), a thread, (hence) a stamen: cf STAMEN. Ex: staminigerous (cf -gerous at -ger). Cf -stem onous.

-stan, as in Afghanistan, Baluchistan, Hindustan, Pakistan, Turkistan, means 'country'; it often occurs in the Indic and Iranian languages.

stanni-, stanno-: from L stannum, better stagnum, a silver-lead alloy, (later) tin; cf L stagnum, a pond; perh the superficial similarity of molten tin to a sheet of water caused the former to be named after the latter. (E & M.)

staped(i)-, stapedio-: (the 2nd irreg) from L stapes (gen stapedis), a stirrup, hence, in E An and Zoo, the stirrup bone (in the ear). Exx: stapedectomy (cf -ectomy at -tome); stapediform, stirrup-shaped; An stapediovestibular.

staphyl(o)-: Gr staphul(o)-, c/f of staphulē, a bunch of grapes; IE r, perh stab(h)-* or steb(h)-*. In E, it denotes either 'uvula', as in Staphylococcus, or 'staphylococcic', as in staphylo-angina.

stasi-; -stasia, -stasis: resp from Gr stasis, a standing still, a stoppage, akin to histanai, to cause to stand: cf STATIC and, here, -stat; Gr -stasia, end-c/f from stasis, and syn with -stasis, Gr -stasis, for Gr stasis. Exx: stasiphobia, dread of standing up, and stasimetric (adj), measuring position; menostasia (cf meno-); thrombostasis (cf thrombo-).

-stat, 2 -static, 3 -statics; 4 stat-, 5 stato-: ult, all from Gr histanai, to cause to stand: resp, Gr -statēs, something that renders stationary; from the Gr adj statikos, causing to stand, but also the c/f of E static; c/f of E statics; c/f of static; from the Gr p adj statos, brought to a stand, standing, stationary, fixed. Cf STATIC. Exx: hydrostat, from Gr hudrostatēs, a hydrostatic balance; rheostatic (cf rheo-), and dynamostatic (cf dynamo-); rheostatics; statvolt=stat(ic)+volt; statiocyst (-cyst) and statometer.

statisto-: for statistics, as in statistology.

stato- (1). See -stat.

stato- (2): for E state (n), as in statolatry, an excessive respect (cf -latry at -later) for the state.

staur(o)-: Gr staur(o)-, c/f of stauros (s staur-), a cross, akin to the -staur- of L instaurare, (v.t.) to stand up again, to restore, and to Gr histanai, to cause to stand. Exx: Zoo stauraxonia (Gr axōn, axis); staurolatry, worship of the Cross.

-stearin; steari-, stear(o)-: resp for E stearin(e) (adj stearic), from F stéarine, from Gr stear, tallow, whence the E c/f stear(o)-; stear (στέαρ) is akin to Skt stīyā, standing water, and perh to Gr histanai, to cause to stand. Exx: steariform; petrostearin (cf petro-); Med stearrh(o)ea (cf -rrhoea). Cf:

steat(o)-: Gr steat(o)-, c/f of stear, tallow, gen steatos: cf prec. Exx: steatogenous, fat-producing (cf -genous at -gen); steatopygia, excessive fat on the buttocks (cf -pygal).

stegano-, steg(o)-; -stege, -stegite: resp Gr stegano-, c/f of steganos (adj of stegē), covered, roofed; G steg(o)-, c/f of stegē, var stegos, a covering, a roof, (hence) a house; from Gr stegē, a roof; Gr steg(ē)+Sci n suffix -ite: stegē and stegos are akin to Gr stegein (s steg-), to cover; IE r, either steg-* or stag-* (cf Skt sthagati, he shields, protects), or, without IE prefix s-, teg-* (cf L tegere, to cover, protect).

Exx: steganopod (cf -pod), steganography (cryptography); stegocarpous (cf -carpous at -carp); gastrostege, a protective scale on a snake's belly (cf -gaster); omostegite (cf omo-).

steiro-: from Gr steiros, barren: cf STERILE. Ex Bot Steironema (cf -nema).

-stele; stelo-: from Gr stēlē, an upright stone, a stone pillar, akin to Gr stellein (s stell-: cf STALL), to set or place; Gr stēlo-, c/f of stēlē. Exx: monostele (cf mono-); stelography, Gr stēlographia, a writing on a stele.

stelli-: L stēlli-, c/f of stēlla, a star: cf STAR. Exx: stelliferous (cf -ferous at -fer), L stellifer, abounding in stars; stelliscript, that which the stars write.

stelo-. See -stele.

stemmati-: from stemmat-, the o/s of Gr stemma (pl stemmata), a garland, hence, in Zoo, an insect's ocellus or simple eye; akin to Gr stephein (s steph-), to put round. Ex: stemmatiform, resembling a stemma.

-stemonous, 'having such a stamen or so many stamens': Gr stēmōn-, (o/s of stēmōn), a thread: cf STAMEN)+adj suffix -ous. Ex: Bot isostemonous, having as many stamens as perianth divisions.

steno-; -stenosis: from Gr stenos (s sten-), narrow, close, (hence) little, IE r, prob sten-*. Exx: stenogastric, narrow-abdomened; stenographer, from stenography, shorthand (whence also stenographic, cf F sténographique), itself=steno+graphy, writing, q.v. at -graph; stenometer; stenopetalous and stenosepalous, narrow-petaled and -sepal.

stentoro-: from Gr stentōr, a very loud-voiced man (as the herald Stentor in the Iliad), akin to Skt stānati, he thunders or roars. The adj stentorian is an E -an or -ian derivative from LL stentoreus, from Gr stentoreios, adj of stentōr. Ex: stentorophone (cf -phon).

stephan(o)-: from Gr stephanos (whence E Stephen), a garland or circlet or crown from, stephein (s steph-), to put (e.g., flowers) round (e.g., one's head); prob IE r, ste-*: cf the ste- of Gr stelleris (s stel-), to set, put, place. Ex: Stephanoceros (cf -ceros).

sterco-; stercor(i)-: irreg from L stercus, dung, and reg (stercori-) from stercor-, the o/s (gen stercoris (s stel-), ? orig echoic. Exx: stercovorous, dung-eating (cf -vorous at -vora); stercor(a)emia (cf haema-); stercoricolous, dung-inhabiting, as certain insects.

stere(o)-: Gr stere(o)-, c/f of stereos, hard, solid, akin to ON storr, proud, Skt sthirdś, strong, and E STARE. Exx: stereagnosis=stere(o)+Gr privative prefix a-, not +gnōsis, knowledge; stereochemistry, the chemistry of (the arrangement of) atoms in space; stereography, the delineation, on a plane, of solid bodies; stereoscope (cf -scope), after TELESCOPE; stereotype (n, hence v), from the F adj stéréotype.

-steresis: from Gr sterēsis, deprivation, from stereō (s ster-), I deprive, akin to E STEAL. Ex: glossosteresis (cf glosso- at -glossa).

sterno-: from SciL sternum, from Gr sternon, the breast, chest; IE r, ster-* to stretch: cf L sternere (s stern-), to stretch, and E STREET. Exx: ('breast') sternomancy, divination (-mancy) by marks on the breast; ('sternal and') sternothyroid (cf thyro-). Cf stetho-.

sterro-: from Gr sterros, firm, perh akin to STARK. Ex: sterrometal.

stheno-: from Gr stenthos, strength; as in sthenochire, an instrument for strengthening the fingers (Gr kheir, hand) for piano-playing.

steth(o)-: Gr stēth(o)-, c/f of stēthos (s stēth-: cf sterno-), the breast or chest. Exx: stethometer, stethophone, stethoscope—cf -meter, -phore, -scope.

stibio-: from L stibium, antimony, from Gr stibi. Ex: stibiokonite (Gr konis, dust).

-stich, -stichous; sticho-: resp Gr -stikhon, end-c/f of stikhos (s stikh-), a line or row; Gr -stikhos, adj c/f of stikhos; Gr stikho-, front c/f of stikhos, akin to E STY (ocular). Exx: distich, a couplet, L distichon, Gr distikhon, n from neus of adj distikhos, of two (prefix di-) lines; distichous (L distichus, Gr distikhos); polystichous, arranged in many (or several) lines or rows, from Gr polustikhos.

stigmati-; stigmeo- (rare) and stigmo-: from L stigma, gen stigmati, from Gr stigma (gen stigmatos); (stigmeo-) from Gr stigmē, a prick, a point; (stigmo-) from the syn Gr stigma: cf STIGMA. Exx: stigmeology, art of punctuation; stigmomose, a plant disease (cf noso-) characterized by dots caused by punctures insect-made. Cf -stixis and:

stigono-: from Gr stigōn (gen stigōnos), one who marks, (hence also) one who is marked, akin to stizein, to prick. Ex: stigonmancy, divination (-mancy) by writing on the bark of a tree. Cf prec.

stilli-: from L stilla, a drop (of water): cf DISTIL. Exx: stillicide, a continual dripping (L cadere, to fall); stilliform, drop-shaped.

stilo-, as in Bot Stilophora (threadlike seaweed): rom L stilus, q.v. at STYLE.

stilpno-: from Gr stilpnos, shining, radiant, akin to stilbein, to shimmer. Ex: stilpnosiderite.

stipi-, 2 stipt(i)-, 3 stipuli-; 4 -stipular, 5 -stipulate: resp from L stipes (s stip-), a stock or branch or post, whence, incidentally, the Bot stipe; 2, from stipit-, the o/s of L stipes, gen stipitis; 3, from E stipule, via F from L stipula (a dim of stipes), a stalk or stem; 4, end-c/f of E stipular, the adj of stipule; 5, c/f of the E adj stipulate—cf (the v) STIPULATE. Cf next.

Exx: stipiform, stipitiform, stalk-like: stipuliferous (cf -ferous at -fer); bistipular, bistipulate, having two stipules.

stirpi-: from L stirps (gen stirpis), stem, stock: cf EXTRIPATE. Ex: stirpiculture, the breeding of special stocks.

-stixis: from Gr stixis, a puncture, as in osteostixis (cf osteo-). Cf stigmeo- and stigono-.

stoicho-: from Gr stokheion (s stokh-), a step, (hence) a first principle, a first element, akin to steikhein (s steikh-), to go, to walk, to advance; IE r, prob stegh-* or steigh-*. Exx: stoichiology, the science of the elements composing animal tissues; Chem stoichiometry (cf -metry at -meter).

-stole: Gr -stolē, an end-c/f from stellein, to set or put: cf STALL. Exx: diastole and systole, from Gr diastolē (prefix dia-) and sustolē (prefix su- for sun, with).

stoloni-, as in Bot stoloniferous (cf -fer): from L stolō (gen stolōnis), a shoot, a sucker, akin to Gr stolekhos.

-stoma, 2 -stomata, 3 -stomate, 4 -stomatous, 5 -stome, 6 -stomi, 7 -stomia, 8 -stomous, 9 -stomum, 10 -stomus, 11 -stomy; 12 stoma-, 13 stomati-, 14 stomato-, 15 stom(o)-: all, ult, from Gr stoma (s stom-) mouth, akin to Skt staman-, muzzle or large mouth, and Hit stamar, mouth. Resp: from Gr stoma (whence SciL stoma, mouth or mouth-like opening); 2, from Gr stomata, pl of stoma; 3, prob from stomat-, o/s of stoma; 4=stomat-+ suffix -ous (—3 and 4 are varr of syn 8); 5 (-stome), from SciL, from G, stoma; 6, pl of 10 (-stomus); 7, Gr -stomia, an abstract derivative of stoma or perh of -stomos (see next); 8 (-stomous), from Gr -stomos, mouthed, from stoma; 9 and 10, -stomum and -stomus are SciL derivatives of Gr stoma, prob influenced by -stomos; 11 (-stomy), from Gr -stomia, cf 7; 12 (stoma-), short for stomato-; 13 (stomati-) irreg for 14, stomat(o)-, from Gr stomat(o)-, the c/f of stoma, gen stomatos; 15, stom(o)-, from Gr stom(o)-, c/f of stoma.

Exx: cryptostoma, a concealed (crypto-) mouth; Cryptostomata, a Pal order of creatures with such mouths; cyclostomata, round-mouthed, cf cyclo-; cyclostomatous; siphonostome (cf siphono-); Plagiostomi (plagio-); stenostomia (steno-); gnathostomous (gnatho-); Solenostomus (soleno-) and Amphistomum (prefix amphi-); lipostomy (lipo-); stomatiferous (-ferous at -fer); stomatology, science of the mouth; stomod(a)eum, the mouth, section of the alimentary canal: stom(o)-+Gr hodaïos, on the way (hodos: ódoç).

storio-: for story (tale), as in storiology. The var stori- occurs in storify (cf -fy).

strabismo-; strabo-: for SciL strabismus, from Gr strabismos, from strabizein, to squint, from ad strabos (squinting, distorted), whence obviously strabo-; strabos is akin to streblos, crooked, twisted (s streb-+extension -l+-os); IE r, streb-, with var strebh-, to turn or twist. Exx: strabismometry, measurement (cf -meter) of the extent of strabismus—the instrument being a strabismometer or a strabometer. Cf strepheo-.

strati-: L strāti-, c/f of strātum, a covering, n from the neus of strātus, pp of sternere, to spread: cf STRATUM. Exx: stratiform, resembling a stratum; stratify (cf -fy), from ML strātificāre; stratigraphy, the geology of strata. Cf the 2nd strato-.

strato- (1): Gr strato-, c/f of stratos (s strat-), an army: cf STRATEGY. Exx: stratocracy, government (cf -cracy) by an army; stratigraphy, a treatise on the handling of an army.

strato- (2): for stratus, a cloud resembling a vast coverlet: see strati-. It denotes 'stratus and', as in strato-cumulus.

stremmato-, as in stremmatograph (for determining stresses in fibres): from Gr stremma (gen stremmatos), a twist. Cf:

strepheo-, strept(o)-; strepsi-: from, resp, Gr strephein (s strephe-), to turn, to twist; Gr strept(o)-, c/f of streptos, twisted, pp of strephein; Gr strepsis, a turning, a twisting, akin to strepsein, to twist; Gr s, strep-; IE r, streb(h)-*, to turn, to twist (cf strobo-). Exx: Med strophosymbolia, which = strepheo-+SYMBOL+Med suffix -ia; streptococcus, bacteria (cf -coccus) occurring in chain-formations; Strepsicerof (cf -ceros) and Strepsiptera (cf -ptera, from Gr p eron, a wing).

strigi-: from L strix (gen strigis), a screech owl: echoic: Ex: Strigiformes.

strobili-: from LL strobilus, a pine cone, from Gr strobilos: cf next. Ex: Bot strobiliferous, bearing strobiles (from strobilus).

strobo-: from Gr strobos, a whirling, akin to strephein, to turn, to twist: cf strepheo-. Ex: stroboscope, an instrument (cf TELESCOPE) for studying motion either variable or periodic.

-stroma; stromati- or stromato-: c/f of Gr strōma, o/s strōmat- (gen strōmatos), a couch or bed, akin to strōnnunai, for stornunai (s storn-) and L sternere (s stern-), to strew or spread: cf, therefore, STREET. Exx: xylostroma (cf xylo-); stromatiform and stromatology, the science and history of stratified rocks.

strombi-; strombuli-: from L strombus, a spiral snail, and SciL Strombus; and from SciL dim strombulus. The L strombus transliterates Gr strombos (s stromb-), a nasalized cognate of strobos (see strobo-); basic idea—'to turn or twist'. Exx: strombiform, resembling a member of the Zoo genus Strombus; strombuliform, top-shaped.

stroph(o)-: Gr stroph(o)-, c/f of strophos (s stroph-), a twisting, a turning, akin to strephein (s strephe-), to turn or twist: cf strepheo-, strobo-, strombi-, esp STROPHE. Ex: Strophanthus, a genus of trees having flowers (cf -anth) with twisted lobes.

strumi-: for L and Med E strūma (o.o.o.), an enlargement or swelling (now esp a goitre), as in strumiferous, goitre-producing; adj strumose, strumous, from the derivative L adj strumōsus.

struthi-, struthio-, struthiont-: all for and from L strūthiō (gen strūthiōnis, o/s strūthiōn-), an ostrich, from Gr strouthiōn, itself a modification of strouthos, a bird: cf OSTRICH. Exx: struthiform and Struthioniformes; Struthionimus (-mimus), Struthiopterus (-ptera).

stulti-: L stulti-, c/f of stultus, foolish. Exx: stultify; stultiloquence, silly chatter (cf -loquence).

stupe-. See stupefy, at STUPID. Cf stupori-, for E stupor, as in stuporific.

-stylar, 2 -style, 3 -stylic, 4 -stylous, 5 -styly; 6 -stylt-, 7 -styl(o)-: all, ult, from Gr stulos, a pillar, s stul-, akin to staur-, s of stauros, a stake; IE r, prob stu-*, to be firm—or upright—or firmly upright. Resp: 1, adj of -style; 2, from Gr -stulos (neu -stulon), having a specified number of pillars, hence, in Sci, denoting a styler process; 3, adj c/f from Gr stulos; 4, from Gr -stulos, having such or so-many pillars; 5, abstract-n formation from, or, at the least, answering to, -stylous; 6, for E style, a pillar; 7, Gr stul(o)-, c/f of stulos, a pillar.

Exx: blastostylar, adj of blastostyle (cf blasto-); peristyle, via F and L from Gr peristulon, a colonnade per or around a courtyard or a building; Zoo hyostylic (hyo-); monostylous and monostyly (mono-); styliferous, bearing (cf -ferous at -fer) Bot or Zoo styles; styloglossal (cf -glossa)—stylolite (cf -lite)—stylometer.

suavi-: ML suāvi-, L suāui-, c/f of suāvis, ML suāvis, sweet: cf SUAVE. Ex: suaviloquence, agreeable speech (cf -loquence), L suāviloquentia.

suberi-: from L sūber, cork-tree, whence Bot suber (adj suberic), cork-tissue, outer bark of cork-tree, perh akin to Gr suphar, wrinkled skin. Ex: suberiferous (cf -ferous at -fer).

succini-; succin(o)-: for E succin (amber), ? b/f from the adj succinic (F succinique), from L suc(c)inum (amber), which itself has c/f succin(o)-. Prob suc(c)inum, akin to Lith sakas, resin, has been influenced by L sūcus (s sūc-), juice; perh, however, sūcinum (amber regarded as a solidified distillation) does, after all, derive from sūcus. Exx: succiniferous, amber-yielding; succino(-)sulphuric.

sucro-: from F sucre, sugar (cf SUGAR); as in sucro-acid.

sudi-, as in sudiform, resembling a stake: from L sudis, a stake: o.o.o.

sudori-: for L sūdor, sweat (cf SWEAT). Ex: sudorific (cf -fic).

sui- (1): L sui, of oneself, or, adj, of one's own, the gen of se, oneself, and of suus, one's own. Exx: SUICIDE; sigeneric(al), from L sui generis, of one's, or its, own kind.

sui- (2): from L sūs (gen suis), a hog, a boar, akin to Gr hus (gen huos) and Skt sū-karas, pig. Ex: suisform, porcine, piglike.

sulci-, sulco-; sulcato-: from L sulcus, a furrow, whence sulcāre, to furrow, with pp sulcātus, whence sulcato-, furrowed, grooved; sulcus is akin to Gr holkos, traction, helkein, to draw or pull, and perh to Lit velkù, I draw or pull. Exx: sulciform; An sulco-marginal; sulcato-costate.

sulf(o)-, 2 sulph(o)-; 3 sulfato-, 4 sulphato-; 5 sulphino-, 6 sulphito-, 7 sulphon- or 8 sulfon-, 9 sulphureo-: all, ult, from L sulpur, sulphur, sulfur, o.o.o.: resp, 1, for sulpho-, which (2) is app short for the non-existent sulphuro-; 3, 4 stand for sulphate, as sulphino- (5) stands for sulphitic and 6 sulphito- for sulphite; 7, 8 (sulphon-, sulfon-) for sulphonic, sulfonic; 9 (sulphureo-) for sulphureous.

Exx: sulfo(-)acid, sulpho(-)chloride; sulphato (or sulfato)-carbonic; sulphon(-)amine; sulphureo(-)nitrous.

Sumero-: for Sumerian, as in Sumerology, a or the study of the ancient Sumerian civilization.

supero-: from L superus, upper, higher. Ex: ('situated above and'): superodorsal. Cf the prefix super-.

surculi-: from L surculus, a sucker, dim of surus, a stake, akin to Skt svārus, a long stake planted in the earth, and OHG swir, a stake. Ex: surculigerous, surculose (sucker-producing: cf -gerous at -ger).

surdi-, irreg surdo-: from L surdus (s surd-), deaf: cf ABSURD. Exx: surdimitism, the being deaf and dumb (MUTE); surdo(-)mute, a deaf-mute.

sychno-: from Gr sukhnos, much, abounding, frequent perh akin to sēkos, an enclosed place. Ex: sychnocarpous (cf -carp), bearing several successive crops.

syc-: Gr suko-, c/f of sukon (s suk-), a fig, as in sycomancy, divination by fig leaves, and in SYCOPHANT, q.v.

syeno-: for E syenite, a granite anciently quarried at Syene (L Syēnē, Gr Suēnē) in Upper Egypt. Exx: syenodiorite and syenogabbro.

syllabi-: L syllabi- (only in simple derivatives—not in cpds), from syllaba (Gr sullabē): see SYLLABLE. Ex: syllabification (cf -fication at -fic).

syli-. See silvi-.

symbolo-: Gr symbolo-, c/f of symbolon, a sign: cf SYMBOL. Exx: symbololatry (cf -latry at -later), excessive respect for, or use of, symbols; symbolology, rare for symbology, which=symbo(l)+-logy, q.v. at -loger. The rare symbolaeo- or symboleo-, as in symbol(a)ography, the art of drawing-up legal documents, comes from the derivative Gr sumbolaion, a sign or token, hence a contract.

symmetro-: for symmetry, as in symmetrophobia, an acute dislike of symmetry.

sympathetico-, sympatheto-, sympathico-: resp for sympathetic, for the same, and for sympathic: cf SYMPATHY. Exx: sympatheticotonia (cf -tonia); sympathetoblast (cf -blast); sympathicotonia; sympathomimetic (cf MIME). sympho-: irreg from Gr sumphōnos, harmonious, as in Bot symphogenous (cf -genous at -gen).

symphori-: from Gr sumphoros, accompanying (cf -phora); as in Bot Symphoricarpos (Gt karpos, fruit, c/f -carp).

symphy-, symphyo-: from Gr sumphuesthai, to grow together, or rather from sumphuē, growing together; as in Bot symphycarpous (cf -carpous at -carp).

sympieso-, sympiezo-: from Gr sumpiesis, compression (piezein, to press); as in sympiesometer.

symposi-, as in symposiarch, chairman (jocosely toastmaster) of a banquet, from Gr sumposiarkhēs, cf -arch.

symptomato-: from Gr sumptōma (a symptom), gen sumptōmatos: cf SYMPTOM. Ex: symptomatology, the study of Med symptoms.

synapto-: from Gr sunapios, fastened together; as in Synaptosaurus (cf -saur).

synchro-; synchrono-: resp for E synchronism, as in synchroscope (cf -scope), and for Gr sunkhronos, simultaneous, as in synchronograph and synchronology.

syndesm(o)-: from Gr sundesmos (sun-, with + desmos, a bond); as in syndesmology, the anatomy of bodily ligaments, and syndesmotomy (cf -tomy, a cutting, at -tome).

synechio-, as in synechology, a doctrine of continuity: from Gr sunekheia, (lit) a holding together, (hence) continuity; Surg var synecho-, as in synechotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

synovi-: for An synovia (cf synovitis), as in synoviparous (cf -para), secreting synovia.

syphil(o)-: for E syphilis. Exx: syphilogenesis, the development (cf -genesis at -gen); syphilopsychosis, a psychosis resulting from syphilis.

syring(o)-: Gr suring(o)-, c/f of surinx (gen suringos), a pipe, (hence) a fistula: cf SYRINGE. Ex: syringotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

Syrio-; Syro-: for Syrian, as in Syriology; Gr Suro-, c/f of Suros, Syrian, as in Syro-Roman.

tabe-, tabi-, tabo-: L tābe-, tābi-, c/ff of tābēs (s tab-), a wasting; tabo-, irreg from E tabes; cf THAW. Exx: tabefy (cf -fy), to waste away, via F from LL tābafacere, to melt; tabific, causing (cf -fic) waste; taboparalysis. The Sci c/f tabeti-, as in tabetiform, resembling tabes, progressive emaciation, comes from a misapprehension: the L gen is tābis, not tābetis.

tac-: a Sci c/f from L tactus, (sense of) touch; as in tacnode (cf NODE).

tacheo-, tacho-, tachy-; tachisto-: 1st, from takheos, gen of Gr takhos, speed; 2nd from takhos; 3rd represents takhu-, c/f of Gr takhus (s takh-), swift, quick, a word o.o.o.; tachisto-, from Gr takhistos (s takh-), swiftest, the sup of takhus. Exx: tacheometer=tachometer, a speed-reckoner; tachymeter, a theodolite for quickly determining distances and bearings; tachygraphy, shorthand, as if from Gr takhugraphia*, from takhugraphos, a shorthand writer; tachistoscope (cf -scope)—one of the exceedingly numerous offspring of telescope.

-tactic: Gr -taktikos, c/f of taktikos, arrangeable; adj answering to nn in -taxis, q.v. at taxeo-. Ex: phyllotactic (cf phyllo-).

tacto-: from L tactus (s tact-), touch (cf TACT) as in tactometer, an instrument testing acuteness of touch.

taeni-, taenia-; taenio-: first two, c/ff of L, hence E, taenia, a ribbon or fillet, (hence) a tapeworm, from Gr tainia, whence the c/f tainio-, whence the E c/f taenio-; s taen-, Gr tain-; IE r, tan-* or ten-* (? akin to the ten- of L tenuis). Exx: taeniicide or taenicide, a remedy that destroys (cf -cide at -cidal) tapeworms; Taeniosomi, a sub-order of elongate fishes—cf Gr sōma, body. Cf -tene.

talco-: for talcum, as in talcochlorite.

tali-, tal(o)-: from L tālus (s tāl-), ankle, heel; perh of Celtic origin, certainly of Celtic relationship. Exx: taligrade (cf -grade), walking mostly on the heels; talotibial. The L derivative tālīpēs, clubfoot, yields c/f talipo-, as in Surg talipomanus.

tango-, 'touch': from L tangere (s tang-), to touch: cf TANGENT. Ex: tangoreceptor.

tanni-; tanno-: the former, for tannin; the latter for either tannin or tannic: cf TAN. Exx: tanniferous, tannin-producing (cf -ferous at -fer); tannogen (-gen) and tannometer.

tantali-, tantalo-: for the metallic element tantalum (cf TANTALIZE). Exx: tantali- or tantalo- fluoride.

tany-, 'outstretched': Gr tanu-, c/f from tanuein (s tanu-, r tan-*: cf taeni- above), to stretch. Ex: tanystomatous, with outstretched mouth (cf -stoma).

tapin(o)-: Gr tapeino-, c/f of tapeinos, (lit) depressed, low, (hence) base; s tapein-, extension of tap-*, IE r tap-, to press or squeeze. Ex: tapinocephalic, having a low, flattened skull (cf cephalo-).

tardi-: L tardi-, c/f of tardus (s tard-), slow: cf TARDY. Exx: tardigrade, slow-paced (cf -grade and GRADE); tardiloquence, slow speech (cf -loquence).

tarsi-, tars(o)-: for SciL tarsus, the ankle, from Gr tarsos, the flat of the foot, esp of the heel; IE r, prob tar-* or ter-, with extension tars-, ters-*. Exx: Zoo Tarsipes (L pes, foot); tarsoplasty (cf -plasty at -plasia).

Tartaro-: for Gr Tartaros, L (and E) Tartarus, (loosely) hell, as in Tartarology, doctrine about hell.

tartrato-; tartr(o)-: for tartrate, a salt of TARTAR, which itself has c/f tartr(o)-, as in tartronic (tartr(o)- + malonic, from L malum, apple).

tasi-: from Gr tasis (s tas-), a stretching, from teinein (s tein-), to stretch; as in tasimeter, an instrument for measuring slight extensions or movements.

tauri-; taur(o)-: L tauri, c/f of taurus; Gr tauro-, c/f of tauros (s taur-), bull, with various IE cognates and no irrefutable origin. Exx: tauricide, bull-killing; tauromachy, a bull-fight, bull-fighting (cf -machy), from Gr tauromakhia; tauromorphic (cf -morph), an adj applied to ancient Mediterranean bull-shaped vases.

tauto-: Gr tauto-, c/f of tauto (for to auto), the same. Exx: tautochronous, occupying the same time (cf -chronous); tautology (cf -loger), from Gr tautologia, verbal repetition.

taxeo-, tax(i)-, taxo-, -taxi-, -taxy, with adj -tactic: all from Gr taxis (s tax-), arrangement, from tassein (s tass-), to arrange; PGr tags-ē*; IE r, tag-*. Exx: taxeopod (cf -pod, -foot), taxeo- representing Gr taxeōs, the gen of taxis; taxidermy, whence taxidermist, a preparer and mounter of animal skins: cf -dermy at -derm; taxonomy (cf -nomy at nomo-), classification; (from Gr -taxis, an end-c/f of taxis) syntaxis, 'modernized' as SYNTAX; heterotaxy (cf hetero-), abnormal or eccentric arrangement; see -tactic.

techni-, 2 technico-, 3 techno-; 4 -technics, 5 -techny: all, ult, from Gr tekhne, craft, skill, art: cf TECHNICAL. Resp: 1, irreg for techno-; 2, for technic(al); 3, Gr tekhno-, c/f of tekhne; 4, from Gr tekhnika, matters of art or craft; 5, Gr -tekhnia, an abstract-n derivative (suffix -ia) of tekhne.

Exx: techniphone (cf -phone), a dumb clavier for the musical exercise of one's fingers; technicology, now rare for technology (Gr tekhnologia, an artful or systematic treatment); pyrotechnics (cf pyro-), fireworks; theotechny (theo-), an imaginary world or society of gods participating in human affairs. Cf the 1st tecto-.

tecnio-: Gr tekno-, c/f of tekhnon, a child (s tekn-, r tek-); as in tecnology, child-study.

-tect, as in architect: from Gr tektōn, end-c/f of tektōn, a carpenter, a builder. Cf the 1st tecto-.

tecti-: either from L tectus, covered, pp of tegere (s teg-), to cover, (hence) to roof (cf PROTECT), as in Zoo Tectibranchia (Gr brankhion, a gill: cf -branch), or from L tectum, a roof (n from the neus of tectus, covered), as in tectiform, resembling a roof or a lid, serving as a lid.

tecto- (1): Gr tekto-, c/f of tektōn (whence the adj tektionikos, E tectonic), a carpenter, a builder, akin to tekhne: cf TECHNICAL and ARCHITECT. Exx: tectosphere (cf -sphaera), the asthenosphere, a hypothetical zone that, 30 miles below the earth's surface, is supposed to yield easily to stresses; Tectospondyli (cf -spondyli).

tecto- (2): from L tectum (s tect-), a roof: cf tecti-. Ex: tectocephalic (cf cephalo-), with a roof-shaped head.

[-teen, as in thirteen, fourteen . . . nineteen: ME -tene, OE -tyn-, -tēne, -tiene, akin to G zehn, MHG zehen, OHG zehan, ten: cf TEN.]

tekno-: var of tecnio-, as in teknonymy (cf -onym, name), the naming, as in certain savage races, of the parent after the child.

[tele-, afar off, from afar: see Prefixes.]

tele(o)-: occ shortened to tel-: from Gr teleos (s tele-, r tel-), complete, perfect, akin to telos (s tele-, r tel-), complete, perfect, akin to telos (s tel-), end, q.v. at telo-. Exx: Telanthera (tel-=teleo-; cf -anth, flower); teleorganic, vital.—Occ for telo-, as in teleology, q.v. at telo-.

teleuto-: from Gr teleutē, completion, from teleos (cf teleo-), complete. Ex: teleutospore (cf -spora).

teli-: from L tēlum, a missile, a dart, (later) a dagger, perh akin to the tél- of Gr tēlothen, from afar (from tēle, far off). Ex: teliferous, dart-bearing or -carrying (cf -ferous at -fer).

telio-: for SciL telium, (Bot) spore fruit of the telostage or final stage; from Gr telos (gen teleos), end: cf telo-, Ex: teliospore (cf -spora).

telluri-: for E telluric, of or from the earth (L tellūs, gen tellūris); but also for the non-metallic element tellurium (tellur(i)+Sci suffix -ium), as in telluriferous (cf -fer). Cf: telluro-, for E tellurous, of tellurium.

telmat(o)-: Gr telmat(o)-, c/f of telma (gen telmatos), stagnant water, slime, mud, akin to stalassin, to let drip or run, and E stale, (of, e.g., a horse) to urinate; IE r, tel-* or stel*, to drip, with varr (s)tal-*. Ex: telmatology, the physiography of swamps, peat bogs, bogs.

tel(o)-: Gr tel(o)-, c/f of telos, end; IE r, tel-, var pel-. Ex: telophase, the final phase or stage. The gen teleos yields the c/f teleo-, as in teleology, the philosophical study (cf -logy at -loger) of ends or purposes. Cf:

telotero-: from Gr tēloteros, adj, and tēloterō, adv, farther away—the comp of tēle, far off. Ex: teloteropathy, telepathy (cf -path).

temno-: from Gr temnein (s temn-, r tem-), to sever, esp by cutting; IE r, tem-, var ten-. Ex: temnospondylous (cf -spondyli). Cf -tmema.

temporo-, 'temporal (of the temples) and': irreg from L tempora, the temples of the human head; as in temporo-mandibular (cf mandibulo-).

tendo-: for E tendon: cf TENDON. Ex: tendotomy, the incision or the excision of a tendon. Cf teno-.

-tene: from Gr tainia, a ribbon: cf taeni-. Ex: diplotene (cf diplo-).

tenebri-: from L tenebrae, shadows, darkness, whence tenebrōsus, shadowy, dark, E tenebrous; akin to Skt tamisrās (pl), dark night. Ex: tenebrific (cf -fic).

ten(o)-; tenont(o)-: from Gr tenōn (s ten-), a tendon, gen tenontos, Gr c/f tenont(o)-, whence E tenonto-; akin to teinein (s tein-), to stretch; IE r, ten-*. Ex: tenotomy, (the act of) dividing a tendon—cf -tomy at -tome; tenontology, the science of tendons. Cf:

tensi-; tensio-: both for E tension—cf TEND and teno-. Ex: tensimeter and tensiometer, instruments for measuring tension.

tentaculi-, tentaculo-: from L, and for E, tentaculum: see TENTACLE and cf TEMPT. Ex: tentaculiferous, tentacle-bearing (-ferous, q.v. at -fer); tentaculocyst (-cyst).

tenti-: for tent, as in tentiform, tent-shaped.

tenui-: L tenui-, c/f of tenuis, thin, slender; s tenu-, r ten-*; from the root of L tendere, to stretch: cf teno-. Ex: tenuicostate, slender-ribbed (cf -costal).

tepe-: L tepe-, as in tepefacere, to make, become, tepid: cf TEPID.

tephra-, tephro-: Gr tephra, ashes, c/f tephro-, adopted by E, akin to Tokh A tsak-, to burn, and Lith dagas, summer (=burning) heat; IE r, dhegh-*, to burn. Ex: tephramancy, divination (-mancy) by ashes, esp from an altar-fire; (Med, 'grey matter'—from colour of ashes) tephromyellitic (cf -myelia).

terat(o)-: Gr terat(o)-, c/f of teras (gen teratos, s ter-), a wonder, e.g. a monster, as in teratology, myth-making about monstrous animals, hence (in Med) the study of monstrosities and other horrible abnormalities. Prob akin to Lith keras, OSI čara sorcery; IE r, ker-* or kar-*.

tereti-: for E terete, cylindrical, from L teres (gen teretis) rounded off—prob orig by rubbing (terere, s ter-, to rub). Ex: teretifolious (cf foli-, leaf).

tergi-, tergo-: L tergi-, c/f of tergum, the back; tergo-, from tergum but influenced by the Gr connective -o-, as in tergolateral, of the back and side. Ex: tergiversate, from ML tergiversatus, pp of tergiversari, L -uersari, (lit) to turn the back (terga uertere), hence to be evasive—for the 2nd element, cf VERSE.

termino-: irreg from L terminus, a boundary, a terminus, a TERM. Esp in terminology, technical terms, jargon, nomenclature.

termito-: for E termite, an ant: L termes, a wood-worm, gen termitis, akin to L terere, to rub (cf tereti-). Ex: termitophagous, ant-eating (cf -phaga).

-ternate; ternati- or ternato-: c/f of ternate (from L terni, three apiece), consisting of threes, as in bitermate and ternati-(or ternato-)pinnate (cf -pinnate).

terp(i)-; terpsi-: SciL from Gr terpein (s terp-), to gladden, as in terpodion (Gr ōidē, a song), a type of musical keyboard; Gr terpsi-, from terpsis, enjoyment (from terpein), as in Terpsichorē (Gr khōros, a dancing: cf CHOIR), whence Terpsichore, the muse of choral song and dance, whence Terpsichorean, of dancing.

terra-, terre-, terr(i)-: c/f from, only the 3rd of, L terra, the earth (dry land)—cf TERRACE. Ex: terraqueous (terra+aqueous, from L aqua, water); terremotive, seismic, from L terrae mōtus, a movement of the earth, an earthquake; terri-genous (cf -genous at -gen), earth-born, from L terrigena.

terri- (1). See prec.

terri- (2); terrōri-: from L terrēre, to frighten, as in TERRIFIC; from the derivative terror, as in terrorific (cf -fic).

tessara-: Gr tessara-, c/f of tessares, neu tessara, four: cf tetra-. Ex: tessaraglot, written, or versed in, four languages (cf -glossa).

testaceo-: for Testaceo (adj testacean), from L testāceum, a shelled animal, from testa, a shard, a shell. Ex: testaceology, rare for 'conchology'.

testi- (1): from L testis, a testicle, as in the Zoo adj testicond, having concealed testicles; for -cond, cf 'abscond' and 'recondite'—L condere (s cond-), to conceal.

testi- (2): L testi-, c/f of testis, a witness: cf TESTIFY.

tetani-; tetane-: the latter from Gr tetanos, L hence E tetanus (c/f tetani-; adj tetanic, L tetanicus, Gr tetanikos), akin to Gr teinein (s tein-), to stretch. Ex: tetanomotor; tetanimform.

tetart(o)-, 'one fourth': Gr tetarto-, c/f of tetarios, fourth, the ordinal of tessares, Attic tettares, four. Ex: tetartohedral, having a quarter of the planes needed for symmetry. Cf tessara- and:

tetr(a)-: Gr tetra-, c/f of Attic tettares, tettara, four; cf FOUR. Exx: tetragon (adj tetragonal), a four-angled plane figure, LL tetragōnum, Gr to tetragōnon, the four-angled, usu the square, orig the neus of tetragōnos, four-angled, (usu) square, cf the 1st -gon; tetrahedron, a four-faced polyhedron, strictly the neus of LGr tetraedros, four-sided (cf *-hedra*l); tetralogy (cf -logy at -loger), a group of four plays, novels, etc.—cf trilogy, a set of three; tetrameter, a verse-line of four feet (-meter, a measure); tetrarch, a governor (cf -arch) of one-fourth of a province; tetrasyllabic, four-syllabled, cf SYLLABLE; tetrevangelium, the four Gospels regarded as a unity: cf EVANGEL.

The subsidiary Gr c/f tetrakis-, from tetrakis, four times, occurs only in complex Chem terms (e.g., tetrakisazo, cf azo).

-teuthis, only in Pal and Zoo: from Gr teuthis (s teuth-), a cuttlefish.

Teuto-: for E Teuton, as in Teutolatry, a worship of things German; or, instead of Teutonico-, for Teutonic (and), as Teuto-Celtic. Also, occ, Teutono-, as in Teutonophobia. Cf TEUTON.

thalam-; thalam(o)-: for L thalamus, an inner room, from Gr thalamos, with c/f thalam(o)-, perh akin to Gr tholos (s thol-), a circular tomb deep in the side of a hill: with special senses in An and Bot, as in thalamifloral (cf flori-).

thalassi(o)-; thalass(o)- or thalatto-: Gr thalassio- (thalassio- not in Gr), c/f of adj thalassios, marine, from thalassa, sea, whence the E -ic adj thalassic; thalatto-, Gr c/f of Attic thalatta, sea, as thalassio- is the Gr c/f of non-Attic Gr thalassa, o.o.o. Exx: *thalassiar*ch, an admiral (cf -arch) and thalassio-phyte (cf -phyte); thalassocracy, Gr thalassokratia, supremacy (cf -cracy) at sea, and thalassophobia, a dread of the sea; thalattology, sea-lore.

thalli-; thall(o)-: thalli- for thallium (thall-+ Chem -ium), a metallic element, as in thalliferous, producing (cf -ferous at -fer) thallium, but also, irreg, as in thalliform, for SciL thallus, a Bot term from Gr thallos (s thall-), a young shoot or branch or frond, akin to thallein (s thall-), to be green, to blossom; thall(o)-, adopted from the Gr c/f of thallos, as in thallophyte (cf -phyte).

thamn(o)-: Gr thamn(o)-, c/f of thamnos, a bush, a shrub, s thamn-, r tham-; IE r, perh dham-, var dhem-. Ex: thamnophile (cf -phil), lit a bush-lover, i.e. an ant shrike.

-thanasia; thanat(o)-: from Gr—adopted by E—euthanasia, an easy (Gr eu, well) death; Gr thanat(o)-, c/f of thanatos, death, s thanat-, r prob than-; IE r, perh dhan- or dhen-*, to die. Exx: electrothanasia, electrocution; thanatology, death-lore, the doctrine of death. The rare adj c/f -thanatous, death-producing, comes from thanatos.

thaumat(o)-; thauma-; thaumo-, non-Gr: Gr thaumat(o)-, c/f of thauma (gen thaumatos), a wonderful thing, a wonder, a miracle; IE r, perh dhau-* or dheu-*. Exx: thaumatology, a study of, erudition in, wonders and miracles; EF-F, hence E, thaumaturge (adj thaumaturgic), a wonder-worker, a miracle-worker, via ML thaumaturgus from Gr thaumaturgos (thaumato-+-ergos, -worker), thaumaturgy deriving from Gr thaumaturgia, wonder-working; thaumotrope (cf -trope), an optical instrument; thaumoscopic (cf -scope).

the-. See theo-.

theatro-: Gr theatro-, c/f of theatron, a theatre: cf THEATER (-TRE). Exx: theatromania, theatrophobia.

-theca, 2 -thecium; 3 theca-, 4 thec-, 5 thec(o)-: all, via L thēca (adopted by Sci), from Gr thēkē, a box or case, akin to tithenai, to put or place (cf THESIS); IE r, dhe-*. Resp: L -thēca, from Gr -thēkē, from thēkē; 2, SciL from Gr -ihēkē; 3, E theca, a case, a sheath; 4, for L and E theca; 5, c/f of Gr thēkē.

Exx: myxotheca (cf myxo-); Zoothecium (cf zoo- at zo-); thecaphore (cf -phora) and thecaspore (cf -spora); theciform, sheath-like; thecoglossate, (of lizards) with a tongue (cf GLOSS) retractable into a sheath.

Cf -thèque in Fr bibliothèque, a library.

thei-: for SciL Thea, the tea plant, from the Ch source of TEA. Ex: theiform.

thel(o)-: Gr thēl(o)-, c/f of thelē, a nipple, s thēl-, akin to L filia, filius (s fil-), daughter, son; IE r, prob dhēl-* or dhil-*. Ex: thelorrhagia, bleeding at the nipple(s); cf thelitis, inflammation (cf suffix -itis) of the nipple(s). Cf:

thely-, as in thelyplasty (cf -plasty at -plasia), represents Gr thelū-, c/f of thelus (s ihel-), feminine, akin to thēlē, as in prec.

the(o)-: Gr thē(o)-, c/f of theos, a god, akin to L deus: cf THEISM. Exx: theocracy (-cracy), government by God, or by the gods, (hence) by the Church; theodicy, (doctrine of) the justice (Gr dikē, justice) of God; theogony, the genealogy of the gods—cf the 2nd -GON; THEOLOGY; theomachy (-machy), a battle against, or among, gods; theophany, an appearance or manifestation (cf -phane) of God to man, LL theophania, Gr theophaneia; THEOSOPHY.

-thèque. See -theca, last para.

-therapy. End c/f of THERAPY.

-there, 2 -theria, 3 -therium; 4 thera-, 5 theri(o)-, 6 ther(o)-: 1-3, from Gr thēr (gen thēros) a beast; 4, from Gr thēran (s thēr-), to hunt for; 5, Gr thēri(o)-, c/f of thērion, a beast—an elaboration, or a modification, of thēr; 6, Gr thēr(o)-, c/f of thēr, akin to L ferus, wild, savage, untamed.

Exx: megathere, megatherium (cf mega-); theralite (cf -lite), because, anticipate, it was searched (hunted) for; theriomancy, divination (-mancy) by observation of wild animals; therolatry, worship (-latry, q.v. at -later) of wild animals, and therology, the study of wild animals, the study of mammals.

-therm; -thermy; thermato-, therm(o)-: first two, from Gr thermē (s therm-), heat—cf THERM; (thermato-) from thermat-, the o/s of the var therma, pl thermata; (thermo-) Gr therm(o)-, c/f of thermē. Exx: megatherm (mega-) and colpotharm (colpo-); hyperthermy (prefix hyper-); thermatology, the science of heat, esp (Med) of the use of hot baths or springs; thermometer, a heat-measurer (cf -meter)—thermophile (-phile), an organism thriving in heat—thermostat (-stat), a device for regulating the heat used.

thero-. See -there.

-thesis; agent, -thete; adj, -thetic: resp from Gr thesis, a having been placed or set, a position; from -thetēs, c/f of thetēs, one who sets or establishes, and from Gr thetikos, fit for placing, from thetos (placed), the pp of tithenai, to place, set, lay down: cf THESIS. Exx: cacothesis (cf caco-, bad, at -cace), adj cacothetic; thesmothete (see next). Cf theso-.

thesmo-: Gr thesmo-, c/f of thesmos, a law, from the root of tithenai (s tithen-, r then-), to set, to establish. Ex: thesmothete, a legislator (cf -thete at -thesis). Cf prec.

-thete. See -thesis.

theso-: from Gr thesis (see -thesis), a placing, a deposit; as in thesocyte (cf -cyte).

thigmo-: from Gr thigma, touch, contact (s thigm-, r thig-), akin to thinganein (s thingan-, r thing-, nasalization of thig-), to touch with the hand; akin to L ingere, to shape, hence create, with the hand; IE r, dheig-* or dheigh-*; cf FEIGN. Ex: thigmotropism (cf -trophe). Cf thixo-.

thin(o)-: from thin-, the o/s of Gr this (gen thinos), a beach, perh akin to DUNE. Ex: thinolite (-lite, stone).

thi(o)- (occ thia-), 2 thiono-; 3 -thial, 4 -thionic: all from Gr theon (s thei-), brimstone, sulphur, perh from theon* (or theos*), smoke, vapour, and prob from an IE r dheues-* (Hofmann). Resp: thia-, as in thiadiazole, is a Chem var of thio-, a natural c/f from theon, as in Thiobacillus and thiocresol; 2=thi(o)-+Chem n suffix -one+connective -o-, as in thionobenzoic; 3 (-thial)=thi(o)-+Chem n-suffix -al; 4, the c/f of thionic, of or containing sulphur, as in polythionic.

thixo-: from Gr thixis, a touch: cf thigmo-, q.v. Ex: thixotropy (cf -tropy, at -trophe), the property—possessed by some gels—of becoming fluid when shaken.

thomo-: from Gr thōmos, a heap, akin to OHG tuom, a share. Ex: Thomomys (cf -mys, mouse), a genus of gophers.

thoraci-, thorac(o)-: the former, from L thōrax, the chest, gen thorācis; the latter, from Gr thōrak(o)-, c/f of thōrax, perh akin to Skt dhārakas, holding, a holder, with IE r dhar-, varr dher-, dhor-*. Exx: thoracispinal; thoracalgia (cf -algia, pain) and thoracoscope, an instrument for inspecting (cf -scope) the cavity of the chest. E thorax has adj thoracic, with c/f thoracico-.

thori- and thoro-: for thorium, which, like thorite, derives from Thor (ON Thörr), the Scandinavian God of thunder, the suffixes being the Chem -ite and -ium. Exx: thoriferous (cf -ferous at -fer), thorium-bearing; thorogummite=thoro-+E gum+euphonic -m-+Min suffix -ite.

Thraco-, 'Thracian and': for Thracian; as in Thracio-Phrygian.

thremmato-: from thremmat-, o/s of Gr thremma, a nursling; as in thremmatology, the Bio science of breeding under domestication.

thren(o)-: thrēn(o)-, c/f of Gr thrēnos, a dirge, whence the literary E threnē; akin to threomai (s thre-), I cry aloud, prob orig echoic. Ex: threnody, Gr thrēnōidia (ōidē, a song).

threo-: for threose, an artificial sugar. Only in Chem.

threpto-: from Gr threpsis (θρέψις), nourishment, adj threptikos (E threptic), akin to thremma (see thremmato-). Ex: threpsology, the study, or the science, of nutrition.

threski-: from Gr thrēskia, worship, from thrēskos, religion, akin to therapōn, a server, IE r dher(e)-*. Ex: Threskiornithae, ibises, the sacred birds of Egypt, cf -ornis.

thrio-: from Gr thrios, a pebble. Ex: thrioboly, divination with pebbles: cf Gr thriobolos, a caster (cf -bole) of pebbles into the urn.

-thripsis, a breaking into small pieces, as in amygdalothripsis (cf amygdalo-): from Gr thripsis.

-thrix: Gr thrix, hair; as in lepothrix, hair in brittle state. See tricho-.

thromb(o)-: Gr thromb(o)-, c/f of thrombos, a lump, a clot, akin to Gr trephein (s treph-), to curdle, (lit) to turn: cf trepho-. Exx: thrombogen (cf -gen); thromboplastic (cf -plastic at -plasia); cf thrombosis (which=thromb(o)-+Med suffix -osis), a clot in the blood-stream.

thryouo-: from Gr thruon, a rush (plant). Ex: Thryonomys (cf -mys).

thuri-: L thūri-, c/f of thūs (gen thūris), incense, from Gr thuos; IE r, thu-*. Ex: thurifer (E from L), incense-bearer (cf -fer)—an acolyte, or an altar boy, carrying a thurible (L thūribulum).

thylac(o)-: from Gr thulax (gen thulakos), var thulakos, a sack, a pouch, whence thylacine, a marsupial (or Tasmanian) wolf. Ex: Thylacoleo (Gr leōn, L leō, a lion).

-thymia; thym(o)-: Gr -thymia, from thumos (s thum-), spirit, emotion, courage; Gr thumo-, c/f of thumos, Gr r thu-; IE r, prob dheu- or dhu-: dhu-m-os becomes thu-m-os. Exx: lypthymia, excessive or profound mental prostration (Gr lupē, grief); thymogenic (cf -genic at -gen), caused by emotion.

thymo- (1). See prec.

thymo- (2): from Gr thumon, thyme, but denoting 'thymol' (thymo-+-ol, oil), as in thymoquinone.

thymo- (3): from Gr thumos, the thymus (gland), as in thymocyte (cf -cyte). Perh the Gr word is thūmos, to distinguish it from the thumos of the 1st thymo-.

thyre(o)-, thyro-; -thyris: from Gr thureos, a stone put against a thura or door to keep it open, hence an oblong (lit, door-shaped) shield, or perh from its cpd, thureoeidēs (from eidōs, form), shaped like an oblong shield; thyro- stands for thyroid (Gr thureoeidēs); -thyris, from Gr thuris (dim of thura), a small door, a window, (hence) a valve. With the s thur-, c/f the for- of L foris, out of doors, and E DOOR. Exx: thyreoprotein; thyroglossal (cf -glossa, -tongue) and thyrotherapy; -thyris, only in Zoo generic names.

thyrsi-: L thyrsi-, c/f of thyrsus, borrowed from Gr thursos, Bacchus's ivy- or vine-encircled, (pine) cone-topped staff of office; perh of Thracο-Phrygian origin. Exx: thyrsiferous, thyrsus-bearing, and thyrsigerous, thyrsus-wielding (L thyrsiger: cf -ger).

thysan(o)-: Gr thusan(o)-, c/f of thusanos (s thusan-, r thus-), a tassel; perh of TASSEL. Ex: Thysanocarpus (cf -carpus at -carp), a genus of herbs that have pods resembling tassels.

Tibeto-, 'Tibetan and': from Tibet; as in Tibeto-Chinese.

tibio-: for tibia, Med E from L tibia, a flute, hence from the shape-resemblance, the An tibia (bone from knee to ankle). Ex: ('of the tibia and') tibiofemoral.

ticho-: from Gr teikhos, a wall, akin to Skt dēhī, a wall; IE r, *d(h)ēigh-. Ex: tichodrome, a wall creeper (cf -drome).

tigro-: from tigroid, striped as a tiger, but denoting 'tigroid granules', as in tigrolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse).

timbro-: F timbro-, from timbre, a postage stamp, as in timbromaniac, one who is 'mad' on postage stamps. See TIMBRE.

timo-, as in timocracy (cf -cracy), a state governed by men of honour, ML timocratia, Gr timokratia: Gr timo-, c/f of timē, honour, value, intimately akin to timaō, I value or honour, and akin to the syn tiō, s ti-; r of the group, ti-.

tino-: from Gr teinein (s tein-), to stretch; as in Pal Tinoceras (cf -ceras at -cera).

tinto-: for tint, as in tintometer titani- and titano-, for the metallic element titanium, itself (Chem suffix -ium) from L Titāni (or Titānes), from Gr Titānes, the Titans or Sons of Earth, sing Titan (Τῑτᾱν), akin to titō (τῑτῑ́ω), day, sun—cf TITANIC; Titano-=Gr Titāno-, c/f of Titan. Exx: titaniferous, yielding titanium; titanocyanide; Titanosaurus (cf -saur).

tithono-: for tithonic (from L Tithōnus, Gr Tithōnos). Ex: tithonometer.

-tmema; -tmesis: from Gr tmēma, a piece cut off, a segment, hence in Bot a cell; from Gr tmēsis, a cutting: both akin to temnein (s temn-, r tem-), to cut: cf temno-. Ex: dolichotmema, a slender cell: cf dolicho-.

-tocia or -tokia, -tocous or -tokous; toco- or toko-: the 2nd and 4th are the adj answering to the 1st and 2nd (SciL formations); toco-, toko-=Gr toko-, c/f of tokos (s tok-), childbirth, offspring, akin to teknon (s tek-), a child, and tiktēin (r tik-, s tikt-+inf suffix -ein), to give birth to; cf Skt takman- (r tak-), a child. Exx: mogitocia (cf mogi-), difficult labour; tocology, midwifery.

tol(u)-, 'relation to toluene' (tolu+benzene) or 'relation to toluic acid': for tolu, balsam of Tolu (in Colombia). Ex: tolualdehyde. Chem affords also toluido- (for toluide) and toluino- (for toluidine).

-toma, 2 -tome, 3 -tomic, 4 -tomous, 5 -tomy; 6 tomo-: all from Gr tomē (s tom-), a cutting, a section, akin to temnein (s temn-, r tem-), to cut: cf ANATOMY. Resp: 'insects with a specified type of segmentation', from Gr entoma, insects; 2, Gr -tomon, from tomos, (the agent, or the result, of) cutting, with adj -tomic (Gr -tomikos) and -tomous (Gr -tomos, cutting, cut, divided), the former answering also to 5, -tomy, from Gr -tomia, from tomē; 6, from Gr tomos, a cut.

Exx: Neotoma (cf neo-); gonotome (cf gono-) and microtome, an instrument with which to cut sections for microscopic examination; gastrotopic (cf gastro-); isotomous (cf iso-); arteriotomy, an incision in, an operation on, an artery, from Gr artēriotomia; Tomopteris (cf -pteris at -ptera).

Note -tomize, the v answering to -tomy, as in laparotomize, to make an incision in the abdominal wall, n laparotomy (cf laparo-).

Note also the cpd -ectome ('an instrument in ectomy'), from -ectomy, a cutting-out, a surgical removal, from Gr -ektomia, c/f of ektomē (prefix ek-+tomē); v, ectomize.

-tone, 2 -tonia, 3 -tonic, 4 -tonous, 5 -tonus, -tony; 7 tono-, 8 tonico-: all from L tonus, a tone, a sound, (orig) a stretching, from Gr tonos, tension, hence pitch or accent of the voice: cf TONE. Resp: from E tone, or from Gr -tonos (end-c/f of tonos), occ via LL -tonus; 2, Gr -tonia, from tonos; 3, either from Gr tonikos or simply for E tonic; 4, var of 3, but deriving from Gr -tonos, adj c/f of tonos; 5, SciLc/f from L tonus; 6, a Med, yet truly E, var of 2 (-tonia); 7, Gr tono-, c/f of tonos; 8, for E tonic.

Exx: barytone, from the Gr adj barutonos, deep-sounding (cf bary-), and demitone; isotonia (iso-); isotonic=Gr isotonos+adj suffix -ic; isotonous=Gr isotonos, having equal tension of unvarying pitch; geotonus, Plant Physio 'the normal state of an organ with reference to gravity' (Webster); isotony=isotonia; tonology, the history, or the science (cf -logy at -loger), of tones or of in tonation—tonogram (cf -gram)—tonoscope (c -scope).

tonsill(o)-: for E tonsil(s): cf TONSIL. Exx: tonsillectomy, surgical excision (cf -ectomy) of the tonsils, syn with tonsillotomy (cf -tomy in prec).

-tope, -topy; top(o)-: from Gr topos (s top-), place, topo- being the Gr c/f: cf TOPIC. Exx: isotope (cf iso-), in Chem an element occupying the same position in the periodic table; isotopy, the fact, or the phenomenon, of isotopes; topography, local geography, from Gr topographia—toponarcosis, a local anaesthetic—toponymy (cf -onymy at -onym), place-name lore, or, in An, the names in regional An—topophobia, a dread of certain particular places.

toreumato-: from toreumat-, o/s of Gr toreuma, embossed work, from toreuein (s toreu-), to work in relief, (lit) to bore through, akin to tornos, a tool for circle-drawing: Ex: toreumatology, the art of toreutics (from the Gr adj toreutikos).

tormo-, as in tormodont (cf -odon), having socketed teeth: from Gr tormos, a socket.

toro-, as in Torosaurus (cf -saur): from L torus, a protuberance.

torpi-; torpori-: from L torpēre, to be stiff, whence torpor (cf torpor at TORPID), whence torpori-. Exx: torpify; torporific (-fic).

torre-: from L torrēre, to cause to dry, to parch: cf TORRID. Ex: torrefy, to parch or scorch or subject to (great) heat, L torrefacere; n torrefaction, F torréfaction.

torsi-, torti-; torso-: resp from E torsion; from L tortus, pp of torquere (s torq-, r tor-), to twist; and (torso-) from ML torsus, pp of torquere: cf TORT. Exx: torsigraph, a torsion meter; Med torticollis, wryneck or stiffneck (L collum, neck). The subsidiary torsio-, as in torsigram, represents E torsion.

totti-, toto-: from L tōtus (adj), whole, s tōt-: cf TOTAL. Exx: totalpalmate, (of certain birds) having webbed feet, cf palmati; toto(-)congenital, entirely congenital.

toxi-; tox(o)-; toxic(o)-: all, ult, from Gr toxōn (s tox-), a bow (weapon), an arrow, perh a loanword from Scythian (Hofmann), with a cognate in late Skt. Whereas tox(o)-, when not short for toxic(o)-, is the Gr tox(o)-, c/f of toxōn, toxistands for E toxic or E toxin, and toxic(o)- comes from Gr toxikon, arrow poison (sc pharmakon), orig the neus of the adj toxikos, of or for a bow or an arrow: cf TOXIC. The end-c/f -toxin stands for toxin, a poison.

Exx: toxiciferous, poison-bearing (cf -ferous at -fer); toxiphobia, a dread (cf -phobe) of being poisoned;—toxophily, the study of, a love for, archery, with adj toxophilous and agent toxophilite, cf -phil; toxophil (toxō=toxico-), having an affinity for poisons;—toxicology, the science of poisons, with agent toxicologist; toxicophagy (cf -phagy at -phaga), the practice of eating poisons.

trachel(o)-: Gr trakhēl(o)-, c/f of trakhēlos, neck, s trakhēl-; IE r, perh trakh-. Exx: tracheloclavicular, of the neck and clavicle; trachelodynia (cf -odynia at -odyne). Cf:

trache(o)-, tracho-, trachy-: 1st, for E from ML trachea, from LL trachia, from Gr trakheia (artēria), windpipe, f of adj trakhus (s trakh-), rough, rocky, akin to Gr thrassein, to trouble or disturb, s thrass-, IE r dragh-*; 2nd, a SciL var of Gr trakhu-, c/f of trakhus and therefore the origin of E trachy-. Exx: trachealgia, pain (cf -algia at alg-) in the windpipe; tracheotomy, an incision (cf -tomy at -toma) in the windpipe;—Trachodon (cf -odon);—trachycarpous (cf -carpous at -carp), bearing rough fruit.

Cf trachyte, a rough volcanic rock: trachy-+ Min suffix -ite; adj, trachytic.

tracti-: for E (printed) tract, as in tractiferous, tract-carrying.

tragi-, trag(o)-; tragico-: 1st, LL tragi-, short for L tragico-, c/f of tragicus, from Gr tragikos, the adj of tragos, a he-goat, with c/f trago-: cf TRAGIC. Exx: tragicomedy, EF-F tragicomédie, LL tragicomoedia, L tragicocomoedia; tragopan, a brilliant Asiatic pheasant, from L from Gr tragopan, a fabulous bird, lit 'goat-Pan'; Tragopogon, Gr tragopōgōn (cf -pogon), the plant goat's-beard, lit 'goat's beard'; tragico(-)romantic.

trapezi-, trapezo-; trapezio-: all for L trapezium: cf TRAPEZE. Exx: trapeziform, trapezium-shaped; trapezohedron (cf -hedral); An trapeziometacarpal.

traumat(o)-: Gr traumat(o)-, c/f of trauma (gen traumatos), a wound, hence in Psychi a mental shock; akin to titrōskein (s titrōsk-), to wound, app a redup (ti-) of trōsk-, akin to trōein (s trō-), to pierce, to wound. Exx: traumatology, the science of wounds; traumatotropism, (Bio) an organ's, e.g. a plant root's, modification by wounding. The adj traumatic comes through LL traumaticus from Gr traumatikos, of, for, by a wound.

trecho-, occ treko-: from Gr trekhein (s trekh-), to run. Ex: trechometer (trek-), for measuring distances run by vehicles.

treg(a)-, only in El, 'one million millions': trillion+megohm. Ex: tregerg (cf ERG).

treko-. See trecho-.

-trema, pl -tremata; tremato-: from Gr trēma (gen trēmātos, pl trēmātia), a hole or orifice, akin to Gr teirein (s teir-), to rub, L terere (s ter-); IE r, ter-* or teir-*. Exx: helicotrema (cf helico- at 1st hell-); Derotremata (cf 2nd dero-); Trematosaurus (cf -saur).

tremelli-, as in tremelliform: for Bot Tremella, a genus of fungi: from L tremere, to tremble; cf L tremulus, tremulous.

trepo-: from Gr trepein (s trep-), to turn. Ex: Treponema (cf -nema).

-tresia: from Gr trēsīs (s trēs-), a perforation, akin to tetrainein, to pierce, s tetrain- (redup teon r train-). Ex: sphenotresia (cf spheno-, wedge-).

triamino-; triammino-. Only in Chem: tri-+amino- and ammino-. Cf triazolo-, tribromino-, etc.

-tribe, -tripsis; tribo-: 1st, from Gr tribein (s trib-), to rub, akin to the syn L terere (s ter-), 2nd, from Gr tripsis, a rubbing, from tribein; 3rd, from tribein. Exx: nototribe (Bot adj), touching the back; xerotripris (cf xero-), dry friction; tribometer, lit 'friction-measurer'.

-tricha, -trichi, -trichia, -trichous, -trichy; trich(o)-, trichino-: all from the o/s trikh- of Gr trich, hair; IE r, perh drig(h)-*. Resp, -tricha, a SciL pl from Gr -trikhos (see -trichous below), used for Zoo divisions, as in Holotricha, an order of protozoans with little hairs almost entirely (cf holo-) covering the body; -trichi, a SciL m pl from Gr -trikhos, as in Leiotrichi, the smooth-haired races; trikh-+ Med suffix -ia, as in schizotrichia (cf schizo-), an excessive splitting of the hair; (-trichous) from Gr -trikhos, -haired, from trix, as in leiotrichous (cf leio-), smooth-haired; -trichy, abstract-n for -trichi, as in ulotrichy (cf 2nd ulo-); trich(o)-, Gr trikh(o)-, c/f of trich, as in trichogenous (cf -genous at -gen), hair-producing, and trichology, the science—or the barber's art—of treating the hair; trichino-, for trichina, a slender worm, from Gr trichinos (f -ina), hairy, hair-like, from thrix, as in trichinoscope, a microscope for detecting trichinae.

trigon(o)-: Gr trigōn(o)-, c/f of trigōnos, triangular (cf the 1st -gon). Ex: trigonometry (cf -metry at -meter), adj -metrical, the Math of triangles.

trinitr(o)-, as in trinitrocresol: tri-+nitro-, qq.v. above, and trinitrotoluene (TNT).

tripl-; tripl(o)-: the former, from L triplex, triple; the latter, from Gr triploos, triple: cf TRIPLE. Exx: triplicostate (cf -costal); triplopia, triple vision (cf -opia at -ope).

-tripsis. See -tribe.

-tripsy: for -thrypsy* (cf -thripsis above), from Gr thrupsis, a breaking-small. Ex: neutrotripsy (cf neuro-).

tristi-: from L tristis, sad (OF-F triste). Exx: tristiloquy (cf -loquy at -loquence) and tristisonous, sad-sounding.

tritico-: from L triticum, wheat, dim (?) of tritum, neus of tritrus, pp of terere, to rub, (hence) to beat (grain). Ex: tritico-nucleic.

trit(o)-: Gr trit(o)-, c/f of tritos, third: cf THIRD. Exx: tritaonist, in Gr drama the actor playing the third most important part, Gr tritaonistēs (cf -agonist); Zoo tritocerebrum, the third section of an insect's brain.

-troch, 2 -trocha, 3 -trochal, 4 -trochous, 5 -trochus; 6 trochi-, 7 troch(o)-, 8 trochlei-: all, ult, and, 1, 2, 5 imm, from Gr trokhos (lit, a runner), anything round or circular, esp a wheel, from trekhein, to run (s trekh-); IE r, trekh-* or tregh-, var of trakh- or tragh-*, to run.

Exx: -troch ('a ciliated or hairlike band'), as in mesotroch (cf meso-); 2, 'creatures, or 5, genera, with one or more such bands'; the answering adj being 3, -trochal (as in prototrochal) and 4, -trochous, as in mesotrochous; 6, trochi- (as in trochiferous, cf -fer), from SciL trochus, from Gr trokhos, which has c/f trokh(o)-, whence, 7, troch(o), as in trochophore (cf -phora); 8, from trochlea, a case containing pulleys (hence, in Med, the trochlea of the eye), from Gr trokhilia, the sheaf of a pulley, from trekhein, to run,—as in trochleiform.

Directly, Gr trokhos yields troche, a medicinal tablet (orig and strictly round); trochee comes, via L trochaeus, from Gr trokhaios (pous, foot), running ('a running metrical foot'), from trekhein, to run.

troglo-: Gr trōglo-, c/f of trōglē, a hole, from trōgein (s trōg-), to gnaw. Ex: troglydote, a cave-dweller (Gr duein, to enter), with adj troglydytic (Gr trōglodutikos).

tromo-: from Gr tromos, from tromein (s trom-), var of tremein (s trem-), to tremble: cf L tremere (s trem-) and E TREMBLE. Ex: tromometer, an instrument for detecting and measuring earth-tremors however slight.

tropa-: for atropine, as in tropacocaine.

-tropal, 2 -trope, 3 -tropic, or -tropical, 4 -tropous, adj; 5 -trope, 6 -tropia, 7 -tropism, 8 -tropy, nn;—9 trope-; 10 tropido-: all, ult, from trop-, the n-s answering to Gr trepein (s trep-), to turn: cf TROPE. Resp: 1, -trop, from Gr -tropos (adj), turning+adj suffix -al; 2, occ via F -trope, from -tropos; 3 -tropical=-tropic+-al, but -tropic=Gr -trop(os)+E -ic, influenced by the adj TROPIC; 4, from -tropos, E suffix -ous; 5, from Gr -tropos (n), end-c/f of tropos, a turning, or its var tropē (E trope, q.v. at TROPIC); 6, -tropia, Gr -tropia, abstract-n c/f of tropē, a turning; 7, -tropism, Gr trop(e)+suffix -ism; 8, -tropy, Gr -tropia or -tropē, c/ff of tropē; 9, trope-, Gr tropo-, c/f of tropos, a turning, a turn; 10, tropido-, from Gr tropis (gen tropidos), a ship's keel—akin to tropos and answering to trepein, to turn, the keel being that upon which a ship turns.

Exx: hemitrope (adj) and bacteriotropic; sema-trope (cf -sema), a signalling instrument reflecting the sun's rays, and thaumatrope (cf thaumato-), an optical instrument; hypertropia (prefix hyper-); neurotropism, an attraction, towards the central nervous system (cf neuro-), of cells or minute organisms; heliotropy=heliotropism, the principle behind the turning, towards the sun, of the sunflower or heliotrope (whence the colour and its adj)—via F and L from Gr heliotropion (cf helio-, c/f of hēlios, the sun); tropology, figurative speech, LL from Gr tropologia—cf -logia at -loger—with adj tropologikos, LL tropologicus, E tropologic, now usu tropological; trophilous, (of plants) thriving in a variable climate or adapted to seasonal variations, cf -phil; Tropidoleptus (cf lepto-, small).

-trophia or 2 -troph; 3 -trophic; 4 troph(o)-: 2 is the E form of -trophia, Gr c/f from trepein (s trep-), to nourish; 3, occ from Gr trophikos, nourishing or nursing, nutritive, but usu merely a 'suitable' adj for 1 and 2; 4, troph(o)-, Gr troph(o)-, c/f from trepein; IE r, perh trebh-* or d(h)rebh-*.

Exx: cacotrophia (cf caco-, bad) and pedotrophy, the (correct) rearing of children (cf 1st pedo-), adj pedotrophic; trophoblast (cf -blast)—trophology, the science of nutrition—trophopathy, any illness or weakness in or of nutrition—trophospongia (cf spongi-).

-tropia, -tropic, tropido-, trope-, tropous, -tropy. See -tropal.

truncato-: from L truncātus, lopped off: cf TRUNCATE. Ex: truncato-rotund.

trypan(o)-: Gr trupan(o)-, c/f of trupanon, an instrument for boring or trepanning, from, or akin to, trupan, to bore or pierce; IE r, trup-, an extension of tru- or treu-*. Ex: Trypanosoma (cf -soma, body), a genus of parasites given to entering the human body. Gr trupan yields trypo-, as in tryptograph.

trypsi-, for trypsin; trypto-, for tryptic. Only in Biochem.

tuberculo-, tuberi-: first two, for L tūberculum, a tubercle, dim of tūber (whence tuberi-), a swelling, hump, truffle, s tūb-; akin to tubi-, 2 tubo-; 3 tubuli-, 4 tubulo-: 3 and 4, for L tubulus, a little tube or pipe, dim of tubus, a tube or pipe, s tub-, c/ff tubi- and, irreg, tubo-; akin to L tuba, a trumpet: cf TUBE. EXX: tubicorn, hollow-horned (cf -corn); tubo(-)abdominal; tubuliferous, bearing tubules, and tubuliflorous (cf flori-), bearing flowers with tubular corollas; tubulodermoid (cf -derm).

L tumēre, to swell; cf TUBER. EXX: tuberculiferous (cf -ferous at -fer); tuberculothrapy; tuberiform.

tulipi-, tulipo-: for E tulip, as in tulipiferous, tulip-bearing, and tulipomania, a mania for tulip-growing or -acquiring. Cf TULIP.

tume-: L tumēre, from tumēre, to be swollen. Ex: tumefacient, from L tumefaciens, presp of tumefacere, to make swell.

-tund, as in the rare vv contund (L contundere), extund (L extundere), obtund (L obtundere), retund (L retundere), is worth recording chiefly because tundere, to strike repeatedly, to crush, has pp tūsus; contūsus yields 'to contuse', (now) to bruise, and the abstract n contūsio (gen contūsionis) yields contusion, a (severe) bruise.]

tungsto-: for tungsten (Sw: lit, heavy stone), as in tungstosilicic.

turbidi-, as in turbidimeter, from ML turbiditās, turbidity.

turbinato-; turbini-; turbin(o)-: 1st, from L turbinātus, cone-shaped, from turbō, anything that whirls or spins, o/s turbin-, whence the 2nd, turbini-; the 3rd, turbin(o)-, stands for E turbinal, scroll-like, cone- or top-shaped. Turbō is akin to L turbāre (s turb-), to disturb—cf DISTURB. EXX: turbinato(-)concave; turbiniform; turbinectomy, a cutting-out (cf -ectomy at -tome) of turbinated bone(s), and turbinotomy, a cutting into such bone(s).

turbo-: for E TURBINE, as in turbo(-)motor. Cf prec.

Turco-, Turko-: from ML Turco-, c/f of Turcus, a Turk: cf TURK. EXX: Turkophil, Turkophobe, cf -phil and -phobe.

turdi-, as in turdiform, thrush-like: from L turdus, a thrush.

Turko-. See Turco-.

turri-: L turri-, c/f of turris (s turr-, r tur-), a tower: cf TOWER. EXX: turrigerous (cf -gerous at -ger) or turriferous (cf -ferous at -fer), bearing towers, as a castle would—the former from L turriger; turrillite (cf -lite), molluscs with turreted shells.

[twi-, c/f of E TWO, as in twibill, has been treated under Prefixes.]

-ty, as in twenty, thirty, etc., denotes 'ten' and derives from OE -tig, Go -tigus, ON -tigr: cf TEN.

tych(o)-: Gr tukhē, chance, akin to tunkhanein, to happen. EXX: tychoparthenogenesis.

tyl(o)-: Gr tyl(o), c/f of tylē, a knob; perh tu-l-ē, with the IE tu-* one sees in, e.g., L tumēre (tu+m+ēre), to be swollen, and perh in tüber (tū+b+er), a tumour, an excrescence, a knot in wood. EXX: Tylosaurus (cf -saur) and tylostyle (cf -style at -stylar).

The derivative Gr tylōtos, knobbed, knobby, yields tylot(o)-, as in tylotoxea (whence tylotoxeate), where -oxea comes from oxus, sharp.

tymp(an)o-: from L tympānum (E tympān), a kettledrum, whence, in An and Zoo, the E sense 'eardrum'; from Gr tympanon; IE r, clearly echoic, tump-*. Ex: tympantomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

The rare var tympāni- occurs in tympānichora and tympāniform.

-type, 2 -typal, 3 -typic, 4 -typy; 5 typi-, 6 typ(o)-: all, ult, from Gr typos (s tup-), an impression (physical): resp, Gr -typon, end-c/f of typos; 2, 3, adjf for 1 and 4, -typic predominating in tech words and deriving from Gr typikos, the adjf of typos; 4, -typy, from Gr -tupia, abstract-n derivative (cf suffix -ia) from typos; 5, typi-, from L typus, from typos; 6, typ(o)-, Gr tup(o)-, c/f of typos. (See TYPE.)

EXX: archetype, L archetypum, Gr arkhetupon, from arkhetypos, stamped first—esp as a model (hence, as an exemplar), cf arche- at -arch; archetypal, archetypic(al); lithotypy (cf litho- at -lite); typify, q.v. at TYPE; typography, the art—as opp the craft—of printing (cf -graphy at -graph); typology, the study of human types.

typhl(o)-: from Gr tuphlon, the caecum or blind gut, strictly the neus of tuphlos (s tuphl-, r tuph-), blind, akin to OHG toub, Mod G taub, deaf; IE r, prob d(h)yeub(h)-*. EXX: typhlocele (cf -cele) and typhology, the Sci study of blindness.

typh(o)-, 'typhus' or 'typhoid': Gr tuph(o)-, c/f of tuphos (s tuph-) vapour, a fevered stupor: cf TYPHUS. EXX: typhomalaria; typhomania, delirium caused by typhus or by typhoid; typhosepsis (cf -sepsis).

typto-: from Gr tuptein (s tupt-, r tup-), to strike; as in typtology, the lore or study or theory of spirit rappings.

tyranni-, tyrann(o)-: the former, L tyranni-, c/f of tyrannus, from Gr turannos (a tyrant), c/f turanno-, whence E tyrann(o)-. EXX: tyrannicide (cf -cide at -cidal), tyrant-slayer, L tyrannicida, and tyrant-slaying, L tyrannicidium; tyrannophobia (cf -phobe), a dread of tyrants. See TYRANT.

tyr(o)-: Gr tur(o)-, c/f of tyros (s tur-), cheese, akin to Skt tīras, milk become cheesy; perh from IE r tu-* or teu-*, to swell—cf Gr tylē (a knob), q.v. at tylo-, and L tumēre, to be swollen. Ex: tyromancy, divination (cf -mancy) by means of cheese.

udo-, as in udometer, a rain gauge: from L ūdus, moist, wet. Cf EXUDE and the 2nd hydro-.

Ugro-: for E Ugric, as in Ugro-Finnic. Cf HUNGARIAN.

ulcero-: for E ulcer, as in ulcero-membranous. Cf ULCER.

ulemo-; as in ulemorrhagia, gum-bleeding: cf the 1st ulo-.

ulno-: from L ulna, elbow: cf ELL. Ex: ulno(-)radical.

ulo- (1): from Gr oula (neupl), the gums, s oul-, perh akin to Gr oulos (s oul-), thick, woolly; IE r, perh *ul- or *uel-, to turn. Exx: ulotrophia, atrophy of the gums; ulorrhagia (cf -rrhage). Cf: ulo- (2): from Gr oulos (ὄλος), thick or woolly, s oul-, cf prec. Ex: ulotrichy, the having woolly hair, and Ulotrichi, the woolly-haired races.

ultimo-, as in ultimogeniture, opp primogeniture: from L ultimus, last—cf ULTIMATE.

umbell(i)-: deriving from L umbella (dim of umbra, shade), a parasol, but, in E, representing its Bot derivative umbel, as in umbelliferous, umbel-producing (cf -ferous at -fer). Cf umbri-.

umbilic(i)- and umbill-: for L (hence Med E) umbilicus, the navel, from umbō, a round or conical projection. Exx: umbiliciform, umbiliform, resembling a navel.

umbo-, as in umbo-lateral: L umbō, a boss or conical projection. Cf prec.

umbri-: L umbri-, c/f of umbra, a shade or a shadow: Cf UMBRAGE. Ex: umbriferous, shady, from L umbrifer (cf -fer). Cf umbelli-.

Umbro-: from L Umbri, an Umbrian; as in Umbro-Oscan.

unci-: from L uncus, a hook, akin to Gr onkos (cf the 2nd onco-). Ex: unciform, hook-shaped.

undec(a)-: from L undecim (ūnus, 1+decem, 10), eleven; as in undecagon, an 11-angled figure.

undi-: from L unda, a wave—cf UNULATE. Ex: undigenous, water-born, generated (cf -genous at -gen) by water.

ungui-: from L unguis, nail (of finger), claw, akin to NAIL. Exx: unguiferous (cf -ferous at -fer), nail-producing, and unguistroal, horny-billed (as ducks)—cf rostri-. Cf:

unguli-: from L ungula, a hoof—cf prec. Ex: unguligrade, walking (cf -grade) on hooves.

uni-: L ūni-, c/f of ūnus, one, single: cf numerical ONE. Exx: UNICORN; UNIFORM; unisonous, having one sound (cf -sonous at -sonance) or pitch, (hence) concordant; univalent, having one value, single—cf -valent at vale-.

universo-: for universe, as in universology, the science of the universe.

Uralo-, 'Ural and': for Ural, as in Uralo-Altaic.

uranl-: for uranium, from the planet Uranus, Gr Ouranos, deification of ouranos (s ouran-), the sky, the heavens, perh akin to L ūrīna, urine: rain comes from the skies. Ex: uraniferous, bearing (or containing) uranium. Cf:

uran(o)-; uranoso-: former, Gr ouran(o)-, c/f of ouranos, the sky—see prec; latter, for E uranous, of, for, with uranium. Exx: uranography, the description (cf -graphy at -graph)—or the science—of the heavens; uranology, the science (cf -logy, at -loger), of—or a treatise on—the heavens; uranoscopy, observation (cf -scopy at -scope) of the heavens;—Chem uranoso-uranic.

urbi-: from L urbs (gen urbis), a city: cf URBAN. Ex: urbicolous (cf -colous), city-inhabiting.

urcei-: from L urceus, a jar, as in urceiform, jar-shaped.

-ure, -ura, -urous, -urus; ur(o)-: from Gr oura (s our-), a tail. The terminal c/f are thus neatly summarized by Webster at -urous: '-urous. A combining form, Gr -ouros, from oura, tail, meaning -tailed, as in brachyurous [short-tailed: cf brachy-] . . . In Zool (and rarely in Bot) corresponding nouns denoting genera are formed in -urus, and nouns denoting individuals in the genus, in -ure, as in Brachyurus, brachyure . . . The New Latin pl. -ura is used for larger classifications, as in Brachyura. The c/f ur(o)- represents Gr our(o)-, c/f of oura, as in urohyal (uro-+hyoid+adj suffix -al).

uredo-: for L ūrēdō (a blast, a blight: from ūrere, to burn), esp, in Bot, a rust; cf uredino-, from ūrēdin-, the o/s of ūrēdō. Exx: uredinology; uredospore (cf -spora).

ure(o)-: for urea, as in ureosecretory, of, for, by the secretion of urea. Cf:

ureter(o)-: from Gr ourētēr (whence SciL ureter); as in ureterotomy (cf -tomy at -tome). Cf: urethr(o)-: from Gr ourēthra, urethra, as in urethrometer. As in uretero-, the Gr origin is a derivative of Gr ouron, urine: see the 2nd uro- and also URINE.

-urge, -urgic, -urgy are best exemplified by demiurge, Gr dēmiourgos, (lit) a worker for the people, (hence) the maker of the world, the Creator, God—but in Plato a subordinate god: dēmiō(s), of or for the people (cf dēmo-)—-ergos, end-c/f from ergon, work (cf -ergate). The adj demiurgic, creative, derives from Gr dēmiourgikos; the n demiurgy is rare—but cf thaumaturgy, wonder-working, Gr thaumatourgia, with EF-F, hence E, agent thaumaturge, ML thaumaturgus, Gr thaumatourgos (cf thaumato-).

-uria, -uric; uric(o)-: resp from Gr -ouria, from ouron, urine, and denoting 'condition of urine'; from E uric, of urine; (urico-) for uric. Exx: polyuria (cf poly-), excessive secretion of urine; polyuric; uricolysis (cf -lysis at -lyse).

urini-; urin(o)-: both from L ūrīna, urine, cf esp urethro-. Exx: uriniferous, urine-producing (cf -ferous at -fer); urinology, the study or science of urine; urinomancy, divination (cf -mancy) by urine.

uro- (1). See -ura.

uro- (2); before a vowel, ur-: Gr our(o)-, c/f of ouron, urine: cf URINE. Exx: uromancy=urinomancy, q.v. at urini-; urology, the Med Sci of urine.

-urous. See -ura.

ursi-: from L ursus, f ursa, a bear—cf Ursa Major, Dr Johnson, and the adj ursine (L ursinus), bearish; ursus (-sa) is akin to Gr arktos and to several words in Av, Skt, Arm. Ex: ursiform, bear-shaped.

-urus. See -ura.

usu-: L ūsū, based on ūsū, the abl of the n ūsus, use: see use. Exx: usucapion, from L ūsū-capiō (gen ūsūcapiōnis), from ūsūcapere, to acquire (capere, to take) by use (ūsū), esp by long use; usufruct, from LL ūsūfructus, from L ūsus fructus (enjoyment, or fruit, of use), perh from ūsus et fructus, use and enjoyment (thereof), fructus (see FRUIT) deriving from frui, to enjoy.

uter(o)-: for An and Zoo uterus, womb, adopted from L uterus, womb, but also abdomen or belly, akin to Skt udara. Exx: ('the womb') uterolith (cf -lith at -lite) and uterotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

utopo-: for Utopia, as in utopographer, one who describes (cf -grapher at -graph) a UTOPIA.

utri-: from L uter (gen utris), a leather bottle or, occ, bag, perh akin to Gr hudria, a water-jar (cf hydro-). Ex: utriiform, shaped like a leather bottle. Cf utricle, a little sac, a vesicle, from L utriculus, dim of uter. Cf:

utricull-, utriculo-: from L utriculus (see prec) and, utriculo-, for E utricle. Exx: utriculiferous, bearing—or producing—utricles; utriculoplasty (cf -plasty at -plasia).

uvi-; uvulo-: from ML ūva, L ūva (s ūu-), a grape, perh akin to Gr oiō or oa, a service tree, and therefore to YEW; (uvulo-) from ūvula (the ML dim of ūva, ML ūva), the An uvula. Exx: uvitonic (acid); uvulotomy, the removal (cf -tomy at -tome) of the uvula.

vacci-; vaccini-, vaccino-: all three for E vaccine; the 1st, however, properly denotes 'a cow' or 'cows' and comes from ML vacca, a cow: cf VACCINATE. Exx: vaccicide, the killing of a cow (or of cows), but vaccigenous, vaccine-producing; vaccinifer (cf -fer), a person—or an animal—that constitutes a source of vaccine; vaccinophobia, a dread of vaccine or of vaccination.

vacuo-: for E vacuum, as in vacuometer. Cf VACANT. The rare vacue- occurs only in vacuefy (cf -fy), to create a vacuum; the word owes its form to ML vacuefacere, L uacuefacere, to empty.

vagi-: for E vague, as in vagiform, vague of form.

vagini-, vagin(o)-: for 'the vagina', as in vagino(-)fixation, or for 'vaginal and', as in vaginiculous (cf -colous), exemplifying 'sheath', the lit meaning of ML vāgina, L uāgina, and in vagino(-)abdominal (An sense).

vago-: for Med 'the vagus nerve', from ML vagus (L uagus), wandering, errant, s uag-, as in uagāri to wander: cf VAGRANT. Ex: vagatomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

vale-: -valencia-, -valent: resp the imperative, 'Be well!' of ML valēre, L ualēre (s ual-), to be strong or well; -valence, end-c/f of valence, from L ualens (ML valens), being strong, well, of the value of, whence, via the o/s ualenti-, ML valent-, comes the adj valent, whence -valent. Exx: valediction and valedictory (adj), suggested by ML valedictum (L uale-), the supine of valedicere, to say farewell, lit 'to say "Be well" '; equivalence, ML aequivalentia (cf equi-) and univalence (uni-+-valence); equivalent, LL aequivalens (o/s -ualenti-), pp of aequivalēre, to have equal power, and ambivalence, ambivalent (ambi-+-valence, -valenti), (the) having complementary and opposite characteristics.

Cf VALUE.

valer(o)-: for E valerian (adj valeric), a plant and the calmative drug therefrom: ML valeriāna, from ML valēre (L ual-), to be strong: cf prec. Ex: Chem valerolactone.

valvi-, valvo-; valvul(o)-: 1st, 2nd, for E valve. 3rd, for E valvula, a little valve, ML valvula, L ualiuula, dim of ualua, ML valva, leaf or fold of door. Exx: valviferous, having (cf -ferous at -fer) valves or a valve; valvotomy (cf -tomy at -tome); valvulotomy.

vanadl-, vanad(o)-: for the Chem element vanadium, itself from Vanad(is), another name for the Norse goddess Freya+suffix -ium. Exx: vanidiferous (cf -fer); vanadosilicate.

vapo-; vapori-; vaporo-: resp for E vapo(u)r, as in vapography (in photography); ML vapori-, L uapori-, c/f of uapor, vapo(u)r, as in vaporific (cf -fic), vapo(u)r-producing; for E vapo(u)r, as in vaporograph (in photography: cf -graph).

vari-; vario-: both from ML varius, L uarius (s uar-), diverse: cf VARIETY. Exx: varicolo(u)red and variometer.

varic(o)-: for Med varix, from L uarix (s uar-), a dilated vein, perh akin to L uarus (s uar-), a blotch on the skin: cf VARICOSE. Ex: varicotomy (cf -tomy at -tome).

varioli-, variolo-: for Med variola, smallpox: ML term, from ML varius, L uarius, in nuance 'spotted'. Exx: varioliform, like smallpox; variolo(-)vaccine.

vario-. See vari- vascul-, vascul(o)-: for ML vāsculum, L uāsculum, dim of uās, a vessel, a VASE. Ex: vasculiform and vasculo(-)genesis. Cf:

vasi-, vas(o)-: for Med vas, a vessel, a duct, L uās, a vessel, a vase: cf VASE. Exx: vasiferous (cf -ferous at -fer) and vasomotor.

vati-: from ML vātes, L uātes (gen uātis; s uāt-), a soothsayer, a prophet, adj uāticus, E vatic; cf Gaulish pl ouateis (s ouat-). Ex: vaticide (cf -cide at -cidal), a prophet-slayer or a prophet-slaying. Cf vaticinate, to prophesy, from ML vāticinātus (L uāti-), pp of vāticināri, to prophesy; L uāticināri may be a cpd of uāri- (for uātes) + -cināri, from canere, to sing or to chant.

vegeti-, vegeto-: for 'vegetable (and)', as in vegetivorous, vegetable- or vegetation-eating, and vegeto(-)mineral.

veli-: from ML vēlum, L uēlum, a veil, a sail: cf REVEAL. Exx: veliferous, veligerous.

veloci-; velo-: both from ML vēlōx, L uēlōx, rapid; the former from the o/s uēlōc-, the latter irreg from uēlo(x): cf VELOCITY. Exx: velocipede, an early bicycle (or tricycle), cf -pede at -ped; velodrome, F vélodrome (cf -drome, a course).

veneni-; veneno-: from ML venēnum, L uenēnum, poison: cf VENOM. Exx: venenific (cf -fic), poison-producing; veneno(-)salivary.

venereo-: for venereal (disease), as in venereology. Cf VENERY, whence the c/f veneri-, as in Bot veneriform.

veni-, veno-: from ML vēna, L uēna, a vein: cf VEIN. Exx: venipuncture and venotomy (cf -tomy at -tome). Cf -venose, -venous, end-c/ff of venose, venous, veiny, as in reticulatovenose, having netlike veins, and 'an intravenous injection'.

venti-, vento-: from ML ventus, L uentus, wind:

of WIND. EX: ventifact, a stone shaped or polished by wind-driven sand, cf -fact; ventometer, a wind-gauge.

ventri-; ventro-: ML ventri-, L uentri-, c/f of uenter (gen uentris), the belly; ventro-, an An and Med c/f from ML venter, adj ventrālis (L u-), whence E ventral; perh akin to L uterus, belly, womb. EXX: VENTRILOQUIST (a speaker from the stomach), ventripotent (large-bellied; gluttonous); ventrotomy; ('ventral and') ventrodorsal, of or for belly and back.

ventricosō-: for ventricose, having a (large) belly. Cf prec.

ventriculo-: for L, and E An and Zoo, ventriculus, dim of uenter (L uenter: see ventri-). EX: ventriculoscopia (cf -scopy at -scope).

ventro-. See ventri-.

vera-. See veri-.

verbi-; verbo-: ML verbi-, L uerbi-, c/f of uerbum, word; verbo-, irreg for verbi-: cf WORD. EXX: verbigerate, (Med) senselessly to repeat a word, from L uerbigeratum, supine of uerbigerāre, to chatter; verbomania.

vergi-: for E verge, a rod, as in vergiform, rod-like.

veri-: ML vēri-, L uēri-, c/f of uērus (s uēr-), true: cf VERY. EXX: veridic, truthful, L uēridicus (dīcere, to say); VERIFY; verisimilitude (adj -udinous), from L uērisimilitūdō, from stmilis—cf SIMILAR. The rare and irreg vera- occurs in verascope.

vermi-: ML vermi-, L uermi-, c/f of uermis, a worm: cf WORM. EXX: vermicide, a worm-killer (cf -cidal); vermiform; vermigerous (cf -gerous at -ger), infested with, or merely having, worms. The dim uermiculus yields the c/f vermicult-; the subsidiary vermini- stands for VERMIN.

verruci-: for E verruca, a wart (adj verrucose, L uerrucōsus), from L uerrūca, perh akin to Skt vārṣman-, summit. EX: verruciferous, wart-producing.

versi-: ML verst-, L uersi-, c/f of uersus, a verse (cf VERSE), but occ from L uersāre freq of uertere (pp uersus), to turn. EXX: versicoid(u)r, colour-changing, colour-changed or variegated, L uersicolor (uersare+color); versify, to make (cf -fy) verses; versiform, LL uersiformis, varying—or varied—in shape; versipel, a form-changing creature, e.g. the werewolf, from L uersipellis, skin-changer (L pellis, s pel(l)-, skin).

vertebr-, vertebr(o)-: for Med E and ML vertebra, L uertebra, a segment of the spinal column, from uertere, to turn: cf VERTEBRATE. EXX: vertebriform; vertebrectomy (cf -ectomy) and vertebrocostal (cf -costal).

verti-: ML verti- (L uert-), c/f of vertere, L uertere (s uert-), to turn, as in verticordious, heart-turning or-changing; but also for vertical, as in vertimeter. Cf VERTICAL and:

vertico-: for An vertex, the top of the head, L uertex (q.v. at VERTICAL). EX: vertico-mental (L mentum, the chin).

vesico-: from ML (and An) vēsica, L uēsica, a bladder, the bladder, akin to Skt vastās, the bladder; IE r, uās-* or uēs-*. EXX: ('vesica') vesicotomy; ('vesical and') vesico(-)spinal. The dim vesicula yields c/f vesicul(o)-, as in vesiculectomy (cf -ectomy at -some).

vestibulo-: for An vestibule (L uestibulum); as in vestibulo(-)spinal.

vestri-: for vestry, as in vestrify, to make (cf -fy) a vestry of.

vi-. See vice-.

via-: ML via, L uia, a way, a road: cf VIA. EXX: viaduct after aqueeduct; viagraph; viameter.

vibro-: from L uibrāre, ML vibrāre (s vibr-), to vibrate: cf VIBRATE. EX: vibroscope, an instrument for tracing or observing (-scope) vibrations.

vice-, 'in the place of', hence 'subordinate to': L uice (ML vice), abl of uicis, a turn, a change: cf VICARIOUS. EXX: vice-admiral, -chancellor.

viginti-: ML vīgintī-, L uīgintī-, c/f of uīgintī, twenty, akin to Skt visaiti. EX: viginti(-)angular, from LL uīgintiangularis, 20-angled.

vili-: ML vili-, L uili-, c/f of uilis, cheap: cf VILE. EXX: vilify, to cheapen, to debase, to defame, from LL uilificāre (cf -fy and -fic), the n being vilification; vilipend, to hold cheap, to speak slightingly of, from MF-F vilipender, from L uilipendere (? for ni(h)li pendere, to weigh as nothing), the adj being vilipendio y.

villi-: from ML villus, L uillus, shaggy hair, a tuft of hair: cf VELVET. EX: villiform.

vini-, vino-: ML vini-, L uini-, c/f of uinum (s uin-), wine; vino-, from ML vinum, L uinum. See WINE. EXX: viniculture, vinometer (for determining the purity and strength of wine); vinology, a study of the grapevine (secondary sense of L uinum: cf VINE).

viperi-: for viper, as in viperiform, viper-like.

-vir, -virate; vir-: resp from L -uir, ML -vir, terminal c/f of uir, a man, as in E decemvir, from L decemuiri, the ten magistrates (lit men); from L -uirātus, ML -virātus, as in triumvirātus, government by three men (the triumvirī); and (uir-) from L uiri- (ML vir-), c/f of uir (gen uiris), as in LL uiripotens (gen -potentis), whence E viripotent, (of a girl) fit for marriage.

virid(i)-: from ML viridis, L uiridis, green; cf VERDANT. EX: viridigenous, green(ness)-producing.

viru-: for Med virus, poison characterizing a disease, from ML virus, L uirus, slimy liquid: cf VIRUS. EX: virucide, something that destroys virus.

visceri-, viscer(o)-: for viscera, pl of ML viscus (gen visceris), L uiscus (pl uiscera), an internal organ. (See VISCERA.) EXX: visceri-pericardial; visceromotor (adj), causing activity in the viscera.

visco- or viscosi-: for E viscosity, a slimy stickiness (ML viscositas, from LL uiscōsus): cf VISCID. EXX: viscometer or viscosimeter.

visuo-: from ML visus, L uisus (gen uisūs), vision: cf visual at VISIBLE. EX: visuometer, an instrument for the measurement of vision; ('visual and') visuo(-)auditory, of sight and hearing.

vita-: from ML vita, L uita (s vit-, r vi-), life akin to uiuere, ML viuere, to live: cf VITAL. Exx: viatroscope, a motion-picture projector. Cf vito-.

vitamino-: for vitamin(s), as in vitaminology.

vitelli-, vitello-: from ML vitellus, L uitellus, the yolk of an egg, prob akin to L uita, life; vit(a)+dim -ellus, -a, -um. Exx: vitelligenous, yolk-producing (cf -genous at -gen); vitellogene (cf -gene at -gen).

vid-: ML viti-, L uiti-, c/f of uitis, ML vitis, a vine, esp the grapevine, perh akin to uière (s ui-), to curve, bend, weave. Exx: viticulture, grape-growing—cf viniculture at vin- above; vitiferous, L uitifer, cf -ferous at -fer.

vitt(o)-: irreg from ML vita, L uita, life; denoting 'vital, organic', as in vitochemic(al). Cf vita-.

vitreo-; vitri-; vitro-: 1st, for E vitreous, ML vitreus (L uitreus), glassy, from ML vitrum (L uitrum), glass; 2nd, 3rd, the latter irreg, from vitrum. Exx: vitreo(-)electric; vitriify (cf -fy), to render, or to become, glass or like glass; vitrophyte (cf -phyte), a glassy rock that resembles porphyry. Cf VITRIOL.

vivi-: ML vivi-, c/f of vivus (s viv-), alive, L uiuus, c/f uiui-; cf uiuere (ML viuere), to be alive, and vita- above. See VIVID. Exx: vivify (cf -fy), from LL uiuificāre, whence the n uiuificātiō (gen uiuificātiōnis), E vivification; viviparous, ML vivi-parus, L uiuiparus, bringing forth (cf -parous at -para) living young; vivisection, adopted from F: vivi-t-section, a cutting; vivisepture, the practice of burying people alive.

voci-: ML vōci-, L uōci-, c/f of uōx (ML vōx), voice: cf VOICE. Exx: vociculture, training of the voice; vociferate, ML vociferātus, L uōcificerātus, pp of uōciferāri, to cry out loudly, lit 'to carry the voice', to make it carry, -ferāri coming from ferre, to bear, to carry; L n, uōciferātiō, ML v-(gen vōciferātiōnis), E vociferation; vociferous, F vocifere+E suffix -ous.

volcano-. See vulcano-.

volta-: for voltaic (adj of VOLT), as in voltameter, voltammeter, voltaplast (cf -plast at -plasia).

volumeno-; volu-; volumo-: 1st, irreg for ML volūmen (L uolūmen); 2nd, 3rd, very irreg for E volume: cf VOLUME. Exx: volumenometer, volumeter, volumometer, all in Phys.

voluti-: for volute, a spiral, as in volutiform.

vomero-: for E vomer, the ploughshare bone in the skull of most vertebrates, from ML vōmer, L uōmer (refashioned from uōmer-, o/s of uōmis, gen uōmeris), a ploughshare, r uōm-, perh akin to the syn Gr unnis. Ex: vomero(-)nasal.

-vora, -vore, -vorous: the ML -vorus, c/f of vorāre, L uorāre (s uor-), to devour (cf DEVOUR), yields -vorous, which denotes 'eating'; the L neupl carniuora yields SciE carnivora, the orders and genera of the carnivores or flesh-eating animals (cf carni-, 'flesh-'), which owes something to F carnivore, adj and, derivatively, n.

Exx: herbivora, herbivore, herbivorous: cf herbi-.

vortici-: for E vortex; cf VORTEX. Ex: vorticiorm, shaped like a vortex.

voto-: for n vote, as in votometer.

vulcano-; volcano-: the latter, from E volcano, It volcano, earlier vulcano, from Vulcano, Vulcan, whence vulcano-: cf VOLCANO. Exx: volcanology, vulcanology, the science of volcanoes.

vulni-: ML vulni- (L uulni-), c/f of vulnus (L uulnus), a wound; cf VULNERABLE. Ex: vulnific (cf -fic), ML vulnificus, L uulnificus, wound-causing.

vulpi-: c/f of ML vulpes (L uulpes, s uulp-), a fox: cf WOLF. Ex: vulpicide (cf -cide at -cidal), a fox-killer, a fox-killing.

vulvi-, volvo-: from ML vulva, L uuluva, the external female genitals, akin to L uoluere (ML volvere), to wind, turn, roll, the resp ss being uulu- and uolu-: cf INVOLVE. Exx: vulviform, shaped as a cleft oval with projecting lips; volvo(-)crural.

[-ward, -wards. See the suffix -ward(s), and esp WARD.]

[-wise. See the suffix -wise, and esp WISE, n.]

xanthin(o)-; xanth(o)-: the latter=Gr xanth(o)-, c/f of xanthos, yellow, fair, s xanth-, prob akin to L cānus (s cān-), grey-haired, and to OHG hasan, grey, hence to E HARE; xanthin(o)- stands for Chem xanthin and xanthine, both, via Chem suffixes -in, -ine, from xanthos. Exx: xanthinuria, (Med) the (excessive) presence of xanthine in urine; xanthochroid (cf -chroid at -chroid), of persons having very fair, or yellow, hair and fair complexion; xanthogenic (cf -genic at -gen) producing yellow; Xanthorrhoea, a genus of Australian plants, resembling aloes, 'so named from the yellow gum which it exudes' (Webster)—cf -rrhoea.

-xene, -xenous, -xeny; xeno-: resp from Gr xenos, (s xen-), a stranger, a guest, a foreigner; from Gr -xenos, adj c/f of xenos; from Gr -xenia, c/f of xenia, hospitality, from xen(os)+abstract suffix -ia; Gr xen(o)-, c/f of xenos, perh akin to L hostis, a stranger, an enemy. Exx: pyroxene (cf pyro-), a mineral not native to igneous rocks, with adj pyroxenous; lipoxeny (cf lipo-), i.e. the abandoning, by a parasitic fungus, of its host; xenogamy (cf -gamy at -gam), in Bot, cross-fertilization; xenomania, a craze for foreigners or for foreign art, literature, goods—cf philoxeny, hospitality, esp to strangers, Gr philoxenia, and xenophobia, hatred and fear of foreigners.

xer(o)-: Gr xer(o)-, c/f of xeros (or xēros), dry, parched; IE r, perh kse-* or ksa-*, cf Skt ksáyati, he or it burns, and ksárás, burning. Exx: LL—hence E—xeromyron, Gr xērómuron, a dry ointment (muron, ointment); xerophagy (cf -phagy at -phaga), LL xērōphagia (adopted from Gr xērōphagia), dry-eating, i.e. of food other than juicy (meat); Bot xerophilous (cf -philous at -phil), drought-resisting (lit, -loving).

xiphi-, xiph(o)-: the former, from L xiphias, a swordfish, from Gr xiphias, from xiphos (s xiph-), a sword, with c/f xiph(o)-, adopted by E: cf XIPHIAS. Exx: xiphiform, resembling a swordfish; (xipho-, 'sword') Xiphodon (cf -odon, -tooth), and xiphophyllous, (of plants) with sword-shaped leaves; (xipho-, 'xiphoid', Gr xiphoidēs, sword-shaped: eidōs, shape, form) An xiphocostal, of the xiphoid process and the ribs (-costal).

xylo-; xylon or -xylum: resp Gr xul(o)-, c/f of xulon, wood, s xul-, with IE r perh x(e)u-* or ks(e)u-*; Gr -xulon, terminal c/f, rendered by ScIL as -xylum. Exx: Haematoxylon (cf haemato- at haema-); Erythroxyllum (cf erythro-); xylobalsamum, L transliteration of Gr xulobalsamon (cf BALSAM)—xylography, wood-engraving—xylophone, a wood instrument in music (cf -phone, Gr phōnē, a sound). The rare xyle- occurs in Zoo Xyleborus, wood-eating beetles, from Gr xulēboros.

xyr(o):- from Gr xuron (s xur-), a razor, cf xureō (s xur-), I shave: prob echoic of the scraping noise. Ex: xyrichthys, a razor fish (Ir ichthus, a fish).

-ydatis: Gr -hudatis, c/f of hudatis, a watery vesicle, from hudōr (gen hudatos), water: cf HYDRANT. Ex: blepharydatis (cf blepharo-), a vesicle that affects the eyelid.

-yl: F -yle, from Gr hulē (s hul-), wood, (hence) material: cf hyl(o)-. Used only for Chem, esp univalent radicals, as in carbonyl (cf CARBON) and ethyl (cf ETHER). Cf -ylene: -yl+Chem suffix -ene.

-ymenitis=hymen(o)-, q.v. above+suffix -itis.

ypsili-: irreg for Gr hupsilon (s hupsil-) as a capital letter—Y. Ex: ypsiliiform (cf -form), shaped like capital hupsilon.

yttri-; ytthro-: for yttrium, a metallic element, from Ytterby, in Sweden+Chem suffix -ium. Exx: yttriferous (cf -ferous at -fer), yttrium-producing; Min ytrocraasite (ytthro+Gr krasis+Min suffix -ite).

Yugo-. See Jugo-.

zanclo-: from Sicilian Gr zanklon (ζάγκλον) a sickle; as in Zanclodon (cf -odon)—a Pal genus of dinosaurs.

zanth(o):- incorrect for xanth(o);- as in Zanthorrhiza (zantho+Gr rhiza, a root).

zelo-, as in zelotypia, a morbid zeal, Gr zēlotypia, rivalry: cf ZEAL.

-zemia: from Gr zēmia (s zēm-), loss; as in sialozemia (cf sialo-), loss or lack of saliva.

zeno-: from Gr Zēnos, gen of Zeús, Zeus, Jupiter; in E it denotes the planet Jupiter, as in zenocentric (cf -centric at centri-) and in zenography (-graphy at -graph), a description of the planet Jupiter; cf Zenobia, which=Zeno+-bia, f of -bios, c/f of bios, life.

zeo-: from Gr zeō, I boil, s ze-, akin to OHG iesan, MHG jesen (Mod G gären), to ferment, and Skt yásyati, he boils. Ex: zeolite (cf -lite), a hydrous silicate.

zeucto-; zeuglo-: from Gr zeuktos, joined, pp of zeugnumí, I yoke or join, cf zygo-; (zeuglo-) from Gr zeuglē, loop or strap of a zeugos or yoke. Exx: Zeuctocoelomata (zeucto+koilōmata, pl of koilōma, a hollow); zeuglodont (cf -odont at -odon, -tooth), one of the Zeuglodonta—extinct toothed whales.

zinci-; zinco-: both, for E zinc; see ZINC. Exx: zinciferous, zinc-yielding (cf -ferous at -fer) and zincify (cf -fy, to render); zincography, printing (cf -graphy at -graph) on zinc plates.

zirconi-, zircono-; zirco-: the 3rd, a shortened form (as in zircofluoride: zirco(no)+fluor(o)+Chem -ide) of zircono-, of which, as in zirconiferous (cf -ferous at -fer), zirconi- is a var; zircono-, as in zirconofluoride, stands for zirconium (zircon+Chem -ium), a metallic element occurring in zircon, F var of F jargon, jargon, app via Port and Ar from Per zargūn, gold-coloured.

zo-, also as the prevocalic form of 2 zoo-; 3 zoe-, 4 zoido- or zoido-; 5 zoologico-;—6 -zoea, 7 -zoic, 8 -zoon: all ult from or intimately akin to zēn (ζῆν), to live—cf Skt jīvati, he lives: resp, 1, zo-, from Gr zōē (s zō-), life; 2, zoo-, Gr zōo- (prevocalic: zō-), c/f of zōion, an animal, lit a non-human 'living thing' (zō+neu suffix -ion); 3, zoe-, Gr zōē; 4, zoido- or zoido-, for zoid (end c/f -zoid) or, in full, zoid (end c/f -zoid), cpd of zo(o)+suffix -oid; 5, for zoologic(al); 6, -zoea, pl, from Gr zōia, pl of zōion, an animal; 7, -zoic, adj (-ic), c/f from zōion, animal, or from zōē, life; 8, -zoon, from zōion—cf 6.

Exx: zoösmosis (zo-, from zōē+-osmosis); zoanthropy (zo(o)+-anthropy, q.v. at anthropo-), lit 'man-as-animality', that delusion in which a person believes himself to be an animal and acts like one; zoehemera, lit 'the day of a life', a Pal animal's life-period (Gr hēmera, a day: cf hemero-); zoophilous (cf -philous at -phil) and zoidogamous (cf -gamous at -gam); zoologico(-)botanical; Protozoa, which, a Zoo phylum of animals (the protozoans), is strictly the pl of protozoon (cf proto-, first, earliest), with adj protozoic.

Cf ZOOLOGY.

zoni-; zon(o):- former, from L zōna, a zone, itself from Gr zōnē, a girdle, a belt worn around one's middle, with c/f zōn(o)-, whence E zon(o)-. See ZONE. Exx: zoniferous (cf -ferous at -fer), with a zone or zones; zono(-)skeleton. Cf zosteri-.

zoo-; -zoon. See zo-.

zosteri-; zostero-: the former, from E zoster, the disease shingles (herpes zoster), from L zōster, shingles, from Gr zōstēr, a girdle, (hence) shingles, akin to Gr zōnē, a girdle (cf zoni-); the latter, from Gr zōstēr. Exx: zosteriform, resembling herpes zoster (shingles); Zosterops, lit 'girdle-eye' (Gr ōps), the bird genus 'white-eyes'.

zyg(o); 2 zygato-; 3, -zygomatic, 4 -zygosis, 5 -zygote, 6 -zygous: all, ult, from Gr zugon (E zygon), a yoke or a crossbar, akin to L iugum (ML jugum) and E YOKER: resp, 1, Gr zug(o)-, c/f of zugon; 2, zygato-, for E zygote (Gr zugōtē, f of zugōtos, yoked, pp of zugōun, to yoke), a Bot cell formed by two gametes (Gr gamos, marriage) uniting, whence the end c/f -zygote; 3, -zygomatic, c/f of zygomatic, adj of zygoma (Gr zugōma, a yoke, a crossbar, a bolt or bar, from zugōn), as used in An; 4, -zygosis, c/f of zygosis (Gr zugōsis, a balancing, from zugon), Bot conjugation; 6, -zygous, Gr adj c/f -zugos, yoked.

Exx: zygodactyl (cf dactylio-), yoke-toed; zygotoblast (cf -blast); sphenozygomatic (cf spheno-); heterozygosis (cf hetero-) and heterozygote and heterozygous.

-zyme; zym(o)-: the former, for enzyme (MGr enzumos, leavened), a Biochem ferment; the latter, from Gr zumē, leaven, and, in Sci, denoting '(of or by or with) ferment'; zumē is perh akin to JUICE. Exx: cacozyme (cf caco-, bad); zymogen (F zymogène: cf -gen); zymology, the study of—or a treatise on—fermentation; zymoscope (cf -scope); zymurgy (cf -urgy at -urge), the practical chemistry of fermentation.

zyzzo-, in Zoo Zyzzogeton, a genus of leaf-hopping insects (cf -geton): extn of earlier Zyzza, perh from E, F, Sp zigzag, or the syn G Zickzack: prob, however, from Sp zis, zas! (zis-zas!), a var of zas, zas!, echoic of the impact of a blow, the ref being to the noise of these insects, which are allied to the cicadas.

ADDENDA

-amat. See -omat, below.

-ard. For this element-become-suffix, see Suffixes.

-burger, as in so many Am formations, derives from hamburger (p. 277) and rests upon the false division (hence upon a false analogy) ham-burger. This new element—rather than suffix—-burger is to be taken 'as meaning "sandwich with a round bun", and the base to which it is added may refer to its contents, to someone famous, or to whatever strikes the creator's whim', Stuart Robertson and Fredric G. Cassidy, The Development of Modern English, 2nd edition, 1954. Exx: cheeseburger, steakburger, Ikeburger (after President Eisenhower).

-omat, usu debased to -amat, derives, via the n automat, from automatic. Exx: laundromat, usu laundramat, an automatic laundry, and chinamat, for Chinomat, a penny-in-the-slot, chop-suey kind of restaurant.

-teria. 'From cafeteria we derive -teria and with cheerful indiscriminatio serveteria, gasateria, and so on' (Robertson and Cassidy, as above).

-torium. 'From auditorium we detach -torium and make lubritorium' (Robertson and Cassidy, as above).

ADDENDA TO DICTIONARY

abacus, an ancient (and, in some parts, current) Near Eastern calculating device, consisting orig of a board on which sand or dust was strewn for writing, hence for counting, then of a frame with sliding balls: L abacus, Gr abax, gen abakos: prob H or Phoenician abak (abak), sand, dust.

abbreviate, abbreviation. The former comes from ML abbreviātus, ex abbreviāre (L abbreviāre), from breuis; the latter was adopted ex F (itself, of course, from L). Cf BRIEF.

anent, about, concerning: ME anent, an easing of anenst: ME anen (cf again—against), OE on emn, from on efen, on even (ground with= beside; hence, touching)—cf dial anent, in line with, even with. See, f.a.e., the adj EVEN.

bairn, child, is the Sc form of ME-OE bearn, akin to ON, Go, OS barn and to OE beran, to bear: f.a.e., the 2nd BEAR.

baize: C17 bayze, C16–18 bayes, C16–17 baies, pl of bay: OF baie (? for etoffe baie): OF-F bai, bay-coloured: f.a.e., the adj BAY.

barnacle, shell-fish and wild goose: EF barnacle, the goose, ? influenced by F bernicle in its passage from EF bernaque (cf ME bernake): ML bernaca: o.o.o., but perh from Ir (and Ga) bairneach, a limpet, OC barennikā*: cf Cor brennygen, limpet, perh a dim of Cor bron, an udder, a breast.

'The connection of the two senses is due to the ancient superstition that the goose was hatched from shell-fish adhering to trees hanging over the water' (W).

berserk, to go; a berserker or berserk rage. A berserk or berserker is properly a Norse soldier fighting with a fury called 'the berserker rage'; hence, usually berserk, an adj: ON (Icelandic) berserkr, acc berserk: lit, prob 'bear-skin or -coat'. But baresark, adv.—'fighting in shirt only, i.e. armourless'—is precisely what it appears to be: in bare sark, i.e. with nothing over one's shirt.

blanket: AF blanquete: from F. blanc, white (f.a.e., BLANK)—prob influenced by MF blanquet, a white woollen material, F blanchet.

bloomer, orig. a complete suit for women, then (bloomers) a pair of loose trousers gathered at the knees, now often a loose, knee-length undergarment; bloomer named after Mrs Amelia Bloomer (1814–94), who did not invent it and who protested against the use of her name. It was, however, in her magazine, The Lily, that, at Seneca Falls, New York State, the new costume seems to have been first mentioned (DAE).

booth, orig. a shed or small house built of, boughs or boards: ME bothe: prob ex ODa bōth akin to ON būth, a hut, a dwelling, and búa, to dwell: f.a.e., the 2nd BOWER.

bridge (2), the card-game: earlier biritch, 'app. changed to bridge from the dealer's bridging, or passing, the declaration of trumps to his partner' (Webster): o.o.o.: 'prob. of Levantine origin, since some form of the game appears to have been long known in the Near East' (OED).

brimstone: late ME brimstan(e) or brimston(e), brynstan(e) or -ston(e): late OE brynstān: cf ON brennistein, sulphur, and MD-MLG bernsteen, amber. In short, 'burn-stone'; f.a.e., BURN and STONE.

bubonic plague—characterized by buboes (ML būbo, a swelling in the groin) or large inflamed swellings, esp. in the groin—derives from F bubonique, adj of MF-F bubon, perh prompted by the MGr adj boubōnikos: Gr boubōn, swelling in the groin: if we cf Gr bounos, a hill, we perh arrive at an IE r bou-, bū-, a swelling, a large swelling, a mound, a large mound. Cf:

bunion: o.o.o.: perh cf dial E bunny, a (small) swelling, esp. one caused by a blow—OF bugne, a swelling—and the edible E bun. If the comparison be correct, then compare bubonic.

enough, enow: the former from OE genōh, the latter from OE genōg; co-existent OE forms of what was orig an adj, itself from OE genēah, as is enough: cf Du genoeg and G genug, OHG adj ginuog(i), adv ginuog, and Go ganōhs: f.a.e., NEAR.

exotic: EF-F exotique: L exōticus: Gr exōtikos, coming from without, i.e. foreign: exō, outside: ex, out of. Cf exoteric, q.v. at ESOTERIC; f.a.e., ex- (1) in Prefixes.

fad, whence the hybrid n faddist and the adj faddish, faddy; faddle. Fad, a passing hobby or fashion, has been adopted from an English Midland dial: perh akin to the fat- of fatuous, q.v. at VAPID, para 1. Webster suggests that the n fad may derive from EF-F fadaise, from Prov fadeza, a folly, ult from L fatuus. The freq 'to faddle' or trifle comes from 'to fad', the v corresponding to n fad—although, to be frank, the n may come from the v. 'To fad' has the redup 'to fiddle-faddle', which Whitehall prefers to regard as 'to fiddle' + 'to faddle'. In short, the nexus is as uncertain as the origin of fad itself.

fairy, adj, comes from the n, the individual from the collective (fairy folk, land of fairies, power of fairies, enchantment): late ME fairie, faerie, a fairy, in earlier ME fairy folk: OF-MF faerie, then feerie (EF-F féerie), fairy folk, enchantment: OF-MF fee (EF-F fee): VL fāta, f sing from the neu pl of L fātum, destiny: f.a.e., FATE.

farthingale. This EE-E, now archaic, word represents EF vertugale (or -galle), a var of EF verdugale: alteration of Sp verdugado, so named from the hoops of this hooped skirt: Sp verdugo, a young, green shoot: Sp verde, green: ML viridis: L uiridis: f.a.e., VERD.

fester, v from n: ME festre, a fistula: OF-MF festre: L fistula, a pipe, a flute (cf Gr surinx): o.o.o. flagon: ME flakon: MF-F flacon: MF flacon: LL flasco, o/s flascōn—Gmc flaska, whence also—perh as adaptation of It fiasca, of the same Gmc origin—EF-F flasque, whence E flask: f.a.e., perh FLY (pp. 505–507). Cf the ML flasca, whence the OE flasce (Dauzat; Whitehall). But the exact relationship of the It, F, OE-ME words is uncertain.

flask. See prec.

fluff, whence the adj fluffy, is app a mdfn of the syn flue, itself prob akin to VELVET.

former, adj: ME former, var of forme: OE forma, first. Cf the OE-ME formest, foremost: f.a.e., FORE, on p. 228, where cf FOREMOST.

gin (1), the drink. Unrecorded before 1714, it represents both a shortening and an alteration of geneva, which, first occurring in 1706, is a spirit that, made from grain, is flavoured with juniper berries, adapts Du genever but has been influenced by the place-name Geneva. Du genever comes from OF genevre, itself from L iūniperus, juniper. (For JUNIPER, see p. 324.)

guise. For the phrase 'in this (or that) guise', cf 'in this (or that) wise': see VIDE, para 9 on p. 779. Our guise has been adopted from OF-F guise, itself from Gmc wisa*, whence It guisa, whence, via OF desguisier, MF desguiser, the E 'to disguise', whence the n disguise.

inkling, a hint, hence a vague idea: vn from archaic E inkle, ME inle, to hint: perh a freq from OE inca, a suspicion.

ketchup (f/e catsup): Mal kěchap.

leisure: ME leysir: OF-MF leisir (n from v): L licēre: cf LICENCE. 'For formation from infinitive and change of suffix in E, of pleasure' (W).

lunch, luncheon. Lunch, as a (usu fairly light) midday meal, shortens luncheon. But both words, first recorded in C16, were orig. dial; and dial luncheon (or -ion), a large lump, esp of food, is an aug—prob influenced by the earlier, now dial, almost syn nuncheon—of lunch, a lump, itself app a dial var of lump: f.a.e., LUMP. The OED pertinently cfs bunch from bump and hunch from hump.

This E origin seems preferable to derivation from Sp lonja, a slice of meat.

midriff: OE midhrif (cf OFris midref): lit 'mid-belly'—OE midd, middle + hrif, belly.

pad (4), a road horse, an easy-paced horse for safe road-work, is derived by OED from PAD (1), a path or a road. OED may well be right. Yet I think that the origin lies in ED-D paard, a horse thus: paard becomes pard becomes, in pron, pahd, flattened, esp. in N and Midland E, to pad. C. PALFREY, and see my Adventuring among Words.f

phoney, meaning 'counterfeit, spurious, pretended', was little known, outside of North America, before American journalists, late in 1939, began to speak of 'the phoney war'. The word does not come from 'funny business', nor from telephone, nor yet from one Forney, an American jeweller specializing in imitation ware, but, via American phoney man, a pedlar of imitation jewellery, from its original, the English fawney man, itself an adaptation of the British fawney cove, one who practises 'the fawney rig' or ring-dropping trick, involving a gilt ring passed off as gold and first described by George Parker in A View of Society, 1781. The key-word is the British underworld fawney, a finger-ring, a word brought to England by Irish confidence tricksters and deriving from the synonymous Irish fáinne. It was probably the Irish who introduced the word into the United States. (See Adventuring among Words.)

The variant phony was suggested by the variant fawny.

scalp, orig 'crown of head; skull': ME scalp prob of Scan origin (cf ON skalpr, a sheath) an; perhaps, as EW proposed, a contraction of SCALLOP.

sceptic, whence sceptical; scepticism (cf the F scepticisme); Am spellings, sk-.

The n sceptic, like the discarded adj sceptic, derives imm from EF-F sceptique, adj, whence also n, from L scepticus, Gr skeptikos, akin to skepsis, a considering, hence a doubt, itself akin to skeptesthai, to look carefully at, to consider: the r is clearly skep-, akin to the skop- of Gr skopein, to view: for the IE framework, therefore, see SCOPE (p. 595).

scimitar. The EE cimitarie (or -erie) or semiterie or cimter (or -ar) comes from the late MF-F cimeterre (EF var cimi-): medieval It cimitara (It scimitarra), which, like the Sp cimitarra, presumably derives, sem, from Turkey, and prob—despite the phon difficulties, for there may have been f/e 'interference'—does derive, as B & W hold, from Tu (and Per) šimšir or šemsir, pron shim-sheer or shem-sheer.

sister prob derives, not from OE sweostor but, as ME sister, from ON systir. The predominant OGmc forms have sw-; cf OS and OHG swestar, MHG swester (G Schwester), OFris swester, Go swistar. The OGmc r swestr-* is an extn of IE swesr-* or suesr-*: cf OSl (and Ru) sestra, L soror for suesor* or perh sosor*, the OL var seror, SI svásd, s svásar; in the C forms, e.g. OIr siur, gen sethar—W chwaer—Br and Cor choar; Arm khoyr; Gr voc eor, for heor*, nom heōr*, with the characteristic IE alternation of h and s.

The IE etymon is perh swesor* (swes*, one's own + sor*, female); with epenthetic -t-, this becomes swestor*.

But IE swesor* is more prob swes, one's own + the agential -or or -er (cf the 3rd -or: Suffixes): in short, not a cpd but a simple, in line with all other family-relationship words (father, mother, son, daughter, brother): as it were, 'one's own agent': mother's help, father's joy, brother's ally, sister's companion. See Adventuring among Words for a development of this argument.

sturdy: late ME stourdi, sturdi: OF-MF estourdi, esturdi, stunned, dazed, hence (?) reckless, violent, pp of estourdir, to stun or daze: o.o.o., but cf It stordito, from stordire, derived by Prati from tordo, a foolish fellow.

syllabub is a var of sillabub, q.v. at SILLY, para 2.

syndic, hence (via F) syndical, whence (via F syndicalisme) syndicalism; syndicate, n and v. Syndic: EF-F syndic (MF sindiz): L syndicus, a town's delegate or advocate: Gr sundikos, a defendant's advocate: sun, with +dikē, a judgement. The n syndicate (EE): late MF-F syndicat, a syndic's function, hence (mid C19) a group of workers united to defend their own interests, finally the sense and nuances in which, now, we mostly use it. The v 'to syndicate' app comes into EE, not from the n but from ML syndicātus, pp of syndicare.

taxi; taxicab; taximeter. Taxi, the conveyance, shortens taxicab (still used in formal contexts): taxicab shortens taximeter cab, a cab fitted with a 'clock' or meter: taximeter cab, or taximeter motor cab, was prompted by F taximètre (a correction, made c 1906, by the F scholar Th. Reinach, of the barbarous earlier taxamètre, itself from G Taxameter: cf the E taxameter, used for some years before taximeter displaced it)—which orig designated the meter, then almost immediately the cab itself. (Dauzat.) The word taximeter is a cpd of Gr taxis, a tax + F mètre, meter or 'measurer'.

wombat, a burrowing Aus marsupial: Sydney-hinterland Aboriginal wombach or -back or -bat, with occ varr woomback and (? aberrant) womat.

What is the etymological connection between pain and punishment?

What is the linguistic origin of the zebra?

This etymological dictionary gives the origins of some 20,000 items from the modern English vocabulary, discussing them in groups that make clear the connections between words derived by a variety of routes from originally common stock.

As well as giving the answers to questions about the derivation of individual words, it is a fascinating book to browse through, since every page points out links with other entries. It is easy to pursue such trails as the longer articles are written as continuous prose clearly divided up by means of numbered paragraphs and subheadings, and there is a careful system of cross-references.

In addition to the main A-Z listing, there are extensive lists of prefixes, suffixes, and elements used in the creation of new vocabulary.

Eric Partridge (1884–1979) was the author of some three dozen books, mainly on aspects of the English language. Of them all he regarded Origins as his greatest achievement.

Origins

AN ETYMOLOGICAL DICTIONARY OF MODERN ENGLISH

REFERENCE/ETYMOLOGY

 Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

www.routledge.com

ISBN 978-0-415-47433-7

9 780415 474337

07995

9 780415 474337

SKU:9780415474337 $79.95

ORIGINS

43 99

11/23/11 PART

an informa business