BART'S TOP 40

1. My moral compass, Mr. Herschel Krustofski—aka Krusty the Clown.
2. Skeleton keys.
3. Finding change in coin returns.
4. "*67"—the code that disables Caller I.D.
5. Televised police chases.
6. The easygoing "free sample" lady at Try 'N' Save who doesn't mind many happy returns.
7. My trusty slingshot.
8. The classic cherry Squishee.
9. The killer combination of model rockets, action figures, and kite string.
10. Getting full-sized candy bars while Trick or Treat-ing.
11. That awesome millisecond of weightlessness when Otto catches air driving the bus over the dip on Elm Street.
12. Writing in wet cement.
13. Watching fireworks from the roof.
14. School assemblies.
15. Staying home sick from school when you're not actually sick.
16. A perfectly executed ollie.
17. Rusty, creaky carnival rides run by surly dudes in wife-beater T-shirts.
18. Animated holiday specials.
19. All you can eat anything.
20. Waking up at 7 A.M. ready for school, and realizing it's Saturday.

21. Comic book conventions.
22. Radioactive Man #628: The ish where Radioactive Man uses the sun as a weapon against the Cosmic Commander, shouting, "Have a ball--of incomprehensibly hot nuclear energy!" (Genius! You can't make that stuff up!)
23. Ice cream on a hot summer day.
24. Ice cream on a freezing day.
25. Ice cream on a room-temperature day.
26. The flying monkeys in "Wizard of Oz" (Actually, pretty much monkeys in general).
27. Phlegm (also on my Bottom 40).
28. Clueless substitute teachers.
29. Seeing people mistake wasabi for guacamole.
30. The "Krusty's Kut-Out Classics" DVD clip where a hot studio light falls on Sideshow Bob's head, causing his hair to burst into flames.
31. The beloved cartoon violence of "Itchy & Scratchy."
32. Making Milhouse laugh hard enough to make milk shoot out of his nose.
33. Snow forts.
34. Watching televised surgery during supertime.
35. The triple deck, fat-fried, Jumbo Joke Funny Meal with medium seltzer at Krustyburger.
36. When Mom burns the salmon croquettes and we get to eat #35.
37. Truckasaurus.
38. The annual field trip to the "Ah, Fudge!" factory.
39. Getting Skinner's goat.
40. Playing catch in the yard with Homer. (Don't tell him!)

BART FROM THE START

AGE:

MINUS 3 MONTHS

Still in womb, medical experts are surprised by Bart's apparent self-awareness. Many ultrasound moonings follow.

AGE: DAY ONE

After 53 hours of labor, baby Bart decides to come out. Mother Marge is exhausted; baby is alert and starting fires.

AGE: 6 MONTHS

Cast in commercials as "Baby Stinkbreath," Bart's early showbiz success/peak/decline further motivates him to seek negative attention. Nude clothesline swingings / keys, wallet, false teeth flushings follow.

AGE: 2

Marge is three months pregnant with Lisa. She recommends leaving small apartment/buying a house.

Homer recommends sending Bart to Romanian foreign exchange preschool.

AGE: 1 YEAR, 4 MONTHS

Bart able to pick locks, dismantle expensive Swiss clocks, chase babysitters with car. Chokings from Homer reach 500 milestone.

AGE: 1

Bart's first words are "Ay caramba!" when he catches parents naked in bed one night. Later, father Homer says it was a nightmare. Bart agrees.

AGE:

2 YEARS, 6 MONTHS

Lisa born. Bart invents activities for himself/new baby sister. Haircuts, glue in diapers, attempted overseas mailings ensue. Perplexed parents seek professional help—watch TV psychiatrist.

AGE: 3

Finally potty-trained, Bart sits on the toilet/ repeatedly states, "I'm a big boy!" Abashed, Homer must now find something new to say when he's on the toilet.

AGE: 5

Bart starts school/has initial positive outlook crushed by heartless teachers. Turns to humor/practical joking for attention. Lifetime of soy milk nose-squirtings begin for best friend Milhouse.

AGE: 4

Bart performs nightly shadow puppet shows for Lisa, becomes adept at imitating shapes of serpent, devil, goat. Songs of lament and rending of clothing heard from next-door neighbors.

AGE: 3 YEARS, 8 MONTHS

Bart finally warms to Lisa when her first spoken word is "Bart," then helps him raid cookie jar. Noogies, swirlies, Indian burns decrease.

AGE: 6

Bart discovers skateboarding. Simpsons' stairway becomes most dangerous place in the house. Marge takes first-aid correspondence course.

AGE: 7

Bart explores the wonders of spray paint. "El Barto" is born. Signs are altered; police remain baffled.

El Barto
Skinner
is a jerk!

AGE: 10

Bart's 10th year includes: falling down well, Knoxville road trip, credit card fraud, working for Krusty the Clown, insulting entire nation of Australia, and tailbone surgery. Marge says it seems like he's been ten forever.

AGE: 9

Bart inexplicably begins rash of wall punchings. Possible cause: family budgetary cutbacks, including switch to non-fluffy toilet paper.

AGE: 8

Long tradition of staying after school /writing on chalkboard commences. Writes "I'll never earn this punishment again" 100 times.

I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.
I'LL NEVER EARN THIS PUNISHMENT AGAIN.

LITTLE KNOWN FACT:

Bart's full name is Bartholomew Jojo Simpson.
He was born on April 1st, which explains a lot.

STUFF TO DO

by Bart Simpson

1. Trademark "El Barto."
2. Buy more spray paint.
3. Devise new and interesting ways to make Homer lose it.
4. Find new hiding spot for when Homer loses it.
5. Hide Lisa's saxophone.
6. TIVO "Itchy & Scratchy -athon."
7. Think of new catchphrases.
8. Devise new and interesting ways to manipulate Milhouse into doing my dirty work.
9. Practice being more incorrigible.
10. Put off doing homework.
11. Hide Lisa's Malibu Stacy dolls.
12. Get studio audience tickets for Krusty's show.
13. Be first kid in Springfield Elementary cafeteria history to dare to start food fight on Sloppy Joe Day.
14. Work on sass-back.
15. Fine-tune Principal Skinner impersonation.
16. Teach Maggie to spell dirty words with blocks.
17. Hide Lisa's homework.
18. Use the phrase "Blow this Tupperware party" more in conversation.
19. Call Moe's and ask for "G. I. Manidiot."
20. Learn to sleep with eyes open in class.
21. Hide Lisa's Happy Little Elves lunch box.
22. Make a life cast of my butt.
23. Enter butt sculpture in art show at school or make into lamp for Father's Day.
24. Hang out at Kwik-E-Mart.
25. Learn to burp the alphabet.
26. Finish writing underarm symphony.
27. "Find" Lisa's missing stuff. Collect reward.
28. Science experiment: Replace parmesan cheese in cafeteria with Groundskeeper Willie's barf-absorbent sawdust. (When kids throw up, will Willie's sawdust be able to absorb itself?)
29. Alter report card.
30. Get little red-haired girl to notice me. (No wait, that's on Charlie Brown's To-Do List.)
31. Convince Milhouse to let me hold his lunch money. Give it to Nelson instead of mine.
32. Publish my memoirs.
33. Pull the fire alarm.
34. Petition to make ice cream the fifth food group.
35. Put mothballs in the beef stew.
36. Hug Mom.

SEYMOUR SKINNER

PRINCIPAL, SPRINGFIELD ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Principal Skinner holds sway over Springfield Elementary's hallowed halls with an iron fist—if only in his mind. Frequent disciplinary visits to Skinner's office only inspire Bart to immortalize Skinner in rude graffiti by his notorious alter ego, El Barto. Yet, Principal Skinner clings to his dignity by dedicating himself to the most urgent of school challenges: revising and updating the school dress codes, planning the cafeteria lunch menu, and preventing the students from using their imaginations.

Quote: "Ah, 'Diorama-Rama,' my favorite school event next to 'Hearing-Test Thursday.'"

Loves: Fire drills, inflatable bath pillows, antiquing with Mother, and cafeteria Jell-O bricks with grapes in the center.

Member of: MENSA, The Be Sharps, the Springfield NRA, and the Head Lice Awareness Advisory Board.

Nicknames: Spanky and Skinny Boy.

Identifying marks: Metal plate in his butt (got it in 'Nam).

Heart's desire: Edna Krabappel, Bart's 4th grade teacher.

Telltale affliction: Hiccups when upset.

Viet Cong Internment Center Prisoner Number: 24601.

Literary endeavor: Wrote the dinosaur screenplay "Billy and the Clone-O-Saurus."

Trenchant commentary: "The shapely female form has no place in art."

WHAT CAN I SAY?
AS A VANDAL AND GRAFFITI
ARTIST, PRINCIPAL SKINNER
BRINGS OUT THE BEST IN ME.

EDNA KRABAPPEL BART'S 4TH GRADE TEACHER

Divorced and cynical, Edna Krabappel is more than qualified to teach 4th graders—and it shows. She guarantees her classroom conforms to the minimum educational standards mandated by the state—no more, no less. This leaves her free to sneak smokes during educational films, read personal ads during testing times, and slip away on Head Lice Inspection Day for her own private “cootie call” with Principal Skinner.

Quote: “Do what I mean, not what I say.”

Secret fear: Bart Simpson will be held back a grade.

Education: Master’s Degree in Gothic Psychology from Bryn Mawr.

Fund-raising innovations: Leasing classroom closet space to overcrowded prisons.

Turn-ons: Sailors on shore leave.

Hangout: “Turn Your Head and Coif” Beauty Salon.

Collects: Matchbooks from glamorous nightclubs and green cardigan sweaters.

Hobby: Grinding her teeth, smoking, and hockey.

Favorite snack: Chef Lonely Heart’s Soup for One.

Beverage of choice: Chateau Maison Wine on Ice.

Special romantic dessert: Applesauce.

LOVE REALLY
CHANGES YOU. WHEN
MRS. KRABAPPEL AND PRINCIPAL
SKINNER GOT TOGETHER, I WENT
FROM A GOOD-FOR-NOTHING TO A GO-BETWEEN IN JUST SECONDS.

MARTIN PRINCE

BART'S GENIUS CLASSMATE

Lute playing, tattle-telling, teacher's pet Martin Prince is the smartest kid in Bart's class and the quintessential nerd. Though he taught Bart the importance of adequate plant life to a study area in return for the secrets of slingshots and graffiti, he remains a constant irritant—on one occasion successfully lobbying to have the school day extended twenty minutes.

Quote: "The preferred spelling of wiener is "W-I-E-N-E-R" although E-I is an acceptable ethnic variant."

I.Q.: 216.

Celebrity impersonations: Ernest Hemingway, Phileas Fogg, Julia Child.

Martin's helpful hints: Put a pinch of sage in your boots and all day long a spicy scent is your reward.

Favorite magazine: Junior Skeptic.

Favorite video game: My Dinner with André.

Martin's "Did You Know?": The common box-kite was originally used as a means of drying wet string.

Shirt pocket: Never without a pen.

Number of swim trunks worn to avoid being pantsed: 17.

Pets: A Shar-pei, a guinea pig, and an asparagus fern named Copernicus.

IT'S GUYS LIKE
MARTIN WHO MAKE
THE REST OF US
FEEL NORMAL.

SHERRI & TERRI

BART'S TWIN CLASSMATES

From the matching bows in their hair to their lovely color coordinated frocks and shoes, Sherri and Terri dress alike. They walk, talk and mock alike. Sweetness and light on the outside, they delight in the misfortune of others, especially Bart, and do what they can to help it along. They love tormenting people by answering to each other's name. In fact, they have done this so often that even they are not sure which is which.

Quote: (Double word balloon) "I'm Sherri. She's Terri."

Nicknames: Terri and Sherri.

Secret desire: To be united in one body.

Secret fear: It might be too crowded in there.

Extra-curricular activities: Studying tap with Little Vicki Valentine, playing piccolo in the Springfield Elementary Band, repeatedly calling the Corey Hotline and hanging up.

Favorite games: Truth or Dare, Marco Polo, making faces at people behind their backs.

In the event of nuclear disaster: The fallout shelter has space for Sherri, but not Terri.

YOU DON'T WANT TO GET THEM
ON YOUR BAD SIDE.
THEY'LL SURROUND
YOU.

OTTO BUS DRIVER, SPRINGFIELD ELEMENTARY

Though frequently involved in random collisions, Otto remains true to the Bus Driver's Pledge: "Never crash the bus on purpose." He relates well to Bart, having spent three years in the 4th grade himself. They both share a fondness for comic books, heavy metal, and "sticking it to the man"—and neither sees much point in bathing.

Quote: "My name is Ot-to! I'm hot to trot-o!"

Identifying marks: Big Daddy Roth tattoo on butt.

Leisure pursuits: Snowboarding, bungee jumping, acid flashbacks.

Favorite music: Led Zeppelin, Black Sabbath's "Iron Man," Edgar Winters' "Frankenstein," and the soothing compilation "Songs to Enrage Bus Drivers."

Special skills: Air guitar, carnival Rocket Car ride operator, can fake his own death.

Heavy metal bands kicked out of: The Screechies, Dopey, The Unemployed, and Büssdryver.

Proud driving record: Fifteen crashes without a single fatality.

Otto's creed: A bus driver is truck-worthy, laid-back, healthful, surly, flirtatious, speedy, cool, raving, keen, and irreverent.

Pedigree: Father is an admiral; Mother is ashamed.

OTTO'S GOT
IT MADE. HE DRIVES
TO SPRINGFIELD ELEMENTARY
EVERY DAY, BUT HE NEVER HAS TO GO INSIDE.

GROUNDSKEEPER WILLIE

HEAD GROUNDSKEEPER, SPRINGFIELD ELEMENTARY

Conceived, born, and educated on a pool table in a tavern near Loch Ness, Groundskeeper Willie is an irascible shaggy-haired Scotsman with a huge reservoir of pent-up rage, which he vents constantly. At the faintest sign of trouble, he rips off his shirt and hurls his rippling muscular body into action. Despite an inability to wrangle a second date from anyone, Willie won't give up on romance—spending most of his free time videotaping couples in the privacy of their cars.

Quote: "Ach, yer nothin' but a bath-takin', underpants-wearin' lily-hugger!"

Secret shame: Father was hung for stealing a pig.

Claim to fame: Stole seven pigs in one night.

Turn-ons: Grease, wearing kilts, wrestling wolves, and Chewbacca.

Turn-offs: Cheese-eating surrender monkeys, creamed corn, and people who wear underwear.

Prized possession: His shovel, "Agnes."

Alternate profession: Substitute French teacher.

His secret obsession: British nanny Shary Bobbins.

Failed culinary venture: Chef Willie's Haggis Helper.

Musical accomplishments: An album of traditional Scottish pig-stealing songs entitled "Papa's Got a Brand-New Bagpipe."

Future plans: To build a security bog around his prize-winning heather, catch a leprechaun, and marry his tractor.

ONE WAY TO FIND OUT!

WHAT DOES MY FUTURE HOLD?

1. When you are picked on by the school bully, do you:

- Tell the principal?
- Tell the teacher?
- Hide in your locker?
- Attempt to distract him with witty repartee?

2. When the teacher asks if you have your homework, do you:

- Say: "Yes, ma'am, and I'd like to say that I found the subject quite fascinating and stimulating."

B. Say: "The dog ate it."

C. Say: "Homework? What homework?"

D. Attempt to distract her with witty repartee?

3. When called upon to read your book report, do you:

- Deliver a stirring account of Lee Iacocca's autobiography?
- Give a competent synopsis of Black Beauty?
- Summarize the latest issue of Radioactive Man?
- Bluff your way through Treasure Island?

6. REBELS WITHOUT A CAR - Back here you can horse around with impunity or just relax in a pulsating massage of potholes and speed bumps.

DEALING WITH THE INEVITABLE "HOW I SPENT MY SUMMER VACATION" REPORT

Assigning summer vacation stories is an easy out for teachers who haven't gotten their act together by the first days of school. Let's face it: They really don't care what you did, they're just trying to figure out what to do with you. So spice up their life if they're paying attention, and entertain the class if they're not. These stories usually come down to a case of one-upsmanship anyway, so go for broke. Make up something cool. For example, other students probably visited their grandmothers over the summer, but did they visit her... in prison!?

Sure, a few people went to camp.

But was their counselor Osama Bin Laden in disguise?

Take your everyday stories and elaborate.

Your classmates will thank you.

INVALUABLE FASHION TIP

Never, ever, let your mom go shopping for clothes without your direct supervision. Face it, by avoiding responsibility now, you're only setting yourself up for ridicule later.

If all else fails and your mom forces you to go to school looking like a geek, wear a T-shirt featuring the authority-baiting icon of your choice under your mom-approved outfit. Once you get to school, stash the geek clothes in your locker. (Hint: Remember to change back before you go home.)

I don't know which, per se.
But who cares, anyway?!*

Show and Tell! Show and Tell!

MELODIES

THE BATTLE HYMN OF THE BLACKBOARD

(to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic")

My hands were on the gradebook where the students' marks are stored.

The teacher burst upon the scene.

"Put down that book!" she roared.

Now I'm writing out these words one hundred times on the blackboard:

"I will not steal gradebooks."

Man, this task is disconcertin'.

Ow, my writing hand is hurtin'.

There is one thing that is certain:

I will not steal gradebooks.

I'VE BEEN WORKING ON MY HOMEWORK

(to the tune of "I've Been Working on the Railroad")

I've been working on my homework, while I watch TV.
I've been working on my homework, while I skateboard down the street.

Can't you hear the teacher calling,
"Your book report is due!"

"Here it is," I calmly answer, "All in one sentence, too."

"Here's my book report, here's my book report for you-ou-ou."

"Here's my book report, here's my book report,
All in one sentence, too."

THE SUPER-STRETCH WAISTBAND

(to the tune of
"The Star-Spangled Banner")

Oh, say, can you see,
through the trees over there,
what so proudly we pulled up the flagpole last Friday,
from the locker room grabbed,
leaving someone's butt bare,
when we fed the flag rope through the brand name tag sideways?

Up there blowing around,
a stretch waistband its crown,
you would think that by now,
they'd have taken it down.

Oh, say, does that underwear
still flap in the breeze,
o'er the classrooms, the schoolyard,
the parking lot and the trees?!

Annoy, Annoy, Annoy, Your Teacher

(to the tune of "Row, Row, Row, Your Boat")

*Annoy, annoy, annoy your teacher
By yelling her first name.
Emily! Emily! Emily! Emily!
You'll drive her insane.*

BART'S RECIPES FOR

#12 - THE FAST FOOD AND THE FURIOUS

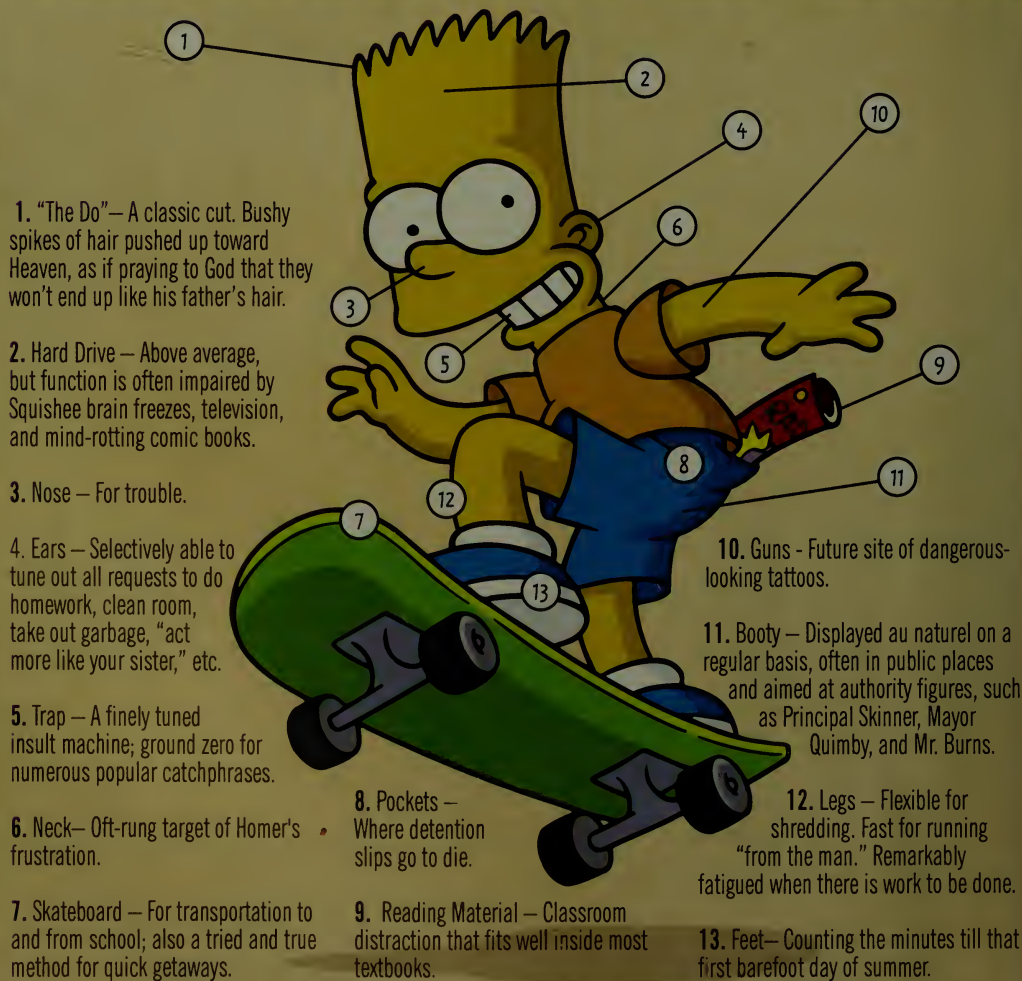

1. Call a fast food joint that sells chicken fingers.
2. Ask the unsuspecting minimum wage slave on the other end of the phone, "Do you have chicken fingers?"
3. When they answer "yes" say, "Well, it must hurt when you pick your nose!"
4. Laugh like a maniac and hang up.

TELEPHONE FUN

THE ANATOMY OF BART

1. "The Do" — A classic cut. Bushy spikes of hair pushed up toward Heaven, as if praying to God that they won't end up like his father's hair.

2. Hard Drive — Above average, but function is often impaired by Squishee brain freezes, television, and mind-rotting comic books.

3. Nose — For trouble.

4. Ears — Selectively able to tune out all requests to do homework, clean room, take out garbage, "act more like your sister," etc.

5. Trap — A finely tuned insult machine; ground zero for numerous popular catchphrases.

6. Neck — Off-rung target of Homer's frustration.

7. Skateboard — For transportation to and from school; also a tried and true method for quick getaways.

8. Pockets — Where detention slips go to die.

9. Reading Material — Classroom distraction that fits well inside most textbooks.

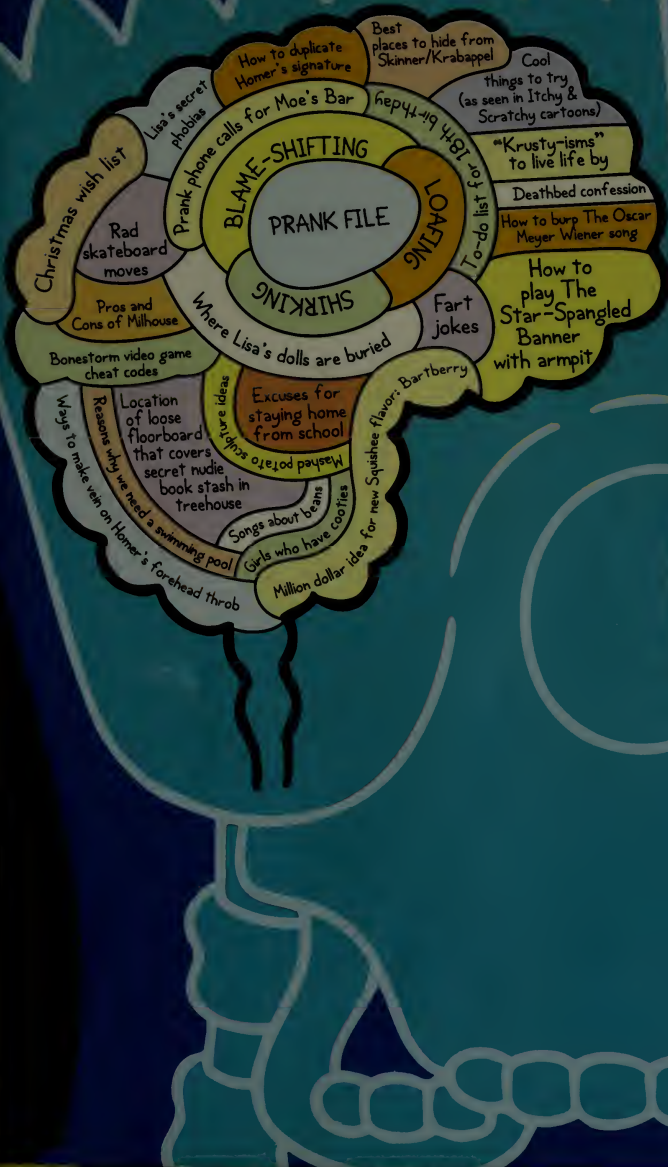

10. Guns - Future site of dangerous-looking tattoos.

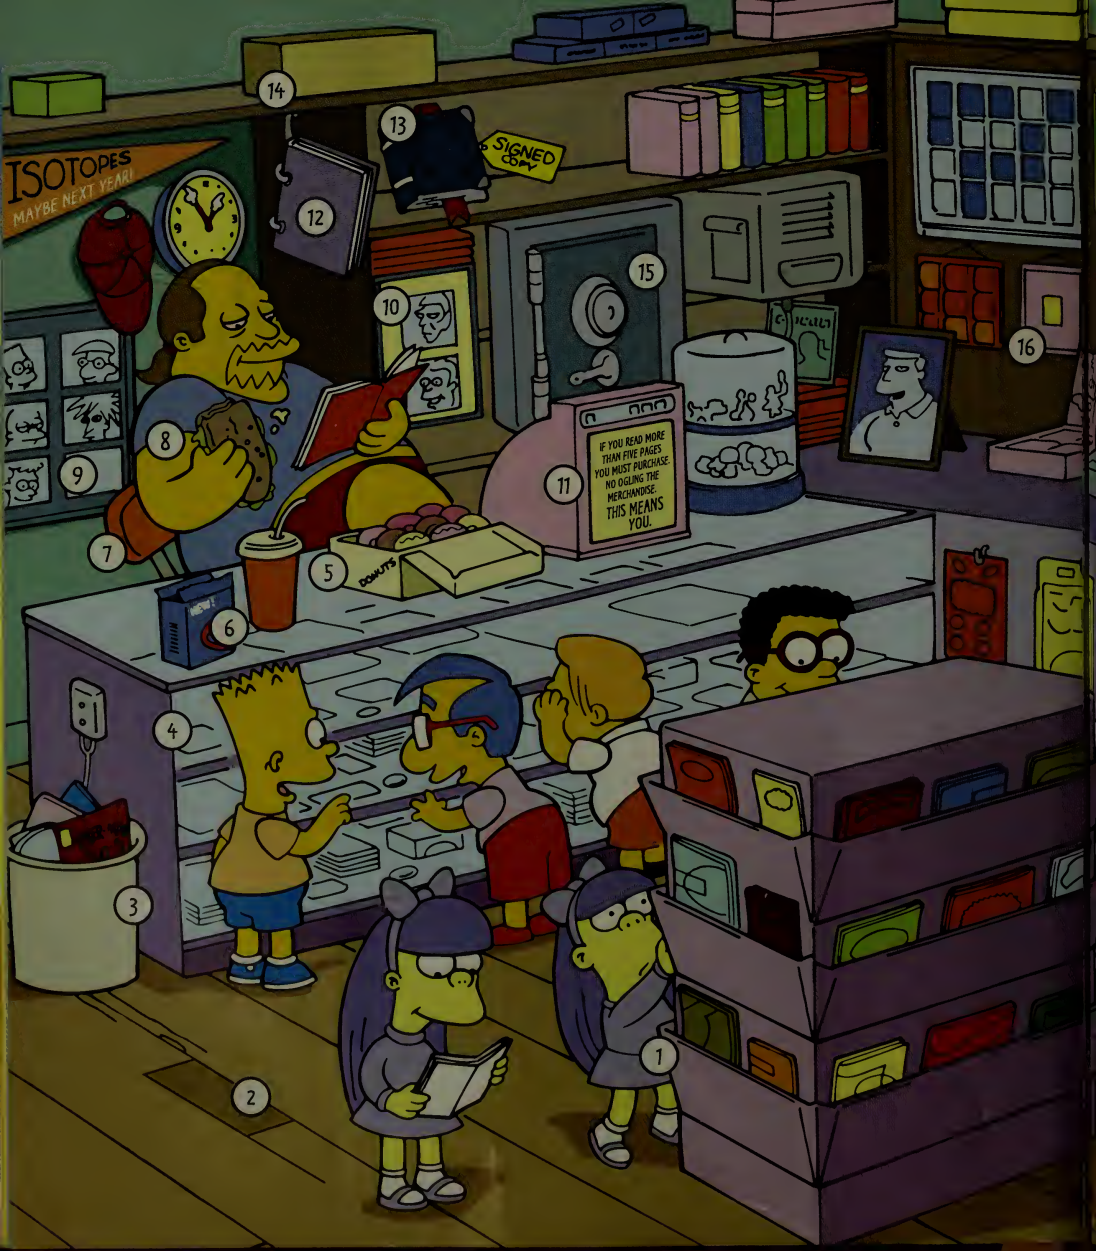

11. Booty — Displayed au naturel on a regular basis, often in public places and aimed at authority figures, such as Principal Skinner, Mayor Quimby, and Mr. Burns.

12. Legs — Flexible for shredding. Fast for running "from the man." Remarkably fatigued when there is work to be done.

13. Feet — Counting the minutes till that first barefoot day of summer.

COMIC BOOK GUY

OWNER OF THE ANDROID'S DUNGEON & BASEBALL CARD SHOP

Sarcastic, surly, insulting, and rude, Comic Book Guy is the master of his domain, disdainful to all. Even when customers pay good money for his overpriced collectibles, he treats them like children. Except for the children, he treats them like babies. Forty-five and friendless, Comic Book Guy maintains his bovine good looks by rigorously studying the world's great dietary regimens—then ignoring them.

Quote: "Make like my pants and split."

Store motto: Take me to your Comic Books and Baseball Cards.

Thumbs-up: The Green Lantern, Thundra, Ghost Rider, Xena, Doctor Who, and Zebra Girl.

Thumbs-down: Superman.

Education: Masters Degree in Folklore and Mythology.

Rival store: Frodo's of Shelbyville.

Ultimate fantasy: An hour on the holodeck with Seven-of-Nine.

Selected bumper stickers: "My Other Car is a Millenium Falcon," "I Brake for Tribbles," "Keep Honking, I'm Charging My Phaser," and "Kang is My Co-Pilot."

Favorite foods: Marshmallow peeps, malted-milk balls, confectioners' sugar, chocolate frosting, and tacos.

His final frontier: Human contact.

WHAT A LIFE!
HE'S LIVING EVERY KID'S DREAM, EXCEPT THAT HE'S AN ADULT.

RADIOACTIVE MAN & FALLOUT BOY COSTUMED SUPER HEROES

Filthy rich playboy Claude Kane III becomes Radioactive Man after being caught in a test explosion of the top-secret Mega-Bomb. His ward, Rod Runtledge, gains his superpowers through a freak accident during a high-school science experiment. Together, these Champions of Justice defend Americanism, fight nonconformists and make the world safe for rampant consumerism.

Quote: (Radioactive Man) "Up and Atom!" (Fallout Boy) "Jiminy Jillickers!"

Greatest foe: Doctor Crab, who has the proportionate strength and cunning of a large crab.

Other villains: Hypno Head, Larceny Lass, Brain-O the Magnificent.

Fellow Superior Squad members: Bug Boy, Weasel Woman, Captain Squid, Lure Lass, and PlasmO the Mystic.

Radioactive Man's love interest: The suspicious and gorgeous reporter Gloria Grand.

Secret headquarters: The Containment Dome, just below the summit of Mt. Zenith.

Substitute Earth version: Radioactive Boy and his Radioactive Dog, Glow.

Played on TV by: Dirk Richter as Radioactive Man, Buddy Hodges as Fallout Boy

Played in ill-fated movie by: Rainier Wolfcastle as Radioactive Man, Milhouse Van Houten as Fallout Boy.

STRETCH DUDE & CLOBBER GIRL HUMAN RUBBER BAND/HULK IN PEARLS

The explosion of an X-ray machine at a Halloween candy inspection releases a bolt of radiation, transforming Bart and Lisa into Stretch Dude and Clobber Girl. With his ability to elongate any part of his body he wishes and her incredible super strength, Bart and Lisa become crime-fighting super heroes with their own TV show.

Quotes: (Stretch Dude) "I must only use this power to annoy."
(Clobber Girl) "Hold the funeral, Poindexter!"

Foes: Bank robbers, Saddam Hussein, Nazi dirigibles, and various forces of evil.

Arch-Nemesis: The Collector.

The Collector's Mylar-encased prisoners: Spock, Gilligan, "Lost in Space" robot, Matt Groening, Dr. Who, Yasmine Bleeth, and Lucy Lawless.

The Collector's witty taunts: Retch Dude and Slobber Girl.

Mode of travel: Clobber Girl pogo-sticks on Stretch Dude.

Stretch Dude's fringe benefits: Rakes leaves with own hand as rake, easily retrieves wristwatch from toilet pipes, limitlessly extends Wet Willie range.

Surprising fact: Lucy Lawless, TV's Xena, can actually fly.

Ralph's shocking candy X-ray reveals: Razor blade, syringe, and white chocolate.

WANTED, MY OWN
TV SHOW!

ANGRY DAD BART'S CLASSIC COMIC CHARACTER

To attain his dream of retirement at age 12, Bart creates Angry Dad, a comic character based on Homer's towering rages. The least provocation goads Angry Dad into a virulent and destructive fury that the entire worldwide web can enjoy at BetterThanTV.com. Crudely and explosively drawn, Angry Dad is a timely reminder that expressing your rage freely is not just fun, it's also healthy.

Quote: "I hate them so much!"

Incitements to anger: Stopped-up ketchup bottles, losing the remote, newspapers that publish opinions-not news, "The Boring World of Niels Bohr," carpet stores that charge extra for under-padding.

Anger antidote: Bubble bath, candles, soft music, and Churchill Downers Horse Tranquilizers.

Critical acclaim for "Angry Dad": "A timeless comic character!"—Jimbo Jones; "Angry Dad rocks!"—Kearney; "Rack-worthy!"—Comic Book Guy Production: A Bartoon Presentation in association with Ay Carumba Entertainment.

Internet ratings: #1 non-porn site (10 trillionth overall).

Other BetterThanTV.com features: "Bin Laden in a Blender," "Lou Rawls, Secret Agent."

BART'S RECIPES FOR

#32 - CONVENIENT CLASSIC

1. Call a local convenience store.
2. Ask the clueless clock-puncher on the other end of the phone, "Do you have Prince Albert in a can?"
3. When he/she answers, "Yes, we do." say, "You'd better let him out before he suffocates!"
4. Cackle like a jackal and hang up.

Caution! You may want to case the store in advance to make sure they do sell Prince Albert tobacco. Otherwise, be prepared with a backup question, such as:

Q: "Do you carry Dolley Madison?"

A: "What's the matter? Are her legs broken?"

A TYPICAL DAY IN THE LIFE

7:00 a.m. – Bart hits snooze button twice on his Krusty Klock® alarm clock. When it goes off again saying, "Hey, hey! What am I, your mother?" he gets up.

7:15 a.m. – Bart/Lisa reach bathroom at same time. Instead of engaging in same old fight, he plays gentleman/gestures for her to go first/gives her good-morning noogie from behind.

7:30 a.m. – Time to get dressed. Bart decides to wear blue T-shirt today, but realizes he does not own one.

7:45 a.m. – From bathroom window, Bart moons Flanders family as their car pulls out of driveway. Distracted Ned runs over mailbox...again.

8:00 a.m. – Breakfast is served! For morning energy, Bart eats big, heaping bowl of Krusty Brand® Korn Syrup Klusters—"The cereal that dilates your eyes."

8:30 a.m. – School bus picks up Bart/Lisa. During ride, Bart sneaks box of colored chalk into Ralph Wiggum's lunch pail, hoping he will eat it.

8:45 a.m. – As school bus passes Chief Wiggum in patrol car, Bart moons him. Wiggum vows to catch perpetrator, but fails to write down license number of suspect's vehicle in time.

9:00 a.m. – First school bell rings. Previous night's Science homework assignment was "Do people do stupid things while under duress?" Bart attempts to answer question by "scientifically" shooting Ping-Pong balls at Milhouse's head with air bazooka.

9:15 a.m. – Bart asks Mrs. Krabappel for permission to go to bathroom. Staring contest ensues. Bart wins/gets hall pass. Mrs. K makes mental note: "Try harder to break Bart's spirit."

9:30 a.m. – Passes open door of Principal Skinner's office. Witnesses Skinner's mother handcuffing him to his desk as punishment for dodging after-school girdle-shopping date on previous day.

9:45 a.m. – Skinner gives Bart his ATM card/PIN number; instructs him to buy hacksaw at hardware store—thus proving people do stupid things while under duress.

OF BART SIMPSON

10:00 a.m. – Takes maximum amount possible out of Skinner's bank account—$20.*

10:15 a.m. – At Kwik-E-Mart, buys Triple Fudgie, pack of Uh-Ohs, Jumbo Blam!-Berry Squishee; gets dollar in quarters/plays Time Waster IV video game.

10:30 a.m. – Leaves Kwik-E-Mart, passing Homer on way out; they exchange polite pleasantries.

10:45 a.m. – Sneaks inside his house while Marge vacuums, grabs Homer's toolbox from garage. Also dusts Homer's clean underwear with chili powder/puts them back in drawer.

11:00 a.m. – Returns to school for last few minutes of recess. Uses wrench from toolbox to loosen bolts on swings. Much sand-eating follows.

11:15 a.m. – Bart intends to skip assembly to rescue Skinner, but Professor Frink brings in big plant that smells like "dead body." Bart shuts off assembly hall lights, shoves plant into air conditioning duct.

11:30 a.m. – Most everyone waits outside while Groundskeeper Willie hunts through air ducts to find smelly plant. Bart stays inside/Xeroxes 200 copies of his butt.

11:45 a.m. – After classes return to normal, Bart spends time driving Lisa crazy making faces at her from outside classroom door. Miss Hoover threatens to put him in hamster cage if he doesn't move along.

12:00 p.m. – Lunchtime! Today's special: Barbecue Surprise. With leftover smell of corpse plant wafting through cafeteria, none of the students are in mood for any sort of surprise.

12:15 p.m. – Ralph Wiggum puts on big show of his multi-colored teeth/says his throw-up was same colors.

12:30 p.m. – Kickball game—"Shirts vs. Skins." Skins team-captain Bart repeatedly stands directly behind teammate Uter, reaches around, makes Uter's belly/bosoms jiggle; hypnotized Shirts lose game.

1:00 p.m. - Bart surrounded by bullies in hallway. Action moves to Boys' Lavatory, where they steal Homer's toolbox. Indian burns/wedgies/swirlies follow.

1:15 p.m. - Picks lock to Groundskeeper Willie's tool shed to get another hacksaw. Finds hidden tunnel inside/follows it to Willie's secret underground lair. Wonders if Willie is evil super-villain/alien from outer space; disappointed when he finds only stamp collection/old vinyl records.

1:30 p.m. - Notices several tunnels lead out of Willie's lair/takes different one back. Comes out in Girls' Gym in middle of volleyball class/moons girls/runs out.

1:45 p.m. - Back in class, it is time for Math. Bart puts face in hands/moans. He forgot to bring Math homework to school. Also, did not do Math homework.

2:00 p.m. - Krabappel calls Bart to front of class to solve division problem. Thinking fast, Bart uses Willie's hacksaw to divide Krabappel's chalkboard pointer into thirds. Krabappel illustrates theory of subtraction by sending Bart to Principal's office.

2:15 p.m. - Superintendent Chalmers is in Skinner's office when Bart arrives. Chalmers remarks how unusual it is that Skinner contracted "lock-knees"/cannot stand up. Skinner promises to catch rowdy students who removed bumpers from Chalmers' car—one named "Homer" left toolbox behind.

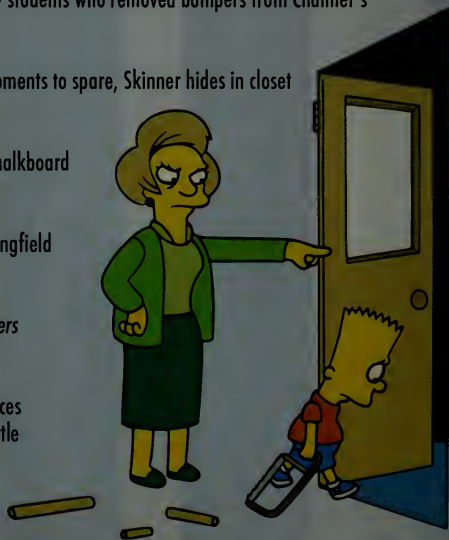

2:30 p.m. - Bart saws through handcuffs, sets Skinner free. With mere moments to spare, Skinner hides in closet when his mother arrives. Bart rats Skinner out.

2:45 p.m. - Bart writes "IN THE OLD DAYS, SNITCHES GOT FRAGGED" on chalkboard one hundred times.

3:00 p.m. - School's out! Bart skateboards home through park where Springfield Daughters of the American Revolution are holding picnic; he moons them.

3:15 p.m. - Rendezvous with Milhouse in treehouse, peruse Medical Blunders magazine found in trash until they get too grossed-out.

3:30 p.m. - Bart/Milhouse take Santa's Little Helper for walk. Bart convinces Grampa/other old people at Springfield Retirement Castle that Santa's Little Helper is bomb-sniffing dog; he declares their medicine ball is rigged with explosives. Abe panics/calls bomb squad.

3:45 p.m. - Bomb squad (Chief Wiggum in a hockey mask) arrives as Bart/Milhouse sneak away/run back to Bart's house. Bart tricks Milhouse into thinking unmarked police cars circling block. Makes Milhouse promise to hide with dog in doghouse until Bart returns later with "all clear" signal.

4:00 p.m. - Watches afternoon children's TV/puts brain on "standby" for two hours.

6:00 p.m. - Jarred back to reality when Kent Brockman comes on. Slow news day: top story features video of Homer guiltily putting bumpers back on Chalmers' car, as police stand around smacking open palms with batons.

6:15 p.m. - Bath time. Bart loses self in imaginary aquatic adventure until phone rings. Hears Marge talking to Mrs. Van Houten about "missing" Milhouse. He sneaks out bathroom window/tells Milhouse to run home quickly, reminding him to "Speak of this to no one."

6:30 p.m. - Since he only wears a towel, Bart stands on street mooning passing cars.

6:45 p.m. - Dinner is served. This evening's fare: Marge's Meatloaf Surprise. Homer is not in mood for any more "surprises" today.

7:00 p.m. - Time for English homework: essay on plight of "post-Industrial Age" Man. Bart optimistically opens notebook to blank page.

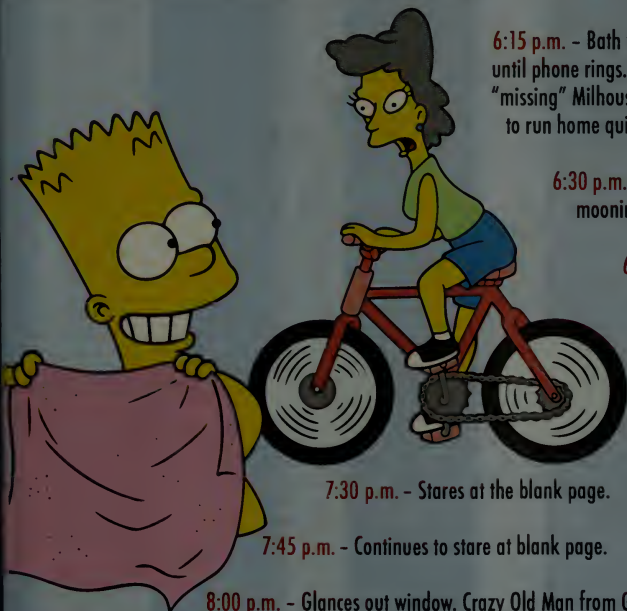

7:30 p.m. - Stares at the blank page.

7:45 p.m. - Continues to stare at blank page.

8:00 p.m. - Glances out window. Crazy Old Man from Grampa's retirement home moons him. Extremely disturbed, Bart shudders/wonders why someone would do that.

9:15 p.m. - Declares homework assignment "stupid"/decides to turn in early. Although tired from full day, sleep is elusive. Feels as if he's forgotten something.

9:18 p.m. - Realizes he still has Skinner's ATM card. Calls/orders Medical Blunders magazine subscription for Skinner. Mission accomplished, Bart drifts off to sleep, knowing he has had "a very productive day."

NELSON MUNTZ 4TH GRADE BULLY

A riddle wrapped in an enigma wrapped in a vest, Nelson Muntz is both a figurehead of menace in the community and a role model for young misguided rebels. If you're not careful he'll break your nose, your glasses, and your heart. A born bully with a talent for thievin', Nelson has been held back in 4th grade so often that he has to shave during detention.

Quote: "Haw Haw! I'm wicked bad!"

Purpose in life: To teach all sissy wimps a lesson.

Pet peeve: No one appreciates his sensitive side.

Secret shame: Not as smart as he looks.

Special offer: A recess and lunch protection package that's very affordable.

Culinary specialty: Muntz Family Chili. ("It Takes Weeks to Make Muntz.")

Schoolyard specialties: Hot Foots, Wedgies, Slime Wedgies, Pink Bellies, Hertz Donuts, and the dreaded Rear Admiral.

Hobbies: Pantsing people, wasting squirrels with BB guns, decorating neighbors' homes with coleslaw.

Marks of distinction: Diplomatic immunity in Springfield Elementary's Model United Nations, banned for life from The Android's Dungeon.

WHILE MORALLY WRONG, BULLYING IS AN ANCIENT ART. IT PREDATES
AGRICULTURE.

DOLPH, KEARNEY & JIMBO

PETTY THUGS, BULLIES, AND LOWLIFES

The product of broken homes, much of which they broke themselves, Jimbo, Dolph and Kearney love nothing better than beating up science geeks and taking their lunch money—though they wouldn't try it alone. Noted for their slovenly attire and greasy good looks, they roam the neighborhood in a pack, sneaking into movies, shoplifting at the local Kwik-E-Mart, and stealing bumper cars from Duff Gardens.

Quote: (Jimbo) "I heard that guy's ass has its own congressman."

(Dolph) "You asked for it, man! You're broadcasting geek rays all over the entire valley."

(Kearney) "First one to blink is a dead man."

Pecking order: Jimbo, Kearney, Dolph.

Pet peeves: Paying for stuff, stop signs.

Favorite author: Bazooka Joe.

Typical meal: Beef jerky, a Jumbo Squishee, and a squirt of Binaca.

Hobbies: Five finger discounts, flushing cherry bombs, cheesing people off, and smearing door handles with peanut butter.

Disclaimer: They don't bully girls because they bite and kick and scratch. And they might fall in love.

Summer employment: Kounselors at Kamp Krusty.

Did you know?: Jimbo's real first name is "Corky," Kearney has been held back in school so often he has a young son, and Dolph likes talking to clouds.

Their motto: If you can't say anything nice about anybody, you're okay by me.

YOU'VE GOT TO
HAND IT TO THEM. THEY ADVANCED THE ART OF THE
WEDGIE INTO THE 21ST CENTURY.

MILHOUSE VAN HOUTEN

BART'S BEST FRIEND AND SPITBROTHER

A self-confessed second banana, Milhouse is Bart's big-nosed, bespectacled best friend and loyal sidekick. While Milhouse fancies himself as hip, smart, and soulful, he gets cranky when he misses his juice and cries when the cafeteria runs out of chocolate milk. A willing, yet unwitting victim of Bart's shenanigans, Milhouse is also victimized by a burning unrequited love for Lisa who thinks of him as "more like a big sister."

Quote: "My mom says I'm cool."

Secret identity: Bartman's sidekick, Houseboy.

Secret ambition: To have sideburns even bushier than Carl Yastrzemski's.

Secret shame: Actually likes brussels sprouts.

Prized possessions: Zipper-encrusted leather jacket acquired by trading in bubble gum wrappers, "My Little Pony" plush doll, and Bart's soul.

Allergies: Knuckle sandwiches, lactose intolerance.

Turn-ons: 100% All-Syrup Super Squishees, Gummi in all its wondrous forms, and making grease angels on the kitchen floor.

"Weekend Dad": Kirk Van Houten.

"Weekday Dad": Pyro from "American Gladiators."

Hard-won insight: Discovered while playing "Fallout Boy" that stardom is hollow and meaningless.

LAURA POWERS

BART'S NEXT DOOR NEIGHBOR & FIRST LOVE

Laura Powers is a tough-talkin', good-lookin' Army brat who can turn a young rebel's heart to mush in the time it takes to give you a Hertz Donut. She speaks politely to adults when necessary, teaches cats to waltz, and makes even belches seem alluring. After just one look and a couple of Wet Willies, Bart makes the ultimate sacrifice for her—he takes a bath.

Quote: "If you were old enough to grow a bad teenage mustache, I'd go out with you in a second."

Claim to fame: Can spit farther than any boy.

Secret shame: Enjoys wearing dresses.

Upbringing: Painfully strict.

Favorite Restaurant: Two Guys from Kabul.

Odd jobs: Babysitting, telling fortunes, and dance instructing.

Likes: Good-looking rebels who play by their own rules, poking dead bodies with a stick, and messing with your mind.

Dislikes: Authority, disco, and—in the "Escape from Death Row" video game—when you hit the change of venue button and end up in Texas.

ITCHY & SCRATCHY

HILARIOUSLY VIOLENT CARTOON MOUSE & CAT

Itchy is a homicidal sadistic cartoon mouse, who cheerfully impales, lacerates, crushes, and explodes his perpetually unwitting victim, Scratchy the Cat. Educational as well as entertaining, Itchy & Scratchy cartoons prove there are more than one hundred ways to skin a cat—all of them chock-full of merriment and screaming. And though Scratchy may die myriad bloody and shriek-tacular deaths, he lives to die another day.

Quote: (Itchy) "Immolation is the highest form of flattery."

(Scratchy) "A rolling stone slaughters no mouse."

Shakespeare Itchy & Scratchy style: "The Maiming of the Shrew,"

"A Midsummer Night's Scream," "Romeo and Thumb-Screwliet."

Official spokespersons for: Buzz Cola. ("Drink Buzz or We'll Kill You.")

Amusement park: Itchy & Scratchy Land—The Violentest Place on Earth!

Full length movies: "Scratchtasia," "Pinitchyo," and "Itchy & Scratchy: The Movie."

Members of the Itchy & Scratchy family: Brown-Nose Bear, Disgruntled goat, Flatulent Fox, Rich Uncle Skeleton, Dinner Dog, Uncle Ant, and Ku Klux Clam.

Zen koan: If you exploded a cat in the forest and there was no one there to hear it, would it make a shriek?

Scratchy first introduced: "That Happy Cat" (1928).

First Itchy & Scratchy cartoon:

"Steamboat Itchy" (1929).

Controversy: Chester J. Lampwick claims origin of Itchy in his film "Itchy, The Lucky Mouse in Manhattan Madness" (1919).

FAT TONY UNDERWORLD ENTREPRENEUR

William "Fat Tony" Williams, AKA Anthony D'Amico, AKA Marion D'Amico heads up a loose organization of unorthodox businessmen. He is a force to be reckoned with due to his ability to offer public services not normally found in the yellow pages, including: smuggling, bookmaking, protection services, numbers running, loan sharking, document forging, and racketeering. Fat Tony's Rat Pack-lifestyle exerts an irresistible pull on Bart, who signs on, temporarily, as Fat Tony's bartender.

Quote: "If you do not wish to arouse suspicion, I strongly urge you to act American."

Hangout: The Legitimate Businessman's Social Club.

Henchmen: Legs, Louie and Joey.

Godfather: Don Vittorio.

Hobbies: Handicapping horse races, poker playing, and collecting debts.

Most frequent poker hand: Five Aces.

Special skills: Taking the 5th, lying to grand juries, delegating responsibility for murder, and eluding elementary school hall monitors.

Businesses: Valdazzo Brother's Olive Oil, Lowball Construction, Squeaky Farms Dairy Products.

Specialty equipment: An ice pick with a laser sight.

Favorite beverage: The Manhattan, the King of Cocktails.

Portraiture: Graces walls of numerous post offices, municipal buildings, and counterfeit currency.

If you ask me, everybody wants to be a free-spirited individual. But, on the other hand, nobody wants to be alienated from their peer group. That's why God made tattoos! Nothing says "I'm a wild non-conformist who's terrified of not fitting in!" quite like a tattoo! This one on my arm is phony, but I can't wait 'til I'm old enough to get inked for real! In fact, I've already got my designs ready and waiting. Check 'em out, man!

BART'S RECIPES FOR

#49 - POTTY TALK

- A cartoon illustration of Bart Simpson, a yellow-skinned boy with a large, spiky yellow hairdo, wearing a blue t-shirt. He is holding a grey telephone receiver to his ear with his right hand and the coiled cord with his left hand. He has a wide, toothy grin and large, round eyes. The background is a solid green color.
1. Call the schmoie of your choice.
 2. Ask the victim "Is there a John there?"
 3. When they answer, "I'm sorry, there's no John here" say, "Well how do you go to the bathroom?"
 4. Giggle like The Joker and hang up.

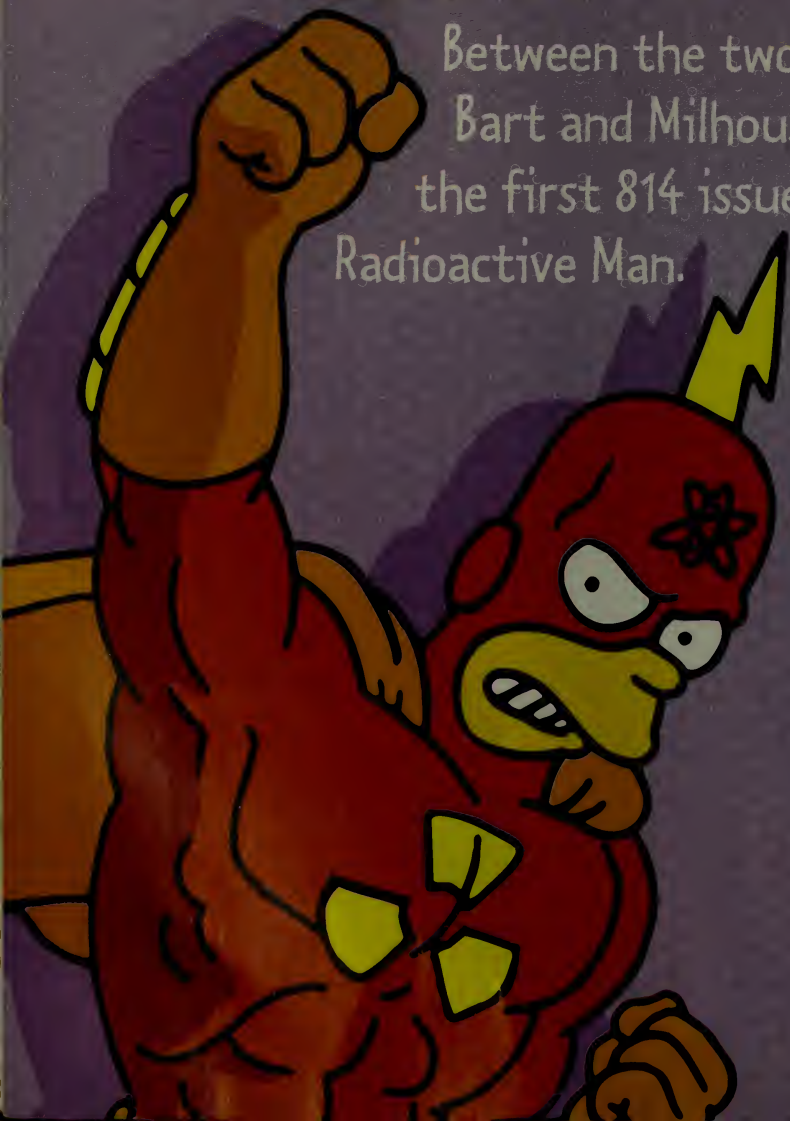

Caution! Unless you enjoy working without a net, make sure there isn't actually a person named John living or working with your target!

SHORTSHEETING THE BED

Here's one trick that's been part of our cultural heritage for generations, practiced in houses and summer camps the world over. Follow the easy steps below.

FIG. 1 - Take the top sheet off the bed and lay it loosely over the fitted bottom sheet. Tuck the top half under the mattress so it looks like a fitted bottom sheet.

FIG. 2 - Fold the bottom half up to look like a normal top sheet, creating a pocket for a person to fit in.

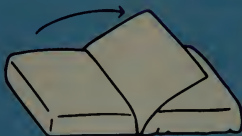

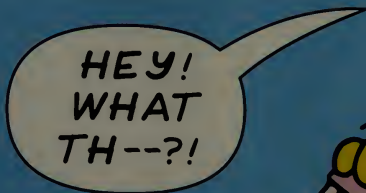

FIG. 3 - To camouflage your handiwork, make up the rest of the bed as usual.

FIG. 4 - When the unsuspecting slumberer tries to go to bed, they'll only be able to fit in halfway!

KRUSTY THE CLOWN

ENTREPRENEUR & FUNNYMAN, KRUSTY THE CLOWN SHOW

Krusty the Clown, the “Maitre d’ of glee,” crafted his first act with jokes he swiped from Yiddles Joke Shop. He then worked as a street mime in Tupelo, Mississippi, and today he heads a shamelessly profitable merchandising empire. Though idolized by Springfield’s children, Krusty never remembers their names—even Bart who has saved his bacon numerous times. However, there is one person he remembers without fail—his bookie.

Quote: “I’d like to thank God for all my success, even though I never worshipped or believed in him in any way.”

Real name: Herschel Krustofski.

Identifying marks: Green hair, little feet, and a superfluous nipple.

TV rivals: Gabbo, Hobo Hank.

Personal assistant: Lois Pennycandy.

Colleagues: Sideshow Bob, Sideshow Mel, Sideshow Raheem, Corporal Punishment, Mister Teeny.

His signature charity: Telethon for Motion Sickness.

Gold album: “Kroon Along with Krusty”

A sampling of genuine Krusty® Brand Products: Krustyburger Laffy Meals, Krusty Brand Pork Squeezin’s, Chocolate Frosted Frosty Krusty Flakes, Uncle Krusty’s Tile, Tub and Tonsil Kleaner, Lady Krusty Mustache Removal System, Krusty Non-Toxic Kologne (“For the Smell of the Big Top”), and the second edition of Krusty’s International Thesaurus.

Related commercial concerns: KrustyLu Studios, Krustyland Amusement Park, Kamp Krusty—“The Krustiest Place on Earth.”

WHOLE LIFE ON HIS

SANTA'S LITTLE HELPER

BART'S CANINE COMPANION

Adopted on Christmas Eve, Santa's Little Helper is an integral part of the Simpson household: fetching the daily paper and ripping it up, giving a warning bark at the wind, and supplying an endless stream of rich skin-moisturizing drool. In fact, Santa's Little Helper feels so at home he eats meals on the dining room table without even being asked.

Turn-on: Shredded hog snouts in jellied goo.

Turn-off: People breath.

Hobbies: Burying small appliances in the backyard, sniffing butts, sleeping in Homer's hammock.

Secret shame: Holds Springfield Downs record for most consecutive last-place finishes.

Claim to fame: Once fathered a litter of 25 puppies.

Past life: France's Louis the XIV, the Sun King.

Special skills: Can walk while balancing on a ball.

Favorite drinks: A refreshing slurp of toilet water, and gazpacho.

SANTA'S
LITTLE HELPER IS SO
COOL. WHEN YOU LOOK IN HIS EYES YOU CAN SEE YOURSELF.

LISA SIMPSON

BART'S 8-YEAR-OLD SISTER

Lisa is intelligent, sensitive, talented, and creative. As a result, she is an outcast, taken for granted by her teachers and family. Lisa takes solace in her science experiments, academic achievements and especially her saxophone solos, which serve to reconnect her to her family. After which they tell her to go play somewhere else.

Quote: "If Bart got hurt or died, despite the extra attention I'd receive, I'd miss him."

First word: Bart!

Diet: Vegetarian.

Current reading: Virginia Woolf, Zelda Fitzgerald, Sylvia Plath, and "Non-Threatening Boys Magazine."

Turn-ons: Waffles, ponies, and women who have resisted domination by the patriarchy.

Turn-offs: Hypocritical self-serving politicians, environmental degradation, and the music of John Philip Sousa.

Her unholy obsession: The Corey Hotline.

Instruments: Saxophone (mentored by the late Bleeding Gums Murphy), some guitar, and, one day perhaps, the accordion.

Original compositions: "That Same Ol' Red Dress Blues," "Puny Allowance Blues," "Pounded by the Dodgeball Blues" and "I Been Good So Long, It Looks Like Bad to Me."

SHE'S GOT THE
BRAINS AND TALENT
TO GO AS FAR AS SHE
WANTS. AND WHEN SHE DOES,
I'LL BE RIGHT THERE TO

MISTER HONEYBUNNY

BART'S CHERISHED CHILDHOOD TOY

In a cruel and heartless act of terror, Bart rips the head off of poor Mister Honeybunny in order to intimidate Lisa and cripple her ability to compete against him in the championship hockey game. This senseless act backfires when he realizes he has destroyed his own cherished childhood toy. Lisa drives the point home, taunting Bart by wearing the decapitated head on a chain around her neck during their big game.

Quote: "I wuv you!"

Description: Light blue fur, pink ears, crude stitching.

Ears: Floppy.

Texture: Fluffy.

Demeanor: Huggable.

Condition: Well-worn.

The innocence of youth (alas): Dressed in an elegant black suit and tie, Mister Honeybunny is more than just a comforting presence on scary nights. He's a remembrance of a gentler time—a time when a good night hug and a warm smile could send a child like Bart off to a land of lollipop dreams, a land of happy little elves and yummy ice cream, a land far removed from the competitive bloodlust and savage mayhem that is Pee Wee Hockey.

SIDESHOW BOB BART'S MORTAL ENEMY

Criminal mastermind, ruthless killer, and bon vivant, Sideshow Bob is Bart's nemesis, an implacable and fiendishly clever embodiment of pure evil. Time after time, Sideshow Bob adroitly gains his prison release to wreak revenge upon the spike-haired little scamp who put him away, only to be foiled by his own overweening pride—and the improvident garden rake.

Quote: "I did once try to kill the world's greatest lover, but then I realized there were laws against suicide."

Real name: Robert Underdunk Terwilliger

Musical likes: The Whimsical stylings of Gilbert & Sullivan.

Musical dislikes: The Whimsical maundering of Gilbert O'Sullivan.

Potential Simpson Witness Relocation Sites: Cape Feare, Terror Lake, New Horrorfield, Screenville.

Suffers from: Over-articulation, or Long-word Pronouncing Syndrome, as it is seldom called.

Turn-ons: Buddha, The Republican Party, shad roe, and "Prison Bride Magazine."

Turn-offs: Television, Tom Clancy books, "MacGyver," and prison-issue shower sandals.

Awards: Daytime Emmy for "Sideshow Bob's Cavalcade of Whimsy."

JESSICA LOVEJOY SWEET & PERFECT MINISTER'S DAUGHTER WITH A HEART OF EVIL

The only daughter of Helen and the Reverend Timothy Lovejoy, Jessica Lovejoy craves attention—and what better way to attain it than by courting the Devil's cabana boy, Bart Simpson. With her pretty face and bad behavior, she bewitches Bart, who goes to incredible lengths to win her love—even making the supreme sacrifice of attending Sunday School.

Quote: "Do you ever think anything you don't say?"

Turn-ons: Pulling fire alarms, ultra-Xtreme skateboarding, and stealing from the collection plate.

Special skills: Baton twirling, toilet paper tossing, and making God's words sound plausible to Bart.

Grades: Straight "A"s.

Garments: Pretty in pink.

Expelled for: Building pipe-bombs, instigating glee club brawls, stealing from the School Chapel collection plate, and exploding toilets.

Hair: Long, black, luxurious, smells like red Froot Loops.

Signs that some poor sap is in love with her: Light-headedness, feelings of tension through the chestal area, improved hygiene, and strutting.

BART'S RECIPES FOR

#74 - BARTENDER MERCIES

1. Call a local watering hole—any place with a bartender and a room full of raucous drunks will do.
2. Ask to speak to any of the following fictitious people:

- "Hal. Last name, Atosis."
- "Seymour. Last name, Butz."
- "Ivana. Last name, Kissyu"
- "Amanda. Last name, Huggenkiss."
- "Anita. Last name, Bath."
- "Hugh. Last name, Jass."
- "Mike. Last name, Rotch."
- "Ollie. Last name, Tabooger."

(Caution: Never say the first name and the last name together, or you risk tipping your hand!)

3. The unsuspecting sap on the other end of the line will shout out to his customers something like "Hey, has anyone seen Mike Rotch?" or "I'm looking for Amanda Huggenkiss!" or if you're lucky, "Hey everybody! Ollie Tabooger!"
4. Join the boozers on the other end of the line in fits of laughter at the expense of your patsy.
